BRIEFS

No need to run

LAKE MARY — A pair of incumbents in Lake Mary will continue their tenure in office without having to run once again for the posts.

City commissioners George Duryea (Seat 2) and Sheila Sawyer (Seat 4) will each serve another term in office because there were no candidates who qualified to run against them in the planned upcoming city elections by the qualifying deadline last Friday.

Because there were no other open seats on the commission and because there were no issues to be decided on the ballot, city elections scheduled for Nov. 7 have been canceled.

Duryea will begin his fifth two-year term as he officially takes office again in November. Sawyer will begin her first full term. She was elected to her current partial term to complete the term of A.R. "Doc" Jore, who died of a heart attack in January 1994.

New development

LAKE MARY — Construction at Woodbridge Lakes is about to begin. The new residential community in Lake Mary is to be located on Rinehart Road, two miles north of Lake Mary Blvd.

Olympia Homes of Altamonte Springs has acquired 140 homesites in the area according to Fred Schaub, president of Olympia's central Florida Division.

Schaub said the Woodbridge Lakes homes are expected to be priced from $110,000 to $150,000. A model center is scheduled to be in place in the summer of this coming year.

Dugan elected

LONGWOOD — Jerry L. Dugan of Longwood, has been re-elected national treasurer of the Paralyzed Veterans of America. Dugan's re-election for another one-year term became effective Oct. 1, and was made during the PVA's 49th annual convention in Fort Worth, Texas.

Dugan was first elected national treasurer in 1989. He has been with the PVA for 20 years, and has served in many national and local offices.

Dugan served in the U.S. Air Force from 1957 to 1959, serving as an Airman Second Class.

He and his wife Darlyne reside in Longwood. They have two children.

AARP presents gala

The American Association of Retired Persons (AARP), Florida Leadership Council is inviting all Florida AARP members to join in a gala celebration, Thursday, Oct. 19, in the Coliseum, 535 Fourth Ave. North, St. Petersburg. The event will be from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Many activities and fun events are scheduled. For information, contact the Florida AARP office at (813) 576-1155.

Historic significance of railroad in Sanford marked

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Before Henry Plant and Henry Flagler crisscrossed the state with their rails, the trains made Sanford a focal point of commerce in the blossoming state of Florida.

The railroad has always been at the heart of the city. Though pushed to the western city limits these days, the rails once brought celery from the rural areas and tourists to the center of town.

Ground on Sanford's rail depot was broken in 1880 by Ulysses S. Grant, who had left the United States presidency only three years before.

On Wednesday, Grant, or a reasonable facsimile thereof, once again turned over a few shovels-ful of dirt, assisted, this time, by Mayor Bettye Smith.

Dr. Larry Dodd of New Port Richey, chomped absent-mindedly on a rich, nearly black cigar as he awaited his turn at the podium. Under a natty bowler and sporting a full beard, he could very well have been the 18th president sandwiched between state representative Lee Constantine and Smith.

SANFORD — National Guard troops and emergency personnel from Seminole County are helping with the recovery efforts in the wake of Hurricane Opal which left three dead and a path of destruction across the Florida Panhandle.

Winds gusted up to 185 mph as the late season storm churned in the Gulf of Mexico. Opal's punch weakened to 125 mph by the time it made landfall in the early evening cutting a swath across coastal counties.

County won't rush ambulance service decision

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The decision on public versus private ambulance transport of emergency patients will be made after studying the facts not the lobbying of any company, group or city, Seminole County commissioners informally agreed Tuesday.

The commissioners have not taken up the question of whether the current two tier system will be retained or changed when the contract with the private ambulance service expires in January. An information work session addressing the ambulance question is scheduled later this month.

Commissioner Dick Van Der Welde questioned the apparent widespread discussion even before the board has addressed the matter in a work session.

Fire chiefs throughout the county along with public safety director Gary Kaiser favor taking over patient transport. Casselberry already provides its own ambulance service.

The information campaign being conducted appears to be lobbying which chairman Randy Morris said was "counter-productive."

"This is not a gag thing," Morris said. "We don't want to hear our people on the radio, lobbying this issue."

Presentations by fire chiefs before their respective city commissions, radio talk shows appearance and newspaper advertisements are rallying support on both sides of the issue.

Under the current system, the closest available emergency vehicles are dispatched for 9-1-1 calls. City or county rescue units respond to treat the sick or injured. However, patients are transported from the scene to the hospital for a fee by a private ambulance service.

Atlantic/LifeFleet Inc. is the current ambulance service. See Rescue, Page 5A

Top Kiwanian: Roche tapped

Special to the Herald

LAKE MARY — Members of the Sanford Kiwanis Club Wednesday evening named Phil Roche as the Kiwanian of the Year during the officers' installation banquet at Timeman Golf and Country Club.

Phil joined Sanford Kiwanis in 1962. He was elected president in 1975 and lieutenant governor in 1979 of Division 25. He also served over five years in the Florida Kiwanis Foundation as vice president and was in line to be president when business prevented him from taking the top position.

For many years his supportive role to his Kiwanis in many areas cannot be denied by anyone familiar with Sanford Kiwanis community projects. Whether it was to help build a nature trail out at Camp Challenge near Sorrento or

FLORIDA BRIEFS

Jury urges second death penalty

TITUSVILLE, Fla. — For the second time in four years a jury has recommended that Chadwick Willacy should die for the 1990 slaying of his neighbor who was beaten and set afire. Willacy, 28, will be sentenced next month for the murder of Marlysa Sather, 56, in her Palm Bay home.

In 1991 Circuit Judge Theron Yawn Jr. first sentenced Willacy to death. But the Florida Supreme Court ruled that Yawn made a mistake during jury selection at the trial. The high court upheld the conviction but ordered Willacy resentenced.

A new jury heard six days of testimony and deliberated three hours before delivering its recommendation Tuesday. Judge do not have to follow the jury's advice, but most do so.

Police said Willacy, who was unemployed, beat Sather with a hammer, wrapped her neck, ankles and wrists with electrical cord and duct tape and then set her afire. He stole the victim's bank card, car and other items.

Notes expose other life of lawyer

ST. PETERSBURG — Investigators were led to a lawyer accused of raping a young Swedish nanny by a folder full of handwritten notes that outlined plans for her abduction. Gerald A. Williams, 40, shot himself last weekend as Pinellas County sheriff's detectives arrived at his home to arrest him in the rape of the young woman.

A few weeks before the nanny was attacked, a co-worker at Florida Power Corp. found one of Williams' files containing an inventory of an elaborate plot, according to court documents.

Handcuffs, nylon rope and a black bag were among the items on a list in the file. Also mentioned were contractor bags, a video camera, a microphone for a car radio, dark glasses, tape, a pistol and a note book bearing the Immigration and Naturalization Service logo.

Also, there were INS papers and an outline of a conversation of an INS agent advising a Swedish citizen that a visa was being revoked.

That was the ruse that persuaded the 19-year-old nanny to go with Williams last Thursday when he rang the doorbell at her host family's home in Seminole, investigators say.

When the utility company worker saw a TV news report about a man posing as an INS agent in connection with the rape of a Swedish national, the employee contacted authorities, said John Quinlan, a sheriff's detective.

"The employee turned the file over to law enforcement, which, in my opinion, solved the case," said Quinlan.

Quinlan said authorities believe Williams, 40, had committed other crimes against women. Two women have identified him as the man who tried to kidnap them at gunpoint in St. Petersburg and Tampa on July 18, 1994. Quinlan said. Both ran away.

Quinlan said he is now trying to determine whether there are similar unsolved crimes that occurred between July 1994 and last week.

Inventor of Kitty Litter dies

SARASOTA — Edward Lowe, who nearly 50 years ago improved the lives of cat owners by inventing Kitty Litter, died at age 75.

Lowe, who split his time between homes in Arcadia and Cassopolis, Mich., died in a Sarasota hospital. The exact cause of his death Wednesday was not immediately available.

In 1947, Lowe, an inventor and entrepreneur, created a clay-based cat box filler he called Kitty Litter as a favor to a family friend. He later added Tidy Cat to his lineup and appeared in print and TV advertisements for his products.

In 1985, Lowe started the Edward Lowe Foundation to support entrepreneurs. The foundation sponsors programs, informational services and research tools for small business owners.

Lowe last year published "Hail Entrepreneur!" a guide to small business survival skills and earlier wrote "The Man Who Discovered The Golden Cat," an autobiography.

Hurricane Opal loses punch

FORT WALTON BEACH, Fla. — Hurricane Opal lost its punch early today after crashing into the Florida Panhandle, where it washed away beachfront homes, ravaged hotels and tossed boats ashore. At least two people were killed.

About 350,000 people in Florida, 235,000 in Alabama and 339,000 in Georgia lost power, officials said, and it could be days before electricity is restored.

In Bay County, which includes Panama City Beach, an estimated 100 homes were destroyed and another 100 sustained major damage from Opal's sustained winds of 125 mph and storm surge, estimated to have reached 15 feet above normal, officials said. The end of Panama City Beach's new 1,500-foot concrete pier crumbled into the Gulf.

Residents of the popular gulfside resort emerged at dawn to find dozens of rooftops blown off and homes damaged. The streets were littered with broken tree limbs, power lines, traffic lights, chunks of roofing and boards full of nails.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

State Farm ups deductibles

By The Associated Press

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. — State Farm Insurance Co. will require minimum $500 deductibles for all covered risks for its Florida customers by December, the company announced Wednesday.

State Farm, which insures just under 1 million Florida homeowners, said it was expanding on a newly passed Florida law requiring a minimum $500 deductible for wind damage on all insurance policies.

In addition to wind, State Farm will require that same minimum for fire, lightning, hail, theft and other risks for new policies being written as of October 1, and by December 1 for all policy renewals.

"This simplifies it for both the customer and the company," said State Farm spokeswoman Sharon Conlon in Winter Haven. "It also makes good financial sense for the customer."

Besides homeowners, the change affects commercial fire policies.

Premiums will be reduced for those who have to increase their deductible.

About 70 percent of homeowner policyholders in Florida now have a $250 deductible. As a result of the change, the company said, those customers will get a 12 percent premium credit. A smaller number of policyholders going from a $100 deductible to the $500 minimum will pay 29 percent less in premium, the company said.

Those already having $500 deductibles or higher will not be affected.

Ms. Conlon said there was no connection between the company's announcement and the fact that Hurricane Opal was bearing down on the Florida Panhandle.

"We have been writing the new minimums since October 1 for new policies — those being transferred from other states," she said. "Current policyholders will see the changes in December."

The new deductible means the policyholder will be responsible for the first $500 of any property loss before insurance starts to pay.

The legislative measure requiring a $500 minimum deductible for wind damage was meant as an aid to insurers hard hit by hurricane damage claims.

Dole stumps in Tampa

By LISA MOLEWA
Associated Press Writer

TAMPA — Mary Elizabeth Quint has quit her parish council and cleared her schedule as she prepares to hit the highway again for Bob Dole.

"This is the year he's going to make it. There's no question. I feel it so strongly," said the 68-year-old retiree who packed up her poodle and took her motor home across four states in 1988 to campaign for Dole.

Quint was among about 200 people who crowded a ballroom at the Hyatt Regency hotel Wednesday to hear Dole, the Senate majority leader considered the front-runner for the 1996 Republican nod. Dole lost the 1988 race to then-vice President George Bush, whom he later supported.

"President Clinton will not be easy to beat," he said to cheers. "but it can be done."

His enthusiastic reception with U.S. Rep. Michael Bilirakis, former Florida Gov. Bob Martinez and county party leaders came shortly before fellow Republican candidate, Texas Sen. Phil Gramm, met with about 20 sponge fishermen in Tarpon Springs, 35 miles northwest of Tampa.

Gramm has been pounding Dole for suggesting that the Senate might not be able to reach its goal of $245 billion in tax cuts, as promised in the GOP's plan for balancing the federal budget by 2002.

On Wednesday, Dole reaffirmed that $245 billion over seven years was his goal.

"If we can do $245 billion, let's do $245 billion," he said.

But, Dole added, he was studying a plan from conservative senators for a temporary four-year tax cut that would be replaced later with a flat tax or other fundamental overhaul of the tax code.

"Their argument is they want to change the whole tax system ... so why get locked up into a seven-year plan?" he said. "That's their argument, not Bob Dole's argument. But it's one I have to consider."

