Expressway Route's A Surprise

Chosen Alignment Will Cross 17-92 Near Airport Boulevard

By Ted Carter Herald Staff Writer

Highly touted Route 53 hardly received a mention Wednesday as Seminole County Expressway Authority members surprised many observers by selecting the more expensive Route 68 for a 17-mile expressway from State Road 434 to Interstate-4.

The authority, in a 5-2 vote, decided the $280 million cost of alignment 68 is justified by its reduced social and environmental consequences.

The vote came after more than two hours of comments from citizens, most of whom strongly objected to alignment 53, the route recommedned by engineering consultants and two of the three authority advisory committees. The route's estimated cost of $245 million and its slight advantage in the amount of travel time it would require led to its endorsement by consultants and the committees.

Authority members voting for the selected route were Chairman Fred Streetman, Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith, Lake Mary City Commissioner Paul Tremel and county commissioners Sandra Glenn and Robert Sturm. County commissioners Bill Kirchhoff and

Barbara Christensen dissented. Kirchhoff had wanted to follow alignment 68 and stop at U.S. Highway 17-92, and had argued there were no benefits to be gained by spending the $90 million to $120 million it will ing the planned toll road to 1-4 would not increase its ridership but would increase the traffic load on I-4 by putting some 7,000 additional cars on the interstate daily. Christensen made no comment during the discussion.

Smith also had wanted to stop at U.S. 17-92 but said later she was confused on the motion and thus ended up voting to take the highway all the way to I-4.

Smith's confusion stemmed from a series of amendments to an original motion. When a vote was finally called after lengthy back-and-forth discussion, a vote on the amended motion came before the vote on the original motion. The original motion came from Kirchhoff, who proposed building route 68 no farther than U.S. 17-92 and conducting further studies of a spur expressway to the east Route map, 12A

The amended motion to go to I-4 came from Strum, who said, "Without going to I-4, we will have a missing link in our expressway system."

Interviewed afterward. Chairman Streetman said the impact of the recommended Route 53 on Sanford area neighborhoods and the environment was unacceptable. "We tried to lessen the impact on environmental and human resources. Even though it (Route 68) cost more, we felt those things were more valuable."

Homeowners Along '53' Leave Happy

By Brad Church Harold Staff Writer

Most of the nearly 500 people who turned out for the public hearing on the route of the Seminole County Expressway Wednesday night came to express opposition to the favored route, which would cut through their neighborhoods.

They came away jubilant, relieved and surprised when the county expressway authority rejected its consultants' recommendations and chose a route to the east of the favored Route 53.

Clint Hayes of 133 Wildwood Drive, who coordinated an 11person effort which successfully got 1,900 letters protesting the proposed route signed and mailed to the authority members, said he was relieved that another route was chosen, and hoped his and his compatriots' efforts had an impact on the

Hayes said he and other members of his committee spent a hectic 18 hours distributing the letters throughout the proposed corridor area in time for Wednesday night's hearing.

'My house is located just in front of a farm, and the other morning I looked out the window and saw the green pasture and cattle and horses and thought I could lose all that through this group's decision tonight," Hayes said. "That's when we went to work trying to get those petitions signed and urging people in th 53 corridor to attend this hearing."

Hayes said he is relieved the expressway authority chose another route, but added "I really sympathize with those people who are still in the corridor, like those who live in Idyllwilde."

Another person who was happy at the outcome of the hearing was Vola G. Helfin of 113 Ventura Drive, who emerged from the hearing room with a big smile on his face. 'Well, we won," he said. "They were going to take 31 new houses out of my neighborhood with that route."

Longwood Plans May Require Tax Hike

By Jane Casselberry Herald Staff Writer

A marathon work session on the proposed city budget lasted from 8 a.m. to midnight Tuesday leaving Longwood city officials bleary-eyed and uncertain of how much of a property tax rate increase it will take to make it fly.

Three work sessions originally planned were condensed into one so that all of the commissioners could be present.

The tax rate is not scheduled to be set until the next regular city commission meeting on Aug. 3, which gives Finance Director Barry Weeks time to compute what the city commissioners' cuts and concessions to department heads have done to the proposed $4.3 million general fund budget submitted by City Administrator Ron Waller.

Based on his original budget proposal. later revised to $4,273,945, Waller anticipated the city's property tax rate would remain at $2.90 per thousand assessed property valuation, but unless the commission makes last minute slashes Waller expects some increase will be necessary.

Waller said the $2.90 per thousand assessed property value tax rate would provide $1.1 million in real and personal property tax revenue compared to $957,000 last year because of an increase in taxable property on the tax

The commission tentatively decided Tuesday to give all city employees a 1.2 percent cost of living increase and give a 4.9 percent merit bonus effective May. 1988. A 5.2 percent cost of living increase had been proposed in the budget.

As the result of Tuesday's session. Longwood Police Chief Greg Manning. whose has the largest departmental budget, will be driving his own car on the job in the coming fiscal year. He said he will turn the Thunderbird he is now using over to the detective division.

Manning, who has had allegations made against him by City Commissioner Dave Gunter that he used a city vehicle for personal trips, told the commission he would provide his own car and

Concerned residents who believed their homes were in the path of the proposed expressway nearly filled the 628-seat lake Mary High School auditorium Wednesday.

The commission agreed to give Manning $4,200 for a car allowance with the chief providing his own insurance, gas and maintenance. Manning said he would not have lights or siren, but would have a police radio in the car.

The commission also okayed purchase of seven new cars for the police department requested by Manning, who said by giving up his city vehicle the department will have an eighth car available. The new cars, budgeted at a total of $85,500, if ordered Oct. 1 probably won't be delivered unil January Manning said.

He said the replacements are badly needed because some Monday mornings there may be as many as five patrol cars out of service sometimes requiring two of the three patrolman on duty to ride in one car because there are only two cars

Altamonte Supervisor Arrested

Corruption Charged In Prisoner Work-Release

By Susan Loden Herald Staff Writer

The Altamonte Springs city worker assigned to pick up and supervise Seminole County prisoners serving weekend time by working in and for that city has been arrested.

The assistant street department foreman, who acted as a guard to the prisoners while they worked, is accused of taking payoffs from prisoners and letting them go home without working.

Altamonte Springs Police Lt. Steve Garver said that William Lee Barnes Jr., 29, of Eatonville. is accused of taking $20- to $40payments from weekend prison-ers who didn't want to work. Barnes would allegedly check the inmates out of jail, collect money from them, let them sign in for work and then go home without working.

These prisoners, who do not serve time behind bars, arrive at the jail on Saturday mornings and are assigned to various cities as dayworkers who go home at night, Garver said.

For at least 10 weeks and perhaps for as long as 18 months, Garver said, Barnes has allegedly been receiving payoffs from prisoners.

Police got a tip from another city worker about the alleged bribery and police sent a "plant," on the work detail as a prisoner to continue their investigation, Garver said. Barnes has been charged with bribery and official misconduct. He was arrested at the Altamonte Springs police station 6:30 p.m. Wednesday after he was questioned there.

He has been released on $1,000 bond to appear in court August 10.

The charges against Barnes stem from allegations from one prisoner, sentenced to serve 30 weekends. That man, Garver said, has served only one weekend and to be freed from duty for 10 others allegedly paid Barnes a total of $400. That prisoner will likely be ordered to serve the 29 weekends remaining in his sentence, Garver said. Other charges are pending against Barnes in other alleged bribes.

Barnes has been employed by the city of Altamonte Springs since March 18, 1985.

He has been suspended with pay, pending the outcome of an administrative investigation, said Sam Frazee, city director of human resources.

Demonstrations Against Pope Planned By Women's Groups

WASHINGTON (UPI) - A coalition of two dozen women's issues groups called today for a series of demonstrations, possibly including civil disobedience, at the Vatican embassy before the September U.S. visit of Pope John Paul II.

Five organized demonstrations are to begin Aug. 26. Women's Equality Day, and to continue at the embassy in Washington until Sept. 9, the eve of John Paul's arrival in Miami for a

"No group of U.S. citizens has more reason for concern about Vatican policies than women," declared the ad hoc Papal Visit Coalition, the protest organizer.

Baker and a Seminile County sheriff's deputy in a check at Kozil's Outboard Motor Repair in Oviedo on June 30 reported finding the motor, which had a defaced serial

Baker traced the motor to its owner Gary Isner of Geneva, who said he had reported to the sheriff's department that the motor had been stolen in May 1986. Baker had been told at the repair shop the name of the man who had brought the motor in for servicing, Joseph

Stanley Gibbs of 2332 Palm Drive, Oviedo. When Baker questioned Gibbs he said he bought the motor for $200 from a couple he doesn't know who showed up in his yard on the day of the sale.

Vogt Defends Tax To Partisan Panel

By Fred Cooper Hereld Staff Writer

Senate President John Vogt traveled to Tallahassee Wednesday fresh from a Daniel like escape from the lion's den of a sales tax forum. He was unscathed.

A partisan crowd of about 50 attended the open session on Florida's newly imposed sales tax on many services sponsored by the Central Florida Press Club.

Vogt. a Democrat from Cape Canaveral. was joined on a panel by John E. Evans, executive vice president of WESH-TV and president of the Greater Orlando Chamber of Commerce, and Fred Corrigan, public relations director for the Orlando/Orange County Convention and Visitors Bureau. Stephen P. Elker, partner in the Orlando office of Peat Marwick Main & Co., CPAs and consultants, presented a detailed explanation of the tax structure.

Corrigan cited losses in convention business due to the sales tax as $9 million in Orlando and $33 million state-wide so far. Evans attested to tens of millions in advertising revenue lost because of the newly-imposed tax which went into effect July 1.

Vogt referred to out-of-state advertisers as "using blackmailing techniques" and as fast approaching positions beyond reasonable

Vogt said in an opening statement that the elimination of the previous sales tax exemptions on many services came as a result of recommendations by the Zwick Commission which studied future state needs and funding.

"It was necessary to broaden the tax base to give Florida any chance to keep up with the ever increasing needs of roads, schools, prisons, parks, and the like," the legislative leader said. "Compare our state with most others and you'll agree, our citizens have a bargain in taxes. Tourists used to pay one third of the taxes, now that's down to 18

Vogt said that he was the last one to agree to the service sales tax, but was convinced that it was better than increasing the sales tax by one cent. He stated that if the tax on services was held unconstitutional, the one cent increase in the tax would be the only alternative to avoid a revenue shortfall.

Evans expressed sympathy for the legislators, saying that Florida "is a state that conveniently rejects tax increases and has put the legislature in a bind."

A director of the Florida Association of Broadcasters. Evans said that group plans to file suit claiming abridgement of rights under the first amendment to the U.S. Constitution guaranteeing free speech and a free press. However, he said that the association's attorney has advised that it will take up to seven years for the suit to be finally decided.

Don Moore, representing the Sun Coast Gondoller group of newspapers, told the audience of the organization of People's Tax Revolt and a movement to secure a referendum on the tax measure.

"The Wharton School of Business has concluded a study which estimates that 46,000 jobs and more than $3 billion in revenue will be lost in Florida directly as a result of the taxes of services," Moore said.

Vogt stated that the Wharton study has been discredited and Elker estimated that the $750 million revenue from the sales tax expansion will be greater than any losses in business attributed to it.

Report: AZT Prolongs AIDS Patients' Lives

AZT has effectively doubled the life expectancy of patients in a nationwide study, exceeding the expectations of researchers conducting

A report published Wednesday in the New England Journal of Medicine and the study involving 282 AIDS patients began in April 1986 and was terminated after only live months because patients receiving the drug were doing far better than those being given a placeho.

Fully a year after the testa began, 89.7

percent of the AIDS patients who were given AZT were still alive on April 30, 1967, and most of those "are still healthy and without significant weight loss," said Dr. Margaret A. Fischl, professor of medicine at the University of Miami and chief author of the study.

"I would expect to see only 40 percent of patients alive without therapy after one year," Fischi said by telephone from Florida. "So in effect we have doubled life expectancy ... We know it is effective for at least a year, so we could expect efficacy to continue."

