Service Tax Repeal Sought

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

House Republicans were expected to announce today they intend to file a bill to repeal the Florida service sales tax.

State Rep. Art Grindle, R-Altamonte Springs, said the bill, if adopted by the legislature during the upcoming special session Sept. 21-23 would create a shortfall of about $250 million in the current budget.

Grindle said Minority House leader Dale Patchett was to announce the filing of the bill today at a 3:30 p.m. press conference in Tallahassee.

While there appears to be a growing consensus among legislative leaders that reforms might save the levy, Gov. Bob Martinez indicated Wednesday he still prefers a March 8 referendum so voters could approve the tax or kill it. He said he thought there was growing sentiment in the Legislature to repeal the tax during the special session he called for Sept. 21-23, an assertion that surprised House leaders.

Senate President John Vogt, who is in Miami today to see Pope John Paul II, met with top Senate brass Wednesday and was leaning toward revisions in the tax, and away from repeal.

In response to the broad service tax, State Rep. Grindle, R-Altamonte Springs, said he has co-submitted some alternatives with State Rep. Richard Crotty, R-Orlando. The alternatives would change or eliminate the service tax in connection with certain real estate transactions.

"These amendments would clarify provisions confusing to home buyers who face the imposition of sales tax in certain cases and exemptions in other cases. In other words, we will be encouraging all home buying by treating equally resale property and new construction," Grindle said.

House Appropriations Committee Chairman Sam Bell, D-Ormond Beach, announced an informal "Armageddon session" of his budget committee Tuesday so state agency heads can describe what would happen to their programs if

Absentee Ballots Fail To Alter Deltona Vote

Absentee ballots counted Wednesday in Deltona's incorporation referendum sealed voters' rejection of the issue 5,689 to 4,859.

While incorporation was voted down Tuesday, 807 absentee ballots had to be counted and those who wanted to incorporate were only 875 votes behind. The absentee ballots lined up 481 against and 326 for. Legally, this incorporation issue cannot be raised for two years.

Total voter turnout was 10,548, or 58 percent of the area's 18,214 registered voters.

Deltona, which would have been called Deltona Lakes if it had incorporated, is a planned 41-square miles residential retirement community in southwest Volusia County.

Area Catholics Set To Meet Pope

Chartered Bus Leaves At 11:30 P.M.

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

Even as excitement builds in Miami for today's arrival of Pope John Paul II for the first stop on his nationwide tour, many local Catholics are getting ready for the trip of a lifetime to see the Pope.

The bus chartered by All Souls Church Council of Catholic Women carrying 45 area Catholics from All Souls and eight other parishes is scheduled to leave Sanford at 11:30 p.m. today for Miami where they will attend the Papal Mass on Friday morning.

They are scheduled to take their place at the site about 6 a.m. Others will be going down in other chartered buses or private cars. Other parishes represented on the bus include St. Augustine, Casselberry; St. Mary Magdalen, Altamonte Springs; Church of the Nativity, Lake Mary; Ormond Beach; Deltona; Church of the Annunciation, Altamonte Springs; St. Ann's, DeBary; and Our Lady of the Lakes, Deltona.

Karen Reilly-Morton, who is coordinating the bus reservations for All Souls, said that she has been getting last minute pleas from people calling to say they "just have to go to see the Pope." Mrs. Reilly-Morton said she was staying home with her small children, but her husband, Gary Morton, who is the associate editor of The Florida Catholic, went down to Miami early with a contingent of reporters to cover every angle of the Pope's Miami visit.

Among those making the trip are five members of the Murphy family of Church of the Nativity, Lake Mary, are especially excited about going to see the Pope in person for the very first time, because they have been invited through the Orlando Diocese to sit in the VIP section, which will mean a better look at the Pope. Paul E. Jr. and Barbara Murphy of 116 Fairlane Circle, Sanford, and their three children, Paul III, 16, Shawn, 13 and Victoria, 10, are leaving tonight for Miami and the big event.

"To say we are excited is putting it mildly," Mrs. Murphy said Wednesday. "Just the thought of being in a crowd of 500,000 people is mind boggling."

She said she wasn't sure just why they were chosen. "We do a lot of work in the religious education program at our church, but we are just a normal average family," she said. Both Mr. and Mrs. Murphy have taught for seven years in the religious education program and have done administrative work. Both are special ministers of the Eucharist and their sons are altar servers.

Rosemary Kronenberger of 110 Mayfair Circle, Sanford, of All Souls, will be one of the 20 Lay Eucharistic ministers who will be distributing Communion to the handicapped who attend the Papal Mass.

Ricky Ecstein and Bethany Wait of All Souls will be among the youth from the Diocese attending. Their bus will return Saturday morning stopping in Melbourne for a sunrise Mass.

The Rev. Edward Zukowski, CPPS, associate pastor of Nativity Church, is one of 11 Orlando Diocese priests scheduled to meet with Pope John today at 4

Judge Tells Station To Turn Off Song

A circuit judge in Sanford ordered an Altamonte Springs radio station to stop recording and rebroadcasting material aired by an Orlando radio station.

Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Lefler Wednesday barred WHLY-FM (106.7) from taping music from its rival WBJW-FM (105.1) and then rebroadcasting it.

Lefler made his ruling after hearing a tape recorded song that WBJW officials said had been pirated last week.

Officials of WBJW said song was an exclusive remake of a 1970s rock hit. It was obtain from an Arizona sister station of WBJW and the radio station was to be the only one in Central Florida with that particular recording on Sept. 1.

The station's general manager, Rick Weinkauf, ordered the WBJW's promotion manager to add a sound effect to the broadcast, according to court records.

Weinkauf, according to court records, said he was suspicious that his station's broadcasts were being pirated and had been for as long as two years.

The sound effect, like an electronic jingle, was added and the song broadcast.

A log tape of WHLY broadcasting Sept. 1, played in court, has the same song on it and when the tape was played in court, the sound effect could be heard. Further, a WHLY disc jockey is heard saying at the end of the song that there

Candidate Must Resign Board Slot To Run

Longwood Incumbents To Face Challengers

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

Five candidates have filed in three Longwood City Commission races and a sixth declared candidate, who will have to resign from the Land Planning Agency board to be eligible, is scheduled to qualify today, according to City Clerk Don Terry.

The three incumbents commissioners in Districts 1, 2 and 4 are being challenged by newcomers to the city's political scene.

Richard Bullington, 31, of 329 Bonnie Trail, who said last week he planned to oppose the incumbent, Harvey Smerlison for the District 1 seat, learned when he went into pick up papers on Friday that because LPA members are paid a salary the law requires him to resign from the board 10 days prior to qualifying.

Terry said he was in touch with the Division of Elections in Tallahassee and when the new City Attorney Michael Kramer came on board Tuesday he researched the matter. It was learned that Bullington could correct the stumbling block by resigning totally effective immediately prior to qualifying to run.

Terry said Bullington had told him he would comply with the ruling and planned to qualify today. Bullington was only recently appointed to the LPA.

Henry Hardy III, 31, 278 Reider Ave., has qualified to run against Deputy Mayor June Lormann for the District 2 seat. Lormann, who is retired from banking and is semi-retired from real estate, is seeking her eighth term.

Hardy, owner of two businesses, Florida Tree Inspection,

Inc., and Door Safety Reflector, Inc., said he is running because the city is in need of a change and direction in leadership.

Ted Poelking, 70, of 601 Pheasant Ave., is seeking the District 4 seat held by Mayor Ed Myers. Poelking is a retired postal clerk and a 20-year Navy veteran, who has lived in Longwood since 1979.

Smerlison is an engineer with Martin Marietta and Myers is a retired tool and die maker. Both are seeking a third term.

Businesses Cut Spending Plans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Businesses plan to increase their spending on factories and equipment for the year by only half as much as they intended during the spring, the Commerce Department said today.

The government said its July-August survey of businesses found the companies planned to spend 1.4 percent more in inflation-adjusted dollars on capital this year than in 1986. The previous survey, conducted in April and May, indicated there would be a 2.8 percent increase.

In today's dollars, the summer survey's spending plans amount to $389.1 billion worth of plant and equipment expenditures in 1987, up from $379.5 billion in 1986.

Such an increase would be quite different from last year, when spending fell 2 percent from 1985's record expenditures of $387.1 billion.

Lake Mary Approves Bond Issue

By Richard Whittaker
Herald Staff Writer

The Lake Mary City Commission voted 3-1 Wednesday night to pledge funds from its electrical power franchise fees towards the debt service of a $3.17 million public improvement bond sale to make up for the loss of revenue from the repealed water utility tax that was pledged.

The city wants to use the money from the bond sale to help pay for the building of the proposed city hall complex. The closing of the deal for the sale of the bonds is scheduled for next week.

The electrical power franchise fee is expected to generate $180,000 for the city in its 1987-88 budget. The first $7,500 of this money is already pledged to the debt service for the already existing city water bond sale. The remaining $172,500 would be used with other utility taxes and fees, as well as the funds the city receives from the current half-cent sales tax to satisfy the annual $302,910 debt service of the public improvement bond sale.

City Treasurer Madeleine Minns said the funds left over from those funds after the debt service is taken care of will be transferred back into the city's general fund.

Last week the commission voted to repeal the city's two-year-old tax on the approximately 1,500 residents using the city's water system. It was told then the Bond Investors Guaranty Company (the company insuring the city's bond) was not comfortable with the removal of that revenue source from the Lake Mary's debt service pledge.

The water utility tax was expected to make an estimated $20,500 for the city during the next fiscal year. The residents using city water would have paid an additional 10 percent of their bills in the tax. According to City Manager Bob Norris, the average water bill in the city amounts to about $13 based on 7,000 gallons usage.

A woman who allegedly battered Gary Foster, 36, and threw him out of their home at 103 Sledgefield Circle, Casselberry, at about 3 a.m. Wednesday was arrested after she allegedly hit an investigating sheriff's deputy in the chin with her fingers.

Sheriff's deputies reported meeting Foster outside the home. A deputy went inside the home and confronted the suspect, who was reported to have screamed obscenities at the deputy, whom she is said to have attacked.

Pamela Sue Thompson, 33, of the above address, was arrested on charges of battery to a policeman and resisting arrest without violence. She was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond.

Woman Arrested At Stakeout

Orange County sheriff's deputies on a stakeout in Seminole County reported watching an Altamonte Springs couple burglarizing a car lot. The burglary allegedly took place on U.S. Highway 17-92, south of County Road 427, near Longwood, at about 10 p.m. Tuesday.

The man, deputies reported, stole a 1983 Chevrolet from the lot and evaded them when they pursued him south on U.S. Highway 17-92. The woman, who allegedly had carried a box of booster cables from the car lot to her truck before driving away at the same time as the other suspect, was arrested as she drove away.

Cheryl Y. Hall, 29, of 416 Condor Court, was arrested on charges of burglary, grand theft auto and possession of burglary tools. The booster cables were recovered. She was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond and her husband, whom the sheriff's report identified as Pat Hall, was still being sought in connection with the case.

County OKs 5 Rezoning Petitions

By Brad Church
Herald Staff Writer

County commissioners approved five rezoning petitions Monday night, the largest in the Winter Springs and Forest City areas.

A 21.9-acre site, straddling Howell Creek on the east side of Tuskawilla Road and north of Red Bug Lake Road, was rezoned from A-1 agricultural to R1-A and R1-AA single family residential at the request of Sid Vehlen Jr. and Kenneth Barker, partners in the proposed development of the property.

The commissioners approved the rezoning despite a staff recommendation to delay action on the request until developers' plans to compensate for filling some of the wetland area can be checked to see if it falls within county wetlands preservation regulations.

The larger portion of the property, on the east side of the creek, was rezoned R-1A. Vehlen said plans for that area are to develop 52 lots at an overall average density of 2.9 lots per acre. The west side property was rezoned to R-1AA and will be developed into 12 lots, Vehlen said.

