HOW TO BUY MEAT FOR YOUR SIZE FAMILY

Thrifty housewives usually have some tasty dish planned for the leftovers and therefore prefer to buy slightly heavier than they need for one meal. However, you can safely approximate your need on the basis of 1/2 lb. per person of boneless cuts — and 3/4 lb. per person of the bone-in variety. Allow a little more for big eaters, second helpings, and leftovers.

Snow Storms Spread Winter Grief

By United Press International
One of the worst storms of a long, hard winter whipped across the Midlands today with foot-deep snows, bitter winds and frozen rain. The calendar said spring was less than a week away, but winter reigned supreme from Colorado across Oklahoma, Nebraska, Arkansas and Kansas into Missouri, Iowa, Kentucky, Tennessee and Illinois. Warnings of dangerous driving conditions were posted from Texas to the Dakotas and heavy snows, sleet and ice, with foot-deep drifts and closed schools in Arkansas, Nebraska, Colorado and Kansas. The latest blast of the cruellest March on record laid 14 inches of new snow on Colorado, pelted Kansas city with four inches and raised snow accumulation at Omaha to a record 23 inches. Then it struck hard-hit Arkansas with seven inches and raged across northern Mississippi into the Appalachian Mountain areas of Georgia, Virginia and the Carolinas, with a light snowfall recorded as far south as Atlanta. The near-blizzard was expected to drop as much as 12 inches of snow on southeastern Missouri today before sweeping into Kentucky and Tennessee.

The new storm turned the center of rescue operations from the Appalachians to South Dakota and eastern Nevada. Officials said warming temperatures were melting both heavy drifts and new snow and the stranded North Carolina mountaineers now have enough supplies to last them through the winter. In another tense rescue operation, a party of skiers and a helicopter reached a wrecked, twin-engine plane in deep snow east of Elko, Nev., and reported that all five persons aboard were alive. Two unidentified passengers were reported seriously injured and a third was said to have been injured less seriously.

Sanford Naval Air Station officials reported today that two pieces of debris washed ashore near Daytona Beach Feb. 27 have "positively been identified as parts of an ASD." The parts, a small piece of rubber and a piece of nylon webbing, were identified by the plane's manufacturer, the Douglas Aircraft Corp., and by the manufacturer of the sea sailing gas tank of the type used in the ASD and the webbing as belonging to an ASD drag sheet. "With the identification of these parts it can reasonably be assumed that the ASD missing since Feb. 25 crashed at sea," the NAS reported.

Standardized Wage Scale Urged For County Offices

Citing the "starvation" wages paid to some county employees, County Commission Chairman John Krider called on county department heads today to explore further the possibility of establishing a standardized wage scale for all employees.

Krider said there are some working for the road department making as low as $48 while other employees are making as high as $100 a week.

Tax Collector John Galloway, who opposed the plan, said he would go along with further study of it, as did Tax Assessor Richard McCanna and Circuit Court Clerk David Gatchel.

Krider also criticized payment of bonuses to employees out of excess funds. "I don't like the treatment county money is getting," Krider said. "You can't take tax money and just pass it around to whom ever you want," he added. However, Krider said this call on reflections on present department heads, since this bonus policy has been going on for a long time.

Galloway said he was opposed to the standardization plan because "I am responsible for running my office and I'll say just what employees will get." "I don't want outsiders butting in," he said.

Krider said that the board had taken no action on the plan, but was only studying the idea to give county employees with low salaries a more equal wage rate.

The board agreed to meet with officials from other counties that have started such a plan to get their views on the program.

McCanna said he favored the plan only if a minimum wage was set, with no ceiling on wages.

"I would be in favor of the plan if everyone else went along with it," he added. "I don't see the plan if the other department heads did. However, he said, the program would have little benefit for the constitutional offices, only those coming under the jurisdiction of the County Commission. He cited the zoning, agricultural and welfare offices under this category.

Casselberry Has New Building Code

The Casselberry Board of Aldermen adopted a building code at their meeting Monday night. Alderman Darwin Shea, who drew up the rules with Edward Heinzen, said that the code contains minimum building requirements and was made as easy to understand as possible. Persons building in Casselberry must now pay a building fee of two cents for each square foot of living area put up and one cent for each square foot of carport, screen porch or storage built. The code covers requirements for foundations, walls, the building itself, joists, roofing, wiring, plumbing and plastering.

Shea said that in drawing up the code, the best elements were picked from the Winter Park, Orlando, Seminole County and Southern Standard Building codes. The rule says that fines are not to exceed $100 for code violations formed by the Casselberry building inspectors.

Board Chairman Lytle Sloope said the code's purpose is to keep the town up to a standard and get out work a hardship on any builder.

The aldermen approved a zoning commission report favoring establishment of a 10-acre cemetery on Lake Drive Highway. Casselberry must get a state franchise before he can proceed with the development.

Altamonte Council Hears Complaints

Complaints about infrequent trash collection in Altamonte Springs were made to the Altamonte commission by several residents last night.

Mayor Wilbur Hawkins explained that due to the growth of the town and the fact that Altamonte Springs has only one trash collection truck, the town hasn't been able to keep up to its once per week collection service. Sometimes Altamonte Springs residents only get their trash picked up every 10 days.

The commissioners said they would try to make some provisions for more frequent collection but pointed out that money for increasing the scope of town trash pickups isn't in this year's budget.

The commission decided to open bids on a new Altamonte Springs police car Monday night. Councilman Bill York was instructed to work with Police Chief Tracy Sullivan on getting at least three bids for a next Monday's 7:30 p. m. meeting.

Governor Candidates Stump East Coast

By United Press International
Political activity in Florida Monday found most of the candidates stumping east coast towns.

John McCarty of Fort Pierce, one of 10 Democratic candidates for governor, started the day with a coffee at Delray Beach then flew to Monticello for the funeral of nurseryman Fred Mahan.

Tonight, McCarty will return to Palm Beach County to resume his campaign. At Fort Lauderdale Monday he said if elected he would take steps to bolster Florida's "ailing tourist industry."

Fred O. Dickinson of West Palm Beach headed for the upper east coast today, with stops planned for St. Augustine, Cocoa, Melbourne and Titusville.

Monday, Dickinson was in Jacksonville that Florida needs to improve its industrial climate. He said the unhealthy tax structure headed by the anti-industry intangible tax is discouraging new industries from coming to Florida.

Mayor Hayden Burns of Jacksonville swung into Winter Park, Orlando and his home base, Jacksonville, today.

Monday Burns said "a quiet presentation of the law" should be used to stop Negro sit-down demonstrations protesting lunch-counter segregation in Florida.