AZT, or azidothymidine, is the only anti-AIDS drug approved for prescription. The Food and Drug Administration approved it on March 19, and the substance is now being administered to some 10,000 patients.

About 40 percent of the AIDS patients who received a placebo had died by the time the study ended in September. There was no word on the mortality rate of the rest of the patients who first were given a placebo and later were placed on

A second report on the same study, also published in the journal, indicates that AZT has some toxic side effects, including anemia, nausca, insomnia and fever, and Fischi said these problems prompted researchers to remove several patients from the AZT study.

A dangerous heat wave that has caused peaches and tomatoes to ripen faster, forced one pig farmer to cool his swine with sprinklers and fans, and turned the nation east of the Rockies into a steam bath lingered today with no relief in sight.

"Normal temperatures are not expected for the next few days," said Lyle Alexander of the National Weather Service. "There might be two or three more records (today)."

Alexander said the stagnant mass of air stretching from the Rockles to the Atlantic Coast that has led to record highs in the 90s and 100s showed little sign of retreating. The Great Lakes and parts of New England were expected to swelter the most today.

Chicago prepared for another day of steamy weather by opening "cooling centers" in libraries and community centers for the elderly and frail.

Detroit: 20 Years After Riot

By Rick Pluta

DETROIT (UPI) - Twenty years after Detroit burned in one of the worst race riots in history, experts say the causes are still smoldering.

For seven days beginning on July 23, 1967, blacks roamed the ghetto streets of Detroit — looting stores. burning buildings and confronting police with lawless abandon.

In the end, 43 people died, mostly blacks. Thousands were left homeless, 343 were injured and property damage totaled more than $50 million.

Although the riots were credited at the time with raising the consciousness of the nation toward underprivileged and impoverished blacks, a new Michigan State University report says that two decades later — blacks today are worse off than ever.

"The social and economic inequalities that existed between blacks and whites in 1967 are still prevalent today," said Professor Joe Darden. "Socially and economically, blacks in Michigan are moving backward, not forward. Racism is just as powerful now as it was then."

Black unemployment in Michigan is 22.3 percent, triple the rate for whites.

David McClenic, 61, a bank trust administrator who had watched looters run down the street two decades ago, said that in the immediate aftermath there was overwhelming enthusiasm to make sure it never happened again. Today the enthusiasm is gone.

"I think everything is retrogressing," he said. "You could see conditions changing: employment, additudes ... civil rights. It's just not taken seriously, as it was right after the riots."

A week-long remembrance of the riots is in progress, although Mayor Coleman Young has criticized riot anniversary stories as "trashing the city." Officials point to new housing, recreation centers, parks and construc-tion along the Detroit River as signs of progress.

But there is dramatic evidence of other change since 1967.

Once-fashionable streets house boarded-up shops a few blocks from the trendy new districts rising along the riverfront. A shrinking population has left neighborhoods pocked with abandoned homes.

The racial makeup has reversed. In 1967, about one-third of the 1.7 million people in Detroit were black. Today, about two-thirds of 1.2 million are black.

Business flight was hastened not only by the riot but a declining auto industry. In 1967, the Census bureau reported Detroit had 11,496 retailers. By 1982, 5,431 remained.

The years, months and days leading up to the Detroit riots were filled with turmoil in the civil rights movement. In Washington, President Johnson was pushing for and receiving major blocks of legislation. Across the South. blacks were pushing to the front of buses, desegregating diners, marching through and dying in segregated communities and breaking down school house doors.

In 1965, the Watts ghetto of Los Angeles blew up, leaving 34 dead and 1,000 injured. And just a week before Detroit burned in 1967, massive riots had broken out in Newark, N.J., killing 23 and injuring 700.

"You have to understand they (blacks) felt themselves to be the victims of government," said James Boyce Jr., a sociologist who spent the Detroit riots traveling between police command posts talking to people. "There was a lot of frustration, anger, hostility, and disappointment." Black neighborhoods had been destroyed to make way for expressways, the black activist said. Urban renewal lead to destruction of lowcost housing and blacks were still effectively barred from many schools. "We knew something was going to happen," he said. "I, for one, was very apprehensive.' It happened in a police raid on an after-hours drinking club, called a "Blind Pig."

"We lived maybe a mile from where it started," Mc-Clenic recalled.

EPA Proposes Auto Pollution Crackdown

WASHINGTON (UPI) - EPA chief Lee Thomas called Wednesday for new controls on motor vehicles to prevent the escape of gasoline fumes during refueling and the lowering of fuel volatility to help reduce air pollution.

The Environmental Protection Agency administrator said the two-part proposal could reduce the release of ozone - which causes smog - by as much as 10 percent.

"Urban ozone problems such as smog are among the toughest environmental challenges facing this country." Thomas said at a news conference.

The EPA proposal seeks to hold down the amount of vapors released when gasoline is pumped into a vehicle's gas tank by sending it into a carbon canister from where it eventually returns to the engine and is burned.

The proposal, to be published soon in the Federal Register, also would require gasoline refiners to reduce the volatility of fuel sold during the summer months

- from May 16 to September 15. The proposed new standard was estimated by EPA to cost the refining industry about $450 million a year.

But Thomas said better fuel economy resulting from the capture of the vapors was expected to save consumers about $290 million a year to make the net cost about $190 million - or about a half cent per gallon.

EPA estimated the cost of the added onboard equipment at about $19 per car, but said the savings in fuel would make the average net cost about $14 over the life of the average car.

Thomas conceded that the proposal for onboard refueling apor control was "very controversial," but said it already is required in California and some other states.

He said reducing the volatility of gasoline would cut ozone emissions by about 8 percent and that onboard fueling controls would lead to an additional 2 percent reduction.

He said the onboard controls were expected to be phased in over about five years and would probably be first required on 1991 model cars.

concerns expressed by some is connection with the onboar controls, Thomas said, "I' concerned about it" and the "the auto industry is concerned about It."

But he said the EPA was 'committed to a careful review of all safety issues" and that changes might be made after the Transportation Department looks into the matter.

The EPA said public hearings on both proposals would be held 'in the next few weeks."

Hope For Change In South Africa

While Americans the past few days were scrutinizing Oliver North, South Africans were watching - warily, no doubt - an extraordinary meeting in Senegal between a group of prominent South Africans and members of the outlawed African National Congress.

Out of that meeting has come a declaration pledging to end apartheid and establish a democratic political system in South Africa. Entitled the Dakar Declaration, the statement is intended to be the starting point of a major effort to broaden the anti-apartheid movement in South Africa into a united front that will draw increasing support from the country's white minority as well as from blacks.

The meeting between 16 black ANC officials and more than 50 white politicians, businessmen, academics, clerics, writers. journalists and students is, in our view, true "constructive engagement." Those who took part, at personal risk, deserve the support of this and other nations eager to see an end to the repugnant apartheid policies of South Africa's white minority government.

The white delegation, composed primarily of Afrikaners, is the largest to meet the ANC so far, though it obviously represents no clear constituency. Still, as the British newsmagazine The Economist pointed out recently, many white South Africans favor contact with the ANC. The magazine notes that a recent survey conducted by a professor at Rand Afrikans University showed that about 40 percent of white South Africans want the government to negotiate with the ANC, even though the rebel group advocates armed insurrection.

The white delegation meeting with ANC faccepted the historical reality of the armed struggle although not all could support it." according to the statement. Conference participants, in the words of the declaration, recognized that the source of violence in frica derives from the fact that the nd practice of racial domination." The government of P.W. Botha realizes that

Persian Gulf Harm

The Soviet Union has shown a serious iterest in ending the Iran-Iraq war. It's too had some other communist countries don't like a similar interest in solving the problem. But East Germany recently signed an agreement to supply Iran machine parts and memicals. And China has given Iran silkworm anti-ship missiles, some of which apparently are operational in the narrow neck of the Persian Gulf.

Maritime incidents have been the cause of a number of wars. The Maine and Lusitania disasters helped lead the United States into the Spanish-American War and World War I.

If the Chinese missiles in the Iranian fense inventory are used against U.S. ships. combat or tanker, the results could be evastating. At this point, anti-ship missile echnology may have an edge over the defenses of surface ships.

The situation would not be so dangerous if the Silkworms had stayed in China. The Chinese government denies selling them to tan, but if arms merchants served as intermediaries the effect is the same. The United States and other members of the U.N. curity Council have discussed a weapons imbargo to help bring the Iran-Iraq war to a halt. The idea is sensible. Unfortunately, the actions of East Germany and China have made a larger war possible.

North Is Not The Nation's Only Patriot

HARTFORD, Conn. — Americans are going through a great soul-searching, a reexamination of values -- some of it painful, some of it exuberant, but all of it leading to an eventual rendezvous with truth.

Yet, the almost daily revelations in the Senate Iran-contra committee hearings have postponed the blessed assurance of knowing whether Lt. Col. Oliver North or President Reagan is telling "the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the

But national certainty centers on the morality of one patriotic Marine soldier.

I began reminiscing about one of the neighborhood gang's favorite games - playing soldier.

I would dust off my father's World War I uniform, then put on his leggings and his stiff-collared Army coat, which drooped below my knees. I usually led the "troops" because my father's coat had sergeant stripes. We only argued over who would wear the Purple Heart medal.

My father's Purple Heart was identical to the ones awarded Ollie North and Sen. Daniel Inouye, D-Hawall, the Iran-Contra Committee chairman.

But North's Purple Heart gave him an advantage over my father and Sen. Inouye. Nobody has disparaged North's ethnic Nobody has insulted North's skin color. Even those members of Congress who sharply rebuked North refrained from challenging either the sincerity of his religious convictions or the sanctity of his patriotism.

But North's supporters seem to delight in impugning his critics.

"The worst offense of this kind which can be committed by a polemic," lamented John Stuart Mill. "is to atigmatize those who hold the contrary opinion as bad and immoral men."

Some Americans stooped to this tactic by subjecting committee chairman inouye to a pattern of scurrilous, racist behavior. They sent letters and made phone calls questioning whether, being of Japanese descent, he should sit in judgment of a "real" American like North: it took a New Englander, Sen. Warren Rudmen, R.N.H., to densuince the attacks on Inouye's Americanism. His teeth clenched, Rudman informed North's supporters and other race-batters that inouye was a decorated American hero who had been recommended for the Congressional Medal of Honor and who had left his right arm on a foreign battlefield.

Another New Englander, Sen. George J. Mitchell, D-Maine, praised North, then eloquently taught Americans about God's nonpartisanship and democracy's imperative to tolerate dissent. Unfortunately. In the meantime, a resurrected McCarthyism has given a new lease on life to those reactionary dingbats who equate criticism of American foreign policy with support for the Soviet Union's totalitarian ideology.

It is a divisive tragedy this nation should shun as we celebrate the 200th anniversary of the Constitution.

ROBERT WALTERS North's Fleeting Impact

NEW ORLEANS (NEA) - Marine Lt. Col. Oliver L. North apparently didn't make much of an impression here when he warned recently that Soviet warships were steaming "16 miles off the coast of Louisiana."

One local resident, secretary Cathy Guidry, said she "would have doubts that (North's claim) is credibile." Another Louisianan, businessman Laurance Eustis III. was even more reserved: "I don't have strong feelings on that."

North conjured up visions of a hostile naval armada when he recreated his slide show on "Soviet penetration of this hemisphere" for the congressional committee probing the Iran-contra scandal. But there's no evidence that he changed many people's minds here.

Among residents of this city, it's hard to discern any lasting impact of North's highly publicized week as a congressional witness. While the daily newspaper, the Times-Picayune, printed numerous letters about North, they came from both supporters and detractors.

-egiticized "the gaggle of congressional wimps" harassing North, there were others who charged that "North did nothing to help defend this country" and "should be stripped of his military rank."

Moreover, the results of national public opinion polls suggest that New Orleans is typical of the rest of the country, where most people surveyed appear to have recognized that the complex matter is not susceptible to simplistic judgments.

