ARMY FLIER WINS PULITZER AWARD IN SPEED CLASSIC

Lieut. Bettis Drives Plane 245 Miles an Hour, Taking Event From Navy Airman; Huge Crowd Sees Events
 MITCHELL FIELD, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Covered with grime and glory with his plane shooting flame in the gathering darkness late Monday, Lieut. Cyrus Bettis, Army ace, won the Pulitzer trophy race, fearances, broke the world's speed record of 245 miles per hour for a closed circuit course, and established a new record of 242.75 miles per hour.
 Lieut. A. J. Williams, Navy pilot, came in second with an average speed of 241.11 miles per hour. Three other entries strung along behind and the sixth was unable to complete the race having been forced down by engine trouble.
 The largest crowd yet to attend the meet surged back and forth in the enclosures, and vied for a sight of America's premier racing planes, as Lieut. Bettis and Williams taxied their planes into position on the starting line.
 At the crack of the gun, the little planes whirled across the field, leaped into the air, and were off. The crowd, turning their eyes to the southward waited impatiently for a sight of the planes.
 A flash of blue and gold, and the Navy plane passed overhead. A few seconds later the roar of a second motor and a flash of black and gold told that Bettis was driving hard.
 Report Says Crowd. Early in the race the crowd was electrified when a report was circulated that Lieut. Williams had lost the wheel of his ship. The report proved untrue, however, but as the end of the race drew near Army officers ordered an ambulance brought on the field, and a file of soldiers took up positions to repel any.
 Lieut. Bettis' first question upon landing was "where is Al?" (Williams) "I want to ask him what was the matter with his ship."
 Williams, however, had left the field immediately upon landing. He had been injured by a flying propeller.

GIRL PAINFULLY HURT IN MOTOR ACCIDENT HERE

Mary Duncan Cut and Bruised When Thrown Clear of Car in Collision at Corner of Magnolia and 11 Wednesday
 Mary Ernestine Duncan of 206 Myrtle Avenue was painfully, though not seriously hurt about 4:30 o'clock Monday afternoon when the car in which she was riding, driven by Thomas Gibson, of this city, collided with an automobile owned and driven by A. D. Zachary of the Zachary-Tyler Veneer Co., at the intersection of Magnolia Avenue and Eleventh Street.

Thrown through a glass window in the side of the car to the ground by the force of the collision, the girl was rendered unconscious. She was picked up and rushed to the Fernald-Laughton hospital, where she regained consciousness within a short time, and the nature of her injuries determined. She was cut about the face and hands, hospital attaches say, and was bruised about the head and body.

Although suffering from shock and injuries, she was permitted to go to her home later in the evening, and relatives stated today that her condition is much improved.

According to reports of officers A. H. Beckwith and J. B. Green, who investigated the crash, and a statement made by Mr. Zachary today, Mr. Gibson, driving an Overland, was traveling west on Eleventh Street, when he struck the Hudson, which was going south on Magnolia Avenue, at the time of the accident. Mr. Zachary stated that he was not traveling more than 15 miles an hour when he saw the approaching car. They met, according to stories, in the center of the intersection. Both cars were damaged in the collision.

According to witnesses, Miss Duncan was thrown clear out of the Overland onto the front part of the Hudson, from which it is thought she fell to the ground. She was unconscious when picked up, it is said.

Police officials stated today that an investigation of the circumstances is in progress, and that both drivers will be summoned to Municipal Court Wednesday morning.

McMILLAN AND CREW RECEIVE BIG WELCOME

Arctic Expedition Returns To United States After Long Absence and Enthusiastic Program Marks Ceremonies
 Last Day of Journey Proves To Be Longest
 Explorer and 38 Companions Guests at Banquet When Account of Trip Is Given
 PORTLAND, Maine, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Commander Donald B. MacMillan and the 38 members of his Arctic exploration expedition, scientists, aviators and scamen, were welcomed home Monday by a program of enthusiasm which extended from Wisconsin to this city.
 Given more than usual disappointment by the worst Summer the natives remember in the North, beset and delayed along the entire homeward route by gales which culminated in that which kept them on the expedition for nearly 60 days, and relatives marooned on the small wind-swept Monaghan Island, the attitude of them all was expressed by Commander MacMillan when he said at a luncheon given him here, "This room looks good to us."

This last day of the expedition was a long one. The crews astir on the ships before 4 o'clock yesterday morning preparing for the run for the mainland, which the expected break in the gale would permit.

