Adopts Bill For Opening Dry Law

BRUSSELS, May 6.—By 91 to 70 the Belgian Chamber adopted the bill providing for the opening of the liquor market since the armistice which was the result of the World War. The revision proposal aimed at establishing full freedom of alcohol sales. It was sponsored by the Belgian National Federation of Hotel and Restaurant Keepers, a powerful group which in a country of 7,000,000 inhabitants controls 1,000 hotels, restaurants and refreshment houses where drinks of all kinds are obtainable. The 1918 law deprived these establishments of the right to sell their premises any alcoholic drinks except beer and wine. The sale of other alcoholic beverages

CORN—The Housewife's Stand-By

To the housewife who hurries home late after shopping, bridge or tea, the sight of a can or two of corn repeating upon the pantry shelf is distinctly reassuring. Here is something which can be gotten ready in a jiffy—something substantial and pretty certain to appeal to the two or the half-dozen tastes which she has to consider.

If corn simply prepared is delicious, what is to be said of the delightful dishes which can be concocted with it when one has a few moments to spare—take for instance

Corn Fritters on Pineapple Slices

Add two well-beaten egg yolks to two cups canned corn. Stir together one cup flour and one-half teaspoon baking powder, and add. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Fold in the two egg whites, stiffly-beaten. Drop by spoonfuls in hot fat in skillet, fry on both sides until a rich brown; or fry in deep fat in a kettle.

Heat drain one No. 2½ can pineapple, and dip slices in flour, then sauté in a skillet in butter until brown. Serve the fritters on the pineapple slices, and pass the following sauce:

Sauce: Mix four tablespoons sugar with two teaspoons cornstarch, and add the pineapple syrup with two tablespoons lemon juice, four cloves, and an inch stick of cinnamon. Boil till thickened. Remove cloves and cinnamon. Serves eight.

Garden Enthusiast Is Arrested For Trap Used Against Marauding Cats

NEW YORK, May 6.—Barrie Di Nucci, who rigged an electrical trap for cats which dug up the onions and radishes in his backyard at 1448 Gates Avenue, Brooklyn, will be arraigned in the Gates Avenue police court, Brooklyn, on a charge of cruelty to animals.

Mr. Di Nucci does not dislike cats, but he has a passion for gardening. When he and his sister, Mrs. Lily Marton, took over the shop and flat at 1448 Gates Avenue and stocked the store with religious articles last fall, Mr. Di Nucci started work at once on the backyard, which was heaped with discarded furniture and other junk.

By early spring he had it cleaned out and spaded up. He planted radishes, onions, carrots, cauliflowers and a dahlia and scathed them affectionately. Then came a plague of cats. They assembled nightly in Mr. Di Nucci's neat little garden plot and scratched up the radishes, the onions, the carrots, the cauliflowers and the dahlia with callous impartiality. Every morning Mr. Di Nucci tore his hair and repainted his garden. He told his friends to his friends and one of them, an electrician, told Mr. Di Nucci how to fix up a contraption that would cure cats of wrecking gardens.

Following his friend's instructions, Mr. Di Nucci ran wires from an electric socket in the kitchen of his home to a board which he placed in his garden with some fish bones on it. The fish bones were under the wires, and Mr. Di Nucci's friend assured him that any cat that tampered with a fish bone carrying 110 volts would go away from there and never come back.

The contrivance worked. Mr. Di Nucci's garden began to flourish, and then some of the neighbors complained to the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. They said that one cat had been killed, that many had become nervous wrecks and that the safety of children was threatened. Agents for the society investigated, found the trap and arrested Mr. Di Nucci. His sister was panic-stricken, not alone at the thought of his arrest, but in fear that an erroneous impression might get abroad concerning him.

"We have never been in court before," she wailed. "What will they do to him? We should like to have people think we don't like animals."

"My brother is very religious. He would never kill cats. Bark in Rome, where he was a ship's engineer, he had four large dogs. Even here we have a black cat, but she stays in the cellar and never goes near our garden."

William H. Bronte, manager of the Brooklyn branch of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, said he hoped that the court would make an example of Mr. Di Nucci.

GOVERNOR GIVES REPORT ON STATE FINANCE STATUS

Tells Of Economies That Have Been Effected In Operation

TALLAHASSEE, May 6.—(A.P.)—Governor Carlton today gave his report on the state's financial program that they may apply parts of the program to their own state financial problems. Gov. Doyle E. Carlton revealed here recently.

Requests for copies of Florida tax law, financial statements and legislative record, including copies of Governor Carlton's messages to the 1931 Florida Legislature, were received by Governor Carlton while he was attending the annual governors' convention in Richmond, Va., recently.

Florida's financial set-up and its efforts to keep operating expenses within budget limits while at the same time meeting all fixed obligations were discussed in some detail at one of the sessions of the conference, he added.

The chief executive's remarks were made in a session with a prepared statement on state finances which he issued here Wednesday. The statement in full:

"I am sure that no state government has made more substantial progress in meeting its financial difficulties than Florida.

"We have in the past three years cut our expenses for state purposes one-third. While the Federal Government is now $100,000,000 in debt, we have been able to meet our bills, some having accumulated deficits as high as fifteen and eighteen million dollars. Florida has a larger per capita income than any state, but our current obligations, balance of our current budget, and over $200,000,000 in past due debt in the road department and in steadily carrying on in a sane and constructive fashion.

"I find that relief of the general property tax is the problem of every state. Florida's unique progress in this direction is the first place in tax history. It has been reduced from $200,000,000 in 1926 to the present assessment of a little over $200,000,000. This is a reduction of one-third. Instead of raising assessments, therefore, that the millage might appear lower, assessments have been cut.

"At the same time with the lowering of assessments, we have reduced the state millage to 4.5, the lowest in the memory of most of the taxpayers. It is frequently represented for political purposes, of course, that the present state millage is 11, whereas in fact it is only 4.5, a full one-third the amount represented.

"This expenditure for state purposes for this year, according to the state auditor's latest figures, will be $15,200,000 as against $22,612,517 in 1925. These figures, of course, do not include moneys returned to the counties to help carry on the common schools and to help the taxpayer meet local road debts and county burdens. These are county and not state purposes.

"It does include $6,000,000 expended during the current year for road construction and maintenance and also large amounts procured to be paid to the counties, such as extension of Circuit Courts, Criminal Courts, grand juries, etc. It is the support of the in debt in the state, and all other expenses that are state purposes, only a small part of the state's direct expenses of the state.

due to the fact that in the state comptroller's and state treasurer's reports many items in the state's normal conditions. It is very interesting to observe the conditions in Florida throughout the nation and the absolute faith in her future."

"It is generally believed by our leaders and will be recognized here when the people of a brain battles has cleared that Florida has adopted a most constructive readjustment program and will be in the normal conditions. It is very interesting to observe the conditions in Florida throughout the nation and the absolute faith in her future."
