Lucky Children

Those getting along in years will have a touch of homesickness when they pick up the new anthology, "Youth's Companion," edited by Lovell Thompson. This is a selection of the most interesting articles and stories that appeared in this popular children's magazine from its start in 1827 to its ending in 1920. The author index shows such remarkable names as John Quincy Adams, Louisa Alcott, William Cullen Bryant, Willa Cather, Winston Churchill, Rudyard Kipling and William Dean Howells. Longfellow, Lowell, Emerson and Whittier all wrote for Youth's Companion.

Comparable to Youth's Companion and having many of the same subscribers was St. Nicholas, whose life extended from 1873 to 1940. This also has had an anthology of its most interesting contents edited by Prof. Henry S. Commager of Columbia University's History Department. Two volumes of this have appeared.

Any magazine today would be more than proud to have such important contributors as these two. Neither was in the least high-brow. Both were in the best sense family magazines, designed chiefly for children but acceptable to grownups.

Why are there no such children's magazines today? Have the automobile, television and the comics driven them all out? There are several for the small fry but ages nine to sixteen lack something.

Designer Says No Real Luxury

NEW YORK (AP)—"There isn't any real luxury left in the world today," says Charles James, who designs dresses that sell for $1,000 apiece.

"Luxury is nonexistent. We live in a period that is little better than a gilt-edged communism. That is what makes it dangerous—the fact there is plenty of money here, but it reflects the average taste, not the peak taste."

James, a designer who has twice won the national critics award, numbers among his clients some of the best-dressed ladies socially and internationally, including the former Queen of Spain, Mrs. Harrison Williams, Mrs. C. V. Whitney and Lily Pons.

An intense, slender man of 48, he feels the American fashion industry lacks prestige because it spends too much money trying to please people of average taste.

"That makes the average person the leader in style," he said. "It is ridiculous. The middle group destroys taste. It doesn't create it. Most great changes in taste have come from extravagant people with powerful original personalities."

No Comment

By WALTER CHAMBLIN JR.
Comments by Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson sometimes cause him trouble, but persons who know say that he has done a great service to the American people in bringing order out of chaos in the defense industry.

Wilson himself declares that the country now has better defense forces money. The Defense Department is spending $11 billion annually less for military goods than before President Eisenhower named him Secretary of Defense.

The record has been made as a result of the great executive ability and hard work of Mr. Wilson. It is a tribute to his common sense and use of business methods.

Presently forgotten by the masses which Wilson solved an acute shortage in Korea in record time shortly after taking command office. Later increases in the value emphasize the financial very little is said about stock in the General Motors Corporation which Mr. Wilson sold when he accepted his post in the defense industry.

When Mr. Wilson took office there was hanging over the administration a backlog of $1.7 billion of unspent, but largely committed, appropriations left by the Truman regime. This reduced the area in which Secretary Wilson and his aides could bring about economy and efficiency.

One big change made by Wilson was to reduce the huge surplus of government services goods with which the warship were bulging. With characteristic business acumen, Mr. Wilson says, "We don't have to buy more than we need now, so we can run an auction and sell the surplus for $1.5 billion or so."

Another report has been to reduce the surplus of goods that have been a major demand for the government and employees, only to be sold at a loss.

Redeeming Chicago

Chicago government, generally thought pretty bad, may have a redeemer on hand in the person of Alderman Robert Merriam. His career is written up in Harper's Magazine by Joseph N. Bell, who describes him as a completely honest man but one without a party. Originally a Democrat, Merriam fell out with the organization a few years ago and has not been taken up by the Republicans. With a mayoralty election next spring the Republicans, normally the minority party in Chicago, may find it expedient to pick Merriam and get some new blood.

Merriam comes naturally by his interest in good government. His father, the late Charles E. Merriam, was a long-time professor of government in the University of Chicago, and the author of many books on the subject. He was a practical man, elected term after term to the Chicago Board of Aldermen. He once ran a close race for mayor.

Chicago has long been the victim of gang rule. The lowest point was reached a generation ago under Big Bill Thompson. The present mayor, Martin Kennedy, a capable business man, has effected a number of improvements, but seems to have lacked the energy to do more. Chicago could use a man such as Merriam.

