Wolfinger sends chief to meet with NAACP

SANFORD - State Attorney Norman R. Wolfinger announced Tuesday that he would send his chief of investigations to a town hall meeting taking place Tuesday night sponsored by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People at First Shiloh Missionary Baptist Church.

Tom Artingstall was among those to hear the concerns of the NAACP and citizens about the July shooting death of Travares McGill, 16, by two security guards at Country Lake Apartments near Seminole High School. Wolfinger told Turner Clayton Jr., president of the Seminole County Branch of the NAACP, that he has still not received the Florida Department of Law Enforcement investigative report as of Sept. 13.

Wolfinger said Artingstall would not make any comments or respond to questions regarding the law and facts as they have yet to see the report.

"I appreciate your writing to me, and hope to talk with you and Mr. McGill's family members at the appropriate time to receive any additional input you may have to share," Wolfinger said in a Sept. 13 letter to Clayton.

"To lose a child to violence is tragic and my heart goes out to them," Wolfinger wrote. "In the meantime, it would be helpful if you have any information relevant to the investigation to please provide it to the FDLE for their consideration."

City opts for 2nd choice

Too many requests doomed first pick for city manager

Herald Staff

SANFORD — City commissioners reneged on their offer to Richard White to become city manager after he requested significant additions to the city's proposed employment agree-

White was the top choice among four candidates who commissioners interviewed in person last Thursday and Friday.

The commissioners decided at Monday night's commission meeting to offer the job to their number two candidate, Robert "Sherman" Yehl of Texas

White told Mayor Linda Kuhn on Friday that he looked forward to becoming Sanford's city manager, but had to speak with his wife first. He told her he would be in contact Friday evening. At

Election set to fill vacancy

By Llane Edixon Herald Staff

SANFORD — City Commissioners voted Monday night to hold a special election on Nov. 8, to fill the vacancy left open when former District 4 Commissioner Kevin Hipes unexpectedly resigned for medical reasons in late August.

The city's charter says if a vacancy occurs with more than six months remaining in the term of office, a special election should be held no sooner than 60 days and no more than 90 days from the date of the vacan-

The special election could be held as late as Nov. 23, but according to city records, the Seminole County Supervisor of Elections recommended it be held during the already scheduled Nov. 8, election for other local municipalities. There was also a concern that having an election so close to Thanksgiving would generate less inter-Qualifying for the seat of District 4 Commissioner will begin Sept. 19 at 8 a.m. and will end at 5 p.m. on Sept. 23. The District 4 polling place for the Nov. 8 election will be located at the Seminole County Public Health and Human Services Auditorium at 400 W. Airport Blvd.

Early voting will be available at the Supervisor of Election's office on Nov. 4 from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m.; Nov. 5 from 8 a.m. until noon; Nov. 6 from noon until 4 p.m.; and Nov. 7 from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m.

A special run off election, if needed, will be held on Nov. 29, 2005. If more than two candidates qualify to run for District 4, there is a possibility that none will receive a majority of the votes. If this happens, the two candidates with the most votes will run against one another on Nov.

The city staff estimated that the cost for this special election will run approximately $5,000 to $6,000. Since this is an unanticipated election that has no funding, the city will request that the total election costs be pulled from reserves.

Man rams cruiser, escapes

MIDWAY - The Seminole County Sheriff's Office is looking for the driver of a stolen Chevy pick-up, who struck a deputy's vehicle

Sunday night. The suspect was altempting to flee the scene at the time of the crash.

The incident began Sunday night, Sept. 11, in the community of Midway, just east of Sanford.

Deputies discovered a pick-up truck that was reported stolen earlier out of the city of Sanford. They staked out the pick-up, waiting for somebody to get in and drive it away.

A few other perks White requested were a pager, comsoftware puter, fax/modem in addition to a cell phone with home use assumed; a $700 a month temporary housing allowance; and maximum allowed accrual for vacation and sick days with unlimited accruals.

Other requests included: Insurance premiums for health, hospitalization, surgical, vision, dental and comprehensive medication insurance for him and all dependents paid by the city;

Short and long term disability insurance paid by the city; Tax liability for moving expenses paid by the city;

Electing to complete a comprehensive medical exam by a physician he chooses, instead of an annual exam by a cityselected physician;

Life insurance in the amount of two times his annual salary ($264,000), instead of the city's proposed one-year life insurance amount;

A retirement plan equal to the average percent offered to all employees including general employees, police and fire averages, instead of the 10 percent of the salary base the city offered;

Costs of the sale of his home including limited real estate agent's fees and closing costs not to exceed $6,000;

White explained in an email to Kuhn on Saturday, Sept. 10 that he found it hard to work within the framework of the contract interim City Manager Eugene Miller developed.

