Double Taxation

New Officials Take Up Old County-Cities Problem Once Thought Resolved

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

A somewhat different cast of characters will be participating at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the meeting of the Double Taxation Committee of the Council of Local Governments in Seminole County.

The meeting called by Sanford City Manager W. E. "Pete" Knowles, chairman, in his conference room at Sanford City Hall will resume discussions halted after it appeared a cooperative solution had been found to the problem which has caused dissension between officials of the county and the cities for many years.

The cooperative solution fizzled a couple weeks ago when County Administrator T. Duncan Rose announced "there is no double taxation in Seminole County."

Rose will be taking over as the county representative at the meeting, replacing former county administrator Roger Neiswander, while new Altamonte Springs City Manager Phil Penland will be replacing former city manager Jeff Eitberger as the Altamonte Springs representative.

The Casselberry City Council, Monday night, named City Attorney Kenneth McIntosh as its representative at the Wednesday meeting. When the committee met last year, Casselberry's representative was then mayor Owen Sheppard, who resigned since then.

Although Casselberry officials said earlier they would vote Monday night to file suit against the county charging double taxation, the action until after Wednesday's meeting.

Longwood's representative will continue to be City Administrator David Chasey and Winter Springs City Manager Richard Rozansky will continue as his city's representative.

Representing Lake Mary will be Mayor Walter Sorenson, as he did last year at most of the committee meetings. At times former City Manager Phil Kulbes represented Lake Mary, but he has since resigned.

At last year's committee meetings, Mayor Bob Whittier was the Oviedo representative and sometimes there were other Oviedo officials present.

Since officials in each of the cities over the past week have been hand-delivered letters from Glascock, soliciting their "reaction ... to the proposition of joining the city of Casselberry" in legal action to resolve the matter of double taxation, Knowles has sent new memos to each of the cities.

Knowles' memo says bluntly, "Cities can sue. A single city can sue. There is nothing binding about the Council of Local Governments. There is nothing binding about the committee's work — except possibly your word — to undertake joint cooperative effort on any agreed direction. That effort by suing can create headlines and little progress."

He noted the committee unanimously agreed to set aside the argument both of "double taxation" and "equity" to see what steps could be undertaken to resolve differences. It was unanimously agreed this effort would be restricted to the county law enforcement patrol and investigative efforts.

"It was further agreed this effort did not mean the county was agreeing to any question of double taxation nor were the cities agreeing to give up any rights or claims of double taxation — only to hold resolutions in abeyance," Knowles' memo said.

Noting the process was one of communications and that the process broke down for possibly several reasons, Knowles added the process "is not necessarily broken and it can be restored but that effort depends on the attitude and cooperation of all eight elected bodies."

"This study committee must exert effort to see if there remains a path to restore the 'cooperative effort,'" Knowles said. He strongly urged again that the committee meet "in the same spirit of an open mind for a willing effort."

Seminole Not Affected By Orange Gas Tax: Glenn

Orange County commissioners followed the lead of Volusia and Polk counties Monday night, approving a 4-cent county gasoline tax.

Polk County approved a 4-cent tax two weeks ago and Volusia County passed a 2-cent tax last week.

But Seminole County Commissioner Sandra Glenn said Orange County's action will not affect Seminole County.

"Seminole County has always thought independently of Orange County," she said.

Mrs. Glenn, one of three commissioners supporting a 4-cent gas tax in Seminole County, said the final decision on the tax will boil down to the need for transportation funding.

Commissioners Robert Sturm and Barbara Christensen also support the tax. Robert G. "Bud" Feather said he opposes a county staff list of roads that would be improved by gas tax funds and Bill Kirchhoff has not taken a stance on the gas tax.

Mrs. Glenn said she wants to hold a work session to examine the county's road needs and to set a priority list for construction projects.

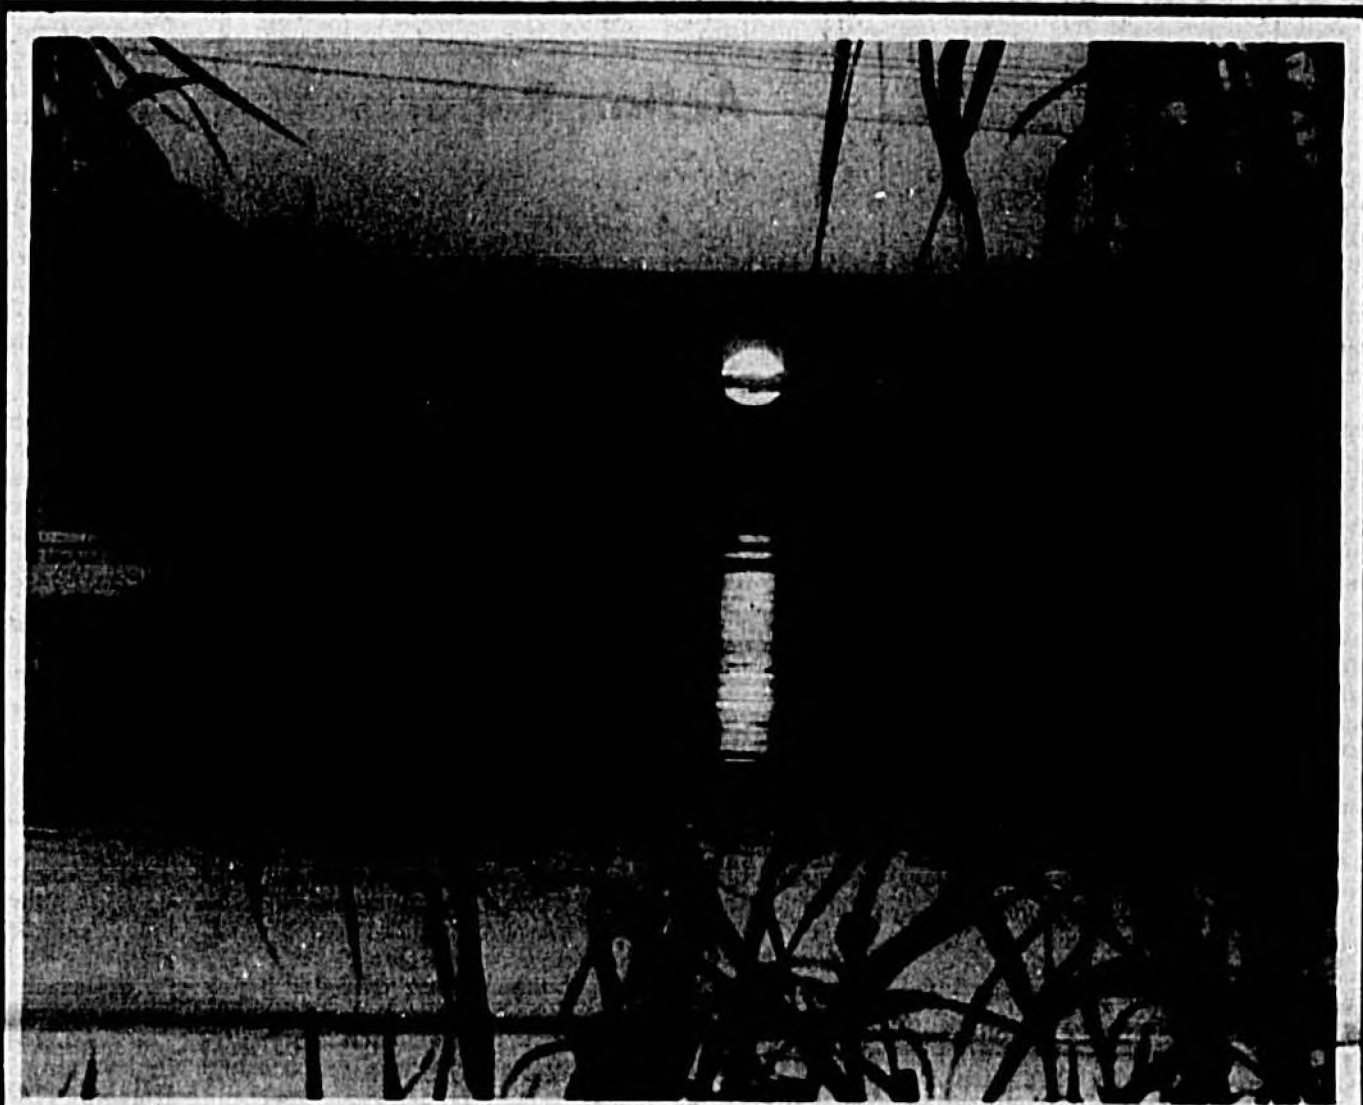

County Engineer Bill Bush said the staff's list of $55.9 million worth of projects can be changed to fit any priorities the commissioners develop. Of the 14 projects submitted by the staff, 10 are in the southern end of the county.

Orange County's decision to levy the tax came only a week after commissioners said they might delay the decision until July to watch what was taking place in Seminole and Osceola counties.

Orange County will receive 60 percent of the gas tax revenues. Orlando will get 30 percent and the remaining 10 cities in Orange County will receive the remainder.

In Seminole, no agreement has been reached between the county and the seven cities on distribution of any tax revenues. As a result of the impasse, commissioners have approved a resolution of intent to levy the tax.

Commissioners have scheduled a July 28 hearing. — Michael Beha

Death Of Altamonte Springs Man, 52, Is Ruled Drowning

By Diane Petryk
Herald Staff Writer

The death of a 52-year-old Altamonte Springs man, whose body was found in Grassy Lake Monday, has been officially attributed to drowning, according to Seminole County Medical Examiner Dr. G. V. Garay.

Roscoe Smith, 126 Lake Howell Road, was reported missing at 7:56 a.m. Monday after his son found his left shoe, hat, two fishing poles and a pellet gun on the shores of the lake.

Charles Smith, 308 Depugh Street, told Seminole County deputies that his father went fishing alone at 7 p.m. Sunday. He said he often went fishing alone and was often gone all night, but the family became concerned when the items were found on the shore of the lake, located on the north side of State Road 436 behind the Metropolitan Life Insurance building at 110 State Road 436 in Fern Park.

Following the son's report, Seminole County sheriff's deputies determined that the lake was in Casselberry's jurisdiction. Casselberry police responded to the scene and decided jurisdiction was Seminole County's.

Shortly after dragging operations began on the lake, Seminole County sheriff's deputies found Mr. Smith's body. It was transported to Central Florida Regional Hospital for the autopsy.

