Tax On Office Machines Gets Tentative Okey

Optical Instruments Except Eyeglasses Marked For Levy To Help Defense

WASHINGTON, July 1.—(AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee voted tentatively today to recommend excise taxes on slot machines, office and store machines, and optical instruments other than eyeglasses, in an effort to raise $3,500,000,000 additional revenue to finance the defense program.

The proposed levies would raise $72,500,000 as part of the defense tax program. It was estimated Chairman Doughton, of North Carolina, said several other tax proposals, including one cent a bottle on soft drinks, would be considered later.

In addition to the use tax on automobiles, which would yield about $160,000,000, the committee voted tentatively in favor of doubling the present 3.24 percent levy on the sale price of new automobiles and passenger trailers. This, it was estimated, would produce about $79,000,000.

Among the larger permits issued during the month were: a permit to build a house at 1128 and 1130 Southward, to build a fruit packing house at Twelfth Street and French Avenue at a cost of $2,000; to Rounell and Anderson's Drug Store, to remodel the building at a cost of about $1750; to Clifton Hurst, to build a house at Pine Avenue and Colery Avenue at $800; to Dr. H. Postal receipts during June, 1941, amounted to $3,377,46, according to the figures for June, 1940, which was $2,188,74.

Sales of United States defense bonds in June amounted to $8,793,75, and defense stamps sold totaled $285, Mr. Holly said.

Three building permits were issued at the City Hall yesterday afternoon to Arthur Graham, W. O. Stansell and Charlotte Huff.

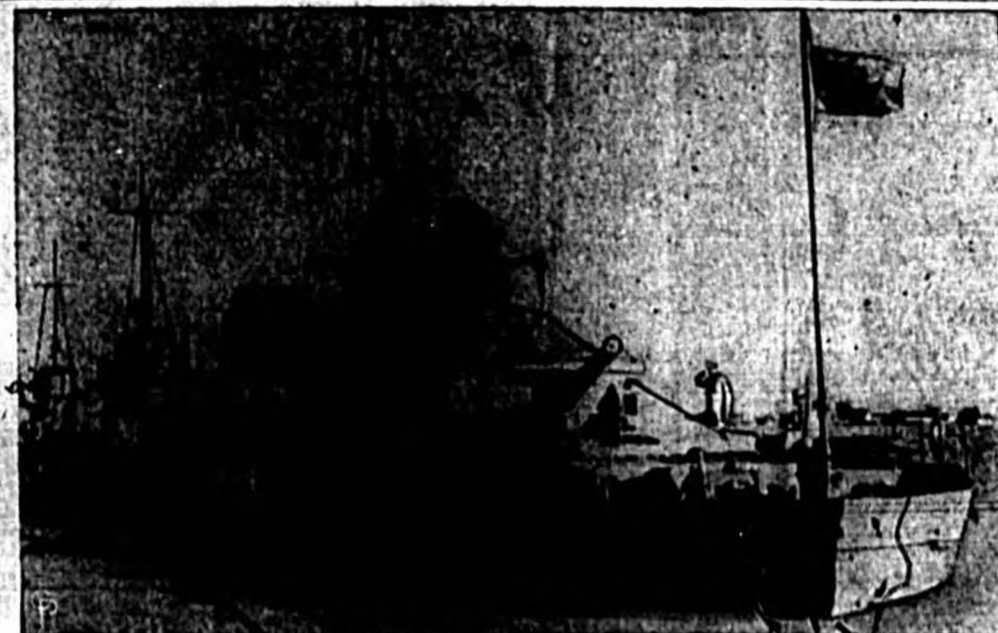

Mr. Graham was issued a permit to construct a porch and two rooms on a building at Seventeenth Street and Oleander Avenue at a cost of $125, while Mr. Stansell was issued a permit to erect a building on Park Avenue, between Twelfth and Thirteenth Streets at a cost of $10 and Charlotte Huff was issued a permit to do general repair work on a building on Eighth and Ninth Streets, at a cost of $5, while J. ## Road Project Is Again Presented To State Heads Projects to improve roads in Seminole County and pave the missing link in Road 44 were again presented to members of the State Road Department at a district meeting in Lakeland yesterday by Ernest F. Housholder, state and county attorney.