Doyle E. Carlton Jr. of Wauchois planned no activity today and was just as quiet Monday. He and Mrs. Carlton returned from a weekend of campaigning in the Miami area.

In Tampa Monday, candidate Ted David of Hollywood called on voters to ask his opponents how they expect to pay for carrying out their campaign promises.

"I think every citizen should ask the candidates what taxes they will propose to meet costs of canal building, road building, education and other campaign promises," he said.

In another aspect of the campaign, the secretary of state reported Monday how much each of the gubernatorial candidates has spent and has been given so far in the race.

C. Farris Bryant of Ocala is leading the contributions list with $141,825 to date. He reported he has spent $102,237 so far.

Next is Carlton, having spent $107,764 and received $137,533. McCarty reported spending $28,279 and receiving $40,916. Dickinson reported expenses of $25,045 and receipts of $41,825.

Two other hard-running candidates, Burns and David, also reported increased expenses and receipts. Burns reported $37,599 spent, $65,107 received, and David reported $26,762 spent and $33,333 received.

In another aspect of the campaign, the secretary of state reported Monday how much each of the gubernatorial candidates has spent and has been given so far in the race.

C. Farris Bryant of Ocala is leading the contributions list with $141,825 to date. He reported he has spent $102,237 so far.

Next is Carlton, having spent $107,764 and received $137,533. McCarty reported spending $28,279 and receiving $40,916. Dickinson reported expenses of $25,045 and receipts of $41,825.

Two other hard-running candidates, Burns and David, also reported increased expenses and receipts. Burns reported $37,599 spent, $65,107 received, and David reported $26,762 spent and $33,333 received.

Monday Burns said "a quiet presentation of the law" should be used to stop Negro sit-down demonstrations protesting lunch-counter segregation in Florida.

Doyle E. Carlton Jr. of Wauchois planned no activity today and was just as quiet Monday. He and Mrs. Carlton returned from a weekend of campaigning in the Miami area.

In Tampa Monday, candidate Ted David of Hollywood called on voters to ask his opponents how they expect to pay for carrying out their campaign promises.

"I think every citizen should ask the candidates what taxes they will propose to meet costs of canal building, road building, education and other campaign promises," he said.

Rescued Russian Sailors To Get U. S. Welcome

ABOARD THE AIRCRAFT CARRIER USS KEARSARGE (UPI) — Four Russian sailors who survived a 40-day ordeal on a disabled landing craft in the Pacific arrive in the United States today.

They were identified as Junior Sgt. Victor Ziganhin, 23; Pvt. Ivan Fedotov, 21; Anatoli Kruchkovich, 20, and Philip Poplavski, 20. The men were identified earlier as soldiers, but Soviet sailors working near shore wear army uniforms and carry army ranks.

The four men will be transferred from the Kearsarge to the Marina Green in San Francisco by helicopter. They will be met by representatives of the U. S. State and Immigration Departments and Anatoli A. Kardeshev, second secretary of the Russian Embassy in Washington, D. C.

Kardeshev said he would take charge of the young men. He said they "probably will stay in San Francisco for two days, then fly to New York and then to the Soviet Union."

He said he was not sure how soon they would be returned to Russia because that "will depend on their condition."

The sailors still wore their green army uniforms when they were picked up by the Kearsarge about 200 miles from Midway Island. They said they were swept to sea by a storm during a training operation near the Kurile Islands on Jan. 17.

During the 40-day ordeal, the small landing craft drifted 1,000 miles—and the men added a chapter to the endless story of man against the sea.

Philharmonic Among TV's Bright Spots

By FRED DANZIG
NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Philharmonic series on CBS-TV, with Leonard Bernstein charming, conversing and occasionally conducting, has been one of the great pleasures of this generally disappointing TV season. Bernstein & Co. was back again Sunday with another satisfying hour, the final hour of their TV season. I may sound like a sorehead but I think mid-March is much too early to conclude a season. Off they go, even before the departure of winter, or the Betty Hutton show.

Sunday's show explored rhythm. Bernstein showed how a pulse became a beat and then takes on rhythmic values. As usual, it was a cleverly presented lesson. I thought, however, that his final portion of narrative contradicted the first part. I also felt that at times Bernstein was almost spoiling Art Carney's recent saffron on Leonard Bernstein—a life-imitates-Art (Carney) sort of thing.

There are no reservations on my part about the performances of Aaron Copland's "El Salon Mexico" and the final movement of Cesar Franck's Symphony in D Minor, which I thoroughly enjoyed. William Graham's direction was an important part of the production's success.

Somehow, the philharmonic's brass seems shinier, the fiddles mellower-looking, the tympanists crisper; the musicians generally more competent than any other musical group I see on TV. May be it's the lighting that does it.

Dialing and Filing: Ed Sullivan did his own censoring on his CBS-TV show Sunday night. He told his audience, several minutes before the close, that he was not showing a previously-scheduled film clip of playwright Sean O'Casey chatting with Barry Fitzgerald. Sullivan said he yanked the segment after phone callers complained about O'Casey's scheduled appearance on the St. Patrick's Day Salute. A brief film excerpt of Irish songs was substituted.

Many Irish songs were performed on TV Sunday, but I thought CBS-TV's "Camera Three" did the finest job. Simple but lovingly-performed folk songs were offered instead of the more familiar tin pan alley Irish tunes. Peggy Lee, who usually sings unsmilingly, played an unsmiling dramatic role on "GE Theater" Sunday night. She can't say she took the role because it offered a challenge. The moulty suspense yarn, "So Deadly, So Evil," didn't offer her anything but a pay check. "Overland Trail," NBC-TV's Sunday Western, continues to display a dude ranch air. And I can't say I'm adjusted to the sight of kindly old Bill Bendix shooting people. It's contrary to everything we've been taught to believe about the man. On "Small World," a stimulating conversation built up as celloist Pablo Casals, violinist Isaac Stern and conductor Ernest Ansermet discussed the musician's responsibility to the politics of his time. Equally fascinating was Ed Murrow's explanation of why Daniel Schorr was sipping for him on the show. I am out of the reach of cameras and microphones," said Murrow, seated before a camera and microphone. I suppose I understand what he meant, but his phrasology haunts me. Even though Janis Paige seems to do the same dance on every show she visits, she remains one of my TV favorites. And in color on "The Dinah Shore Show" Sunday night, she was at her peppiest best.

