Home owners are the backbone of this city. But they get little encouragement to build here. There is absolutely no money for them to borrow.

WHY NOT BANK ON YOUR BANK

That hard-headed man who sits next to the railing and nods coldly at you, even though you have had an account there for years, is not a fish-blooded money changer. He's a friend, ready to do your service if you will let him. The next time you start to invest a few dollars in some gaudy proposition, stop and ask him. He'll likely shake his head and say you are making a mistake. You'll be sure he is not-minded, and go your way, determined to get more than his measly 4 per cent. But if you'd let him, that same clammy guy would suggest some good securities which would pay you 6 per cent or better, and probably make the purchase gratis. We print this because the United States department of justice says that $100,000 per day, right along, are lost by sucker investors.—Collier's Weekly.

THE RETURN TO THE COTTAGE.

The six-room cottage suited to the 40-foot lot will come into its own once more if the National Association of Real Estate Boards can bring it about. In order to stimulate interest in the designing and building of such homes, prizes of more than $300 for the best plans were offered at a recent real estate conference.

It is commonly conceded that one of the greatest needs of the country today is small, well-built, convenient homes of moderate cost. It is infinitely better for any average American family to own such a home, with its privacy and its air of stability than to be jammed into the three-room flat in a crowded apartment house which seems to be the prevailing substitute for the small home in these expensive days.

The thing is to find the little, individual, artistic and practical, yet suited in cost to the moderate purse.—Jacksonville Journal.

FILLING THE STOMACH KEEPS OFF THE ROOF.

There are many cases everywhere in all sections of the country where people have no homes, because of the demand that fashionable gatherings and the highest of food and rented flat apartments keep the family with the "nose right at the grindstone." The common saying is that it costs too much to build and keep up the payments. Nothing could be farther from the truth, if one will but carry a bit of self-control and is willing to undergo what are in this present age termed "hardships."

There is no working man who can not save enough to buy and pay for a building site within a short time in Palatka. To be a property owner gives him the more importance in the city—as he becomes an integral part of it. Then comes the building. It should be borne in mind that ten years ago there were no such things as Pullman breakfast booths, built-in ironing boards, and many things which are now deemed essential because some friend has them. Ten years ago five rooms and a bath, none of them of extreme size, was considered a very comfortable size, unless the family had gotten into the habit of increasing very rapidly; but today there must be a larger home; that is one of the reasons why the prices are higher.

DEMAND FOR NEWS.

What is news, how to get it, and how to give it out? Such questions are constantly being discussed by not only the press associations of the country but by readers of newspapers. The paper that does not get and give out the news promptly, as it happens, soon becomes a has-been. Besides the demand for news as it happens, it must be given correctly, fairly, unbiased and without discrimination. A newspaper that doesn't try to do these things is not worthy of the name, but it's no little job—not possible to please all and never will be.

A little more co-operation on the part of the public would help a whole lot. The feeling of co-operation between the country and town people becomes more in evidence as the days go by. There is also a healthier community feeling. The good roads all over the country have assisted a great deal in bringing country folk and town people closer together. There is less of the clannish in both than in days gone by. Each is realizing that the other is being benefited by a closer relationship. All of the good nor all of the bad is not found in either; neither is all of the money nor all of the poverty, all of the pleasures nor all of the hardships, found exclusively. Isn't it a fact that good roads have done more than any other factor to bring about this mutual admiration of the one for the other?—Bartow Record.

FLORIDA WILL SURPASS CALIFORNIA

"I am convinced that Florida is to be one of the richest states of the union. I think its growth will match that of California's—indeed, I would not be at all surprised to see Florida surpass California in rapidity of material development. . . . Florida is not dependent upon the tourist business. . . . The room for expansion is without limit.

"The whole state is becoming not merely a winter playground and health-invigorating spot of hundreds of thousands of the richest people in America, and many more of moderate means, but it is to become to an extent many times greater than at present the producer of citrus fruits and vegetables for an every-increasing demand.