A factor which may complicate the development is an eagle nest located in a tree about 75 feet from Tuskawilla Road. Barker told the commissioners that the nest was built after he bought the property and has not been occupied for the past four years. If it remains unoccupied for five years, it will be considered abandoned according to state regulations. If it is reoccupied, development must be at least an equal distance from it as development across the road, which is about 250 feet, Barker said.

The rezoning was approved subject to the developer complying with the wetlands regulations, or the 100-year flood level rule, whichever is stricter, and with state regulations pertaining to the eagle nest.

Commissioners also approved the rezoning of 20 acres at the northeast corner of Bunnell and Bear Lake roads in the Forest City area from agricultural to R-1AA single family residential.

The property is to be developed into 55 lots and the rezoning was approved despite objections from the Cub Lake Homeowners Association. J.W. Tensley, president of the association, said since the area is not served by a central sewer system, 55 more septic tanks would threaten present area residents' wells. He also said traffic on Bunnell Road was getting heavier and the new development would make it worse.

The rezoning was approved subject to the developer abiding by staff recommendations. Those recommendations were that access to the property be on Bunnell Road, that the developer pay part of the costs of extending a water line from Anna Drive to the site, and that he dedicate 40 feet along Bunnell and Bear Lake roads for right of way.

The site of a Handy Way store on the east side of State Road 434 opposite Sand Lake Road was rezoned from CN, neighborhood commercial, to C-1 commercial to allow the store to remain open 24 hours a day. CN zoning only allows businesses to be open between 7 a.m. and 11 p.m.

Miller Enterprises, Inc., which owns the property, said in its request that the store has been there for 15 years and that it wants to be able to remain competitive with a 7-Eleven store, also open 24 hours a day, across the street.

The rezoning was approved subject to the store modifying existing driveways so that access on SR 434 is a right turn-in only and access to the Sand Lake Road extension is as far as possible from the state road.

A 1.2-acre parcel east of Highway 17-92 and south of SR

434 was rezoned from A-1 to C-2 for development at the entrance to the Sunlake Planned Unit Development.

Part of a half-acre parcel southeast of Highway 17-92 and Lake of the Woods Boulevard was rezoned from A-1 to C-2 retail for development of a motel. Much of the property is in the flood plain and commissioners only rezoned that part which is not.

The site is not served by a central sewer system. However, a representative of Anil Valbh, the developer, said the motel would be served with a septic tank as allowed by the county health department.

Woman Victimized In Telephone Scam

Like many other women in Seminole County over the last few years, Kathleen Rose Vincel, 44, of Altamonte Springs, got a call from a man who threatened her, ordered her to perform sex acts, and give him cash and valuables.

Vincel, who received the call at about 12:15 p.m. Tuesday, reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies that she followed the caller's instructions throughout the call, which lasted more than 45 minutes.

In the end, per the caller's instructions, she dressed in a bathing suit and drove to the Altamonte Mall, State Road 436, Altamonte Springs. There Vincel left a grocery bag on the front seat of her car. The bag contained $1,000 that the caller demanded, along with about $9,000 worth of jewelry.

Vincel left her car windows rolled down and entered the mall to await a phone call, which was to notify her that the valuables had been picked up. After 15 minutes she had not receive the call. Vincel became frightened and called Altamonte Springs Police through the 911 emergency phone system, a sheriff's report said.

Police arrived to find that the bag of valuables had been taken from Vincel's car. It is not known whether the caller, who claimed to work for the phone company, was the one that removed the bag of valuables.

Five-Day Forecast For Central Florida

Hot And Sticky! Yesterday, Today

Had you gone down to Ft. Myers yesterday you would have been one degree warmer than around here. Folks down there had 96 degrees while the thermometer in Seminole County only hit 95. Not a record, either. It was 96 on that date back in 1949. Remember?

We were the wettest area in Florida, however. Officially, there was 79 inches of rainfall recorded at the Orlando International Airport NWS headquarters where federal government meteorologists take the official readings of such things. So if you didn't get .76 inches, you must be mistaken.

Now for today. It probably won't rain on the Pope's parade. Thought you'd want to know. Might rain here though: possible in the late afternoon. Hot and sticky otherwise, weatherwise.

Elsewhere, our latest tropical storm is following in the wave steps of her predecessors, pooping out.

Tropical storm Cindy was expected to buffet the western islands of the Azores with 40-mph winds today as it chugged toward colder Atlantic waters that were expected to sap its strength, forecasters said.

At 6 a.m. EDT Cindy's weak and disorganized center was estimated at about latitude 40.5 north and longitude 30.5 west, or about 140 miles west southwest of the Azores.

"Maximum winds are estimated at 40 mph, and these winds could buffet the western and possibly the central islands during the morning hours," said forecaster Bob Case of the National Hurricane Center.

It was moving toward the northeast at 20:25 mph was expected to begin to break up as it passed to the north of the Azores, Case said.

"Cindy is encountering the cooler waters of the north Atlantic and has begun to lose its tropical characteristics," Case said.

He said he expected it to be downgraded later in the day.

Forecasters, meanwhile, were monitoring a tropical wave moving westward in the Caribbean Sea that was causing thunderstorms in the Lesser Antilles, and an area of disturbed weather in the far eastern Atlantic several hundred miles south of the Cape Verde Islands.

Thunderstorms bringing heavy rain spread over the Plains today, but dissipated in Texas after producing several tornadoes, 80 mph winds and hail the size of baseballs.

Thunderstorms spread over Iowa, eastern Kansas and northern Oklahoma, bringing heavy rain to some areas. Rain also fell in the Middle Atlantic states, Florida and the Gulf Coast.

Clear skies and pleasant temperatures were forecast for the Ohio Valley and most of the Northeast.

Thunderstorms that triggered several tornadoes in southern Texas had dissipated by early today, although scattered showers were falling in the Lone Star state.

"The severe weather seems like it has been quieting down now," said Dan McCarthy of the National Weather Service. "The storms are mostly rain producers."

Several tornadoes scampered across the Texas Panhandle Wednesday. In the southeastern part of the state, high winds ripped down trees and shattered a supermarket window, sending three people to the hospital, officials said.

Four tornadoes were reported within a 50 mile radius of Lubbock, Texas.

Local Report

The high temperature Wednesday in Sanford was 94 degrees and the overnight low was 70 degrees as reported by the University of Florida Agricultural Research and Education Center, Celery Avenue. There was no rainfall recorded. Mostly sunny today with expected high in the low to middle 90s and a 40 percent chance of afternoon showers.

Area Forecast

Today...sunny during the morning becoming partly cloudy by afternoon with a 30 percent chance of thunderstorms. Highs in the mid 90s. Wind variable 5 to 10 mph.

Tonight...isolated evening thunderstorms then becoming clear. Lows in the mid 70s. Light wind. Chance of rain less than 20 percent.

Friday...partly sunny with scattered afternoon thunderstorms. Highs in the mid 90s. Wind variable 5 to 10 mph. Chance of rain 40 percent.

Extended Forecast

The extended forecast, Saturday through Monday, for Florida except northwest — Partly cloudy with a chance of mainly afternoon and evening thunderstorms...more likely south Saturday. Highs in the upper 80s to lower 90s. Lows in the 70s except around 80 in the Keys.

Massachusetts Teachers Strike; Total Now Seven

United Press International

Teachers picketed Wednesday in Chicago, cancelling the first day of classes for 430,000 public school students, while educators in a Massachusetts town walked off their jobs, raising to seven the number of states hit by strikes.

In Chicago, the nation's third largest public school system, the Illinois Education Labor Relations Board was considering a request by the Board of Education to force the 29,000 striking teachers back to work.

The school board has charged the Chicago Teachers Union and 20 other unions representing another 12,000 employees with conducting an illegal strike. School officials late Tuesday asked the labor relations board to request the back-to-work order in Cook County circuit court.

For Chicago public school teachers, it is their ninth strike in 18 years.

The CTU said 96 percent of the teachers honored picket lines Tuesday. About 300 teachers picketed Wednesday outside Whitney Young High School, yelling "scab going in" and "scum sucking pig" to those who crossed the picket line.

"Everybody loses during a strike, but it's our only alternative," said Roosevelt High School Spanish teacher Gail Koffman. "We go through the same thing every time, and eventually they find the money."

About 58,000 teachers are on strike nationwide in seven states — Illinois, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Washington state — extending summer vacations for more than 725,000 children.

The largest strike outside Chicago involves 11,500 teachers and 185,000 students in Detroit. A walkout by the Detroit Federation of Teachers entered its 10th day Wednesday with no end in sight.

Elsewhere in Michigan, bargainers reached a tentative agreement on a new one-year contract for 69 striking teachers in the Manistiquette school district in the Upper Peninsula. Superintendent Herb Herroon said classes for 1,317 students would resume Thursday. That back-to-work agreement dropped the number of strikebound districts in Michigan to nine.

A few hours before classes were scheduled to begin Wednesday in Revere, Mass., the district's 375 teachers voted to go on strike. Massachusetts Teachers Association spokesman Steve Wolmer said the teachers voted to strike after a marathon negotiation session "fizzled out."

While teachers returned to their respective schools to set up picket lines, administrative personnel staffed classrooms for some 4,300 students. City officials filed an investigation request with the state Labor Relations Commission, saying the strike is illegal.

A one-day strike in New Jersey's Gloucester County ended Wednesday, as Monroe Township teachers and the school board reached a tentative contract agreement in an overnight bargaining session. The district's 280 teachers were back in the classroom in time for a half-day of classes and a half-day of in-service meetings. The district has 4,700 students.

The New Jersey settlement left one other strike in that state. Teachers picketed at the 22 city schools in Elizabeth, N.J., Wednesday — the first scheduled day of school for the city's 15,500 pupils. Some 1,300 teachers and support staff struck Tuesday.

In Washington state, negotiators in the Renton school district reached a tentative contract agreement early Wednesday. The district's 12,000 school children should be back in classes Thursday. The strike by 650 teachers began Sept. 1, one day before classes were scheduled to start. That tentative settlement left one remaining teachers strike in Washington state, affecting 17,500 students in the Edmonds school district.

In Ohio, teachers in the Youngstown public school system voted to go on strike Wednesday, joining teachers in two other northeast Ohio

Martinez Defends Minority Appointment Record

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Gov. Bob Martinez defended his minority appointment record Wednesday as he and the Cabinet voted to defer appointments that would have made three community college boards all-white or all-male.

At the request of Commissioner of Education Betty Castor, Martinez and the Cabinet unanimously deferred eight appointments that would have meant an all-male board at Brevard Community College and all-white boards at Palm Beach and Chipola junior colleges.

Sitting as the Board of Education, the group also deferred the appointment of Ben Campen to the Santa Fe Community College Board. Martinez requested that deferral after Campen informed him he had a criminal record.

The board approved 34 other appointments to 18 college boards, including Valencia, Edison and Pasco-Hernandez. If confirmed by the Senate, those boards will be all-white, but Castor noted expiring terms of other members will soon give Martinez an opportunity for minority appointments.

Martinez has not named appointees to the Chipola and Valencia boards, but has told the only black members of those boards they will not get new terms.

"What my motion will do is protect the integrity of the (appointment) process, and affirm (Martinez') right to make these appointments while still giving us the latitude to assure adequate minority representation," Castor said.

Martinez then moved that the board establish a policy of including Hispanic representation on education boards. He said a non-binding policy established by the board in 1977 required black and female representation but made no mention of Hispanics, who now account for 10 percent of Florida's population.

That motion passed unanimously as non-binding policy. The 1977 policy lapsed in 1985 and was not renewed, but has been cited by Castor and others as a model for minority appointments.

Martinez, who has drawn fire from black leaders and newspaper editorial boards, then launched into a lengthy defense of his minority appointments record.

Martinez said his 458 appointments to various boards include 22 Hispanics, 12 blacks, 88 women and 10 Asians. His 24-member staff includes 11 women, two blacks and two Hispanics, and the 12 judicial appointments he has made include four women, two Hispanics and one black.