Trouble Over Aden

"Everybody is picking on us." If the British were given to making such remarks, they have plenty of occasion to do so. They have already had to give up Egypt, India, Burma and Ceylon; they are faced with a demand that they turn the Mediterranean island of Cyprus over to the Greeks; and now they have a new trouble spot.

This is Aden, the boiling hot British crown colony on the east coast of the Red Sea, not far from its southern end. Its commands entrance and exit from the Red Sea. It was thought by the British world seizing from an Arab ruler in 1839. It is now an important coaling station, and serves as an outlet for Arabian products such as coffee, feathers, dyes, pearl and ivory. Its seizure justified the British judgment in the effort to acquire strategic ports all over the world.

Now the Sultan of Yemen belongs to his country and was wrongfully seized by the British. He has brought the matter up before the United Nations.

Conceivably Yemen is not trying to get definite possession just now. If the British offer trade concessions, Yemen might well consent to drop her claim. But in the meantime it is one more thing for Great Britain to worry about.

By THURMAN HENNING

(Editor's note: Thurman Henning's rather biased remarks do not necessarily reflect the opinions of The Herald. However, it is felt that Henning's comments are thought-provoking and for this reason, they are being published.)

Such practices as combinations to raise prices, fix prices or curtail production are all illegal under our anti-trust laws—that is, for all but labor unions. Which simply means that labor unions have special privileges under the laws of the land, and the rest of the people are second-class citizens.

This is not right. It is not right that labor unions should be permitted to commit acts of discrimination that if committed by others would result in fines and jail sentences.

The fact that this exemption of labor unions from the anti-trust laws has been recognized as discriminatory and unjust has not prevented the exemption from remaining in the labor law of the land. It is only now, after twenty years of economic organization, that we are beginning to see the working population—that there seems to be some political leadership that give hope of abolishing this unfair exemption.

One of the great differences between the enterprise and progress of the American industrial system and those of other nations of the world has been the existence of anti-trust laws in this country. It was recognized by our lawmakers many years ago that competition is the life of trade and the basis of progress. This recognition resulted in the passage of the anti-trust laws making it unlawful to combine in restraint of trade or allocate markets or control production and prices.

The result has been quite evident to anyone who has ever studied the advancement of the American industrial system—in lower prices, in better products, in an increased standard of living. It has benefited all the people.

In other nations of the world, particularly the industrial nations of Europe, the practice has been just the opposite. In those nations the governments have encouraged the combination of interests in industry to do the very things that our anti-trust laws prevent our industries from doing. Here again,

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT COFF

EVERY WEEK some advertising geniuses are prevented by TV authorities from introducing commercials likely to offend sensitive listeners one way or another. Some of the rulings cause raised eyebrows, and even howls of protest from the frustrated ad-men. Recently, for instance, there was quite a to-do when a skin ointment company ran the following ad:

"A $1.250 dress is really cheap," he boasted. "We lose an average of $500 when on these creations."

What James says is a good deal like the one that designer Charles James said in the fashion industry. "A $1.250 dress is really cheap," he boasted. "We lose an average of $500 when on these creations."

The best fashion talent in this country is being kept unemployed by the French houses. Only in Paris do they find the freedom to experiment and show their originality.

My Sincere Thanks to the people of Sanford. I will do my best to fulfill the trust you have placed in me.

People Don't Seem Greatly Upset

WASHINGTON (AP)—At this time, when politicians begin putting their own interpretations on Tuesday's elections, one conclusion is obvious and a second one seems so.

1. It was a Republican defeat. The voters showed their dissatisfaction with Republican control of Congress by turning the House and perhaps the Senate over to the Democrats. The final exact result may not be known until after some recounting.

2. The extraordinary narrowness of the margin was a pretty good sign the great majority of voters are not deeply disturbed by the state of the nation.

If the people—as a whole—had been fed-ridden or in distress they would have expressed their misgivings or anger by giving the Democrats an overwhelming victory to change the direction. This they did not do.

On the other hand, if they had been extremely enthusiastic about the Republican performance of the past two years, it seems reasonable to believe they would have increased the GOP control of Congress. They did the reverse.

The amazingly even division of voters' thinking was best reflected in the Senate races where, in Oregon, Ohio and New Jersey, only a few thousand votes separated the candidates although roughly five million votes were cast in the three states.