Gramm has promised to vote against any tax bill that provides

Judge awards $250,000 to woman and child abused by her father

By The Associated Press

TAVARES — The daughter and granddaughter of a convicted molester have won a $250,000 damage award from him for his sexual abuse.

A judge awarded Becky Cookston, 28, and her daughter $125,000 apiece for the pain that James A. Cookston caused them.

Ms. Cookston, who was abused by her father as a child, wept and clutched her husband's hand Tuesday after Circuit Judge G. Richard Singletary's ruling following a non-jury trial.

"They were unthinkable acts," the judge said. "No question about it."

Cookston, 55, is serving a 20-year sentence at Liberty Correctional Institution in Florida's Panhandle.

He was convicted in 1993 for assaulting his daughter. A convicted five-year sentence was imposed in July 1994 for fondling his granddaughter, then 7, while his conviction was on appeal.

Ms. Cookston, who now uses a different last name, filed the damage suit against her father in 1994, saying he began abusing her when she was 4 years old and didn't stop until she married at 14. She accused her mother, Brenda, of not protecting her.

Ms. Cookston said she filed the suit to help her heal, not for the money.

"I wanted to let him hear what he did from my own voice," Ms. Cookston said after the non-jury trial before Circuit Judge G. Richard Singletary. "It's finally over," she added.

Her father participated in the one-hour trial via telephone link from prison. He denied he abused his daughter.

Her lawyer, Jerri Blair, had asked the judge to award $1 million to Ms. Cookston and her daughter.

"She's grown up under the most cruel of circumstances, and it's just amazing that she's become the person she has," Ms. Blair said. "He needs to know, and she needs to know, that she's doing the right thing."

The lawyer noted that it was unlikely that Ms. Cookston will be able to recover all the money.

"But perhaps one day he'll win the lottery," she said.

POLICE BRIEFS

Mischief call

Sheriff's deputies arrested Major Lawson, 52, of 127 Bethune Circle, Sanford on Tuesday. Deputies said they were called to a residence in the 1700 block of Strickland Avenue. When they arrived, they reported finding Lawson banging on the door of a residence. The arrest report indicated he was shouting that he wanted to "take care of those dope boys." He was arrested on a charge of criminal mischief.

Refund fraud

Kimberly Ann Hill, 18, of Winter Springs, was arrested by Sanford police at her place of employment Tuesday, in the 3800 block of S. Orlando Drive. Fastest world growth predicted

By MARTIN CRUTCHER AP Economics Writer

WASHINGTON — The global economy could grow in 1988 at its fastest pace in eight years if the largest countries continue to cooperate on economic policies and currency stabilization, the International Monetary Fund says. "Underlying trends in the world economy are encouraging in many respects, with economic policies contributing importantly to the favorable performance and prospects of most countries," the IMF said Wednesday in its latest "World Economic Outlook."

The 179-nation IMF praised the strengthened policy coordination of the world's seven richest industrial countries — the United States, Japan, Germany, France, Italy, Britain and Canada. The coordinated moves involving interest rates, currency intervention and budget and spending plans helped to reverse last spring's sharp slide in the value of the dollar, the IMF said. The IMF also praised Mexican authorities for their handling of the peso crisis and said financial reform efforts in other Latin American countries had helped assure that Mexico's problems did not deepen into a global calamity. The IMF's new outlook predicted that the global economy would expand by 4.1 percent in 1988, the best showing since it grew 4.6 percent in 1986. For 1989, the IMF predicted global output would grow by 3.7 percent, slightly better than last year's 3.6 percent increase. The IMF forecast was published in preparation for the annual meetings of the 179-nation organization and its sister lending agency, the World Bank. Among topics for this year's sessions is establishment of a $50 billion bailout fund to handle future Mexican-style crises. IMF Managing Director Michel Camdessus was briefing reporters today on issues to be addressed at this year's meetings, which will run through Oct. 12.

and surely," the IMF report said. In a slap at Republican proposals to offer big tax cuts along with the spending reductions. For the United States, the IMF predicted growth of 2.9 percent this year and 2 percent in 1989, but it welcomed the slowdown, saying it would help keep inflation in check. It was more concerned about the fourth straight year of weakness in Japan, slashing its forecast for growth this year to just 0.5 percent. The IMF blamed the reduction in part on the earlier rise in the yen, which threatened to cut into sales by Japanese manufacturers. Michael Mussa, the IMF's chief economist, said the outlook for Japan would have been even more pessimistic except for recent favorable actions by Tokyo to boost economic growth by reducing interest rates and increasing government spending. The IMF also praised successful coordinated dollar-buying over the summer by the Group of Seven industrial countries, which boosted the value of the dollar against both the yen and the German mark.

Lawsuits still pose major threat to O.J. Simpson

By E. SCOTT HICKMAN Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES — Though O.J. Simpson was acquitted of murdering his ex-wife and her friend, his legal battles continue against lawsuits that could yield millions of dollars in damages for their families.

"The general public from whom juries are selected will be looking at the O.J. industry — the books, the $20 million or whatever it is pay-per-view special — and I think will be very inclined to find against him," Southwestern University law professor Robert Pugsley said Wednesday. For one thing, the burden of proof in a civil case is far lower than in a criminal trial.

Pugsley said consideration for the children as well as a desire to avenge "the need for closure" denied in the criminal trial will cause jurors to look favorably on the suits. In a civil trial only a 5-3 vote is needed for a verdict, unlike the unanimous decision needed for criminal charges. And instead of Simpson's guilt being proven "beyond a reasonable doubt," his liability need only be established by "preponderance of evidence." The difference is sometimes defined for juries using the scales of justice as a metaphor. Proof beyond a reasonable doubt means one side of the scale would drop markedly below the other. Just a slight tip to one side constitutes preponderance of evidence.

Simpson's acquittal can be brought up, but jurors will need more than "reasonable doubt" to exonerate him. The verdict need not be unanimous. And since he can't be tried criminally again, this time he can be forced to testify. "I think there are a lot of people out there who think O.J. did it and are willing to find him civilly liable as opposed to criminally guilty. And I think they'll make him pay," Pugsley said. One thing for sure: Unless there's a settlement, California's clogged civil court calendars mean it could take two to three years before the cases are heard. And Simpson could then face additional months, even years, in court. "I've said to the plaintiffs that they have a right to bring a lawsuit, but they ought to listen to what this jury has to say," defense lawyer Johnnie Cochran Jr. said in an interview Wednesday on CNN.

Since what is alleged is an intentional act of wrongdoing, a jury could award damages to punish Simpson and make him an example far beyond actual damages. The total could be huge, Pugsley said. "O.J. Simpson is going to be up against the wall in the civil cases," he said. These considerations will pressure Simpson and his lawyers to settle the lawsuits before trial, Pugsley said. But there is one big barrier — Goldman's family, which seems bent on revenge. The wrongful death lawsuit filed in May by the Goldman family accuses Simpson of killing Goldman with "vicious and outrageous savagery." It seeks unspecified punitive damages from Simpson and reimbursement for funeral and burial expenses. Goldman's sister Kimberly suggested at the time that the family was mainly interested in punishing Simpson: "It doesn't have anything to do with money. If we can make him feel a quarter of the pain we feel, it's worth it."

Two wrongful death lawsuits filed in state court in Santa Monica by the family of Ronald Goldman have been consolidated, said Michael Brewer, a lawyer for Goldman's mother, Sharon Rufo. Rufo was divorced from Fred Goldman in 1974. Nicole Brown Simpson's family has filed a separate suit seeking compensation for the pain she suffered during the deadly attack. That lawsuit may also be merged to streamline the litigation, attorneys said. The beneficiaries of that suit would be Nicole Brown and O.J. Simpson's children: Sydney, 9, and Justin, 7. "What if Simpson squanders his profits on women or wastes them on poor investments? What if he goes bankrupt?" said attorney John Quinlan Kelly, a lawyer for the Browns. "There needs to be something separate and protected for the children."

The Goldman family was in seclusion Wednesday observing the Jewish holiday of Yom Kippur. Their lawyer, Robert Tourtelot, didn't return telephone calls. Simpson's acquittal does ensure one thing: His high-priced legal team will be paid before the families. Had he been convicted, 60 percent of his income would have been funneled into an involuntary trust where it could have been paid out to successful plaintiffs, Pugsley said. For now, the attorneys' liens on his income may be satisfied 100 cents on the dollar. "The families are in line behind the lawyers," Pugsley said.

Cloistered nuns venture to see pope

By NUGH A MULLIGAN AP Special Correspondent

NEWARK, N.J. — It was a rare excursion indeed: A group of cloistered nuns ventured beyond their monasteries to see Pope John Paul II and were astounded by what they saw of the outside world. Helicopters hovered overhead, snipers with rifles patrolled the rooftops. Helmeted police on bicycles and horseback surrounded Sacred Heart Cathedral as more than 100 sisters from the Dominican order exited their buses to attend the pontiff's twilight prayer service Wednesday. What had become of the world since they renounced it? "The noise inside the cathedral, everything was so different from what we're used to," said Sister Mary Daniel of the monastery of the Holy Roseary in Summit. She has led a cloistered life for nearly 50 years, going out only to see a dentist. Besides the great swelling anthers of the cathedral organ, there was the constant blare of giant-screen televisions right next to the Gothic pulpit. A mint-skirted anchorwoman reported at top volume on the pope's every movement, from his touchdown at Newark International Airport to the arrival at the church of his popemobile in a wall of motorcycle sirens. The sisters at first seemed surprised at the congregation cheering and applauding wildly when the screens showed the pontiff slowly descending from the plane. But by the time he arrived at the cathedral, they enthusiastically joined in the applause. Some brushed away tears with their veils when the pope reached out to take their extended hands as he slowly

Tunnel of crime

State crime statistics are out. The first half of 1995 is more crime-free than the first half of 1994. We are beginning to see improvements in crime fighting and hope we see more.

Of course the decrease means little to the 674,000 residents who became victims during this year's first six months.

Here are just some of the comparative statistics: Murders were down by 11.6 percent to 493. Robberies dropped by 10 percent to 19,651. Burglaries were down 9.6 percent to 99,504. Manslaughter dropped 17.1 percent to 29. Kidnapping/abductions were down 20.9 percent to 1,254.

On the other side however, statistics show drug offenses climbed 10.3 percent to 39,842. Simple assaults were up 5.1 percent to 98,670. Fraud climbed 12.8 percent to 20,342.

With the new laws which became effective on October 1, we expect there may be even more of a reduction in crime during the second half of this year. The law we believe will have the most effect is the one requiring that criminals serve at least 85 percent of their sentences in jail, rather than being released early, which has been the case in the past.

OK. We've seen these statistics. Now, let's see some compiled and released to the general public, which we believe may shock the bee-keepers out of many citizens.

We want to see a comparison between the number of arrests, and the number of convictions which go beyond a hand-slap. For example, of the 98,670 cases of simple assault in the first half of this year, we question how few, if any, received any punishment beyond probation.

Of the 39,842 drug offenses, how many were convicted and sentenced to jail? Likewise, we want to see statistics on how many of these, during this six-month time period in the recent report, appeared before the judge more than once.

Look at the changes we have had in our law enforcement, right here on the local level, during the past years. The Sanford police department created its SIU, Special Investigative Unit. While that has worked well, it has now become necessary to add the QUAD-Squad, a unit also dedicated to cracking down on drug sales mostly in individual neighborhoods.

The Seminole County Sheriff's department, already having investigators and deputies for many years, found it necessary to create the CCIB, City/County Investigative Bureau. Again, it is focused on drugs, in addition to prostitution.

Our law officers are making the arrests. There is no doubt about it. Yet officers have told us they are arresting the same people, on the same charges, even in the same neighborhoods, time after time, sometimes within just one week.

Where are we having difficulty then? It should be clear that it's in our court system. No, not with our judges, but with the laws under which they must hand out sentences for various crimes. Our judges are restricted to what they can do as the result of a conviction. There are times when judges realize letting a person out on parole will mean that person can be expected back in court on similar charges in the near future. But what else can he or she do. Laws limit judges on what they can do.

When a city or a county has problems, what do they do? They create a study group to delve into the problem and recommend solutions. Then these solutions are presented to the people for a vote.

Shouldn't we expect our state and our court systems to do likewise? If it takes changes in our laws, at the local, state or federal level, let's recommend them and force them to be made.

We suspect there are no statistics comparing arrests versus convictions because the statistics would frighten every one of us.

Make some changes however, and we may finally see some light at the end of the tunnel of crime.

