Many Stories In Circulation

Nobody Knows Who Named Oscars

DEAR DICK: Will you please once more tell us where the Oscar got its name. I know, but when I told my children they refused to believe me. The Uncle Oscar to whom the girl referred was also my Uncle Oscar from Pasadena, Calif. N. STANLEY TAYLOR, Joplin, Mo.

There is no real agreement about where the name, Oscar, came from. The one story you refer to, about somebody saying "That little statue looks like my Uncle Oscar," has never been substantiated. The academy itself says several stories have been suggested, including one that credits Bette Davis with dreaming up the name, but none of them is universally accepted.

DEAR DICK: My husband and I have argued about this for a month, so please settle it. We have a $100 bet on it. Who played Carrie's mother in the movie, "Carrie"? He says it was Shelley Winters, but I say it wasn't. DOROTHY SMITH, Fort Dix, N.J.

You win, you rich lady, you. It was Piper Laurie. DEAR DICK: My husband and I have argued about this for a month, so please settle it. We have a $100 bet on it. Dick Kleiner Cantinflas, whose real name is Mario Moreno, is still alive. He was born in either 1911 or 1917, depending on what reference work you believe. I do not know of any biography of him published in the United States, but there may have been one in Mexico.

DEAR DICK: Could you please tell me if Willie Aames, of "Eight is Enough," used to be in the old series, "Apple's Way." I say he was but my friend says he wasn't. RUTHIE M. MAXS, Amherst, Va.

"The Music Man" and I say Robert Preston did. G.G. VANCE, Portland, Mo.

It was Preston all the way, on both Broadway and in the film.

DEAR DICK: Is the John Derek who played the role of Joshua in Cecil B. DeMille's "The Ten Commandments" the same Derek who is Br Derek's husband? MATT HYER, Nampa, Idaho.

The very same.

DEAR DICK: Around Christmas time, I saw "The Orphan Train" on TV. Is the girl that played J.P. on the same girl that plays Maxx on the new TV series, "Me and Maxx"? S. Kalamazoo, Mich.

The very same. Her name is Melissa Michaelsen.

DEAR DICK: Can you tell me who played George C. Scott's wife in the movie where they were stranded out on an island with only their son? I say it was his true wife, Trish VanDevere, and my husband says it was Sherree North. Who is right? ELLEN, Vancouver, Wash.

It's a good week for wives being right. Scott's wife played Scott's wife in that film, which was called "The Savage Is Loose."

DEAR DICK: Can you please tell me who the three stars were that James Mason played the husband, and I'm sure it was an Italian actor. SALLY R. ADOLPH, Tucson, Ariz.

You're both wrong. It was a French actor, Charles Boyer, who was joined by Jack Lemmon and Catherine Deneuve.

Waste Water Contributed To Fish Kill

By DIANE PETRYK
 Herald Staff Writer

Florida Department of Environmental Regulation officials said Friday the discharge of treated waste water from sewage treatment plants was a cause in the recent fish kill in Seminole County in which 10 million fish died.

The kill might have been predicted if the DER had enough monitoring manpower, one official said, but there is probably little that could have been done to prevent it.

The officials were careful to point out that it is impossible to know how much of an effect the treatment plants had. They also said there were other factors involved.

"But there was a contributory factor from the sewage treatment plants," said Edward Davenport, DER domestic wastewater engineer.

Davenport explained that the treated wastewater adds phosphorus and nitrogen (nutrients) to the water.

Experts blamed added nutrients in the water for the fish kill. The fish died from lack of oxygen.

Davenport said increased nutrients caused algae in the water to multiply. But algae also need sunlight to grow. In this case they got just that for a few days before the fish started turning up dead.

But on the first cloudy day after the so-called "algae bloom," the algae died, and their photosynthesis systems turned off without the sun, Davenport said.

"When algae die, they use up oxygen," the engineer said, adding lack of dissolved oxygen in the water caused the fish to suffocate.

Seminole County sewage treatment plants are permitted to discharge treated effluent into bodies of water.

The other 34 sewage treatment plants in the county use the percolation pond method, in which sewage is fed into ponds where solid waste percolates into the ground. The earth acts as a filter and before the treated water reaches a natural body of water it has been cleaned.

Three of the six plants that are permitted to discharge treated effluent directly into bodies of water, discharge into areas that run into the St. Johns River, where the fish were killed. The others are located upstream from the kill and could not have had an effect.

The three implicated are the Seminole County Club Heights plant, which discharges into Lake Jessup via Soldier Creek; the Casselberry plant, which discharges into Lake Jessup through Cree Creek; and the Maitland plant in Seminole County, which discharges into Lake Jessup via Lake Howell and Howell Creek. Lake Jessup connects with the St. Johns River where the fish kill occurred at Lemon Bluff.

The discharge of treated effluent from these three plants is more than 2 million gallons per day.

In addition, Davenport pointed out that the area received effluent from Orange County via the 12 million gallons-per-day Orlando plant on Bennett Road and some private plants.

Nixon Foe Douglas Dead At 79

NEW YORK (UPI) — Helen Gahagan Douglas, the former actress and congresswoman whose political career ended in a clash with a young congressman named Richard Nixon, died today after a long bout with cancer. She was 79.

A family spokesman said Mrs. Douglas died at Memorial Sloan-Kettering Medical Center at 3:35 a.m.

The spokeswoman, Nan Stevens, said Mrs. Douglas' husband, actor Melvyn Douglas, was at her side when she died, as were the couple's son Peter and daughter Mary.

Mrs. Douglas was a rising political star until she ran for office against Richard Nixon.

With a career in the movies and on the Broadway stage behind her, she had served five years in Congress when she sought a seat in the U.S. Senate in 1950. She won the Democratic Party nomination and opposed the Republican nominee, Nixon, then a Congressman from California, in the general election.

