Candidates Line Up For Commission Race

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

Although the election is still 10 months off, several candidates feel the time is right to declare their intentions to vie for the Sanford City Commission seats held by District Four representative Dave Farr and District Three representative Milton Smith. Both Farr, an eight year veteran, and Smith, with six years on the commission, have said they will seek reelection.

As matters stand, Smith faces ex-city commissioner A.A. McClanahan and Sanford Chamber of Commerce "goodwill ambassador" Martha Yancey. Also interested in the spot is ex-city commissioner Eddie Keith, who got phased-out of his seat in the 1984 redistricting. Keith, who serves on the Sanford Planning and Zoning board, said he is "definitely weighing" a bid against Smith to regain his spot on the city commission.

For now, Farr's competition is considerably less crowded. His only announced opponent is Planning and Zoning board vice-chairman Brent Carl.

Farr said he is "going for it again," although he added, "It's unfortunate Brent and I are in the same district. I think we both have a lot to offer the city."

The situation creates "a good choice" for District Four voters, according to Farr.

Smith said he is "not concerned" about the competition he faces.

"It's up to the voters to make the choice," he said. "They'll decide whether they want me for another four years."

For those off and running, enthusiasm, rather than specific issues, is present basis for their campaigning.

Carl, who described himself as "a positive person" and "a business-oriented guy," said he wants "to share my talents and skills with the city."

His said his "successful" track record with Carl's Deli and now, Carl's Hallmark shop at Seminole Centre, "demonstrate my abilities as a manager and a motivator."

He also said he had "helped mold and shape land use in

Mutiny Grows, Marcos Dug In

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — Increasingly aggressive leaders of a military rebellion against President Ferdinand Marcos announced a "successful people's revolution" today despite Marcos's claim on state-run television that he was still in control.

The mutinying officers, their suburban bunker defended by 50,000 unarmed civilians, formed a provisional government headed by Corazon Aquino, the official loser in a fraud-tainted Feb. 7 election.

Marcos, however, called on all loyalists to report to him with guns and vowed to fight "to the last drop of blood" against the provisional government.

"I am telling you, our loyalists, we are here. We are not going to abandon the office of the presidency," Marcos declared in a televised address, flatly rejecting an appeal by the Reagan administration for a peaceful transition of power.

He declared a state of emergency and declared a 6 p.m.-to-6 a.m. nationwide curfew to take effect immediately.

Tornado Awareness Day Today

"It sounds like a big express train coming down upon you," said Seminole County Disaster Preparedness Coordinator Harry Pinkman, describing a tornado. And, anyone who has faced the wrath of such a storm may well agree with the description.

To help prepare both the initiated and uninitiated before tornadoes strike, the county has joined with state agencies and the national weather service to declare today tornado awareness day in Florida. Pinkman said.

The observance, which is being held as part of severe weather awareness week, is designed to help Floridians think safety, he said.

Florida is primarily known for hurricanes, but there are many other severe weather events in the state which are a threat to life and property, Pinkman said.

Florida has more tornadoes than any other states except Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas, he said.

From 1959 to 1985, tornadoes killed 60 Floridians, injured 2,099 and caused around $320 million dollars in damage, according to national weather service statistics.

Seminole County has had no tornado related deaths, but recorded 14 injuries from 20 tornadoes in the last 26 years, statistics show. Tornado season usually runs from May through September or October.

"Florida is the fastest growing state in population, exposing ever greater numbers of urban and coastal residents to potential loss of life and property," Pinkman said. "Many of these residents are unfamiliar with Florida's severe weather."

Most Floridians have a tendency to minimize the threat

City Gets Library Appeal Tonight

Sanford City Commissioners will be asked tonight to overturn the precedent-setting decision their Historic Preservation Board made earlier this month when it denied approval for the $780,000 library Seminole County wants to construct in Sanford's downtown historic district.

And, although Historic Preservation Board members "made it very clear" they wanted to be attend the session, the city apparently failed to inform them.

"I'm very suprised," board member Shirley Moak said Saturday after being told the board's first official action would be questioned on Monday.

"We expected an appeal, but not this soon. As far as I know, none of the board has been told about the meeting," she said.

According to Ms. Moak, during the same Feb. 13 session the historic board's members denied the library site plan, they "made it very clear to staff we wanted to be told when the appeal would be heard by the city commission.

'...they're already on the agenda. It seems to me like someone is moving awfully fast.'

—Shirley Moak
Historic Preservation Board

"We all planned to attend and offer rebuttal if necessary," she said.

Ms. Moak also questioned the time frame of the county's inclusion on the commission agenda the city issued Friday. She said this was the same day she received her copy of the historic board's formal denial of the library project.

"The county must have gotten theirs the same day I got mine," she said, "and they're already on the agenda. It seems to me like someone is moving awfully fast."

After the historic board refused the library plan on Feb. 13, both library services director Jean Rhein and county library services business coordinator Janie Boutwell said the decision would be reviewed during a meeting with the Seminole County Board of Commissioners.

On Friday, Ms. Rhein acknowledged the session had not been held, but said that in December, when she first approached the historic board, the county commission authorized her "to take this thing full channel as called for in the city (historic preservation) ordinance."

The ordinance states that the historic board must provide unsuccessful applicants "with an attested copy of its reasons (for denial) and its recommendations, if any," and that these determinations can be appealed to the city commission.

Ms. Rhein said she will ask the city commission to "grandfather in" the library project because its planning was begun months before the historic board's formation in October.

"We hoped the historic board would have considered this and approved the project," she said. "Now we're hoping the city commission will allow us to proceed."

Dust No Mystery

Up in the air!
Is it spy dust?
Is it industrial pollution?
No! It's pine pollen — and you better get used to it 'cause the pine trees are going to merrily reproduce away for another month or two.

And if you think the yellow-green dust is an ugly coating on your car or driveway — particularly after a shower or a light breeze — consider those allergic to the annual dusting, according to environmental health specialist Queen Watroba.

It takes just 10 grains of pollen (in a square centimeter) to cause a reaction, he said. Watroba said there have been times when more of the pollen was blown to Sanford.

He said the pollen began pollinating in early January and will continue for a month, perhaps two.

After that, "Oak is just starting up," he said.

Oh yeah: Watroba, pollen counter, had a stuffy nose.

"I got a zillion allergies," he reported.

Over Lease Pact

Star Of Sanford Faces Penalty

By Sarah Fischer
Herald Staff Writer

Star Line Corp., owners of the Star of Sanford, could face paying a penalty to the Seminole County Port Authority if the company's agreement with an Orlando real estate development firm to lease land at the local port is found to be valid.

Port Authority Administrator Dennis Dolgner said today he may recommend the agency seek recourse from the Michigan-based company, which announced Thursday it had suspended operations of the cruise ship here.

According to Dolgner, Star Line has a five-year docking agreement with the local port authority. A clause in the agreement states that Star Line must come to a written agreement with Florida Sun International on administrative space for the ship's operations.

The Star of Sanford recently moved its executive offices, ticket sales and a gift shop to a new $150,000 building at the Port of Sanford. Prior to that the operations were housed at a small temporary building near the new 4,000 square-foot building.

The building was finished a few weeks ago. Dolgner said, however the time frame for completing the construction has apparently raised questions as to the validity of the lease agreement between Star Line and Florida Sun International.

The Star of Sanford's locating at the local port on a permanent basis was contingent upon its having a building, he said. Construction of the new offices was begun a little over four months ago by Spolski Development.

If the lease agreement is not valid, Star Line's agreement with the port authority could be cancelled, Dolgner said.

If the agreement is found to be valid, however, the port authority would have recourse against Star Line, he said. In that case, Dolgner said the port authority could look at arbitrating a settlement, most likely for some monetary amount, with the company.

"The port authority does not have a vested interest (Star Line) was using a commercial facility that was already there," Dolgner said.

The Star of Sanford paid the port authority a monthly dockage fee of $1,500, he said.

A spokesman for Florida Sun International said the company leases the entire Hidden Harbour Marina from the port authority and in turn leased a portion of the property to Star Line.

"We are working toward resolution of the situation within the next week or so. The lines of communication are open and we will work something out with them," the spokesman said.

He added that it is "too early to tell" what the building which was to house the Star of Sanford operations will be used for.

James Wilmouth, director of marketing for Star Line, said the company's attorneys are "going to try to work out some type of settlement," regarding the ship's local lease and building

Head-On Crash Kills 8, Leaves 8 Hurt

KISSIMMEE (UPI) — Eight people, seven of them mentally handicapped, were killed and eight other people were injured Sunday night in the fiery, head-on crash of a van jammed with people and a car, the Florida Highway Patrol said today.

An FHP spokesman said seven people in the Dodge van died in the crash or burned to death when their vehicle burst into flames after colliding head-on with a Pontiac. The sole occupant of the Pontiac died when his car spun around into an oncoming lane and was struck by a third vehicle.

Eight other occupants of the van, including the driver, were hospitalized in Melbourne, the FHP said. None of the eight were believed to be facing life-threatening situations, but some underwent surgery, the spokesman said.

The identities of the dead and injured were withheld pending notification of relatives, but the FHP said all were Florida residents.

"Seven occupants of the van either died in the crash or were burned to death when the van became engulfed with flames," the FHP spokesman said. "The driver of the Pontiac died in the crash. Eight occupants of the van were removed before the fire."

The accident occurred on U.S. 192 in eastern Osceola County, the FHP said. The van was eastbound and the Pontiac was westbound, the FHP said. The FHP spokesman said one of the vehicles crossed into the oncoming lane of traffic and crashed head-on with the other.

"We can't say just yet which vehicle was in the oncoming lane," the spokesman said.

The FHP said the occupants of the van were mentally handicapped. There were reports the van was returning to a state facility after a trip to a rodeo in Kissimmee.

"We won't be able to confirm where they were coming from until we talk with the driver," an FHP spokesman said. "She was not one of the fatalities, but she is hospitalized at this time."

Glass Scare Brings State Ban Of Gerber Strained Peaches

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Maryland has barred the sale of Gerber strained peaches, saying an investigation of consumer complaints of glass shards in the baby food was reasonable grounds to believe the product is unsafe.

Maryland Secretary of Health Adele Wilzack signed the formal recall and sales ban order Sunday after weekend meetings with Gerber officials failed to produce a voluntary withdrawal agreement.

Maryland is the only state to stop the sale of a Gerber product since consumers in 11 states began complaining last week of finding glass fragments in jars of the Gerber baby foods. One of the latest consumer complaints was from a Liberty, Texas, woman who said she found glass in Gerber chocolate pudding.

There was no immediate response to the ban from Gerber officials.

Governors Meet With Reagan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's governors have turned their attention from black tie festivities to a brass tacks meeting on budget cutting and tax reform with President Reagan at the White House.

The 45 state and territorial chief executives attending the National Governors Association winter meeting observed the social amenities Sunday night as guests of the president and Mrs. Reagan at a state dinner.

The officials were to meet with Reagan for about 75 minutes today for their annual working session at the White House.

In his toast, Reagan said he and the governors should work "to restore the balance between state and federal prerogatives to bring government closer to the people."

NGA chairman Gov. Lamar Alexander, R-Tenn., toasted Reagan for having "taught us by example what a good government chief executive ought to do and ought to be. We thank you for helping to make our jobs the best jobs in America in government except for yours."

Reagan joked that he remembered visiting the White House as governor of California as a chance to "look around a little, make yourself at home and reflect. I could be happy here."

'World' May Sweep Grammys

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — "We Are the World," rock music's anthem of compassion for starving Africans that captured the imagination of the American public, is the emotional favorite to win major honors at the Grammy Awards.

Other top contenders in the nationally telecast show include the rock group Dire Straits, which gained the most nominations among pop-rock musicians, newcomer Whitney Houston, veterans Phil Collins and Don Henley and rock superstars Bruce Springsteen and Sting.

The awards show scheduled for Tuesday is an annual tribute by members of the National Academy of Recording Arts & Sciences to musicians in all branches of music — including country, jazz, rhythm and blues, gospel and classical — but it is the pop-rock field that attracts the most viewer interest.

And last year it was "We Are the World," a cry for help for starving Africans by dozens of major musicians, that attracted the most interest by the record-buying public.

Eastern Airlines Selling Out As Alternative To Bankruptcy

MIAMI (UPI) — Eastern Airlines, ending a bitter battle with its labor unions, said early today it will sell the nation's third largest carrier to Texas Air Corp. because a sale was "the only alternative" to filing for bankruptcy protection against its creditors.

Eastern said in a statement that it had reached tentative cost-cutting agreements with two of its three major unions, but the refusal of the International Association of Machinists to even discuss a new contract forced the airline to sell out.

"The only alternative would have been to file for protection under Chapter 11 of the federal bankruptcy laws, which was an unacceptable solution," Eastern said.

Eastern was under a Feb. 28 deadline from its lender banks to trim its labor costs by about $450 million or be in technical default on its $2.5 billion in long term debt.

Hawkins Makes Surprise Visit

WINTER PARK (UPI) — Sen. Paula Hawkins, R-Fla., made an unexpected appearance with video evangelist and possible GOP presidential candidate Pat Robertson in a weekend dedication of a Christian home for runaway girls.

"I'm following Pat Robertson's footsteps," Hawkins said of their appearance at Calvary Assembly to dedicate House of Hope. "I can't think of anybody's footsteps I'd rather follow."

Robertson quipped back. "We seem to be following each other throughout the state." But while he has stumped for Republicans in other states, Robertson said his appearance with Hawkins did not constitute an endorsement.

Robertson's aides said they were unaware Hawkins, who spoke briefly, was to appear at the ceremony.

About 600 people cheered Robertson at dedication Saturday of the 17-bed facility for teens. Robertson applauded the program for using private money rather than tax dollars.

Radiation High In Some Wells

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Radioactive polonium up to 23 times the state standard is generating concern among state and federal investigators, who say it is too early to panic or begin a treatment program.

Of the 32 wells tested this month in Hillsborough, DeSoto, Hardee, Manatee and Polk counties by researchers Bill Burnett and Jim Cowart, 12 wells — or 37 percent — show high levels of radiation and polonium.

