SANFORD - Honorary chairwoman Micki King Hogue congratulated older athletes at opening ceremonies of the 15th annual Golden Age Games Sunday and said she thought she and they have something in common - the understanding of what competi-tive sports is all about, besides the winning of medals. "You know, I remember the second and thid place awards I won much more clearly than the first places," she said. "You and I know that the medals are just the tangible part of the competition, to remind you of all the friends you made. Hogue and all the times you fall and someone picked you up, and everything that' is involved in athletic competition." Hogue, who competed as an Air Force officer in the 1968 and 1972 Olympics, broke her arm in 1968 when she hit it on the diving board during competition after having led the event.

"From the time I was 15 until I retired from competition at age 28, diving was my whole life - every vacation, every moment. I postponed marriage because training is a very selfish activity. And when I retired from competition in 1972 I found I hadn't learned how to enjoy sports."

Hogue, now a Lt. Colonel in the Air Force, is in charge of the Reserve Officer Training Corps at the University of Kentucky.

"Today, I have learned to have fun with sports - with hitting a tennis ball, or jogging around campus during my noon hour, or bowling."

Hogue said she was proud of the participants in the Golden Age Games for knowing how to enjoy sports. "A lot of enjoying sports is being with people who have the same interest as you do," she said.

Hogue said there is no way to explain the feeling of being on the stand to receive the gold medal at the Olympics. "It's a very private moment," she said. "I thought of all the help I had from my coach from Michigan, and also from my uncle, Uncle Sam, who had helped be train and compete as a member of the Air Force."

In a lighter vein, she told the crowd that when she received her medal she noticed her name was spelled "Nicki," not "Micki." She ran to the engraving truck, which was still in the area, and Bee Games, Page SA

Farm stress to differ in 90s

GAINESVILLE - The head of the Florida Farm Bureau predicted farmers will face different types of stress in the 1990s than they have in the past few years. State Farm Bureau chief Carl Loop said pressures in the 1990s will come more from customers questioning food safety and from those questioning human concerns of environmental questions. That compares to the 1980s, when bad weather and questions. That compares to the 1960s, when our weather and financial hardships hit many farm operations. Loop said the new questioning will come from people who know little about farming and from those who don't understand how farm economics works. He said there is common misunderstanding about government programs and about how much farmers care about the environment.

Loop points to the recent controversy over farm chemicals as an example. He says many consumers are using a blanket criticism of chemicals without realizing how much good most of them produce.

92 arrested in booze crackdown

TALLAHASSEE - A weekend crackdown on underage drinking and other alcohol violations in Tallahaasee netted 92 people on charges ranging from possession by minors to sale of alcohol to underage drinkers.

Fifty of those arrested were Florida State University students, police said. The crackdowns, conducted by the state Department of Business Regulation and other agencies, have targeted homecoming activities at universitites.

Tallahassee was chosen this weekend because of the Florida State University homecomeing and Saturday night's home game for Florida A&M.

Those arrested included a convenience store manager arrested for failing to check the ages of two teens who tried to buy alcohol. The crackdown included the use of underage decoys to make beer buys. Similar crackdowns have taken place around the campuses of the University of Florida and the University of Central Florida.

TALLAHASSEE - Gov. Bob Martinez is raking in cash from special interests groups for his 1990 re-election bid, proving the power of incumbency despite his lackbuster showing in public opinion

A computer-assisted analysis of the governor's money-raising efforts published in Sunday edi-tions of the St. Petersburg Times shows 89 percent of the 63.1 million he has raised thus far has come from special interest groups.

The newspaper said lawyers are already within $50,000 of surpassing their todal contributions for Martines' 1966 campaign. Agriculture, real estate, investment banking and insurance interests are prominent contributors.

The money is flowing notwithstanding the controversy over abortion, his mediocre showings in public opinion polls, and raging battles with the Legislature over taxes and transportation.