Nixon charged that Rep. Douglas had voted on numerous occasions with Rep. Vito Marcantonio (D-N.Y.), a left-leaning activist from New York whose views were considered pro-Communist. Nixon hammered on the theme that Rep. Douglas had "pink" leanings, which she denied. She lost the election and Nixon was on his way to the White House as vice president only two years later.

Thus Mrs. Douglas became a martyr in the eyes of American liberals.

'Crock' And 'Suzie Q'

Amateur Radio Buffs Prepare For Local Club's Exercise

By DONNA ESTES
 Herald Staff Writer

"CQ, CQ, CQ. This is Crock N4BHL. Home is Sanford, Fla. I will be standing by waiting a call."

With these words, Edward "Crock" Hall and his wife, Lydia, known as Suzie Q on Amateur radio, begin conversations with persons from all of the 50 states in the union.

"CQ" means I want to talk to anyone listening. Actually I do more listening than talking and can pretty well tell whether the person talking is the type I want to talk to. When he signs off, I go on the air and call him. At the end of each 10 minutes the operator must announce his call sign and then I call him back," Hall said.

A member of the Lake Monroe Amateur Radio Society for the past three years, Hall and many of the 92 members of the club, will be participating in a field day being held nationally among amateur operators for the purpose of exercising the expertise of the various amateurs in the area.

The exercise which was to be held at the Sanford Airport during the 24-hour period ending at 2 p.m. Sunday, was to acquaint amateur operators with the requirements for emergencies. The radios are operated strictly on individual power.

The amateur operators assist the Seminole County Amateur Network, according to Hall, with weather emergencies such as hurricanes and tornadoes.

"We have roll call every Tuesday and Thursday at 8 p.m. The Lake Monroe Amateur Radio Society cooperates with the Seminole Amateur Network to learn what has to be done in relation to each other and what the what in case of emergencies," he said.

Hall will do amateur net each Saturday for breakfast to discuss the emergency network and its activities.

Hurricanes: Here's Everything You Ever Wanted To Know

Humor has it that weather experts are predicting a violent hurricane season, but Seminole County Civil Defense Director Chuck Swanson said there is no scientific way to predict what will happen.

Swanson and his staff are currently in the process of speaking with homeowners groups to disseminate information on what to do in the event of a hurricane watch or warning.

Last year 600 persons were reported killed as Hurricane David smashed into the Dominican Republic, but no deaths in Seminole County were caused by the storm.

Property damage due to the storm ran into the tens of thousands of dollars.

Hurricane Donna in 1960 left $1 million in citrus crop damage in Seminole and caused more than $500,000 property damage. Nearly 750 homes were damaged. The storm left 11 dead in Florida and 164 dead before it dissipated.

Because of the possibility of death and destruction from hurricanes, the Seminole County Public Safety Department is advising that all residents enter hurricane season prepared.

The department recommends that tanks, tools, batteries, etc., be stored in a safe place. When your boat is moored leave it equipment be kept on hand June through November.

The department also recommends:

- When you hear the first tropical storm advisory, listen for future messages. This will prepare you for a hurricane emergency well in advance of the issuance of watches and warnings.
- When your area is covered by a hurricane watch, continue normal activities but stay tuned to radio and television for all National Weather Service advisories. Remember, hurricane watches means possible danger within 24 hours. A hurricane warning means the danger has materialized.
- Listen only to government and weather officials and ignore rumors, the county further advises.
- Plan your time before the storm arrives and avoid the last minute hurry which may leave you marooned or unprepared.
- Keep calm.
- Leave low-lying areas that may be swept by high tides or storm waves.
- If you have a boat, moor it securely before the storm arrives or evacuate it to a designated safe area. When your boat is moored leave it and don't return once the wind and waves are up.
- Board up windows or protect them with storm shutters or tape. Danger to small windows is mainly from wind driven debris. Larver windows may shatter by wind pressure.
- Secure outdoor objects that might be blown away or uprooted garbage cans, garden tools, toys, signs, porch furniture and other items may become destructive missiles in hurricane winds. Anchor them or store them inside before the storm strikes.
- Store drinking water in clean bathtubs, jugs, bottles and other containers because the water supply may be contaminated by flooding or other damage.
- Check your battery powered equipment. Your radio may be your only link with the world outside the hurricane. Emergency cooking facilities, lights, and flashlights will be essential if utilities are interrupted.
- Mobile homes are extremely susceptible to high winds. If you live in one, leave it for more substantial shelter.
- Keep your car fueled. Service stations may be inoperable for several days after the storm strikes, due to flooding or interrupted electrical power.
- Stay at home, if it is sturdy and on high ground. If it is not, move to a designated shelter and stay there until the storm is over.
- Avoid the use of sterno or similar heating fuels for cooking unless your cooking area is well ventilated.
- Maintain a ready supply of masking or air-conditioning duct tape for taping windows. This will minimize flying glass if a window is broken. Remember, it's the debris picked up by the high winds that do the damage. Windows should be taped in a criss-cross manner with open squares approximately 10 to 12 inches on a side.
- Have towels or other absorbent materials available for soaking up water. Rolled-up towels are effective along sliding glass doors to minimize leaking.
- Have medical supplies such as bandages, gauze and compresses available because there may be an interruption of emergency services due to inoperable telephone lines or impassable roads.
- Clear plastic available in rolls from hardware stores may be helpful for covering holes in the roof or windows or covering furniture to minimize water damage in the event of leaks or broken windows.
- If possible, obtain scraps of wood or sections of plywood suitable for boarding up windows. As an alternative, cardboard boxes may be effective protection when used in place of 2-by-3 boards.
- Maintain an inventory of perishable goods. If you have a large freezer, dry ice, if available, can be effective in preventing spoilage of frozen foods. Try to organize and plan meals so refrigerators and freezers are only opened when absolutely necessary to retain interior coolness.
- Do not attempt to go out in the storm. You should never attempt to climb a roof to remove tree branches or limbs. You may be able to fix the winds and rain but you are no match for flying debris such as branches and parts of aluminum patio roofs.
- Avoid going out or attempting to go out in your automobile following the storm. Roadways may be impassable due to fallen trees and flooding.
- You should be careful not to be fooled by the eye of the hurricane. Despite a lull in the wind, high winds may return from the opposite direction as the eye of the hurricane passes.