Thus, a New York Times/CBS News poll found that 62 percent of all respondents believed North was telling the truth during his appearance on Capitol Hill, but 74 percent rejected President Reagan's characterization of the Marine as a "national hero.'

Similarly, a Time magazine poll found that respondents described North as "true patriot" by a 67-24 margin, but when asked if he was "someone I would want my daughter to marry." they answered in the negative by a 57-26 margin.

Finally, a Newsweek poll found that 65 percent of those surveyed believed that North "is well meaning but did things that were illegal" while 66 percent said they would not vote for him if he ran for public

Why don't those findings comport with the frenzied adulation of North in the days during and immediately following his televised congressional

WASHINGTON - Sen. Max Baucus (D-Mont.) has drafted an amendment to the Export Administration Act which, if approved, would severely damage the security of the United States and its allies.

Specifically, the Baucus amendment, designed to eliminate Defense Department oversight of high technology sales to 15 key nations. would enable the Soviet Union, armed forces.

The Defense Techology Security Agency was established in 1985 to protect sensitive U.S. Technologies. Defense News reports that the Soviet Union has been denied between $4.6 billion and $12 billion in savings in defense production over the next 10 years as a result of export control efforts.

The Commerce and State departments simply haven't been fully alert to the danger of technology transfers. Moreover, the State Department lacks the automated systems needed to process export license applications.

In one instance, the sale of $6 million in advanced military radios to Libya was halted as a result of Defense Department review and oversight. Commerce and State approved the sale of this strategic equipment to a "fig farm" in Libya. The equipment actually was to be used as part of an early warning radio system.

In another case, the Defense Department Intervened to block the sale of over $200 million worth of computers to companies in Hong Kong, which were planning to divert these machines to East Germany. Bulgaria and the Soviet Union.

along with State, has proposed the sale of satellite sensing equipment to Iran, despite strong Defense Department objections. The equipment is supposed to go to the Iran News Agency, which specializes in spewing hate against the United States, but the equipment also would serve as a communications link for the Iranian partment scrutiny of high technology sales was highlighted by the recent disclosure that two foreign corporations - Toshiba of Japan and Kongsberg Vappenfabrik of Norway — have provided the Soviets with equipment and information required for the manufacture of virtually silent submarine propellors. This transfer of technology reportedly has enabled the Soviets to make a 10-year leap ahead. The cost to the United States, in overcoming the Soviet gain in submarine warfare capability, may be $10 billion or more.

This development alone should persuade Sen. Baucus and sponsors of his amendment to withdraw it. The Defense Department role in reviewing West-West export licenses is absolutely vital to the security of the American people. Morcover, continued Defense Department oversight isn't an impediment to legitimate trade. Sixty percent of the export licenses are reviewed in one day in a highly automated process. The remaining 40 percent are reviewed in less than six days. Ninety-eight percent are approved. But the remaining two percent, which involve security dangers to the United States, have to be detected. And the Defense Technology Security Agency is the proper agency to do the job.

SCIENCE WORLD Medical Mystery Remains

By Larry Doyle UPI Science Writer

CHICAGO (UPI) - She cannot work anymore, the stiffness is so bad. Sometimes it feels as if her whole body is sore; the headaches are blinding. And she is always tired. She just barely makes it around the house.

Laurie Porter is only 24 years old. "I do feel very old." she says. "I've starting using a walking stick. I don't want to fall down and break something. I don't need anymore problems."

Porter, confined to her parents' house in a suburb of Boston, suffers from what probably sounds like an exotic illness: fibromyalgia.

But while the syndrome remains a medical mystery - a bundle of aches and pains and fatigues with no apparent physical cause fibromyalgia is not at all rare. "I saw I don't know how many doctors," Porter says. "And they either told me it was nothing or it was all psychological and to go see a psychiatrist."

'One doctor told me I should change my job and I should get new friends, to change my whole lifestyle," she remembers. "It made me angry, but I gave it a try.

"But things didn't get better. In fact, they got worse.'

Porter sinally was forced to demand medical help when, on June 27, 1983, she collapsed while working as a receptionist. It was the last in a string of jobs she had held temporarily since she was 18. She was 20.

But this time a doctor recognized Porter's symptoms: the muscular aches and pains, disturbed sleep, morning fatigue and stiffness. Dr. Don Goldenberg, of the Boston University School of Medicine, diagnosed Porter as having fibromyalgia, or as it is sometimes also known, fibrositis.

"It was a relief to know I actually had something," Porter says. "I was beginning to think they were right. that I was wrong in the head."

Goldenberg, an authority on arthritic and related conditions, was not surprised about Porter's medical

To Coin A Fray, Money Talks Back

By Jack Anderson And Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON - In this corner. wearing green: the United States Mint. In that corner, wearing red, white and blue, the staff of the House Banking subcommittee on consumer affairs and coinage. which has oversight of Mint business. We're in the middle, holding the coats.

The donnybrook began when we reported the subcommittee staff's charges that the Mint had tallored specifications for millions of dollars' worth of new coin presses so that only foreign manufacturers could fill the order. What with the enormous U.S. trade deficits, this was a serious charge to make against a federal agency.

To be fair to the Mint, our reporter Lisa Sylvester tried repeatedly to get comments from Mint Director Donna Pope's office before we sent the column out. The calls went unanswered.

Since then, however, apparently stung by publication of the subcommittee staff's accusations, Pope's office has put together a 10-page rebuttal and sent it to Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., the subcommittee chairman and Rep. Fernand St Germain, D-R.I., chairman of the Banking Committee. The Mint denies it tried to cut U.S. companies out of the contract bidding, and charges that the subcommittee staff had reached "a fallacious conclusion." "The Mint has an obligation to taxpayers to keep abreast of changing and improved technology for better productivity," the Mint rebuttal stated. It suggested that U.S. press manufacturers had failed to keep abreast, while foreign companies had. The subcommittee staff didn't throw in the towel in the face of the Mint's counterattack. Here are the highlights of the huffing and puffing between the subcommittee staff and the Mint:

- As evidence of the Mint's "talloring" of the specs, the subcommittee staff pointed out that one bid solicitation went so far as to specify the exact color the coin press should be. "What that has to do with performance beats me,"

"Just because you want a blue car, it doesn't restrict you to one automobile manufacturer." the Mint responded. Spokesman Michael Brown said a color requirement is not uncommon. because some presses are in areas of the Mint visited by tourists, so the agency "wants to have a unified

- Responding to the charge that only 10 firms out of 70 potential bidders solicited sent in replies, the Mint said only a handful of companies in the world can produce coin presses that meet its exacting standards. The Mint response added that its list of potential bidders is not highly specialized, since the Mint makes no attempt to police or qualify the names on the list: this would help account for the low response rate.

The subcommittee, however, cited a letter from Brown last January that stated: "We develop a list of firms capable of furnishing that particular press and mail them a copy of the solicitation." Brown pointed out that the letter also stated that "any firm that requests will be sent a solicitation and added to the list.' - In a flurry of jabs and roundhouse swings at the subcommittee staff, the Mint declared: "Through the use of crafty statistics and the anonymous comments of disappointed bidders, the report alleges that the Mint rigged the procure ment process for pre-selected foreign equipment. This is a fallacious conclusion. The Mint strictly adhered to the Federal Acquisition Regulations." The subcommittee staff riposted: We promised (the bidders) up front anonymity, so they could respond freely and frankly. The statistics spoke for themselves. The Mint's response doesn't address the central thesis that specifications were written for particular machinery. They may have complied with the regulations, but that was in form, not substance. Maybe by the letter, but hardly by the spirit."

A final rebuttal from the Mint spokesman: "They do not have an understanding of Mint production

Longwood Delays Property Claim

By Jame Casselberry Herald Staff Writer

A Longwood plan to lay claim to private property at the corner of Wildmere Avenue and Oxford Street, where traffic has been cutting across for several years, has been delayed.

The delay came at the request of the former owner of the property, George Willmer of Orlando. It will be in effect until interim City Attorney Ann Colby and City Administrator Ron Waller have a chance to discuss the situation with the new owner.

Waller recommended to commisioners Monday night that they authorize the city engineer to prepare a map to file in the circuit court, signed by the mayor and cierk, to establish prim facie evidence of ownership of the land.

Willmer said he sold the one-acre piece two weeks ago with a notation in the contract that there is a controversy existing with the city over the cut through. He said the new owner is out of town until next week and could not attend the commission meeting. Willmer still has a vested interest because he holds a mortgage on the land.

Waller said the city has been using and maintaining the cut through on the property for traffic traveling south on Oxford Street and turning east of Wildmere Avenue for at least several years. Willmer, when he owned the land, requested that the city stop this activity.

He said the statute on "roads presumed to be dedicated", provides that when a municipality maintains and repairs a road continuously and uninterruptedly for four years the road shall be deemed to be dedicated to the public to the extent in width that has been maintained.

Willmer said, until now, he had no indication from the city that it was interested in the property. He said about a month and a half ago after he went to City Engineer Charles Hassler and asked them to restore the corner to its original configuration and stop traffic from trespassing. He said the city then erected the "keep right" sign on Oxford on the city right-of-way, but some motorists ignored it and continued to take the shortcut across his property.

Willmer questioned the city's purpose in taking the property since the dedicated street (Oxford) is two and a half times the width needed. He said even though the city has the right to take private property there should be a need and it should be morally and ethically right.

Willmer denied that the city has been maintaining the unpaved encroachment over the years. He said the shortcut has never been paved and only in the last couple of months has someone, he suspects the city, come through with heavy equipment and leveled it off.

The city commission voted Monday night

4-1 on a motion by Commissioner June Lormann to have Colby and Waller meet with the new owner. Mayor Ed Myers said he voted against the motion because "Those people had plenty of time to work it out between them."

Willmer said he didn't like the threat the city made and hopes the new owner will be able to get with the city representatives after he returns next week and work something ene, but if this fails litigation is possible.

In other business, the commission:

• Gave tentative approval to revisions in the requirements for parking and screening commercial vehicles, boats, buses, trailers and trucks and set a public hearing for Aug. 17 in a unanimous vote.

• Unanimously granted a non-exclusive commercial garbage franchise to World Refuse Inc. of Orlando on a motion by Commissioner Dave Gunter. The commercial garbage service since non-exclusive franchises were initiated will be review to see if any changes are needed in specifications.

• Gave preliminary approval to an ordinance annexing Lots 1, 2 and 3 of Koontz Vilia Park plus a parcel approximately 800 feet north of Longwood Hills Road on County Road 427 requested by H&M Holding Co. Inc. Zoned A-I Agricultural in the county, the proposed use is C-1 Commercial for retail/professional offices. A public hearing and final action were set for Sept. 14 in a 5-0 vote on a motion by Commissioner Harvey Smerilson.

• Sent a proposed revision of an ordinance banning use of fireworks in the city back to the staff for changes in a 5-0 vote on a motion by Commissioner June Lormann. The changes would ban fireworks displays after 10 p.m. and before 7 a.m. except on New Year's Eve and the Fourth of July, allow exceptions on special occasions at the discretion of the commission, require a fire truck on standby during fireworks displays at the expense of the fireworks' sponsor and require a specific permit fee. Lormann also wants to ban the "bombs" that in the past have made so much noise they frightened residents.

O Approved unanimously a site plan of an office-warehouse for Live Plumbing Supply. Inc. submitted by Ahrens Design Group. Inc. for Lots 6 and 7 in Florida Central Commerce Park subject to comments by the Land Planning Agency and city planner and review by the city engineer.

Approved a site pion for Pee Wee Ranch day nursery to be located on Lota 1, 19 and 20 Block E, plat of Wildmere requested by Tommy Johnson of Tampa on a 5-0 vote with motion by Harvey Smertlson.

• Rescheduled sale of surplus property to Aug. 8 and authorized employ of Dell's Auction Service to run the auction for 15) percent of the gross to be held adjacent to city hall. Originally set for July 11, the sale was postponed because there was not enough time to legally advertise.