Polonium can damage or kill cells when ingested over long periods and is known to cause liver and urinary cancer, said Rick Cothran, a health physicist with the Environmental Protection Agency.

If 100,000 people were to drink daily 2 liters of water containing five units per liter of polonium, the EPA says as few as four or as many as 20 people might contract cancer.

Radioactivity is nothing new Central Florida's phosphate-rich area, which naturally contains uranium and byproducts of uranium decay. But researchers so far are perplexed as to how extensive and how harmful polonium exposure might be — and how to get rid of it.

Alternate Theory Proposed For Shuttle Blast

BRIGHAM CITY, Utah (UPI) — The former president of the company that made the Challenger booster rockets suggested the shuttle explosion was caused by a leak in the external tank — not a failure in the booster O-rings.

Harold Ritchey, who pioneered solid-propellant boosters for Morton-Thiokol's shuttle program, and other scientists Sunday urged the president's shuttle commission to consider the possibility a leak of liquid hydrogen from the external tank sparked the chain of events leading to the Jan. 28 catastrophe.

"If there were a hydrogen leak then almost everything else fits like a glove," said John Osborne, former Thiokol engineer, now a rocketry specialist at Purdue University. "It's a far better fit than to try to arrange an explanation using O-rings."

One major discrepancy in the hydrogen-leak theory, the scientists admit, is the existence of an extra plume of flame seen coming from the lower booster section. "The pattern (of the flame) is clearly that of escaping (solid) propellant gases," said Ritchey, who retired in 1977.

A detailed scenario, prepared by Ritchey, a copy of which was obtained by United Press International, makes these points:

● A burning through of the O-ring seals, which separate sections of propellant, would have split the booster in half or sent it cartwheeling away; instead the boosters performed smoothly and had to be destroyed after the shuttle blew up.

● A puff of black smoke, spotted at liftoff, was consistent with the burning of a small strip of cork insulation and not the synthetic rubber seals, which have burned for a much longer time.

● There was no fiery brilliance before the explosion, similar to an arch-welder's torch, which characterizes burning metal, indicating the booster's metal casings were not being consumed.

● A sustained 4 percent decline in thrust pressure fits neatly with test data suggesting the propellant was cold, not that it was leaking. "The hole or crevice rapidly burned out," said Martin Summerfield, chief of Princeton University's combustion research laboratories. "It does not take as long as 12 seconds to do so. One second, maybe two, is more likely."

Other scientists who do not subscribe to the O-ring theory, the focus of the commission's investigation, include Henry Shuey, who has worked on space and army missile-propellant systems in Huntsville, Ala., for 45 years, Ed Fitzgerald, former consultant for NASA's booster program at Georgia Tech, and Tom Sovoca, a former manager of the Wasatch, Utah, division of Thiokol.

Ritchey and the other scientists painted this scenario:

Before ignition, the main liquid fuel tank sprung a leak of hydrogen in the lower section. As it leaked, the hydrogen acted as coolant, causing a drop in temperatures around the booster casing. The hydrogen leak caught fire, burning the cork and causing the puff of smoke.

The hydrogen cooling of the solid propellant reduced the propellant's thrust by 4 percent, a phenomenon documented in numerous tests. The hydrogen continued to burn and the flame weakened the struts that formed the point of contact between the big tank and the booster.

Two explosive bolts blew out and the booster began its fatal bending motion, which forced it into the main fuel tank at a critical juncture, at the point separating hydrogen and oxygen bulkheads. The result was a fireball.

Hearings Expected To Answer Key Questions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Public hearings Tuesday and Wednesday by the Rogers Commission may begin answering some of the mounting questions surrounding the controversial decision clearing Challenger for launch.

Among those expected to testify are Morton Thiokol engineers who objected to the launch for fear cold weather might harm crucial rocket seals, and NASA managers who gave the go-ahead for the ill-fated flight.

The presidential panel also is likely to dig into the effects the unusually cold weather could have on the seals, and whether NASA managers were aware of studies that suggested winds deflected from the ship's frigid external tank could freeze parts of the right hand booster rocket, built by Thiokol.

A fiery breach in the side of the right booster preceded by 15 seconds the explosion of the fuel tank 73 seconds after takeoff Jan. 28.

Commission member Richard Feynman said Sunday in an interview with NBC News that calculations by shuttle investigators put the launch-time temperature at 29 degrees, low enough to "affect the stiffness of the O-rings and change the likelihood that they will leak."

The commission is investigating the theory that a failure in solid-fuel rocket booster's O-ring seals, circular gasket-like devices sealing separate propellant sections, caused the Challenger explosion.

Another key question before the commission headed by former secretary of state William Rogers is whether NASA applied any pressure directly or indirectly to lead Thiokol management to overrule the launch objections of its own engineering staff.

Thiokol officials said there was no such pressure, and two commissioners who visited the company's plant at Brigham City, Utah, said they could find no evidence of any.

The commission has found that three key NASA officials were unaware of the launch objections. How far up the chain of command that information went is unknown.

At Cape Canaveral, an orange-colored 15-foot-long piece of debris that may have been torn from Challenger's orange external tank was recovered from 100 feet of water 25 miles off the coast and delivered to NASA Sunday for identification.

Pieces of the 184-foot fuel tank might provide clues to details of the final sequence of events of the disaster.

A robot submersible operated by the Navy also photographed what appeared to be parts from Challenger's main engine, which are believed to have operated normally.

The increased activity by the commission comes as the new head of the shuttle program, former astronaut Richard Truly, prepared to visit the Kennedy Space Center to familiarize himself with NASA's own investigation into the accident.

Truly, who took over shuttle direction last Thursday, appointed Thomas L. Moser over the weekend as his top deputy in the office of space flight. Moser was director for engineering at the Johnson Space Center in Houston "and is widely respected at all NASA centers," Truly said.

He also stated he recognized "the depth of public interest and concern" about efforts to determine the cause of the loss of Challenger and its crew and promised to establish "a routine and smooth flow of information to the press."

"I wish to state emphatically that while NASA grieves deeply for the good people lost in the accident, the NASA can-do spirit is intact," Truly said in a statement issued by the agency's public affairs office.

"We are busy searching for the cause of this accident. After that we are going to fix it and get back on the track of exploring and exploiting space."

Sanford," during his three years on the P&Z.

If elected to the city commission, Carl said he would "continue to take a hard line against developments that don't measure up to city standards."

Carl demonstrated his convictions this month, when he served as the P&Z's most outspoken opponent of the 12,000-square-foot commercial development Beda Marine owner John Smith and Sanford architect Gerald Gross plan to develop on city property. The P&Z refused to sanction the project on the grounds that it would markedly add to existing traffic problems at the Lake Monroe marina.

"I'd represent a new school of thought on the city commission and I feel I'd do it well," Carl said.

In District Three, ex-commissioner and subsequent perennial candidate A.A. McClanahan said that he also has "a lot to offer the city."

"Sanford is facing tremendous growth and my background in building and management definitely qualifies me to address this," he said.

McClanahan held a commission seat from 1972 until 1978, when he was defeated by Farr. He ran unsuccessfully in 1980 against Smith, in 1982 against Farr and in 1984 against John Mercer. During the last go-round McClanahan maintained a residence in Mercer's district for six months in order to qualify. He filed suit after the last bid, citing a deviation in the district's voting boundary. The litigation prompted a rematch he lost by 60 votes.

In commenting on his perseverance, McClanahan said, "You can't win if you don't play. I feel good about this one," he added. "I'm optimistic I'll be successful."

McClanahan founded and serves as director of Seminole Self-Reliant Housing Inc. in Sanford. His most recent public office was as chairman of the Sanford Housing Authority. He served for six months before resigning in January over policy disputes with his fellow commissioners.

Mrs. Yancey spoke unabashedly about her bid for the District Three seat. "No one is more qualified for the position than I am," she said.

In addition to serving as Sanford Chamber of Commerce goodwill ambassador, Mrs. Yancey is second vice president of the Sanford Womens Club and is on the board of directors of the Henry Shelton Sanford Memorial Library and Museum.

Her husband, Ned, served as a city commissioner from 1979 to 1983. He lost the mayor's race the following year to Bettye Smith.

Mrs. Yancey said her "love for the city" prompted her decision to seek office.

"I've given more time to this city than they could ever afford to pay me for," she said. "I give my all to every project I take on and would bring the same commitment to my responsibilities as commissioner."

The present commission, she said, "just slides along together. It all seems too cut and dried with them. I'm not pleased there is no difference of opinion."

Mrs. Yancey added she "can't wait to get started" on her campaign.

Eddie Keith, who served as commissioner from 1976-84, was a bit more reserved when discussing a bid for the District Three seat.

"I won't say I'm not thinking about it," he said. "But I haven't made up my mind yet."

"I know my wife is sure dead set against it," he added.

Keith, however, also said the city is not as financially solvent as it was when he left office and he feels he could help rectify the situation.

"We were in fine financial shape then," he said. "But I don't see that now."

"Some" commissioners, he said, "seem to be forgetting the people who elected them."

Keith said he would "make every effort to keep taxes down" if he was to successfully seek a commission seat.

Two other oft-mentioned potential candidates said this week they had been approached to run, but prefer to continue serving the city in non-elected capacities.

Community activist Sara Jacobson, who lives in Smith's district, said she "was asked," but declined. Chamber of Commerce Chairman Shirley Schilke confirmed that she, too, was approached, but is "definitely not interested."

"I'd rather continue my efforts in the background," Mrs. Schilke said.

Mrs. Jacobson, who serves on two citizens' boards for the city and one for Seminole County, said, "I don't think I would make a very good politician."

"I think I'm more effective in my present positions," she said. Commissioners are paid $4,800 a year; $250 a month in salary and $150 a month for expenses.

Qualifying time for this year's election runs from Wednesday, Sept. 3 to Tuesday, Oct. 28. Districts will vote on Tuesday, Dec. 2 and, if necessary, runoff.

Rundoffs are held when one candidate fails to garner more than 50 percent of the vote.

The four-year commission term officially begins on Jan. 6, 1987.

The city's last election was an at large mayoral contest in 1984, when 24.7 of Sanford's registered voters turned out to cast their ballots.

NATIONAL REPORT: The Pacific Northwest braced for more flooding today from storms that sent people fleeing swollen mountain streams and triggered road washouts and mud slides, while snow made travel hazardous in the Ohio Valley. Battle-ground, Wash., was inundated with 2 inches of rain in four hours Sunday, and the Walla Walla River near Touchet spilled over its banks and was still rising. Flooding was made worse by the melting snow in the mountains. Flood warnings were issued today in south central and southeastern Washington state and for parts of Oregon and Idaho, where residents grew frustrated by floods, mud slides and washed out roads that today included part of Idaho's Highway 67 between Mountain Home and Grand View. "Where the hell do we put the water?" asked a Boise, Idaho, resident who awoke Sunday to find water 1 1/2 feet deep over streets, yards and farms. Some people in Mill Creek, Wash., just north of the Oregon border, decided to flee homes near mountain streams fed by runoff from melting snow. "We've had a few residents voluntarily leave their homes in the higher elevations. They didn't figure it was worth the

Genocide Treaty Passes After Senator's 3,100th Reminder

WASHINGTON (UPI) — When Sen. William Proxmire embraces a cause, it is with an unrelenting bear hug. He reminded his colleagues 3,100 times — speaking every day the Senate met for 19 years — to act on an anti-genocide treaty.

Last week, the Senate finally approved the treaty, 36 years after it was proposed.

Its passage inspired compliments for the Wisconsin Democrat's dedication. Without his doggedness, Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd said, there might never have been a vote.

"I'm absolutely elated," Proxmire said after the vote, although he faulted an amendment that exempts the United States from world court jurisdiction.

The anti-genocide treaty from the United Nations, proposed to the Senate during the Truman administration, has been ratified by 97 nations.

Proxmire's solitary marathon on the treaty captured attention, but there are other issues he promotes. On April 19, 1982, he started a daily speech for arms control and last June 18 added a "myth of the day" speech — "a good little department" for exposing faulty thinking or deceptive statements, he said.

Each speech on the genocide treaty had a different text — the final one, hours before the vote, concerned human rights in Guatemala.

The speeches started on Jan. 11, 1967, when Proxmire declared, "The Senate's failure to act has become a national shame," and promised to speak every day.

He thought it would take a year or two to obtain passage.

"I couldn't think of a more outrageous crime than genocide," Proxmire said.

Elected in 1957, Proxmire has a record of tenaciously working for his goals. It took several years but in the early 1970s, he killed the supersonic transport despite its powerful supporters. His "Golden Fleece," a monthly award that lampoons what he considers wasteful spending, is nearing its 11th birthday.

Proxmire has not missed a roll call vote since April 1966 — 9,500 consecutive votes. A believer in physical fitness, he jogs the four miles from his Washington home to Capitol Hill. He is famed for shaking hands with constituents at the flower show at the Wisconsin State Fair or outside football stadiums.

A few years ago, he ran around the state's borders — during the winter.

"It's kind of a habit I've developed," he said of the regimen. "That's the way I run my life. I run every day. If you don't run every day, it's easy to find an alibi: your ankle hurts or you were up late."

If his dedication won plaudits

on the the genocide treaty, there have been other times when Proxmire appeared un-compromising and un-cooperative.

He tried to block the federal rescue of Chrysler Corp. and some proponents still gleefully point to Chrysler's resurgence.

One biography said his career "has been a story of causes pursued to the point of obsession" but also noted his "utter individualism" in some ways set the mold for the modern-style senator who puts a premium on steadfast pursuit of ideals.

Police Nab 6 Spied Smoking Pot

A Winter Park couple and an Orlando man who were allegedly smoking marijuana in a car parked at Carlos Murphy's, 285 Douglas Ave., Altamonte Springs, when spotted by police, have been arrested on drug related charges.

The arrests were made at 10:25 p.m. Friday. Charged with possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana and cocaine were Fred David Schulman, 39, and his wife Joyce Anne Schulman, 34, both of 1728 Cheryl Drive. In addition to those same charges, James Michael Kelley, 36, of Orlando was also charged with resisting arrest without violence and destruction of physical evidence after he allegedly dumped a bag of pot onto the ground, Altamonte Springs police said.

