Schools Present 'Horribles' From Service Tax Repeal

By Richard Whittaker
Herald Staff Writer

Three members of the Seminole County School Board attending a meeting Wednesday with two members absent agreed in concept to join other school boards, community colleges and universities across the Florida in telling state lawmakers it cannot operate without the estimated $265,009,010 state schools stand to lose if the controversial sales tax on services is repealed.

According to information sent to school districts across the state Monday by State Education Commissioner Betty Castor, public schools stand to lose 10.5 percent of the funds allocated to them from the general revenue fund if the tax is repealed during a special session of the Florida Legislature scheduled for next Monday. Castor said no one knows for sure if the legislature will "revise the tax, replace it, or simply cut it from the budget."

According to Castor the overall share for education of the state's 1987-88 general revenue is $3.7 billion. Castor has asked school superintendents to organize efforts to show that the state's public education system cannot lose the estimated $265,009,010 in funds generated from the tax targeted for education.

"The message is simple: If you repeal the tax, we must have replacement money," Castor said of the message she wanted educators to pass to elected officials in Tallahassee and the public.

Carey E. Ferrell, assistant superintendent for business and finance for Seminole schools, said the school district stands to lose $6.3 million in state funds if the service tax is repealed next week. The loss of that money would require the immediate reduction of approximately 4.5 percent of the district's total operating budget.

The school board recently approved a budget of $260 million based on having funds from the service tax available to it. The operating budget approved by the board amounts to about $142 million for the 1987-88 school year.

Ferrell said the following steps would have to be taken to avoid a budget deficit. The board would have to immediately freeze hiring on all unfilled positions on both the school and district level, freeze all future staff allocations to schools for enrollment increases and reduce allocations to school budgets to their 1986-87 level.

Ferrell said the board would also have to eliminate all courtesy busing of students in the district. This would include transportation for students who live in what the board considers dangerous areas. If this action is taken by the board all students living within a two-mile radius of the school they attend will have to either walk to school or use private transportation.

Celebration Of Citizenship Throughout The United States

At 7:30 a.m. today, on the anniversary of the signing of the Constitution, the mayor, city commissioners, members of Sanford's Bicentennial steering committee and citizens of Sanford gathered at Veterans Park in Sanford for a sunrise flag-raising ceremony.

Circuit Judge S. Joseph Davis Jr. introduced the Color Guard, made up of members from the Sanford Disabled American Veterans, the American Legion and the Italian-American Veterans, who then raised the flag while the Sanford Police Department fired three volleys into the air. Rodney Brooks, minister of music at First Baptist Church, then led the group in singing the Star Spangled Banner. After the national anthem, Mayor Betty Smith led those present in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Davis then invited the group to join Chamber of Commerce President Duke Adamson, Mayor Smith and himself in reciting the Preamble to the Constitution. Rev. Fred Smith, pastor of Central Baptist Church, followed with a prayer of dedication and thanksgiving for the Constitution.

The group then moved behind the flagpole for the planting of a commemorative oak tree. David Farr, director of the Chamber of Commerce, announced that the tree, donated by Lucas Nursery of Oviedo, would be called the Constitution Oak. Farr

Sewer Grant Sought Sanford Engineers' Innovation Lauded

Maryann L. Cross

Sanford engineers' innovative vacuum sewage system may result in the state financing 80 percent of the cost of separating sanitary and storm sewage lines.

The city is also seeking from the state a total of $42,357 in grants to restore the cultural arts building.

Sanford is applying for $4 million in state grants to fund the estimated $5 million cost of separating sanitary and storm sewer lines in the city. A federal grant normally would finance 55 percent of the cost or $3.4 million. But the city qualifies for special funds for innovations using a vacuum system instead of a gravity system.

The vacuum system consists of vacuum lines, roughly 200 vacuum valves close to the homes they will serve, and vacuum sewage pumps to connect to the nearest gravity sewage line, conducting the raw sewage to the treatment plant without having to build a new line.

The system is a move away from the conventional lift station pumps. It will mean smaller sewage lines that are closer to the surface, said Bill Simmons, Sanford's engineering and planning director.

The state Department of Environmental Regulation requires the separation of sanitary and storm sewer lines. Work on the sewage system wasn't scheduled to begin for several years, but the schedule was changed when the federal grants became available. Simmons said the grant program will be disbanded by 1990 or 1991.

Sanford commissioners in March approved a $16,578 architectural contract to Burke and Bales Associates, Inc. to design a full rehabilitation of the cultural arts building at the corner of Fifth Street and Oak Avenue. The city has budgeted $100,000 for the restoration, which will cost an estimated $165,000.

The city is asking for a $49,999 state grant, which is $1

Yankee Lake Purchase Set For Grand Jury

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

Witnesses may be called before a Seminole grand jury next week to testify about a controversial county land purchase known as Yankee Lake.

Critics of the purchase have accused the county of acting illegally in the purchase of 2,876 acres west of Sanford for use as a regional wastewater treatment facility. The critics have also alleged there was a conspiracy involved to benefit elected officials and private concerns.

While a grand jury is set to convene next week and an assistant prosecutor in the Yankee Lake case is also scheduled to be in town next week, it is not known if the events are related. The prosecutor has been tied up with a murder trial and the investigation was in the hands of two Florida Department of Law Enforcement agents.

Steve Kunz, assistant to State Attorney Ed Austin of Jacksonville who was appointed by Gov. Martinez to investigate the purchase, said he would be in Sanford next week, probably in the latter half to work on the investigation. A grand jury is set to meet Monday though they often also meet on Thursdays as well.

Grant McEwan, a critic of the purchase, said he had hopes the case was going before the jury this week but he does expect to be called as a witness next week.

Tank Farm's 'Privatization' Makes Port Authority Profit

By Brad Church
Herald Staff Writer

The Sanford Port Authority's decision to take its tank farm out of the petroleum handling business seems to be paying off. Port Authority Administrator Dennis Dolgner, told his board Wednesday.

Dolgner said the income from the two large tanks is more than the income from the entire 15 tanks when they were all leased for petroleum storage. He told the board that he is close to an agreement with a company interested in leasing two more tanks, and possibly all five of the mid-size tanks.

About 40 percent of the gross lease income goes for administrative costs, he said, since the authority must handle on-loading and offloading and distribution of the chemicals for the companies leasing the tanks.

Even so, Dolgner said the tank farm could be very profitable for the Port Authority, with gross income of $175,000 to $200,000 per year if all the tanks are leased.

The board also heard a report on the Formitex building addition. The port is adding on to the kitchen cabinet company's present building. Dolgner said steel for the building's frame is expected to arrive next week and the addition should be complete about 45 days after that.

The board also elected officers for the coming year. David P. Lanier was elected chairman, Larry Strickler vice chairman, Wendell Agee secretary, and James V. Rowe, treasurer.

Hundreds More Locals May Tote Guns

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

Of the thousands Florida residents who want to walk about in public with a concealed gun, at least 238 live in Seminole County. They most likely will get permission to tote the guns.

If the state grants all of the permits, especially for the Seminole County residents, it will be a significant number more than the two permits the Seminole County Board of Commissioners has approved in the past dozen years. Two commissioners, Bob Sturm and Bill Kirchhoff have always voted against the issuing of such permits. They have said they've voted down such requests because they believe that concealed weapons should only be in the hands of certified law enforcement officers.

About 3,000 applications for concealed weapons permits have been mailed to Floridians and another 10,000 applications are expected to be sent out this week, state officials say.

Administrators expect that 130,000 people will apply to carry guns in their coats, purses or briefcases within the first year of the state's new gun control law, which takes effect Oct. 1.

Prior to last week, the Seminole County Board of Commissioners had approved only one request by a county resident to carry a concealed weapon. The second such permit was approved last week. Starting Oct. 1, the discretion to control the issuing of a concealed weapon permit will become the responsibility of the state. The state legislature passed the law giving the state the responsibility because Florida's 67 counties varied greatly in the requirements for such permits. Seminole County was considered one of the toughest counties in which to get a concealed weapon permit and abutting Lake County was considered one of the easiest.

The applicants must submit the necessary $146, a set of fingerprints and a notarized form stating they have received firearms training and are not felons, alcoholics or mental incompetents. Misstatements subject the applicant to criminal prosecution.

The agency administering the process, the Department of State's Division of Licensing, was rebuked last April by the auditor general for failing "to most effectively protect the public from harm."

Chain Saw Cuts Man's Thigh

An Orlando man escaped serious injury Wednesday during an apparent chain saw accident near Casselberry.

David Parton, 26, was treated and released from Winter Park Memorial Hospital in Winter Park for a severe cut to his thigh.

Parton reportedly received the cut from a chain saw while near Eagle Circle and Red Bug Road east of Casselberry. He was transported to the hospital by private vehicle and did not receive emergency medical treatment at the scene.

The incident occurred reportedly at a land-clearing site at about 2:20 p.m.

—Deane Jordan

The report said that while regulating concealed weapons permits for security guards and private investigators, the agency failed to keep complete records, issued licenses before receipt of all fingerprint records, and failed to demand new fingerprints when the first set was rejected by the FBI as illegible.

Secretary of State Jim Smith, who has held his post since August, said he was unaware of the audit and would look into it. He said his primary concern about the new law is that "those with licenses will think that means they can go around and be super-cops."

"Just because you have a license to carry a weapon doesn't mean you have the authority to use it," he said. "I'm concerned that people with a license will think it's right to shoot other people out of the saddle."

He has asked the dean of Florida State University's law school, Sandy D'Alemberte, to prepare a manual to send out with applications that details in laymen's language the current law on self-defense.

"People need to understand the law of self-defense," Smith said. "You really have to do everything you can to avoid shooting somebody."

The Division of Licensing is more than doubling its staff to accommodate its duties under the concealed weapons law passed by the 1987 Legislature.

The division, which had 78 employees last year, has added 65 and has the authority to hire another 33. The Legislature appropriated $4.8 million this year for processing and enforcing the concealed weapons statute.

She struggled with the sheriff's deputy and after he put her into his patrol car, she kicked the deputy several times, a sheriff's report said. Two other deputies aided in subduing the woman.

Deputy Comes To Aid, Gets Kicked, Shoved

A Seminole County sheriff's deputy, called to assist a woman at the Handy Way, State Road 46 at Orange Boulevard, Paola, at about 2 a.m. Wednesday, reported that she shoved him twice, once after a warning not to touch him again.

Staff And Wire Reports

Next week we celebrate the advent of fall. You remember, leaves adopting the beauty of various hues, chilly Saturday afternoon football, blankets for sleeping. Next week? Ha!

Yesterday we established a new heat high for the date: 95 degrees. If leaves are turning, the color will be suntan. There's no guarantee that today will be any better. Hot? Yes. Wet? Probably not. Cool? Definitely not.

Next week? Even unto the beginning of fall. More of the same.

