Starvation Won't Help Your Health

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 4 foot 11 and I weigh 170 pounds. I went to a doctor for pills or something but he said no pills, just stop eating. I did not eat for a week. Then I broke and ate everything in sight. I tried other diets and fads and pills but they either make me sick or dizzy. Please send a useful diet for me and people like me. I feel good but I'm much too fat.

DEAR DR. LAMB — When I do strenuous lifting, my hand should I use? I had a right hernia repaired two years ago. I asked my doctor this question and he told me not to worry about it — if it should break, he would repair it again. I believe in preventing surgery so I would like an answer to my question. I know there's a scar inside. Will it dissolve? I'm 55 years old.

There are two things you can do that are practical. First, learn to lift correctly. It doesn't make so much difference how you lift, but you should be using your legs instead of your back. That will also help protect your back muscles and with a long, stamped self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10101.

My guess is when he said stop eating, he meant the same thing that lots of other people do. He meant for you to cut down, but it will be useful for you to have a diet so I'm sending you The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents to me in a self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10101.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Iran Parliament May Delay Hostage Issue To September

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — An Iranian newspaper says parliament might not discuss the 53 American hostages until late September but their fate may be decided by the Iranians in a mass referendum.

The referendum would decide whether to release the hostages, now in their 228th day of captivity, or put them on trial, the Donay newspaper said Tuesday.

The paper said Iran's parliament, or Mejlis, will be involved in the "internal affairs until some time in late September," when the hostage question may be debated.

South Africa Riots Flare

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI) — Police armed with "shoot to kill" orders charged into multiracial townships today to disperse youths stoning cars and burning shops in South Africa's worst racial riots since 1976.

To back up the action, authorities rushed two platoons of riot police from other parts of the country to quell the violence as it entered its second day.

Afghan Talks Proposed

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — Habib Chatti, Secretary General of the Islamic Conference, arrived in Geneva today in an attempt to set up talks on Afghanistan.

Chatti said he would be in Geneva later in the week by Foreign Ministers Sadegh Ghotbzadeh of Iran and Agha Shah of Pakistan.

The three men make up the special committee on Afghanistan created by the Islamic Conference.

SINGAPORE (UPI) — More than 100 Vietnamese refugees rescued from the South China Sea are due to arrive in two ships within the next 48 hours, a United Nations official said today.

The official said the another 101 refugees are expected to arrive Friday aboard the Norwegian ship Long Phoenix.

Cartier To Fight Forgers

PARIS (UPI) — Cartier, the rich man's jeweler, has declared war on the forgers and ripoff merchants who are making millions of dollars passing off inferior watches, lighters and other luxury accessories bearing the famous Cartier hallmark of distinction.

Bogus Cartier goods can be had in numerous countries, including Italy where police raided a counterfeit Cartier leather goods factory Tuesday and confiscated about $1.3 million worth of coats and wallets.

School Board Member Backs Building Tax Cuts

By DIANE PETRYK
Herald Staff Writer

Legislation now being discussed to remove the 4 percent sales tax for capital improvements made by local governments could save the school board a great deal of money in the future, Seminole County School Board Member Pat Telson will tell the board tonight.

The board will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the school board office, 1131 Melonville Ave., Sanford.

Mrs. Telson will report on Gov. Bob Graham's State Purchasing Advisory Council which met recently in Winter Park. She served as chairman of the sub-committee on the state contract system.

Without the 4 percent sales tax, Mrs. Telson said, the new Lake Mary high school would have cost $250,000 to $400,000 less.

Under the proposed legislation, contractors would not pay sales tax on materials, the cost of which are passed on to school boards, county governments and cities when they make capital improvements.

Mrs. Telson said she will also ask tonight why the board has not hired a secretary, despite the position having been budgeted for last year.

School board members currently do not have secretarial services.

Mrs. Telson explained the board had a secretary at one time, but the position evolved into a superintendent's secretary, funded under the superintendent's budget.

"I do a lot of my own typing at home," Mrs. Telson said, "but I don't have an electric typewriter and there are times when sending an official letter that you would like to look nice."

The school board secretary might also handle appointments and make travel reservations for school board members.

Although the position was approved and funded, no one was hired because the job description wasn't approved.

"It's the board's own fault," Mrs. Telson said. "I just want to bring it up again to see what we're going to do about it."

Port Lowers Drain On County

Due to growth at the Port of Sanford, about $16,666 in county tax revenues will be available to be spent elsewhere in the 1980-81 fiscal year.

Port Administrator Dennis Dolger said he will tell the port authority board this afternoon it will need about one-third less than the approximate $50,000 per year county subsidy it has drawn in the past three years.

It is the port's goal, Dolger said, to remove itself from the tax rolls entirely.

The board will meet at 4 p.m. at its office at the Port of Sanford.

Dolger said a household goods distributor who is considering having the port build a 200,000 square foot warehouse at the port has not yet made a decision on the matter.

"The warehouse would employ about 200 persons from the local area."

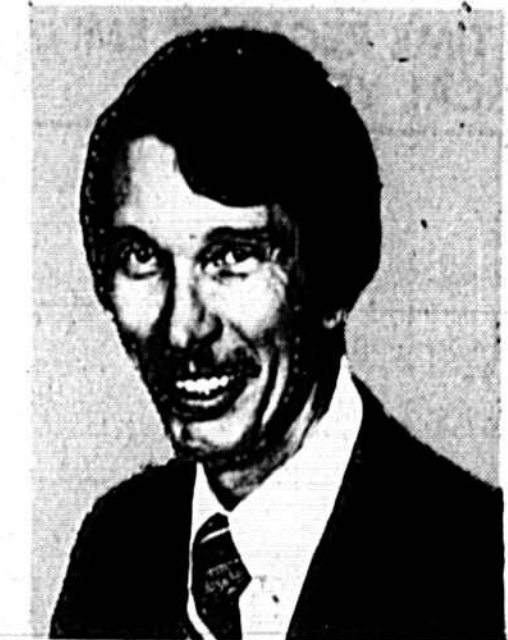

Peanut Day Helps Kiwanis Park

About 30 Sunrise Kiwanis Club members went all out this weekend to offer peanuts in exchange for donations to raise funds for the youth of Seminole County.

Proceeds from the two-day effort will go to develop the 13-acre Kiwanis park at 23th Place and Sanford Avenue, between the Church of the Nazarene and the Sanford Airport.

Club president Buddy Williams said club members have until Friday to tally their sale proceeds, but said the total amount will be well over $1,000.

The sale was part of the Kiwanis Club's annual fund drive for the youth.

Somebody should tell county officials Friday the 13th has ended.
Over the weekend, County Public Safety Director Gary Kaiser got a weed-eater for Father's Day. The trouble was, it tried to eat one of his big toes.

Now Kaiser's getting around only with the help of a cane.
Monday the air conditioning was out in the courthouse and for Commissioner Sandra Glenn, it was a working day. But she said she got so hot it caused her to get a cold. Tuesday her voice was barely audible.

Commissioner Bob Sturm's car was hit by another car that had, he said, run a stop sign at Park and French Avenues.
Mrs. Glenn, who passed by the scene of the accident on her way to the courthouse said she saw plastic and chrome strewn down the road for a mile. She stopped and an ambulance driver said "those new cars just don't hold up these days."

OPEC Cutting Its Own Throat

When a cartel is controlling the market in a vital commodity, any sign of a falling-out among members of the cartel takes on the luster of good news. The failure of the Organizations of Petroleum Exporting Countries to reach a unanimous agreement on a new price formula for oil is such a straw.

But it is grasping only at a straw to take comfort in the disunity evident at the OPEC meeting in Algiers. True, Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates refused to go along, at least for now, with a new "benchmark" price of $32 a barrel for oil — $2 higher than the previous price. This is music to Western ears, but the fact remains that the other 11 exporters are determined to squeeze still more dollars out of our pockets.

The $2 price increase is expected to add two to three cents to the price of a gallon of gasoline in the United States and have a corresponding effect on utility bills and all other prices sensitive to the cost of fuel. We have no choice but to pay the higher prices as long as we choose to send abroad for tankers full of oil.

That choice is the joker in the deck, a card which cannot be played as long as the demand for oil by the importing nations remains as high or higher than OPEC's production levels. Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani, the Saudi Oil minister, may have been thinking of that wild card when he warned the exporters that a worldwide oil glut by next fall could undermine the ability of OPEC to sustain its $32 a barrel price.