The three have been released on bond.

DRIVE-IN ARRESTS

A juvenile was arrested along with an Altamonte Springs man and woman, all of whom Altamonte Springs police allege were smoking marijuana in a car parked at the Prairie Lake Drive-In on State Road 436, at about 9:50 p.m. Friday.

Police reported seeing one of the suspects pass a pipe to another and smelled what was believed to be pot smoke in the car. In a search, a pipe, cigarette rolling papers and several, separate small quantities of mari-

Charged along with the juvenile with possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana were: Patricia Marie Crowder, 21, of 232 Robin Road, and Steven Stanton Charlton, 26, of 815 Second St. Ms. Crowder was also charged with having driver's license with an altered birth date. The adults were being held in lieu of $500 each.

LEWD ARREST

A 65-year-old Sanford man who was allegedly performing a sex act in the window of his home when police were called to the scene at about 9 a.m. Friday has been charged with performing a lewd and lascivious act in the presence of a child.

Grady Preston Scott of 164 Country Club Circle was jailed by Sanford police at about 9:50 a.m. He has been released on bond.

BURGLARIES & THEFTS

Joel D. Spector, 15, of 200 Cherry Hill Circle, Longwood, invited about 10 persons to party at his home at about 9 p.m. Friday, but about 100 showed up. Spector told Seminole County sheriff's deputies that he tried to break up the crowd, but during the party someone broke pantry doors, punched a hole in a wall and stole a video recorder.

A thief took the boat, motor and trailer, with a combined value of about $9,000, of Gregory Block, 20, of 504 Georgetown Drive, Casselberry, from his home between Wednesday and Friday.

A $300 video recorder, $140 cash and about $100 worth of cassette tapes were stolen from the home of Nancy A. Meskill, 37, of 1821 Kewanee Trail, Fern Park, on Friday, a sheriff's report said.

Michael DeLevante, 40, of 112 Tipperary Drive, Lake Mary, the owner of Artistic Tile Co., Inc., of Longwood, gave sheriff's deputies the name of a suspect who may have stolen $1,500 worth of marble tile from a construction site on Wekiva Springs Road in Longwood, on Friday.

A $300 bowling ball and a $140 leather paper grip were stolen from the car of Ivory L. Whitaker, of 2702 W. 22nd St., Sanford, on Thursday or Friday, deputies reported.

A saddle and other horse riding gear with a total value of $675 were stolen from the stable of Hudson Garren, 72, of 2580 Lake Howell Lane, Altamonte Springs. The stable, which was burglarized Feb. 18, sheriff's deputies said, is located at 2772 Howell Branch Road, Winter Park. Footprints of two possible suspects were found at the scene.

DUI ARRESTS

The following persons have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—David Ray Perkins, 45, of 542 Yew Court, Altamonte Springs, arrested Feb. 15 at 3:45 a.m. after his 1984 truck was seen speeding, traveling in an erratic manner, and skidded off the road near State Road 434 and Bunell Road.

—Jeffrey Winfield Grasty, 17, of 820 Viscaya Lane, Altamonte Springs, arrested Feb. 17 at 12:30 a.m. after his red corvette stopped in a garden around 651 Lake Drive, Altamonte Springs.

—Randall Warren Butt, 24, of 265 S. Wymore Road, Altamonte Springs, arrested Feb. 14 at 6:15 a.m. on State Road 434 near Palm Springs Drive after his 1974 was seen traveling erratically lane to lane, almost striking the curb.

Shotgun Blast Ignites Ammo, Starts Trailer Fire

A shotgun blast in a skeet shooter's mobile home containing "an unusual amount of ammunition," ignited a 3:15 a.m. fire that caused extensive damage to the trailer's interior and a car parked next to it Sunday, according to a Sanford fire report.

The owner of the trailer, who suffered a cut on his head during the incident, said the shotgun accidentally discharged after he pulled it out from under a bed. The incident occurred at 203 Red Coach Court in Carriage Cove off County Road 427.

According to firemen, the blast ignited "several cases and cardboard boxes full of various types of ammo." Police are not going to investigate the incident, a spokesman said.

During the fire, the bedroom floor collapsed, and bathroom and hallway went up in flames.

The fire spilled out through a broken window to the car parked next to the trailer, the report said. The AMC Concord suffered extensive damage to its left side and interior, the report said.

POSSIBLE OVERDOSE

A Sanford man, who said he took an undetermined amount of an over-the-counter pain reliever, was treated for a possible overdose by Sanford firemen early Sunday, according to a Sanford fire report.

After receiving on-the-scene treatment he was transported to Central Florida Regional Hospital.

FALL IN LAKE

A Bridgeport Conn. woman was found "standing in Lake Monroe" by Sanford firemen Saturday and was fished out uninjured with the assistance of a 14-foot ladder which was extended to her, according to a Sanford fire report.

The incident occurred across from the Sanford Civic Center at 6:26 p.m., the report said.

The women, who lost her glasses in the lake, "could not see to sign her name" and refused medical treatment although firemen recommended it, the report said.

Stolen Goods To Be Displayed

Apopka and Forest City burglary victims will have an opportunity Wednesday and Thursday to identify their goods among items recovered by Seminole County sheriff's investigators.

About 100 items including jewelry, guns and household furnishings will be on display in the clubhouse of the Rolling Hills Golf and Country Club in Longwood, Seminole County Sheriff John Polk said.

The loot was recovered after the arrest of four suspects who allegedly burglarized homes in those areas in recent months.

but the suspects reportedly cannot pinpoint the homes specific items were taken from, Polk said.

The scheduled display, from 6 to 9 p.m. each day, is for identification purposes only and the goods will not be released to owners on those two days, but will be held as evidence, Polk said.

To aid in identification of items sheriff's deputies ask that burglary victims who hope to identify their property bring along the number assigned to their case by investigators. —Susan Loden

Thrown For A Big Loss

The $2.57 million jury award to Jan Kemp, a University of Georgia English professor who was demoted and later fired for protesting preferential treatment of student-athletes, could have a refreshing ripple-effect on collegiate football and basketball factories. If nothing else, the federal court judgment has certainly made waves on the Bulldog campus.

H. Dean Propst, chancellor of the University of Georgia System, has ordered an investigation of the school's academic double standard for athletes in revenue-producing sports. More important, he rejected the athletic department's lame rationale that cutting corners is acceptable because "everyone else does it."

This, in turn, prompted university president Fred Davison to announce that his school will not admit student-athletes next year who fail to meet the National Collegiate Athletic Association's (NCAA) new academic standards.

The Kemp ruling is significant for several reasons.

It sends a powerful message to other campuses, namely that retaliation against faculty members who question favored treatment for student-athletes is indeed a dangerous game.

That message should also spur other schools to reevaluate the relationship between their academic and their athletic programs.

The NCAA has spent a lot of time and money trying to clean up college sports. Nevertheless, there is a steady increase in the number of schools that are placed on probation each year for rule violations.

The violators will continue to operate with relative impunity as long as complacent educators continue to wink at the win-at-all-costs ethic that pervades so many big-time collegiate athletic programs.

By refusing to close her eyes, Jan Kemp may have done more to clean up college sports than have numerous NCAA commissions.

Half A Loaf

Japan once again is taking the easy way out by restricting its auto exports to the United States to 2.3 million units.

The restriction, which helps the U.S. car industry, is better than nothing, but what really is needed is a Japanese turnabout on trade barriers.

Winners, because of the quota, will be U.S. auto manufacturers — and the Japanese auto dealers in this country, who will continue to reap premium prices for popular Japanese vehicles.

Losers will be Americans who buy Japanese vehicles.

A U.S. government survey last year estimated that the Japanese voluntary quota saved 44,000 American jobs, but it cost American consumers $16 billion. That's better than $300,000 a job.

Japan should forget about voluntary quotas and lift its import barriers against U.S. products — giving the United States an opportunity to do something about the awesome $50-billion trade imbalance between the two countries.

The "Six-Year Itch" Straw Man Cometh

By Arnold Sawilak
UPI Senior Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — This year's political straw man is called "the six-year itch."

The six-year itch amounts to an advance alibi for the political party that holds the White House and loses seats in Congress in the middle of its president's second term.

This year, it will be the Republicans struggling against the dread tradition of the six-year itch in the contest for 34 Senate and 435 House seats.

The premise is that the ruling party must expect to take a bath in the midterm congressional elections. According to White House political director Mitch Daniels, since 1900 the president's party has lost an average of 40 seats in the House and seven seats in the Senate in the second midterm. Some calculations of the ravages of the "itch" place the losses as high as 47 House and nine Senate seats.

Such losses would be disastrous for the Republicans. They would reduce the GOP to a corporal's guard of 142 members in the House.

unable to even block a veto override, and turn control of the Senate back to the Democrats with 54 of the 100 seats.

But, as Daniels hastens to add lest GOP contributors snap shut their wallets in despair, things don't really look that bad. In fact, he said recently, the early prospects are for the Republicans to hold something near their current 180-plus House seats and to lose no more than two of their 53 Senate seats.

What he did not say, but what Republican spokesmen are sure to declare if the elections turn out as Daniels estimated, is that the GOP actually won by losing so little.

The problem with the premise of the six-year itch is statistical insignificance and historical irrelevance.

For openers, it should be noted that Reagan is only the fourth president in 50 years to win a second term. It is possible to cook the figures by combining presidencies, such as Roosevelt-Truman and Nixon-Ford, into the six-year itch equation, but in fact the last president to actually occupy the White House during a second midterm election was Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1958. Ike's GOP lost 47 House seats and 13 Senate seats in that year.

Before that, it is necessary to return to 1938 for FDR's second midterm, when the Democrats lost 70 seats in the House and seven Senate seats and Woodrow Wilson's 1918 second midterm, when the Democrats lost 26 House and seven Senate seats and control of both chambers.

That gives this "tradition" a statistical sample of three examples in a period of 66 years. Your initials do not have to be IBM to sniff at predictions based on such a short record.

Furthermore, there are other plausible explanations for at least two of the second midterm washouts for the party in power.

In both 1958 and 1938 the country was slumping into recessions. Unless the economic indicators do an unexpected nose dive, that does not seem likely in 1986. So if someone tells you the six-year itch is coming this fall, don't break out in a rash.

DONALD LAMBRO

Selling Agencies Difficult

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration hasn't been terribly successful in its efforts to sell, or "privatize," government programs that can be more efficiently run by the commercial sector. First it was Conrail, the federally run rail-freight service; then the weather satellites. Now it wants to sell the government's electric utilities.

Fortunately, the sale of Uncle Sam's profitable Conrail corporation is still on track, having recently won Senate approval, although it faces difficult hurdles in the House. It's an idea whose time has come. Of all the things government should be doing to promote the national welfare, hauling freight isn't one of them.

However, the administration's proposal to sell the government's civil weather-sensing systems fell like a lead balloon in Congress. Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige argued that business competition in this area would lead to a much-needed expansion of technology in the weather field, as well as to lower costs. Congress rejected the idea.

Progress is being made, however, toward privatizing the land remote-sensing satellites (LANDSATS), which scan the earth and provide important data to oil companies, crop forecasters and other land-use researchers.

Now the Energy Department wants to sell the five power-marketing administrations (PMAs) that the government runs, arguing — correctly, I think — that Washington shouldn't be in the electricity business.

More important, says the administration, the government shouldn't be forcing taxpayers in one part of the country, who pay regular utility rates, to subsidize substantially lower utility rates charged by the PMAs in another part of the country.

Take the Bonneville Power Administration in the Pacific Northwest — the largest of the five PMAs — which sells power from Bonneville Dam, Grand Coulee Dam and 21 other major hydroelectric facilities.

Dingell Suspicious Of Stealth Secrecy

By Jack Anderson
And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — A behind-the-scenes battle of the titans is about to break into the open on Capitol Hill over access to information on the super-secret Stealth bomber, the Pentagon's most jealously guarded project.

On one side — the inside — is Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., the gruff patriarch of Senate Republicans, whose clout is undiminished by his announcement that this is his last year in the Senate. As chairman of the Armed Services Committee and a member of the Intelligence Committee, Goldwater is one of the privileged few who has been given a peak at the Stealth program. He does not care to see membership in the exclusive Stealth oversight club expanded.

On the outside trying to look in is Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., chairman of the Energy and Commerce Committee and its oversight subcommittee. He has requested a variety of Pentagon documents on Stealth and other classified programs, determined to learn whether the deep secrecy surrounding them

WILLIAM RUSHER

Save The Republic

As Time magazine once remarked, it gives one a certain insight into the flavor of the first New Deal administration to learn that FDR's nickname for his notoriously added secretary of agriculture, Henry Wallace, was "Old Man Common Sense."

Similarly, we are beginning to get a chilling fix on the general temper of Jimmy Carter's State Department as various of its leading figures bare their souls on the op-ed page of The New York Times. On the basis of what has already been revealed, one can only wonder what other wimps infested Foggy Bottom during the disastrous Carter years.

About a month ago, I reported that one Viron Vaky, who now denounces military aid to the Nicaraguan contras as "dangerous" and opposes "playing chicken with the Russians and deliberately inflaming tensions in these Third World areas," was Carter's assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs in 1978 and 1979 — the very years when the Sandinistas were seizing power in Nicaragua. One can imagine the kind of advice Vaky was giving Carter about that disaster.

Now comes Richard M. Moose — who served Carter as assistant secretary of state for African affairs from 1977 to 1981 — to have his say in the Times' hospitable opinion columns.

The occasion for Moose's eruption was the recent visit of Jonas

Savimbi to Washington and the friendly reception accorded him by the Reagan administration. Savimbi, of course, is the anti-communist Angolan guerrilla leader whose forces control about a third of Angola and would control the rest if Moscow's unelected puppet regime weren't propped up by 30,000 Cuban troops. Savimbi was seeking U.S. aid, and seems likely to receive it — a prospect that appalls Moose.

"Intervention," he warns, "would fly in the face of the realities of the region and cast a fateful shadow over our relations with Moscow."

The villains of the piece, in his view, are "Mr. Savimbi's American friends," whom he does not name.

