Christmas Holidays Foremost

Sermons from the pulpits of Sanford Churches yesterday turned closer to the Christmas season. Yesterday at the First Christian Church Pastor Perry L. Stone preached on "You Shall Call His Name Jesus." He said, "In Bible time when the Jews named their babies they chose names with religious meanings. That is true of the Christmas Baby, the Child of Bethlehem, who in Matthew, chapter one, is given three names: Christ, meaning 'the anointed one'; Emmanuel, meaning 'God with us'; and Jesus, meaning, in its Hebrew form, 'the Lord is salvation.'"

Regarding the last the minister said "The third name given to our Lord in this chapter, dearer than the word 'mother,' the sweetest name on earth, is Jesus. It was given before his birth. Gabriel said to the virgin Mary, 'I have found favor with God, and thou shalt bear a son, and thou shalt call his name Jesus, for he will save his people from their sins.' The blessed name was prophetic of his work, the Saviorhood, Christmas-born Baby. By his life as a man he proved that he had power on earth to forgive sins; and to that truth millions of sincere believers can testify from experience.

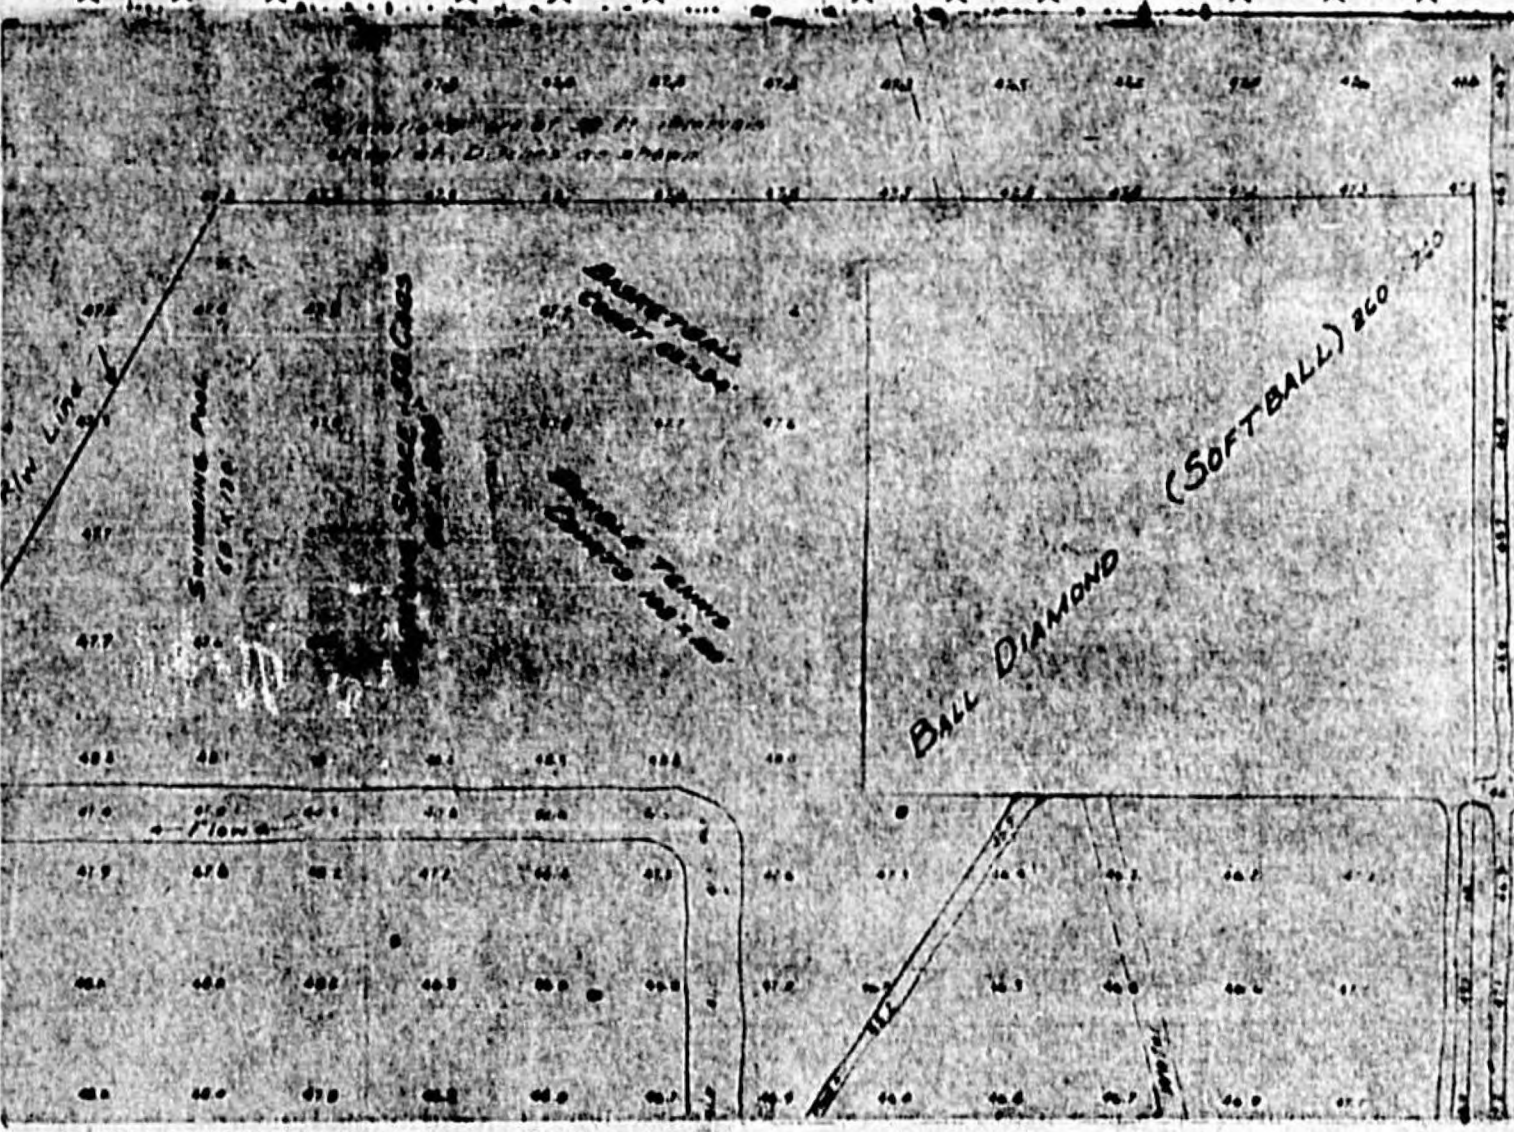

"When you think of Christmas, think of the birth of the Savior. Think of his appropriate personal name Jesus; and remember that it was given because he would save his people from their sins. Christmas without Christ in it is a counterfeit. So far as you are concerned, was the birth of Jesus all in vain? It was if you have never accepted his offer of deliverance from the guilt and power of sin. Jesus is God's inexpressible Christmas gift. Will you receive him? Do you feel a welling up of gratitude to him for pouring out his life blood for you on the cross? Will you not, as a birthday present, and Christmas gift combined, give him your heart, the devotion of your life?"

At the Little Brown Church of the Hill (Congregational Christian), the Rev. J. Bernard Root spoke on "The Voice of the Prophets."

