Death Toll Now At 30 In London

Subway Fire Puzzles Experts

By Robert Mackay

LONDON (UPI) — A fire turned a bustling subway station 50 feet below ground into an inferno of heat and blinding smoke, killing at least 30 people, and authorities said today the blaze spread suspiciously fast.

The fire broke out Wednesday night in a wooden escalator at King's Cross "underground" station, London's busiest, and caused a stampede among thousands of commuters, survivors said. The heat was so intense it cracked concrete.

Police and fire officials gave conflicting casualty figures but Scotland Yard said today it appeared the toll was 30 dead and 21 injured.

"We are rather mystified at the moment about why at the end of the rush hour with lots of people about, a relatively small fire can accelerate and cause such horrendous damage and injuries in such a short space of time," divisional fire officer Phil Lloyd said today.

Fire Department officials said they were not ruling out any possible cause pending completion of their investigation.

One of the dead was a firefighter and two more were among the seriously injured when some firefighters raced into the smoke-filled tunnels to rescue people without waiting for the arrival of their oxygen tanks at the station on London's north side in the world's oldest subway system.

The fire gutted the escalator, believed to date back to World War II, a nearby ticket office and most of the concourse for the underground station. Bodies were found scattered underground in train tunnels and in the concourse.

The fire broke out on the escalator leading up from the popular Piccadilly Line, which serves Piccadilly Circus.

The first passengers on the escalator did not know about the fire until the smoke and flames broke through the steps at their feet.

"The fire started and it appeared to have

Bill and Jean Morris of Sanford are the proud grandparents of the first baby born in Florida as a result of the implantation of a frozen embryo into a woman's womb. And it may be only the second time it's been done in the United States using a frozen embryo, according to the attending physician.

Sandy Morris, wife of the Morris' son Bill Jr., gave birth to a boy at Lakeland

Regional Medical Center at 4:26 a.m. Wednesday. Mrs. Morris said her new baby "is a beautiful, healthy boy and we couldn't be happier. We named him William Benjamin."

Dr. Gary DeVane, an Orlando M.D. who specializes in infertility problems, performed the procedure last February, inserting the frozen embryo.

Mrs. Morris has no fallopian tubes, so it is impossible for her to conceive. Dr. DeVane

Fatality Prompts Warnings

By Nancy Simmons
Herald Staff Writer

The death of a 73-year-old Daytona Beach Golden Age Games participant Wednesday has prompted a suggestion that future games participants be forewarned of the risks in entering some of the more strenuous events.

Dave Farr, executive director of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, said this morning he will recommend to the Golden Age Games executive committee that some sort of printed warning be included on entry forms participants are given indicating some of the games may be physically strenuous and that they should discuss their entering them with their physicians before doing so.

"I think it's an excellent suggestion, and I plan on recommending it," Farr said.

Ralph Donaghy, who died at 10 a.m. Wednesday at Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford, became the first fatality in the 13-year history of the Golden Age Games. His death left game officials shocked, according to Farr.

This was Donaghy's first time to enter the games. While he was involved in a one-on-one basketball competition, he suffered a heart attack and was rushed to Central Florida Regional Hospital. He lapsed into a coma, and never regained consciousness. A hospital spokesman said Donaghy was "unresponsive" to all treatment. His body was taken to Cedar Hill Memorial Gardens, Bellevue Ave., in Daytona Beach, hospital records show.

As it is now, participants in the events must sign a statement of release, along with their entry forms, in which they acknowledge that they have no physical restrictions that would hinder their activities at the games and that their doctor is aware they are entering them.

Other precautions are taken too, Farr explained. During the

Sanford Plaza Redesign Plan To Be Considered

Expressway Panel Rejects Regional Authority

By Brad Church
Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County Expressway Authority voted Wednesday not to participate in the formation of a regional expressway authority, as authorized by the last legislative session. The legislature authorized the formation of a regional authority to be composed of one representative from each of five counties — Seminole, Orange, Volusia, Lake and Osceola — and five representatives appointed by the governor.

Seminole Expressway Authority members have expressed reservations that the county could be possibly represented by only one person on a regional authority. Fred Streetman authority chairman, said Wednesday he thought taking no action on forming a regional authority was enough to indicate it wouldn't be formed.

but said he had been informed a vote not to participate was needed, so recommended rejecting participation.

The vote was unanimous, however, member Bob Sturm's motion included a requirement that Streetman and the authority staff meet with the chairman of the Orange County authority and staff to discuss how a regional authority could be of benefit to Seminole County.

One county of the five voting the proposal down is enough to kill it since the consent of all five

Longwood Votes To Deny Managerial Comp Time

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

Longwood City Commission voted down an amendment to the Personnel Policy and Procedures Manual that would have provided managerial leave instead of compensatory time for department heads and voted instead to redraw the ordinance so managerial employees would be ineligible to receive comp time.

The amendment, voted down 4-1, would have granted eight days, which is equal to 64 additional vacation leave hours, during each fiscal year in lieu of comp time after Dec. 7. Accumulated comp time up until then would not have been lost. A minimum of 96 hours per year could be used up.

Commissioner Harvey Smeritson said, "They are considered professional managers and earn exempt salaries, stop throwing the city's money away by giving them vacations. Eliminate the comp time, they are expected to put in the hours needed to do the job."

Mayor Ed Myers said, "This has been my argument. In private industry when you are paid a management salary you are expected to work whatever time it takes."

going to debate the pros and cons. If the commission wishes we still need an amendment. Present procedure allows everybody to earn comp time except four people (the city administrator, city clerk, city attorney and building official). Voting it down puts us back right where we were with 97 percent of the employees earning comp time.

Deputy Mayor June Lormann said, "I would like to see the ordinance redrawn" and Commissioner Dave Gunter agreed. The commission voted 4-1 to redraw the ordinance so that department heads and their assistants can't earn comp time at all.

Commissioner Lynette Dennis said she voted no on both motions, because "if we don't do something now everyone will still receive comp time. We needed to go forward with it the way it was."

It would have applied to employees who are exempt or not covered under the overtime compensation provision of the Fair Labor Standards Act. Other management employees include: the deputy city clerk, finance director, personnel director, purchasing director, purchasing director, city planner, parks and

POLICE

IN BRIEF

Child Abuse Investigation Leads To Arrest Of Mother

The mother of a 4-month-old Sanford baby, who suffered a fractured skull, a broken arm and other injuries, has been arrested by Sanford police on charges of child abuse and negligent treatment of a child.

The baby's father, Brian Vincent Graham Sr., 20, was arrested on the same charges by Sanford police Sunday. The mother, Latesa Graham, 18, of 54 Master's Cove Apartments, was arrested at her workplace at 11:29 a.m. Monday. Both parents were being held without bond.

The baby, Brian Vincent Graham Jr., police said, is in the custody of his grandmother, who discovered his injuries Oct. 30, and hospitalized him. The grandmother first reported the alleged abuse to Volusia County sheriff's deputies, who referred the case to Sanford police.

False Bomb Report Brings Jail

A 25-year-old man who allegedly told Albertson's employees that there was a bomb in his car outside that store on State Road 434, Longwood, was arrested after he also reportedly told an investigating Seminole County sheriff's deputy that there was also a bomb in the store's restroom.

The deputy reported that no bomb was found in either location.

Michael Gerald Placko, no address, was arrested Monday outside Albertson's and was charged with filing a false report about an explosive device. He was being held in lieu of $2,000 bond.

Burglaries, Thefts Reported

John P. Petrenesk, of 1575 Deer Run, Geneva, reported to sheriff's deputies that a 100-pound bull calf valued at $500 was lifted over a fence from a pasture at his home Saturday or Sunday. The red and white bull is two months old.

A typewriter, a camera and a microwave oven are among $1,400 in items stolen from the Tuskawilla Baptist Church, 3700 W. State Road 426, Winter Park, Sunday or Monday, a sheriff's report said.

Vekka J. Akers, 50, of 314 Sabal Park Place #102, Longwood, reported to sheriff's deputies that a box of tools valued at $250 was stolen from her home between Nov. 7 and 13.

Gladys Alvarez, 50, of 614 E. SW W. Sebastian Court, Altamonte Springs, reported a $1,000 facial steamer was stolen from her business at 1843 State Road 434, Longwood, Sunday.

Husband Charged With Battery

A 32-year-old Sanford man, who allegedly pulled his wife from the Holiday Inn at 530 N. Palmetto Ave., shoved her against a car and wouldn't release her, has been charged with battery-spouse abuse.

Sanford police reported that Rozanne Guevara tried, but was unable to escape from the assailant, at about 9:40 p.m. Tuesday.

When police arrived they stopped the suspect on Fourth Street at Sanford Avenue. Fernando Guevara, of 2511 Palmetto Ave., has been arrested in the case and released on $1,000 bond. Guevara is scheduled to appear in court Dec. 2.

No Change In Parking, Commission Says

Don't look for diagonal parking around Sanford's Centennial Park.

The city commission has decided that changing the parking around Centennial Park, 400 S. Park Ave., from parallel to diagonal would cost too much considering the small number of additional spaces that would result from such a change.

Reverend George A. Bule, pastor of the First United Methodist Church, 419 S. Park Ave., requested the change because he said parking is the number one problem at his church.

"There are about 1,000 people in our congregation and a lot of them are older people," Bule said. "Sometimes they have to park several blocks away."

Bule also said people don't always use the parallel parking around the park as well as they should, sometimes taking up more than one space. Bule said adding additional parking spaces would also help the parking situation when there are activities going on in the park.

Bill Simmons, Sanford's director of engineering and planning, said a study was done in 1985 about the parking situation at Centennial Park. Simmons said the present parallel parking provides 48 parking spaces and diagonal parking would provide 56 spaces.

But making the change from parallel to diagonal parking would not simply be a matter of redrawing lines, Simmons said. The change would involve moving the curbs and installing new sidewalks. Simmons said the project would cost $18,000 to do the changes. Considering that the change would only add 8 more spaces, at a cost of $2,200 per space, Simmons recommended leaving the parallel parking situation as it stands now.

Other actions taken by the city commission include:

● The Commission decided to ask City Attorney Bill Colbert to look into the possibility of filing suit against the county for the proposed route of the Expressway, which will cut through the western portion of Sanford. The proposed would cross the western end of Lake Jessup and proceed through several Sanford neighborhoods before meeting Interstate 4 about one mile south of State Road 46.

Mrs. Gerrie Small, representing Citizens Against the Expressway Route, said the Florida statutes authorizing the expressway states that the proposed route shall not unreasonably split, divide, or otherwise separate areas of a city. Mayor Betty Smith said the key word there is "unreasonably." If the issue were brought to court, Smith said, a Judge may have to decide if the route was unreasonable in terms of how it will split Sanford.

● The commission also decided to have City Manager Frank Fabson contact All Souls Catholic Church regarding future plans for the park at Eighth Street and Park Avenue which the church leases for the city. The lease expires Dec. 27 and Sanford's Scenic Improvement Board has requested the church submit a landscaping and future use plan as a condition for renewing the lease.

SIB members objected to the barren nature of the park. A chainlink fence runs the length of three sides of the park. Inside the fence are a few trees, but most of the park is just level dirt. The park is used by the church and the adjacent All Souls School as a recreation area for children, but is also available for use by the public.

Vote Set Later This Month

Sanford May Takeover Utility System

Whether or not city staff should move forward on negotiations for Sanford to possibly purchase a private utility system will be voted on Nov. 23 at the regular meeting of the city commission.

The commission had asked Bill Simmons, Sanford's director of engineering and planning, gather more information concerning the purchase of the Indian Mound Water System. Simmons provided the requested information concerning the loan on the property, changes in revenue, costs to the city, maintenance of the system, and profit and loss data during the workshop session of the commission Monday.

The Indian Mound System would add 53 new utility customers to the city. Simmons recommended buying the system because it would expand the city's utility capacity toward the east at virtually no cash cost.

With this purchase, Simmons said, the city would be able to loop the south end of the Indian Mound system with the new line to be installed along the south side of State Road 46.

Simmons told the commission during the workshop session that the loan on the system, which the city would assume if it bought the water system, is $23,000, at a five percent interest rate, and would cost the city $334 a month.

In terms of maintenance of the system, Simmons said city staff maintains the system and is reimbursed by the Indian Mound Water System Association. If the city purchased the property, the same people on the city staff would continue maintaining the system.

Concerning profit and loss of the water system's association, Simmons said the association is paying for operation costs on a month-to-month.

Five-Day Forecast

Enjoy Balm Breezes As Gunnison Freezes

By Fred H. Cooper
 Herald Staff Writer

Balm breezes, intermittent showers, constant clouds, patches of fog, all that good stuff and more. That's what Seminole County weather is all about. And, will stay for a while longer.

What's happening is that weather trough is sitting down on Lake Okeechobee and appears content to stay another day or so. Thus, we are stuck also. It could be worse and it's gonna get better.

Actually the weather isn't real bad. Temperatures are ranging from the high 70s to low 80s depending on where you are in the county. Everyone is getting a little rain but nothing such as we experienced Tuesday night. There's just about always early morning patches of fog in the low lying areas around Sanford.

The rest of the state is pretty much in the same boat, if you exclude the Panhandle, which most folks around here are wont to do. Highest temperature during the past 24 hours in Florida, and in the nation, was at Homestead with an 85 degree reading. Just about all cities in the southern part of the state were in the 80s, though. Lowest in Florida was at Crestview with a 47, but that's one of those places in the Panhandle which we decided to exclude.

Let's hear a cheer for the folks at Gunnison, Colorado. They shivered in their boots with a minus 5 degree reading. That's cold, cousin.

At last some of the elected types up in Washington are beginning to be concerned about pollution in the ocean. This we could have told them long ago.

However, concern over pollution has prompted a series of House committee hearings on the fouling of the nation's coastal waters and beaches.

"For each of us, this issue begins, as it should, as a local issue — a shellfish bed loss, a fish kill, a beach closure," said Rep. Gerry Studds, D-Mass. "But we quickly learn that what is true locally is true nationally."