Mr. Housholder was accompanied to the meeting by F. A. Dyson, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Edward Higgins, secretary of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, and John G. Leonard, representative in the 1941 Legislature.

"Upon our arrival in Lakeland," Mr. Housholder said today, "we found that Nixon Butt, the representative in the road department from this district, was absent because of illness, and that J. B. Dowling, chief engineer, also was absent."

"In behalf of this county, however, I presented to members of the department the importance and necessity of paving Road 44, and also continuing the right-of-way work on Road 203 from Oviedo to Chuhota," Mr. Housholder stated.

"The road department was also asked to rebuild or take over the had stretch south of Park Avenue," he added.

"While the group made no commitments, the importance of the projects was thoroughly discussed. It was indicated that the department is expecting to receive through legislation recommended in Congress, a large sum for constructing national defense roads," Mr. Housholder said.

The road department will get an additional amount as a result of new legislation, and it has hopes that it can begin soon to work on the smaller connecting links so badly needed in our highway system."

Gayda Charges Knox's Speech Is Belligerent

Talk Said To Prove U. S. Intends To Join War Against Germany And Italy

Aid To England Called Too Late

Axis To Tackle This Nation When Free, Spokesman Asserts

ROME, July 1.—(AP)—Virginio Gayda, Fascist editorial spokesman, asserted today Secretary Knox's speech advocating immediate use of the United States Navy to clear the Atlantic showed that "the bellicose Washington government intends to enter, of its own initiative, the conflict against the Axis powers."

Gayda reiterated the Axis belief that American help to Britain would be too little and too late, adding that with the defeat of Russia, both Germany and Japan would be free to tackle America.

Secretary Knox declared flatly last night that "the time to use our Navy to clear the Atlantic of the German menace is at hand."

"Now is the time to strike," he asserted in an address at the thirty-third annual conference of governors of the United States.

Contending that Russia could hold Germany's war machine for "vital months" in this crucial year, Knox said that "for the first time since Hitler loosed the dogs of war on the world, we are provided with a God-given chance to determine the outcome of this world-wide struggle."

"Now is the time to put in motion the huge machine we have been building since the war began," he continued. "We can insure, beyond a shadow of a doubt, the defeat of that pagan force, and insure a victory for a Christian Civilization."

"I would be derelict, if I did not add that in this inevitable risk and danger, it may involve sacrifice to the extreme.

"America must wake up, not alone to its dangers—and the dangers are real and fearsome, but to the realities of the sacrifice demanded. We must if we are to match with American tears, American toil, American sweat and American blood, the tears, the sweat and the blood which Britain has gallantly spent to hold in check the devastating spread of Nazi power throughout the civilized world."

Speaking a few hours after President Roosevelt, in a message to the governors' conference, asserted that "the days ahead are going to test our energy, our industry, our courage, our resolve, our faith, our determination, and our will."

"The road department was also asked to rebuild or take over the had stretch south of Park Avenue," he added.

"While the group made no commitments, the importance of the projects was thoroughly discussed. It was indicated that the department is expecting to receive through legislation recommended in Congress, a large sum for constructing national defense roads," Mr. Housholder said.

The road department will get an additional amount as a result of new legislation, and it has hopes that it can begin soon to work on the smaller connecting links so badly needed in our highway system."

OLD GREY CAT

(From The Washington Post)

The old gray cat has moon-strange eyes.

He is night-knowing and reserved.

When darkness blacks out waning light,

The old gray cat knows no such night.

Hid eyes are full moons to the time;

A soft gray world it is to him.

Gray shadows glide like shapes of dreams,

He stiffens, springs. A reedy scream.

Breaks quiet where a wraith has lain,

And quiet closes in again.

The old gray cat has moons for eyes,

He sees at night. Though fierceness lies

In his tamed heart, a fleet caress

Will brim his eyes with gentleness.

Taxes And Re-Armament

Having passed appropriation bills totalling some 40 billion dollars since January, a good portion of it for defense efforts, Congress has reached the end of the fiscal year with a long tentative list of new or increased excise taxes which will hit the pocketbook of the average man. These include levies on such items as automobiles, transportation, telephone bills, candy, jewelry, watches, clocks, radios, phonographs and records, refrigerators, matches and musical instruments, and a host of other things.

The great majority of the people of this country will not object to digging down into their pockets to pay these additional taxes, if by such action they feel they are contributing to the security of the United States, a security which can be attained only by the defeat of Hitler and his gang of bandits.