Rape suspect linked to 19 women's deaths

nited Press International

MIAMI - Miami homicide detectives have linked an accused rapist, who is being held in the Dade County Jail, to the alayings of 19 women killed between July 1987 and April. Charles Henry Williams, 33. has not been charged in any of the slayings, but homicide de-tectives have identified Williams as their prime suspect in a string of strangulation cases. The Miami Herald reported Monday. The latest slaying linked to Williams is that of 20-year-old Sandra Jackson who was last seen with Williams on March 23. said Tony Rodriguez, a Miami homicide detective.

Neiswender said it is not the intention of the law to prevent a student from helping to support his or her family, but rather to help those students who are not motivated to stay in class find the incentive to do so. There is a provision in the law which allows students to drop out of school without penalty if they are able to prove economic hardship.

absense will be defined as a full day of missed classes rather than missing just one class in the course of a day. "I think that when it (the law) is fully implemented," board chairman Ann Neiswender said.

"It will keep students from leaving school or having too many unexcused absenses." The Seminole County school board met for an informal work session Friday to discuss the ways in which Seminole County could implement the law to its fullest advantage. "We're really excited about this," Neiswender said.

The state has made drop-out prevention a priority. Florida has one of the highest drop-out rates in the nation.

"We have got to keep these students in school," Neiswender said. She noted they often drop out to take low paying jobs with greater insurance premiums. "We would like to find out if a suspension is a suspension." Neiswender said, saking if there would be an equal increase in insurance premiums for a person whose drivers license is suspended for failure to attend classes as for a DUI conviction, for example.

Neiswender said students whose licenses are su will have the option of a Color Manual Vision the decision to a special board "It a student feels the suspen-sion is unfair they will have a opportunity to discuss it," Neiswender said.

Neiswender conceded the process of keeping track attendance records will be difficult. If not expensive pro-position. She said, however, that it will be worth it in the end.

Voters in Longwood also must approve charter amendments

By SANDRA DOUCHAN Herald staff writer

LONGWOOD - When voters here go to the polls to select candidates tomorrow, they will need to take extra time to decide several charter amendments.

A city charter review board took eight months to comb through the charter to find areas which needed clarification. They completed their work this summer and in August, the ommission adopted the changes after reviewing them at several workshops before selecting which ones were to go on the ballot.

The city charter sets forth the rules and guidelines elected and appointed officials must follow. It has been the subject of controversy this year. This year. former commissioner Carol Odom was removed from office for allegedly violating the charter. Odom has filed a civil lawsuit against the city, city attorney and three commission-ers. The federal suit claims she was denied an attorney and a public hearing. Longwood officials say most of the charter changes are simple clarification matters. They do, however, point to several of the 29 proposed amendments as being significant.

Those are: Off more than six months remain in a city commissioner's term and no regular election shall be held within six months, the commission shall appoint someone to fill a vacancy and an election shall be held not sooner than 30 days or more than 70 days following the occurrence of the vacancy.

•A commission member charged by a majority of the commission must be notified in writing of the charges and given seven working days to request a public hearing or automatically forfeit the office. Decisions of the commission are subject to review by the Seminole County Circuit Court.

The city attorney and city cierk would serve at the pleasure of the commission and commencing July 1, 1991, could be discharged for cause by a majority vote of the commission. A discharged officer shall be entitled to a public hearing if a request to do so is made within seven working days of the motion to discharge prior to voting upon a motion to discharge.

Oinquiries and investigations by the commission shall be done by the commission acting as a body, and dealing with officers or employees will mean any contact concerning supervision. control, discipline or other administrative or management matters.

A new subsection will allow a vacancy on the commission to be filled by an appointment made by the remaining commission members if there is less than six months remaining in the unexpired term or if there is iess than six months before the next regular election, and if one year or more remains in the term it shall be filled by an election.

The city clerk is to serve at the pleasure of the city com-mission commencing July 1, 1991 and from that time forward may be removed for cause by a majority vote of the commission.

•A qualified "Interim City Manager" would be appointed by the commission in the event the position is vacant or during disability of the manager anticipated to exceed 120 days and in no event the interim can hold office for more than 180 days.

