By Jane Casaberry
Twelve members of the Co-operative Business Education Club of Lyman High School attended the District IV Convention held Saturday in Leesburg with their coordinator Mrs. Lois Toole.

The girls attended a special session, "Charm in a Capsule," taught by Mrs. Elizabeth Rodimer of the Patricia Stevens Finishing School of Orlando.

A companion course offered the boys was "Are You a Gentleman?" taught by M. W. Thomas, Leesburg city manager and supervisor of personnel.

An explanation was given concerning the contests to be held at the state convention in the spring on public relations, school service, community service, statistical surveys, and club activities.

Lyman CBE president Shirley Davis was a candidate for district office, but the offices of both governor and lieutenant governor went to Apopka High School.

The Leesburg High School club was host at a luncheon for the 161 persons attending the convention. District IV is composed of Orange, Lake and Seminole Counties.

Girls attending from Lyman were Susan Crafton, Shirley Davis, Margaret Durnell, Christine Glenn, Cheryl Johnson, Sherron Johnson, Denise McLaughlin, Barbara Tullock, Penny Vaughn, Carolyn Vickery, Lynn Voskan, and Carolyn Bumbalough.

Circles Hold Joint Meeting

By Maryann Miles
The Betty Lawhorn and the Jane Hickman Circles of the Forest City Baptist Church held a combined meeting last Thursday at the home of Mrs. Marilyn Millam in Forest City. Mrs. Millam is the newly appointed WMU publicity chairman.

Mrs. Yvonne Westmoreland and Mrs. Margie White were in charge of the program on "O Worship The King."

Others attending were Mrs. Delores Gresham, Mrs. Clifton Crawley, Mrs. Helen McHam, Mrs. Hattie Henderson, and Mrs. Pat Green.

There will be another combined meeting Tuesday, Oct. 20, at 8 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Crowley on Camellia Dr., Forest City. "Worship Through Intercessory Prayer" will be the theme for the program which will be presented by Mrs. Westmoreland, Mrs. White, and Mrs. Gresham.

Munson To Speak

Red China Does It—Explodes A-Bomb

It was only a few weeks ago that Walter Teague, an administrative officer for the county school system, predicted that there would be 15,300 pupils enrolled in Seminole by Christmas. As of Oct. 1, Teague reports that there were 15,276 children enrolled. He's got to have a net gain of 24 by Christmas.

Everyone in our county — that includes you and you and you (yup! and me) surely benefits at LEAST three cents a day because of the activities of the 10 agencies that belong to the United Fund and who do FINE work for others; work that each of us alone just cannot do. Agreed? All right, then; let's give at LEAST one dollar a month to this deserving community benefactor, our United Fund.

The campaigners will be happy to have you pay it monthly, quarterly, semi-annually; yes, mightily happy if you'd give it all at once, like NOW!!! But the big point is — PLEDGE IT, GIVE IT.

We wonder what is going to happen to the Seminole harness horse training and track layout at Casselberry. Some of our localities were real interested in that project when it was getting under way and racing dates were requested of the Racing Commission. It was predicted that it would be a BIG thing for our county's business community.

Right now, however, the astute businessman of Winter Park, Carl Langford, as court-appointed re-organizer, is plumbing plans to keep over 400 creditors with long past due bills on his side to permit the operation of the racing plant and thus attempt to recoup their losses for them.

With about 500 stalls available for the racing ponies (yeah, they're called "horses") it is felt that some revenue can be produced, even without the benefit of racing and the "take" from parimutual. The breeders and trainers will pay between $30 and $75 per stall per season, and the stakes go. From this income the operators would have to pay to keep the track in good condition, pay for the electricity and water. There appears to be a margin that would justify the attempted rejuvenation.

Unlike the beginning of the adventure when we are told, many of the interested principals were concerned with getting money OUT (without putting much IN), the creditors and others who want to see the track continue will probably be asked to lead financial support just on the HOPE that Langford can make "the old mare trot."

Have you noticed how nice the driveways are at what used to be our county home, now that it has been taken over by the county engineer and other Seminole officials? REAL nice!

My-ob-my, what an improvement that traffic light at Oak Avenue and West First Street makes! Took a long time to get it, and the Herald long ago called attention to the traffic tie-ups that occurred there, but, buddy, it's worth whatever it cost. (And Pete Knowles says that it was "plenty!")

Now that some "pretty good merchandisers" from Allied Stores chain have told our local business folks what to do to help themselves and the community — thanks to host Gene Tucker—we wonder what revolutionary plans we will see developing along First Street to put the suggestions to work. Ideas without effectuating action reap few rewards.

Burns In City; Attacks Holley

NASSAU, Bahamas (UPI) — A Bahamas bank president read a statement in the presence of two newsmen today that Florida candidate for governor Haydon Burns does not have nor has ever had an account in his bank.

Democratic gubernatorial candidate Mayor Haydon Burns of Jacksonville, accompanied by his wife Mildred, dined at Jim Spencer's Restaurant in Sanford, Thursday noon with members of his campaign committee and a roomful of supporters and invited guests.

Defending himself against charges made by his Republican opponent Charles Holley that he has deposited $1,213,000 in a Nassau Bank, Burns said "it is a compliment to be called the possessor of more than a million dollars, but unfortunately Mr. Holley is wrong. "He should have taken his charges to the Internal Revenue Bureau and they would have paid him 25 percent of it, or a quarter of a million dollars, if he could prove he was right," Burns quipped.

Burns added that he had told a United Fund worker in Lakeland that would donate all the money he had in banks outside the United States to the U.F. drive.

"Then I handed him a $10 bill so he wouldn't go away broke," he added.

Burns noted that the St. Petersburg Times had called Holley's charges, "the second Holley's folly."

"I will not malign or denigrate Mr. Holley personally but politically he is negative — he is negative in his actions, negative in his approach, negative in his plans for the future of Florida," Burns charged.

Referring to Holley's campaign brochure which emphasizes the power of the veto, Burns said, "Holley would repeal the present and veto the future of Florida if he were to be elected governor."

On the subject of his affiliations Burns said that he is supporting the Democratic ticket from President Johnson right down to the courthouse.

Nikita Thrown Out In Disgrace

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson announced today that he and the new Soviet leadership have exchanged pledges to continue seeking steps toward a "solid peace."

MOSCOW (UPI) — A house-cleaning of Nikita S. Khrushchev's top aides from the Soviet government was reported under way today.

Khrushchev himself was believed to be in total political disgrace or in completely broken health after being stripped of his posts as premier and chief of the Soviet Communist party.

Overnight the world's number one Communist faded into obscurity, and at least six other top government officials were reported to have been given the axe along with him.

The cleaning out of Khrushchev's lieutenants was undertaken by the country's new leaders—Leonid I. Brezhnev, Communist party chief, and Alexei N. Kosygin, premier.

The successors promised to continue Khrushchev's policies, including peaceful co-existence with the West, a hard line toward Peking, and a better life at home.

In a call on the Japanese foreign minister in Tokyo Soviet ambassador to Japan Vladimir M. Vinogradov gave assurances of a continuance of the peaceful co-existence program.

The size of the project can be seen when it was announced that it now would make Proctor & Gamble the Number One advertising firm in the country—surpassing General Motors.

Every advertising medium possible will be used but the focal point will be newspapers which the Development Commission deems the most worthy of all.

Program Unveiled At Deltona To Sell Florida To Nation

By Mildred Hanes and Harry L. Johnson
A stunning advertising program destined to put the phrase "Wouldn't You Rather Be In Florida" in every home in the United States was unveiled last night at Deltona.

Announcing the campaign, which starts on the Jackie Gleason Show, Nov. 7, were officials of Mackle Brothers, developers of Deltona; the Florida Development Commission and Proctor & Gamble.

The announcement of the giant promotion was packed into a 45-minute meeting in the Deltona Community House and visibly stunned the representatives from throughout Central Florida.

Prizes for one phase of it emphasizes its enormity. Mackle Brothers will give away five homes in Deltona to persons entering a contest that they will find difficult to ignore. It involves 10 lectures and 10 descriptions and the contestant must match each. That's it, plus the usual coupon or boxtop of P & G products.

There will be 25 vacations to Florida with the National City Bank of New York footing the bill through its travelers' checks.

There will be 1,000 third prizes consisting of 1,000 sun lamps from the Spert Sun Lamp Company.

Virtually every person in the United States will be made aware of the contest and theme of "Wouldn't You Rather Be In Florida."

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—World Series Manager John Keane resigned today as pilot of the St. Louis Cardinals.

NEWSPAPER FETE
Observed By Civitan Club

In observance of National Newspaper Week, the Sanford Civitan Club meeting at Lake Monroe Inn Thursday heard two newspaper editors tell of the importance of the free press.

Speakers were Julian Stenstrom, associate editor and sports editor of the Sanford Herald and Marion Harman, bureau chief of the Seminole County office of the Orlando Sentinel.

Harman said that the United States is the only country in the world where people can read a newspaper, select a radio station or a television channel of their own choice.

Stenstrom emphasized the part that newspapers play in the community in keeping readers informed of happenings in the community, politically, socially, educationally, commercially and in sports as well as feature items on many subjects of general interest.

"It is not the function of the newspaper to make the news, but to report the news as it occurs, pro and con, leaving decisions up to the reader," he pointed out.

Bryant Raps King
TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Gov. Farris Bryant said Nobel peace prize winner Martin Luther King turned St. Augustine into a battlefield during last summer's integration drive.

Stenstrom said that it is the aim of the Herald to print a county-wide newspaper, bringing all of the news of the area with as complete coverage as possible.

Peking Asks World Parley To Ban Use

TOKYO (UPI)—Red China set off its first atomic bomb today. It then immediately proposed a world conference to ban the use of nuclear weapons.

The official New China News Agency (NCNA) said the blast was set off at 3 p. m. Peking time (3 a. m. EDT).