The Channel Swim: Herbert Hoover will appear on CBS-TV's

"Person to Person" on April 29 from his cottage in Key Largo. The entire half-hour will be devoted to the visit with the former president. The leading contender as a replacement for CBS-TV's "Betty Hutton Show" is another situation comedy, "Angel." "The Immense Design," an examination of theories about the creation of the universe, is NBC-TV's "World Wide '60" for Saturday, April 2. Robert Culp and Inge Stevens are co-stars in "Calico Bait," a future CBS-TV "Zane Grey Theater" episode. This anthology series, incidentally, is awaiting a decision on its future for next season. Ezra Stone has a part in ABC-TV's March 20 mystery, "Kim Quixote" on "Hawaiian Eye." "The Withered Look of Summer," the June 1 "U.S. Steel Hour" production on CBS-TV will star Betsy Palmer and Jeff Donnell. ABC-TV reports that Lawrence Welk will play the accordion for the first time in about two years during his March 28 show.

Clothes Needed For Orphans

Chaplain William Hearn of the Sanford Naval Air Station is involved in worldwide charitable effort to help children orphaned by the recent earthquake in Morocco.

The chaplain is orphan supply coordinator for the Sanford station and is seeking items of clothing and bed clothing for more than 1,000 homeless children who lost their families when the twin earthquakes, fire and tidal waves virtually destroyed the city of Agadir.

A home for these orphans is being established under the patronage of six-year old Princess Lalla Amina. Two thousand and single sheets, 5,000 blue jeans and girls' shorts, 5,000 tee shirts, 2,000 sandals and undergarments are needed. The children are from two to 14 years old.

The plight of these people enveloped by the tragedy wrought by the earthquakes is such that the world, including Sanford, must respond to it. Especially when children are left homeless without families and naked. Chaplain Hearn should get the help of everybody who has any items which these children can use. You can reach him at Extension 232 at the Naval Air Station.

WORRY CLINIC by Dr. G. W. Crane

Like most doctors, Malcolm would like to see a little more medical "know-how" taught in all high school students. Study this case. If you agree with the ideas herein, then urge your local school to start such a course. That an official teacher can be persuaded, let local medical residents in giving the lectures and demonstrations.

CASE 1 - 402: Malcolm D., aged 19, is a city physician with a smart reputation.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I wish the high schools would teach a short course on practical medicine."

"Oh, I don't mean they should try to make doctors out of the pupils."

"But most people are woefully ignorant about simple medical facts. If they just had a few basic principles explained to them, they could save a lot of lives before the medical men reach them."

"Surely a practical course on everyday medical situations would be more lasting dividends to most students than a course in trigonometry."

Malcolm's idea is sound. Indeed, I'd go further and urge not only a course on applied medicine at the high school level, but also a semester of applied psychology.

In case of an accident, therefore, these students would no longer run around in circles, screaming or saying "Call a doctor," when they could quickly render the simple first aid treatment that might save a life.

A panoramic week of lectures on anatomy and physiology could well be included, for a lot of adults fret about cancer in parts of the body where cancer rarely occurs.

If they just knew the simple g-o-d's of anatomy and physiology, they could free themselves from the needless anxiety.

Suppose a person gets into an auto accident. His car smashes, and he is thrown clear. What should he do?

If a person is struck by lightning and falls in the door after being shocked on a high voltage wire, what should you do?

If a child swallows acid what can you do, right on the spot? Or if he is covered with lye or swallows some of it?

Suppose you find your child covered with water in the bath tub and apparently drowned?

Many a mother leaves a baby at its bath while she answers the phone, and then may find it submerged when she returns.

If an adult falls to the floor with a heart attack, what should he do?

Firemen know that one bucket of water on a blazing waste basket may do more to stop a terrible fire than an entire fire department 30 minutes later.

The same is true in medicine. Doctors may not get to the scene for 30 minutes, so you laymen should all be taught in high school about the common medical emergencies.

For you laymen may tip the scales between life and death even in those first 5 minutes.

Remember, mouth-to-mouth breathing is the best form of artificial respiration if a stunned victim is not breathing.

If he is bleeding, stop the blood flow. If you forget where to apply a tourniquet, at least press hard right over the bleeding cut.

Wad up a clean handkerchief and push it hard against the cut blood vessel. Keep up the pressure till the doctor arrives and clamps the bleeding ends of artery or vein.

Soapsuds is a good alkali to neutralize swallowed acid. Vinegar helps offset swallowed lye or lye burns on skin.

A good course in practical medicine at the high school level would thus be a boon to America, so agitate for it in your local school system.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long 6c stamped, addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

POLITICAL CLAMBAKE

ASSIGNMENT WASHINGTON by Ed Koterba

WASHINGTON—They do things a little strangely in Washington. So I gave it little thought at the moment when the blonde at the door greeted me with a kiss on the cheek.

This was at the stately old Congressional Club on Washington's New Hampshire Ave. where wives of our lawmakers often congregate.

Outside, the weather was not much unlike what I had experienced in Antarctica. I arrived in hip boots, but inside congressmen were strolling about in aloha shirts.

Now, I noticed, the attractive lady was putting a garland over my overcoat. I had come here in response to a news release which I vaguely recalled said something about a meeting of congressional wives.

Next I was aware of the handsome gentleman at the young woman's side, grinning until the tightly-waxed tips of his villainous mustache spread six inches apart. I recognized him as Rep. Don Flood (D-Tx.). He said: "Good evening. I would like to have you meet my wife."

It turned out that the wives had gone Hawaiian for the night and this was the typical greeting at the door — for everyone. It did strike me as funny, when I thought of it, to be kissed by a pretty lady and then have her husband step up and introduce us. There was to be no business this evening, just a luau, which meant fried bananas, fried ham, fried nuts and things, preceding the luau course.

The hula portion was performed by a secretary to Sen. Oren Long (D-Hawaii). She's like, winsome Clara Bowman, who something like 3/16th native Hawaiian.

Then they moved the palm fronds and banana trees from the dining hall and a man showed up with a phonograph and hog-caller's voice and announced: "Let's all square dance."

What square dancing had to do with a luau was not made quite clear. But they asked me to join in, and since there was only one other singleton, namely the Hawaiian girl, I agreed. But the way it worked out, an elderly congressman did a trick cross-over and I ended up as the partner to his barefoot wife.

Most of the ladies had taken off their shoes. I suppose it was so they wouldn't hurt the men's feet when they stepped on them.

Then the impasse. The caller kept calling for undivided attention, but the house was made up of both Republicans and Democrats.

The squares finally got rolling and it turned out to be a waltz of a luau.

The energies of the hostess, the wife of Rep. Page Becher (D-Ola.), amazed me. And she did her dancing with her shoes on.

They were all sticking their heels when I slipped away—to recover and return to the waiting first lady of the house.

Naturally, she asked how the meeting went and I found it quite difficult to explain how I could spend an entire evening among congressmen and not come up with a news story.