That's unfortunate, because Neuharth has led corporate America in facilitating equal opportunity for women and minorities. After you read his book, however, you realize that his commitment to equality was governed more by the desire to promote self than the imperative to do good. He still leaves a legacy of being the first publisher to realize that Ameri-cans want more colorful and less thoughtful newspapers. In this age of videocracy, USA Today thrives as a testament to his audacious vision. "My Turn," Nancy Reagan's idolatrous apologia for one of the worst presidents in American history, confirms what we already

The "kiss-and-tell" tomes by the Rev. Ralph D. knew: Donald Regan was the anake in Ronald's Abernathy, Al Neuharth and Nancy Reagan, White House Garden of Eden, and Nancy relied heavily on an astrologer to counsel her husband. Comparing all three authors, I find it quintementially paradox-ical that the least influential one of the trio has provoked the biggest controversy. Abernathy's "I was there" account of King's philandering has pained blacks and unleashed a hardly containable gice among many whites. But only three, issues from Abernathy's briefly unfavorable comments about King are worth noting: (1) their accuracy: (2) the response of King's followers; and (3) their impact on King's place in history. Two witnesses who were present in the Memphis motel the night before King's ity emong King's theological apostles is dismaying.

The lack of

But the lack of Christian charity among King's theological apostles is dismaying. In their anger at Abernathy's Judas-like betrayal, they diminish King's incredible devotion to forgive-ness. "Bless them that persecute you. Pray for them which despitefully use you." In 1959, when King was recuperating in a Harlem hospital after a mentally disabled woman had stabled him in the chest, I asked him at a bedaide press conference whether he forgave her. King smiled and nodded: "Chuck, I forgave her long ago." As for the historical implications of Abernathy's revelations in "And the Walls. Came Tumbling Down." so what?

I recall a birthday party that King gave for me in Adam Clayton Powell Jr.'s office in July 1966. Abernathy got so drunk on champagne that he passed out on Adam's light blue couch. Later, King lovingly kidded him.

Only one thing intrigues me about Abernathy's book title. In the hymn, "Joshua fit the battle of Jericho ... and the walls came tumbling down." Is Abernathy contending that he is Joshus to King's Moses?

ARNOLD SAWISLAK America's bridges are falling down

WASHINGTON - Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan was on television the Sunday after the Loma Priets earthquake talking about the possibility of increasing the gasoline tax to pay for fixing the nation's dilapidated bridges.

To some, Moynthan's effort to use the California catastrophe to bring up the probiems of deteriorating bridges and overpasses throughout the federal highway system may have seemed to be just another money-hungry liber-al trying to exploit an isolated, albeit tragic. event to get into the public's pocket.

More likely, it was a case of a desperate public official grasp-ing-at-the first starw-that came, to hand in hopes of finding help in what has been a lonely effort to intersoue of elementary highway safety. There is much more than falling down bridges involved in what became known as "the infrastructure problem" a few years ago. "Infrastructure" is just the kind of puter network; as was the case with the president's proposed Mars mission, the White House has delivered more of a wish than a policy. But it is a wish worth pursuing and, if well designed, an infrastructure investment worth making.

Farewell to a fine leader

It is disappointing to learn that Philippine President Corason Aquino does not plan to seek re-election in 1993. She has been good for the troubjed nation and may leave a serious void in the political system when her term ends.

Granted, she has not made as much economic prograss as one would wish. Nor has she been able to eradicate entrenched corruption or stop all human-rights abuses. Yet her government has reversed the steep economic decline that prevailed before she came to office, and has eliminated many of the worst abuses of power. Things might have gone better if she had possessed extensive political experience. But would an experienced politician have had the opportunity in the first place? She was thrust into the 1986 presidential race, against the despotic Ferdinand Marcos, not as an established political figure but as the widow of a martyred opposition leader. It's doubtful that a different challenger could have ousted the wily Marcos (now deceased) and held the country together after his departure.

Aquino, the gentle housewife-turned-president, still has time for important achievements before retiring. America's friendship can be helpful in that regard. Given the moral authority she has attained, she also may have opportunities to help keep her country on the democratic path. But we cannot help thinking her ability to influence future events would have been greater if she hadn't made herself a lame duck.