County Tax Hike Sought

'Bare Bones' Budget Is Presented

By Michael Beha
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County Administrator T. Duncan Rose has recommended a "bare bones" fiscal 1983-84 budget to county commissioners, designed to keep services at their existing level for the coming year.

To accomplish that, Rose has recommended a 4.5 percent tax increase for fiscal 1983-84. If approved by commissioners it would increase the tax rate by 27 cents per $1,000 of assessed valuations. The tax rate in Seminole County this year was $4.44 per $1,000 valuation for all property in the county and an additional $2.21 per $1,000 in the unincorporated areas for fire protection and road improvements.

Rose said projected revenues fall nearly $1.2 million short of meeting a "reduced continuation" budget. He said only expenditures "deemed minimally necessary to maintain existing programs and activities next year" have been included.

In addition to a $1,193,249 shortfall, the county is saddled with $4.25 million in capital improvement projects planned for construction this year and an additional $1.5 million is budgeted for departmental enhancements.

Rose also recommends that planned renovations at the County Services Building (formerly Seminole Memorial Hospital), the County Courthouse, Courthouse Annex, and State Attorney's Building be paid for by the sale of bonds.

A bond issue would defer the cost of the improvements over several years.

Construction of a new county health clinic in Sanford will be financed from the county's $10 million health trust fund.

Rose also encouraged the commission to take advantage of new funding sources and expand existing funding sources. The county should sell an old mental health facility it owns in Altamonte Springs and its existing Sanford health clinic when the new facility is completed later this year, he said.

County fees could also be increased to come up with additional funds, he said.

The 1983-84 budget is $82.14 million, about $4.86 million less than this year.

The county will also have to address the question of double taxation again this year, Rose said. He said the county has no obligation to take any action since recent court cases have determined that the county's policy of funding sheriff's road patrols from countywide tax dollars is not double taxation.

But Rose said the county should consider funding any new patrols from non-countywide sales tax funds.

Rose said the board might want to consider proposals made by Sanford City Manager W. E. Knowles. Those proposals include unified countywide dispatching through existing facilities at the sheriff's department, "SWAT" team support for the cities and countywide use of special equipment.

Rose said the budget prepared by the county's Office of Management and Budget could be affected by a rapid recovery in the nation's economy, Rose said. New construction, already projected at a 60 percent increase over 1982, could loosen the county's tight fiscal restraints.

About 400 new families are moving into Seminole County each month, Rose said. And while the 4,800 new homes will add to the tax places were located at the fire department, police department and the public works complex for the convenience of the employees. ## Frederick Is Re-elected To Civil Service Board

Gordon Frederick, Sanford attorney and former legislator, was elected to a second two-year term on the Sanford Civil Service Board by the city's employees Monday.

He garnered the support of 80 of the 167 employees who cast ballots in the election.

The tallies of other candidates were: Bettye Smith, a civic leader and unsuccessful candidate a year ago for the state House of Representatives, 43; A.K. Shoemaker Jr., a builder and developer, 24; Dale Gustafson, a local businessman, 15; Jack T. Bridges, a lawyer, 9; Joseph Garrett, owner of a Sanford department store, 9; and Robert Morris, another local lawyer, 8. In addition one voter wrote in the name of a city employee, Johnny Blake for one vote.

Frederick's new term in office will begin July 1. The term of Dr. Luis Peres, the second civil service board member elected by the employees will not expire until June 30, 1984.

The candidates were selected by representatives of each of the city departments after receiving recommendations from employees.

Frederick was not available for comment today.

The other members of the board are:

Don Jones and Dr. John Darby, both appointed by the Sanford City Commission, and William McQuatters, selected by the other four.

Some 167 employees, 68 percent of the 244 eligible, cast ballots in the election.

In recent months Frederick has been a controversial figure on the Civil Service Board.

Frederick at the May 31 meeting of the board advised his colleagues they could go into closed door meeting. Sanford City Attorney Bill Colbert told the board the law requires it to meet publicly and warned the members they could be prosecuted if they met in executive session.

The board ignored Colbert's advice, voting instead to hold an executive session and Sentinel Communications Co., publisher of the Orlando Sentinel, filed suit against the board and the members individually, claiming violation of the government in the sunshine law.

The complaint also said that a Sentinel reporter was barred from attending the executive session.

Circuit Judge Kenneth Leffler granted the Sentinel a "temporary restraining order," forbidding the board to hold executive sessions concerning a city employee who had been fired.

IN BRIEF

Chances For Budget Compromise Look Good

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican and Democratic budget leaders predict the $859 billion 1984 budget compromise, agreed on by Senate-House negotiators but opposed by President Reagan, has a "reasonably good chance" of approval.

The compromise, reached Monday night, would raise taxes $73 billion, slash Reagan's military buildup and produce a $179 billion deficit.

The president is not required to sign a budget resolution, but can veto spending and tax bills later that implement it.

The compromise contains $22 billion more than Reagan wants for non-defense domestic programs. Of that, $8.5 billion is for recession-relief programs, such as a new jobs bill, that have not been enacted into law yet. That money was put in a "reserve fund," which would not be used until the proposals are authorized by Congress, if ever.

Final July 4th Planning Meet Tonight At Chamber

The final meeting of the Fourth of July Committee will be at 7:30 p.m. today at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, 400 E. First St. All groups planning to participate in the festivities to be held in Fort Mellon Park should have a representative at this meeting.

According to Chamber President Jack Horner, it is still not too late for groups wishing to participate to sign up, but they must be represented at tonight's meeting.

The goal for the Fourth of July Fireworks fund is $3,000 and as of Monday, Horner reported that only about $1,500 had been raised. He is asking any club, business, individual or organization wishing to donate to the climax to the Independence Day celebration to send to the chamber a check made out to the Fourth of July Fireworks Fund.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: Summer started with a sizzle today with temperatures forecast to reach a humid 90 in most of the nation and up to 110 degrees in the West where snowmelt and manmade floods washed out bridges and threatened homes. "You're going to swelter" everywhere but the Pacific Northwest in hot, humid weather with temperatures pushing the 90s, said Rick Cundy of the National Severe Storms Forecast Center in Kansas City, Mo. The Northwest alone faced a pleasant day of temperatures in the 70s. Summer officially starts at 7:09 p.m. EDT. Severe thunderstorms swept the northern Plains Monday with huge hail, high winds and torrential downpours for the fourth consecutive day. Continued snowmelt in Utah caused flooding that washed out roads and bridges and menaced homes. Temperatures that cracked 100 Monday should hit 110 today in the desert Southwest, keeping record snowmelt at the torrential pace that has strained the mighty reservoirs of the lower Colorado River, leading to man-made floods as floodgates were opened. A federal judge in Los Angeles late Monday issued a temporary restraining order sought by the city of Needles, limiting to 31,000 cubic feet per second the water which can be released from Colorado River reservoirs by federal officials. He scheduled a full hearing on the issue for Friday. Authorities in Arizona's La Paz County considered closing the swollen Colorado to recreational boaters whose speeding craft shoved waves over sandbag dikes protecting waterfront property. Continued snowmelt caused fresh flooding in Utah, this time around overflowing Moon Lake 70 miles east of Salt Lake City. Duchesne County communities built walls of earth and sandbags along streams fed by the lake, and along flooded Lake Fork Creek. In southwestern Utah, Beaver County Sheriff Lynn Cartwright said the Beaver River has "taken out about a dozen bridges so far" and threatened 15 homes.

Space Medicine On Challenger Agenda

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Sally Ride, midway through her milestone shuttle mission, ran an experimental space medicine machine today aimed at developing a "breakthrough" drug to treat a hormone deficiency.

The Challenger's biological refining experiment, expected to lead to commercial drug production in space by 1987, was a seven-hour job for the 32-year-old astrophysicist who once studied dust between the stars.

Ms. Ride, Robert Crippen, Frederick Hauck, John Fabian and Norman Thagard were in their fourth day of flight and seemed to be enjoying every minute of it. They already have logged more than 1 million miles in orbit.

Ms. Ride reported turning on the 6-foot tall drug machine at 4:10 a.m. EDT and 45 minutes later demonstrated how it worked in a television show from space as Challenger circled Earth for the 47th time.

A band of thunderstorms swept across the ocean-side spaceport before dawn today, but astronaut Terry Hart in mission control said that was a good omen that "we'll have good weather on Friday."

The astronauts got some good news early today when mission control reported the Indonesian communications satellite they launched Sunday had performed its final rocket maneuver to go into a stationary orbit 22,300 miles high.

Before it was turned off, however, controllers said some good data were obtained, including ground observations from an Earth resources scanner.

One experiment aboard the satellite is intended to take advantage of weightlessness to mix blamuth and manganese, creating a new alloy for use in permanent magnets. Another was aimed at growing crystals in space for electronic uses.

Service Station Held Up For $200

Prepared Bandit Brings His Own Bag To Heist

Police are searching today for an armed robber who brought his own paper bag to a gas station near Sanford Monday night, had it filled with approximately $200 and escaped on foot.

The man entered the Imperial gas station at State Road 46 and Interstate 4 at 9:35 p.m. and confronted clerk David M. Kreuzer with a handgun, police said.

Kreuzer reported the man pointed the gun at him and said:

"If you don't want to get hurt, give me what you got."

The clerk said he gave the gunman $100 he was about to put in a drop safe and approximately $100 more from the cash register.

The man put the money in a small paper bag he brought with him, Kreuzer said, and fled the scene in the direction of the I-4 Industrial Park.

ADVICE IGNORED

A 27-year-old Longwood man was jailed Saturday after he failing to take a police officer's advice.

Police Lt. D.R. Beavers Jr. said that while parked at the Fern Park Station, 140 Fernwood Blvd., at 2 a.m. Saturday, he encountered a man he had arrested before on a drunk driving charge.

The man approached his patrol car, said "Hello" and shook his hand, Beavers said.

Since the man appeared to be in a highly inebriated state, the officer said he advised him he was intoxicated and should not drive.

The man replied that he lived just up the street and "had it under control."

Twenty minutes later, Beavers said, he observed a gold Camaro eastbound on Fernwood Boulevard with the man at the wheel.

He stopped the car and as he was placing the man under arrest, he said, the man became loud, profane and enraged.