The approach of such a glut should be evident to OPEC members even if it does not dissuade them from raising prices. Fuel inventories are sky-high in the United States and other industrial countries. During the four weeks ending June 6, U.S. imports of crude oil and refined products were running 20 percent below the levels of a year ago. The gathering recession in Western economies can be expected to reduce demand for fuel to an even greater extent than what has already resulted from conservation measures triggered by raising prices.

The OPEC ministers still hope to "unity" their prices at their next meeting in September. The ministers who are the most hawkish on prices may hope to unify them at even higher level than the present range, which goes from the Saudi's $28 up to $37 at the top. To do so in the face of falling demand would be difficult — unless OPEC takes the more drastic step of cutting back on production.

There are significant forces at play in the world energy market. Even discounting the temporary effects of recession, the inexorable upward curve in petroleum demand has been tempered. Europe and Japan are mounting major nuclear power programs. Although nuclear development remains virtually frozen in America, something resembling an energy policy is finally emerging from years of fitful debate in Congress.

Our dependence on OPEC oil is still great enough to be our overriding energy problem, a serious drain on our economy and a threat to peace. But the progress made so far in curbing that dependence should encourage our efforts. A year ago imported oil was meeting 42 percent of our requirements. Today the figure is 37 percent. It can go significantly lower. To the extent that it does, the less we'll have to worry about what OPEC does or doesn't decide to do.

BERRY'S WORLD

On the eve of a crucial Florida vote, an electric cooperative in the Sunshine State was granted a billion-dollar loan only two months after the application was filed. Such loans normally take at least a year to process.

JEFFREY HART Kissinger Important To Reagan

Former President Gerald Ford is an important part of the Republican equation this year. Though he did not have the political clout to seize the nomination from Ronald Reagan, he represents an important grouping within the Republican Party. Moreover, his reputation is on the rise. No one is this country dithering Gerald Ford. His handling of the economy and his steadiness in foreign affairs command respect.

The Republicans need the active participation of Ford in the campaign this year. Mr. Reagan's attitude toward Henry Kissinger appears to be shaping up as one of the outstanding issues between the two men. Kissinger's name was a conspicuous omission from the list of Reagan advisors made public last month.

Ford declined to speculate about what relationship, if any, Kissinger might have either to the Reagan campaign or to a Reagan presidency. But I believe it is a fair inference to conclude that Ford's enthusiasm for the campaign will depend on Kissinger's working something out with Kissinger.

What's the problem? In 1976, the Reagan forces made Kissinger — then secretary of state under Ford — a principal political target, along with delinquent. By the time of the Republican convention in Kansas City, Kissinger had practically been ostracized by his own party. His appearances in Kemper Auditorium were brief and perfunctory. Ford was forced to swallow an anti-Kissinger platform plank.

In retrospect, all of this was surely overdone. Kissinger, moreover, has changed in deep ways since holding office. On the basis of his memoirs and also recent conversations with him, I conclude that Kissinger — in contrast to Cyrus Vance — is no longer a part of the Eastern liberal establishment. His defection is emotional and profound. He was badly burned by the establishment's failure of nerve in Vietnam, and traumatized by the consequences that inevitably flowed from our Vietnamese defeat.

Kissinger, however, has his problems at the interesting level on the Reagan staff, most notably with Richard V. Allen, one of Reagan's most talented advisors. But today, in the summer of 1980, all that ought to be ancient history. Kissinger is not the indispensable man, but he is a major talent within the Republican Party. Kissinger has the international standing which would shore up the foreign policy aspect of the Reagan campaign. Kissinger does not have to be secretary of state. But Reagan and his aides ought to bury the hatchet with him, have a publicized breakfast and visibly consult him.

The stakes in 1980 are too high to fool around with this one much longer.

Carter Uses Grants To Win Primaries

WASHINGTON—Ten months ago, departing White House Counsel Robert Lipshutz left behind a clear warning to Jimmy Carter and his political advisers: "It is a crime," he wrote in a confidential memo, "for anyone with grant-making authority to use that authority to affect the nomination or election of a candidate."

The lawyer's advice, appears to have been honored in the presidential race. In the practice, in fact, Carter has openly boasted to a Washington Post reporter how they had used the grantmaking power of an incumbent president to deflect Ted Kennedy's challenge. While political motives for federal grants are difficult to prove, the extent and timing of the administration's largesse to important primary states establish a suspicious pattern. Rarely if ever has an administration used the spending power of the White House so blatantly. Here's just part of the record:

—On the eve of a crucial Florida vote, an electric cooperative in the Sunshine State was granted a billion-dollar loan only two months after the application was filed. Such loans normally take at least a year to process.

WHO SHOT J.R.?

ROBERT WALTERS Programs Control Crime

SAN DIEGO (NEA) — Law enforcement officials here recount with special satisfaction the saga of two men arrested several years ago and charged with more than 20 counts of robbery.

Both suspects, familiar with the notoriously inefficient criminal justice system, expected quick release on low bail, followed by a plea bargaining negotiations, pro forma convictions and relatively short prison sentences.

But when they sought to enter guilty pleas to drastically reduced charges, the prosecutors wouldn't bargain with them. One defendant took a chance, went to trial, was convicted of all major charges and sentenced to life in prison.

The other defendant pleaded guilty to all major charges — the only "deal" the prosecutor would accept — and drew a sentence of 14 years in prison.

Both men had been identified as career criminals by San Diego's Major Violator Unit, dedicated to eliminating "revolving door justice" that too often placed criminals back on the street after a quick whirl through the courts and the prisons.

The first such special prosecutorial operation dates back to early 1973, when the district attorney's office in the Bronx, New York established a Major Offense Bureau devoted exclusively to identification and prosecution of suspects accused of serious crimes.

The New York City Experiment was so successful that it became a model for the Career Criminal Program funded by the Justice Department's Law Enforcement Assistance Administration in scores of cities throughout the country.

Since the LEAA program was launched in 1975, 46 cities have received more than $20 million in federal funds to establish similar programs. Local funds are used exclusively in 20 to 30 other cities, while California and New York have statewide programs.

I THINK IT SHOULD BE SETTLED RIGHT NOW... SO WE'D KNOW FOR HEAVEN'S SAKE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If there is something about this year's presidential race that leaves you feeling vaguely unfulfilled, shake hands with Jim Atkins.

He has just come up with what may be the perfect slogan for the 1980 campaign.

Up to now, sloganeering has been one of the biggest weak spots in the campaign. Nobody has been able to capture with a few choice words the spirit of the times.

There have been no stirring catch lines to quicken the blood in the fashion of "Tipppecanoe and Tyler, Too," "Fifty-four Forty or Fight," "Two Chickens in Every Pot," "All the Way with LBJ" and "I Like Ike."

It could well be that the absence of a high octane campaign slogan is the reason for your disenchantment.

Once we examine the situation closely we can see why the current contest has produced no zingers comparable to "Land a Job with Landon" or "Why Not the Best?"

Domestically, the main issues have been inflation and energy — problems that seem to call for sacrifice and curtailment. It is difficult to sloganize retrenchment in a peppy, positive manner.

This is where Atkins, a former congressional lobbyist and speechwriter, comes in.

Although he now resides in Rosemont, Pa., Atkins still likes to keep a finger on the nation's political pulse. His latest campaign analysis, which he kindly passed along, fills the watch word void admirably. Atkins recommends: "Let's Stop the Country from Moving Again."

Better than any rallying cry I have heard this year, that slogan articulates the dynamic negativism that America needs at the juncture. Any presidential candidate who adopts it will, I'm sure, go far.

Progress sounding both forceful and progressive, Atkins' offering has the advantage of having been recycled from the 1960 campaign. This blends right in with the conversation principles so important today. Inspired by his example, I delved into the archives to see if there might be other discarded slogans that could be salvaged. FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Poll: Reagan Attracting More 'Crossover' Voters

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Ronald Reagan is more popular with Florida Democrats than President Jimmy Carter is with Republicans, according to a public opinion survey taken earlier this month and released Tuesday.

In fact, it indicated Carter is not overly popular in his own Democratic Party.

If the presidential election were held today, it indicated the combination of a crossover vote plus the candidacy of Independent John Anderson could throw the state to Reagan.

Among Democrats questioned, only 4 out of 10 (43.7) percent said they would vote for Carter while one-fourth (26.4) percent said they would cross party lines and vote for Reagan. Slightly over 1 of 10 (10.6) percent would vote for Anderson.