ELLEN GOODMAN Adieu from Today, fair Jane

BOSTON — Mornings look a lot easier now on the "Today" set. The baton has passed and with it the alarm clock. The critics have slowed their speculation about the menage a trols in the morning: See Jane and Deb Fighting Over One Job!

Indeed, the big news at Rockefeller Center this week is about the Japanese takeover of the building, not about the hostile takeover of the "Today" show. But the long-running Jame and Deb debacle held enough messages about how to manage and mismanage change to fill a case study.

For openers. NBC bungled the move from one co-host to another out of an almost lethal inability to manage relationships. Their vision of a gracious transition was plunking Deborah Norville down on a sofa next to Jane Pauley. It was as subtle as a man presenting a new stepmother to the kids before the divorce had been announced. No wonder that the cry went out for mom.

Then there was the issue of age. Deborah Norville at 31 was somehow typecast as a younger woman ousting Jane Pauley at 39. Women are traditionally divided into two age categories — too young or too old. But the gap is usually more than eight years. As 'Phil Donahue asid to Pauley on his free-ranging show on Oct. 30, "If you're old. I'm finished."

ge was a hit on Norville as well as Pauley. If 39 ion't an older woman, 31 ion't an ingenue. Pauley herself was 26 when she went to the "Today" show from Chicago where one reviewer had said, "She has the 10 of a cantaloupe." Now the generation that once refused to trust anyone over 30 seems particularly ready to question the skills of anybody under 32.

But of all the intriguing footnotes to this tempest in a TV set. I was most struck by everybody's blanket assumption that Jane everybody's blanket assumption that Jane Pauley had to be forced out. Behind that assumption was a second one: She would never choose to leave. Indeed, no one in his or her-right mind would voluntarily vacate one of the handful of jobs that other people would kill for. They are supposed to hang on to power, prestige and the peak of the pyramid.

It is a tribute to Pauley's credibility that people even paused in the midst of conspiracy theories to hear her say that she was choosing to find out "what happens next." For a long time, she said, "the very idea of 'next' was terrifying. And then one day I realized it wasn't anymore. In fact, I began to find it intriguing to toy with the notion of change."

Paulcy admitted on Donahue that she might not have begun to toy with change if Norville hadn't come on the set. But the "external joit." as she called it, was not exactly an ectrocution. She went on to tell Donahue. am a woman who does not cease to breathe out of the television studio. And I'm a woman of an age when you really start defining what a successful life is...That may or may not mean being a television star."

This mother of three is not going from Today to Yesterday's rubbish heap. She'll be working on a prime-time show at a superstar salary. Moreover, if anyone who has gotten up before dawn for 13 years can be certified sane, I would give Jane the badge.

Bo if we have trouble accepting her willing-ness to change, to step off a perch, then how much harder it is to believe that any one might truly want to move on and do something else.

even something the public would define as "ices."

Sooner or later, any star who lives iong enough -football player or President - becomes a has-been by the world's definition. Most of us are going to experience major changes that are not necessarily rungs on an ever-upward ladder. We will go along recreating life and even, as Pauley put it, redefining a successful life. If we can accept that for others — without always paying atten-tion to the score-keepers — maybe we can accept it for ourseives.

In a reverie called "Composing a Life." Mary Catherine Bateson, the daughter of Margaret Mead, writes: "Continuity is the exception in twentieth-century life and adjusting to discon-tinuity is...the emerging problem of our era...Of any stopping point in life, it is good to ask whether it will be a good place from which to go on as well as a good place to remain." Today is always temporary.

word that makes bureaucrats smile and puts the public to eleep, which may be one reason why precious little has been done to deal with what really is an extremely serious problem.

In plain vanilla English, the roads, streets, bridges, sewer and water systems and other public facilities in the United States are starting to fall apart. In some cases — for example the water systems in New York and Chicago - an effort is being made to replace antiquated and run down facilities.