"I think I pointed out clearly today, with all my statistics, that I've done a superb job in appointing minorities," Martinez said. "The truth of the matter is, about 28 or 29 percent of my appointments have all been of some minority-based reason."

Should He Run The Country?

Who is Gary L. Bauer, anyway — and why should anyone care?

He's a man with President Reagan's ear, who is offering ill-considered advice on what the president should do during the rest of his term. Indeed, if the president continues to listen and heed, the White House is bound to stir up another hornet's nest on Capitol Hill and hurt the Republicans in a presidential election year.

Gary L. Bauer is the former education undersecretary who became the president's chief domestic policy adviser Jan. 30. A White House aide in his sensitive position should have been chastened by the embarrassing revelations of the Iran-Contra hearings. But while the Norths, Poindexters and Caseys of the Reagan administration were giving the nation a lesson in the pitfalls of secret foreign policy, Bauer was unabashedly plotting some congressional end runs on the domestic front.

Bauer believes the president, during his last 17 months in office, should ignore a balky Congress and unilaterally use his executive powers to push through a right-wing social agenda. The Bauer factor manifested itself three weeks ago when Reagan announced federal funding cuts for organizations supporting abortion. Now, the zealous young adviser is savoring the prospect of an executive order banning pornography from military post exchanges. What the president can't impose by fiat, Bauer believes, his judicial appointees will.

Bauer's efforts will undoubtedly lift the spirits of forlorn fundamentalists who complain the White House has ignored them. But it's likely to backfire against Reagan — and against his own party. As the nation heads for the 1988 presidential elections, the Republicans can ill afford more feuding between religious right and moderate elements. And nothing is more likely to revive that sort of conflict than the appearance that the White House is thumbing its nose at Congress and arbitrarily reshaping domestic social programs in the waning hours of Reagan's presidency.

Reagan has been served poorly by the arrogance of several of his advisers, and Bauer is no exception. The president must not let an obscure public servant run the country.

Long-Term Threat

The risks involved in keeping Persian Gulf oil lanes open could be relatively insignificant compared to what could occur if the United States and other Western nations became more energy-dependent on hostile Mideast and Persian Gulf powers.

U.S. energy officials are concerned about the situation. Demand for oil is increasing, but, The Wall Street Journal reported recently, production is decreasing everywhere but in the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, whose members include Mideast oil producers. U.S. crude oil output has dropped more than 9 percent since February.

The Middle East nations have about 60 percent of the world's proven oil reserves.

If demand for oil continues to increase, the United States and other Western powers could find themselves more reliant on OPEC oil. Bijan Mossavar-Rahmani, a Harvard University oil expert, said, "The more we depend on the Middle East, the more we unleash the forces in the region that can lead to an oil disruption."

Why Nuclear Freeze Movement Failed

One of the most fascinating movements in recent politics was the nuclear freeze effort of 1982-83. It tapped into the underlying peace and survival sentiment of the nation, and though it did not halt the arms race, it helped slow the mindless escalation of the Reagan administration.

The story is well told by Douglas Waller in "Congress and the Nuclear Freeze: An Inside Look at the Politics of a Mass Movement" (University of Massachusetts Press).

In a foreword to the book, Sen. Edward Kennedy observes: "The rise of the nuclear freeze movement displays a fundamental strength of representative democracy at its best — the power of individual citizens to influence their government, and even to change the course of history."

Waller makes clear that the overwhelming majority of Americans — not just radicals or peace activists — indicated in poll after poll its support for a mutual, verifiable halt to further nuclear arms production or testing.

That wide-ranging support for a mutual halt to the nuclear arms race manifested itself most clearly in the House of Representatives, whose members must face the voters every two years.

Sparked by the Kennedy-Hatfield Resolution sponsored by the Massachusetts senator and Oregon Republican Sen. Mark Hatfield, the freeze effort had strong bipartisan backing in the Senate, but it never had the momentum achieved by the grass-roots pressure that played so effectively in the House.

Why did the freeze movement not prevail despite its popular appeal?

President Reagan and his advisers orchestrated the politics of arms control to defuse, if not confuse, the nuclear freeze movement. After pushing ahead on an even bigger nuclear arms pileup during his first year and a half in office, Reagan began to feel the heat coming from Congress and the country in support of arms control.

A strategy was developed to give the appearance of an arms control policy. Nuclear freeze advocates were suddenly confronted by a president calling for deep cuts in strategic nuclear weapons. The evidence is overwhelming that the administration was not especially interested in arms control, but in the appearance of arms control.

That the president largely succeeded in diverting public support for a true halt to the nuclear arms buildup demonstrates, first, the immense political force of a president determined to use his power skillfully and, second, the lack of knowledge about arms control that handicaps much of the American public.

Reagan's landslide win over Walter Mondale, a supporter of the freeze, leaves little doubt that much of the public does not appreciate the importance of the nuclear issue.

Waller underscores the probability that the stature of Sen. Kennedy gave the freeze movement national attention and force it might not otherwise have enjoyed. The other side of the coin is that the movement greatly strengthened Kennedy's and Hatfield's national stature as leaders committed to peace.

Indeed, the nuclear freeze movement of the 1980s and the end-the-war movement of the late 1960s and early 1970s represent American democracy at its best.

Talks Cause Furor

CORNWALL, Ontario (NEA) — U.S. and Canadian negotiators are in the final stages of putting together a wide-ranging trade agreement that will significantly reduce — or eliminate completely — trade barriers and tariffs. However, the potential agreement is the source of great controversy in Canada and in some quarters in the United States.

The United States and Canada are each other's chief trading partners. Together they form the world's largest bilateral trade relationship. Last year $126 billion (U.S.) in goods crossed the border in both directions, with 22 percent of all U.S. exports ending up in Canada.

The "free trade" treaty has become a major political issue in Canada. Prime Minister Brian Mulroney's conservative government is backing the pact, and he has pledged not to sign any agreement that is detrimental to Canada.

But his political opponents, and even some in his own party, believe that he will give away the store to sign an agreement acceptable to the United States.

American negotiators and politicians have taken the position that, almost by definition, any free trade pact will favor Canada, because the U.S. population is 10 times greater than Canada's and thus the U.S. market is so much larger.

Many in Canada do not view things this way.

As they see it, the U.S. balance-of-payment deficit is so great that if limitations to Canadian markets are withdrawn, U.S. companies will dump huge amounts of goods in Canada. While this might be a boon to Canadian consumers, it is a potential disaster for Canadian industry. Many in Canada also believe the U.S. Senate has become so protectionist that a fair agreement is virtually impossible.

A recent Ontario poll showed that 48 percent of respondents thought a free trade agreement would be bad for Canada; only 33 percent favored the pact. The rest were undecided. Even the government's own most favorable national survey shows that just under half the respondents favor a free trade agreement.

Many Canadian industries are fearful about how such a trade pact might affect them, and they are lobbying furiously for special protections.

Canadian banks and brokerage companies are worried that American banks and financial service institutions will be given greater freedom to operate in Canada and simply overwhelm local institutions.

BEN WATTENBERG

Race And Birth

My new book "The Birth Death" has engendered a controversy. Some examples: A Time magazine article carries the headline "Is it racist to urge the West to have more babies?" A review in the Los Angeles Times maintains that my views may echo earlier American views about "race suicide" and a "Yellow Peril." I have been accused of "cultural chauvinism."

Personally, I think it's a bum rap. It's racial McCarthyism. But it also obscures an important problem that should not be clouded by a smokescreen of race innuendo.

At issue is this: In America, and in the entire Western democratic world, birth rates are at the lowest point in history, over time they will yield declining populations. But birth rates elsewhere show: a) steady moderate growth in the communist world, and b) soaring population growth in the Third World. My sense is that as the peoples of America and the other industrialized democratic nations become an ever-smaller share of the world, democratic values may be hard to preserve or extend. (I also think that our very low fertility rates will cause personal misery and economic turbulence.)

The charges against my view fall into two categories: global and American. Globally, I am accused of saying that while people in the modern, free nations are somehow better than non-whites in the Third World — and therefore whites should start reproducing more. The accusation about America is that I'm saying that white Americans are somehow more important, and better, than Hispanics or non-whites, and therefore whites in America should start reproducing more.

I think my critics are so hung up on race that they can't read straight. In "The Birth Death," I write about values and fertility — but my critics read race and ethnicity.

Globally, I make a not-uncommon claim: that the modern Western values — democratic, capitalist, scientifically oriented — have been beneficent. These values have not only helped us, but set progress in motion in the lesser developed countries and even in the Soviet bloc. These values have a better chance of flourishing and spreading if the Western nations flourish and grow.

What's wrong with that? Does that mean I think our values are "better" than Soviet or Third World values? Yes, I guess that makes me a cultural chauvinist. But I think most of my critics believe the same things, but are afraid to say it. They favor democracy and technology for the Third World. Most of them by now believe that market-oriented economies yield prosperity.

But they say I'm pushing white superiority. I'm not. I'm talking about Western values. I include Japan among the Western nations. I have not noticed that the non-white Japanese are deficient in running a democratic, industrial, scientific country. I didn't invent the world. As it happens, most of the nations in the Western modern bloc are mostly white. So what? That should not dissuade us from promoting Western values.

What about America? Poor people here have more children than middle- or upper-income people. That's unfortunate, because people who aren't poor are better able to provide for children.

Summing up: The problem is not white, it's West.

Fear Of Being Feminine

By Gayle Young
UPI Science Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — They are men who shun pain and never back down from a fight. They drink, smoke and drive fast — without wearing seatbelts.

They used to be called macho. Now psychologists are calling them femiphobics.

"Every man has femiphobia, or fear of being female, to some degree because it's so much a part of our culture," said psychologist Denis O'Donovan. "For some, the fear makes them exaggerate certain behaviors that are actual hazards to their health and longevity."

At a recent annual meeting of the American Psychological Association, dozens of psychologists met to discuss the newly-defined disorder.

O'Donovan, a professor of psychology at Florida Atlantic University in Boca Raton and founding father of femiphobia, said studies indicate femiphobics die prematurely because they take unnecessary risks, thrive on dangerous confrontations and tend to ignore the warning signs of disease.

"Women worry about their bodies, about internal things, not men," O'Donovan said.

O'Donovan contends all little boys fear becoming a girl because they see early in life that males have more authority and respect than females.

"The surest way to get a little boy not to play with a toy is to have him see a girl playing with it first," O'Donovan said.

In one study reported at the meeting, little boys were asked what they would do if they saw a contemporary playing with a female doll. The majority of boys said they would make fun of the child, avoid him and even physically hurt him.

Psychologists also reported on another study in which 4-year-old boys told they had to use a girls' bathroom expressed fear they would become girls if they did so.

"At some point of age, boys realize no matter what, they are not going to turn into girls," O'Donovan said. "So the fear goes underneath the surface."

"That frightened little boy within us is what femiphobia is about."

O'Donovan said femiphobics shun any behavior considered feminine and assert their maleness by indulging in behaviors that are considered masculine, from poker to driving hotrods.

They have a compelling need to have girlfriends so they can prove their masculinity, but they tend to treat women with little respect.

The Campaign Promise That Reagan Kept

By Jack Anderson
And Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — President Reagan has kept one campaign promise that has gone largely unheralded. He correctly suspected that the federal budget was loaded down with waste, and he pledged to seek out and eliminate misspending.

He created a task force of business leaders and asked them to apply their managerial know-how and common sense to the problem. Its official title was the President's Private Sector Survey on Cost Control. But such a moniker couldn't last, and it quickly became known as the Grace Commission — after the drive and determination of its chairman, J. Peter Grace.

With a powerful push from the president, the commission has made extraordinary progress at cutting government waste — against the stiff opposition of the special interests. For the fiscal years 1986 and 1987, this effort has saved close to $70 billion. This amazing achievement has been documented out of government ledgers by the Office of Management and Budget.

Thus the federal growth rate has been cut significantly without damaging or depriving a single federal program; the fat has merely been sliced off. The biggest saving has come from modifying government procedures. In the words of the president, the Grace Commission "set down a long-term strategy for streamlining our government," which has become "the basis for on-going reforms."