A check of police records showed the man's driver's license was cancelled indefinitely for his failure to complete driver improvement school.

Michael David Lang, 735 E. Church St., Longwood, was arrested at 2:29 a.m. and charged with driving under the influence, unlawful blood alcohol level and driving with a cancelled driver's license.

He was later released under $500 bond.

carrying a concealed weapon.

Police report they were called to 900 Windemere Avenue, #3, Longwood, in reference to a knifing incident at 10:02 p.m. Sunday. A man there announced that he stabbed another man with his knife and surrendered the weapon to Seminole County sheriff's deputies.

After deputies spoke with several witnesses, the man became violent and began hitting another person, then attacked the deputies, slightly injuring one. The stabbing victim, Ralph D. Myers, 19, 17 N. Edgemon Ave., Winter Springs, was admitted to Florida Hospital-Altamonte where he remained today in good condition.

Arrested was William David Ward, 900 Windemere Ave. He was being held at the Seminole County jail in lieu of $8,000 bond.

BIT TO BE TIED

A 20-year-old Sanford man was being held at the Seminole County jail today in lieu of $8,000 bond charged with aggravated battery in connection with the biting of a woman at 4th Street and Park Avenue, Sanford, Monday afternoon.

The woman told police a man started yelling at her as she was walking in the area of 3rd Street and Magnolia Avenue at approximately 4:50 p.m. He then ran toward her and started to growl and said he was going to bite her.

Then he did so.

Police said the woman was bitten on the left upper arm to the extent that skin was broken.

Arrested in connection with the incident was Carl Allen Franklin, 3 Gables Apartment.

BICYCLES TAKEN

Thieves slit a screen on a patio door at 257 Wagon Wheel Court, Sanford, between 9:30 p.m. Wednesday and 7 a.m. Thursday to gain access to a boy's 20-inch bicycle. The stolen bike belongs to Jeanne M. Smith and is valued at $150.

roll, that won't affect the county until fiscal 1984-85. In the meantime, those new homes will require service immediately.

The recommended budget makes no allowance for increases in service demand due to an exploding service base, Rose said.

Taxable new construction in 1982 totalled $154 million but $181 million was eliminated from the county's tax rolls when the state Supreme Court ruled that the state's $5,000 homestead exemption was unconstitutional.

The ruling forces the state to give the $25,000 exemption to all homeowners.

Rose defended his recommended tax increase, citing budgets over the past several years which have deferred tax hikes by drawing from the county's reserves.

Commissioners will hold work sessions for the next two weeks with department heads on their budget proposals. Public hearings are set for Sept. 6 and Sept. 20 and adoption of the budget is set for Sept. 20.

Knowles said he met with Rose, Sheriff John Polk and other county staff members last week to inform Rose of the committee's work during an intensive 90-day study period, which ended in late November.

He said he told Rose the committee discussed possible solutions to double taxation through the creation by the county commission of a municipal service taxing district in the unincorporated area to relieve city taxpayers of the cost of new patrols.

Knowles said he also told Rose the committee discussed the possibilities of Polk's department providing the cities with SWAT team support services, providing a check-out system for the cities of special technical equipment; centralizing all criminal investigation expertise and technology for major crime investigations under the sheriff and providing all dispatching and complaint handling service for those cities dealing to use the county communication system.

"We talked about these kinds of ideas for the May 1 notification the county was to have sent to the cities," Knowles said.

The Sanford city manager said Polk noted he has offered these services to many of the cities in the past.

"I have no reason to doubt the sheriff's word," Knowles said, adding that Polk has a very close professional relationship with city law enforcement units in the county, but these offers made to police departments often do not reach the ears of elective and administrative officials.

In a recent memo to the County Commission, Rose noted that "current law concerning double taxation defines 'real and substantial' as the test for the presence or absence of double taxation. 'Equity is not a required consideration. Recent case law, on appeal, has clearly ruled that road patrols and criminal investigation give 'real and substantial' benefit on a countywide basis," Duncan said.

Vietnam Stress Studied As Possible Crime Cause

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Gov. Bob Graham and the Cabinet were to consider a proposal today for Parole and Probation Commission review of clemency cases of all Florida convicts who say their criminal behavior was caused by combat service in Vietnam.

Graham and the Cabinet heard one such claim last week from a veteran of 28 combat missions in Vietnam and are concerned that the argument will be raised with increasing frequency in clemency cases.

Two weeks ago they sought the advice of a panel of experts on how to deal with post traumatic stress disorder — commonly referred to as Vietnam syndrome — during a Cabinet workshop.

The disorder is caused by exposure to a traumatic, life-threatening event and can be characterized by flashbacks, recurring dreams and a lack of responsiveness to the external world.

Ma Bell Wants More $

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Hearings on Southern Bell's request for a $349 million rate hike go into their second day today after the Public Service Commission said the company could make a 15 percent return on equity.

Despite a decision on the rate of return issue, company spokesman Larry Mixon and PSC staffers said Monday, however, that it was still to early to place a dollar figure on the ultimate amount of the rate increase.

If the PSC were to approve the full rate request, average residential rates for the company's 2.2 million customers would increase about $4 per month but the increase will almost certainly be below what the company has sought.

Public Counsel Jack Shreve said the company isn't entitled to an increase at all. Bell has already received an interim increase of $72.4 million.

GNP Up; Economy Surging Ahead

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's economy is surging ahead at a 6.6 percent annual rate, the strongest gross national product performance in more than two years, the government projected today.

The GNP projection, which the Commerce Department derives from tentative data midway through the April-June quarter, is the first confirmation the economic recovery has grown stronger than was expected only a few weeks ago.

The department also revised slightly its estimate of the economy's rate of growth during the first three months of this year to a 2.6 percent annual rate of improvement. Earlier, it had estimated a 2.5 percent rate for the first quarter.

Economists generally consider a sustained growth rate of between 3 percent and 5 percent necessary to shrink the unemployment rate, running at 10.1 percent in May.

If the 6.6 percent projection holds when the second quarter's figures are all in, it will have been the best three months for the economy since the 7.9 percent rate of improvement at the beginning of 1981.

That recovery from the recession damage of 1980 did not last. By the summer of 1981 another recession began, pulling the economy below its 1980 bottom in an erosion of jobs and earnings that did not relent until December.

This time, the recovery is far more broadly based and private analysts agree with administration economists that only an unexpected, drastic resurgence of interest rates could turn the improvement off.

Chase Econometrics economist David Cross said the second quarter GNP surge is "mainly a function of improved consumption and finally a turnaround in inventory investment. These are very positive signs for the recovery. We are quite optimistic."

The department also revised upward its previous reading of corporate profits in the January-March quarter to show a 4.4 percent decline after taxes, slightly better than the previously reported 4.6 percent.

Revenge Killing Leaves Seven Syrian Troops Dead

United Press International

Seven Syrian soldiers were killed in an ambush on a military convoy near Tripoli, sparking a new round of street fighting today in Lebanon's second largest city between rival Muslim militiamen.

Syrian troops scaled off Tripoli, a port city 42 miles north of Beirut, after the Monday ambush by closing roads leading to the city.

The violence in Tripoli, pitting pro-Syrian Alawite Muslim militiamen against anti-Syrian Sunni Muslim gunmen, broke out in Monday evening and gained intensity through the night into early today.

The Syrian convoy came under attack eight miles south of Tripoli, apparently in retaliation for the massacre of 16 people in Tripoli last week by Syrian-supported Alawite militiamen.

Police said seven Syrian soldiers were killed but security sources said as many as 20 soldiers may have died in the attack. Earlier Monday, three Syrian soldiers were wounded when their ammunition truck was raked by machine-gun fire.

Israel Blamed In Massacre

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — The Lebanese government has blamed Israel for the massacre of hundreds of Palestinian civilians at two Beirut refugee camps last year.

The military prosecutor's office, in an official inquiry report issued Monday, said 460 people died in the Sept. 16-18 slaughter at the Sabra and Chatilla refugee camps south of Beirut.

The report said "the Israeli forces held the full legal responsibility of what happened inside the camps."

Christian Phalange militiamen have been widely accused of carrying out the slaughter, although Israeli military officials helped coordinate their entry into the camps, purportedly to clear out suspected terrorists.

United Way Sets Record Goal: $450,000

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

The board of directors of United Way of Seminole County has set a $450,000 goal for its 1983 fund raising campaign — the highest in the organization's history.

Meeting today at the Holiday Inn in Sanford, the board approved five new agencies and accepted the budget recommended by the budget committee, which met Monday. Budget requests from the various agencies were heard all last week.

Bob Wallick, executive director of the county's United Way, said this was the largest number of new agencies ever accepted by the organization at one time.

Chosen from nine new agencies which applied were: the Jewish Community Center, Maitland; Seminole Work Opportunity Program (SWOP), Sanford; the Legal Aid of Seminole County Bar Association, Casselberry; Information and Referral, Orlando; and Lighthouse Youth Ranch, Geneva.

Wallick would not release the amount allocated each agency until the agencies were notified, but said the new agencies will receive only token amounts for the first year.

"It will be nowhere near what they requested, but the important fact is they are included and after the first year will be reviewed and probably receive an amount closer to their needs," he said.

Practically all of the other 20 agencies already included in the United Way budget will receive increases over last year's allocation.

Last year's campaign goal was $338,000, but the amount pledged was approximately $380,000.

Chairman of this year's campaign is Sharyn Dickerson and the deputy campaign chairman is Lou Whitney, vice president of Stromberg-Carlson Corp. The kick-off for the drive is scheduled for Sept. 27 aboard the new "Star of Sanford" cruise boat which is supposed to arrive in Sanford later this summer. The victory dinner is set for Oct. 27 at Lord Chumley's Pub in Altamonte Springs.

Wallick said he hopes to set up agency tours for interested groups this year to acquaint them with the work of the United Way agencies.

"This will be a hard campaign and this year more than ever before agencies will be required to participate actively in the drive to help get better coverage," he said. "We need campaign volunteers."

Move Of Principals Considered

School Roofer Wants His Pay

By Michael Beha
Herald Staff Writer

A contractor who claims the Seminole County School Board owes him $1,655.92 for reroofing work at Oviedo High School plans to ask the board for the money at a Wednesday meeting.

Greg Wallick, vice president of GRI Inc. of Casselberry, said the board reneged on a verbal contract between the contractor, an architect from the Cox Partnership of Orlando and a district building inspector.

