Will Hanoi Change Its Stand? President Vague On Peace Talks

By FRANK CORMIER
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon has announced the United States will return to Vietnam peace talks in Paris on July 13 because he sees "a chance for more serious discussions."
Holding his first television-radio news conference in 13 months, Nixon gave no clue Thursday night to the nature of presumed secret talks that is bringing both sides back to the conference table.
In fact, he couched his veiled optimism with a statement that "we have been disappointed in the past with regard to these discussions"—suggesting history might repeat itself.
The Paris talks have been in the deep freeze since early May. The last East Asian summit in the White House, the seemingly relaxed chief executive also...

Repealed high praise for Vice President Spiro T. Agnew but declared he won't make known his choice of a 1972 campaign running mate until the Aug. 21 Republican National Convention draws nearer.
"I expressed hope the courts will uphold the death penalty as a deterrent to such federal crimes as kidnapping and sky-jacking."
"Endorsed, in perhaps stronger language than before, legislation to tighten controls over cheap and readily available handguns."
Nixon said the United States "will return to the negotiating table... on the assumption that the North Vietnamese are

"I have always felt there should be a federal law for the control of handguns... The problem there is to write the law... in such a way that it is precise and deals with that kind of handgun which ought to be controlled."
"Cautious Congress against any inflationary or inadequately financed increase in Social Security benefits."
"Saw the economy making great strides, while cautioning that he plans to do more to reduce unemployment."
Vietnam was the dominant topic.
Nixon said the United States "will return to the negotiating table... on the assumption that the North Vietnamese are prepared to negotiate in a serious and constructive way. We will be prepared to negotiate in that way."

He reaffirmed a May 8 offer to withdraw all Americans within four months in return for a supervised Indochina cease-fire and the return of American prisoners plus an accounting for those missing.
At another point, Nixon again claimed success for his Vietnamization program while declining to say exactly when Saigon forces might be able to operate effectively without U.S. supporting airpower.
"We expect, perhaps, some more North Vietnamese offensive," he said, "but I believe now the ability of the South Vietnamese to defend themselves... with the support we give them in the air, has been demonstrated."

Nixon said the U.S. Air Force Gen. John Lavelle in providing unauthorized bombing strikes against Northern targets "did not affect the diplomatic negotiations." But he said the forced retirement and demotion of Lavelle was proper and "will assure that kind of activity may not occur in the future."
In defending his request for money to fund new offensive weapons programs, while seeking congressional approval of his Moscow-summit arms accord, Nixon contended both countries understand the other will go forward with new weapons...

While discussing Vietnam, he...
I find that making a bargain with them is not easy and you get something from them only when you have something they want to get from you.
In this vein, he said that's why he intends to continue bombing North Vietnam, mine its harbors and maintain a "residual force" in the South until prisoners of war are returned.

Door Is Open For Newer Death Laws

By John A. Spolnik
Now don't get too "hot" about the Supreme Court ruling on the death sentence...
Judging by the number of calls and the tone of same received from you dear readers, I'd be of the opinion that there is a slight disagreement existing.
The truth of the matter is, according to Attorney General Robert Shevin, "I think they left the door ajar." He suggested the constitutional question of the death penalty may now depend on "who you kill or how brutal the crime is."
Shevin said he would urge Gov. Reubin Askew to call a special session of the Legislature.
So, why don't call your representative and let him know how you personally stand on this matter.

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court decision outlawing the death penalty as it is now imposed leaves the door open for Congress or the states to write new laws that would be considered valid.
The only reason there is an opening at all is that only two of the five justices in Thursday's majority seem to have concluded that capital punishment is prohibited by the 8th Amendment for all crimes and under all circumstances.
They were Justices William J. Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall.
The three others, Byron R. White, Potter Stewart, and to a lesser degree, William O. Douglas, quarreled constitutionally not with capital punishment itself so much as with the looseness of sentencing procedures.
That is, the legislatures left it to judges and juries to choose to impose the death penalty in one instance of murder or rape and to impose a lesser sentence on another defendant for a similar crime.
White said that as a result the odds are very much against execution. "When imposition of the penalty reaches a certain degree of infrequency, it would be very doubtful that any existing general need for retribution would be measurably satisfied," he said.
Stewart said: "I simply conclude that the 8th and 14th Amendments cannot tolerate the infliction of a sentence of death under legal systems that permit this unique penalty to be so wantonly and so freakishly imposed."

