HEATHROW - As golden sunlight washed over the tents filled with paintings, blown glass, jewelry and other artwork, about 25,000 people streamed into the Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts on Sunday.

After a soggy Saturday that drew fewer than 500 spectators to the muddy festival grounds, the partly sunny day seemed perfect for

A cool breeze kept temperatures down and helped boost attendance. "It was incredible the way people were coming out and looking and buying." Joanne Lucas, chairman of the festival said this morning.

Clinton, Gore target Florida

DAYTONA BEACH — Bill Clinton and Al Gore targeted Florida today as the Democrate opened the presidential campaign's final month showing surprising resilience in this and other traditional Republican strongholds across the South.

Clinton and running mate Gore teamed up late Sunday in Daytona Beach and were setting out today on one of their trademark bus tours, this one across northern Florida just two days after President Bush visited a state he must win to hold the White House.

The visits alone are evidence of this year's dramatically changed political map: Bush had such a huge lead in Florida four years ago that neither he nor Democrat Michael Dukakis visited after Labor Day.

With 21 electoral votes, Florida is a major prise. Clinton campaign polls show the state is a tossup, and Clinton and Gore were hoping to gain an edge by targeting areas in north and central Florida culturally skin to their native South.

"This does not appear to be a random killing." Brevard County sheriff's spokeswoman Joan Heller said Sunday. "In all probability she knew her killer." Deputies found Debra barefoot, wearing light gray shorts and a white short-sleeve shirt.

Investigators have no suspects and have not found the weapon, Heller said.

Heller said Debra's parents last saw their daughter early

"I'm convinced somebody must have come by that she knew and she went off with him." Debra's father, Jack Fenster, told Florida Today in Melbourne for Monday's editions.

Two more FAMU graduates. former federal judge Alcee Hastings of Minmi and Ilacksonville lawmaker, Corrine Brown, moved to the Nor. 3 general election with impressive victories in last week's Democratic runoff in two other newly designed districts to boost black candidates. Both face Republican opposition. But it was difficult for many FAMU students in the 1950s and 1960s to take politics seriously.

"Not to have black representation was a great disap-pointment." said FAMU Presi-dent Frederick Humphries, a student at the school in the mid-1950s.

"When I was growing up, it was a time of great thought, great questioning." Humphries said. "This university was on the forefront of raising very pertinent questions and giving leadership to what I consider some of the greatest things going on in this state."

Of course, it's Douglas Stenstrom. But how many of you folks can identify the fellow on the left who is being congratulated by Stenstrom* Here are some clues. He was an All-American quarterback for Vanderbit: University in the late 1980s. He signed to play professional football for the Chicago Bears. In 1983 he led the Bears to the National Football League title. A few days after the championship game he was the main speaker at Longwood's Lyman High School (now Milwee Middle School) annual football banquet. Now can you name him Dick Copeland, the Greyhound football coach at that time arranged to have him speak to his players. His name Billy Wade. Floridians felt the result Sunday when they had to start dialing area codes on all longdistance calls, even within their own area. Southern Bell spokeswoman Wendie Feinberg

"Florida has had tremendous growth in the use of fax machines, cellular phones, pagers, computers and other telecommunications equipment," Feinberg said. That's causing a telephone number shortage. The stopgap solution, which started Sunday, requires that for long distance calls within the same area, instead of dialing "I" and then the number, customers dial the area code as well.

That lets the phone company use hundreds more numbers for formerly off-limits because they were in use as area codes elsewhere.

Now that people in the 904 area in North Florida are dialing "1-904" to start all long distance calls, the number 305 can be used as a local exchange, reached by dialing "1-904-305-" and the rest of the number.

Leaders adjust

French voters' narrow approval of the Treaty of Manstricht, under which the European Community would adopt common monetary policies built around a single currency, is a reprieve for the idea of European unity but hardly a solid endorsement. Whether Europe resumes its stalled march toward integration depends on whether national leaders make the adjustments necessary to regain public confidence.

With Danish voters having rejected Maastricht, with the French vote so close with turmoil in the world's financial markets and with demands for referendums on unity coming from both voters and politicians in Germany and Britain, leaders who arrogantly assumed only months ago that their grand designs would be rubber-stamped by voters have been joited into recalling that historic change cannot happen in a democracy if leaders get too far shead of the public that they are supposed to represent.

What happened en route to the great leap forward that Maastricht represents was a shift in popular opinion based on another historic change: the collapse of the communist bloc and the resultant reduction of East-West tensions. As that sank in, and as Germany began flexing its diplomatic and economic muscles, a message long preached by Britain's Margaret Thatcher — that Europeans were being naked to surrender too much sovereignty to an unelected bureaucracy in Brussels - began to sound more reasonable and persuasive. When the Danish government printed and mailed out millions of copies of the treaty before last June's reserendum, voters read it, and a majority iden't like it.

Now, it's hard to see how Maastricht can simply be ratified by national parliaments and put into force Jan. 2, as scheduled. Some in for opposing the treaty may be more emotional than rational, but they are no less real for that. Indeed, Germany's high-in-terest-rate policy is all too real, forcing other countries either to go along, and prolong recession, or drop out of the European exchange-rate system, which Britain and Italy have already done, thus further weakening the drive toward unity.