But 6 out of 10 Republicans (61.7) percent said they would vote for their party's standard-bearer, Reagan, with less than 10 percent (9.7) percent bolting to Carter. Anderson would draw 15.45 percent of the GOP voters.

Registered Democrats outnumber Republicans three-to-one.

Harbor Pilot Suspended

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — Deputy harbor pilot John Lerro had planned to board a vessel today to guide it through the tricky channels of Tampa Bay, his first trip along the bay since May 9 when the freighter Summit Venture slammed into the Sunshine Skyway Bridge.

But state officials stepped in Tuesday and suspended Lerro's license pending the outcome of an investigation by the Department of Professional Regulations into the accident in which 35 persons were killed in the nation's third worst bridge disaster.

105 More Refugees Arrive

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI) — Three small boats carrying 105 refugee stragglers arrived Tuesday keeping the Mariel-to-Key West sealtill barely alive.

The latest refugees pushed the total since the sealtill began April 21 to 14,800. The arrivals Tuesday were not unexpected, but came just after the sealtill's first scoreless day Monday, when no refugees put into the docks at Key West.

Mount Dora Residents Excited About Movie

MOUNT DORA, Fla. (UPI) — It's not "Gone With the Wind" but for this little town nestled in central Florida's lake country "Honky Tonk Freeway" will do.

Townspice watchers eagerly Tuesday as scores of actors, technicians, stuntmen, and extras turned the quiet resort community into the movie set they'll use for the next three weeks.

"Nothing like this has ever been to Mount Dora," said Robert Terrell, a veteran employee of the venerable Lakeside Inn where many of the scenes will be shot. "I didn't know if I'd live to see anything like this. It's really exciting," he said.

"The action centers around the $20 million movie directed by John Schlesinger that stars William Devane and Geraldine Page. It depicts a small Florida town bypassed by a major interstate highway and the local residents' attempts to bring back lost business by such stunts as painting the city pink and importing a waterskiing elephant.

Terrell said having the 200-plus movie people around is giving the local residents a lot to talk about.

"I came through town last night and they're sure changing it," he said. "The hardware store has a different name, the drug store has a different name. I can hardly recognize it."

But like many of the townsfolk, Terrell said he's waiting for later this week when the makers of "Honky Tonk Freeway" stage a huge parade and give the local residents a chance to be in the movie.

"That's gonna be something," he said. "It's sure not going to be quiet around here."

Potential Jurors Reveal Possible Bias In Klan Case

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — Among the potential jurors accepted by the prosecution in the murder trial of six Ku Klux Klan members and Nazis are one who thinks the defendants are guilty and another who once worked with one of the victims.

Prosecutors rejected one whose brother-in-law is "very active in the Klan." They have accepted 13 jurors in all. Twelve jurors and four alternates must be selected.

The defense has not yet questioned any of the potential jurors in the murder case, which stems from a gunfight at a "Death to the Klan" march and rally staged Nov. 3 by the Communist Workers Party. Five CWP demonstrators were slain.

"At this time I consider the defendants guilty," said Daniel Stookey, who was among eight potential jurors approved Tuesday. "In my mind there is a black and a white. There is no gray. A crime has been committed."

But Stookey told Superior Court Judge James M. Long he could base a verdict in the case on evidence presented in the trial even if it proved contrary to his present opinion.

Those standing trial on charges of felonious rioting and five counts of first-degree murder include Nazis Jack Wilson Fowler Jr., 27, and Roland Wayne Wood, 34, both of Winston-Salem, and Klansmen Jerry Paul Smith, 32, of Maiden;

David Wayne Matthews, 24, of Newton; Coleman Blair Priddy, 32, and Lawrence Gene Morgan, 27, both of Lincoln.

Sixteen potential jurors were dismissed "for cause" Tuesday, half of them saying they could not under no circumstance vote to send a defendant to the gas chamber. Prosecuting attorneys have used 16 of their 84 challenges.

Willa Washington, a black man who was the first juror approved Tuesday, said he worked with Sandra Smith, one of the slain CWP members.

Assistant District Attorney Jim Cohan asked Washington if he discussed political issues with Mrs. Smith at the Cone Mills textile plant where they worked.

"Do I have to answer that?" Washington asked.

The judge said he did, but did not have to tell what he discussed with Mrs. Smith.

Washington said they had discussed political issues.

Cook Of The Week Zest In Everyday Meals Stems From Europe Trip

By TOM NETSEL
Herald Staff Writer

A trip to Switzerland turned out to be more than just a vacation for a Casselberry woman.

Being exposed to different dishes and methods of preparation while in Europe added zest to her everyday meals, she said, after she returned home to 379 Jefferson Drive.

When Shirley Frinkley and her husband, Ron, visited Switzerland and part of Germany two years ago, they both enjoyed the cooking they sampled in hotels and restaurants.

"Many of the real dishes were just out of this world," said Mrs. Frinkley, who has worked as a legal secretary in Orlando for nine years. "The trip went by too fast."

Many items items were prepared with wine and the flavor it added to food was worth remembering and trying at home, Mrs. Frinkley said.

She now likes to fix and eat gourmet meals and her husband enjoys them as well. "He used to be just a meat and potatoes man," she said, "but not any more."

In addition to cooking, the Frinkley natives enjoy sewing and cake decorating. The latter she learned by reading a few books and teaching herself. She said she enjoys doing things with her hands.

Escaping the Florida heat by taking a dip in their swimming pool is another popular pastime enjoyed by Mrs. Frinkley. "I use my pool practically everyday," she said.

At dinner time Mrs. Frinkley likes to get into the kitchen and prepare main courses and desserts that will wake up the taste buds and be remembered. "I don't like blah menus," she said.

Slowly add the cup of chicken stock, a little at first, then place the chicken back in the pan. Add the wine, sprinkle with parsley, cover and simmer for 45 minutes. Serve the gravy over rice.

Shirley Frinkley enjoys gourmet cooking.

Drain pears, reserving 2-2/3 cups of the pear syrup. Place pears, the reserved syrup, sour cream and baking soda in a blender container and blend until smooth. Place cake mix and pured pear mixture in mixing bowl and beat until smooth. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition.

California Termed Unique Over Ex-Felon's Rights

Dear Abby

Someone wrote in asking if a friend who had served time in prison was eligible to vote.

You said, "Unless your friend receives a full pardon from the governor of his state, he is ineligible to vote. (And for a federal offense one needs a pardon from the president of the United States.)"

Abby, in California, anyone released from prison is considered as having paid society for his mistake and one again is a citizen with the right to vote.

D.B.K. OF CALIFORNIA

DEAR ABBY: I referred your letter to my friend, Justice Stanley Mosk, who serves as a judge on the Supreme Court of California. His reply:

"Release from prison is almost invariably subject to parole conditions. One in prison, or one on parole may not vote in California. (Article II, sec. of the California Constitution provides, in relevant part, "...for the disqualification of electors while mentally incompetent or imprisoned or on parole for the conviction of a felony.")

"Thus, for example, a person who had been given a life sentence and released on parole for life would never be able to vote unless pardoned by the governor. However, one who completes his parole may vote in California.

Upon inquiring, I was informed that twice the lobby had been cleaned out by burglars, dressed like "movers" with a truck to haul the stuff away. How's that for beautiful?"

DEAR ABBY: An anecdote regarding thumb sucking. I am a piano tuner. One day I was sitting on a piano stool tunning a piano while a 3-year-old child stood watching me with her thumb in her mouth. I picked her up and placed her on my knee. (Her thumb was still in her mouth.) Then I took out my partial plate with four front teeth in it, and I said, "See what happens when you suck your thumb?"

Her mother told me later, "She has never sucked her thumb since."

Alfresco Picnicking Way Of Life

The long stretch of summer with its warm lengthening days calls for plans for the good life. What would summer be without a picnic plan? Start with a nearby location, garden or patio will do nicely...add warm sun or a cool evening, warm friends, cool or warm food and you've put action into the plan.

Webster defines a picnic as an "excursion or outing with food usually provided by members of the group and eaten in the open." It is safe to say that the word comes via the Greek route for the Greeks had a word for it...epivos, which means a "contributing feast." No matter the route, the economics of today's picnicking is the same...sharing and contributing.

History has recorded the love of Queen Victoria for picnics. The English words pic and nicken (to eat and sleep)...what better way to spend a warm lazy summer afternoon than to eat and sleep?

