WASHINGTON IS TO ASK REMOVAL OF STATE HEAD

Governor Hartley Accused of Violating Rules of Office By Opposing Political Faction; Petitions Circulated

SEATTLE, Oct. 19.—(AP)—The quarrel between Governor Roland Hartley of Washington and his opponents has come to a show-down in the form of an attempt to relieve him.

A petition seeking to oust the Governor was filed with the secretary of State yesterday and committees of representative citizens and representatives of labor unions today were to circulate petitions to obtain the 97,976 signatures required by law.

The charges against the Governor of substance are that he "violated his oath of office, committed wrong acts in office and committed right acts in wrong ways."

Governor Hartley's opponents charge he has been an enemy to education in the state and has crippled state educational institutions and removed regents and other officials of institutions who opposed his designs. The culmination of the trouble came with the recent suspension of President Henry Suzzallo, of the University of Washington, at Seattle. The action, though taken by the board of regents, is accredited to the Governor, who, it is charged, obtained Suzzallo's replacement by removing regents favorable to Suzzallo and appointing officials who would vote to oust him.

The asserted dislike of the Governor for Suzzallo, supporters of the latter assert, dates back to the war when the university president, as chairman of the State council of defense urged an eight-hour day in lumber camps. Hartley, being owner of large lumber camps, is said to have opposed this and to have opposed Suzzallo because of his attitude.

All this the Governor denies and declares that he did not dictate to the regents in their action in removing Suzzallo.

Prizes will be given to winners who place first, second or third for both boys and girls.

The events on the program which will be open to all boys and girls are: Running broad jump, running high jump, 50-yard dash, 100-yard dash, three legged race and walking race. The events are scheduled for individual competition, except for the three-legged event, which requires two or more.

3 Orphans Placed In Homes Here By The Welfare Board

Twenty new welfare cases were handled by the Seminole County Welfare Board in September, according to the report given by Mrs. Helen T. Morse, supervisor, to the board which met Monday afternoon. The welfare board has just completed two years of work in Seminole County.

Three children under 17 years old were aided. Homes were provided for the children of two homes in which the father of one family and the mother in another family are dead. The full report shows that 58 persons were given medical, financial or assistance of some kind last month.

The report of the supervising nurses' office for the last two weeks of September revealed the organization work completed in that period in the county and city schools. The report was prepared by Miss Mary Graves, supervising nurse, and Miss Frances Graves, assistant nurse.

Mrs. O. J. Wolcott of Oviedo, succeeding Mrs. C. L. West of Oviedo, attended her first meeting of the board yesterday. Other members present were Fred Wil- son, H. C. DuBois, T. W. Lawton of Sanford, and Mrs. Endor Cornett of Geneva.

WASHING TO BEG IN COURT SUIT IN N. Y. NEXT WEEK

Separation Suit Filed Last Year Against Heiress Will Come up for Trial Monday; Manifest to Play Big Part

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Court papers filed Monday revealed that a separation suit begun last December by Count Ludwig Salm-Hoogstraeten against his wife, the former Millicent Rogers, daughter of Henry H. Rogers and Standard Oil heiress, will come up for trial here a week from Monday.

The papers filed today asked that a photostatic copy of a manifesto made by the court when he came to New York last year be produced at the trial. It was said the manifesto is necessary.

Married in 1924 Count Salm and Millicent Rogers were married Jan. 8, 1924. At that time he was 40 years old and she 20. The marriage of the society girl and the Austrian noble and movie actor was contracted without knowledge of the bride's father, who was opposed to it.

The couple went abroad and in May, 1924, Mr. Rogers went to Europe and returned with his daughter, the count staying on the other side. A son was born here whom the count did not see until he came here last December. During his visit the separation suit was begun.

The question of whether two-years-old Peter Salm Hoogstraeten is to become an Austrian or an American will be the chief issue in the trial.

Chief Issue Counsel for the count said today that the chief point of issue in the trial would be the custody of the child. Peter is now living with his mother. Count Salm Hoogstraeten will ask the court to award the boy to him.

In December, 1925, while the countess was living in Palm Beach, with her son, it was reported that an attempt was made to kidnap the boy. Detectives were employed to guard the house. Count Salm through his attorney, characterized the pretension as a "useless display of extravagance" and the attorney denied the count was in any way responsible for what had happened.

SENATE GROUP FAVORS PROBE OF SLUSH FUND

Senator Reed Summons Both Magill and Rev. O'Brien to Appear Before Committee To Tell All About Campaign

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—(AP)—A flat denial of the testimony of two Anti-Saloon League officials concerning a $400,000 "slush" fund for the independent senatorial candidacy of Hugh S. Magill, of Chicago was made today before the Senate campaign funds committee by the Rev. Robert O'Brien, a Methodist minister of this city.

O'Brien said he had discussed the candidacy of Magill with P. Scott McBride, national superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League.

Magill in a statement in East St. Louis last night, announced that any statement that a huge slush fund had been raised in behalf of his candidacy were lies. He said he would be glad of the opportunity to go before the committee and make a sworn statement that his expenses would not exceed $25,000 and that the largest single contribution he had received was $1,000.

The dry leaders who testified before the committee, P. Scott McBride, national superintendent and George B. Safford, state superintendent, said that the Rev. Mr. O'Brien had sought Anti-Saloon League support for Magill, but this had been refused, the officials objecting to the expenditure of the sum they mentioned.

Both quoted O'Brien as declaring that this sum would be spent without running afoul of the law because there were plenty of "holes" in the corrupt practices act.

Safford declared that when O'Brien first consulted him regarding the Illinois senatorial fight the clergyman had stated that Frank L. Smith, the Republican senatorial nominee, would be eliminated from the fight through appointment to office by President Coolidge and that it was proposed to name as candidate in his place, Colonel A. V. Smith, state's attorney of Lake county.

Before winding up the first day of the inquiry, Senator Reed stated the record in the Senate last June by Senator Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas, and making charges of "slush fund" expenditures in the approaching primary.

Girls, 15 Years Of Age Among Petters Policeman Reveals

"Are you one of those who locks his dog up at nights but lets the daughter run loose?" some newspaper paragrapher asked the other day.

Policemen see many things under the cover of darkness, which never enters the police record or finds its way into print. Said a Sanford policeman, who is on night duty.

"I have seen things that make me wonder where the parents are. It is not hearsay. Some of these girls can't be over 15 years old.

"Between 12 o'clock midnight and 2 o'clock, I have seen from two to 15 automobiles parked on the highway in subdivision.

"You tell them to move on and some one else comes along in their place. They will drive to some other place."

The subdivision mentioned by the patrolman is south of Geneva Avenue. Police, it is said, have been warning "petters" to leave this particular subdivision lately, but undaunted they are said to be carrying on their "petting" parties in new locations.

Meltonville Avenue is a favorite thoroughfare for the petters. When a moving automobile approaches a certain street on which a patrolman is posted, the patrolman will indicate that he would be stopping it.

