Craig's Story:

One Small Boy Fights For A Chance At Life

By JACQUELINE DOWD Herald Staff Writer

Craig Joiner is a special child.

He is special because he can make a visitor stop in midentence to smile.

In his mother's eyes, he is special because, she says, "He's given us so much more good than grief." To the state of Florida, Craig is special because he was born with Down's syndrome — what used to be called a mongoloid baby - and is borderline mentally retarded. Craig learns things more slowly than most children. He was 13 months old before he sat up by himself. He was 22 months old before he first maneuvered a spoon into his mouth. He celebrated his second birthday in August, but he still isn't potty trained or walking.

And now one of his main sources of learning may

The Little Red Schoolhouse, which offers an education program for Seminole's low-income, mentally retarded youngsters, may have seen its last day. The school's federal funding - nearly $200,000 a year was cut off Oct. 1 when new regulations went into effect. Now schools are eligible for federal funds only if they serve developmental retardates like Craig — those with little hope of ever functioning on a "normal" level. Most of The Little Red Schoolhouse's youngsters are functional retardates, who are capable of functioning at "normal" levels but - for a variety of reasons - don't. The federal government will no longer support programs designed to bring them up to normal levels. Last Thursday was the last day Craig and 55 other children went to The Little Red Schoolhouse "Every day, when the schoolbus came to pick him up he cried," said his mother. "But that last day he didn't cry. He Craig Joiner is one of the lucky ones. His mother, Donna Joiner of Altamonte Springs, who is now pursuing a degree in special education at FTU, will soon begin the search for

But there aren't many possibilities. And most of the schools that are available are at least an hour's ride away. "He'd be wasted in school after that long a ride," Mrs. Joiner said, stroking her 2-year-old son's hair. "He'd be too tired to learn anything."

But she and her husband Mike are determined to give Craig the best shot at life they can. They are determined to

They haven't always felt that way. "The first six months after he was born was a grief period. I just sat there and asked 'Why would this happen to me?'" Mrs. Joiner said. "After that I got a hold of myself and said, 'Let's go find out what we can do.""

They thought they had found an answer. But it turned out

IN BRIEF Germany's Chancellor Barely Survives Vote

BONN, West Germany (AP) - Chancellor Helmut Schmidt has barely survived a conservative surge in national elections that cut his coalition government's ruling margin in returns in Sunday's election, with 91 per cent of those registered voting, gave Schmidt's Social Democratic party and their coalition partners, the Free Democrats, a combined total of 50.5 per cent, a drop from the 54.2 per cent they won in the 1972 election. Challenger Helmut Kohl, who campaigned with the slogan "Freedom Instead of Socialism," led the conservative Christian Democrats to a popular vote of 48.6 per cent — up from 44.9 per cent in 1972.

I work for Southeast Banks. Our 47 banks are out to provide the best banking service in Florida.

You can count on it.

There's a lot more to good banking than a friendly smile: Dedicated service. Efficiency. Accuracy. Speed. And a wide range of banking products and services for the individual depositor and the business client.

Here at Southeast, our aim is to provide all our customers with service that's so good, so responsive to their needs, they'll never consider going to another bank.

To do this, we're constantly monitoring our existing services. Developing innovative banking services. Adding new systems. Simplifying forms. Cutting red tape. And, in every way we can, making banking a pleasant

Carter Interview: Error In Strategy

"Judge not that ye be not judged." "He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone." These messages were what Jimmy Carter had in mind when he frankly discussed adultery and lust with reporters from Playboy magazine in rather earthy terms, according to his staff.

The sentiments are fine, but the fact is that on this temporal earth citizens are indeed prone to judge and be judged and they have few inhibitions about throwing the first stone. A general rule of thumb is that the higher a person's station in life or his aspirations to public office, the harder the judgments and the faster the stones are thrown. Carter himself did some rather harsh judging in the same article when he accused former President Lyndon Johnson of "lying, cheating and distorting the truth," as he admitted in an apology Considering Carter's aspirations, it is a foregone conclusion that his judgment in granting Playboy an interview, as well as his remarks, will be a campaign issue until Nov. 2. Already, some commentators are saying that's too bad. Their general line of reasoning, subject to many variations, is that the cities are rotting, but that the candidates are talking about abortion, religion, adultery and other nongermane subjects.

If this logic were extended, the candidates could not discuss city problems meaningfully unless they stopped talking about the ethical subjects. However, the fact of the matter is that issues in the campaign are not mutually exclusive. It is entirely possible for the candidates to pose solutions for cities even as they talk about religion, ethnic purity, abortion, sex and other deep moral

These are issues because the citizens are roubled about them and want them discussed. And the purpose of a political campaign is as much to learn about the inner man as well as his stands on bread and butter problems. This is particularly true in the case of Carter who has emerged as a national figure only this year.

Indeed, one of the benefits of the first televised debate was that it gave Americans a chance to analyze both President Ford and Carter in a new light. And we would wager that the intangibles the conduct, mannerism, confidence, personality. etc. - of each candidate were as important in the eyes of viewers as the tangibles that they

Our guess is that if he had it to do all over again, Carter would forego an interview with Playboy and decline to talk about the deeply private matters of sex. These are mistakes that will haunt him and throw his campaign off stride. His opposition will not have to bring up the issue it has a life of its own.