"Malachi, 'the servant of God,' the last of the Old Testament prophets, came 1,000 years after Moses. That thousand years was the most significant era of history in permanently laying the foundation of ethical religion. It was packed with a vibrant action and revelation for which all subsequent ages are in great debt," the Rev. Root brought out.

"Compared with the 1,000 years of British culture from King Alfred to the present time of the (Continued on Page 9)

Ground Broken Friday For Recreational Area

Goldsboro Playground Is Reality

14-Ft. Land Deed Given To Group

Ground was broken Friday morning for one of the largest recreational areas ever to be undertaken in this area.

Working together to bring the project to completion were City Commissioner John Krider, representing the City of Sanford, and Commissioner Fred Dyson, representing Seminole County, with School Superintendent Rayburn T. Milwee coordinating the efforts and working with the committee.

A 14-foot strip of land dividing two areas that would make up the recreational area, and property of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad was turned over to the School Board to climax the efforts in making the recreation project a reality. Leroy A. Anderson, Atlantic Coast Line Railroad official here, cooperated with the committee and was successful in turning over to the group a deed for the property.

The Goldsboro Recreational Area, which is located immediately behind the Goldsboro Elementary School, includes approximately 50 acres in which complete recreational facilities will be located for use by colored children of Seminole County.

Work will be started on the (Continued on Page 5)

Property Survey Completed For Firm

A survey of the property proposed to be used by the Sanford Manufacturing Company for the erection of a modern plant, has been completed, said Chamber of Commerce Manager Forrest Breckenridge.

The survey has been forwarded to contractors who will provide plans and specifications for the new building to be considered.

The local manufacturing plant is planning an expansion program that will immediately double their capacity and eventually bring a 600 employe total to the community.

Sanford Manufacturing Company produces shirts and pajamas under a brand name of "Buckhead."

L. B. Higgins Dies In High Springs

A native of Alabama, he lived in Sanford for several years. Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Oxford of High Springs and Mrs. H. D. Russell of Sanford and one son, Joseph Higgins of Miami, also several sisters and one brother all of Alabama. Funeral plans are incomplete.

Film To Be Shown At Lions Luncheon

A film will be shown at tomorrow's noon luncheon meeting of the Sanford Lions Club that should be of interest to business men of the community, Club Secretary Hugh Duncan announced today.

Duncan said that E. F. Chaney of Casselberry, representing the King-Merritt Company, will show a film explaining mutual fund investments and stock exchange proceedings.

The film, Duncan said, will be followed by a question and answer period.

Policeman's Ball Completed As Many Attend

The fourth annual Policeman's Ball, held at the Mayfair Inn last Saturday night was a complete success, according to members of the local Policemen's Benevolent Association.

More than 500 dancers and visitors attended the dance which is held each year as one of the first functions of the local season.

Musical entertainment was provided by the Starlighters, the attraction of the week-end affair which drew dancers from the entire area.

Patrolman Ben Butler, chairman of the local Policemen's Benevolent Association Group said that "the dance was a success from the beginning to the end."

Proceeds from the affair will benefit the associations fund which provides assistance to families of the local police organization in time of stress or death.

Door prizes and spot dances were held intermittently throughout the evening.

Sanford Residents Wanted Of Women

A letter from Harold Goforth, manager of the Marion County Chamber of Commerce, has been received by the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce warning them of the possibilities of members of the notorious Williamson family operating in this area.

Goforth's letter states that "two women, aged middle 30's, neatly dressed, thin, and approximately 5 feet 2 or 3 inches tall, traveling in a late model Oldsmobile 98 four door sedan with a Georgia license tag No. 412111 have been operating in the Ocala area on Friday, Dec. 9."

"One of the women," said Goforth, "talks with a slight brogue or accent definitely not southern. They're thought to be members of the notorious Williamson family, well known for selling inferior merchandise at higher prices and representing it to be of higher grade," the letter states. "In Ocala," said Goforth in his letter to the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, "they were wearing rugs represented as stolen hooked rugs made in a shop they operated in Atlanta, Georgia."

"The rugs have been tested in Ocala," said Goforth, "and proven not to be woolen."

Chamber of Commerce Manager Forrest Breckenridge warns Sanford and Seminole County citizens that the women may be operating here and asks everyone to be on the lookout for them. If they are recognized here, Breckenridge said, "please report them to the Chamber of Commerce at telephone number 1806."

Amateur Award Not Far Behind Pro

Doug Sanders finished in yesterday's Mayfair Inn Open just five strokes behind the leading pro to win the top award for amateurs in the tournament.

Presented with a watch as his trophy for taking top honors in the group of ten amateurs that played in the final round of the tournament, Sanders expressed his appreciation for the fine sportsmanship displayed throughout the four days of play.

Standing by and watching the presentation was Seminole High School's Assistant Principal, Andy Bracken who coached the University of Florida Golf Team where Sanders played for three years.

Sanders told Bracken yesterday, as he completed the final 18 holes, "This is like old home week with Don Bisplinghoff and Don Reagan here for the tournament."

Bracken said yesterday that "Sanders has been the Number One golfer on the University of Florida Golf Team for the last three years."

All-Cargo Service Available Soon To Area Growers

An all-cargo scheduled air freight service to the East Coast and the industrial mid-west will be shortly be available to growers and manufacturers of the Central Florida area.