Florida Legionnaires Made a Hit in Parade, Sanford Man Declares

Florida legionnaires made a great showing in the mammoth parade of the American Legion at the annual convention in Philadelphia last week. J. G. Ball, who returned to Sanford last night after a month's trip through the East and Canada said today that the snappy appearance of Florida legionnaires, especially the Miami contingent made a fine impression in the city of brotherly love.

"The band from Miami was the talk of the town," Mr. Ball said. "Philadelphia people said that the legion men haven't forgot how to step it off."

Mr. Ball accompanied by Mrs. Ball visited Washington, D. C., Philadelphia, New York City, Rochester, Niagara Falls, Ontario, and several other eastern points. In Ontario they attended the annual rodeo show in Philadelphia, the Sesqui-centennial in New York, one of the Yankee-Cardinals championship games.

Lawyers For Aimee Say She Will Stick To Original Story

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Attorneys for Aimee Semple McPherson, the evangelist, charged with criminal conspiracy, indicated today the story told by her before the county grand jury about being kidnapped and held for ransom "was her story and she would stick to it."

This was made known in connection with announced plans for beginning the defense testimony in the case in which besides Mrs. McPherson, the pastor's mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman-Slaff, and Kenneth G. Ormiston, former Angelus Temple radio operator, are defendants.

Whether the evangelist and her mother would take the stand has not been determined. W. I. Gilbert, chief defense counsel, said, today.

No Objection To Girl In Knickers In Schools Here, Says T. W. Lawton

Virginia Allan, 9-year-old Port of Fulton, Ind. school girl kept out of school because she wore knickers to class, would not be turned out of a Seminole county or Sanford public school.

T. W. Lawton, county superintendent of public instruction, told The Herald today that there is no state law governing the dress of children in her class rooms or on the playgrounds.

"I have seen young girls on the school grounds wearing knickers," Mr. Lawton said. "I see no grounds for a protest. The knickers are to an advantage on the playgrounds."

Sanford High School girls do not have to wear knickers on the playgrounds. The boys do not have to wear knickers on the playgrounds.

ROYAL VE WREATH PAYS TRIBUTE TO U. S. HERO

Queen Marie of Rumania today paid tribute at the grave of George Washington Vernon and laid a wreath on the grave of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery.

The gates that bar the way to the Washington tomb opened for her and she stood aside in silent reverence for a moment before she put in place the red and yellow wreath made to that she had left at Arlington.

"Every one here speaks of General Washington's love of God," she said, turning away. "It is a beautiful thing, the love of God."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—(AP)—The homage of old world royalty was paid again to the first new world democracy when a pilgrim today to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier of the States came the first official act on American soil of Marie, Queen of Rumania.

Beginning her round of formal ceremonies less than 24 hours after her arrival at New York, the trip of America's energetic visitor to place a wreath upon the tomb in Arlington National Cemetery, Virginia, marked her presence in that state that felt the touch of her Queen in addition to the District of Columbia, within the span of a day. And in each she has received royal welcome.

New Jersey, Pennsylvania, New York and Maryland echoed the royal mad greetings, greeting glimpses at royalty as the Queen's special sped past.

Manhattan transfer had the line crowd, applauding in the station, waiting for the small wave of a hand that the Queen gave from the observation platform. West Philadelphia greeted its terminal with only the old Baltimore, and all along the line of the smooth passage of Queen's peering eyes, waved kerchiefs and clapping hands—compiments of a medieval lady's progress through her realm. "I've seen so many smiling faces since I landed," she said to an audience to three press representatives aboard the train. "They make me very happy."

"The people seem really glad that I am here. I hope they will be glad to see me again." (Continued on Page 6)

MANIFESTO ASKS TRADE BARRIERS AS BUSINESS AID

International Financiers Plea For Effective Means of Curbing Proliferous Foreign Trade Published Today

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—(AP)—A remarkable plea for revival of the tariff barriers and other restrictions upon European trade was issued here today over the signatures of scores of the leading financiers of Europe and a half dozen American headed by J. P. Morgan.

There can be no recovery in Europe, the manifesto declares, until the politicians realize that "in time of peace our neighbors and our customers and that their prosperity is a condition of our own well-being."

The full text of the manifesto follows:

"We desire, as business men, to draw attention to certain grave and disquieting conditions which, in our judgment, are retarding the return to prosperity.

"It is difficult to view without dismay the extent to which tariff barriers, special licenses and prohibitions since the war have been allowed to interfere with international trade and to prevent it from flowing in its natural channels. At a period in recent history has freedom from such restrictions been more needed to enable traders to adapt themselves to new and difficult conditions. And at no period have impediments to trading been more perilously multiplied without a true appreciation of the economics involved.

This policy, it said, has already proved most disadvantageous to all concerned, as is shown by a number of drastic examples cited. The economic disorganization resulting therefrom is declared to have increased prices and reduced production.

"European, therefore," the manifesto continues, "can not recover until the politicians of all lands understand clearly that trade is not war but a process of exchange and that in peace time our neighbors are our customers whose welfare is a pre-condition to our welfare."

The manifesto says that fortunately public shows signs of realizing the threatening dangers.

SENATORIAL CANDIDATE DENIES ACCUSATIONS

Minister Says $400,000 Fund Was Raised by Magill Puts Figure at About $25,000,000

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—(AP)—A flat denial of the testimony of two Anti-Saloon League officials concerning a $400,000 "slush" fund for the independent senatorial candidacy of Hugh S. FIRE CHIEFS OF BANK SWINDLER'S U. S. AND CANADA CAPTOR WILL GET OPEN 4-DAY MEET LARGE REWARD

Pittsburgh, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Search for Charles E. Knapp, who disappeared Friday with $220,000 in cash, centered upon Maryland today with pursuit spurred on by an offer of a $1,000 reward for the alleged bank swindler's capture, and a bonus of 10 per cent of all money found on him.

One clue to his whereabouts sent Pittsburgh detectives on a fruitless search last night to Sideling Hills, Pennsylvania, a mountainous hamlet in Fulton county, and then across the Maryland border, ten miles away. Just what their Maryland destination was could not be learned nor had any report been received from them since they had reported their failure to find Knapp at Sideling Hills.

Meanwhile additional information charging embezzlement was preferred against three officials of the Brotherhood Savings and Trust Company which was closed after Knapp's disappearance with the cash, nearly a third of the bank's funds.

He had been given the money in payment for $800,000 worth of liberty bonds, alleged by some detectives to have been the property of John A. Bell, president of the bankrupt Carnegie Trust Company. The information charging embezzlement were sworn to by a state bank examiner.

The reward for Knapp's capture was offered by R. A. McCrady, president of the bank, now free under $175,000 bond on various charges brought in connection with the swindle.

More Determined Efforts to Prevent Loss of Life and Property Expected to Be Result of Annual Session

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 19.—(AP)—More determined effort to prevent loss of life and property in 2,000 cities in the United States and Canada are expected to be made as a result of the fifty-fourth annual convention of the International Association of Fire Engineers, which opened here today.

Mayor Arthur J. O'Keefe welcomed the fire chief to New Orleans.