"They say our girls are more reliable, work harder and are more stable in comparison with their own secretaries. Our girls can spell, too — that's a tremendous advantage."

HOLLYWOOD — Actress Loin De Wit, asked whether it was true that she and seven other persons were unclothed when police raided their party Sunday:

"Well, we were comfortable... We were a compatible group, very friendly. In our business people have to relax."

LOS ANGELES — Robert Neef Jr., counsel for Carole Tregoff, asserting that the hung jury in the Fisch-Tregoff murder trial is indicative of her chances in a new trial:

"They'll never convict her—not in a thousand years."

WINNIPEG, Canada — Christine Connelly, third wife of a confessed husband of six women, disqualifying her wedding day:

"The day we were married he... held my hand and said he prayed that our marriage would be happy. He was one hell of a liar."

WASHINGTON CALLING by Marquis Childs

WASHINGTON—With the conviction that it is imperative for survival in the nuclear age to talk rather than to fight, some more talking is about to start at Geneva. The 16-nation disarmament commission created under the auspices of the United Nations is going to try to find a way out of the vast and terrifying jungle of nuclear armaments that have been created on each side of the East-West divide.

These talks will go on for months and possibly for years. Or they may come to a dead stop and sputter out in futility after a few early skirmishes.

For there is no disguising the fact that the five Communist nations on the one side and the five Western nations on the other are approaching the question from diametrically opposed points of view. The difference between the two approaches could scarcely be greater and as the opening speeches are being written and rehearsed it is hard to see how they can be reconciled.

The Communists are going to Geneva to propose a broad agreement for the swift abolition of all arms and the means for making them. They will follow the proposal presented by Premier Khrushchev in his speech to the United Nations last September. Controls and inspection would come after an agreement to start at, once to dismantle the incredible inventories of mass death.

The Western view is that realistic disarmament can come only through slow and careful stages, with uncheatable rules of mutual inspection agreed to with each stage. Gradually, as one step follows another, the way will be prepared for the big cuts to ease the arms burden and reduce the tensions that bedevil the world.

Tactically the West will begin to probe as quickly as possible, once the propaganda speeches are out of the way, to see whether Moscow is willing to consider a phase-by-phase introduction of controls. This seems highly unlikely. But it would be embarrassing if the conference were to break down before another big date that is not far off.

While prophecy in these matters is risky, in the view of this observer something like the following course of events can be expected. The two sides will come close to a final deal of disagreement before the Big Four heads of government are due to meet in Paris May 16.

In order, however, to maintain a hopeful atmosphere for the summit the talks will continue in a desultory fashion. Then, when Khrushchev sits down with President De Gaulle and Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan, the tangle will be passed along to them. In short, what is about to begin is scarcely more than a preliminary exercise: a marshalling of the propaganda battalions. Depending on whether the summit conference goes well or badly, the disarmament problem will later be handed back to the conferees at Geneva, with perhaps agreed instructions on how they are to proceed.

What is little understood is that behind the barrage of words the bargaining is over an asset that the Soviets are extremely reluctant—possibly—unwilling—to give up. That is the secrecy with which they have screened almost everything about their far-flung armaments.

Anyone with a Brownie camera can photograph America's missile sites which are listed in the press. But there is only the most general knowledge about Russia's striking power, where it is, and how powerful it may be.

All this has been abundantly evident in the talkathon over the suspension of nuclear tests now well into the second year in Geneva. The Soviets have made some concessions—more than anyone had believed possible at the outset—on inspection sites on their territory. These have thus far been judged insufficient to justify acceptance of an agreement that would not be 100 percent cheat-proof.

The chances for success in the disarmament talks hinge in large measure on the outcome of the nuclear test conference. And here again it is likely that the heads of government in Paris will be asked to do some refereeing. They are going to have a large order of business before them in the week they meet.

Formidable complexities stand in the way of even the smallest start toward disarmament. Not the least of these is the fact that Western allies have gone right down the starting line without being able to agree among themselves on which arms to reduce and on how to reduce them. Nevertheless, there is always the consolation that the talking has begun and that it promises to continue for a very long time.

Khrushchev Won't Be Kidding At Paris Summit Meet With Ike

By PHIL NEWSOM

Communist diplomats in East Berlin say President Eisenhower will meet Premier Nikita Khrushchev at the Paris summit meeting in May. They say the Soviet Premier is not kidding when he threatened to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany if the West rejects his Berlin and Germany plans. Communist diplomats also say Khrushchev may demand a Four - Powers Allied council to run West Berlin. This would give the Soviets a voice—and a veto—in West Berlin affairs, but East Berlin would remain under Communist control.

With Khrushchev and Eisenhower traveling from one end of the globe to the other predictions in Tokyo are that the Chinese Communists will begin sending out emissaries of their own. The world Communist head of state, has accepted invitations to visit several east European nations. Liu recently replaced Mao Tse-tung as government head.

The temporary plaster over a feud in the Arab world has cracked wide open. Jordan and the United Arab Republic are (verbally) at each other's throats after a period of sweetness and light. Jordan blocked the U.A.R.'s pet plan for Palestinian refugees in the recent Arab League meeting in Cairo. Now Cairo propaganda attacks on King Hussein are as noisy as they were last summer.

The West will try to gain a propaganda jump over the Russians in the 16-nation disarmament conference opening Tuesday in Geneva. The Soviets are expected to make their major play with a re-run of the Khrushchev plan for "total" worldwide disarmament in four years. The West hopes to outdo this with proposals for a new international disarmament organization and perhaps a world police force.

Big Keg Foams, Big Heads Next

DUBLIN (UPI) — What's probably the world's largest "beer keg" has finally foamed into full-scale operation here, turning out 2,246,000 pints of beer at a time.

The "keg" is a fermenting tun, built of stainless steel, installed at the Guinness brewery here. Guinness officials won't say flatly it's the world's biggest, but they don't know of any others half so big.

The warehouse-size tun holds the raw materials of beer while it ferments just enough to give it a proper kick—7,800 bulk barrels at a time. The whole tun is sterilized after every use.

At 80 fillings a year, the Guinness people say it will produce 179,712,000 pints of stout every 12 months.

A greater variety of wild flowers is grown in the "Sunflower State" — Kansas — than anywhere else in the nation.

Airline Pilots Over 60 Become Jet Age Victims

CHICAGO (UPI) — Commercial airline pilots over 60 years old became victims of the jet age today when the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) ordered them grounded.

The union representing the pilots said it would "go all the way to the Supreme Court" in an effort to upset the FAA ruling which clips the wings of some of the nation's finest pilots.

The government said it issued the order as a safety measure because pilots are required to fly the "newest and hottest" in jet planes and older men might not be as alert as younger pilots in cases of emergencies.