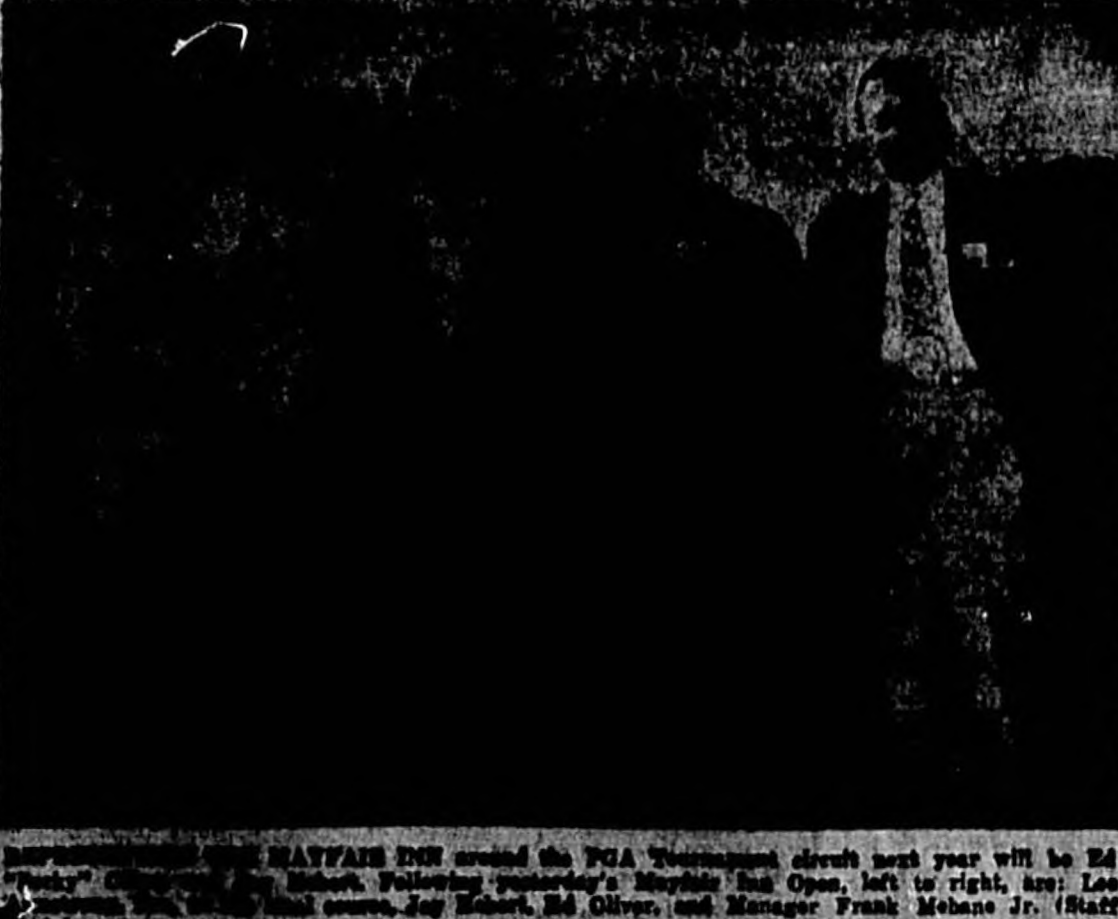

Riddle Airlines, which has been serving Central Florida for the past two years, has been authorized by the Civil Aeronautics Board to provide both north and southbound daily cargo flights.

"This means that the Central Florida area now will be able to ship and receive all types of air freight," John Paul Riddle, president of the Miami-based airline said. Previously, Riddle was permitted to carry perishables only during the growing season to the north.

The new routes will provide Central Florida shippers with direct plane service to the following markets on the East Coast: Richmond, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York and Boston.

The mid-west route cities will include Atlanta, Louisville, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Columbus, Cleveland, Detroit and Chicago. Shipments may be made to practically any other city in the world through Riddle's inter-line connections.

It is understood that a number of local growers use the airline service for rapid shipment of perishables for the northern markets.

Mrs. Floyd Cooper Is Collecting Dues

Invitations to the annual Christmas dance may be secured at this time only. New memberships of men and women belonging to national college social fraternities are welcomed.

The affair will be formal and is to be held at the Mayfair Inn Monday Dec. 26, from 10 p. m. to 2:30 a. m. with music provided for dancing by Tony Perez and his orchestra.

Italian Christmas Religious

By STAN SWINTON
HOME—Christmas in Italy is the day when the family bond is closest.

On Christmas Eve, before the eager eyes of the children, mother and father construct a model of the Nativity scene. This "presepio" is in Italian children what the Christmas tree is to Americans, although the foreign custom of Christmas trees is spreading even here.

Usually the presepio shows the Child in a wooden or rock manger. An ox and a donkey flank the manger. Around it, kings and shepherds kneel in veneration. Colored lights shine on the scene.

In poor homes the presepio may be of cardboard. Among rich nobles there may be expensive hand-carved. But always there is the presepio.

Babbo Natale (Father Christmas) is known in Italy but it is the Gesù Bambino (the infant Jesus) who lays presents beside the heads of sleeping children before they awaken Christmas morn'g.

Thus begins Christmas, the one day of the year in which every Italian is expected to rest at home with his family. Through the day the family group plays cards, talks and jokes, drinks coffee and eats candies or sweets.

Sweets vary from city to city but everyone must have panettone. This is a sweet bread with raisins and candied fruit which has spread from Milan across the world. Thousands are shipped to the United States for Italo-American Christmas celebrations there.

There is far less emphasis on gifts within the family than in the United States. However, tradition calls for presents to those who have done you services during the year. The postman, the telegraph boy, the policeman, the parking lot attendant—all call to pay their respects before Christmas and expect a panettone or cash present.

In home the great day of family gifts giving is Jan. 6, Epiphany.

Fanny Lucas rolled a 209 game at Gossett's New York Riveria alley. After 11 straight strikes the 8 pin wiggled but failed to fall. Her three-game series was 680.

Joan Belliveau likes to have Terry Sawchuk in the nets when he's playing hockey. Of Belliveau's first 11 goals this season, seven were scored by Sawchuk.

The basketball season in Arizona opened on Sept. 1. It will run through Feb. 23.

Fete Youngsters New Year's

"CONGRATULATION CAPTAINS" are a tradition for entertaining the youngsters' brigade left at home on New Year's eve. It's only fair that Mom and Dad have a night out to wish the New Year in... and naturally they want Sammy and Sue to have a fun time too!

Why not borrow a trick from the adult psychologists and plan a small party that the youngsters can "do" themselves. Then with a promise, "You can have the house all to yourselves," Mom and Dad can bow out to a party of their own.

The younger set will love being given a chance to prepare their own food. They can do so easily if you stock the freezer with frozen ready-prepared beef dinners. These dinners are ready and waiting in the grocery store freezer. Children enjoy pulling foil-covered frozen dinners in the oven "to cook." They thaw and come out bubbling hot after 35 minutes at 450° F.

Let the menu be an easy one with "make-ahead" recommendations for the frozen dinner.

American Major Acts As Cupid For 2 Koreans

By HANNS NEUBOURG
FRANKFURT, Germany—The American GI is changing some of the centuries-old Christmas traditions in Germany.

Santa Claus arrives in an Army jeep or helicopter. And, with a GI playing the role of Santa, he may bring along such presents as a cowboy suit or a coonskin cap.

Since the end of World War II, American servicemen have opened their mess halls and recreation rooms to German orphans and underprivileged children for Christmas parties. Some American units also play host to refugees from the East. Military police units collect and repair toys to give German youngsters.

In turn, many German families invite American servicemen to spend the holiday with them.

In West Germany, currently enjoying a boom, everyone expects this Christmas will be the best in many years.

Sentimentally, Christmas is the year's No. 1 event for German-speaking peoples. Many of the yuletide customs were originated by their ancestors. Reputedly, it was in Germany that the idea of a Christmas tree started.

As for the German younger generation, Santa Claus makes two visits. The first is Dec. 6, known as St. Nikolaus Day. On that occasion, children place their shoes outside their doors and St. Nikolaus fills them with candies, cakes and fruits. Sometimes, if a child has been bad, Santa also leaves a small whip—a warning to the youngster to mend his ways.

The second visit, on Christmas Eve, is the time for children to receive toys and other presents from Father Christmas (Weihnachtsmann) or the Christ Child (Christkind). As elsewhere, adults exchange presents too.

Germany observes Christmas Day much as they always have. They go to church, open their presents and have a big family dinner. Sometimes it is the only family reunion of the whole year.

The traditional main dish at dinner is goose but some prefer carp. The meal usually includes a loaf-shaped, sugar-coated cake filled with raisins, almonds and candied lemon peel.

Ted Atkinson will be after his fifth Hialeah jockey title when he rides during the 40-day meeting opening Jan. 17.

Where Are They? Most Stay Put In Same Places

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK—A fellow was sitting around the other day with John A. Aaron and Jesse Zousmer coproducers with Edward R. Murrow of CBS-TV's Person to Person, when he thought up a question: "Where are they now?"

Zousmer replied: "They're just about where they were."