O.J. verdict represents watershed

I may well be the only columnist in America who hasn't (until now) written a piece about the Simpson case. My beat is politics, and the larger social context in which politics takes place, and until Oct. 3 the Simpson case, riveting as it was, was essentially just a criminal trial whose outcome no one could foresee.

Now, however, with the acquittal of Simpson on all counts, we are in a position to judge the case's impact on the body politic, which seems likely to be enormous.

First, however, it is surely appropriate to award a few laurel wreaths and issue a warning or two.

For one thing, I simply cannot imagine the prosecution's overwhelming case against Simpson being presented better than it was presented by Marcia Clark and Christopher Darden. They lost (as I shall discuss below) for reasons that were certainly no fault of theirs.

And let no one, convinced of Simpson's guilt and frustrated by his acquittal, condemn Johnnie Cochran, Robert Shapiro, F. Lee Bailey and the other members of the defense team. They were dealt a miserable hand, played it brilliantly, and won. That's what lawyering is all about.

I am even pretty mellow about Judge Lance

Ito. At times he seemed on the verge of losing control of the case; but in the long run he managed to conduct it fairly and bring it to a definitive conclusion. Those are big pluses.

As for the Los Angeles Police Department, and by extension many other police departments around the country, they are on notice that they must redouble their efforts to rid their ranks of officers like Mark Fuhrman, whose combination of bigotry and folly may well have been the key factor in Simpson's acquittal.

But now, what about the larger impact of the verdict? Polls uniformly indicated that the great majority of Americans believed Simpson was guilty. On closer analysis, this turned out to be true because America is still predominantly white, and whites were overwhelmingly convinced of Simpson's guilt. A solid majority of America's black minority, however, believed him innocent.

And so we come to the jury: nine blacks and three whites. One must always remember the admonition so popular among those who defended the first verdict (not guilty) in the Rodney King beating case: The jury is almost invariably better informed than its critics, because it listened attentively to the entire case.

But the Simpson case almost represents an exception to that rule, because of the extraordinary coverage the trial received.

It is impossible, therefore, to avoid concluding that the jury bought Johnnie Cochran's theory that there was a racist conspiracy against Simpson. And with that conclusion there comes another: We have reached a point in our national life where the hostility between the races has rendered the normal functioning of our multiracial polity undependable. For if there was a white conspiracy against Simpson, then our black citizens cannot count on justice. And if there wasn't, the same is true of our whites.

They were dealt a miserable hand, played it brilliantly, and won. That's what lawyering is all about.

Perot's strong support in Maine

PORTLAND, Maine -- President Clinton could have a winning message in seeking "common ground" solutions to the nation's problems, focus groups here indicate, but right now he's still in a deep hole politically in a state he carried in 1992.

Only two voters out of 24 participants in two focus groups said recently that they would vote for Clinton in 1996, while nine favored Ross Perot, seven favored Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., and four backed retired Gen. Colin Powell. One didn't have a preference, and one said that, given the choices, she wouldn't vote. Exchanges during five hours of discussion in the two focus groups strongly indicated that voters will support a candidate like Powell who proposes "shared sacrifice" to balance the federal budget, but Powell himself has yet to impress these voters.

"Mystery man," one participant called him. The focus groups, conducted by Republican pollster Frank Luntz for the Coalition for Change, a business-led, pro-balanced-budget group, consisted entirely of self-described independent voters who in 1992 split almost evenly among Clinton, Perot and President George Bush. Luntz served as Perot's pollster in 1992.

Clinton carried the state in 1992 with 39 percent, while Bush and Perot each got 30 percent. Maine was Perot's best state and in 1994 elected an Independent governor, Angus King. Focus group participants indicated that Perot retains his support base here in spite of the fact that voters regard him as quirky and "an egotist." A 48-year-old art dealer wearing a ponytail and harboring distinctly left-of-center views said, "Perot is off the wall, but checks and balances will make sure he doesn't become a dictator."

Voters said they favored Perot because he "knows business," "can get things done," and "won't be swayed by special interests and corporations."

The best that participants could say about Clinton was that "he's in there" and that he "understands the budget." When Luntz asked one of the focus groups for one-word opinions of Clinton, some of the answers were: "dishonest," "a politician" and "a compromiser."

A 39-year-old rural postal delivery worker said, "Clinton hasn't done anything. He's not going anywhere."

The group showed considerably more support for Dole, who was described as "intelligent," "experienced and capable," "a good man," though also "a politician."

House Speaker Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., was called "flamboyant," "aggressive," "highly intelligent," "a character" and "a jerk."

Asked to choose between Dole and Gingrich for the GOP nomination, the group split 10-to-2 for Dole. The same group indicated, though, that congressional Republicans were "working hard" and "beginning to make a difference."

Asked to choose between Clinton and Powell for president, the group unanimously picked Powell. In a four-way race, Dole got seven votes; Perot, two; Powell, two, and Clinton, none. Another voter had no preference. Another focus group split strongly for Perot, 7-to-2 over Clinton, with Dole getting no support and Powell, one vote.

Voters seemed open to being convinced by Powell, but said they wanted to hear more about where he stands on issues. A 39-year-old naval architect and the only African-American in the two groups said, "As much as I know about him, he seems to be for cutting what should be cut and leaving what shouldn't be alone."

What emerged most strongly from the five hours was a woeful ignorance among voters about the basic facts of government economics -- for example, most believed that foreign aid is bigger than Medicare, when it's actually one-twelfth as big. But there was also a bedrock decency and desire for fairness -- even, "common ground" -- in solving the nation's problems.

Asked to choose between cutting programs for seniors and children, young voters opted to protect seniors, while seniors chose to protect children. Luntz said this occurred in nearly every focus group he's conducted for the coalition.

"Fundamental fairness is the question," said the 43-year-old head of Portland's Big Brothers program. "We are willing to make sacrifices to balance the budget if everyone will make equal sacrifices. I'm willing to pay my share if a person making millions of dollars a year would do the same."

Similarly, a 39-year-old Republican-leaning engineer said, "Americans shouldn't expect a free ride, whether they are on welfare or corporations making excessive profits. There are just as many rich people getting money they shouldn't get as poor people."

"We're all going to have to bite the bullet," said a 52-year-old secretary. "Don't give me a tax cut. Just solve the (budget) problem."

Only two voters out of 24 participants in two focus groups said recently that they would vote for Clinton in 1996.

Oh Ross, won't you be our Boss?

I'm so doggoned tensed up about who's going to be the candidate of the new political party I can barely stand it.

It's just not fair of Ross Perot to tease us like this. He goes on "Larry King Live," the same show on which he announced his own presidential candidacy in 1992, and he says the American people are so fed up with Democrats and Republicans that he is going to have to form a third party. Then he says he doesn't know who he's going to get to head the ticket. It could be any of half a dozen "world class people," including the retired chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Colin Powell.

One thing he was clear about, though, was the minimal role he will personally play in the candidate's selection. "Now keep in mind," he said, "I am one vote in this whole thing."

It saddens me to say it, but I think it's unlikely that Gen. Powell will link up with Old Ross. The problem is, Powell has no doubt been watching the media and reading newspaper columnists and has therefore gotten the wrong impression of Ross Perot and probably would not want to represent a party founded and presided over by him.

The media have painted Old Ross as a balmillionaire who bangs drums of doom, and there's been a lot of undue emphasis on his concern about his daughter being the target of Republican conspirators, and they've made fun of his completely credible claim he is being pursued by Vietnamese and Cuban hit squads.

My point is that through no fault of Ross' own, Gen. Powell will probably not agree to represent the new party. So who will the candidate be? Will one of the other five world class people agree to run? Is it possible that Old Ross himself could be pressed into service?

Well, maybe. If the people really push him and insist on it, he has said, perhaps he will then consent to run -- but only, goodness knows, because of his patriotic attitude. The idea of "serving a hitch in hell" does not appeal to him, he says. But if it is "good for my country," he will serve.

I tell you, such displays of selflessness can bring tears to your eyes if you think about them long enough.

I know, there are those who say Old Ross is an egomaniac who just wants to stay in the spotlight. They say he can't stand all the publicity Colin Powell is getting and all that. Well, if they would just look at the record, they wouldn't be so surprised. Old Ross has been warning them for a long time.

At the end of his first presidential campaign, way back in November 1992, he said the new Clinton administration better damn sight satisfy him or they would pay the price. "You can bring out the old stray dog again," he said, and he put on a big grin and held up a sign that said "Perot '96."

Then in October 1994, he went on the Larry King show again and urged everybody to vote Republican and he said, "If they don't deliver... we will create a third party that will deliver." A month later, he vowed that if the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade was approved, he would "immediately start the process of building a third party in this country." In a National Press Club speech just last April, he hinted he might establish another party.

So where's the great surprise? There is none. They're running scared, that's what it is. Did you see the way all those Democrats and Republicans flocked to Dallas last August to participate in Ross's philanthropic conference to discuss how to prepare America for the 21st century?

I'm so doggoned tensed up about who's going to be the candidate of the new political party I can barely stand it.

Lake Mary commissioners to consider disaster plan

By MICK PFEFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — As Hurricane Opal rampaged into Florida's Panhandle, the City of Lake Mary will attempt to do what it can to deal with serious problems should a similar incident occur locally.

During the city commission meeting tonight, consideration will be given to an official Disaster Plan. The 90-page document has been designed to handle just about every problem and every situation.

It clearly outlines the responsibilities of every member of the city staff, where they will be assigned, what their duties will be, and what authority each may have depending on the situation.

Furthermore, it clearly defines how each department will handle itself under certain conditions. For example, the fire department has separate operational condition specifications for:

1. Operating under normal conditions.
2. Under stand-by procedures preparing for conditions of possible danger within 72-36 hours.
3. Under stand-by procedures preparing for conditions of probable danger within 36-24 hours.
4. Operating under conditions of imminent danger within 24-12 hours. Upon the establishment of SemCon One (a county operation), all emergency preparedness procedures will be completed as the situation allows.
5. Operating under conditions of extreme emergency (crisis).

The same five separate categories are listed for all other city departments including police, public works, community development, finance, parks and recreation, city clerk, city manager, and others.

Under the plan, the city's Emergency Operations Center (EOC) will be located in the training room of the Public Safety Building, 235 Rhinehart Road. It will serve at least five functions including coordination, policy-making, operations, information gathering, and dispersal of public information.

The document is the result of a great deal of work on the part of the city staff.

A resolution adopting the disaster plan for the city is scheduled for consideration at tonight's Lake Mary City Commission meeting, scheduled to begin at 7 p.m., in the commission chambers.

Lake Mary City Hall is located at 100 N. Country Club Road.

Carol Lustman, co-owner of Carol's Corn Cribbs, shows some of the vandalism to her tent at the site of the Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts. Lustman reported the vandalism and a theft to the Seminole County Sheriff's Office Wednesday afternoon when they returned to the site of their concession after having set it up the night before. According to sheriff's department reports, about $12,000 in fryers, steam tables, grills and propane tanks were taken from the tent. The Lustmans have posted a $5,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of the suspect or suspects responsible for the damage and the thefts.

less than a $245 billion reduction. He also sent a letter of support to House Speaker Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., who told ABC-TV that the Senate was "honor bound" to provide $245 billion in tax cuts.

"Let's not try to pull a fast one on the American people. We promised them we would cut taxes. ... We never said anything about them being temporary," Gramm said Wednesday in a telephone interview.

"If the American people come to believe we're engaged in that kind of phoniness, they're going to put us down in the same column with Bill Clinton. I don't want my name in that column," Gramm said.

Dole also addressed questions about his position on abortion — he said he's pro-life, but he would not refuse the support of pro-choice Republicans — and his choice of a running mate.

"I've thought about a lot of people, but then told myself the first thing I'd better do is get the nomination," he said, when asked if he was considering California Gov. Pete Wilson, who has dropped out of the GOP presidential race.

moved up the middle aisle. Some hid their faces with their music sheets when TV cameras scanned the aisles.

They were ecstatic over the pews they were assigned: just four rows back from President Clinton and Hillary Rodham Clinton, and not far from Bob Hope. And they beamed with pride when one of their own, Dominican Sister Catherine from the Newark monastery, climbed toward the tall marble pulpit usually reserved for priests, to read the scripture selection.

The pope in his brief homily paid them "profound gratitude for your immense contribution to the church's life" and regretted "if in the past these gifts were sometimes insufficiently esteemed or thwarted."

The sisters laughed along with the pontiff when he jokingly took credit for the inclement weather that greeted him on his fourth visit to the United States.