Meanwhile, Congress is also turning to the Grace Commission's proposals for slashing government expenditures. One out of every three members has already joined Grace Caucuses, which have pledged to cut the waste out of the federal budget. The anti-waste drive is led in the Senate by Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., and Gordon Humphrey, R-N.H., and in the House by Buddy Roemer, D-La., and Beau Boulter, R-Texas.

Because of the Grace Commission's stunning success, it has been enlarged and revitalized as the United States Taxpayers Commission. The president met on July 7 with J. Peter Grace, who set up the new commission, which will serve as the taxpayers' eyes and ears in Washington.

It will keep a permanent watch on how the taxpayers' money is spent. As Reagan later explained on his weekly radio broadcast: "J. Peter Grace and a group of dedicated business leaders are now forming the U.S. Taxpayers Commission to keep the focus on reducing costs rather than raising taxes. I expect they will bring renewed interest to streamlining federal operations and to assure that you, the American people, are getting all the government you are paying for."

The Taxpayers Commission is recruiting commissioners from the grass roots. It will seek a political balance of Democrats and Republicans, liberals and conservatives, who will seek new ways to fight waste, improve efficiency and cut spending. It will report back to the taxpayers on a regular basis on the misspending of government funds.

How to pay for yesterday's expenditures with tomorrow's revenues, meanwhile, is a troubling problem. For the spending rate is still too high and growing too fast. People cannot remain free and productive if a constantly increasing share of their earnings is taken by government and spent on its purposes rather than theirs.

Footnote: Jack Anderson has been co-chairman with J. Peter Grace of the national effort to reduce waste in government. They will now co-chair the new U.S. Taxpayers Commission.

IN BRIEF

FBI Probes Tampa Land Deals Made While Martinez Mayor

TAMPA (UPI) — Assistant City Attorney Tom Saunders has confirmed the FBI requested records involved in two major downtown land acquisitions while Gov. Bob Martinez was mayor, but said he did not know anything more about the probe.

Saunders said Wednesday FBI agents asked the city for the property appraisals they relied on when they purchased two tracts of land in 1985 and 1986 for a planned convention center.

He said the city only had an appraisal on a tract it purchased outright. He said the second transaction involved a negotiated settlement of a lawsuit and there was no appraisal made at the time. The appraisal the city did have was given to the FBI Friday, he said.

The two properties comprise about four acres of the 14-acre site where the city hopes to open a $128 million convention center by the fall of 1990. Ground has not been broken yet, however.

Biologists Await Redfish Reports

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — State wildlife officials hope the restricted redfish season approved by Gov. Bob Martinez and the Cabinet will help them gain information vital to the survival of the fish.

Martinez and the Cabinet unanimously approved Wednesday the restricted season, which will run from October 1 to December 31. During that time, recreational fishermen will be allowed to take one redfish a day, and commercial fishermen will be allowed five per boat per day. All redfish taken must be between 18 and 27 inches long.

Redfish harvesting has been banned in state waters for most of this year. That ban will go back into effect after the limited harvest season expires.

Russell Nelson, acting director of the Marine Fisheries Commission who proposed the rule, said the harvest will allow the MFC to recover information about the fishery from tagged redfish. That information will be used in formulating a permanent redfish management plan.

State Court Blocks Execution

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The Florida Supreme Court has blocked the Sept. 17 execution of Ernest Charles Downs and thrown out his death sentence — at least temporarily.

The justices Wednesday ordered new sentencing hearings for Downs, convicted in the 1977 murder of a Jacksonville bank executive, and William Lee Thompson, who confessed to a Dade County kidnapping and murder.

They cited a recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling saying jurors in death cases must be able to consider an almost unlimited set of so-called "mitigating factors," not just seven specifically outlined in Florida's capital punishment law.

PTL Challenges Builder's Claim To Unpaid Fees

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI) — The PTL, fighting for survival in federal bankruptcy court, filed a complaint against Kansas builder Roe Messner alleging he conspired to defraud the ministry out of millions of dollars.

The complaint was filed this week in U.S. Bankruptcy Court to force Messner to show proof the ministry owes him money for work at the PTL, said an attorney for the ministry.

PTL lawyer Norman Roy Grutman said the complaint "represents a position to which we were compelled to resort since negotiations with Mr. Messner over six months have proved unavailing."

"We spent six months trying to deal with this man," Grutman said. "We tried to negotiate with him. We tried to verify his claims. We got nothing but gas."

Neither Messner nor his attorney, Donald Stubbs of Columbia, could be reached Wednesday for comment.

Grutman also accused Messner and the builder's friend, defrocked PTL founder Jim Bakker, of engaging in a "looney tunes" campaign to embarrass the ministry by discussing pending court action with news reporters rather than opposing attorneys.

"Looney tunes, little Porky the Pig. The whole campaign that the Bakker people have been engaging in is to harass us, to bring legal proceedings for improper motives, to utilize the press to sow dissonance, confusion, create obstruction and disprove our abilities to rehabilitate the institution that Bakker corrupted."

The PTL entered Chapter 11 federal bankruptcy protection June 12, nearly three months after Bakker left the ministry and admitted money was paid to a former church secretary for her silence about a 1980 sexual tryst with Bakker.

A court hearing was set for Wednesday afternoon on several PTL motions, one of them by Bakker calling for Grutman's removal from the PTL case because of an alleged conflict of interest.

A spokesman for PTL Chairman Jerry Falwell said the complaint against Messner was not an attack against Messner for his support of Bakker.

"It's not a strike at Messner for support of Bakker. He's entitled to retain personal friendships with Jim Bakker. That certainly does not warrant a lawsuit," said Falwell spokesman Mark DeMoss.

"This document contains 20 pages of specific examples of questionable if not wrongful practices, some of which include for the benefit of Jim Bakker, but again, that would not be the reason for this," DeMoss said.

The complaint, filed against Messner and his company, Commercial Builders of Kansas, seeks $40 million in damages — $20 million in compensatory damages and $20 million in punitive damages. The complaint also asks that Messner's lien against PTL be declared null and void, and seeks court costs.

The complaint alleges Messner conspired to defraud the ministry out of some $5 million by overbilling the ministry for construction work. The complaint accuses Messner of wrongly charging $265,000 for construction work on "Passion Play," a dramatic presentation about the crucifixion of Jesus.

Messner and his company "falsely inflated the invoice and then made an illegal payment of hush money to bribe a third party from making statements detrimental to James Bakker," the complaint reads.

PTL maintains that a lien against the ministry for at least $2.4 million in fees for architectural services by Messner is invalid. The ministry also claims work, labor and materials were wrongly diverted from PTL to a "bed and breakfast" establishment from which Messner receives earnings.

DeMoss said the complaint was "a result of a tiring and discouraging effort to gain accurate information from Mr. Messner's firm. It's a combination of that, as well as information that on the surface appears to indicate wrongdoing on the part of his firm and their billing of PTL."

DeMoss could not offer an exact amount of the alleged overbilling.

PTL also said Messner overcharged the ministry $460,000 for linens at the ministry's Heritage Grand Hotel, for sheets and towels which were actually valued at $40,000.

Grutman said PTL investigated Messner's claims and found "they are substantially fictitious, exaggerated and unfounded."

Hearing On Juror Prejudice Postponed In Petsos Case

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

A hearing to investigate possible juror prejudice in the case of a former Lake Mary City Commissioner who was found guilty of attempted burglary was postponed Wednesday to Sept. 18. The postponement occurred because only half of the six jurors had received their summons to appear in court.

The hearing was set for Wednesday because a juror after the August trial called the attorney representing Arthur Petsos, 35, and recommended that future jurors who hear the case not know of Petsos or his family.

Sanford Attorney Jack Bridges, who represents Petsos, said if such prejudicial remarks were made he will ask Semi-Retired Circuit Judge Ermory Cross to declare a mistrial. Petsos' family background is Greek.

Petosos was found guilty Aug. 18 of attempted burglary and petty theft in connection with the March 16 break-in of a Lake Mary delicatessen he once owned. His tentative sentencing date is Sept. 24. Petsos could receive up to five years in jail and a $5,000 fine, but the recommended sentence for a first-time offender is probation.

Bridges said one of the members of the four-woman, two-man jury, located him by telephone shortly after the trial and said prejudice as well as browbeating was expressed during deliberations in the case.

The juror recommended Bridges appeal the verdict or seek a new trial. Bridges said the juror intimated there was prejudice against the family and the fact that they were Greek. The juror also said several members of the jury who wanted to find Petsos not guilty of the burglary charge were forced into mental submission to find him guilty of the lesser charge of attempted burglary.

Petosos, who was suspended from his Lake Mary Commission seat by Gov. Bob Martinez, lost his bid for re-election Sept. 1.

Curry, Rigby Polish Cleats For Big Rush

In one corner, from Lake Mary High, weighing 190 pounds, wearing red and gray trunks, No. 44, a senior... John Curry.

In the other corner, from Lake Howell High, weighing 176 pounds, wearing blue and silver trunks, No. 25, a senior... Cornel Rigby.

Neither Curry (929 yards) nor Rigby (740) led Seminole County in rushing yardage last year, but expect these two ball-carrying heavyweights to make a run for the 1,000-yard mark and the real estate title this fall.

Nate Hoskins, Lake Howell's "One Solid Muscle," has graduated. With him, to Sanford (Ala.) University, went 1,007 yards and the county rushing championship. Also, a county-leading 10 touchdown for 60 points.

Curry and Rigby are the favorites to inherit the throne. Both are hard, punishing runners who welcome the tag as the "Meal Ticket" running back. Curry has relished the role for the past two years. Rigby's carries will increase with the departure of Hoskins.

But don't count out Seminole's Curtis Rudolph (573), Lake Brantley's Johnnie Griffin (484) or Mark Sepe (396) and Lyman's Victor Farrer (223). All are seniors and contenders. The underdogs include: Oviedo junior Rodney Thompson, Seminole junior Jerod Jones and, maybe even Lake Howell freshman, Marquette Smith.

While the rushing leader does not return, Nigel "Hands" Hinds, who led all receivers with 29 catches last year, is back. Lake Mary's Sheldon Richards was next with 21. Howell's Rigby and Oviedo's Alan Greene were also in double figures. All four return, which should make for a good race.

In the passing department, only Oviedo's John Pettit (183) and Lake Mary's Carlos Hartsfield (166) return. Seminole's Jeff Blake, however, who threw for over 1,000 yards as a sophomore, is 100 percent after missing last year with an injury. Figure Blake to be the favorite.

The scoring race should be a dogfight among Curry, Rigby and Griffin. Seminole's J.J. Partlow, Howell's Erik Bird and Lake Mary's Alex Birlie should wage a good war among the kickers.

Defensively, Seminole's Earnie "Sackman" Lewis was a close second in tackles last year with 162 to Benny Glenn (167). He returns along with teammates Steve Warren (140) and Leonard Lucas (98). Lake Brantley's Jeff Stanphill (105) and Lake Mary's Lance Stewart (70 in just seven games) also averaged in double figures. Oviedo's Willie Pauldo (94), Seminole's Ron Blake (93) and Lyman's Scott Radcliff (91) will be factors. So will Lyman's Mike Whitaker, who has been moved to linebacker.

In interceptions, Richards, who picked off eight passes last year, is the favorite. Radcliff (5), Seminole's Nick Castello (4), Lyman's Johnny Luce (4) and Mary's Terry "The Cat" Miller (4) are contenders. Oviedo's Karl Wright (2) and Chad Duncan (2) can't be overlooked.

In sacks, the top two — Seminole's Warren and Oviedo's Emery Sneed — both return. They each had six last year, one more than Lewis, who was the county leader two years ago. Lake Mary's Bret Grocke picked up three last year. Others to consider are Seminole's "Bookends" — Ardine Daniels and Paul Newell, Lake Mary's Dan Ferris and Oviedo's Pete Lingard.