First, there should be food. It need not be as elaborate as that served at Queen Victoria's picnics. It should be tasty, nutritious, and not overly fat and calorie laden.

To get the picnic food underway: a bouillon-flavored cottage cheese dip for crisp garden-fresh vegetables. Add baked chicken breasts and a mixed green low-fat cheese salad with a lemony dressing, a three fruit cooler and a choice of chilled fresh fruits for dessert...You may want to add hot biscuits or bread for hearty eaters, otherwise each of these recipes (if prepared as directed) have values by product analyses and recipe calculation to guide health conscious eaters.

Alfresco picnicking was a way of summer life for England's Queen, our Green, French, German, Danish and other cousins. So, take a page from their lives and live it up this summer without ever leaving home except to bicycle to a neighborhood picnic with a food contribution in the bike basket.

Nectarine Treat Baked To A Puff Of Perfection

While nectarines are at their peak this summer, take advantage of their juicy sweet-tartness by folding them into an omelet.

This impressive dessert is baked to puffy perfection, filled with rum-glazed nectarines, folded and topped with more nectarines and custard sauce. (The rum may be omitted, if you prefer.)

NECTARINE DESSERT OMELET

- 5 large eggs, separated
- Custard sauce
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 1/4 cup mashed California nectarines
- 1 tablespoon amber rum (optional)
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon butter
- Rum-glazed nectarines
- Mint (for garnish)

Separate egg, placing 2 yolks for omelet in 1 small bowl, 2 yolks for sauce in another. Prepare custard sauce. Set aside to cool. Beat all egg whites with salt and cream of tartar to stiff peaks. Beat in 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 at a time.

With same beater, beat 2 yolks with mashed nectarines, rum and lemon juice until thick and light yellow. Melt butter in 8-inch skillet over moderate heat. Pour egg white mixture over egg yolks and gently fold together.

Pour mixture into skillet. Sprinkle remaining 1 tablespoon sugar over top. Cook over moderate heat 2 to 3 minutes, then place in 350 degree oven. Bake 15 to 20 minutes, until well puffed and lightly browned on top.

Meanwhile, prepare rum-glazed nectarines. When omelet is done, turn out serving plate. Top with some of rum-glazed nectarines. Fold over. Top with remaining nectarines. Decorate with mint springs, if desired. Cut into wedges and serve with custard sauce.

This kitchen-tested recipe makes about 4 servings.

Custard sauce

Mix 2 tablespoons sugar with 1 teaspoon cornstarch and dash salt in small saucepan. Stir in 1-1/4 cups half and half (thin cream). Cook, stirring constantly, over moderate heat until mixture reaches full boil.

Beat 2 reserved egg yolks lightly. Stir hot sauce into yolks. Return to saucepan. Cook 1 minute longer over very low heat without allowing to boil, stirring constantly.

Remove from heat. Stir in 1 teaspoon vanilla. Make 1-1/3 cups sauce.

Rum-Glazed Nectarines

Melt 2 tablespoons butter in small skillet. Stir in 1/4 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons amber rum, 1 teaspoon lemon juice and dash salt. Add 2 cups sliced fresh California nectarines. Simmer 3 to 4 minutes, until nicely glazed.

LEMON-ORANGE CURD

3 eggs, well beaten
- 2 cups sugar
- 1/4 cup fresh-squeezed lemon juice
- 1/4 cup fresh-squeezed orange juice
- 1 tablespoon grated lemon peel
- 1 tablespoon grated orange peel
- 1/4 pound butter or margarine

Place all ingredients in top of double boiler over hot (not boiling) water. Stir constantly until butter is melted and ingredients are combined.

Cook until thickened, stirring frequently, about 15 minutes. (Be sure water in bottom of double boiler does not boil.) Refrigerate.

This kitchen-tested recipe makes about 3 cups sauce for use over pound cake, as a spread for bread, in fruit parfaits, or to fill tart shells.

PEACH CASSEROLES

1/2 pound package shell macaroni
- 1/4 pound butter
- 2 tablespoons tomato paste
- 2 tablespoons red wine (or apple juice)
- 2 fresh California peaches, peeled and halved
- 1 cup blueberries, fresh or frozen
- 1/2 cup Swiss cheese, grated

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Bring large pot of salted water to boil. Add shell macaroni. Cook until just tender. Drain and rinse macaroni. Set aside.

Melt butter in small saucepan. Add tomato paste, then wine, stirring until well blended.

Toss sauce with macaroni. Spoon into 4 individual casseroles. Place peach half in each casserole. Add blueberries. Sprinkle with grated cheese. Bake in preheated oven for 20 minutes or until cheese melts and sauce is bubbling. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 servings.

Peach-pasta casserole is different.

DESSERTS

STRAWBERRY ICE CREAM

Time To Crank Up Ice Cream Freezer

This summer season is the time to turn out some finer enjoyment for your family by cranking up the ice cream freezer. Remember that the smooth texture and rich flavor of homemade ice cream is provided by milk, and its creamy rich relative, whipping cream.

Milk provides protein, calcium and riboflavin as well as contributing phosphorus, thiamin, niacin and vitamin A to our diet. So you'll be giving your family tasty nutrition when you serve homemade ice cream.

STRAWBERRY ICE CREAM

- 1 quart crushed strawberries
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup sugar
- 3 cups milk
- 3 cups whipping cream
- 1/4 teaspoon almond extract
- 1/4 teaspoon salt

Sweeten berries to taste. In a large mixing bowl beat eggs until foamy. Gradually add sugar; beat until thickened. Add milk, cream, almond extract and salt. Blend in strawberries. Chill. Churn freeze. Yield: approximately 1 gallon.

NOTE: Approximately 3 pints fresh strawberries or approximately 2 pounds of frozen strawberries (three 10-oz. packages or two 16-oz. packages).

Bask In Sun, Sip Coolers, Light Coals

Good news for summer: the backyard barbecue is again coming into vogue.

Almost no other way of entertaining can beat the comfort and relaxed friendliness of eating outdoors within easy reach of kitchen conveniences.

When planning a barbecue, invite friends early, knowing that nearly all food preparation can be taken care of in advance.

Bask in the lazy sun, sipping refreshing Florida grapefruit juice. Then, just light the coals, bring out some simple appetizers, and you're ready to cook the meat. It's the "laid back" way of entertaining - definitely the 1980's style.

Whatever meat you choose to barbecue - chicken, pork or burgers - the smoky flavor permeates the flesh, and inviting aromas are given off as it cooks. Sunshine Citrus Barbecue Sauce has that popular sweet 'n' sour tomato taste. Horseradish and hot pepper sauce lend zip, while Florida frozen concentrated orange juice adds an incomparable sunny flavor.

With your barbecued meat, serve Summer Salad Sarasota - elegant, colorful, and exotic in taste and texture.

Yet it's a snap to fix and can be done hours in advance. Cooked turkey, fresh tomato wedges, refreshing Florida chilled orange and grapefruit segments, red onion slices, tender green snow peas, and crisp bacon bits are all attractively arranged on a platter. At serving time, you need only toss with mayonnaise that's been enhanced with sprightly citrus juices and hot pepper sauce.

The salad is so versatile, almost any meat could be used in place of the turkey - try cooked chicken, ham or steak strips. Even chopped hard-cooked eggs would be delightful.

SUNSHINE CITRUS BARBECUE SAUCE

SUMMER SALAD SARASOTA

1 cup catsup

1 can (6 ounces) Florida frozen concentrated orange juice, thawed

1/4 cup cider vinegar

1/4 cup prepared horseradish

1/4 teaspoon hot pepper sauce

1/4 teaspoon garlic powder

In small saucepan combine all ingredients; bring to boiling. Reduce heat, simmer 15 minutes; cool. Cover, chill. Use as barbecue basting sauce with spareribs, chicken, duck, pork chops, hamburgers, meatloaf or frankfurters. Yield: 2 cups.

SUMMER SALAD SARASOTA

1 cup Florida orange juice

1 cup Florida grapefruit juice

1 cup dry milk powder

3 to 4 tablespoons sugar

1/2 teaspoon vanilla

6 ice cubes

Combine all ingredients in container of electric blender. Cover and process 1 minute or until frothy. Yield: About 4 cups.