Locally, the decision could affect two recent cases and another in which the convicted have been inmates of death row at Raiford for many years.
Israel Gilley and Jimmie Lee Drumwright were meted the death penalty on May 4, 1963, after being convicted by a Triplet 12 of the opinion that Circuit Court jury of the Feb. 8, 1963, rape of a 12-year old Sanford girl.
In more recent cases, Robert Lee Byrd received the death sentence on May 28, 1971, for the 1963 rape of a Seminole County housewife.
Dennis Herovich was sentenced to the electric chair on May 2, 1972, for the Sept. 20, 1971 rape of a teenage Sanford girl.

DRIVER ESCAPED ON FOOT
Sanford police are seeking the driver of this wrecked, stolen automobile. Sgt. Ralph Russell and Sgt. Doug Bishop sought to stop the car last night at Ninth Street and Sanford Avenue and a 100-mph chase ensued. The car struck a utility pole near Orange Avenue and the driver escaped on foot. On Scuttled Death Penalty County Officials Irate Yesterday's ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court abolishing the death penalty has caused a barrage of comment from local law officials.

where the death penalty should be used. They shouldn't have done away with it. It is a deterrent to certain crimes such as murder and rape and there should be other deterrents than life imprisonment for these offenses."
Seminole County Sheriff John Polk stresses, "I think that the death penalty is a definite deterrent to murder and rape, and I don't understand the President's statement last night on TV that the ruling doesn't apply to federal cases. I feel our major crimes such as murder and rape, if the Supreme Court ruling stands, will increase. The death penalty has been a deterrent to major crime. Now, what has a man got to lose if he kills a hundred men? He can only get life imprisonment."
Police Chief Justice East, of Altamonte Springs, George Karcher, of Casselberry, Ben Butler, of Sanford and Eddie Sweat, of Longwood, were unavailable for comment. However, a reliable court source indicated he is irate over the decision and was visibly upset when the Supreme Court decision was handed to him while he occupied the bench yesterday.
Judge Saffell has been a vocal proponent of the death penalty since the Supreme Court decision was handed to him while he occupied the bench yesterday.

Zane Clark on a drug offense, told him that if it were in his power Clark would receive the electric chair for his part in involving area youth to become "hooked" on the drug habit.
The Senate adopted today a 78 per cent across-the-board increase in Social Security benefits — the biggest such boost in history.

Nixon At A Glance

WASHINGTON (AP)—Following is a summary of President Nixon's activities Thursday night:
PEACE TALKS—The President will return to the Paris negotiating table July 13 and the Vietnamese communists have said they will attend. With serious negotiations the war can be ended well before next January. If not, U.S. bombing and mining will continue.
VICTIMIZATION—He is optimistic about the ability of the South Vietnamese to defend themselves.
DEATH PENALTY—He hopes the Supreme Court decision against capital punishment will not prohibit the death penalty for such federal crimes as kidnapping and hijacking.
GLNS—Congress should ban the sale of cheap, easily concealable handguns the President called a major source of violence.
AGNEW—Nixon praised the performance of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and said he will announce his decision on a running mate well before the Republican National Convention.
SOCIAL SECURITY—Any Social Security increase passed by Congress must be responsible, non-inflationary and adequately financed.

Tuesday Is Legal Holiday

Employees of city and county governments will get Tuesday off to celebrate Independence Day as all county offices and city halls will close Tuesday. In addition Altamonte Springs and Winter Springs also will close on Monday.
U.S. post offices and area banks will close Tuesday only. Motor vehicle inspection stations will close Tuesday as will driver's license offices.

Highway Safety For July Fourth

The Fourth of July holiday weekend has just about as many meanings as there are in the dictionary. The obvious and traditional honoring of this greatest of national patriotic holidays has been diluted by the years and by the events which have studied American history with great achievements and some equally disturbing failures.

Yet there is a common denominator which makes all one. This is the automobile. Few celebrations indeed will not take to the highways and set forth on auto trips which may be the main event of their observance or only the prelude to the holiday spent on the beach and in the camps and forests.

Tonight at 6 p.m. the official weekend travel starts being measured. Not for distances traveled. Not for speeds achieved. Not for hours of endurance. The stark statistic which will be arrived at when the 102 hour end is reached on Tuesday midnight is: "The number of deaths!"

Commander of the Florida Highway Patrol Eldridge Beach has estimated this will be 32. If so, it will not be for lack of dedication, devotion and action by the patrol and other county and local officers. These safety-minded men will be on the roads.

They will be especially looking for the speeders. Of these, the sharpest scrutiny will be for those who are violating traffic rules and "drinking the road."

As commander Beach stated: "Because our experience shows that intensive traffic law enforcement efforts have a substantial impact on drivers, the patrol will be mustering all of its resources for a maximum effort during the holidays."