And the Democrats achieved an smashing majority in capturing control of the House over President Eisenhower's last-minute pleas to keep the Republicans in charge.

Of the 435 House seats, the Democrats won 232 to the Republicans' 203. They did it by gaining 17 seats. The Republicans may try to console themselves by recalling that for half a century—with one exception, 1934—the party in control of Congress has lost some seats in the mid-term elections.

And they may argue that their loss of 17 seats this year was far less than the recent average of 40 seats picked up by the party out of power in the mid-term balloting.

But the fact remains the voters have shown they can, when they wish, reverse the mid-term tradition and increase the grip on Congress by the party in power. They did that in 1934 to show their enthusiasm for the New Deal begun by President Roosevelt two years before.

By the same token the voters this year, if they had felt overwhelming enthusiasm for the Republicans, could have added to their seats in both houses. They chose not to.

It's possible that Eisenhower's last-minute efforts for the Republicans saved them from a worse setback. Or the voters may have made up their minds before he ever got neck-deep into the campaign.

In some special situations—such as unemployment in Michigan and Pennsylvania—the voters made their feelings known by unseating a Senate Republican (Michigan) and replacing a Republican with a Democrat as governor (Pennsylvania).

But one of the main Democratic arguments—that farmers were burned up at the Eisenhower administration's flexible price support program—was not borne out by the results.

On the contrary, in the normally Republican farm state of Iowa Sen. Gillette, a personally popular Democrat seeking his third term, was defeated. There were no big congressional reversals for Republicans elsewhere in the farm belt.

By the same token the voters this year, if they had felt overwhelming enthusiasm for the Republicans, could have added to their seats in both houses. They chose not to.

Laura Fermi Has Lived In Midst Of Atom Splitting

Laura Fermi of Chicago has lived in the midst of atom splitting for more than 20 years. Married to Enrico Fermi, leader of the group that achieved the first atomic chain reaction, this quiet, motherly woman has learned to take bombs and stockpiles in her stride. She has written about it in her new book, "Atoms in the Family," describing her famous husband in the slightly amused and completely unswayed manner common to wives.

During a one-day stopover in New York en route from a summer vacation in Europe to her husband's research job at the University of Chicago, Mrs. Fermi chatted brightly about how it feels to be married to one of the world's greatest scientists. "I guess it's a good deal like being married to a business man or a farmer," she says, "because I never knew what was going on when all the top secret experiments were under way. We just never talked about the atomic bomb project by mutual consent." How a wife could contain her natural feminine curiosity for five years during the war, when Fermi worked with the Manhattan Project and later with the final perfection of the first atomic bomb, is a secret known only to Mrs. Fermi.

The Fermis were married in Italy, when Enrico was then recognized as a brilliant and promising young scientist. After they came to America, his wife was worried mostly about the servant problem and the difficulty of keeping house in wartime.

PRINCESS COAT-DRESS is in black and white Donegal tweed, and designed by Anne Klein. An attached three-cornered scarf is softly tied over the catclan neckline.

You can buy a steak three to five days ahead of the time you plan to use it but see that you store it properly. Make sure the steak lies flat on waxed paper and wrap it loosely. Keep the steak in the coldest part of your refrigerator and not in the freezing compartment—until you are ready to cook it.

Fund Raisers Note: Beware Of Wives!

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

This glittering generosity emerges from reading a new little book called "Fund-raising Made Easy" by two experts, Edward S. Newman and Leo J. Margolin.

Actually, the volume, designed to help causes meet budget goals, is an eye-opener for many of us on the checkbook, or query, end of this little operation.

Generally speaking, say Messrs. Newman and Margolin, it is best to keep wives away from husbands if you would separate the latter from a good-sized contribution in recommending a dinner as a fundraising device, for instance, these two veteran counsel stay get-togethers.

"Though women will give generously when called upon at their own fund-raising functions," they comment, "they tend to hold down the level of giving at mixed events."

"What actually happens," concluded Margolin in person, "is that when a man's wife is present, he figures he'd better be careful about contributions. Probably just that morning he told her, in the midst of a great big argument, that they couldn't possibly afford new furniture for the dining room."