Whether Maastricht is implemented is less important than the long-term political impact of the fight over it. That has serious implications for the United States, 30 percent of whose trade is with Europe and which can only gain from efforts to harmonize economic policies among the major powers in order to avoid just the kind of upheaval now taking place in Europe.

Even without Masstricht, solid elements of unity remain in place, including the free flow of goods, capital and people within the 12 EC states. But the danger now is that European leaders, having finally realized the depth of popular discontent, will move too far to placate that sentiment, wrapping themselves in the flag of nationalism, thereby stirring up all the old demons that, until recently, Europe seemed to have exorcised for good.

Our separate and unequal schools

In the same state, in the same country, I have been in public schools that recalled photographs of Southern shanty classrooms of the 1930s. The buildings were rickety, the books were out of date, and the teachers were overwhelmed by ton many children in each class.

In the same state, in the same country, I have been in public schools that are siry, with brightly colored walls, relatively small classes, and libraries with inviting displays of new books and magazince donathan Kozol, a former classroom teacher who has been writing for many years about how schools fail poor children, says that these separate and unequal schools are the cause of the "Savage Inequalities" to which millions of American kids are subjected. That's the title of his book, now available in Harper/Perennial paperback.

Kozol has never lost his sense of wonder and anger at how we abandon vast numbers of schoolchildren, many of whom will never know what they could have become. They will never know their potential because they have been as if they were in another, very impoverished country.

These brutal lines are drawn in this country not only by race but also by class. I have seen poor white kids in the Appalachians who also will never know how smart they are.

Kozol shows the foundation of these inequalities in this way: The state commands that there be compulsory edu-cation. But all across the nation, there is unequal funding for the public schools. Therefore, the state to responsible for compulsory inequality that is at the core of compulsory educa-other Western countries that equally finance public schools throughout the nation out of central revenues, we base the funding of schools on local property taxes - supplemented unequally by funds supplied by the individual states.

As Kozol notes in "Savage Inequalities," "A ocal tax upon the value of the homes and businesses within a given district raises the initial funds for the operations of the public schools." In a wealthy district, those funds -because of the greater value of the homes and businesses - are much higher.

But what about the supplemental money from the individual states? From that source, the ghetto schools -- white and black -- get enough funding to provide, as Kozol notes, "a "mini-mum" or basic education, but not an education on the level found in the rich districts."

This means that every child in the state gets an "equal minimum," but some get much more. Very much more. You can tell for yourself. Visit a school in what is euphemistically called "the inner city," and then contrast it with a school in the suburbs. This country of alleged equal opportunity does not provide anywhere near equal schooling for its young and poor citizens.

Justice Thurgood Marshall and other dissenters found that discrimination against poor children in the way achools are funded is indeed a violation of the "equal protection" clause.

Lingering

My father, an unabashed patriot of the old school, understood his countrymen. When I was still in college, back in the years between the Korean and Vietnam wars, he would return repeatedly to the same theme in family conversations. "This is a nation which has never lost a war, which makes it unique," he'd 'The real test of our maturity and durability will come after we lose our first

HODDING CARTER

Being a Southerner with a long memory, he knew the psychological effect of being on the losing end of a bitter conflict. Being an American in the mid-20th century, he did not really expect us to lose a war anytime soon. though his musing was the result of the mixed results in the Korean conflict.

Less than 20 years later, the United States was forced to withdraw from Vietnam. Another 20 years later, we have yet to come to terms with that defeat. Just as Dad feared, our maturity has been no match for the poisonous acrimony, the fault-finding and the guilt occasioned by the loss.

The continuing controversy, much of it contrived, over Bill Clinton's attempts to avoid the draft as a young man is an indicative, though minor, example of that national failure. Let it be said for the record that I believe that he did everything humanly possible to avoid active duty. Let it also be said that he has been something less than totally forthcoming about the record of those efforts.

The best that can be said for the latter is that it has been idiotically self-defeating. It may even point to serious character flaws, though I doubt it. But the former is not worth the attention it has received. Unless we are willing to put our collective memory on hold, no one can honestly contend that Clinton's dodging and weaving to avoid the draft marked him off from his time or from many in his generation. It wasn't heroic, but it wasn't alimy, either.

Given the nature of the debate. It is probably necessary at this point for me to reveal my biases. For about four years - from the time Jack Kennedy upped the ante in Vietnam to the period in 1966 when Lyndon Johnson decided to go all-out - I was an ardent supporter of the war. An editorial writer in those days. I thought we were witnessing outside aggression similar to Hitler's takeover of Europe. We had a duty to go in on the side of South Vietnam and help it repel the aggressor. Some of my editorials were so strident that I entered the nickname, "Gunboats."

Having served in the Marines, however, I had a firm belief that limited wars had to be won on the ground. And it seemed equally obvious that if the people for whom you were fighting would not or could not make a maximum effort to defend themselves, something was wrong. When, despite our growing intervention and Johnson's decision to bomb North Vietnam. things continued to go badly. I reconsidered my support. The basic premise of American intervention no longer seemed to hold up. By the end of 1966, the year my hometown in Mississippi lost its first son in the fighting. 'Gunboata" Carter was a dove.