According to Moose, they pretend simply to want to aid Savimbi, but "their real concern is this country's global posture toward the Soviet Union." Their secret hope is "to imprint their own aggressive philosophy on the conduct of our relations with the Soviet Union."

There, exposed for all to see, is the fundamental dividing-line: "Conservatives worry about the Russians; some of the rest of us worry about the Africans." Yes, and some of us worry about what the Russians may do to the Africans.

God, it is said, protects children, drunks and fools. To that august trio we can now add, in grateful retrospect, the United States of America.

New Tests Give Fast Diagnoses

By Lori Linsenberger

MANHATTAN, Kan. (UPI) — The scene after a neighborhood pet bites the child next door is one of anxiety and apprehension.

A swarm of questions races through the minds of parents, doctor and pet owner.

Does the pet have rabies? Should the child undergo a painful series of rabies shots? Must the pet be destroyed to determine whether it has the disease?

Scientists at Kansas State University are making the experience a little less traumatic for everyone.

The school's veterinary diagnostic laboratory has perfected a simple skin biopsy test that reveals within hours whether an animal has been infected with the rabies virus.

The alternatives are few and unpleasant, says Dennis Howard, an assistant professor who has led the school's rabies research since 1972.

One is to destroy the animal and examine its brain tissue to determine whether the virus has attacked the central nervous system. If the animal is a pet, this option is distasteful, more so if the test proves negative.

The other alternative is to observe the animal over a period of several days, usually 10, to see whether a rabies virus takes its toll. In the meantime, the child's parents and doctor are sick with worry over whether the victim has been infected.

"The question of a pet biting someone is a very big dilemma for public health officials, veterinarians, doctors," Howard said. "The physician is really in a precarious situation. What we find is physicians treating the anxiety and not really treating the potential for exposure to rabies virus."

The veterinary diagnostic laboratory at Kansas State is the only clinic in the country performing the skin biopsy test on a routine basis, Howard said. To be reliable, the test requires a highly trained staff and state-of-the-art equipment, he says.

For a fee, the laboratory will perform the test on skin biopsy samples provided by practitioners and veterinarians from around the country.

The test also can be used, and has been, on skin biopsies taken from humans suspected of having rabies, Howard said. It also has been used on valuable horses and cattle.

is covering up waste and mismanagement as well as providing security for the weapons programs themselves.

Goldwater has privately urged Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger not to turn the material over to Dingell.

"It has recently come to my attention that a congressional subcommittee, not charged with oversight responsibilities for national security matters, has requested broad access to all Air Force 'black' programs," Goldwater wrote to Weinberger three weeks ago. "Black" programs are those that are not acknowledged publicly.

"I would strongly oppose such a request on jurisdictional grounds were it to arise in the Senate," Goldwater continued, "and I think you ought to resist any stretching of jurisdictional boundaries that expand access to these critically sensitive national security programs."

The letter never mentions Dingell by name, but a Senate Armed Services Committee aide acknowledged to our associate Donald Goldberg that it was Dingell's request that prompted the letter, and that a copy was sent to the congressman.

Dingell's subcommittee got interested in the Stealth program when it learned that the FBI had discovered at least one case of a kickback on a subcontract for the aircraft. A man involved in the contracting process for Northrop Corp., the plane's manufacturer, pleaded guilty to accepting $4,000 for awarding a subcontract to a California company, according to a letter Dingell wrote to Weinberger.

The FBI uncovered an elaborate scheme to award the lucrative subcontracts in return for a percentage of their value. In a presentencing memo, prosecutors quoted from an FBI tape of the man who pleaded guilty: "We are ... in the ground floor of this program. ... I'm 44 years old right now. I firmly intend to retire at 55. ... Everybody's gonna get fat and everybody's gonna be happy, and at 55 I'm gonna say goodbye ..."

"This incident is disturbing," Dingell wrote. "Secrecy is being used by the contractors as a device to cloak mischarging, overcharging and, in some cases, engaging in outright illegal activities. This case appears to be the tip of the iceberg. Because the Air Force apparently has little or no accountability for its 'black' programs, who can say otherwise?"

As we've reported, critics have raised serious questions about the ability of the Stealth aircraft to evade Soviet radar, as well as other bugs in the program, which will probably cost $80 billion eventually.

"With such enormous sums involved and the propensity of many contractors to plunder the Defense Department, coupled with ineffective oversight, it is little wonder why 'black' programs foster waste and abuse," Dingell wrote. He also accused the Air Force of "hiding virtually all relevant data" on the programs from Congress.

Goldwater, in his letter, took "strong exception" to charges of lax oversight, and added a barb of his own: "Knowing the potential of Congress to feed the news-hungry," he wrote, "I have been and remain a strong supporter of existing security procedures for congressional access and oversight of these programs."

Coconut Creek Stops Lyman's Beat

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

When Lyman soccer coach Tom Barnes checked the pulse of his Lady Greyhounds' soccer team Saturday morning, it was still beating loud and strong. Victories in 47 consecutive games have a way of making the beat go on.

That beat was interrupted, however, for just the second time in three years Saturday night in the State Girls Soccer Championship at Coconut Creek High School.

As it did in the final two years ago, Coconut Creek took advantage of a Lyman rarity — ability to capitalize on its early scoring opportunities — to hang a 3-0 setback on the Lady Greyhounds and take its second title in three years.

As usual, Lyman's Lady

Greyhounds controlled the action in the early going. Uncharacteristically, though, the Lady Greyhounds were unable to capitalize on their early chances and that came back to haunt them.

"We dictated the play about the first 10 minutes," Lyman coach Tom Barnes said. "We had three quality opportunities but shot over or wide of the goal. We didn't have too many opportunities after that."

Coconut Creek's victory snapped Lyman's win streak at 47 and deprived it of a second consecutive state championship. It also marked the first time Lyman had been shut out in two years. Lyman finished the season at 23-1 while Coconut Creek finished at 20-2.

Coconut Creek took a 1-0 lead 15 minutes into the match when Kathy Fitzgerald scored from 15 yards out after a throw-in.

Soccer

"They (Coconut Creek) can throw the ball in long like we can," Barnes said. "The ball was not cleared by our defense on this particular throw-in."

The remainder of the first half was pretty evenly played with an excellent save by Lyman goalkeeper Lisa Chatman turning away the only real good chance by either team.

Lyman's offensive opportunities were few and far between in the second half while Coconut Creek created numerous threats.

"We couldn't connect from the defensive third to midfield," Barnes said. "And, when we were able to get it to midfield we couldn't get it to the forwards. Their defenders played really well. They were simply where they wanted to be."

Although Coconut Creek had the offensive momentum, it wasn't able to break the game open until late in the second half as Chatman continually turned the Creek away.

"Lisa (Chatman) put on a show out of necessity," Barnes said. "She made at least five phenomenal saves that would have been past several other goalkeepers. I was proud of her for the way she played."

Coconut Creek upped its lead to 2-0 with 17 minutes left to play when Tina Knight punched a ball into an open goal. "It was a cross all the way from the near side to the far side of the goal," Barnes said. "She (Knight) was breaking and we didn't mark her out. Lisa (Chatman) had no chance to save it."

Coconut Creek added some insurance with three minutes remaining when Valerie Marks scored on a penalty kick.

For the game, Coconut Creek took 20 shots on goal compared to just seven for Lyman which had averaged close to 30 shots per game. Chatman came up with seven saves in the match.

"The match could have been completely different if we could have capitalized in the first 10 minutes," Barnes said. "But we were just proud to be in the state championship for the third year in a row."

"Somebody's season has to end in a loss. The girls always gave 100 percent, win or lose and I'm happy as long as the girls come off the field feeling confident in themselves."

'Crunch Sisters' Provide Moore's Sweetest Victory

By Chris Flister

DAYTONA BEACH — Cynthia Patterson and Tonya Lawson may soon come to be known as the "Crunch Sisters." Because, when it comes down to crunch time, the dynamic junior duo is almost always in the picture for Lake Mary's Lady Rams.

Saturday night, Patterson and Lawson combined for 13 of Lake Mary's 16 fourth-quarter points as the Lady Rams fought off another cardiac comeback by Seminole High's Lady Seminoles.

Patterson finished with a game-high 29 points and Lawson pumped in 16 as the Lady Rams claimed the 4A-9 District Championship for the second year in a row with a 67-63 victory over the Lady 'Noles before 101 fans at Mainland High.

For the Lady Rams, it is the second consecutive year they have beaten Seminole in the district finals. In five years of existence, the Lake Mary program has won four district championships.

"They're all sweet, but this one's the sweetest," Lake Mary coach Bill Moore said after the win. "And we only have one girl who played a lot last season. For a young team, these girls have accomplished an awful lot."

Both Seminole and Lake Mary advance to 4A-5 Region play against the top two out of District 10. In District 10, Winter Park's Lady Wildcats upset second-ranked Orlando Edgewater, 50-43.

In Tuesday night's regional games, both starting at 8, Winter Park (25-3) hosts Seminole (18-9) and Lake Mary (21-6) entertains Edgewater (23-4). The region final will be played Thursday night.

While Patterson and Lawson came through in the late going for the Lady Rams, 6-4 sophomore center Teri Whyte was a demon on the boards throughout the game. Whyte tossed in 14 points, pulled down 13 rebounds and blocked six shots. Patterson added eight rebounds and three steals and Lawson collected five rebounds and handed out three assists.

"We talked about the last time we played Seminole (73-71 last-second loss)," Lawson said. "We had them down but let them come back. This time, we weren't going to let them do it again."

Seminole, down by as much as 13 at one time, rallied within three in the last minute but defense pulled the Lady Rams through in the end.