"Building activity is in evidence everywhere. . . . I believe that the time is not far distant when practically every available ocean front lot between Daytona and Miami will be the site of homes of Northern and Western people. . . . If Florida had no other advantage than its climate, that alone would be one of the nation's great assets.

"I feel justified in saying that I know of no other place in this country which would more strongly appeal to me for wise and conservative investments, expecting large returns in the future, than investments carefully and judiciously made in this state."

WANT HEARING TO KICK AT COMMISSION FAILURE TO URGE DUTY REMOVED

NEW YORK, June 6.—President Harding was urged to call a public hearing at which American housewives would be given an opportunity to protest against the failure of the federal tariff commission to recommend the removal of present duty on sugar, at a meeting of executives of women's organizations today. The organizations, it was said, represent hundreds of thousands of women, many of whom were active in the recent "sugar boycott."

A delegation will go to Washington to present the protest to the president in person, it was asserted. Favorable action was taken on a suggestion from the Women's Fair Price League of Milwaukee, Wis., that a national organization of housewives be formed. The time and place of the conference have not been decided.

SPEAKING OF THE WEATHER.

The temperature was 88 degrees at Toledo, Ohio, on Friday. It wasn't 88 degrees all day, of course, but it was that hot for a time—just how long the daily weather bulletin issued by the weather bureau charitably refrains from saying. That, however, was two degrees hotter than anywhere in Florida on the same. Toledo is not merely in Ohio—it is way up in northern Ohio, in the "summer resort" country, and when it is recalled how cold it got in Toledo last winter, again taking the weather bureau reports as authority, we'll say 88 degrees is some heat!

We're not picking on Toledo; we are just talking about weather, and it isn't our fault if the weather gets hot in Toledo in June. No resident of Toledo need take offense and write us letters, for it gets hot elsewhere than in Toledo. In Boston, for instance, the thermometer registered a "high" of 84 on Friday, and in Chicago of 80. In Pittsburgh there was smoke and 88 degrees of warmth, with no salt air breeze.

Now on the other hand the report of temperature made for the Post by John B. Beach shows that in West Palm Beach on Friday the high temperature was 79 degrees with a low of 69. This, mind you, was in June. A slogan is sometimes used in this country, coined to influence tourists, "Stay till June." In the light of this typical testimony of the superiority of South Florida's June weather, a motion will be entertained to change the slogan to "Stay through June."—Palm Beach Post.

FIXED PRICE CONTRACTS HELD ILLEGAL IN KANSAS

TOPEKA, Kan., June 6.—The trade term "exclusive agent" has just about been crossed off the Kansas business lexicon through a recent decision of the supreme court. As a result so-called agents' contracts are undergoing a general revision to place them on a more sound basis, dealers assert. The court's decision was that all fixed price contracts between manufacturers, wholesalers, jobbers and general distributors on the one hand and retail agencies on the other, are illegal.

Charles G. Mills of Sedgwick county sued the General Ordnance Company for breach of contract. He claimed he had a contract as exclusive agent in a given territory to sell the company's tractors at a specified price, and that the company had violated the contract by making deliveries within his territory at less than the fixed price. Both the lower court and the supreme court held that such contracts were illegal and therefore the agent had no standing in court.

HENRY FORD AND THE PRESIDENCY.

Collier's National Weekly has been conducting what it calls a "face to face" canvass of the voters of the country, with the idea of getting a line on their predilections for the presidency, after Mr. Harding lays down the reins of his first term. The canvass has covered the entire country, and the results are somewhat astonishing. At the end of the first week's canvass Henry Ford shows up with more than 5,000 votes and President Harding with more than 4,000. These are the leading figures, but there was a long list of entrants in the race, running from 245 votes for ex-President Wilson to 2,000 or more, for some of the candidates. Of course none of the candidates entered the race voluntarily. The canvass was conducted without any reference to their desires or wishes. Although it is too early to draw any definite conclusion from the canvass, which has just begun, and is yet only in its early stages, there are some features worthy of consideration. One of these is the extraordinary strength developed by both Henry Ford and President Harding.

