The death rate and the case rate of typhoid of the 20 year period ending in 1918 when inoculation was first used in the army and its present low rate of today is given to show the real power of the vaccine inoculation. It is pointed out that death by typhoid has become almost unknown and that even it is a matter without reason for cases of typhoid to develop as the use of vaccine is so readily at hand.

Thoculation against, typhoid fever was introduced into the United States army as a voluntary measure in 1909 and, was made compulsory in 1911, according to the bulletin. "Immediately thereafter a marked decrease in the rate of typhoid cases and deaths was the results. For the 20 year period ending with 1909 the rate of admission to hospitals per 100,000 soldiers varied between 313 and 14,-158. The death rate varied between 20 and 1,483. This high case rate occurred in 1898—the year of the Spanish-American war.

"Flaming Youth" Championed

One of the most recent champions of American "flaming outh" is the Modernist president of Brown University, Dr. W. H. P. Faunce, who does not believe that the present generation is cradled in the sin and iniquity so popularly associated with the term "collegiate." And while his very tolerant and undisturbed attitude toward the recreational pursuits of his cirarges has awakened a storm of criticism among those whose lives seem concentrated to a platitudinous and generally ridiculous flogging of sinful college practices, there is much solid substance to his defense of the rising, or as some would have us believe, the sky-rocketing a new "high. generation.

Twentieth century boys and girls are sickly amatours at vice and degeneracy compared to the rather obscure col- tooth." legiates of the eighteenth century, Dr. Faunce tells us after an exhaustive dive into histrionic records, and in support of this bomb shell among the eiders, he drags from eighteenth century closets, with scientific callousness, such skeletons as make the present day attempts at deviltry seem | pulled the trigger, and the lion did pale by comparison.

clo Seminele Hudson-Essex Co

Sanford, Fla. Dear Ed:

at is said that a higher sense o honor has been developed in the Chinese than in any other race of people. Perhaps this is due to the have the habit of chopping off bis heed. And it is simply human he ture for a man to prefer to lines his head than to have ill-gotten

A Chinaman came over to this country, and he proved to be a non-conformist. That size he did not open a hand laundry ... He was smart enough to see that there were other occupations in which there was easier, money than in the laundry business, especially in this dry of the soft collar.

He wanted to get a big wad of money in a hurry, so he declared to be a plumber, Now, you might wonder how an honest Chinamer. could be a plumber, and that's just what I propose to explain. After serving his apprenticeship. under a typical American plumber. the Chinaman opened a business of to a house and stop a small leak in a faucet, which he did in the usual plumber's style, but which he billed to his customer with characteriatic Chinese honesty as fel-

"To 5 geings and 5 comings at $1 per menting, $5."

The advantage of this age of billing is that his customer though he paid the usual plumber's spale, knew what he was mying for. There was no camouflage about that bill. As a rule people are willing to pay for what they get, if they get their money's worth. People who buy the Essex Coach are siwaya satisfied, because the longer they own their car the more they become satisfied that they got every