If the weather is unchanging, Tropical storm Dennis is not. Now he seems to be getting a sense of direction, albeit the wrong way. Towards our area of the planet. He's plodding westerly and is about 200 miles closer than yesterday morning.

At 6 a.m. EDT, the center of the hurricane season's fourth tropical storm was located near latitude 17.6 north, longitude 49.5 west, or about 850 miles east of Antigua.

Dennis was moving toward the west at 5 to 10 mph and was expected to continue on that track for the next 12 to 24 hours.

Forecaster Gil Clark of the National Hurricane Center said little change in the storm's strength was expected today.

Forecasters also were watching an area of cloudiness and scattered thunderstorms, associated with a broad trough of low pressure over the Atlantic north of the Leeward Islands.

Thunderstorms that plagued the nation's heartland for days moved north and east today, producing tree-damaging winds in Wisconsin, hail in Illinois, and rain from Colorado to Wisconsin to Georgia.

Severe thunderstorm watches were up until late Wednesday over portions of Missouri and Illinois. Dime-size hail was reported at Macomb, Ill., and high winds damaged trees at New Glarus, Wis.

19 Area High School Seniors Named Merit Scholarship Semi-Finalists

By Richard Whitaker
Herald Staff Writer

The National Merit Scholarship Corporation has announced that 19 Seminole County high school seniors have qualified to become semifinalists in the 33rd annual merit program.

The names of 15,000 seniors across that will continue competing for about 6,000 merit scholarships worth over $23 million were released Wednesday morning. Students from Lake Mary, Oviedo and Seminole High Schools were on the list.

LMHS had 16 of its students on the semifinalists lists. The students include Thomas Amrhein, Chaffin R. Grant, Catherine Divila-Aponte, Chad Driscoll, Daniel Ferris, Tara Hunt, Pamela Kenny, Matthew Larson, David Nagle, Thomas Palmer, Scott Plyler, Angel Velezosa, Peter Verchick, Christine Wasula, Jody Weisberg and Judith Zisman.

OHS was represented on the list by Kenneth Juge and Joanna Thomson. SHS student William Godfrey was also named as a semifinalist in the competition.

LMHS was third in the state in the number of students placed on the semifinalists list for the competition, according to principal Don Reynolds.

Dee Schumacher, assistant vice principal at LMHS, said the students making the list credited everything from genetics to teaching for the reason for their success in the scholarship competition. "The kids gave a lot of credit to our gifted program here," she said.

According to Schumacher, the biggest individual factor in the success of the 16 students is the encouragement they received at school and home. "They were taught to please others, then themselves," Schumacher said.

More than a million students across the nation entered the current program by taking a qualifying test during their junior year. The top scorers in every state are included in the list of semifinalists. The list represents about half of one percent of the country's graduating class.

The semifinalists from the three schools must now meet the academic standards of the program, be fully endorsed and recommended by their schools and take and confirm their scores on the national Scholastic Aptitude Test to be considered for the finalists list in the competition. The students must also submit information on school and community activities, personal interests and goals.

Approximately 13,500 students in the program nationwide are expected to advance into the finalist standing. That would account for about 90 percent of the semifinalists named Wednesday. About 44 percent of the finalists will ultimately receive scholarships of $2,000.

The NMSC is a non-profit organization funded by about 600 sponsors. 102,500 students have won scholarships amounting to over $310 million since the competition started in 1956.

Longwood OKs Budget

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

A proposed tax rate of $3.15 per thousand property evaluation and 1987-88 fiscal year budget of $8.95 million have been given preliminary approval by Longwood City Commission Monday following a public hearing in which no objections were heard.

The tax rate is 8.6 percent above this year's tax rate of $2.90 per thousand property valuation. City Administrator Ron Waller said Longwood's tax rate compares favorably to other cities and the county: Lake Mary, $5.08; Sanford, $4.85; Seminole County, $4.58; Oviedo, $3.38; Casselberry, $3.11; Allamonte Springs, $2.72; and Winter Springs, $1.60.

The revenue from the Longwood tax is expected to generate $193,397, Waller said, who presented a slide show illustrating services provided under the proposed budget. Other revenues will come from the following sources: federal, $1,100; state, $896,489; county, $379; and local, $1,794,051; plus an estimated carry-over of $250,000.

The second public hearing and final adoption are scheduled for Sept. 28 at 7:30 p.m. in city hall at 175 W. Warren Ave.

Included in the proposed budget is a general fund budget of $4.5 million and several self-supporting funds.

Budgeted by the various departments under the general fund: police, $1.4 million; fire, $999,243; streets, $1 million; building, planning and zoning, $173,211; parks and recreation, $172,811; city clerk's office, $155,490; general services, $166,867; city commission, $72,712; personnel, $37,416; city administrator, $90,247; purchasing, $30,680; finance, $77,578; city attorney, $91,183; Land Planning Agency, $35,574; city elections, $3,000; and codes enforcement, $32,834.

The personnel and purchasing departments are new.

Under the proposed budget, there is a big increase in fire department salaries to bring them more in line with those paid in the police department. But in some instances they will now exceed the police salaries for equivalent positions. For instance Fire Chief Charles Chapman's annual salary will go from $37,000 to $47,539 plus benefits which will bring it to $61,409 compared to Police Chief Greg Manning who currently makes $41,170 and will have a salary of $47,011 plus benefits for a total of $61,105 in the new budget.

Their second in command under the new budget, Police Captain Terry Baker will receive $39,462 plus benefits for a total of $51,255 as compared to Assistant Fire Chief Alan Brown's salary of $42,948 plus benefits for a total of $55,582.

The salary for firefighters will be $17,983 compared to $18,169 for patrolmen.

The fire chief, police and City Attorney Michael Kramer, who receives a salary of $50,600 ($61,484 including benefits) all get more than the City Administrator Ron Waller, whose salary is $43,812 ($57,280 including benefits).

City Clerk Don Terry's salary is $38,554 ($46,847 including benefits) and other department heads receive the following salaries: Finance Director Barry Weeks, $35,814 ($43,519 including benefits); City Planner Chris Nagle, $30,026; ($39,255 including benefits); Parks and Recreation Director Bill Goebel, $22,871; ($28,861 including benefits); Building Official Slick Helms, $24,513 ($32,062 including benefits); City Engineer Chuck Hassler, $36,754; ($48,054 including benefits); purchasing agent, $20,000 ($24,302 with benefits) and personnel director, $25,000, ($30,378 including benefits).

The city commission gave preliminary approval Monday night to a change in the Personnel Policy and Procedures Manual to make the city administrator, city attorney and city clerk eligible for merit bonuses included in the proposed budget.

A Deal Not Wunderbar

Thank you, Iran and Syria, for helping free hostage Alfred Schmidt, gushed the West German government.

Thanks, indeed. Praising the state sponsors of terrorist kidnapers for helping free a hostage is like kissing the feet of the masked executioner and asking him to do a good job.

The West German government says it made no deal to release Schmidt.

His employer, Siemens, says it paid no ransom.

So why was he suddenly released?

Either Ayatollah Khomeini has traded in his turban for a white hat, or the Germans are not telling all.

It is understandable that they want to save the life of a second German hostage still in captivity in Lebanon.

But is the price of a life worth legitimizing terrorists, who hold other hostages and could easily take more?

The two Germans were taken hostage in reprisal for West Germany jailing a wanted terrorist, Mohammed Ali Hamadeh.

He flew into Germany from the Middle East with wine bottles filled with explosives.

He is wanted in the United States for the murder of Navy diver Robert Stethem, who was savagely beaten to death on a TWA airplane in 1985.

After Hamadeh was jailed, German police found his brother on the French border with a cache of explosives.

The two terrorists also may be linked to bombings last year in Paris.

America asked Germany to extradite Hamadeh. But Germany refused.

Bonn assured Attorney General Edwin Meese that Hamadeh would be tried for high crimes.

But Der Spiegel reported that a secret deal had been cut. Germany would try to convict Hamadeh, and then Walter Wallman, the governor of Hesse state, would pardon him.

"He (Hamadeh) could then be exchanged for the two West Germans," Der Spiegel said.

Bonn immediately denied the report. But a prosecutor in West Germany's federal prosecutor's office fumed to a visiting American journalist in July that the Der Spiegel report probably was true—and such a hostage deal would be disastrous.

So far, Hamadeh has not been released.

Nor has the second German hostage Rudolf Cordes been freed in Lebanon. American, French and British hostages remain prisoners, probably of Hezbollah, the fanatic Lebanese Shiite group.

Hezbollah calls itself by various names in communiqués and is linked to Iran. It continues to operate in Lebanon, despite Syria's reputed military control of that tragic country.

Iran and Syria are deeply implicated in the hostage-taking in Iran.

Washington publicly praised Syria for helping free U.S. journalist Charles Glass.

Now Germany is following Washington's example of thanking state sponsors of terrorism for helping undo what they helped do.

Dealing with terrorists may free one hostage, but it gives an incentive to capture more hostages.

Bonn must honor its word and trade Hamadeh.

If it wants to get rid of him, send him to the United States for trial.

'Seven Dwarfs' Will Loom Even Larger

One of the most unfair, premature conclusions being made these days is the claim that the seven announced Democratic presidential contenders are insignificant figures. Critical commentators and opposition politicians have dubbed them "the seven dwarfs."

I believe the Democrats have an array of able contenders who will appear increasingly impressive as the campaign develops.

The problem these candidates face is not lack of intelligence, integrity or experience. Rather their chief handicap is lack of public recognition. They are not yet familiar names and faces on the American political stage. But with 20 televised debates scheduled and hundreds of public appearances, press conferences and other media efforts ahead, it is only a question of time till the voters know all the contenders.

When that time comes, the voters will see seven candidates who few will regard as political dwarfs.

Included among the democratic contenders are two governors regarded by their fellow governors as among the very best in the nation. Michael Dukakis of Massachusetts and Bruce Babbitt of Arizona have both won wide acclaim within their states and regions. They are capable administrators and men of vision and imagination.

The three senators seeking the Democratic nomination, Paul Simon of Illinois, Joe Biden of Delaware and Albert Gore of Tennessee, are highly regarded politicians. They have demonstrated the capacity to win broad bipartisan support within their own states.

Biden is one of the most effective orators in the nation. Simon is a thoughtful, well-informed man who writes a weekly analysis of public issues that is highly regarded by his fellow senators. Gore has emerged as one of the Senate's experts on arms control and Soviet-American relations.

Richard Gephardt of Missouri, the only member of the House in the Democratic presidential field, had earned a reputation among his colleagues as a serious student of government and a leader in tax reform.

Jesse Jackson, the charismatic clergyman and civil rights leader, probably has little chance of winning the nomination, not only because he is black in a predominantly white country, but because he has no previous experience in public office of any kind. But Jackson, as the most progressive and militant of the contenders in either party, will win millions of supporters before the nomination is decided.