"We had been praying for rain to help our little orchard," said Dominican Sister Mary Albert, "and we're afraid we might have overdone it."

Since the Vatican announced the pope's trip, nothing has been quite the same inside the monastery. Sister Mary Daniel said.

"All of a sudden reporters are calling on the telephone for interviews," she said. "We never dreamed of being interviewed by anybody."

"We had just come from chapel yesterday when a lovely man from CBS called and told us O.J. had been acquitted," she said. "We seldom watch television, but he thought we definitely ought to know."

nole County arrived in the target area Wednesday. He was preparing to deploy a unit this morning in the area of State Road 231 and Interstate 10, assistant chief Chris Miller said.

"I just talked to him a few minutes ago," Miller said, "he called to get some intelligence (information) on the area...what roads should be avoided."

Seminole County is coordinating relief efforts from the 11-county region 5 area which includes: Brevard, Citrus, Hernando, Indian River, Lake, Orange, Osceola, Pasco, Polk, Seminole and Sumter counties.

Twenty firefighters and two battalion chiefs from region 5 left from the staging area in Altamonte Springs this morning. Three local firefighters, two from Altamonte Springs and one from Winter Springs were in the group.

Miller said the crews are prepared for a 72-hour minimum stay but that might be extended to a week.

Before noon yesterday, with Hurricane Opal's winds strengthened to 150 mph with gusts up to 185 mph, Governor Lawton Chiles called out the troops. An estimated 3,500 National Guard troops were told to be on ready.

In Sanford, Captain Tony Ross of Company B, 2nd Battalion, 124th Infantry Regiment, began calling in guardsmen by noon, in preparation for a trip to the Panhandle areas expected to be damaged by this severe winds.

Marker

The mayor was smartly dressed in an elegant peach and black nineteenth century dress and feathered bonnet.

This time, ground was not being broken for a new railroad, but rather to plant a tree in honor of the railroad and to celebrate the erection of a historical marker placed at the corner of First Street and Elm where the original Sanford depot, now an antique market, stands.

Cecil Tucker, a seven generation Florida Cracker got things underway with the crack of a bullwhip, the very sound that gave crackers their name.

"This is sure an important commemoration," Tucker said. "The railroad is an important part of Sanford's history. We need to be doing more of this."

Many, including Kay Bartholomew, of the Seminole County Historical Society, think it their duty to be sure the history of this area is preserved.

The marker, printed with the history of the railroad that began in Sanford in the 1880s on one side, also has a map of the route it followed on the other.

The Coastliners, a group of locals who dedicated their careers to service on the railroads, were the honored guests at the Wednesday morning event. Two of their members, Leroy Anderson and Joe Jarrell, had each worked 50 years on the rails. They were given the opportunity to unveil the marker which faces First Street.

"In this small way we hope to bring history alive," said Dr. Alex Dickson, chairman of the Seminole County Historical Commission. "Looking at the waterfront area and around the PICO and Welaka buildings it is difficult for one to realize that this was once an extremely important transportation center. It was vital to the development of the entire state."

contractor and has offered to extend the contract past the Jan. 14 expiration date. The private ambulance contract has been in place since 1990.

Details about billing for ambulance services if the function is shifted back to the public sector have not been defined.

City fire chiefs are seeking approval from their city commissions to develop plans to transport patients as well as provide the initial medical care. The fire chiefs claim emergency medical teams could transport patients with existing equipment and manpower with no additional cost to the taxpayer.

"I'm not sure residents are going to look too favorably on paying to ride in a vehicle they already own, powered by gas in the tank they paid for," Van Der Weide commented about government providing ambulance service, "tended by people they pay who are wearing uniforms they (taxpayers) bought."

Commissioner Daryl McLain agreed with Van Der Weide that the board has not taken a stand on the ambulance question and will do so only after extensive study.

"I'm not convinced we need to move that quickly," Morris commented, since Atlantic/LifeFleet has offered to extend its services. County attorney Robert A. McMillan said at this point in time it is an extremely remote possibility that the county could get something else in place by Jan. 14 to change the current system.

Kiwanis

storing the cooking grills, stands and equipment needed each year when Pancake Day comes or sharing ideas at club board meetings, Phil's friendly upbeat personality and familiar smile are always welcome additions to the Wednesday noon weekly club meetings.

Phil and his wife, Marie, have been Sanford residents since 1960 and active members of Holy Cross Episcopal Church.

Phil formerly owned DeLand Moving and Storage before he joined Lossing Transfer in 1959. Lossing Transfer, founded in 1916, carried produce and barrels of tar to Benson's Junction. Their moving business has covered most of Central Florida with families going and coming into Florida. They moved the first five families into Deltona and recently voted to become a city. Don McNeill of network Breakfast Club fame from Chicago announced their arrival.

Roche and Lossing Transfer moved the Florida District office of Kiwanis from Orlando to their own building in Midway Commercial Park just east of Five Points off County Road 427. Roche said he remembers when Vice President Hubert Humphrey visited Sanford and he had to help a guest get past the Secret Service men in order to return to his room. He could write a book on his moving experiences. Because of a heart condition, Phil is retiring from the moving business and will probably catch up on his fishing before he writes that book.

It is ironic that Phil Roche was the first lieutenant governor for Division 25 when it was separated from Division 6 in Orlando and now Walter Smith, both belonging to the same Kiwanis Club, will be the last lieutenant governor for Division 25 and its 10 clubs before it is absorbed back into Division 6, renamed 10, in October 1996.

At the time, Ross predicted the Sanford unit could possibly be moving out by late in the day.

Ross said approximately 100 troops from Sanford, the entire battalion, will be involved in helping the hurricane ravaged area.

County EMS manager Frank Kirk left for Tallahassee Wednesday afternoon after being called by the State Emergency Operations Center. Lt. Mick Calmes and firefighter Mark Schmude also left Wednesday along with Altamonte Springs firefighter/paramedic Charles Inwalle to participate in the relief effort. An advance life support unit and battalion chief vehicle were also sent to the storm damaged region.

In addition to the National Guard, the governor also called on 700 police officers. The guard and police are expected to be assigned to the task of preventing looting and help with emergency cleanup after the storm.

"We're preparing for the very worst, extreme to catastrophic" damage, state meteorologist Mike Rucker said yesterday.

Larry Strickler, manager of corporate and external affairs with BellSouth said the company is encouraging people to limit telephone usage into the area affected by the hurricane.

As early as yesterday, Strickler commented, "Right now, our network is working at its full capacity. People dialing into the area may experience problems completing their calls due to the number of calls going into that area."

BellSouth is also making plans to serve the area hit by Opal. It includes switching offices equipped with generators and batteries to keep them running should they lose commercial power, redirecting calls automatically when a major cable is cut, and closely monitoring the entire telephone network in the panhandle area.

"We do everything possible in emergency weather situations," Strickler said. The American Red Cross meanwhile, had 34 shelters open by noon yesterday with many more expected during the night and early morning.

Most of the 17 emergency response vehicles in the state as well as 36 from elsewhere have been routed to the hurricane area.

CALNO meets

LAKE MARY — The next regular meeting of the Council of Local Governments in Seminole County, known as CALNO, will be at Lake Mary City Hall, 100 N. Country Club Road, on Wednesday, Oct. 11.

Among new business items listed on the meeting's agenda is a discussion of Florida statutes pertaining to the private property rights act.

The meeting will begin at 7 p.m., and is open to the public.

The next meeting, scheduled for Nov. 1, will be held in Longwood.

Correction

The following information was omitted from the "Forming Lake Mary" article in the Sunday, Oct. 1, 1995 issue of the Sanford Herald written by Correspondent Margaret Wesley:

The Lake Mary City Commission on May 19, 1990, added 11 members to the historical commission, increasing the membership to 19.

On Jan. 3, 1991, they passed Resolution No. 365 which specifically set forth the mission, duties, responsibilities, and limitations of authority of the existing Historical Commission.

Based on this technicality (Resolution No. 365), the State Ethics Committee released the members of the Historical Commission from having to file a financial disclosure statement.

The Herald regrets this omission.

NATIONAL BRIEFS

O.J. phones Larry King

LOS ANGELES — O.J. Simpson called the source of his "basic anger," the distortions, as he described them, of the evidence in his double-murder trial.

"Fortunately, for me, the jury listened to what the witnesses said, and not Marcia Clark's or (Christopher) Darden's or anyone else's rendition of what they said," Simpson told CNN Wednesday night, speaking out for the first time since his acquittal.

The surprise phone call to "Larry King Live" came as King interviewed Simpson's lead defense attorney Johnnie Cochran Jr.

Simpson didn't speak long, and he tried to get off the phone by saying, "I got to go. I really got to go." King squeezed in one more question, asking Simpson about his first meeting earlier in the day with his two young children since being arrested on charges of killing their mother.

Pope visits

NEW YORK — Sixteen years ago he hoisted children above him like dolls and pumped hands like a candidate. Eight years ago he rushed around the country on a tour that seemed like a prescription for jet lag.

But on Wednesday, Pope John Paul II descended from his plane one slow step at a time, his left hand gripping the rail as if any misstep could be his last.

The 75-year-old popular pontiff returned to the New York area older and more frail, challenging the world's most powerful countries to "clothe yourselves with humility." He was to address the U.N. General Assembly today on the first full day of his five-day trip to New Jersey, New York and Maryland.

The New York area was a memorable stop on his first papal trip to America in 1979, just a year after his elevation to the papacy. He was only 59 then, and Americans were intrigued by his mountain-climbing, downhill-skiing pope — "John Paul Superstar," as Time magazine's cover described him.

Black men and jail sentences

WASHINGTON — On any given day, one in three young black men is serving a criminal sentence, either prison, probation or parole, says an advocacy group that blames not only the criminals but also the legal system.

"The policies of the last 10 or 15 years have served to triple the prison population," said Marc Maurer, co-author of the report from The Sentencing Project, a Washington-based research and prison watchdog group that advocates alternatives to prison sentences. "The drug policies and others have had a disproportionate impact on blacks."

The report, funded by grants from the Drug Policy Foundation, the Edna McConnell Clark Foundation and the Public Welfare Foundation, argues that the mandatory minimum sentences and stepped-up enforcement that began with the 1980s "war on drugs" have fallen disproportionately on blacks and women.

Alliance defense ministers meet

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. — Even as it tries to sell Congress on putting U.S. troops into Bosnia to enforce a peace deal, the Clinton administration is searching for NATO agreement on conditions for getting them out.

At a meeting of the alliance's defense ministers opening today in Williamsburg's restored colonial district, Defense Secretary William Perry was expected to stress that NATO forces should stay in Bosnia until stability is restored.

Stability means creating a better balance of military power between the Bosnian Serbs and the Bosnian federation of Muslims and Croats, Perry told reporters Wednesday before leaving Washington. One way of doing that, he said, would be to provide special training for the weaker federation forces.

Perry said the goal should be to avoid leaving the Bosnian government forces in a still-weak position once a peace settlement is implemented and NATO forces leave. Such weakness could lead to reigniting the hostilities, he said.

Jackson, Krauss top CMA honors

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Alan Jackson waited four years to win country music's top award and may have gotten a little help from a lucky charm that once belonged to Hank Williams Sr.

Jackson, the top nominee going into Wednesday's Country Music Association awards show, was named entertainer of the year just when it looked as if he would go home empty-handed.

He was nominated but didn't win for best male vocalist, album, single, vocal event (with George Jones) and video.

Jackson said he went from playing truck-stop lounges several years ago to performing for 50,000 people at the Houston Astrodome.

"I feel qualified (to win)," he said after the black-tie affair at the Grand Ole Opry House that was televised live on CBS.

He said singer Marty Stuart had given him a lucky charm: a pen knife that belonged to Williams.

"I guess it worked," said the bashful Jackson, who was nominated for the top award in 1992, 1993 and 1994.

While Jackson had to wait four years, bluegrass singer Alison Krauss burst through the ranks in her first attempt.

Krauss, at 24 the premier bluegrass singer and a formidable fiddler, won in all four categories in which she competed: female vocalist, the Horizon Award for most promising artist, best single ("When You Say Nothing at All") and vocal event for a duet with the group Shenandoah. "Somewhere in the Vicinity of the Heart."

"I'm going to have to go get a flask or something!" Krauss said the fourth time she was called to the podium. She looked increasingly mystified at each trip. "This is really weird, you guys," she said twice.

Host Vince Gill, former lead singer for pop group Pure Prairie League, won male vocalist of the year for an unprecedented fifth straight time.