INCREDIBLY EASY EGG BOATS

6 hard-cooked eggs, chopped

1/2 cup chopped celery

1-1/2 cup mayonnaise

1/4 cup chopped pecans

1/4 cup snipped parsley

2 tablespoons chopped green onions with tops

1/4 teaspoon salt

1/4 teaspoon pepper

3 large avocados, halved and pitted

Lettuce leaves, optional

Combine all ingredients except avocados and lettuce. Cover and chill to blend flavors. Place about 1/2 cup egg mixture on each avocado half. Serve on lettuce leaves, if desired.

To hard-cook, put eggs in single layer in saucepan. Add enough tap water to come at least 1 inch above eggs. Cover and quickly bring just to boiling. Turn off heat. If necessary, remove pan from burner to prevent further boiling. Let eggs stand covered in the hot water 15 to 17 minutes for large eggs. (Adjust time up or down by about 3 minutes for each size larger or smaller.) Immediately run cold water over eggs or put them in ice water until completely cooled. To remove shell, crackle it by tapping gently all over. Roll egg between hands to loosen shell, then peel, starting at large end. Hold egg under running cold water or dip in bowl of water to help ease off shell. 6 servings.

Hose Helps Some Women Joggers

DEAR DR. LAMB - We've heard so much about the benefits of regular jogging and I've had one-and-a-half-mile daily. Recently I've become worried about possible long-range harmful effects that may follow. I jog with my two sisters who are in their early 30s and I'm 24. We began our program several months ago. Since then my sisters have noticed an alarming number of varicose veins on their legs. I've not had any but I feel a thumping occasionally in the one large one that I do have. Since we are all of average weight for our height and build and wear the proper shoes and loose clothing, I wonder if there is more to this phenomenon than coincidences. I'm also worried about the possible risk to tender breast tissue, especially those that are chronically cystic. For this reason, I've started walking, the "old-and-a-quarter" miles instead of jogging. Any advice would be appreciated. Would we be better off walking?

DEAR READER - When you're walking or running the contracting leg muscles cause the veins in the legs to empty as long as you have normal veins in the first place. That decreases the pressure in the veins and actually protects against varicose veins rather than causing them. Since both of your sisters are having problems, it reminds me that varicose veins do have an inherited tendency. That is, they're apt to affect numerous members of the family.

A SHARE OF THE SUPPER feast!

Here is a soundly economical and fun idea for a summer party, with guests contributing special dishes for a backyard buffet. Nobody works too hard; everybody has a wonderful time!

Hostess Number One (party's at your home) provides the fried chicken. Friends and neighbors pool their resources and the "looking (and clean-up) into one happy community effort. One provides a colorful relish tray - cherry tomatoes, carrot sticks and crisp, sliced zucchini. Another brings warm, buttered, crusty bread. Still another volunteers the beverage and for Black-party style buffet nothing quite compares with the old-fashioned taste of Country Time lemonade flavor drink as the basis for a Grape-Apple Cooler. Tart and tangy, it just hits the spot on a warm summer evening. A second pitcher is held in reserve to accompany the spectacular dessert.

Honey-Dipped Chicken is an ideal choice for eight people and this luscious, golden delight is prepared with very little effort. With Oven Fry cooking for chicken, home style flour recipe, and very little oil, the chicken is fried - not baked - in the oven.

Only one turning is involved in the halfway mark and within an hour fried chicken that's crisp outside, yet moist and tender inside is ready for the buffet table. Happily, double batches can be prepared simultaneously.

Desert Hostess (nearest neighbor and dearest friend) to have come from a French patisserie, yet simple to prepare. This run-flavored pudding pie is made even more delectable with the addition of Cool Whip non-dairy whipped topping. Colorful, rich and luscious, it deserves anyone to turn it down. Let others have their fish fries, their barbecues or luau's - a Share-the-Supper Feast is real neighborly!

HONEY-DIPPED CHICKEN 1 package coating for chicken, home style flour recipe 2 tablespoons oil or melted shortening 1 tablespoon lemonade flavor drink mix 2 tablespoons water one-third cup honey 2 1/2 pounds of chicken pieces Empty packet of coating onto a sheet of waxed paper or into a shallow bowl. Spread oil in a 15x17x1-inch jelly roll pan. Dip whole chicken in water in bowl; add honey. Moisten chicken pieces with honey mixture; shake off excess. Starting with larger chicken pieces, place each piece in coating, turning and pressing to coat completely and uniformly. Discard any leftover coating. Place chicken in pan, skin side down. Fry in oven 25 minutes; turn chicken and fry 20 to 25 minutes longer, or until chicken is tender and coating is crisp. Remove from pan immediately. Makes 4 servings. Note: Recipe may be doubled; exchange positions of pans

NEPTUNE SPECIAL IS CRISP AS A BREEZE Crisp as a sea breeze and as intriguing as the sound in a sea shell, this open-faced salad sandwich. The gentle flavor of the shrimp and crabmeat is accented with the dramatic color and the meaty texture of California ripe olives. Spread on slices of French bread, this tempting mixture is really a knife and fork summer luncheon sandwich. Warm weather calls for relaxing foods, and sandwiches have a very special place at this season. A glass of iced tea and crunchy potato chips complete a simple and very satisfying lunch. If (dessert) is desired, the fresh fruits of the season are most welcome.

RIPE OLIVE NEPTUNE SPECIAL 1 cup cooked or canned shrimp 1 cup cooked or canned crabmeat 1/4 cup sliced California ripe olives 2 hard-cooked eggs 2/3-cups cup chopped celery 2/3-cups cup mayonnaise 2 teaspoons lemon juice 2 teaspoons grated onion 1/2-teaspoon salt 1/2-teaspoon dill weed 1/2-cups French bread 1/2-cups butter or margarine 1/2-cups butter or margarine 1/2-cups green pepper rings Drape shrimp and chop coarsely. HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL For Thursday, June 19, 1980 YOUR BIRTHDAY JUNE 19, 1980 This coming year you are likely to be bothered with small enterprises or ventures than you will be with larger ones. Don't despair. Collectively, they could add up to a tidy sum.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're very alert today, and your social dealings, but in money or business matters you may not be so skillful. Try to make friends, not dollars.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Rather than tackle multiple projects today, do that which is essential and do it well. Too many irons in the fire could cause complications.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your initial ideas are likely to be your best today, so play them out. Changing your mind too often will get you off-track. You might lose sight of your objectives.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Commercial situations could be far more complicated today than they appear on the surface. Be careful, whether you are just shopping or speculating in securities.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Be wary of others' promises today. Through their intentions may be good, there is a strong possibility they may not be able to deliver what they say they can.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Unusual happenings at work can spur your optimism and make this a very productive day, provided you don't leave practically out of the picture.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) Speculating or taking chances could prove to be fun today. However, it's important to keep it under control. Getting reckless will blow your gains.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Extra change in your pocket might give you a false sense of security today. You could spend foolishly on frivolous entertainment if you're not realistic.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Others will let you set the pace today, because you're creative and clever. If you use emotional coercion at any time, however, you'll lose control.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Today we give an example of Mike going one step further and his own suit to defeat a game contract.

Normal. East's lead held that trick and he continued with the queen. South had to duck for a second time and now Mike overtook with his king and shifted to the 10 of spades.

Mike had seen that he was not going to defeat the contract with diamond tricks. That wasn't too difficult to figure out. He had no entry anywhere.

Wouldn't a passive defense of sticking with diamonds be best in any event? Wouldn't a spade shift be a giveaway?

Mike never worried about overtricks. He concentrated on contracts. He knew that South liked to bid no trump and wouldn't let a little trick like not having a spade stopper deter him. Then Mike counted room for 12 high-card points in the South hand with a spade honor.

So Mike overtook that queen and shifted to the 10 of spades. South played dummy's jack, but East just won the trick and led back a low spade to nail down South's coffin.

A lot of old-timers have been credited with the statement: "When both sides play the same suit, one is probably crazy." But we can tell you that Mike Gottlieb made it.

Main Dishes For Two Can Be Delightful

Do you cook for yourself and one other person? If so, you're certainly among millions. But if you glance at most cookbooks, recipes are geared to 4 or 6, or more servings. It's often difficult to divide a recipe to suit your needs. Fortunately, a vast assortment of fresh fruits and vegetables can be bought in small quantities. We've come up with a couple of sensational main dishes for two that make delicious use of summer produce.