Wallick said his workers discovered an unexpected situation while working on the school roof on April 1.

Flashing under the roof had deteriorated leaving the threat of permanent water damage to the building. In order to correct the problem, Wallick said, he contacted the architect on the project. After the architect, Steven Ashwell, and building inspector, Hugh Carlton, examined the situation, Wallick was verbally authorized to make the additional repairs.

The repairs were made before a change order from the School Board authorizing the extra work was approved by the board. The change order was rejected by the School Board May 11.

GRI has already received $339,269, including another $10,000 change order, for the reroofing project.

Assistant Superintendent for Facilities and Transportation Benny Arnold said he cannot recommend approval of the change order because the request was filed after the changes were made.

Superintendent Robert Hughes is meeting today with several principals to discuss possible reassignments. Hughes said his recommendations on personnel actions would be revealed at Wednesday's board meeting.

As many as eight changes in the assignments of principals and assistant principals could be made, School Board sources said. Five assistant principals and another principal are being considered for the principal positions at Casselberry and Winter Springs elementary schools.

The board is also expected to approve the appointment of Timothy Seibert as assistant principal at Keith Elementary School near Winter Springs.

Seibert, 37, of 1105 Dappled Elm Lane, Winter Springs, is currently serving as a district-wide elementary administrative trainee. Prior to that he was a teacher at South Side Elementary School in Sanford from 1974 to 1981.

Seibert will be joining the staff of David Sawyer, the principal of the new school. Sawyer was formerly principal at Winter Springs Elementary School and was one of Seibert's references.

In addition to Seibert's appointment, the School Board is expected to approve the transfer of eight teachers from Winter Springs to Keith. Those teachers are Rebecca Crabtree, Benna Croft, Barbara Laing, Ruth Markham, Janice Papp, Sharyne Smith, Vicki Taylor and Anita White.

Transfers are also being requested for Barbara Hickson, from food service manager at large to food service manager at Keith, and Linda Shull, from FTE clerk at Winter Springs to FTE clerk at Keith.

Draft Registration Not Required For Federal Student Aid

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — Young men will not have to register for the draft to collect student financial aid because they would be forced to incriminate themselves, a U.S. district judge said.

Neil Koslowe, special assistant attorney general, had asked for a stay of an injunction against a new federal law pending an appeal. Koslowe said last week the Justice Department would appeal directly to the U.S. Supreme Court.

U.S. District Judge Donald Alsop ruled Monday the government failed to prove the draft registration program would suffer irreparable harm if his injunction overturning the law goes into effect. The law was scheduled to go into effect July 1.

He said the law violates the Fifth Amendment of the U.S. Constitution because it would force men to incriminate themselves when applying for federal aid. It requires all males to register for the draft within 60 days before or 30 days after their 18th birthday or risk prosecution.

The Minnesota Civil Liberties Union filed suit on behalf of three anonymous Minnesota students who said they had not registered and would be denied financial aid for college this fall unless the law was overturned or changed.

Amy Silberberg, MCLU legal counsel, said the group was "extremely pleased" with Alsop's actions. She said the court affirmed the MCLU's claims the law violated protections against self-incrimination, and that denial of student aid for non-registration would have punished students who had not been convicted of a crime.

Seniors To Discuss Banking

The Senior Citizen Committee of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce will meet at 8:30 a.m. Thursday at the chamber building at 400 E. First St.

A film on "Special Banking for the Protection of Senior Funds" will be presented by Janice Springfield, vice president of Flagship Bank of Seminole.

Coffee Linked To Harmful Cholesterol Levels

BOSTON (UPI) — Drinking half a dozen cups of coffee every day could increase amounts of harmful cholesterol in the blood and double the risk of a heart attack, according to a Norwegian study.

People living in northern Norway who drank more than nine cups of coffee daily had cholesterol levels 14 percent higher than those who did not drink coffee, said the study in the New England Journal of Medicine.

Researchers at the University of Tromsø, Norway, studied 14,581 people living in the coastal municipality of Tromsø. They said they were surprised by their finding that levels of harmful cholesterol increased with each cup of coffee consumed.

"The association is strong and consistent and its magnitude makes coffee one of the strongest determinants of serum cholesterol in the present population," they wrote in the New England Journal of Medicine.

"The magnitude of the cholesterol-raising effect, which suggests at least a two-fold increase in the risk of coronary heart disease, warrants further investigation," they said.

The study, which took into account age, weight, physical activity, cigarette smoking and alcohol consumption, found an inconsistent pattern in levels of a good type of cholesterol.

U.S. studies have had contradictory findings on the subject.

Two studies by the Boston Collaborative Drug Surveillance Program also found people who drank more than six cups of coffee per day had a two times greater risk of heart attack than people who did not drink coffee.

But the Framingham (Mass.) Heart Study Group — the U.S. counterpart to the Tromsø study — found coffee drinking does not increase cholesterol levels or heart attack risk.

"I would say that in the United States ... we have not been able to find a relationship between coffee drinking and heart attack, and that's the bottom line," said Dr. William P. Castelli, director of the decades-old study.

Castelli said the new findings may be explained by a Norwegian tradition of eating certain types of very rich foods with coffee. High cholesterol levels are linked to a diet high in animal fat and dairy products.

Scandinavians drink twice as much coffee per capita as Americans, the Norwegian researchers said.

They said adding cream or sugar to coffee does not explain the findings because 80 percent of the people in the area studied drank black coffee. They said perhaps a substance in the coffee affected cholesterol levels.

That substance may be related to how the coffee is brewed, they said. Most Norwegians drink a strong, boiled coffee, whereas many Americans drink drip, instant or decaffeinated coffee.

The Norwegian researchers also said a prevailing belief that coffee is not bad for you and may actually have a beneficial effect — as pointed out at the 1982 London Marathon where participants were served a free cup of coffee before the race — must be carefully examined.

"Whatever short-term effect coffee may have on endurance, the fact is that coffee consumption has long attracted attention as a potential health hazard," they wrote.

Hot Spring Of Unrest In Paris

Right-wing students, cafe owners, hairdressers, small businessmen and farmers are all demonstrating in the streets of Paris to protest policies of the socialist government of French President Francois Mitterrand.

Once again cobblestones, bloodied by clashes with police during the student and worker rebellion of May 1968, are being torn from the streets of the Latin Quarter and hurled at police, who are striking back with truncheons.

But this time the angry students are not leftists, protesting the social condition of French workers, but rightists, protesting more stringent test requirements in French universities.

This time the government is not the conservative regime of President Charles de Gaulle, the figure who dominated postwar France, but the first socialist government to be elected since the brief socialist coalition of Leon Blum in 1936.

An estimated 30,000 small businessmen marched through the streets of Paris recently to call for an end to the austerity policies of Mitterrand's new economic plan. Price controls and travel restrictions were imposed by Mitterrand after the franc fell on the international exchanges. Mitterrand raised taxes and imposed currency export controls to diminish unemployment and ease inflation, which are hobbling the French economy, swept up in the international recession. The socialists want to shift the economic burden from the working class to the upper class. Small businessmen are protesting a reduction in their standard of living.

Farmers released a herd of sheep into the streets of Paris to show their anger over new price controls imposed on their products by the European Common Market. Mitterrand is not directly responsible for the price controls in the Common Market, but he is an internationalist, supporting the Common Market against narrow provincialists.

Mitterrand was traveling in China when the protests broke out. Bloody fights between protesters and police, arrests of more than 50 people and demonstrations at the Eiffel Tower and in other French cities are all escalating the crisis.

In 1968, the French government acceded to student and worker demands and granted a pay increase to French workers. In 1969 de Gaulle resigned, partly because of criticism for his handling of the protests. Mitterrand faces similar dangers from Paris' hot springtime of 1983.

America should react now as it reacted then, with concern for our ally but with respect for France's sovereign right to deal with its domestic problems. Although a socialist, with communists in minor posts in his Cabinet, Mitterrand is a staunch supporter of the Atlantic alliance and has brought France's foreign policy closer in line to America's than the Independent Gaullists. Mitterrand is no knee-jerk leftist but a pragmatic and literate leader, steeped in the humanist tradition, who fought against the Nazi occupation as a member of the French underground. He expelled 47 Soviet spies last month.

The French tradition of street-protest goes back as far as the Revolution of 1789. But the democratic tradition started two centuries ago is strong in France. Government coalition may be carried away in the tumbrels, but democracy will endure.

JEFFREY HART Hispanics Favor Reagan

A great deal has been written lately about Reagan's 1984 weakness among black voters.

This remained relatively stable over the last four presidential elections, it mattering little whether the Democratic nominee was Hubert Humphrey, George McGovern, or Jimmy Carter, or whether the Republicans put out Nixon, Ford, or Reagan. The GOP got around 10 percent whatever it did.

In the wake of black mayoral victories in Atlantic, Chicago, and Philadelphia, however, a new wave of black political consciousness is being projected, and vastly increased black registration.

Not much noticed, however, and potentially offsetting all of this, is the Reagan opportunity among Hispanics of the Sun Belt states (though he does less well among Hispanics in the older Northern cities). In his California gubernatorial races, Reagan always ran strongly among the Hispanics of the southern part of the state, and current polling shows the shape of his 1984 opportunity and the kinds of appeal that are needed to exploit it.

A poll conducted in 1982 by the Miami-based Stratgy Research Corporation of Miami examined attitudes in 1,000 Hispanic households in Miami, New York, Los Angeles, San Antonio and Chicago and found a sharp contrast with attitudes current among black voters. Although 39 percent of the Hispanics thought the Democrats would manage the economy better, 30 percent picked the Republicans — and this at the depths of the recent recession.

Other polls provide fascinating information concerning the Hispanic political profile. In a worldwide survey conducted by the Center for Applied Research, a Catholic organization, U.S. Hispanics showed up rightward of other ethnic groups in the U.S. Abroad, among 18 groups polled, only white South Africans showed up as more conservative than Hispanics. In a May poll taken by the Dallas News, 52 percent of Hispanic respondents classified themselves as conservative or leaning conservative. San Antonio's Democratic Mayor Cisneros thinks that as Hispanics emerge into the mainstream of American politics "They will be Democrats but conservative..." and will be pro-growth, pro-industry, socially conservative people who adhere to traditional values centered on family, religion, their own cultural heritage, and a patriotic attachment to the American system.

