From Daniel C. Roper, Secretary of Commerce, comes the suggestion that small boating accidents, account for thousands of fatalities every year, and, a list of "Don'ts" prepared by the Bureau of Marine Inspection and Navigation designed to save life on the nation's lakes and streams. Finally, the only normal solution seemed to be Presidential intervention for Joe. So an appeal to the White House brought permission for him to have President Roosevelt appear in the strip. Thus, Mr. Pisher not only solved his problem but he won congratulations from readers throughout the country. The situation was this:

Joe, saddened over a dispute with Knebby Walsh, sailed to Africa where he joined the Forcign Legion. That was a good idea at first for it gave the strip a new wist and a locale for novel adventures. Unfortunately, however, desert army life began to west on both Paloska and Fisher, Besides, Joe had to return to the States to begin training in his attempt to regain the heavy weight title.

Faced with his problem, Fisher wrote to Marvin McIntyre and Stephen T. Early, Presidential secretaries, asking if he could have the President intervene in behalf of Palooka and have him released from French service in Africa. A reply from Early as sured him it would be all right but. Fisher was asked to do it discreetly. The problem solved, Fisher in two days' cartoons had Palooka's manager at the White House. The President assured him that he would give him a letter to take to the President of France asking for Joe's release. The cartoons featuring President Roose-veit appeared June 13 and 14. According to Robert McNitt, secretary of McNaught Syndicate, which distributes Joe Palooka to almost 500 newspapers, this was the first instance of an incumbent President of the U. S. appearing