It said the bomb was exploded in the "western region of China," but did not pinpoint the location.

However, observers believed it probably was detonated somewhere in the remote regions of Sinkiang Province or Mongolia, both of which border on the Soviet Union.

A spokesman for Fordham University in New York City said the seismograph there registered what appeared to be a "very strong quake" at 3:13 a. m. EDT between Mongolia and the Kurile Islands north of Japan.

In a statement issued by the Red Chinese government, Peking pledged that it never would be the first to use nuclear weapons in warfare.

Then it called for a world summit to ban the use of nuclear weapons and their ultimate elimination by destruction.

Through its successful test, Red China joined the United States, the Soviet Union, Great Britain and France as the world's atomic powers.

It came 17 days after Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Red China would explode a nuclear device "at any time." But Rusk pointed out that it would be a long time between such a test explosion and Red China's possible possession of a stockpile of such weapons with a modern delivery system.

The historic explosion came less than 24 hours after the announced ouster of Nikita S. Khrushchev as premier and Communist party leader in the Soviet Union. Khrushchev had led the Russian dispute with Communist China over the best way to pursue communism and had been instrumental in withdrawing Soviet support from the Chinese nuclear program about five years ago.

Gov. Bryant To Be Honored At Dinner

Gov. Farris Bryant will be honored at a dinner on Nov. 10 in Orlando given by the Florida Waterways Association, according to an announcement today by John Krider, an association official.

Dr. Munson Speaks For Medicare Bill

"Sickness is a tragedy and it shouldn't be," Dr. Leonard Munson declared yesterday as he spoke out for a "workable medical care program under the direction of the federal government."

Dr. Munson spoke at the luncheon meeting of the Sanford-Seminole Jaycees in the Civic Center.

He recalled the start of Social Security and how it now allows retired persons to "walk down the street with their head held high" instead of being a burden, as in the past, upon families, church or other groups.

"Now these people keep active independently within their means," he said.

Barry Rally To Hear Knowland

Former U. S. Senator William Knowland of California will address a Goldwater for President rally Saturday at the Seminole Plaza in Casselberry at 4 p. m.

Knowland will be met by a Seminole County motorcade at the Orange County line. The party will proceed north on U. S. 17-92 to Sanford, east on Seminole Boulevard to Mellonville, south to First Street, west to Park Avenue and return to Casselberry.

Knowland left the Senate in 1958 and made an unsuccessful bid to become California's governor that same year.

He was chairman of Senator Goldwater's successful campaign in the California presidential primary.

Erect Building

Members of the Sanford Garden Club voted today to go ahead with construction of their Garden Center on Hwy. 17-92 near Sunland Estates.

Mrs. Alburn Rector, president said today that the club had voted to secure a mortgage rather than to wait until all funds had been raised.

The club has on hand more than half of the approximately $30,000 needed for construction of the building.

Its goal is to "seek the fourth straight record year of tourism in Florida," according to Roger Stake, Florida Development Commission executive.

Cross Makes Difference

Perhaps more people realize, during the time of war, what the Cross means than at any other time. In any time of crisis we are forced to rely on someone larger than ourselves and are not ashamed to admit it.

In the early part of World War II an incident happened that illustrates this in a very emphatic way. A unit of the American Army was quartered in an English castle, however, they were not living a plush life by any means. The castle was extremely old and was in a state of disrepair that would prevent it from being useful for ordinary human occupancy. It did help immensely, in housing the army unit, with its great halls and other large areas of covered space.

Within the castle there was a small chapel as was the custom of its day of habitation. The chapel was much better preserved than the remainder of the castle and when it was cleaned it was found to be an exquisite example of architecture. It contained beautiful mosaics, jewel like stained glass windows, and an altar of white marble which was trimmed in gold. Strangely enough, two golden candlesticks were still there, however, no cross was to be seen. Certainly one could not imagine such a setting of worship without a cross. The place was attractive to the men as a place of beauty but this was about all.

One day a man approached the chaplain who was not accustomed to doing such. He had found a beautiful golden cross while rummaging through some rooms that were not in use. This man, though not a Christian, had felt that it was the cross which originally had been in the chapel so they replaced it. The room took on new meaning for many of the soldiers. Now there was the shining symbol of the Redeeming work of the Saviour in this beautiful place. Men looked in to see the beauty transformed into a chapel. It brought back memories of other sanctuaries and inspired meditation and prayer.

The unit was scheduled finally to sail for invasion, so from this chapel the chaplain served communion in a continuous service until all who wished could partake. The men, realizing what could be ahead for them, came for several hours. The man who had found the cross in the unused room took his first communion during this service.

The war went on and on. Life was very difficult during that part of the war for many men including the one who had found the cross, however, he had found someone who loved him so much that death upon a cross was not too much to suffer for him. Now life was different for the soldier and when the chaplain commented on the way he displayed the Christian life the soldier replied, "It took me a long time to understand, Chaplain, but now I'm trying to do my part . . . When I think of what I used to be, it seems now as though all I have is not enough . . . Something happened when I found the cross."

Every person who calls himself a Christian should stop occasionally and ask himself about how much has happened since he took the name "Christian." The examination should reveal a deeper love for God and mankind. It should show a new faith that has power to destroy the tensions and fears that so beset him. A deeper commitment to the cause of the One symbolized by the Cross should be very evident. Words fail to express the deepest spiritual meaning of "The Wondrous Cross." One of the best expressions is the life of one who has found it.

Annual Session Held By Seminole Baptists

The Seminole Baptist Association, which is made up of 25 churches and three missions in Seminole and Volusia Counties, just completed its 51st Annual Session in the Pinecrest Baptist Church, Sanford. Messengers from all of the churches met for the purpose of receiving reports on the work done during the past year and of projecting a program of work for the coming year.

A new slate of officers was elected: Rev. Fred Chance, First Baptist Church, Sanford—Moderator; Rev. Jim Sledge, First Baptist Church, Seville—Vice-Moderator; Mrs. B. H. Griffin, Elder Springs Baptist Church, Sanford—Clerk-Treasurer. These officers will guide the work for the coming year.

The Session was well attended with approximately 200 registrations. Interest with the business sessions were special speakers including Dr. John Howell, First Baptist Church, DeLand; Dr. John Maguire, Executive Secretary Florida Baptist Convention and Rev. William A. Hickman, Missionary to Paraguay.

Geneva First Baptist Church Calls Pastor From Tennessee

The First Baptist Church of Belmont College in Nashville, Tenn., has announced the calling of the new pastor, the Rev. W. M. Grogan. Rev. Grogan comes to Geneva from a seven year pastorate at the First Baptist Church of Waynesboro, Tenn. Other pastorates in Tennessee include: First Church of Madisonville, First Church of Alcoa, First Church of Blountville, and the First Church of Greeneville.

Rev. Grogan is a graduate of Mars Hill College and Wake Forest College in North Carolina, and of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Kentucky.

Early in his ministry, while associate pastor of the Central Baptist Church of Fountain City, Tenn., Rev. Grogan was on the faculty of the University of Tennessee School of Religion. He has served in various denominational capacities, including the Advisory Board of Trustees of Carson-Newman College and the Board of Managers of the Tennessee Baptist Childrens Homes. His interest in youth and the problems of juvenile delinquency include service on the juvenile court of Wayne County during the past few years.

Rev. Grogan is married to former Virginia Petros, a native of Knoxville, Tennessee. Mrs. Grogan attended the University of Tennessee before her marriage. The Grogans have four sons, Jim and Joe, thirteen-year-old twins, John who is 19 and Mac who is 21. John and Mac attend

Ellinor Motors Newest Area Dealer

Sanford and Seminole County welcomed another new firm to the area's growing business family yesterday when Ellinor Motor Company was opened officially for the first time.

Mrs. Fred Ellinor, wife of the owner and president, slipped a ribbon in front of the showroom entrance as city and county officials watched.

Grand Opening Days for the public are now being observed at the showroom located off Highway 17-92 south of Sanford.

The new firm will deal exclusively in the popular Volkswagen. The building occupies 10,000 square feet of the 90-000 square feet total at the site.

Ellinor, a member of a longtime automotive dealing family—"ever since cars were built," he says—was a partner with a brother and his father in the Ellinor Village complex at Daytona Beach.

A host of Volkswagen dealers from several points in Florida and Georgia were on hand to welcome the newest member of the "Volk Family."

H. L. Brundage, president, and Eric R. Sundstrom, vice president-general manager of Brundage Motors Inc., Jacksonville, headed a delegation of distributors to Sanford.

Brundage Motors services all Volkswagen dealers in Florida, Georgia and South Carolina.

Ellinor was formerly manager of the Ellinor (Ford) Motor Co. in Valdosta, Ga., and later the Lincoln-Mercury dealership there.

A native of Bainbridge, Ga., he is a graduate of Stetson University and has been active in civic affairs in Ormond Beach and Daytona Beach, as well as Valdosta. He and his wife and four children moved to a home on Lake Sylvia, Paola, a few months ago.

The new home of Ellinor Motors has air-conditioned showroom - customer lounge and office. The service department has six working stalls with modern equipment and the parts department is fully stocked to accommodate any Volkswagen back to the original two cars in this country in 1949.

James Wyland is service manager. He has been with Ellinor Motor Cars (Volkswagen) in Daytona Beach until moving here and has had many years of VW experience.