Refreshingly cool summer Sevice Salad is a delightful example. Overnight marinating in fresh lime juice adds an incomparable pleasant citrus tang to the scallops and also coagulates the protein, "cooking" the seafood to a tender perfection that's hard to duplicate by conventional cooking methods.

And what's more, because of the marinating, all the preparation is conveniently done in advance. Fresh lime juice, with its exciting flavor, is marvelously low in calories, high in vitamin C.

Luscious ripe cantaloupe and honeydew balls make the Sevice especially colorful and also lend an enticing blend of flavors. According to the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association, good cantaloupes and honeydews have distinctive visual characteristics that can help guide you at the produce counter.

When selecting a cantaloupe, look for a definite, pronounced cavity at the stem end, and thick "netting" that covers a slightly golden background.

SEVICE SALAD

1/2 pound fresh bay or sea scallops
1/4 cup freshly squeezed lime juice
1/2 teaspoon grated lime rind
2 tablespoons olive or vegetable oil
1/2 teaspoon dried leaf oregano
1 cup fresh honeydew melon balls
1 cup fresh cantaloupe balls
1/2 avocado, sliced
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
Lettuce leaves

In a medium bowl, combine scallops, lime juice and lime rind. Cover. Refrigerate overnight. Before serving, stir in oil and oregano. Add honeydew, cantaloupe, avocado, salt and pepper; mix well. Spoon onto individual plates lined with lettuce leaves. Makes: 2 servings.

FRESH CORN PUDDING

3 ears fresh-uncooked corn
3 tablespoons butter or margarine

1/4 cup chopped green pepper
1/4 cup chopped red pepper
1/4 cup chopped onion
3 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups milk
1/2 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1/4 teaspoon hot pepper sauce

Using a sharp knife, scrape kernels of corn from the cobs (You should have 1 1/2 cups). In a medium skillet, saute butter, saute corn, green and red pepper, and onion 3 minutes. Reduce heat. Cover. Cook 5 minutes longer or until vegetables are tender. Remove from heat, stir in flour and salt. Gradually stir in milk. Return to heat, bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Reduce heat, add cheese and cook until cheese melts and sauce thickens. Stir a little sauce into beaten eggs. Pour eggs into cheese sauce mixing well. Add hot pepper sauce. Pour into a buttered 1-quart casserole. Set casserole in a larger, shallow pan with 1-inch hot water. Bake in a 350 degree F. oven 30 minutes or until a knife inserted near center comes out clean. Stand 10 minutes before serving. Makes: 2 to 3 servings.

Declare Own Independence In Observing 'The Fourth'

This Fourth Of July, declare your independence! Break away from the run-of-the-mill backyard barbecue foods and try something new and different. Here are some ideas to get you started.

Cast a vote for freedom of choice with Make-Your-Own Burgers. Corn flakes cereal helps stretch the ground beef. But the real vote getters are the assorted toppings which individualize each burger. What about a Taco Burger with those favorite taco toppings: cheese, lettuce and tomato? Or a Stroganoff Burger with mushrooms, onion rings and sour cream. Or... make up your own topping combination!

Three-Bean 'N Swiss Salad stages a revolution against everyday salads. It's all the good flavors of three different beans in a Vinegar-Oil Dressing. Plus, there's thin strips of Swiss cheese. Mix it up ahead, then stir in croutons at barbecue-time for added texture.

For dessert, let a summer vegetable take a stand. Serve squares of Orange Zucchini Cake, a moist cake using bran cereal. Cream Cheese Frosting tops it off deliciously.

MAKE-YOUR-OWN BURGERS

2 cups corn flakes crushed to fine crumbs or 1/2 cup corn flake crumbs
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
3 tablespoons milk
1 egg
1 lb. ground beef
Hamburger buns

1. Measure cereal crumbs, salt, pepper, mustard, milk and egg into large mixing bowl. Mix thoroughly. Add ground beef. Mix only until combined. Divide mixture into 6 portions. Shape into patties.

2. Grill patties over hot coals about 5 minutes on each side or to desired doneness. Serve on hamburger buns with one of the following toppings:

Stroganoff Burger

Onion Rings, fresh mushroom slices and a dollop of sour cream.

Taco Burger:

Lettuce, shredded cheese, tomato and chili sauce.

Luau Burger:

Pineapple ring and cole slaw.

Chef's Salad Burger:

Julienne cheese and ham, chopped green pepper and creamy salad dressing. Yield: 6 servings.

THREE-BEAN-'N-SWISS SALAD

1/4 cup margarine or butter
1/2 teaspoon garlic salt
1 1/2 cups croutons
1 can (8 oz.) cut green beans, drained
1 can (8 1/2 oz.) lima beans, drained
1 can (15 oz.) red kidney beans, drained
1 cup (4 oz.) thin strips Swiss cheese
Red onion rings

1. Melt margarine in medium-size frypan over medium heat. Stir in garlic salt. Add croutons. Cook, stirring constantly, until croutons are crisp. Remove from heat. Set aside.

2. Place beans and cheese in large mixing bowl. Refrigerate.

3. Just before serving, combine croutons, bean mixture and Vinegar-Oil Dressing, tossing lightly.

VINEGAR-OIL DRESSING

1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon basil
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
Dash pepper
3 tablespoons vinegar
1 tablespoon honey
1/4 cup vegetable oil

Measure all ingredients, except oil, into small mixing bowl. Add oil gradually, beating constantly. Refrigerate.

ORANGE ZUCCHINI CAKE

2 cups all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
2 cups sugar
4 eggs
1 cup All-Bran cereal or Bran Buds cereal
1 cup coarsely chopped nuts
2 cups grated, unpeeled zucchini squash
1 cup vegetable oil
2 teaspoons grated orange peel
2 teaspoons vanilla flavoring

1. Stir together flour, baking powder, soda, salt, cinnamon and sugar. Set aside.

2. In large mixing bowl, beat eggs until foamy. Add remaining ingredients. Mix well. Add flour mixture, mixing only until combined. Spread evenly in greased 13 x 9 x 2-inch baking pan.

3. Bake in oven at 350 degrees F. about 40 minutes or until wooden pick inserted near center comes out clean. Cool completely. Spread with Cream Cheese Frosting.

CREAM CHEESE FROSTING

1 package (3 oz.) cream cheese, softened
1 tablespoon margarine or butter, softened
1 teaspoon orange juice
1/2 cup sifted confectioners' sugar

Beat cream cheese, margarine, orange juice, and orange peel until light and fluffy. Gradually add sugar, mixing until fluffy and of spreading consistency.

Kosher Foods Identified

I recently received a letter and a booklet from the owners of Crossing's, a venerable kosher hotel in New York's Catskill Mountains. The information explains in part what kosher means — as well as why Jews and non-Jews can eat their fill of kosher food and still come back for more. It helps to clarify much confusion about Jewish cooking.

"Devout Jews believe that they have been given through their prophets a set of rules to live by," explains the booklet. "These rules have been established and interpreted by rabbis and biblical scholars to form the basis for the dietary laws, part of the Jewish doctrine for more than 5,000 years."

Any foods termed "kosher" or "pareve" (meaning neutral) may be eaten by those who observe the dietary rules, but foods termed "trayfe" are forbidden.

The following are considered kosher:

- Meat from animals with split hooves that chew their cud. The split-hoof pig is eliminated because it does not chew its cud.
- Meat from domesticated fowl. Wild fowl are not kosher.
- Seafood with fins. Carp, bass and pike are kosher. Clams, lobster and shrimp are not.
- All fruits and vegetables.

The dietary laws require that animals be slaughtered humanely under the supervision of a rabbi. Certain parts of all animals are not used.

Meat and dairy products are never eaten together. Thus, kosher homes have two sets of pots, dishes, flatware and so on. Here are some popular Jewish food that you do not have to be Jewish to enjoy.

Gefilte fish — balls or cakes of chopped fresh-water fish (usually a blend of several fish varieties).

Chicken soup — It has long been joked that Jewish mothers believe chicken soup is a homemade cure-all. Now some doctors have begun to share that belief.

Grebenes — onions and small pieces of chicken skin fried in the rendered fat from the chicken.

Kreplach — triangular pockets of noodle dough filled with chopped meat, boiled and eaten with soup.

Kasha — cracked buckwheat that is boiled and served in soup or as a side dish.

Challah — white bread baked in a braided or twisted form. This bread is often served on the Sabbath and other special occasions.

Knishes — rectangles of dough enclosing potato or buckwheat fillings, boiled and eaten with soup.