Clarence V. Rayen, president of the Air Line Pilots Association (ALPA), blasted the order by FAA Administrator Elwood R. Quesada.

"This guy Quesada has practically life and death control over the whole airline industry," Rayen said.

Rayen charged Quesada ignored the intent of Congress in creating the FAA by "interfering in a professional situation." He said that even if the union agreed that 60 was the proper age to retire, "we would never agree with the completely arbitrary action in this case."

The FAA order grounds an estimated 60 pilots.

South Korean Elections Set

SEOUL (UPI) — South Koreans vote today in an election which was virtually sure to give 64-year-old Syngman Rhee an unprecedented fourth term as president.

Rhee was unopposed for re-election, and the only way he could lose was by polling less than a third of the vote cast in the contested vice-presidential election.

The candidates for vice president were Lee Ki Poog, Rhee's 62-year-old running mate, and John M. Chang, the 61-year-old incumbent nominated by the opposition Democratic Party. Chang defeated Lee by about 200,000 votes in the 1966 election.

'Gillis' Episode Is Canceled

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Columbia Broadcasting System canceled tonight's scheduled episode of the "Many Loves of Dobie Gillis" on the ground that it was too suggestive.

The canceled show concerned the story of a baby-sitting enterprise that led the TV father of Dobie to believe his son had become a father.

CBS said it had received "sufficient negative reaction" from affiliated stations which preview the show. A re-run of an earlier show will take its place.

Game Called 'Diplomacy' Should Interest All Potential Candidates

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — I was wiggling along F Street one recent afternoon when my attention was harpooned by a sign in the window of Brentano's Book Store.

The poster proclaimed the advent of a new game called "Diplomacy" touted as "the greatest innovation in games since the invention of chess."

"Highly recommended for the politician, the diplomat, the military enthusiast and anybody at all who likes to think, the poster said.

Now I don't fall into any of those categories, particularly the last one, so it was not flattery that tempted me to snap at the $2.95 bait.

What stopped me in my tracks were the lines which said "any tactic based on deception is legitimate in diplomacy" and which promised to supply the players with "the essential instructions on how to cheat."

I knew that parlor games had been getting progressively more realistic but I never dreamed they had reached the point of legalizing cheating. It seemed to me this would take all the fun out of the game.

Nevertheless, with the cold war still going on and the summit meetings coming up, I could see how a diplomatic game might be popular in Washington. So before you could say "Andrei Gromyko," I was inside the store engaging in some deceptive negotiations with the manager.

By pretending to be a politician, diplomat and military enthusiast who likes to think, I was able to persuade him to let me try the game without buying it.

Encouraged by this coup in "diplomacy," I called up my wife and suggested that she

Piver Firm Outlines Two-Year Home Building Program In Area

Dan Piver, developer of the Tee 'N Green homes west of Sanford, outlined today a two-year program of building in this area, with development of a 200-home Crystal Lake section next on his program.

Leffler and Bush, Sanford engineers, have completed their phase of work on the Crystal Lake area and Piver said he expects to build lakefront homes and others with lake privileges.

Piver said his firm's plans have been based on surveys he made of Seminole County during more than two years of study of possible development areas.

"The growth of the county definitely requires increased home building and there are several sections which we expect will show considerable more expansion as far as home construction is concerned," Piver said.

"We look for road improvements, power company and other utility expansion, new churches and other signs of community growth when we survey an area. New business and industry also brings new families and we found all of these things going on in the Sanford vicinity," he said.

The recent grand opening of Tee 'N Green indicated to the Piver firm that the location chosen near the Mayfair Country Club was a good one.

"We had a lot of people looking at the model homes and sales of lots have been encouraging," Piver said. "We found interest in the way we landscape and the way the homes are built."

Tee 'N Green is featuring three models with "wife-saver features": the V. I. P., the Diplomat and the Executive. They have four or three bedrooms and two baths, built-in kitchens and patios.

Planning with FHA officials from Tampa and Atlanta for commitments on other projects also is underway, Piver said.

"We expect to keep busy for at least two years on our original home building plans," he estimated.

Hoffa Defends Policies At Rally

NEW YORK (UPI) — James R. Hoffa blasted away at his enemies before about 8,000 enthusiastic Teamsters Monday night in what he had hoped would be the biggest union meeting in New York's history.

The crowd only half-filled Madison Square Garden, and police alerted to handle an overflow on the streets had nothing to do.

But the Teamsters who showed up to hear their president loudly cheered and applauded his defense of the union and his call for an all-out fight against its opponents.

Hoffa said a major objective of the teamsters should be to defeat presidential contender Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) and all others instrumental in passing the Landrum-Griffin Labor Reform Act. He said the bill was aimed at "the destruction of the labor movement."

Coffee Goes Up In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The knights of the road no longer will be able to ask, "Say, buddy, got a dime for a coffee?" When they reach Los Angeles — they'll have to ask for 15 cents.

That's the new price for a hot cup of java at most Los Angeles restaurants starting today.

Robert M. Riley, general manager of the Southern California Restaurant Assn., said the hike from 10 or 12 cents to 15 cents for a cup of coffee in most of the city's 6,000 restaurants was due mainly to a 7 per cent pay increase to restaurant employees.

Reds Not Excited At Nikita's Illness

MOSCOW (UPI) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev's illness which forced sudden postponement of his visit to France created scarcely a ripple of excitement in Russia.

Details of the flu attack were kept secret. The dates of his trip to France were changed to March 23-April 2.

In other countries a premier's illness would be regarded as the biggest news of the hour but Khrushchev drew only one paragraph on the front page of the Communist Party newspaper Pravda. Even this was unusual.

There was no indication whether Khrushchev, who will be 66 next month, was under medical care at his Moscow home, at some sunny resort town on the Black Sea, in a clinic or at his country home. No medical bulletins were expected. President Eisenhower's various illnesses brought regular bulletins everything from his temperature to his blood pressure.

The Pravda paragraph was unusual because government leaders' personal lives are traditionally not covered in this country. The brief dispatch merely quoted the same Tass news agency announcement that disclosed he was too ill to go to France on a visit that was to have begun Tuesday.

Automobile accidents caused 1,380 disabling injuries in the U. S. in 1966.

I STUDIED Latin in high school, but this is Greek to me, say Checkertalis Ralph Bellamy, left, and Gerald Grant of Heavy Attack Squadron 11 on liberty in Rhodes, Greece. The Squadron spent a few days in the port city while conducting flight operations with the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean.

Covington Covers Sports

By JERRY COVINGTON

The Grapefruit League season got underway over the weekend and we saw several very impressive performances.

