CURBSTONE GLEANINGS

A Budget of Opinion "Just Between You and Me"

EVEN THE GATE POST NOT IN IT

A Chief Is Among Ye Taking Notes and Faith, He'll Preat 'Em'— So Says Saunterer.

Times are hard, money is scarce, business is dull, retrenchment is duty—please stop my— Whisky! "Oh, no; times are not hard enough for that. But there is something else that costs me a large amount every year, which I wish to save. Please stop my— Ribbons, jewelry, ornaments and trinkets!" No, no, not those, but I must retrench somewhere. Please stop my— Tobacco, cigars, snuff! "Not these at all, but I believe I can see a way to effect quite a saving in another direction. Please stop my— Tea, coffee and unhealthy luxuries!" No, not these. I must think of something else. Ah, I have it now. My paper costs $2.00 a year. Please stop my paper. That will carry me through the panic easily. I believe in retrenchment and economy, especially in brain.

The girls in a neighboring town have an anti-slange society. A certain miss was elected president. Asked if she would accept, she said: "Sure, Mike, but gosh, girls, I'm so rattled in my capota that I'm really short on gab. We are certainly hitting the high places and I never tumbled to such a polse before, but when I give you the high ball I expect you to get there Eli, and whoop her up for all that's out; I think I'm up to snuff enough so that the files won't light on me while doing the president stunt of this society act, but I won't stand for any monkey doodle business from you gals while I am running the rance. We gals ought to extend an invite to the married ladies to get out and help us shoot this slange business, it's getting to be fierce."

The city council has awakened to the necessity of an organized fire department and the city hall will be made headquarters for the equipment. The hose wagon that has ornamented the Park avenue adjacent so long will be moved to the city hall and a horse has been purchased to pull the wagon and other equipment. Jim Miller who has fought so many fires that his complexion is black will be placed in charge of the horse and wagon and anyone that knows Jim is satisfied that he will be on the job at all times.

A suitable fire alarm will be installed and rooms fitted for the volunteers as sleeping quarters.

In all, the new department will be carried on along the lines that I have mapped out on several occasions and under the leadership of Chief Underwood the department should obtain good results and our insurance rates ought to be lowered considerably—that is if such a thing is possible. It begins to look like the revision of the insurance rates for Sanford is always upward like the tariff. We pay more than we ought to pay, that is certain.

Reports come in daily of different cities in Florida having new tourist hotels erected and only Sanford remains in the list of has-beens. With all the stir and talk about a new tourist hotel something tangible should emerge and if possible this matter ought to receive the serious consideration of all our people. A tourist hotel and country club for next season means that Sanford will be filled with visitors next fall. Without a new hotel and country club we will again revert to celery and the farming village class.

While sitting in the moving picture theatre the other night my attention was attracted to several young ladies in front and one of them in particular who was chewing gum.

Did you ever notice how really beautiful gum chewing makes a girl appear? Take her de facto, and gazing steadily, one cannot find a more ideal picture. With a sharp click, clack! her teeth, so white and pearly, are clashing together as, with cowlish glee, she masticates her cud. Then, too, one can note her health tinted, well-rounded cheeks as they grow a little more rotund, through the material assistance of a big "hank" of gum. And really, who can imagine a fairer spectacle than that of her dainty upturned nose, as it gently rises and falls in wave-like undulations over the abysmal depths revealed at each pressure against the mass? Oh, how deliciously tempting that rosebud mouth is as the maiden fills it with a soft, pliable chunk, and champing like a festive goat reveling in the luxuries of the succulent tomato can, she greets you in tones husky with gum.

I notice something in the paper about a playground for the children and hasten to remark that nothing would be so beneficial to the little ones as a playground. There are too many children running loose on the streets of Sanford and no one to watch over them.

My friend Haskins who owns and operates the postoffice under a franchise from the government was interviewed one day this week relative to politics in general. I asked him if it was not true that the popular demand had brought out Roosevelt.

"Maybe," remarked Haskins, but the supply more than exceeds the demand." And nothing disturbed the calm atmosphere of the postoffice but the clicking of the stamp machine.