Back to Bill Clinton, what is most striking about his situation is the company that he kept. Vice President Dan Quayle's case is illustrative. Everyone everyone - in the late 1960s and early 1970s knew that the National Guard was a haven for people who wanted to avoid the war. Quayle was as one with his fellows. He joined the Guard because he didn't want to fight in Vietnam. As for the repeated academic and other deferments won by Secretary of Defense Richard Cheney, they came from the array of draft-dodging options available to the educated. Those who used them did so to duck Vietnam. All else is sophistry. George Bush was as one with his generation.

his class and his nation when he volunteered for World War II. When five out of us six roommates went into the service after college in 1957, we were as one with our time. And when Bill Clinton. Dan Quayle and Dick Cheney, slipped off the hook when their numbers came up, they were as one with hundreds of thousands of their generation.

And yet, this election could finally take us over the hurdle. If so, it will not be maturity that prevails so much as time. Henceforth, the candidates from whom we choose will almost certainly come from the Vietnam War generation. It is hard to believe that they, ambivalent for so long about the event that forever aftered their lives, will be much interested in prolonging its effects. Exhaustion may finally resolve what political debate never could.

McCain a hero despite Mecham

WASHINGTON - If there was a Richter scale for sleazy political campaigns. Arizona would be experiencing what is known in earthquake parlance as "the big one."

Independent U.S. Senate candidate Evan Mecham - the impeached and diagraced former governor of the state — is accusing Sen. John McCain. R-Ariz., of "selling out his fellow POWs" by aiding a federal government cover-up. Mecham says McCain has "know-public in general."

McCain currently serves on the Senate's Select Committee on POW/MIA affairs, and during his decadelong involvement with the issue in Congress McCain has been an outspoken supporter of releasing intelligence reports on live POW sightings. He also helped negotiate the opening of a U.S. POW/MIA investigation in Hanoi.

But McCain has angered the fringe element of the POW and fund-raising practices. an honor code that you never abandon your people to the enemy ...," Mecham has said about McCain. Few people however, bear McCain's scars — and it goes beyond his nearly six years of torture and confinement to a 12 foot by 12 foot unventilated cell. Recently declarathed documents by the POW/MIA Committee indicate that in 1968, then-POW McCain could have walked out of the Hanoi Hilton a free man - but refused so that he would not leave his fellow POWs behind.

The story of uncommon valor that McCain recounted to us recently began on Oct. 26, 1967, when Naval aviator McCain was flying a mission in his A4 Skyhawk off the carrier Oriskany. His plane was struck by a North Vietnamese missile and he parachuted into a lake in Hanoi with two broken arms and a broken leg. After his capture, he was bayoneted and brutally beaten by the North Vietnamese.

Things got worse when they learned that McCain's father was the commander of the Pacific Fleet, which meant that he was ordering the daily bombing of North Vietnamese forces.

A previously secret State Department cable dated Sept. 13, 1968, reveals that the North Vietnamese tried to "release Admiral Mc-Cain's son as one of the three pilots freed recently, but he had refused." U.S. officials speculated in the cable that McCain was spurning the offer "because he did not want people to think that he had been released because of his father's position."

After repeated entreaties by his captors, McCain bypassed freedom until other Americans captured before him were released. McCain believes that the offers for freedom were designed to make the North Vietnamese look humane by releasing the injured son of a top U.S. officer. He also believes that it would have increased North Vietnam's leverage in trying to force other American POWs into revealing military secrets.

The North Vietnamese started with gentle persuasion. McCain was told at the time that President Lyndon B. Johnson was ordering him to come home, and they also handed him a letter from his wife wishing that he was one of the prisoners that had recently been freed.

On the morning of the Fourth of July in 1968 - ironically the same day his father was promoted to commander in chief of U.S. forces in the Pacific - McCain was led into an interrogation room where he was given his final chance at freedom. When McCain refused once again, one of the interrogators broke his pen in two.

Today the two daughters as well as their parents are buried in the Lake plot in Sanford's Evergreen Complexy. Senford a Evergreen Cemetery.

While Lake was in the legislature neveral other well known men served as mayor. One was T.L. Duman, an Atlantic Coast Line official. In 1912, G.W. have had an office in a two-story building situated on the south west corner of Park Avenue and Commercial in downtown Sanford. Today that site is occupied by a real estate office. Before that It was a service station run by the well known George Maffet and later by Jack Gordy. But nobody can say for sure this was where Lake had an office.

Nobody could tell if Lake had any church connections. But it's a known fact that during his heyday as mayor and state representative he would round up men lottering on Sanford's downtown streets on Sunday morning and invite them to one of the theaters and teach a Sunday achuol leason. One old timer remembered that the group was known as Lake's Scrap Iron" class.

There are those who have thought Lake may have been involved with the Seventh Day Adventist community in South Seminole County's Forest City area. There's where that group of fine folks established what is known to this day as the Forest Lake Academy. We dug into the academy's history but found no connection whatsoever between Lake and the Adventist School.

The academy was named after a lake which at that time was thought to be called "Forest." It was later learned by the religious group that it was actually "Mirror" lake. So, any connections between Forrest Lake and the Adventlet School is a myth.