As the joint oversight hearings by two subcommittees of the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee opened Wednesday, Studds said coastal waters are so polluted it is "frightening" to live near them.

He said the hearings would seek "to identify the current plight of our coasts, to inquire how they came to be the way they are, and to examine what we might do to arrest their decline and restore them to the way they should be."

Sen. Frank Lautenberg, D-N.J., the first witness to testify, said ocean dumping of wastes, untreated sewage and dredging spoils are "destroying" the New Jersey shoreline.

"This has got to end," he said.

George Hampson, a researcher with the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution, said overbuilding of homes and increased industrialization threatens the survival of shellfish and lobsters in Buzzards Bay between Cape Cod and the southeastern coast of Massachusetts.

"We continue to pollute our harbors at an alarming rate," he said, blaming "ineffective local and state land use controls and health regulations" for much of the problem.

Kathy Fletcher, appearing for the Puget Sound Water Quality Authority, said toxic contamination by industry and human and animal wastes had led to the closing of some shellfish harvest areas in the Washington state sound.

State, Federal Officers Seize Cocaine Valued At $220 Million

MIAMI (UPI) — Drug smugglers hid 8,292 pounds of cocaine in hollowed out boards destined for use in making picnic tables, federal agents said in describing the largest seizure of the drug ever found in a single container.

Agents from U.S. Customs, the Drug Enforcement Administration, and the Florida Department of Law Enforcement seized the shipping container holding the drug, with an estimated street value of over $220 million, from a Miami warehouse Wednesday.

"It's one of the more ingenious and sophisticated ways that traffickers have found to disguise their cocaine," DEA spokesman Jack Hook said.

There were no arrests in the case, and the investigation was continuing, said U.S. Customs spokesman Michael Sheehan.

Gymnastic Center Seeks Sanford Site

Maryann L. Cross
Herald Staff Writer

A two-year-old plan to build a 10,800-square-foot gymnastic center in Sanford may soon become a reality.

The Sanford City Commission suggested Monday that contractor R.W. "Whit" Whitaker, representing the Sanford Gymnastic Center, get together with the city staff and incorporate their recommendations into the site plan for the building. The site plan would then go to the Planning and Zoning Commission for approval.

Whitaker appeared before a workshop session of the commission to request leasing city property on 25th Street between Poinsetta and Princeton Avenues and to ask how the commissioners felt about a gymnastic center on the site. Sanford's Director of Parks and Recreation, Jim Jernigan, said the city has retained the 13-acre 25th Street parcel for recreation purposes.

"We (the parks and recreation department) have no immediate plans for the property," Jernigan said. "But we're looking for a flow into that area of recreation facilities for children."

Lease of the property must be approved by city commissioners, who expressed positive feelings about the plans for a new gymnastic center. The building and adjacent parking would only require 1.2 acres, leaving the city with more than 11 acres to develop into other recreation facilities.

The Sanford Gymnastic Center presently rents a 6,000-square-foot building at 2239 Southwest Road for $1365 a month. The facility is run by Jeannette Stiffey, who said activities at the center include gymnastic lessons for all ages and scheduled meets of school gymnastic teams. Stiffey said the non-profit center raises money through fund-raising activities and also receives donations from local organizations. The gymnastic lessons cost $15 to register and then $20 a month for one lesson each week. Stiffey said the money from the lessons pays for the gymnastic teachers.

A similar program would be set up in the new building, Stiffey said. However, Stiffey said they hope to keep the building open all day and possibly offer exercise classes in addition to gymnastic lessons.

Jernigan said the Seminole Sunrise Kiwanis Club leased the 25th street parcel from the city about eight years ago to build a park that would be open to the public as well as Kiwanis members. But the cost of the project forced the Kiwanis Club to give up their plans and return the property to the city earlier this year. The Sanford Gymnastic Center had subleased 1.2 acres of the 25th St. property from the Kiwanis Club in 1984, hoping to build the new gymnastic center on the property sometime in the future. The sublease was approved by the city commission at that time and rent on the property cost $1 a year.

Site plans for the new gymnastic building were drawn in 1985 and fund-raising activities began, Stiffey said in 1985 the board of directors of the Sanford Gymnastic Center decided not to build the new facility until $80,000 was raised. So far $49,000 have been raised and Stiffey said the new board of directors has decided to continue with the project using the funds available and possibly taking out a loan for the rest of the cost. But when the Kiwanis Club turned the property back over to the city, the Sanford Gymnastic Center was left without a site for its new building.

Whitaker showed the commission the site plan for the new gymnastic center, which calls for a one-story metal structure. Whitaker said the building would normally cost $150,000, but with volunteer labor he can build it for $75,000.

"There are a lot of people who have offered to donate their time and building materials such as concrete and insulation to help construct a new gymnastic center," Whitaker said.

Commissioner Calls For Bird Sanctuary

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

Longwood City Commissioner Harvey Smerilison wants the city-owned site of the Columbus Harbour sewer plant declared a bird sanctuary and conservation area. He said he saw an eagle's nest there with young in it and the eagle is an endangered species.

The commission unanimously passed Smerilison's motion Monday night to authorize City Attorney Michael Kramer to draw up the ordinance to be voted on Dec. 7. Smerilison specified the public hearing and final action be held on Dec. 21.

This could cause a hitch in the city's plan to pay back Sun Bank, holder of $3 million in water and sewer revenue bonds.

When the city hooks up to the Seminole County sewer system next year, plans call for the outdated package sewage treatment plants at Columbus Harbour and Skylark to be torn down. The land has to remain fallow for a year before it can be used for another purpose.

Smerilison said Monday night he wants the property declared a conservation area to prevent anyone from benefitting financially from the sale of the property. City Administrator Ron Waller said there are "2 or 3 acres" including the pond.

Waller said the projected income from the sale of the property is $50,000 and if the property is not sold the city will have to come up with other sources to replace the amount due to the bank in 1991. The city proposes to sell its Skylark sewer plant site to the city Parks and Recreation Department for Candyland Park with the $135,000 going to help pay back the bonds.

Commissioner Dave Gunter wanted to have someone from the Florida Audubon Society to check out the nest to determine exactly what kind of bird it belongs to and give their recommendation. Smerilison did not see the need for this. "What difference does it make what kind it is?" he asked. "It would be a conservation area for whatever kind of wildlife lives there."

Tom Lettner of the Audubon Center for Birds of Prey in Maitland told The Herald he has no record of an eagle nest sighting in that area. It is too early in the year for eagles to have young. He said they do not begin to hatch until the end of December to mid-January. Being in a residential area, Lettner said it is more likely to be an osprey nest, which are often mistaken for an eagle's. He said ospreys will build anywhere, but eagles are more refined in their taste.

The Pork In Quarks

There's an air of unreality about the House Science Committee's vote recently to authorize construction of the Superconducting Super Collider. With markets jittery over enormous U.S. budget deficits, the committee voted to approve the multibillion dollar particle accelerator even though members have no idea where it will be built, how it might be paid for or what worthy research projects might be crowded aside.

The vote was, as Rep. Don Ritter of Pennsylvania called it, "the triumph of good politics over good science."

The politics are strictly pork. The Department of Energy and the high-energy physicists supporting the collider have cogently staged the decision process to get a congressional commitment to build the machine before anyone knows where it will be located; the president is not scheduled to pick a site until January of 1989.

With 25 states vying for the jobs that will come with the machine, members of Congress are now reluctant to vote against the plum so many of their districts would dearly love to land.

Thus, almost no one is focusing on the real issue of whether such an expensive investment in a single scientific tool fits the nation's priorities.

There's no doubt that the collider would be a wondrous device capable of investigating the basic building blocks of matter.

But at $4.4 billion (according to the Energy Department) or $8 billion (according to some critics on the Science Committee), the total capital cost of the collider would amount to three times the annual budget of the National Science Foundation, which funds most government basic research in the physical sciences.

Unless there is a significant increase in the science budget in the next decade—a dubious assumption at a time when Washington's emphasis is on reducing big deficits—the collider would probably have to be purchased by reducing grants for research in other areas of science.

But the committee ducked the issues of costs and priorities.

It rejected an amendment that would have asked the National Academy of Sciences to rank the collider against other large science projects. It turned down a proposal to hold off on construction until the Department of Energy received foreign commitments to fund at least 25 percent of the collider, a useful condition to guarantee the international cooperation needed on a project of this scale.

Most telling, it also turned down an amendment requiring Congress to reauthorize the collider after President Reagan has made his decision about where to locate it.

That's a sign that even the supporters of the collider know that, shorn of its pork-barrel appeal, the collider will have a hard time competing with other research projects for scarce science dollars.

That admission is all the more reason for the House to put off an authorization vote on the collider until a site has been selected and the issue can be decided on its merits.

BERRY'S WORLD

JEFFREY HART

The Great Debate: They All Looked Good

Most of the opinion returns are in on the great Republican debate in Houston, and the general feeling seems to be that Vice President George Bush accomplished the most for himself. The view of this columnist is that everyone looked pretty good, and not only when one compares them with the Democratic zoo, which until recently featured the likes of Hart and Biden and still includes Jesse Jackson.

Perhaps the overall winner of the Houston debate was a Democrat, Robert Strauss, the silver-haired former chairman of the Democratic Party. Mr. Strauss reminded us of what Democrats once were. He is a conservative, a patriot, and he is very courtly. He reminded us that in the Democratic Party there once were good manners and a sense of humor. That all left with the McGovernite fanatical movement, and today no one would suspect a Biden or a Kennedy of any such qualities, but every time Bob Strauss spoke, the ghost of Gentleman Sam Rayburn seemed to be smiling over his shoulder.

Among the Republicans, perhaps George Bush did himself the most good, but he was battling a straw man—that is, what Newswatch in its recent cover story was pleased to call the "Wimp Factor."

Now the idea that a man of George Bush's achievements could be called a wimp is in itself extraordinary. By the time he was 20 years old, he was flying a fighter plane over the Pacific theater against skilled Japanese pilots determined to kill him.

True, there is something wrong with Bush stylistically. He says "heck" and "golly gee" too much, and he wears pastel sweaters, but in the great debate he appeared genuinely statesmanlike. There were no wimp images on the screen when Bush's face was there. He even, rather combatively, insisted on calling Pete DuPont "Pierre." By doing so, Bush was signaling that he is a Texas oil wildcatter and no wimpish "Pierre."

DuPont is also no wimp, but a serious candidate. He signaled this by openly attacking Bush and Dole for lack of vision, and by being very specific about his various positions. For example, he wants to phase out farm subsidies in five years. Home run. He wants teen-agers drug tested for their automobile licenses. Home run.

Bob Dole played his cards close to his chest. His game was not to come over cynical and witty, which he is, but to appear concerned, statesmanlike and a reconciler. He did well.

Jack Kemp profited by the concurrent re-focus on economic issues, which are his strong point. Even the "pragmatists" at the Treasury Department have recently been talking about a dollar pegged to a selection of commodities. For years, Kemp has been talking about a stable currency in similar terms. Secretary Jim Baker got some media praise for gingerly embracing Kemp's theme, but Kemp deserves credit and did well on the tube.

Pat Robertson had to prove that he is not a religious fanatic, and he did so. He sounded patriotic themes and stressed family values. As a conservative Republican contender, Robertson had to show that he is plausible, and he certainly did so.

Even Alexander "I'm-in-Charge" Haig looked pretty good, especially when he talked about the balance of power in Europe.

ROBERT WALTERS

Toward Economic Prosperity

WASHINGTON—The long-range task facing Congress and the White House is to reestablish America's economic independence.

Much of our economic independence has been lost in recent years because of the insistence of the American people that they have their cake and eat it too.

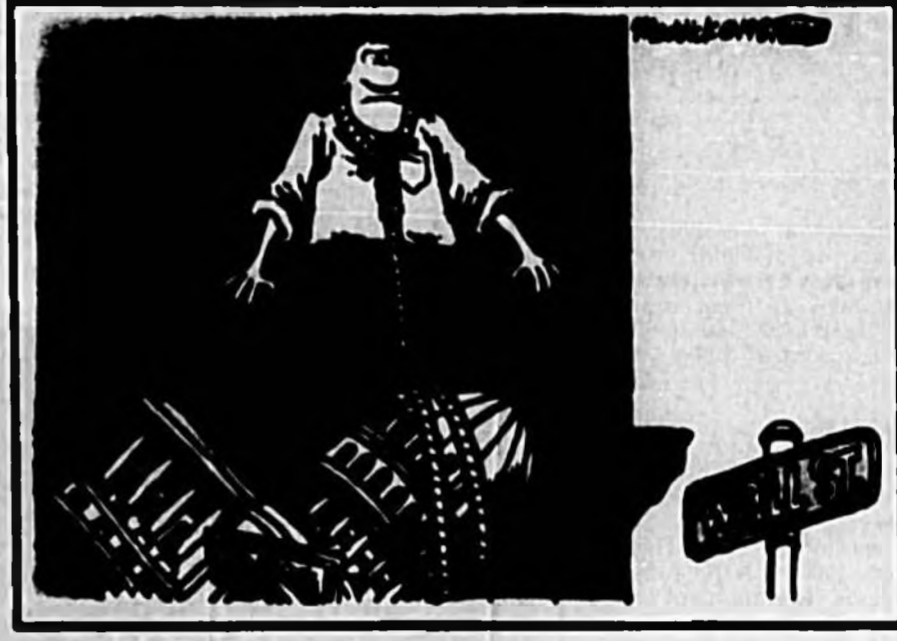

Congress deserves blame for fiscal irresponsibility. The White House also is to be blamed for supporting a "Growth" policy that amounted to a borrow and spend policy. But the Legislative and Executive branches were only responding to the hurtful demands of the American people. They didn't want the country's belt to be tightened. They insisted on government programs and services that they couldn't afford. As has been noted many times, a people get the government they deserve. In recent years, the idea of thrift has been rejected by millions of Americans as an old-fashioned idea. In their personal lives, millions of Americans live with credit card debt.