By United Press International
Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini has attacked the government of President Abolhasan Bani-Sadr, saying it should resign if it cannot rid itself of inefficiency, negligence and bureaucratic red tape. "Those at the top... how is it they pay no attention to these problems?" Khomeini said. "How is it that the president (Bani-Sadr) does not intervene in these issues? How is it that the Revolutionary Council is not investigating these issues?"

James E. Bird Becomes Herald Advertising Head

James E. Bird, 29, of Orlando, has been named advertising director of the Evening Herald.

Bird lived in Orlando, but said he plans to relocate to the Sanford area soon. The new ad director is a native of South Dakota, and said he decided to move to Central Florida to marry his fiancée, Carol Bobkin of Orlando.

Bird attended various schools in his native South Dakota community, then studied business and marketing at the University of North Dakota.

In 1969, Bird joined the Wick Newspaper Group, a chain of daily and weekly newspapers in the midwest and southwest. He spent slightly more than 10 years with that organization holding various advertising sales and advertising management positions at several daily newspapers operated by the chain.

NATION IN BRIEF

Carter Inks Registration Law For 4 Million Youths

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Draft registration is law. President Carter-Friday signed the legislation putting into motion the process by which an estimated 4 million, 19-and-20-year-old men will have to sign up for possible military duty.

President Mulls Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter is meeting this weekend at Camp David with his economic advisers to study a proposal to cut taxes between $20 billion and $30 billion effective Jan. 1, the Washington Post reported today.
The Post said while Carter has made no decision on a tax cut, he is considered likely to go along with the recommendations of a Cabinet-level panel.

Oregon Uprising Quelled

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — Prisoners at Oregon State Penitentiary took a guard hostage Friday night, but fellow officers, using shotguns loaded with birdshot, stormed a barricaded cell block to free him. Six inmates were injured by the birdshot.
Sgt. Stan Fitts, a 22-year veteran of the Corrections Department, was not injured during the 90-minute incident, said Dave Fiskum, a spokesman for the state Department of Human Resources.

Banquet Recalls Dinners

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Banquet Foods Corp. has announced it will recall about two million packages of turkey products that may contain illegal levels of a cancer-causing agent.
U.S. Agriculture Department officials Thursday said the turkey products may contain an illegal amount of the pesticide dieldrin, a chemical that has been found to cause cancer in laboratory animals.

Potts Death Watch Slated

ATLANTA (UPI) — Convicted killer Jack Potts enters the death watch cell at Jackson prison today unless the 5th U.S. Circuit of Appeals in New Orleans agrees to stay his execution, set for Tuesday.
Richard Winthorst, clerk of the New Orleans court, said the three-judge panel took the Potts' papers home Friday after failing to reach a decision.

Reagan Wants Veep Records

Spokesman Friday confirmed Republican presidential front-runner Ronald Reagan asked Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., and Richard Lugar, R-Ind., and former Treasury Secretary William Simon for personal information to be used in the vice presidential screening process.
In Massachusetts Friday the ballot law commission rejected attempts by local Democrats to block independent candidate John Anderson from placing his name on the state's general election ballot.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Graham Puts Off Bank Bill, Seeks Amendment Votes

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Gov. Bob Graham and legislative leaders have agreed to put off for one year the taxing of Florida loan officers of out-of-state banks — and try to move up the vote on five constitutional amendments, including one to raise the homeowners' property tax exemption, by one month.
The governor Friday expanded his call for special session Monday to cover the switch on the amendment vote from November to October.
He also included technical changes in the truth-in-mortgage bill passed last session to let counties and cities adopt interim budgets until the people decide Oct. 7 if they are going to allow a $10,000 hike in homestead tax exemption from local taxes.
There apparently will be no effort to tackle single-member districting of legislative seats because Graham did not put it in his expanded call.

State Receives Refugee Tab

MIAMI (UPI) — Florida and Miami residents will have to pay most of the tab for the 115,000 Cuban and 15,000 Haitian refugees that have flooded into the state in the past few months, President Carter's chief refugee trouble shooter says.
Along with that bad news Friday, another White House aide said the federal government has no interest in retaining its hold on commercial fishing boats seized in the Cuban seailit.

Miami May Get Riot Aid

MIAMI (UPI) — Rebuilding efforts in riot-torn areas of Miami will be aimed at creating a stronger, minority-dominated economic base than existed before fires, rocks and black rage caused an estimated $100 million in damage, federal and local officials say.
President Carter's recommendation of $71.3 million in federal aid — more than half of it in low-interest, small business loans for areas torn by the rioting that began May 17 and left 17 persons dead — was announced Friday.

THIS IDEA BACKFIRES
Reducing litter was the noble idea behind mounting a target on this Youngstown, Ohio, garbage can. But the junk scattered around the can suggests that the idea has backfired. Perhaps pitching lessons or a larger receptacle would be in order.

City Knocks Down Rebuilt House

By JACK LESAR
CHICAGO (UPI) — A quick cut of paint was all Carlos Rodriguez needed to sell the house he bought from the Department of Housing and Urban Development — which regularly sells such ramshackle buildings.
It was no longer a ramshackle building when Rodriguez finished with it. It had a new roof, new porches, aluminum siding, new kitchen and bathroom fixtures and cabinets, a new furnace and new wiring. Rodriguez carpeted the four bedrooms, dining room, living room and all the staircases and painted every room. His work was checked several times by HUD inspectors.
He was only going back to repaint one room whose color didn't suit the woman who had agreed to buy the house.
But, because of an apparent bureaucratic snafu, he faces a years-long legal battle to get back his investment.
"It's ridiculous anybody should even have to get a lawyer, let alone go to court, to settle a case like this," said Todd Musberger, Rodriguez' attorney.
"There's no great legal question. It's just common sense.
"Anybody with an ounce of common sense could settle it. You don't need a judge."