Miller, who has more than 40 years experience as a city manager, and City Attorney Bill Colbert, both said the employment agreement was based on a model used all over the country for city managers.
"I worry about political transitions," White wrote. "From talking to some managers in Florida, there is some mythology about Sanford politics of the past."

In April, former City Manager Al Grieshaber Jr., tract would have expired in August 2005.

Grieshaber started in 2003 and many people, whether they supported him or not, said he was ousted out of the position for the way he handled the Andrew Van Gaale case. Grieshaber fired Deputy City Manager Van Gaale for using a city-leased golf cart for personal needs during the city's Fourth of July celebration in City advisors warned commissioners that the way Grieshaber left the city might reflect poorly on them.

"They're [the applicants] going to investigate you, as much as you investigate them," Marilyn Crotty told commissioners in June. She is director of the Institute of Government.

Attorney Colbert also told commissioners that how the city manager leaves will impact the quality of applicants the commission receives.

"Be kind to him [Grieshaber] as he leaves," Colbert advised back in April 2005.

Grieshaber had requested a continuation of his salary and benefits until Nov. 30 of this year, at that time he would then take his two weeks paid vacation. The commissioners agreed to that.

The commissioners let Miller conduct the preliminary search for city manager candidates, which began with 49 applicants at the end of July. He then nar-rowed that list from 49 to six he felt were highly qualified. Before interviews began, two of the six candidates had withdrawn their names.

Miller said shortly after the search closed that he had to twist a few arms to obtain applicants.

He said it is not unusual to have 100 or more applications in a city the size of Sanford. According to Miller, strict criteria such as how much experience and education candidates had was one reason for the only 49 candidates.

"Some persons are happy where they are and it took some serious marketing of the future of Sanford to obtain favorable responses," Miller Yehl - the very end of his interview. Yehl told commissioners that he often undersells himself, and that in four or five months they will see that he is a good city manager. "I'm not that good of a visionary," Yehl said. "I'm fairly low-key — not flashy."

District 3 Commissioner

Randy Jones said: "That con-

ers, one reference for Yehl told them he let a mayor he worked with be too strong.

According to commission-

"We don't need a yes man," Mayor Linda Kuhn said.

But the commissioners, after witnessing White's actions with the employment contract, went with Yehl, who received 11 of a possible 16 votes by the commissioners. White had received 15 votes.

Yehl has more than 25 years experience that includes serving for three years as the former president/CEO of Woodlands Community Service Corp., in Texas, with a population of 80,000. Before that, he was city manager of West University Place, in Texas, for more than six years. He also served as an assistant city manager for Des Moines, Iowa, for nine years.

Yehl graduated with a bachelor's degree in political science from Indiana University and a master's of public administration degree from The American University in Washington, D.C. According to Yehl's resume, accomplishments include managing a $12 million bond referendum for financing family aquatic centers, playground equipment and AAA baseball stadium; and reviewing and evaluating urban renewal projects for economic effect of projects; facilitating efforts with city, county and state entities and developing organizational relationships and policy options for future governance. He also established Des Moines' first public affairs office to coordinate public information, marketing, special events, and cable TV oper-

During the interviews the commissioners asked Yehl if he had ever been involved with controversial issues. "It's a matter of being able to bring the two sides together," Yehl said. "People have to understand that compromise is not a dirty word." Yehl told commissioners he was attracted to the position in Sanford because of the host of challenges with development, growth and community issues. Yehl told commissioners he was also good at being a facili-Yehl said that something he was taught in graduate school was city managers should be able to "satisfy the irritated without irritating the satisfied.

The commissioners extended an offer to Yehl for the position of city manager at $132,000 with the original employment agreement that was offered to White. Interim City Manager Eugene Miller said he spoke to Yehl Monday afternoon and that Yehl was willing to accept the offer with two exceptions. Those two exceptions were higher car and temporary housing allowances so he could avoid two house payments.

The city took a 10-minute recess at the start of the commission meeting to call Yehl with their offer. Kuhn made the phone call and came back to announce that Yehl had accepted the offer, which included a $550 a month car allowance and a minimum $1,500 a month housing allowance for no longer than six months, so that he had enough time to sell his home in Texas without paying a house payment here in Sanford and a mortgage payment in Texas at the same time.

"I think we have a confident and permanent city manager, Kulin said at the end of Monday's meeting.