Now, the charade can't continue. For a number of years, Americans, including government officials, have counted on foreign lending to make up for a lack of American savings and investment. As a result, we have an investment rate only a little above that of Great Britain.

The foreign lenders are nervous. They note that the United States shows no inclination to address the budget deficit. And while the Japanese have profited enormously from the targeting of U.S. industries, they also apparently have come to recognize that their short-term gains have produced adverse effects over the long haul. Foreign countries can't dominate our domestic market, pulling out scores of billions of dollars each year, without weakening the American capacity to purchase goods in the future. In short, the foreign trade offensives are self-defeating over the long-term as they weaken America's economy.

Congress and the Executives have been negotiating a budget cut as a result of a shock—the stock market crash. One hopes that the cut will be a real one, not simply accounting tricks. Budgetary sleight of hand won't fool anyone at this juncture.

The U.S. public also must not fool itself about the loss of American economic independence. In recent weeks, Americans have learned that the U.S. is highly vulnerable to actions in stock markets in Tokyo and elsewhere. Business leaders and officials are suggesting that the U.S. must shape fiscal and monetary decisions.

ANTHONY HORGAN

And The 'Enemy' Is Us

NEW YORK (NEA) — In the popular albeit misleading version of the economic struggle between this country and Japan, "American corporations are portrayed as the hapless victims of a second Pearl Harbor," notes Steve Max.

Domestic companies are stereotyped "as straight shooters and fair fighters in a world where sneaky foreigners cheat," says Max, economic policy director of Citizen Action, a national coalition of community organizations.

"In reality, the game is quite different," he adds, debunking the conventional wisdom that "in international trade competition, it's always our country against some other country."

In an era of intense global competition and transnational corporate relationships, identifying the country of origin of either the participants in the worldwide economy or the goods they produce is becoming increasingly difficult.

"National boundaries fade before the new internationalization of production," notes Max, who cites Taiwan as an especially vivid example of that phenomenon.

"Very few Taiwanese companies export... to the United States," the Wall Street Journal reported earlier this year. "Instead, Americans come here to send back to the United States, under American brand names, everything from cheap shoes to consumer electronics."

Reporting that "many American companies operate their own Taiwanese factories solely to ship products back home," the Journal said 83 percent of the 7 million bicycles imported into the United States last year were from Taiwan.

But "there isn't any Taiwanese bicycle company that competes in the United States," acknowledges a vice president of the firm that makes Schwinn bikes. "It's only American brand names and American companies. The competition from Taiwan is us."

That disturbs many politicians, including the Rev. Jesse Jackson, who regularly offers these observations as he runs for next year's Democratic presidential nomination.

"These major American corporations are getting the best years of our labor, getting their profit from America and then reserving the right to close plants on us without notice."

SCIENCE WORLD

Disease Returning?

By Delphis Richs
UPI Science Writer

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Acute rheumatic fever, which has been on a precipitous decline in the United States since the beginning of the 20th century, may be making a comeback.

The disorder, caused by a bacterial infection, primarily strikes school age children and rarely is seen after the age of 18.

But in a series of studies nationwide, researchers are finding a perplexing increase in the number rheumatic fever cases, many that begin with a bout of pharyngitis—a sore throat—one of the precursors to the disease.

Although a sore throat may be the only symptom experienced by some children, more serious complications can develop as the bacterium prompts the body to develop antibodies that zero in on the heart, joints and kidneys.

Still, the apparent resurgence of acute rheumatic fever has caught some scientists by surprise because the disease had decreased so dramatically in the U.S. as the use of antibiotics became more widespread. By the early 1970s it was rarely seen.

Recorded nationwide occurrences of rheumatic fever between 1977 and 1981 registered lows of 0.5 to 1.88 cases per every 100,000 people in the population compared to highs of 40 to 65 per 100,000 between 1935 and 1960.

"It was common years ago to find hospital wards full of children with rheumatic fever or rheumatic heart disease," said Dr. John Koenig, a pediatrician at Valley Presbyterian Hospital in Van Nuys. "You can treat this successfully with penicillin. But he said there is a strain of the streptococcus bacterium being seen more and more across the country that may not respond to the usual 10-day penicillin treatment.

Dr. Stephen Redd, medical epidemiologist for the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta, says federal officials are investigating several reports of the resurgent illness but noted that reasons for the apparent increase have escaped explanation.

"There are places in the country, such as Utah and Ohio, where there has been marked increases. But it's all very spotty because there are other areas where there are no incidents at all.

"We're finding that the infection rate varies from region to region," Redd noted.

Four rheumatic fever cases have been treated at Valley Presbyterian in the past four months and a comparable number of children have been seen within the same period at Children's Hospital in Los Angeles, Koenig said.

But the fraction of cases in the Los Angeles basin pales in comparison to the large clusters reported in Columbus, Ohio where 40 cases were seen over a period of 18 months and in Salt Lake City where 74 patients were seen within the same length of time.

Significant clusters of the disorder also have been detected in Dallas, Denver, Pittsburgh and Arkon, Ohio.

Koenig believes that the streptococcal strain being seen increasingly among patients with rheumatic fever is not a new bacterium but one that apparently had been dormant in the environment and again is causing infections.

JACK ANDERSON

Now Carlucci Story Can Be told

By Jack Anderson
And Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON—Now is the time for us to tell a story we have been sitting on for more than 12 years. It concerns Frank Carlucci, President Reagan's national security adviser and his choice to replace Caspar Weinberger as defense secretary.

The story involves Carlucci's personal values—his character, if you will. We have not been caught up in the fever of moral oneness that has become so politically trendy of late, but we believe the story casts pertinent light on Carlucci's attitude toward the unwritten rules of the bureaucratic system he has mastered over the years. Here are the details:

By the mid-1970s, Carlucci had risen through the ranks of the career Foreign Service, been director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, deputy director of the Office of Management and Budget, and undersecretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. In December 1974, Carlucci's success was capped when President Ford named him ambassador to Portugal.

Over the years, Carlucci had earned a reputation for integrity, toughness and personal courage. Indeed, he survived a stabbing as he was rescuing a group of Americans from an angry mob in the Congo (now Zaire).

For all his professional achievements Carlucci's private life was far from serene. By 1974, he was legally separated from his wife and was getting a divorce. Meanwhile, he had developed a close personal relationship with an administrative assistant he worked with at HEW, Marcia Myers.

According to several sources, Carlucci took Myers along when he reported to Lisbon as ambassador in January 1975. She became his special assistant, with the rank of Foreign Service Reserve Officer, Grade 4. One of our sources said Lisbon embassy employees were quite upset, because Myers' appointment "took a job from someone." Another source told us at the time that the embassy "had to shift people around" to make room for Myers, and "an assistant administrative officer (was) tossed out."

Our sources said concern was so great in Foggy Bottom that senior officials asked then-Secretary of State Henry Kissinger to intervene. One well-placed source said Kissinger had at least one conversation with Carlucci about the situation.

Several months after he took up his post in Lisbon, Carlucci's divorce became final. He and Myers were married on April 15, 1976.

Why didn't we publish this story when we first nailed it down in 1975? Just as we were about to, we received urgent telephone calls from two high government officials whom we knew and trusted. They pleaded with us not to send out the story, on the grounds that Carlucci's first wife and their two children, already traumatized by the separation and divorce proceedings, would suffer additional emotional distress.

Our callers provided sufficient detail to convince us to sit on the story.

So we elected to sit on the story. Carlucci has since gone on to serve with distinction as deputy director of the CIA, deputy defense secretary and national security adviser.

We believe, however, that the manner in which professional Foreign Service employees were shunted around, so that Carlucci's friend could get a job that others worked hard for, deserves to be aired as he takes over the biggest bureaucracy in the government.

Rabbi Softens School Suit Threat On Religious Holiday

By Brian Hedberg
Herald Staff Writer

A rabbi's earlier threat to sue the Seminole County School Board for "religious discrimination" softened to a request for a school policy change at the Tuesday school board meeting.

Rabbi Maurice Kaprow proposed a makeup work policy for students who miss school with an excused absence due to religious holidays.

The school board recommended that Kaprow work with its policy advisory committee—made up of teachers, parents and school administrators—to come up with something to present to the board for consideration.

The committee's policy draft will be considered for implementation in the 1988-89 school year.

Kaprow's son Mark had an excused absence Sept. 24 and 25 to celebrate Rosh Hashana, the Jewish new year, with his family. As a consequence, Kaprow said, Mark must take an essay test to make up a missed history exam. The exam was both multiple choice and essay for other students, he said.

When Kaprow confronted teachers about the difference in exams, he said they told him, "teachers can give any kind of exams they want." The rabbi said there is no set policy about how to make up classwork missed due to religious absence.

Earlier this month, the Altamonte Springs rabbi had said he intended to sue the Seminole County School District for more than $1 million in U.S. District Court, claiming religious discrimination.

Kaprow's suggested policy for such makeup work included that makeup exams be of the same type and format as the original exam, be administered during the regular school day and be given within three school days after the student's return.

Mark, a Lake Mary High junior, has not taken the history test, Kaprow said, because teacher Janice Blackwelder required that all makeup tests be completely essay and taken after school on Wednesdays.

The county Student Conduct and Discipline Code booklet says absences due to religious holidays due to religious holidays are excused. Districts allow teachers to set their own makeup exam policies.

"Religious absence is a constitutionally guaranteed right," Kaprow said. "It is my intention and hope that you will be able to make a prospective policy for students who miss exams due to religious absence."

During the next several weeks, he hopes to work out a makeup work policy for those of any religion who must miss school, he said.

Kaprow told school board members that computer discs, costing $39.95 each, are available that allow teachers to construct multiple versions of the same exam. He said the discs can be used on Apple computers owned by Seminole County schools.

"My recommendation is that the board accept this policy as presented. I don't think it is appropriate for me to write policy for the schools of Seminole County."

Joseph Williams Jr., newly re-elected chairman of the school board, said he respected Kaprow's understanding of policy-making procedure, but added, "I don't think we can create a policy in any short period of time."

Agencies Cooperate To Help Hungry

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

Local agencies are cooperating in hopes the hungry of Sanford will not be forgotten at Thanksgiving time. In addition to special turkey dinners being served at Manna Haven, Sanford, baskets each containing a turkey and other food will be distributed to 50 needy families Tuesday and Wednesday.

The baskets will be distributed to recipients referred by the Seminole County Schools' social workers from Manna Haven in Sanford on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Barbara West, director of Manna Haven—a ministry to the hungry in Sanford, said the Rotary Club of Longwood will be furnishing the turkeys. Canned goods are being collected by schools and churches to help fill the baskets.

Head school social worker Lola Jackson is coordinating the effort. Jackson said she is also working with the South Seminole Christian Sharing Center in Longwood, and various churches which are supplying baskets for needy families.

Jackson said, "There are so many families that need help and I am trying to get them matched with groups that want to help, but it's difficult. The agencies are short of money and food. It's going to be up to the community to open its heart at Thanksgiving and Christmas to try and help."

"There are people that need food right now," Jackson said. "I got a call last night about a family that didn't have anything to eat."

Manna Haven, which feeds 75-90 hungry people lunch everyday between 11 a.m. and 12:30 p.m., has "tremendous needs—both financial and foodwise", West said. She said these people are not transients, they are Sanford residents.

Volunteers from First United Methodist Church of Sanford will be preparing and serving a turkey dinner for the hungry at Manna Haven this Saturday during the regular hours.

Manna Haven will also be open on Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 26, to serve a Thanksgiving-style turkey dinner.

Victim Identified As Eddie Marshall

An apparent murder victim, whose body was found at the Pony League Baseball Field, State Road 419, rural Winter Springs, early Monday, has been identified as Eddie G. Marshall, 28, of 108 Cory Lane, Winter Springs.

Other than the release of Marshall's identity Tuesday, Seminole County sheriff's investigator Lt. George Hagood said there were no new developments in the case.

An autopsy showed that Marshall was killed by a single severe blow to the head with an unknown object. He had been dead about 24 hours before a Seminole County sheriff's deputy spotted his body near the roadway. Hagood said Marshall's body may have been dumped at the ball field. There was no identification on the body and Marshall was identified through a fingerprint comparison with prints on file with the Orange County sheriff's office.

American Smokeout Begins

Babies donned "I'm a Born Non-smoker" T-shirts and even Mr. Potato Head gave up his pipe to join millions of nicotine addicts edging through today's Great American Smokeout, but organizers said the event's own success was cutting participation.

"Smokeout is a highly successful event that focuses on the benefits of quitting in a friendly, peaceful and non-threatening way, without placing heavy emphasis on the health hazards of smoking," he said.

Americans warmed up for the 11th annual event with activities from coast-to-coast, releasing 10,000 balloons at a Smokeout pep rally in San Diego and tossing jumbo cigarette packs into a bonfire in Miami.

In New York, a stage full of Broadway entertainers sang an original Smokeout song, "Don't Let Your Life Go Up in Smoke." The song was written by Bernie Wayne, composer of "Blue Velvet" and the Miss America theme.

The American Cancer Society predicted 20 million people would refrain from lighting up through the 24-hour nicotine fast that ends at midnight tonight, 3 million less than last year's record participation.

The reason is that fewer Americans smoke, 50 million compared with 54 million last year, and the Great American Smokeout gets some of the credit, said Cancer Society President Harmon J. Eyre.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Nicaragua's Assembly Delays Pardon Of Political Prisoners

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — Nicaragua's Sandinista dominated National Assembly Wednesday approved an amnesty law that will not go into effect until the United States halts assistance to Contra rebels.

The 98-member legislature also delayed the presidential pardon of nearly 1,000 political prisoners until Friday because of a controversy over which prisoners should be covered.

By a vote of 65-8, the Assembly approved an amnesty for political prisoners convicted under a Sandinista internal security law.

The law was proposed Nov. 5 by President Daniel Ortega to comply with a Central America peace plan. It specifically excludes double spies and an estimated 2,500 members of former President Anastasio Somoza's National Guard jailed when the Sandinistas overthrew Somoza in a July 1979 revolution.