It is a mistake to dismiss presidential candidates before they have a chance to demonstrate their strengths. Following the election of Franklin Roosevelt in 1932, but before he was inaugurated, several prominent columnists attempted to evaluate the then untested president-elect.

Heywood Broun described him as "the corker candidate of a convoluting convention." Walter Lippmann saw him as an "amiable man with many philanthropic impulses," but without either a firm grasp on public issues or strong conviction. Edmund Wilson concluded that Roosevelt lacked a strong personality and was a superficial man marked by shallowness and dullness.

Yet this was the president who inspired a nation in peace and war to a degree unequalled, perhaps, by any other president.

Taxpayer Rights Resisted

WASHINGTON (NEA) — John Campbell is a retired Annapolis, Md., police officer. One day he received a letter from the IRS saying it had over-refunded his 1984 tax return by $600. It wanted the money back, plus interest — a total of $743. Campbell immediately mailed a check.

End of story? Not by a long shot.

Some months later Campbell received a letter from the IRS. It had received his check, but could not figure out why. It assumed Campbell had made a mistake, so it was returning his money, plus interest. An IRS check for $752 was enclosed.

Campbell took the letter and check to his nearest IRS office, explained what happened and returned the check. He was thanked and told the matter was closed.

But then he began receiving a series of dunning letters from the IRS seeking $792 — the amount of the check plus interest. Each time he got such a letter he took it back to the same IRS agent and was assured there had been an error and that there was no problem.

Somehow Campbell didn't believe the agent. His suspicions proved all too true when, some months later, his bank notified him that his $17,000 savings account had been frozen by the IRS for non-payment of $27.90 in interest on the check he had never cashed.

Is Campbell's story all that unusual?

Not according to many members of Congress, who receive hundreds of similar complaints each year from constituents with nowhere else to turn to resolve problems with the IRS. And not according to taxpayer rights organizations like the National Taxpayers Union.

Now a number of congressmen are determined to do something about the situation. Thirteen senators and more than 50 House members are sponsoring one of several bills currently in the hopper, collectively called the "Taxpayers Bill of Rights."

The agency admits it has problems with what it terms "over-zealous" collection agents, but complains that Congress has put the service in a bind through its constant demand for stepped-up collection efforts.

Democracy On Move

The Constitution's 200th anniversary has been celebrated in diverse ways in America. There have been parades, fireworks, and readings; toasts have been offered, saluting the importance and reach of our remarkable founding document: our brilliant Founding Fathers have been hailed.

But for my money, the best demonstration of the ongoing potency of our charter took place at a gathering where the words "U.S. Constitution" weren't even mentioned: the first meeting of the "Central American Peace and Democracy Watch." This is "an ad hoc committee for the full implementation of the Central American Peace Plan" (Co-chairmen of the committee are former Gov. Charles Robb, D-Va., and John Joyce, president of Bricklayers International and chairman of the AFL-CIO defense committee.)

Now, that peace plan has properly come under criticism. It allows Soviet-bloc arms to keep flowing to the Nicaraguan Sandinistas — although it calls for the cessation of aid for the contras. It calls for a "cease-fire" in the Sandinista-contras civil war — but the Sandinistas claim that means a contra surrender. The plan may also let the Sandinistas stall. President Reagan is right to ask for standby contra funds lest they die on the vine.

With all that, the plan also calls for something else that should not be underestimated. It calls for true democracy in Central America, including Nicaragua, to be set into motion by Nov. 7. The nature of that democracy is not spelled out, but its broad strokes are clear: a free press, free elections, freedom of public association, freedom of religion, rule of law. If those ideas sound familiar, they should. Their modern incarnation began 200 years ago during a hot Philadelphia summer.

Will the communist Sandinista government live up to these standards? Normally, any hardheaded observer would rule it out. But something very strange seems to be going on in the world. Democracy — our kind of constitutional mass democracy — is on the move. Almost all of Latin America has gone democratic. The Philippines is struggling, but democracy is still on top. South Korea is going democratic. There may even be a little light in some communist countries.

The idea of the Peace and Democracy Watch group (of which I am a member) is to help turn the media spotlight on Nicaragua. They want to send observers down to Nicaragua before the Nov. 7 deadline. Mayor Ed Koch of New York has already agreed to head up one group.

What will happen? Well, if by some chance the Sandinistas really live up to the agreement — not just short-term cosmetics — then the march of democracy may continue. Later, it might be hard for the communists to turn it off.

Is Bork Really On Side Of Press?

By Jack Anderson
And Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — Two hundred years ago today, after months of debate and compromise, the U.S. Constitution was signed in Philadelphia by representatives of the 13 states. The American people are now being treated to a dramatic display of that remarkable document in action.

Exercising the power that "We, the People" conferred on him in the Constitution, President Reagan nominated Judge Robert Bork to the Supreme Court. The Senate, exercising that same power, will decide whether to "consent" to his appointment. The primary consideration of both the executive and legislative branches is how Bork's presence on the high court would affect the judiciary's role in government. What are Bork's views on the constitutional protections that the Supreme Court, through its interpretations, will extend or withhold from individuals and institutions?

The press is understandably most concerned with Bork's thinking on the First Amendment's guarantee of a free press. It is a measure of this complex jurist that he has shown himself, in his appellate court decisions, to be both a staunch defender of press freedom and a formidable threat to it.

This is not as contradictory as it may seem. Our associate Corky Johnson has studied landmark cases that Bork ruled and commented on, and a general pattern is discernible in his decisions: Against individuals offended by journalists, Bork has vigorously championed the press; against the government's attempts to put limits on press freedom, he has often come down on the side of the government.

Bork's view is that the First Amendment's guarantee of free speech and press is not absolute when weighed against considerations of national security. His eminently pragmatic contention is that a government that can't protect itself from subversion won't be around very long to protect anyone's free speech.

His view on the contest between the press and its individual "victims" is also tinged with pragmatism. He expressed himself vividly in his opinion concurring in the dismissal of a libel suit brought against syndicated columnist Rowland Evans and Robert Novak by a professor who claimed that their characterization of him as a Marxist had cost him a prestigious university appointment.

"A freshening stream of libel actions, which often seem as much designed to punish writers and publications as to recover damages for real injuries, may threaten the public and constitutional interest in free, and frequently rough, discussion," Bork wrote. "Those who step into areas of public dispute, who choose the pleasures and distractions of controversy, must be willing to bear criticism, disparagement and even wounding assessments."

The press could hardly have asked for a more ringing defense of its right to free and untrammelled commentary. On the basis of that decision alone, some journalists (and their libel lawyers) have hailed Bork as a justice who will help discourage the "freshening stream" of litigation that has bankrupted some newspapers and caused others to soften their more aggressive tendencies.

But if Bork has no patience with sensitive souls who don't like what they read about themselves, he is also unimpressed with those in the press whom he considers crybabies when the government steps on their toes.

"The press would make a big mistake just to look at Bork on the

Waters Bring Savings

By Charles S. Taylor
WARM SPRINGS, Ga. (UPI) — The waters that warmed and soothed the paralyzed muscles of President Franklin D. Roosevelt more than 40 years ago are still working hard for the rehabilitation institute he helped found — saving it nearly $2 million in power bills.

The institute began harnessing the 88-degree waters of its warm springs in 1982 to heat and cool the buildings that make up the Roosevelt Warm Spring Institute for Rehabilitation.

The savings have amounted to $360,000 annually in utility and labor costs, according to Richard Smith, maintenance engineer for the institute — bringing the total savings in power and labor costs close to $2 million over a five-year period.

"The good Lord is good to somebody," is the way Smith describes this gift of nature.

The switch to geothermal heating and cooling sounded the death knell for the institute's five ancient coal-fired boilers and huge brick smokestack that once belched smoke and fly ash. The smokestack still stands, but probably not for long. It will be torn down to make way for a new research and continuing education building, institute officials said.

Roosevelt first came to Warm Springs in 1924 to find out if the warm waters of the springs, because of their special buoyancy, could alleviate the symptoms of his polio-crippled legs. Swimming in the waters did help relieve some of those symptoms and Roosevelt returned for many visits during his presidency. He died at the Warm Springs Little White House on April 12, 1945.

The water at Warm Springs is warm because of a geologic formation. Rain that falls on the crest of nearby Pine Mountain at an average temperature of 62 degrees seeps through a permeable layer of Hollis quartzite to a depth of about 3,000 feet. Heat is absorbed from the rocks, which are under great pressure, and the water is delivered at the surface at the rate of 826 gallons per minute with a constant temperature of 88 degrees Fahrenheit.

libel issue," said one expert on the First Amendment. "When the combatants are the press and the government ... the government is going to win."

American University law professor Herman Schwartz, also an expert on the First Amendment, told us that he is "suspicious of Bork. I don't see why the press should jump for joy. ... This is a man who believes in minimal protection for the press."

Bork's belief in the need for free and robust discussion in the press does not include an understanding of the methods that are often needed to guarantee it. In a magazine article, though he did not say the government should in general be able to require reporters to disclose their sources, Bork took a fairly relaxed view of the importance of source protection.

"I would suspect that if journalists told their sources they would keep their confidences unless the information became directly relevant to a criminal investigation, they would still get most of the information they get now. ... If the press does not win all of these border disputes, that does not preclude the coming of the totalitarian night."

Forgery Suspect Unknowingly Turns Himself In To Police

A man, who along with a couple of others checked on a forgery suspect arrested by Altamonte Springs police, was arrested himself at the police station at about 3:50 p.m. Tuesday after he was linked to the same case.

First to be arrested was Keith Timothy Cameron, 20, of 32 W. Thrush St., Apopka, who allegedly presented two stolen forged checks for cashing.

The checks were stolen from Cameron's workplace, Expert Sod and Landscaping, of Apopka. The first check was presented for cashing at Check Cashing Service, Inc., Monday. But a teller refused to cash that $443 check, which was made payable to the second man arrested, Lloyd Salter, 18, of 3303 Overland Road, Apopka. Cameron left the check cashing service and left the check behind, a police report said.

At about 2 p.m. Tuesday, when Cameron allegedly tried to cash a second check at Sun Bank, Palm Springs Drive, Altamonte Springs, he was arrested. Representative for Expert Sod and Landscaping confirmed that the checks were stolen and forged, police said.

While Cameron was being questioned at the police station, Salter arrived at the station with a couple of other men. When Salter and the men asked about Cameron, police questioned Salter about the check that bore his name. He was arrested on a charge of uttering a forgery and attempted grand theft. He was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond.

Cameron has been charged with two counts of forgery and grand theft. He was being held in lieu of $2,000 bond.

$7.1 Million For Clean Water Proposed

By Brad Church
Herald Staff Writer

The St. Johns Water Management District's proposed 1987-88 budget includes $7.1 million to clean up the lower St. Johns River, as well as other surface waters.

The clean-up program was approved by the state legislature this year through an appropriation of $5.7 million in Surface Water Improvement and Management (SWIM) funds. The money has given the state impetus to clean up the lower St. Johns River, Lake Apopka and the Indian River Lagoon. The St. Johns District governing board included $1.4 million in matching money for the state funds in the 1987-88 budget.