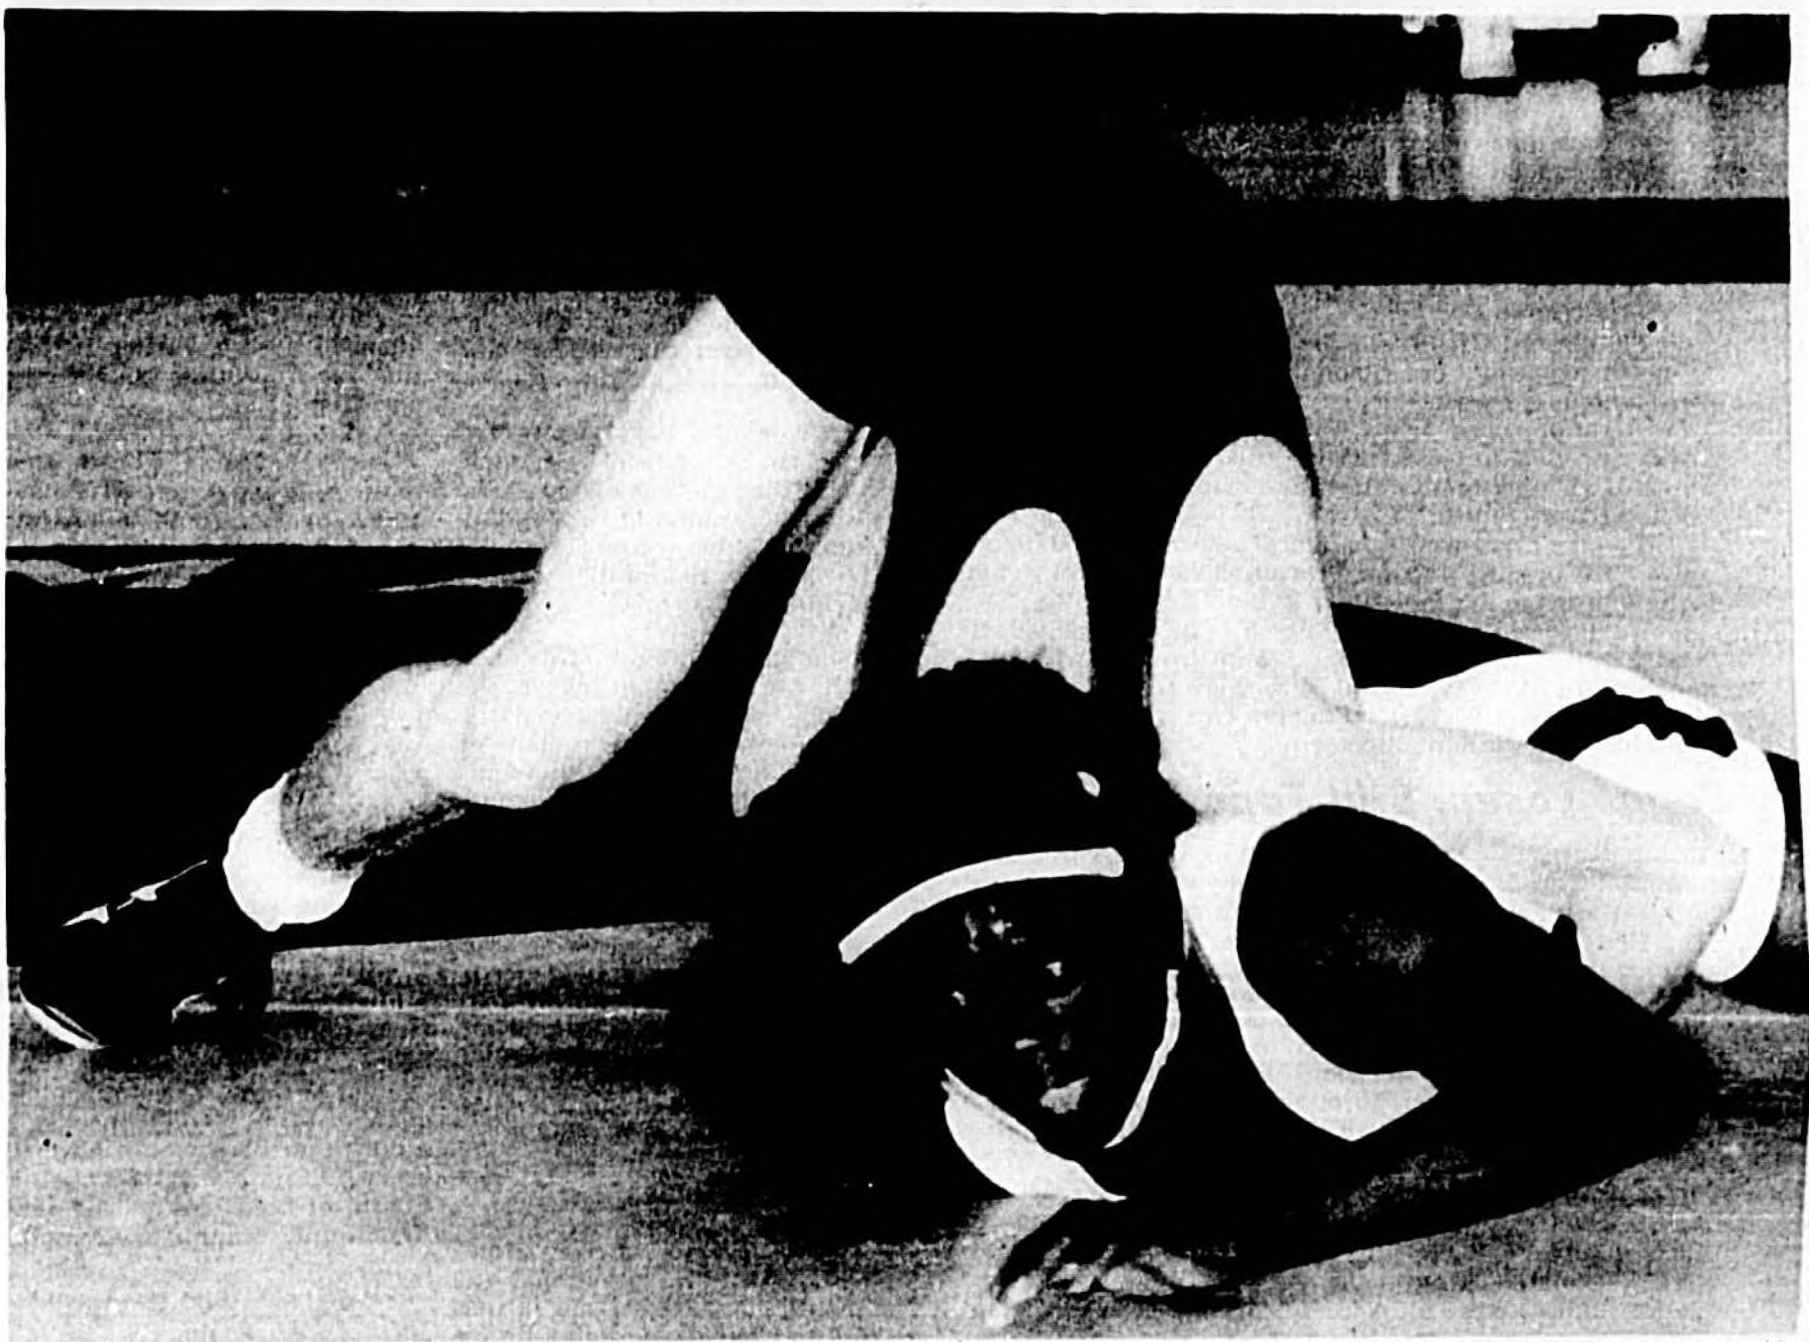

"Defense was the key," Patterson said. "Seminole made it tight in the fourth quarter but that made us work even harder."

For Seminole, freshman guard Adrian Hillsman turned in another impressive performance. After a career-high 24 points and 11 assists in Friday's win over Spruce Creek, Hillsman came back Saturday night to hit 20 points and hand out five assists. Senior forward Catherine "Kitty" Anderson popped in 16 points and pulled down 12 rebounds while senior guard Temika Alexander contributed 14 points and dished out five assists.

Seminole, which burned Spruce Creek with 87 points on Friday, came out blazing again Saturday as it scored the first six points of the game. The Lady Tribe went on to take a 22-14 lead at the end of one quarter.

Lake Mary took the momentum early in the second quarter as it reeled off eight straight, four each by Whyte and Lawson, to tie it at 22-22. The two teams then traded baskets throughout the rest of the quarter and Seminole took a 32-30 halftime lead.

Despite having the reputation as the weakest of four regions, the Region 1 Wrestling Championships at Jacksonville Forrest High School had some very interesting outcomes this past weekend.

Lake Mary's Rams used a strong semifinal round to take the championship with 174 points in a field of 28 teams.

The Rams, however, can hear the sounds of pounding paws. The Lyman Greyhounds, runners-up in the conference and district, took second again but closed the gap considerably with 156 points. They hope to close it even more this weekend at the state meet at Lyman High School.

Seminole (89), Lake Brantley (53½) and Lake Howell (47) all finished in the top 10 as Seminole County dominated the meet.

"I'm really happy to bring home the trophy," Lake Mary coach Doug Peters said. "We had a lot of bright spots in the place and a really good tournament."

A very impressive showing, that is, until the final round of competition on Saturday night. The Rams had five grapplers in the finals and came out with just one victory, by Sanford's 400-pound Troy Jackson.

"I have mixed emotions of the whole tournament," Peters said. "We had a great first, second and third rounds, but in the finals we wrestled very poorly. Three out of four isn't bad, besides the most important round was the semifinals."

Jackson received a bye in the first round, a forfeit by Jamsheed Negarn from Wolfson in the second and pinned Chris Guerrieri from Ed White in 1:15 to get into the finals. Once in the finals, Jackson quickly romped on George Evans from Terry Parker with a pin in 2:37. Jackson was in somewhat of a pickle until Evans got too high and Jackson easily turned a reversal into a pin.

"Troy (Jackson) isn't just a 400-pound body out there," Peters said. "He can really wrestle. Once Troy got on top of that kid from Terry Parker, he just took control for the pin."

In the other half of the team story, the Greyhounds proved that they are, indeed, ready to butt heads and lock horn with the Rams in the big tournaments. The 'Hounds had three individual champions and quali-

Seminole and arch-rival Lake Mary will oppose each other in the first round of the Class 4A District 9 Basketball Tournament which opens Wednesday at Port Orange Spruce Creek High School. Mainland High School officials announced today.

Seedings were determined by the best winning percentage in non-tournament 4A games.

Spruce Creek (12-1) is the No. 1 seed. It will play No. 8 DeLand (2-9) Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. Lyman (14-2) is No. 2 and will play No. 7 Lake Howell (3-11) Wednesday at 7 p.m.

Seminole (9-5) is No. 5 and will play No. 5 Lake Mary (4-10) Thursday at 7 p.m. Mainland (7-0) is No. 3 and will play No. 6 Lake Brantley (3-11) Thursday at 8:30 p.m.

A coin toss was apparently used to break the Lake Howell-Lake Brantley tie for the sixth seed with Brantley winning.

Brauman's New Series: Dynasty?

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

Seminole High's boys may not yet be at the point where they can be considered a track dynasty, but they are starting to show signs of building in that direction.

This past Saturday, at the Lake Brantley Open in Altamonte Springs, the veterans from last year's 4A State Championship team turned in their usual strong performances but the Fighting Seminoles also got outstanding efforts from their young people.

Seminole returns to action Tuesday when it will host a dual meet with Lake Mary. The meet, originally scheduled for Lake Mary but moved because the Rams' track is under repair, will begin at 4 p.m.

"We have several young kids who did a great job Saturday," Seminole coach Ken Brauman said. Among the freshman who shined Saturday was Jared Jones who took sixth place in the discus with a Seminole freshman best of 132-5. That throw is also believed to be the best ever by a freshman in Seminole County.

Dwight Brinson ran a freshman best 42.8 in the 300 intermediate hurdles while Kenneth Batton leaped to a 20-10½ in the long jump and David Johnson ran the two mile in 10:53.

Seminole won the meet going away with a team score of 76 compared to 46 for Orlando Oak Ridge. Lake Howell turned in a strong effort with a sixth-place score of 24 while Lake Brantley tied for eighth at 19 and Lake Mary placed 10th at 14.

"Oak Ridge is nowhere near where they will be late in the season," Brauman said. "They're missing their two best sprinters (Reggie Demps and Rod Glover) and two others in the shot and discus."

"But our kids our performing really well," added Brauman. "I've been really pleased with them since the season began."

Senior Alvin Jones continued to dominate in the long jump and triple jump despite coming up with a cramped hamstring. Brauman said he will probably keep Jones out of action for a while.

Jones took first place in the long jump with a leap of 22-4½ and won the triple jump at 46-2¼. Seminole's Roosevelt Buckner was third in the triple jump at 42-3½ while Lake Mary's Cecil King took fifth at 41-9.

Senior sprinter Louis Brown also had an outstanding meet which included his best ever time of 21.8 which was good for first place in the 220 yard dash. Brown also ran legs on the winning 440 relay and mile relay teams.

Joining Brown on the 440 relay team, which recorded a time of 42.3, were Dwyn Willis, Eric Martin and Pat Davis. Running legs on the mile relay team along with Brown were Theron Liggonis, Willis and Martin. That relay team came in with a time of 3:25.9.

"That 42.3 in the 440 relay is really surprising for so early in the season," Brauman said.

The Seminole sprint duo of Martin and Willis also combined for eight points in the open quarter (440 dash) as Martin

IN BRIEF

Raiders Get Much-Needed Win As Songini, Hersey Show Way

Mike Songini continued his lusty hitting while James Hersey turned in a much-needed, route-going mound performance as Seminole Community College snapped a three-game skid with a 7-5 victory over Miami Dade South in junior college baseball Saturday at Miami.

James Hersey

SCC, which dropped a 5-3 decision to Dade South Saturday, improved to 4-6.

The Raiders travel to Manatee Wednesday before returning home Thursday. Mike Walker, who had a no-hitter through five innings before losing Saturday's game, will pitch Wednesday. Hersey, who upped his record to 2-1, will hurl Thursday.

"We really needed Saturday's win," SCC coach Jack Fantelias said. "The kids were getting a little down on themselves (because of the losing streak). We should have won Saturday's game, too."

Saturday, Hersey overcame a shaky start, surrendering three runs in the first frame but hurled shutout ball for the next seven innings before giving up two tallies in the ninth.

Songini rapped a triple and two singles while driving in two runs. Jeff Morgan's bat continued to sizzle, too, with two singles and a pair of RBI.

Frazier's Presence Helps Son?

RICHMOND, Calif. (UPI) — Like many fathers before him, former heavyweight champion Joe Frazier Sunday helped settle a fight for his son.

Frazier's presence in his son Marvis' corner may have been the deciding factor in the younger Frazier's unpopular, unanimous 10-round victory over James "Boncrusher" Smith.

"I thought I had won this fight," said Smith, obviously upset. "His father being Joe Frazier carried a lot of weight in the decision in this fight."

Smith had plenty of reason to believe he was robbed. He floored Frazier in the fifth round, and threw nearly every punch in the 10th. When the cards were read, they had it 97-96, 96-95 and 97-92 for Frazier. The crowd stood and booed lustily at the announcement.

Boggs Loses, Still Tops Raines

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Red Sox won their salary arbitration case against 1985 batting champion Wade Boggs, but with victory came the hint of a greater loss.

The Red Sox Sunday learned arbiter Thomas Roberts had ruled in favor of their $1.35 million offer, rejecting the third baseman's request for $1.85 million. A year ago, Boston lost in arbitration to Boggs and was forced to pay $1 million.

Despite the adverse decision, Boggs' salary is the largest ever for a player through arbitration. Montreal outfielder Tim Lincecum won a $1.3 million arbitration case.

Kyle Petty Wins Richmond 400

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Kyle Petty knows how to avoid wrecks — no small feat on the stock car racing circuit — and that ability helped him earn his first NASCAR Winston Cup victory.

Petty, 25, son of NASCAR's all-time winningest driver Richard Petty, coasted to victory Sunday in the Richmond 400 after a wreck eliminated Darrell Waltrip and Dale Earnhardt, the front runners.

Also caught in the crash were the third- and fourth-place cars of Joe Ruttman and Geoff Bodine.

Lendl Outlasts Rain, Wilander

BOCA RATON (UPI) — After nature provided a respite for Ivan Lendl Sunday, he made a break of his own.

The world's No. 1 player struggled into a third-set tiebreaker against Mats Wilander in the Lipton International Players Championships finals before the match was interrupted for 3-1/4 hours by rain. Returning to the court, he won the tiebreaker, then broke service in the final game to capture the 46th victory in his last 47 matches.

"I was struggling all day, trying to come in on my serve," he said, "and I played better when we came back."

After watching a televised golf tournament while officials pondered a possible postponement until Monday morning, Lendl put away the title in decisive fashion. The top seed downed Wilander, the No. 2 seed, 3-6, 6-1, 7-6 (7-5), 6-4, for his 54th career title. His only loss since the U.S. Open is a semifinals setback in the Australian Open against Stefan Edberg.

Sunday's match, which started under brilliant sun and temperatures in the mid-80s, was suspended at 2-2 in the third set tie-breaker after two hours and 31 minutes of play. Lendl came back to win under a full moon shrouded in clouds.

Tennis

Lendl, who has beaten Wilander in nine of their 15 career meetings, picked up $112,500, while Wilander won $56,250. Lendl is just $13,000 short of $8.5 million in career earnings.

Solid service games helped him past the Swede. Despite missing 54 percent of his first serves, the Czechoslovakian delivered nine aces and 16 service winners. He suffered just two breaks, and remained undefeated in 1986.

Lendl expressed pleasure in winning the tournament despite playing below optimum level.

Wilander said the first set was his best since the French Open last year when he beat Lendl in the semifinals en route to the title.

Lendl reached the finals on Jimmy's Connors controversial default of their semi-final match Friday. Connors refused to continue playing in the fifth set after a hotly disputed line call at the baseline.

CHRIS: GREATNESS FOR GRAF
BOCA RATON (UPI) — Chris Evert Lloyd

has never lost so much as a set to Steffi Graf in their six career matches, but she's seen enough to predict greatness for the rising young West German.

Evert Lloyd downed Graf, 6-4, 6-2, Saturday to win the $1.8 million Lipton International Players Championships singles title and the $112,500 in first place prize money.

The victory capped a two-week march through the tournament for the top-seeded Evert Lloyd, who didn't drop a set in her seven matches. The tournament was played in the veteran's hometown.