This game of "Where are they now?" was occasioned by the fact that Murrow will conduct his 100th Person to Person interview program next Friday night. He will look in at the Chicago home of actress Kim Novak and the New York home of columnist Leonard Lyons.

Statistics are always deceptive, but maybe you can conclude something about the lives of the famous and near famous in America after Aaron and Zousmer finish running through the 100 names Murrow has interviewed in these past two years. Here's what they say:

More than 95 per cent still live in the same homes. Although two couples have hit rocky marital roads since Person to Person looked in on them, there has been only one divorce—that of Fleur and Gardner Cowles. Only two have died—Walter White, president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and Imogene Coe's husband Robert Burton.

There have been quite a few marriages since a visit by Murrow: Eddie Fisher to Debbie Reynolds; Jayne Meadows to Steve Allen... Mohammed Ali, Pakistan now has two wives instead of one. Groucho Marx has married again.

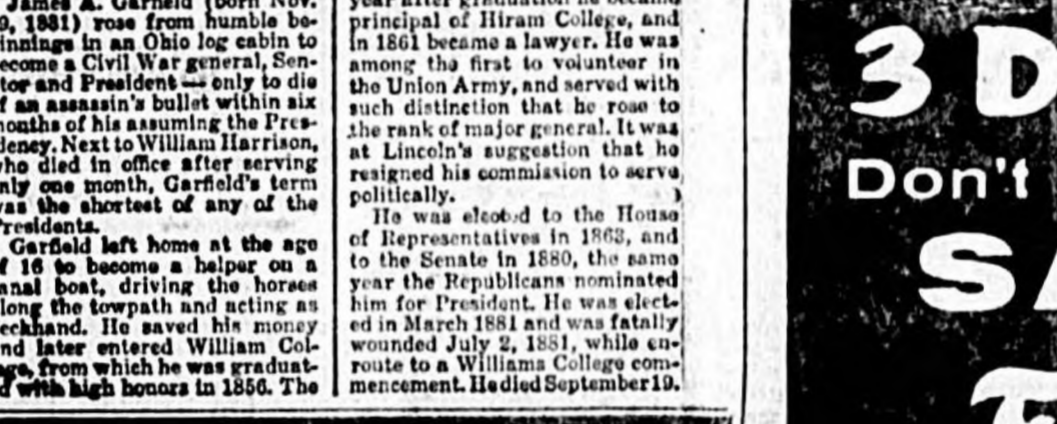

BIRTHDAYS OF THE PRESIDENTS

By Robert C. Public, President, Encyclopedia Britannica

James A. Garfield (born Nov. 19, 1861) rose from humble beginnings in an Ohio log cabin to become a Civil War general, Senator and President—only to die of an assassin's bullet within six months of his assuming the Presidency. Next to William Harrison, who died in office after serving only one month, Garfield's term was the shortest of any of the Presidents.

Garfield left home at the age of 16 to become a helper on a canal boat, driving the horses along the towpath and acting as deckhand. He saved his money and later entered William College, from which he was graduated with high honors in 1885. The year after graduation he became principal of Hiram College, and in 1861 became a lawyer. He was among the first to volunteer in the Union Army, and served with such distinction that he rose to the rank of major general. It was at Lincoln's suggestion that he resigned his commission to serve politically.

He was elected to the House of Representatives in 1862, and to the Senate in 1863, the same year the Republicans nominated him for President. He was elected in March 1868 and was fatally wounded July 2, 1881, while en route to a Williams College commencement. He died September 19.

Yesterday's Answers

Franklin D. Roosevelt, with more than 12 years in office, had the longest presidential administration. William Henry Harrison, who served one month, had the shortest.

(but has only one wife). So have Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas and Benes Jannarino. A few generals and the like have retired, but others in arts, politics and the world of entertainment are still running along like Tennyson's brook. In fact, there's an interesting trend toward greater success after you appear on Person to Person. Krishna Menon, Ethel Waters, Lillian Gish, Ernie Kovacks are a few of those who have enjoyed upswings in public notice. David Sarnoff, who was merely president of RCA when interviewed, is now chairman of the board. George Meany, who was merely president of the AFL, is now president of the AFL-CIO.

So it goes. It seems that famous people generally just plug along at the same job while living in the same house with the same wife and get fatter and fatter.

Little Major League Created

Feller, Roberts Scheduled To Take Case To Frick Today

NEW YORK (U)—Major league player representatives Bob Feller and Robin Roberts, together with their attorney, J. Norman Lewis, were scheduled to take their case before Commissioner Ford Frick today after refusing to accept the club owners' rejection of their proposals.

At a meeting of the 16 club representatives in Lewis' office yesterday, the players unanimously decided that they could not go along with the rejection by the owners of "certain proposals" which the players had previously submitted to the magnates. At their annual winter meeting in Chicago last week, the magnates flatly turned down all the players' important suggestions.

The players were particularly incensed over the failure of the owners to permit them to have representation during negotiations for a new contract affecting television of the World Series and all-star game. The players also deplored the owners' refusal to increase the minimum salary from the current $8,000 to $7,000.

These two proposals will be re-submitted for consideration when the owners convene again Feb. 4. Asked what the players might do if they encountered further refusal, Feller and Roberts declined to speculate.

"The indication," said Feller, the Cleveland Indians' veteran right-hander, "is that the players might take stern steps if the owners reject them at this time."

Feller did not explain what he meant by "stern steps," but Roberts, the Philadelphia Phillies' great right-hander, said:

"We probably will have a statement to make after the owners' Feb. 4 meeting." Then he added quickly, almost under his breath: "We hope we don't have to."

In a joint statement, the players said: "The cost of living, according to government figures, has increased 40 per cent since 1947. The owners claim there is only a small percentage of players who now re-

ORLANDO (U)—Representatives of 15 Florida cities formerly connected with Little League Inc. yesterday created a new organization, the Florida Little Major League Inc., to conduct a baseball program for boys 8 to 12.

Officials would not comment, but the move had been reported since a dispute last year over participation of a Pensacola Negro team in the state tournament.

The charter and bylaws of the new organization are virtually the same as those of the Little League, members said, except they were localized to suit statewide needs. Negro teams are not mentioned.

George Saksman, St. Petersburg attorney, was elected president. He said the new group wanted to organize a baseball program for boys 8 to 12 on a state basis instead of a national basis.

For Roberts, Miami superintendent of recreation, was named vice president and Jack Puryear, St. Petersburg recreation director, secretary-treasurer.

Elected directors of the eight districts include: District 1, W. L. Frater, Tallahassee; 2, Lawton Swan, St. Petersburg; 3, W. E. Feek, West Palm Beach; 4, Pete Roberts, Miami.

A decision on Orlando membership was withheld by Clarence Johnson, field representative of the Little League, until Little League directors meet in Orlando.

Cities represented at the session included St. Petersburg, Tallahassee, Ocala, Panama City, Lakeland, West Palm Beach, Miami.

WEST GAME IN YEARS MOBILE, Ala. (U)—Spring Hill College combined a collapsing nose defense and a steady attack to defeat favored University of Miami 7-1 last night in their first baseball game in several years.

The defense forced the Hurricanes to fire most of their shots from the floor, while Badger captain Jim McGuire and Bucky Poole kept Spring Hill's offense manning well.

McGuire got 2. Ed Tibbets 20 and Bobby Coyle 14 for the Badgers. Miami was led by Ed Morris with 10 and Ed Klina 12.