A public hearing on the proposed $59.6 million budget will be at 5:05 p.m., Sept. 23, at the district's headquarters in Palatka.

The district, which covers all or parts of 19 counties including Seminole, has proposed a budget that includes $23.3 million for operations, $31.2 million for capital projects and $5.1 million for bond retirement.

The proposed budget is $9.1 million larger than the current budget, with three-fourths of that increase directly tied to state and matching funds under the SWIM program.

Despite an increase of $18.2 million over the current budget, the millage level proposed for the 1987-88 fiscal year is slightly lower than district taxpayers now are paying, and it is the second lowest in the past six years, said Ed Albanesi, district spokesman. Albanesi said only 28.6 percent of the proposed budget is funded from new ad valorem taxes compared with 34.4 percent for the current budget, which totals $41.4 million.

Albanesi said residents of the St. Johns River Basin could see their water management taxes fall from .221 mills to a proposed .211 mills.

Abducted Boy Escapes Car

Jason Cruz, 9, of Altamonte Springs, reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies that at about 2:55 p.m. Monday, within minutes of having been abducted from the parking lot of Forest City Elementary School, Sand Lake Road, Altamonte Springs, he escaped from the man who had grabbed him.

Cruz said he was walking past the passenger's side of the man's Cadillac, which was parked at the school, when the man opened the door, grabbed Cruz by the left arm and pulled him into the car and sped away.

Cruz said he escaped from the car when it stopped at a traffic light on Jamestown Boulevard, at State Road 434. The abductor sped away going south on Jamestown Boulevard, a sheriff's report said. Cruz returned to school. He later told his mother about the incident and described the man, whom he had never seen before. The case is under investigation.

Officer Making Arrest For Pot Tipped By Radio

A Navy man was arrested in Oviedo on drug charges after he was found sleeping in his car with the radio blaring.

An officer reported that he saw a car parked on a street around 3:14 a.m. Sunday and heard the vehicle's radio. In waking up the man, the officer saw a 35mm film canister on the car's dashboard. The officer investigated further and found two marijuana cigarettes in the canister. A further search uncovered a second canister with two marijuana cigarettes. A search of the ash tray produced a pipe and cigarette papers, according to a report.

Charged with possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia was Matthew R. Payne, 23, of the Naval Training Center. Bond was set at $500.

Two Held Up At Sunrise

In two separate incidents approximately 20 minutes apart, two men were robbed at gunpoint in Sanford Monday.

A man with a .38-caliber handgun held up Donald Brown, 32, of P.O. Box 201, Doyle Road, Osteen, on Monday between 6:50 a.m. and 7:05 a.m. Brown told police that while he was at an auto-train car wash at the intersection of Seventh Street and Jessamine Avenue, a man put a gun up to his head and had him remove his driver's license from his wallet. After taking Brown's wallet, the man ordered Brown to get in his truck and leave. The wallet contained about $200 and some personal property.

At 6:30 a.m., Johnnie Lee King, 50, 107 Academy Ave., told police he was standing by the open passenger door of his truck, parked in his front yard, when a man approached him from behind and put a gun to his head. The weapon was a dark-colored, short-barrel revolver. The man told King to give him whatever he had. King handed over his wallet, containing $11 and some personal property. The man then ordered King to lay face down on the truck seat or he would shoot. King told police the man fled on foot.

NATION IN BRIEF

Panel Asks On Bork's Character; Justice Nominee Alters Stance

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Supreme Court nominee Robert Bork, with Senate questions on his judicial record spawning doubts about his character, maintains he has not shifted position on civil rights and other issues merely to gain approval.

See related story, 6B

The 60-year-old federal appeals judge, trying to defuse opponents who say his conservative views are too extreme for the nation's highest bench, surprised his critics at a second day of confirmation hearings by publicly changing his stance in at least two significant areas.

The testimony prompted some members of the Senate Judiciary Committee to say they would press Bork further on his legal views when he returned today for a third round of questioning on his politically charged nomination.

Shultz, Shevardnadze Wrap Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State George Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze faced the end of their three days of scheduled meetings today with the same public optimism they expressed at the outset.

The principal goal of the top-level talks remained a prospective agreement on nuclear missiles that would lead to a third summit between President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, and both sides asserted new progress as they headed into the final round of negotiations at the State Department.

Officials from both nations said it would be possible for Shultz and Shevardnadze to meet again in New York next week, where they will attend the General Assembly of the United Nations, if they needed to nail down details that could not be worked out in Washington.

Biden Faces Plagiarism Queries

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Joseph Biden of Delaware, a Democratic presidential candidate, faced questions at a news conference today about allegations of plagiarism in his campaign and in law school.

Biden, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, which is considering the confirmation of Supreme Court nominee Robert Bork, began to be battered last week by charges he culled snippets of his speeches from other politicians without crediting them.

A colleague of Biden on the Judiciary Committee told The Washington Post that Biden had told other committee members he was failed in a legal writing course at Syracuse when he included a section from a law review article in his paper without citing or footnoting the source and was required to repeat the course.

Iraqi Attacks Iranian Tanker, Second Raid In 24-Hours

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — Iraqi warplanes, retaliating for Tehran's rejection of a cease-fire, carried out attacks Thursday on Iranian oil targets for the second time in 24 hours, hitting a "large naval target" near the Iranian coast at dawn, Iraqi military officials said.

An Iraqi military spokesman quoted by the Iraqi News Service said the jets scored "an effective and accurate strike" against what was believed to be an oil tanker in Iranian service.

The spokesman said all jets returned safely to base after the raid.

Thursday's strike followed Iraqi air attacks Wednesday on another tanker off the Iranian coast and on an oil field in the south.

Gorbachev: '87 Treaty Possible

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev says a treaty to eliminate intermediate- and shorter-range nuclear missiles can be worked out before the end of the year, possibly followed by a second arms reduction accord in 1988.

46 Sign Ozone Pact

MONTREAL (UPI) — Forty-six countries attending a U.N. conference have adopted an unprecedented agreement aimed at protecting the earth's ozone layer by reducing production of a chemical that destroys the protective shield.

The pact was hailed on its adoption Wednesday as a major breakthrough in the effort to control production and consumption of chlorofluorocarbons, or CFCs, the man-made chemical that destroys ozone.

James Ramsdell, 50, was treated and released from South Seminole Community Hospital in Longwood. The accident occurred at 777 Bennett Drive in Longwood.

Around 9:15 a.m., Ramsdell was cutting a 3-inch copper pipe with an acetylene torch when the pipe exploded, hitting him in the chest. Ramsdell, atop the scaffold, staggered backward two or three feet then caught himself before he could fall. The reason for the explosion is not known, though one firefighter suggested the pipe was sealed and expanding moisture from the torch caused the detonation.

Other workers at the construction site had lifted Ramsdell off the scaffold and carried him to a construction trailer by the time rescue personnel arrived.

School Board Offers To Rehire Worker

By Richard Whittaker
Herald Staff Writer

A carpet layer started work today after a Seminole County School Board decision Wednesday to offer him a new contract after a recent investigation into reasons given for the non-renewal of his contract were proven unfounded.

The recommendation to extend the new contract was made by Schools Superintendent Robert W. Hughes on the basis of the study, which also looked into allegations of sexual harassment by one employee and unfair treatment of maintenance department workers by their supervisors.

The board requested the study last June after attorneys from the Orlando firm of Chamblee and Miles, representing former maintenance employee Dale Fedder, said in a May 20 letter he was disputing the non-renewal of his contract at the end of the 1986-87 school year. Don Nichols, maintenance department supervisor, had reported that Fedder had practiced unsafe work habits and done hard labor contrary to his assignments of light work because of a 1982 back injury, for which he is receiving worker's compensation.

Nichols made these remarks in Fedder's annual evaluation last year. The decision to not re-hire Fedder for this year was in part based on that evaluation, which also indicated he had performed his job well.

John Reichart, director of personnel services for the school district, said Hughes had instructed him to form a recommendation to re-hire Fedder back into the district. Fedder will be given a position within the district's capital outlay budget for the 1987-88 fiscal year, Reichart said.

Hughes said Fedder will report to work at the school board office today, where he will be assigned duties working with records until he is medically cleared to return to work. Hughes said Fedder should return to work in the maintenance department by Monday.

According to the contract agreed to by Fedder and the board, the maintenance mechanic will not receive any back pay for the time he was not employed in the district, spanning from July until today. However, Fedder will be given full credit for time for insurance and retirement purposes.

Wheeler said neither Fedder nor NIPSCO plan any other legal action concerning the issue. "We're very comfortable with the agreement we've reached with the school board," she said.

Wheeler told the board Fedder and the union were very pleased with the results of the investigation and the board's decision to re-hire him. She said she understood the difficulty the board must have had in dealing with the situation. "It's not easy to call for an investigation," she said.

The fact-finding study which three school district administrators released Monday also found no concrete evidence of alleged sexual harassment of a maintenance department accountant by her supervisors. It said there is a need for improvement in the overall personnel management procedures of the department.

Board member Ann Neiswender requested an inquiry into the situation after she learned Fedder planned to appeal the decision to not re-new his contract. At the time, Neiswender said she hoped the allegations could be tracked down and dealt with in 60 days. She said she expected a written report with facts concerning the situation in the maintenance department.

The study was conducted by school administrators Reichart, Owen McCarron, assistant superintendent for administrative services, and Linda Dawson, assistant director of personnel services. They interviewed 16 maintenance department employees who had been noted as knowledgeable in the allegations involving the department.

Based on the testimony provided by those individuals, the study said no basis could be found to Nichols' comments that Fedder used unsafe work habits and performed hard labor after hours. Those same employees, however, said Fedder spent an inordinate amount of time in the department office area fraternizing with Mrs. Pat Smith, the records and reports accountant who charged she was sexually harassed by her supervisors. Smith alleged she was unfairly criticized, reprimanded and had her private life infringed upon because of her association with Fedder.

The study said no concrete evidence could be found indicating Smith had been sexually harassed or that there had been any infringement on her private life by her supervisors. It did say there appeared to be a misunderstanding or lack of communication regarding an adjustment of Smith's work assignment. Smith was transferred into the maintenance department from the building department.

Regarding allegations of the way maintenance department employees are dealt with by their supervisors, the study called for improved methods of communication to be initiated, creating open dialogue between the parties concerned. It also suggested better defined procedures for the implementation of annual employee evaluations. According to the study, the procedures should include a correlation to reappointment recommendations.

The report noted that some witnesses implied the supply inventory practices used in the department were deficient. Some of those interviewed said that supplies some employees use on a daily basis have created discrepancies in accountability. The study concluded, however, that testimony revealed no proof for these allegations or of incomplete inventories within the department.