James Armstrong, fire chief of Kingston, Ontario, president of the organization, announced that plans had been completed to award three trophies for the most proficient fire prevention work done during the next 12 months. The prizes will be won by cities with a population of less than 20,000, another with less than 100,000 and a third with more than 100,000.

John Kenon, head of New York's blaze fighters, led an interesting discussion on the problem of preventing automobile traffic from interfering with fire apparatus. Among other speakers were Chief Ross Davis, of Philadelphia, C. H. McCarthy of Worcester, Mass., and Stanley S. Coates, of Burlington, Ontario.

Louis B. Mayor, of the Metro-Goldwyn Mayer Pictures Corporation and a group of motion picture actors who participated in the filming of "The Fire Brigade," were met at the railroad station here last night and rushed into automobiles to participate in a spectacular parade. Sirens and bells of the fire apparatus attracted large crowds. May McAvo, movie star, took part in another parade of fire chiefs today.

The convention will close Friday morning with the selection of the next meeting place.

Medical Problem Partly Solved By Experiments Of University Instructor

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 19.—(AP)—A problem of a hatching but industrious biological problem was measurably approached by research work at the station of Fisheries' station at Annapolis, Md.

M. M. Ellis of the University of Maryland successfully hatched a special culture, at the end of a series of experiments, the embryo spawn of the fresh water mussel.

Shells Are Valuable Secondary, inedible and unattractive creature from most viewpoints, the mussel ordinarily inhabits the mud bottoms of the Chesapeake and tributary rivers in the middle-west. In rare cases it produces a type but misshapen pearl.

Produce Pearls While the parent mussel released uncounted myriads of its embryonic spawn annually, only such insignificant proportions of the progeny have ever survived as could attach themselves by accident to the gills and inner jaws of certain fishes, on which they had to live for six weeks as parasites. At the end of that period, if they succeeded in detaching themselves and dropping upon a mud bottom, evading the easier chance of getting into the adjacent stomach of the hungry incubator fish, they attained a normal life and perhaps produced a pearl or fabricated the fastening for a blouse.

Until success this summer rewarded Dr. Hill's work, no mussel ever came through its first summer without the intervention of the chance-sent fish foster mother. There are still some details of the new artificial propagation process to work out but the fishery experts on the basis of success achieved now have considerable hope that the mussel supply can

"HAVE A CAMEL" IS MUSIC TO YOUR EARS

Camel is totally different from any other smoke. . . . It is more than a cigarette. . . . A lighted Camel is smoking enjoyment realized—the closest thing to the perfection of taste this old world has ever known.

Camel's popularity has no equal. Camel demand exceeds any other cigarette preference ever known. To say "Camel" is to say "the world's most popular cigarette." And to light a Camel is to taste the best.

For there's a solid reason back of the fame and the enjoyment of Camels. Quality. Camels are rolled of the choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos money can buy. . . . blended for maximum taste and fragrance.

If you would know how mild and mellow a smoke can really be, treat yourself to a pack of Camels. Once you know what the words mean, they're music. . . . "Have a Camel!"

Chinese Manchus, In Exile, Still Cling To Traditional Etiquette Of Court Days

TIETSIN, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Court etiquette of centuries cast a shadow of the once royal supremacy about the throneless majesties of China.

The household clings tenaciously to a vestige of traditional form and sacredly observes respect for the young emperor without an empress.

Quaint Greetings Survive

In the small, carefully guarded house in the Japanese concession to which Hsuan Tung, tenth of the great Manchu line of emperors and empress dowagers, adventurously fled two years ago, "Ching An! Ching An!" the quaint and musical morning greeting of innumerable years, are the first words that daily reach the ears of the "son of Heavens" in their abode. Still are punctilious in their observance of age-old etiquette in the present day travesty of the once great court now in exile.

As his tutors and more important followers tender their daily greetings to the head of the fallen "Ching Dynasty," so does the second consort of Hsuan Tung repair daily to the apartment of the empress and bid her "Ching An!"

But Democracy Knocks

Some of the ancient forms have been modified as a result of modern democratic leanings on the part of the descendant of Chien Lung and of the foreign influences which have had so great a part in the moulding of his character and intellect. His acquired taste for many foreign things occasionally involves him in situations at variance with traditional royal usages, but without loss of inherent dignity.

The new tastes came through his distinguished tutor, a former English official in the East, and the young emperor has admitted to his friendship several of the more cultured foreigners in Tientsin, where his exiled household is established.

Kind of Dancing

He reads and speaks the English, is fond of Western dancing, is learning to drive the new touring car, and he has just acquired and is particularly interested in Western engineering and mechanical contrivances. He recently visited the leading foreign newspaper and printing offices here and betrayed a most naive and intense curiosity in the various machines and appliances. He went, of course, incognito, and as hundreds of Chinese are employed in the establishment of the foreign staff, it was at great pains to see that there were no untoward occurrences.

The last of the Manchu rulers does not find life too monotonous. He is an active young man with an alert and intensely curious mind, and although his movement outdoors is dictated by the cautious discretion of his followers rather than his own eager choice, he has already seen more of the life of common people than his predecessors.

Movie Sidelights

The Cinderella of the silver screen, who enjoyed the bounty of a magic wand, today is the good fairy of all filmdom.

For it's the magic wand of Cinderella, says Edwin King, vice-president and general manager of production of the Film Booking Office studios, which makes stars of many screen actresses and superintends the expenditure of the greater part of the millions that go into the making of motion pictures yearly.

"The age-old story of rags to riches provides the plot for probably seven out of every ten pictures," the producer says. "Authors and screenwriters are paid fortunes to tell the same old story in different form and any idea which will make the old tale appear different is pounced upon by producers. It isn't that producers and stars are incapable of making other types, but the world wants to be told again and again the story of the poor boy and girl who made good."

In making the film version of "What Price Glory," the technical staff of Fox Films set off 125 tons of dynamite and T. N. T., resulting in a bombardment of 150,000 explosions during the battle scenes. Due to elaborate precautions there were no casualties.

Joseph M. Schenck, chairman of the board of directors of the United Artists Corporation, has increased his life insurance to $1,250,000. Adolph Zukor, head of Paramount and William Fox, president of Fox Films, each has $5,000,000 insurance.

There is a man in Astoria, I. I. who has not been in a motion picture theater in ten years but who, nevertheless, in that same length of time has watched more than seventy-three million feet of canned drama flicker across the screen. His name is Rudolph Kuebler and he is chief projectionist or camera operator at the Paramount studio. His business is to run off the picture film, for purposes of cutting, subtitled and preview inspections. He has spun off as high as 60,000 feet in a day but his average run is around 18,000.

Erich von Stroheim, author, director and actor, cast his first vote as an American citizen in the recent California primary elections. Von Stroheim was born in Austria.

POINTED SHOES

Hon. Ed. Walthall, Care Seminole Hudson-Essex Co., Sanford, Fla.

Dear Ed:

The advance fashion notes say that the men will be wearing pointed, high-heeled shoes this winter.

One of the most sensible things about men's styles in recent years has been the wide-toed, low-heeled shoes.