Although the Lakes never had sons they did have two nephews. Both became lawyers. One was Paul Lake who graduated from a law school in Tennessee. The other was Bill Lake who graduated from the University of Floride law school. Paul had a lew office in Tampa and Bill practiced in West Palm Beach.

Most folks with any knowledge of Senford's history know that the "Gate City" was once part of Mosquito County. This county included the Florida east coast from St. Augustine to Key West. The first county seat was New Smyrns. Later it was placed in Enterprise right across Lake Monroe from Sanford.

When statehood came to Florida in 1845, Orange County was carved out of Mosquito County and Orlando was made the county seat. Sanford was also in Orange County. Placing the seat in Orlando didn't set too well with citizens of Sanford. The two cities became rivals and were determined to outdo the other.

One of the letters received by Sturm is from C. William Harkins, owner of Driftwood Village Center. In it, he has told Sturm, "The mess we are experiencing has finally taken its toll. While all merchants (in the Village) have been badly hurt financially, two have recently gone out of business, and two have relocated to other areas."

The letter continues, "This

The letter continues. "This loss affects the City of Lake Mary, and me personally. My probable loss of cash flow as a result of roadway work or lack thereof, will be in the range of $16,000 for 1992."

The other letter sent to Sturm is from Stanley H. Sandefur, president of Sandefur Development Inc.

Sandefur requested the County Commission to look into an ad valorem tax abatement, because of the loss of business along the boulevard.

In Sturm's response to San-defur, he commented, "I do not believe the road construction, in and of itself, has been responsible for any business closing."

No work has been done on the roadway since July, when Mahoney Construction, the prime contractor, declared they could no longer oversee the project due to financial dif-

Sturm has commented, "In reviewing all aspects of the project, I would like to point out that this project is still not behind schedule and, in fact, we in the County expect the project to be completed by the contract completion date, which is June 14. 1993."

Sturm also wrote, "The County has never stood idly by on any portion of this project. The slowdown of the project is not the fault of any government agency. Rather, it has occurred as a result of a failure in the private sector, the financial dif-Sculties of John Mahoney Construction Company."

In addition to the loss of revenue, boulevard merchants have also expressed concern over ditches, standing water, difficult use of driveways covered in dirt and mud, and piles of dirt high enough to keep their business signs from being seen.

Harkins also added damage to one of his dumpster bins done while the construction was underway several months ago.

ORLANDO — It was a successful weekend for the members of Menefee's Martial Arts Academy who attended the John Prevatt Karate Classic at the Omni International Hotel in Orlando.

The local students under the tutelage of Langaton Menefee came away with a first, two seconds and a third as they prepared for the State Championships coming up the second weekend in November, also at the Omni.

Larry Eason placed first in the Beginners Middleweight Division, while Ken Saucier was beaten out for the title in the Beginners Heavyweight Division by a single point. The event was the first competition for Saucier.

Also earning a second place finish was Danny Williamson in the Beginning Young Adults Division, just ahead of Omar Stephenson in third. Also doing well for the local squad was Robert Campbell who didn't place but gave a very good showing of himself in the Adult Middleweight Division.

Oliver, Dolphins romp

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. - Louis Oliver stole the ball and the game from the Buffalo Bills. He also stole the show from Keith Jackson.

Oliver had three interceptions, returning one 103 yards for a touchdown, to tie an NFL record as the Mami Dolphins beat the Bills 37-10 Sunday in a battle of unbeaten teams. Dan Marino threw three touchdown passes, one to Jackson, the Ali-Pro tight end who signed a four-year, 86 million deal with the Dolphina last Monday after being declared a free agent.

It was almost as if Jackson had brought the Engles' lengue-lending defense with him against a team that had averaged 38 points in its four victories and 40 points against the Dolphins in their previous three meetings. The Dolphins had five turnovers, four of which led to scores.

Oliver got three of those turnovers, as the Dolphins won for only the second time in their last 12 meetings with Buffalo and took over first place in the AFC East from the Bills - 4-0 to 4-1. His 170 yards in returns were the second most in a game in NFL history.

Tampa victimized by George

TAMPA - Jeff George, who missed indianapolis' first three games of the sesson, threw second-half touchdown passes to Jesse Hester and Kerry Cash, rallying the Colts (2-2) to a 24-14 victory over the Bucs.

Tampa Bay (3-2) intercepted two of George's first three passes and dominated the first half. Then George revived the Colta' struggling offense and the Indianapolis defense slowed down a Buca offense that had moved the ball well in the first half.

Vinny Testaverde threw a 20-yard TD pess to Stanford Jennings and Reggie Cobb scored on a 1-yard run to cap a 16-play drive that lasted nearly 11 minutes, but the Bucs led only 14-7 at halftime despite running 44 offensive plays to the Colts' 21.

George, who completed only 3 of 13 passes for 57 yards in the first half. finished 15 of 33 for 234 yards. Testaverde was 23 of 47 for 286 yards but was sacked four times.

Greyhounds, Patriots run to water-logged victories

Maybe the Lyman Greyhounds and Lake Brantley Patriots are mudders.