"I think Steffi has all the shots," said Evert Lloyd, who at 31 is nearly double Graf's age. "She has a good first serve and she moves beautifully around the court — and mentally, I think she wants it."

"I think in a few years, definitely, she can be No. 1," added Evert Lloyd, the world's current No. 2, behind Martina Navratilova.

Graf, No. 6 in the world, possesses what is quickly becoming one of the most feared forehand's of any woman on the tour. In fact, Evert Lloyd said the shot "intimidated" her enough to allow the youngster to grab a quick 3-1 first set lead.

high gear on both ends of the floor in the third quarter while Seminole was stuck in reverse. Patterson scored 12 of her 29 points in the first five minutes of the quarter as Lake Mary built a commanding 48-35 lead. Whyte was a terror on the defensive end with three blocked shots in that span and senior guard Heather Leckie was another key defensive player during the Lake Mary run.

"We really never recovered from the let down," Seminole coach Charles Steele said. "The girls just seemed to be standing around. They weren't running the offense well and they weren't rebounding."

Seminole came out of its shell with three minutes left in the third period and outscored the Lady Rams, 12-3, the remainder of the quarter to pull within four, 51-47. Hillsman had six points and Alexander four, including a baseline jumper with four seconds left, in the Seminole surge.

Alexander hit one from the outer limits to open the fourth quarter and pull Seminole within 51-49. Lawson came back with a layup to put the Rams back up by four and, after Seminole missed the front end of a one-plus-one, Patterson hit a three-point play to give Lake Mary a 56-49 lead.

Seminole cut it back to three, 60-57, with 2:30 remaining, but Lawson converted a pair of free throws to keep the Rams up by five, 61-57. After a Seminole turnover, Lawson banked in a layup for a 64-57 Lake Mary lead with 1:20 left to play. Patterson then came up with a steal and, after she was fouled driving to the hoop, made a pair of free throws to give Lake Mary a seemingly insurmountable 66-57 lead with 1:07 remaining.

But, as they did in the last meeting between the Seminole County rivals, the Lady Seminoles put on another last-minute comeback. In just over 30 seconds, Seminole scored six straight points to pull within three, 66-63, with 33 seconds left play. Anderson started the outburst with two free throws, then hit a short baseline jumper. Alexander followed with a 20-foot jumper that hit front rim, bounced up and dropped in.

Seminole got the ball back with 19 seconds left on a Lake Mary backcourt violation but Alexander's shot was off the mark. Alexander though stole the ball back for Seminole with 11 seconds left and fed Anderson. Anderson's bank shot rolled around the rim and then out with six seconds left and Whyte grabbed the rebound to seal the victory for the Lady Rams.

"Seminole always plays us real tight and we know how they can come back," Lawson said. "But we're not a give up team either. We just had to play tough defense and pull it out."

Although Lake Mary won the rubber game of the season series against Seminole, there's still a chance the two could meet one more time. Both would have to knock off top-10 teams, but a Seminole-Lake Mary regional final would certainly be exciting.

Tewell Finds The Answer, Coasts To LA Open Victory

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Doug Tewell, who questioned more than anyone his ability to win a PGA event, Sunday came up with the right answer.

"I hate to admit it, but I didn't think it was going to happen," Tewell said after he tamed the sun-drenched Riviera Country Club course for an 8-under par 63 and won the $450,000 Los Angeles Open by seven strokes.

"I woke up twice last night and told my wife I was too scared to win it. This morning I was very nervous. I kept asking myself, 'Do you really want it, do you really want it?' I guess I wanted it pretty bad."

Tewell, who hadn't won a PGA event since capturing two in 1980, took a one-stroke lead into the final round after getting birdies on his first six holes en route to a third-round 66. Sunday, he put himself into position for the first prize of $81,000 by recording birdies on Nos. 1, 5, 7 and 8 at the 7,029-yard course before making the turn.

Then, the 36-year-old Louisianan birdied the 10th, 12th and 13th holes to go 13-under and take a six-stroke lead. He breezed in bogey-free, paring Nos. 14-17 before getting a birdie on the 18th hole for a 270 four-day total.

"It's hard to run in the front," he said after finishing a round one stroke off Larry Mize's course record set last year. "This is what you dream about. You work hard so you can go out and hold your nerves together."

Tewell, who earned more than $137,000 last year, captured the Sea Pines Heritage Classic and Philadelphia Classic in 1980. He had been bothered in recent years by a back problem.

"Last year, I was going to quit at the PGA when my back hurt," he said. "Then I had a 64. It's amazing how good your back can feel."

Clarence Rose, who carded a 68, finished second with a 277 total.

"A 63 is awesome," Rose said of Tewell's round. "Under that pressure and everything, he just played super."

Willie Wood, who shot a 70, was another stroke back. Jay Delsing and Jim Gallagher were tied for fourth at 5-under.

Defending champion Lanny Wadkins, who won last year's event with a 20-under score, was in a group tied at 4-under.

LPGA: HATHAWAY BY 1
PHOENIX (UPI) — Mary Beth Zimmerman said it really didn't matter she played the worst of her four rounds Sunday in the Turquoise Classic.

"I felt like it was my day," Zimmerman said after recording her first victory as a professional in the $250,000 event, winning by one stroke over Cathy Kratzert and Donna Caponi.

Zimmerman carded a 1-under-par 71 at the Arizona Biltmore Adobe Course Sunday, giving her a four-day total of 10-under 278 and the winner's check of $37,500. She is the fourth golfer in the seven-year history of the tournament to record her initial LPGA Tour victory at Phoenix.

Caponi scored a 3-under 69 and Kratzert a 70 Sunday to finish at 9-under 279.

Zimmerman had to survive a number of scares to stay in the lead, including a bogey on the last hole that gave Kratzert a chance at forcing a playoff.

"I've always been told a tournament comes down to the last 9 holes," Zimmerman said.

Hawks Bank On Arms, Hope Defense Matures

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Burt Benjamin, the only baseball coach in Lake Howell's history, can talk for days about his team's pitching and hours about its hitting. Mention the defense, however, and he shakes his head and loses his voice.

"Our strength will be our pitching," the former Orlando Jones baseball-football standout said. "Our hitters, one through six, are very tough too."

But the defense? "Well, that's our weakness right now," Benjamin said Sunday night. "The kids will make good plays — diving catches — then they'll get up and throw the ball away."

Benjamin attributes those defensive woes as the main reason the Hawks are off to a 2-3 start today. Lake Howell journeys to Orlando to take on Edgewater which along with Spruce Creek, accounts for the wins. Losses have come to powerful Lake Mary, Apopka and Oviedo. The Hawks and Boone battled to an eight-inning tie.

"I'm satisfied with the start," Benjamin continued. "We're on our way. As the season goes along this team will play better ball. We'll be a good team by district tournament time. That's when it matters."

The Hawks' most potent power threat thus far has been Marty Gollubert, who is handling the designated hitter's role. Gollubert has rapped three homers in the first six games.

Gollubert is probably our most improved hitter," Benjamin said. "When he makes good contact the ball really flies."

Lake Howell's infield is anchored by the Martinez twins — Willy Eric at first and righty Ernest at second. The junior veterans both played varsity ball last year and are good contact hitters. Sophomore Chris Norton, a product of Seminole Pony Baseball, handles third base and Benjamin said Reuben Trevino, just back from the injured list, will start today at shortstop. Joe Montalvo and

Benjamin Taubensee

David Bauss provide solid depth.

The outfield is made up of left fielder Tom Brantley, center fielder Damon Marlette and right fielder Jim Reed. Terry Lyons,mons and Mark Schmitter are a pair of basketball players who will join the team after the cage season.

Eddie Taubensee, a member of the World Champion Altamonte Seniors last summer, is one of the best catchers in the area and swings a productive left-handed club.

Benjamin said David Martin will pitch today. He is backed up by veteran junior hurlers Greg Hill and Craig Wagner along with seniors Marlette, a crafty left-hander, Jim Reed and Kevin Ramroth.

Kevin Lienard, another veteran hurler, will also join the team once basketball ends.

Lake Howell's Phil Clarke hit a 25-foot desperation jumper at the buzzer to send the game into overtime and then added two free throws with three seconds remaining in the OT to lead a 51-48 Seminole Athletic Conference victory over Lake Brantley Friday before 501 fans at Lake Howell High School.

"I couldn't believe that shot went in at the buzzer," Lake Howell coach Greg Robinson said. "It was a desperate heave." "It was a wild game. It was a topsy-turvy type of game and I'm happy to have the win."

Lake Howell closed the regular season with a 13-15 record. The Hawks were 4-6 in the SAC. Lake Brantley and first-year coach Steve Jucker finished with an 11-14 mark and 4-6 in the conference.

Clarke, Todd Peterson and John Lowe were the key ingredients that spelled disaster for the Patriots in the overtime period. Clarke led the three players with 14 points, Peterson followed with 12 and Lowe tossed in 10 of his own.

"Those three guys played one heck of a ball game down the stretch," Robinson said. "I still can't get over that shot by Clarke at the buzzer. It was one of the best shots I've ever seen in a do or die situation."

For the Patriots, Mark Moser poured in his game-high 20 points and Wade Wittig helped the cause with 14. The Patriots were hitting from the field, but found it very empty and lonely at the foul line as they only converted 6 of 20.

In the junior varsity thriller, the JV Silver Hawks pulled the same stunt as the varsity with a 43-41 cliff-hanger win on two free throws by Steve Johnson.

Gary Weeden led all scorers with his 14 points and Randy Keller yanked down nine boards en route to a 22-20 first-half lead for coach Stan Adams' Hawks.

DAYTONA BEACH — The "Ice Age" has come to an end at Lake Brantley High, but the Lady Patriots don't expect to go into a deep freeze with the graduation of four-year standout Sherry "Ice" Asplen.

Saturday night, Brantley showed promise for the future as Jennifer Peters, Karen Hamlett Lyman's Willie Brown scored a game-high 17 points and crashed the glass for seven rebounds.

"Willie (Brown) is a very consistent ball player," Lyman coach Norman Ready said.

The Greyhounds' Richard Wright blocked a career-high seven shots, four of them coming in a row in the fourth period.

Darrell Starks put in 12 points pulled down 16 rebounds.

LEESBURG REPEATS AS CHAMPION

Oviedo's Lady Lions connected on 20 of 30 free throws Friday night but six straight turnovers in the fourth quarter spelled disaster as they dropped a 52-42 decision to Jones' Lady Tigers and were eliminated in the 3A-6 District Tournament semifinals at Leesburg High.

Jones was then thumped by Leesburg, 56-40, in the title game Saturday night. Leesburg, 17-1, which upended St. Cloud in Friday's other semifinal, hosts Ocala Forest in Tuesday's regional. Jones travels to District 3A-5 winner Ocala Vanguard.

"We stayed with them (Jones) through three quarters and had our chances in the fourth quarter but turned it over too much," Oviedo coach John Thomas said of six consecutive throw-aways.

Jones led by just one point, 22-21, at halftime and Oviedo came back to take four-point lead, 28-24, early in the third quarter. The Lady Tigers, though came back to build a 35-29 lead after three quarters.

Michelle Eck was high for Oviedo Friday with 12 points while senior Stephanie Nelson closed out a fine career with 10 points, 14 rebounds and six assists. Freshman Suzanne Hughes kept the Lions close by contributing 10 points and five rebounds.

Washburn, Wolfpack Arrive, Stun No. 1 UNC

United Press International

The North Carolina State Wolfpack, described all season as too young, too inconsistent and in too-though a conference. Sunday proved too strong for the top-ranked team in the country.

Sophomore center Chris Washburn scored 26 points to lead four players in double figures as the Wolfpack upset Atlantic Coast Conference rival North Carolina 78-65, the No. 1 team's second straight loss.

For No. 17 North Carolina State, 18-9 overall and 7-6 in the ACC, the victory snapped a three-game losing streak, and may have locked up an at-large bid to the NCAA tournament.

"Before the season, we set a couple of goals: 18 wins and seven of those in the conference. Today, we accomplished that," N.C. State head coach Jim Valvano said. "I thought before the season, and still think now, that those totals should be enough to get us into the NCAA tournament."

The Tar Heels, 25-3 and 9-3, Thursday lost to Maryland 77-72 in overtime. Second-ranked Duke, which defeated No. 9 Oklahoma 93-84 on national television Saturday, will in all likelihood replace the Tar Heels at the top of the UPI Board of Coaches ratings. "We're very disappointed, but we hope we can bounce back like Kentucky and Louisville did after they lost playing here on national television," North Carolina coach Dean Smith said.

Brad Daugherty led the Tar Heels with 23 points, and Kenny Smith contributed 12. The Wolfpack got a career-high 18 points from junior forward Bennie Bolton.

Washburn scored 16 of his points in the first half to lead the Wolfpack to a 38-27 lead at halftime. The Wolfpack pushed the lead to 50-33 before the Tar Heels went on a 16-8 run to cut the lead to 56-49. North Carolina closed the margin to 62-57 with 2:49 to go, but the Wolfpack hit 10-of-12 free throws in the final 2:13 to seal the victory.

At Durham, N.C., David Henderson scored 18 of his team-high 28 points in the second half to power Duke, 29-2. All-America guard Johnny Dawkins, whose jersey was retired before the game, added 20 points.

"We have put ourselves into position to be the No. 1 team," senior forward Mark Alarie said.

At Tallahassee, Fla., Pat Conner slammed in a missed shot with one second remaining to lift Florida State. ...Region fied as many matmen as the Rams with their pack of eight.

"We had a great tournament," Lyman coach Bill Scott said. "We did what we had to do and if we could have gotten some matches in the first round instead of byes, we could have won the tournament."

Trying to play catch-up with the Rams after the first three rounds, the Greyhounds put five guys in the finals and walked away with three regional champions (Chad Dubin, Pat Perkins and Eddie Campbell) and two runners-up (Benny Glenn and Tony Carullo).

"We wrestled some tough matches," Scott said. "We didn't look as sharp as we did at the district meet, though, but it's always tough when you're away from home."

Being away from home didn't affect the Glenn Malolini's Seminoles. With the help of Sheraton Mays and Troy and Tracy Turner, the "Noles proved that Peter's theory of three out of four isn't bad was in fact true.