Legislature To Convene Banking Session Monday

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — The Legislature convenes in a one-day special session Monday to pass a law letting out-of-state banks make loans in Florida, but without an advantage over state banks.
Lawmakers had been home two weeks to the day when Gov. Bob Graham vetoed the new banking code last week and called a special session to begin at 11 a.m. Monday and continue through midnight.
Graham threw out the code because of a provision banning "loan production offices" (LPO's) by out-of-state financial institutions. The ban would be anti-business, he said, and make Florida look bad to the rest of the country.
The current banking code expires Tuesday under the Sunset Act requiring periodic legislative review of regulatory laws and unless a replacement law is passed, Florida's 356 state-chartered banks will become the least regulated in the country.

You've got a friend down at the bank.

If you've lived in Sanford very long, chances are you already know John Mercer. John's been around in the Sanford Community for many years serving the banking needs of his friends. And now, the new Sanford branch of The State Bank of Forest City is open for business at 161 West Airport Blvd. (across from Bowling Alley).

John invites all his friends to come and visit the branch. Oh things aren't too fancy yet, but that doesn't mean you can't come in and say hello. Maybe even open up a new checking or savings account (by the way, if you keep a $400 minimum balance in your checking account, are a senior citizen or retired military, there is no service charge).

So visit Sanford's newest bank. We're locally owned and locally operated. And that's the way we like it!

JULIAN BOND On The New South 'Prosperity'

ATLANTA — Welcome to the New South. This is the region that produced Jimmy Carter, that overcame the burden of race, that settled its problems with the other regional states. This is the Sun Belt, land of prosperity and progress. And this is the part of the United States where the relative position of black people has actually worsened over the last three decades.

The Southern Regional Council, a 36-year-old research organization headquartered here, puts the situation starkly: "In the absence of a miracle, the comparative economic status of blacks in the South over the last 30 years has hardly improved or in fact has declined."

"Race," the council notes, "remains a major factor in determining limits of Southern opportunities of most men and women today and perhaps most children tomorrow."

The popular view of this region has been of a population match kicking and biting from an 18th-century system of racial separation.

The election of black mayors in Atlanta, Richmond and New Orleans — and the presence of black millionaires scattered selectively about — helped remove the national stigma that portrayed the region as backward, bigoted and below every national standard of education and income.

For black Southerners, however, that portrait is still painfully accurate. Enormous changes have occurred here, the council notes. Mechanization of agriculture has meant that blacks have moved away from farm and field in "substantial and dramatic" numbers. But the migration has held no guarantee for employment in the New South's industrial economy.

"In the South," the Council states, "a black man's income was closer to a white's in 1950 than in 1975. While 30 years ago a southern black male had 88 cents for every dollar of his white counterpart, the gap increased and by 1975 was closer to 87 cents."

Black women did much better. They gained 18 cents on working white females in 25 years, and today enjoy 75 percent of the median income white Southern women earn.

While more blacks proportionately than whites have always been unemployed, the relative rates of Southern unemployment for the two races have worsened.

In 1960, black unemployment was 3 percent higher than joblessness for Whites. By 1978, the black unemployment rate was more than twice that high.

The South's impressive changes over the last three decades obscure the income differences that remain and are growing.

The abolition of the region's apartheid and the increased number of black voters and officeholders hides the dollar differences that still remain.

"A view of Southern economic life that obscures the fact that blacks are not equal in status and opportunity to whites is not color blind," the council concludes. "It is without the power of sight and the facts of recent history."

NATO Turning Into Gang Of Misfits?

WASHINGTON — President Carter's deliberations with his Western allies have demonstrated one thing: The North Atlantic Treaty Organization is in serious trouble.

What is not generally realized is that NATO's difficulties extend to the very heart of the alliance — the military muscle needed to make the organization credible. The reason is the same that led to the disarray over Iran and Afghanistan — self-interest over self-sacrifice for the common good.

For years, a major goal of NATO has been the standardization of weapons used by the treaty allies. The advantages of such uniformity are obvious, but standardization will probably never be achieved.

The United States, which supplies about 80 percent of NATO's arms, is ahead of its allies in most weapons production. But the European governments, under heavy pressure from their own munitions industries, are continually trying to whitewash away U.S. dominance.

Sanford City Manager Warren "Pete" Knowles came in for his share of public praise in the past few days.

"I received more input from Knowles on municipal matters than anyone else," Vogt said. Later in the week, Lake Mary City Manager Phil Kulbes in presenting a proposed budget to the city council there said he included revenues of $12,000 from federal revenue sharing solely on the basis of a Knowles' prediction.

Noting that Knowles told the Sanford City Commission he expected the Congress to approve a bill continuing federal revenue sharing at the same level as last year, Kulbes said he also included the item in Lake Mary's budget.

"If he (Knowles) is counting on $300,000 for Sanford, I felt I could count on $12,000 for Lake Mary," Kulbes said.

known as Knowles to be a "cock-eyed optimist." "Pete" is a realist," Perinchief said, acknowledging Knowles was going in the right direction by following Knowles' lead.

Blanche Benson, wife of Lake Mary Police Chief Harry Benson, has been feeling under the weather lately. The couple has been happily married more than 30 years. Our best wishes to the chief and his lady.

David Best is still trying to get State Rep. Dick Batchelor and Orange County Commissioner Dick Fischer, his two opponents for the Democratic nomination for Congress to agree to a summit meeting to set rules and ethics in the campaign.

He has challenged the two to "stop bickering" and to "concentrate on the real issues in this campaign." Best cited divisive tactics in the Democratic primaries in 1974 and 1975, stating that "consequently, Congressman Richard Kelly was elected... by Democrats who outnumber Republicans in the District."

Best and Batchelor consented to the meeting, Fischer refused.

Fischer had a campaign meeting at the Sanford Chamber of Commerce meeting in the past few days. Among those at the meeting were Pat and Ernest Southward of Lake Mary. Pat is expected to announce her Democratic candidacy for State Rep. Bobby Brantley's seat in the Florida House.