Best album honors went to Patty Loveless for "When Fallen Angels Fly," which beat out offerings by John Michael Montgomery, George Strait, Gill and Jackson.

Brooks & Dunn kept their streak going, picking up the best vocal duo trophy for the fourth consecutive year.

The Mavericks ended a three-year reign by Diamond Rio to win the award for best vocal group of the year.

Gretchen Peters, a songwriter soon to begin her own recording career, won for best song, "Independence Day," which was a hit for Martina McBride.

Singer-songwriter Roger Miller ("King of the Road"), who died in 1992, was inducted into the Country Music Hall of Fame. Wife Mary Miller, a former member of Kenny Rogers and the First Edition, accepted on his behalf.

"I'm just sick that he wasn't here to accept it," she said. "It would have made his life."

Also inducted was Jo Walker-Meador, who headed the CMA from 1982 until retiring in 1991.

About 7,000 country music industry insiders picked the winners.

Senate Finance Committee chairman talks taxes

By DAVE GLENNON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Some corporate tax breaks could end as part of legislation that would offer individuals more tax credits and relief, the new chairman of the Senate Finance Committee says.

"Everything is on the table," Sen. William Roth, R-Del., said Wednesday, in identifying four core provisions of his tax-cut proposal.

Roth hopes to pass a $500 per child tax credit, a reduction in capital-gains tax rates, estate-tax relief for family-owned small businesses and farms, and liberalized Individual Retirement Accounts.

The panel also will "definitely be looking" at eliminating some tax breaks, Roth said in an interview with The Associated Press. He declined to identify provisions to tighten what some critics call "corporate loopholes," saying "until we make decisions, I don't see any point."

When the House Ways and Means Committee tried to do that last month, it proved divisive, pitting, for example, farm-state Republicans against oil-state Republicans in a dispute over shaving the tax break for ethanol, an alcohol derived from corn and mixed with gasoline to form gasohol.

Having completed legislation last week wringing half a trillion dollars in savings over seven years from Medicare, Medicaid and the earned income tax credit for the working poor, Roth's committee is preparing next week to deliver on Republicans' promise to cut taxes.

The mild-mannered, 74-year-old assumed the chairmanship of the Finance Committee four weeks ago after Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., was forced to resign following allegations of sexual and official misconduct.

A career-long booster of IRAs, Roth wants to raise income limits for participation in the tax-sheltered savings plans and create a new type of IRA permitting withdrawals to pay for first-time home purchases, serious illness, extended unemployment and college education.

Roth's four core provisions mean the Senate's legislation will at least start out looking similar to the "Contract With America" tax bill adopted by the House in April.

The trick will be shrinking the House bill, which provided $350 billion in tax relief over seven years, into the guidelines of the congressional budget, which calls for $245 billion in cuts.

After GOP moderates on the Finance Committee expressed concern last week about reducing taxes so sharply at a time of steep Medicare cuts, Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., on Sunday said the Senate may not be able to produce a tax cut that large.

Under pressure from Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, a presidential campaign rival, Dole has since said his personal goal remains $245 billion. But he has expressed interest in a suggestion from conservative senators that the tax cut should expire after four years, to be replaced by comprehensive tax reform, such as a flat tax.

But Roth said the bill he submits to his committee will call for the full $245 billion reduction over seven years.

"I'm a believer in $245 billion," he said. "Republicans have made certain pledges ... to balance the budget ... preserve and strengthen Medicaid and Medicare ... reform welfare."

"The benefits of those actions will be returned to the American people, working people, through a tax cut. That's a pledge I take seriously and I intend to try to keep it."

He said he had "serious reservations" about limiting the tax cut to four years.

"Are you going to tell somebody that you have an IRA and then, in four years, you won't have it? That's not a very good incentive to get more people to save," he said.

In the end, Roth predicted the committee would reach consensus despite sharp differences between conservatives and moderates and sniping between Dole and Gramm, who are both members of the panel.

"I understand what's at stake. I'm not surprised," Roth said.

IN BRIEF

LOCALLY

A perfect trio in Power V-ball

SANFORD — Vitusius Spoke Force and Young Guns all posted perfect 2-0 records in the Sanford Recreation Department Fall Power Volleyball League in the Dan Pelham Gymnasium at Sanford Middle School Wednesday.

Other records were Crazy Wings (1-1), Terminators (1-1), Simpson (0-2), Outriggers (0-2), Spunkies (0-2) and Net Wits (0-2).

Toucan Willies whips Sprint

OVIEDO — Toucan Willies used a five-hitter by Rick Tribu and a 2-1 hit attack to bury Sprint 15-4 in Oviedo Men's Wednesday Night Fall Slowpitch Softball League action at the Oviedo Softball complex.

Toucan Willies improved to 3-2 and will play Floggers at 8 p.m. next Wednesday night.

Leading the way at the plate was Harold Hut who was playing his first game in two seasons after recovering from a bad knee. Hut went 1 for 4, including a double, scored three runs and drove in one.

Other hitters were Joe Brandon (3 for 3, two doubles, three runs, two RBI), Rommie Gardner (3 for 4, run, four RBI), Bill Strupp (3 for 3, double, run), Lance Amey (3 for 4, triple, three runs, two RBI), Tribu (2 for 4, two runs, RBI), Troy Kessinger (1 for 3, double, run, RBI), Bill Lang (1 for 3, run, RBI) and Ken Crawford (1 for 3).

AROUND THE STATE

Panthers edge Lightning

SEATTLE — Stoddy defensive play by Adreze Plasse allowed the Florida Panthers to beat the Tampa Bay Lightning 3-2 in the final exhibition game for both teams.

The Panthers (3-3-2) capitalized on two turnovers in the Lightning zone by Plasse for their second and final goals. Stu Barnes scored short-handed at 1:06 of the second, and Mike Hough made 5:31 of the third.

Florida's Scott McManis scored the only goal of a backhanded first period, beating Lightning goaltender Darren Puppo on the power play at 7:14 after a shot from Johan Garpenhag.

Paul Ysbaert pulled Tampa Bay (2-2-2) within 2-1 at 17:33 of the second period and rookie Anton Levee scored his final of the preseason at 3:00 of the third.

Florida goaltender John Ysbaert finished stoppage at 2:05 and Puppo stopped 17.

Marlins lose Banks

MIAMI — Pitcher Willy Banks joined his fourth team of the year when he was claimed off waivers by the Philadelphia Phillies.

The right-hander signed with the Florida Marlins after he was claimed off waivers from Los Angeles on Aug. 10 and was 2-3 with a 3.92 ERA in four starts. He opened the season with the Chicago Cubs and was 0-1 with a 15.91 ERA. He was 0-2 with a 4.00 ERA in six starts with the Dodgers.

The Marlins announced their pitchers Mark Gardner, Rich Rodriguez and Buddy Groom have cleared waivers and that they purchased the contract of right-hander Miguel Batista.

Gardner and Rodriguez have exercised their option, their options to become free agents tomorrow have been assigned to Florida's AAA affiliate, Charlotte.

Batista was 6-12 with 4.89 ERA in 34 games with Charlotte this season.

Panthers to leave Miami?

MIAMI — The honeymoon between the NHL expansion Panthers and South Florida is over, and the relationship may end in divorce.

After missing the playoffs in their first two seasons by just one point, the Florida Panthers might be getting ready to pack it up north after this season. Whether it is to play Full Throttle West Palm Beach or in Nashville, Tenn., remains to be seen.

Panthers owner Wayne Huizenga, who also owns the NFL's Jacksonville and base ball's Marlins, said he is losing $1 million a month on the team and needs to carry a new place to play or a new owner at the Miami Arena, a place the Panthers have sold out to leave after their games.

Atlanta, by agreement of the Miami Arena as well as the hockey owners, is conducting hockey games at the arena.

The Panthers need to be in some thing on the planet or have a plan for how to do the work to "keep" the arena, or the team may begin offering offers from outside the state, such as Nashville.

Area teams lose three of four volleyball matches

By GARY COATMAN
Herald Staff Writer

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Kiki Lopez scored 11 service points Wednesday to lead Gateway to a 15-12, 16-14 win over Lake Brantley.

After falling behind 5-1, the Patriots fought back to 14-12 behind Carrie Arago and Melissa Finley, who combined for three points to pull Lake Brantley within striking distance. Bill Lopez closed out the first game for the Panthers.

Arago and Sara Winchell combined to put Lake Brantley ahead 8-0 in the second game. Finley pushed the Patriots to leads of 9-1 and 11-8 while Michelle Gates made the score 10-5. Gateway tied the game 12-12, but Kinsley Claven responded with two service points to put Lake Brantley ahead 14-12 before Gateway closed out the match.

Claven finished the match with 10 kills. Arago had seven and Finley had five blocks. Lake Brantley plays at Oviedo tonight.

PANTHERS TAME LIONS

ORLANDO — The Oviedo girls' volleyball team dropped to 11-5 after a 15-4, 15-11 loss to Dr. Phillips. The Lions were hampered by the absence of Bonnie DeBrow, who missed the match because of a knee injury. Oviedo hosts Lake Brantley tonight.

SILVER HAWKS PREY ON GREYHOUNDS

WINTER PARK — The Lake Howell boys overcame a 10-1 deficit in game one en route to a 15-11, 15-6 win over Lyman. The Greyhounds dropped to 3-11 overall and 1-6 in the Seminole Athletic Conference. Brian Bradley had eight blocks and five kills in a losing effort.

"We didn't take control in game one," said Lyman coach Norman Ready. "That devastated our kids, but they played hard."

Lyman won the JV match 15-7, 15-11 to improve to 13-0 overall and 6-0 in the SAC. Lake Howell travels to Lake Mary Friday evening in a key SAC matchup.

Tim Cooper contributed a single pass hit Saturday as Wells Contracting tested Hopkins Meats 10-6 at Sanford Slowpitch Softball League at Chase Park.

Crazy Wings stays perfect

By DEAN SMITH
Herald Sports Editor

SANFORD — Crazy Wings stayed unbeaten and Wells Contracting won a battle for second place on a windy night in the Sanford Recreation Department Men's Fall Wednesday Night Slowpitch Softball League at Chase Park.

Crazy Wings counted by doubles among its 16 hits as it used an eight-run fourth inning to break the game open in a 15-3, five-inning victory over ASP Incorporated.

In the other game, Rick Wells had four hits and scored four runs and George Porzig blasted a two-run home run as Wells Contracting knocked off Spring Wednesday champion Hopkins Meats 10-6 despite home runs from Mike Seales and Kevin Julian.

Crazy Wings is now 4-0 while Wells Contracting is 2-1. Hopkins Meats 1-2 and ASP Incorporated 0-3.

Next Wednesday, ASP Incorporated takes on Hopkins Meats at 7 p.m. and Wells Contracting challenges Crazy Wings at 8 p.m.

Contributing for Wells Contracting were Rick Wells (triple, three singles, four runs, two RBI), Eddie Hunt (three singles, run), Porzig

Brown's

Megan Monberg managed a 10th place finish on floor and 11th on vault.
The oldest group of level six girls was led by Sharon Wain with a 36.85 all-around mark, good enough for second place. Wain parlayed sixth place finishes on vault and bars with a ninth on beam and a fourth on floor.
Amy Wittenberger took sixth all-around (36.45) and Ashley Brown was seventh (36.20). Wittenberger captured first place on floor, second on bars and ninth on beam. Brown took fourth on beam, fifth on floor and 11th on vault.
Kathryn Kelly led the level five competitors with a second place all-around score of 37.40. Kelly won the bars competition outright, adding a pair of fifths on vault and floor and a seventh on beam.
Brittany Viola earned fifth place all-around (37.30) on the strength of a first place finish on floor, third on beam, seventh on bars and 11th on vault.
Ferral Maguire (36.10), Karin Wood (35.60) and Pam Gray (35.40) finished 10th, 11th and 13th, respectively, in the all-around competition.
Maguire featured a fourth on bars, sixth on vault and 11th on beam. Wood featured a second place finish on vault and Gray took ninth on beam with a pair of 10th place finishes on vault and bars.
The remaining level five competitors contributed as follows:
Jennifer Comber, Danielle Conant, Julie Tully, Morgan Rutherford, Angela Goodwin and Deirdre

McShane each contributed individual event placements to the Brown's Central effort.
Level four competitor Maria Sigmond was the all-around champion in the younger group of the season three, posting a composite score of 35.90. Sigmond featured first place finishes on bars and floor and a second on beam.
Courtney Gladys (35.45), Sara Keeseecher (36.45) and Cierra Solis (36.45) each earned second place all-around in their respective age groupings.
Jenna Manikowski (34.90) and Brook Norman (34.80) each earned four place finishes all-around. Jean Edmonds (34.30) finished fifth.
Lindsay Tango (34.35-10th), Lindsay Knapp (34.10-11th), Kari Shaddinger (34.05-14th) and Melissa McCartney (33.50-15th) closed out the all-around placements for level four.
Notable were the efforts of Gladys with a second on beam and a pair of fourths on vault and floor. Norman took second on floor. Keeseecher had a pair of first place finishes in beam and floor and a second on bars. Edmonds was third on bars with Manikowski taking first on floor and second on beam.
Eynn Garner earned a second on floor exercise and Solis had a trio of second place finishes on vault, bars and beam. Tango grabbed a second on beam and McCartney was fourth on floor.
Meagan Morrell, Ashley Parr, Brittany Powell and Sonya Till closed out the placements for Brown's Central.
Total placements of all Brown's competitors reached a staggering 163.
Brown's Central is next scheduled to compete at the LaFleur's Invitational on October 21-22.