It is difficult to figure out the Ford strength. Usually the growth of a presidential candidacy can be traced to some definite beginning. In Ford's case it seems to have been spontaneous. His extraordinary success as a business man, raising himself from comparative penury to the status of the richest man in America, if not in the world, and that while paying unprecedented wages to labor and not oppressing in any way, has brought him into the limelight in a national and spectacular way. But it is not his great wealth that attracts the people to him. Rockefeller, his only competitor as regards wealth, could not muster a corporal's guard of voters if he should desire to run for any office. And yet Rockefeller has given away nearly a hundred millions of dollars to educational and benevolent institutions that benefit the whole people, while Ford has poured his fast accumulating profits back into his business, for the sole purpose of enlarging and extending it. But Ford's wealth has been made in a legitimate business, fairly and honorably conducted, while Rockefeller's methods have not always been above criticism. This accounts largely for the different estimate which the public makes of the two men.

Ford is in no sense of the word a practical politician. He has been too busy a man to give much attention to politics. It is even now doubtful whether he is more democrat or republican. True he ran as a democrat for the senate, but it is said that he would have accepted the republican nomination if it had been offered him. Indeed it is charged that he tried to get both. Without discounting his business qualifications in the least it is doubtful if he would make a satisfactory president. He is a very ignorant man on most subjects, as the Chicago Tribune delighted to prove when he was suing it for a million dollars. His ideas on financial matters are of the crudest kind, notwithstanding his great fortune.

His popularity among the farmers is undoubtedly based on his proposition to give them cheaper fertilizer, if given a 100 year lease on Muscle Shoals. But scientific man say that he can not make good on that proposition. Moreover, if he runs for president he must withdraw his offer for Muscle Shoals, as it would work against him as a candidate. If he should be elected president he would of course be obligated to sever all connections with it. If the farmers desire cheaper fertilizer they must not force the only man who might give it to them into the political field.—Tampa Times.

FARMERS AND GROWERS OF THE STATE WERE TREATED ALL RIGHT BY OUR LAMENTED LEGISLATURE

Co-operative Marketing Bill Will Be Helpful to Our Growers

TALLAHASSEE, June 6.—The farmer, or grower, came in for comparatively good treatment at the hands of the recent legislature, according to an examination of the measures intended to further encourage agriculture. Most of the measures were started in the house through the committee on agriculture, headed by Representative McRae of Santa Rosa county. As chairman of this committee, he was the floor leader of the measures in the lower body.

The co-operative marketing bill was described as a badly needed and comprehensive measure and it had the endorsement of the Florida Citrus Exchange, the Farmers' Union and like organizations. It conforms to the federal law. Hitherto, supporters of the measure explained, a concern claiming to be co-operative might not be in fact. There was no statute requiring it to be co-operative, the organization being left to the management. The measure was described as a decided protection for the genuine co-operative associations but would place a ban on those that did not form under the provisions of the measure. Already applications are coming in for copies of the bill to be used as a guide in organizing co-operative associations, while concerns already in existence are arranging to reincorporate so as to come under the terms of the new law.

The session also granted an annual appropriation of $15,000 for two years to enable the Plant Board to carry on further experiments in boll weevil control. Already enough has been accomplished in this line to save hundreds of thousands of dollars, supporters of the measure stated, and the acreage of cotton has been virtually doubled on the strength of the discoveries already made by the Plant Board in its investigations.