In punting, Lyman's Radcliff, who has been close the past two years, is the favorite. Radcliff was second a year ago with a 39.1 average. Howell's Bird returns with a 38.7 average. Brantley's Matt Miller is a legitimate contender. He averaged 42.4, but had just 11 boots a year ago.

NcNeil Erases Evert — Lendl Whacks Mac

Tennis

NEW YORK (UPI) — Chris Evert felt her age and John McEnroe failed to show his old form as the pair that combined for 10 U.S. Open singles titles bowed out in the quarterfinals.

Evert, seeded third at age 32, was upset Wednesday by No. 11 Lori McNeil, who ended her opponent's record run of reaching the Open semifinals 16 consecutive years. The 3-6, 6-2, 6-4 setback also snapped Evert's string of winning one Grand Slam title for 13 straight years.

"I really didn't have much control on any shot," said Evert, a six-time Open champion. "And that happens when you get older, you have more bad days. Today was a bad day."

Evert lost eight straight service games, including all five in the third set. She won only one point at net versus 46 by the aggressive McNeil.

Top seed Ivan Lendl eliminated McEnroe, a four-time champion, 6-3, 6-3, 6-4. Lendl, ranked No. 1 and the defending champion, never lost his serve and never allowed McEnroe to reach break point. Over one stretch, Lendl won 21 consecutive service points.

"He played a great match, he just out-played me," conceded the volatile McEnroe, who was subdued during the evening confrontation.

Lendl's groundstrokes possessed a power and consistency

McEnroe could not match. When the left-hander came to net, the Czechoslovakian either passed him or fired top-spin lobs for winners.

"I played solid, but it wasn't anything spectacular," said Lendl, who took over the No. 1 ranking when he beat McEnroe in the 1985 Open final. The two had not completed a match since then as an August meeting in Vermont was rained out with McEnroe leading 7-6, 1-4.

"I don't think he's playing as well as he did in 1984," said Lendl, winner of 19 straight matches at the Open. "But if he is playing well he can still beat me."

McEnroe, who still holds a 14-13 edge in their career meetings, said his legs were tired "and I felt a little flat. I left my game in the locker room."

Lendl's semifinal opponent will be 35-year-old Jimmy Connors, seeded sixth, who defeated No. 13 Brad Gilbert 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-0.

In the quarterfinals of the bottom half of the men's draw, No. 2 Stefan Edberg will play unseeded Ramesh Krishnan, who took him to five sets at last year's Open. Also, No. 3 Mats Wilander faces No. 5 Miloslav Mecir, who upset him here last year and holds a 5-2 career advantage.

McNeil's victory advances her to a semifinal meeting with top seed Steffi Graf, who disposed of No. 5 Pam Shriver 6-4, 6-3. Graf has won 60 of her last 61 matches.

The other women's semifinal will be a rematch of last year's final, with defending champion Martina Navratilova, seeded second, facing No. 5 Helena Sukova. On Wednesday, Navratilova defeated No. 8 Gabriela Sabatini 7-5, 6-3.

McNeil's aggressive was too much for Evert, a baseline specialist. McNeil, who came to net 90 times versus only four by Evert, said she wanted "to keep the pressure on her."

Evert admitted her opponent "played a very smart match," but added, "my bread-and-butter shots weren't working. I didn't have my timing and I just wasn't smooth."

The loss marked only the second time in 50 Grand Slam tournaments Evert has failed to reach the semifinals.

"As hard as I tried, I just couldn't get my body to do the things that I wanted it to do," Evert said. "I couldn't run that extra step and I couldn't be as quick."

"I can't be as physiologically consistent as I was when I was 17 or 18 years old."

Connors, 35, Wears Down Gilbert

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jimmy Connors Wednesday advanced to the U.S. Open semifinals by wearing down a man nine years younger.

Sixth-seeded Connors growled and grunted his way into his 13th Open semifinal with a 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-0 triumph over No. 13 Brad Gilbert in a 3-hour, 10-minute quarterfinal.

"I think he was better early on than I was," said Connors, 35, "but I think he was getting a little tired. He wasn't getting to the ball as well as he was earlier."

A ball Gilbert reached, but decided not to play, turned out to be the key moment of the match. On set point in the third set, Connors lofted a ball to the deep corner of the court. Gilbert reached it in time to make a return, but let it go believing it was out. The ball was ruled in by the linesman and Connors led two sets to one.

"I would think you have to play everything at that point," Connors said. "You don't let anything go, especially at a point like that."

Crackin' Comeback: Abundant Alligators Endangered No More

Almost every bass fisherman is accustomed to spotting alligators while fishing. Certainly this hardy species has made a dramatic comeback and can no longer be considered an endangered species.

In fact, Lake Monroe and Lake Jessup have an overabundance of these toothy critters. Florida's experimental alligator harvest is now in its seventh year, and is laying the scientific foundation for strictly controlled alligator hunting statewide next year.

With each experimental harvest in selected waters since 1981, scientists have been piecing together details concerning how well alligators in a variety of habitats recover from limited hunting.

Wildlife biologists have discovered that there is considerable variation in how well alligators recover from hunting pressure in different types of habitats. Alligators in areas with high nutrients and deep marsh tend to have more success in producing young, and they grow faster than those in other types of areas. Researchers conclude that some of the most favorable habitats for alligators occur in the St. Johns River, north-central Florida lakes, and Lake Okechobee.

This year's experimental alligator harvest is scheduled for the periods between Aug. 17 and Sept. 24. A total of 72 alligator trappers will take part in the harvest at 10 lakes in different parts of the state. The total quota of animals to be taken in this year's harvest is 1,200.

Lakes included in the experimental harvest include Iamonia and Mocosukee, both near Tallahassee; Ocklawaha (Rodman Reservoir) at Palatka; Orange, Lochlossa, and Newmans, all near Gainesville; Lake George near Seville; Hancock, near Lakeland; Trafford, near Immokalee; and Deer Point, near Panama City.

The Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission selected trappers for the experimental harvest from applicants who live near the lakes. Scientists have established quotas for the number of alligators to be taken from each of the lakes based upon extensive population surveys.

Trappers will be able to sell the meat from the alligators they take during the experiment, and the commission will sell the animal's hides and divide the money between the commission and the trappers.

Also, commission scientists will examine each alligator taken during the hunt in order to gather more information concerning how well the species recovers from limited hunting in Florida.

During the first night of this year's experimental harvest, trappers took 143 alligators. The largest was a 660-pound monster taken from Lake George. The huge specimen measured 13 feet, 2 inches in length.

These impressive measurements will certainly give wade fishermen some food for thought.

SHUPE'S SCOOP — It is never a good practice to feed alligators. These animals are wild by their very nature, and their instinctive fear of man is one of man's best protections. Feeding alligators causes them to lose this instinctive fear and they become dangerous when they perceive man as a source of food.

WEEKEND FORECAST: Rick Rawlins from Highland Park reports that bass are still hitting the illy pad fields in Lake Woodruff. Fishing plastic worms in the heavy cover produces the best results. Bream continue to feed in the river and in Lake Woodruff. Use crickets, mussels and worms for sure action.

Deji Abernethy from Osteen Bridge Fish Camp said that bass fishing is still holding up in spite of the heat. Topwater plugs, crankbaits and plastic worms are producing most of the bass. The best action is early and late. Bream continue to bite well around the new bridge on grass shrimp and worms. Catfish seem to be biting everywhere from Osteen Bridge to Marine Isle.

As expected, Sebastian Inlet has been packed with wall-to-wall fishermen.

Worthy Expos Draw Within 2

MONTREAL (UPI) — The Montreal Expos, predicted to finish near the bottom of the National League East in April and considered a fluke success in mid-summer, have demonstrated in September they are worthy contenders.

Vance Law hit a tie-breaking, two-run homer as the Expos won their fifth straight Wednesday night by completing a three-game sweep of first-place St. Louis, downing the Cardinals 6-3. The victory moved the Expos within two games of St. Louis. The second-place New York Mets are 1 1/2 games back.

"Sure, at the beginning of the season many people thought we would not go anywhere," Law said. "But a great deal has happened since then. We didn't have Andre Dawson or Jeff Reardon, but Tim Lincecum came back. And pitchers like Bryn Smith and Dennis Martinez returned. Then we got Pascual Perez. So many things happened that helped to make us contenders."

Despite the loss of reliever Reardon to the Minnesota Twins, slugger Dawson to the Chicago Cubs and Raines' absence in April as an unsigned free agent, the Expos are 20 games over .500 for the first time since the closing day of the 1979 season. They are 10-4 against St. Louis this year.

Martinez, a free agent signed by Montreal in May, was brought up from Triple-A Indianapolis on June 8. He pitched 6 1/3 innings, allowed 10 hits, walked two and struck out five to improve to 9-3.

"I am the veteran of this ball club," Martinez said. "I have been on winners twice in my career in Baltimore so I know what it is all about."

Montreal broke a 2-2 deadlock in the fourth against Joe Magrane, 7-7. With one out, Reid Nichols singled and Law blasted his 12th home run, a shot to left field.

The Expos added three runs off Scott Terry in the fifth. Mitch Webster walked with one out and Tim Wallach singled with two out, putting runners on first and third. Andres Galarraga beat out a single, scoring Webster. Pinch hitter Dave Engle greeted Rick Horton with a double to drive home two runs and give the Expos a 7-2 advantage.

...Boxscore on 10A

It is not a good idea to feed alligators. Especially this photogenic gator, estimated at 12 feet, which Sanford Herald photographer Tom Vincent lured to Lake Monroe's seawall.

Many snook were caught in the 10 1/2 pound range, but not in the numbers expected. Many fishermen expect good action with the full moon period the first part of the week. Seatrout and redfish were also caught, but redfish must be released until Oct. 1.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral stated that offshore fishing was outstanding last weekend. Three boats caught 15 wahoo and released some sailfish in 100-200 feet of water. The wahoo were caught on deep running wire lines. Dolphin are also being caught in good numbers. Bottom fishing has been rated as slow. The buoy line has plenty of barracuda and a few tripletail, but not too many fishermen are sticking around to catch them.

Inside the Port, bluefish, jack crevalle, sheepshead, and a few seatrout are being caught. Jack rates the Banana and Indian rivers as slow.

The New Smyrna jetties were packed last weekend. Anglers caught sheepshead, drum, redfish, flounder, bluefish and whiting. The best bait was live shrimp.

Bell Will Ring Against Tulsa

Quarterback Kerwin Bell, who suffered a separated shoulder in last week's setback to Miami, will start Saturday against Tulsa, Florida coach Galen Hall said Wednesday.

Bell, who was roughed up and intercepted four times in the 31-4 loss, missed just days of work and practiced Wednesday.

The Gators' Heisman hopeful completed just 15 of 33 passes against the aggressive Hurricanes.

The Gators are hurting in other areas, though. Wide receiver Ed Frazier is bothered by a sore ankle and tailback Octavius Gold has sore ribs.

Defensively, inside linebacker Todd Gatlin has a sprained ankle and outside linebacker Owen Bartruff has a sore left shoulder.

IN BRIEF

Richmond Resigns Racing Team, Cites Lingerin Pneumonia Bout

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — NASCAR driver Tim Richmond, citing health reasons, resigned Wednesday from the Hendrick Motorsports racing team.

The move comes on the heels of Richmond's withdrawal because of illness from last Sunday's Southern 500 at Darlington, S.C. Richmond spent the first few months of the season recovering from a severe bout of pneumonia.

"Tim told me he is essentially going into temporary retirement, at least for the near future," said team owner Rick Hendrick. "He was very disappointed over having to withdraw from the Southern 500 this past weekend and realized that the schedule to which we are all obligated calls for more regular running than his health will comfortably permit right now."

After Richmond withdrew from the Darlington race, Hendrick said he would return later this year. Reports indicated the 31-year-old superstar was ill with symptoms that led to the driver's hospitalization late last year.