A few years ago I would have been tempted to say that men would have too much sense to discard the present shoe style for the new, but I was one of those fools who did not believe there would ever be any men bold enough to wear balloon pants.

So, the only prediction I can safely make is that there will be some men who will be loosed on the streets in the fall with shoes coming to a tooth-pick point and with heels so high that they will make their wearers look ridiculous, and feel worse than they look.

Since I have seen men wearing those little Charlie Chaplin mules, I have convinced myself that there are some men who simply do not care to what extent they disfigure themselves.

Of course, a man's looks are not so important after all. You never hear of any beauty contests for men. But I do think that a man, though he may not care how in the back he looks, ought to have sense enough to care how he feels, and no man can feel well with a pair of high heels jamming his toes down into a pair of pointed-toe shoes.

Will you be a man wouldn't ride in an automobile with the back wheels pointed?

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Comparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and troublesome. For only 75 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and everyone all desires a youthful appearance.

Four barrels of camphor balls which went to Calgary, Canada, with Thomas Meighan and a company of players making "The Canadian," returned to New York with the company. These are probably the only camphor balls which ever traveled seven thousand miles without being opened for use. It had been intended to use them in the wheat fields, but the second day after the company arrived it proved and hail was unnecessary.

American movies lack the finishing touch that spells genius. "Pattern movies," produced by film makers with one eye on the shooting schedule and the other on the box office are hurting the future of the cinema.

These are the impression of Count Ilya Tolstoy, son of the Russian novelist, who is in California acting as literary advisor in the filming of his father's masterpiece, "Resurrection."

First, Count Ilya Tolstoy, son of Leo Tolstoy, author of "Resurrection," went to Hollywood to help film his father's classic. A Reasonable Request

We do not take back the unused part of an ice cream order.

To do so would be an injustice to ourselves and the party to whom returned ice cream would be sold.

We make our ice cream out of the best materials obtainable, using more than half sweet cream. This gives our customers more for their money than any other food, and we get only a very reasonable margin of profit on each gallon of ice cream, which will not permit losses as would result in giving credit for unused jobs.

Therefore, before ordering ice cream, please be prepared to use it all even if second helpings are necessary, and be assured that you are getting cream that hasn't been in any other home and "mashed over," or allowed to melt and become icy.

 YOUR HOUSE OF HAPPINESS
 Take what God gives, O heart of mine,
 And build your house of happiness.
 Perhaps some have been given more;
 But many have been given less.
 Treasure lying at your feet,
 Whole value you but faintly guess.
 Would barter heaven to possess.
 Do you find work that you can do?
 Is there a heart that loves you best?
 Is there a spot somewhere called home?
 Where, spent and worn, your soul
 may rest?
 A friendly tree? A look? A song?
 A dog that loves your hand's caress?
 A stone of health to meet life's needs?
 Oh, build your house of happiness!
 It pays to co-operate.

Is It For the Good of Seminole County?

Calvin A. Owens of St. Petersburg, president of the Florida Interurban Rapid Transit Railway company, has been sending out some mighty good thoughts from time to time for the upbuilding and general improvement of Florida. Some of these have occasionally appeared in these columns without comment, but one which came to us recently was so good that we wish to call special attention to it.

Mr. Owens is of the opinion that Florida became somewhat side tracked during the past year or two and used considerable energy unnecessarily. In other words, Mr. Owens believes that Florida should develop along safe and sane lines with more of a thought to the future than the present. He says in "Back to Normalcy—Florida's Mission":

- 1. That the true mission of Florida is to make it a winter homeland and develop the natural resources.
- 2. That trying to make a Pittsburg of a Miami or a Fort Myers is wrong in its inception and ridiculous in its attempt.
- 3. That encouraging and licensing "bird dogs" to worry vacationists is only slow suicide.
- 4. That hectic promises of speculative profits is talking out of turn and only leads to grief.
- 5. That the policies of 1924-25, of giving the visitor the best accommodations at reasonable prices, made Florida the Mecca of America.
- 6. That the law of compensation still operates and the Golden Rule must be observed in Florida.

In winter the grizzly bear hibernates in the snow clad hills while the swallow sails over sylvan groves and tropical seas. The reputation of the bear is that of a growler, while the first swallow is welcomed everywhere for his songs of happiness.

In Sanford it is only of comparatively recent date that any tendency to "side-track" has been noticed. For years Sanford has made steady progress, going continuously ahead on the strength of its agricultural resources and a small tourist influx which found in this section just what it desired in rest and relaxation.

Table Manners Are Improving

His eyes dancing with mirth, a mischievous little boy at a fashionable summer resort hotel undertook to "get a rise" out of his grandmother by a display of outlandish table manners. Other people at the table were almost uproariously amused by his antics, but the thing that entertained them most was the utterly placid demeanor of the grandmother.

Instead of becoming embarrassed and flustered by the boy's uncouth actions, she went calmly on with her own meal, even laughing at some of the child's capers. Bad table-manners to that gentleman were a kind of joke. She knew the boy knew better because a long line of forebears had known better. Family meals among all her kinspeople were always marked by simple, good manners, because those were the only "manners" they knew.

The incident was recalled by a statement credited to Harry J. Boekenhoff, president of the National Restaurant Association. Mr. Boekenhoff expressed an opinion to this effect: "The day of the pea juggler, the knife swallower, the soup yodler and coffee inhaler and kindred menaces of the restaurant patron's mind has passed. Today men pay more attention to the manner in which they partake of their meals. Women always were more careful than men in such matters, but they, too, have improved."

The restaurant man thinks that the improvement is due to practice, and that the practice has come mostly through the growing custom of away-from-home dining. More people eat in restaurants and hotels than used to. And almost anybody soon learns that certain habits that might be tolerated by careless people in their own homes must be dispensed with in public eating places.

The boy and his grandmother have always been so used to good table manners, they could make a joke of the boy's antics. But it is not often that way. The man or woman at a dining table certainly makes public considerable autobiography.

WHEN A MAN'S A MAN
 PALM BEACH POST

For many years it has been customary to consider that when a youth reaches the age of 21 years he has attained his majority and is therefore a man. The law so contemplates, for at that age the boy ceases to be an infant, under the care and direction of parents or guardians, and becomes a separate entity, empowered to sue and be sued in his own name, to own real estate and other things outright and in all other ways to take upon himself the full privileges of manhood.

Thus we have generally accepted the proposition that the boy becomes a man at 21. To the youth of 15, twenty-one seems a ripe and mature age but the man of 35 regards it as mere adolescence and the older of 60 sees 21 as the age of childhood. With these various viewpoints, therefore, there is no real agreement on the age at which a youth becomes a man and the matter is further complicated by the incontrovertible fact that some boys are men at 17 and some men are children at 50.

To get at the meat of any question similar to this it is always necessary to go to business for an answer, where results, and not theories are the standards by which men are judged. And on this point now under consideration the London General Omnibus company has an interesting commentary in which they develop the argument that a man is not "grown up" until he is 26 years old.