The inventory of the maintenance department is due to be sent to Tallahassee for review by the state auditor. Wheeler said this was one aspect of the study that really pleased NIPSCO.

Schools Would Be Disaster Shelters In Agreement

By Richard Whittaker
Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County School Board has been asked by one of its administrators to consider developing an agreement with the county's Division of Disaster Preparedness that would provide school facilities as shelter to area residents in case of an emergency.

Carey E. Ferrell, assistant superintendent for business and finance for Seminole Schools, recommended working with the county organization to provide shelter after a year of negotiations with the local American Red Cross chapter failed to produce such an agreement.

"They (Division of Disaster Preparedness) were very willing to work with us," Ferrell said. "They were very receptive."

The Red Cross was adamant that it would not participate in any agreement for sheltering county residents where it did not have complete control of the facilities being used, Ferrell said.

William W. Wohlfarth, disaster director of the local Red Cross chapter, said his organization had no idea of the recommendation to switch agencies. "We signed a contract and sent it to the school board, so I don't know what the problem is," Wohlfarth said. "I don't even know if there is a problem at all."

The disagreement over whether the school board or the Red Cross would have the ultimate authority over emergency facilities began with an incident last fall at Lake Mary High School. "A dispute occurred over the access of certain parts of the facility," Ferrell said. "The Red Cross shelter manager felt he was in charge." LMHS Principal Don Reynolds had different ideas about that, according to Ferrell.

Wohlfarth said the Red Cross needed absolute control of emergency shelter facilities it was using because of their insurance requirements. He said national Red Cross policy also stipulates control of a facility to the shelter manager.

"We verbally offered to train the school's principals and vice principals to be shelter managers," Wohlfarth said of the negotiations. He said the school representatives never agreed to it.

Ferrell said the school district recently tried again to reach an agreement with the Red Cross, who wouldn't change their position on the subject.

The school board has authorized an interim plan with the county in case school facilities should be needed for shelters before a formal agreement can be worked out. "If something happened tonight, shelters would be open around the county," Ferrell said. Designated personnel already are on call to answer to any emergency that may take place, he said.

"The Division of Disaster Preparedness is actually better equipped to handle emergencies than the Red Cross," Ferrell said. He said the county already has the rescue and telecommunication capabilities needed during a disaster situation.

Ferrell said that schools traditionally have served as the best types of shelter during times of community disaster. Schools, he said, are almost always located throughout a community, making access by local residents easier than other places. Ferrell added that schools tend to be better constructed than other buildings that may be used for shelter and that they are generally located in clear areas.

Many people think of schools being open to shelter people only during a major natural disaster, such as a hurricane, Ferrell said. "It doesn't have to be a hurricane. I remember a time several years ago when Hamilton Elementary School (Sanford) was used as a shelter because of some kind of chemical leak."

Agreed: Strike Is Imminent

NEW YORK (UPI) — The players' union and NFL teams have come upon an issue in their negotiations on which they can agree — the likelihood of a football strike next week.

Jack Donlan, executive director of the NFL Management Council, the owner's negotiating arm, rejected the union's latest offer Wednesday and said a work stoppage next week appeared to be "a very good possibility."

Gene Upshaw, chief of the NFL Players' Association, went even further.

"A strike is inevitable because they have had an agenda from the word go that they were going to continue under any circumstance," he said. "It's like someone has predicted that they must do this. They're trying to fulfill their own prediction."

The last contract agreement in 1982 was preceded by a 57-day strike.

The 1,600-member union plans to strike following Monday night's game between the New York Jets and the New England Patriots.

NFL owners insist they will field teams despite the strike by using non-union players and free agents under the so-called Schramm Plan, named for Tex Schramm, the president of the Dallas Cowboys.

The new teams will skip the regularly scheduled third game of the season and resume play Oct. 3. Game 3 would be made up at the end of the regular season.

Donlan, at a news conference in New York, said the union's latest proposal would add about $200 million to the cost of the existing contract.

"A strike is a very good possibility," Donlan said. "I don't like to say that. I like to go to midnight, but I don't think it looks good."

Players and coaches around the league are prepared for a strike.

"I see no other recourse right now," said George Martin, the player representative of the New York Giants. "Hopefully, (management) will get to the table and get some movement going to avert the inevitable."

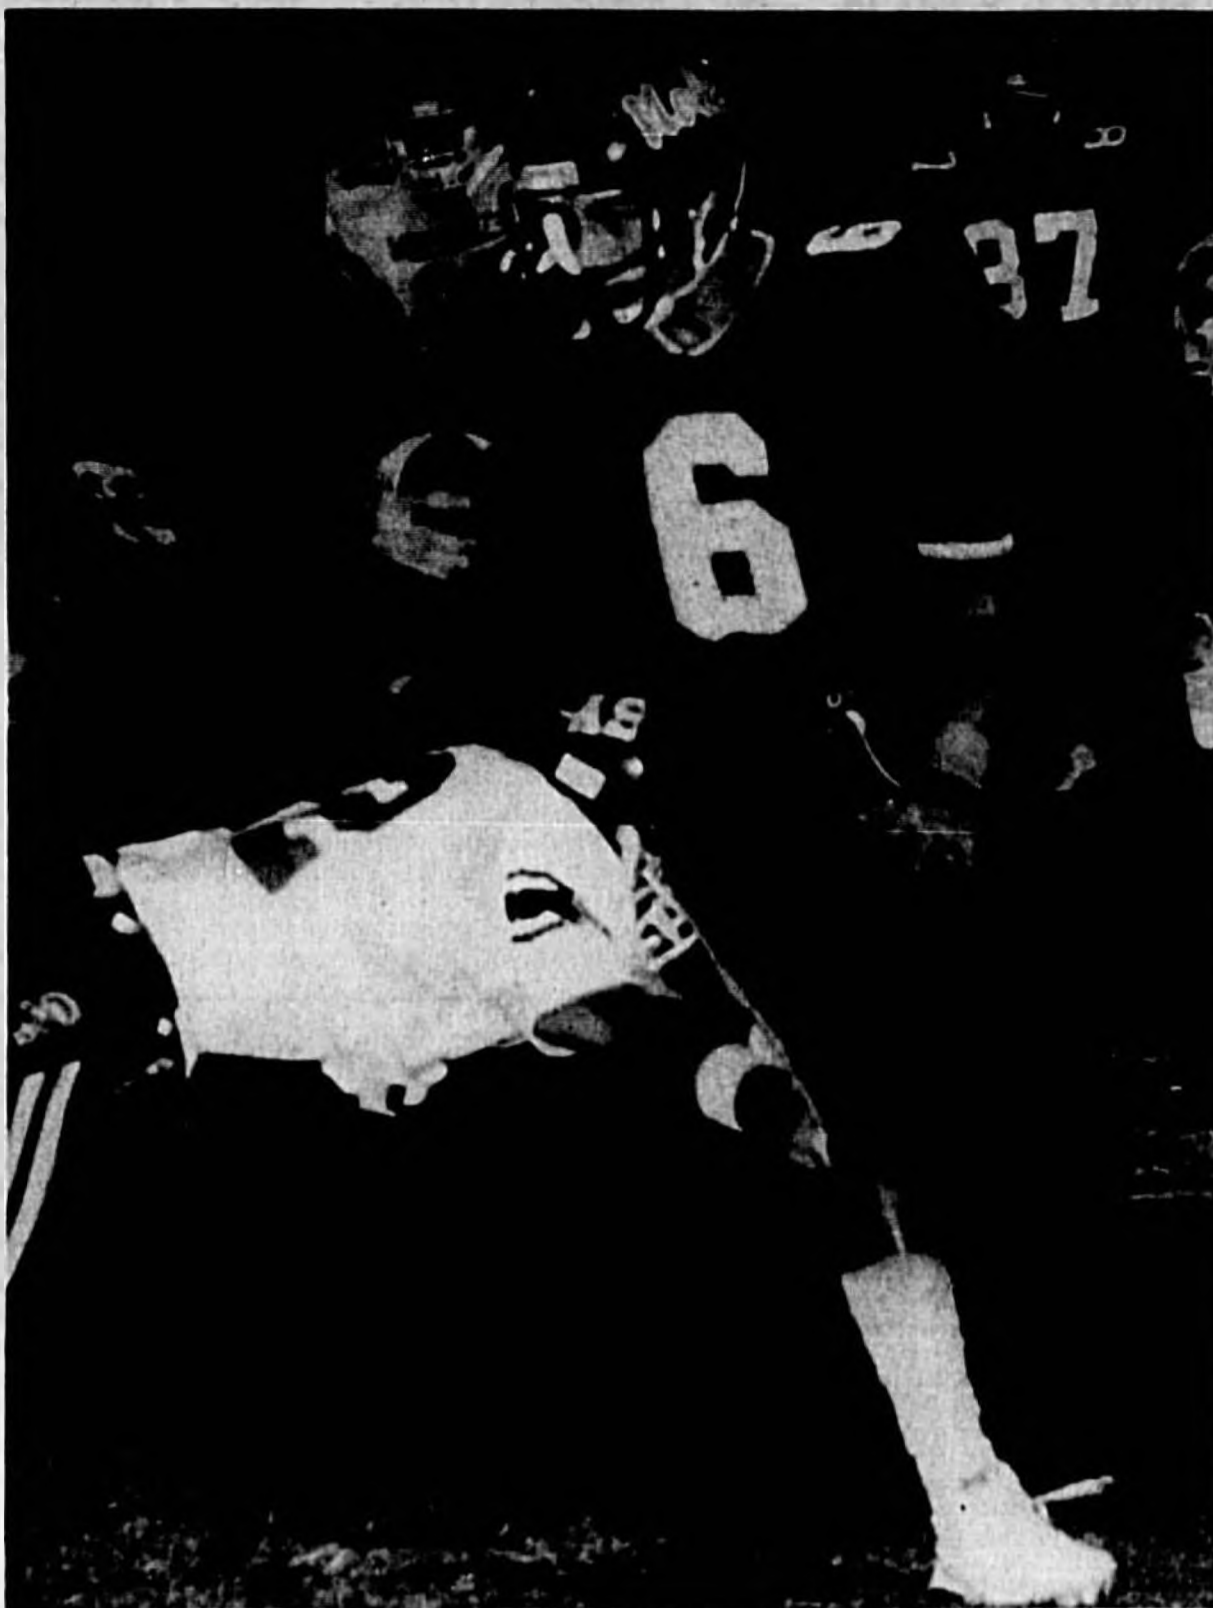

Said Bill Walsh, coach and president of the San Francisco 49ers: "I think there will be a strike. I don't think there's any question, and I think it will be long in duration."

Donlan said the new union proposal differs greatly from the last agreement. He said the players should be satisfied with the current system under which the average player salary has increased from $90,000 in 1982 to $230,000.

The new union proposal limits free agency to players with at least four years of experience, a change from the union's prior stance of unfettered free agency. The plan also demands heavy fines for teams cutting or trading union representatives.