I am getting tired of benefits! Every hour somebody pops up with a new scheme for a benefit and if the other inhabitants of Sanford are getting it as strong as I am they are benefitted to death. If a man is sick, instead of making it a charity case and putting the matter in the hands of an organization some willing brother comes round and collects. If a public institution needs a few dollars some agent passes around among you and wants the money. If a man loses a horse in comes an angel under the robe of charity and grabs off the dollar bill, and so it goes until it begins to look to me like my turn will come next and I will have to start a brother around collecting for me. This same old stunt all winter long is about to drive the business men of Sanford into bankruptcy, and now while the benefit is being worked to death I would remark that the Sanford Charity Association ought to be organized and all the charity work directed through the association.

There is not a business man in Sanford but what would gladly give a monthly donation to a charity association and not be bothered with this flock of mendicants that hang around like camp followers around an army.

It is the business man who suffers because his office always has free entry and he cannot escape.

Honestly this business is being worked to death and ought to stop somewhere.

All of us want to give and do give more than we can afford, but the burden falls too heavy on the business man.

Piety Of Thomson Challenged Drastic Preaching

O. W. STAPLETON

Thomson, Ga., Sept. 23, 1910.

Never perhaps in the history of our town has there been a man among us who dealt more pointedly and fearlessly with the moralities of religion than Rev. J. M. Bass. From the beginning of the evangelistic services he seems to have felt that it would require no ordinary effort to reach the dull ears and stupid consciences of many people in this community. He calls sin by its scriptural names and strikes down upon the nerve of heart conscience with sledge hammer blows, and there is doubtless more real conviction of sin than there has been in a great while. Many have been moved to make honest confessions for wrong doing and have promised "by God's grace to live upright lives in the time to come."

The singing, led by O. W. Stapleton, is the best we have ever heard. Brother Stapleton is a quiet, earnest, spiritual singer. His voice is unique, penetrating, melodious—his exhortations are fine. He knows how to infuse the spirit of music into the audience as well as the choir. No musical director that has appeared among us has displayed such skill in the high class of music and he has done more than any man to stimulate and train the choir.—McDuffie Progress.

Planning For the Children

The civic department of the Welaka Club assisted by the "Play ground Association of America," are preparing a very interesting program, to be given in addition to the usual three reels of moving pictures, at the Imperial Friday evening when the benefit will be given for the Welaka Club. The Play ground Association have sent fifty slides, which will be shown Friday evening as object lessons, in contrasting those cities, which have introduced the public play ground as against others which have not yet awakened to the fact that child life can and should be made as merry, bright and happy as it is possible for parents and a wise and kind municipality to do so. The public play grounds presents another feature of broader and deeper significance, the children of the poor have the same rights to all pleasures which the play ground is planned to give to the children in its neighborhood. Reasoning from cause to effect, contented, happy children and youths, almost always make good and reliable citizens. The parents and citizens of Sanford are earnestly requested to give their support to this desirable innovation, in behalf of the children of Sanford, by attending the benefit at the Imperial Friday evening. One of the best features of the program will be a miniature play ground on the stage, showing a scene, with a merry party of Sanford children dancing around a Maypole with their joyous songs accompanying. Now, is the time to establish these play grounds while there is so much unoccupied space just suitable for this purpose and before vacant contiguous lots are sold and houses built closely together which will make it more difficult to secure a satisfactory location for a public play ground. The civic department of the Welaka Club which is agitating this suggestion and will make every effort to accomplish their purpose of helping the citizens of Sanford, take this long step in the right direction, want the good will interest and hearty co-operation of every citizen of Sanford in helping them, secure these play grounds for the children of Sanford.

Thomas A. Newlan, Jr

Little Thomas, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Newlan died last Sunday after a short illness. He had been on earth for almost two years to gladden the heart of his parents and his death has cast a shadow not only over the family but the entire neighborhood where his presence had just begun to brighten the homes of all like a ray of light. He was laid to rest on Monday amid a profusion of flowers that attested the love borne him by neighbors and friends. Death is a hard master. He would take from us of our brightest and best, but he cannot ever mar memory. It will serve as a balm to our wounded hearts.