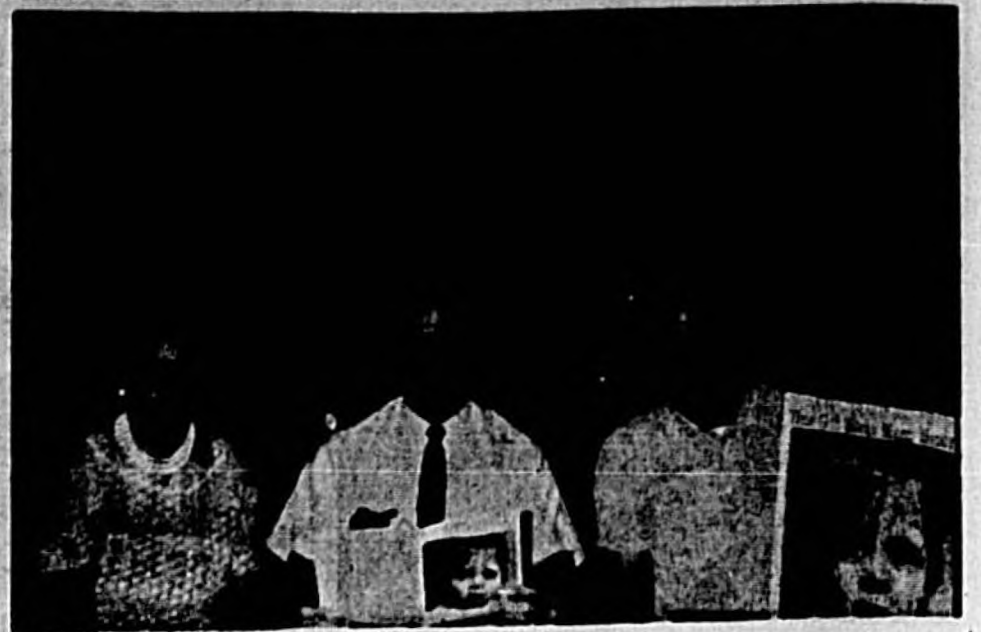

Guy Thornton is sales manager, coming here from Autohaus Pompano, Inc., the VW dealership in Pompano Beach.

has been with Martin-Martins in Orlando and with Fly-World Import Corp. there.

Parts manager is Rodney Mrs. Grace Van Staveren, a native of Amsterdam, is the bookkeeper with a background of 23 years in this work. She Bailey, coming from Hooper Foreign Cars, the Volkswagen dealership at Merritt Island.

Other new employees are Mrs. Janice Rose, receptionist and service clerk, formerly with the Florida State Bank in Sanford; George Daniels, salesman, formerly with AllResearch Mfg. Co., Phoenix, Ariz.; Larry Hoy, salesman, formerly with Orange Rambler in Orlando.

Post, Auxiliary Meet Monday

By Donna Estes

Old Glory American Legion Post 183 and the Auxiliary Unit will meet jointly Monday at 8 p. m. to hear reports from Robert Baird of Forest City, the Post's Boys State delegate; and Sandra Tennant, the Auxiliary's Girls State representative.

Both young people are seniors at Lyman High School and were chosen by the committees on the basis of leadership, cooperation, physical fitness, character, honesty, and courage.

Serving on the committees were L. L. Cox and Frank Staudle, for the Post and Mrs. Molly Staudle, Mrs. Lillian Severs, and Mrs. Grade Ambacher, for the Auxiliary.

Boys State was held July 5-12 in Tallahassee and Girls State from June 15-19. They are programs dedicated to the ideas of teaching the basic principles of democratic government.

HES President

Miss Barbara Ruprecht, Home Economics teacher at Seminole High School has been elected president of the Home Economics Section of the Florida Vocational Association.

The election took place at a state conference for home ec teachers held last weekend at the Cherry Plaza Hotel in Orlando.

10 Lyman High Students At Convention

By Jane Casselberry

Lyman High School was represented at the District III Student Council Convention last Saturday at the Colonial High School in Orlando by 10 students.

Voting delegates were Dan Casselberry, president; Gary Gunter, vice president; and Mary Louise Haines, treasurer. Others representing the Lyman Student Council were Ruth Wright, Jiffy Gammage, Ann Trawick, Pam Eldridge, Diana Keeney, Carolyn May, and Frank Oliver.

There was a general assembly and election of officers. Lyman ran for the office of District vice president but lost to Leesburg. Dan Casselberry made the nominating speech. They attended discussion groups and enjoyed meeting students from the other schools, particularly the Foreign Exchange Delegates.

Open Today!

Come in and get into a Volkswagen.

Sedans, station wagons, trucks and Karmann Ghias—we'll have them all at our Grand Opening today, doors open and ready to go.

Come in. Take one out for a drive. Things you'll notice along the way: VWs are rattle free, easier to handle in traffic, park in little space. (VW Station Wagons, for example, are 4 feet shorter than conventional wagons, yet hold more and cost hundreds of dollars less.)

Back at the showroom, ask about the VW engine in the rear that will go all day at top speed without strain. It's air-cooled.

Can't boil over or freeze up. Ask to see the parts and service department. Nothing can happen to any VW car or truck that we can't fix.

Then, ask to see figures on what any VW costs to run.