Bigamist 'Phenomenon' Jailed

LONDON (UPI) — A woman whose eight husbands included six soldiers and one sailor was sentenced to six months in jail for bigamy by a judge who called her "a phenomenon I have not met before."

Police said Patricia Jackson began her "marriage-ground" in 1971 when she legally married a soldier. Authorities said Jackson was married for a total of eight times — four times she married while already still wed to someone else.

Six of her husbands were soldiers and one a sailor. A witness told the court that some of her marriages lasted only a matter of days.

According to the Daily Express, Pat Scott, a one-time friend of Jackson, said, "I think the uniforms turned her on. I don't know how she fooled so many men."

Democrats, Republicans Generally Praise Final Iran-Contra Report

By BOB NEWMAN
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Joining Democrats and most of their Republican colleagues in applauding the final Iran-Contra report, congressional GOP leaders say the document puts the scandal "in perspective" and offers "some hard lessons about how a government should and should not conduct itself."

That reaction seemed to embrace the general consensus on Capitol Hill when the long-awaited report was finally released Wednesday. Democrats were more enthusiastic in many cases, but most Republicans did not join those in the right wing of their party in condemning the effort as a partisan failure.

The extensive report was signed by all 15 Democrats and three Republicans on the House and Senate committees that investigated the Iran-Contra crisis, with eight Republican panelists writing a critical and caustic minority dissent.

Sen. Warren Rudman of New Hampshire, the Senate committee vice chairman and one of the Republicans who signed the majority report, denounced the dissent as "pathetic" and harshly remarked that his colleagues had "separated the wheat from the chaff and unfortunately printed the chaff."

Senate Republican leader Robert Dole of Kansas appeared to agree, at least on the point that the majority report was "on the whole" a fair one.

"(This) depicts a flawed decision-making process and the failure of those around the president to advise him properly," said Dole, a 1988 presidential contender. "All of us have learned some hard lessons about how a government should and should not conduct itself."

House Republican leader Robert Michel of Illinois said the report "puts this rather complex matter in perspective," and he called on Reagan and Congress in the future "to work together in the foreign policy interests of the nation."

House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, assessed the report as "a clean, inclusive, straightforward analysis" of the president's worst crisis and said he shared its conclusions. The investigating panels, he added, "were eminently fair."

Others found little to praise. "It started out as a witchhunt; it proceeded as a witchhunt and the final report indicated it was indeed a witchhunt," said Rep. Henry Hyde, R-Ill., a member of the House committee who signed the minority dissent.

Sen. Howell Heflin of Alabama, a Democrat who signed the majority report, said it nonetheless went "too far" in saying Reagan failed to fulfill his constitutional duty to faithfully execute the laws.

Heflin suggested Reagan, rather than being ignorant of the activities of his aides, may have been "a betrayed president" purposely kept in the dark.

Either way, said Sen. Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, chairman of the Senate panel, Reagan deserves criticism.

Report: Reagan Administration Duped By Iranian Negotiators

By RICHARD SALE
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration that declared it would never bargain with terrorists turned out to be an easy mark for Iranian negotiators, even dealing with the same agent who engineered the kidnapping of CIA operative William Buckley, congressional investigators found.

Though President Reagan emphatically denied ever dealing directly with the captors of American hostages, the report of the House and Senate committees that investigated the Iran-Contra scandal made clear that his administration sold arms not to Iranian "moderates" but to hard-line Revolutionary Guards.

"Taken to the Cleaners" is the title of one section of the 690-page report released Wednesday. It concluded bluntly that in secretly selling weapons to Iran, the tough-talking administration "yielded to virtually every demand the Iranians had ever put on the table."

Furthermore, as Iran repeatedly breached promises to arrange release of the hostages, Reagan allowed his administration to continue defying an existing arms embargo against Iran and a longstanding public policy against providing weapons to nations that sponsor terrorism, the report said.

"All U.S. positions and principles were negotiable and breached by Iran went unpunished," it said. "Whatever Iran did, the U.S. could be brought back to the arms bargaining table by the promise of another hostage."

A committee source revealed one of the darkest findings Wednesday in regard to Buckley, the CIA's station chief in Beirut, Lebanon, who was kidnapped March 16, 1984, and who subsequently died in captivity.

The report confirmed that Buckley was tortured by the Ayatollah Khomeini's Revolutionary Guards, and the source noted, "The U.S. government was told the person they were dealing with engineered the kidnapping of Buckley."

It was in August 1985 when U.S. officials employed Israel to sell 96 TOW anti-tank missiles to Iran in a deal for the release of all three American hostages at the time, the report said.

Despite the shipment of American-made arms, "no hostages were released." An additional 400 TOWs were purchased by Iranian middleman Manucher Ghorbanifar from the Israelis, and finally Sept. 15, hostage Benjamin Weir was freed.

"We are satisfied from our review of all the evidence that the president was informed and approved of the transfer," the committees said, addressing one of the key questions remaining in the affair. Reagan has said he cannot remember whether he gave advance approval to the initial transactions.

In November 1985, Israel delivered Hawk anti-aircraft missiles to Iran with CIA participation, but the report found "the wrong model" was sent and the deal collapsed. The committees noted, "The shipment of Hawks to Iran was bad policy, badly planned and badly executed."

After Reagan decided in late 1985 that weapons for Iran would come directly from the United States, Iranian and Israeli middlemen presented the National Security Council staff a proposal in which 600 TOW missiles would equal "one release" of a hostage, the report said.

In a later plan put together by Lt. Col. Oliver North, the NSC deputy fired for his central role in the scandal, this figure was changed to 300 TOWs as the value of freedom for one hostage.

Despite opposition from Secretary of State George Shultz, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger and White House chief of staff Donald Regan, the president approved the plan Jan. 17, 1986, believing "that delivery of 1,000 TOWs would cause the release of all U.S. hostages," according to the report.

True to form, however, a shipment of 300 TOWs the next month "did not gain the release of any hostages," the investigators found.

Stepping Up United Lake Howell Runs Toward State Prominence

By Chris Flater
Herald Sports Writer

After finishing out of the top spot the first two meets of the year, there was some uncertainty as to what kind of season Lake Howell's Lady Silver Hawks would have.

But what kind of year it could have been and what kind of year the Lady Silver Hawks have made it are two different things. Through sheer effort, determination and team unity, Lake Howell has risen to the top once again.

The Lady Hawks hope to keep their goal of one more step forward going Saturday when they compete in the Class 4A State Cross Country Championships at Dunn Airpark in Titusville. Lake Howell's race is the first of the day, beginning at 8 a.m.

"It's phenomenal to see where they've started and where they are now," Lake Howell coach Tom Hammontree said. "Whatever happens, they are a unique team. The success they've had came through talent they developed and deserved."

Cross Country

We look at the positives and don't worry about the negatives. The only thing you have control over is the talents you've been given to use and use them for the right reasons."

With a number of new and inexperienced runners and some key injuries early, Lake Howell started the season rather slowly, by its standards, as it finished second to Lake Brantley in the Lake Mary Opener and third to Palm Bay and Lake Mary at the Edgewater Invitational.

But, then, the young runners began the blossom, the injuries began to heal and the Lady Hawks re-established themselves as one of the state's best. It was at the Seminole County Postal Run where the Lake Howell pack attack hit its stride with a convincing first place and the Lady Hawks followed it up with first places in the DeLand Invitational and Boone Invitational.

Lady Patriots Ready For State

By Chris Flater
Herald Sports Writer

A couple of the classic blunders include, one: never get involved in a land war in Asia; and two: never count out the Lake Brantley volleyball team.

The Lady Patriots have shown that they can not only sustain a lead but are able to come from behind when necessary.

In two of its last three matches, Lake Brantley has won the first game, dropped the second, and come back to control the third. The most notable comeback by the Lady Patriots occurred last Friday in the 4A-3 Section playoff when Brantley rallied from a loss in the first game and a 12-7 deficit in the second to claim a 12-15, 15-12, 15-9 victory over Merritt Island.

The fact is, that no matter how awesome the opponent looks and how far ahead or behind they are, the Lady Patriots always believe they can win.

"That's why we've gotten where we are," Brantley coach Stephanie Glance said. "The girls have never at any time believed they were going to lose. Everybody uses what they have and plays to their full potential."

Lake Brantley, 23-7 for the season, opens play in its first ever Class 4A State Tournament Friday night at 5 at Lake Brantley High. The Lady Patriots' opponent is panhandle survivor Choctawhatchee. At 4 p.m., Seffner Armwood (24-3) takes on Miami Sunset (38-1).

"We had great practices this week," Glance said. "Things are really looking good and the girls are ecstatic to be here."

The Lake Brantley starting six includes seniors Wendy Vickery and Kim Gunderson, Juniors Dawn Gebhart, Barb Billmyer and Marianne Rodriguez and sophomore Jeanne Seidel. Junior Pam Wittig rotates in on the front row for Seidel.

Vickery, who did not play volleyball as a sophomore or junior, has been a steady player all year but especially effective in the playoffs.

"She has done an unbelievable job for someone who really only has one year of experience," Glance said of Vickery. "She's been consistent all year but she really came alive in the district tournament and has not let up since."

Gunderson, a 6-0 transfer from Texas, has been a fine addition to an already strong Lake Brantley attack.

"When she (Gunderson) is aggressive and gets up off the floor, she really puts the ball down," Glance said. "She had an excellent match against Merritt Island with her blocking and hitting."

Gebhart, a starter for Brantley since her freshman season, has fine-tuned an already strong all-around game to become one of the area's best this season.

"Dawn is one of the best all-around players around," Glance said. "She's flashy on the front row but she also does some outstanding things that go unnoticed on the back row."

Billmyer, in her first year of varsity volleyball for Brantley, has been another consistent all-around player and has been an especially effective server in the playoffs.

"She's one of those players who doesn't really pound the ball to the floor but she does some key things at the net and is very consistent all-around," Glance said of Billmyer. "She also had a great match against Merritt Island."

Rodriguez, starting at setter for the second year in a row, is the glue that holds the Lake Brantley attack together.

"She's our only setter and has carried us through all season," Glance said of Rodriguez. "She always gets the job done and always keeps her composure."

Seidel is the defensive

Lake Brantley's Wendy Vickery puts a spike past the Merritt Island block in the 4A-3 Section playoff. Brantley plays Choctawhatchee Friday night at 5 in the Class 4A State Tournament.

5A-4: DeLand To Host, Lake Howell Gets Bye

By Scott Sander
Herald Sports Writer

The District 5A-4 playoff between DeLand, Lake Howell, and Lake Mary will be played on Monday, Nov. 23 at 8 at DeLand's Spec Martin Stadium. DeLand and Lake Mary will square off in the first playoff, with the winner taking on Lake Howell. Howell drew the bye. Admission is $2.50.

On Wednesday morning at Lake Mary High School, the site and bye was determined for the playoff. The athletic director of each school called the flip of a coin.

A new system was used this year. Each athletic director agreed that the team that was awarded the site would be ineligible for the bye. In a playoff last season between Lake Howell, Apopka, and Winter Park, Apopka drew the home site and the bye.

DeLand won the flip of a coin for the home field, leaving Lake Mary and Lake Howell in contention for the bye. Howell and Mary flipped for the bye, and Howell won.

The tie will be broken by the Kansas Tiebreaker System. Each team will get the ball at the 10-yard line and have four downs to score. If both team score the same number of points, the process begins again.

Lake Howell coach Mike Biscaglia, whose team lost to Apopka in a three-way tiebreaker last season, said he was pleased to get the bye. "There is no doubt that the bye is a big advantage," Biscaglia said. "Last year, we won the first round against Winter Park, but lost the second round against Apopka. I'm really happy to have gotten that bye."

DeLand coach Dave Hiss said that he would gladly exchange the home site for the bye. "If Mike (Biscaglia) wants to switch, I'd be more than happy to go to Lake Howell with the bye," Hiss said. "The home field isn't that big of a deal."

Lake Mary coach Harry Nelson wasn't too happy about losing the site and the bye. "As usual, we are going to have to do things the hard way," Nelson said. "But that is nothing new."

All three coaches said that if they get a chance, they will go on defense first. "Any dummy knows that you should go on defensive first," Nelson said.

"It gives you a choice to make. You are in the drivers' seat," Biscaglia said.

"We have won two overtime games this season, and have gone on defense first in both of them," Hiss said.

Don't Neglect Your Boat Trailer

Fishermen pay plenty of attention to their boats, motors, and fishing equipment, but often neglect the most important part of their entire rig — the boat trailer.

A fishing boat spends more time and travels more miles on the trailer than on the water, yet many anglers are "penny wise and pound foolish" when it comes to purchasing a trailer for their boat. They want the fanciest boat they can afford, and the most powerful outboard possible, but they don't want to spend the extra bucks to put enough trailer under their boat. This leads to the single most common error in choice made by many anglers—trying to put too much boat on too little trailer.

Quite a few anglers try to cut corners and fit a twenty-foot boat on a trailer that is designed to support an eighteen footer of average weight. Such decisions can lead to drastic consequences and can result in damage to your new boat. Leaf springs can snap, axles can break, roller supports can collapse—the list of nightmares goes on.

The trailer bed must be long enough to suitably accommodate the entire length of the hull, with the rear supports exactly under the transom, especially if it's an outboard. There must be enough keel rollers and side supports so that the boat can easily be launched and put back on the trailer, and so it won't rock from side to side when on the road. The hull must also be supported in enough places so it won't be damaged or change shape from being on the trailer.

A friend of mine purchased a brand-new center console boat, powered by a new outboard, and placed it on a skimpy trailer in order to save a few bucks. The bargain basement trailer didn't support the boat properly, and the end result was cracks and structural damage to the hull of the new boat.

It is more economical in the long run to PURCHASE TOO MUCH TRAILER FOR YOUR BOAT — the exact reverse of what is done by the average boat buyer. It only costs a few more dollars (relatively speaking) to purchase a trailer that is made of heavier gauge metal and sturdier structural components. There are different grades of boat trailers just as there are different grades of boats.