• Authorized collection of donations and expenditure of funds for the Bicentennial Commission for celebration of the 200th anniversary of the signing of the U.S. Constitution to be placed in a special account within the general fund. Checks for expenditures will be signed by the mayor or deputy mayor and the city clerk.

Appointed the following additional members to the Comprehensive Plan Review Committee: Gerald Korman, Bob Goff, Gene Bredsford, Virma Martin, Arthur Martin and Alice Lewis.

• Authorized advertising for bids for inspecting, cleaning and repair of the sanitary sewer collection system in Skylark subdivision on the recommendation of Lochrane Engineering, Inc., which did a preliminary analysis of the system, on a 5-0 vote with motion by Commissioner Harvey Smerilson. The study revealed that the lines are leaky and there is groundwater and stormwater infiltration.

• Approved a bid for $26,760 from Hi-Line Contractors, Inc., for the refurbishment and painting of the city's 200,000-gallon water tank.

HONOLULU (UPI) — The family of the late astronaut Ellison Onizuka Wednesday presented Gov. John Waihee with the Hawaiian flag Onizuka carried aboard the ill-fated final mission of the shuttle Challenger.

The flag was recovered last year from the wreckage of the Challenger, which exploded 73 seconds after takeoff on Jan. 28, 1986, killing Onizuka and the six other astronauts.

The Onizukas also gave the governor two plaques from NASA in honor of the seven fallen astronauts.

"The flag from Hawaii was very precious to El (Ellison)," Lorna Onizuka said. "He was very proud to be able to carry the spirit of Hawaii with him on his flight."

Sanford Studies Wastewater Disposal Alternatives

County Engineer Bill Simmons said he and DER officials discussed several alternative plans Tuesday in light of the Federal Aviation Administration's disapproval of the city's plans to dispose of treated wastewater by irrigating a large portion of airport property.

Among proposals discussed, Simmons said, are speeding up disposal of more of the water on city and residential property. This would involve speeding up the installation of mains to carry the treated water to various locations throughout the city

Accelerating residential use of the water for lawn irrigation. would involve not only speeding up installation of pipe, but also a public relations effort to interest people in use of the water on their lawns. Simmons has said it ils difficult to estimate how much fof the water would be used in that way since it would involve the installation of lawn irrigation equipment hooked up to the pipe carrying the treated water, and he isn't sure how many people would be willing to spend the. money for such irrigation systems.

Another alternative is to dispose of more of the water than originally planned on the 2,200-acre piece of property the city intends to buy in the Lake Jesup area. How much water can be spray irrigated on that property and still meet DER requirements will require further engineering studies, which will be started as soon as the city completes purchase of the property, which is planned by Sept. 1. But many residents of the Geneva area are opposed to the land being used as a disposal

Simmons said a third alternative discussed is a permit from the DER to dispose of more of the water than originally planned in the St. Johns River.

The plan, as drawn now with DER help, includes a temporary permit from the DER to dispose of some of the water in the river. Through monitoring of the river. the DER will then decide whether the permit will be extended permanently, or whether less, or more, of the treated water can be dumped in the river without causing environmental damage.

Simmons said the city is working with the DER, which is being very cooperative in helping the city to solve its problem of where to dispose of the treated wastewater.

The city still plans to dispose of sludge, or the dehydrated solld waste from the water treatment plant, on airport property, Simmons said. Less than 100 acres of property will be needed for that purpose, he said. The DER estimates that all the sludge from the plant could be dumped on 100 acres for 175 years without any environmental damage, Simmons said.

Sludge sumping will begin in about two months, while disposal of the water will not begin until the tertiary treatment syustem is installed at the water treatment plant in about two years. Simmons said the city has purchased two high-boy semitrailers and about one load a day will be dumped on airport pro--Brad Church

IN BRIEF

Shultz Defends Policy Record; Testimony Discrepencies Cited

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Secretary of State George Shultz. accused of walking away from a responsibility to fight a foreign policy he opposed, finds himself defending his record and opposing the testimony of others who appeared before him at the congressional Iran-Contra hearings.

Shultz, called to the hearings today as the highestranking U.S. official summoned in the congressional probe. has maintained since the scandal erupted last fall that his knowledge was minimal regarding U.S. arms sales to Iran and "non-existent" regarding the diversion of money to Nicaraguan Contra rebels.

That is not so much in dispute as the question of why he knew so little, and several lawmakers have faulted the secretary for turning his back on a policy he disliked and thus allowing the National Security Council to take it over.

There also are significant discrepancies in the accounts of Shultz, former national security advisers Robert McFarlane and John Poindexter, and former NSC aide Oliver North. Shultz, already having testifled privately to the House and Senate panels, was asked to address such issues publicly today and Friday.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) - Gail Marshall put. aside her litters once her 10-year-old son, believed the youngest cross-country pilot ever, and his teddy bear emerged from the boy's light plane.

"I'm a real proud mother," she said. "It's been real scary. I haven't slept well at all."

Christopher Lee Marshall, accompanied by flight instructor Rowe Yates and his brown teddy bear, a good luck charm, landed the single-engine Piper Warrior Wednesday afternoon, completing the final leg of a California-to-Florida flight about 1 1/2 hours ahead of schedule.

Hahn To Tell All in Playboy

CARLE PLACE, N.Y. (UPI) - Jessica Hahn will "stun the country" with an expose in the November issue of Playboy magazine about fallen PTL founder Jim Bakker, then will hit the road on a nationwide promotional tour, her lawyer

Attorney Dominic Barbara said Wednesday that no agreement on pictures to accompany the story had been reached, but added, "I can say with certainty Ms. Hahn will not be appearing in the centerfold."

Besides her sexual encounter with Bakker, the 27-yearold woman, who was not at the news conference, "is expected to reveal her knowledge of payoffs, financial dealings, the wars among religious evangelists and the story of her own past," Barbara said.

Count: Liberals Can Block Bork

WASHINGTON (UPI) - As of today, Senate liberals have the votes to block the nomination of conservative Judge Robert Bork to the Supreme Court if they flibuster, according to the first Democratic "whip" count.

The tally, put together by assistant Senate Democratic leader Alan Cranston of California, shows 45 senators supporting Bork, 45 opposing him and 10 who are undecided. No breakdown of the count by member or party

Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman Joseph Biderf. D-Del., planned to outline his own views on the issue in a Senate speech early today. Speaking to other reporters Wednesday, he made his opposition to the nomination clear in his strongest terms to date, saying he sees "no way" he could vote for Bork.

Reagan Signs Homeless Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Reagan has signed legislation for the homeless into law, setting up a federal oversight board and authorizing more than $1 billion in government aid for the problem during the next 14 months.

The measure directs the head of the Federal Emergency Management Agency to establish the board that will oversee expenditures of money for emergency food and shelter programs, and it authorizes local governments to set up their own commissions for assisting such distribution.

Reagan signed the bill Wednesday, less than a month after final congressional approval June 30, but more recent developments apparently signal a shortfall in the $1 billion authorized for homeless programs during the next 14 months.

Gorbachev Reverses Arms Policy, Will Remove Nuclear Missiles

MOSCOW (UPI) - Mikhail Gorbachev's offer to drop his demand to retain 100 nuclear warheads in Soviet Asia is an apparent policy reversal that could remove a major stumbling block to a new agreement with Washington on eliminating medium-range nuclear missiles globally.

An accord on liquidating medium-range misiles could lead to a summit between Gorbachev and President Reagan in Washington, where the two leaders would sign their first arms pact.

In an interview Wednesday with the Indonesian newspaper Merdeka, Gorbachev also said he "favors a short time frame for the withdrawal" of Soviet troops from Afghanistan. But he insisted that outside interference in Afghanistan must stop.

Gorbachev said that in return for giving up 100 nuclear warheads in Soviet Asia, the United States must remove 100 medium-range warheads on U.S. soil, probably in

France Adds Warship To Gulf

PARIS (UPI) - Flexing further naval muscle in the Persian Gulf, France said today it will send a 4,000-ton anti-submarine naval destroyer to back up three frigates ordered to provide protection for French shipping.

In an interview with the daily Liberation newspaper. Giraud said the government therefore "decided to adjust our naval potential in this zone by sending in the destroyer Georges-Leygues.

In a related development, there was no end in sight to the "war of the embassies" between France and Iran. Ever since France broke diplomatic ties with Iran last Friday, 15 French personnel have been blockaded by revolutionary guards at the embassy in Tehran.

Earlier this week France sald it planned to deploy two frigates equipped with Exocet missiles in the gulf to protect French shipping. A third also has been ordered in.

State Land Buy Scheme Hits Snag

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - A examination. state agency was ready to spend $140,000 for land in the Florida Keys, despite staff reports the site was ill-suited for recreation and a low priority for preservation, a newspaper reported to-

Former DNR Executive Director Elton Gissendanner presented the purchase as his last item on his June 16 Cabinet agenda, even though the deal had twice been rejected by the Conservation and Recreation Lands program.

A Tampa Tribune report said that at the meeting, the department wanted the Cabinet to buy the land using money that does not require public hearings, such as the conservation and recreation program.

The 72-acre tract, only 4 acres

He has pressed the state for at least two years to buy the tract, DNR records show, and Gissendanner said the purchase was put on the June Cabinet agenda at McIver's urging.

McIver testified he had been asked in 1978 to pay $8,000 to a DNR land agent for favorable treatment on a Little St. George ited for $10,000 on a second project.

McIver said there is nothing improper in negotiations involving his current parcel, which is at the north end of Upper Matecumbe Key.

Gissendanner said the DNR effort to buy the McIver tract was part of a larger land deal involving the estate of the late Edward hall, who owned among other properties the land that became nature appreciation and Wakulla Springs State Park.

As part of the deal to sell Ball property near Ocala to the state, estate representatives also wanted the state to acquire the Parks and Recreation Division. three parcels in the Keys, Gissendanner recalled.

June Durable Goods Orders Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Pentagon demand for "big ticket" Items caused new orders for durable goods overall to rise 1.4 percent in June, the Commerce Department said Thursday.

Excluding defense, new orders for durable goods - anything from tanks to toasters, so long as it's built to last several years were unchanged from May.

June's 1.4 percent increase to a seasonally adjusted $108.5 billion follows no change from April to May.

For the first six months of this year, durable goods orders have risen 5.3 percent from the same period in 1986. Inflation eats up about two-thirds of that growth.

Most of the Pentagon's new orders consisted of what are called capital goods - ordnance. communications equipment. aircraft, missiles and parts, tanks and shipbuilding equipment. New orders in this category rose 15.8 percent in June after having fallen 13.9 percent the previous month, the government said.

Move Of Steele: Bulldog Becomes Gator Radio Voice

David Steele broadcasts football and basketball for the Florida Gators.

That in itself is remarkable, considering Steele's roots.

Steele, 34, holds a degree from the University of Georgia. Yes, the one in Athens, Ga. The same Athens which provides the home base for Georgia's Buildogs, the Gators' arch, arch rival every year at Jacksonville's Gator Bowl.

For that reason alone, Steele might as well as gone to school in Athens, Greece.

Steele, an aspiring baseball player, began his education at Carson- Newman College in Jefferson City, Tenn., then moved to Athens. After graduating from Georgia, Steele made stops at Panama City (radio two years) and Asheville, N.C. (TV sports director at WLOS and Western Carolina radio for football and basketball).

During his best to hide his Bulldog tail, Steele opted for cracking jaws.

"I saw the job opening in a trade magazine," Steele recalled while making one of his barnstorming stops at Sanford Gator affiliate WUEZ-AM (1400). "I know, nobody ever gets a job from a trade magazine, but I applied anyway."

Luckily for Steele, Florida Assistant Athletic Director for Communications Norm Carlson didn't take one look at the Georgia-scarred resume and turn it over to Ollie "The Shredder" North.

"I was lucky," Steele adlast day."

for the Gators, too. Good fortune, though, was not Steele's only attribute. He was good, too good for Carlson and the Gators to shred, even though he learned his trade in the heart of Bulldog territory.