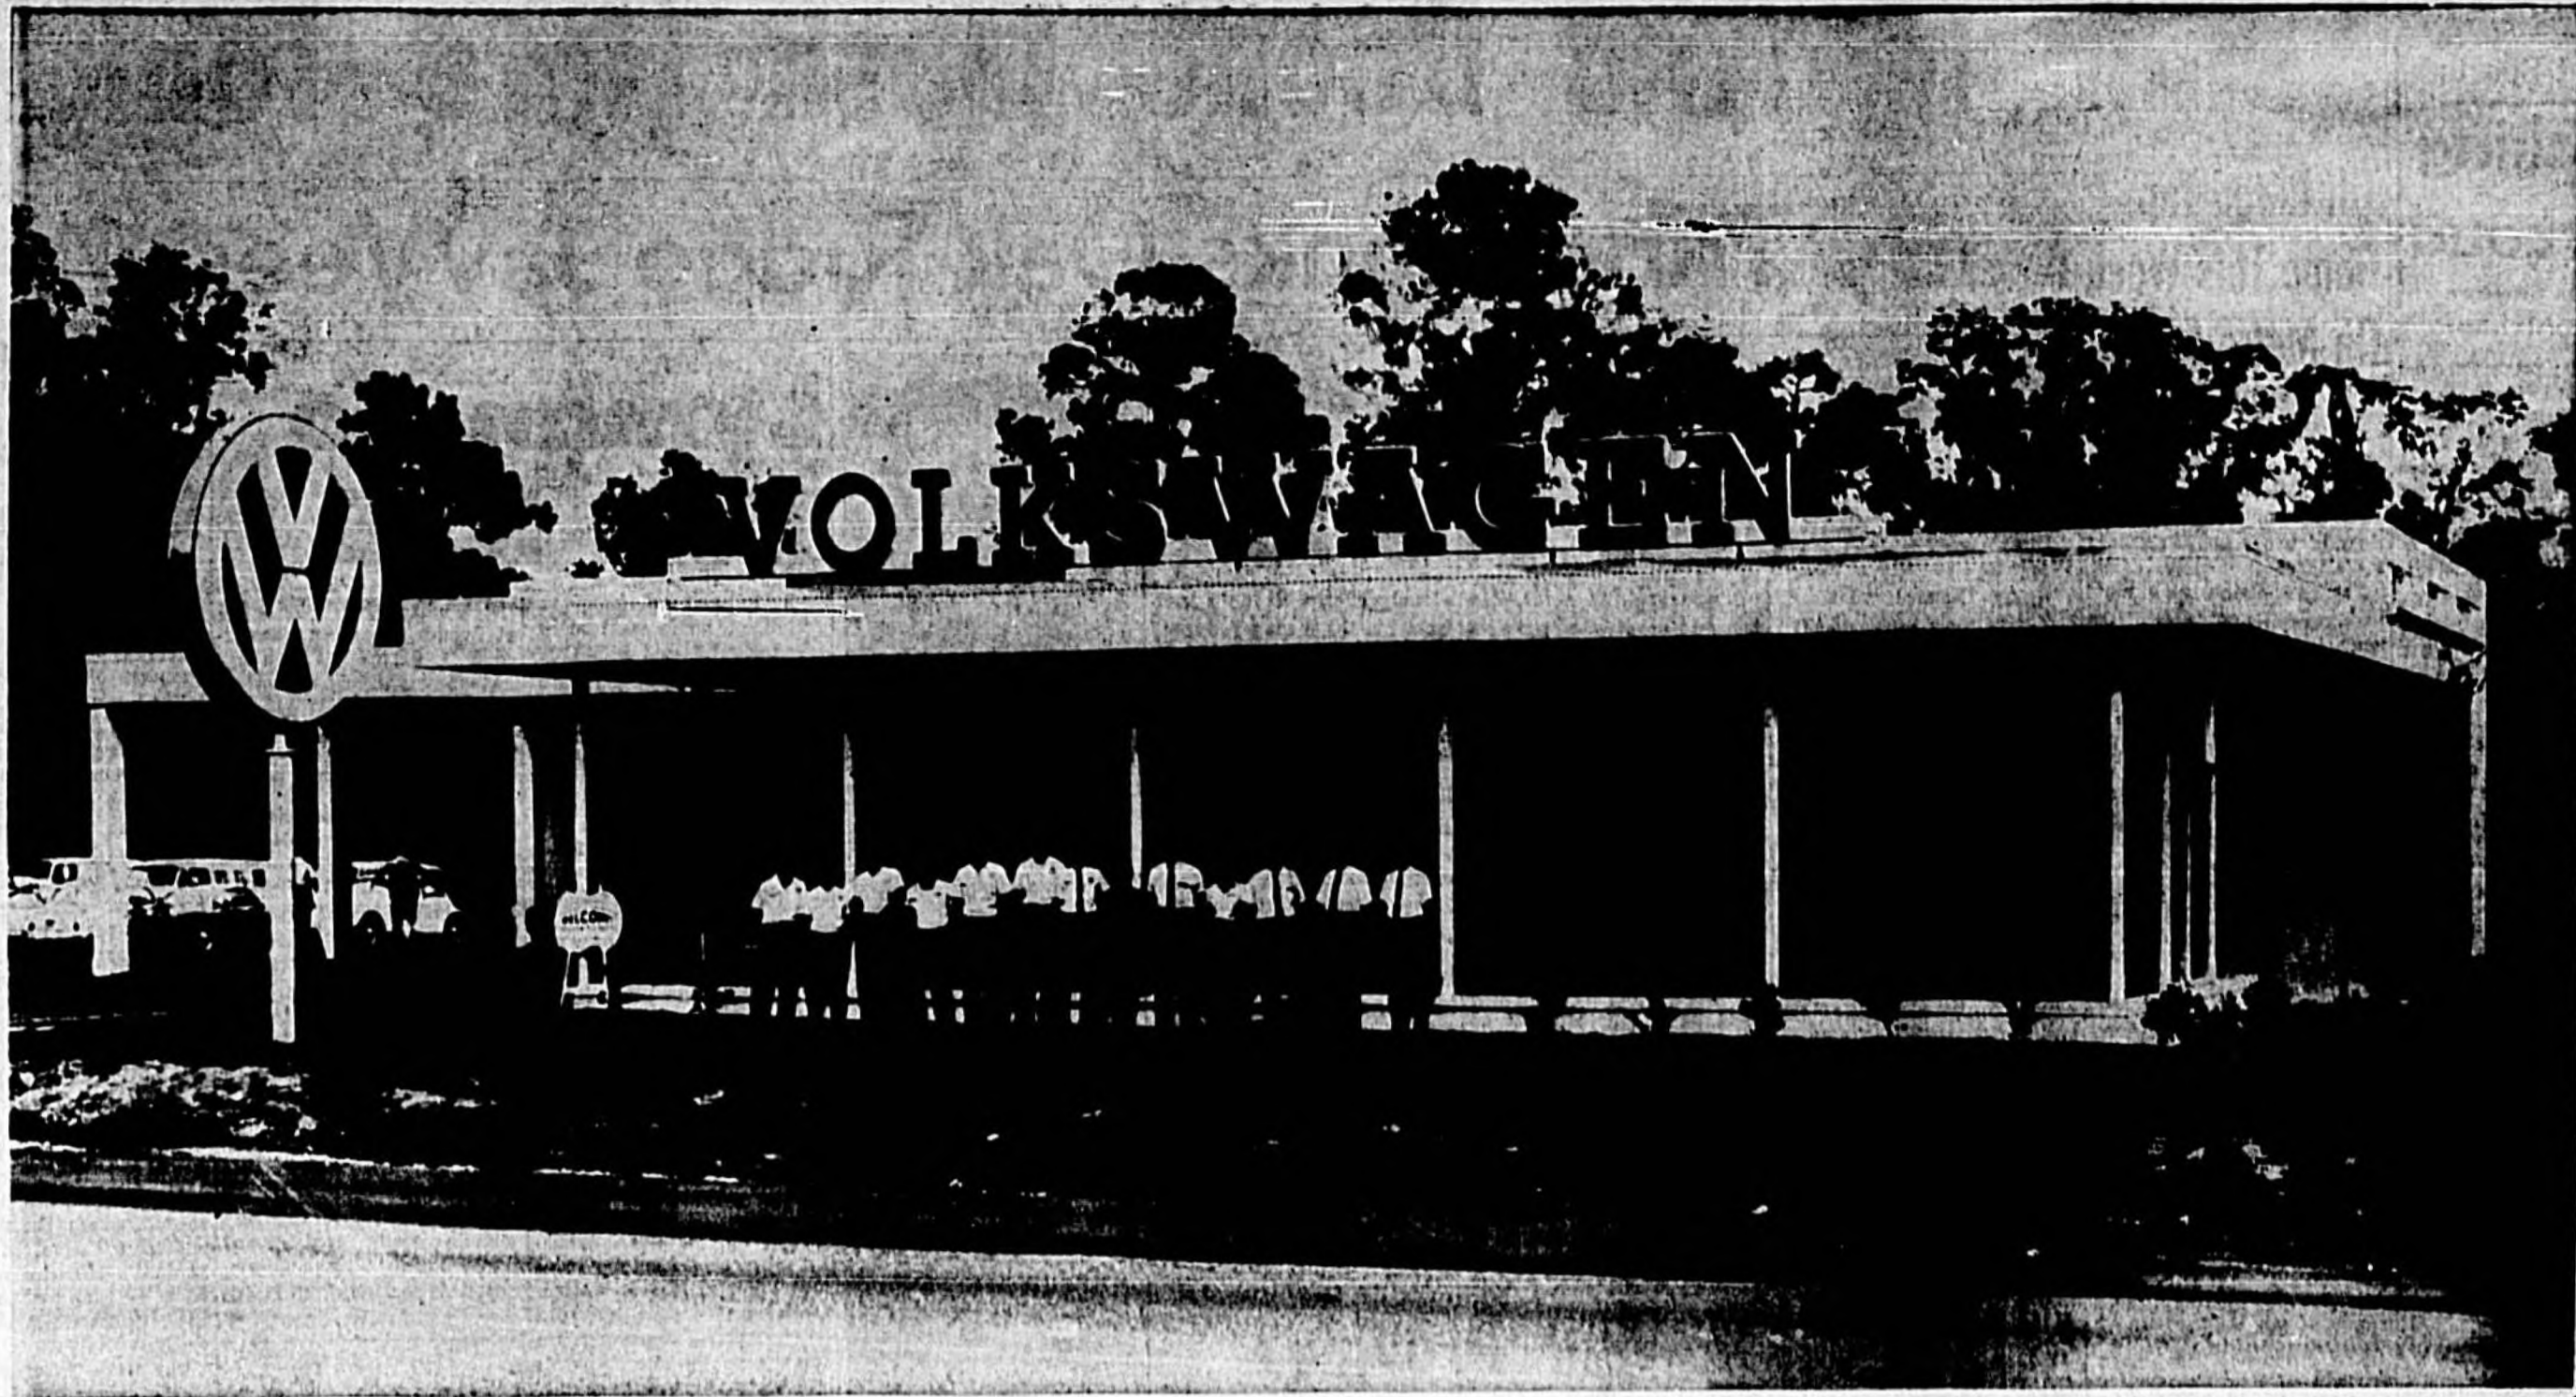

Grand Opening begins at 9:00 a.m.

We're all in it together!

That's us inside the new authorized Volkswagen agency of ELLINOR MOTOR CO., Hwy. 17-92, just south of Sanford.

Listed below are several businesses associated with the building of the Ellinor Motor Company. They are the people responsible for getting the building ready with construction, painting, wiring, and so forth.

The official Grand Opening and ribbon cutting was yesterday at 11 a.m., but celebrations are now going on. Of course, you're invited. So are the kids.

There'll be souvenirs, refreshments, door prizes — and all the new Volkswagens. Sedans. Station Wagons. Trucks.

We hope you'll come in and look around.

You'll be interested in the VWs, of course. But we want you to notice how nice everything else looks, too. Walls, floors — everything. We think it turned out just fine.

'Iguana' Opens Sunday At Ritz

Cyril Delevanti claims his role in the John Huston-Ray Stark production, "The Night of the Iguana," based on Tennessee Williams' prize-winning play, was as easy as rolling off a log.

The film opens Sunday at the Ritz Theater and runs through Wednesday.

"Actually, I literally 'rolled' through my part because when I wasn't lying in bed, Deborah Kerr was rolling me in a wheelchair," he said. "Not that I needed the chair once the scene was finished."

ed. I'll admit I'm ancient enough to be Miss Kerr's father, and Richard Burton's and Ava Gardner's. And, of course, as for that sweet little Sue Lyon, I could easily be her grandfather. Nevertheless, for an old party, I'm still able to make my way around without help."

In "The Night of the Iguana," Delevanti enacts Deborah's grandfather, Nonno, a 90-year-old man known as the world's oldest living practicing poet. The actor is not ninety-eight; he is seventy-five, but there is nothing about the nimble and spritely gentleman, except perhaps his wondrous face, looking like a fine parchment scroll, and his cap of thick white hair to bespeak his years.

Acting in "Iguana," which was filmed on location in Mexico, required Delevanti to make a daily arduous trip from the town of Puerto Vallarta to Mismaloya eight miles across rough ocean. He didn't mind it a bit. He claims the role was worth it.

"It's what you'd call a cameo part," he said. "It's the sort of part that calls for concentration because you have to register the moment you appear. There isn't time to develop the characterization."

'Hustler' Coming

Jackie Gleason turns dramatic actor in the Robert Rossen-20th Century-Fox Cinema-scope production, "The Hustler," which plays at the Movieland Drive-In Theater Sunday, Monday and Tuesday nights.

Co-featured will be "Blue Denim" with Carol Lynley and Brandon DeWilde.

Gleason has made movies before but the role of Minnesota Fats, the poolroom champion, marked his first serious part on the big screen.

Realism is the hallmark for this portrayal.

Wednesday and Thursday the Movieland offers "The Bravados" in color and starring Gregory Peck. Co-featured will be "The 39 Steps" with Kenneth More.

A triple-feature is planned for Friday and Saturday nights. "Stage to Thunder Rock" stars Barry Sullivan; "Surf Party" features Bobby Vinton; and Peter Sellers is starred in the color film "The World of Henry Orient."

Bette Davis At Plaza

When sophisticated Bette Davis, after some film making in Europe, returned to Hollywood for her starring assignment with Susan Hayward, Michael Conners and Joey Heatherton in the Joseph E. Levine-Paramount co-production "Where Love Has Gone," she abided that Hollywood technicians and craftsmen, film production methods and procedures still top anything provided anywhere else in the world. "Where Love Has Gone" is now showing at the Seminole Plaza Cinema.

star, long one of Hollywood's most fascinating actresses and winner of two Academy Awards, detected in the place where she won her first laurel was for her "like a shot in the arm" performance in "Where Love Has Gone." She portrays in the film, directed by Edward Dmytryk, the scheming, ruthless socialite mother of Susan Hayward, who impersonates a success sculptress with more than one problem. A highly charged drama of volatile emotions, based on the best-selling novel by Harold Robbins, the story centers on the arrest and trial of Miss Hayward's teenage daughter, accused of murder. Miss Davis expressed delight at seeing the industry once more making long range production plans and swiping healthy boxoffice returns in the world market. Terming herself a "perennial enthusiast," she found it wonderful to have complete faith in Hollywood and the industry's future, and what's more, to notice that this faith is shared today by everybody who's working in it.