District 2 Commissioner Velma Williams said, "We've reached one of the greatest milestones of 2005."

Yehl will start his position as Sanford's city manager on Oct.

The families and staff of Keeth Elementary are still collecting money at this time and plan on exceeding $10,000, according to Georgia Hill, assistant principal at the school.

On Sept. 9, the Keeth Parent-Teacher Association and staff gave the two families that recently registered at Keeth from New Orleans $500. Plus the families were invited to the PTA president's home to give them the following items: sheets and comforters, towels, cleaning supplies, tolletries, some toys for the children, TVs and DVDs, washer and dryer sets, dinette sets, toasters, microwaves, and several other things.

This message came from the PTA: "In the face of suffering, one has no right to turn away, not to see. When someone suffers, and it is not you, he comes first. His very suffering gives him priority.

Election -

Jernigan said she wants to continue serving the peo-ple of Lake Mary for a fourth term.

"I guess my strength is I understand the city and the issues it faces right now," Jernigan said. "I will have no learning curve." She added that before becoming a commissioner, she served on the city's Planning and Zoning Board.

Both candidates plan to visit neighborhoods and speak to as many people as possible before the election. Voters will be able to vote early on the four days leading up to the Nov. B election as well as vote by absentee ballot.

"I believe I could have won last year if it wasn't for the hurricanes," Bales said. He lost McLean by 16 percentage points - 58 to 42 percent. Voter turnout was heavier than normal because of the presidential race last fall.

Jernigan said she is proud of the commission's accomplishments to this point.

"We may disagree with each other sometimes, but we always do what's best for the city," Jernigan said in an interview from her family realty business in Sanford. "We take care of the growth and not have it manage us. People live in Lake Mary because it is not crammed."

Bales said he wasn't too happy when commissioners approved $100,000 for a clock tower, but most of that money was carmarked by a federal grant specifically for a clock tower.

"I'm not running against an opponent, I'm running for the city, simply letting voters decide who they want to represent them, Bales said.

He said he wants to protect property values and emphasize fiscal responsibility. Although the tax millage rate in Lake Mary is the lowest of the seven cities in Seminole County, Bales wonders if it could be even lower. He wants to look at the budget and see what is included. The city commisslon approved the same millage rate as last year on first reading at its Sept. 8 meeting. No one spoke during the public hearing about the budget. The next public hearing is Sept. 22 when the city is expected to adopt the budget for the next fiscal

"I'm not saying we should lower the millage rate, I'm saying we should look into this," Bales said. As a realtor he knows that property values sometime increase between 2 and 3 percent each month. "This is something I want to investi-

Jernigan said the city has approved lean budgets without raising the millage rate for the last three years.

"I think the city has done well because of forwardlooking people who came before us and we've been able to stay with it," she

She pointed to downtown development plans, the sewer solution in Lake Mary Woods and sticking to city code as highlights in recent

Some thought downtown development plans were meant to push people out, but Jernigan said the intent is to enhance what is there. Park plans will lead to a renewed community center. Brick pavers will enhance aesthetics in the area along County Club Road.

"We worked really hard with downtown development," Jernigan said. "I think it has a lot of positive aspects that can help Lake Mary move forward.

The Lake Mary Woods sewer project and code violations or variances have been some of the most difficult decisions the city commission has faced, she said. In Lake Mary Woods, the city could not afford to fund the entire $3.25 million project. Residents were upset over leaking septic tanks that shouldn't have been approved in the low-lying subdivision in the first place. In the end, most residents were happy with the solution and will pay less than $600 per year for a sewer and reclaimed water problems. When someone wants a variance to park a commercial vehicle on their properly, the commission has stuck to its city code, but those decisions are tough, Jernigan said.

system to fix the chronic

"That's your home and property," she said. The commission wants people to be happy living in Lake Mary, and they have tried to have understanding for everybody. But part of living in Lake Mary are strict property and sign codes that most agree have enhanced life in the city, Jernigan said.

Bales said the city has said.

brought in business, but needs to be more inviting to business.

"I think this is of paramount importance," Bales

"I think the city needs to be a lot more business friendly. It needs to be a lot more friendly."

Building plans could be more streamlined, he said. "Businesses have to jump through a lot of hoops for minor situations.

He will begin visiting neighborhoods and busi-nesses soon, Bales said. "We're getting things revved up."

Jernigan said she will encourage early voting and absentee ballots. She will probably use mailings and definitely will walk and talk throughout the city.