Blake finally getting his due in the NFL

Associated Press
CINCINNATI — If there were any doubts before, the Cincinnati Bengals have put them to rest: Sanford's Jeff Blake is the quarterback for the present and the future.
It isn't clear what role, if any, that leaves for David Klingler, the onetime "franchise quarterback" who is in the final year of his contract.
"My goal was to come in and play this year and see what happens, and that's still unchanged," Klingler said.
He declined to say whether he will leave the Bengals after this season.
Blake, a sixth-round draft pick of the New York Jets three years ago, signed Tuesday with Cincinnati through the 1999 season for an estimated $3.1 million a year.
He took over as the Bengals' starter in the eighth game last season after Klingler, then the starter, went down with an injury. Since then, he has invigorated what was a moribund offense.

Blake has completed 103 of 185 passes (55.7 percent) for 1,339 yards, 11 touchdowns and one interception. He leads the NFL in touchdown-to-interception ratio, and leads the AFC in passing yards.
Klingler was Cincinnati's No. 1 draft pick in 1992, and signed a four-year contract that averaged $1.7 million per year — including $1.1 million this season.
But he never developed into the player Cincinnati expected, and he has been sidelined with a broken jaw this season. His career quarterback rating is 66.3, compared with Blake's 75.0 last season and 96.2 this year.
Blake would have been a free agent after this season. His favorite receiver, Carl Pickens, is under contract to Cincinnati for four years.
"We've got something going here. Hopefully, this will help get other guys to want to come here and get some guys to stay," Blake said.
"He's shown splendid leadership," Bengals president Mike Brown said. "He's given us a chance to win. That's a step we think we can build off. We've got the core players of our team pretty well tied up, and Jeff has become the leader."

A season-ending knee injury to running back Ki-Jana Carter gave the Bengals enough room under the salary cap to avoid losing Blake after this season.
The Bengals ended up more than $3 million further under the salary cap than expected because of Carter's preseason injury. That money would have counted toward the cap had Carter, the No. 1 pick in the draft this year, played in 35 percent of the plays.
The Bengals were about $5 million to $6 million under the cap before signing Blake.
Just two seasons ago, Blake was a third-stringer with the Jets. Blake, 24, was acquired by the Bengals on waivers just prior to the start of the 1994 season.
He emerged as the Bengals' starter after Klingler and backup Don Hollas were injured in the same game last year.

Astrology is a 'pseudo-science'

DEAR MR. STEWART: Do you know anything about astrology? I don't understand how stars and planets can make a difference in my life or why when I was born or the location I was born would make any difference. Please explain?

JERRY T. ALTAMONTE SPRINGS, DEAR HARRY: Astrology is called "a pseudo science" and there never has been anything to prove that it, indeed, makes any difference on your life. There are numbers of individuals, though, who wish to believe that it does and they are entitled to believe as they wish. Just as with Ouija boards, palm reading, bumps on the head or Tarot cards, there are many different vehicles that some people desire to subscribe to for information about their lives. Personally, I go along with "the mind" and its unknown proportions. Each day I learn something new; add that to my life's experience and it helps me to make better and informed decisions along with common sense applications and "intuition." You see, intuition is something that we each possess, only don't use all the time. Anything that has learning attached to it can be valuable and if there are those that think that dowsing for water, for instance, is valid, then praise to their right to believe as they choose. I always tell my readers though, "Let the buyer beware."

'ESPecially'

Footnote: Adolph Hitler was an avowed astrology believer and during World War II, he employed professional astrologers to accurately plot his plans and misdeeds.

DEAR JERRY: When do you think that I'll be able to see my mother as I haven't seen her in over 20 years? We were estranged for some stupid reason that I can't even remember even at this time. It wasn't my fault but we still have not even had simple communication in all these years. She only lives in Miami.

JACK LAKE MARY, DEAR JACK: As with most people who have had arguments, many can't remember why they fought in the first place. No matter who was at fault, you will see her shortly; moreover, within 30 days and it will complete your needs. Try not to look at the past and only towards tomorrow "and one day at a time."

DEAR MR. STEWART: I found an old map while going through my late father's records. He was quite a traveler and thought that he would find the Lost Dutchman's gold mine in Arizona, but of course, never did. Do you think this map might have some value as I've never seen this one before? It was in the back of an old Bible.

HARRY SANFORD, DEAR HARRY: If nothing sounds like you might have enough information for a good book or maybe a movie. Things like this always fascinate me, but in this case, I feel that it's just a "map." If nothing else, I am sure you have a lot of moments left from your father to remember him by. This treasure certainly is far greater than one you have to look for. However, if I get a different feeling on this one, we'll lead up a couple of miles and head for the desert together. Of course, we'll have to change our names. I'll call you "Hardrock Harry" and I can be "Jer the Bear."

Heathrow women select Serenity House for project

Marianne Bassile, program vice president, Heathrow Women's Club, explained her program for the first membership meeting/luncheon of the 1995-96 season. It was to be in the form of a "Town Meeting," wherein everyone could have a chance to meet each other after the summer and socialize. Tables were set up with creative signs from the chairperson representing committees — this way women who had not yet selected a committee could circulate after lunch and ask questions of the different chairpersons to decide which committee was of most interest to them.

President Linda Wish called on Lisa Merlin of Serenity Home, the club's chosen charity for the second year, to give some background about Serenity Home. It was incorporated in 1982 as a non-profit transitional living facility providing women a place to live while recovering from substance abuse. Following Lisa, Barbara Holt, chairperson of Sunshine/Special Events, spoke. The potluck dinner is set for Saturday, Oct. 21. HWC member Pam Collins volunteered her home in Heathrow Woods for the event. Barbara said she "needs volunteers for the day of the event to decorate tables and set up." Melanie Haire is working on this committee and sent around a sign-up for who plans to come and what "covered dish" they will bring.

Delores Laah sent around a sign-up sheet for women to man the gates at the Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts during the weekend of Oct. 7 and 8, for which a scholarship would be given to a local student in the amount of $1,000 in the name of the Heathrow Women's Club. The recipient is Rafael Torres of Lake Howell High School.

After lunch Bassile told members about her fun "Getting to Know You" icebreaker form she was sending around and the women had to find two people there with the same birth month, one person with whom they shared the same home state, another person who had three or more grandchildren as well as three former board members and one person would sing them a short song right there and right now. The first one done would win. They had a tie score: Gail Vinocur and Melanie Haire.

Charlene Benner, membership chairperson, advised the club was starting off with a record-breaking 82 members, 69 active and 13 associates. Also, that the "new members" table begun last year will be a permanent fixture. As the new members come in they will be shown to the new member table with a hostess and will no longer feel alone.

The next membership meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, Oct. 10 and will be a dinner meeting with a top of 56 members. The cost is set at $19 per person and Peggy Pyle needs to have an early head count.

Mom's bad judgment invites danger

DEAR ABBY: No wonder our society is going to the dogs; there are so few good role models these days. People talk about the immorality of our young people, but not only are young people immoral, a lot of seniors are also living in sin. It's disgusting!

My mother, who is in her 70s, invited a man to live with her after knowing him for only one week. He moved into her house faster than greased lightning. I am in shock.

I believe Mother did this because she's lonely. She's getting on in years, and she decided she's going to do whatever she wants — and too bad about what people think! What a poor example she's setting for my children (her grandchildren). Of course, they know what's going on — they're not stupid.

I have proof that this man has a criminal record and can be violent. Should I inform Mother and risk her being angry with me, or should I just keep quiet? My husband thinks I should stay out of it. He says if I give this guy enough rope, he'll hang himself.

Please respond soon as I'm losing sleep over this.

NO NAME, SAN ANTONIO

DEAR NO NAME: If you give your mother's roommate enough rope, he could also hang her! Share your proof of his criminal record and his history of violent behavior with her immediately. A word of caution, however: Cool your anger and judgmental attitude, or you may alienate her before you can deliver the message.

DEAR ABBY: In the letter signed "Desperate," a woman's son was coming home from college and bringing his live-in girlfriend, which threw his mother into a tizzy. She didn't approve of her son sleeping with his girlfriend under her roof. It reminded me of my own situation.

I was returning from Germany after 17 years of service in the U.S. Army and bringing with me Ingrid, my live-in girlfriend, and her son. My father said Ingrid and I could not sleep together in his house. Easily fixed. Ingrid slept in the house with her son, and I slept in my parents' camping trailer. Because I respect my mother and father, in their home I live by their rules.

My father died two years ago, right after their 50th wedding anniversary, and I will continue to live by his rules while in their home. If you print this, please use my name. I want everyone to know how much I respect my parents.

ADVICE
ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DAVID SCRIVEN, U.S. ARMY (RET.)
DEAR DAVID SCRIVEN: Thank you for a heartwarming letter. To your credit, you obviously practice the commandment, "Honor thy father and thy mother."

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to "Loves to Move," the woman who moves from house to house, even though her kids hate moving, because she loves hard work.

May I offer a suggestion? Why doesn't she start her own local moving company? That way, she can work hard, her teenagers can have the stability kids so desperately need, and she can make some money to send her kids to college. It's the perfect solution!

NEVER MOVING AGAIN
DEAR NEVER: Thank you for your moving letter.

DEAR ABBY: My brother and sister ("Earl" and "Janet") argue about this every time they get together. They have agreed the issue will be put to rest with your answer.

When Janet's daughter, "Lisa," got married, Earl asked that "Shirley," his ex-wife, not be invited to the wedding. Lisa agreed to exclude Shirley because Lisa feels closer to her Uncle Earl.

Well, Janet chose to ignore both requests and invited Shirley anyway, saying, "She's still my friend, and besides, I'm paying for everything."

Earl was mad and attended the church ceremony only, because he didn't want to go to the reception alone. (Shirley skipped the reception, too.) Abby, should Shirley have been invited to the wedding? And do most families include ex-spouses in such social events?

THE OTHER BROTHER

DEAR OTHER BROTHER: Many do. Whether ex-spouses are included would depend on their relationship with the family. However since the bride requested that Shirley not be included — and it's the bride's special day — Shirley should have been dropped from the guest list.

Since she wasn't, Earl and Shirley could have been invited to bring escorts if they wished, in which case they should have been seated as far apart as possible.

Lyme is only one tick-bite disease

DEAR DR. GOTT: What is HGE and how can I avoid getting it?

DEAR READER: Deer ticks spread at least two bacterial diseases: Lyme disease and human granulocytic ehrlichiosis.

The first disorder - initially described in residents of Lyme, Conn. - causes a plethora of symptoms, including fever, rash, muscle aches, malaise - in short, an illness resembling flu, with which it has been confused for decades. Without treatment, Lyme disease often progresses to arthritis and chronic inflammation of many of the body's organs, such as the brain and heart.

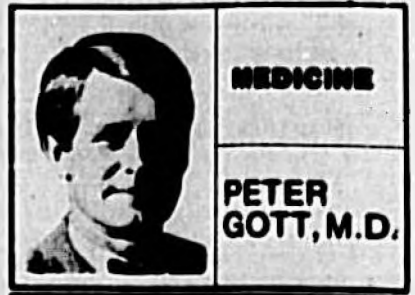

The second disorder, HGE, mimics Lyme disease, except that no rash is present. Common complaints are fever, chills, cough, nausea, and vomiting. Without therapy, the disease can be fatal. HGE also is very similar to human monocytic ehrlichiosis, which is common in the South and Southeastern U.S., and is transmitted through the bite of the Lone Star tick.