Leaves Early. From the 20 or more homes on Monaghan where they had found shelter the band of relatives, friends and newspapermen gathered in the intense darkness preceding the dawn about the wind-swept dock where the Peary lay. Shortly after 5 o'clock the expedition got under way.

The culmination of the rejoicing at their safe arrival was reached at the luncheon tendered Commander MacMillan by the Portland Rotary Club. To reach it the program at Wisconsin was cut to a brief interchange of greetings, and followed by a dash in a motor cavalcade with the road cleared and the wind which roared held open for the party.

It was at this luncheon that the leaders of the State, of the army and navy, of science and education, gathered to congratulate the explorer on his safe return and the accomplishments of the Summer. Commander MacMillan, in return with voice hoarse from the exposure and hardship of the long voyage, thanked them for his reception and that of his men, then proceeded to extol the work of his companions with scarcely a passing reference to indicate that he had any connection with this first attempt by American fliers to discover that unknown area of the Polar Sea.

An Able Crew. "The best crew I ever had," for the man who sailed the Bowdoin; "a fine body of men, in no way to blame for the failure of their effort," for the United States Navy aviators; commendations for the scientists of the National Geographic Society, "one of whom on a few weeks at Etah accomplished more than any other men had accomplished in years," were the tributes paid by Commander MacMillan. He stressed again the extreme hazard of flight of heavier than airplanes above the Arctic (Continued on Page Three)

 Captain's 12-Year Old Son Aid in Rescue Work; Two Bodies Found on Monday
 MELBOURNE, Fla., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Fisherman and others today were patrolling the shore line in search for two missing bodies while authorities investigated the capsizing of the yacht Clara A. in the Atlantic ocean off Sebastian Inlet, 18 miles south of here Sunday, which took a death toll of 14. Compilations made by the Associated Press show that out of the four couples, who were on the ill-fated craft only one couple survived. At least one member of each of other couples was drowned. Survivors of the catastrophe are reticent about discussing their harrowing experiences—each wanted to forget and each saw the calamity in a different light.

Most of the persons on board were prospective real estate purchasers brought to Melbourne by the Melbourne Arms Company and the boat ride was an entertainment feature of their Florida trip.
 Ten of the 14 bodies were recovered shortly after the accident. Two more were found late yesterday and last night members of the local American Legion post, and other searchers, patrolled the shore line seeking the two bodies unaccounted for.

Man Swamped With Money Suggestions

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Associates of Leopold Schupp pleaded today for cessation of continued ideas on how the 84-year old philanthropist could distribute his millions. Last July Mr. Schupp, appeared through the Associated Press for some "concrete and workable ideas" on how he might best distribute his surplus wealth.
 Whether the ideas he received were more concrete or workable is open to discussion but in bulk at any rate they were a hundred times greater than was expected by the aged philanthropist, who had no idea what forces he was unleashing.
 Since the appeal for ideas was made, it was announced today, that 100,000 communications originating in a virtually every part of the world, have been received.

Family Being Pressure

Mr. Weeks' retirement is due not to his own choice but to the pressure of his family and to advice of his physicians. His withdrawal from the cabinet will leave only Secretaries Mellon, Hoover, Work and James J. Davis, of the Labor Department, of the original Harding cabinet, whom Mr. Coolidge asked to carry on with him when he succeeded to the presidency.
 The retiring war secretary paid a first visit Monday to the war department, illness compelled him to leave his office last April. He announced and did not concern himself with the official business, devoting his time to accepting the good wishes of the officers and civilians attached to the department.

OURSELVES AND INDUSTRY

THE DIVISION OF LABOR
By E. L. Lincoln

If we tried to produce with our own labor all the things we use every day we would find it quite helpless.

It is hard to imagine how we would be able to construct it and what sort of things we would have if we tried to do it all with our own hands.

Because of the division of labor, men in past years had different occupations.

In modern times the division of labor has become more pronounced.

Adam Smith in "The Wealth of Nations" pointed out that the division of labor increases the productivity of the worker.

But if they tried to do it all themselves, they would find it impossible.

About 120 years ago the division of labor was first introduced.

It is the result of the division of labor that we have the modern world.

COBSAIRS REGAIN LOST CONFIDENCE IN MONDAY GAME

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP)—Confidence oozed from the Pirates clubhouse after their victory over the Senators in the fifth game of the world series.