That this willingness to pay will exist so long as our re-armament campaign continues to show signs of reaching fruition, goes without saying, and it is interesting to note, therefore, how much has been accomplished during the past year in the stupendous job of getting this country prepared for its own defense and for aid to Britain.

The picture is an encouraging one, for, despite strikes, industrial dislocations, bottle necks, shortages, and many other handicaps which have retarded our re-armament to re-arm, unbelievable progress has been made. The July-August issue of the semi-official "Army Ordnance" reports light tank construction at the rate of 150 a month, with six times as many on hand today than a year ago. Medium tank construction is expected to get into mass production by late summer after redesigning to take advantage of the experience of the British and French in the battle of Flanders and after purposeful delay to give priority to more critically needed military weapons.

As to airplanes, the present rate is running nearly three times ahead of last year with a monthly total of approximately 1,500 planes, and with plans and plant expansions being made so fast it is difficult to speculate on what the number of planes produced during the next 12 months will be, but it is safe to say with the prodigious efforts being made, the output during the next year will reach proportions staggering the imagination.

In the field of warship construction, with its necessarily long and tedious preparation, no spectacular total of ships built can be announced. But in the matter of work ahead of schedule the navy's construction program has set a record which should be the envy of other industries. Practically all of the navy's construction work is going on a blistering pace and, already in the last few months two battleships have been launched and commissioned from five to seven months ahead of schedule, and progress on other ships on the ways indicate that greater economy of time will be made in the future. It is believed that as much as a year will be lopped off the usual time required to build our projected battleships.

As long as the government can show its taxpayers that great things are being accomplished with the money they are paying out, it need not worry about the popularity of its new taxes. What we all want is speed and more speed in the one big task of blocking Hitlerism. The cost in terms of money is of secondary importance.

Mr. Fish's Questionnaire

We take off our hats to our fellow craftsman with whom we so often disagree, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, for showing up her Congressman, the Hon. Hamilton Fish, Mr. Fish, it may be remembered, announced a few weeks ago that he was going to conduct a postcard poll in his district about America and the war. In view of Mr. Fish's well known views as an isolationist, the implication was that the poll would show a resuit overwhelmingly against going to war. Last Thursday he announced proudly that the returns to date were 9 to 1 against war.

And small wonder, in view of the phrasing of the questionnaire as reported by Mrs. Roosevelt. It read: The United States should: Enter the war— Stay out of the war—

Each recipient was expected to place a check mark after one or other of these statements. Who among us but would prefer to have the United States stay out of the war—if that was the choice before us? As Mrs. Roosevelt rightly remarks, the people of Norway, Holland, Belgium, Poland, France and Great Britain also would have liked to stay out of the war. But war was forced upon them in such a manner that they had no choice.

Like so many other isolationists, Mr. Fish persists in closing his eyes to the one point in issue. The question is not whether we should like to stay out of war, but whether it is or is not in our own interest to see Hitler and the forces of revolutionary reaction which he represents prevented from dominating a large part of the world. If the defeat of Hitler and Hitlerism is of importance to us, then common sense dictates that we do everything we possibly can to help those nations which are still fighting Hitler today.

To assume, as so many isolationists do, that Germany would never dare do anything against the interests of the United States, or that Hitler would sit by idly for a number of years while the United States built up a large enough defense establishment to make it difficult for him to expand in the Western Hemisphere, is to ignore everything that he has said and written and done. This is not a war for the domination of the Continent of Europe. It is a war for world domination waged by the most ruthless, most powerful and most successful military machine that the world has yet seen. Are we to believe that if that machine defeats Russia and conquers England it will be weaker and less efficient than it is now? -New York Herald-Tribune.

Death Of Senator Harrison Leaves Roosevelt Without Senate Liaison Man

By JACK STINNE
WASHINGTON, June 30. (AP) - The president has hung out a new sign. It reads: "Help Wanted - A liaison man in the Senate."

The death of kindly, soft-spoken and well-loved Senator Pat Harrison, president pro tem of the Senate, has further thinned the ranks of loyal senators that the Administration reportedly is getting a little frantic about what to do for leadership in the upper chamber.