Steele, though, had friends: good friends in right places as it turned out. One friend was a boyhood buddy of former Florida Athletic Director Bill Carr. Another was close to Richard Giannini, Florida's senior associate athletic director, who was interviewing for the job. "When over 350 people apply. you need something to get you into the top ten." Steele said. "Having friends who knew those people got me into the top 10 and I was lucky enough to get the job after that."

This fall. Steele and sidekick Carlson, who serves as color man, will open their sixth season together as Florida's football pair when the Gators journey to Miami for a Sept. 5 meeting with the Hurricanes. Although Carlson talks through a Blue, White and Orange microphone, Steele said there is no problem working with the Gator veteran.

"Heck, I want Florida to win. too," he laughs. "No. Norm and I work very well together. No one knows more about Gator football than Norm. He's just great when we go back in history."

This year, Steele's pleasing-to-the-ear delivery will reach 63 outlets across the state every Saturday. Steele will also handle the "Gator Hotline with Galen Hall" every Wednesday, which is also carried by EZ-14.

Florida's road schedule is a monster, so more Gator fans than ever should be tuned to Steele and Carlson. In additions to Miami, it includes Alabama (Sept. 19), Mississippi State (Sept. 26), Louisiana State (Oct.

3) and Auburn (Oct. 31). Don't expect Steele to paint a rosy picture of the proceedings, however, if the Gators find those enemy stadia a woeful experi-

"My philosophy is right down the middle," Steele said. "My first job is to paint a picture of what is happening. I am the eyes

"You're on the air for three hours. I am emotionally involved with the Gators, and I now some of that comes across but I try to

North Trounces South For Gold

United Press International

While Terry Mills and J. R. Reid played to a standoff, the North trounced the South to take the Olympic Festival basketball championship.

Reid, the 6-foot-9 center for the South. outscored Mills. 6-10 center from the North, 18-15 and matched his 10 rebounds. But the North grabbed the gold medal by topping the previously unbeaten South, 88-73, Wednesday night.

The North hit 38 of 67 from the field. with Mills, who attends Michigan, going 7 for 12. Reid, entering his sophomore year at North Carolina, went only 3 for 9 from the field and the South as a team hit just 25 of 66.

The North, 2-2, gained the finals only by winning a tie-breaker with the East and West based on best scoring margin in games against each other. The South finished 3-1.

"It seemed that every one of their shots went in," Reid said. "We were getting hands in their faces, but their shots still went in."

The North took command of the game with a 21-6 first half run, including 12 straight, that turned a 1-point deficit into

Urshan 4-Hits Winter Park; Apopka Slips By Mary, 4-3

By Scott Bander

Herald Sports Writer APOPKA - Lake Mary and Lyman, two baseball teams that have reversed roles, are both using this week's American Legion District Tournament to find out how they stack up against some of the area's best competition. In the past, Lake Mary has been the dominant team, and Lyman has usually taken a back seat to the Rams. But now that Lake Mary has graduated the nucleus of its team, and Lyman is fielding an experienced club, the Greyhounds are the team to watch.

Lyman used a four-hit pitching performance by Ross Urshan en route to a 5-1 triumph over Winter Park. Lake Mary, meanwhile, lost a heartbreaker to top-seeded Apopka as the Blue Darters pushed the winning run across in the bottom of the eighth to nip Mary, 4-3, before 111 fans at Apopka High School Wednesday night.

Lyman and Apopka will meet on Friday night at 8 in the vinners' bracket final. Lake Mary will face Lake Howell, an 8-1 loser to Winter Park on Tuesday, tonight at 8. Orlando Boone and Winter Park play tonight at 5:30. The losers will be eliminated. The winners will play Friday at 5:30 p.m.

Lake Mary coach Allen Tuttle

said that coaching a team that is not "stacked" is a challenge which he is anticipating. "It's going to be different." Tuttle said. "I think that we are going to pretty decent when the season rolls around. This year is going to be a lot of fun for me."

With the score tied at 3-3 in the bottom of the eighth inning. Apopka's Paul Meinke doubled and stole third. Matt Rooney then hit a grouner to shortstop Wes Weger. Weger looked Meinke back to third, and threw Rooney out. Meinke, though, raced for home after Weger released the ball and barely beat first-baseman Jeff Hagen's throw to the plate.

"It's tough to lose like that in the last inning." Tuttle said. "But I feel that we played a pretty game tonight." The setback dropped Lake Mary to 8-16. Lake Mary pitcher Eric Birle went the distance and gave up eight hits. Birle fanned two while summer." Luce said. "We've got walking three. "My curve wasn't really working." Birle said: "But I felt that I pitched pretty well." Wes Stokes and Jimmy Musselwhite combined on a five-hitter for Apopka.

Birle led the offensive attack as went 2 for 4 with an RBI double. an RBI.

Weger, Jason Sewell, and Aaron latarola recorded the other Lake

Mary hits. Lyman is a team that has a lot of offensive weapons, and it displayed them against Winter Park with 12 hits. Chris Radcliff led the way as he went 2 for 2 with a two-run homer and a double. "It hit that homer pretty well," Radeliff said. "I'm taking some pretty good cuts up there right now."

Lyman coach Bob McCullough said that he is pleased with the way that his team is coming around. "We were up and down there for awhile," McCullough said. "But we are playing well now, and its good to be playing well in the tournament."

Urshan, a lanky right-hander. was in control on the mound as he struck out 10 while walking four. "I struggled at first," Urshan, who threw 128 pitches, said. "But once I settled down, I felt pretty comfortable."

Center fleider Johnny Luce also rapped a pair of hits. "This has been a lot of fun this a real good team. Lyman improved its record to 19-10.

Chris Brock chipped in with a double and a single. Kenny Jackson cracked a pair of doubles with an RBI. Marty Martin broke out of a slump as he he had a pair of singles with

Altamonte's Patience, Pitching Pulverize Pierson

By Sam Cook Herald Sports Editor

ORANGE CITY — Altamonte's game - patience and power pitching - returned to form Wednesday night as the Nationals used both to climinate Northwest Volusia, 12-5, in Little League Baseball's District 14 finals before 171 fans at Wally Hancock Field. Altamonte returns to action tonight at 7 at Hancock against unbeaten Windermere. Manager Tom Recicar's Nationals need a victory tonight and again Friday over Windermere to advance to the Section I Tournament. Windermere needs just one victory to do the same. Recicar said he is leaning toward Marcus Bullock as his mound choice tonight.

While all the Nationals helped coax 15 walks and one hit batsman, unbeaten (regular season and playoffs) Frank Harmer supplied the overpowering mound work. The 12-year-old right-hander yielded just one hit — a third-inning double to Jay Cowart — while striking out 12 and walking six to shut down the Pierson crew.

Northwest Volusia had knocked off Altamonte (10-3) Monday, bouncing 13 hits all over Hancock en route. Altamonte catcher Mike Lyons said the lusty Pierson bats dictated a change in strategy for Wednes-

"We pitched them outside a little more and threw more curveballs," Lyons said. "Frankle just threw great to-Harmer said the curveballs were the difference. "I knew coming in tonight that I would

Pierson had used a similar strategy to shackle Altamonte Monday. Richie Dennard struck out 15 Nationals with his own "table-dropper." Northwest manager Jimmy Braddock, however, said Dennard's arm was sore after Monday's victory.

Altamonte used its patience. good baserunning and a couple timely hits to jump all over starter and loser Kelvin Williams (seven walks and hit batsman) and reliever Brandon Frick (five walks) - neither of whom could throw consistent strikes. Dennard relieved in the fourth but Altamonte found lts way to five runs in the first two innings with benefit of a hit. Dependable Danny Anson walked and moved up on a wild pitch. One out later, Harmer was beaned. Bullock walked to load the bases and Chad Kessler drew another pass for a 1-0 lead. With two outs, Harmer stole home on the catcher's throw back to the pitcher.

In the second, Danny Seidenfaden, who walked and scored twice and drove in a run, drew a one-out base on balls. Anson reached as the shortstop kicked his groundball. Brian Saunders and Harmer then drew successive walks to force home a 4-0 lead. Bullock followed with a groundball to third on which Robinson, removed in favor of Frick, stepped on the base and was not the same pitcher he was fired home for the twin killing Anson, though, jarred the ball loose for a 5-0 lead.

Altamonte pushed across three more in the third as Kessler walked and one out later. Lyons looped Altamonte first hit, a single to right field. A wild pitch moved up both runners before Seldenfaden drew a two-out walk to load the bases.

Anson then drilled a two-run double down the left-field line for a 7-0 lead.

"Anson has played for me three years," Recicar said. "He's probably our most consistent hitter. Pound for pound, I'd like to have 14 of him."

Harmer, who retired the first six Volusians in order, walked the 7-8-9 hitters to open the third. After striking out

Jason Goodpaster tossed a four-hitter and Kevin Scott drilled a key two-run single as Altamonte pulled even in Little League Baseball's District 14 Junior All-Star Tournament with a 5-0 victory over Windermere Wednesday night at Rolling Hills.

The game, originally scheduled for tonight, was moved up a day due to the elimination of Rolling Hills and South Daytona Monday night. Windermere, which clipped Altamonte, 7-1, Tuesday, takes on manager Gil Vogler li's club tonight in a winner-take-all battle at 7 p.m.

"Goodpaster had real good control," Altamonte coach Dave Scott said. "He kept a lot of balls in the infield. They didn't really hit anything solid against him."

Goodpaster's complete-game effort included one strikeout and three walks. Scott said defensive gems in each the first three innings played a big part in Altamonte's victory.

In the first, with a runner at second and two outs, Kevin Baseball

Chabot singled to left field. Gil Vogler III quickly fielded the ball, gunned to cutoff man T.J. Hamilton who then threw to catcher Trent McNaull to cut down the runner.

In the second, the leadoff batter walked and stole second. but Goodpaster retired the next three hitters on groundballs to end the threat. In the third, first baseman Dana Dearth made a superb diving stab for the third out, stranding a runner at third.

Altamonte, which committed just one error, broke up the scoreless tie in the third when Dearth ripped a one-out single to left. Hamilton followed with a groundball to deep shortstop, which the shortstop threw past second base, allowing the runner to move to second and third. Mike Monahan then walked to load the bases. With Vogler III at bat, Dearth scored on wild pitch. Vogler then lined to the third

Scott's clutch hit came in the seventh when the Juniors iced the game. Shane Odom singled to left to open the frame and one out later. Dearth struck out but reached when the ball got away from catcher as Odom moved to third. When the catcher threw the ball to first base in an attempt to get Dearth, it was misplayed and Odom alertly scored for a 2-0 lead. Hamilton then popped out to first base but Monahan and Vogler both walked to load the bases. Scott then singled up the middle to drive in two runs for a 4-O lead. Trent McNaull followed with a single to center to score Vogler and push the bulge to

Brown Likes Life In Yankee Pinstripes

Herald Sports Writer

BRADENTON - A month and a half ago, Kenne Brown had just begun summer school at Northeastern Louisiana University. Three days nto summer school, he got a phone call which nswered his dreams: the New York Yankees

The caller informed Brown that he had been trafted in the 39th round He left school, and eported to the Yankees' Minor League team in Sarasota's Gulf Coast Rookie League immediate-

There was no doubt he would like life in Yankee

"I can't tell you how thrilled I am to be here." Brown said last week before his team hooked up with the Pittsburgh Pirates. "I wasn't expecting a all at all. I'm 18 credit hours away from raduating and I planned to take 12 hours this ummer and the remaining six at the University of Central Florida. I was so surprised I can't begin o tell you.''

Brown was a standout in Seminole County vhile playing for Bob McCullough at Lyman. Brown graduated from Lyman in 1982. He was All-County and All-District performer. Brown atted .320 his senior year and led the county in tolen bases.

After graduating from Lyman, Brown went to Valencia Community College for a short period of time, but found that the VCC program wasn't for him. Brown then attended Kentucky Wesleyan

Brown decided to come home as he played for Jack Pantelias at Seminole Community College for two seasons. Brown then received a scholarship to play at Northeastern Louisiana.