When we see a precious blossom
That we tended with such care,
Rudely taken from our bosom,
How our aching hearts despair!
Round its little grave we linger
Till the setting sun is low,
Feeling all our hopes have perished
With the flower we cherished so.

The Hallet & Davis Pianos

We visited the stores of the J. A. Bryan Piano Co., this morning and were very much surprised to see such a magnificent display of high grade pianos. We have seen a great many good displays here but not so many fine pianos. In fact we had no idea that any one factory turned out such a variety of styles of high grade pianos. We were also impressed with the fresh and fine finish of those Boston pianos—not a second hand piano, on the floor, but all that fresh clean finish peculiar to the Boston made pianos. These people evidently have faith in our town to bring a car load of such fine pianos here, pianos ranging in price from $300 to $750.

We enjoyed the music very much and were impressed with the peculiarly deep and rich tone of all of the instruments and especially with the magnificent tone of the real Hallet & Davis piano and such an action—as sensitive and responsive as the nerves. It seems alive and eager to help the performer make music. They seem to have indeed ability of their own. One young lady after trying several in the store in Jacksonville said "I just want to hug this one"—No wonder that these pianos are so popular.

The Hallet & Davis Virtuoso Player Piano is a wonder besides being a peculiarly sweet rich and deep tone piano. The player machinery is so perfect that the performer has more expression control than would be possible with the hand. They challenge any but an expert to tell the difference between machine and hand. In fact we could not tell the difference when the player was connected to render human touch.

We hope our friends have not over estimated our town and hope they will sell all they have brought here but it strikes us that it is a good time for our people to get a bargain in a fine piano. We don't know how they feel but we do know that we would feel pretty nervous if we had so many fine pianos and was under such an expense. They will soon have to move on and we don't believe they will miss any hits so if any of our people are thinking of a piano in the future our advice is to go there—look and make an offer. We miss our guess if you don't get a fine piano at a very low price.

Mr. Geo. E. Moody is to be the chief speaker at the Sunday afternoon rally for men at the theatre. He has been connected with Y. M. C. A. work for several years and has just been selected as the secretary of the organized men's work in Jacksonville growing out of their Men and Religion campaign there. The Sunday afternoon meeting at the theatre is for men only. It opens at 7:30.

Sanford Music Club

The Sanford Music Club held their regular meeting at the residence of Mrs. Geo. Fox, Jr., Saturday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, Mrs. Fox leader.

Schuman, his life and compositions was the subject of the afternoon study. Miss Ellen Mahoney read a most interesting paper on "The Life and Personality of Schuman," whose compositions, vocal and instrumental, the musical part of the program was intended to demonstrate. Miss Florence Frank played two fine selections, "Autumn Leaves," and "A Vow of Love." Misses Martha Fox and Carrie Lovell played a beautiful instrumental duet, "Love's Messenger." Miss Flora Johnson sang one of Schuman's vocal compositions, "I'll not Complain," accompanied by Miss Ward, who also played an instrumental solo, "Warum," which ended the program. After the brief discussion of Schuman's compositions and one or more incidents in his life, the secretary called the roll. The meeting adjourned to take up the chorous practice.

Anent The Coal Chute

The City Council has recently had the matter of removal of the old Coal Chute up again with the Atlantic Coast Line authorities, in Sanford and the following is a copy of letter from Engineer of Roadway to Mr. J. C. Higgins, Supt., which shows that there is no desire on part of the Railway to delay the matter unnecessarily, and we can hope for relief at an early date.

Jacksonville, Fla., Mar. 21, 1912.
File No. 3571.

Dear Sir:

Replying to yours of March 20th relative to the delay in the completion of the coal chute and the removal of the old coal bin at Sanford. The new coal chute is practically completed. There is some little work to be done on one end of it, which I did not want to do until we were able to tear down the old chute, as I wanted to use old material for this purpose, however, a portion of the chute can be used for the storage of coal.

We can not put the chute into operation, that is, handle the coal with the locomotive crane, until the cinder pit is completed, as it is necessary for the engines to stand on the track (cinder pit) while being coaled. As you know, we have a bridge gang working on the concrete cinder pit and this will be completed just as soon as possible. The delay in the completion of the cinder pit was due to our having to order structural steel which had to be made for this purpose, and the manufacturers are practically always behind in their orders. The structural steel is now on the ground, and we are going ahead with the work just as rapidly as possible.