'Mr. Magic' At Ritz

"Mr. Magic" has evidently worked some of his famous sorcery on himself. For now, instead of "Mr. Magic," he has become the terrible and terrifying, "Dr. Jekyll."

Accompanied by Weirld Women, Haster, the Hunchback,

Frankenstein the Unspookable and the blood-chilling "Mummy," Mr. Jekyll and his horror show will be seen on the stage of the Ritz Theater, Saturday at 1 p. m.

This show is said to be so scary that if you can sit through it all you will receive two free passes to a future movie.

Not only are these unearthly creatures seen on the stage, they will actually come down into the audience. You may have a monster sitting next to you!

This is Dr. Jekyll's first show of the season in Florida before he leaves to produce the "aisle of 1001 horrors" at other movie theaters throughout Florida and the U. S.

Since becoming "Dr. Jekyll," the master of horror, who is a native of Sanford, the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Wise of 310 West Sixth St. has toured the United States, opening his spook show last year in California, then moving on up the West Coast and thence to New England and all over the country, spreading terror as he goes.

"During our show we choose children from the audience to come up and take part in some of the acts," said Dr. Jekyll. "They are thrilled by it, and along with the spooky entertainment we throw in a little comedy, too."

Dr. Jekyll said that he had always been interested in witchcraft, voodoo, black magic and sorcery and had studied much that had been written on the subject for many years before donning the guise of Mr. Magic for the black-hearted Dr. Jekyll.

The weird show is a Scorial Mystery Production out of Sanford and Orlando.

Dr. Jekyll is assisted in the horror show by another talented purveyor of black magic, Lynn Strange.

Fire Auxiliary Sale Saturday

By Frances Woster

The Women's Auxiliary of the Lake Mary Fire Department is sponsoring an ice cream festival and bake sale Saturday from 2-5 p. m. at the firehouse.

A good time is planned for all and all kinds of yummy toppings and cakes will be served with the ice cream.

Proceeds from the event will go to the volunteer fire department and all of the residents in the community are urged to support this worthy cause.

You can learn to be a book-keeper, a stenographer, an auto service and repair man—and earn over three thousand dollars a year. You can learn now to do these jobs—and others—free. So, play it cool. Make your move to school. You'll never be sorry.

By Dottie Austin

If you like fish, you'll love the Friday night fish fry at the Pinecrest Inn, served up steaming hot with slaw, french fries, extra delicious baked beans, good old grits, of course, of course, bush puppies (couldn't have a fish fry without them) and a relish tray, along with coffee or tea. Even if you're not crazy about fish, you will like this fish dinner. Several members of the staff of the Herald angels have tried it and are ready to give a testimonial. Why cook? Drop in Pinecrest Inn for dinner and then on to the ball game.

Freddie's Steak House in Fern Park has a new piano player by the name of Bert Wooten and we hear he is terrific. He'll be playing for you in the Lamplighter Lounge each night. To persuade you as you dine in the Gaslight Room there is George Mamaki and his accordion, making soft, sweet music. Try Freddie's for a luxurious atmosphere, excellent service and the finest in cuisine. Steve and Fran Larson are very jealous of the excellent reputation of their establishment and spare no effort to maintain it. You can count on them for the best.

"Sweet as a nut" is the way Jim Spencer's describes their Danish lobster tails which are one of the most popular orders in their dining room. Among known as the place to order steaks, frog legs and of course, those extra special royal red shrimp, prepared in their extra special way. Your favorite beverages, too, served in the dining room before dinner, or in the friendly cocktail lounge. Don't forget that the New Orleans Room is available every night for parties of up to 50 persons.

As Ned Foley used to say in a song he made famous, "don't be ashamed of your age". This especially applies to ladies who might be dropping in at the Caribe Lounge in the Valdez Hotel, during the happy hour. Your drinks will only cost you as many pennies as you have years—and that could be a pretty inexpensive drink. This is a special feature of the Caribe, which features your favorite beverages, served up cool and refreshing in the relaxing atmosphere.

Three nights a week the Tradewinds Cafeteria in Seminole Plaza has special treats for their customers. On Tuesday evening, you can get a 10-ounce New York sirloin strip steak, done to your order for a very special price. Thursday nights are family nights with free desserts for everybody and on Saturday steak is king, with a three-quarter pound T-bone steak done just right for you. Dinner is served from 4:30 to 8 p. m. and they are open for lunch from 11 a. m. to 2:15 p. m.

Watch for the grand opening soon of a restaurant and cocktail lounge coming to Seminole County. It will be known as "The Wamjammer." This is located at the former site of the Riksha Inn in Fern Park and will soon be in operation under the ownership of the famous Imperial House. Featured in the dining room will be delicious Maine lobster, seafoods and steak, and the picturesque cocktail lounge will be called "The Pirates Den." You'll be seeing a formal announcement soon.

Lou Rotas at the Mar Lou Restaurant and Cocktail Lounge reminds you that the Mar Lou now has an orchestra and a pretty girl vocalist to entertain you every Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday night from 9:30 p. m. to 1:30 a. m. Try the Mar Lou's delicious steaks and other foods, and then dance till the wee hours.

Veal and peppers with mushrooms with a side order of spaghetti is the special now thru Thursday at Jean's Spaghetti House in Orange City—a complete meal prepared as only Jean and Rocco Moraglio can prepare it. For candlelight dining, either for the family or for parties or banquets, Jean's can't be beat. They have a complete and varied menu of complete meals. Beer served on Sundays, too.

A good place to re-hash the World Series or discuss current political problems is at George's Tavern. A pleasant bar, good bartenders, your favorite drinks make for a delightful way to enjoy your leisure hours. A well-stocked package goods department gives you a wide choice of lake-home beverages.

This weekend, along with fine foods and your favorite beverages, the Capri is offering you the music of the "Keynotes." Soft lights and sweet music—the proper ingredients for a pleasant relaxing evening. Don't forget about their businessmen's lunches, too.

The George Oglesby Family Welcomed To North Orlando

By Margaret Cosby
George and Marcia Oglesby have returned to Central Florida with their two children, Keith, two years of age, and Kevin, seven weeks, after 18 months in Eau Gallie. They now are residing at 8 Algiers, North Orlando.

MARCIA OGLESBY

The Oglesbys previously lived on Stone Island overlooking the north shore of Lake Monroe. George enjoyed hunting and fishing there, right in his own backyard, and looks forward to filling the freezer with more grouse and other fowl.

The United States Navy brought George and Marcia to this area from Savannah, Ga. George was attached to VAII-11 at Sanford Naval Air Station and spent two tours of sea duty aboard the USS Roosevelt. He now is in production planning and scheduling at Dynatronics in Longwood.

Marcia has talented hands and loves to knit and sew, time permitting, of course. She confesses that they love it here and really expect to stay, especially since their relatives seem to be migrating this way. George's parents and sister now are living in Titusville.

Newcomer Andre Courreges Leader In Paris Couture

PARIS — (NEA) — Three years ago Andre Courreges came unheralded and unknown into the circle of Paris couturiers. Today, at 38, his is the greatest success story in the last decade.

Fashion experts have placed him on a dizzy pinnacle where he shares top honors with Chanel and Balenciaga for whom he worked for some 10 years.

When this energetic, soft-spoken Basque decided it was time to set up on his own, he chose as his headquarters a tiny apartment beyond the Place de l'Etoile, well away from the main fashion houses.

Against pure white walls and pristine cotton draperies, rustic Spanish furniture and white cushioned chairs give the place something of a country house look.

Courreges' first collection was acclaimed "superb." His latest (and seventh) was a tremendous success. His small salon is crowded to capacity daily. Women come there not only to look, but also to buy, although his prices are now in the $1,000 group.

His creations are impeccably constructed, as might be expected of a man who studied engineering and bridge building. He makes his models out of the cloth, unlike the majority of his colleagues who use models for dressmakers to copy.

Courreges is the man who predicts that women will wear pants more often than skirts by 1980. Along with his pants suits, he also endorsed the more conservative dress-and-cost theme, but his skirts stopped a good two inches above the knee.

To the argument that the ratio of women who look well in pants is about one to 500, he counters that not every woman can wear short, tight skirts, either. And he deprecates these when combined with high heels.

His trouser suits for the coming winter ranged from the tailored-for-street-wear to some devastatingly feminine models in lace and chiffon for evenings at home.

Given enough time, silhouettes can change drastically, according to Andre Courreges. "In 1960," he points out, "perhaps one woman in a thousand could have worn a knee-length skirt. Ankles and legs were too thick. When short skirts did come in, women had to do something about their legs and today trim legs are taken for granted."

"The disappearance of the 'soutien-gorge' (bra) will also spur women to do something about their bosoms," he says. He wants to do away with any kind of underpinning, replacing it with a "second skin" on which he is now working.

Although the grapevine rumors that an important group of financiers is ready to help establish Courreges in more imposing surroundings, so far he has no backer. For the moment he is content to stay put. And everyone in his firm of 40, from his sister Jacqueline (his girl Friday), down to the smallest "cousette" (work-girl) stitch madly away to keep up with their dynamo of a boss.

BLUSH ROSE-PINK cloque interwoven with gold thread forms a plaid design in this evening costume by Andre Courreges for fall '64.

Proper Lights Essential For Winter Blooms

NEW YORK (UPI)—There's no need for your green thumb to turn brown with the first frost.