"We do not say anything against the young man of 21," the company's statement says, "and we choose men of that age to fill vacancies as conductors. But we will not take them as drivers until they are 26." This, according to the company, is because a man's full sense of responsibility and his powers of judgment are not fully developed until that age has been reached. With modern methods of education, however, there is no doubt that the youth of 21 today is better able to be a man than was the youth of 21 two decades ago.

A Woman's Millions
 Courage Conquers All.

 1,000,000 Hungalows.
 BY ARTHUR BRISBANE
 (Copyright 1926, by Star Co.)

WHAT WILL be the size of America's great fortunes 100 years hence, with millions begetting other millions?

Stephen V. Harkness, in the early days a partner of John D. Rockefeller, left his widow a modest Standard Oil fortune of fifty millions. Now Mrs. Harkness is dead, and her estate totals eighty-five millions.

She was an admirably benevolent woman, going away large sums. There was no speculation, no sudden gains, but money slowly increasing in the land of fabulous wealth, like a rolling snowball.

SHE OWNED Standard Oil stocks, hundreds of thousands of shares of General Electric, Telephone and Telegraph, Atchison and other railroad stocks.

INHERITANCE TAX take sixteen millions of her fortune. Her son will get sixty millions. How much will he leave, if he is not so good as the last of State, and let his fortune be compounded starting with the count?

Today's and many children help to create great fortunes, but the bulk of the American fortune of whom we have heard, is made up factor that it can be lost.

BUT DON'T worry, or join the economists. It is not what one man owns, but how he spends it, that counts. If the money goes back into industry, no harm is done, except that the children of the ablest business men, having no incentive to make them work, usually become parasites.

COURAGE OVERCOME the debt, the brave Japanese prove it. The yen has risen 20 percent in a year, the Bank of Japan reduces its discount rate, and the nation will soon join Britain and the United States on a gold basis.

PROTECTIVE TARIFFS, street economy, and abstaining from foreign loans have enabled Japan in a few years to rise from the great earthquake calamity to high prosperity. A great and courageous nation.

THIS COLUMN long ago warned stock gamblers that the weaker motor stocks might cause trouble. Nothing is wrong with the main industry, but there has been excessive speculation of buying by urging false credit.

"Bring in your old car, pay down a few dollars, and drive away a new car" is too tempting to the foolish.

New cars bought too hastily, second hand cars parked too hastily, must now be digested.

DR. DUNLOP, professor of experimental psychology at Johns Hopkins, says that smokers are more dependable than non-smokers.

It may be true. Smoking is a substitute for thinking. A man blowing smoke into the air is not thinking up mischief, or anything else men smoke with chin tilted upward, they think with the chin down.

The professor says there is no proof that tobacco hurts women more than men.

There is proof that it makes women smell of tobacco, and that hurts their marriage chances.

WHY DO many Americans never "get ahead"?

Here is one answer

"One billion dollars is the total of worthless stock sold yearly in the United States." Charge up an other billion to track gambling, and more than a billion to Wall-street gambling, and you see where the savings go.

THREE THOUSAND million dollars thrown away each year. That's money enough to buy each year 1,000,000 hungalows at $3,000 each.

PROFESSORS HUNSEY and Bossier of Michigan university, leave for South Africa next Saturday to study double stars in the southern hemisphere.

On a hill in the Orange Free State they will erect a 27 inch telescope and work in wonderfully clear atmosphere.

THAT INTERESTS the average citizen less than any new detail in the world of crime, divorce, football, or pugilism. It will interest future ages more than the battle of Waterloo or any other human dog fight.

LLOYD GEORGE praises Asquith like a conquering game cock growing on the body of a defeated foe.

He praises prohibition also, but will never persuade Britons to adopt it.

They retain the theory that the individual should decide personal questions for himself.

They even maintain that enjoyment of a glass of beer is more important than increased savings.

Think of that for depravity.

What Lord Brougham Did for Lord Byron
 TALLAHASSEE MORNING STATE

(By Wickes Wamboldt)

It is doubtful if Lord Byron ever would have become a poet had he not been criticised caustically by Lord Brougham.

Byron's first volume of poems was no great shakes, almost any one will admit that. When Lord Brougham read it he was so disgusted that he spoke right out loud for publication, expressing himself with the venomous satire and sarcasm for which he was famous.

When Lord Byron learned what Lord Brougham had said about him, he was so highly incensed that it actually stung him into becoming a real poet.

Of course, you know who Lord Byron was. He was one of the greatest of English poets. But do you know who Lord Brougham was? Lord Brougham was the personage who, back under the early part of the nineteenth century, designed the carriage that bears his name.

But to return to the Lord Byron incident. There is a class of persons who have to be hit in the nose, so to speak, in order to wake them up. There are folks who seem to be doing around in a sort of semi-dozed or dazed who require rough treatment to get them into action.

QUEER IDEAS OF A NEWSPAPER
 SARASOTA TIMES

If your paper would only take a stand and criticize the police for permitting fast driving; if your paper would only say something about the gathering up of the trash from the streets; if you would only criticize the method of paving streets here; why don't you give 'em Hail Columbia for blowing whistles at street crossings in the city limits.

These are just about one-tenth of the suggestions that a newspaper receives during a week for editorials, and those offering the suggestions are really sincere. Their idea of the functions of a newspaper is rather vague, they want the newspaper to do the driving instead of doing a little of it themselves.

Some person is rubbed the wrong way by some department of the government, and immediately he or she wants the newspaper to do a little "roasting." Another one is waked up in the middle of the night by the shrill whistle of a locomotive, and immediately it becomes the duty of the newspaper to hop on the railroad with both feet, so the person waked up thinks. And so on down the line.

There are thus who think that the newspaper should jump at conclusion; and begin to boast, and when the newspaper refuses, it is classed as a "piker," or unprogressive. A man hears that a police officer is in league with a bunch of bootleggers—that he is giving them protection. He has tens down to the newspaper office, and says that something should be said about it in the editorial columns, the officer and the head of the department should be classed along with reprobates, but he is very much chagrined when he is informed that the newspaper is not conducting a reform school, and if he has any complaints to make to take them to the proper authorities.

Such people forget that the functions of a newspaper are to publish the news, and not to stir up scandal. After the scandal has been stirred up, and there is no element of libel in it, then the newspaper can publish it without fear or favor, especially if it is a matter of public record. The editorial page of the newspaper is not one designed to stir up scandal, or to continually criticize people, but it is one reserved by the editor to express what he considers the opinion of the people, and on which to offer constructive suggestions.

PLAYING
 MIAMI HERALD

A business man, who works hard when he works, and who plays when he plays, said the other day that Miami is serving a very useful place in providing a community where so great emphasis is put upon the spirit of play. He believes that the business of the nation would be better done, and the health of the nation would be better, if everyone played more. Because Miami provides a place where there is opportunity for all kinds of play, and where everyone is urged to play it is needed in the strenuous present age.