These diseases are suspected in people who live in endemic areas and who show signs of flu (which is exceedingly rare during the summer months). The afflictions are diagnosed by blood tests. Treatment includes antibiotics, principally doxycycline.

To avoid tick-borne diseases, people must wear protective clothing (with or without tick repellent) when working or walking outdoors; in addition, experts recommend a meticulous examination for ticks at day's end. This may be a daunting task, because deer ticks may be no larger than the period at the end of this sentence. Nonetheless, any ticks that are found either wandering or embedded should be gently removed; in order to transmit Lyme disease or HGE, a tick must feed for at least 24 hours.

Therefore, a tick-check is an effective preventive measure.

Symptoms of "summer flu" - especially if they follow a tick bite within 7 to 21 days - should be brought to a doctor's attention, because early treatment with antibiotics is usually curative and will prevent the serious complications that can follow tick-borne diseases.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

One Sunday evening I was watching the news. The anchor started a piece by saying, "If you watch TV, and you probably do..." Did she realize what she had said? Does the script writer still have his job?

In bridge, many plays are obvious; but some are difficult to find, as in today's deal, from this year's Toronto Calcutta. It was described by double world champion Peter Weichsel.

North's three-club rebid was an overstatement. Three hearts or two no-trump would have more accurate. Weichsel, thinking his partner had a good hand for play in hearts, jumped to game.

Clearly, Weichsel had to hope trumps weren't 5-0. But even so, faced with four red-suit losers, he needed a misdefense.

declarer led the heart queen. If West had won with the ace and returned the heart 10, that would have been the end of the story. But West ducked. Now came a diamond to dummy's king and East's ace.

To defeat the contract, East must lead the club king. Then, after a ruff and overruff, West must return a diamond. Declarer can cash four spade tricks and take a diamond ruff in the dummy, but West scores another heart trick on a promotion.

However, as Weichsel expected, East didn't find this play. Instead, he returned a diamond. Weichsel won with the queen, cashed four spade tricks, discarding two diamonds from the dummy, and ruffed his diamond loser in the dummy. West was welcome to a pair of trump tricks but Weichsel had made his contract.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
Oct. 6, 1995

In the year ahead, your ability to make and maintain friendships may be numbered among your most outstanding assets. The high regard that others hold you in could grow more evident each day.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your leadership qualities will become very evident to others today. Even persons you have only brief dealings with will be aware of this fact. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences that govern you in the year ahead. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $2 and SASE to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10150. Make sure to state your zodiac sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your chances for success today will be stronger if you don't broadcast your intentions. Secretly establish your objectives and proceed quietly toward them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If your ears are ringing today, it could be because friends are saying nice things about you. Pats in positions to grant favors might do so without being asked.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Do not limit your thinking or your talents today because you're capable of achievements that might even surprise you. Put the pedal to the metal and go.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Very soon, possibly even today, you might receive some news from a distance that'll be extremely welcomed. The sender is someone you like.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You may be more astute in business today than you were yesterday. Go back and trim up any loose ends you might have left dangling.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You should have harmony in the romance department. Matters of the heart will have greater significance than usual in various aspects of your life.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Plan a full agenda today because the busier you are, the happier you're likely to feel. Of equal significance is that whatever you attempt, you'll do well.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Socializing with friends will spark the brighter aspects of your personality today. Wherever you go, the welcome mat will be out for you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Given adequate time, things in general will have a way of working out to your ultimate advantage today. This should be especially noticeable concerning material interests.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You are currently in an excellent cycle for successfully promoting products, enterprises or issues that are important to you. Get out there and make your pitch.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your probabilities for personal accumulation are more consistent now than they have been for some time. The cash flow could develop from several sources.

LAKE MARY — Like magic, each October L&L Acres Farm in Heathrow is transformed from a grazing ground for cattle into a spectacular showcase of the works of artisans and crafters from across the nation.

Canvas tents and booths made of wire and wood are bejeweled with colorful craft items and festooned with fine art paintings.

The Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts, now in its ninth year, has attracted artists of great prestige to bring fine art for show and sale to the people of Seminole County.

"We are able to put on a spectacular event here," said Joanne Lucas-Bourg, chairman of the festival committee. "This is a premier event. One of the best in the country in terms of the quality of the artists we have been able to attract."

The two-day event, which will take place this year on Oct. 7 and 8, will benefit local arts organizations, including the arts classes in Seminole County schools.

The schools, working in conjunction with the festival organizers, hope to raise $100,000 for the arts programs through the advance sale of tickets to the event.

"We are very happy to be a part of this project," said Supt. Paul Hagerty of the Seminole County public schools.

State financing for arts education projects has been cut severely over the last few years, Hagerty said. Support from the community and from organizations such as the Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts is invaluable.

The arts festival puts a great deal of emphasis on the students in Seminole County with events geared toward young people, with scholarship opportunities for young artists and with a special display area for the work of those youngsters who are participating in the event.

"We want to do all that we can for the kids," Lucas-Bourg said. "We want to encourage a love of art for kids as early as possible."

There is no better place for an aspiring young artist to display his work in Central Florida, she said. Art lovers from all

Festival chairman looks back and to the future

By JOANNE L. BOURG
Festival Chairman

The seeds for The Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts were planted in June of 1987 by a group of Lake Mary visionaries whose dedication and determination produced an event that continues to please art aficionados far and wide. Initial "Start Up" money was graciously provided by the Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce.

From this humble and almost inauspicious beginning, the arts festival has succeeded in producing one of the finest outdoor art shows in Florida, bringing a great deal of national attention to the arts and to our community.

This success ultimately has allowed the Lake

Mary Heathrow Scholarship fund to be increased to $25,000 in 1994. The scholarship goal for 1995 is $35,000.

Not content to rely on past accomplishments, the festival in conjunction with the Seminole County Public Schools System has launched a strategy to secure funds for all of the 47 schools of Seminole County. This major countywide cultural arts fund-raiser of $100,000 (potential projected goal) will be accomplished by Seminole County students pre-selling festival admission tickets, with the funds reverting back to their individual classrooms.

The Lake Mary Heathrow Festival's mission is clear and simple.

- To raise scholarship money for graduating high school students:

- To foster pride and involvement in the community;
- To stimulate and energize the local economy;
- To entertain, have fun and to celebrate the arts!

The festival is now a nationally recognized celebration of the arts. It makes important cultural and economic contributions to our great state while increasing the awareness and appreciation of the arts locally and across the country.

Festival visitors can seek out their favorite among the 350 featured artists, and learn the inspirational secrets of creating original art.

The Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts continues to prosper each year due to the outstanding efforts of the 17 individuals who make up the board of directors. Their collective commitment creates a unique opportunity to see, experience and appreciate the arts.

Special thanks and recognition should also be given to Leo Trapanier, who generously furnishes the beautiful festival site, our many sponsors who provide additional funding; to all Seminole County Chambers of Commerce; the residents and businesses of the over the country will make their way through the gates to see the creations of the young artists.

Last year 24 students were honored with scholarship money based on their artwork which was submitted for competition. A total of $21,450 in scholarships were presented to the students.

This year, Lucas-Bourg said, there are plans to give away more scholarships to help student artists.

The festival is a feast for the eyes, but it will be a gastronomic treat as well with more than six dozen food vendors offering goodies from simple hotdogs to tasty vegetarian delights.

There will also be a variety of beverage vendors as well.

Lucas-Bourg and co-chair DeLoree Lash spend much of the year traveling around the country attending other arts festivals and introducing the artists to the wonders of our community.

She believes artists are coming to know Seminole County and the Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts as a respected arts community.

Among the artists who have come to know this is Herbert Felic Hofer.

Hofer was nominated by the Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts committee to receive the Creative Arts Award for the 34th Annual International Hall of Fame.

He was presented with the award this year for his many years of work in the field of folk art.

Hofer is also the recipient of the 1984 United Nations Peace Prize for his painting "Search for Paradise."

Throughout the years, the festival has maintained its appeal to those with a wide variety of interests. For example, those interested in the musical performing arts should be pleased with the musicians who are on hand to perform at the festival. Some of the area's most talented musicians will be present at L&L Acres.

"This is a beautiful atmosphere for them to perform in," Lucas-Bourg said.