I can not give you a definite date as when this work will be completed, but you can assure the people of Sanford that there is no desire on our part to delay this matter and that just as soon as the cinder pit is completed, the new coal bin will be put into operation and the old one removed.

Yours very truly,
ENGINEER OF ROADWAY

Easter Egg Hunt

Mrs. H. S. Davidson and Mrs. H. H. Hill entertained the little friends of Margaret Davidson and Emma Houser at a very delightful Easter egg hunt Saturday afternoon, at the residence of Mrs. Hill. Besides the merry egg hunt a large bunny was drawn and a prize was offered to the one who could blindfolded put a paper carrot nearest the bunny's mouth. Gladys Wilson won this prize, a basket of candy eggs and a little rabbit. A number of Easter eggs were placed in a row and a prize was offered to the fortunate one who could pick up the largest number of eggs in a spoon within a certain time. Elizabeth Stafford won the second prize, also a basket of candy eggs with a little hen. The third prize was for the one who found the largest number of hidden eggs. Ruth Waldron was the lucky winner of this prize, a pretty golden egg.

Little Misses Margaret and Emma's guests were Ruth Waldron, Frances Dutton, Carolyn Spencer, Ruth Marshall, Marian Hand, Mima Howard, Elizabeth Stafford, Marjorie Packard, Sarah Warren Easterby, Vegie Packard, Gladys Wilson, Addie Marshall, Katherine Symes, Vaneta Styron, Mollie Abernathy, Mary Elizabeth Poleston, Martha Driver, Lillie Ruth Spencer, Martha Chappell, Sarah Wight, Henry McLaughlin, Roy Howard, Stewart Dutton, Victor McLaughlin, Billie Fitts. Mrs. Davidson and Mrs. Hill were assisted in entertaining the little guests by Mrs. Davidson of Richmond, Virginia, Margaret's grandmother, who is the guest of her son and his family. The little folks had a fine afternoon together and an enjoyable egg hunt.

Favors Beacham

Mr. J. H. Lee, of Oviedo, former chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, was in town this morning and announced his hearty endorsement of the candidacy of B. Beacham for Congress, based on Mr. Beacham's stand for good roads. Mr. Lee said that he has always favored good roads, representing as they do the only sure advancement of the rural communities. And he sees in national aid in road building, the natural avenue toward results. He said that Florida should abolish the lease system, characterizing it as worse than slavery, and put the criminals on the road, and thus be in line for national appropriation when it shall come.—Reporter-Star.

In looking over the immense stock of pianos brought to Sanford by Capt. VOTE FOR DONEGAN FOR STATE SENATOR

(From the Kissimmee, (Florida) Valley Gazette)

"When the County of Osceola was created, the late John Milton Bryan was the senator, but at the next election Orange County furnished the senator and E. M. Hammond was elected. He was succeeded four years later by M. R. Marks, of Orange County giving that County the senator for eight years. Mr. Hammond was succeeded by C. A. Carson, of Kissimmee, who served for eight years and he was in turn succeeded by Louis C. Massey, of Orlando, who has just completed his service for eight years. Then, clearly, if precedent is to be observed, it is Osceola's time to have the senator again, and in presenting the name of Arthur E. Donegan, the people of this county feel that they can assure the people of Orange County of a representative in the State Senate in every way the equal of any of those who have preceded him in service in that distinguished body."

Up to his old tricks," O'Keefe whispered. "We've got him in the act, Tim!"

"Great!" breathed Tim. "What would the captain say!"

O'Keefe's breath tickled his ear again and swept his nose. I've never seen beer or sauerkraut since but what I think of it!

"Got your stick ready?" he was saying. "Best not take any chances, Braxton's a quick shooter, they say. When we jump him, better give him the club right off."

Tim whispered an impatient demur. "That's all right, but I'm for coaxing him out here first. I don't want to tap him on the gentleman's rags. If I do, I can tell you, it'll ruin 'em, that's all."

