

War Has No Effect On Sports Football Bowl "Matchmakers"

By DILTON GRAHAM
World Sports Editor
NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—War hasn't had any effect on one group of sports matchmakers—the football bowl groups.

With the gridiron season nearing its end, those arranging these post-season extravaganzas are still trying to outdo the other in lining up the most attractive management.

The grapevine says the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans plans to pit Boston College against Georgia, or Georgia Tech. It will be interesting and apparently difficult that way, but with only Fordham, Boston University, and Holy Cross remaining. Chances are that whichever Georgia team doesn't go to the Sugar Bowl may play in Miami's Orange Bowl.

This distance, it appears, that if New Orleans does sit B.C. and Georgia, or Tech, it will have a pair that none of the other bowls can match. And that includes the Rose Bowl. The fact that one of the teams in the Pasadena affairs must be a Pacific Coast club has hampered recent years, since the coast league has rarely produced an unbeaten club. Stanford was an exception a couple of years ago. It won all its games and beat Ne-

Enemy Tries To Hold Last African Bases

American Skytroops Land And Occupy Enemy Airport On Tunisian Frontier

(By Associated Press) Hitler was reported today to be massing a fleet of more than 1,000 planes in southern Italy, Crete, Sardinia and Sicily in an attempt to defend the last Axis bases in North Africa as the Nazi-controlled Paris radio announced German troops had "captured" Bizerte, Tunisia.

Simultaneously, British paratroopers landed on key points of the Mediterranean coast, spearheading an advance by perhaps 150,000 Allied soldiers from Algeria.

American skytroops have already occupied an airport on the Tunisian frontier. Only 18 of 800 Axis tanks in Egypt escaped destruction or capture, the British reported, but predicted that Marshal Rommel's strong defensive positions in the El Aricha area.

Rommel reported from advanced headquarters in North Africa to-night that German Marshal Rommel had been taken ill. The British agency quoted well informed sources as saying that the Nazi marshals who armies are being thrown back by the British Eighth Army in eastern Libya is "making a desperate effort to organize Axis forces" to assist the British First Army and its U.S. Allies advancing from the west.

Rommel's whereabouts has been somewhat of a mystery. He has been reported both in Italy and in Munich, but this dispatch appeared to be the most definite since the Axis general, coming from North Africa, came as it did through censored channels from Allied headquarters in Africa.

From the Allied North African Headquarters came the report that British paratroopers troops have been down on key air fields in Tunisia today as American and British land forces, swiftly following the aerial vanguard, plunged eastward in a three-pronged drive against El Aricha and Tunis.

Already an advanced Allied striking unit had clashed with a German patrol somewhere in central Tunisia below Tunis, according to reports reaching headquarters. The reports contained no additional detail.

The paratrooper army, mostly British, which did not American transport plane flown by American pilots were reported hitting in the French protectorate mainland at every possible air base by an estimated 100 German and Italian troops.

The paratroopers reported seizing "the vulnerable" of the 17 Tunisian air fields and presumably of the three airports as well. The airdromes are Ben-Gardane, Karouba, El Biar, Blida-Beni-Ahmed, Bordj-Labes, Aïn-Draïda, Fort St. Jean, Guelma, Guelma-Hammam, Djebel, Kairouan, Medenine, Nefta, Afza, Boukai-Arba, Tozeur, Tunis-Kacala and Zarla.

The airdrome bases are Kheridine-Parlerouette, Blida-Caroume and Tunis.

T. B. County Seal Chairmen Named By Mrs. Ingley

Mrs. James L. Ingley, county chairman of the Christmas Seal Sale Campaign of the Seminole County Tuberculosis and Health Association, yesterday announced that the following had volunteered to serve as chairmen in the forthcoming drive: Mrs. E. Ballard, Altamonte Springs.

Mrs. Ingley as chairman paid high tribute to the volunteer workers who have been giving up their time and energy to the campaign and said, "The public spirit in lending their efforts to the campaign is a source of considerable satisfaction to her and other leaders in the undertaking."

"One of the major factors that has made the anti-influenza campaign in Seminole County a success is the fact that the community, the association, has received year after year from volunteer workers," Mrs. Ingley added.

"This year we are particularly fortunate in securing the services of the present local chairmen, all of whom have served in the campaign before, and I am sure they will do a good job."

The new chairmen, in Miami, Florida, are: Mrs. Ingley,

Sanford Women To Conduct Sales Of Bonds, Stamps

Members of all women's organizations and clubs in Seminole County will participate next week in a nation-wide drive for the bond and stamp sales, saving stamps, Mrs. M. H. Smith, County chairman for the drive, stated today.