Sheraton Mays at 109 was the story of the tournament. Not only did Mays win his match against Lake Mary's Craig Johnson after being shut out, 11-0, by him in the districts a week ago, but he also won a lot of respect around the community, according to Malolini.

"Sheraton (Mays) told me last Monday that as soon as he got on the bus all the kids from school were razzing him about losing to Johnson at districts," Malolini said. "That same day at practice he came up to me and told me that he wanted to meet Johnson at the regions and beat him to make up for it."

Mays not only made up for it, but he had one of the best matches of the year. Right from the start Mays took control of the match and went on to post a 8-4 win over Johnson.

"I definitely feel a lot better today than I did last week," Mays said. "Coach Malolini told me if I stood by him and did what he said that he'd make me a champion. So far I'm a region champ and there's only one more step to go."

After losing and then beating Johnson, one would think that Mays would be glad to get the monkey off his back. But according to Mays, he's going back for more bananas.

"It would be great to meet Johnson again in the finals," Mays said. "It would be greatest thing in the world to win state in the rubber match."

Mays got to the finals after a first round by, a pin over Cedric Hicks of Gainesville Bucchoiz in 3:12 in the second round and a pin in 5:42 over Columbia's Scott Davis in the third.

The other two-thirds of the Seminole Connection is the Turner brothers. Troy had a relatively easy time at the regions with three technical pins and one decision.

"Troy is just Troy," Malolini said of Wrestling USA's No. 1-rated wrestler in the nation at 159. "There's no doubt about him ever winning because he's like a machine. The only thing that I wonder about is how he's going to win, by pin or decision."

Troy will be preparing himself this week not only for the state tournament at Lyman High School, but he will also be getting ready for a long awaited match-up with Merritt Island's defending state champion Solomon Fleckman. Fleckman's only career loss was handed to him this season by the undefeated Turner in a dual meet at Seminole.

"Fleckman wasn't even supposed to wrestle at 159," Malolini said. "He usually wrestles at 149, but he stayed up at Troy's weight just to try and beat him. It should be a great match and they will definitely be going at it for the state championship."

Turner got to the finals by defeating Charles Parks of Jacksonville Forrest with a technical pin, 16-0, a 13-0 decision over Thomas Grant of Mosley and a 16-0 technical pin over Lake Mary's Tony Lavalle. The remarkable thing wasn't the fact that Turner won every round, but that not one opponent scored a single point. Another Turner, Tracy, hasn't had the season his older brother has had, but after a season filled with injury and illness, Tracy is once again the wrestler he was of a year ago, according to Malolini.

"He's just a tough tournament wrestler," Malolini said. "He's been in the situations before and knows what he's doing. He really took it to those guys and to be honest, he looks better than he has all year long."

Turner got to the finals by receiving a technical pin over Mosley's Justin Phillipott, 19-4 in the first round, another technical pin over Sandalwood's John Baktya, 15-0 and a 12-5 decision over Bucchoiz's John Galney.

In the finals, Turner used two takedowns and his great foot work to dispose of Choctawatchee's Hunter Flood, 7-2.

"He looked great on his feet against Flood," Malolini said. "I'm really looking for him to place highly at state now."

The individual status of the Greyhounds looked pretty impressive at the regional tournament with Dubin at 116, Campbell at 123 and Perkins at 224 all were victorious in their quest for a region title.

Dubin whitewashed Lake Mary's Enrique Carbia, 10-0, Campbell dethroned the Rams' Rob Richards, 14-6, and Pat Perkins pinned Sandalwood's Jacques Alexander in 1:16.

The only other county matman to win a region title was from the Patriots of Lake Brantley, Dan Streetman at 136 made it a conference, district and region sweep with only one step to go for his state championship goal.

Streetman easily disposed of the Rams' Tom Olson, 7-2, to give him a high seeding at the state meet.

The other Seminole County wrestlers to qualify for this week's 4A State Wrestling Championships include Derrick Butler of Seminole, Bill Richards, Scott Ross and Matt Broberg of Lake Mary, Tony Carullo, Chris Waxler, Gene Hartman, Jimbo Smith and Benny Glenn of Lyman, Dan Roth of Lake Brantley and Roger Hutchins, Dave Filger and Chris Cina of Lake Howell.

going abroad," he said. "We have no intention of resigning. And we will defend to the last breath of our life and to the last drop of blood."

Loyalist elements were reportedly plotting a "do-or-die" attack on rebel forces to regain control of Camp Crane where rebellion leaders Lt. Gen. Fidel Ramos, deputy chief of the armed forces, and Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile are holed up.

Military and Western diplomatic sources said they expected forces loyal to Armed Forces Chief Gen. Fabian Ver would attack the installation during the night. Marines were reported marching toward the installation.

Ramos appealed to the chief of the 1st Infantry Battalion of the Philippine Army to "disobey the illegal orders of Mr. Marcos and Mr. Ver" and call off the attack. He said the troops could join the rebel forces.

A crowd of 40,000 civilians maintained a vigil at Camp Crane and reporters said a huge group of women carrying flowers had formed a barricade where they intended to stand against the advancing Marines.

Elements in the Philippine army and marines appeared to pose the main challenge to what rebel leaders called The New Armed Forces of the People. Rebel leaders said they had at least 50 percent of the 250,000-member military under their command after mass defections from the various services throughout Sunday and today.

Aquino supporters in parliament said they would convene a session tonight to nullify the earlier proclamation, based on a government-controlled vote count that named Marcos as the winner. An independent vote tally showed Aquino had won.

In Washington, the White House warned Marcos and his loyal troops against any violence and called for a "peaceful transition to a new government."

"We have received disturbing reports of a possible attack by forces loyal to Gen. (Fabian) Ver against elements of the Philippine armed forces that have come to the support of Lt. (Fidel) Ramos and Minister (Juan Ponce) Enrile," White House spokesman Larry Speakes said today.

"We urge those contemplating such an attack to stop."

"Attempts to prolong the life of the present regime by violence are futile."

"A solution to this crisis can only be achieved through a peaceful transition to a new government," Speakes said in a statement.

In a nationally televised broadcast today, Marcos tried to assure the nation that he remained in control but rebel forces overran the studios of state-run television and blacked out the broadcast before he completed his statement.

Marcos had planned to be sworn into office Tuesday.

Gen. Ver, Marcos's loyal military ally, said the presidential palace was secure and loyalist forces were preparing to attack the rebel headquarters. But critical pillars of military support for Marcos's 20-year-old regime were collapsing.

Only the Philippine army and marines appeared to pose much of a challenge to what rebel leaders called the New Armed Forces of the People.

No deaths from the rebellion

were immediately reported but four soldiers and a civilian were wounded in the battle to gain control of the building housing the state-run television, radio and news services.

Aquino — whose whereabouts were kept secret since the rebellion led by Ramos and Enrile began Saturday — appealed to all Filipinos, whether loyal to Marcos or not, to help rebuild the country.

The fledgling board's first formal ruling was a 6-4 vote on Feb. 14 to reject the county's site plan for a 12,000-square-foot library on Palmelto Avenue, behind the Sanford Library.

Although the county modified its site plan to comply with the board's request in December, the revisions fell short of bringing the project in line with development guidelines contained in the city preservation ordinance. The board majority said. They viewed the structure as being "too contemporary" and said the move to decline approval set a precedent for future construction and rehabilitation of downtown structures.

The historic board's request for modifications and subsequent vote put the project months behind schedule and city commission approval would enable construction to begin this summer, Ms. Rhein said.

Without commission authorization, the county faces developing a new site plan, which would delay the project at least another six months, she said.

Implementation of this plan would also be contingent on historic district approval or an appellate ruling from the city commission.

Additionally, a review by the Sanford Planning and Zoning board is necessary regardless of whether a new plan is developed or the commission approves the structure as presented.

The Sanford project is first on the list of four libraries the county plans to build in local municipalities during the next two years.

A juxtaposition of the projects' construction schedules may be necessary if the city commission upholds the historic board decision, according to Ms. Rhein, who said, "the last thing" the county wants to do is abandon the Sanford project.

...Tornado

from tornadoes or waterspouts, which are tornadoes over water, because many are relatively weak, he said.

Also, warning time for Florida tornadoes is usually short or not available because many of them move onshore or offshore quickly after forming, Pinkman said.

"Nonetheless, lives can be saved during the stronger tornadoes and waterspouts if quick action is taken when a warning is issued or a tornado is occurring without warning," he said.

Most of Florida's tornadoes have not hit heavily populated areas, but as the state's population continues to increase the threat of a devastating tornado in Florida grows with each year, Pinkman said.

"Tornadoes are worse than hurricanes because of their intensity," Pinkman said. Tornadoes can pack up to 200 mph winds, while hurricanes generally range in intensity from 120-150 mph winds, he said.

"Hurricanes create the most damage over a wide area but lose strength when they hit land," he said.

A tornado gains strength as it goes over land, Pinkman said.

In conjunction with the activity, the national weather service suggests the following tornado safety rules:

- Seek inside shelter immediately. Protect your head and eyes. Lie flat and make as small a target as possible. If you have a portable radio, take it with you.
- In homes, take cover in the smallest room with stout walls, or under heavy furniture or a tipped-over upholstered couch or chair in the center part of the house. The first floor is safer than the second or third floor. If you have a basement, seek shelter there. Keep away from windows.
- Leave mobile homes for stronger shelter. Mobile homes are particularly vulnerable to overturning and destruction during strong winds. Tie-downs will generally not protect a mobile home from a tornado. There should be a designated community shelter where residents can assemble during a tornado. If such a shelter is not available, do not stay in a mobile home when a tornado is approaching. Seek refuge in a ditch or culvert as a last resort. Select a leader to monitor radio and television, monitor the skies and sound a warning.

- In schools, wherever possible follow advance plans to an interior hallway on the lowest floor. Hallways oriented in an east-west direction generally offer greater protection than those with a north-south orientation. Avoid seeking shelter in any classroom which has an outside wall facing south or west. In all cases, do not remain in auditoriums, gymnasiums or other structures with wide, free-span roofs.
- If a building is not of reinforced construction, go quickly to a nearby reinforced building, or to an open ditch and lie flat with your head covered with your arms. Do not stay in a school bus.
- In an automobile and other vehicles, seek refuge in a sturdy building, or as a last resort in a ditch or culvert. Do not stay in the vehicle.

- In office buildings, condominiums and hotels, the basement or an interior hallway on a lower floor is safest. Upper stories are unsafe. If there is not time to descend, a closet or small room with stout walls (bathroom) or an inside hallway will give some protection against flying debris. Otherwise, getting under heavy furniture must do.
- Factories, auditoriums and other large buildings with wide, free-span roofs are particularly vulnerable to wind damage. Occupants should move quickly to the section of the building offering the greatest protection such as basements or small interior rooms. Otherwise, seek shelter in nearby sturdy buildings if time permits.
- In open country, seek inside shelter if close by and time permits. If there is not time, lie flat in the nearest depression, such as a ditch or culvert, and protect your head with your arms. Do not stay in a parked car. However, as a last resort, if no ditch is nearby, a car may provide some shelter from flying debris by crawling under it.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Military Graft And Cronyism Sparked Philippines Rebellion

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — Graft and cronyism that plagued the 250,000-member Armed Forces of the Philippines under the command of Gen. Fabian Ver — President Ferdinand Marcos's cousin — helped spark rebellion.

A year ago — with Ver on leave awaiting trial in the 1980 assassination of opposition leader Benigno Aquino — about 2,000 young military officers began a reform movement to end the corruption.

Reports of a crackdown on the reformists and the political opposition were among the factors that led Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile and Lt. Gen. Fidel Ramos to rebel Saturday against Marcos's 20-year rule.

Enrile and Ramos revolted and called for Marcos to resign because they said his Feb. 7 election victory was fraudulent. The move left the Southeast Asian nation of 54 million people on the brink of civil war for the first time since it gained independence from the United States in 1946.

Although he never formally acknowledged membership, Ramos has long been associated with the Reformist Armed Forces Movement. He is a West Point trained career soldier. Washington hoped would spearhead badly needed reforms in the Philippine armed forces.

Complaints centered on Marcos' failure to replace loyal generals who are beyond retirement age and on rampant corruption under the leadership of Ver — who returned to command in December after his acquittal in the Aquino case.

Car Bomb; Kidnappings In Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A car bomb ripped through a busy street in Christian east Beirut today killing at least five people, while 40 communists were kidnapped during clashes with rival Islamic fundamentalists.

The explosive charge in a blue Honda went off near a crowded supermarket, killing at least five people and wounding 12 others, Christian Voice of Lebanon Radio said.

The blast set fire to 15 other automobiles and an outdoor vegetable market in the Sun El Fil neighborhood, and Voice of Lebanon asked motorists to avoid the area.

In mostly Muslim west Beirut, police said fierce fighting between the Shiite Muslim Hezbollah movement and the pro-Soviet Lebanese Communist Party stopped at dawn today after seven hours. The combatants used anti-tank rockets, jeep-mounted cannons and automatic rifles.

They said at least three militiamen died in the clash and three were wounded. Several buildings were damaged and hundreds of residents hid in corridors and basements as the rival gunmen exchanged fire.

Saadallah Marraam, a member of the politburo of the tiny Communist Party, said in a telephone interview that Hezbollah militiamen stormed party members' houses during the fighting and kidnapped 40 people, including Suhel Al Tawilch, another member of the politburo.

In the south, hundreds of villagers who fled their homes during a fruitless Israeli search for two Israeli soldiers captured in an ambush by radical Muslim guerrillas returned, and some accused the Israelis and their Lebanese allies of torture.

A military spokesman in Israel Sunday denied reports by residents of the village of Chakra that they had been tortured by Israeli troops during the six-day search.

AARP Offers Free Help With Tax Returns

It's getting to be "that time" again — time to get out the shoe box full of receipts and papers and get them sorted for a visit to the tax office or a hair-pulling session at home. But for the senior citizens of Seminole County things will again be made easier thanks to AARP.