The Ivy Basketball League is the oldest in the country. It is now in its 52nd season.

Over less than $7,000. If this is so, then the cost of the increase should be negligible."

10 Seniors Resolve To Beat Oklahoma

WASHINGTON (U)—Maryland Football Coach Jim Tatum last night served notice that there are 10 seniors on the Maryland team who have made up their minds to beat Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl Jan. 2.

"We are taking a third-rate team down there (Miami) to play a first-rate team, but we are coming back first rate," Tatum said.

Big Jim tabbed his undefeated Terrapins "third rate" only in reference to their standing in the final Associated Press poll. Oklahoma was voted the national championship in the poll. The seniors he referred to were beaten by Oklahoma in the 1954 Orange Bowl game 7-0.

Looking to next year, Tatum said the 1955 squad has the "greatest" potential despite the loss of 10 seniors. He predicted they would have "no trouble at all" with the teams they are scheduled to oppose.

Tatum acknowledged he has been accused of promoting each coming year's team in the nine seasons he has been at Maryland. "I sincerely mean it," he added.

The unusual aspect of an optimistic football coach stems from Jim's desire to attract spectators to Maryland's rather poorly attended home games.

Ben Montgomery (D-Ola), a guest at last night's banquet in honor of the undefeated football and Lacrosse teams, said he noted that one of the University of Maryland Board of Regents members had been introduced as "the representative of football on the board."

"All of our regents at Oklahoma represent football," Montgomery said.

Darrell Floyd, who averaged 22.9 points per game for Furman University last season, is back for his senior year of basketball competition in the Southern Conference.

Michigan State's Jerry DePrato, a star of the 1915 basketball team, scored 22 points against Marquette that year.

Don Pepper tossed in a long one-handed shot with only three seconds left to provide the victory margin.

Al Lavy, who will get a spring trial with the Chicago Cubs, caught 66 passes for 754 yards with Alabama gridiron in 1950. The number of passes and yards gained are school records.

Wisconsin Reports Big Game Harvest For Celebration

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wisconsin, where modern big game hunting was officially inaugurated 21 years ago, is celebrating the sport's coming of age with a record big game harvest.

Back in 1934, the state opened two of its 71 counties for a special deer hunt open to bow and arrow only. The action was taken after considerable debate, and with some official trepidation.

But all went well. Not only did several dozen archers turn out, but they managed to kill one buck without any casualties among themselves. That part of the record, by the way, still stands. No by an arrow in the 21 years, and 20 of the years passed without even a scratch reported.

Now, in the anniversary year, some 20,000 bowmen whose licenses show they come from 18 states have, for the first time, killed more than 1,000 deer. And two special post-season hunts on wildlife management areas continue until Jan. 1. Wisconsin's previous season record was 742, set last year.

During the 21 years, Wisconsin has continued to set the pace in the growing sport, sharing some honors with California and Michigan. All 71 counties now are open for deer hunting during a 35-day season, there are post-season hunts in special areas and the bow is legal weapon for other game right along with shotguns and rifles.

In total number of hunters, and also for total kill, Michigan has claimed the national lead in recent years. Together, Wisconsin and Michigan license more than 62,000 bow hunters. That's a quarter of the nation's total, but more than half the states now offer special bow hunting privileges, so the percentage may not last long.

Cardinals To Keep Coach R. Richards; Assistant Resigns

CHICAGO (U)—The Chicago Cardinals will retain head coach Ray Richards for 1956 at a salary increase but one of his assistants, Otis Douglas, has resigned.

Walter Wolmer, Cards' managing director, said that Douglas, former Arkansas head coach and tackle with the champion Philadelphia Eagles in 1948-49, was quitting to consider a head coaching job with an unidentified Eastern college. Douglas' contract expires Dec. 31.

The Cards had a 4-7-1 National Football League record this season, their best since 1950.

"Richards definitely will be the Cardinals' coach in 1956, and with a raise in salary," said Wolmer. "We were very happy with the job he did this season."

The Cards Monday signed veteran player Charley Trippi as an assistant coach.

Worby punks used in the National Hockey League weigh between 5 1/2 and 6 ounces.

Dark Intent

By RAE FOLEY

"AFTER THIRTY-FIVE WHEN LOU opened the door, she saw there was no one in the lobby, one section of which was set with small round tables, the other with long chairs grouped around an antique fireplace. She touched a bell on the small table which called the registration book and, while she waited for someone to come, she looked at the telephone book to see if Miss Jones had started to drop a call on the bus she recalled that this was the agency agent's day out of her office and for a moment she was bitten with frustration. The bus was moving across the big lobby and she looked out, expecting to see the manager of the inn, Joe Hestery, come in sight, around the corner that led to the staircase and the bedrooms of the ground on the second floor.

There was no reason, of course, why he should not be in the inn. What had her attention was the way he looked curiously around the room and then he himself cut a side door into the wide lawn running down to the river that was one of the features of the inn. Lou came out of the telephone booth and reached a window in time to see him dart out of sight around the side of the building.

She turned to meet the smiling inquiry of the manager, a pleasant woman in her thirties.

"Mrs. Hestery? Oh, yes, she is in my office at the moment. She has the corner room at the end of the corridor, Number Fourteen. You can't miss it."

Lou went up the stairs and found Number Fourteen. She was there. Lou could hear her sitting up and down the room. She tapped the sound within stopped abruptly. Lou had a curious conviction that the woman inside wanted to see her waiting. She tapped again and called, "Mrs. Hestery?" At the sound of her voice the door opened promptly and Mrs. Hestery smiled at her. "Come in, Mrs. Fleming. How nice of you."

But the hand she held out was unexpectedly cold. She indicated a chair and then, with a mysterious mystery fixed on the clothes that were piled on it, Lou observed that a suitcase was open on the luggage rack.

"Am I interrupting you?"

Jane came to bring her maid back from a long distance. "No, she said vaguely. She pushed a pile of underwear to one side and sat on the edge of the bed.

"There's no hurry about this."

"Are you leaving Knoxville?"

"Yes," Jane said. "I'm going back to New York." She offered Lou a cigarette and lit one herself. She was not, Lou realized, going to be helpful.

"Mrs. Hestery," she asked, "why did you want me to come here? What did you expect of me?"

Jane considered her question thoughtfully. She was an odd color. She's in a state of shock, Lou thought. Something has happened to her. She wondered how much it had to do with Joe Hestery making his fortune out from the inn, Joe who had said, "The first Mrs. Hestery's done very well, hasn't she?" Joe, who had served a prison term for extortion.

"You are very forthright, aren't you?" Jane said at length with a faint smile.

"It's about time someone was."

Lou started. "And the whole thing was pretty obvious when I began to think about it. I mean, that you must have been the one the magazine wanted for those articles that you provided Miss Jones to put me on the job instead.

"Why did you want me to come here, Mrs. Hestery?"

Jane made no reply. She seemed to have withdrawn into her own mind.

"You assured that, of course, Lou perceived, "when you told Dr. Thomas you wanted to know who turned on that gas fireplace. But just what did you expect me to do?"

"I don't know," Jane said at last.