Mrs. Smith stated this is the first all out drive that the women of the nation have been called upon to conduct. Some new states have had already been active in their work through their women's organizations, Florida included.

The work of Florida women in this respect has already been highly commended by the Government, she said.

As an aid in the local drive, Mrs. E. E. Holly, county president of the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs, has stated that she will keep the bond window at the Sanford Post Office open until 6:00 P. M. on Saturday, Nov. 28, in order to accommodate bond buyers.

Mrs. Ralph Austin Smith, president and Mrs. George Thurston Robert immediate past president of the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs, have during the past 30 days, completed a 2,800 miles tour of the state, talking before women's organizations and clubs and getting them lined up for the drive. Mrs. Smith added.

"Following the great victories of our armed forces in North Africa, it is expected that this nationwide bond drive will be the most successful of its kind since Pearl Harbor," Mrs. Smith said.

A THANKSGIVING FABLE

It was a hungry pussy cat, upon
Thanksgiving morn,
And she watched a thankful little mouse, that ate an ear of corn.
She ate that thankful little mouse, how thankful we should have been if he had made a meal himself!
Then make a meal for me!

Then with his thanks for having her, and his thanks for feeding me.

With all his thankfulness inside,
how thankful I shall be!"

Thus mused the hungry pussy cat,
upon Thanksgiving Day;

But the little mouse had overheard and declined (with thanks) to say.

Something To Think About

An arresting statement is found in the monthly health bulletin of the Seminole County Health Unit published by Dr. Leland Dame. With due consideration for the number of young men who are daily being drawn into the armed services of the country, while scores of others are deferred on account of syphilis, he suggests we may soon "have a community in which there will be no young white men but a community in which syphilitic negro men will be all we shall see".

"It has almost come to the pass where we have walking "syphilitic" at our right, left, back and front", he continues. We push elbows with syphilis in the stores, on the street corners, in the buses and elsewhere. These two hundred are not all the cases of syphilis in our county. There are around two thousand cases in Seminole County. Hundreds of colored women have syphilis. Hundreds of negro children in our county have syphilis. You can see the little bulged foreheads and saddle-backed noses all around us. Syphilitic women are working in our homes and taking our children down to the park. Syphilitic men handle our food on the way to market and wash food containers at dispensing places.

"We have exerted ourselves to the utmost to bring these men into the clinic. Now I am calling for help. The City Police Department is responding. I am grateful to them for help. But while we have only about half of them living in the city, the other half is out in the county. They must also be brought in. We are now giving two full days each week to the treatment of syphilis. If we could bring all the draftees under treatment, we could devote half of the Unit's time to this work.

"It seems to me that it is high time the ladies of Sanford would require their maids to show a negative report, or a treatment card in which every week shows they come to the clinic. This is not written for excitement, nor to unduly publicize, but to bring home a fact."

The Greatest Armada

If any American has doubted the greatness and strength of this nation, let him take a good look at the way we are now making war.

The best index to our fighting power so far is the fleet we sent to the Mediterranean last week in collaboration with the British Navy. People have grown so accustomed to using such terms as "biggest" and "greatest" that they don't seem to mean much any more, and other nations have "ribbed" us good naturally until we have grown sensitive about it. But there is no need to brag now. A mere statement of the bald facts is overwhelming.

That naval force we sent to the Mediterranean last week was by far the greatest war fleet this world ever saw. Compared with it, the famous "Spanish Armada" that sailed to destroy Britain in 1588, and was itself destroyed, was a lot of pleasure yachts, and the vast fleet of warships that the Persian king Xerxes sent against Greece in 480 B. C. was a mere harbor-full of fishing boats.

To get a moderate conception of that British-American fleet, which was mainly American, take a large sheet of paper and sketch on it, in cruising formation, tiny outlines of 350 warships and 500 supply ships. Then just look at the layout for a while, and picture it moving across the sea, and try to grasp the inconceivable power it represented, and the devastating effect that the mere news of such an armada must have had on the enemies of civilization.

Spearfish Passion Play

Even in this year of general crisis the world is not all strife and struggle. Many of the great things of life go on as usual. One of the finest of them is the famous Old World Passion Play, saved from the wreckage of Middle Europe and preserved as an annual community festival in the Black Hills of South Dakota.

Spearfish itself, in the midst of those beautiful hills, makes an admirable setting. The famous miracle play, now more than 700 years old, seems to be definitely established there, with some of the most famous players, including Josef Meier, whose family has now portrayed the Christus for seven generations. There is an ample colony and large amphitheater. The drama is played there every summer, and in the autumn it tours the country, as it is doing now.