Another bill, enacted into law, carried an appropriation of $30,000 for the next two years to fight diseases of pecan trees. This is a line of plant pathology that has been neglected, experts say. The pecan is described as one of Florida's great money-makers and yet its diseases

INVESTIGATION DOES NOT CHANGE OPINION OF OFFICERS

DENVER, Colo., June 5.—Investigation today by police and coroner's officials into the death Saturday of Mrs. Louise Loudon and her son in law Frederick Gregg Dewitt, did not change the opinion of the investigators that Dewitt, believed to have been a victim of temporary insanity, stabbed his mother-in-law to death and then ended his own life. The bodies were discovered by Mrs. Gregory Dewitt, the man's wife, in the kitchen of their home several hours after the tragedy. Friends said today Dewitt's body probably would be taken to Wolcott, N. Y., his former home. It was thought Mrs. Loudon's body would be sent to Brooklyn, N. Y., for incineration.

Raising the Family - Oh-yes! The whole incident was as funny as a crutch to Pa!

BANANAS ARE EASY TO GROW

By W. E. BOLLES, Secretary of the Florida Banana Growers' Association

June, July and August are the best months to plant bananas. They are useful as well as ornamental, creating a beautiful, luxuriant tropical effect, as far as scenery is concerned, and by attention to a few simple rules they will yield large bunches of fine fruit for your table. They can be grown anywhere in South Florida commercially, and every family can grow its own. Every yard should have a half dozen plants, or more, according to the space available. Bananas are almost free from disease, and very little trouble to grow.

Almost any kind of soil will do, if you can keep it moist but not wet. Bananas need drainage and they can be drowned the same as other plants, but they can stand more moisture than most other kinds of fruit trees. They prefer a soil with plenty of humus, or decayed vegetable matter, such as dead grass and dead weeds, which can be piled on the roots as thick as you care to put it. This will decay and make more humus in the soil. The dead grass, or mulch, keeps the roots cool in summer and warm in winter.

You can put on all the stable and poultry manure you can get. The banana is the hog of the vegetable kingdom. The plant will eat all you can give it, and be ready for more.

When planting, dig the holes for each root large enough to give the feeder roots a chance to develop and spread out. The holes should be about two feet six inches in size every way. Put about half manure and half top soil mixed back into the hole, set the root just below the surface, put on the bottom soil, and then pour on about half a pail of water. The holes can be eight feet apart, and should be at least four or five feet inside of your line fence, for the leaves will extend out that distance to it. A tight board fence does no harm, making shade for the roots, which they enjoy.

I have the Cavendish and the Hart (or ladyfinger) growing on my place at Oldsmar, and experience proves they are excellent fruit producers and healthy growers. I also have a number of other varieties, including our old friend, the Orinoco, or horse banana as it is sometimes called; I am fully satisfied that the first two mentioned are the best for South Florida.

About 400 plants are needed for one acre, and they should bear fruit 12 and 18 months after being set out, which is quick action. It is possible to make as high as $400 to $1,200 per acre after the second year if handled right. Bananas are so nearly free from diseases, they are attractive to people who don't want to spend so much time and money spraying. It will be years before we grow enough to supply our home markets, because so many million bunches are imported. I had a letter yesterday from a man in Texas, an experienced farmer, who is selling out in Texas, and moving to South Florida, to grow bananas. The acreage in our state has been doubled in the last six months, and yet the home demands are very much greater than the home supply.

The best soil for a commercial banana plantation is muck, or dark sandy loam of the flatwoods; both must be ditched and drained. If you are beside a lake or creek, or have a well for irrigation during dry spring weather, all the better, for your crop will be earlier and larger, on account of getting sufficient water to hurry it along. It is difficult in a short article like this to cover the entire subject of banana growing. I have tried to give a few facts which will be helpful.

The American Tobacco Co
Durham N.C.

Dear Sirs after reading your Bull Durham ad in the paper I decided I would try Bull for a month and see for my self.

I used to smoke 2 packages of 154 cigarettes a day and during the past month I have smoked 24 sacks of Bull so this is what I saved

60 packages of cigarettes at 15¢	$9.00
24 sacks of Bull Durham at 10¢	$2.40
	$6.60

I saved $6.60 a month smoking Bull

This letter is to thank you for the money saving tip

I am sincerely
W. H. Andrews

You will be amazed to see how the use of "Bull" Durham tobacco will cut down the cost of your smoking. Remember, "Bull" gives you 50 cigarettes of the best flavor and quality for 10 cents.