"Honestly, Mrs. Fleming, I don't know." She added, "I think I was afraid. Because Roger wouldn't have killed himself. And murder—"

"You got up from the bed and began to walk cautiously from window to window. It was the first time Lou had seen her stripped of the necessity of the quality of response that seemed an essential part of her nature. She turned suddenly, "Jane believed me, it wasn't—"

she groped for a word—"It wasn't strange, an eye for an eye, anything like that." After a long time she repeated, "I was afraid."

"What did you expect of me?"

Lou asked again.

"You can't see it, can you?" Jane said after a troubled silence. "I wanted—I needed—to know—" her voice trailed off.

"What?"

"Whether Roger's death was the end or the beginning. I—have to know. Murder doesn't—just stop. And from the beginning I was sure it was murder."

Lou caught sight of herself in the mirror, she saw her dark, curly hair ruffled from the fingers she had been running through it, eyes too big for the thin face and much too bright.

"Dr. Thomas had, of course," she said. "Roger was drunk that night." She repeated Shandy Stover's story. "Am Joe Hestery trying to blackmail Shandy?"

Jane's eyes flickered but she made no comment.

Lou tried then to give an orderly report. She told Jane about the shot that had come fired through the window in Roger's cottage, about Ethel smashing the window pane and Shandy taking the bullet, about Paula finding the gun and its subsequent disappearance. She told her about Paula's attempt to run away from Carol and her scream of horror when Clyde went up to see her, about Ethel Hestery fainting when the gun appeared, about Albert bearing the truth in regard to Roger's death and his demand to see Clyde.

When she finished, Lou waited for Jane to comment. Instead, Jane asked her, "What do you think of Clyde Kibbee?"

"Suppose," Lou said, "you answer a question, Mrs. Hestery. She said that the older woman gathered her belongings. "How did you know about the gas fireplace?"

"I got a letter," Jane said reluctantly. "An anonymous letter."

"Did you keep it?"

Unexpectantly Jane smiled. "Oh, it wasn't necessary. I know who it was from. She forgot I'd remember her handwriting. She was always a stupid woman. Anyway, jealousy makes a woman do stupid things."

"What should we do now?"

"I know what I'm going to do," Jane said grimly. "I'm staying here. And I'm going to see Clyde Kibbee."

Soil Bank Plan Called By Shuman

CHICAGO (AP)—The head of the nation's largest farm organization called for a soil bank plan that would be part of the flexible farm price support program.

Charles B. Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, made the suggestion at the federation's annual meeting.

The "soil bank" idea has been proposed as a means to help solve the present problem of increasing surpluses and declining prices of farm products.

The "bank" device would take a number of acres out of production for the market and put them into soil-building crops.

The "banked" acres—those taken out of cash crop production—would be rented by the government. One feature considered at the meeting would be to make the rental payments in surplus commodities instead of cash.

Shuman, in a prepared speech, said the "soil bank" plan could make the surplus situation worse "if it merely serves to be a means of pumping more federal money into our agricultural plant." He added:

"Neither this nor any other acreage adjustment plan can be effective in shrinking our over-expanded agricultural plant unless it is accompanied by a gradual adjustment in price support from a price-fixing device to a price-supporting mechanism.

"The soil bank program should be a part of the flexible price support program rather than a substitute for it."

THE WINDSHIELD of their car partially shattered by a bullet, Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Hatfield, of Los Angeles, and their daughter Linda, 2, try to figure out who fired at them and why. Hatfield, a railroad fireman, said he was out for a holiday drive with his family when a car passed at an intersection. He recalls seeing a sudden flash and a bullet glanced off the dashboard, slightly injuring Mrs. Hatfield in the neck and burning Linda's temple. (International)

Barclay Released By North Carolina As Football Coach

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP)—George Barclay, who earned All America honors as a guard at North Carolina but couldn't win enough House announced jointly yesterday that Barclay's three-year contract, which expires Dec. 31, will not be renewed.

At the same time, Barclay's four assistants were dismissed, leaving the way open for his successor to name his own staff.

Barclay, who came here in 1952 as an assistant to Carl Snavely and took over as head coach when Snavely was fired at the end of that season, posted an 11-16-1 record in his three years.

Speculation immediately centered on Maryland Coach Jim Tatum as Barclay's successor—although university officials insist that no successor has been discussed.

New Regulations Issued At FSU

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—The Board of Control announced Tuesday that in the future Florida high school graduates must stand in the upper three-fifths of their class to be admitted to the University of Florida and Florida State University.

Dr. Edward Culpepper, executive secretary of the board, released the news after a meeting of the Interuniversity Committee on instructions from the board to tighten admissions regulations.

The board decreed a stiffening of requirements to help meet the problem of overcrowding at the two universities.

Dr. Culpepper said that students should emphasize in their high school programs the following subjects: English, social studies, mathematics, foreign languages and the natural sciences.

High school graduates who do not meet the new standards may apply for consideration, Dr. Culpepper said.

He said that in these cases applications will be considered on an individual basis with personal interviews, and the student's overall high school record, recommendations of the high school principal and a review of examinations which may be requested by the universities.

Under the new regulations out of state freshmen students must have graduated from an accredited high school with standings in the upper half of their graduating class. They must also present recommendations from their high school principal or school superintendent.

Dr. Culpepper said that the regulations issued today do not include all the provisions which may ultimately be enacted.

"They do represent, however, a substantial beginning which in our opinion can be put into effect with the full cooperation of both the higher educational institutions and the secondary schools," he said.

Heretofore, students from accredited high schools in Florida and out have been accepted.

The Interuniversity Committee is composed of Dr. Culpepper, Dr. J. Wayne Reitz, president of the University of Florida, and Dr. Doak S. Campbell, president of Florida State.

Parrish Acquitted Of Beating Man

GAINESVILLE (AP)—Lamon L. Parrish, former superintendent of the Gainesville State Road Camp, was acquitted Monday of violating civil rights of prisoners by beating them.

A federal court jury freed him after deliberating one hour and ten minutes.

Ten prisoners or former prisoners had testified Parrish beat them between 1952 and 1953.

Parrish, 43, admitted striking some prisoners but denied any severe beatings. He said when he hit one he had to do it to quell disturbances and insubordination or to "defend myself and others."

Two former guards, O. Clyde Markham and Albert Bellot, are still under indictment in the beating cases. It was not indicated whether they will be called to trial.

Juvenile Judge Gives Sentences To Teenage Group

JACKSONVILLE (AP)—A juvenile judge gave indefinite suspended sentences Monday to five leaders of the Teenage Turfneck gang which he described as "a vicious mob organized to jump on isolated teens."

Judge Martin W. Gooding told the boys—four 15 and one 16—they must go to church and Sunday school each week and otherwise behave themselves or be sent without further hearings to the Florida State Industrial School at Marianna.

A juvenile counselor said the group had about 20 members at Jackson High School and City South Junior High. He named some from a report that teachers made last week. The boys were not named. Another requirement was the necessity to withstand violent physical punishment and beating before being accepted into full membership.

Judge Gooding said the mob is the same type "you've read about in New York and Chicago. We can't go on to have it here."

He convicted the leaders of charges of assault and disorderly conduct.

He advised the leaders that they were ordered to be associated with each other or be sent to the Florida State Industrial School at Marianna.

All Roads Leading To Sanford With PGA Play Acting As Magnet

All roads lead to Sanford this week with visitors coming in by plane, train, car and bus to either watch the Mayfair Inn Open on the sidelines or to take part in the tournament that is being played here.