On Saturday morning, the Lyman girls' cross country team and the Lake Brantley boys' team registered impressive victories against solid competition in less than ideal conditions.

"The whole meet was run in a torrential downpour," said Lyman coach Fred Finke, who watched his girls run to a surprisingly substantial victory in the University of Florida Invitational. The Greyhounds outscored runner-up Sarasots-Cardinal Gibbons 53-107.

Meanwhile, at the Florida State Invitational in

Meanwhile, at the Florida State Invitational in Tallahassee, the Lake Brantley boys had almost as easy a time of it, defeating second place Jacksonville-Bishop Kenney 80-101.

"It was good to go up and win a big invitational like thin, especially at my alma mater," said Lake Brantley coach Charles Harrin, who ran track while a student at Florida State.

In Gainesville, Lyman's Ktanah Bresnick bested a field of 284 entries in the girls' 5-kilometer race with a time of 19:56.

Completing the Greyhounds' acore were Linda Davis (eighth, 21:01), Laurie Elias (10th, 21:11). Maeve Alford (10th, 21:22) and Lovetta Keith (27th, 21:56). Marah Pasero (37th, 22:30) and Meliasa Flippin (56th, 23:10) also ran for Lyman. Lyman's boys (with a score of 213) were stath behind Gainesville-Bucchois (145), Middleburg (173), New Port Richey-Ridgewood (179), Tampu-Leio (191) and Tallahasses-Leon (205).

Doing the scoring for the Greyhounds were Dan Melvin (10th. 17:17), John Scott (24th. 17:38), Brian Nelsen (29th. 17:43). Sharone Blue (69th, 18:20) and Brian Diebler (79th, 18:26).

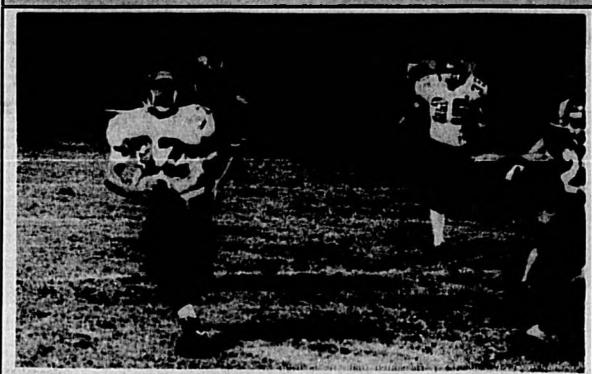

Also representing Lyman were Mike Koch (84th, 18:30) and Joey Byrd (157th, 19:35).

The Lake Brantley boys cruised to victory at the FSU meet by placing four runners in the top 20. Scoring for the Patriots were Brian Lucyk (seventh, 16:51), Dan Hilley (ninth, 16:53), Jeff Donner (14th, 17:00), Shawn MacKenzie (18th, 17:03) and Manter Economy (17:00, 32and). 17:03) and Hunter Kemper (17:30, 32nd).

Lake Brantley's girls (149) also gave a strong showing, finishing fourth behind Orange Park (97), Lakeland Christian (126) and Niceville, Coming in fifth was Boca Raton-Spanish River, a team shead of Lake Brantley in the state polls.

Making up the Patriota' score were Danielle Leaf (seventh, 12:23). Heather Anderson (ninth, 12:30), Jennifer Feldman (32nd). Katie Tullis (51st) and Katie Koepke (52nd). Also for Lake Brantley, Brigit McGovern finished 53rd.

Double Takes

Spinning wheels

One of the casualties of a wet field in a football game are running backs who rely on sharp cuts and a quick first step. On Fridey, Lake Mary's Jermaine Hartsfield (No. 32, above) had eight yards on five carries while Bobby Washington of Lyman (No. 5, below) carried the ball six times for two yards.

Small field braves rain

WINTER SPRINGS - Tuskawilla Park looked more like the sight of a swim meet than a cross country meet Saturday morning, but standing water across the course was not enough to discourage the runners at the Oviedo Invitational.
"I thought the turnout was great." Oviedo coach Jay Getty said. "Anytime you have weather like this and still get this many teams to show up. it's a very positive thing."

Another positive for the Oviedo Lions was the victory of Tracy Kotseos in the girls' two-mile race, leading the pack with a time of 12:11.52. Christina Olson of Lake Mary finished second with a time of 13:12.54.

Lake Mary took the team title with a score of 30 points. Lake Howell (58), Oviedo (66), Luther (85) and Trinity Prep (136) rounded out the top five for the girls.

Led by Olson, Lake Mary had four girls place in the top 10. The others were Shawn Barkley (third. 13:28.51), Angle Olson (fourth. 13:29.57) and Heather Bonck (sixth, 14:00.17].

Other runners in the top 10 were Lake Howell's Beth Whitehead (fifth, 13:53.53), Gloria Enguerra (seventh, 14:09.53) and Stacy Kolb (eighth, 14:13.00) of Luther, Lake Howell's Linn Hald (ninth. 14:16.15) and Florence Jones of Winter Park (10th, 14:22.64).

Lake Highland's Jed Freeland set the pace for the boys with a time of 16:48.40. Manni Celli of Bishop Moore was a distant second at 17:25.99.