Many sale price boats are put on inferior trailers in order to keep the price down. When you look at a new boat, don't be distracted by all the glitter. Take a hard, practical look at the trailer. The trailer you decide to purchase will have a direct bearing on how well you protect the boat of your dreams.

SHUPE'S SCOOP: It is always wise to purchase a galvanized trailer. Many boat trailers cannot ever be used safely in salt water because they are made of painted, untreated metal.

Packing Up Tight Five Key For Lady Rams At State

By Mark Mythe
Special to the Herald
Coach Mike Gibson and his Lake Mary Lady Rams have relied on an entire team effort in each race this season and it has paid off in a berth in the Class 4A State Championships.

The Lady Rams go to Saturday's meet with one of the state's strongest packs.

"I don't see anyone in the state having as strong or stronger five runners than we do," Lake Mary coach Mike Gibson said. "That's based on the results from the regional meets last week which should be a good indicator on how everyone is running."

Lake Mary has not been to the state meet since 1984 when it made it by supplanting a strong Boone squad. Gibson, though, feels the way his team has been running this year that his team can top the 12th place finish of '84.

"The team really runs together," Gibson said. "They go out fast, then come together in the middle and work their way up over the last mile."

Gibson also feels that the Lady Rams style of racing will help them in the state meet due to the course in which they will be running on.

"It will be important for us to get out fast in this meet," Gibson said. "After about three quarters of a mile there are sharp turns on a hill, and when the runners reach that point there isn't a lot of passing so our style of running should work to our advantage."

Allison Snell has been leading the way for Lake Mary over the past few weeks and has applied pressure to the frontrunners in each race.

After Snell captured the district title, she finished ninth overall in the regional meet last week.

"I finally conquered the mental part of the race," Snell said. "Once I beat some front runners in the county I gained some confidence and feel I can beat those people again."

"The team has good morale and a great mental attitude," Snell said. "We're all together and want to do really well since Lake Mary might not make it back to the state meet for a while."

Lake Mary, in the regional meet, is ranked eighth in the state poll. Lake Howell, who won the regional meet, is ranked as the state's fourth best team.

"We only lost to Lake Howell by ten points in the regional meet so we're very close to being in the state's top five," Gibson said. "Our first goal is to finish in the top 10, but we would like to finish in the top five. Our ultimate goal would be to win the meet."

Gibson has never won a state meet at Lake Mary or Lake Brantley where he had many good teams. "I've had three runnerups," Gibson said. "No one has a real lock on the title this year and we have to be listed as a possibility to win."

The Lady Rams have Snell out in front but the team has five seniors on the varsity squad which have added strong depth all season.

Heather Heikkila, the team's captain, will have to do more than run for her team Saturday as she needs to relax the runners before the race.

"We can do really well if we take some pressure off ourselves," Heikkila said. "I just want to make sure we go out and have fun, we seem to do better if we don't worry about the race."

"This is a very close team," Heikkila added. "We realize we can do well and want to give it our best shot."

Heikkila is a four-year member of Lake Mary cross country and this is her first time making it to the state meet.

"If I don't do anything now it's all over," Heikkila said. "We all know that this is the last race and that we have to go out there and do our best."

Another senior, Tara Braheny, has been a pleasant addition to this year's squad. Braheny had previously run for Lyman but decided a transfer would be in her best interest and things have turned out nicely.

"The different running techniques is the major difference," Braheny said. "Coach Gibson's style was easy for me to adapt to and made running more enjoyable."

"Our pack has really pulled together to help us in the last few meets," Braheny added. "When our pack is tight is when we seem to do better."

Seniors Christine Adamson and Tabatha Gano have been a strong support for the Lady Rams this season. Both Gano and Adamson have aided greatly to the post season efforts. Sophomore Kwaja Floyd and Junior Shannon Duffy have also come on strong for the Lady Rams in the late season.

Lake Mary is hoping to pull that pack together and put it close to the front Saturday to put themselves in the race.

"We'll need our frontrunner to finish around 15th and have the pack within 30 seconds to have a shot," Gibson said. "We would like it if Allison (Snell) could finish in the top 10. She has the talent and it appears she's taken pretty good care of the mental aspect of the race."

specialist for the Lady Patriots and has been a key figure in keeping rallies alive with back row digs along with being consistent as the first server in the rotation.

"She's still young, but she is already an outstanding defensive player," Glance said of Seidel. "She has come through with some big plays in the back row."

Wittig comes in to play front row for Seidel and is another steady offensive player for the Lady Patriots.

"She's a very good blocker and hitter and when she gets a hold of one she really nails it," Glance said of Wittig. "She's also very smart at the net in knowing when to hit and when to dink."

The bench strength for the Lady Patriots is provided by seniors Heather Meyer, Renee Upson and Tina Graue and Juniors Dana Bush and Gretchen Mull.

"I feel very confident the players on the bench would come through if I had to go to them," Glance said. "Even in pressure situations I know they can get the job done."

Near-Perfect Graf Crushes Garrsion

NEW YORK (UPI) — Still something short of perfect, Steffi Graf has left herself a slim opening for improvement.

With only two losses in 74 matches this year, plus the No. 1 world ranking, Graf will be an almost impossible act to follow, even for herself.

Still, taking the optimistic viewpoint of an 18-year-old, Graf is eager to accept the challenge.

"In the beginning of this year I never thought I could become No. 1," Graf said Wednesday night after crushing Zina Garrison, 6-0, 6-3, in the opening round of the $1 million Virginia Slims Championships. "The year was really great. I hope to continue it."

"It will be difficult to top this year, but there's a possibility. I did lose twice this year."

Tennis

Graf will be back for her second-round match tonight against seventh seed Helena Sukova, who overcame a 3-1 deficit in the second set to defeat Lori McNeil, 2-6, 7-5, 6-2. Graf is 5-1 lifetime against Sukova, sweeping their last five meetings.

The other match tonight pairs the only two unseeded players to survive the opening round, Raffaella Reggi of Italy and Sylvia Hanika of West Germany.

In the other match played Tuesday night, fourth seed Pam Shriver was extended for an hour and 45 minutes before subduing Katerina Maleeva, 6-1, 3-6, 6-3.

Ainge's 33 Leads Boston

United Press International
 With Larry Bird limping and unable to play on two sore ankles, Danny Ainge filled the void for the Boston Celtics Wednesday night.
 Ainge scored a game-high 33 points, including six 3-pointers, to help the Celtics to a 111-109 double-overtime victory over the New York Knicks. Bird, suffering from mild tendinitis in both ankles, went through pre-game warm-ups but sat out the game.
 The marathon ended with no time left in the second overtime as Darren Daye, who replaced Bird in the starting lineup, tipped in Dennis Johnson's missed shot.
 The Celtics played poorly in the first half, going 0 for 19 from the field in the second quarter. It got so bad that Bird deserted the Boston Garden at halftime.
 "He joined the stampede and left," Celtics Coach K.C. Jones said.
 Ainge took over after intermission and his long-range shooting helped the Celtics overcome a 28-point deficit.
 "Danny Ainge is the definition of clutch," New York Coach Rick Pitino said. "His 3-pointers took the momentum away from us and brought it to their side."

and scored 19 points and Michael Jordan scored 30 points to lead Chicago. Oakley recorded his fourth 20-rebound game of the season. John Williams led Washington with 17 points and Bernard King added 16.
Hawks 85, Warriors 82
 At Atlanta, Dominique Wilkins scored 22 points to help the Hawks hand the Warriors their fourth straight loss. Golden State, 1-7, was paced by Eric Floyd with 26 points.

 At Pontiac, Mich., Maurice Cheeks scored 11 of his 25 points in the final period to propel Philadelphia. The loss ended Detroit's 12-game home winning streak and its string of six straight victories over the 76ers.
Mavericks 97, Clippers 87
 At Dallas, Mark Aguirre scored 31 points and Roy Tarpley helped repel a Los Angeles challenge in the fourth quarter with a steal, an assist and a pair of offensive rebounds. Michael Cage scored a season-high 24 points for the Clippers.

 At Phoenix, Walter Davis scored 34 points for the Suns. Phoenix shot only 37 percent from the floor, but converted 28

Choctaw Finds Right Combination

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer
 Fort Walton Beach
 Choctawhatchee is proof positive that a team which finds the right combination at the right time can go a long way.
 Wallowing in mediocrity midway through the year, coach Melody Jackson revamped the Choctaw lineup and the result is a berth in the Class 4A State Tournament. Choctawhatchee, 17-12 for the season, takes on Lake Brantley Friday night at 5 in the second semifinal match at Lake Brantley High. In the first semifinal, beginning at 4, Seffner Armwood battles Miami Sunset.
 "We were up and down all year," Jackson said. "We knew the talent was there, it just took us a while to find the right combination. We stayed patient, though, until we did get the right combination and it has really paid off in the playoffs."

 Choctawhatchee, making its second state tourney appearance (the first in 1984), defeated Panama City Mosley in the District 2 final, Pensacola Pine Forest in Region 1 and Gainesville Buchholz in Section 1.
 "Even though we were 13-12 going in, we were favored to win the district," Jackson said. "The regional could have gone either way, we were both 15-12, and in the section, Buchholz (24-4) was favored but we had our best match yet (15-10, 15-10 victory).
 "Our main strength in the playoffs has been serving," Jackson added. "Our excellent serving was taking the offense away from the opposing team all three matches."
 Choctawhatchee has five seniors and one junior in its starting lineup, none of which,

Jackson says, are over 5-9. The top hitters are seniors Dionne Knight and Kellie Jones while the setter is senior Vicki Lippincott and also starting are seniors Almae Hicks and Kim Clark and junior Ann Gudson.
 "We're not real overpowering by we have a very consistent offensive attack," Jackson said. "We did a lot of dinking and spiking combined against Buchholz and it worked pretty well."
 Lake Brantley coach Stephanie Glance said Choctaw's record means nothing at this point. The Lady Patriots still have to be at their best.
 "We can't overlook Choctawhatchee at all," Glance said. "Any team at this point can beat any other team. We have to be just as psyched as we have been throughout the playoffs."

...Hawks

 The Lake Howell team came together for its best performance of the season in winning the 4A-5 District crown and the Lady Hawks then traveled to Jupiter last week and claimed the 4A-3 Region title.
 "It's exciting to watch how the season has unfolded," Hammontree said. "The girls have done what they could and matured as individuals and athletes. And it's the type of team that they don't want to do anything else but improve each week and win."
 The 1987 Lake Howell team has only one senior in Bonnie Oliver and, after dental surgery kept her out of the early part of the season, she has been a tremendous team leader, particularly in the last few weeks. Oliver has been the team's number one runner in the district and region meets.
 "Being the only senior, Bonnie (Oliver) has taken the job as team leader and has done a super job," Hammontree said. "She will go out and run as hard as she can to help the team do its best."

 The juniors on the Lake Howell team include Jenny Bolt, Stacy Johnson and Michelle Lee and rounding out the squad are three freshmen, Michelle Cook, Jessica Cardarelli and Mariselle Lugo.
 "The mixture of the intensity of the upperclassmen with the anticipation of the freshmen has been neat to watch," Hammontree said. "Jenny (Bolt) has helped with the team leadership and I'm looking for Michelle (Lee) and Stacy (Johnson) to move up and do well this Saturday. The freshmen have been such a great addition to the team. Jessica (Cardarelli) has been consistent all year and Michelle (Cook) has really come on strong the last two meets."
 Oliver, Bolt and Lee all ran on last year's team which won the Class 4A state title while Johnson is a transfer from Trinity Prep. In this past Saturday's region meet, Oliver, Bolt, Cook and Cardarelli were Lake Howell's top four and they finished within 10 seconds of each other to lead the region triumph.
 "It would be nice to have seven within 20-25 seconds," Hammontree said. "The girls are mentally ready and looking forward to it. They realize the only thing they can do is go out and run the best they can, be aggressive and what happens, happens."

 Going into the meet, on paper, the favorites are Brandon, Pensacola Washington and Coral Springs. Lake Howell, running in its fifth consecutive state meet, is ranked fourth in the state going in.
 "We're probably in the best position we could be in," Hammontree said. "We started tapering about two weeks ago and working more on the mental aspect which is just as important as a hard workout. They've been spotty, but some anglers are getting some heavy stringers. Bays are rated as good, with some area fishermen catching 20 in a day. Get back off the main river channel and fish areas of moving water for the best action. Sunshines and stringers should also become more active with dropping water temperatures. Call Dori for the latest fishing information. Snook are still biting at Sebastian Inlet, but be prepared for slow bite if you plan to go on the weekend. Most of the snook are being caught between the bridge and the tip of the jetties on tips and plugs. If you want to catch a mild snook, use finger mullet on the bottom. Snook, redfish, and flounder are being caught by anglers using live bait. Most of the snook are averaging from 8-15 pounds. Captain Jack of Port Canaveral reports that offshore fishing was limited to last Saturday. A few anglers did well, but the results were spotty. The bad thing about this time of year is that few fishermen make it offshore on a regular basis, so it is hard to find out what the fish are up to. Inside the Port, look for flounder, sheepshead, bluefish, jack crevalle, and a few snook. Trout and redfish are really biting in the Banana and Indian Rivers. Fish the flats for sure action, but a lot of trout and snook are being caught in the bays canal on poppers and other surface plugs hitched on the top. You have to fish the bays canal early in the morning before the traffic builds up. Redfish have really been biting at the New Smyrna jetties. The bad news is that you can only keep one between 18" and 27". Sheepshead, drum, whiting and flounder are also being caught in good numbers.

of 35 attempts from the free-throw line. Karl Malone led the Jazz with 20 points.
Pacers 117, Nuggets 108
 At Denver, Vern Fleming scored a career-high 30 points to guide Indiana to its third straight road victory. The Pacers never trailed and led by 21 points early in the third period. Alex English led the Nuggets with 26 points. Lafayette Lever had 25, and Calvin Natt finished with 20.
Sonics 120, Blazers 114
 At Seattle, Xavier McDaniel scored 32 points, including a go-ahead stuff with 2:17 left, as Portland dropped its fifth straight. The Blazers' Kiki Vandeweghe led all scorers with 41 points, while Dale Ellis and Tom Chambers added 25 apiece for the Sonics.