AARP, American Association of Retired Persons, is offering free help in filling out income tax forms at various set-ups throughout the county. Those 55 and older will receive help from trained tax-aid volunteers at these sites. There is also a help plan available for shut-ins. They need only to call 323-9449 or 323-6389.

So, get the shoe box, tax forms and W2's and head over to one of the following south Seminole tax help centers for seniors. Each is open between the hours of 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on one day per week. Longwood's center is located in the Community Building on the corner of Wilma Street and Warren Avenue and is open Tuesdays. The Winter Springs VFW Post #5405 on Edgemon Avenue is open for help on Wednesdays and Oviedo's City Hall has an area set up on Thursdays for the seniors of that area.

Drivers are needed to take homebound cancer patients to and from treatment centers on weekdays. A training program for volunteers has been set up by the American Cancer Society. If you have a car and some time to spare any day during the week and would like to help, please call Ms. Nowicki at 843-8680.

Three students from Longwood attending the University of Mississippi have been selected for scholastic honors over the past semester. Angela M. Massey and Stephen T. Cumella have been

Closet Dropout Certain Diploma Will Open Doors

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I am a high school dropout who has been married to a very prominent businessman for four years. I'll never know how I got so lucky.

I want to finish high school and take some kind of job-training courses. I enrolled in some night classes once, but I never went because I'm too embarrassed to let our friends know that I never finished high school. It might even be damaging to my husband's career if it became known. My verbal skills are fine, but I am not really educated.

When friends ask me why I don't have some kind of job, I don't know what to say. Without a high school diploma, I can't get the kind of job that would be expected of me in our circle of friends. There must be other people who are in the same position. What should I do?

CLOSET DROPOUT

DEAR DROPOUT: First, get over the idea that it's a disgrace to be a dropout. It's not. Circumstances have prevented many from graduating from high school with their peers. Fortunately, you can pick up where you dropped out without embarrassment. There are adult education classes (nights or days) at your local college. You could even hire a tutor to teach you at home. You're smart enough to know you need more education. Now be brave enough to get it. And good luck.

DEAR ABBY: I realize that women don't like being looked at solely as sex objects, but do women know that men don't like being looked at solely in terms of how much money they have? I am unemployed and have very little money, and I am tired of being turned down by greedy women. I am 34 years old, fairly good-looking and I am still valuable, even if I am broke.

WILLIAM IN BUTLER, PA.

DEAR WILLIAM: Obviously your self-esteem is intact. My hat is off to you. However, all men do not look at women solely as sex objects; neither do all women evaluate men on the basis of their pocketbooks. Please don't tar all women with the same brush.

DEAR ABBY: Can a person who is 5 feet 10 weighing 370 pounds fit into an airplane sent going overseas? Thank you.

BIG IN FLAGSTAFF

DEAR BIG: In some airplanes, a coach seat may not accommodate you, but if you go first class, you should have no problem. It's not your height and weight, it's your girth that could ground you.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I want a divorce and see no reason why we should hire a lawyer. There are no children involved, and we have no property or money to fight over. So what do we need a lawyer for? Or can't we get a divorce without one?

ENOUGH IS ENOUGH IN MARYLAND

DEAR ENOUGH: You can obtain a divorce without a lawyer. This is called a court appearance "pro se" (or "for self"). You will need a copy of a divorce complaint form. Most stationery stores carry them. If you cannot find one, you may be able to get one from the court files by paying for photostating it. My sources cite an old legal maxim: "A lawyer who represents himself has a tool for a client." This may apply equally to non-lawyers.

I am not recommending a do-it-yourself divorce; I'm simply letting you know that you have the option. Me? I would hire a lawyer and pay him — or her — for what he or she knows. Would I lie to you on George Washington's birthday?

DEAR ABBY: I hope you don't mind lending me your eyes (eyes?) for something seemingly trivial, but this bugs me so end.

I live alone, far from family. Last Christmas what do I get from my sister but a short note that amounts to a weather report. (We stopped exchanging gifts years ago, but we do exchange letters.) This "loquacious" lady with her university degree is married, has two children and lives near childhood friends and relatives, so she has plenty to write about. It's hard for me to believe that none of these people ever say or do anything worth mentioning.

In my last letter, I asked her to please send along some juicy gossip for a change. Nothing. I've inquired as to the state of the health of a dear neighbor who had celebrated his 100th birthday three years ago. Nothing. I mentioned that I had been mugged in the park. No comment. I recounted a recent automobile accident in which I narrowly escaped serious injury. No response.

I am wondering if I should quit writing to this sister, or should I continue to drop letters into a dark, bottomless pit.

WRITTEN OFF

DEAR WRITTEN OFF: Your sister's newsless letters should signal a clearly spelled-out message. She wants nothing more than a polite let's-keep-in-touch correspondence with you — if that.

going abroad," he said. "We have no intention of resigning. And we will defend to the last breath of our life and to the last drop of blood."

Loyalist elements were reportedly plotting a "do-or-die" attack on rebel forces to regain control of Camp Crame where rebellion leaders Lt. Gen. Fidel Ramos, deputy chief of the armed forces, and Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile are holed up.

Military and Western diplomatic sources said they expected forces loyal to Armed Forces Chief Gen. Fabian Ver would attack the installation during the night. Marines were reported marching toward the installation.

Ramos appealed to the chief of the 1st Infantry Battalion of the Philippine Army to "disobey the illegal orders of Mr. Marcos and Mr. Ver" and call off the attack. He said the troops could join the rebel forces.

A crowd of 40,000 civilians maintained a vigil at Camp Crame and reporters said a huge group of women carrying flowers had formed a barricade where they intended to stand against the advancing Marines.

Elements in the Philippine army and marines appeared to pose the main challenge to what rebel leaders called The New Armed Forces of the People.

Rebel leaders said they had at least 50 percent of the 250,000-member military under their command after mass defections from the various services throughout Sunday and today.

Aquino supporters in parliament said they would convene a session tonight to nullify the earlier proclamation, based on a government-controlled vote count that named Marcos as the winner. An independent vote tally showed Aquino had won.

In Washington, the White House warned Marcos and his loyal troops against any violence and called for a "peaceful transition to a new government."

"We have received disturbing reports of a possible attack by forces loyal to Gen. (Fabian) Ver against elements of the Philippine armed forces that have come to the support of (Lt.) Gen. (Fidel) Ramos and Minister (Juan Ponce) Enrile," White House spokesman Larry Speakes said today.

"We urge those contemplating such action to stop."

"Attempts to prolong the life of the present regime by violence are futile."

"A solution to this crisis can only be achieved through a peaceful transition to a new government," Speakes said in a statement.

In a nationally televised broadcast today, Marcos tried to assure the nation that he remained in control but rebel forces overran the studios of state-run television and blacked out the broadcast before he completed his statement.

Gen. Ver, Marcos's loyal military ally, said the presidential palace was secure and loyalist forces were preparing to attack the rebel headquarters. But critical pillars of military support for Marcos's 20-year-old regime were collapsing.

Only the Philippine army and marines appeared to pose much of a challenge to what rebel leaders called the New Armed Forces of the People.

No deaths from the rebellion

were immediately reported but four soldiers and a civilian were wounded in the battle to gain control of the building housing the state-run television, radio and news services.

Aquino — whose whereabouts were kept secret since the rebellion led by Ramos and Enrile began Saturday — appealed to all Filipinos, whether loyal to Marcos or not, to help rebuild the country.

The fledgling board's first formal ruling was a 6-4 vote on Feb. 14 to reject the county's site plan for a 12,000-square-foot library on Palmetto Avenue, behind the Sanford Library.

Although the county modified its site plan to comply with the board's request in December, the revisions fell short of bringing the project in line with development guidelines contained in the city preservation ordinance, the board majority said. They viewed the structure as being "too contemporary" and said the move to decline approval set a precedent for future construction and rehabilitation of downtown structures.

The historic board's request for modifications and subsequent veto put the project months behind schedule and city commission approval would enable construction to begin this summer, Ms. Rhein said.

Without commission authorization, the county faces developing a new site plan, which would delay the project at least another six months, she said.

Implementation of this plan would also be contingent on historic district approval or an appellate ruling from the city commission.

Additionally, a review by the Sanford Planning and Zoning board is necessary regardless of whether a new plan is developed or the commission approves the structure as presented.

The Sanford project is first on the list of four libraries the county plans to build in local municipalities during the next two years.

A juxtaposition of the projects' construction schedules may be necessary if the city commission upholds the historic board decision, according to Ms. Rhein, who said, "the last thing" the county wants to do is abandon the Sanford project.

...Tornado

from tornadoes or waterspouts, which are tornadoes over water, because many are relatively weak, he said.

Also, warning time for Florida tornadoes is usually short or not available because many of them move onshore or offshore quickly after forming, Pinkman said.

"Nonetheless, lives can be saved during the stronger tornadoes and waterspouts if quick action is taken when a warning is issued or a tornado is occurring without warning," he said.

Most of Florida's tornadoes have not hit heavily populated areas, but as the state's population continues to increase the threat of a devastating tornado in Florida grows with each year, Pinkman said.

"Tornadoes are worse than hurricanes because of their intensity," Pinkman said. Tornadoes can pack up to 200 mph winds, while hurricanes generally range in intensity from 120-150 mph winds, he said.

"Hurricanes create the most damage over a wide area but lose strength when they hit land," he said.

A tornado gains strength as it goes over land, Pinkman said.

In conjunction with the activity, the national weather service suggests the following tornado safety rules:

- Seek inside shelter immediately. Protect your head and eyes, lie flat and make as small a target as possible. If you have a portable radio, take it with you.

- In homes, take cover in the smallest room with stout walls, or under heavy furniture or a tipped-over upholstered couch or chair in the center part of the house. The first floor is safer than the second or third floor. If you have a basement, seek shelter there. Keep away from windows.

- Leave mobile homes for stronger shelter. Mobile homes are particularly vulnerable to overturning and destruction during strong winds. Tie-downs will generally not protect a mobile home from a tornado. There should be a designated community shelter where residents can assemble during a tornado. If such a shelter is not available, do not stay in a mobile home when a tornado is approaching. Seek refuge in a ditch or culvert as a last resort. Select a leader to monitor radio and television, monitor the skies and sound a warning.

- In schools, wherever possible follow advance plans to an interior hallway on the lowest floor. Hallways oriented in an east-west direction generally offer greater protection than those with a north-south orientation. Avoid seeking shelter in any classroom which has an outside wall facing south or west. In all cases, do not remain in auditoriums, gymnasiums or other structures with wide, free-span roofs.

- If a building is not of reinforced construction, go quickly to a nearby reinforced building, or to an open ditch and lie flat with your head covered with your arms. Do not stay in a school bus.

- In an automobile and other vehicles, seek refuge in a sturdy building, or as a last resort in a ditch or culvert. Do not stay in the vehicle.

- In office buildings, condominiums and hotels, the basement or an interior hallway on a lower floor is safest. Upper stories are unsafe. If there is not time to descend, a closet or small room with stout walls (bathroom) or an inside hallway will give some protection against flying debris. Otherwise, getting under heavy furniture must do.

- Factories, auditoriums and other large buildings with wide, free-span roofs are particularly vulnerable to wind damage. Occupants should move quickly to the section of the building offering the greatest protection such as basements or small interior rooms. Otherwise, seek shelter in nearby sturdy buildings if time permits.

- In open country, seek inside shelter if close by and time permits. If there is not time, lie flat in the nearest depression, such as a ditch or culvert, and protect your head with your arms. Do not stay in a parked car. However, as a last resort, if no ditch is nearby, a car may provide some shelter from flying debris by crawling under it.

WORLD

Military Graft And Cronyism Sparked Philippines Rebellion

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — Graft and cronyism that plagued the 250,000-member Armed Forces of the Philippines under the command of Gen. Fabian Ver — President Ferdinand Marcos's cousin — helped fuel rebellion.

A year ago — with Ver on leave awaiting trial in the 1983 assassination of opposition leader Benigno Aquino — about 2,000 young military officers began a reform movement to end the corruption.

Reports of a crackdown on the reformists and the political opposition were among the factors that led Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile and Lt. Gen. Fidel Ramos to rebel Saturday against Marcos's 20-year rule.

Enrile and Ramos revolted and called for Marcos to resign because they said his Feb. 7 election victory was fraudulent. The move left the Southeast Asian nation of 54 million people on the brink of civil war for the first time since it gained independence from the United States in 1946.

Although he never formally acknowledged membership, Ramos has long been associated with the Reformed Armed Forces Movement. He is a West Point-trained career soldier Washington hoped would spearhead badly needed reforms in the Philippine armed forces.

Complaints centered on Marcos' failure to replace loyal generals who are beyond retirement age and on rampant corruption under the leadership of Ver — who returned to command in December after his acquittal in the Aquino case.

Car Bomb; Kidnappings In Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A car bomb ripped through a busy street in Christian east Beirut today killing at least five people, while 40 communists were kidnapped during clashes with rival Islamic fundamentalists.

The explosive charge in a blue Honda went off near a crowded supermarket, killing at least five people and wounding 12 others, Christian Voice of Lebanon Radio said.

The blast set fire to 15 other automobiles and an outdoor vegetable market in the Sin El Fil neighborhood, and Voice of Lebanon asked motorists to avoid the area.

In mostly Moslem west Beirut, police said fierce fighting between the Shiite Moslem Hezbollah movement and the pro-Soviet Lebanese Communist Party stopped at dawn today after seven hours. The combatants used anti-tank rockets, Jeep-mounted cannons and automatic rifles.

They said at least three militiamen died in the clash and three were wounded. Several buildings were damaged and hundreds of residents hid in corridors and basements as the rival gunmen exchanged fire.

Saadallah Mazraani, a member of the politburo of the tiny Communist Party said in a telephone interview that Hezbollah militiamen stormed party members' houses during the fighting and kidnapped 40 people, including Suleih Al Tawleh, another member of the politburo.

In the south, hundreds of villagers who fled their homes during a fruitless Israeli search for two Israeli soldiers captured in an ambush by radical Moslem guerrillas returned, and some accused the Israelis and their Lebanese allies of torture.

A military spokesman in Israel Sunday denied reports by residents of the village of Chakra that they had been tortured by Israeli troops during the six-day search.