Donlan called again for federal mediation to help end the deadlock and requested he and Upshaw meet in a one-on-one session.

"I think it's time Gene and I should sit down and have some sort of discussion," he said.

Commuter Lewis Drives Tribe Line Into Blocking Unit

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

Commuting from Titusville to Sanford can be a pain, especially if you have a bad day. For Seminole High offensive line coach Al Lewis, though, the commute has not seemed too bad.

"That's because the Seminole High offensive line has not had too many bad days so far."

The Tribe's offensive line, much maligned the past few years, has proven to be more than capable of holding its own in the early going of the 1987 season. The next big test for the Tribe comes against Edgewater's Eagles Friday night in the District 4A-7 opener at EE Stadium on the Orlando Evans High campus. Game time is a half hour early than normal, 7:30 p.m.

Three returning veterans, a few newcomers and the addition of Lewis as line coach has been the right combination for the Fighting Seminoles.

"Coach Lewis is doing a real good job with us," Seminole senior guard Kevin Straub said. "The main thing he has taught us is to keep our legs moving and sustain our blocks and if there is nobody there to hit, find somebody and hit him."

Lewis comes to Seminole after three years at Titusville Astronaut. He coached for 17 years in the Cincinnati area after graduating from Ohio University. The easy-going veteran joined the 'Noles last spring at the request of then coach Dave Moore.

"Al's wife works at Lake Howell so he decided it would be better for him to coach and teach in Seminole County," Seminole coach Roger Beathard said. "And it couldn't have worked Lewis was impressed with the performance of the line in the 28-0 opening-game victory over his old school, Titusville Astronaut.

Strike Threatens To Send Bucs' Fans Back To Siberia

Chris Fister
HERALD SPORTS WRITER

Management is being unfair. Labor is demanding too much. The two sides are at opposite ends of the bargaining table and neither wants to give an inch. The result is inevitable — a strike.

Tampa Bay Bucs fans probably don't give a hoot about all the political mumbo-jumbo involved in the dispute between NFL Players Association and the owners. To them, this must all seem like one giant Communist plot.

Why else would Tampa Bay fans be deprived of the team's most promising season in years? The Russians have to be behind it.

For the last two years, Buccaneer fans all but prayed for a strike or something to keep them from having to put up with that awful team. Now that the Bucs have something good going and opened the season with a convincing victory over Atlanta, they are having the rug pulled right out from under them. I bet the head lawyers for the owners are named Yuri and Nikita.

Immediately following Monday night's game between the New York Jets and the New England Patriots, Comrade Upshaw and the 1,600-member players' union plans to go on strike. And, from the looks of things, it could be a long strike.

And that is just a shame for Tampa Bay fans. They've been in football Siberia long enough as it is.

The Fearless Fister Forecast recorded a respectable 7-3 record for week one and was a couple touchdowns shy of being 9-1. Here's a look at this week's games:

One of the best rivalries in the state takes on new meaning this year when Lake Mary and Lake Brantley meet in the District 5A-4 opener. The winner will not only get bragging rights but will stay in contention in the district. Lake Mary

Lady Patriots, Rams Try To Defend Lofty Status

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

Lake Mary's boys and Lake Brantley's girls turned in strong efforts in the season-opening meet last week and were rewarded by being ranked high in the FACA Class 4A State Cross Country Poll.

Tonight, in the Edgewater Invitational at the University of Central Florida, fourth-ranked Lake Mary and the third-ranked Lady Patriots will try to prove themselves worthy of their lofty rankings.

The Edgewater meet begins with girls junior varsity at 4 followed by boys JV at 4:30, girls varsity 5 and boys varsity 5:30.

"This is the highest we've been ranked during the regular season," Lake Mary coach Mark McGee said. "One thing we have to do to stay there is stay healthy. Right now, we're counting on five guys who are running pretty close together and we can't afford to get one of the five injured. It would help a lot if we could get our sixth and seventh runners up closer to our fifth man."

Lake Mary finished second to defending Class 3A State Champion Bishop Moore in last week's Lake Mary Opener. The Rams had a solid top five in Brad Smith, Matt Sutliff, Phil Rueff, Eric Petersen and Scott Plyler. McGee is looking for Chad Driscoll and Paul Evans to move closer to the top five.

"I'll be happy if we continue the progress we are on right now," McGee said. "The first meet, our top five runners were two and a half minutes apart and last week they were only one and a half minutes apart."

Lake Mary is one of three Seminole County boys teams ranked in the top 10 in the state. Coach Doug Blackwell's Lake Howell Silver Hawks, a strong third in the Lake Mary meet, ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — On Friday night at 8 at Lake Brantley High's Tom Storey Field, the Lake Mary Rams and the Lake Brantley Patriots will hook up in a football game which is vitally important to each school's pride.

The Rams and the Patriots have established their rivalry as being one of the best in Central Florida. The two teams have produced some memorable games that have had dazzling finishes to them. Lake Mary currently holds a 3-2 edge in the series.

Lake Mary lost to Winter Park in its season opener last week while Lake Brantley fell into overtimes to Oviedo.

Lake Mary Principal Don T. Reynolds and Lake Brantley Principal Darvin Boothe both said that Brantley-Mary football game is an event which they look forward to every year.

"I think that this is the premier sporting event in the county," Boothe said. "This game is what high school football is all about."

"It is always exciting. And it is played with utmost amount of intensity every season."

Reynolds agreed. "The entire school seems to get pumped up for this game," he said. "The kids are very excited and I'm looking forward to a super game."

Although the rivalry has been fought on the field for the most part, there have been incidents where students took their pride to the wrong extremes. The big game always seems to bring out the fieriest attitudes.

There have been several occurrences where both schools have been damaged with graffiti, or trucks digging into the field. Reynolds and Boothe both said that they are hoping such occurrences don't happen this year.

"We have had some pretty ugly things happen in the past," Reynolds said. "We actually have to downplay the game in order to get these kids settled down."

"I think that it has become a friendly rivalry," Boothe said.

"We certainly don't want anything to happen (to the school property) this year."

Boothe said that the rivalry has been friendly so far this season. "The bands have been practicing together, and they will perform together at halftime in a salute to the constitution," Boothe said. "They have all acted in a mature fashion."

Both principals said that they have total confidence in their respective programs. "I think that we are headed in the right direction," Boothe said. "We have had some troubles for the past few years (2-18 record), but I have been here for all but one year, and that seems to be a pattern we are in."

"I think that we have a very solid program," Reynolds said. "Harry Nelson has done a fine job, and I think that we will always be competitive."

Boothe said that game will be long remembered, regardless of the outcome. "These young men will always remember this particular game," Boothe said. "It is a great occasion whenever we play."

"I think that it should be a very even game," Reynolds said.

Stocks Open Higher

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened higher today in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which fell 36.39 Wednesday, was up 8.97 to 2539.16 shortly after the market opened.

Advances led declines 551-391 among the 1,392 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 18,917,000 shares.

Stock prices fell sharply for the second day in a row Wednesday as equities remained tied to movements in the dollar and bond market.

The market opened lower as weakness in bond futures spilled into stock index futures, placing those contracts at a sharp discount to the cash market. The discount made it profitable for traders to buy the futures and sell the cash stocks.

Traders said by midday a firm dollar and a rebound in the bond market sent blue-chip issues into the plus column. But the market's rally attempt failed when bonds returned to lower levels and the dollar slipped on news that the nation's capacity utilization rate rose to 81 percent in August, the highest it has been in nearly three years.

Dollar Opens Higher; Gold Follows On Up

By United Press International

The dollar opened slightly higher in light trading on major currency markets today. Gold edged higher.

In the Far East, the dollar closed at 143.82 Japanese yen, up 0.02 from Wednesday's close of 143.80 yen.

Traders in Japan noted market players refrained from taking large positions in view of the unclear situation ahead of a series of major monetary conferences starting later this month.

In Europe, the dollar opened in Frankfurt at 1.8165 German marks, up from Wednesday's close of 1.8123.

In Zurich, the dollar began the day at 1.507 Swiss francs, up from 1.5028 and in Paris at 6.0565 French francs, up from 6.0445.

down from Wednesday's close of $1.647.

In early New York trading, the dollar was slightly higher against key foreign currencies in what traders described as listless trading.

Gold opened 25 cents an ounce higher in Zurich at $458.75 an ounce and opened 75 cents higher in London at $459.25 an ounce.

The London morning gold fixing was $458.80, up 30 cents from Wednesday's close.

In earlier trading in the Far East, gold closed at $459.05 on the Hong Kong Bullion Exchange, off 50 cents from Wednesday's close.

Silver opened 9 cents lower in Zurich at $7.55 an ounce and fell 8 cents in London to $7.55 an ounce.

In early trading on New York's Comex, a 100-troy-ounce gold futures contract for current delivery in September opened at $458.80, up $1 from Wednesday's close. A 5,000-troy-ounce silver futures contract for delivery in September opened at $7.525, up 6.5 cents an ounce.

Housing Starts Plummet

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The number of houses started and building permits issued in August fell to their lowest rates since early 1983, the Commerce Department said today.

The government counted housing starts nationwide last month at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1.58 million, down 1.5 percent from July's 1.61 million rate.

Meanwhile, building permit issuances fell 0.1 percent to a 1.49 million annual rate. Such rates indicate what a year's worth of building permits or housing starts would total if every month performed like the one examined and seasonal factors were ignored.

The starts rate has fallen in five of the past six months. August's rate was the worst since April 1983. Meanwhile, the number of building permits has not been so low since March 1983, the government said.

Other things the board would have to do if the tax is repealed, according to a study done by Ferrell and other school administrators, is curtail maintenance activities, eliminate all educational and other field trips, eliminate all after-school and evening activities in school facilities, immediately freeze portions of the district's unexpended budget for equipment and vehicles and shift utility costs for extra-curricular activities.

Ferrell said travel expenses, frequency of mail and warehouse deliveries to schools and restricting the use of substitute teachers would also have to be considered by the board.

All those cuts only amount to about one third of the money needed to cut the loss of service tax generated funds, according to Ferrell. "Employee salaries would have to be re-negotiated to reduce them by about 4 1/2 percent in order to compensate for the projected loss," Ferrell said.

That reduction would effectively eliminate the new contract agreements with the four unions representing the district's 4,469 employees ratified by the board last week.

The 4 1/2 percent reduction would bring employees back to the salaries they earned last year. Employees had agreed to a 7 1/2 percent increase in salaries for the 1987-88 school year, with some of the increase to be paid in increments.

If the salaries of employees were not decreased, Ferrell said the board would have to initiate layoffs of existing personnel to effect an overall savings of $3,922,000. Employees in every department of the district would be subject to the layoffs, according to Ferrell.

The magnitude of the reductions he described to the board would result in a serious deterioration of the quality of programs and services offered to Seminole students, according to Ferrell.

"The negative impact on such programs and services would destroy, in a very short time, many of the improvements that have taken years to develop," he said.