Brandy Johnson To Compete In Japan Meets

By Chris Pieter
Herald Sports Writer

Altamonte Springs' Brandy Johnson has come a long way since starting her gymnastics career. And her ability in gymnastics is also sending her a long way — to Japan — to be exact.

Johnson and coach Kevin Brown of Brown's Gymnastics departed Orlando Delta-McCoy Jetport Wednesday morning for a trip to Japan to compete in a pair of prestigious international events, the Chunichi Cup in Nagoya and the Tokyo International Invitational.

Johnson, 14, will compete as a member of the U.S.A. Elite Juniors team which will be coached by Brown. This past summer, Johnson was the USA/Junior Olympic national all-around champion.

Along with the U.S. and host Japan, other nations that will send junior squads to the meet include Bulgaria, China, Great Britain, Hungary, Korea, Romania, Switzerland, Czechoslovakia, East Germany, West Germany, France and the Soviet Union.

Johnson, who will also be accompanied by her mother, Kathy Johnson, is expected to return to Orlando on Friday, Nov. 27.

CLASS IS EXCEL AT SECTIONALS

Christine Horn led a group of Brown's gymnasts at the Class II Sectional meet last weekend by taking first place in the all-around competition in the 12-14 age division.

Gymnastics

Horn, who attends Orangewood Christian School, finished with an all-around score of 35.20 including a first on balance beam (8.55), second on floor exercise (9.15), second on vault (9.2) and sixth on uneven parallel bars (8.3).

Also in the 12-14 division, Joy Gardner of Altamonte Springs was second all-around at 35.0. Gardner, of Forest Lake Academy, took first places on bars (9.1) and floor (9.2) and a second on beam (8.35).

Sheryl Stryker, who attends Meadowbrook Middle School, was sixth all-around at 32.8 including a sixth on beam (8.0), Melinda Ransom, of Lake Highland Prep, took a fifth on vault (8.05).

In the 9-11 age group, Amy Arnold took fifth all-around at 35.50 including a second on bars (9.3) and seventh on floor (8.2). Hazel Williams was seventh all-around (34.85) with a second on floor (9.4) and sixth on vault (9.0).

Also placing in the 9-11 division were Ashley Frame on vault (third at 9.15); Jessica Dura on vault (tied for sixth at 9.0), Abbie McClintock on floor (third at 9.35) and Traci Tombras on bars (10th at 8.8).

In the 7-8 age division, Venessa Serrano was third all-around at 30.7 with a second on vault (8.3), third on bars (7.2), third on floor (8.2) and sixth on beam (7.0).

CLASS II DOMINATE AT LAFLEUR'S

The Brown's Gymnastics Class I team swept the top two places in the all-around in all three divisions at the LaFleur's Invitational Compulsory Meet at Largo.

In the 12-14 age group, Amy Craig turned in a dynamic all-around performance with a score of 36.95. Craig, a freshman at Lake Brantley High, took first places on vault (9.5), bars (9.35) and beam (9.2) and was second on floor (8.9).

Heather Hurwitz, also a freshman at Lake Brantley, was second all-around at 35.85 including a second on vault (9.3), second on bars (8.85), third on beam (8.8) and third on floor (8.7).

Also placing in the 12-14 division was Jennifer Wilder who was sixth on bars (7.75).

In the 15 and over age group, Brown's gymnasts took the top four places in the all-around. Leading the way was Sandy Rowlette who won all-around honors at 35.35. Rowlette, a senior at Lake Brantley High, took first on vault (9.6), second on bars (8.65) and fourth on floor (8.75).

Andrea Dewey, a sophomore at Lake Brantley, was second all-around (35.15) including a first on floor (9.2), third on vault (9.0), third on bars (8.35) and fifth on beam (8.6).

Angela Barley, a junior at Apopka High, was third all-around (35.1) with a first on bars (9.0).

Also placing was Cathy Neesen, of Rock Lake Middle School, who was third on floor (8.65).

Nebraska, Oklahoma In No. 1 Showdown

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — For Nebraska and Oklahoma there always is only one measuring stick — each other.

In 1987, as in so many other years, the Cornhuskers and Sooners reach their annual matchup Saturday with more than a Big Eight title on the line. That players and coaches from both teams have spent much of the week saying this is not the Game of the Century suggests that possibility is certainly on their minds.

The winner gains the Big Eight title, an automatic bid to the Orange Bowl, unquestioned No. 1 ranking and the inside track to the national title.

After a season described by one coach as "anti-climatic because we're all just waiting for that game," the No. 2 Oklahoma Sooners take their 19-game winning streak to Lincoln, Neb., and a 3-40 p.m. EST game with the No. 1 Nebraska Cornhuskers.

The nationally televised game also will be witnessed by the 155th consecutive sellout at Nebraska.

"I think we'll be able to concentrate on other things and not just Oklahoma and the Game of the Century II, or whatever everyone's calling it," Nebraska tight end Tom Inderas said.

"Everybody's trying to make it a big game. I don't feel like it's a big game and neither do my teammates. We felt all year long we could win the national championship and we've proved it up to this point. This is just one more step and it's no more important than Utah State was for us. We need to win it."

The game will decide the Big Eight's representative in the Orange Bowl and a likely match with Miami (Fla.) for the national championship. Oklahoma is looking for a fourth straight New Year's in southern Florida while Nebraska is bidding to return for the first time since the 1983 season.

The game is a reflection of the 1971 "Game of the Century," which was won 35-31 by then-No. 1 Nebraska over then-No. 2 Oklahoma. Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer and Nebraska's Tom Osborne feel their teams are substantially better than the 1971 versions, but the similarities are striking.

The Sooners were an offense powerhouse and down some on defense 18 years ago. This year Oklahoma is first in the country in rushing and scoring and No. 2 (behind Nebraska) in total offense. The defense is not as strong as recent years, but still the stingiest in the country in terms of yardage and points allowed.

Nebraska in 1971 boasted a dominating defense and the offense ran up impressive totals. This year, the defense started slowly but has gelled into one of the best in the country. The offense has posted 1971-like numbers all year.

"We're much better than we were last year," said Nebraska quarterback Steve Taylor. "Our offensive line is better and our defense is much better."

"Oklahoma is good. Last year, they dominated in every game and we didn't. But this year, the tables are turned. The advantage is on our side. People may not want to say, 'Hey, Nebraska is a better team.' But we feel we are and we feel we've proven that over and over again."

UCF's Bernard Ford makes an over-the-shoulder grab. The standout wide receiver won't play in Saturday's game against Morningside but he hopes to be on call if the Knights make the Division II playoffs.

Knights Still In Playoff Hunt

By Scott Bender
Herald Sports Writer

ORLANDO — Thanks to an unlikely set of circumstances, the University of Central Florida football team still has a glimmer of hope in its quest to make the NCAA Division II playoffs for the first time in school history.

The Knights, who end their regular season against Morningside College (4-6) on Saturday night, have to finish in the top eight in the final Div. II poll next Sunday in order to make the playoffs.

After his team swallowed a heartbreaking 19-14 loss to Florida A&M last Saturday afternoon, UCF coach Gene McDowell said that his team's bid to make the playoffs was over. The Knights dropped to 7-3 and felt sure that they were going to take a nosedive from their fifth-ranked status in the poll.

Little did McDowell know that while his team was losing to the Rattlers, the 9th, 10th, and 11th-ranked teams were also losing.

The UCF playoff chances were revived when Eastern New Mexico (ranked 9th last week), New Haven University (10th), and Tuskegee (11th) all lost and failed to overtake UCF in this week's poll.

UCF is currently tied for 11th in the poll with Winston-Salem State, much to the delight of McDowell. "I thought that we were out of it after we lost that game," McDowell, a member of the Div. II voting panel, said.

Football

"With those three teams losing, I feel that we still have an excellent shot at the playoffs."

And with four of the top eight teams playing each other this week, UCF's chances are even greater. If top-ranked Texas A&I (9-1) beats ninth-ranked Angelo State (7-2) and second-ranked West Chester State (9-1) beats sixth-ranked Indiana of Pennsylvania (9-1), Angelo State and Indiana would probably drop out of the top 10. The Knights could subsequently move up at least two places and hope that another top 10 team falters.

Even if the Knights don't finish in the top eight, McDowell still feels that their chances are good. "Our three losses have all been to Div. I-AA teams by a combined total of 14 points," McDowell said. "I'm sure that the poll people will take that into consideration. We have beaten every Div. II team that we have played rather easily."

Two of the eight bids have already been extended. Third-ranked Portland State (9-1) and fourth-ranked Troy State (9-1) have both finished their seasons and have accepted bids. The other six bids will be awarded Sunday.

One advantage that UCF has over other schools is playing in a quality facility — the Florida Citrus Bowl — and playing in Orlando. Pollsters would like nothing more than to have a playoff game in Orlando. The attendance level would probably be higher than in places like Troy, Alabama or Kingsville, Texas. UCF has already submitted bids to host a first and second-round playoff game.

McDowell said that the Pollsters would like a game in Orlando since the Knights are averaging about 10,000 fans a game. "The poll people want a lot of people to show up," McDowell said. "I think that if we host a game, we can get at least 15,000 people out there, and the Pollsters realize it."

"I'm just going to keep my fingers crossed and hope that we make it," McDowell added. "You never know what is going to happen, and I just hope that we get a little help from the teams ranked ahead of us."

Syracuse Football: Glory Days Revived

Football

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) — The star quarterback enters the sports publicity office. People magazine wants him for a day, CBS's morning program needs him for a discussion on the future of black quarterbacks and CNN just has to have five minutes.

The coach, whose tenure had produced more defeats than victories until this year, is 20 minutes late for an interview because he was huddling with the athletic director to discuss bowl plans. He spends 15 minutes doing an interview, leaves his office and finds more than a dozen pink sheets signifying phone messages.

"I guess this means we're popular again," the coach says. A winner breeds popularity and Syracuse University football is a winner again.

On Saturday, Nov. 21, just after 6 p.m. EST and before the Orangemen close their regular season with a game at home against West Virginia, the Sugar Bowl will officially extend an invitation to Syracuse, marking the school's first major bowl bid since 1964.

It will accentuate a season in which Coach Dick MacPherson proved he could construct a winner and Don McPherson ended questions whether he could quarterback on a major college level. For in this Central New York city, the cool winds of late fall have arrived and the hottest topic of discussion — for a change — is not Syracuse's No. 1-ranked basketball team.

"Everybody is extremely excited about the football team," said Joe Szombathy, executive director of the Orange Pack Organization, a fund-raiser to the Syracuse athletic department. "People love a winner. They want to jump on the bandwagon. Go out on the street nine out of 10 people are talking about the football team."

And that's a bit of a miracle considering the football team lost its first four games and five of its first six in 1986. Jeopardizing MacPherson's job. Meanwhile, the basketball team came within 1 point of the national title last spring, further cementing itself as the city's top sporting attraction.

But a fall of success has reminded a city — and a nation — that the Orangemen's football past is quite strong, and maybe its future quite bright.

With a 45-17 victory Nov. 14 over Boston College, the Orangemen improved to 10-0, tying the school record for victories established by the 1959 national title team and sewing up a trip to the Sugar Bowl. It will be just the fourth bowl in 21 years for Syracuse.

The Orangemen entered their last game ranked No. 6 and grasping to an outside shot at the national title. Syracuse was one of four Division I-A teams with an undefeated record, but that was sure to change Nov. 21 when a pair of unbeaten, untied teams, No. 1 Nebraska and No. 2 Oklahoma, were to play.

Syracuse had a realistic chance of ending the season as major college football's lone undefeated team, yet not gaining the No. 1 ranking. The Orangemen's strength is questioned because of a schedule dotted by just one ranked team — No. 17 Pittsburgh.

"The thing we have to do is be 12-0," MacPherson said. "I believe if we are 12-0 and deserve the championship we'll get it. The key is to be 11-0 first, then 12-0. What can be disappointing if we're 12-0? We would have accomplished all we could."

An undefeated record was hardly a consideration in the off-season, but a successful campaign seemed like a must for MacPherson to safeguard his job. He entered the year with a 30-36-1 record in six seasons, a legging effort to his only bowl (the 1985 Cherry) and was reigning over a program that had dwindling attendance in three straight years at the Carrier Dome.

Victories in four of the last five games last year and the first five this season eased the burden somewhat on MacPherson. Then, in Week 6 this year, Syracuse produced the kind of victory — dominant, over a high-ranked opponent, on national television — that invigorates programs for years and creates Heisman Trophy contenders.

On Oct. 17, then 11th-ranked Syracuse jumped to a 41-0 lead en route to a surprisingly easy 48-21 rout of then 10th-ranked and defending national champion Penn State. The Orange had not previously beaten the Nittany Lions since 1970.

McPherson threw an 80-yard touchdown pass to Rob Moore on the game's first play from scrimmage. In all, the fifth-year senior completed 15 of 20 passes for 336 yards with three touchdowns, ran for two and became a leading Heisman candidate.

Stocks Open Lower

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened lower today in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which rose 18.91 Wednesday, was down 10.45 to 1928.71 shortly after the market opened.

Declines led advances 593-222 among the 1,161 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 7,647,000 shares.

A final-hour rally pushed stock prices higher Wednesday in moderate trading despite worries over budget negotiations in Washington.

Trude Latimer, an analyst with Josephthal & Co., said selling "dried up" in the afternoon and the volume was "absolutely pitiful" with many institutional investors still on the sidelines waiting for "the next guy" to make a move.

Latimer said the "cat is out of the bag as far as the budget is concerned. There is the assumption that we have reached a lukewarm compromise."

"The best thing we can say about this is that it is still a wait-and-see game," said Ralph Acampora, director of technical research at Kidder, Peabody & Co. "We have to see the final conclusion."