He swept his hand across his tongue and gripped his stick tighter. Jenkins, at one side, bobbed his head up and down and smiled his admiration of this sentiment. He leaned nearer to me.

"Just beckon him out, sir," his whisper advised. "Just tell him you want to show him something in the hall—cat, or anything will do. Just so you get him past the furniture and rugs, sir."

I advanced a step into the room. I expected the old knave to be a bit dashed, don't you know. Not he; it never disquieted him a bit. Just gave me a careless leer and went back to the ruby. Somehow I began to feel flattered. I'm not often taken that way, but this old scamp's persistent audacity and impudence went beyond anything I had ever heard of.

"What in thunder's the matter with you, son?" he murmured, squinting hideously at the jewel. "You prowl around like you had a pain." Then he went right on:

"Say, did you ever see anything so corking fine?" He looked up, holding the ruby in the light. "And to think how little I dreamed of scooping anything like that when I came in here tonight!"

By Jove, this was a little too much, even for an easy-going chap like myself! The jolly worm will turn, you know.

Dash me, before I knew what I was doing even, I had moved to his side and jerked the ruby from his hand. My face felt like a bog-water bottle as I did it.

"You haven't got it yet," I said, and I'll take devilish good care you don't get it.

He fell back as though from a blow. "Why—why, old chap? Why, Lightning!" he gasped. "What's the matter—what makes you look at me like that?"

"Your liberties have gone just a bit too far, don't you know," I said, looking steadily in his fishy old eye. "I've had enough of you, by Jove, that's all!"

He stared at me, and I could hear him breathing like a blacksmith's bellows. I would never have thought he had such lungs.

Slowly his hand came out, and dash me if it wasn't shaking like he had the delirium what's-its-name. But for his tan, his face would have been as white as his hypocritical old whiskers.

"Is this some infernal joke?" His face summoned a sickly smile that almost instantly faded. His hand fell back to his side. "Why, old fellow, you don't think that way about me, do you? As for the ruby, I—I don't want it now—I just want you to accept my apology for anything I've done, and— and let me get away."

There was a short laugh from the doorway.

"Likely enough," said Officer O'Keefe, his big figure swinging forward with long strides. "Keep him covered, Tim!"

He planted himself between us with a grin.

"You're 'it' again, Foxy! Jig's up. Will you go quietly?"

It did me good to see how completely the old scoundrel was taken back. His wide distended bleary eyes shifted from O'Keefe to me and back again. It was a perfect surprise.

I motioned to Jenkins to close the door of my friend's bedroom. So far, he had evidently slept serenely through all the trouble, and, if possible, I wanted to avoid arousing him now. For a fat man, Billings had the deuce of a temper when stirred up over anything like an imposition upon him, and it would only add to the confusion for him to appear on the scene and learn about his wallet and his treasured ruby that I had rescued. Foxy Grandpa's face had been rapidly undergoing a change. From pallor to pink it went, and then from pink to red. Now it was becoming scarlet. He threw his head back and faced me angrily.

"Lightnut, will you tell me what the hell this means?" And his heavy voice thundered.

"Here! Here! That'll be enough o' that," cried Officer O'Keefe sharply. "None of your grandstand play here, or it'll be the worse for you. And no tricks, Braxton, or—"

He clutched his stick menacingly. "Braxton!" snorted the old fellow. "Why, you born fool, my name's not Braxton!"

"Not now," grinned O'Keefe. "Say, what is your name now, Foxy?"

"My name—" roared Foxy Grandpa, and paused abruptly. He looked rather blankly from one officer to the other.

"See here; do I understand I'm under arrest?" he inquired.

"You certainly are talking, Foxy," chuckled O'Keefe.

"Then my name's Doe—John Doe," and I thought the fellow's quick glance at me held an appeal. Of what sort, I had no idea.

"And what, may I ask, is the charge?" he asked again, with what was apparently a great effort at calmness.

"Oh, come now, Braxton," said the officer in a tone of disgust. "stop your foolery; you're just using up time."

Base Ball

The Sanford ball team had their revenge on Kissimmee at Holden Park Thursday, when they defeated them by a score of 5-3.