It isn't that there aren't some men remaining who can be counted on to lend an ear to the right side of the main issue, but they are

SANFORD FORUM

The Editor

Dear Sir: It is my opinion that action should be taken by proper city authorities to stop the nuisance of unnecessary automobile horn blowing in Sanford.

Many people speed rapidly through the streets, blowing their horns just before reaching each street intersection. Too many other stop in front of homes and blow horns continuously until someone finally comes to the front door.

Several with siren horns toot them too often, for reasons best known to themselves, but to the annoyance of everyone having the misfortune to hear them. This bad nuisance of blowing your own horn can and should be stopped.

Very truly yours, Capt. Earle T. Loucks

A protective guard against tropical hurricanes thrown up along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts from Florida to Texas by the federal government, began its seventh year of operation last week. Twelve major weather bureau stations are linked by teletype in the area and will issue hurricane warnings and announce information of dangerous storms.

Checked a lot of extra in making himself the ace of good fellows with the men who look to him for recognition on the floor. Already he is just about kingpin of the gymnasium gang. He's a popular tennis partner with every senator who knows a set from deuce. And his luncheons, both formal and informal, they include from one to a score of the men with whom he works.

Just how much this means isn't clear yet, but those observers who say that it's hard to see any real change in the Senate are probably right.

Russians Claim Germans Halted In Two Sectors

Armies were tearing the defense apart from the Baltic coast to the Black Sea, asserted last night that advance forces had carried the main Nazi drive nearly half-way along the 450-mile-long road from Minsk to Moscow.

This, the most spectacular of the German thrusts, was declared to have been accomplished by motorized troops darting out far ahead of the main German bodies to a point just short of Smolensk, which is 200 miles east of Minsk and only some 250 miles from the Kremlin itself.

Of greater importance, however, were German claims that three large bodies of Russian troops—two armies in one instance—were encircled and facing capitulation or annihilation and that in the north the Soviet defense was so disordered and inept as to mean that for practical purposes there was no longer a real northern front.

Lupescu's Turban May Be Her Mark On U. S. Fashions

By JOHN WILDS
HAVANA, July 1.—(AP)—If Madame Lupescu asserts any influence on American women's fashions, it probably will be to popularize turbans.

Her favorite headpiece—an inexpensive white wrap-around turban—takes on a striking appearance, set off as it is by huge earrings and careful hair dress. She wears light sports clothes—well-fitted to Havana's torrid climate.

Madame Lupescu's flashing smile won a warm reception from the hundreds who witnessed her arrival at this Cuban refuge, but she may find Havana social circles less easy to conquer.

From in exile, it is questionable whether she will read a welcome sign on all floors to which she may be invited, former King Carol of Rumania.

Social leaders who would give her a cold shoulder might find themselves in an awkward position, however, if Carol decides to visit in an extensive once he and Madame Lupescu are settled in a suitable residence.

An invitation from royalty—even from a king who has lost his throne—still is to be coveted and bears some form of the name of a command.

Carol's bride, red-haired friend of many years shared, his first social engagement here—a luncheon in their hotel dining room with Capt. Jose Arce, son of the Cuban charge d'affaires at Lisbon, and Mrs. Arce.

But a day or so later when Carol went out to be the luncheon guest of the British minister, Sir George Ogilvie-Forbes, Madame Lupescu remained behind.

Work on the Alaskan base at Dutch Harbor, was started before the German army moved into Russia but its importance was emphasized by this latest turn of the war, which conceivably could extend the Nazi sweep through Siberia to the shores of the Pacific. The Dutch Harbor base presumably would afford a fueling station and limited repair facilities for patrolling naval vessels. In line with the Navy's policy of withholding details on the strength of the off-shore bases, however, Knox gave no details except to say that Commander William N. Updegraff of Portland, Ore., would be in charge.

Finally they were told by the commission that a decision would be held in abeyance until presentations of advertising agencies had been completed. Twelve agencies were to make one-hour presentations of their cases Monday and Wednesday. Commissioners originally planned to decide Monday whether one or two agencies would be employed to handle the million dollar account but members agreed, after hearing industry representative express opposing views, that they would have a better basis for their decision after receiving the agency presentations.

WESTERN NIGHT (From The Saturday Review of Literature)

The Joshua trees salute the arrogant moon, and coyotes split the cool night air with their cries, and a scorpion waits for the love death that comes very soon, while over the lowland an evil tranquility lies.