On Sunday the Senators faced the Detroit Tigers before a jam-packed crowd at Tinker Field and the Nats were very impressive in their 4-1 victory.

Washington ace Camillo Pasqual started on the mound for the up and coming Nats and he certainly showed why he was chosen pitcher of the year in the American League. He went three full innings and the Tigers were unable to get a ball out of the infield against him. In my book he is the finest pitcher in either league and should be good for 20 wins this season.

After the game we had a bull session in Jake Jacobs' room at the Cherry Plaza and I asked Jake what he thought of Pasqual. He said that last week in batting practice Camillo was throwing to him and he asked for a curve. Jake said, "after I did I was sorry, because it broke like it was falling off a table."

Jake started in the game Saturday against the Tigers in center field and started their only rally when he singled and later scored the first run. He also made several beautiful fielding plays in the outfield. In the game Sunday he went in to run for Bob Allison in the seventh inning and scored on a hit by Reno Bertoia.

In discussing Jake with Washington

brass, Joe Haynes and Sherry Robertson, they both say that everyone on the club thinks very highly of Jake and they look for him to go a long way. There is one outfield position open at present and the Nats will probably choose between Jake and big Dan Dobbeck.

In discussing the overall picture of the Nats this season Jake had this to say, "It's a cinch that they don't need any more power in the lineup with Allison, Killbrew, Lemon, and Selvers in there. What they need is more speed and a good percentage hitter to get on the bases before the power comes to the plate. They are also weak up the middle of the infield. I sincerely feel that I could be able to help them defensively in the outfield and make plays that none of them could make."

I asked Jake if he was nervous in the starting lineup the first day against Detroit and he said, "after playing for the Greyhounds last season and having all of those shots hit at me out there I must have developed a good set of nerves because I really felt calm. I made several mental errors however, but all this will be corrected with a few games under my belt."

From what I have seen this spring I am going to pick the Nats for sixth place or better in the AL this season. They have a great crop of rookie pitchers that should come through and if Pasqual and Pete Ramos have big years, there is no doubt that they will be loaded.

Chisox Manager Lopez Views 'Old Man' Garcia With Renewed Interest

United Press International
Larger shots have paid off so Manager Al Lopez of the Chicago White Sox is viewing "old man" Mike Garcia with renewed interest.

In him," said Lopez after the 26-year-old "bear" spun three scoreless innings in an 8-4 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Monday.

"And his first real outing of spring certainly didn't do anything to discourage us."

Garcia's performance was especially impressive because it came after 22-game winner Early Wynn was raked up in a three-run third-inning rally and 14-game winner Billy Pierce also was roughed up by the Cardinals. Big Mike took over with the score 7-4 and slammed down the lid on the Cardinals the remainder of the distance.

"Go go" boys Luis Aparicio and Jim Landis both scored on an outfield fly in the first inning to put the White Sox in front, 2-0. Al Smith also started for the American League champions, driving in four runs with a triple and a single.

The Cardinals, who have lost two of their three exhibition games, had something to cheer about when Stan Musial doubled off Pierce in the sixth inning to drive in St. Louis' last run.

Garcia had only a 3-6 record for the Indians last season but Lopez says the one-time 20-game winning right-hander could be an important addition to his bullpen corps. The White Sox already have the strongest relief corps in the league in Gerry Staley and Turk Lown.

The Baltimore Orioles also chalked up their third straight Grapefruit League triumph when they beat the Cincinnati Reds, 8-4. The Washington Senators downed the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers, 7-4, the Kansas City Athletics beat the Milwaukee Braves, 7-3; the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-1, and the Detroit Tigers topped the New York Yankees, 4-2, in Monday's other exhibition activity.

Shriners Night At Kennel Club Scheduled Tonight

Baltimore County Shriners will help swell the grandstands at Sanford-Kennel Club tonight for the annual Shriners Night action. A special 10-event card will be launched at 8:10 with some of the South's top racers slated to run.

The Shriners Handicap, featured ninth race of the oval will be capped with a trophy presentation by a top official in the Shriners organization of Central Florida. Babe Stine Temple is in charge of arrangements.

Carl Tracy's sensational Wayne Roberts, a youngster who has moved quickly up the quality ladder to the top in the sport of queens, is a 2-to-1 favorite in the hot ninth race, from the fifth post position.

Wayne has marched to victory seven times this season, in addition to five places and two show finishes this season out of 16 starts. The 64-pounder recently defeated unofficial champion Happy Joe Lucky by one and one-half lengths to furnish one of the season's most exciting upsets.

Veteran Roxanna Mink is rated second-best on the morning line, with 4-to-1 odds. The light brindle miss will have the popular eight-box for feature competition. Rounding out the star-studded field for the Shriners Handicap are Red Nix, Far Fetched, Duce Black, Blue Backstitched, Big Bling and Revok's Sweetie.

Don't forget tomorrow's matinee schedule, starting at 2 p. m. Only 17 days remain on the local racing calendar.

Pleiffers Lose Open Team Title Play At ABC

TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI)—The Detroit Pleiffer Beers lost their American Bowling Congress open team title Monday night, but team captain Eddie Lubanski can break an ABC record with some 30-30 for him bowling today.

The Pleiffers, who rolled a record 3243 series to win the 1959 ABC tournament in St. Louis, could get only 2630 Monday night, good for seventh place in the current 1960 tourney standings.

Lubanski led the team with a 610, far below the 704 he shot last year in winning the singles title. He needs only 1221 in bowling singles and doubles today to break the all-time ten-year 200-average record of 207.1 set in 1951 by Junie McMahon of Fair Lawn, N. J.

Lubanski 10 bowls on the 3:20 p. m. squad today. The Wilkof Structural Steel team of Canton, Ohio, stole the show from the Pleiffers Monday night, rolling in honor of their late captain, Albert (Red) Milano, who died 10 days before a heart attack. Structural had 950-897-986-2933 for a fifth-place tie among open teams. Joe Monastran led the team with a 664 series.

In the boosters division, the 1959 ABC champion Miami lines of Troy, Ohio, failed to make even the booster squad prize list, rolling 2403. A year ago they fired 2848.

'Unusual' Scorecards Set For '60 Greyhound Games

With 21 of 24 fence signs sold, and the remaining three perhaps shortly to be accepted by last year advertisers, the drive to raise funds to operate the Sanford Greyhound baseball entry in the Florida State League this week enters a second concerted phase.

General Manager Peter Schaal tomorrow will start contacting all of last year's score card advertisers to offer them the acceptance of space in what he described as the "most unusual scorecard ever offered in baseball parks anywhere."