Including Celli, the Bishop Moore Hornets had four of their top five runners (who make up a team's score) in the top 10. D. Kesting was third (17:29.54) while Roman Rudsik came in fifth (17:48.72) and Ryan Atwood took sixth [17:49.72].

Oviedo runners who placed in the top 10 were Scott Thelen (fourth. 17:31.95), Brad Stebbina (eighth, 17:53.79) and Dee Purdy (10th. 18:15.99). For Lake Howell, Matt Miller was seventh (17:52.84) while Matt Bowman finished ninth

Rain reveals true fans, softball fanatics

Sometimes you amaze even me.

Despite weather conditions better suited for reading a good book or watching a bad movie, many of you ventured out of doors Friday night to watch high school football.

Like the old joke about the guy who catches his best friend kissing his wife. I have to, but you?

Still others actually participated in a softball game of their own free will. But we'll get to that later.

From Daytona Beach, where the Lake Brantley Patriots dominated Spruce Creek, to Oviedo, where the Lions had their way with University, the stands were filled with an impressive number of family. friends and fans. Of course, any number that couldn't be counted on two hands would have been impressive.

Those of a cynical nature would say that the large turnouts in spite of the rain were due more to the fact that four county schools - Lyman, Lake Mary, Lake Howell and Lake Brantley - were involved in crucial district games than anything resembling school loyalty.

Perhaps, but it's hard to imagine anyone being that involved in high school football to be willing to sit in the rain for two and a half hours. That kind of dedication demands a degree of emotional involvement that transcends the simple concern over who wins and loses.

Fortunately, those of you who did turn out Friday night were rewarded with some outstanding football games. The fans of Lake Howell and Lyman, who saw their teams fall to fourth quarter railies, may disagree, but both games were thrillers that made it easy to forget that you were sitting in a puddle.

Maybe not.

Anyway, it was inspiring to see that many people — students and adults — brave the elements to support their respective schools. ual fans or those just looking to kill time wouldn't come out and sit in incessant rain. That's the one thing about uncomfortable conditions: it seperates true fans from the mildly curious.

That being said, you have to wonder about those 20-plus individuals who actually slogged around Pinchurst Park for an hour in a Sanford Recreation Department Over-35 men's softball league game Friday night.

Dedication's one thing but it might be safe to say that's stretching it.

Giants wonder if Sunday's game was last in San Francisco

By JOE KAY AP Sports Writer

CINCINNATI - The San Francisco Giants didn't have time to think about what might have been their last game.

The Glants had to make hurried goodbyes Sunday after they took four hours to defeat the Cincinnati Reds 6-2 in a 13inning game. It was significant not only as the end of a season. but also as the possible end of the San Francisco Giants.

Owner Bob Lurie has agreed to sell the club to a group that will move the Giants to the Florida Suncoast Dome in St. Petersburg. Another group, which wants to buy the team and keep it in California, has been given time by the National League to make a counteroffer. If the sale goes through to the Florida group. Sunday's game would have been the last time the Giants wear "SF" on their

"It hasn't sunk in yet," manager Roger Craig said after Greg Litton's grand slam ended the game and started a dash to the airport. "I've thought about it a lot the last few days.

"Maybe it was good the way the game ended. I didn't have time to think about it. Now I have a plane to catch and I won't have time to think about it again. It'll sink in when I'm sitting on the beach in Hilton

"Right now, it's no more than just another end of the season," reliever Rod Beck said. "Guys have to get out of here quick to catch flights. Everything is still up in the air. I'm sure we'll know something pretty soon."

Lurie spoke to the team briefly before the game Sunday and passed along good wishes. There was no other outward sign of the game's significance, but the players felt it.

Rookie Kevin Rogers had his best performance in the major leagues as he gave up two hits over six innings. He missed getting the win — which would have been his first in the majors - when the bullpen blew a 2-0 lead in the eighth.

"Of course I was thinking about it. This could have been the last game the San Francisco Giants played," Rogers said. "I wanted to win for the historical purpose of it in case something happens.

For historical purposes: The Giants' last hit was Litton's grand slam; the winning pitcher was Dave Righetti, who pitched two relief innings; the last out was by Mike Jackson, who fanned Hal Morris to end the game.

"You start to think about the future and you think maybe someone will say, 'Hey, you got the last win in San Francisco Giant history.' It's pretty exciting," Righetti said.

There wasn't much excitement in the game until Litton's homer, the first grand slam of the season for the Giants. A relatively small crowd of 22,470 people turned up at Riverfront Stadium, including a few Gianta fans who taped up banners that said. "Keep the Giants in San Francisco," and "SF Forever."

When the game ended, the Giants headed for the field for one final celebration. Craig got the game ball to give to Lurie and players made a dash for the airport.

"That's just the way it is." Beck said. "Especially when you have travel plans and the ga goes an hour longer than it's supposed to."

Colorful foliage heralds autumn

Autumn is officially here and with it comes colorful foliage. Florida trees will begin to change from green to red, purple and yellow, just as the trees of the Carotina mountains will. It's the internaty of show that will be different.