Among Hispanic voters of the Sun Belt, Reagan's relatively tough stand on Central America is a large political plus. A 50-30 majority of Hispanic voters agree with Reagan that El Salvador is vital to American security, other Americans splitting 38-41 the other way, according to a May poll by the Los Angeles Times, and support for Reagan's Latin policies is probably strongest in the Sun Belt because of the Hispanic presence there. According to former Florida state Democratic chairman Alfredo Duran, "The Republicans are strong and gaining strength because of the South American and Central American problems."

Fired Doctor Continues His Probe

After being fired as health director of Jefferson County, Colo., for blowing the whistle on the government's nearby Rocky Flats plutonium processing plant, Dr. Carl Johnson has continued to pursue his investigations — even using $18,000 of his own retirement money when federal funds dried up.

Johnson found that unusually high rates of cancer — 24 percent higher in males and 10 percent higher in females — were linked to release of plutonium into the atmosphere by the plant. Recently, he discovered that infant mortality rates in the Denver area were as high as 57 percent above normal in the early 1980s. The increase in infant deaths corresponded to releases of plutonium at Rocky Flats.

At least two members of the county health board that fired Johnson had reason to be unhappy over his charges against Rocky Flats. One owned a chemical plant that stood to get business from the nuclear bomb facility; the other owned investment property within a mile of the plant that would have been worthless if Rocky Flats became known as a radioactive graveyard.

The National Cancer Institute funded part of Johnson's research, but that money ran out last December. His reports to federal agencies have gone unanswered. "They just pass it off," he said. "They probably think I will go away."

A permanent manned space station could be part of President Reagan's "star wars" plan to foil Soviet missiles with laser beams in the stratosphere. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has asked for $14 million in fiscal 1984 to investigate the possibilities of a permanent orbiting platform that could house up to 10 astronauts.

The Pentagon has already awarded contracts to such heavyweight contractors as Rockwell, TRW, Martin Marietta and Grumman, to study the feasibility of new weapons designed with the idea that they might be launched from a space station. Military planners are also hard at work developing a laser-based "killer satellite." Though the primary purpose of NASA's manned

ROBERT WALTERS Too Much Integrity

WASHINGTON (NEA) — John R. Evans must be doing something right. Two consecutive presidents have requested reappointing him to a seat on the Securities and Exchange Commission because of his extraordinary independence and integrity.

A soft-spoken Utah Republican whose impeccable character has made him something of a folk hero among Washington insiders, Evans was first nominated to be one of five members of the SEC in 1973 by President Nixon.

When Evans' initial five-year term expired in 1978, however, President Carter stalled for an entire year before reluctantly reappointing him to a second term.

That term expired on June 5 of this year — and President Reagan appears to be equally hesitant about reappointing to a third term the 50-year-old Evans, recently described by one observer as "the conscience of the SEC."

During the bitter and protracted re-nomination controversy five years ago, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., wrote to the White House urging that Evans be retained on the commission, then deftly summarized the nature of the opposition.

The securities industry mounted a "blatant and vicious campaign" against Evans, Proxmire explained, because he had "taken the securities laws too seriously" and had "failed to represent the interests of the industry."

Evans currently is experiencing similar problems because he refuses to shill for the industry he is supposed to be regulating. For example, one SEC staff member describes him as "a true conservative when it comes to the law-and-order enforcement applied to the business community."

Thus, Evans was the only member of the commission to support the SEC's enforcement staff in its recommendation that the agency initiate legal action against Citicorp, one of the nation's largest bank holding companies, because of its allegedly improper foreign currency exchange practices. Similarly, Evans has been a champion of the small investors who are increasingly vulnerable to fraud in the financial marketplace because the commission, under the direction of Chairman John S.R. Shad, has used the guise of deregulation to methodically de-emphasize oversight of corporate abuses.

"I am not a representative of big business," a defensive Shad recently told one interviewer. But the former vice chairman of E.F. Hutton & Co. clearly does not share Evans' concern about illegal and unethical corporate behavior.

Indeed, Shad has been quietly but zealously promoting his own candidate to replace Evans. The chairman's choice is Charles C. Cox, hand-picked by Shad earlier to fill the specially created post of chief economist at the SEC.

Cox, however, is an academician (the former taught at Texas A&M University and Ohio State University) who has no prior experience in securities industry regulation. Two Reagan appointees to the SEC reportedly have warned the White House that his selection would be disastrous.

After appearing at the movie's Washington premiere, Reeve attended a White House benefit for the Special Olympics — where a similar torch was lit. This time, he held his breath. The actor had high praise for President Reagan, whom he has criticized in the past. The president, he said, was "utterly charming, took an interest in everything, was totally aware."

At the same benefit, Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., kept a low profile. Though he is president of the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Foundation, which sponsors the handicapped olympics, the senator did not share the stage with the Reagans and his sister, Eunice Kennedy Shriver. Asked about this, brother-in-law Sargent Shriver explained that "we were trying to compress and wanted to have a short program." Besides, he said, "Teddy had given a big speech" on behalf of the Special Olympics earlier that afternoon.

Olford's Gaffe: Master of Ceremonies Frank Olford referred to the Reagans as "Mr. and Mrs. President."

Shame, Mr. President

You must read the decision in Bob Jones vs. the United States to understand how surely, clearly, firmly and absolutely the Supreme Court rejected the Reagan administration's approach to civil rights. The court scolded the president as if to say: "Shame, Mr. President. Shame on you!"

"The eight evil old men and one sane and foolish woman" (that solicited phrase comes from the Christian soul of the Rev. Bob Jones Jr.) made it plain for everyone to see: Racial discrimination is contrary to the public policy of the United States; government actions that support racial discrimination are illegal.

The Reagan administration had disagreed on both counts. The Rev. Jones did not read the 8-1 decision and had not counted the votes for and against his position that God intended certain Bible college administrators to forbid enrollment to single black students between 1971-1975. When God changed his mind and permitted unmarried blacks to receive an education at Bob Jones University, he caused the school's administration to write student rules forbidding interracial dating.

For Jones, theology seems to celebrate popular sexual legends. His grasp of American history and legal theory rests on an equally low plain with that of Ronald Reagan — the president who ordered his Department of Justice to reverse 25 years of consistent public policy opposing racial discrimination. The Supreme Court told the president he was as wrong as wrong can be.

The case began — as it ended — in a Washington, D.C., courtroom.

In January 1970, the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia issued a preliminary injunction forbidding the Internal Revenue Service from giving tax-exempt status to private schools in Mississippi that refused to admit black students.

In July 1970, the IRS decided it could "no longer legally justify allowing tax-exempt status to private schools which practiced racial discrimination."

In November 1970, the IRS sent private schools — including Bob Jones University — formal notice of the change in policy "applicable to private schools in the United States at all levels of education."

Bob Jones University, in Greenville, S.C., refused to admit black students until 1971, based on its interpretation of the Bible. Biblical reinterpretation in 1971 permitted the admission of blacks who were married to other blacks. Yet another reinterpretation in 1975 allowed the admission of unmarried blacks. But a campus rule forbids interracial dating.

In April 1975, the IRS told Bob Jones University of the proposed revocation of its tax-exempt status. In January 1976, the tax exemption was revoked, effective Dec. 1, 1970, the day after the university was notified of the change in IRS policy.

Bob Jones University then paid taxes of $21 on one employee's earnings for calendar year 1975 and asked for a refund. When the $21 refund was denied the university filed suit. The United States countered for the school's unpaid federal unemployment taxes from 1971 to 1975, plus interest.

If young Bob Jones (his father founded the university and gave it his name) was surprised by the results, the court made it clear for everyone else. For more than 100 years, the court said, America's law protected charitable gifts "provided the same is consistent with local law and public policy."

The court reminded President Reagan and Attorney General William French Smith (who should have known better) what United States public policy is: "...as every pronouncement of this court and myriad acts of Congress and executive orders attest: a firm national policy to prohibit racial segregation and discrimination in public education."

"The government interest at stake here," the court said to President Reagan, "is compelling."

The president had said there "was no basis in law to deny Bob Jones University tax-exemption." Shame Mr. President. Shame!

Knights of Columbus pitcher David Rape was the main reason manager Al Whitted's Junior League team captured the second-half title and earned a spot in the City Series beginning Wednesday against Rotary. Rape, who joined the team late because he was playing for Crooms High, finished with a 5-0 pitching record and a league-leading .543 batting average. The Knights and Rotary battle at 7 p.m. Wednesday at Chase Park in the first game of a best 2 out of 3 series.

Miller Tops Rotary For 3rd Time, 13-5; City Series On Tap

Terry "The Cat" Miller beat Rotary for the third time in a row Monday night in the final regular season game of the Sanford Junior League at Chase Park. Miller hurled a three-hitter (he previously pitched a three-hitter and a no-hitter against Rotary) as Moose galloped to a 13-5 rout of the first-half champs.

Moose finished at 8-2 for the second half and had the best overall record in the league at 15-5. Rotary fell to 9-6 in the second half after winning the first half with a 9-1 record. Rotary and Knights of Columbus will meet for the City Championship with the first game this Wednesday night at Chase Park.

In Monday's second game, Kiwanis won by forfeit when Elks did not have enough players. Kiwanis finished at 7-3 for the second half and 14-6 overall. Elks dropped to 1-8 for the second half and 2-17 overall. Six of the last eight Junior League games were forfeits.

Rotary took an early lead with two runs in the top of the first inning. Bobby Bew led off with a single, went to second on a wild pitch, stole third and scored on Eddie Korgan's RBI groundout. With two outs, Craig Dixon drew a walk, stole second, and scored when Miller's pick-off attempt was wild.

Rotary's lead was short-lived, however, as Moose erupted for seven runs in the bottom of the second inning on no hits. Rotary starter Ron Blake walked four straight batters to lead off the second and forced in the first Moose run. John Lewis then lifted a sacrifice fly to center to chase home the second run and Gary Derr walked to reload the bases. Blake walked the next batter, hit the next batter and walked two more as Moose took a 7-2 lead, all the runs it needed to get by Rotary.

Rotary pulled to within three runs, 7-4, with a pair of runs in the top of the third. Perez Perry drew a walk, stole both second and third, and scored when Korgan singled. Korgan stole second and eventually scored on a wild pitch.