"I moved around quite a bit in college," the 22-year-old Brown said. "As it turned out, I had a pretty good career. Northeastern was a good school for me."

Brown batted .310 in his junior season, but just

.215 his senior year. "I struggled at the plate in my senior year." the 5-foot-9, 150-pounder said. "I got into a little disagreement with my coach when I was starting. I got benched and never got

Brown is currently being used as a reserve outfielder on the Yankees. Yankee manager Fred Ferreira said that Brown has been a pleasure to work with so far.

"Ken's mechanics are very good. He's got a good attitude, and he gives you his full effort all the time." Ferreira said. "Ken has shown us a lot in the field. Now he has to work on his hitting. If his litting improves, he will probably be playing a lot more."

Brown said that he is usually a slow starter at the plate, but is confident that his hitting will pick up. "I always start of kind of slow," Brown said. "The hitting will come. I'm not comfortable up there right now. My fielding has been pretty good.

Brown, a right-handed hitter, said that the Yankees are trying to make him a switch-hitter. "I've been swinging from the left side, and it feels a lot different." Brown said. "But if I keep working, I know that I can switch-hit."

Brown said that he is fond of the minor-league lifestyle. "A couple of other guys and I are renting a condo on Siesta Key," Brown said. "It overlooks the pool and the gulf. I really like living here and playing here, it's been a lot of fun."

Brown said that Ferreira has helped him a great deal. "Fred is probably the best coach that I've ever had." Brown said. "He is patient with you, and doesn't put a lot of pressure on you. If you make a mistake, he'll inform you what you did wrong.

"I sit next to him a lot of the time and he'll explains things to me." Brown continued. "He is heck of a nice guy, and I feel fortunate to playing

Brown said although there is no pressure from the coaching staff, he puts pressure on himself. "I try to push myself to do my best," Brown said. "I really want to do well."

Sitting on the bench can be tough for any player, but Brown is hoping that he can pick up his hitting. "I've got to be more selective up there," Brown said. "It gets kind of frustrating not to playing at times, but I have to be patient."

Ferreira said that Brown has a lot of potential. "He could be a very good ball player." Ferreira said. "He has been very solid in the field for us. and if his bat comes around he'll be in good shape."

"I'm just happy to be here," Brown added. "It's a real treat to be playing for an organization like the Yankees. They treat us just great."

Taylor: Giants Knew Of Cocaine Use

BRISTOL, Conn. (UPI) - Star linebacker Lawrence Taylor says the New York Giants and the NFL were aware of his cocaine use two seasons ago but did nothing to stop him, ESPN reported Wednesday night from a memo obtained from Sport Magazine.

The magazine, ESPN said, also reported Taylor was addicted to crack, a highly potent form of cocaine, and falsified urnine tests.

The sports cable station said the story will be in the September issue of Sport Magazine. The magazine will be on newstands Aug. 4.

Taylor said he feared no reprisal concerning his drug usuage.

"If they wanted to bust me fine, but I knew they weren't going to do that as long as I was who I was and my game was intact." he said. As for urine tests, administered after the 1985 season, Taylor said: "The way I beat urine testing. I never used my own," he is reported saying.

The All-Pro linebacker entered a drug rehabalition clinic in February 1986 for treatment of cocaine abuse. He says he didn't like the atmosphere and checked himself out. He gave up cocaine on his own, he claimed, in part by taking up golf in the off-season. In the article he is said to call the sport his "detox

He came back last year to become the NFL player of the year and help lead the Glants to the Super Bowl title.

Miami Trims Seminole, 6-2

By Mike Dame Special to the Herald

FOREST CITY - The Seminole Americans got their first taste of Miami-style hardball Wednesday night, but it did not leave a sweet taste in their mouths.

Edilberto Bermudez belted a two-run homer to highlight a five-run fifth inning, lifting Hialeah Community Baseball Association to a 6-2 victory over Seminole in opening-round Pony Baseball Bronco State Tournament play before 142 fans at West Seminole Richard Coffey Field.

Action in the doubleelimination tourney continues tonight at 6 when Seminole takes on West Seminole's A team.

"We just didn't get any timely hits," Seminole manager Jim Withrow said. "We had some baserunners and we couldn't move them."

The game remained scoreless through three innings as Seminole starter Matt Freeman and Hialeah's Ricky Rodriguez battled it out on the mound. Freeman allowed only one hit and fanned six during the stretch before being replaced by Paul Giambalvo in the fourth.

Hialeah's bats came to life in the fourth as it took a 1-0 lead. Seminole responded, however, when Freeman hit a solo homer to tie the game, 1-1.

It is at that point that thing began to fall apart for Seminole.

Powered by Bermudez's two-run shot, Alfonso Bernal's Hialeah squad exploded for five runs on six hits off Giambalvo in the fifth, giving it a comfortable 6-1 lead. It was a few missed defensive plays by Seminole, however, which helped spark the Hialeah rally.

We should have been out of (the inning early)," Seminole coach Paul Giambalvo Sr., said. "We had a couple of defensive lapses that hurt us."

Seminole's mesmerized bats also hurt the team as it produced only four hits.

"We were a little tentative at the plate," Withrow said. "Overall we played a fine game." Seminole made a comeback attempt in the top of the seventh. With two outs, Gabe Bouch was hit by a pitch, followed by a Freeman walk which put men on first and second. Glambalvo then drilled a double down the leftfield line and into the corner. scoring Bouch from second. The game ended, however, as the next batter struck out.

Freeman's solo homer led Seminote offensively, while Giambalvo collected one RBI on his double. Charlie Chapman and Jay Black each rapped a single.

Rodriguez, Alex Esquivel and Bermudez combined on a fourhit effort for Hialeah, fanning a total of 10. Giambalvo suffered the loss as he allowed six runs on eight hits with two strikeouts.

Surging Orioles Win 8th In Row; McGwire: 36th

The Baltimore Orioles, who played like a bunch of sandlotters during the first half of the season, may yet be a spoiler in the American League East pennant race.

Although their poor play in May and June virtually knocked them out of any chance to win the division, the Orioles are giving every indication they will not be pushovers for the remainder of the year.

The Orioles made it eight victories in a row Wednesday night, crushing the Chicago White Sox, 10-4. It marked the Orioles' longest winning streak in four years and gave them a sweep of the six games at Comiskey Park this year.

John Habyan, who failed as a starting pitcher, was the star for Baltimore Wednesday night. pitching 6 1-3 innings in relief of Mike Boddicker to nail down the Habyan, 2.3. retired the final 19 batters he faced.

"I just wanted to stay aggressive and go after the hitters," said Habyan, who entered the game with a 6.28 ERA. "I've been in the bullpen for a while. You get a lot of time to think out there. I've been watching the other guys and working real hard. I've had some up and down days, but I've tried not to lose my confidence."

Habyan entered the game with two on and two out in the third. After allowing a single to Steve Lyons, Habyan was untouchable.

"I've always thought Habyan was capable of doing this," Orioles manager Cal Ripken Sr. said. "The reason I sent him to the bullpen was to make him throw the ball over home plate. He has big league stuff. That's what got him here. But you have to be able to throw big league stuff over the plate. Tonight he was outstanding ... excellent."

Larry Sheets had three hits and four RBI and Ken Gerhart hit two home runs to pace the Ortoles' attack. Jose DeLeon, 5-9, suffered the loss. He has not won since June 20 and has won only once since May 19.

Elsewhere in the AL, Minnesota topped New York 3-1, Oakland beat Detroit 10-1, California nipped Boston 6-5, Scattle edged Milwaukee 2-1, Kansas City downed Cleveland 5-1 and Texas topped Toronto

In National League games. New York edged Atlanta 4-3. Pittsburgh blanked San Francisco 4-0, Houston shut out Montreal 7-0. Philadelphia topped Cincinnati 5-3, Chicago whipped San Diego 6-3 and St. Louis defeated Los Angeles 3-1.

Heart Attack Kills McMahon

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - Don McMahon, one of the most durable relievers in major-league history, died of a heart attack Wednesday night 90 minutes after collapsing on the mound while pitching batting practice for the Los Angeles Dodgers. He McMahon, who hurled in the big leagues until age 44 and ranks fourth on the all-time list for relief appearances, died at 6:15 p.m. PDT in the emergency room at Queen of Angels Hospital, only a few miles from Dodger Stadium.

McMahon pitched batting practice for the Dodgers and during games positioned outflelders from the press box. His seat went unoccupied Wednesday night. He joined Los Angeles last year, and his title was special assignment coach.

"I've known him for more than 20 years and also played against him." said Los Angeles Manager Tom Lasorda. "We were very close. It was really a shock to see him collapse."

McMahon underwent bypass surgery four years ago. A right-handed sinkerball specialist, McMahon owned a 90-68 record with 153 saves and a 2.96 ERA. He appeared in three World Series - two with the Milwaukee Braves - and one All-Star Game, and led the National League in saves in 1959.

The native of Brooklyn, N.Y., appeared in 874 games - all but two out of the bullpen - in an 18-year career that included stops with Milwaukee, Houston, Cleveland, Boston, the Chicago White Sox. Detroit and San Francisco.

In 1973, while serving as a pitching coach with the Giants. McMahon was activated and posted a 4-0 record and 1.50 ERA. He retired the following season at age 44.

"I played against Don when he was with the Braves and the Giants," said Hall of Famer Duke Snider. "He never gave into the hitter. He was a tough competitor. He battled all the way."

Bradley Looks To Get Her Mind Right After Near Miss Of Slam

EDISON, N.J. (UPI) - Pat Bradley knows what alls her golf game. It is not the driver, nor the putter nor the short game. It is the mind.

In 1986 the veteran won five tournaments, was No. 1 on the money list and earned Player of the Year honors. This year she has won just once, finished no higher than 25th in her last five tournaments and missed the cut last week.

Her fall can best be dramatized by her situation heading into the 42nd U.S. Open, which begins today at the Plainfield Country Club. A year ago an Open victory would have made Bradley the first player to complete the Grand Slam. A win this time around would help salvage a sub-par

"I'm sure you've heard this before whether it be myself, the Mets or the Celtics, whenever you've had a year like I had, it's tough to repeat," she said. "Every tournament last year was life and death. Anytime I didn't play well or had a stretch when I didn't play well, I'd worry that it'd cost me Player of the Year. This year I haven't had that life or death feeling. I'm not proud of it.

"Last year every time I walked off the course I had a tremendous headache. I haven't had one headache this year. My playing goal now is to get through the year."

Dolphins Have 7 Unsigned Picks

MIAMI (UPI) — When the Miami Dolphins hold their first practice in pads today, it is likely two rookies the team is counting on to shore up a weak defense will be missing.

All rookies are scheduled to report to training camp at St. Thomas University today, but as of late Wednesday, there were seven draft picks that had not reached agreement with the team. The Dolphins announced Wednesday they had signed eighth-round pick Joel Williams, a tight end from Notre Dame. He is the sixth of Miami's 13 draft choices to come to terms.

Included among the unsigned are the team's top four choices, who have not participated in the Dolphins' pre-camp for selected rookies, free agents and veterans involved in the passing game. The pre-camp concluded with two practices Wednesday.

Testa: Bass Best In Lake George

Looking for good bass fishing? How about Lake George?

'If you draw an imaginary line across Lake George from Silver Glen Springs (Lake Marion County Line) to Nine Mile Point and fish south of that line, you will find that bass fishing is about as good as it can get," Robert Testa said.

Testa, a Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission fisheries biologist, is three years into a five-year long survey of fishing pressure on the south end of the big lake.

"Morning fishing is probably best but good fish (114-24) pounds) may be caught all day long," Testa said. "For those who like to fish early, the best place to be at daylight is the etties at the south end of the Testa said don't overlook the mouth of the St. Johns either.

There are two rows of pilings (jettles) extending out into the lake from the mouth of the St. Johns River. These jettles mark the river channel and almost always hold fish."