This sort of husbandly caution can be lethal to carefully plotted campaigns, when all the details have been figured to make it financially impossible for Mr. X to give less than Mr. Y without showing up nobly as a check-skatee or a n'er-do-well.

This is called the "women's division" and the girls are there permitted to roam like crazy for the cause among other women, where they won't lose up prices of big family contributions.

They are to be encouraged to go about such no-stakes as luncheons, fashion shows.

"In general," they state, "the gifts should be in the nature of cash contributions from household money rather than pledges personally identified themselves with the campaign and do not merely ease their husbands' obligations."

The authors estimate that during 1954 some 10 million volunteers will extract from American contributors approximately five billion dollars for causes ranging from small local projects to great big national organizations.

Personally, I would like the authors to follow up this revealing volume with another directed toward the contributors. I would enjoy learning, for instance, how to gracefully get out of contributing $5 to the Society for the Prevention of Head Colds Among Eskimos when my neighbor across the street is doing her house-to-house but still maintaining amicable relations on that when I'm making my rounds for the A. S. to Aid Inman Medical Students do I look in

Weekend Football Selections

NEW YORK (AP)—Oh, hush, some of the political forecasters were wrong in the election, too, weren't they?

Last Thursday's list of games had 35 winners and 14 that were incorrect for an average of .715. That listed the season's average to .793 with 252 games picked correctly and 96 wrong.

Here are the winners this week end:

UCLA over Oregon: The Uclans, now rated the country's best, are stomping all their Pacific Coast rivals. Two of the season's best backs, Prima Villanueva of UCLA, and George Shaw of Oregon, occupy the same field.

Ohio State over Pittsburgh: The situation here is ideal for an upset but one doesn't dare pick against the Buckeyes as long as Hopalong Cassidy still is around.

Oklahoma over Iowa State: The Oklahomans, who have been threatened enough lately to be alert.

Rice over Arkansas: The game in Arkansas will be the pick in the belief that the Razorbacks have run out of mirrors.

Army over Yale: The possibility that Bob Kysky, Army's fleetest back, will join his Cadet teammates after a few weeks absence with injuries puts an even heavier burden on Yale.

Iowa over Purdue: Purdue has a passer and Iowa has a pass defense for this Hawkeye homecoming.

Southern California over Stanford: Those Trojans are Rose Bowl bound.

Duke over Navy: The game will be played at Norfolk, Va., as the eighth annual Oyster Bowl game. The Middies gave their all against Notre Dame last weekend.

Minnesota over Oregon State: How did the governors ever lose that game to Michigan by 34-0?

The others without comment:

FRIDAY NIGHT
Virginia Tech over George Washington, Kansas State over Drake, Marquette over Boston College.

SATURDAY
East: Boston University over Villanova, Brown over Springfield, Colgate over Bucknell, Cornell over Syracuse, Dartmouth over Columbia, Penn State over Holy Cross, Princeton over Harvard, Rutgers over Lafayette, Temple over Brandeis.

Midwest: Miami (Ohio) over Indiana, Nebraska over Kansas, Michigan State over Washington State, Missouri over Colorado, Wisconsin over Illinois.

South: Clemson over Furman, Georgia Tech over Tennessee, Florida over Georgia, Kentucky over Vanderbilt, Louisiana State over Chattanooga, Maryland over North Carolina State, West Carolina over Richmond, South Carolina over Furman, William I Mary over Virginia Military, The Citadel over Newberry, Mississippi State over North Texas State, Miami (Fla.) over Auburn, Mississippi over Memphis State.

Southeast: Baylor over Texas, Southern Methodist over Texas A & M, Houston over Tulsa, Hardin Simmons over Texas Western.

Far West: Wyoming over Utah State, California over Washington, Cincinnati over Arizona State, Texas Tech over Arizona, Utah over Colorado A & M, Denver over San Young, Montana over New Mexico.

JUST TAKEN BETS
NEW YORK—Two dollar bets at race tracks soon may be using tokens instead of money.

An inventor has come up with a new token-operated mechanical device which will enable folks to buy race tickets as fast and as easy as a pack of cigarettes at a vending machine.

Each better could make his own wager by inserting a small plastic token into the device, pushing a numbered button and receiving a ticket.