This means easily a saving for the average smoker of from $1 to $1.50 a week—$52 to $78 a year.

Seventy-nine dollars will buy lots of things. A radio set, a talking machine, a very fine suit of clothes, a set of tires, the first fifteen payments on a Ford, a good-sized insurance policy.

Hard to roll your own? Not really. Give yourself a chance to learn, this way:

Carry a sack of "Bull" in your pocket all the time, as well as your regular cigarettes. Every time you think of smoking a cigarette pull out your sack of "Bull" and try rolling one.

By the time you've used the sack you ought to be a fair producer. And you'll certainly be a convert to the mild, delightful flavor of "Bull" Durham tobacco.

With each package you receive a book of 24 leaves of W.T.A. - the finest cigarette paper in the world.

State Endeavorers Close Year of Exceptional Activity

The Florida Christian Endeavor Union approaches the annual convention, which is to be held this week in Miami beginning Friday afternoon, with a year's record of work excelling any of the thirty-five years of the state union's organization. Aside from the regular society work, which has been pushed vigorously, in the variety of its activities and the resulting widely extended scope of helpfulness, Florida easily leads the Dixie group of states again in all round well planned, well directed, result bringing effort.

Latest reports from state vice-president, Miss Lucy Belle Bailey, Miami, who is registration manager for the convention, give assurance of the goal of 1,000 registrations being reached before the penning of the convention. Six districts, Pensacola, Daytona, Miami (outside the city of Miami), Southwestern, Polk and Hillsborough, as well as the city of Miami, have passed their goal.

Cars are still being listed for the motorcade to Miami, nearly 100 now planning to join along the way. Cars leave Lakeland at 7 a. m. Thursday, Orlando at 9:30 and Sanford at 10:30 and will join the northern and east coast cars at New Smyrna at 12 M., where a 25 minute stop will be made for lunch. Fort Pierce is, as usual, doing the unusual by way of providing for the entertainment of the Endeavorers for the night. Leaving Ft. Pierce at 7:50 Friday morning the motorcade will reach Miami at 1 p. m. The cars will be decorated, and those who know the publicity methods characteristic of State President Karl Lehmann, Orlando, and Robert Green, Sanford, motorcade director, can bank on it that Christian Endeavor will get some advertising on that motorcade between Orlando and Miami.

ORLANDO MINISTER DENOUNCES ACTION BY THE LEGISLATURE

ORLANDO, Fla., June 5.—At the conclusion of commencement exercises here Sunday night at the Memorial high school building, Dr. W. A. Cooper, pastor of the First Methodist church took the floor and made a stirring denunciation of the resolution recently passed by the state legislature prohibiting the teaching of the Bible in the public schools.

"Can you imagine a faction that would have such a resolution as that passed by our legislature?" the minister asked.

A motion was put forward asking that "this Christian congregation and community go on record as opposing such a resolution," and was unanimously carried by the packed house.

POSSE BELIEVED TO HAVE CORNERED MAN WANTED FOR MURDER

IRON CITY, Ga., June 5.—Reports received here from Spring Creek, six or seven miles south of here on the line between Seminole and Decatur counties, are to the effect that Silas Paramore, negro, who early Sunday morning shot and killed I. J. Williams, town marshal of Iron City, had been located in Spring Creek swamps and that a posse of about 100 men was preparing to effect his capture if possible.

When Chicago finishes trying hazers for manslaughter, she can resume her scolding of uncouth sections that have lynchings.

lectual and social helpfulness has been arranged, and with the natural attractions of the convention city of Miami, there is every assurance of fulfillment of the promise:

"Florida's Greatest Convention, Miami, June 8-11."