Here is a country where man has not flowered his way; here is a haunt where the bandits of bad lands rule, each killing each but each leaving others that slay; here is the savage heart's food, his evil blood's fuel;
here is the thing that is lovely and cruel.

It looks like Navy Secretary Frank Knox is about to be inspected for telling the truth.

The horse may be going out, but the Germans are said to be using them pretty extensively in Russia.

If we are having a shortage of aluminum in this country, imagine the trouble German airplane manufacturers are having.

Men of 28 years of age and over have just been told by the young as they think they are, which makes us boys up around 40 feel like Methuselah.

Italy says Uncle Sam should not stab Germany in the back while she is engaged with Russia. No, we should follow Italy's example in befriending France in a similarly critical emergency.

We had always thought an island was a body of land completely surrounded by water, but after considering Switzerland's position we have expanded that definition to include a body of land surrounded by Hitler.

Governor W. Lee O'Daniel of Jack Gurnett says that the new army air school is the biggest thing that ever happened in Berlin. With Sanford's new pletion, we should not be long in getting one of these air schools located here.

P. G. Wodehouse, English that life in a Nazi prison camp isn't half bad. As a reward for this amazing bit of information rious hotels in the world.

A valiant French foreign legion has been authorized by the Vichy government to fight against France's former ally Russia. The resurgence of the French fighting spirit under the aegis of Nazi Germany is amassing, especially in the light of what happened in Finland a little over a year ago.

The United States is sending messengers to the French, who are fighting their old ally the British in Spain and are planning to capture Spain, which is now being run by Great Britain.
The following tribute to Florida Chamber and Junior Chamber of Commerce was written by Harry French former New York manager of the Associated Press and outstanding American newsman.

The Real Danger

Isolationists criticizing Frank Knox, one of whom has gone so far as to demand the Navy Secretary's impachment for advocating an immediate attack on German submarines and surface raiders, base their opposition to this line of direct action on their trust and confidence in Hitler's promises. They would have this country believe him when he says that if we will just leave him alone until he has crushed Russia and subdued England, he will then respect the rights and independence of the nations of the Western Hemisphere.

Secretary Knox is certainly right that if we are ever going to war with Germany now is the time to do it. A little naval action on our part at this critical time would suffice to put the German navy completely out of action for good and all. The British and American navies combined have an overwhelming superiority over the German and Italian navies. There would be very little risk for this country in joining to sweep them completely from the seas. Then, however the war in Europe might go, we would have nothing to fear from invasion.

But if Germany is allowed to keep what navy she already has, plus what she will gain from the French and Italian navies, while we lose the British navy either through its destruction or its capture by the Germans, then an invasion of this country would by no means be impossible, or even difficult, because the Axis navies combined would be superior to our own, could wipe our own navy protecting our shores from the seas and effect a landing at any one of a thousand different points, bringing the war directly into our own backyards.

Colonel Lindbergh says that in asking us to attack Germany at this time interventionists are indeed proposing that "we should defend the Russian way of life." We should allow this one opportunity to make our nation absolutely impregnable against foreign attack slip through our fingers because the gorilla is struggling with the python and we don't like either one of them. During these few precious weeks or months that lie before us when we could do something we should stand dumbly by singularly awaiting our turn to be devoured. It would be un-gracious of us to slay the monster while its back is turned.

As to which is the deadlier enemy of mankind, there is no use to argue. The only dangerous enemy to us is Germany. Russia has been a neighbor of ours, only 25 miles across the Bering Sea for generations with no harm done. Russia has no navy, no way of acquiring one, and could not possibly afford any serious threat to this hemisphere, even if she wanted to and there is no reason to believe she wants to. Germany on the other hand is a live potential menace whose ultimate conflict with this nation is inevitable if she is not stopped beforehand.

As for communism, we will not have communism in this country unless the people want it. If Germany triumphs, drives our ships from the Seven Seas, destroys our foreign commerce, cuts the throats of our working men by slave labor abroad, sows among us the seeds of dis-sentiment, religious prejudices and class hatred through its propaganda machine, we may get communism; but we need never worry about that as long as our navy is winning victories in the Atlantic, our factories are turning out the instruments of defense, and our people continue to enjoy the highest standard of living in the world.