By the end of the week, thousands will be here to follow their favorite golfer around the course and to keep up with the news as they are posted.

In addition, thousands upon thousands are reading of the trend of events in newspaper sports pages of nearly every newspaper of the country.

This week, the eyes of the nation's sports world is focused upon action in Sanford, Florida.

The Mayfair Inn $15,000 PGA Open has become a byword with golfers and enthusiasts everywhere. And when they read of the parts each golfer will play in the tournament, the first word to reach them is Sanford.

The tournament, planned and brought to Sanford by the Mayfair Inn, its owner Horace Stoneham and the manager, Frank McNamee Jr., is a windfall of publicity for our community.

For the time being, and perhaps from now on, Sanford will become known as one of the golf capitals of the world.

The lights that have been turned on at the plush tourist hotel on East First Street should be known as a beacon of progress. For to these lights, this week, turn the golfers who have taken part in the events of the day, and the visitors turn there after they have enjoyed their favorite sport for the day.

Sanford is on top of the world now and attention has been directed toward us. It is our job, through working together, that will keep those eyes turned our way throughout the year and from year to year.

It's nice to see the temporary change of population from round about to the Mayfair Inn's Seminole Country Club. There's definite proof that a lot of people are interested in golf but don't take an active part in the sport.

Don't try to push your way through the slow moving Christmas traffic through the downtown business area. Folks are looking for a parking space or trying to decide just where to shop as they ride by. Start a little earlier toward your destination or use another route.

There are a lot of familiar faces in Sanford this week. Horace Stoneham, Bill Rigney, Carl Hubbell, Al Dark, Sam Sneed, Mike Souchak, Jim Turnesa, Ed Furgol, Doug Ford, Frank Stranahan, and many, many others. They look good in pictures that you see on the sports page of your paper, but they look much better as visitors right here among us.

You can practically pick your night to attend a good program of Christmas music being presented in one of Sanford's churches, schools, or civic meetings. These many singers spend hours perfecting their parts in well planned programs. They are to be commended for their efforts.

The unfortunate accident on 17-32 near Lake Minnie Tuesday night scares us. A motorist cannot be too careful when he is driving from one place to another, regardless of the highway you're on or the time of day you're traveling. The cost in suffering cannot be estimated.

You can keep up with your community in two ways by reading articles that appear regularly in The Sanford Herald. Your City Charter appears daily and will advise you on how your City should be operated. And the Seminole County Records will keep you up to date as to what is happening throughout your county.

What Will Give Boom More Zip?

NEW YORK (AP)—What will give the boom increased zip in 1959? Will it be still greater spending by the average family, by government, by business?

These willing to stick out their necks now and predict still better things in the next six months believe the added something which will spur the economy? But it's still early days than "it" because some say it's spending by business.

Consumers learned the trick this year—spending their money in credit at a rate that outstripped the experts.

Government spending had been the extra fill that kept the economy in its previously record heights in the 1950's period.

The business spending plans for early 1959 are in detail in detail by the Department of Commerce. It shows the most gain in the next six months will be in the construction of new buildings, the purchase of new equipment, the purchase of new machinery, and the purchase of new equipment in the first three months of next year than in the booming 1958 period.

Consumer spending will still be by far the greatest prop to the economy. At present they are spending at an annual rate of better than $50 billion dollars. This is a per cent higher than in 1954.

All signs so far are that they will continue to spend at that rate, or a little higher as personal income totals rise. Three out of four consumers contacted in recent polls have said they thought times would be as good next year as this.

Early last summer, however, consumers were saying they expected to spend more than they had been—and this fall they have done just what they said they would. Recently their tune has changed. Now most of them say they expect to spend as much next year as this, but they don't plan to spend more.

Republicans Hope Ike Will Run

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower is 62. The Republicans hope he will run again. But they don't want to bet on it.

The word of his doctors on whether he can run and what they tell him—perhaps in February—depends on the condition of his heart.

One of the most vital things they cannot tell him about at all is the condition of his arteries.

There was nothing wrong with Eisenhower's heart the moment before he suffered the attack. The trouble was in one of the blood vessels to the heart.

It was badly thickened. Finally blood through that vessel was shut off. This lack of blood damaged the heart. Eventually a year later.

Then this problem arose as it does in such cases: Just how badly was the heart damaged? That would take time to show. How could the damage show? The heart could get enlarged. Varying waves in the electrocardiogram would indicate something wrong too.

The doctors have been making constant checks. So far they've reported Eisenhower has been doing alright. If they found the heart was too damaged to undergo the rigors of the presidency, they'd tell him so. They haven't yet. They are still checking.

might never have another heart attack.

But the older a man gets, generally, the more the deterioration in his blood vessels. Generally, that is. And generally, a man younger than Eisenhower would have less reason to expect a heart attack than Eisenhower.

Battle Of Policies Leads To Resigning Of Research Leader

BURBANK, Calif. (AP)—A policy battle in Lockheed Aircraft Corp.'s Skunk Works Division, Burbank, resulted in the resignation of Dr. Ernst Kraus, head of the research program, and approval of his top assistant.

The dispute is reported to be centered on whether the research scientist or aeronautical engineer would dominate the development of unmanned missiles, which are expected to fly beyond the earth's atmosphere at thousands of miles an hour.

Dramatic Memorial Begins Rising

By FRED S. WALTERS

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — A dramatic memorial to the American Revolution is being planned in Philadelphia for the centennial of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

The plan is to build a series of parks in the area in which the Declaration was signed, as well as the actual sites of Old Philadelphia.

Progress left Old Philadelphia a drab, run-down commercial district. Almost forgotten and seldom visited.

Old Philadelphia is an area about one mile square along the Delaware River. It was the original site of the revolutionary era. As such, and because of its central role in the colonies, it became a gathering point for early America's most eminent statesmen.

It was here, in Independence Hall on July 4, 1776, that a document written by Thomas Jefferson expressed the thinking of these statesmen, called the Declaration of Independence, was adopted.

And some eleven years later, with the war won but the independence barely a convention met and the Constitution.

The area played its role as the national capital and financial center of the new nation for a number of years. Then the pageant moved westward.

Through the years there have been a number of attempts to preserve the site of these early days. All were unsuccessful. Then came the representatives of the American Philosophical Society, who decided to form the Independence Hall Association to work for preservation of Independence Hall and its environs.

They persuaded Judge Seth D. Lewis, of Philadelphia's Citizens' Committee to be their patron.

Mr. Lewis has put all the energy and enthusiasm into the plan, inspiring the American Philosophical Society to take the lead.

His secret: "I never build anybody; I never lost my temper."

Judge Lewis is credited with securing the original intention of the association. Plans were drawn for the two parks: Independence Hall, an ornate pattern of walks and gardens, to be built by the state; and Independence National Historical Park, the government's project, including Independence Hall and other historical buildings.

Among them are Carpenter's Hall, the first and second banks of the United States; the Bishop White House, home of the "father of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States; Christ (Episcopal) Church; St. Mary's (Roman Catholic) Church; and the Dilworth-Roddy-Weylan House, once the home of Dr. Mifflin.

Congress has appropriated nearly eight million dollars for land on the national park, a three-block square area to the east, on Delaware River side, of Independence Hall, plus isolated plots nearby. About 80 per cent of the land has been bought.