In Georgia, Tennessee and the Carolinas, people flock to the mountains to see millions of trees crupt simultaneously in shades of reds, golds and purple. In Florida you have to seek out individual trees or small groves, tucked away among other kinds of trees still unaffected by fail. The home display is not likely to attract any tourists, or even be much noticed by travellers on the highways.

But those of us who do take the time and effort to get inside the woods for a closer look can find trees that match the brilliance of anything found in the Smolty Mountains. The sumacs are just as red; the poplar leaves just as yellow and some ashes a peculiar purple unlike anything else in the Fall is just now arriving in North Florida. moving down from the foothills of Georgia. A few small sweetgums should be developing the wonderful deep yellow-gold colors that are expected of them. Blackgums in swamp sites will be turning ruby red. The leaves of sassafras and sourwood, which begin turning in August, are developing much deeper hues of orange and red by

of Florida's small scale fall color show; the peak will arrive in December.

Turkey oaks, covering untold square miles of sandy soils, will turn a brilliant red for a week or two when December nights turn chilly. This is the one moment of glory for this scrubby little member of the majestic oak tribe. All the hickory family of trees will color up with bright yellow, deepening to gold as the season progresses. Dogwoods will take on a range of colors dominated by orange. The wild cherry tree will turn bright yellow. Even wild grape vines and Virginia Creeper invisible in the general greenery of aummer becomes blankets and curtains of yellow and red.

As the wave of color moves southward down the peninsuls. It slowly dwindles to almost nothing in the green of subtropical vegetation. The last colorful sights are likely to be found in the dusky red of the maples which reach into the Everglades.

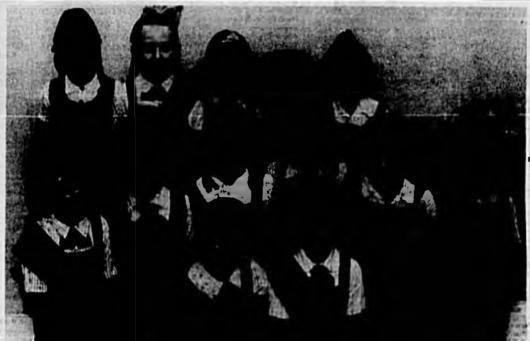

forests is a pigment that exists in the leaf all year. It is masked until the overwhelming green of the chlorophyll disappears in

The reds and purple are pigments that do not form until fall. Bright days and chilly nights aid in the formation of this pigment but front is not necessary, and in fact can kill the leaf and end the color progression.

For the homeowner in Florida who wants to plant a tree or two just for the sight of fall color, the common sweetgum often will display at once all the subtle shades and tints of red, yellow, gold, pink and purple. This multi-colored show will last for a couple of weeks ending just prior to the Christman holiday season. Then the leaves drop and reveal dangling aced pods that cling on the branches like Christmas tree comements until Spring.

Fall color does exist in Florida, we just have to look a little harder to see it! As the weather cools and it's pleasant to be outside, seek out the changing colors of fall and enjoy the natural beauty of Florida.

with the gentleman in the Atlanta airport waiting to board his flight when a young mother pointed her finger at him and said to her small child, "If you don't sit down and be quiet, that throw you in the river!" Of course the child became terrifled and began to acream, and everyone wondered what he had done to the child. Here's my story:

I am a uniformed police officer with the Indianapolia Police Department, and you would be amazed at the number of people who threaten their children with what a policeman will do to them if they don't behave.

On one occasion I was having

lunch at a snack bar when a young mother pointed her finger at me and loudly told her child. "if you don't eat your vegetables, I'm going to have that policeman arrest you and take you to jail!"

Abby, I am sick and tired of that line. Just the other day, I was at a firehouse when the firemen were showing off a fire truck to a small boy. I asked the boy's mother if perhaps her son would like to see a police car. I was rewarded with a tonguelashing about how intimidated children were of the police. She ended her tirade with. "I don't want my son to have anything to do with the police!"

I walked away with a lump in

my throat. OFFICER BILL WEBER. INDIANAPOLIS DRAR OFFICER BILL:

Perhaps the young mother had a bad experience with a police officer. However, most people know that the majority of police officers are "good guys." They daily risk life and limb protecting law-abiding citizens.

DEAR ABB'r My husband and I are very friendly with another retired couple we have known for many years. The four of us go out for dinner together at least once a week. Now for the problem:

The other gentleman blows his nose at the table — and he is not very subtle about it. Believe me. when he blows, it's a real honker! He honks that way whether we are at a restaurant or in someone's home. I find this very unappetizing.

I mentioned this to his wife once, and she said she would speak to him about it. Well, he is still honking, so I doubt that she mentioned it to him. Otherwise, they are a charming couple and we enjoy their company.

Is there some way I can get my point across to this otherwise considerate gentleman? While his "honking" is rather unsettl-ing, I wouldn't want it to spoil our friendship.

AR FRIEND: Since you have been friends with this couple for many years, wait until the honker honks again, then tell him good-humoredly, but in all sincerity, that his honking at the table is somewhat unappetizing, so would be kindly put a mute on it.

DEAR ABBY: We ask our customers not to smoke in our store. The sign says, "Thank You for Not Smoking.

A lady amoked in the ladies lounge, and when we questioned her about violating our polite request she replied: "Oh, the sign simply said 'Thank you for not smoking.' It didn't say 'No Smoking."