Seminole County Schools Superintendent Robert Hughes said it was appalling that public education in Florida was being placed in the middle of a "political football game" involving the service tax issue. Hughes compared the current political atmosphere in the state with that of a circus.

"The school board cannot operate with the loss of that revenue," Hughes said.

School Board Chairman Joe Williams told the board they should do as much as possible to increase the public's awareness of the magnitude of the situation. "I don't think people understand the power of the lever," Williams said of the public sector's ability to influence the decision of individual public representatives.

Nancy Wheeler, university director of the Seminole Education Association, said her organization is also fighting to keep the service tax from being repealed. Wheeler said persons from the SEA will be setting up a booth at Flea World, U.S. Highway 17-92 in Sanford, this Friday to try to inform the public of the need of education to have the money.

Castor said the service tax issue is one that calls for people from all facets of education to come together. "We can all fight for the same cause: save education dollars," Castor said.

The commissioner appeared before the House Appropriations Committee Tuesday to stress the need to continue the tax now that so many education budgets are depending on it. She said her message to the committee was that the money was desperately needed to continue on the path towards better schools in Florida.

Board Member Ann Neiswender said she will try to participate in lobbying efforts on the part of state educators next week. "If they (legislature) repeal the tax we won't have any choice but to do these horrible things (make cuts), Neiswender said. She said the people in power had to be told the tax can not be repealed without finding alternative sources of funding to replace the lost money.

"It's the child that will be hurt," Neiswender said of the possible loss of revenue without finding other funding. "Students will be harmed if they do anything else, she said."

Steven Lilleby, 18, of 250 E. Sixth St. Chuluota, died from apparent drowning probably during the weekend.

Lilleby's body was found Monday in an unnamed lake near the intersection of state roads 50 and 520 just east of Bithlo. The unnamed lake was created when dirt was removed to make the SR 520 overpass over SR 50.

Lilleby was reported missing Friday from his Chuluota home and Orange Counties deputies, after contacting the family, spoke late Sunday with hoboos living about the small lake, a sheriff spokesman said. They said they saw the youth Friday.

...Case

He said the case was to go to a grand jury before now but was postponed by the pope's visit because of the Florida Department of Law Enforcement manpower needs in Miami.

"I think they have just about finished their first phase of the investigation," said McEwan. "I hear some people are looking for immunity... I know people have asked for it... There's a lot of people on the county commission and staff shuffling for immunity."

"The prosecution should be interesting," he said.

Commissioner Bob Sturm, one of four commissioners who voted for the purchase, said he has not heard any talk of immunity and to his knowledge no one representing the special prosecutor has contacted his office or the commission.

McEwan said the investigators learned that a lot of the records they were looking for had disappeared, particularly engineering work. He said he and Art Davis of west Seminole County, had copies of those documents from collecting them during their several years of effort to have the issue investigated. One of the FDLE agents is said to be a "paper-trail" expert.

If the investigation leads to prosecution "it should clean up politics in Seminole County for the next 50 years," said McEwan.

The city of Sanford also wanted the property for similar use and filed suit against the county over the purchase. But that suit was dismissed on a technicality. Sanford is under a state order to stop dumping treated wastewater into Lake Monroe and the loss of the property has forced it to seek other solutions.

One Seminole grand jury began to look into the issue last fall but had to stop when it was time to seat new people on the grand jury. Some grand jury members called the short-lived investigation a "whitewash" and asked for a further inquiry.

Critics of the county say the 1985 purchase violated state law because the county bought the property without following established procedure. They say the county purchased the land without proper public notice and without required appraisals. The purchase also came at the end of a long meeting at 2 a.m. when reportedly just one person other than county commissioners or employees were present.

The critics have also maintained that the land purchase is part of a larger scheme designed to increase the value of an elected official's land, provide sewer capacity at taxpayers' expense to a private development and to punish the city for bucking the county in various annexation issues.

...Grant

below the maximum amount the state will allocate. In addition, the city is requesting a grant of $32,358 because the state has provisions for larger grants in some circumstances.

The architect of the restoration project, Jerry Mills, said he is optimistic about the chances for receiving the grants, which will be awarded by the state in November.

"The cultural arts center is an excellent example of Mediterranean architecture," said Mills, who also chairs the city's Historic Preservation Board. "It's the only public building in that style left in Sanford. It has a beautiful interior, with lots of nice woodworking and detailing."

The cultural arts building was opened Jan. 19, 1924. Mills said. It was used as a library before opening as Sanford's cultural arts center in 1964. The building has been closed for a year due to general deterioration. The center has a leaky roof, which Mills said may be fixed before the state's decision on the grants is made.

expressed the hope that in 200 years, when the citizens of Sanford celebrate the Bicentennial of the Constitution, they would gather beneath the shade of the oak tree that was planted today.

At 4 p.m., the religious denominations of Sanford joined in a nationwide Bicentennial bell-ringing for 200 seconds. At 4:04 p.m., citizens observed 200 seconds of silence and meditation on what the Constitution means to them.

In Longwood at 8 a.m., a flag ceremony and display of a copy of the Constitution was given at the Longwood Hotel on County Road 437 at W. Warren Ave. U.S. Army Staff Sgt. David Gonzalez gave a solo trumpet performance. Following the ceremony, the plaque for the Bicentennial tree in Retter Park was re-dedicated.

Citizens of Sanford today will have the opportunity to sign the Sanford Constitution at Sun Bank, Orlando Drive and U.S. Hwy. 17-92 as part of Sanford's week-long celebration of the Bicentennial signing of the Constitution.

City commissioners proclaimed Sept. 13-20 Sanford Constitution Week at the commission meeting Monday night. S. Joseph Davis Jr., chairman of Sanford's Constitution Celebration Steering Committee, read the Preamble and Betty Smith read the proclamation. The Sanford Constitution then was signed by Smith, the city commissioners, and members of the audience.

School children throughout Seminole County joined the Bicentennial celebration Wednesday by reciting the Pledge of Allegiance at 1 p.m. The pledge was led by President Reagan in a nationwide radio and television broadcast. Former Supreme Court Chief Justice Warren Burger, chairman of the national Bicentennial commission, read and explained the Preamble of the Constitution. The program was shown locally on WFTV, Channel 9.

Also, throughout Wednesday all subjects and classes in Seminole County public schools discussed, in one form or another, some aspect of the Constitution. A packet of information and suggestions on appropriate Bicentennial activities, prepared by the National Education Association, was sent to every elementary, middle and high school in the county to encourage participation in the "teach-in."

At Lyman High School Wednesday at 1:30 p.m., there was a presentation of a program called "Display of the United States Constitution" to the faculty and students of Lyman.

'Dial-Ogue' Gives Information On Coping With Pain

Chronic pain often severely affects older people, and for millions, pain is a fact of their everyday lives, according to the National Council of the Aging Inc.

Learning to cope, control or eliminate chronic pain will add to the quality of life, the council says.

On Thursday, Oct. 8, the council and the Pain Treatment Center at Baptist Hospital of Miami are sponsoring a one-day "Dial-ogue" to help learn to cope, control or eliminate chronic pain.

To participate in the "Dial-ogue," call (800) 962-8092, a toll-free number, between 9 a.m.

and 5 p.m. EST. A special panel of nationally known experts in the field of pain management will be available that day only to answer your questions about chronic pain. They can answer such questions as: Can I learn to live with pain? What about remedies from aspirin to bio-feedback? Where can I get more information on chronic pain?

This event is being co-sponsored by the Florida Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation, the Florida Adult Day Care Association, the Miami Jewish Home and Hospital for the Aged, and the Florida Gerontological Society.

Kappa Alpha Psi, Auxiliary To Meet

Silhouettes of Kappa Alpha Psi met recently at the home Silhouette Francis Boyd in Orlando. The group is an auxiliary to the men of Kappa who often suggest projects for the women to undertake during the year.

Planning and outlining activities for the visiting wives of the Kappa Regional meeting held at the Orlando Peabody in March was one of the group's projects.

Other activities include distributing gifts to nursing homes, providing reading materials to elementary schools, giving graduates special recognition and giving gifts to needy families on special holidays.

Home Blood-Pressure Readings Are Helpful

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT - When purchasing home blood-pressure devices, how can one be sure they are properly calibrated? They seem to vary a lot.

DEAR READER - I encourage hypertensive patients to purchase home blood-pressure monitoring devices and to become proficient in using them. Most reliable blood-pressure gauges are factory-calibrated; however, it's a good idea to recalibrate them periodically at, say, yearly intervals. This can be done easily in the doctor's office.

Take your own blood pressure and then have your doctor immediately re-check it using a mercury manometer, the gold standard of blood-pressure measurement. Most doctors use these mercury devices because they do not have to be calibrated and almost never wear out. If the blood-pressure readings differ by more than 10 or 15 points (millimeters of mercury), return your device to the manufacturer for recalibration.

The variation that occurs with home units may not be the fault of the equipment. Our blood pressures usually vary all over the place, depending on stress, exercise, time of day and so forth. Therefore, the figures you are obtaining probably are accurate for you.

If you are taking your blood pressure correctly, you may note both low and high figures. This is normal. Share the numbers with your doctor during your checkup visit: he or she should be grateful to have this additional information because it will help the physician regulate blood pressure medicine or more closely supervise a borderline hypertensive state.

DEAR DR. GOTT - What makes a chocoholic? Is there a physical cause?

DEAR READER - I don't know what makes a chocoholic. People get addicted to the darnedest things: gambling, alcohol, food, caffeine - even to eating clay or laundry starch. Chocolate contains sugar, caffeine and a stimulant called theobromine; one or all of these may be the basis for your craving.