With proper fluorescent lighting the home gardener can enjoy summer's green right through winter. Your florist and garden store can advise on the best arrangement of lights, reports the Fotted Plant Information Center which dispenses gardening information.

The best arrangement usually is a combination of incandescent bulbs and fluorescent tubes in the ratio of 40 watt fluorescent to one 25 watt incandescent, said the center. But cool white fluorescents can be used alone with good results.

Incandescents alone, however, may not always have the proper balance of red and blue light wave lengths. This wave length quality is why the fluorescents work so well. The red wave lengths of light promote vegetative growth while the blue regulate the respiratory system of plants.

The duration of light also is critical. Plants are grouped into short day, long day, and indeterminate with respect to the effect of the length of the day of growth.

Short day plants — chrysanthemums, gardenias, Christmas begonias and poinsettias — need 10 to 13 hours of light per day to flower. The rest of the day in darkness gives the plants time to assimilate food.

Long day plants need 14 to 18 hours of light to bloom. Included are China asters, dahlias, nasturtiums and fuchsias.

Indeterminate plants will blossom in varying degrees of abundance with anything from 12 to 18 hours of light. This group includes most house plants—African violets, gloxinias, begonias, geranium and cacti.

Light fixtures and accessories have been designed specifically for growing plants with fluorescent lighting, but any fluorescent fixture with a reflector will do. One good idea: buy an inexpensive automatic timer to turn the lights on and off at required intervals.

NOW YOU KNOW
NEW YORK (UPI) — The theory that the state has the right to compel parents to educate their children first was formulated during colonial times in Massachusetts, reports Encyclopedia Americana.

That was in 1642, said the encyclopedia. Then in 1647, the "old deluder Satan act" was passed, requiring every town of 50 householders to appoint and pay a teacher of reading and writing and every town of 100 householders to establish a Latin grammar school.

Sanford Garden Circles

IBISCUIS CIRCLE

The Ibisicus Circle of the Sanford Garden Club held its first meeting at the lovely home of Mrs. John E. Fox in Paola, with co-hostesses Mrs. Charles Grieme and Mrs. J. A. Edwards, at 11:30 a.m. with a covered dish luncheon of a most delicious assortment of dishes. The meeting that followed was opened with a prayer.

Mrs. Vern Brewster was welcomed back in the club after being away for several years. The Circle was told to begin to think of flower show entries now, so they will be ready for the next show. They were also asked to save

PEACHY
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Fill up your freezer now — with peaches packed in either syrup or sugar, the U. S. Department of Agriculture suggests.

If you choose a syrup pack, make up the syrup ahead of time so it will be ready and cold when you need it. Peaches are best packed in a syrup made of 3 cups of sugar to 4 cups of water. This will make enough for 8 pints of frozen peaches. Select mature peaches that are firm and ripe. Figure 1 to 1½ pounds fresh peaches for each pint frozen.

One medium serving of watermelon will supply one-third of the vitamin C and one-half the vitamin A needed daily, the U. S. Department of Agriculture reports.

stamps, jewelry, flower magazines and religious Christmas cards for World Gardening.

Mrs. Gordon Brisson gave a very interesting talk on horticulture. Get seed and bulb beds ready with spading, right mixture of sand, peat, compost and fertilizer. Before planting tulips, be sure to refrigerate at least six weeks before putting them in the ground, not earlier than after Christmas.

Another tip for folks liking lilacs, which are hard to grow in Florida. Dig a trench around the bush and put ice cubes in the trench to shock the roots. Why not try this? Don't trim back shrubs yet. Plant roses in November.

Mrs. Moreland gave a report on the board meeting. Reservations were taken for the district meeting which was held at the Civic Center on Oct. 13.

Mrs. Fahy gave a report on the building committee meeting, and votes were cast (secret) and collected for the erection of the building.

The nominating committee was selected for 1965 and the meeting adjourned.

IVY CIRCLE
The first meeting of the season of the Ivy Circle was held at the 410 Beth Drive home of Mrs. Robert Dekle.

The meeting was called to order and the members prayed the Lord's Prayer. During the business meeting, Mrs. William F. Mann gave a very

Love, Courage And Patience Basics For Slow Learners

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The National Education Association (NEA) has issued a list of pointers for teachers and parents of a special group of children who started school or returned to classes this fall.

At the top of the list are love and courage — because these children are the slow learners. Some of the children are mentally retarded, and were assigned to special schools or classes. Others, not enough below average to be called retarded, will receive special instruction because they have difficulty keeping up.

The NEA, which made a recent study of the slow-learning child, also called for encouragement, patience and understanding on the part of parents and teachers of these children to urge them on toward top-capacity work.

The NEA said the study found that many parents of slow learners "feel personally threatened when their children are placed in special classes." Some even blame the teacher for the slow child's inadequacy.

While such feelings at first may be "perfectly natural," the association said, the parents should better devote their energies toward helping the slow child, not despairing for him.

Parents could—and should—assist the teacher with the hefty job of educating slow learners to lead "socially useful and personally satisfying lives," the NEA said. It listed tips for the teachers to follow in adapting their teaching toward the slower group:

- Find the "center of interest" of each child. Slow-learning children will work to their top capacity if they are properly motivated.
- Be definite in making assignments. Tell the children exactly what is wanted, and be sure they know how to go about doing it.
- Repeat often. Some degree of drill is necessary.
- Do not patronize the slow-learning child. "Like all children, slow learners can be very ornery about learning things at times. Respect their right to have good days and bad days."
- Experiment with teaching. Try different approaches. Take advantage of some of the child's skills to exploit areas he has not explored.
- Be sure the child feels successful. Help him to develop realistic goals and praise him when he achieves those goals.

The result, NEA said, will be an education tailored to the below-average learner, whose ability to learn has been slowed because of biological, psychological and cultural factors.

Campaign Button Making Big Job

NEW YORK (UPI)—Button, button, who's got the button isn't so much a riddle to Emanuel Rees, of New York.

He makes campaign buttons and he knows that most of the donkey buttons are being worn by Democrats and most of the elephant buttons are being worn by Republicans.

But in this current campaign, with all the switching from party to party, the fact isn't so plain to the casual observer.

"Frankly, I don't care who wins," said Rees, of Emress Specialty Company, a firm that makes its living sticking buttons on people who order them.

"The more a party buys, the more partisan I become," he added.

His firm turns out 50 to 40 million buttons during a presidential campaign year. Last year, they've added beagle buttons.

How's a button made? In case you ever wondered, here's how, said Rees.

The first step involves printing the message or picture over and over on large sheets of coated paper stock.

The stock, still in sheet form, is then laminated onto a transparent acetate sheeting such as Kodalene. The laminating process gives the buttons a smooth, almost cannelled-looking appearance.

After the laminating, individual buttons are clipped out of the sheet and the little discs are put into a machine that attaches each one to a circular metal backing. Finally, the pins are inserted by hand, and the buttons are ready for shipment to party stalwarts nationwide.

WINTER SUITS take on a gentle look this year. Orlon and nylon rayon tweed in gold-to-chamois has brown vertical stripes (left) in this Monte-Sano and Pruzzan suit. Side jacket closing, small collar and knife-pleated skirt are featured in the smart suit (right) designed by David Kidd for Arthur Jablow. Orlon and wool are combined in the brick-red, pepper and salt tweed. Stole is matching fabric and lined with white beaver.

dishes as hash brown potatoes or potato salad. The jackets help retain the nutrients.

When a chocolate stain is in a washable fabric, sponge or soak the spot in cool water, then wash with a synthetic detergent. If a brown stain remains after washing and rinsing, use a mild bleach. But first test the bleach on the hem or other inconspicuous place for colorfastness.

Take advantage of clothing sales only if what you can buy fits into your wardrobe plans.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Andes mountains of Peru, Ecuador and Bolivia were the first home of tomatoes. Botanists accept the theory that the region having greatest diversity of forms of a given plant is center of origin.

Four fruit forms of tomatoes known today were found growing there, used for food by the Indians, in the 16th century. These were small pear-shaped, cherry-shaped, tiny currant-shaped and a large round tomato, both red and yellow.

Strange Words

Strange words and strange thoughts... strange to the long accepted American way of thinking... have cropped into the current presidential political campaign.

Thinking Americans know and comprehend that moderate, middle-of-the-road procedures have brought these United States to its exalted place as the No. 1 nation of the world.

Yet there are those who would destroy, who seek to undermine, who would change our way of life. These are the "extremists" whether they be Right Wing, Left Wing, Communists, Fascists or go by some other name.

It has been our "moderate" leadership which gave us our great social reforms, not only to help the poor and the weak but also the strong.

Strange words have appeared in a couple of so-called "popular" books of our day, strange words which attack our President. Regardless of politics, he is our President and should be held in esteem and not subjected to vilification.

With this view, The Sanford Herald reprints verbatim a book review entitled "Spotted on the Extreme Right — Some Strangely Familiar Tactics," which appeared in the Oct. 11 edition of The Miami Herald. It follows:

THE STRANGE TACTICS OF EXTREMISM by Harry and Bonaro Overstreet. (Norton $4.50).

The present political campaign has coined some strange new words and extremism is one that the authors of WHAT WE MUST KNOW ABOUT COMMUNISM have started out to analyze. There have always been a left and a right in government, they explain, but essentially we are a nation of moderates so the extremes have never been dangerous. But we are about to shed our protective coloration in regard to the Radical Right.

"Let us not make the same mistake with extremism as we did with Communism and Nazism—which is not to recognize it," they say.

The John Birch Society which is extremism in its most graphic form, was founded in 1959. "Let us not throw away the information we gained about Communism, for the Society wears much the same costume. It, too, depends on a leader who can think in absolutes, overrules all complexities by translating them into pre-digested form. It, too, takes refuge in character assassination, spreading fear, hatred and suspicion. And all its activities are formed to get rid of something: government control of education, welfare programs, civil rights, religion, the income tax, the Supreme Court, Foreign Aid, Radio Free Europe, the Voice of America, the Peace Corps.