The name of a prominent Sanford businessman is expected to be announced as Fischer's campaign chairman for Seminole County.

Meanwhile, Batchelor has sent a letter to Kelly slapping at the congressman's "transparent use of his franking privilege for political purposes," saying it is but another example of the larger problem of incumbents using public funding and the powers of their office to promote their personal and political ambitions.

JEFFREY HART Lay Off Martha Coleman

"I've never thought of myself as a feminist — in fact, much of the radical feminist thing strikes me as absurd and pathological; and the treatment of Martha Coleman following the shooting of civil rights leader Vernon Jordan by the authorities and by the media strikes me as outrageous. It could become a major symbolic case, and it has both racial and feminist significance.

Martha Coleman appears to be a responsible member of the American community. She holds a good job as a supervisor at the International Harvester plant in Fort Wayne, Ind. She has long been interested in racial issues, and is on the board of the local chapter of the Urban League.

She appears to have been victimized for two reasons, neither of them exactly criminal: 1) at 36, she has been divorced four times; and 2) on May 29, she was in the company of Vernon Jordan, president of the Urban League, when someone tried to kill him.

Though no evidence exists that she played any role in the shooting, and though no movie has been put forward for any such role on her part, she has taken a lie-detector test, agreed to be hypnotized, and has otherwise been harassed.

As soon as the report of the shooting reached the media, Martha Coleman was repeatedly characterized as a "white divorcee." As Richard Cohen has pointed out in a brilliant essay in the Boston Globe, that characterization actually represents a code-word, like "ruddy" for drunk, or "jolly" for fat. As code-word, it means "morally flawed."

"But," Mr. Cohen goes on, "this is a standard we apply only to women. We never refer to men by their marital status or the number of times they have been married. I, for one, have no idea if Jordan himself was ever married before and I have never yet seen a man described in the newspapers as a 'white divorcee.' It is a description that would fit, among others, Ronald Reagan."

In much of the commentary, the implication has been heavy that Coleman was having an affair with Jordan. This possibility is offensive to some whites, but also to some blacks, especially I understand, black women, who resent the idea that Jordan may have been in bed with a white woman.

What a waste of sick emotion. We will probably never know the truth about their relationship, and, in fact, it's a private matter, no one's business except theirs. I feel about as qualified to pass judgment on Coleman's life, if any, as on what she eats for lunch.

The police have their own point to make in abusing and harassing Coleman. In the wake of the race riots in Miami, the shooting of a prominent black leader was especially explosive. The police have been attempting to show, conspicuously, that every possible mode of investigation was being pursued. Carter took the same approach, ordering in the FBI. But in Coleman's case, the police appear to have seriously overshot the mark.

Vernon Jordan may have been shot by a white racist, possibly in retaliation for lurid black violence in Miami.

He may have been shot — and, just as a guess, I consider this very probable — by some rival within the labyrinthine politics of black activism. Malcolm X wasn't shot by whites, after all.

But Martha Coleman, who has committed no crime, deserves to be treated like any other free citizen of the republic.

SCIENCE WORLD Special Diet For Lobsters

WOODS HOLE, Mass. (UPI) — Want a cheaper lobster? Grow them in a controlled environment and feed them more starch and less shrimp.

That's the experimental approach being taken by researchers at the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institute. Preliminary results are encouraging.

Biologist Judith Capuzzo said it is the rich eating habits of lobsters that has made them so expensive to grow in sea farms as it is to catch them at sea.

Aquaculture diet changes may reduce the cost of lobsters, Dr. Capuzzo said she expects the creatures to remain a luxury item.

She and other biologists replaced much of the protein eaten by a group of test lobsters with starch. The lobsters grew in the laboratory without changes in their size or taste.

A similar diet in humans would replace the expensive protein in red meat — or lobster — with a cheap, filling plate of spaghetti.

Not only were Woods Hole researchers able to substantially cut feeding costs in temperate-zone-controlled tanks, but the lobsters grew to marketable size twice as fast as in nature.

In the open sea, lobsters prey on shrimp, crab, and mollusks. Dr. Capuzzo said that means 50-60 percent of their diet is pure protein.

Biologists in the lab lowered the amount of protein in the lobster's diet and replaced it with some shrimp, milk protein (casein) and carbohydrates — wheat starch and rice starch.

The idea in lobsters is to use "the lowest amount (of protein) possible without depriving it of any essential nutrients," Dr. Capuzzo said in an interview. "You don't want to use any excess protein."

On a diet of just 20 percent protein and 30 percent starch, lobsters grew to 1 pound in 24 to 30 days, compared to 5 to 8 years for farmers to reach the same weight in nature.

Vitamins and fats made up the rest of the diet. Dr. Capuzzo said lobsters normally use their protein as an energy source, burning off the excess. Flounder, salmon, catfish and shrimp do the same thing. Learning to control the lobster's diet may enable scientists to find ways of improving diets of other commercially significant farm fish.

"Once you learn the nutrition of one species, it's very applicable to understanding the nutrition of other kinds of fish," she said.

The ultimate goal is to produce an inexpensive diet that will not alter the quality of the product and not alter the nutritional status of the animal.

At Woods Hole, the test lobsters are grown in shallow tubs where air is bubbled through water kept at a constant temperature. Each tub holds just one animal because lobsters will eat each other if given the chance.

Lobsters here are only grown commercially in controlled environments on the West Coast where lobsters do not grow naturally. Dr. Capuzzo said. Because of their high-protein diet, lobsters grown in the West are just as expensive as those flown in from the East.

Sanford's Young Voters Must Dump Commissioners

I sincerely hope that many of Sanford's citizens paid close attention to a recent opinion column in which the columnist puts his finger directly on what is wrong with our city.

It seems that our commission, with the exception of Julian Stenstrom, has decided that it will foist their morals on the citizens of Sanford.

We have only to look at what's happening to the new small businesses in our city.