It is a grand show in the best sense of that much abused word. It brings a thrill to audiences weary of world strife and eager, apparently, for sacred things. The children especially seem greatly moved by its story and the deep sincerity with which it is played. Here is an "escape" of measureless value in troublous days. And here is a fine example of "culture," in the best sense of the word, that has not yet been fully appreciated.

The best things of civilization, when banished from their native lands, naturally come to America. There may be many more things of high value, originating in the Old World, which should be welcomed and established here before they are lost forever.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

By RUSSELL KAY

Like proverbial seekers of the gold was the story of Ramie, the "mother mouse trap," a group of unshakable contributors to the advancement and welfare of mankind and civilization. He traced briefly the history of this fascinating plant that was known and used by ancient artisans long before Christ walked the earth. He exhibited a few of the amazing products made from ramie fiber, including a fine and durable matting, a strong and durable cloth, and a fiber as strong but four times as strong, woven or others in varying shades of weight and texture, as in a remarkable variety of uses, apart from the thousands of uses to which it has been put.

Another question was the need for a new vine-covered cottage of Brown Landone, author, scientist and friend of man. Long a student of agricultural, industrial and economic problems, this kindly and learned gentleman, intently followed the late Senator Sumner, was one of the first to realize the importance of ramie fiber to the United States. He had been troubled by many visitors. In short, he had assembled his "mouse trap" and issued invitations to a selected group to come and hear its performance.

And there came forty or more, coming from all over the country, to witness the performance of the

British Bombers Fly Over Alps To Bomb Turin, Italy

U. S.-British Forces Strike Harder At Last Stronghold In North Africa

Killed In Action

Rear Adm. Norman Scott (above), 53, of Kirkwood, Mo., (shown in a Fleet Commander's uniform) was reported killed in the recent naval air battle in the Solomons. Scott, 53, a highly decorated naval officer, won a smashing victory over the Japanese and died in the line of duty.

In bestowing "full power" on him as his deputy and presumptive successor, the German radio report from Vichy said Laval would announce his decree on his own responsibility.

Thus Laval appeared to have attained the status of at least a Gauleiter in German-occupied France, climaxing his comeback from political eclipse following the 1940 armistice, although as a dictator he presumably will be dictated to in turn by Adolf Hitler.

With the surrender of all political powers to Laval, the aged chief of state is believed to have become more than ever a figure-head of France whose popularity among the people alone kept him in the government.

Laval set about immediately reorganizing the state. The Administrative Apparatus and bureaucracy, was replaced with Vice Adm. Jean Abrial, Jean Blachon, minister of industrial production, took over the portfolio of Communications Minister Robert Gibrat, Finance Minister Pierre Goblet, war guidance minister of national economy.

The decree conferring the new powers on Laval, as broadcast by Berlin radio:

"Taking into consideration the prevailing exceptional circumstances, inasmuch as he, as chief of state, will represent the French sovereignty and the continued existence of the country, decided to confer upon Laval the powers required for enabling the chief of government to take quickly measures necessitated by the present difficulties of France."

The decree, according to Berlin, went on to say that Petain had the greatest esteem for Laval's patriotism.

Petain named Laval his successor by signing a special constitutional amendment, radio Vichy said. The post formerly was held by Admiral Jean Darlan, ex-commander of the Vichy armed forces, who now has charge of North Africa under Allied supervision.

Under the constitutional amendment, a German broadcast said, Laval will deputies for Petain "in case the latter is prevented from carrying out his functions."

A Stockholm dispatch reported Vichy had also announced officially that Laval also had been invested with "full powers."

The Stockholm Dagbladet, quoting Berlin sources, said it was expected that Laval would establish a dictatorship and appoint Marcel Dentz, pro-German Paris Goblet, and Georges Darlan, head of the collaborationist French popular party, to his cabinet.

Justice Minister Georges Mandel, and Communications Minister Darlan, were believed among the present Vichy ministers marked for ouster. A German broadcast said they were "hesitating to take an oppositional position."

With his designation as Deputy and successor to Petain, Laval now was restored fully to the position he had held before the December 1940 armistice.

On the other side of the Atlantic, one that would have to wait until Vichy France tumbled into the German orbit.

He remained out of the cabinet until last Spring, when Petain named him chief of State, but retained Darlan as his presumptive successor.

Mounting the Piping, French reported that Gen. Pierre Delanoë, one of the most prominent members of the French Foreign Legion, had been appointed to the cabinet.