Moose padded its lead to five runs, 9-4, with two tallies in the bottom of the fourth and added four runs in the bottom of the fifth to ice the victory. Oscar Merthle led Moose at the plate as he went 2 for 2 with three RBI and four stolen bases. Miller and David Goldstick added two RBI apiece. Miller struck out five and walked seven in raising his record to 9-4.

Bew, Blake and Korgan had the only hits for Rotary while Korgan collected a pair of RBI. Blake also stole four bases.

Oviedo—Altamonte Seniors Meet Tonight

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

The rivalry is finally set. Mike Schmit and Mike Pinckes each cracked home runs and Sandy Hovis turned in a sparkling relief performance Monday night as the Altamonte Phillies upended Lady Lake, 6-4, in the Senior League Top Team Division II Tournament at Eustis. And, Oviedo used a solid relief job by Dave Wood to upend Southwest Volusia, 13-8, in DeLand to set up tonight's Seminole County matchup.

Altamonte will battle Oviedo tonight at 7:30 in the losers' bracket final at DeLand. The winner of tonight's game goes up against unbeaten Eustis in the final on Wednesday night in Eustis. Oviedo or Altamonte must beat Eustis twice for the title. Altamonte manager Gene Letterio said he will probably go with Schmit on the mound tonight, while Oviedo manager Tommy Ferguson will counter with ace Craig Duncan.

Altamonte got on the board first with a pair of runs in the top of the second off Lady Lake starter Ron Fields. Bill Henley and Pat Luak drew consecutive walks. Sean Casterline then bounced a grounder to second, but Henley beat the second baseman's throw home and, when the throw got by the catcher, Luak raced home with the second run and a 2-0 Altamonte lead.

The Lakers rebounded with two runs in the bottom of the second to knot the score at 2-2. With one out, Odell Sanders and Terry Hagen both walked and Sanders scored on a single by Benjie Sikes. Hagen scored on the same play as the relay to home was bobbled by the Altamonte cutoff man.

The Phillies needed only one swing to take back the lead in the top of the third as Mike Schmit led off by blasting an O-2 pitch over the fence in right center.

Scrappy Lady Lake came back to tie the score at 3-3 in the bottom of the third. Fields walked to lead off and stole second. Jimmy Lucas followed with an RBI single, knocking Altamonte starter Henley out of the game as Hovis came on in relief. Hovis, who relies on a wicked curve ball, got out of the third inning jam with help from Pinckes, the catcher, who threw out Lucas trying to steal second.

After a scoreless fourth inning, the Phillies took a 5-3 lead with a pair of runs in the top of the fifth. Pinckes led off with a solo homer that hit the scoreboard in right center to put the Phillies up by one. With one out, Henley drew a walk, stole second and scored on a single off the bat of Casterline.

The Phillies added a run in the sixth to take a 6-3 lead. With one out, Schmit unloaded a double to right and Pinckes followed with an RBI single knocking Fields out of the game in favor of relief pitcher Sikes.

Lady Lake came back with one run in the bottom of the sixth, but it was not enough as the Lakers went home with its second loss of the tourney. Lucas scored the run for the Lakers on an RBI double by Tev Vaughan.

Hovis got the victory in relief as he went four-plus innings, allowing only one run on three hits while striking out five and walking just two. Fields took the loss for Lady Lake.

Birle, Ganci Lead Indians' Massacre

Majors

Alex Birle hurled a two-hitter and Tony Ganci hammered a grand-slam home run as the Altamonte Indians buried St. Johns, 12-1, in District 14, Division 2 Top Tournament play at Oviedo.

Tonight at 7:30 at Orange City, manager Don Birle's Indians take on Maitland, which disposed of DeLeon Springs Monday night at Altamonte.

"Birle pitched a real good game. He threw real hard," said Altamonte coach Kelly Waincott about his righthander's nine-strikeout effort.

The Indians gave Birle all the runs he needed in the first inning. Joseph Diffrancesco walked to open the frame and Birle was hit by a pitch. Todd Christensen followed with a double to chase home the first run and Kent Brubaker walked to fill the bases. Ganci then slugged the ball over the center-field fence to a 5-1 lead.

Altamonte made it 6-1 in the second when Diffrancesco walked, moved to second on a passed ball and scored on a single by Christensen. In the third, 10-year-old William Thompson reached on a fielder's choice and came around to score when Kevin Waincott reached on an error.

Four more runs in the fourth put the game away. Diffrancesco singled and stole second. Birle singled him. Christensen and Brubaker walked to load the bases and Ganci drove in his fifth run with a fielder's choice. Raulson Morninglane reached on an error and Brian Lovett followed with an RBI single.

In the sixth, Waincott singled home a run after walks to Sean Lanagan and Lovett.

Unassuming Nelson Is Just $70,000 Richer With Victory

OAKMONT, Pa. (UPI) — Quiet, unassuming Larry Nelson is $70,000 richer, a lot more confident about his abilities and, no doubt, a lot more respected by the golfing public after winning the 63rd U.S. Open championship in a rain-suspended showdown with defending champion Tom Watson.

But, as far as the 35-year-old Nelson is concerned, the confidence he gained Monday with his one-stroke victory and with his spectacular final two rounds of 10-under-par golf — an Open record — is the only prize that really matters.

"I think this win is going to help me going into other tournaments, knowing I do have a mental game as well as a physical game," Nelson, of Marietta, Ga., said minutes after he won the twice-suspended Open with a four-round total of 4-under-par 280 on the Oakmont Country Club course, soaked by rains that suspended play Sunday.

"These may be the smartest two rounds I ever played," he said.

The U.S. Open title was Nelson's second victory in one of golf's four major tournaments. His first was the PGA championship in 1981 — the only major Watson has not won. The Masters and the British Open also are considered majors.

Nelson also has finished among the top 15 money winners in three of the previous four years, including a No. 2 finish in 1979.

Yet Nelson has never been considered one of the giants of the PGA Tour, a situation Nelson said he would like to see happen but wouldn't worry if it didn't.

"I care about my reputation, but it's your responsibility," he told reporters at his post-tourney news conference.

If his victory speech sounds a trifle low-key, that's because it was. Nelson, who broke out of a long slump during the Open, showed emotion only once during the entire tournament.

That was when he hit the 62-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole to take the lead for good over Watson Monday.

At first, Nelson stood calmly on the green, watching the ball roll. But as the ball crept nearer to the hole, he started to walk after it. Then, as he realized the ball was going to drop in, Nelson broke into a run that ended with a joyous skip to the edge of the cup.

"All I wanted to do was get the ball to within three or four feet of the pin so I could make the next putt for par," Nelson said. "When I realized the ball was the right speed and was going to go in, I couldn't just stand there and wait. I'd been standing there a few minutes already — or at least it seemed like it."

The rest of the time Nelson played like he was unconscious and tuned into some sort of inner radar system connecting him with all the right spots on the course.

"I think the last two or three rounds I didn't have a lot of emotions," Nelson said. "I just felt a lot of peace. I knew I was playing well, extremely well. I couldn't wait to go to the next tee."

22 Bases On Balls Lift Bears Past Altamonte

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Altamonte's Junior League entry in the opening round of the Top Team Tournament swings the ball pretty well. And the Astros are a superb fielding team. But when it comes time for manager Terry Hagen's Astros to throw the ball across the plate, these guys couldn't find the strike zone with a search light.

Three Altamonte hurlers served up 22 bases on balls as the Astros played giveaway, dropping a 15-13 decision to the West Oak Ridge Bears Monday night at Eastmonte Field in Altamonte Springs.

Altamonte starter Jeff Hagen gave an omen of what was to be in the first inning. After striking out the first hitter, the 12-year-old left-hander walked the next four hitters to force in a run, at one point tossing 10 straight wild ones.

When Hagen finally threw a strike, Brian Murray drilled it down the right-field line to drive in another run for a 2-0 lead. He then walked the next hitter, hit the next in the back and followed up with two more bases on balls to give West Oak Ridge a 6-0 lead.

In the meantime, the Astros' bats cranked up. Five runs in the bottom of the third quickly made it a game again. Centerfielder Chris Brock hammered a two-run double to drive in two and Green reached on an error to score Brock. Ernest Martinez and Ricky Parent followed with shots to left center for doubles to drive in two more.

Juniors

An inning later, Altamonte went up, 10-6. Shawn Hester took a pitch in the helmet to start the rally. Hagen singled up the middle and Eric Martinez walked to load the bases. Brock struck again with a single to left for two runs and a 7-6 lead. Green then singled home Brock and scored moments later on a wild pitch for the fifth run.

Hagen's control problems resurfaced in the fifth inning and manager Terry Hagen finally summoned Brock from center to put out the rally. He was close to doing that when Stacy Webster ripped a bases-loaded double to score three to deep left center. After five, the game was knotted at 10-10.

In the sixth, Brock walked five of the first six hitters he faced before Hagen hooked him in favor of Eric Martinez. Martinez walked a batter and then hit another before Webster drove a single to left which chased home the fourth and fifth runs of the inning.

Today at 5:30, the Astros (travel to West Oak Ridge) to play the loser of Monday's Pine Hills-Apopka game in the double-elimination tournament.

Burris Shuts Out Phillies

United Press International

Ray Burris figures he did enough losing during the off-season — 30 pounds worth.

Burris reaped the benefits of an intense off-season workout program Monday night at Montreal when he pitched the Expos to a 5-0 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

A three-hitter by Burris — his first complete game of the season — topped Phillies ace Steve Carlton and moved the Expos into sole possession of first place in the NL East.

"Everything in the past is behind me," said Burris, 32. "This is a new year and I am a changed pitcher. I worked hard all winter to get myself into shape, and in doing so I lost 30 pounds."

Burris, 32, finished last year with a 4-14 mark. "I'm a different person, even out on the mound," he said. "I just stand there and challenge the batter."

Burris added the 6-foot-5 Burris. "My fast ball was really popping tonight."

Andre Dawson led the Montreal offense with three RBI, giving him 52 RBI for the season. He had run-scoring singles in the first and fifth innings and a solo homer in the seventh.

Tim Lincecum opened the game with a sharp single to left, stole second and came home on Dawson's first single. Raines stole two bases to run his season's total to 24. He also turned in two defensive gems, robbing Pete Rose of a hit with a lunging catch and climbing the wall to take an extra-base hit away from Ozzie Virgil, Jr.