First though, we'll have to find some. The majority of our commission has a stranglehold on Sanford's economy. We are the only ones who can change this.

Reader Shocked By Charges Against Area Teacher

When I read that Elsa Caskey, a Sanford grammar teacher, was formally charged by the state attorney's office for committing battery, in that she paddled a child, I was shocked and angry by the unfairness of the charges.

First of all I thought the state attorney's office should have waited after investigation when it was determined a crime was committed. What crime did Elsa Caskey commit?

The state law of Florida says teachers are acting in place of the parents, with all the rights and privileges thereof. The privilege of spanking for disciplinary purposes is passed from the state to the county to the individual school principals who either specify that a teacher needs permission in each individual case of corporal punishment, or they are given blanket permission from the principal to spank with a witness present as was the case at Sanford Grammar School. She was totally within the law in her actions.

If someone is to be charged, it should be the state, then the county school system, then the principal, and lastly the individual teacher who is acting according to law.

This is the second time Sgt. Bernosky has brought a child paddling case before the state attorney's office. The first case was much more serious than this, and yet no formal charges were made in the first instance against the party involved. Could this swift action be because the child is the stepson of Rep. Richard Kelly? Or is it because in the first case the paddling was given by an administrator at the school, and had the full backing and protection of all the power at the Seminole County school board office?

A mere classroom teacher is "left to the wolves" in a classroom where the minority is dedicated, talented and conscientious teacher for over 10 years. It is the education they talk back, yell out in classroom teacher who, day to day, has to try to teach, after she has been able to sufficiently discipline students, so that the educational process can go on. Despite all the administrators, supervisors, principals, and clerical help which are part of the school system, classroom teachers still are the only essential part of the whole educational system. Without them we would have no education for our children.

As the mother of seven children and a teacher for 18 years, I feel I can speak with some authority. To be a teacher these days takes all the courage one can muster. You're not only teaching subject matter, but teaching children the rules of life many have not gotten at home, the rules of common courtesy and respect for other's rights. Should Ms. Caskey have just stood back and watched while this child knocked down and pulled in the lunch line? Do not other children have rights too? I'm sure parents of these children would have more of a right to press charges, if a teacher did not act to protect their children, and allow these things to happen.

Parents say children aren't being taught in school as they used to. Let me say to you — "We can't teach as we used to." Many of us are the same teachers who accomplished "miracles" in education ten years or more ago. I'm the same person I was in 1952 when I started teaching. Yet each year I am able to accomplish less. Why? Because children aren't being taught at home the basic rudiments necessary to get along with others. They have no respect for authority, nor their peers. My heart aches every day for the great majority of children who come to school to learn, and then find out the minority is preventing them from getting an education. They talk back, yell out in class, hit and push other innocent children and try to make the classroom atmosphere one of chaos. They need constant attention — they are not willing to share attention with 30 other children. Often the parents of these children will admit they have no control over their children themselves. They talk back to their parents and insist on doing everything they want to. Only the teacher feels a responsibility for the welfare and education of 20 others.

Sgt. Bernosky's attitude also shocks me. He is in law enforcement. Policemen should know that the murders, rapes and crimes are the result of this lack of respect for others. And the seeds of this lack of respect are formed before the child is age 2 — and exhibited in early elementary school. Perhaps he should spend a day in a classroom in 1980 — he did 20 years ago when things were different. He'd admire the control a teacher has to do. I don't know if a policeman would ever be expelled from school, or the spot.

It seems a little odd that parents who refuse to let the schools discipline their children, are also the ones who couldn't care less what their "little darlings" do to other children.

Miss Caskey has never "beaten" a child in her life, and I would be willing to bet the child in question is fair haired and blue eyed, and like all of us in this category, brags easily. I wonder if he's zipped off to the hospital every time he falls down.

This whole incident, probably which involves nothing more than a kid getting the spanking he deserved, is being blown out of all proportion by the newspaper for political reasons only. But I can't figure who David Razer is promoting, Kelly or Bernosky, since the latter's name appears more than anyone else's. However, I wouldn't vote for either one of them, since neither can

Many of us are the same teachers who accomplished "miracles" in education ten years or more ago. I'm the same person I was in 1952 when I started teaching. Yet each year I am able to accomplish less. Why? Because children aren't being taught at home the basic rudiments necessary to get along with others. They have no respect for authority, nor their peers. My heart aches every day for the great majority of children who come to school to learn, and then find out the minority is preventing them from getting an education. They talk back, yell out in class, hit and push other innocent children and try to make the classroom atmosphere one of chaos. They need constant attention — they are not willing to share attention with 30 other children. Often the parents of these children will admit they have no control over their children themselves. They talk back to their parents and insist on doing everything they want to. Only the teacher feels a responsibility for the welfare and education of 20 others.

Sgt. Bernosky's attitude also shocks me. He is in law enforcement. Policemen should know that the murders, rapes and crimes are the result of this lack of respect for others. And the seeds of this lack of respect are formed before the child is age 2 — and exhibited in early elementary school. Perhaps he should spend a day in a classroom in 1980 — he did 20 years ago when things were different. He'd admire the control a teacher has to do. I don't know if a policeman would ever be expelled from school, or the spot.

It seems a little odd that parents who refuse to let the schools discipline their children, are also the ones who couldn't care less what their "little darlings" do to other children.

Miss Caskey has never "beaten" a child in her life, and I would be willing to bet the child in question is fair haired and blue eyed, and like all of us in this category, brags easily. I wonder if he's zipped off to the hospital every time he falls down.

This whole incident, probably which involves nothing more than a kid getting the spanking he deserved, is being blown out of all proportion by the newspaper for political reasons only. But I can't figure who David Razer is promoting, Kelly or Bernosky, since the latter's name appears more than anyone else's. However, I wouldn't vote for either one of them, since neither can

Give Teacher Medal

Elsa Caskey is not only one of the finest school teachers in this county, she is also one of the most civic-minded. She shouldn't be commended for swatting a kid, she should be given a medal.