TRUE, the Radical Right approaches government from the opposite direction (from Communism) but it has much the same objective in compelling obedience. With chapters in 31 states it has attacked the character of General Eisenhower and demanded the impeachment of Earl Warren.

It persuades its followers that a totalitarian form of organization is stronger than a free one, substitutes over-simplified solutions to problems, and by use of its own special reading rooms, mass petitions, circulars and pamphlets manipulates the mind of the masses much as Communism attempts to do.

The Overstreet book makes no wild assertions—nor does it draw unwarranted conclusions. Each statement is pinpointed and documented, sometimes by references to Robert Welch's BLUE BOOK OF THE JOHN BIRCH SOCIETY or his other book THE POLITICIAN.

In 18 chapters, it compares the tactics of Communism with those of the society.

The right-wing extremist contends, for instance, that if it were not for treason and conspiracy in high places, we could—without entangling alliances or big defense systems—make things happen as they ought to happen all over the world.

Communism's advances would be stopped in its tracks, so runs their argument, if our government could be forced to stop underwriting Lenin's grand strategy. Say the authors:

"Welch says he is not advocating revolution, in any technical sense, yet what he stands for might be called psychological insurrection. In this period of grave national crisis he wants Americans to withdraw their trust from our duly constituted government and to re-invest it in a private, monolithic organization..."

We repeat: Strange words, indeed.

Phil Newsom Says . . .

Britain's Role Alters

LONDON— Slowly but surely changes are coming in the centuries-old social structure of Britain.

They are occurring under the impact of a post-war population explosion and the demands of expanding industry for more and better trained employes.

The problem is not alone Britain's and the steady expansion of British educational facilities is not unique. More unique is the system already far advanced by which Britain is moving both its people and industry out of crowded urban areas back to the land.

To one fresh from the United States where higher education is a fetish if not always an economic necessity, the expansion of educational facilities seems to follow a pattern still limited by tradition and to be inadequate to meet the need.

But what might well be emulated is the system of new towns, planned from the laying of the first brick to the last lease granted to a merchant in the "shopping center."

The expansion of British education has seen since 1945 the construction of more than 6,000 new secondary schools. Legislation in 1958-59 provided for seven new universities to be added to Britain's existing 25, including Oxford and Cambridge.

But compared to the vast educational plants springing up across the United States, the expansion remains limited. Enrollment in each of the new universities to be limited to a planned 8,444 and some will be smaller.

Subject of heated debate in Britain's current general election campaign also is the system of secondary schools which early in life dictate whether a child shall or shall not have an opportunity for higher education.

This is based on what is called the "11 plus" examination. It determines whether at the age of about 11 a child shall be allowed to proceed to so-called grammar school with higher educational standards or whether he goes to secondary modern. Grammar school means that he will have a chance at higher education. Secondary modern almost automatically means that he will not, thus at the age of 11 limiting both his place in society and in industry.

And, while there can be little argument about the high standards of British higher learning, the eliminating process of the "11 plus" examination actually means that in a population of about 45 million, less than one per cent actually will receive it.

WASHINGTON (NEA)— In the background of the debate over what controls should be exercised over tactical nuclear weapons lies one hard fact:

In the opinion of high-placed military men the United States has modernized its military forces so completely that we are no longer adequately set up to fight a war against a major enemy (the Soviet Union) without the use of nuclear weapons.

We don't have the stockpiles of conventional bombs. We don't have the weapons on naval ships. We don't have sufficient antisubmarine warfare weapons. The new antisatellite weapons are effective today only if they use nuclear warheads. The anti-air systems are nuclear.

The U. S. military forces have or are developing the arms and equipment, firepower and logistics for nuclear wars and guerrilla wars. But we are a long way back in the development of the needed modern weapons and ammunition in the quantities needed for conventional wars.

Specifically:

1. Missiles have largely replaced conventional guns on cruisers and destroyers. As an admiral put it to me privately "I'd be caught naked if I was ordered to fight a naval engagement without using nuclear weapons. I wouldn't have what it takes to fight with. My ships don't even have enough conventional ammunition."
2. The Air Force would not have the conventional iron bombs in the quantities that would be needed for fighting a major enemy. They're not stockpiled overseas in Europe or Asia or even in the United States in sufficient numbers. Tests have been run with B-47s and B-52s to determine how these planes would operate with iron bombs (non-nuclear bombs). They do work. But the damage that would be done by the conventional bombs carried by these planes would not be worth the number of planes that would be lost on important missions.
3. The United States and its NATO allies could not hold Europe against the Soviet conventional forces without the use of nuclear weapons. The U. S. Army's strategy, tactics, weapons, equipment and ammunition are geared overall to a nuclear strategy.

There has been considerable talk about making the Army, Navy and Air Force dual-powered, able to operate with or without atomic weapons in battle against a strong foe. But as of today, and for the foreseeable future, as U. S. military men see it, the U. S. forces have a rounded war capability against a major foe only if they use nuclear weapons.

From what can be learned, this is not nearly so true of Soviet armies.

Dr. Crane's

Worry Clinic

Anita offers a very challenging idea that should spread. Dr. Glenn Frank, former president of the University of Wisconsin, said that teachers and clergymen should consider themselves as salesmen of ideas. And their "customers" are students or parishioners. So start a "summer poll" each year on every campus!

CASE U-408: Anita X., aged 19, is a DePauw coed. "Dr. Crane," she began, "we have a custom at DePauw of rating the faculty. 'For we try to select the Teacher of the Year.' 'Don't you think this plan should be adopted by all colleges?'

"For many professors who have the most degrees behind their names are not always the best teachers. 'Indeed, I have found that two of my best teachers are younger men not over 30 to 35 years of age. 'But their youth makes them sympathetic with us students for they can present their material in a more interesting manner. 'Even their jokes are more nearly adapted to our generation, too.'

Rate Your Prof. It is always a splendid idea for teachers to be rated. For this stimulates wholesome "free enterprise" competition and thus wakes up a number of the moonbeams. Otherwise, they'd coast on their memorized lectures that may not have been modernized for 20 years. Even their jokes are corny and stale, or fitted to a previous generation. For example, the head of a department at Northwestern University when I was a student there following World War I, would always refer to the boys on the village green! He hadn't left the Revolutionary War period! Naturally, his lectures were boring. And he looked at the ceiling as he spoke, so he never made eye-contact with the audience. Because we had no annual contest for the best 'Teacher of the Year,' he was complacent and parroted the very same moth-eaten lectures he'd used when he first began teaching 30 years earlier. 'But many professors object to letting students rate them,' you may protest. 'They say college youth are not old enough to know how to evaluate teaching ability.' That's largely malarky. It is the weak defense of a scared faculty who don't want to get into gear and improve their brand of classroom oratory. Most of the college professors would score 25 per cent or more in rating if they'd just enroll in a Dale Carnegie or similar sterling class in public speaking. Although professors (and many clergymen) are paid primarily for oratory, far too many of them are very inept at public speaking, partly because they have a captive audience!

In fact, the usual high school debater is superior to the average college professor as a public speaker. This is not exaggeration! College youth, who are close to 20 years old and with superior I.Q., plus a cultural background, certainly can tell whether a professor is lazy and a poor speaker. They also know if he ignores flagrant cheating on exams. And if he lacks the salesman's enthusiasm for "selling" students on his field of knowledge.

All good teachers MUST be star salesmen of ideas! So send for my "Test for Good Teachers," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents. Rate all your teachers thereon! (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

When the tinsel is cut away, Mr. Johnson's appeal for voting support can be correlated with the Fathers' advice to his son, "behave or I'll take away your little red wagon." The theory of reward and punishment is sound and unless there is a drastic change in public thinking, it will put the greatest Robin Hood of all time in the White House.

Brezhnev Pledges Peace, Better Life For People

Coexistence Tops Talks

MOSCOW (UPI)—New Soviet Communist party chief Leonid L. Brezhnev declared today the new Kremlin regime will follow a policy of peaceful coexistence with the West and unity in the Communist world.

Brezhnev made his first public speech since the ouster of Nikita S. Khrushchev in a Red Square ceremony honoring Russia's three "space bus" cosmonauts.

The Communist party chief said the new Soviet regime will wage a "tireless struggle for peace, for friendship and cooperation between nations, for the further relaxation of internal tension."

"And if the governments of other states, for their part, display a striving for peace, if the sovereign right of every nation, big and small, to settle its destiny itself is observed, then peaceful labor and progress will be assured."

Brezhnev, who took over power from Khrushchev jointly with new Premier Alexei Kosygin, said the new Kremlin rulers wanted to make the Soviet people happy.

Taking Khrushchev's old place atop Lenin's tomb in a jammed Red Square rally, Brezhnev said: "Our main task . . . is the well being of the people. The party wants the Soviet people to live better from year to year."

Brezhnev and Premier Kosygin, made their public debut at the rally with a hug-and-kiss welcome for Russia's three cosmonaut heroes.

The new party leader also promised the new leadership would strive to heal the split in the world's Communist ranks, torn by a bitter conflict between the Soviet and the Communist Chinese camps.

He said the Soviet Communist party "will strive for this consolidation of the unity of the great community of fraternal socialist countries on a fully equal footing."

Khrushchev was no where to be seen in the official greeting party for the space-men. Last Monday, before his dismissal, he had promised there would be a Moscow welcome "greater than the force of gravity."

Smear Tactics Against Barry Worst Ever, Knowland Declares

By Jane Casselberry
Smear tactics used by the opposition against Barry Goldwater in this presidential campaign are the worst in his memory, Former Senator William Knowland of California declared Saturday in a speech before 500 enthusiastic persons at a Goldwater for President rally in Seminole Plaza.