"Maybe I tried to come back too soon or too fast," Richmond said in a release issued by Hendrick. "Our sponsors, Rick Hendrick, and my crew chief, Harry Hyde, have been just great. In every single step along the way, my health and well-being has been their foremost concern. They've done everything possible to help me work out this recuperation-comeback."

Liverpool 25 Face Investigation

BRUSSELS, Belgium (UPI) — A Belgian air force transport plane Wednesday returned 25 Liverpool soccer fans to Belgium to face investigation and trial for the deaths of 39 people in the 1985 Heysel stadium riot.

The fans, accompanied by a Belgian police guard on the flight to Brussels from a British base at Brize Norton west of London, were immediately taken to the Palace of Justice for preliminary questioning by a magistrate.

It was expected they would be remanded to custody and sent to a specially reserved wing of Louvain jail east of Brussels pending results of the investigation.

Belgian officials said charges could range from aggravated assault to manslaughter. A trial was not expected before December.

23 Greyhounds Put To Death

PENSACOLA (UPI) — Workers at an animal shelter in northwest Florida who had to gaa 23 greyhounds in just one day this week say it is an annual ritual where unprofitable dogs are put to death at the end of the racing season.

"That's what happens when you don't win," said shelter worker Karen Hansen.

Manager Jimmy Dykes said the Escambia County animal shelter gets an average of 25 dogs a week during the April-September greyhound racing season. That figure does not include the normal workload of dogs and cats routinely put to sleep.

"It's enough that it's tearing up a $40,000 crematory," said Dykes.

Collins Suffers Cocaine Relapse

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — New England Patriots running back Tony Collins suffered a relapse of his cocaine habit during the offseason and was treated for a month at a Houston clinic, a published report said Wednesday.

"Nobody knew I was back into drugs again," Collins told The Boston Herald. "It's all behind me now, though. I'm glad I did what I did. I'm ready to play football. I feel like a rookie again. This is going to be my best year."

Collins, a seven-year veteran, was one of six Patriots linked to drug use following the club's Super Bowl appearance after the 1985 season. He had tested positive for drug use after the 1984 season and went through counseling and rehabilitation.

Sunshine BKB Signups Saturday

The Sunshine Basketball Association will hold its pre-registration Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon at Lake Mary and Lake Brantley high schools, SBA spokesman Tom Bieri said Wednesday.

Elementary and middle school boys and girls, ages 8 to 15, are eligible. Proof of age is required. The fee for elementary schooler is $30 while the fee for middle schoolers is $40.

For more information concerning the SBA, which sent seven teams to national tournaments last year, call 260-7199.

Gunderson Guns Down Lady 'Noles

By Chris Flator
Herald Sports Writer

Kim Gunderson is intimidating enough on the front row, but if the Lake Brantley senior continues to serve like she did Wednesday night, she will be a force to be reckoned with in Seminole County in 1987.

Gunderson, a senior transfer from Texas, served 12 points in the second game Wednesday as the Lady Patriots upended Seminole, 15-11, 15-7 in the Seminole Athletic Conference season opener for both teams before 101 fans at Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium.

"She (Gunderson) was really on with her serve tonight," Lake Brantley coach Stephanie Glance said. "I was really happy to see that because I had to pull her out in the tri-match last night when she was hitting her serves into the net."

Seminole, 0-1, returns to SAC action tonight at Lake Howell while Lake Brantley, 2-1 overall, plays again Monday at Orlando Edgewater.

Seminole used its strong serving to stay close in the first game, but the Lady 'Noles had trouble setting up their offense all night long.

"We certainly didn't play like we practice," Seminole coach Beth Corso said. "Our setting was terrible but I'm not really surprised because we have to inexperienced setters. And we also have to get our passes closer to the net so we're not setting at the attack line."

In the first game, junior Barb Billmyer's ace serve keyed an early Brantley rally as the Lady Patriots took a 4-0 lead. Seminole came back behind the serving of junior Bobbie Osborne and senior Cindy Bengé and the all-around hustle of junior Adrian Hillsman and senior Kim Walsh to take a 7-4 lead.

Seminole held onto an 11-10 lead with Bengé serving when Gretchen Mull's hit gave Lake Brantley the serve and senior Wendy Vickery, who also played an outstanding game in the back row, served the last five points of the game. Gunderson put down a pair of spikes in the rally while Billmyer slipped in a nice off-speed hit for the 13th point.

"I really felt we outplayed Lake Brantley in the first game," Corso said. "But we lost it on bad serve receives in the end."

Lake Brantley got out quickly in game two as Marianne Rodriguez served two points and Gunderson's blistering serve accounted for seven more and a 9-0 lead. The highlight of the Brantley rally was Billmyer's excellent block of a spike by Seminole's Liz Long. It was one of the few times Long, a 6-2 junior, was set up in the game.

Long came back to serve four points to make it 9-4 and her block of a Gunderson spike later pulled the Lady Seminoles within 10-6. With the score 10-7, Rodriguez' dump gave Brantley a side out and Gunderson came on to serve out the match. Only two of Gunderson's last five serves were returned by Seminole.

"Seminole gave us a lot of free balls and it caused us to run into some confusion at times," Glance said. "But, overall, I was pleased with the way we played. We're already showing drastic improvement from last year."

BRANTLEY JV ROLLS

Wednesday's varsity match between Lake Brantley and Seminole started about 45 minutes early. That was because Lake Brantley's junior varsity disposed of the Seminole JV in blazing fashion.

In game one, Brantley's Jennifer Rippard, the first server of the game, served 15 points in a row. Seminole took the early lead in game two but Tracy Finley then served 10 points in a row to put Lake Brantley in command and the Lady Patriots went on to win the match, 15-0, 15-4.

'CATS TRIM LAKE MARY

Misled serves and mental errors did Lake Mary's Lady Rams in Wednesday night as they dropped their season opener, 15-12, 15-12 to Winter Park's Lady Wildcats.

Lake Mary, 0-1, opens play in the Seminole Athletic Conference tonight at home against DeLand.

"If we gotten our serves in I think we would have won," Lake Mary coach Cindy Henry said. "Every player mislead at least one serve. Our technique and skill was not bad, but we had some mental breakdowns that hurt us. We're going to have to play much better against DeLand."

Henry said senior Lora Splatt turned in a solid game at setter

Wednesday night while senior Brooke Taylor had a good night on the front row.

In junior varsity action Wednesday, Crissy Snow and Tammy Scott led Lake Mary to a three-game victory over the Winter Park JV.

Alexander Rewards September Support — Blanks Baltimore

United Press International Doyle Alexander will have trouble finding the calendar he wants because he has finally found the support he needs.

Alexander pitched a six-hitter Wednesday night to give the Detroit Tigers a 6-0 triumph over the Baltimore Orioles.

"I'll get me a calendar next year and write September on every month," said Alexander, who struck out six and walked one in improving to 5-0 since being acquired from Atlanta Aug. 12.

In the opener, Bill Madlock and Matt Nokes lined two-run homers, powering the Tigers to a 7-4 triumph.

In the second game, Scott Lusader's triple highlighted a five-run fourth inning against Mike Boddicker.

"I wasn't happy with tonight," said Baltimore Manager Cal Ripken Sr., who also watched the Tigers shell Ken Dixon.

Walt Terrell, 13-10, boosted his road mark to 2-8. He scattered six hits over six innings before allowing three singles and a walk to four batters in a two-run seventh.

"It helps to get a 4-0 lead," said Terrell, "but I'm done talking about the road record. It's been overplayed. I got the win, that's it in a nutshell."

Elsewhere in the AL, Minnesota edged Chicago 2-1. Oakland outscored Texas 11-7, Boston clipped New York 5-3 and Seattle bombed Cleveland 9-4.

Brewers.....6 Blue Jays.....4 At Milwaukee, Rob Deer doubled in the tying run and rookie B.J. Surhoff hit a two-run single on the next pitch to cap a four-run seventh inning and carry the Brewers.

Detroit's Doyle Alexander, left, and Minnesota's Frank Viola each turned in strong mound performances Wednesday as their teams held on to first place.

United Press International A pair of pitchers who struggled earlier in the season revitalized the race in the National League West Wednesday night.

Nolan Ryan of Houston and Tom Browning of Cincinnati each hurled victories to help their teams gain ground on San Francisco.

Cincinnati, backed by Brownings two-hitter, stopped Los Angeles 4-1 and trail the Giants by five games. The Reds and Giants meet for a three-game series at Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium starting Friday.

Ryan, 7-14, struck out a 1987 major-league high 16 batters in eight innings to increase his career total to 4,503, the most in major-league history.

"This was a game we really needed," Houston Manager Hal Lanier said. "He threw a few more pitches than he usually does. But he was throwing 94-95 (mph) in the seventh and said he felt strong, so due to the importance of this game we decided to leave him in."

"We're just going to take an easy day off tomorrow (Thursday) and start again in Cincinnati," said Giants Manager Roger Craig, whose team dropped two of three to Houston.

Ryan improved his season total to 226 strikeouts, moving ahead of Seattle's Mark Langston for the major-league lead. Dave Smith worked the ninth to record his 23rd save.

Browning, 7-11, had his bid for a perfect game spoiled by a sixth-inning leadoff double by Mike Devereaux. He struck out eight and walked two in pitching his second complete game of the year.

At Minneapolis, Kirby Puckett and Tim Laudner produced Minnesota's only hits, solo homers, and Frank Viola fired a six-hitter to carry the Twins, who lead Oakland by three games in the AL West.

At Cleveland, Scott Bradley lined a two-run single to cap a four-run seventh that lifted Seattle to a sweep of its three-game series. Mike Moore, 7-17, snapped his road losing streak at seven games, allowing four runs on nine hits. Jamie Easterly, 1-1, absorbed Cleveland's 13th defeat in 18 games.

Owners Lean Toward 'Scabs' In Event Of Players' Walkout

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The owners of the NFL's 28 clubs are leaning toward the idea of fielding teams during a threatened players' strike as they meet today to set contingency plans in the event of a walkout.

In addition to deciding whether to play games with substitutes during a possible strike by some 1,600 NFL players, the owners also will be deciding between two $100 million financing plans to cover lost revenue caused by a work stoppage.

"We're concerned because we think it will be bad for the long-range image of the game. People who pay between $20 and $30 for game tickets, the advertisers who pay top dollar expect high quality football and that's what our members give them."

"There's a nucleus of strong feeling in favor of playing games in the event that there's a work stoppage," John Jones, spokesman for the Management Council, the league's bargaining arm, said Wednesday.

The five-year collective bargaining agreement ending the 1982 strike that wiped out seven weeks of play expired Aug. 31, leaving players without a contract. The NFL Players Association Tuesday announced a Sept. 22 strike date.

Lake Howell Tops 3-County DI Area

Respect and victories go hand in hand. Take the Lake Howell Silver Hawks, for example. Last year, coach Mike Blacaglia's club rolled up (literally, behind an offensive line which averaged 235 pounds per man) an impressive 9-1 record. The Hawks posted an unbeaten Seminole Athletic Conference championship and finished in a three-way tie for the district title with Apopka and Winter Park. They lost to Apopka in a three-way playoff using the Kansas Tiebreaker system.

District crown or not, the Hawks had one helluva year. In the final Dunkel Index Power Rankings, they were easily the top team in Seminole, Orange and Volusia counties with a 70.7 power ranking. Winter Park (65.9), Orlando Evans (62.2) and Apopka (60.0) were next in line.

This year, the Florida Sports Writers Association has Lake Howell ranked No. 6 in the Class 5A Poll. This poll, based heavily on returning starters and tradition, is formulated by sports writers around the state, who have consulted with coaches or witnessed the team first-hand.

The Dunkel Index, meanwhile, is a system based on margin of victory and strength of opponent — not won-loss record. The DI has Lake Howell ranked No. 8. Today's Dunkel Index is a carry-over from last year since it does not have the data to digest yet this fall. Howell, again, leads the teams in Seminole, Orange and Volusia counties.