"Ule" Brakefield did the twirling for the home team and had the Osceola cow punchers eating out of his hand at all stages, pitching a far better game than the score would indicate.

The first two innings were about as "beehy" and ragged as any seen around here in many moons and it was in these innings that Kissimmee "lucked" in two of their three tallies. The third they got by courtesy, as Sanford had a safe lead by then and allowed a runner to score while they busied themselves retiring the side. Just playing it safe, that's all.

The only real feature of the game was Joe Chittenden's home run drive scoring a runner ahead of him. The game was won right there as the score stood 2-2 when he came across with his "Baker."

Winter Park will have a ball team here Thursday. It is rumored that they are the Rollins boys under another name as the college team has officially disbanded. Father Wallico is going to get even for their win of last week, at least he says he is. Come out, you Missourians and be shown.

Busy Word.

There is no word, long or short, in the English language capable of performing so much labor in a clear, intelligible sense as the verb to get, and here is an old-time specimen of its capabilities.

"I got on horseback within ten minutes after I got your letter. When I got to Canterbury I got a chaise for town; but I got wet through before I got to Canterbury and I have got such a cold as I shall not be able to get rid of in a hurry. I got to the treasury about noon, but first of all I got shaved and dressed. I soon got into the secret of getting a memorial before the board, but I could not get an answer then; however, I got the intelligence from the messenger that I should most likely get one the next morning. As soon as I got back to my inn I got my supper. When I got up in the morning I got my breakfast and then got myself dressed that I might get out in time to get an answer to my memorial. As soon as I got it I got into the first chaise and got to Canterbury by three o'clock, and about tea time I got home."

The Patient Waiter.

Prof. W. Lawson Tall apropos of the new serum cure for hay fever, said at a medical banquet in Denver:

"This cure is the result of patience, the result of much patient toll. Indeed, when I think of the patient waiting involved in the perfecting of this cure, I am reminded of Dr. Bob Sawyer's ante-room.

"Dr. Bob Sawyer stepped proudly into his ante-room one day. There were quite eight or nine persons there. And Dr. Bob, looking from one face to another with complacency said:

"Well, who comes first? Who's been waiting the longest?"

"Here, doc—that's me," said Snip the tailor, rising and flourishing his unpaid bill. "I've been waiting over eighteen months!"

Spare the Rod.

Parents take notice. The advocates of whipping as a means of discipline are accustomed to quote King Solomon as saying: "Spare the rod and spoil the child." What Solomon did say was: "He that spareth the rod hateth his son." But the word "rod" in that connection does not necessarily mean corporal punishment. It simply means parental authority and guidance. The same Hebrew word is used in Psalms, cxlii, where David says: "The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want; his rod and his staff they comfort me." The rod was the symbol of authority and power, not a rawhide, a ruler or a hickory stick.—Exchange.

His Wife's Accomplishments.

"Naturally, I am glad that my wife is a good housekeeper, nevertheless the flaunting of her accomplishments becomes somewhat embarrassing at times," said the middle-aged globe trotter.

"Shortly before starting back to America we watched the changing of the royal guards one morning at Buckingham Palace. It was an impressive ceremony. Loyal Britons and sympathetic visitors alike stood interested and silent. Presently the new ranks formed and the old guard, preceded by the Coldstream band, marched away to the barracks. Then my wife spoke:

"Well, said she, I'm glad I came. If I hadn't seen it for myself I never would have believed that the queen has scrim sash curtains just like mine hanging at three of her front windows."

Furniture Polish.

Many people do not know that lemon oil is the basis of all fine furniture polishes. A small bottle of polish usually costs 25 cents. You can buy a quart of crude lemon oil in bulk at a paint shop for 15 cents. For using on furniture proper, dilute with one-third turpentine, apply with a soft rag, and you will have the finest polish you could buy. It is fine to use on hard wood, stained or painted floors. A quart of oil will last nearly two months.

Then She Pondered.

"If you were fair," his wife said, "you would acknowledge that I have done much to make you what you are." "Oh, I acknowledge," he replied, "that you deserve nearly all the credit for making me what I am. By the way, do you happen to realize that what I am is head over heels in debt?" —Judge.