Homecoming Week For Florida Normal

A record breaking crowd is expected to flow into the Little Links field in St. Augustine Saturday to see the Florida Normal and Industrial Memorial Lions meet the Albany State Rams for their homecoming game. This game is predicted to be one of the best slated in the conference this season. Game time will be at 2 p. m.

The Lions will be seeking their fifth win of the season against no losses and one tie. Their victories have been over Edward Waters College, Savannah State College, Clifton College, Morris College, and the tie with Voorhees College.

The Albany team finished among the top teams last season. They played the wide open brand of football and are noted for their razzle-dazzle type of offense that often leaves their opponents baffled.

Coach Hunt is working with his backfield in order to put into the offense a new series of plays that he hopes will penetrate the Ramsey line. Line Coach Lorenzo Thomas worked his line harder than they have worked all season preparing them to they might stop the tactics of the tricky Albany offense.

With the return of first string Left Halfback Waymon Solmers, the Lions are expected to have more added strength in their backfield. Clemon Daniels, who has shown tremendous improvement running from the fullback position, is expected to help very much also.

The homecoming game will precede the game. It will start from the college at noon.

DELAND—Stetson's football team left today for Clinton, S.C., where the Hatters will meet Presbyterian College tomorrow night.

Coach Herb McQuinn said the backfield will have Dick Saiter at quarterback, Art Fink and Gene Stephenson at half and Frank Slaughter at fullback.

The University of Mississippi hasn't kicked a field goal since 1931. That year they lost to L.S.U. 28-3.

Florida Southern Plans To Open Sixth Annual Basketball School

LAKELAND—(Special)—Florida Southern College will open its 6th annual Basketball Administration School on Friday night with the intensive course for future basketball business executives scheduled to end on Saturday, Nov. 27.

A class of 33 men and women, from points as far distant as California, Vermont, Washington and Michigan is enrolled for day and evening classes covering every phase of the business end of basketball.

Endorsed by the National Association of Professional Basketball Leagues, the school will have for its 1938 faculty, one of the best farm directors of the New York Yankees; Robert L. Finch, director of public relations for the National Association; William H. Hirsch, business manager of the Omaha Cardinals; Alvin H. Russell, president of the Brantford Baseball Club; William Purnague, business manager of the Davenport, Iowa, Baseball Club; George MacDonell, a graduate of the school and general manager of the Ottawa (Canada) Baseball Club; W. H. Carwell, of the Globe Ticket Company, Atlanta; and W. D. Shilling, of Florida Southern College.

The course covers such front-of-the-house subjects as the National Association Agreement, player contracts and related paper work, tickets and tax laws, legal responsibilities, and insurance, financing, accounting and payroll systems, park maintenance, daily game operations, concessions, promotions and public relations.

The 32nd school was started five years ago under the recommendation of George M. Trautman, president of the National Association and who serves as chairman of the Advisory Board.

The school is designed to upgrade men and women for front-office careers in baseball, and some 60 graduates of the school are now working in organized baseball.

Second Scrimmage Ends Gator Drill

GAINESVILLE (AP)—A second straight day of Gator drills ended Saturday just about completed the University of Florida's rough football work for their Southeastern Conference game with Georgia in Jacksonville Sunday.

Coach Bob Woodruff says he is counting on Brodsky and his low fullback Malcolm Hamrick and Bill Bolton to match Georgia's fine duo of Bobby Garrard and Bob Clemons.

Woodruff predicted one of the best battles in the history of the series between the SEC. The winner will be leader in the SEC.

Injuries Sideline Spartan Starters

TAMPA (AP)—The University of Tampa football team apparently will be without two veteran starters Friday night for what coach Marcelino Huerta calls the Spartans' "roughest home game so far."

Huerta said halfback Fred Chicago will not dress for the game against East Carolina because of a broken rib; and guard Joe Zupski will be sidelined with a broken jaw. There had been hope that Chicago would have recovered by now and that Zupski could play with a face protector.

Two valuable reserves also are on the doubtful list, end Ron Oster with a cold and center Jor Onderko with a bad shoulder.

The Spartans wound up their rough work for the East Carolina game yesterday with a 30-minute scrimmage in which defense was stressed.

FURRY FINN GOT AWAY
PITTSBURGH, N.H. (AP)—Here's a "fish" story with a new angle. It's about a big one that got away.