Testa said some big fish (7-9 pounds) are being taken in the vicinity of the jettles at daylight by fishermen who are primarily after school bass (1-2 pounds). School bass are plentiful around the letties in the morning and may be taken with "crank baits and floating minnow imitations."

Midday fishing may be good around the jettles too, but Testa grass patches with plastic worms or spinner baits.

"The fish seem to be holding in small pods amidst the eelgrass." he said. "So when a fish is caught, continue to fish the area very carefully because several may be boated from the same area. Worm color doesn't seem to matter, but white spinner balts seem to be more productive than other colors."

Bass are being caught around the jettles and along the shorelines in the evening also, but the action may be slower than morning or midday.

"Crank baits, plastic worms and spinner baits will work in the evening." Testa said. "But topwater plugs are probably better." If the lake's surface is choppy. Testa suggests a floating minnow imitation.

The daily bag limit for largemouth bass in Lake George is 10. Currently no more than four may be less than 12 inches in length. However, beginning July 1987, there will be no suggests fishing shoreline eel- more size restrictions on Lake SHUPE'S SCOOP - When was the last time you thought about the water pump in your outboard? If you are like most fishermen, you rarely give the water pump a second thought. The rubber impeller of the pump wears over a year or so, and should be replaced yearly as preventative maintenance. This relatively inexpensive impelier protects your valuable outboard motor from overheating and should not be neglected.

WEEKEND CAST — Rick Reviles at Highland Park Fish Camp said that bess lishing is off, but that bream and catfish are providing steady action for anglers who brave the heat.

Dell Abernethy at Octoon Bridge reports that bess fishing is good with drapping water levels. Bass are out in the main river channel and the schools of menhaden are gone. The bess had been garging on the menhaden, but now that they are gone, the bass are more likely to strike a plug. Withert Williams macheral are being caught over bottom structure such as rock piles and reefs. Bettom fishing for anapper and grouper has been good at the 27 fathem curve and the stespins. Use live belt or 12 ounce jigs for the best results.

A few king macheral, sharks, tripletail and lack crevalle have been caught in the busy line. Inside the Perf, action has been slow, with a few sheepshead, flounder and bluefish being caught. Traul are slow in the Sanana and Indian rivers.

The jettles at New Smyrna are still providing plenty of action. Flounder, bluefish, drum, sheepsheed, whiting and asserted bettern species are being caught in good numbers. Every fishermen who dunks a live shrimp is assured of plenty of action.

Market Active, Higher

NEW YORK (UPI) - Prices opened higher Thursday in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which rose 2.23 Wednesday, was up 8.77 to 2478.95 shortly after the market opened.

Advances led declines 582-319 among the 1,366 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape. Early turnover amounted to about 16,511,000

Stock prices finished mixed in moderate trading Wednesday. "The market is churning," said Peter Furniss. vice president in equity trading at Smith Barney, Harris Upham & Co. He said equity investors watched bond prices, which retreated, and the dollar, which edged up silginiy.

Furnise said stocks drew early support from news that consumer prices rose 0.4 percent in June. The report fell within economists' expectations, even though late Tuesday a rumor had circulated that the rise would be much higher.

While the news about consumer prices favored the market, participants said futures-linked selling, profit-taking and rising Persian Gulf tensions curbed gains.

"People are stepping back in case there is action in the Persian Guil," said Furniss.

U.S. Navy warships began escorting Kuwaiti oil tankers flying the American flag through the Persian Gulf Wednesday.

Adding to the problem, Manning said, was the July 11 accident when a patrol car received an estimated $3,000 damage after Officer Lance Borows went to sleep at the wheel and ran his vehicle into a parked car. There was an estimated $2,500 damage to the truck. A departmental investigation is being conducted on the incident.

Manning included in his budget funds for preemployment drug screening, but said he has doubts to how much good testing existing officers for drugs would do because federal regulations call for almost two weeks prior notice to the employee. Even if the officer tested positive, Manning said, You can't just fire him off the bat, you have to provide counseling and other things to show we've done our part."

Manning had requested a budget of $1,495,256 and City Administrator Ron Waller had recommended $1,314.502. With changes tentatively approved by the commission the amount will be around $1,417,802.

Waller had deleted money for overtime from the police department's request, but the cammission tentatively approved budgeting $36,000 for overtime. Manning had requested $759,366 for salaries (up from $705,398 in the 86-87 fiscal year), while Waller recommended $726,257. The commission upped Waller's recommendation by $35,300.

could not complain Tuesday when the commission gave him just about everything he wanted.

The commission tentatively agreed to raise the pay of firefighters to be equivalent with that of the police officers. This would bring the total budget for salaries and wages in the fire department to $556,220 - even more than the $518,923 originally requested by Chapman and the $517,456 recommended by Waller.

Base pay for police includes $17,000 for patrolman, $24,500 for sergeant, and $2,500 for licutenant. Manning's salary is $41,170, but with a proposed increase of $2,141 plus bonuses and benefits it would total $60,841 in the coming year. Equivalent pay for firefighters would be $17,000 for firefighter; engineer, $18,000; lieutenant. $24.500; and battalion chief (whose title is being changed to assistant chief at Chapman's request), $25,000.

It was pointed out that firefighters are required to have 280 hours of fire fighting training plus 200 hours emergency medical training before they are hired by the city, compared to a 360-hour minimum standard course for police. Paramedics are required to have an additional 1,000 hours. It was also stated that statistics show more firefighters die nationwide than police officers and workman's compensation rates based on risk-level are slightly higher for firefighters.

Chapman also convinced commissioners to increase amounts recommended by

> New in this year's proposed budget are personnel and purchasing departments. The salary for the personnel director is $25,000 and the total department budget is $37,385. The purchasing agent's salary will be $20,000 and the department's budget is $30,660. A salary of $51,306 was recommended for the city attorney position, which is now vacant, and $70,919 was allotted for that department. An additional $500 was authorized in the land planning agency budget for secretarial expenses because of an increase in meetings in conjunction with the comprehensive land plan up-

The commission authorized an inspector and two maintenance workers for the public works department; a secretary for the city administrator; a planning intern for the planning and zoning department; a truck for the building inspector; a $3,000 pay raise for the parks and recreation director bringing his salary to $21,311; and pay adjustments for the building. planning and zoning depart-

Monica Lin Fetterhoff, 2219 Magnolia Ave., Sanford, and James M. Warner Jr., 4950 S. Sanford Ave., Sanford, were married at 4 p.m., on June 4, at Golden Lake Park, Sanford Airport. Notary Amorett LaRosa performed the double ring ceremony using original vows written by the bride.

The bride is the daughter of Thomas and Linda Fetterhoff. Brandon. The bridegroom is the son of Carl E. and June Helms, 4950 S. Sanford Ave., Sanford.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride chose for her vows a white bridal satin sleeveless gown with an off-the shoulder ruffled neckline. The flowing skirt, accented with two rows of lace ruffles, cascaded into a sweeping chapel train. Handmade roses highlighted the neckline and lace ruffles on the skirt. The gown and roses were made by the bride's mother-inlaw, June Helms. A tear drop pearl headpiece, fashioned with cascading pearls and petite roses on the left side, held her waistlength veil of imported illusion. The bride created her bouquet from pink silk carnations and white silk roses.

Cheryl Ann Hubbard attended her sister as matron of honor. She wore a tea-length pink taffeta gown with a strap of flowers over one shoulder and a sheer pleated overskirt. She carried a keepsake arrangement created by the bride of pink carnations, blue roses, purple lilacs, yellow carnations and white daisies.

Bridesmaids were Connie LaRosa, Carrie Turner and Marti Warner, sister of the bride groom. Their gowns and flowers were identical to the honor attendant's.

The bridegroom's father served as best man. Ushers were Michael Fetterhoff, brother of the bride, and Larry Helman. Groomsmen were Robert L. Warner, brother of the bridegroom, Bo Howard and Eric Beil.

The reception followed the ceremony at Golden Lake Park. Assisting at the reception were: Carolyn Cobourn, Buddy and Pam Hawkins. Betty Day,

Hesitation To Host Full House Tempts Card Cronies To Fold

DEAR ABBY: I love to play the card game Pan. In our game, one of the eight players has turned out to be a freeloader. The last eight times when it was her turn to host, she was either "sick," or her husband was "entertaining a relative," or her and her house was a mess. However, she has not missed a game in a year! Now she says her hands hurt (arthritis) so she can't shuffle the cards, but she has no trouble reaching for the chips or reaching for the cards. Abby, you once wrote: "Nobody can take advantage of you without your permission.

The other women in our group are just as fed up with this woman as I am, but nobody has the nerve to call her on it. I told the others that I was going to drop out. So since I am always Abby quoting you, they said, "Write to Dear Abby and see what she has to say." So I am writing. Should I stay with the group and ignore

DEAR E.G.: Freeloading is inexcusable, but arthritic hands can be painful, so give the offending woman a break. Confront her and state your complaint, and if she doesn't have the game at her house in the very near future, you would be justified to "reorganize" - and deal her out.

DEAR ABBY: My very good the receptionist, call me by my friend (I'll call her Terry) just found out that she is expecting shower last year, so now I'm going to h have one for her.

Do you think I should mention on the invitations that Terry is expecting twins? It will mean that the guests will have to buy two gifts instead of one, which may make it kind of expensive for those who are on a rather tight budget.

DOUBLE TROUBLE

DEAR DOUBLE: Of course you should mention the double blessing in your invitations. Obviously it will mean bringing two gifts instead of one, but everyone knows that one pair of booties will not cover four little feet.

DEAR ABBY: I am a college tennis coach. Last month our state championship fell on the same Saturday as my girlfriend's brother's wedding. The wedding was scheduled for 4 p.m. at a small church, which was about a 30-minute drive from where the tournament was to take place.

The tournament finally ended at 3:30 so I decided to drive directly to the wedding in my tennis clothes.

I arrived at the church door and asked the mother of the groom (my girlfriend's mother) if it would be OK if I went into the church and sat in the back. I apologized for my appearance and explained that I had rushed over directly from the tennis tournament. She didn't say a word — she just looked at me in amazement. (I guess you could say I was snubbed.)

Abby, I know'l wasn't' appropriately dressed for the occasion, but if I had showered and changed clothes. I would have missed the ceremony. Was I wrong?

IN THE DOGHOUSE

DEAR IN: Your intentions were good, but your judgment was poor.

Representatives from the Florida Department of State presented a $100,000 check to the Florida Symphony Orchestra at a meeting of the FSO Board of Directors July 7 in Orlando.

The check represents the Central Florida community's response to a Challenge Grant awarded by the State of Florida and Secretary of State George Firestone which required the the FSO raise $300,000 in new or increased gifts during the 1986/87 fiscal year.

Rep. Fran Carlton, Director of the State Division of Cultural Affairs Chris Doolin, and Chris Miliotes and Bill Nolan, members of the Florida Arts Council. presented the check to Florida Symphony Orchestra President Lee Hanna.

"During the past eighteen months, the FSO has been faced with many challenges. Thanks to a new 'challenge' issued by the State of Florida, we have been able to increase ourdonor base by more than 160 percent. from 635 to 1,654 donors," Hanna sald.

"This $100,000 Challenge Grant Award, as previously announced at our June 2 meeting. was the stimulus for raising more than $360,000 in new or increased contributions from corporations, foundations and individuals in the Central Florida community, Hanna added."

Theh Challenge Grant-Program was originated in 1984 under the leadership of George Firestone, Florida's chirf cultural officer, to stimulate increased financial support for organizations that demonstrate a high level of artistic quality over a period of years.

The Florida Symphony Orchestra is one of only six institutions of the state to have qualified for this award since its inception and the first from Central Firoida, according to Joanne Hanley, FSO spokesman.

There is little trace of the eccentric Dali, who began making news more than 50 years ago when he appeared at a New York art exhibit wearing a loaf of bread as a hat to expound on the "paranote-critical method" of his melting watches and antinfested sand dunes.