Latkes — pancakes usually made from finely grated potatoes and onions.

Trinines — carrots, sweet potatoes and prunes, cooked in honey.

Matzoh — unleavened bread eaten primarily at Passover.

Blintzes — thin pancakes rolled around some filling. Popular fillings are blueberries, cherries, mashed potatoes and cheese.

The name of the Canadian province Saskatchewan is the Cree Indian word for "rapid river."

How To Barbecue Turkey Outdoors

For the backyard chef who yearns to try something besides burgers and franks, a turkey may well be the answer. Almost everyone loves the flavor of turkey, and turkey roasted on the grill is so good it has to be tasted to be believed. And, it's the perfect entree for outdoor entertaining.

No longer thought of as solely a "Thanksgiving bird," turkey is now marketed the year around. It's high in protein, low in calories and cholesterol and lower in cost than most meats. Little wonder it's such a favorite.

When "done right," a barbecued bird is every bit as good — and better — than one roasted in your kitchen stove. Here are tips to help guide you to a perfect barbecued turkey.

Allow one pound of turkey per person.

Check the grill manufacturer's directions to see the size bird your grill will accommodate.

Many variables can affect outdoor cooking time including the type of grill and fuel, turkey size and age, distance from heat, basting procedures and — if you're using an oven-type grill — how often you lift the cover to peek.

To minimize the likelihood of under or overcooking, when shopping for your turkey, pick one with a pop-up temperature gauge. This can save you time, trouble and guesswork later when cooking the bird. The handy gauge "pops-up" when the proper internal temperature is reached to tell you when the bird is done "just right."

Researchers have also developed the pop-up temperature gauges for use with beef roasts and steaks, pork roasts and roasting chickens. (Information is available by writing: "Pop-up Timer," P.O. Box 474, St. Paul, MN 5504.)

Thaw and prepare the turkey for roasting, as usual. Rinse bird thoroughly under cold water and pat dry.

Note on stuffing: don't stuff turkey if you're using a rotisserie.

Place a foil drip pan under the bird, but not directly on the coals.

Make certain charcoal is heated sufficiently prior to cooking. Otherwise, your barbecued food may not be completely cooked when expected.

Here's how to tell when the coals are ready for cooking: in daylight — when they are covered by a single layer of gray ash; at night — when they have a bright red glow.

As a general guide, kettle cooking a 20-pound turkey requires about 11 minutes per pound to be well done. If the bird is stuffed, add another two minutes per pound to cooking time.

A dead fish lies on the banks of the St. Johns river, stained green by the thick algae growth responsible for last week's fish kill. River experts warn that more kills can be expected if conditions are not improved.

Warning About River Came Decade Ago

By DAVID M. RAZLER
Herald Staff Writer

Man's meddling with conditions around the St. Johns River have created conditions which could lead to regular, severe fish kills.

By raising the nutrient content of the water while killing off aquatic plants, not only have conditions been set up for algae blooms which lead to fish kills, but the game fish population has been reduced because conditions are more favorable to shad and gar, fish of little sport or economic value.

These were the conclusions drawn by the state Game and Freshwater Fish Commission after a study released in February 1970. But rather than improving conditions on the river have worsened since then, says one of the report's authors, a biologist who has worked on the river for more than 20 years.

Harold Moody, biologist at the commission's Estuarine Research Lab, says he has been fighting a losing battle with an assortment of agencies given the job of controlling the St. Johns.

Only now are the Department of Environmental Regulation and the St. Johns River Water Management District beginning to take actions which can save it, he says.

The St. Johns can still be saved, he says, but action must come immediately.

Since 1948, the first year for which accurate figures are available, through 1970, the weight of fish per acre of the St. Johns increased. But at the same time the number and weight of bass, crappie, sunfish and catfish decreased, the 1970 report states.

Moody blames two factors for the change in the fish population. The presence of people and the development of land along the St. Johns has tremendously increased the amount of plant nutrients, mainly nitrate and phosphate, speeding the growth of all plant life.

Marshes and meadows along the river, which once served to filter runoff water by drawing off the nutrients before they reached the water, have been developed for farming and housing.

Besides reducing the amount of natural water purification, people have added tons of nutrients to the water by filling it with partially treated sewage effluent and runoff from cattle pastures and city streets.

The river might have coped with the increase in nutrients, Moody says, but in the interest of easier boating, the state has eradicated most of the floating plants which for at least 90 years filtered the water and improved conditions for the larger fish.

In the 1970 report, Moody explained the gametfish population did not begin to drop until the 1950s, the beginning of large-scale growth of the area's population and the beginning of efforts to kill off aquatic weeds.

Water hyacinths and other floating plants provide breeding grounds for small crustacea and other animals which provide food for the larger fish, Moody says.

The plants also use up the nutrients, squeezing out the fragile algae that played a significant role in the recent fish kill.

But the plants also cause problems for small boats on the river. For many years the Game and Freshwater Fish Commission, under contract from the Army Corps of Engineers, has dumped herbicides into the river to kill off the larger plants, leaving the algae to fill the water, turning some of the lakes and river sections dark green and opening the way to destruction of the fish population.

While Sonny Vergara director of the water management district, also believes the St. Johns can be saved, he says allowing plants to grow and block the river is not the answer.

Conditions on the St. Johns should improve when the new Iron Bridge sewage treatment plant opens in Seminole County, he said.

A good portion of the nutrients in the St. Johns comes from sewage plants along the Little and Big Econolochatchee rivers, which feed into the St. Johns south of Lake Harney, he said.

The new Iron Bridge plant will release almost-pure water. Currently, most of the treatment plants discharge waste which has undergone one secondary treatment. This effluent is biologically purified but still loaded with nutrient chemicals.

Sanford, Deland and other area sewage treatment plants are either approved or scheduled for improvements to bring them up to a better grade of purification.

The best way to eliminate nutrient loading of the St. Johns is the flood plain acquisition project run by the district, Vergara says.

The plan in the works since 1978, should be complete by August, he said. Under the proposal, the management district will begin buying up river basin land, keeping it in its natural condition.

Vergara said, however, the program is limited by the amount of land along the river taxpayers are willing to pay for.

Although one of the worst sources of nutrients in the St. Johns is from cattle grazing along the river and nearby creeks, Vergara said it would be impractical to mandate farmers keep animals far enough away from the river to allow marshlands to filter out the nutrients.

In the case of one dairy along the river, the amount of pollution was severe enough for the Department of Environmental Regulation to order setting ponds be built to treat runoff.

But runoff from all other pastures goes unchecked and uncheckable, he said.

Moody said it would be proper and possible to move the cattle away from the waterways.

He also suggested other steps which could be taken to improve water conditions, including installation of more sewer systems for homes near the river.

Moody also suggested bans on phosphate-based detergents, a move taken elsewhere in the country to prevent river and ground water pollution.

He warned that the St. Johns is right at the critical stage in terms of nutrient pollution, repeating the prediction he made in 1970 that the 1983 Lake Jessup fish kill, which destroyed about 10 million fish, could become regular occurrences, if something is not done soon.

State Attorney Indicts Teacher In Paddling

A Sanford Grammar School teacher has been indicted on a charge of committing battery when she disciplined a third grader last month, allegedly bruising him severely.

Elsa Marie Caskey, 30, of 1387 Sacramento St., Deltona, was to be issued a summons today to appear in County Court to answer charges she committed battery on May 15 by paddling Wayne Foley, an 8-year-old residing for the summer with his father, Ralph Foley, at 1806 S. Maple Ave., Sanford.

Foley is the stepson of Congressman Richard Kelly, R-New Port Richey, and had come to Sanford and attended school here only two weeks before the paddling incident, police say.

Sanford Police Sgt. W.R. Bernosky charges the child was paddled twice by Caskey on May 15, once in the morning for allegedly showing another child and once in the afternoon for allegedly punching another child. Photos of Foley taken by Seminole Medical Examiner G.V. Garay at Seminole Memorial Hospital show the youth's buttocks were severely bruised after school on May 15.

Assistant State Attorney Steven Johnson said the child has recovered from the bruises without suffering any permanent injury.

If convicted of the charge as filed, Caskey could face up to a year in the county jail.

Under school board policy, based on the state laws, teachers are supposed to bring students to a principal or principal's designee for the administration of corporal punishment.

Teachers are allowed to paddle if given approval on a case-by-case basis, said school district spokesman Ralph Ray.