Braves 7, Astros 1

At Houston, Glen Hubbard hit a grand slam and Chris Chambliss knocked in three runs with a double and a single to support the four-hit pitching of Pete Falcone and lead Atlanta. The victory stopped a four-game Braves' losing streak. Chambliss delivered a second inning double off loser Vern Riffe, 1-3, to stake the Braves to a 1-0 lead and added a two-run single in the fourth to help Falcone to his fifth victory in six decisions.

Cardinals 3-4, Mets 1-8

At New York, Keith Hernandez' two-run homer in the first inning and Mookie Wilson's two-run double in the second powered the Mets to a split. In the opener, Kevin Hagen scattered eight hits over seven innings and Bruce Sutter collected his sixth save in leading the Cardinals.

Pirates 5-0, Cubs 4-5

At Pittsburgh, Marvell Wynne's line drive single to center with one out in the 13th inning scored Dale Berra from third base to give Pittsburgh a sweep. In the opener, pinch hitter Richie Hebner led off the bottom of the 10th inning with a home run to give the Pirates a 5-4 triumph.

Padres 4, Dodgers 1

At Los Angeles, Sixto Lezcano collected three straight hits and scored twice to lead San Diego behind the combined four-hit pitching of Ed Whitson and John Montefusco. Whitson, 2-4, allowed three hits over eight innings and was replaced by Montefusco after walking the first batter in the ninth. Montefusco got the last three outs to record his second save. Los Angeles starter Jerry Reuss, 6-6, took the loss.

Giants 4, Reds 3

At San Francisco, Jeff Leonard's two-out single in the 10th inning scored Darrell Evans and lifted San Francisco. Evans singled to right with one out and stole second with two out. After Chili Davis was intentionally walked by Ted Power, 1-4, Leonard singled off the left field fence to make a winner of Greg Minton, 2-3, who pitched the final inning.

Blue Jays 2, Twins 1

Johnny Bench hit for the ball once, but Lloyd Moseby wasn't bitten. After all, Moseby reasoned that you can't expect an old bulldog like Ron Davis to resort to new tricks.

Davis tried to make Moseby fall for the old fake intentional walk stunt in the ninth inning Monday night, but it backfired when Moseby lined a single off the relief pitcher's hand to score Ernie Whitt with the run that gave the Toronto Blue Jays a 2-1 triumph over the Minnesota Twins.

Red Sox 6, Indians 3

At Boston, Jim Rice belted a two-run homer and Tony Armas added a solo shot to pace a 12-hit attack that carried the Red Sox. Rice, who entered the game tied for the AL lead in homers with 15, smashed his 16th of the season in the fourth inning with Dwight Evans aboard to give Boston a 6-0 lead. It was the sixth homer in the last 17 games for Rice, who has 44 RBI.

Tigers 4, Brewers 1

Dave Rozema, unbeaten in seven decisions since August of 1981, allowed two hits over 7 1/3 innings in pitching the Tigers to victory. Rozema retired 22 of the 24 batters he faced and struck out a career high seven before tiring and asking to be removed.

White Sox 7, Mariners 3

At Chicago, rookie Greg Walker's three-run homer in the fifth inning snapped a 3-3 tie and sparked the White Sox. LaMar Hoyt, 8-7, pitched a six-hitter in helping Chicago win its sixth game in its last eight starts. He struck out a career high nine and walked one in pitching his fourth complete game of the year.

A's 7, Royals 2

At Kansas City, Mo., Jeff Burroughs knocked in three runs with a single and his fifth homer to support the six-hit pitching of Bill Krueger and give the A's a victory. Krueger, making the jump this season from Class AA to the major leagues, walked five and struck out one to improve his record to 6-5 with his second complete game of the year.

Angels 10, Rangers 9

At Arlington, Texas, Doug DeCinces' double down the left field line with two out in the top of the 13th inning scored Rick Adams with the run that gave the Angels their victory. California scored seven unearned runs in the contest and the Angels also committed two errors in the 10th that allowed the Rangers to score twice and send the game into extra innings.

Carol Cavalluzzi Bride Of Jeffrey D. Patton

Carol Cavalluzzi and Jeffrey Dale Patton are announcing their marriage today. They exchanged vows on April 9, at 3 p.m., at St. Mary Magdalen Church, Altamonte Springs.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Cavalluzzi of Casselberry. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Herbert D. Patton, 800 Rosalia Drive, Sanford.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride chose for her vows a formal white gown of chiffon over taffeta enhanced with lace. Re-embroidered lace appliques accented the gown and trailing chapel train. Her tiered veil of imported illusion was secured to a lace headpiece. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and carnations.

Susan Bartola attended the bride as matron of honor. She wore an aqua dress and carried a nosegay of yellow roses and carnations. Bridesmaids were Antoinette Cavalluzzi, Karen Cavalluzzi and Rebecca Kimberly. Their dresses were identical to the honor attendant's and they carried nosegays of aqua-tinted carnations.

John Doyle served the bridegroom as best man. Usher-groomsman were Joseph Cavalluzzi, Ray Kimberly, Phillip Ricker and Lawrence Pressley.

Ring bearers were Michael Pole and Jaime Polke.

Following a reception at Westmonte Civic Center, Altamonte Springs, the newlyweds departed on a wedding trip to Dautona Beach. They are making their home in Longwood. The bride is employed as a hairdresser by Hair Handlers and the bridegroom is employed by Alreo Welding Supply.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Dale Patton

In And Around Longwood

Emerson New Rotary President

The Rotary Club of Longwood recently held its election of officers.

The following Rotarians were installed during the annual picnic: Charles F. Emerson Jr., president; Donald R. Collins, vice president; Dale H. Goemmel, treasurer; and Charles H. Stant Jr., secretary (with the exception of one year, Charles has held position of club secretary for 14 years).

Serving the club as directors will be past president William C. Harkins, Dennis A. Kurir, Roger J. Fontenot, Cosmo Mantovani and John E. Rudder.

During the picnic Rotarian Robert W. McFadden was presented with Rotarian of the Year award and Betty Cassidy (wife of Rotarian John Cassidy) was honored by being made a Paul Harris Fellow.

The Rotary Club, which meets every Tuesday morning, 7:30 a.m., at Cassidy's Restaurant, has had interesting guest speakers recently. Bob Boyd, estate planner for Baker & Hostetler, spoke on Will & Estate planning. Rotarian Michael R. MacLeay gave his biography. Rotarian John T. Cates presented a picturesque report of his recent trip to Australia and Rotarian Arthur (Skip) West spoke on solar heating.

Today, Rotarians and their wives were present for a special morning meeting. Instead of just the usual meeting, retiring president William (Bill) Harkins was on the "HOT" end of a "Roast" held in his honor.

Another lucky Rotarian will be honored during the June 28 meeting. One of the members will be receiving the honor of being named a Paul Harris Fellow, an honor which a Rotarian maintains for life.

Those "Wiz" kids from Rock Lake Middle School have done it again. In recent months, the eighth grade math students took part in a state level math championship sponsored by the Central Florida Chapter/Florida Engineering Society where they took sixth place in the state.

Then in April, in another competition by the Florida Math League, they brought their school to number one in the region and 10th in the state.

Now, during a recent state-wide assessment test, administered to all eighth grades in the state, Rock Lake eighth grade class scored the highest of all the schools in the state.

This test measures 15 skill areas in communication/language arts and 13 skill areas in mathematics.

The school's principal Richard Rost must be very proud of both the students and the teachers. Congratulations.

Poem Brings Fond Memories

DEAR ABBY: You can imagine my surprise and great joy when I read your column in the Los Angeles Times and saw the poem entitled, "The World Is Mine." It was written by my mother, Dot Aaron, some 35 years ago.

Through the years we have heard from so many people around the country who have found inspiration from it, as did "Marti" from Aurora, Colo., who sent it to you asking who wrote it. It has been a long time since I have seen it in print, and you can't imagine how deeply touched I am to know that my mother's words continue to live on. She was a super, multi-talented lady who passed away in 1969 — much too young, and with so much more to do.

I am newly widowed at age 53 and have recently moved to California from St. Louis. Thank you for printing my mother's poem. It meant so much to me.

SUZANNE AARON

MATHES

DEAR SUZANNE: Aha! Your letter is the conclusive verification I had hoped for. To date I have heard from readers in nearly every state (and Canada, too) informing me that Dot Aaron had written that lovely poem many years ago. And shame on those few who themselves claimed authorship.

DEAR ABBY: I have been doing a lot of reading lately and I just found out that my husband is no bargain (in bed, I mean). We've been married for 11 years, and I never thought I had anything to complain about until I read up on how other men performed.

According to some of these sex surveys, my husband is at the bottom of the list, and I feel cheated.

I wonder how many other women feel the same?

CHEATED IN

YPSILANTI

DEAR CHEATED: Don't believe everything you read. If you've never had anything to complain about, you weren't "cheated."

Sex surveys can be tricky. I suspect that more people lie about their sex lives than the combined total of those who lie about their age and weight.

DEAR ABBY: I have this friend — an older woman, widowed and living alone — who embarrasses me no end when we dine out together in a restaurant.

Before we leave, she empties the contents of the breadbasket into a plastic bag, taking all the remaining bread, rolls, crackers and breadsticks. If there's a dab of butter left, she has a little container for that, too. She also takes all the little packets of artificial sweetener.

I told her it wasn't proper to take all that stuff, and she said she was told that, according to law, once food is placed on the table it can't be served to anyone else, so she might as well take it with her.

Is that true?

EMBARRASSED

Ask the waiter, waitress, hostess or restaurant manager what the policy is with regard to what customers may take home.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ANYONE WHO LOVES TO LAUGH: Get George Burns' book, "How to Live to Be 100 — or More: The Ultimate Diet, Sex and Exercise Book" (Putman). It's the perfect gift for someone who could use a lift right now.

If you put off writing letters because you don't know what to say, send Mor Abby's complete booklet on letter-writing. Send $2 and a long, stamped (37 cts), self-addressed envelope to Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

College Students Alcohol 'High-Q' Up

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — College students are more knowledgeable nowadays about the pitfalls of drink and are drinking less now than they did three years ago, says the leader of a national alcohol education campaign.

Dr. Gerardo Gonzalez, an assistant dean at the University of Florida and founder in 1976 of BACCHUS (Boost Alcohol Consciousness Concerning the Health of University Students), said students understand beer, wine and liquor better.