But in far too many other cases, absolutely nothing is being done to repair or replace public works that are going downhill. The worst situations are on the highways and bridges and the problem is not just a matter of potholes or rust on railings. Some say as many as one out of every four highway structures need work or rebuilding.

Hundreds of the overpasses, clevated structures and bridges that millions of drivers must cross every day on the way to and from work or on business are simply unsafe and ought to be closed until they are fixed or

But when the reports on the condition of these facilities started coming out a few years ago,' the public and the politicians who are sensitive to whatever excites the public reacted with a national yawn.

Moynnihan, who heads the Senate public works subcommittee responsible for federal roads and bridges, estimated the cost of earthquake repair at 85 billion, but clearly had more in mind for fixing.

had more in mind for fixing. "If ever it is the moment to talk about increasing the gas tax, now is the moment, when people have those pictures of the Nimits Preeway still in their minds, I would hope the president would come to us with a proposal, but if not, we will write a bill of our own and assed it to bim." Moynihan said. Moynihan may be pisning his hopes to a sense reed. If the past record on this issue is any indicator, it is likely the public will view the Oakland highway dimeter as a one of a kind event that could only have based in earthquake country and put those horrendous pictures of the collapsed insurant all, the rationals will go, a 6.9 Richter freeway out of mind. After all, the rationals will go, a 6.9 Richter Scale quake it ien't likely to happen any-where else That, in fact, 'happens do be wrang, but even without a major ecismic disturbance. America's bridges are falling down and nobody access to know how to keep it from happening.

English referendum causes trouble

LOWELL. Mass. - A ballot question to make English the official language in a city whose immigrant ancestors fueled the American industrial revolution has caused a modern-day melting pot to bubble over.

The northern Massachusetts city of Lowell hosts a national park of canals and old mills honoring Irish. Greek. French. Polish and Italian immigrants and the history of the industrial Revolution.

But the non-binding referendum on the Nov. 7 local ballot has triggered bitter debate that has dominated radio talk shows, editorial pages and bar banter for weeks.

Supporters range from descendants of Lowell's original immigrants who ace it as tokenism to those who resent the city's most recent foreigners. Southeast Asians and Hispanics.

Topical talk tops bishop's conference

BALTIMORE - The annual meeting of the nation's Roman Catholic bishops focused on issues unimaginable to their predecessors: AIDS, abortion, U.S. policy in the Middle East and the role of black Catholics in the church.

About 300 bishops were expected for the meeting, which was to begin Monday to celebrate the 200th anniversary of Baltimore as the church's first diocese in the United States.

The first session featured a rare appearance of Cardinal Agostino Casaroli, the Vatican Secretary of State and Pope John Paul II's personal representative to the bicentennial celebration.

Sports medicine clinics begin at 7 p.m. tonight

SANFORD - Central Florida Regional Hospital will sponsor a pair of sports medicine clinics for the athletes of the Golden Age Games this evening and tomor-row evening at the Sanford Civic Center.

This evening at 7 p.m. Bill Payne, head basketball coach at Seminole Community College. will talk about motivational thinking. He will describe ways that athletes can "psych themselves up" for a competition and perform better as a result. Payne will discuss the ways in which self-motivation helps athletes grow through the "stretching" of one's goals. Following Payne, Lynn Booth, a Central Florida Regional Hospital exercise physiologist from the cardiopulminary unit, will talk about the importance of warming up the body and cool-ing it down before and after competition. She will teach participants the optimal way of achieving their target heart rate during exercise.

Finally, Dr. C. Bronson Land

Porter lifts Blazers past Wolves

PORTLAND, Ore. - Terry Porter had 21 points, 6 assists and 7 rebounds Sunday night to lead the Portland Trail Blazers a sloppy 93-83 victory over the Minnesota Timberwolves.

Jerome Kersey had 16 points, 10 rebounds and five blocks, while Kevin Duckworth added 15 points for Portland, 2-0.

Tony Campbell led Minnesota, 0-2, with 20 points. Tyrone Corbin added 16 points and 12 rebounds for the losers.