However, if you have an uncontrollable urge to eat chocolate, you also may have an addictive personality, which is often a disease of attitude: The substance itself isn't really the cause. Without a change of attitude, you may "beat" your chocolate addiction, but move on to some other compulsive behavior. Try working out your problem through a support group, such as Weight Watchers or Overeaters Anonymous. The Yellow Pages will list chapters in your area.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
Unbridled optimism best describes North's jump to three spades on his second bid. If South had minimum values, even two spades might be in some jeopardy. However, South came well-heeled and immediately bid a small slam. But how to play it? Isn't it your natural instinct to go after that long diamond suit, setting it up by ruffing, and counting on the spades to also divide 3-2 so that you can get back to dummy and run the diamonds? Of course one defender will be left with a high trump, which he can take any time, but you will make the slam.

diamonds or spades fail to split as you wish. So the answer is to play to make the contract when either the club suit splits 3-3 or the trump suit splits 3-2, with the clubs dividing no worse than 4-2. Here's how it goes: Ruff the opening lead in dummy, come to the ace of clubs and ruff another low heart. Play king of clubs and ruff the third club with the king of spades. Now play A-Q-J of spades and then play on clubs. East can take his trump trick whenever, but you have made your slam. What if clubs were 4-2? Then you would simply hope for the defenders' spades to divide so that you could draw trumps and give up a club to make your contract.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
SEPTEMBER 18, 1987
In the year ahead, you will have some unique involvements that will bring you before the public and serve to enhance your status. These involvements will open new doors of opportunity.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Think your moves through carefully today so that you won't be a victim of your own mistakes. Above all, don't do anything out of spite or anger. Major changes are ahead for Virgos in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH, 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be optimistic and positive today, but base your hopes on realistic premises, especially where your material interests are concerned. Be a doer, not a dreamer.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Goals will be thwarted today if you fail to use logical procedures. Let your mind, not your emotions, call the shots.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It's best not to pry too deeply into the affairs of a close friend today. You might discover and misinterpret something you're better off not knowing.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you recommend to a friend someone whose business ethics are unknown to you, the developments could return to haunt you. Endorse only people of whom you're sure.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) There's a chance you could be too easily influenced by others for your own good today. Unfortunately, you might follow some unwise advice.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) A poor attitude toward your work today could cause you not only to perform badly, but it may create problems with co-workers as well.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Tread warily today regarding ventures that are highly speculative. If you're not careful, you might end up taking a lot of risks for little or no rewards.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) An old issue that previously created disruption in your household may surface again today. Try to be smarter this time in handling it.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't say things about a co-worker today that you would not say to his or her face. What you tell others will be repeated verbatim.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) Try to manage your money like a tightfisted banker today. You don't want your extravagant whims to gain the upper hand and cause you to waste funds needed for necessities.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you're too insistent on doing everything your way today, this could result in problems. Situations that inhibit your will must be handled tolerantly.

Bride's Sleeping Pattern Too Close For Groom's Comfort

DEAR ABBY: I got married three months ago to a wonderful lady. I am 31 and she's 28. The problem: She insists on sleeping in the same space that I sleep in. I thought it was kind of cute at first, but now I am annoyed. She practically sleeps on top of me. I can't sleep with somebody touching me, let alone using me as a human pillow. She says she's not able to sleep any other way.

Dear Abby

I have tried everything including begging and pleading; I've pushed her to one side of the bed only to wake up later with her on top of me again. I've tried cuddling with her until she falls asleep, then moving to another bed, but she awakens and comes over to join me. She slept on my arm one night and it was nearly useless for two full days!

We've had numerous arguments about this. I asked her what she did when she was single. She said she slept alone because she had to, and does not intend to sleep alone now that she has a man to sleep with-corrected-sleep on.

If this keeps up, I may have to rent a motel room to get a good night's sleep.

What a way to start a marriage! I love her, but wonder if this woman needs some psychiatric attention. What do you think?

SLEEPLESS IN PALO ALTO

DEAR ABBY: I work in a three person office. My two co-workers like the temperature "cool." However, what they consider "cool" is too cold for me. Consequently, they are always switching the thermostat to regulate the temperature to suit themselves.

Today, my fingers were so cold I had to put gloves on. (Ever try to type with gloves, Abby?) I complained to the boss, and he said, "If you are cold, put a sweater on - the other two workers are more valuable to me."

Any suggestions?
ONE AGAINST TWO

DEAR ONE: Now that you know how you rate with your boss, you have two choices: Dress for Siberia or find another job.

CONFIDENTIAL TO J.J.R. IN FALL RIVER, MASS.: Help yourself. Imitation is the sincerest form of plagiarism. (Oscar Levant)

Happy Campers Going Strong

A local group of recreational vehicle owners from Sanford call themselves the Happy Campers and once a month, they gather at a central Florida RV park for a weekend.

The club originated several years ago on a whim of B.R. Carroll who named it appropriately the "Happy Campers." Since then, several families have joined and the group has flourished.

A usual weekend consists of caravanning Friday evening to a campsite. On Saturday night, the ladies prepare a potluck supper. The rest of the weekend involves whatever facilities the park has, usually fishing or swimming and of course, some cards, shuffleboard and horseshoe contests.

The group consists of B.R. and Faye Carroll, Dave and Linda Powell, A.G. and Lucy Hodges, Roger and Linda Reiffenrath, Glen and Mildred McKendree, Fred and Dot Coates, and Bill and Lucille Clark, all of Sanford; Art and Kay Lee, Longwood; Bill and Peggy Whitehead, Lake Mary; and Bob and Beverly Adams and Ben and Mary McDaniels, all of DeBary. All the members have motorhomes with all the comforts of home.

In addition to weekend getaways, the campers also get together for a dinner once a month to celebrate a birthday or anniversary. Before Christmas, they have a party hosted by one of the members at their home where they have a potluck supper and exchange gifts.

The last few years the campers have gathered at a RV park for a New Year's Eve party, RV style, with everyone "walking home."

During the past Labor Day weekend, the club gathered at 12 Oaks in Sanford for a long weekend. Besides a potluck supper on Saturday, they had a picnic supper on Sunday, and before leaving on Monday, a picnic lunch was held. The next excursion for the club will be to Jetty Park to enjoy the surf.

Presently, the club is headed again by Mr. B.R. Carroll and any interested family having a RV may call him about joining.

Sanford OKs United Way Civic Center Fund Raiser

Maryann L. Cross
Herald Staff Writer

The Sanford Civic Center will host a United Way fund raiser Oct. 10 even though the sponsor of the event does not meet the "local" criteria required for free use of the center.

Linda Banks, a registered nurse and the United Way chairperson of South Seminole Community Hospital, requested free use of the center for a variety show to raise funds for United Way. Banks said in her application the use of the center is needed to facilitate a larger audience than the hospital can provide at this time.

In paragraph B of the center's application it states free use is granted only in cases where "local service and civic organizations...contribute their profits to local recognized charities, support community service groups, or other charities that may be deemed necessary for providing humanitarian services to the local community."

City Manager Frank Faison, in a memo to the city commission, recommended approving the request. He said the function would benefit the citizens of Sanford since United Way funds raised in Seminole, Orange and Ocala counties are returned to agencies, such as the Sanford-based Salvation Army, in these counties.

In light of the special circumstances, city commissioners voted 5-0 Monday in favor of letting the hospital use the center free of charge.

Banks said the variety show, scheduled for 7:30 p.m., is the climax of the hospital's week-long pledge drive. Nurses, physicians, and hospital personnel will perform skits, sing, and dance for the show. Between each act a prize will be raffled off.

"The raffle tickets cost $1 and will be on sale at the hospital beginning Wednesday," Banks said. "Some of the prizes that have been donated for the raffle include dance lessons from the Arthur Murray dance studio, 10 sessions at a local tanning salon and two lunches at Cristo's of Lake Mary. There will be other prizes as well, including a grand prize of a YMCA family membership. The winning tickets of the prizes will be put back in the box for the grand prize drawing."

The variety show is open to the public and tickets will be $3 for adults, $2 for children and free for children under 5 years of age. The tickets can be purchased at the hospital or at the door the night of the show.

"Last year the hospital raised over $10,000 through pledges and fund-raising events for United Way," Banks said. "This year we hope to raise over $11,000. This will be the first time the hospital has used a variety show to raise money. We're grateful to the city commission for letting us use the civic center."

The Sanford Civic Center was built and is maintained by the taxpayers and residents of the City of Sanford and does not receive any support from Seminole County or other sources. Organizations that qualify for free use still are assessed a fee for utility cost plus custodian cost if use is not during the normal hours of operation.

How Proudly They Wave

Waving to passersby are a few of the 350 U.S. flags on display on U.S. Highway 17-92 and elsewhere in Longwood in conjunction with the celebration of the 200th anniversary of the signing of the U.S. Constitution this week. Each of the 200 years is represented on plaques placed on the flags telling a historic event from that year. The flags, donated by local businesses and individuals, are put out each morning and picked up each night by members of the Charles Glascock family. Mayor Ed Myers personally mowed the high weeds in the median strip of Highway 17-92 from General Hutchinson Blvd. to Dog Track Road to provide a place for the flags.

Bork Defends Civil Right Record

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Supreme Court nominee Robert Bork said Wednesday blacks and women should not be concerned about his civil rights record even though he has voiced vehement criticism of rulings creating liberties for them.

Bork, 60, in his second day before the Senate Judiciary Committee, which is considering his nomination to the nation's highest tribunal, faced tough questions from Democrats on areas causing the gravest concern: His civil rights record and his actions during Watergate.

The queries on civil rights turned on Bork's controversial belief that little or no legal reasoning exists for such liberties in the Constitution, a day shy of its 200th anniversary.

Panel members took a break from the intellectual debate over the supreme law of the land to join President Reagan, other lawmakers, judges and assorted capital luminaries for a glitzy celebration of the Constitution on the steps of the Capitol.

But earlier, Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., went right to the heart of the matter when he asked the bearded witness to imagine how he would feel if he was a black man and heard Bork's statements attacking civil rights laws.

The Arizonan, considered an undecided vote, recounted Bork's statements since the advent of the civil rights movement denouncing public accommodation laws that opened restaurants and hotels to blacks and legislation banning literacy tests at the polls, which kept poor blacks from voting.

Bork once labeled public accommodation laws as "un-surpassed ugliness" for forcing the races to associate with each other.

DeConcini asked, "Don't you think you have to agree that those kind of statements are ample in nature to create a great deal of concern about where you are coming from on these kind of issues?"

"If those statements were all the people had before them, they should certainly raise a great deal of concern," Bork conceded.

but quickly added, "If I were a black man who had heard those statements but knew my record as solicitor general and as a judge, I do not think that I would be concerned, because it is a good civil rights record."

Bork said he argued against such laws on their legal reasonings alone and said he always has been against racial discrimination.

He said he changed his view on the public accommodation laws years ago.

A former Yale law school professor who since 1982 has been a member of the U.S. District Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, Bork was selected July 1 by President Reagan to replace Justice Lewis Powell.

White House spokesman Martin Fitzwater said Reagan thought Bork did "a great job" before the panel. However, at a social event Tuesday evening, the president told Justice Byron White he thought the nominee was doing fine against "a bunch of bush leaguers."

Bork Denies He's An Agnostic

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Supreme Court nominee Robert Bork told a Senate committee Wednesday that, contrary to a published account, he is not an agnostic.

Responding to questions of freedom of religion posed by Sen. Alan Simpson, R-Wyo., Bork said, "I am not an agnostic."

Bork said a reporter had misinterpreted his answer to a question on his personal religious beliefs. What he had meant by his answer to the reporter, Bork said, is that he was not a regular churchgoer or someone of "great piety."

"It's only the fact that it is on the public record that I choose to deny it," Bork said on the second day of his confirmation hearing before the Senate Judiciary Committee. He added that that was all he had to say on the subject.

Time magazine, in its July 13 issue, had reported that Bork "was raised a Protestant and is now an agnostic."

David Beckwith, the reporter who interviewed Bork for that article, said Wednesday that Bork had not labeled himself an agnostic, but had said that he did not belong to a church and had not in his adult life.