Abby, what do you think of this lady?

BACKAMENTO

DEAR BACRAMENTO The lady was no lady - but it might be wise to change your politely worded sign to the more emphatic, "No Smoking.

DEAR ABBIR The limerick "There was an old maid from Duluth" tickled me because had five old maid aunts, glued to the house although the last of them (my favorite) had me wondering after she died.

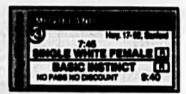

A man none of us had ever seen before showed up at Auntie's funeral and hovered over her casket, bawling.

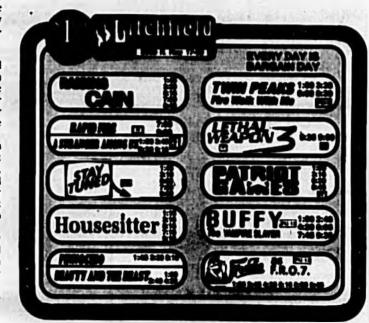

My brother-in-law nudged me and whispered, "I wonder if maybe there was something ida didn't tell us."

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've been led with mouth ulcers for 15 years. I've been to four different doctors, all of whom have advice on what to do when I get them but no advice on how to prevent them. Can you pro-vide information on how to avoid

DEAR READER: In order to get to the bottom of your mouth ulcers, the doctors must establish a diagnosis, because the ulcers could be viral (herpes), bacterial, allergic (from drugs) or nutte immunes (sealers access).

auto-immune (canker sores). You should be examined when you have the ulcers. The doctor can then obtain cultures of the lesions and identify the cause. Herpes ulcers respond to Zovirax, bacterial sores to anti-biotics, allergic ulcers to the discontinuation of the offending drugs, and canker sores to cautery.

DEAR DR. GOTT: A month ago I was diagnosed with essential thrombocythemia following a bone marrow of the hip. My fatigue is severe and my family doctor indicates this could turn into leukemia "somewhere down the line." I don't understand this statement. The bone marrow showed no cancer or leukemia cells. What's the scoop? DEAR READER: Thrombocythemia is a condition marked by too many platelets in the bloodstream, and a tendency toward hemorrhage or a predisposition for blood to clot too rapidly.

In most cases, the cause is unknown (called "essential thrombocythemia"), but in some cases, the disease is caused by acute infection, rheumatoid arthritis, tuberculosis, colitis, iron deficiency, hidden cancer, hemorrhage, and other treatable disorders.

Common symptoms include fatigue, weakness, headache and dizziness. Treatment consists of myelosuppressive therapy. drugs that shut off the excess formation of platelets. I am not aware that essential thrombocythemia progresses to leukemia.

On today's hand, though, careful timing leads inevitably to sweet success for South and inevitably to disappointing defeat for East.

North Judged not to use Stayman, because of his strong intermediates. He felt confident that there wouldn't be an extra trick available in hearts even if there was a 4-4 fit. On some layouts, one can imagine that he would be wrong, but not using Stayman does have the advantage that it avoids giving more information to the defenders about the declarer's hand.

Looking just at the North South cards, you can see 11 top tricks: three spades, three hearts, one diamond and four clubs. There are several chances for the 12th trick, and perhaps your first thought is to take a diamond finesse. Assuming it loses, you will try to drop the heart jack in three rounds. planning. if that fails, to take a second diamond finesse. That's a good line of play. But it isn't the best available. There is a path that guarantees the contract any time East has fewer than five clubs.

You should start by taking your four club tricks, discarding a diamond from the dummy. Then you lead a diamond to the 10. East may win with the queen, but what can he return? Whichever suit he selects, it is into a tenace in the dummy. conceding an extra trick in that suit and leaving you with 12 winners.

Take time in the year ahead to establish a strong foundation in every enterprise in which you become involved. Leaping from one project to another could turn out to be a waste of effort.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your way of doing things might not be in accord with the procedures of someone you'll be involved with today. If each pulls in different directions, nothing good is apt to result. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) There's a chance that, before thoroughly investigating the facts, you might pass on some gossip today that could be detrimental to someone's reputation. Be careful.

ANNIE

21) You might be so enthusiastic about a project today that you'll fail to determine the true cost. This could be your downfall.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Most of your thinking will be pragmatic today, but some of the little things you'll take for granted might cause foul-ups. Be conscious of details as well.

PIECES (Feb. 20-March 20) Keep your guard up in your commercial dealings today; you might lock horns with someone who isn't as ethical as you are. In fact, don't assume anyone is.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your ideas might be ingenious today, but if they are not im-plemented properly, they're not likely to produce the types of results you anticipate.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Pay particular attention to details today, especially if working on an endeavor that includes others. Someone could make a mistake while another may compound it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It's best not to volunteer to manage a situation for another today -especially if it pertains to an area in which you lack expertise. If anything goes awry, you'll be held accountable. CANCER (June 21-July 22) In order to placate your mate today, you might agree to some-thing that is against your better judgment. You'd be better off trying to hammer out an agreement you both could live with.

leave undone. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're a pretty good manager of your resources, but, on occasion, your extravagant whims gain the upper hand. This could be one of those days.