"He is content just gazing at the wall," says Antoni Pitxot. 53, a painter who visits Dali nearly every evening. "He has chosen to be an ascette now. It is' a sign of intelligence to be able to change one's ways at his age."

Dall, whose paintings draw the highest prices for a living artist. no longer flaunts his "baroque love of money" that paid for his Cadillacs, suites at New York's St. Regis Hotel, trans-Atlantic cruises and the upkeep of an elephant and an occlot.

His only whim, his aides say, is to be awakened at 11 each always claimed to be.

his knees because he refuses to move of his own accord. "There is no physical reason turreted with 12-foot-high plastic why Dali cannot eat or walk, he simply does not want to," says his physician, Dr. Juan Garcia San Miguel. "He has found a comfortable chair and has chosen to sperid his last days sitting in it." Since moving to the tower in October 1984, after he was seriously burned in a fire at his 12th-century castle in the nearby hamlet of Pubol, Dali has shunned visitors.

His secretary, Maria Teresa Brugues, 27, solicitously shows reporters and old friends around the silent tower residence but she invariably explains that Dali regrets that he is "too tired" to in a recently published biography of Dali, American writer Meryle Secrest described an interview two years ago with a pitiful and barely coherent Dali:

"I realized, by the way he banged the arm of the chair as he tried to concentrate, how very tired he was. The effort to put on one more performance was just too much.'

"Dali's mind is very alert and when he wants to be understood. He speaks up clearly. ... He is cranky, but was he ever known for being simpatico?" Brugues asserted. She says that Dali takes a pilot who landed in Moscow's

Red Square in June. "That entire monster of defense comes tumbling down when an outstanding person acts with decision. It is enough to kill you with laughter." Pitxot's links to the painter go back to his childhood and the close ties between both his and Dali's family. By all accounts. Pitxot is Dali's only friend and the only person who addresses him in the familiar "thou."

Irangate Reveals An American Flaw

WASHINGTON (NEA) - It's fair to say that, until Oliver North's riveting testimony, the congressional hearings on the Iran-contra affair had been long. verbose and a little bit boring. But Richard Strout was fancinated by them just the same. He watches the proceedings regularly on television and reads about them afterward in the

One reason is that Strout is a retired and quite extraordinary journalist who is still drawn to the flame of national puttering. He is almost 90 years old now and a genuine legend in the capital; he started reporting here in 1923 and didn't give it up until 1984, a full six decades on the beat.

follows the Iranamok hearings for a personal reason. He thinks they may be paralyzing Ronald Reagan's ability to govern the nation, and he says that lends credence to his life-long opinion that the U.S. government has a fundamental and serious defect.

Strout says the defect is the fixed term of office for the executive. Each president is elected for four years in the White House. Strout says that's fine when everything goes well, but when a president gets into trouble, like Reagan, the nation must hold on until the end of his

There is of course the impeachment alternative. But Strout says it is a cumbersome process that may only make the matter of governing worse. If Reagan were impeached, for example, the trial might take a year or more to complete, and the administrative branch of the

So Strout thinks the republic should consider a change in the system. And it's not a modest proposal. He says Americans should borrow from the parliamentary form of democracy, so that, in times like this, they would be able to call for an immediate election to get rid of an ineffectual president.

government could stall

altogether.

Strout admits it would be Besides this, however, Strout major constitutional surgery. But he adds that there would be nothing radical about it. The parliamentary machinery was created in Great Britain before the founding of the New World, and it has over time become the most popular form of rule in what is now the Free World.

Strout was introduced to the system as a young man. He started his newspaper career in England in 1919, and says that he watched Parliament from the press gallery at Westminster Palace, the British legislative building. He says it was somewhat disorderly, yet the underlying structure was sound.

Then he came home to work for the Christian Science Monitor, and he was never fully converted to the political change. He says he has reported on 12 presidents, and 30 sessions of Congress, but he points out that he began to worry about the governmental setup from his first moments on the job:

"The first president I covered was Warren Harding, and, if you remember, he was involved with Teapot Dome. Teapot Dome was the name of an oil reserve, and it became a symbol of scandal in the 1920s. Harding was hurt by it, naturally, and he lost his ability to lead the country."

Since then, Strout says four more presidents have been similarly wounded. He says he has seen Herbert Hoover, Lyndon Johnson, Richard Nixon and Reagan lose their mandate to administer, and each time, he claims, the nation has been stuck with a system that is incapable of quick adjustment.

He says it wouldn't happen under parliamentary guidance. He says the British know how to get rid of lame ducks with dispatch. When prime ministers lose popular confidence in that country, the government must order a new election, and the people can very rapidly establish different leadership.

Strout says the option is the ultimate stimulus of democracy. Politicians do not have any guarantees. A prime minister remains in power only so long as the electorate thinks that he or she deserves it. Strout says it's a bloody good way to keep the public luminaries on their toes.

Not that it's all upside, certainly. Strout concedes the parliamentary scalpel can cut both ways. The Italian parliament has called so many quick elections that it now has its 47th government since World War II. And the Israeli legislature is so fickle that it has two leaders who share

In other words, the politics of it all can be called into question. And Richard Strout gives this point as well. He notes that good governments can also be de-feated in a parliamentary system, often by selfish politics. and the nation affected can pay a heavy price for trifling with stability.

Still. Strout feels the risk is worth it. He says rough waters are preferable to a ship without a wheel. He says almost half the presidents in this century have lost the orderly controls of government, "and the current one, Mr. Reagan, still has an astonishing year and a half to go as a cripple.

In the seat one race, incumbent Commissioner Charlie Webster will square off with Lake Mary resident Randall Morris. Both have filed papers with the county supervisor of elections to qualify to run for seat one.

Seat three will see a race between suspended commissioner Arthur "Buzz" Petsos and Lake Mary resident David Petsos was scheduled to go on trial for charges of burglary of a structure and petty theft at 9 a.m. Wednesday but the trial was postponed because

If the case is put on the next docket Fisher said Petsos would not face trial until either Aug. 10 or 17.

Fisher explained Petsos' at-torney said he would not plead in the case. "So, there's definitely going to be a trial."

In order to run in September. Lake Mary candidates must qualify by noon Friday.

U.S. Warships Pass Safely Through 'Silkworm Envelope'

ABOARD THE USS KIDD (UPI) - Two re-flagged Kuwaiti tankers escorted by three U.S. warships on maximum alert steamed safely past Iranian Silkworm missile sites in the Strait of Hormuz and headed up the Persian Gulf today toward Kuwait.

"It's pretty quiet right now. Everything looks pretty quiet." Cmdr. Daniel J. Murphy, Jr., skipper of the guided-missile destroyer Kidd, told his 380 men after the tense trip within range stored by Iran along the north side of the narrow strait.

By late Wednesday night, the darkened convoy was deep in-side the Persian Gulf near the coast of Bahrain and had been joined by a fourth Navy warship. the cruiser Reeves. That ship was added by Navy officials to help protect the two tankers during the night while the convoy steamed ahead at 16 knots.

A flurry of reports of possible Iranian speedboats approaching the convoy after nightfall Wednesday turned out to be false alarms, officials said.

The Bridgeton, a 407,822-ton supertanker, and the smaller Gas Prince were the first of 11 Kuwaiti tankers to sail under the U.S. flag, enabling them to receive U.S. protection under what the Reagan administration has labeled Operation Earnest

The crew cruiser USS Fox.

At 11:30 a.m., the convoy headed into the "unvelope" the Strait of Hormuz - just 23 miles wide at its narrowest point - separating Iran and Oman, then into the gulf. By 5 p.m. the ships reached friendly waters off the United Arab Emirates port of Kunstler also said his team would put before the Court of Military Appeals in Washington the decision of the presiding military judge, Navy Capt. Philip Roberts, to permit testimony from an anonymous witness who would use a pseudonym on the stand.

Surgery Not Necessary To Correct Astigmatism

the cause of astigmatism? Can it can help him to address the be surgically corrected?

DEAR READER -Astigmationris an abnormal eye condition in which the curve of the corner is unequal. This irregularity prevents light from being clearly focused on the free copy of my Health Report on retina; blurred vision and eye- MENTAL AND EMOTIONAL strain result.

Most forms of astigmatism are inherited. In almost all cases, vision can be corrected with eyeglasses or contact lenses. Surgery is usually not necessary. DEAR DR. GOTT - Every month, before my period, I get a craving for starch and eat it directly out of the box. Will this harm me?

WALFER

DEAR READER - You are describing pica, the abnormal ingestion of unusual substances. The craving to eat laundry starch, clay, chalk, glue, dirt or ice can lead to dietary deficiencies and maldigestion. For unknown reasons, people with pica may already have fron deflciency. Laundry starch is a carbohydrate with very low iron content, so doctors are often unsure which comes first: the pica or the mineral deficiency. Because eating laundry starch is inappropriate - and may cause iron deficiency - you should check with a doctor for an examination and blood test. Pica is seen in people with inadequate diets and mental disorders, as well as pregnant women. You need medical attention.

DEAR DR. GOTT - My son is behaving strangely. He keeps a wet washcloth in the car and cleans it all the time. He holds the cloth between doors and his hand, and he uses a clean towel every time he washes his hands. He even washes the inside of his shoes. He's 25 and this has been getting worse since his father died when he was,14.

DEAR READER - Your son is exhibiting obsessive-compulsive behavior. In most cases, this reflects a fundamental and unresolved emotional problem. Try to get your son to agree to know when the time is ripe to bid a close game on sparse values? South had an easy pass in first position with his eight high-card points. He had a fair distributional hand, but nothing approaching an opening bid. When West's opening bid of one no-trump came back around to South, it was dangerous for him to bid, but it was also dangerous to pass. (It's not good bridge to let the opponents make one no-trump when your side can make two of a major.) So our intrepld South stepped up to the plate and bid two spades.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Lo and behold, North raised to three spades, inviting game. Now what? It's true South had little enough in high cards, but he did have good shape. It's also true that North heard his partner pass originally, so North had to How in the world can you have quite a good hand to invite game. Finally, whenever you have a distributional hand with a vold and your partner has a fit in your suit, you will take a lot of tricks. So South bid the game. Because of the favorable location of the A-Q of hearts, declarer made his contract with an overtrick. He didn't even need dummy's king of diamonds.

Lesson: The right time to overbid is when you have a good suit fit and either you or your partner has a freakish distributional hand. Here, if North had more strength in diamonds and weaker hearts. South might have no play at all for game. Since there was no way of determining exactly where North had his values, South was right to go to game.

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY JULY 24, 1987

In the year ahead, there will be improvements in several areas of your life. They are likely to be most noticeable in situations that affect your family and finances.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Usually you are a rather self-assured person who has good reasons to assume others like you, but today, you may be dubtous about how you stand with one you admire. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Matchmaker set can help you understand what it might take to restore the relationship. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper. P.O. Box 91428. Cleveland,

OH 44101-3428. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your popularity with your peers is trending upwards. This may be verified today by the comments of someone whose information can be relied on. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)

Surprisingly, a target that offers the greatest challenge and appears to be the most difficult to achieve may be the one that will be the easiest to attain today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) There's a payoff in the offing for being observant today. What you learn from studying the experiences of another can be beneficially applied to your own circumstances. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Conditions are reversed from those you experienced yesterday. You'll now be the one who will gain the advantage from situations where others have done the spade work.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Harmony of purpose will prevail today in an arrangement that has been a trifle testy lately. With both minds operating on the same track, the results will now be desirable.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your productivity will be you treat all your tasks, be they well as get.

large or small, as labors of love. Try it and see.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Any flirtation on your behalf will be taken seriously by the object of your intentions today. Keep this in mind before winking at a stranger.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You will derive considerable satisfaction today from doing for people you love things that you have observed they cannot do for themselves.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Someone who loves you is equally anxious to know how much you love him or her. Express how you feel in as endearing terms as possible.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) The financial means to acquire something nice you've been wanting for yourself looks like it can be worked out at this time. Focus on your desires.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your assertiveness will be very pronounced today, and it can be effectively used if you mask your enormously enhanced today if motives with kindness. Give, as