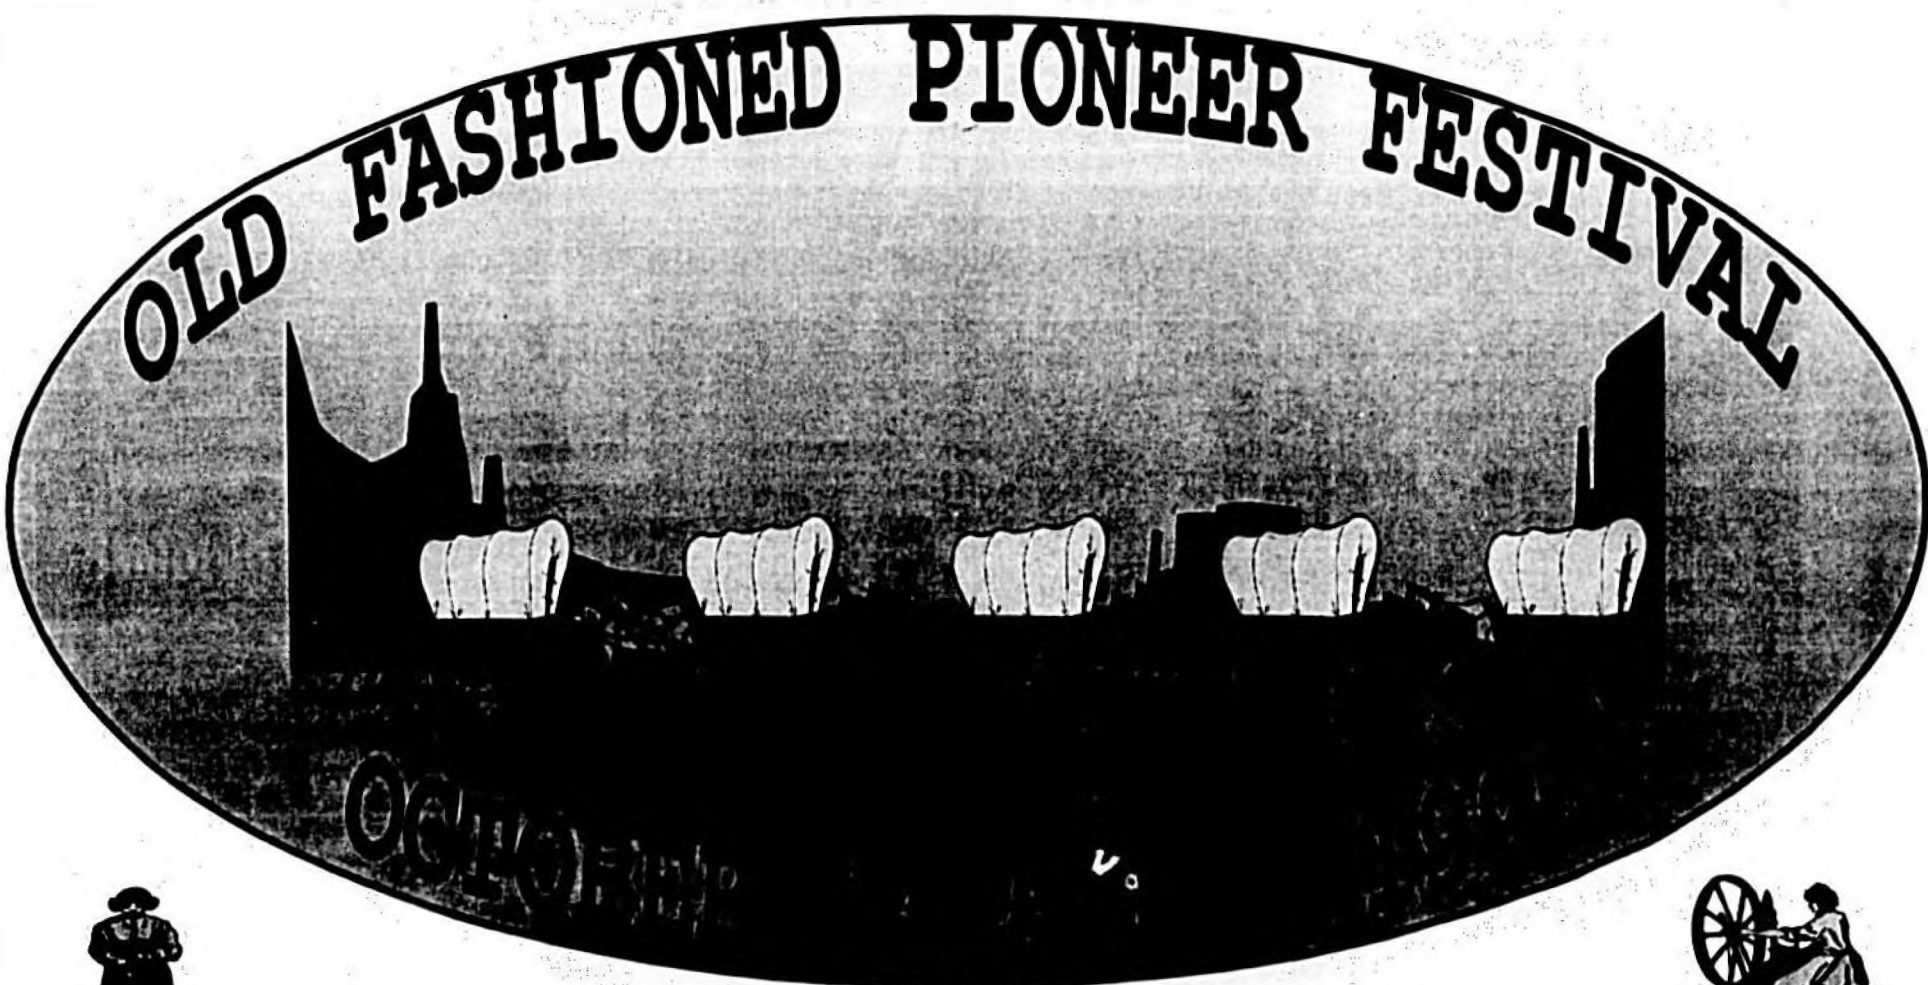

She said that the informal beautiful of the festival site will allow many who might find classical music or ballet inaccessible a little friendlier and more enjoyable.

According to Lucas-Bourg, there may be some traffic tie-ups on both Lake Mary Boulevard and on Interstate 4 for those who plan to attend the festival.

"There are going to be hundreds of thousands of people attending the festival over the two days," she said. "There will be some traffic backups."

There will be plenty of parking at the festival grounds, however. There is no charge for parking.

Admission to the event is $1 per person. Festival hours are from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day.

Mayors from Seminole County cities welcome festival-goers

Lake Mary

Welcome to the 9th annual Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts. This festival is the largest single event held in Seminole County. The attention of the local, national and international arts communities are focused on this festival and our community. Through the diligent efforts and hard work of the past and present festival committees, participants, and volunteers, this event has become an unparalleled success.

The works of more than 350 artists from around the world will be shared and appreciated by the 100,000 plus attendees. However, the real "Stars" of this festival are the elementary, middle school, and high school students who will display their talents and compete, either individually or on behalf of their class, for monetary awards. Everyone will be a winner, the artists, the students, the teachers and most of all the community.

I encourage everyone to attend the Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts, for this event is truly "Florida's Festival for Art Scholarships."

Lowry E. Rockett, Mayor
City of Lake Mary

Bettye Smith
Sanford

The City of Oviedo is proud to support the Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts. Oviedo has a growing community of artists and art-related businesses; thus an awareness of the contributions they make to a community.

We commend the Festival for the numerous art scholarships that have been given in the past and wish the organization every success as it endeavors to encourage students interested in the "wonderful world of art."

Miriam W. Bruce, Mayor
City of Oviedo

As Mayor of the City of Sanford, I want to commend all of those involved with the Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts for creating a program that benefits not only the Lake Mary/Heathrow area, but surrounding communities as well. This is a significant source of private funding for classroom improvements in our area schools and scholarships for our high school graduates.

It is then with great appreciation that we acknowledge the efforts of the Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival as it continues to meet the needs of our

Winter Springs

As Mayor of Winter Springs I would like to extend the well wishes of the Winter Springs Commissioners and citizens of Winter Springs for your 9th annual Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts.

Your festival contributes to the recognition of your city and Seminole County. Most of all I want to congratulate your efforts for being an event to our county that is popular with our citizens and productive. Best wishes for another successful festival.

Student art tent offers inspiration to youth

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Senior Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — Young artists will more than likely be inspired by the gorgeous works of art they see at the Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts.

Organizers of the event hope they have found an outlet for those creative juices that will surely be flowing.

At the student art tent, aspiring artists will have a variety of events, hosted by Seminole County school teachers who will teach young people crafts they can do on their own as an expression of their inner selves.

The teachers will provide the instruction for these crafts as well as all the supplies to create a piece of artwork of their own.

Each hour, the craft project will be a different one, so there will be an ever-changing array of crafts.

Among the projects that will be provided over the two day event are printmaking, batik, mask making, origami and mosaics.

There will be no charge for those children who take advantage of the opportunity.

According to the organizers, the Student Art Tent is designed to take a fun, fresh approach to art.

They will not only have the opportunity to see fine art produced by their peers, but they will also have the chance to see how art is created and brought to life.

Amid the clowns, balloons and face painting, the Student Art Tent is sponsored by the Board of Directors of the Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts.

The board will make a donation to the art program of the school where each of the participating teachers is employed.

"We would like to invite students of all ages to join us," said Carol Gentry, art instructor at Lake Mary High School. "There will be something for everyone."

Festival pays for scholarships

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Senior Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — The young people whose art appears at the Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts will not be selling their works.

But, while the pieces are merely for display, the students do have the opportunity to earn some big bucks for a good cause.

The Board of Directors offers scholarships to the student artists. The money can be used to pay for college or for artistic training beyond high school.

Open-heart surgery is performed regularly at Central Florida Regional Hospital's state-of-the-art unit, the only one in Seminole County.

Sponsor to the arts Hospital's commitment extends to many areas

By TIM PUTHOFF
Special to the Herald

SANFORD — Central Florida Regional Hospital has always been a great supporter of the arts and our community. In the past year alone, we have sponsored the London Symphony Orchestra's final concert at the Florida International Festival, and we were able to bring the LSO's string quartet, the "Lite Brigade" to Sanford. We are also a sponsor of MusicFest, a gospel and spiritual concert held annually at Lake Monroe Park. For the Lake Mary/Heathrow Festival of the Arts, Central Florida Regional Hospital is providing first-aid services for visitors to the festival. We realize how important the arts are to the quality of life in our community, and we will continue to support cultural events in the Seminole County area.

Our commitment to the community does not end with the arts, however. Through the generosity of our associates, our hospital has been recognized as a Pacesetter Organization by the Heart of Florida United Way. Our associates serve the community as volunteer members of organizations such as Boys and Girls Clubs, Seminole County School Foundation, Seminole County Healthy Start Coalition and Juvenile Diabetes Foundation. Central Florida Regional Hospital's commitment to education has resulted in being recognized by the Seminole County School Board for outstanding community service. We are a business partner with Seminole High School, Sanford Middle School and Hamilton Elementary. We are also a corporate sponsor for Lake Mary High School athletics.

Central Florida Regional Hospital provides a complete range of medical services, from the only open-heart program in Seminole County, to the "Baby Place," our beautiful obstetrics unit. Located on beautiful Lake Monroe, Central Florida Regional Hospital is the hospital of choice for residents of north Seminole and west Volusia counties.

Lake Mary / Heathrow Festival of the Arts Thanks You!!

The Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts gratefully acknowledges all of the individuals who helped make our Annual 1995 Festival such an overwhelming success. Hundreds of Seminole County Businesses and community minded citizens have come forward to support Seminole Schools.

The children in Seminole schools today are the work force and future political leaders of our Community and we especially want to publicly thank the following for serving as Corporate sponsors and/or providing major donations for The Ninth Annual Lake Mary / Heathrow Festival of the Arts.

Scenes from the Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts

Above: S.O.D.A. Pop dancers and national grand champions Valerie Faricano, Shivan McLamb, Lacy Nobles and Dianna Hatton rehearse for the festival of the arts. Below: Natalie Weid and Jacob Twillieger of the S.O.D.A. Pop competition team, demonstrate how they won 'Best in the Show' recently during the national championships. This talented group of dancers from Miriam + Valerie's School of Dance Arts is comprised of students ranging in age from 6 to 19. Keeping audiences spellbound is their specialty.

Florida State Conservatory of Music, Orlando students learn technique. Look for their tent at the festival where they will be conducting introductory evaluation lessons on keyboard and guitar. The purpose is to learn a child's response to music instruction and indicate a child's talent level.

Art at the festival comes in many forms, including a sculpture fashioned after the skeletal remains of a desert animal, above, and the varied creations kids can form with interlocking multi-colored blocks.

Featured entertainer

'Slim Man' aka Tim Camp is one of the featured performers appearing at the Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts. Slim Man is a singer and songwriter with a critically reviewed album to his credit named "End of the Rainbow." Instead of energetic guitar rock, the Slim Man specializes in jazzy, keyboard-based pop, a sound that has more in common with Sade than Stone Temple Pilots.

Awards

The money for the scholarships is one of the main focuses of the festival's fund-raising efforts. "This is one of our joys," said co-chairman Joanne Bourg. "We want to do what we can to encourage the young artists to pursue their art. It is very important that they do."

Last year, 24 scholarships were awarded to students at each of the district's six high schools and students at Seminole Community College. Three additional scholarships were presented to three students for their work.

This year's winners will be selected at the event on Oct. 7 and 8.

Last year's winners of $1,000 scholarships were:

• From Lake Mary High School
Windsor L. Rodriguez, who is attending Seminole Community College; Anita White, who is attending Rollins College; and Christopher Pacelli, who is attending Rollins College

• From Lake Howell High School

Rafael Torres, who is attending the School of Visual Arts; Sean Geer, who is attending the school of International Fine Arts; and Edward Paul Friend, who is attending Valencia Community College

• From Seminole High School

Poster artist

John Westcott brings to his acrylics and watercolors his interpretation of the world around him. With freshness and creativity, Westcott paints flora and fauna, the magic of the undersea and other special places. His paintings have a simplicity and spontaneity of line that attracts the viewer, while the details drawn into his work keeps him fascinated.

Educated at Massachusetts College of Art, Westcott has a strong background in fine art. His studio is in Springfield, Mass., but he spends most of his time in his motor home traveling to art shows from New England, west to New York and Illinois and south through Virginia and Florida.

John Westcott's paintings have won many awards at major art shows and he is represented in the collections of the Museum of Fine Arts and the Central Library, both in Springfield. He has won awards in many shows including Mystic and Stratford, Conn.; Orlando, Amelia Island and Cocon Village, Fla.; Washington Square Outdoor Art Show New York. The awards include Best in Show at Allentown, N.Y. and Sterling House, Conn. His one-man shows have received critical acclaim and his paintings grace the walls of corporate offices and homes of private collectors.

Judges for the 1995 Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts

Robert Reedy, left, judge for the craft division of the Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts, is chairman, associate professor, Department of Art, University of Central Florida, Orlando. He is a former associate professor at Bradley University in Peoria, Ill. and chairman of the Fine Arts Department of the Ringling School of Art and Design in Sarasota, Fla. Reedy earned his Bachelor's and Master's of Fine Arts degrees from the University of Mississippi, where he majored in Ceramics and minored in Sculpture. Henry Adams, right, one of the judges of the Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts, is director of The Cummer Gallery of Art, Jacksonville.

He received a Ph.D. in Art History from Yale University. His numerous awards include First IMS Museum Service Award to the Cummer Museum of Art, honoring it as the museum in the United States which has done most over the last three years to reach out to its community. The award was bestowed by the First Lady, Hillary Rodham Clinton, at a ceremony in the Diplomatic Reception Room of the White House, Oct. 13, 1994. In 1989, he received the William F. Yates Distinguished Service Medallion, William Jewell College, Liberty, Mo., for the betterment of life in Kansas City and the Midwest.

George Dombek, one of the judges of the Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts, is a resident of Goshen, Ark. He received a Master of Fine Arts degree in painting from the University of Arkansas. He has received the 1994 Southern Arts Federation/National Endowment of the Arts Regional Visual Arts Fellowship, and in both 1985 and 1993, received the Florida Individual Artist Fellowship Award, Tallahassee. Dombek has had many one-man exhibitions throughout the United States beginning in 1977 through the present.