Portland held Minnesota without a field goal from the 3:36 mark of the third quarter, when Tony Campbell's jumper made it 59-58, until Donald Royal scored with 7:11 to play in the fourth. The Blazers outscored Minnesota 13-7 during that time to put the game away.

The Timberwolves shot 33 percent for the game, making 30 of 90 shots. Minnesota made just 4 of 27 shots in the fourth quarter, a horrendus 18 percent. Portland shot 46 percent for the game, hitting 30 of 65 shots.

Holyfield records TKO in 8th

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. - Despite an admitted subpar performance Saturday night, Evander Holyfield had enough to hand Alex Stewart his first pro loss.

Holyfield's eighth-round technical knockout, however, probably was not good enough to earn him a fight against heavyweight champion Mike Tyson.

Holyfield opened a gash over Stewart's right eye in the sixth and won when the referee and ringside doctor stopped it at 2:51 of the eighth round of the scheduled 12-round bout. Holyfield was well ahead on all three judges cards at the time.

Holyfield said he went into the fight with a bad cold and suffered cramps in his neck and legs

'Personally, I don't think it hurt my reputation." said Holyfield, an overwhelming favorite. "I felt it built my character, it showed when things aren't right I can just push it."

In the Major League contest, for children 10-12, the final score was the same but not the way the game went. Both teams moved the ball very well on offense only to suffer turnovers to keep the ball out of the end zone.

The Rams scored the game's only points when Freddrick Hamilton picked off a Buildog pass and ran 27 yards for the touchdown with 4:00 left in the first half. The extra point try failed and the Rams led 6-0.

In the second half, the Rama controlled the ball most of the 15 from scoring. The ball more than the ball of the form scoring. The Buildogs were able to move the ball when they had it but three interceptions by the Rama stopped the Buildogs.

The standings in the Majoras has the Rams at 2-1, the Cowboys at 1-1 and the Bulldogs at 0-1. Games are played every Saturday morning at Chase Park with the Minors at 10 a.m. and the Majors at 11 a.m.

State coaches after Seminole County's cross country secret

It's incomprehensible. We know this sounds strange, but we have it on good authority that there have been high school cross country coaches from around the state seen lurking about Seminole County schools. After minutes of intensive research, the motive for this rash of athletic cloak-and-dagger dealings has come to light. It seems that everyone is trying to unlock "The Secret."

Coaches from around the state have come to believe that there has to be some reason why six of the top 20 boys and girls Class 4A cross country teams come from Seminole County. There must be some explanation of why seven of the top 20 individuals come from this county.

And the rest of the state is determined to find out what it is. determined to find out what it is. Some of the covert operations would make Oilie North proud. • At Lyman High School, for example, a man wearing a Groucho glasses and a red sweatshirt that said "Leto's Long Red Row" was apprehended taking soil samples from around Lyman's commun

How else could he hear activity memory." could he keep setting records? We think it's something in the dirt here that rubs off on the soles of his shoes. And we want it, whatever it is."

 Over at Lake Howell High School, someone wearing a lab cost over a jersey emblazoned "Coral Springs" has been walk-ing the halls, asking students, teachers and staff where Coach Tom Hammontree's duplicating machine is.

After finally being directed to the photocopy machine in the Lake Howell athletic office, the person turned around and was heard to say, "No, not this one. I'm looking for the one that he uses to turn out all these runners every year. No one school can have that many girls runn-ing for it all the time."

 There have been reports hat a vehicle with Pensacola-Washington High School bump-er stickers has been following the Lake Mary teams whenever they hit the road, stopping at every stop the Rams make.

"It's very strange." said the manager of one Burger King restaurant. "After the Lake Mary kids left, this guy with a clip-board came in and went through all their garbage. He just sat there in the corner with the trash can, inspecting every wrapper and container. "Then he snuck into the back, cornered the cook and demanded to know what the coaches told him to put into their food and how they told him to prepare it. But the cook just chased him out of here with a spatula. It was a hoot."