In any event, it is refreshing to see people concerned about the use of earthy language in a time when "doing your own thing" is supposed to have passed the point of no return.

Tougher Laws Demanded

TALLAHASSEE (AP) - As the statewide grand jury ended its 18-month term today, it called for tougher laws on bingo, tighter security at race tracks and mandatory prison sentences for bookmakers.

FLORIDA

IN BRIEF

"We have more than our share of organized crime figures in Florida," State Atty. Eugene Whitworth of Gainesville, the grand jury's legal adviser, said. "We seem to be a haven for them."

The jury's probe of illegal gambling in Florida led to indictments against 330 persons on 1,368 counts. But the panel said it was unhappy that so many charges have been "dismissed for procedural reasons" and asked for a formal inquiry.

Prosecutors in Dade, Broward and Palm Beach counties have said that most of the indictments in Southeast Florida failed to show that the crimes crossed county lines. If the crimes weren't multi-county, they were outside the special panel's jurisdiction, judges Craig's Story One Small Boy Fights For A Chance each year he will fall a little farther behind. "There's no way to really gauge his potential until he gets a little older," Mrs. Joiner said. "We know he's trainable and we think he's educable." Retarded children are generally classified in three groups: the profoundly retarded, who usually spend their lives in institutions; the trainable, who can learn to dress themselves, perform other simple tasks and can sometimes work in a specially controlled environment; and the educable, who may be able to attend public schools and be relatively self-sufficient.

Not long after Craig was born, his pediatrician recommended placing him in an institution. Deciding against that was one of Donna Joiner's first positive steps in dealing with Craig's problem.

"Institutionalization is a prejudice with doctors," Mrs. Joiner says now. "They know how hard it can be to raise a retarded child." But the last time she took Craig for a check-up, the doctor made positive comments. "He said Craig seems very comfortable with himself as a human being," Mrs. Joiner said. "He thinks I'm doing a good job." Craig doesnn't have the medical problems many Down's syndorome children have, and he is expected to live a normal lifespan — another reason for teaching him as much as he can possibly absorb.

Craig has, of course, had a major influence on his family. "He's made my husband and I a lot more patient," Mrs. Joiner said. "You just can't rush him." "I really feel that there's a reason Craig was given to us,"

Mrs. Joiner said. "He's influenced our friends and relatives in ways we don't even know yet." Then she smiles, with just a touch of sadness. "At first, I never though I'd say it, but he's a great little guy to have amount. The insulin brings about a lowering of the blood sugar by facilitating its transport into the various cells where it is metabolized to furnish energy for body functions. The diabetic, unfortunately, is unable to maintain this fine control of the blood sugar. In diabetes, the blood sugar rises to excessive heights in response to a sugar load, or may do so even in a fasting situation. Because the sugar is not being metabolized properly it accumulates in the blood and spills over into the urine. The excess of sugar in the blood may cause changes in many maturity diabetes that can lead to gradual deterioration of the organs of the body When one looks most carefully to detect diabetes, suspicion falls made upon the evaluation of tests indicating the presence of an

first on those who have a family history of the disease, on those older than 40 and on the obese.

The diagnosis depends on the demonstration of abnormal sugar metabolism and this is done by means of a blood sugar test. If the index of suspicion is high, the physician may also order a Glucose Tolerance Test. This is a highly standarized procedure in which a measured amount of glucose drink is given and blood drawn at specific times to determine how the sugar is being metabolized by the body. This is compared to the nondiabetic pattern and the physician is able to see whether the patient's reaction follows the diabetic pattern. While it may not always be possible to prevent the disease erhaps it can be delayed for a number of years so that its course is shorter and less destructive in the ultimate complications that may follow. Until the discovery of a sign or "marker" that definitely predicts the future onset of diabetes, this might be a prudent road to follow.

Perez Back In Two Weeks

Is Taco Perez coming back to the ring too soon? The next boxing card set at Orlando Sports Stadium will not this Tuesday, as originally planned, but instead on the lowing Tuesday. Headling that show will be Sanford's Perez and the Southern middleweight champion, Emmett Atlas. It will only be three weeks from the time "Taco" was used as punching bag by Elisha Obed, until the moment he steps into the ring with the man who just upset Gene Wells, and many feel that just isn't enough time between assignments. The shot at Atlas was to have gone to Joey Vincent, who qualified for it with an impressive KO over Chicago's Bobby Crawford the same night Perez was losing a lop-sided decision to

But, although Perez was down five times and received many nore punches than Vincent, Mr. Excitement came out of the fight with a cut left eyelid that will keep him on the sidelines for several

Perez has hardly a scratch on him and when he reported back

Actually, Perez got the main event call and the show was set back a week for the same reason. No one else is available to headline the card.