"I'll do that and I'll be inthe neighborhoods," she

Boys aid storm victims

LAKE MARY - Two 9year-olds named Austin saw devastation from Hurricane Katrina on TV and decided to do something about it. They sold lemonade and in return received more than $500 for the victims of the storm.

In one hour on Labor Day. Austin Anguaino and Austin McManus sold $10 of lemonade along Country Club Road in Lake Mary, Austin's mom Viola Anguiano was proud of her son's initiative. Her boss heard about the efforts and donated $500.

"I saw the pictures and I decided to do this and called Austin." said Austin Anguaino.

The money went to Austin Anguaino's church, All Souls Catholic Church in Sanford, which had its own drive to help Katrina vic-

April McManus described the boys as best buddles. They appeared together with their families at the Sept. 8 Lake Mary City Commission meeting. The pair were rewarded with thanks from Mayor Thomas Greene and a special watch featuring the Lake Mary city logo.

Austin McManus attends Wilson Elementary and his friends goes to Holy Cross Lutheran Academy.

"I'm so proud of them," Viola said. "He just said, 'Mommy I want to do something,' and he came up with this idea."

The actions of the Austins show just what young people can do when given the opportunity, April McManus said. "This is like a stepping stone" in their development, she suggested.

"I'm always willing to try something new," said Austin McManus.

The two-time Orlando Sentinel Seminole County Player of the Year and 1999 USA Today honorable mention All-American, Bradley averaged 6.4 points in more than 100 games for the Seminoles despite being plagued by injuries. most adversity to compete.

Bradley also excelled in the classroom earning a spot on the All-Atlantic Coast Conference Academic Team five consec-utive years as well as the 2003 Verizon Academic All-District Third Team.

OTHER IMPORTANT ISSUES...

KEEPING FLORIDIANS HEALTHY & SAFE

The Legislature passed landmark legislation this year aimed at reforming Florida's Medicaid program. By seeking to reduce costs and maximize efficiencies we are striving to achieve the sustainable growth desperately needed to continue a successful program in future years, while reducing the cost to the taxpayers.

We also confronted the difficult topic of personal safety through two significant pieces of legislation. The Jessica Lunsford Act increases the state's abilities to monitor convicted sex offenders upon their release from prison and Senate Bill 436 permits a person to use force against someone who unlawfully and forcibly enters their dwelling, residence, or occupied vehicle.

MANAGING GROWTH

Florida is one of the fastest growing states in the country, averaging more than 1000 new people moving here each day. Securing a successful plan to handle the growth will play a vital role in our State's continued success. This year we passed Senate Bill 360, a reform package that ensures the protection of land, water and natural resources while planning for growth. It also establishes a Commission to assist the citizens of the state in the involvement and understanding of future planning.

CONSTITUTIONAL CLARITY

During the 2005 legislative session, we looked at measures to address the problems in the current citizen initiative process. We passed House Joint Resolution 1723, which would require that all measures being considered for the constitution be passed by 60% of voters, instead of the current simple majority now required for passage. This initiative will have to approved by the voters in the 2006 general election.

At Right, Senator Constantine presenting money from his soth Annual Charity Challenge fundraising event which raised $250,000 for Central Florida charities

QUALITY EDUCATION FOR OUR CHILDREN

Education is the key to our state's prosperity and has continued to be an issue close to my heart. One way I am trying to improve our schools is with a measure I call the ABC'S Program. The ABC'S, or A Business-Community School, Program will allow businesses around the state to have a public K-3 classroom if they can enroll at least 18 students. This will give the opportunity for greater parental involvement in their child's education, while also reducing school construction and transportation costs and alleviating the burden brought on by expensive after school programs.

Other issues I sponsored this past year included a measure allowing the children of diseased or disabled military veterans to have a paid-for college education and a measure implementing higher standards for physical education in public schools.

PROTECTING NATURAL RESOURCES

The protection and conservation of the environment has always been a focus for me. Over the last two years we made great strides toward the protection of Central Florida's most precious resource, The Wekiva River Basin. As the chair of the Wekiva River Basin Commission, it is my continued duty to safeguard this valuable area while ensuring our continued economic development. The next meeting of the Wekiva River Basin Commission will be on September 22, 2005. You can access information pertaining to the Wekiva Commission at www.ecfrpc.com.

Environmental protection does not stop with protecting our current resources. This year, as in the past, I sponsored legislation simed at the revival of chemically contaminated areas known as Brownfields. Through the provision of tax incentives and low interest loans, I would like to encourage the clean-up and use of lands considered blighted. We can not only consider preservation—we need revitalization!