The negotiators face a Friday deadline for developing a proposal to shave at least $23 billion from the deficit in fiscal 1988, which began Oct. 1.

Dollar Drops Because Of Budget Worries

The dollar weakened Thursday on major world money markets as currency traders' attention remained focused on talks in Washington to reduce the federal budget deficit. Gold was higher.

"Not only are the budget-cutting talks in Washington going on too long, but the market also believes that whatever reductions there are will be far too small," a Zurich currency trader said.

The dollar opened in Zurich at 1.3745 Swiss francs, down from 1.392 in Frankfurt at 1.674 marks, down from 1.6972. In Paris at 5.683 francs, down from 5.75, and in Brussels at 35.26 Belgian francs, down from 35.64 on Wednesday.

In Amsterdam the dollar began trading at 1.888 Dutch guilders, down from 1.908, and in Milan at 1,231.75 lire, down from 1,245.55.

In London, the pound opened at $1.7815, up from Wednesday's close of $1.7725.

Earlier in the Far East, the dollar fell against the Japanese yen to close at 134.85 yen, down 1.20 from Wednesday's close of 136.05 yen.

In early New York trading, the dollar was lower against key foreign currencies in moderate trading.

Traders in New York noted that with less than 24 hours remaining before the automatic budget cutting provisions of the revised Gramm-Rudman law are scheduled to go into effect, they remained grim about the talks.

Gold opened $1 an ounce higher in Zurich at $464.50 an ounce and edged 65 cents higher in London to $464.65 an ounce.

The London morning gold fixing was $465.80, up $1.80 from Wednesday's close.

Bad Holiday Looms On Border

EL PASO, Texas (UPI) — Bankers and businessmen in U.S. cities along the Mexican border predict a bleak Christmas for retail merchants as the result of a more than 55 percent decrease in the value of the peso against the dollar.

But more Mexican citizens may open U.S. bank accounts following the peso's steepest plunge in value since 1985, said El Paso banker Don Shullstall, vice president in charge of the international department of MBank El Paso.

The peso Wednesday fell to about 2,700 to the dollar from its Tuesday closing rate of 1,714.

Private exchange houses in Mexico suspended trading early, in response to frenzied buying and selling as well as to the uncertain financial conditions.

"This was not really a devaluation," Shullstall said. "The Mexican government allowed the peso to seek its own value on the market according to supply and demand. What is happening is a street reaction. The peso will not remain at 2,700 per $1."

recreation director, city engineer, assistant city engineer, wastewater supervisor, street superintendent, water superintendent, police chief, police captain and lieutenants, fire chief, battalion chief, fire marshal and lieutenant, training officer and codes enforcement officer.

Another Personnel Policy and Procedures Manual amendment making all employees eligible to qualify for merit bonuses after a year's continuous employment with the city on a graduated scale. The maximum amount of the annual merit bonus will be determined by the city commission by either a lump sum or a percentage of the annual salary. The bonus will be awarded the first pay period after Dec. 1. The amount of the bonus an individual employee will receive is determined as follows: "fully satisfactory" job performance, 50 percent; "above satisfactory", 75 percent; and "excellent or outstanding", 100 percent.

The commission balked on revisions proposed for the purchasing ordinance asking instead for a change in wording.

Myers said the portion stating the purchasing agent shall have the authority to sell, trade, donate, destroy, transfer or otherwise dispose of surplus supplies, surplus equipment or other property regardless of dollar amount, with a monthly report of such dispositions to the city administrator, was giving the purchasing agent a license to steal.

City Purchasing Agent Rhonda Ledford said, "All it is doing is giving me the authority to hold a surplus auction and dispose of surplus property after the commission approves the list. It just gives me authority to advertise them for sale."

City Attorney Michael Kramer said, "Add in 'after the city commission has determined it surplus.'"

Smerilbon asked that the section giving the purchasing agent authority to award bids, contracts and sign purchase orders up to $5,000 and the city administrator authority to award purchase of supplies and services up to $10,000 be eliminated from the proposed revisions.

Lormann asked that "he or she and his or her" be substituted where the ordinance uses only the masculine gender in referring to the purchasing director.

She said, "We'll go ahead and add the words for clarification, but we have been complying with the requirements of Florida State law."

The commission voted unanimously to authorize the city attorney to prepare all ordinances and resolutions for the city.

says. The couple at first tried in vitro fertilization in which eggs were aspirated from Mrs. Norris and fertilized in a "test tube" with sperm from her husband. Three of the fertilized eggs were implanted in her womb last October, but none of the embryos "took" and she did not become pregnant, Dr. DeVane said.

"We fertilized four eggs and froze one in liquid nitrogen as a back-up," the doctor explained.

In February, after the remaining embryo had been frozen for four months, it was removed from the nitrogen and implanted in Mrs. Norris' womb during the fertile period of her normal cycle. This time the fertilization worked, and she became pregnant. The birth of William Benjamin Norris Wednesday was the successful result.

Dr. DeVane says the success of the procedure indicates that in vitro fertilization (fertilization outside a woman's body) may become more available to more people.

The cost of the procedure (about $6,000) makes it impossible for many couples to try more than once. Since there is only a 35 percent chance of a woman becoming pregnant after the implantation of the first three embryos, many couples are disappointed when the procedure is unsuccessful and cannot afford to try again.

Dr. DeVane says the medication used to stimulate ovulation and to aspirate eggs for in-vitro fertilization may so overstimulate a woman's reproductive system that the implanted eggs have difficulty surviving.

The chances of the second implantation, involving a frozen embryo fertilized at the same time as the original eggs were, may be greater because the implantation is done during the woman's normal cycle with no stimulating drugs, he said.

Dr. DeVane says a Dutch doctor, Gacque Cohen, one of the world authorities on in vitro fertilization, is a consultant to some Orlando specialists and helped with the procedure.

sprayed very quickly and engulfed the people in the vicinity," Police Superintendent David Fitzsimmons said.

The heat became intense and black, suffocating and blinding smoke sent scores of panicking commuters dashing through the maze of tunnels and passageways.

Five people survived by running into a nearby toilet and closing the door against the intense heat, Kennedy said.

Most of those who died were believed to have suffered from the heat and smoke inhalation rather than burns.

"With fires underground, especially where there are enclosed by concrete, there is a tremendous buildup of heat, which is retained," Kennedy said.

About 150 firefighters, wearing breathing apparatus, descended into the network of subway platforms serving five "Underground" lines to fight the blaze, which took more than two hours to control.

counties is needed to form the regional authority.

Plans for a new design of the interchange of the Seminole County Expressway with Highways 17-92 which would not necessitate the demolition of Sanford Plaza will be presented to the expressway authority next month.

Gerald Brinton, the authority's executive director, said the idea for the revised design was suggested at a Sanford Chamber of Commerce committee meeting last week. He suggested that new right-of-way maps be presented for approval in December

Many of the hundreds of people who saw the fire were traveling on trains that passed through the station without stopping.

so the shopping center could be removed from the present reserved right-of-way, but Streetman said he doesn't think any hardship would result from being on the reserved list of properties for another 30 days. A new right-of-way map is expected to be presented for approval in January.

Brinton said the right-of-way maps adopted last month for the expressway corridor between State Road 426 and Interstate 4 have been filed with the circuit court for reservation of the properties involved. Meetings with the Sanford, Winter Springs and county building departments are scheduled next week to coordinate enforcement of the building restrictions the property reservation entails.

Seminole County Sheriff's Department explosives expert, Lt. Martin "Marly" LaBrusciano, described the bomb as an 18- to 20-inch long, 1 1/2-inch round pipe. The pipe had been welded closed at one end.

LaBrusciano said today he had not yet confirmed his belief that the bomb was filled with a combination of smokeless, but explosive pre-prepared powder and a similar homemade powder. Harriett said that he thought the bomb was filled with gun powder, oxygen pellets, sugar and pebbles, but couldn't confirm that until laboratory results of the device are in.

LaBrusciano said the bomb contained a short firecracker fuse. He added the device was definitely not a firecracker. "It was a bomb."

While some are referring to the bomb as a firework, LaBrusciano said fireworks are constructed of cardboard and paper with a small quantity of powder, just to produce a visual and aural explosive effect.

Any explosive device housed in a metal container is a bomb, LaBrusciano said. Powder enclosed in metal is under greater pressure than that associated with a firework. A metal cased bomb tends, he said, to fragment and has enough blast pressure to do structural damage.

"I don't see how he (Garner) could've made the bomb in the shop ... the thing was welded," Lundquist said, adding "There appears to be some contradiction going on here."

Lundquist said the school district and SHS should work with the police on the investigation and not against them.

"We're (school district) not trying to cover anything up, we want to find the truth as much as anybody," he said.

DEAR ABBY: This letter is in regard to "Steaming in Georgia," who had passed around a family album for visiting relatives to enjoy. She observed one "in-law" looking at two pictures of her husband and his first wife for a very long time. Then after everyone had left, she noticed that those two pictures had been removed from the album. "Steamed" was sure Wife No. 2 had taken them, and asked how to handle that situation at the next family gathering. You suggested she stand guard while guests looked at the album. Not very helpful, Abby.

I am also Wife No. 2, whose mother-in-law keeps pictures of her son and Wife No. 1 in an album permanently displayed on her coffee table. This offended me. After six years, I finally told my husband how I felt about it. It wasn't as though his mother didn't have any pictures of her son and me together. After all, we have taken her on several vacation trips with us, and took plenty of pictures, which she has—but none are in her album.

Couldn't you have said a few words in defense of Wife No. 2?

J.O. IN MINNESOTA

DEAR J.O.: I could have, and I should have. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: Why did both "Steamed in Georgia" and you assume that the two pictures removed from the album were lifted by Wife No. 2?

When my second wife and I were visiting my mother, I noticed that her family albums contained pictures of me and Wife No. 1, but none of me and my present wife, so I removed those pictures from the album, gave Mom a big hug and promised to replace them with some new ones of me and my present wife. What could she have done?

LIVING IN THE PRESENT

DEAR LIVING: She could have given you a belt in the chops and ordered you to keep your paws off her album. But I'm glad she didn't.

DEAR ABBY: I would suggest that "Steamed" use a little better judgment in the future, and remove—ahed of time—any pictures that could be offensive or hurtful to her guests.

As the wife of a divorced man, I know exactly how Wife No. 2 must have felt. True, the "in-law" had no right to remove those pictures, but she shouldn't have been subjected to them in the first place.

If anyone has the right to be steamed, I say it's Wife No. 2.

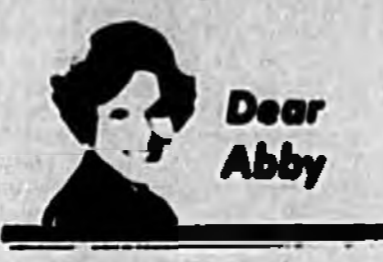

WIFE NO. 3

DEAR ABBY: I'll get right to the point. I am planning to marry "Audrey" soon. I love her very much. I would like to have my friend "Stewart" be my best man. I've known him for 18 years, and we have always been the best of friends. The problem: Audrey and Stewart were lovers at one time.

I don't want either one of them to be uncomfortable. What should I do?

CHICAGOAN

DEAR CHICAGOAN: Don't agonize over it. Ask Audrey how she feels about Stewart being your best man. If she has any negative feelings, ask someone else. If she's agreeable, ask Stewart. If he's willing, no problem.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married a little more than two years. He has every quality I have ever wanted in a husband—but he turned out to be a very selfish lover. I do not feel desired or appreciated, and I really am very attractive and feminine. When we are both in front of a mirror, he never looks at me—instead he looks at himself and comments on his hair, or asks me if he should grow a beard. Meanwhile, I am standing nude right alongside of him, and he never even throws me a glance.

He is also the laziest lover I have ever come across. He wants me to do all the work while he stays on his back. When I ask him to do something I would enjoy, he tries halfheartedly, then quits before 10 seconds are up.

I would look for an extramarital affair, but I don't want it on my conscience. Please suggest something.

FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: There appears to be an appalling lack of communication between you and your husband. An extramarital affair is definitely not the solution. It is imperative that you do whatever is necessary to get your lazy lover to a qualified sex therapist if yours is to be a lasting, loving marriage. Your family physician or gynecologist should be able to recommend a therapist in your area. Don't put this off. The sooner your man is educated in this important part of marriage, the healthier your marriage will be. Good luck.

Deppen-Rhoades Nuptials Spoken In Church Rites

Margery Meyer Deppen of Casselberry and William C. Rhoades of Longwood were married Saturday, Nov. 14 in a double ring ceremony at 2 p.m. at Community United Methodist Church of Casselberry.

The Rev. Wight Kirtley, pastor of First United Methodist Church of Orange Park, and the Rev. David Brazelton, pastor of Community United Methodist, officiated at the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her son, Thomas Deppen of Sanford, wore a floor-length silver blue gown. She carried a bouquet of white roses tipped in dusty rose, baby's breath and greenery.

Margery Meyer of DeBary, matron of honor, wore a full-length dusty rose gown with lace overblouse and carried three carnations. The junior bridesmaid, Sparkle Rhoades of Longwood, granddaughter of the bridegroom, was also attired in a dusty rose gown.

Best man was Johnnie Rutherford, Titusville. Ushers were Ben Hill and Leonard Casselberry, both of Casselberry.

Jim Edmiston, tenor soloist, sang Always and The Lord's Prayer.

Following the wedding a reception was held in the church fellowship hall with the Hope Circle in charge.

The bride's mother, Florence Meyer, formerly of Sanford, flew in from Redmond, Ore. Also present for the wedding in addition to her son, Thomas and his wife, Betty, were the bride's son,

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Rhoades

Roger Deppen and his wife, Kathy of Madison, Ala.; five daughters, Kay White of Winter Haven, Lori Baldwin, Salt Lake City, Utah, Peggy Gavin, Reynolds, Ind., Alice Luedke and her husband, David, Spotsylvania, Va.; Donna Duncan and husband, Craig, Ostron; and grandchildren, Shawn White, Rebecca Belque, Tommy, Desiree, Megan and Brittany Duncan.