We parents are getting sick and tired of our children being pushed around, punched and harassed by other students. It's about time parents started using the parents of these uncontrolled monsters who receive no discipline at home, but still expect to attend school with normal children.

It had been my daughter who had been knocked to the ground so hard it knocked her breath out of her, causing her to hit her head on a rock. I would have had a fit if the kid who did it hadn't been spanked — and the harder the better. Especially when the child turns around and beats up on another child. These type of children should also be expelled from school, on the spot.

DEAR FOLKS: This is a little bit of advice I hope you will follow. I have written many things about photo albums, including how to make it easier to keep one. Now I want to pass along a little tip for those of you who may not get around to putting those precious pictures in an album right away.

As soon as you get snapshots, to be sorry that you don't know developed — now I mean if Jimmy was 5 or 6 in that instant, not a few days later — get out a pen and, on the back of each print, write the date, where the picture was taken and, even more important, the names of the people in it.

Some of the older snapshots used to have the date printed on them but many of the newer, borderless prints don't. Believe you me, five or 10 years from now you are going to be sorry that you don't know developed — now I mean if Jimmy was 5 or 6 in that instant, not a few days later — get out a pen and, on the back of each print, write the date, where the picture was taken and, even more important, the names of the people in it.

Love, Heloise

CORSAGE CUE
DEAR HELOISE: Throughout the years I have saved mountings of corsages for sentimental reasons and because they were so pretty. Recently I was wrapping a present for a baby shower and discovered that I did not have a bow.

After prowling through everything, I came across the perfect topping — a corsage mount.

I put diaper pins where the flowers were originally. I think this would be ideal on birthday and wedding gifts. A real initiation fighter, huh? Beverly Hatfield

MAKEOVER FOR DOLLING OUTFITS
DEAR HELOISE: We have an idea for doll clothing. Girls are always wanting to get new clothes for their dolls.

A HOLIDAY SALUTE FOR PETS
DEAR HELOISE: If anyone who reads this column has a hamster, mouse, guinea pig, or any other small caged animal, they will find this thought helpful.

All you have to do is get wrapping paper for the season (Christmas, Valentine, Fourth of July), cut it to the right size of the back of the cage (or aquarium) and tape the paper on the outside so that the design is facing the inside of the cage.

It will brighten things up for you and your pet. Lisa Bennett, Age 12

Settlement Puts Auto-Train Stock Back On Board

The American Stock Exchange has resumed trading in Auto-Train Corp. stock at the company's request following tentative settlement of a lawsuit against the corporation.

Auto-Train also announced that it plans to sell 1,400,000 shares of stock in its wholly owned subsidiary, Railway Services Corp. said Jim Grube, financial public relations spokesman for the firm. If completed, the sale will net Auto-Train $2,250,000.

Trading in Auto-Train stock had been halted June 11 at Auto Train's request due to a lawsuit against the corporation brought by the Continental Illinois Leasing Corp. and its affiliate, the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust Co. of Chicago, Grube said.

The suit charged that Auto-Train was behind in lease payments on locomotives and failed to adequately maintain leased equipment. Grube said the charge of inadequate maintenance concerned equipment not in use.

In an attempt to settle the dispute, Auto-Train has secured an irrevocable letter of credit in the amount of $400,000 which can be drawn on by Continental to pay the existing Auto-Train debts and future lease payments in the event of further defaults between now and Dec. 5, 1980.

The suit will be voluntarily dismissed by Continental, Grube said, if the company accepts the letter of credit upon final review.

Although 1,400,000 shares of Railway Services stock will be issued, 600,000 by Railway Services Corp. and 800,000 by Auto-Train, Auto-Train will retain approximately 59 percent of Railway Services' stock.

Out of its proceeds, Railway Services will repay Auto-Train $300,000. The funds were advanced by Auto-Train to get the company started, Grube said. — DIANE PETRYK

Fill a paper cup about two-thirds full of water. Grasp the cup in the palm of your right hand (left, if left-handed), as shown above.

Now, pivoting on the ball of your left foot, swing your arm in a full circle around and over your left shoulder, ending with the cup in its original position before you—and, oh yes, without spilling a drop.

Success requires a smooth and steady motion in your swing. Practice in a suitable place is advisable.

Court Backs Abortion Fund Ban

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court today upheld $4 the congressional ban on federal financing of most welfare abortions, and said states are required to finance the operation only when federal funds are available.

The majority said Congress' funding restrictions, known as the Hyde Amendment after its sponsor, Rep. Henry Hyde, R-Ill., do not violate the First or Fifth Amendments to the Constitution.

Although Congress has opted to subsidize medically necessary services generally, but not certain medically necessary abortion the fact remains that the Hyde amendment leaves an indigent woman with at least the same range of choice in deciding whether to obtain a medically necessary abortion as she would have had if Congress had chosen to subsidize no health care costs at all, Justice Potter Stewart wrote for the majority.

"We are thus not persuaded that the Hyde Amendment impinges on the constitutionally protected freedom of choice recognized in (a prior court ruling)."

In a second $4 vote, the court said states are not obligated to pay for medically necessary abortions for which federal reimbursement is not available.

In the case of federal funding for abortions, Stewart said the Hyde Amendment "places no governmental obstacle in the path of a woman who chooses to terminate her pregnancy, but rather, by means of unequal subsidization of abortion and other medical services, encourages alternative activity deemed in the public interest."

As it now stands, the Hyde Amendment allows federal financing of abortions only to save the woman's life or in cases of pregnancy from rape or incest that are properly reported to authorities.

Although the Constitution protects citizens against unwarranted government interference, Stewart said, "it does not confer an entitlement to such funds as may be necessary to realize all the advantages of that freedom."

"To hold otherwise would mark a drastic change in our understanding of the Constitution," Stewart said.

Stewart agreed with the government argument that the Hyde Amendment bears a rational relationship to its "legitimate interest in protecting the potential life of the fetus."