J.F. Fertias was fishing in Lake Francis recently with guide "Vag" Judd. They spotted a "big one" swimming across the lake in a pond-beer.

Continuing with renewed fury the animal made it to shore and ran into the woods, the hook still in his side.

For six home games of the 1933 National Football League season the Detroit Lions averaged 52.98 fans. Briggs Stadium's seating capacity is 33,000.

Sports Roundup

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the wonders of the current college football season, which has had many, is the sickening drop of the Michigan State Spartans from the top spot in the Big Ten conference, the toughest gridiron league of them all, into virtual oblivion.

A year ago at this time, Coach Biggie Munn's dazzling array was in the national limelight week after week as it waded through a bruising schedule. In winning the Big Ten title the team from East Lansing suffered only one defeat, a 5-0 squeaker to Purdue, while racking up eight victories. Then, in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day it climaxed a glorious season by outscoring UCLA 28-20.

Seldom surely, has a team of national standing in any sport fallen so flatly upon its face without so brief a reprieve. As of this week, the 1934 Spartans have won just one game, a 6-0 decision over Iowa in the equally battered Wisconsin, while taking pastings from Iowa, Indiana, Notre Dame, Purdue and Minnesota.

All this has caused a certain amount of talk in football circles that Munn had a team which was picked to finish sixth among the nation's gridiron goliaths in the pre-season Associated Press poll of no experts turn out to be so harmless?

It was known, of course, that Munn had stepped up in the athletic director's job, but it also was recognized that his coaching successor, Duffy Daugherty, was a capable man who had been one of Munn's assistants long enough to be thoroughly familiar with the complex Michigan State coaching system. The experts obviously had faith both in Daugherty's ability and in the quality of his material.

In probing the mystery of the Spartans' slip, the experts came across the ensuing diagnosis of Harry Stappier of the Detroit News, who is close to the team.

"In talent," Stappier writes, "State lacks a good coaching staff to replace 15 lettermen lost. This partially stems from the year State was on athletic probation (1932); recruiters reported many difficult convincing boys to come to State. Coaches from other schools used the probation angle to sway lads away from enrolling at East Lansing; recruiters said it caught up with MSC this year."

"Additionally," Stappier adds, "State is minus a large quantity of big men, the kind needed for today's one-planet football. The small, quick lads that were the Michigan State stars in the two-planet era are out-dated."

"In coaching," Stappier was caught with an inexperienced staff. Six of the seven assistant coaches who came to State last year were newcomers to college coaching.

"Measured in terms of the opposition," Stappier found it a long haul from William and Mary to Atlanta Tech. The Blue Devils won 23 straight games for MSC over a three-year period, the opposition included only six Big Ten teams and quite a few of the William and Mary class. This season Daugherty already has faced five Big Ten teams in his first six games and has one more to go."

Olson TKOs Panter In Eighth Round

RICHMOND, Calif. (AP)—"I felt rough, fighting at 160 pounds," World middleweight champion Carl (Bobo) Olson made this comment after he had scored an eight-round technical knockout over Garb Panter of Salt Lake City in their scheduled 10-round, nationally televised contest at the Richmond Auditorium last night.

The title, of course, was not at stake. Olson didn't look exactly sluggish in the fearful beating he gave Panter. He pounded the game Salt Laker with a two-handed attack from the start.

Referee Joe Louis, the former heavyweight champion, halted the uneven battle 41 seconds after the eighth round started when Panter was cut deeply on the side of his right eye. Five stitches were needed to close Panter's cut on his left cheek bone in the fifth round. It took two stitches to close this cut.

SOPH SWITCH HELP T.C.U.
FORT WORTH (AP)—Football coach Abe Martin of the T.C.U. stormed Texas it might glad that Arvid R. (Buddy) Dike changed his mind.

Dike, who played his high school football at Oak Park near Chicago, and who was coached by W.C. Sullivan. But when his family moved to San Antonio, he became interested in T. C. U.

As a sophomore fullback this season Dike has made the starting team and is doing great work on the gridiron. In four games against Oklahoma, Southern California, Arkansas and Kansas he rolled up 200 yards. He is near the top of Southwest Conference and for total offense even though he doesn't pass.