The City of Altamonte Springs police department re-cently picked up a trespasser at Lake Brantley carrying water bottles marked "Property of Clearwater High School." He was observed filling different bottles from different water bottles from different water fountains near the athletic locker rooms.

"We heard that they had finally found the Fountain of Youth." protested the interloper. "How else can you explain the fact that their girls get injured, heal quickly and immediately start running fast times? It's only right that they should share

Housewife's worth has risen threefold

DEAR ABBY: I need to know how much I'm worth. My husband and I differ about the value of a housewife/mother. We have two teen-agers (our son is 17 and our daughter is 15.) I do all the marketing, cooking, cleaning, laundry, yard work and chauffeuring our daughter. (Our son has had his own car for nearly a year.)

My husband has a great job that nets him $70,000 a year, but he wants me to go back to working a full-time job outside the home.

When I did work outside the home, I was totally stressed out trying to hold down an office job-then coming home to all the domestic chores. I was an emotional wreck.

My husband works hard all day, then he comes home to do absolutely nothing. He fixes himself a drink, sits in an easy chair and reads the paper while I prepare dinner. Don't suggest that he help with the housework-he flatly refuses.

Sometimes plants used both in the home and outside in the landscape can be poisonous if eaten, or irritating if they con-tact the skin. Under normal circumstances, most adults wouldn't be eating these plants, but they may be accidently ingested by children and pets. Most gardeners and home-

Children may cat small amounts of almost anything accidentally. At the earliest age possible, children should be taught not to put anything in their mouths except food. Adults, too, should refrain from putting leaves and twigs in their mouths while they work out in the garden or hike through the woods-unless they know what the plant is and if it is nonpoisonous.

Mushroomscan be particularly poisonous, so unless you are extremely positive about the identification, don't eat wild mushrooms. Currently, there isn't a satisfactory guide for edible mushroom identification for Florida. The castor bean is one of the plants that has poisonous pro-perties, but it is used in the landscape and is found growing along roadsides and ditches throughout Florida. It is a tree-

Irving Kaufman, of Sanford, grew the red castor-bean plant as an ornamental plant in his

The red variety makes quite an attractive ornamental display in the landscape and grows so un the tandscape and grows so quickly that it can provide a lot of shade. The plant is said to repel the pesty mole, so planting the castor-bean plant has beneficial properties as tong as you don't eat the seeds. The ' For more information' about

DEAR READER: Women often have breast soreness because of hormone fluctuations. Although you may be familiar with the common premenstrual breast tenderness that most women experience, a similar condition affects menopausal women, too.

Because of your age, I suspect your breast discomfort may be due to the normal hormone imbalance associated with the change of life. See a gynecologist. Mastitis (breast infection) would. in my opinion. be an unusual cause of breast soreness in an older woman.

Mastitis is often treated with antibiotics, a form of therapy that would not be appropriate for menopausal breast tenderness. The gynecologist may suggest you take hormones to stabilize your system, or the doctor may recommend "waiting-out" your discomfort until your breasts have adapted to your menopausal state.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Menopause." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369. Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: In 1987, 1 had a TIA, which my doctor said was caused by stress. He found no evidence of a blood clot. Is this possible? I'm a 73-year-old female and fear a stroke because of the disability it produces.

DEAR READER: I do not believe temporary strokes (transient ischemic attacks) are caused by stress. Most experts agree that TIAs result from small blood clots that are carried to the brain, where they produce various neurological ab-

South signed off at four spades. Sally won West's jack of diamonds in dummy, cashed two high spades and then led a low club from dummy. East won the queen and returned a trump. At the time of your TIA in 1987, no blood clot was discovered because either the clot was too small to be observed on tests (such as a CT scan) or the clot neurologist. This specialist can had dissolved by the time the confirm that you had a TIA and tests were performed. The suggest further treatment.

Lesson: The four-club cue-bid by North may seem strange without first-round control of clubs, but that was the only way to invite slam without getting beyond game-level. If South held the ace of hearts instead of the jack, a four-heart cue-bid would then have gotten North-South to a good slam contract.