Also attending were the bridegroom's son and daughter-in-law, Donny and Joanne Rhoades of Altamonte Springs and their children, Stacy, Shannon and Candace; daughter-in-law, Sandy Rhoades, Longwood.

The bridegroom is employed by the Arme Plumbing Co. of Titusville. After an extended wedding trip, the couple will make their home in Casselberry.

5 Students Tapped To Honor Society

The Society of Distinguished American High School Students announced today that five students from First Baptist Church, Sanford, have been selected as members in its honor society for 1987.

The students' sponsor, Jeff Ingram, was presented with The Society's National Appreciation Award for "devotion to the development and encouragement of student leaders."

Membership in the 19-year-old society is designed to be a national honor and incentive for top performance among high school students. To be accepted, candidates must excel in academics, extracurricular or civic activities.

Local students accepted as 1987 members include Patrick Austin, Ginger Albers, Cheryl Dysart, Kerry Fossellus and Melissa Donnelly.

As members, these students will have the opportunity to compete for college scholarships through The Society's National Awards Program. This year, 141 colleges have earmarked more than $700,000 in scholarship funds for Society members.

Additionally, The Society sponsors members-only cash awards of up to $2,000 per recipient for higher education purposes, and its college referral programs recommend members for admission and grants-in-aid to 350 major colleges and universities.

To preserve the honor for students, members' names and their high school accomplishments will be listed in The Society's 1987 Membership Registry which is published and distributed nationally.

SCC Choral Groups Set Free Concert

The choral music organizations of Seminole Community College, under the direction of Dr. Burt H. Perincheff, announce the annual Fall Concert to be held in the Fine Arts Concert Hall on the college campus at 3 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 22. The public is cordially invited to attend this event and the admission is free.

Four choral groups will participate in the concert. The Community Chorus will be featured in the presentation of Benjamin's Britten's "A Ceremony of Carols" with harp accompaniment provided by Marilyn Moulton. Soloists will include Julie Astley and Hazel Perincheff, sopranos; Laurel Jilmore and Lauren Youmans, contraltos; and Maurice Schnell and Richard Brown, tenors. The specially-licensed Community Chorists will perform music for the holiday season.

The SCC Chorale, a chamber ensemble, will sing two madrigals from the Renaissance, as well as an Appalachian folk carol, a Bach chorale, and an Irish carol. Julie Astley and Steven Lane will be student conductors of the Chorale.

The Chorallers will present a varied program including sacred works by Bruce Montgomery, Christopher Tye and Ned Rorem. "Im Herbst" by Johannes Brahms, an arrangement of "Oh! Dear! What Can the Matter Be?" by Kubik, a song from John Rutter and a calypso novelty song round out the Chorallers repertoire. Tracey Helms will be student conductor.

All singers will conclude the concert in massed formation by singing Randall Thompson's "Alleluia," Robert Shaw's arrangement of "The Holly and the Ivy," and an "African Noel" by Ronald Kauffman. Robin Lee Parker will accompany the concert at the piano. Laurel Ellmore is associate conductor of the Community Chorus.

A Bit Of Talcum Was Really Walcum

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — We were visiting our 22-month old grandson and his parents. One afternoon, he had gone beyond his normal two-hour nap and I became slightly worried. I went to his room and was shocked to find him sitting in a chair completely covered with talcum powder. The container was empty. My wife cleaned him up, my son vacuumed the room and I called the pediatrician. She said not to worry.

I realize there's not much we can do now, but could this cause health problems in the future?

DEAR READER — I doubt that your grandson's afternoon trick will cause any future health problems. It's true that talc can produce lung inflammation when inhaled or tissue irritation if it is introduced into a wound, but your grandson is unlikely to have absorbed enough of the substance to have harmed him. (He must have had a ball with that talcum powder; what a glorious mess he made!)

DEAR DR. GOTT — I'm male, 32, and have a strange habit that I'm not sure is healthy. I seek out the thicker, coarser hair on my body, pull it out, chew it up and swallow it. Does this indicate that some essential item is missing from my diet, or is it just a bad habit?

DEAR READER — I'm afraid that your habit of eating hair is just that: a habit. Some forms of pica, a craving to eat things that are not food, do indicate a dietary deficiency, particularly of iron. However, the urge to eat your own hair does not. In my opinion, have a physical basis. I suggest that you talk to your doctor about your behavior. Perhaps you would benefit from some psychological counseling in your efforts to overcome your habit.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Our son was diagnosed as having Kearns-Sayre syndrome. It started with decreased vision at age 7. From what I can tell, it seems to be a rare form of muscular dystrophy. Can you elaborate?

DEAR READER — Kearns-Sayre syndrome is an unusual condition that mimics ocular muscular dystrophy. It is characterized by progressive eye-muscle weakness, retinal degeneration, heart block (slowing of electricity through the heart) and excess protein in the spinal fluid.

The disease begins before age

15 and may be associated with hearing loss, short stature and neurological disorders. The cause of Kearns-Sayre syndrome may be a genetic defect resulting in a biochemical irregularity of cell metabolism.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Trumping partner's good trick is not considered good form at the bridge table. But it can be the right play. It's easier to execute such a play when partner is mute and can't talk back to you. When does that happen? Yes, you've figured it out — when you are the declarer and partner is the dummy. Then you have the responsibility of playing his cards, even if that involves trumping your good trick. An obvious reason for trumping a good trick would be to create an extra entry to either hand.

Today's six-heart contract at first glance seemed to depend upon the club suit behaving well for declarer. But then declarer saw a way to give himself an extra chance, provided he was not squeamish about ruffing his own winning king. He won the ace of spades, played the ace of diamonds and a heart to dummy's ace and ruffed a diamond back to his hand. Then he played his spade king and trumped it in dummy. Another diamond was ruffed with the heart 10, and declarer then drew the remaining trumps. A club to dummy's ace allowed him to pitch two clubs on the diamond king and the good 10 of diamonds. Declarer now gave up a club and won the last trick with his remaining trump. Thus he made his contract without having to fall back on a favorable club division.

Panel Lists Safe, Unsafe Toys

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Consumer Product Safety Commission released Tuesday a list of toys and children's products it says violate government safety standards. Following are the items that have been recalled:

Product/Manufacturer	Hazard and violation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government is urging parents to scratch off their children's Christmas lists lawn dart sets, certain skateboards and most crib toys because of potential hazards that could cause death or injury, destroying the joys of the season.

In releasing its list of safe and unsafe toys, the Consumer Product Safety Commission also announced Tuesday the completion of "Operation Toyland" in which commission officials and the U.S. Customs Service confiscated 70 shipments of toys from overseas, valued at more than $2.5 million, for safety violations.

"The last thing anyone wants in for the joy of holiday gift-giving to turn into sorrow resulting from a tragic accident," said Commission Chairman Terrence Scanlon.

Lawn dart games, in which large, metal-tipped darts are tossed at targets laid out on the ground, top the list of dangerous items. The commission said lawn darts are for adults and cannot be sold in toy stores or in department stores dealing predominantly in toys or other children's articles.

Many crib toys also are listed as dangerous because of incidents where babies became entangled in the gadgets and were strangled or suffocated. Skateboards, while not banned, should be purchased and used with care, said the commission, which reported 58,000 skateboard injuries last year.

Commissioner Anne Graham added, "The only time all-terrain vehicles are safe for children is when they are out of gas." Scanlon said more than 500,000 children are injured each year in accidents associated with toys, bicycles and other children's products. Last year, hospital emergency rooms treated 113,000 children for toy injuries.

There were 35 reported deaths in 1986, most attributed to choking, strangulation or being fatally struck.

The commission, which relies mainly on voluntary compliance with its safety standards, has ordered the recall of 116 articles, of which 97 were toys. Scanlon said the recalls involved companies with poor records of compliance with safety regulations.

About 40 percent of the children's products sold in the United States are imported from abroad, Scanlon said. In "Operation Toyland," unannounced spot checks of imported toys were made at San Francisco, Los Angeles and Newark, N.J., and 140 different children's products found to be in violation of commission regulations were confiscated.

Those items included stuffed animals, rattles, wood blocks, baby walkers and various toy trucks and trains intended for small children.

"In all, nearly 2.2 million product units, with a domestic value of about $3.85 million, were taken out of circulation before they ever had a chance to get into the hands of unsuspecting children," he said.

Generally, the commission offered this advice to parents: Purchase toys appropriate to the age of the child; watch for small, loosely attached parts or decorative buttons on toys; and read warning labels carefully.

Bakker Should Forget PTL, Robison Says

FORT MILL, S.C. (UPI) — The man Jim Bakker wanted to lead his television ministry advised the disgraced PTL founder Wednesday to get right with God and forget about trying to regain control of the beleaguered ministry.

"Jim Bakker, you don't need PTL back — you need God back," exhorted Texas evangelist James Robison, hands raised, preaching into a television camera filming the daily "PTL Club" show.

"Quit listening to the opportunists," Robison urged. "Stop running from coast to coast, from California to Tennessee to North Carolina. Don't you try and get a ministry back."

Bakker, who handed the ministry over to the Rev. Jerry Falwell after resigning in March amid a sex scandal, had asked Falwell to hire Robison as host of the daily television show. Falwell, who later resigned in a dispute with a federal bankruptcy court over the operation of PTL, refused.

But on Wednesday's program, Robison said the current leadership of former Christian Broadcasting Network executive David Clark is putting the ministry on the right track. "You can't walk down Main Street without getting mugged by love," he said.

FAA Re-Evaluating Flight Warning System

ROMULUS, Mich. (UPI) — The Federal Aviation Administration began re-evaluating its criteria for computerized takeoff warning systems after the Northwest Flight 255 disaster, an FAA official told a hearing into the crash Wednesday.

Harold Waalinger, supervisor of the FAA's aviation and electronics section in Long Beach, Calif., said the FAA may designate the cockpit warning system as "essential" in the aftermath of the Aug. 18 crash that killed 156 people at Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

The National Transportation Safety Board, which is conducting a hearing into the nation's second-worst air disaster, has compiled evidence indicating that the wing flaps and slats on Flight 255 were not properly set to provide lift for takeoff.

Investigators also have said there is evidence to suggest that the crew of the Phoenix-bound jetliner did not receive a computer-generated voice warning of the improper flap and slat settings.

Waalinger said the Central Aural Warning System (CAWS) aboard the MD-80 version of the DC-9 currently is not classified as "critical" or "essential" under FAA rules.

"A critical system is one that is performing a function on the airplane and as a consequence of failure of that function the airplane is lost," Waalinger said.

He said one reason CAWS is not considered critical is that there are other warning systems to warn the crew of a variety of problems before takeoff. But he said the Detroit disaster has prompted a review of the classification.

"The FAA as a result of the Detroit accident has formed a special team which is now making an evaluation of that situation," he said.

If the FAA determines the system is considered essential, then a backup will be required in the event of its failure, he said.

Waalinger said the special review committee will "evaluate the entire subject of takeoff warning to determine whether its original assignment of criticality was correct."

Don McClure, an Eastern Airlines pilot representing the Air Line Pilots Association at the hearing, said he was "absolutely astounded" by Waalinger's testimony.

"I could not believe I heard what the man said," McClure said.

McClure said the CAWS was put on the airplane and designed as "the last ditch stand" which will tell the pilot if his plane is not ready for takeoff.

Earlier, a Northwest pilot who flew in the jump seat aboard the doomed aircraft as a passenger on an earlier flight from Detroit to Saginaw, Mich., the day of the crash told the NTSB panel that the takeoff warning system was operating properly.

Phony Priest Goes Underground

DENVER (UPI) — A con artist posing as a Catholic priest has canceled his answering service and mail drop box and apparently gone into hiding, police said Wednesday.

The imposter, John William Irish, 48, is wanted in Detroit for gaining the confidence of relatives of victims of the Aug. 18 Northwest Airlines crash and soliciting them for a Florida lawyer. He also allegedly talked Northwest Airlines into giving him a room and meals.

A man wearing a clerical collar and matching Irish's description also was seen Sunday and Monday at Stapleton International Airport, where 28 people were killed in a Continental Airlines DC-9 crash. Two policemen and a trauma worker saw him at a gate where survivors were taken.

Detective Robert Rathburn said he and other detectives attended a memorial service held at a university chapel Tuesday for the victims of the crash, suspecting that Irish might show up.

"We were there on the off chance he would show up, but he didn't," Rathburn said.

The detective said Irish did cancel a telephone answering service and mail drop he has had several months in downtown Denver. Irish, who occasionally has used the alias Thane Cornell, is believed by police to live in the Denver area.

Irish, who has been paying his bill at the Denver Postal Center in cash and in person, telephoned his cancellation to the service Tuesday, Rathburn said.

There has been some speculation that Irish might have shaved off a full beard he had in Detroit to change his appearance, but Rathburn said three people who have identified him in Denver have said he still had the beard.

Since many of the victims in Sunday's plane crash were from the Boise, Idaho, area, Rathburn said police there had been alerted and all the airlines that fly from Denver to Boise had been given photographs of Irish. There has been no record of a passenger using the name Irish or Cornell on a flight to Boise in recent days.

Rathburn said a news reporter called him Tuesday saying she had seen a man who looked like Irish at Denver General Hospital, where many of the injured were taken. The man turned out to be a real Catholic priest with a beard who is from a church across the street, Rathburn said.

A private detective had posed as a news reporter to gain entry to Denver General Hospital Sunday night, where he was handing out his business card to relatives and survivors, Rathburn said. The incident was reported to police by another reporter who confronted the detective, but refused to give the detective's name to police.

The detective would not be charged, in any case, Rathburn said, because a person falsely posing as another person isn't committing a crime unless he receives something of value.

Irish is wanted as a federal fugitive and faces fraud charges in Wayne County, Mich., for defrauding Northwest Airlines. Wayne County authorities said Irish solicited grieving relatives for attorney Ronald Brimmell of Deerfield Beach, Fla.