If Dike continues his present ground-gaining pace of 65 yards a game he may hit the 100 yard mark for the season.

GOLF IS DANGEROUS
ASHVILLE, N. C. (AP)—J.C. Ryatt, leading amateur, has decided that golf can be a dangerous game.

Standing on the first tee with a group trying to arrange a four-some, Ryatt was hit by a driver being swung by a friend. He was knocked unconscious and lost a tooth. Ten stitches were needed to close his wounds.

For six home games of the 1933 National Football League season the Detroit Lions averaged 52.98 fans. Briggs Stadium's seating capacity is 33,000.

Woodruff Looks For SEC Crown In Traditional Gator Bowl Game

GAINESVILLE.—There is a highly unusual aspect to the traditional rivalry between Florida and Georgia which will be continued in Jacksonville's Gator Bowl this Saturday afternoon.

For the first time, both teams are right in the thick of the Southeastern Conference title chase.

In the 21-year history of Florida football, the Gators have never before won four conference contests during a season. They are conceding an excellent chance to win, and can do so by downing their two remaining SEC foes, Georgia and Tennessee.

The Georgia Bulldogs, meanwhile, lead the conference with two wins and one tie on the record books, while Florida has four wins and one loss.

Coach Bob Woodruff's Gators, in gaining their best SEC record in history, have done so by combining a good passing and running game with an excellent pass defense.

Last week, in holding Mississippi State scoreless while they themselves picked up seven points, the Gators also found their best line defense of the year.

Coach Woodruff has employed two units—the Orange and Blue teams—and both have kept some of the country's finest passing artists from scoring through the air this season.

Head-up pass defenders have been Don Davis, interceptor of four passes, Jackie Simpson, John Burgess and Bob Smith, along with quarterback-safety men Hobby Lance and Richard Allen.

Current offensive leaders are: Running—Joe Brodsky, 302 yards gained in 61 carries; Passing—Fred Robinson, 16 completions in 28 attempts, for three touchdowns; Receiving—Burgess, 11 caught for 107 yards; Kickoff returns—Simpson, 5 for 200 yards; Punt returns—Burgess, 5 for 75 yards; and Punting—Allen, 11 for 454 yards and 38.5 average.

Head Hurts Cause Most Grid Deaths

The fatalities included two college players, one athletic club player, two boys playing sandlot or unsupervised football, and seven prep school boys. They compare with 11 deaths in 1935.

Panthers Ready For Eustis Game With Hard Practice

The Panthers are giving their claws an extra sharpening for their third conference tilt against the Eustis Tigers here Friday night. The Croons gridgers are taking heavy afternoon practices getting ready to break the Eustis Tigers' 4-0 record. This will really be the acid-test game for the Panthers.

Donnell "Gut" Burke is Croons' leading scorer with 24 points. Burke ran two touchdowns in Friday night's game between Croons and Dade City to be the leading scorer. Billy Gordon is next, with 12 points, while Red Collins, Gene Fritch, Woodrow Detterville and Bill Frederick tie with one touchdown each.

The band will take the field during halftime. Mr. James is leading the music-making in playing "Goodnight Sweetheart" and "Tuxedo Junction." Next Friday night the Panthers will play the Leesburg Trojans at the Memorial Stadium at 8:00 o'clock.

Foxhunt Scheduled Despite Drought

DUBLIN, Ga. (AP)—Despite a drought imposed by the state, the world's largest foxhunting show will be underway here Sunday as scheduled.

In Atlanta yesterday, Gov. Herman Talmadge relaxed his hunting order to permit the week-long National Foxhunters Assn. round trials. Dublin and Laurens county officials expect about 3,000 visitors from most of the 48 states and a few foreign countries to attend the trials.

"Talmadge said he was permitting the show because 'out-of-state people as well as Georgians have spent thousands of dollars preparing for the world's biggest foxhunt show. It would be unfair to halt it at this late date.'"

The governor ruled out smoking and fire-building during the trials and said that 30 forestry, wildlife and public safety officials would control the area. He also said the gallery would have to stay out of the woods and use secondary roads to follow the hounds.

Talmadge's ban, imposed because of a critical forest fire danger, includes almost all hunting, fishing, hiking and picnicking.