Bernosky says Caskey did not speak with the school principal Clay Carroll before paddling, but that Carroll has told him teachers have blanket designation to paddle as they see fit.

Two weeks ago, when Bernosky brought the case to the State Attorney's office, Carroll refused to comment on the case.

Ray said school district officials turned over all information on the case to the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services as soon as it was reported.

HHS investigators are required by law to look into any injury of a child by an adult which leaves a mark visible for more than an hour.

Bernosky said the incident was reported by Foley's grandfather, who was caring for the child the day it happened. It was the first time the youth, who had been attending school in Virginia, had been paddled in Sanford, Bernosky said.

Bernosky says he made the charge of battery against the teacher after evidence indicated Foley was not hit by anyone else nor was elderly teacher.

Earlier this year, Bernosky was unsuccessful in an attempt to bring criminal charges against Sanford Middle School Dean of Students Ronald Hunt for paddling a student.

James Lettau, 143C Henderson Lane, Sanford, needed emergency surgery last April when the paddling by Hunt apparently aggravated a minor birth defect, causing one of the youth's testicles to rotate.

Lettau and his mother say they are preparing to file suit against the school district to recover damages.

Chief Assistant State Attorney Chris Ray said Hunt had no knowledge of the birth defect and had no intention of harming the youth.

Since that time, two other parents have filed complaints with the Seminole County Sheriff's Office, charging teachers at Midway Elementary School bruised their children in two unrelated corporal-punishment incidents. Both are still under investigation.

Figures provided by the district to the federal Department of Health Education and Welfare in September state about one of every nine county students was subjected to officially sanctioned corporal punishment at least once during the 1979-80 school year. — DAVID M. RAZLER

2 Councilmen Oppose Ordinance

Lake Mary Utility Tax Resurfaces

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Imposition of a utility tax, an action which appeared to have been rejected by the Lake Mary City Council at least twice previously, is back on the agenda for today's 7:30 p.m. council meeting.

City Manager Phil Kulbes said today the item was placed on the agenda at the request of Councilman Bud Perinichief. The original sponsor of a utility tax ordinance — Councilman Vic Olivera — is expected to be absent from the meeting.

Two weeks ago a motion by Olivera to adopt a 4 percent utility tax and hold it in abeyance pending a special election where the voters of Lake Mary would be asked to approve a property tax increase died for lack of a second.

Councilmen Gene McDonald and Ray Fox said they were opposed to a utility tax and said the motion as stated could be perceived by the people as "blackmail."

Fox said today he thought the issue had been rejected by the council since Olivera's motion died for lack of a second. "I don't know how I'll react tonight," he said. "Basically I've been against this type of tax in the past. I thought we had the budget problems for this year solved. I don't know why this is back on the agenda."

Councilman Francis Mark said: "I thought this was a dead issue." It was Mark, who two weeks ago, explained how the budget for the current year was being adjusted to provide that no money would be taken from reserve accounts for operation.

The council agreed to stop further consideration of cutting the police force after Mark found that by pro-rating the city's insurance premium and because of reimbursement from the state of funds expended for traffic signs, the budget for this year balances.

In other business, the council will hold its first public hearing on the proposed sanitary sewer study being done by the city's consulting engineer, Paul Porter of Clark, Dietz and Associates.

Porter is to present facts and figures concerning the proposed sewer system to be built in the city. The sewer study is being financed with federal funds.

The council will consider a requested change in zoning from a restrictive to a less restrictive commercial zoning for the two-acre tract south of Lake Mary Boulevard on Lake Emma Road.

An ordinance annexing 1 1/2 acres of land along State Road 427 will be considered for passage on second and final reading. The property is currently zoned for agricultural use.

The owner ultimately plans to seek a change in zoning on the property to permit construction of single family homes at the rate of three to the acre.

The council will also consider adopting on second reading office commercial zoning for Lake Mary Boulevard from Fourth to Ninth streets. Changes in the ordinance proposed by Bill Colbert, attorney for property owners along the strip, will also be considered by the council.

City Manager Phil Kulbes will recommend the council change its lakefront zoning ordinance to permit construction of apartments on lakefront property. Currently the ordinance requires a setback for single family homes of 30 feet from the lake, according to Kulbes.

The changes in the ordinance, he is suggesting, would require that apartments be at least 200 feet from the lake and that that 200 feet be reserved for open space or recreation purposes.

Carter Heads For Summit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter left for a European summit meeting with allied leaders today, cautioning that the United States does not want a reckless confrontation or return to cold war with the Soviet Union.

He also warned before flying to Rome on the first leg of a four-nation, eight-day trip that Carter plans to see the invasion of Afghanistan, must be checked.

"The industrial democracies are being tested," said Carter of the need for allied solidarity in the Venice economic and political summit this weekend with leaders of Europe and Japan.

The president will also visit Yugoslavia, Spain and Portugal during the trip.

"Let there be no misunderstanding about this anywhere in the world: We are not motivated by hostility, or by any desire for reckless confrontation or a return to the Cold War," said Carter in remarks on the White House lawn.

"But we must sustain world opposition to Soviet aggression, and not allow the Soviets to derive any permanent benefits from their invasion of a neutral nation."

During the trip, Carter plans more than a dozen meetings with key leaders of the West and Japan and consultations with Pope John Paul II.

"But through all these interrelated issues and delicate shades of difference, we will be guided by this knowledge: The power of free democratic nations — who welcome diversity, who do not erect walls to imprison our own people, and above all who exist to nurture individual human beings, not enslave them — the power of democracy and freedom will shape the future of the world," Carter said.

Carter, who has been in regular touch with the Western leaders, will have a chance for face-to-face sessions at the Venice Economic Summit this weekend to air some of the issues that have divided them over the past few months.

Following his farewell remarks shortly after 7 a.m. EDT, Carter flew by helicopter to Andrews Air Force Base for his flight to Rome aboard Air Force One.

Carter spent the eve of his departure winding up official business and addressing a pro-IRA banquet where his rival for the Democratic presidential nomination, Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., also spoke.

After Italy, he will make state visits to Yugoslavia to meet the new post-1970 era leaders and to Spain and Portugal where he will salute moves toward democracy. He will head back to Washington on June 26.

An aide said Carter was buoyed by the prospect of his first foreign travel since last summer and was "looking forward" to another round of summity.

By his side will be new Secretary of State Edmund Muskie, who will be making his debut on the summit stage. Carter will do most of his sightseeing in Rome, where he will tour the Colosseum and Forum. He will also meet with Pope John Paul II, his guest at the White House last September.

'Dirty Sally' Reunited With Family

BOSTON (UPI) — For years, "Dirty Sally" begged for change and hung out with winos in New Orleans' Latin Quarter. An amnesiac, she didn't remember her children or husband.

This week she was reunited with her husband, Frank, who waited eight years for his wife despite police advice that he should "forget her — there are so many missing people."

In a light moment despite their painful separation, her initial advice to her husband upon returning home was that he go on a diet. "He was so fat I didn't know him. He must have gained 40 pounds," she said.

Then she told her story.

Evelyn Wilson, 53, became known to New Orleans police as "Dirty Sally" during her years of panhandling and wandering aimlessly in the South.

She said her memory began fading after she lost her daughter Deborah, 9, to cystic fibrosis and her son Frederick, 19, in an accident.

At the urging of a Roman Catholic priest in New Orleans, the Rev. Mike Levy, she sought medical help.

Two-and-a-half years in a Louisiana nursing home — which included proper rest, diet and medication — slowly restored her memory, with the first flash of remembrance being her Social Security number.

That led to what she called a "miracle" reunion this week with Frank and their two remaining children, Craig, 30, and Polly, 19.

"I feel wonderful, although after eight years it's kind of overwhelming," she said of her reunion with her husband and children.

"I sure do believe in miracles."

Of her lost years, she remembers the priest who helped her and the nuns.

"I stayed close to the nuns and priests, especially Father Mike. I was always in church."

Wilson, who was contacted by Louisiana officials two years ago, said the couple did not attempt the reunion until her doctors felt she was ready.

On her return to Boston she learned her son Craig was suffering from cystic fibrosis, the same disease that killed her 9-year-old daughter.

"Craig has the same disease that killed my little girl Deborah," she said. "That's what started it all; that when I began to get sick."

But this time she vows she will not be overwhelmed.

"I've made up my mind that something could happen to him and I'm ready," she said. "I wasn't ready for my daughter's death, we thought she was getting better."