But Justice William Brennan wrote for the dissenters that "the state's interest in protecting the potential life of the fetus cannot justify the exclusion of financially and medically needy women from the benefits to which they would otherwise be entitled solely because the treatment that a doctor has concluded is medically necessary involves an abortion."

Begin Rushed To Hospital

JERUSALEM (UPI)—Prime Minister Menachem Begin was rushed by ambulance today to the intensive care unit at Hadassah Hospital, a hospital spokesman said.

The spokesman said he did not immediately know the nature of Begin's ailment but the 67-year-old prime minister has a history of heart trouble and suffered a mild stroke in August.

Begin had been in the parliament building when the ambulance was called. Members of the Knesset (parliament) said Begin felt ill apparently from the excessive heat, which was in the 90s because of a heat wave.

The ambulance left the Knesset area without using its siren, a Knesset guard said.

YOUNGSTER WAITS TO 'PLAY BALL'

County To Consider Taking Over 39 Roads

Lake Mary Boulevard Plan

Based on evidence that Lake Mary Boulevard will within 10 years become a major arterial road linking I-4 on the west and U.S. 17-92 on the east, the Seminole County Commission will be asked by its planning staff Tuesday to hire transportation consultants to prepare detailed plans for the road.

Lake Mary Boulevard is currently in the county road system, but adjacent lands are controlled by the city of Lake Mary and I-4 and 17-92 are controlled by the Florida Department of Transportation. Any proposals for improvements along the boulevard or at the two major intersections would require consideration of these intergovernmental complexities according to county planners.

The planners also suggest that the county retain professional consultants for the State Road 436 segment between I-4 and Maitland Ave., but recommend Lake Mary Boulevard be given priority.

to West Lake Brantley Drive and Lakeland Avenue from Palm Springs Road to Sanford Avenue.

Twenty-eight roads are recommended for first-time inclusion in the "Class C" category. They are: Edouard Street from Carolina Street to the south end of Edouard; Lake Street from Spring Avenue to the east end of Lake; Sheryl Anita Street from Carolina Street to the south end of Sheryl; Stone Street from Howard Avenue to the fish hatchery; Twin Lakes Drive from Orange County Line to the north end of Twin; Carrigan Ave. from Central Avenue to Division Street; Colonial Lane from Lake Oaks Drive from Presview Avenue to Virginia Street from Hughey Street to the north end of Water; Bill Dot Drive from Gleeves Court to Seminole Drive; Dot Drive from Jewel Drive to the west end of the right of way; Jewel Drive from the end of the pavement to Dot Drive; Junior Avenue from Palm Drive to Center Street; Poinsettia Drive from Hibiscus Lane to Floral Way; Seminole Drive from Jerome Way to Bill Dot Drive; Shore Drive from Lake Rena Drive to the north end of shore; Alberta Street from Seminole Avenue to the east end of Alberta; Alpine Street from Lake Marion Drive to Seminole Avenue; Arnold Avenue from Noble Street to Marvin Street; Bode Avenue from Barton Street to Boyer Street; Canada Avenue from North Street to Lake Marion Drive; Elizabeth Avenue from North Street to the south end of Elizabeth; Jackson Street from Bodie Avenue to the Jackson west end; Marvin Street from Leonard Street to North Street; Campello Street from Brentwood Avenue to east end of Campello; Via Hermona from Longwood Markham Road to Venetian Court.

SHIPMATES SWAP STORIES

Some of the 400 to 500 old shipmates who attended the 12th anniversary of the closing of the Sanford Naval Air Station reunion held this weekend swap the latest "scuttlebutt" over a can of beer Saturday at the Fleet Reserve Association building. A golf tournament was held at the Mayfair country club Friday afternoon.

Shah Has Surgery On Lung

By United Press International

More than 1,000 government workers have been fired in a new purge of accused collaborators with the regime of the ousted shah, Tehran radio reported today.

In Cairo, Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi underwent emergency surgery for the removal of pus from his left lung, medical sources said. A Tehran Radio broadcast said even the death of the shah would not change the hostage issue, now in its 24th day.

"(President) Carter is doubly mistaken if he thinks that the shah's death will hasten the possibility of the release of his spy hostages held in Islamic revolutionary Iran," the radio said.

"The deposed shah was but a U.S. agent with the rank of king, his status in the court will merely be that of a representative of his masters. The court will be called to try America, for in our view the hostages and the shah are one and the same," the broadcast said.

The mass dismissals of 622 people from the oil ministry, 325 from the road and transportation ministry, 35 from Iran's radio and television organization and 69 from Tehran University follows Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's sharp criticism of the government's operation under President Abolhasan Bani-Sadr.

"If they (government officials) are unable to act, let them quit so that we can find individuals who are not ineffective," Khomeini said in a speech Friday.

The army chief of staff also ordered all army units to purge their ranks of all traces of the deposed shah and to throw out all emblems of the ex-monarch, the Kuwaiti news agency, KUNA, said in a dispatch from Tehran.

The chief of staff said he was acting on instructions from Khomeini who also announced last week that bureaucrats would be executed if they are caught using old office stationery bearing the deposed monarch's emblem of an imperial lion and sun crests. The dismissal of 69 lecturers, students and employees from Tehran University accused of collaborating with the shah's regime brings to 358 the number of people purged from the university, the radio said.

Bani-Sadr said fears the hostage crisis "will never be solved" have forced his government to make plans for Iran to function cut off from the rest of the world, the Bamdad newspaper reported today.

Bani-Sadr, who has said the continued holding of the 53 Americans was driving Iran to the verge of economic collapse, received support from a close associate of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the Tehran Times reported.

Hojatol-eslam Hassan Rouhani, a member of parliament, told his constituents "Iran cannot keep the American hostages indefinitely. It is not possible."

"The problem has become complicated now," said Rouhani, who is Khomeini's personal representative to the political and ideological bureau of the Iranian Armed Forces. "That is to say that the United States does not attach any value on the life of the hostages."

Bani-Sadr's comments in the Bamdad newspaper on the crisis came one day after he demanded more power.