The soap box orators may talk until doomsday but the great majority of our people will continue to believe in democracy so long as it can protect them from the real dangers which threaten us throughout the world.

More Rigid Examinations

The health of the American people is better now than ever before in their history despite the much higher percentage of rejections for military service in the current draft than in 1917-1918. This is said to be due for the most part to more rigorous standards of selection and for this reason the rejection figures for the two war periods are not properly comparable.

"In 1917-1918 both the methods of selection and the organization of the draft were essentially emergency procedures, developed after we were already at war and committed to raising, arming, and transporting a huge army in the shortest possible time," says a bulletin from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. "This situation tended to discourage too rigid standards of selection. Yet, despite the immediate urgency of the situation in 1917-1918, approximately one-quarter of the draftees were rejected altogether and nearly one-third were unavailable for general military service.

"In contrast, administration of the present Selective Service Act was begun in peace time, and only the best and healthiest of America's young men are being selected for service. Greater emphasis than ever before is being placed on weeding out those men who are unlikely to withstand the mental as well as the physical stress of modern war. Moreover, medical examinations are more complete and accurate, owing to the better training of physicians, and to the improvement and wider use of physical and laboratory facilities for diagnosis."

To indicate the inadequacy of direct comparisons of the World War and current drafts as a means of determining the present health of American youths, several examples are cited:

Tuberculosis is today less often a cause of rejection than in 1917-1918, but the reduction amounts only to about 20 percent, whereas in the interval between the two drafts the mortality from the disease has decreased 80 percent among white males at all ages, and nearly 90 percent at the draft ages.

The huge increase in rejections for dental defects is unquestionably due to a difference in standards, or their application, although on the surface present standards do not appear to be more stringent than those used in the later months of the World War.

Heart disease, also, shows an apparent increase as a cause of rejection. Yet, in the age group which constitutes the bulk of the selectees, the most frequent cause of heart disease is rheumatic fever, the mortality from which has steadily fallen during the last two decades.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

It has been extremely interesting to review the comments of hundreds of editors, members of the National Editorial Association, as published in their pages upon their return from Florida.

The following tribute to Florida Chamber and Junior Chamber of Commerce was written by Harry French former New York
manager of the Associated Press
and outstanding American news-
man.

"MICKEY FINN" LAND

couldn't go everywhere, but the city Chamber of Commerce wasn't to be denied and this what they did, according to an out friend down there, who was naturally wondering why he was not brought up and wrote and asked how come?

"We didn't learn for sure," he explained, "but the tour was announced through Lakeland until about a half hour before you arrived. When word came that the route was through our city, the manager of the Chamber of Commerce got busy and in less than 15 minutes had 30 or 40 business men ready as a welcomeing committee."

"He got in touch with the city manager, who gave permission for the use of police cars and fire apparatus. A radio scout car was sent to meet the tour, and the fire chief got his boys and blocked the highway, assisted by two motorcycle officers.

Then business men stationed at intervals around Lake Mirror quickly boarded the buses to extend Lakeland's official greeting and distribute literature.

"We have a live Chamber of Commerce, as you saw. We try not to miss a bet. And when the Chamber of Commerce slips up we have the Junior Chamber of Commerce, 25000 members, as they are popularly known, always on the job."

"This booster for Lakeland, his adopted home, was a northerner all his life until two or three years ago when, like many other northerners, he retired and sought comfort in the Sunshine State. Although never in a position to be a civic booster, it evidently didn't take him long to imbibe the booster spirit."

Commenting on French's story which it republished, the Wakefield, Mass., Daily Item adds:
"The point we seek to make is that while Florida has beautifully, flowers and countless other attractions to sell in the winter, New England has summer comfort, scenery and citizens as well as officials along the tour route deeply impressed them. All pay high tribute to the Florida Highway Patrol for the splendid manner in which it served as escort. In numerous articles our Patrol, our being pointed out as enviable models to the people of other states.

Although over two months continues to receive page after page of marvelous publicity and one can ever estimate its value or predict its beneficial effects in stimulating interest and attracting home-seekers and investors to this state.

Kiwanians Hear Boys' State And Convention Talks

he had enjoyed the week's meeting of Boys' State as much as any week he had spent, and that he learned a great deal there; at the beginning of the week, the boys were divided into groups of "cities" and "counties," and elected officers to head these units. Later, these groups merged into the state unit, and the two parties nominated their candidates for governor of the convention.