Eight of 40 ads already have been spoken for, he said, by advertisers who, upon hearing the several "plus" features of the unique card, quickly renewed and helped prepare copy that will be the most talked about advertising the city has known in years.

"We're offering advertising this year," he said, "strictly on the basis of it all but guaranteeing to produce a result. There is nothing so wasteful as an ad that says 'Compliments of a Friend.' Our advertisers will immediately catch the eye and will result in sales far exceeding their cost within days. I'm confident our advertisers will not only be satisfied, but will ask for renewals in 1961."

Meantime, word that local sports minded advertisers were renewing their fence space was greeted warmly by two club directors who were unable to attend the annual meeting and election of officers—Bart Peterson Jr., and George Stevens.

Peterson said "it bears out my often stated claim that Sanford is and always has been one of the most sports-minded cities in the south," while Stevens predicted that "we'll put some people in the park this summer with that kind of spirit."

Season ticket sales remain "satisfactory," Schaal said, reminding fans that reservations can be made at McRoberts Tire Supply Co., 406 W. First St., Phone FA 2-0831. "One of our salesmen will call on any fan," he said, "within a few hours after the call is received. General admission season tickets are $40; reserved box seat tickets, $60."

Here's Warning For All Champs

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI)—If you're a world champion, stay out of South America.

Last December, welterweight king Don Jordan of Los Angeles traveled to Buenos Aires for a non-title bout with Federico Thompson of Argentina and suffered an upset, fourth-round knockout.

Monday night, featherweight champion Davey Moore met a 29-year-old Venezuelan scrappier named Carlos Hernandez in a non-title fight at Caracas and absorbed the first knockout loss of his career.

Tornadoes Threaten Area; Plant City Hit

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — Tornado-like winds, hail and heavy rains pummeled Central Florida today for the second consecutive day.

The Melbourne area on the central east coast, just south of the Cape Canaveral missile test center, was warned to expect a possible tornado around noon. The Miami Weather Bureau radar picked up a severe thunderstorm squall bearing down on the Melbourne area.

An unconfirmed tornado dipped down at Robinson Airport, southwest of Plant City, at 9:30 a. m. There were no injuries, but officials reported two hangars badly damaged and five aircraft destroyed. Four planes were wrecked at the Melbourne airport.

A line of thunderstorms, containing "extreme turbulence" moved in from the Gulf of Mexico before dawn. Winds in excess of 70 miles per hour hit some areas.

Hail stones measuring one-quarter to three-quarters of an inch fell in the Tampa Bay area and later in Central Florida.

Heavy rains made some highways impassable.

Over three inches of rain fell in the Sanford area Tuesday and an even heavier rainfall was reported in the Seminole County.

County Engineer Robert Davis, inspecting washouts in that area, reported that so far damage had been minor.

However, Davis said the heavy rains put a halt to county road work on the Lake Mary Road improvement project.

Davis said that paving the road would have been completed this week but unless the rains stop today and Thursday, the project won't be completed until the early part of next week.

Sanford work crews were out early this morning cleaning out drainage ditches that overflowed Tuesday. No serious damage was done to city streets with the exception of a few streets in the Goldsboro area, city officials said.

The heavy rains also caused damage to the roof at Seminole High School.

Supt. of Schools R. T. Milwee said that a downspout broke on the roof of the building causing water to leak into the science classroom on the second floor. The water also seeped through the wooden floor and down into the home economics room on the first floor.

However, Milwee said damage was quickly repaired.

The Hillsborough County sheriff's office reported U. S. 4 washed out south of Tampa, between Gibson and Ruskin. Traffic was being re-routed over U. S. 301. In the Orlando area, Lake Sherwood overflowed onto U. S. 50 and rain inundated a new subdivision along U. S. 17-92.

The Weather Bureau reported 5.03 inches of rain in the Orlando area during a 24-hour period ending at 7 a. m. Jacksonville and Tampa had more than two inches each.

The Plant City weather observer reported 4.5 inches of rain in two hours. Tornado in the Orlando area during a 24-hour period ending at 7 a. m. Jacksonville and Tampa had more than two inches each.

Storm Lashes Central Plains

By United Press International

A driving, blowing storm buried central plains today under some of the heaviest snow of the year and closed roads and schools throughout Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska and Kansas.

With spring only four days away from the calendar, the storm dumped up to 20 inches of snow on the heart of the Midwest, it roared outward into Illinois.

Indiana, southeastern Minnesota, southern Wisconsin, and lower Michigan.

Hundreds of southern Iowa basketball fans were snowbound for the night in the Red Oak High School gymnasium and their coaches were stranded at a tournament in Peru, Neb.

High winds reduced visibility to zero and whipped the new-fallen snow into drifts which blocked most rural roads and threatened to halt traffic on main highways.

The storm, which started in Kansas Monday, left Kansas City crippled under 20 inches of snow. Most of the city's industrial plants shut down.

Hazardous driving warnings went up across the Midwest and the Weather Bureau warned of severe traffic problems in store for Chicago and other major cities.

Thunderstorms were expected to move into Virginia today while rain mixed with snow was forecast for a broad area in the Mississippi River into Pennsylvania.

A truck loaded with 150 hogs tipped over near Princeton, Mo. Eight Princeton men rounded up the hogs in a blinding snow and Sheriff Clay Delamater led the procession through town to a loading yard by following hog calls from his squad car.

National Guardsmen pulled out of West Jefferson, N. C., after staging a mammoth relief operation for 1,500 mountain families stranded behind 30-foot drifts. Snow depths reached 13 inches at Boone, N. C.

Hope 'Fading' For Remaining Trapped Miners

LOGAN, W. Va. (UPI) — Rescuers trudged past the canvas-encased bodies of 10 miners today to search for the 23 men who were trapped in the mine.

There was no hope that any would be found alive.

Discovery Tuesday of bodies of 16 of the 18 men trapped in the mine since March 8 added this community. Rescue squads at the mine entrance bowed their heads. Salvation Army workers led them in prayers and hymns.

The seven-day, round-the-clock search had been sparked by optimism until Tuesday afternoon when West Virginia mine director Crawford L. Wilson emerged from the mine with tears streaking his face.

In a voice quivering with emotion, he announced that some of the men had been found dead.

The 18 bodies had been found huddled together in a partially-fallen, crumbling tunnel, three miles from the pithead.

"All the men are presumed dead," Wilson told newsmen who gathered about for the first announcement of the miners' fate.

The news stunned all those connected with the rescue operation. In the community of Holden, where mine families had feared the worst but spoke in hopeful terms, the dead men's relatives grieved behind closed doors.

Island Creek Coal Co. President Raymond Salvati, who had kept a vigil in his office only 100 yards from the mine head, had to be helped to his automobile by a state policeman.