Gonzalez and UF students have conducted a three-year study of college students' understanding of alcoholic beverages during the "College Expo" at Daytona Beach put on during the annual spring break.

Students visiting the BACCHUS booth, dubbed the "College of Alcohol Knowledge," are asked to answer 10 true or false questions.

According to Gonzalez, the greatest gain in knowledge over the three-year period came in the area of driving under the influence.

Asked whether "a blood-alcohol concentration of 0.10 percent is the legal definition of alcohol intoxication in most states," 72 percent of the students answered true this year, compared with 64 percent two years ago.

College students' answers to their questions likewise improved in the last three years.

Thurow: Economics An Art Form

By Gail Collins
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Economics, says Lester Thurow, is the only discipline that bases its theories on "what the world ought to look like, not what it is."

Thurow, the MIT professor and Newsweek columnist, analyzes current trends in economic thought in his latest book, "Dangerous Currents." He finds them, to say the least, inadequate.

"In most cases if the facts don't fit the theory you find a new theory," he writes. "But an economist doesn't do that; instead he tries to explain away the facts."

The book is intended for economists as well as "people who are kind of interested in economic policy." But Thurow did not aim for the beginner. He describes his non-academic readers as "people who've had Economics 1-2."

The mathematical formulas and models that are now the rage in economic circles go astray because they leave out the human factor, assuming people will always operate in a perfectly efficient and rational manner, according to Thurow.

Talk to a businessman about the factors needed to make his company a success, he said, and he'll refer to "motivation, cooperation, teamwork — three words that never appear in economic literature. How can you have economics that doesn't mention the three key words of the human side of economics?"

Thurow ralls, in particular, about the pervasive price-auction theory, which assumes the marketplace, if left to itself, will always buy as cheaply as possible while selling for as much as it can get.

Models based on the theory have never been able to explain why wages do not drop when unemployment rises. Thurow argues that unlike the models, employers understand the costs in lost morale and productivity when wages are slashed or employees fired because others are willing to work cheaper.

The standard models also assume there is no cost of going out of business, he said. If the U.S. dollar goes so high that a company can no longer sell its products abroad, the models presume the firm simply vanishes from sight, only to reappear as soon as the dollar drops.

It is possible to design a useful model that does contain human qualities, Thurow said. But he admitted his call for a discipline that borrows heavily from sociology does indeed require economists willing to make their own intuitive judgments. "Economics is a bit of an art form," he said.

For next year, Thurow is preparing a book he calls "Son of the Zero-Sum Society," a follow-up to his popular earlier work which argued the American economy may no longer be capable of expanding enough to provide endless improvement of its citizens' standard of living.

The book, he said, is directed at 1985, when a newly elected president will have to decide what to do if the economy is once again faltering.

Among Thurow's prescriptions are a bonus system of wages in which 10 percent of workers' salaries would be tied to the value of their finished product. If the economy suffered another oil price shock or soaring food prices, the bonuses would drop, thereby keeping inflation under control.

Thurow regards the present state of affairs as a perfect economic "case study," although he admits the rest of the world might not appreciate being part of the experiment.

"There's a little bit of a recovery in the United States, but nowhere else," he said. "The question is whether the American locomotive can pull the whole world out of recession. Or will the rest of the world be a swamp in which America sinks?"

Thurow himself would bet on the swamp, "but that's just a call," he cautioned.

Despite his fairly gloomy outlook, Thurow seems cheerful. "Human beings have adjusted before," he said. "After all, feudalism lasted 1,000 years with no growth."

Thurrow rails, in particular, about the pervasive price-auction theory, which assumes the marketplace, if left to itself, will always buy as cheaply as possible while selling for as much as it can get.

Models based on the theory have never been able to explain why wages do not drop when unemployment rises. Thurrow argues that unlike the models, employers understand the costs in lost morale and productivity when wages are slashed or employees fired because others are willing to work cheaper.

The standard models also assume there is no cost of going out of business, he said. If the U.S. dollar goes so high that a company can no longer sell its products abroad, the models presume the firm simply vanishes from sight, only to reappear as soon as the dollar drops.

It is possible to design a useful model that does contain human qualities, Thurrow said. But he admitted his call for a discipline that borrows heavily from sociology does indeed require economists willing to make their own intuitive judgments. "Economics is a bit of an art form," he said.

For next year, Thurrow is preparing a book he calls "Son of the Zero-Sum Society," a follow-up to his popular earlier work which argued the American economy may no longer be capable of expanding enough to provide endless improvement of its citizens' standard of living.

The book, he said, is directed at 1985, when a newly elected president will have to decide what to do if the economy is once again faltering.

Among Thurrow's prescriptions are a bonus system of wages in which 10 percent of workers' salaries would be tied to the value of their finished product. If the economy suffered another oil price shock or soaring food prices, the bonuses would drop, thereby keeping inflation under control.

Thurrow regards the present state of affairs as a perfect economic "case study," although he admits the rest of the world might not appreciate being part of the experiment.

"There's a little bit of a recovery in the United States, but nowhere else," he said. "The question is whether the American locomotive can pull the whole world out of recession. Or will the rest of the world be a swamp in which America sinks?"

Thurrow himself would bet on the swamp, "but that's just a call," he cautioned.

Despite his fairly gloomy outlook, Thurrow seems cheerful. "Human beings have adjusted before," he said. "After all, feudalism lasted 1,000 years with no growth."

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY
JUNE 22, 1983

Don't be hesitant about taking on greater responsibilities this coming year where your work or career is concerned. You'll measure up and be rewarded in proportion to your talent.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) There will be ample opportunity around you today concerning your career, but it may be of a fleeting nature. Don't be caught unaware. Cancer predictions for the year ahead are now ready. Romance, career, luck, earnings, travel and much more are discussed. Send $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to give your zodiac sign.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Have no qualms about dealing with influential persons today. In fact, the more clout they have the better you're likely to get along with one another.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It's important today to feel that luck favors you as well as it does others. If you firmly believe this, happenings will turn out to support your views.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Do not settle for the status quo today, even in situations which are going your way. Use your ability now to make good things even better.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Financial conditions tend to favor you today, but you might have to move swiftly to make the most of your advantages. Get yourself in gear.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Too much deliberation could impede your progress today, so don't suppress spontaneous urges. When your instincts impel you to move, get going.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) This is a rather unusual day. Matters over which you have no control could work out luckier for you than situations which you personally direct.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're in a fortunate cycle where new projects are concerned. Concentrate exclusively on how you'll succeed. Dismiss all thoughts of failure.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't let others dissuade you today from going after things which might be too big for them to tackle. You'll know how to cut them down to size.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be a keen observer today, because you should be able to pick up a little knowledge from all you encounter. What you learn will prove useful.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) There's a possibility you'll profit in some manner today through an unusual chain of circumstances. Your ingenuity will trigger these events.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Trust your own resourcefulness and inventiveness today. Instead of waiting upon others to approve of your ideas, move when inspiration stirs you.

Hiatal Hernia Can Mimic Heart Attack

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband recently spent three days in the hospital because of chest pains. After an electrocardiogram and upper and lower gastrointestinal series and other tests, he was diagnosed as having a hiatal hernia.

He was put on Tagamet three times a day at meal time and, one before bed, with Gaviscon tablets after meals and a recommendation that he sleep with the head of the bed elevated.

Will he have to take medication indefinitely? Also should he be careful with his diet?

DEAR READER — To understand what your husband must do, you must understand what he has. People with this condition have an enlarged hole in the diaphragm. That allows the upper part of the stomach to slide through the hole into the chest. That is why it is sometimes called a sliding hernia.

Now, there is a mechanism that closes the stomach at the top so its contents can't leak backward into the esophagus. When a person has a hiatal hernia, that mechanism becomes faulty. So when he lies down the stomach contents do leak backward, a reaction called esophageal reflux. The acid content of the stomach irritates the lower esophagus and may be associated with esophageal spasm or burning pain. The spasm may mimic a heart attack as far as pain location and characteristics.

The Tagamet was probably prescribed to help prevent his stomach from forming acid. In this way the reflux would be less irritating. Keeping the head of the bed elevated is to help prevent the reflux.

But there is much more. Tight belts are not to be used. He shouldn't lie down immediately after meals and he should eat small frequent meals, avoiding large ones. He should eliminate any body fat he has because the fat that is accumulated in his abdominal cavity increases the pressure to force the stomach through the large hole.

Also it is good to avoid coffee and alcohol and anything else that irritates the stomach or increases the stomach's production of acid digestive juices.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Now that warm weather is here and it is fun to be outdoors and get back in shape, I would like to know if you can get the same benefits from bicycling as you can from jogging. Frankly I find jogging boring but it is more fun to sail around on my bicycle.

I realize they invented the wheel because it makes things easier. My question, is it too easy and will I get any real benefit from bicycling for my heart and lungs? What about bicycling to control weight?

DEAR READER — It is more efficient in terms of the distance traveled. A good general rule is that it will require half as many calories per mile to ride a bicycle as if you had walked the mile and a third as many calories as if you jogged the mile. That is on a per mile basis not related to speed. Obviously the faster you go the more calories you will use per hour because you travel further.

If you bicycle three miles in 10 minutes it would have about the same effect as jogging one mile in 10 minutes.

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby

Playing on the women's team in the Spring Nationals, Marge Gwozdinsky of New York found herself in an optimistic three no-trump contract. Her no-trump overall was a minimum. West's near-bust two-heart bid crowded Mrs. Sam Stayman, who sat North, into bidding three hearts to see if Marge might hold four spades. Marge had to bid three no-trump. West opened the Jack of clubs and continued with the nine after Marge ducked. Marge won the second club trick. Now she led three rounds of spades.

East won the third round of spades and led her king of clubs.

Marge was in with the ace, led a heart to dummy's ace, cashed the last spade to discard her 10 of hearts and led a diamond.

East ducked and Marge was in with the king. At this point Marge was certain that East had been dealt 4-2-3-2 distribution so she cashed her king of hearts and threw East in with the club 10. East was forced to give Marge the game trick with dummy's queen of diamonds.

Note that West's weak two-heart call had placed Mrs. Stayman in a really tough position. Because she had no way to ask Marge if she held four spades without getting past two no-trump, she decided to trap her partner into what might be an impossible contract.

The contract would have been impossible for most declarers. It wasn't for Marge.