Solemn folk sometimes express their contempt of a community which has so many forms of recreation, and uses them so freely. These solemn folk seem to think there is something wicked about enjoying life. There is, as a mat-

SCHOOL TEACHERS ENTERTAINED BY SANFORD WOMAN'S CLUB

A very interesting event of Monday evening was the reception given by the Joint Parent-Teachers' Association of the city, at the Woman's Club, honoring the teachers in the various Sanford Schools. This was a sort of get acquainted affair, given to try and bring about a closer relationship between the home and the school.

The spacious auditorium, was artistically decorated with masses of greenery, baskets of golden rod, cosmos, zinnias and other cut flowers, emphasizing the color scheme of white, yellow and green.

Upon arrival the guests were welcomed by Mrs. R. L. Deas and Mrs. Fred Wilson, who in turn introduced them to the receiving line, which was composed of the president of the general association, Mrs. L. N. Hansell and the chairman of the various schools, Mrs. John Sneed of the High School, Mrs. Preston of the Grammar School, Mrs. A. K. Powers from the South Side, Mrs. W. A. Lefler from the East Side. Mrs. Hansell is also president of the West Side Parent-Teachers' Association. The teachers and principal of each school were grouped together and were then introduced to the parents of their respective school children.

At one end of the room, a prettily appointed table was placed, and here throughout the evening orange punch was served by Mrs. Charles Vincent.

A local orchestra rendered an unusually delightful musical program during the evening, and at a late hour refreshments of yellow and white brick ice cream, individual cakes and mints were served by Mrs. Claude Herndon, Mrs. Highleyman, Mrs. Mahlon Wright, Mrs. Zeb Ratliff and Mrs. J. E. Terwilliger.

About 2000 parents and patrons called during the evening.

DELIGHTFUL COURTESY GIVEN FOR SANFORD COUPLE TUESDAY NIGHT

The Howard home at Rutledge, an ideal place for entertaining, was most attractively decorated Monday evening, when Miss Mina Howard, Miss Fern Ward and Miss Sara Warren Easterby were joint hostesses, entertaining at bridge, complimenting Miss Lillian Shinholser and Eagle E. Jones, whose marriage will be a social event of Friday afternoon at the First Methodist church.

Suggestive of the approaching Halloween season were the decorations and color scheme. The wide porches were hung with myriads of Jack o' Lanterns, grinning a welcome to the guests upon their arrival.

The mantels were banked with pine boughs, in which owls were placed, while over the doorways were Spanish moss, studded with numerous black bats, owls and witches. The windows and archways were draped with orange, with Halloween figures. Skeletons, witches and ghosts were placed in unexpected places and placed in a series of firsts. The lights were shaded with pumpkins and Jack o' Lanterns, which cast a weird glow over the scene. Black hawks filled with golden cosmos and zinnias were also used to advantage in decorating.

Score cards for the card game were kept on tallies done in wicker, goblins and cats. The tallies were laid with orange covers, at each corner were suggestions of Halloween. Orange mints and chocolates were placed on the card tables and enjoyed during the program of the game.

When scores had been collected, it was found that Miss Eloise Brady held high score and was awarded an orange and black vase, while the men's prize, an ash tray, went to William Eitz. The low score prize, Halloween novelties, were won by Mrs. Hugh Wheelchel and Willard Gates. The hostesses presented the guests of honor a hand patted creamer and sugar bowl.

The players were joined by a number of guests who had attended the Teacher's reception at the Woman's Club and refreshments consisting of individual pumpkin pies, topped with Halloween sticks, baked apples and whipped cream, cheese straws and coffee. The hostesses were assisted in serving by Mrs. B. A. Howard, Mrs. Harry Ward, Mrs. Edward Higgins, Mrs. R. C. Fowler, and Mrs. Walter Morgan.

After the game of bridge had been played, dancing was enjoyed until a late hour.

Miss Howard received her guests wearing a most becoming frock of fresh pink georgette handsomely beaded.

Fashioned of maize colored georgette with trimmings of rhinestones and roses, was the becoming gown worn by Miss Fern Ward.

Miss Sara Warren Easterby was attired in a smart frock of black satin with trimmings of gold lace worn over flesh satin.

Miss Shinholser was stunning in a lovely creation of Valencia Blue Crepe Elizabeth with bead trimmings.

The guests were Miss Lillian Shinholser, Miss Marion Hind, Miss Evelyn Anderson, Miss Ruby Hoyle, Miss P. P. Lee Bell, Miss Frances Dutton, Miss Marjorie

Flair of Styles

Women May Eat Again While there is only a suggestion of waists being shown in the new English model, there are all kinds of devices which hint at the waist line rather than indicate it. There are little gold buckles which fasten in the front and bows which tie at the side.

"Do these effects mean that women are going to have their natural figures again?" a modiste was asked.

"If we succeed," she said, "they may gradually come back in style again and those women who have starved themselves for five years will be able to eat again."

Attack Men Buyers

German women are unable to dress as becomingly as the American because there are too many men buyers of women's clothes, a leading fashion journal asserts in demanding that fraudsters throw off the yoke of masculine dress in the matter of dress.

"While in the end women dress to please men," the journal says, "women can make a much better job of it than men. When it comes to selecting handkerchiefs, chemises and a hundred other dainties, male buyers for department or women's wear stores are usually hopeless."

Here Is What New Yorkers Are Doing

Echoes of the recent heavyweight championship bout at Philadelphia can be heard yet in New York. In the book shops, not only on extensive and exclusive Fifth Avenue but also on the humble but popular Fourth Avenue quarter of second-hand shops, the book sellers are giving prominent displays to their stock of out-of-print books on the boxers of old as well as biographies of the modern fistie champions of Pistiana. Many of the shops also display colored prints and steel engravings of famous prize fighters of the last hundred years.

New York's ever-urgent problem of "elbow room" is even causing an evolutionary process in radio equipment. Antennas in the shape of waterproof paracord sheets, resembling tinny shades, are to be had in different sizes. They can be hung against the wall or placed under a rug. Thousands of the old-form aerial antennas, however still thrust themselves up from the roof of almost every dwelling and apartment house in the city.

The intricacy of New York's subway system is always puzzling to visitors, but in the dispatchers' offices is a toy railroad system that any child could understand. Scores of tiny electric lights on a huge map of the tracks show the dispatchers where every train is every minute. These tiny lights share with black signals and electrically locked switches the credit for the company's boast of "the safest railway in the world."

Police officials admit that in comparison with American metropolitan forces they have an easy time. About 70 per cent of German murders, municipal reports show, either commit suicide immediately after their crimes or surrender. Hence the proportion of slayings to be solved is small. Last year there were 68 murders in Berlin. Recently police received a postcard signed Leo Blankenstein, saying he was wanted for embezzling 5,000 marks and would return to Berlin on a certain train. The incident was not uncommon and Blankenstein walked into the arms of waiting cops.

The Woman's Day

RENEW SUFFRAGE FIGHT French militant suffragists are going to carry their demand for the vote to every town, village and farmhouse in France. Under the leadership of Mme. Marthe Bray, president of the League for Immediate Suffrage, flying parties will tour France in automobiles, concentrating their work on the individuals.