"We have to carry over ratings from year to year," Dunkel said Wednesday. "Our reasons are always based on bottom line. The great majority of teams do not change that much: they are usually good, mediocre or lousy year in and year out."

Dunkel said it takes just three weeks for the DI to crank up again. "Last year's ranking affects only the first game," he said. "But we give added weight to the first three games of the season. If we didn't carry rankings over, then we'd have start everybody even. And that wouldn't be accurate."

But as Dunkel is quick to point out, his rankings do make sense. "We tell you not to gamble on them," he laughed. "But the higher rated team will win 80 percent of the time. And that's true for prep teams in Georgia, New York and Pennsylvania, too, where we also have indexes."

Seminole's Earnie Lewis, left, collected 16.2 tackles for game. Lake Mary's Sheldon Richards picked off eight passes.

Lake Mary's John Curry, left, ran for 929 yards last year. Lake Brantley's Nigel "Hands" Hinds hauled in 29 receptions.

Fearless: Forecast Won't Sit Down, Go Backwards

Unlike wine, the Fearless Fister Forecast doesn't seem to be getting better with age.

This is the fifth year of the Forecast, with the previous four yearly percentages for prognosticating proficiency being 68, 65, 63 and 60.

But, hey, pity me not. Never live in the past when there is hope on the horizon.

The late Bear Bryant once put it in perspective for me when I was a fledgling scribe at the University of Alabama. When asked if he would consider adding rowing as a sport at Alabama, the great college football guru, and also athletic director, stated: "I don't like any sport where you sit down and go backwards."

Therefore, undaunted by past performances and hate mail, I will attempt to go forward.

So much for the monologue, now onto this week's games:

Titusville Astronaut at Seminole

Playing and losing to Astronaut has been a tradition at Seminole High the past few years, but this year will be different. Not only does the Tribe have its usual tough-as-nails defense, but an offense that can put some points on the board. Big play Jeff Blake will provide the offensive punch while Earnie "Sackman" Lewis and company put the hurt on the War Eagles. It's only the beginning...Seminole by 9

Winter Park at Lake Mary

The last time these two teams met, Winter Park trampled the Rams, 33-0, in a regional playoff game. Rarely, though, does Harry Nelson's team get embarrassed by the same team twice in a row. The Wildcats are always strong, but this time the Rams will be prepared. Look for the Carlos Hartfield to Sheldon Richards aerial combination to be clicking, the surprising Lake Mary defense to hold its ground and everyone to be smiling in Ramdom...Lake Mary by 3

Lyman at Orlando Boone

No matter how good or bad Boone's Braves are, they always seem to give Lyman fits. The Greyhounds can't let the Braves pull a fast one this year, though, because getting off to a good start will be vital to the success of Bill Scott's team. It could be a good year if Lyman wins its first two, Boone and Edgewater. And the "Hounds will take that first step toward success Friday night...Lyman by 14

Oviedo at Lake Brantley

Lake Brantley's Patriots, a portrait of ineptitude the past two years, may be on the verge of pulling a major mind scramble on the rest of Central Florida. Not only do the Patriots have the power of positive thinking, they have some pretty darn good athletes on their side. Oviedo has won this game the past two years, but, this time, the Lions will be the first victim of the new and improved version of Patriot football in the first Seminole Athletic Conference game...Lake Brantley by 7

Apopka at Lake Howell

Just because Lake Howell was beaten, 10-0, in the jamboree is no reason to panic. That was just one half. Two halves make a game. The Silver Hawks are a tough, talented team and are determined to prove themselves worthy of the No. 6 ranking (Class 5A) in the state. Apopka was the only team to beat Lake Howell a year ago so revenge will be on the menu at Lake Howell High Friday night...Lake Howell by 6

Tulsa at Florida

Before the Gators get rolling there are a few things they must get straightened out. First and foremost is blocking for Kerwin Bell. You can't win the Heisman Trophy from a hospital bed. There are some upset possibilities here as Tulsa returns most of its top players from last year's 7-4

Chris Fister HERALD SPORTS WRITER

team which only lost to Miami, 23-10. This week, though, the Florida offensive line will provide Kerwin with plenty of time to build up those stats...Florida by 30

Florida State at East Carolina

Florida State has national title hopes in 1987 and it is certainly possible since the Seminoles have three easy games for every difficult one. After walkovers against East Carolina and Memphis State, FSU encounters its first opposition Sept. 26 at Michigan State. This week's objective will be to have all the starters score...Florida State by 35

Notre Dame at Michigan

One of several big early-season matchups in college football, Michigan, another team with national title hopes, is hardly ever beaten at home where the Wolverines draw over 100,000 fans every game. This time, however, Notre Dame's magic man, Heisman-hopeful Tim Brown, will lead the Fighting Irish to the biggest upset so far this year...Notre Dame by 1

Falcons at Bucs

If the NFL players do strike it will be a shame. There is actually reason for Tampa Bay fans. If there are any left, to be excited. The Bucs finally have a coach (Ray Perkins), a quarterback (Vinny Testaverde) and some hope toward building a winning franchise. And those are three things the Falcons don't have...Bucs by 10

Dolphins at Patriots

This is not a bad way for the Dolphins to open the season. Now, at least, they can get the traditional loss at Foxboro out of the way and concentrate on the possible remaining 15 weeks of the season...Patriots by 12

Tribe JV Faces Howell

Most of the players from last year's unbeaten freshman squad have moved up and will try to lead Seminole High's junior varsity to a successful 1987 season. The Seminole JV, coached by John McNamara, open the season tonight at 7 at Lake Howell.

"We've made a lot of changes and done a lot of moving around in the last few weeks so I don't know what to expect for our first game," McNamara said. "We'll have things more organized after this week."

Among the leaders for the JV 'Noles on offense are quarterbacks Paul Thomas and Jerome Henderson, running backs Ralph Anderson, Bernard Eady and Duck Grayson and linemen Dan Barney and Robert Howington. Defensively, linemen Willie McCLOUD, Robert Moore and Lester Bobb and linebackers Grayson, Eady and Henry June lead the way.

McNamara's assistant coaches are Jeff Farno and Gee Knight.

In other junior varsity opening action tonight, Oviedo hosts Lake Brantley's Patriots. Game time for all JV games is 7 p.m.

Alabama Drops McKey Appeal

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI) — The University of Alabama announced Wednesday that it would not pursue an appeal for basketball star Derrick McKey, who was declared ineligible for his senior season after taking money from an agent.

Alabama coach Wimp Sanderson had been exploring an appeal to the NCAA and the 6-9 McKey, the Southeastern Conference Player of the Year last season, enrolled in classes last week so he would be eligible to play if the appeal was granted.

But Athletic Director Steve Sloan said he has notified the NCAA and the SEC that the school would not pursue the appeal.

Stocks Active, Higher

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened higher Thursday in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which rose 4.15 Wednesday, was up 25.66 to 2574.93 shortly after the market opened.

Advances led declines 931-171 among the 1,415 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 20,641,000 shares.

Stocks eked out small gains in moderate trading Wednesday as a steadier dollar and bond market encouraged some investors to go bargain hunting.

Trading was choppy but a midday firming trend in bond prices supported modest afternoon gains in equities. Traders said investors hunted for bargains, especially among blue-chip issues, but they said buying was kept in check by early bond market weakness and by nervousness about the July U.S. merchandise trade deficit report, due out Friday. Economists have estimated the data will show a trade deficit of between $15 billion and $16 billion in July.

Investors worry that if the July trade deficit is steep, the Federal Reserve will push interest rates higher to keep the dollar from falling too sharply.

the tax was repealed and no replacement levy adopted. He said the session would give lawmakers "a little view of doomsday."

A poll released this week by the New York Times Florida Newspapers showed 48 percent of the voters displeased with Martinez performance in office.

"I don't make decisions based on polls. The only poll that's going to count is in November 1990 — and that's a long way off," Martinez said referring to the poll.

Referring to the poll, Martinez' Deputy Press Secretary Jon Peck attributed the results of the New York Times Florida Newspapers poll to a public perception the levy is the "Martinez tax" — a perception Peck said was inaccurate.

"There's no question the public is unhappy with the services tax, and the easiest person to blame for that is the governor — even though when he came in office the Legislature had already decided to extend the sales tax to services," Peck said.

Peck said the public will learn to accept the tax if it survives long enough to allow better police protection, schools, roads and other services, as supporters have promised.

"Right now, all they see in the headlines is about more taxes," said Peck. "They don't see the tangible benefits of it yet, but they will."

The newspaper poll released over the weekend showed 70

Dollar Opens Higher; Gold, Silver Also Up

By United Press International

The dollar, spurred by reports of a sharp drop in Japan's trade surplus, opened higher on major world money markets Thursday. Gold was also higher.

In earlier trading in the Far East, the dollar closed 1.20 yen higher at 142.85 yen in active trading.

Traders in Japan said the yen was sold following reports that Japan's trade surplus in August narrowed substantially.

Preliminary statistics released by the Finance Ministry showed Japan's global trade surplus narrowed for the fourth straight month in August to $5.15 billion from $6.99 billion in July and from $7.476 billion a year ago.

In European trading, the dollar opened higher in Frankfurt at 1.8055 German marks, up from Wednesday's close of 1.7908.

In Zurich, the dollar opened at 1.4945 Swiss francs, up from 1.4865, and in Paris at 6.0355 French francs, up from 5.9995.

The dollar also improved in Brussels, opening at 37.73

Belgian francs, up from Wednesday's close of 37.45, in Milan at 1,308.75 lire, up from 1,298.75, and in Amsterdam at 2,032 Dutch guilders, up from 2,0210.

In London, the pound lost ground, opening at $1.6435, down from Wednesday's close of $1.6525.

Currency analysts in London noted the pro-dollar sentiment carried over from Japan into early trading in Europe.

In early New York trading, the dollar was slightly higher against key foreign currencies in light trading.

Traders in New York said they did not expect to see any movement in the currency markets until after the Commerce Department reports the merchandise trade figures on Friday.

Gold opened unchanged in Zurich at $457.50 an ounce and opened 25 cents lower in London at $457.25 an ounce.

The London morning gold fixing was $461, up $3.50 from Wednesday's close.

Toshiba Executives Admit Sales

TOKYO (UPI) — Two senior officials of Toshiba Machine Co. admitted in court Thursday they "were aware" that the company's sales of strategic ship propeller-making equipment to the Soviet Union were illegal.

The statement came in Tokyo District Court at the opening of the trial of Ryuzo Hayashi, 53, chief of Toshiba Machine's materials storage division, and Hiroaki Tanimura, 50, vice director of the company's machine technology division.

The two managers, who were put on leave after it became known Toshiba Machine sold advanced ship propeller milling machines to the Soviet Union, are charged with violating Japan's foreign exchange and export control law by selling the Soviets software in 1984 for use with the machines.

U.S. officials claim the exports seriously undermined Western security efforts.

p.m. at St. Martha Church in Miami.

Abortion clinics closed today — at least one "for our own safety" — during the visit of Pope John Paul II, but the city was electric in anticipation of the pontiff's first stop on his U.S. tour.

"It's just short of a madhouse," said Alan Schwartz, an organizer at the park and fairgrounds 13 miles west of Miami where the pope will officiate at an outdoor mass Friday.

"The mood is upbeat," Schwartz said Wednesday. "Everybody has a big smile on their face. There's a big sense of excitement. We've taken every human need into consideration."

Schwartz pointed to the 850 portable toilets around the perimeter of the park, two-dozen sandwich and hot-dog stands and thousands of chairs for VIPs.

Workers planted 8,000 chrysanthemums around the 20,000 square-foot altar and 100-foot-tall cross.

"I'm going to be tickled to death come Friday evening when it's all over," said Harold Rogers, Metro-Dade County fire department coordinator for the papal mass.

About 200,000 people also are expected to line a parade route tonight when the papal procession passes through the city on palm-lined Biscayne Boulevard.

Many banks said they were closing for at least part of the papal visit, and all criminal trials were postponed this week to free papal officers for papal duty. Dade County schools close Friday for a teacher workday, and many businesses were expected to close early Friday for the mass.