"Wouldn't be surprised if we'd take them," Manager Bill McKenchie said as he rushed into his closet in preparation for an immediate train journey back to the home town. "We've got Johnson and Coveleski out of the way for a while.

"Thursday I'm going to send Kremer back and he is in good shape to go. He's worked hard for us all year and is one who can get back into the box with comparatively short rest.

"I've started to hit and that explains why we won and are going to keep on hitting from now on. Yes, I think we'll take them."

The Pirates were like a primary school let loose for recess, thumping each other on the back, smiling brightening every face, as they piled into taxis and dashed for the train awaiting them.

McKenchie himself, hunched over, his face that has been his for several days and laughed and joked with the crowd which swarmed to the door to congratulate him.

Stanley Harris, youthful manager of the Senators, had a dejected look on his face. "Those things will happen," he said. "And they're a part of baseball. Coveleski was right, anybody could see that. He wanted to go in and get back that he was not a Pittsburgher, but he was not there.

"I may start either Ruether or Ferguson today; I haven't decided. That was a fine play when Judge stabbed Carey's shot down the first base line when things were dangerous and for a time thought it had saved the game for us. Blonger felt fine and did some nice fielding. He was pretty good at the bat, too.

"I wish we had ended it and did not have to go back here. I'm at most tired of the whole thing."

Walter Johnson said that if the Pirates win today he probably will be out there again in the last game.

"I'll have to go to the best we can," he argued, "and that's about all there is to it. I don't do any work outside of picking up a bat and trying to get on base. I don't think I'll do that again."

McCormick, the Senators' pitcher, not so good today but I think he'll be all right."

McCormick, the Senators' pitcher, not so good today but I think he'll be all right."

Cars From Every State But One Cross Bridge

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP)—The Pirates were like a primary school let loose for recess, thumping each other on the back, smiling brightening every face, as they piled into taxis and dashed for the train awaiting them.

McKenchie himself, hunched over, his face that has been his for several days and laughed and joked with the crowd which swarmed to the door to congratulate him.

Stanley Harris, youthful manager of the Senators, had a dejected look on his face. "Those things will happen," he said. "And they're a part of baseball. Coveleski was right, anybody could see that. He wanted to go in and get back that he was not a Pittsburgher, but he was not there.

"I may start either Ruether or Ferguson today; I haven't decided. That was a fine play when Judge stabbed Carey's shot down the first base line when things were dangerous and for a time thought it had saved the game for us. Blonger felt fine and did some nice fielding. He was pretty good at the bat, too.

"I wish we had ended it and did not have to go back here. I'm at most tired of the whole thing."

Walter Johnson said that if the Pirates win today he probably will be out there again in the last game.

"I'll have to go to the best we can," he argued, "and that's about all there is to it. I don't do any work outside of picking up a bat and trying to get on base. I don't think I'll do that again."

OLD-FACE TEST AFTER LOSS OF EIGHT VETS

1925 Stanford Eleven Promises We'll Be Back After Loss of Eight Vets. The team that lost the California to Pacific Coast Conference championship. Yet the 1925 eleven promises to be superior.

Last fall Stanford won every game of the regular season except the big game with California which resulted in a 20 to 20 tie. Stanford lost a post-season game to Notre Dame at Pasadena. The three regulars from 1924—Captain Etrusco Nevers, 205-pound full back, twice mentioned on All-America selections; Fred Shipkey, end, and Fred Swan, guard. Several others back on the squad made varsity letters last season, but did not play regularly.

"I'll keep camped on Nevers' trail this season. He was hurt in a scrimmage before the first game and spent most of the season on the sidelines. He recovered in time to play against Notre Dame, and in that game he advanced the ball considerably.

Warner will have plenty of weight, both in the line and in the backfield. The line which he selected tentatively, averaged 190, the backfield 190 pounds. Warner also has plenty of reserve material to tack up the reconstructed varsity.

Stanford's first big test will be the game against Southern California at Los Angeles, Oct. 17.

Stumped Him

HOUSTON, Oct. 15 (AP)—A friend of mine who lives in a small town was telling me of a new chauffeur he had hired. He was planning to do considerable touring, so he decided to hire a chauffeur to carry along with him. He had heard that a friend of his had hired a chauffeur and he had decided to do the same.

"I'm glad to be doing this," he said. "I've been playing golf since I was 10 years old and I hope to continue to play for many years to come."