Heretofore feminine persuasion has been brought to bear largely on the politicians. There have been many "fair promises," says Mme. Bray, but little action.

The League for Immediate Suffrage hopes for immediate Suffrage to the people of the country to get a measure granting suffrage to women through the next session of Parliament, which meets this month.

LONDON'S "SHE-SHYLOCKS"

LONDON. (AP) "She-Shylocks of the Shims" is the name applied to women who specialize in small loans to wives of working men in the poor districts of England's great cities.

One of these money lenders has been fined five pounds for transaction in which the interest charged was at the rate of 800 per cent a year. The lady was not fined for her high interest rate, but for operating without a license. The business could have been legalized merely by filling out a form and paying a small fee.

There are hundreds of "She-Shylocks" in Great Britain. They make loans for a few shillings to poor, ignorant women who usually meekly submit to exorbitant interest charges rather than let their husbands know they are in the toils of money lenders.

WOMAN BLACKSMITH

EGGENBERG, Austria (AP) Rosa Steinklauber, blacksmith, is one of the best known artisans in this section of Austria.

A diploma testifies that she is "fully entitled, having served her apprenticeship and satisfied her examiners that she is entitled to call herself a master blacksmith."

Rosa is a cartwright as well as a blacksmith. She is a handsome woman, whose strength is equal to that of any man, and can shoe the most refractory horse.

MIRRORED IN CHICAGO

Human body, it is said, is mirrored every seven years. A city continually is rebuilt, but over a long period of years the same things are found in some of the same spots on top of the earth of another.

Chicago, not quite a century old, probably has been rebuilt more than any other modern city in the same period. Before the Chicago fire of 1870, it is estimated that the face of the city was changed several times. A few of these half-old buildings still are standing on the loop outskirts, but for the most part they have been replaced by skyscrapers. And now some of the first skyscrapers are giving way to super-skyscrapers.

In the territories adjacent to the loop a similar development is continually in progress.

"Open day and night." That is not an advertisement for a 24-hour restaurant, but actually a notice conspicuously displayed on the first telephone directory issued in Chicago in 1878. That directory, covering a scant 12 pages, listed fewer than 500 connections, of which only five were residential phones, including one in the home of the general manager of the telephone company. Today there are nearly 800,000 telephones in operation within the city limits.

In 1878 phones were so few that numbers were not necessary. A connection could be obtained by name. And there was slight chance of a wrong connection. There were only eight names listed under the "A" column, for instance, and all were different.

The telephone nowadays is the life line of a newspaper. It is interesting to note that in 1878 only two of Chicago's numerous publications had installed the "new fangled device."

In seeing America first, Rush street is the place to find the Sainte Chappelle.

Homed in by skyscrapers and just as it is from the spreading wings of Michigan Boulevards, Sainte Chappelle of Chicago comes suddenly into view in strange quiet beauty, an architectural apparition from medieval Paris. It is a duplicate of the world-famous little church built by St. Louis, King of France in A. D. 1247, to contain Christ's Crown of Thorns, and a piece of the True Cross.

Chicago's Sainte Chappelle forms part of Quigley Memorial Seminary, the largest preparatory school for the training of priests in the United States. The Sainte Chappelle of Paris is reputed to be the most perfect Gothic building ever constructed with windows the most gorgeously beautiful in existence.

To many persons "Night life" in a large city means music, dancing,

There is another kind of night life, however, a night life of honest toil and endeavor, by hundreds of persons who pursue occupations under artificial light while most of the world is sleeping.

To one familiar with the tremendous hustle and bustle of Chicago's loop in the daylight hours, the morning seems strangely still and deserted. But after his mind and eyes become accustomed to this strangeness he becomes aware that considerable activity is in progress and that the streets are not so deserted as he imagined from a first impression.

"Look into the owl drought on a prominent corner. The fountain attendant is mixing drinks for two or three later customers. The drug der to a woman, probably an actress on her way to a hotel from the Randolph street rialto. The cigar clerk is fumbling for cigarettes. Outside a newsboy is taking newspapers from a wagon which has just clattered up to the curb.

Across the street an attendant at an all night cab stand is calling a vehicle for a patron. Six or seven all night restaurants in the white light block have a scattering of diners, actors and actresses, newspapermen and other late workers. Motor cars line the curb. Motor trucks with bread and rolls and pies and other supplies are moving in front of the restaurant. Other cars are cutting away the route of the previous day.

take me to their hearts, as I already have taken them to mine.

"They seem to want me here as a Queen," she replied to a question as to whether she would assume an incognito to seek any of the privileges of a private visitor to this country.

"What use would there be in my pretending to be someone else?" she asked.

Then "a Queen can't act in the movies, now, can she?" Was her comment on a rumor that she would act for the screen while in Hollywood.

"I shall not appear in the movies, except as I am snapped on the streets—but I'm not saying I won't write for them."

As a speaker, the Queen declared herself to be a complete amateur. "My speech in reply to the mayor of New York was the first I ever made," she said. "I had not prepared it. I only spoke from my heart."

"No, I was wrong," she corrected herself. "I recall another speech I made, to Americans, too. It was in a V. M. C. A. hut in France before American dough boys. I was trying to tell them the difference between Democracy and Bolshevism; most people have learned some what a big difference there is—I knew it then."

Seated at the rear of her flower filled private car, the Queen, with her son and daughter, watched the flying American landscape.

"It is very like England," she commented, "only larger and more brightly colored."

When she reached Washington at the close of her first American day, Queen Marie met another glamorous welcome and had her first glimpse of the nation's capital.

Standing with Secretary Kellogg, faced by an imposing reception committee in which the uniforms of the army and navy, diplomatic insignia and gold lace denoted the highest officials of the various departments of government, backed by the color of her own party with Rumanian pomp and ceremony in attendance on its royalty, the Queen was the central figure in a scene neither she nor her audience is likely to forget.

Against the almost ink-black sky over the heads of the Marines at attention and the squadrons of cavalry waiting to form horsecourt of honor, and framed in the arcades of union station, the dome of the capitol shone gold. Two army bands sounded the Rumanian and American anthems while the Queen stood smiling, her arms full of orchids and her gaze on the far off capitol. Behind her Princess Helena, carrying roses, and Prince Nicholas waited shyly. While the luncheon claimed the Queen, who was ushered into the first car of the entourage by Secretary Kellogg, the Navy, in the person of Admiral E. W. Eberle claimed the Prince, who had been trained in the British Navy. The Army represented by General Fox, a long chief of staff, escorted Princess Helena.

At the Rumanian location, where on the extra territorial soil of her own country the Queen spent the first night of her stay in this country, the crowd that filled the streets waited like pilgrims for a sight of a new princess.

Although she had announced through an officer that she would not appear again, Marie at last relented and appeared, a lovely royal figure, on a balcony above the entrance. Her hand on the flag-staff of her country's red, green

First Street and Park are in gala attire. The Stars and American flags are in regular intervals. On business buildings had been with bunting and flags had also been decorated. A temporary band stand on the street will be decorated.