Vincent is out with the cut eye, Same thing goes for Edgar loss. Wells is fighting the No. 1 ranked welterweight in the world, Pete Ranzany, the same night in California, Mike Quarry is set to fight on Oct. 5 in Scranton, against Eddie "Red Top" Owens, and a win there will lead to even a bigger fight less than a month later. Termite Wattins is fighting in Texas the same night. And almost the entire State of Florida is getting ready to appear on an Oct. 15 spectacular in Hollywood, Fla. By the way, some of the bouts set for that show include; George Foreman against undefeated Dino Dennis; Roberto Duran in defense of his world's lightweight title; Elisha Obed Pversus Jose Chirino; Florida lightweight champ, Frankie Otero against Frankie Santore; along with Kip Braden, Sammy Masias, Lou Esa, Tom Prater, and a host of other top name fighters. I understand the cheapest seat in the house that night will be $10 but it should be well worth it. Altogether, there are to be one 15-rounder, three 10-rounders, and six or seven 6-round fights.

If Perez is in the kind of condition he is reported to be in, then in the first 1:45 of the second he has a good chance to upset Atlas and win the 160-round title. half rocketed Tuskawilla to a carries and Abernathy logged to carries and Abernathy logged carries and Abernathy logged to carries and Ab But if he is still suffering from the effects of the pounding he 42-0 slaughter of Jackson took from Obed, Taco could be in for a lot of trouble. The Ali-Norton fight was a good one, but no better than many of the fights that are seen in arenas around the nation. I have always maintained that boxing will not wither and die when Ali leaves it. You can't have too ma layers of fabric on your head these days. Cowl neck sweaters convert into hoods. These you can then cover with the hood of a jacket or coat. De-hood according to temperature.

Versatile shirtdress You can do almost anythir with a little wool shirtdress i beige or any other neutral color. It fits nicely under a tweed sport jacket, a tabard or a multi-colored sweater.

Add a blouson A blouson jacket is the thing to wear over tight pants, or a newly fashioned tight skirt. Choose it in suede, fur, cashmere - anything you like.

Don't try to match the color of your eyes with eye shadow. Instead, try a contrasting color or pick up a shade from ar accessory you're wearing close to your face. A scarf, perhaps

A 28-year-old Jacksonville man who admitted traveling the country posing as a medical doctor and even once opening a

"clinic" was placed on seven years probation at Sanford after pleading guilty to forging a $100 check stolen from a pharmacist.

Roy Tate, who told Circuit Judge Joe A. Cowart Jr. that he has represented himself many times as "Dr. C.R. Tate, M.D.," is already serving two years in state prison for violation of probation in a Jacksonville bad check case.

Judge Cowart ordered the probation in the local case to be

"I'm accepting you for what you really are - a fraud," Cowart told Tate, and ordered as a condition of probation that he "under no circumstances, at any time impersonate a medical doctor.'

Tate admitted prior felony arrests for grand larceny and aburglary in Walton and Osceola counties and said that he got a year's probation in 1974 in Chicago after he set up a "clinic," treated patients and was arrested for practicing medicine without

Tate said he came to Sanford "to look around," met a local pharmacist and while dating her stole her checkbook. He admitted forging a hundred dollar check payable to "Dr. C.R. Tate,

M.D." and endorsing the check and cashing it at the Goldsboro

Tate told the court that his mother was a Chicago doctor who died in 1974. "I have the mind to be one (doctor) but I just don't

Surgeon's Knife Awaits Humphrey

NEW YORK (AP) - Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, reportedly in his usual good spirits, is undergoing last-minute tests in preparation for the removal of a cancerous

Barring unforeseen complications, the Minnesota Democrat could be back on his feet by early December, his surgeon says. Humphrey, 65, was admitted to the hospital donday and was to undergo tests today. The operation Thursday will probably last six to

At a news conference Monday, Dr. Willet F. Whitemore said, "We have every reason to anticipate he will survive the surgery, have to the useful political life he has led to date." Humphrey underwent radiation treatment three years ago for what was described until the last few days as a borderline tumor. He had been receiving an anticancer drug until

The immediate political effect of Sen. Humphrey's illness is unclear. The former vice president has been campaigning, against Sen. Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, to succeed Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana in the post of Senate majority leader. Humphrey also is running for his fifth term in the Senate, but is said to be in little danger of losing.

Did Butz Help States Shun Anti-Bias Laws?

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Former Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz met twice with directors of the department's Cooperative Extension Services and helped them circumvent federal laws against racial discrimination in hiring in seven states, the Los Angeles Times said today. Quoting unnamed sources in the Department of Agriculture, the Times said Butz secretly met twice in 1973 with directors of the department's Cooperative Extension Services from the states for the purpose of getting around the civil rights laws. There was no immediate comment from Butz, who resigned Monday because of an obscene racial slur against blacks.

Arkansas, Georgia, Illinois, Kansas, Louisiana, Maryland and Texas already had been found in violation of federal bans on discriminatory hiring and faced funding cutoffs at the time of the meetings.

Butz reportedly helped the states escape punishment by altering department egulations to extend for an unlimited amount with the hiring standards, the Times said. announced his resignation Monday at the White House, said he is determined to "continue to work tirelessly" for Ford's