The state, which has spent about the same for the purchase of the three blocks facing Independence Hall to the north, has completed more than one-third of its project, but has run into constant difficulties with its own not particularly equipped with the historical significance. The state secretary of Forest and Waters, Dr. Maurice S. Gannett, has indicated it may be not of the hour to evaluate the land.

Demolition, reconstruction and renovation have been going on since 1928 and may take 20 more years to complete.

Judge Lewis wants another two million dollars from the state and three million from Congress. Judging on past successes, he will probably get about two-thirds of that. He feels only one great disappointment: His plan to have the corner of 7th and Market Sts., where Thomas Jefferson lived at the time he drew up the Declaration of Independence, made a national shrine was rejected by Congress.

One of a touring group of congressmen, investigating the proposed federal project, was distinctly impressed when the group stopped at 7th and Market.

"Why, it's only a hot dog stand!" he remarked.

Other groups have also been active in some of the restoration work. The general Federation of Women's Clubs, for instance, donated $25,000 to restore the first floor of Independence Hall to its Revolutionary period decor, a project now under way.

The American Philosophical Society, which has its headquarters on Independence Square, is contributing one of the most peculiar aspects of the project. Workmen are clearing down a latter day landmark, the Frazar Building, across 5th Street from Independence Square. In its place, the APS will rebuild Library Hall, its headquarters that was torn down in the 1890s to make way for the Driggs Building.

Kentuckians Boast Of Many Arrests

ASHLAND, Ky. (AP)—Jim Fillen-ger started it by claiming he had been arrested 161 times in 13 years.

This, the 35-year-old Huntington, W. Va., man said, is something of a record. But Ashland natives turned up some statistics of their own from police records yesterday.

Fred Walters, 300 arrests since 1924 for 1,629 days in jail and fines totaling $8,618, all for misdemeanors.

Lee Mc Cloud, placed in the clink for the 200th time yesterday.

John Zornes, arrested 318 times. Fillen-ger was not available for comment.

Chet Forte, Hackensack, N. J., junior, is Columbia's key basketball player on offense. Though only 5 feet 9 1/4, he led the Ivy League scorers last season.

Bill Terry says the major leagues missed a good bet when they failed to draft Don Lassetter, a first baseman from Rochester.

Additional Usage For Atomic Energy Found In Research

CLEVELAND (AP)—Another new use for atomic energy—sterilizing human bone for use in transplanting has been described.

A spokesman for the University of Michigan said researchers there have developed a technique for treating bone with radiations from radioactive cobalt prior to grafting into a diseased or injured person's body.

The technique is designed to assure that bone kept in "bone banks" is free of bacterial contamination before use in surgery.

Dr. Donald Katz, who said the research was done by a team headed by L. E. Brownell, declared that bone so treated has been used as transplants in about

Farmers Crimping Bootlegs

WALTERS, Okla. (AP)—Four "badge-toting" farmers in southwestern Oklahoma are throwing a crimp in the state's bootlegging business.

Cotton County Sheriff Bill Dyer and his three assistants were "just a bunch of cotton farmers" a year ago.

Now they're fast acquiring a reputation as "experts" at intercepting bootleggers hauling contraband cargoes from Texas to cities in constitutionally dry Oklahoma.

Last May the newly elected sheriff and one of his deputies, David Hooper, were riding alone on a country road when two cars sped by them, throwing dust in their faces.

"They looked suspicious," Dyer said. "So we took after them." The two motorists were Lawton bootleggers and the two cars were loaded with more than 30 cases of illegal booze.

That prize haul launched Dyer on a career of catching whisky runners. He and Hooper, along with Undersheriff Alvin Clifton and Deputy Bob Simpson, take turns in keeping a watch on roads extending into Oklahoma from nearby

Wichita Falls, Tex., a popular hiding place for bootleggers.

This week Cotton County reaped its first benefits from the sheriff's crusade. Dyer sold 84 cases of confiscated whisky, gin and vodka and 48 cases of wine to a Dallas firm, J. R. Ray Co. The whisky, gin and vodka brought $30 a case, and the wine $2.

Under state law, money from the sale of confiscated liquor goes to the county school fund. The whisky must be sealed and taken out of the state.

There's no doubt that Dyer is enjoying his first year as an Oklahoma peace officer.

"Not a one of us has ever had a day's experience before," he said. "We're just a bunch of cotton farmers. But I don't want them (the bootleggers) to think they can come down here and run over me."

Thornton Wilder Back To Old Haunt

ROME (AP)—Thornton Wilder, archaeologist, teacher, novelist and playwright, has come back to an old haunt to try something new.

The 52-year-old American writer, winner of three Pulitzer Prizes, is working on the libretto of an opera and he finds it challenging.

"I decided to try it to experience a different form of show business," he explained to an interviewer.

The music of the opera is being composed by Louise Talma of New York City, who took leave as a professor of music at Hunter College to come to Rome on a Fulbright scholarship.

Wilder won't talk very much about the new work.

"I've always made this mistake of telling about things in advance," he explained. "When they don't work out the way you expect, it's embarrassing."

He and Miss Talma meet every day to discuss the text, and how to join music and plot.

Wilder never has been afraid of experimenting. The opera too will be different.

"There are some innovations," he said. "You can call it, in quotations, 'grand opera.' The libretto will be written in a variety of meters."

Wilder is an old friend of Rome. He studied archaeology here at the Conservation Heads Work On Stocking

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Conservation experts of Florida and Alabama are working together on a renovation and fish restocking project at Lake Jackson near Florida.

All fish were removed from the 372-acre fresh water lake last month, said conservation Director W. H. Drinkard, and 186,000 broam released in the lake last week.

In April or May next year, the Alabama official said, approximately 19,000 largemouth bass will be stocked to complete a balanced broam-bass population.

Drinkard said chemical treatment of the lake and studies by Florida and Alabama biologists revealed that poor fishing in the past was due to about 87 per cent of the fish population being made up of suckers, gar, bowfin, catfish and eels.

Spotlight On Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Despite a budding career on the screen and TV, Fraser Heston has retired. What's more, he's going to spend as much time as possible in the woods of Michigan, away from the bright lights of Hollywood and New York.

No sense in kidding you—Fraser is 9 months old. He's the first-born of Lydia and Charlton Heston, and he has a resolute father.

"No more acting for my son" is the Heston edict. But, being a proud papa, he couldn't refrain from giving the lad's credits:

Portrayal of the Infant Moses in the bullrush scene for "The 10 Commandments," playing himself, on the Ed Murrow Person to Person show.

"But that's all there will be for now," assured the elder Heston. "I certainly don't want him to be a child actor. If he wants to be an actor when he grows up, that's up to him."

Heston added that he wants his son to spend much of his childhood in the woods of Michigan. The Hestons have a thousand-acre place near St. Helen, Mich., 200 miles north of Detroit. That's where Charlton grew up.

"I think it's much less healthy for a boy to grow up in a city atmosphere," he observed. "You have to instruct him in so many things. Like 'Don't accept rides from strangers' and 'Play only in front of our house.' In the woods, you don't have to develop such inhibitions. Kids grow up much freer. Boys especially: I don't think there is so much difference with girls."

"Also, it's a much healthier life in the woods. The air is clean and fresh, and a boy is outside active most of the time. We have no TV and no radio."

Golden eagles have been reported with wing spreads of more than seven feet.