Rescuers theorized that the 13 men whose bodies were found in the rock-strewn, three-foot high passageway were trying to crawl back to the last of three mine pockets in which it had been hoped they barricaded themselves against deadly carbon monoxide fumes.

Ike Suggests Bi-Racial Conferences In South

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Dwight D. Eisenhower today advocated the formation of bi-racial conferences in every southern community to help settle racial tensions locally rather than depending on the federal government.

Eisenhower, commenting on recent Negro lunch counter demonstrations in the South, said he thought that such demonstrations, if orderly and seeking to support the rights of equality, were constitutional. Therefore, he said, they should be permitted.

The president reserved judgment, however, on disorder resulting from such demonstrations. He said his news conference was not a lawyer and could not determine the extent to which the federal constitution might apply.

Furthermore, he said disorder was a matter for local handling.

"That, he said, was one principal reason why he thought there should be bi-racial conferences in every southern community in an effort to reduce conflict between the races without turning to Washington for the answer.

A chain of "sit-in" strikes protesting racial discrimination at lunch counters has occurred all through the South. Negroes—most of them college students—have filled lunch counter seats where, in most instances, they are refused service while seated. White sympathizers have joined them in some places.

County Checks Jobs For Saving

The County Commission Tuesday deferred action on awarding a bid for three road improvement projects to check the possibility of the county road department doing the work cheaper.

The three paving projects are Wily Ave., Rose Court connecting S. Pinecrest to Sanford Ave. and Park Ave. from 27th St. to Pinecrest.

County Engineer Bob Davis told the board that if the weather is good the road department may be able to do the work without outside contract help.

The apparent low bidder was the L. L. Hall Construction Co., with a bid of $27,910 for the three projects.

Commissioners agreed that this price was too high.

In other action, the board named Law Arnold and Byron Kimball as appraisers for the right-of-way project on SR 427.

Authorized Commissioner Lawrence Swafford to proceed with plans to clean up drainage wells in the Lake Oriens area.

Health Director On Committee

Dr. Clyde L. Brothers, new director of the Seminole County Health Department, has been appointed to the Seminole County Children's Committee by Governor LeRoy Collins.

The children's committee is a local, volunteer unit of the Florida Children's Commission, a state agency. The committee carries out policies and programs of the commission and independently works for better programs and services for Seminole County children and youth.

Voters League Meets Tuesday

The Voters League of District 3 has scheduled its next general meeting for 7:30 p. m. March 22 in the courthouse.

The public is invited to attend, Mrs. Ruth Gallagher, publicity chairman for the organization, said.

"You do not have to live in District 3 to be welcome at this meeting," she said. "Anyone interested in learning more about the county government is urged to attend. Come and bring your neighbor," she said.

House Leaders Seek To Rescue Rights Vote Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House leaders sought today to rescue the administration's voting referee plan from a two-way assault and write it into the civil rights bill.

The referee proposal, designed to safeguard Negro voting rights, was caught in a crossfire from liberal Democrats seeking a tougher measure and Southern Democrats who want to water down the plan.

In a series of bewildering votes Tuesday, the House killed the referee proposal and then revived it. At the end of the confusing session, the House was left about where it started on the civil rights bill.

The southerners joined forces temporarily Tuesday with the Northern liberals and managed to substitute a stronger Democratic plan for the administration proposal. It would have provided for presidentially appointed enrollment officers to guarantee that qualified Negroes could vote.

But when the substitute had been adopted, the Southerners did a quick switch and joined Republicans in voting down the entire proposal.

Rep. William M. McCulloch (R-Ohio) floor leader of the administration forces, revived the referee plan by offering a new version with only one paragraph eliminated from the original proposal.

Rep. Francis K. Walter (D-Pa.), presiding officer, said that the revised version could be brought up despite Southern objections that it was out of order.

While the House struggled over the voting rights section, the Senate talked on in its fifth week of civil rights debate. The Senate is splitting to act on a House-passed bill.

Ike Makes It Clear He's For Nixon
WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower today abandoned all pretense of neutrality and made it clear that Vice President Richard M. Nixon is his personal choice for president.

The President also said he would do anything he could to help the Republican ticket if he is asked to do so.

Eisenhower was asked at his news conference about remarks attributed to him in an off-the-record talk at the Gridiron Club dinner here Saturday night.

He was quoted as having said that those at the lead table needed only to move two seats over from where he was sitting to greet the next president at his dinner next year. Nixon was sitting two seats away.

Eisenhower laughed and replied that reporters were never present at Gridiron dinners, and that certainly no guest had been guilty of reporting what he said. But as long as it was out, he added, he didn't mind clarifying what he had said. He said he was talking about geographical areas in which certain people were sitting at the dinner.

He went on to say that if anyone wondered whether he had a preference or even a bias about the choice of his successor, the answer was yes—very definitely.

He later was asked if he specifically referred to the vice president. He answered by asking the reporter if there was any doubt in his mind.

Eisenhower also was asked about reports that he might give the keynote speech at the Republican convention in July. He said he had not been asked to do so.

Longest Civil Suit Ends After 7 Days

The longest civil case in Seminole County's history ended Monday afternoon after seven days.

A six-man jury found the defendant, the Kwell Construction Co. of Lakeland, not guilty of a charge of failing to fulfill contract specifications.

The City of Sanford Housing authority brought the $60,000 suit to court claiming that the construction company did not apply the tile roof according to standards.

The roof in question was on William Clark Court. The work was completed in April, 1952, and the case was not filed in Circuit Court until late 1957.

Attorney for the defendant was Mark Cleveland Jr. while Fred Wilson and G. Andrew Spoor acted for the plaintiff.

The jury deliberated one and a half hours before handing Circuit Judge Vassar Carlson a not guilty decision.

Ninety-eight pieces of land are needed for the widening. They have been appraised by the SRD at $22,103.

County Checks Jobs For Saving

The County Commission Tuesday deferred action on awarding a bid for three road improvement projects to check the possibility of the county road department doing the work cheaper.

The three paving projects are Wily Ave., Rose Court connecting S. Pinecrest to Sanford Ave. and Park Ave. from 27th St. to Pinecrest.

County Engineer Bob Davis told the board that if the weather is good the road department may be able to do the work without outside contract help.

The apparent low bidder was the L. L. Hall Construction Co., with a bid of $27,910 for the three projects.

Commissioners agreed that this price was too high.

In other action, the board named Law Arnold and Byron Kimball as appraisers for the right-of-way project on SR 427.

Authorized Commissioner Lawrence Swafford to proceed with plans to clean up drainage wells in the Lake Oriens area.