Coming 1,100 miles to participate in the Shrine evening, Jutnam Stevens, past president of the order for America, arrived here from his home at Portland an dis staying at the Hotel. Mr. Stevens and Lane, president of the Shrine Club, are personal and the long trip to San Francisco made because of the fact the Sanford man.

Mr. Stevens is known to thousands of men and once he becomes acquainted with a brother, he will greet the meeting, his friend.

Will Ingram of Jacksonville, a member of the Shrine, and who will have the floor over at the tomorrow afternoon are preparing for the drill.

Visiting ladies will be entertained with a boat ride on the Potomac tomorrow afternoon. Yacht Wexela will leave the pier at 2:30 o'clock for the lake.

and the lawbreaker, her mother, from the photo gallery, she said a few days ago. To her mother's indignation, having been a member of the police corps.

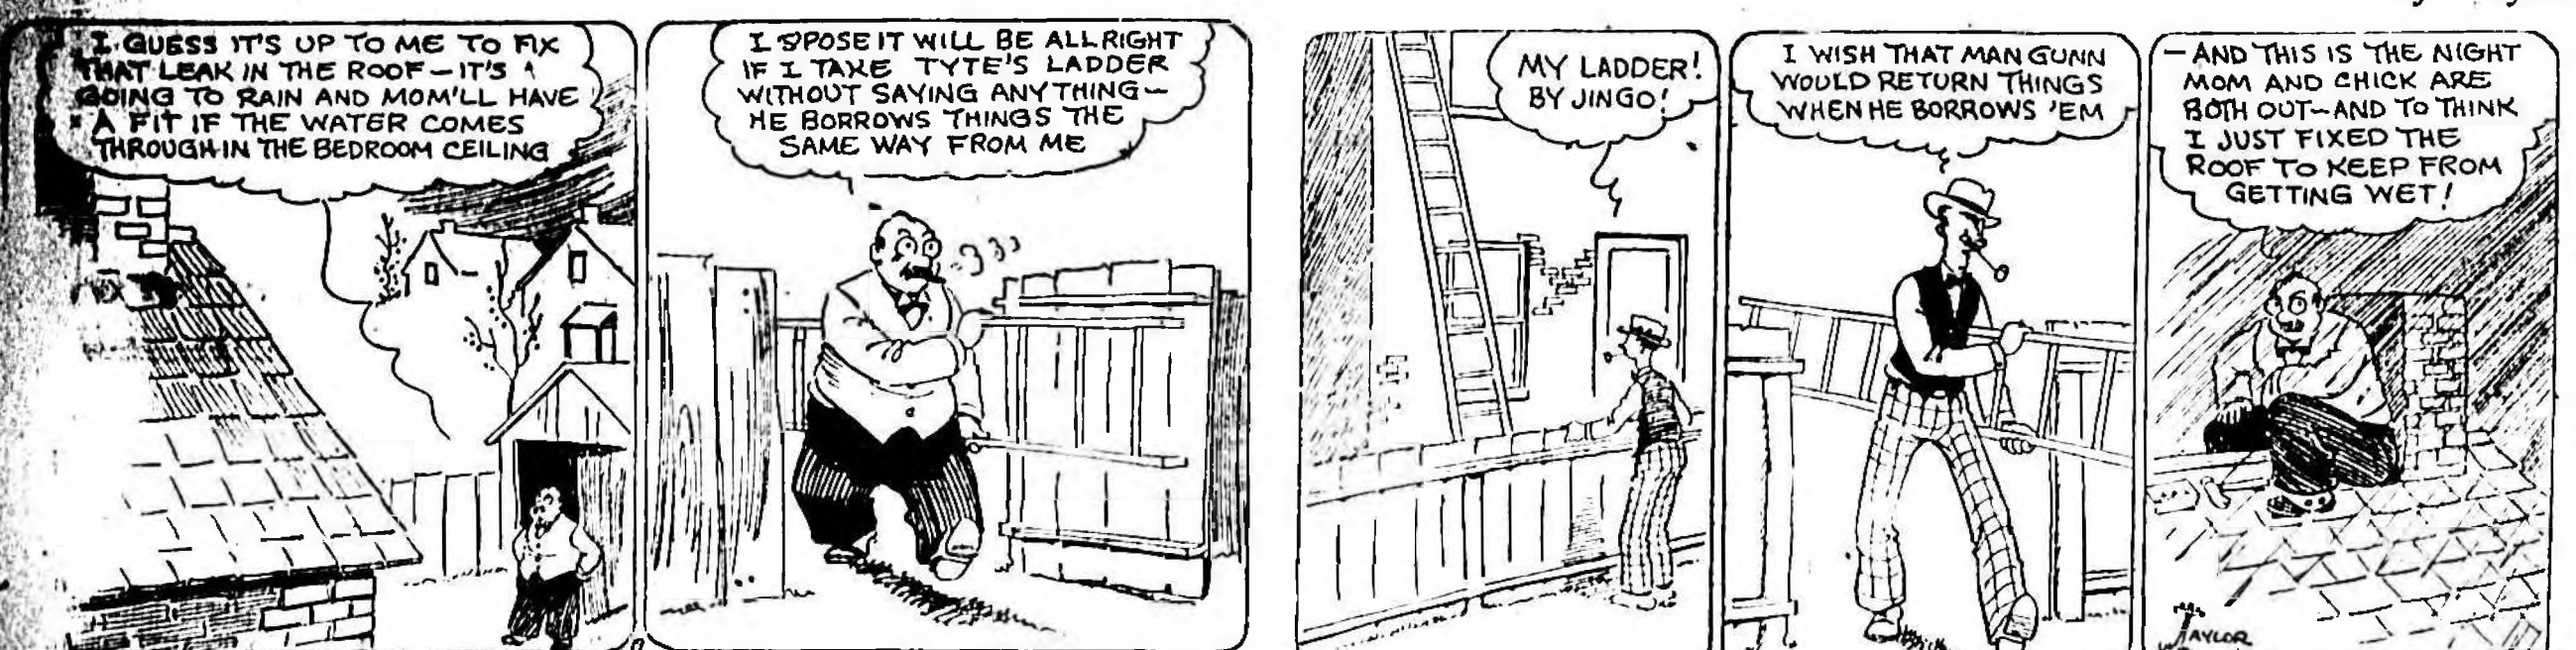

Today she becomes the guest of the nation, staying at the White House, with her mother and Princess Helena and Prince Nicholas. Her mother, Queen Marie, spent the first night of her stay in this country, the crowd that filled the streets waited like pilgrims for a sight of a new princess.

Although she had announced through an officer that she would not appear again, Marie at last relented and appeared, a lovely royal figure, on a balcony above the entrance. Her hand on the flag-staff of her country's red, green

Who's Fooled?

When you give an open listing—It should occur to you that you have simply peddled your property from office to office—not any one of them has bargained to do anything for you—not one single office has agreed to make the selling of your property its only business—you've bought no special service.

An exclusive listing in our office
buys performance—salesmanship—30 days of tireless effort—and.. the positive assurance that the largest and liveliest selling organization in the city is giving all of its energy to make a sale for you.
Now who is being fooled?