Profit-Taking On Defense Works Out

WASHINGTON, July 2, 1941 —A "no gravy" policy for the $150,000,000 defense public works program was announced Tuesday by John M. Carmody, federal works administrator, as he set up operating machinery to start in building health, water, school and other essential facilities in communities facing phenomenal growth because of defense activity.

Warning against any profit from any source to drive private profit from the program, Carmody said "this money must go as far as possible. There is no gravy in it for any contractors, not for profit or the quick way to slow down a project will be to pay somebody a handsome fee."

a barbecue or picnic at Sandlot

Wanetta Rider And John Davis Are Wed

Miss Wanetta Rider, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Rider of Hagerstown, N. J., became the bride of John J. Davis, son of A. W. Davis of Geneva, on June 29 at 6:00 o'clock in the afternoon in the Geneva Methodist Church. The Rev. John Hager, pastor, performed the ceremony. Preceding the ceremony and while the guests assembled, a program of musical music was presented by Mrs. J. V. Toole and Miss Lillian Moran, pianists; Mrs. S. R. Wynn, soloist; Miss Jean Moran was maid of honor and only attendant of the bride. Frank Wheeler of Oveido served the bridegroom at best man.

The bride entered upon the arm of her father, Earl Rider, by whom she was given in marriage. She wore a street length dress of white crepe, with which she wore a white straw hat and carried white accessories. Her shoulder corsage was of sweet heart roses.

Immediately following the ceremony an informal reception for the bridal party and a few close friends of the couple was held at the home of the bridegroom's father, A. W. Davis.

Those attending the reception were: Mr. and Mrs. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Rider, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Oldham, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Brown, Mrs. J. V. Toole, Mrs. A. A. Moran, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Sieg, Mrs. Mitchell, Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Haver and Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Moran.

To Dress Or Not To Dress? - In Summer It Is Really No Question

By AMY PORTER

When you have a choice between dressing and not dressing of a summer evening, we hope your woman enough to choose to dress.

Long frothy dresses, belong to summertime and this summer they are particularly tempting. There is a dress for every degree of formality, for every degree of taste. There are smart ones at $5, and magnificent ones at as much as you want to pay.

Countryish and business frocks are styled in you can't possibly feel too dressed up in them, even if the man near business suits-gaughants made almost like sports frock except that their long skirts had enchantment dotted waists and laces with medical sleeves and no modest necklines. Frocks of the type we used to call dress and now call "foreign frock" and such dresses you buy for their gentle summery charm, without much thought about style.

But high style is abundantly available in more formal evening wear. The tapering look is making headway in long-sleeved dinner dresses. Huge sleeves, pleated or ruffled, and a bloused top make the narrow skirt look narrower. Slits to the knee are needed for walking room. This is the slim silhouette you heard talk of but seldom saw last winter. It is growing in importance and by next Fall probably will be accepted by everyone.

Blazing colors in rich fabrics will be seen here and there in summer evening's satin dresses for example, with horizontal stripes in turquoise blue and to be red, and worn with long job blue gloves. Equally striking are black and white gloves, white mouselines laced in black lace worn with black lace mitts extending above the elbow.

Tweed dresses, again prophetic of Fall style, are increasingly popular. They may have the long four feet, or only a peplum. You'll see them in striped rayon jersey in white lace, black in a tiny floral print.

A once-in-a-while style that may appeal to you-it certainly appeals to men-is ballet slip dress with evening frocks. Have them dyed to match your pastels or to contrast sharply with white. You'll feel light and graceful, you'll look all-out feminine.

LEESBURG, July 2. — Business Manager Justin E. Langille said last night the Leesburg Baseball Club would play out its schedule in the Florida State League.

Langille reported that campaign for $1600, which with $500 previously pledged would pay a current deficit and enable the team to finish the season, had met with sufficient success that directors have decided to complete operation of the franchise.

The league already has been cut from eight teams to seven by Sanford's surrender of its franchise. The game scheduled here last night between the Angels and the Orlando Senators was postponed due to wet grounds.

WASHINGTON, July 2. — (AP)—Leon Henderson predicted Tuesday a continued increase in the price index and a rising cost of living, but not a price spiral sufficiently violent to be called inflation.