The former Senate Majority Leader, publisher of the Oakland Tribune, is stamping the country in behalf of the Republican presidential candidate. His appearance here was sponsored by the Sanford and Altamonte Springs Citizens for Goldwater Groups and the Seminole County Young Republican Club and he was introduced by Major General Albert F. Hegenberger of Bear Gulch Lake.

The rally here followed his appearance in Orlando and a motorcycle to Sanford.

Knowland predicted that the key to the election would be the South and together with the West and Midwest it would prove a winning combination to give Goldwater the victory.

Decrying the techniques used by the opposition in this campaign, he declared that Goldwater has been more disquieted and taken out of context than any other candidate in his memory.

He said that Goldwater is for making the Social Security System more secure by making sure the dollars paid in now will be worth the same when you need them later, not abolishing it as so recklessly claimed by his opponents.

Applause greeted his statement that it is time for talk of civil responsibilities along with civil rights.

The foreign policy of the democratic administration throughout the past four years came in for a large share of criticism along with the massive concentration of power in the office of president.

"There is no problem we as a people cannot solve if the freedom of choice is left to us and no foreign foe we must fear."

E. Pope Bassett, candidate for county commissioner, served as master of ceremonies introducing the other Republican candidates and their wives on the platform and officials of the Goldwater Groups.

The invocation was given by Rev. Ray Woody of the Mailand Presbyterian Church.

Plans for the rally were completed by Mrs. Evelyn MacDonald, county canvassing chairman, and music was provided by the Tradewinds, local folk singing group.

Wilson Secretary To Talk With Rusk

LONDON (UPI)—Britain's new Foreign Secretary Patrick Gordon Walker will fly to Washington next week for talks with U. S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk, the government announced today.

The Foreign Office said Gordon Walker would be in Washington Monday and Tuesday. The visit was at Rusk's invitation, it said.

The official announcement said the meeting's purpose would be "to give the two foreign secretaries an early opportunity to review matters of mutual concern and to make arrangements for the continuing consultation which has been traditional between the two countries."

President Johnson already has asked the new Labor party prime minister, Harold Wilson, to visit Washington after the American elections Nov. 3.

The announcement of Gordon Walker's visit to Washington came shortly after he called in U. S. ambassador to London David Bruce in their hastily arranged meeting, the new government stated in "anxiety to maintain the Anglo-American alliance."

Bruce was the first ambassador asked to see Gordon Walker, who took office last Friday.

Villages Raided, Viet Cong Says

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI)—Communist North Viet Nam has alleged that "U. S. fighter-bombers" strafed and bombed Red villages in the demilitarized zone between North and South Viet Nam.

Radio Hanoi claimed the air raid occurred Friday and Saturday. The broadcast alleged loss of lives and property damage.

The Communist statement said the planes came from Laos and South Viet Nam. The statement, however, did not say the air strikes were made by planes of the U. S. Air Force or by planes piloted by Americans.

Hoover Hangs On But Is Weaker

NEW YORK (UPI)—Former President Herbert Clark Hoover hung tenaciously to life today but his doctors said the outlook was "grave."

The 90-year-old 31st president of the United States slipped nearer to death and entered a state of "unresponsiveness," his physicians said.

A 10:30 a. m. EDT medical bulletin said Hoover had a comfortable night and his blood pressure, pulse and heart rate were stable. It said the gastro-intestinal bleeding had stopped but that the loss of blood from the massive hemorrhage he suffered last Saturday had resulted in toxic products in Hoover's bloodstream.

Sign Test Ban Treaty, LBJ Asks China

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson, warning that the United States will protect other nations from "nuclear blackmail," has called on Red China to sign the nuclear test ban treaty.

The President issued the warning in a televised address to the nation Sunday night on world developments. He called in congressional leaders of both parties today for a more detailed briefing.

The meeting with Senate and House leaders was arranged to discuss the rise of Red China as the world's fifth nuclear power, and the fall of Nikita Khrushchev in the Soviet government shakedown.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, who is not a member of the regular congressional group, was not included in the meeting. However, White House aides said the information could be made available to the GOP presidential candidate if he requested it.

In his report to the nation Sunday night from the White House, Johnson urged "steady vigilance" in the face of the upheavals in the Communist world.

The President called on the Chinese to join in the nuclear test ban treaty and help prevent "nuclear spread." He offered to join Russia's new leaders in the one "great objective: The prevention of nuclear war."

Then obviously aiming his remark directly at Red China, he said: "The nations that do not seek national nuclear weapons can be sure that if they need our strong support against some threat of nuclear blackmail, they will have it."

Johnson plans to meet with his cabinet Tuesday, and remain in touch with top foreign policy advisers in the continuing assessment of last week's dramatic events in the two major Communist nations.

State Officials Praise Roberts

High ranking Florida government officials today applauded the appointment of Dr. W. Vincent Roberts as Seminole County campaign chairman for President Johnson.

In a personal telegram to Dr. Roberts, the officials declared they saw "with your leadership" and those of the other 66 counties "Florida will be in the Democratic column in November."

The telegram was signed by Gov. Farris Bryant, J. Edwin Larson, state treasurer; Tom Adams, secretary of state; Ray Green, comptroller; Doyle Conner, commissioner of agriculture; Jimmy Kynes, attorney general; and Tom Bailey, superintendent of public instruction.

The telegram reads: "Congratulations upon your appointment as Seminole County campaign chairman for President Johnson. We are confident that with your leadership, and under the leadership of campaign managers in our other 66 counties that Florida will be in the Democratic column in November."

John Kridler's comments on the Deltona-Florida Development Commission-Proctor & Gamble tourist promotion program for this winter: "Unbelievable."

As you know, Deltona has put up five houses as prizes in a giant contest arranged by P & G; one which will hit virtually every home, almost every person in the nation, time and time again.

It's the advertising coup of the century. Like the Seminole County Chamber executive director says: "Unbelievable."

Earlier last Thursday, Kridler attended the grand opening ceremonies of Ellnor Motor Company. And ran into an oldtime friend in Bob Norris, now public relations director for Brundage Motors Inc., Jacksonville. They knew each other when John was playing ball for Macon, Ga., way back when.

One insisted it was so many years ago; the other insisted it wasn't quite that long. Appears one wanted to be truthful about his age; not the other. We won't say which.

That traffic light at 25th and French gave motorists fits for a couple days last week. Seems one of the "trippers" wouldn't trip the light and it hung on red until cars arrived from the other direction and set the mechanism in motion. Motorists inched across the intersection with the red light glaring, but there was nothing else they could do.

The Barracks will meet this Friday night at the American Legion Home off Highway 17-92 instead of the following Friday since the Legion will have its annual fair, according to Barracks Commander George R. Bashara.

Bashara also tells a Clock Winder about a former co-worker of his with International Harvester in Fort Wayne, Ind. He's Richard F. Carr and he has just donated his 72nd pint of blood. That's nine gallons of blood or six times as much as he has in his body. Some record, eh?

Something else needs to be cleared also. There is no epidemic of scarlet fever in Sanford and Seminole County. We checked today with Dr. Frank Leone, chief of the Seminole County Health Department. As of this morning, Dr. Leone says there are four cases on record—two children from one school and two from another. "Normally," he says, "we have about a half dozen cases on record the year 'round."

By the way, Dr. Leone says we shouldn't become too concerned about scarlet fever. "Today," he says, "scarlet fever can be rendered non-infectious with antibiotics in about 24 hours."

Mrs. Raymond Schaal's dog was barking unusually loud the other evening. She went into the yard to check and discovered a huge rattler under her dining room window. A neighbor came to help but could not find the reptile. The following morning the snake, with 19 rattles and a button, was found sunning 'tself right there by that window. Water is still high and authorities say, "Watch out for the snakes."

Mrs. Edwin Lundquist, who resides on Lake Markham Road, has an edition of Harpers Weekly dated May 11, 1930. It belonged to her father. She says she'd like to give it to some persons who collect things of this nature.

Soviet Staff Chief Dies In Air Crash

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (UPI)—Marshal Sergey Biryuzov, Russia's highest military officer, and 17 others were killed today when a Soviet Ilyushin 18 airliner crashed into a mountain as it was preparing to come for a landing.

There were no survivors. Biryuzov, 60, was chief of staff of the Soviet armed forces and first deputy minister of defense. He was also a member of the Central Committee of the Communist party and holder of the "Hero of the Soviet Union" medal.

He was leading a delegation to ceremonies marking the 20th anniversary of Belgrade's liberation from the Nazis. All other passengers aboard were veterans of that campaign.

The news agency said the airliner smashed into 1,700-foot Mount Avana about half way from the top shortly before noon (7 a. m. EDT). The mountain is 10 miles east of Belgrade.

Salvation Army Cites UF Role

The Salvation Army, adapting its multiple services to the needs of Seminole County, is quietly and efficiently filling its role to those in need who are reaching out for a helping hand. This is extended help to the ones whose human wants can be supplied by no other agency and those seeking spiritual guidance.

Its annual report for 1963 gives the bare statistics of these activities. Capt. Harry S. Foden, corps officer and commanding in Seminole County, said, "The needs for service are increasing and that full support by residents of the 1961 Seminole County United Fund drive—now in progress—would help the SA in meeting this demand."

In 1963 the Salvation Army in its "Heart to God" program conducted 272 adult meetings with 4,235 in attendance; 371 youth meetings with 5,275 attendance; 24 visits to institutions with 490 visited.

Its 1963 "Hand to Man" program included 147 grocery orders given, 23,214 garments given; 114 pairs of shoes given; 14 lodgings supplied; 275 meals supplied; 238 transients were assisted; 77 transient women and children were assisted; 115 seasonal grocery orders were given; 533 toys and gifts given and 510 summer-beds-sent-to-need-homes and institutions.

In submitting this report Captain Foden said: "We are grateful to the citizens of the community who have made our work possible through their gifts direct or through the United Fund. You have had a part in helping the Army serve others."