Among the objections raised over the pope's visit here is the cost. City costs are about $430,000, and the county will pay about $1.5 million. Police say about 4,000 officers will help protect the pope and direct traffic.

"Our best estimate is that the papal visit will cost the church in the United States about $22 million," said the Most Rev. John L. May, archbishop of St. Louis and president of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops. "The figure is not excessively high, and the money will be well spent, considering how much good the trip is already accomplishing."

Many groups chose newspaper advertisements to voice their unhappiness, ranging from Catholics for birth control to fundamentalists who think the pope is the antichrist.

"There is nothing more distressing to American Catholics than the continuing opposition of the Vatican to safe, effective and legal contraception in the developing world," said Frances Kissling, President of Catholics for a Free Choice.

A fundamentalist group based in Greenville, S.C., ran a half-page advertisement in Wednesday's edition of The Miami Herald calling the Catholic mass a "blasphemy" and saying "the message you preach is non-Gospel."

The Simon Wiesenthal Center, which specializes in searching for Nazis, bought an ad and planned to hand out petitions demanding that the Vatican extend diplomatic recognition to Israel.

An atheist group lost a court fight to stop the building of the cross and to keep the schools open.

Police confirmed that most abortion clinics planned to close during the papal visit. Only one of more than 10 clinics contacted by United Press International said the closing was related to a campaign by anti-abortionists to shut them down during the visit, saying it was closing "for our own safety."

Others cited instead the expected traffic tie-ups and their own employees' interest in seeing the pope.

Although the mass site can accommodate more than 500,000 worshippers, church officials say they expect closer to 250,000.

Between 30 and 50 400-gallon water trucks will be on hand for Friday's mass. The city has been suffering under record heat, and the mercury climbed into the low 90s Wednesday. A high of 92, with the possibility of thunderstorms, was forecast for the pope's arrival.

Organizers said there have been few hitches along the way, though the number of shuttle buses to the mass site was cut from 600 to about 125 because of threats of First Amendment suits.

Rogers said his crew at the mass will be ready.

"Every man knows his job thoroughly," he said. "It's a career assignment that someone has to do."

United Press International reports were used in compiling portions of this story.

...Bond

Southeastern Municipal Bonds Inc., the agent for the sale of the city's bonds, told the commission the insurance provider had rejected an offer for the city to take $100,000 of the bond proceeds and place them in a debt service account to cover the funds lost by the repealing of the water tax.

Akers said the insurance company felt the funds pledged in that tax were very substantial and were worried about the city doing away with other taxes that were pledged to the bond debt service in the future. "As of Monday they informed me they were not willing to renegotiate at that time," Akers said.

Akers said he told the insurance company it was being "not quite fair" to the city and to his company as the underwriters of the bonds. He suggested to the bond investors that their decision in whether to allow the city to use another revenue source would have an effect on future dealings between his company and theirs.

After a Bond Investors board meeting, the company decided to accept the electrical franchise fees as a replacement, according to Akers.

Several concerns were voiced that the commission should not get involved with a bond issue until they are sure of exactly where the city hall complex will be located and how much it will cost.

Commissioner-elect Thomas Mahoney, who will take office with George Duryea and Randall Morris on Oct. 5, said the commission was flying in the face of what people in the city wanted. "Do we (the city) in fact, need to initiate a bond issue," Mahoney said of the debt the city was incurring in taking on the financial agreement.

Concerns over whether the city already had to have a site to put the city hall complex on were raised by several citizens. The city approved the $625,000 purchase of seven and a half acres of land located at the corner of Old Lake Mary and Country Club Roads for the site on July 16. At the time of the approval, it was known by the city staff and commission that at least two of the seven property owners involved did not want to sell their land. The commission planned on condemnation proceedings in order to acquire the property if it was needed.

The city has already offered the land owners $720,000 for the parcel, but have received two definite refusals. All three newly elected commission members have said they are interested in finding another location for the complex.

The city is committed to spend 10 percent of the bond proceeds within the first six months of the closing, but does not have to have a particular site. "The city must be showing an intent to build a city hall complex with the money," said Tom Lang, who is with the law firm representing the city. As long as the city is showing its intent it is not liable for penalty for not having a site, according to Lang.

Lake Mary resident Harold Dale was critical of the commission's decision to go ahead with the bond issue even though a site for the complex has not been acquired yet. "I just think it's foolish to borrow money when you don't know what the hell you're going to do with it," he said.

Commissioner Kenneth King, who cast the dissenting vote, said the two reasons he opposed it were because of the cost of the property the city wanted and because of the need for condemnation.

Survey Points To Fidelity Gap Between Spouses

DEAR ABBY: Doesn't it seem odd that there are so many more men who cheat on their wives than wives who cheat on their husbands? Either somebody is lying, or these men are gay (or bisexual) and are cheating with other men. Could this account for the increase in AIDS? Could it be that these men are having affairs with the same women?

Are they women who are sowing their wild oats before they get married — or are they really married women who are afraid to tell the truth? How about an update on your survey, Abby? I was one who wrote it.

TRUE-BLUE WIFE IN QUEENS

DEAR TRUE-BLUE: The mail is still coming in, but I'm beginning to see the light at the end of the tunnel. There's no reason for anyone to lie in this survey since names are not required. At the last count, there were 186,775 responses. Approximately two-thirds of the respondents were women, and their fidelity count was far higher than their husbands'. Stay tuned.

DEAR ABBY: Smoking is more than a physical health matter. It's a family and sexual health matter, too.

I haven't kissed my wife in 10 years — her breath is sickening! I can literally smell her before I see her. I love her dearly, and years ago I told her how I felt about her smoking, but I doubt if she remembers, or if she really believed me. I haven't brought it up again because I don't want to be a nag. She's meticulous in her dress and appearance, but the scent of her perfume, combined with tobacco odor from her hair, her clothing and her body, makes for a real turn-off.

My advice to women smokers looking for a lasting relationship with a man: Give up on the non-smokers on your wish list. You'll be a "smell out" to them.

THE NOSE FROM GEORGIA

DEAR NOSE: Face it: You are married to a woman whose addiction to nicotine is every bit as hard to overcome as a heroin habit. Most smokers would quit tomorrow if it didn't require more determination (OK — "guts") than they possess.

However, anyone who really wants to quit can do it. It's not easy — but it's not impossible either. There are "quit smoking" programs (call your local American Cancer Society), and clinics for those who want to overcome addictive behavior, as well as support groups for spouses, friends and family members of alcoholics and substance abusers. Your wife can do whatever is necessary to overcome her addiction. But she has to want to. Unfortunately, like many others, she may not want to until it's too late. What a tragedy for them and their families.

DEAR ABBY: A letter recently appeared in your column from a Christian who found solace in visiting a church in times of stress. He wanted to know why the churches lock their doors, except at specified hours. You replied, correctly, that due to the increase of vandalism, churches could ill afford security guards on a 24-hour basis.

I am a member of the board of trustees of St. John's in the Valley — a United Methodist Church — and this is how we solved that problem: Our church is locked except for scheduled functions, but every member is given a key to the chapel adjoining the church. Security is maintained, but access is not denied.

Even if this practice is not feasible to cover all members (perhaps due to the cost of keys), it would seem to be appropriate for those who have special needs to commune with God in a chapel or sanctuary at odd hours.

While this solution may not have occurred to all churches, some might benefit from this suggestion.

ROBERT IRVING, NORTHBRIDGE, CALIF.

DEAR MR. IRVING: Thank you for sharing.

DEAR ABBY: I just lost my father to a sudden death. People come to me and say how sorry they were to hear the news.

How should I answer them? I don't think I should say "Thank you."

DAILY COMET READER, THIBODAUX, LA.

DEAR READERS: A pleasant "thank you" is an entirely appropriate response to an expression of sympathy.

Better See Physician About Back Brace

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have very bad posture, so I wear a back brace. My husband says it's just a crutch and tells me to exercise. What do you think?

DEAR READER — Before giving an answer, I would have to know the reason for your back brace. Do you have a spinal curvature, severe arthritis or chronic back strain? Was the brace prescribed by an orthopedic specialist?

If posture is your only problem, you might be better off straightening up and performing exercises to strengthen your back muscles. A physical therapist might be more helpful than a back brace. If, on the other hand, you have a structural abnormality and are under a physician's care for it, the brace would be appropriate. Ask your doctor about this.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My husband was in a car accident seven years ago. He was thrown from his truck and broke a tree branch with his head. He has been diagnosed as having organic brain syndrome. I want to do what I can for him. What can I expect in the future?

DEAR READER — Brain injury caused by accidents is a difficult problem to treat. The physical consequences of severe head injuries are usually due to damage of nerve tissue. When injury causes bleeding near the brain (subdural hematoma), pressure can build up around the brain, producing neurological disease and behavioral changes (organic brain syndrome). Once the clot is surgically removed and the pressure is released, the patient may return to a normal or near-normal state. However, if the brain itself has been injured, the consequences will be permanent.

I assume that your husband has been attended by qualified neurologists. Therefore, his only chance for future improvement may lie in an extensive rehabilitation program, in which neurologists, therapists and psychiatrists work together to retrain healthy tissue to take over the jobs previously performed by the damaged nerves. This is a drawn-out, time-consuming, expensive and frustrating process. However, it may be worth the effort if it allows your husband greater function and more independence. Without a rehab program, your husband will probably remain at or below his present level of ability.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

No one would say that South didn't make the right bid when he jumped to four hearts after his partner's one-spade response. Six clubs would be the right spot if North held as little as the spade ace and four clubs headed by the king. At the same time, concealing the club suit could lead to a favorable defense from the opponents. That is what happened on the current deal.

With no indication in the bidding that declarer had a strong side-suit in clubs, West led his singleton deuce. Declarer won East's king with his ace. Already counting the overtricks, he continued with the club queen. West ruffed, and realizing that declarer probably had club losers, switched to a low heart. South was able to ruff only one of those club losers in dummy. He discarded a club on dummy's ace of diamonds, but that left him with only nine tricks. Did anything go wrong?

Declarer needs to stiffle his greed for overtricks and look instead for a safe and sure 10 tricks. Of course it's unlikely that the opening lead is a singleton, but it is a possibility. Guaranteeing the contract requires only that a low club be played at trick two. East will win and return a trump, but South will be able to ruff one club, take the ace of diamonds, and later score the club queen after picking up trumps. That will be 10 tricks.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
SEPTEMBER 11, 1987

Many of the lessons you've learned from past experiences will be used to your advantage in the year ahead. This pertains to your social life, as well as to the commercial world.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Keep your temper in check today if someone throws cold water on a proposal about which you are all steamed up. You won't need this person's approval anyway. Major changes are ahead for Virgo in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH, 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Think carefully at this time before assuming any new, long-range financial obligations. You don't want to put yourself in a position where you'll later be pressed for funds.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You might get a little miffed today because a person with whom you are trying to cooperate doesn't show you equal consideration.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A co-worker might try to steal the limelight today, and take credit for something you accomplished. It will be up to you to set the record straight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your happy-go-lucky spirit might not be shared by a cranky companion today. If this occurs, find other friends more amenable to having a good time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A matter of importance that you want to conclude today can be finalized, but it could prove to be rather difficult to do so. Don't quit.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) When dealing with a touchy friend today, be careful not to bring up an old, unresolved issue. It could ignite sparks.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

Your possibilities for profit are reasonably good today, but there are indications that obstacles will have to be overcome. Be persistent.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Something about which you are enthusiastic might not be of equal interest to one to whom you are closely associated. Handle this matter carefully.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Before volunteering your assistance today, be sure you get a complete picture in advance. You may be subjecting yourself to greater responsibilities than you realize.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Someone with whom you may be involved socially today could have a chip on his or her shoulder. Try not to be the one who knocks it off.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Associates will be extremely annoyed with you today if they feel you're only looking out for your own interests and ignoring theirs. Walk the middle line.