Here in Seminole county their efforts will be substantially supported by safety patrols in other sections of the county. Sheriff John Polk. They do not have to be reminded that in all of the counties which are caught in the traffic mess resulting from inadequate roads to handle the traffic generated from the popular Walt Disney World, the holiday jams will stretch all official efforts to control beyond their present capacity.

However, there is one bright spot in this dark picture of probable highway fatalities. This is the growing awareness of the public, the drivers to the extent and the alarming challenge which this presents to the man at the steering wheel.

Regardless of all that has been done to improve the marking of traffic lanes, the installation of new and more practical highway markers, the belated improvement of traffic lights and the even slower action by the railroads to lessen traffic blocks, the prime responsibility to avoid accidents must rest on the shoulders of the driver. We are often criticized for printing too many pictures of auto accidents. Yet this is one of the hard facts of news that do take place. Lives are lost. People are maimed. Property is damaged. Automobiles are demolished.

Ignorance of these facts is a sure road to accidents which could and should be avoided. It is along this line of reasoning that we would compliment those safety-minded citizens who have a full page message to our readers in this edition.

It is also a matter of record that mechanical failures of steering, brakes, lights — even windshield wipers — contribute to the accident toll.

"Arrive Alive" is much more than a catchy slogan. It is a principal of automobile operation that all can adopt and practice with good results for us. Let us make this a guide to reducing the fatality toll. Will you take part?

Connally-Kissinger Confrontation?

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The Nixon administration expects major changes at State and the White House.

In the short time he was as Treasury, Connally established himself as a major rival of Dr. Henry Kissinger, secretary of State and foreign affairs adviser.

The two men bumped, politely and gentlemanly to be sure. But they bumped firmly all the same.

The issue was the position of the dollar, foreign exchange rates and the monetary exchange system that might replace gold—resulting from the Nixon August, 1971, bombshell announcement on the dollar. Connally, as secretary of the Treasury, believed this dollar policy was his province, under the President. Kissinger believed that it was his to a considerable degree, since it involved the dollar's value.

Both Kissinger and Connally are able, forceful, determined men. Both command a heavy degree of loyalty from their staffs. Both come out swinging. The result was inevitable.

The men battled Connally for secretary of state see a department expanded to far wider interests and powers than that agency has commanded in the past two decades.

For one, foreign economic policy would be a major function of State. What is done at the Treasury, these men say, should be transferred.

The Department of State has, of course, long been interested in foreign economic policy. It has a bureau of economic affairs, headed by an assistant secretary. Though sometimes led by very able men, that bureau has been historically heavily restricted in what it was permitted to do.

Commerce, the Agency for International Development (under the State Department but not always working completely in harness) and a plethora of other bodies seem to have gone their separate ways. Since the advent of Robert S. McNamara as head of the World Bank, the American input to that bank's policies has not always jibed completely with other government activities.

As a result of all this, more often than not the United States has had no strong, well-thought-out, coordinated economic policy. It has had a number of agencies in the field and to foreign governments with which we have strong economic ties.

Some men would go further and say the United States has had no foreign economic policy. What makes the situation serious is the continuing economic crisis and many countries' straits. At least none that were clear to all American agencies in the field and to foreign governments with which we have strong economic ties.

HOMESTEAD AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP) — A city of olive-drab buildings capable of housing, feeding and fully equipping at least one Army batallion has sprouted 25 miles from the site of the Democratic National Convention.

Homeless military officers milling around the deserted encampment refused comment on when, if at all, the inhabitants would arrive.

Another officer, who also refused to be identified, said the tent city was merely "a prearrangement for when and where troops are requested to come in, these facilities will be ready to receive them."

Lt. Col. Nancy Johnson, public information officer for the Department of Defense, said Thursday night in Washington.

Longwood Council Action

By DONNA ESTES

Parents of students assigned to Milwee Middle School were urged Thursday night by Longwood Councilman William Klosky to tour the school plant and see the "disgrace to the school system."

"The toilet and plumbing fixtures are dilapidated. There are holes in the wall. It is not a fit place for a child to go to school," the councilman insisted.

The School Board has allocated $10,000 to fix it up for school in September, but it will take at least $100,000 to put the building in acceptable condition," he insisted.

Mayor Kenneth Brown, still smarting from the School Board's refusal to place the "45-15" school plan on the ballot for a straw vote of the people, said, "The School Board won't do anything about it."

Lonmler Holds Post

Carl Lonmler will continue to be Longwood's fire chief while he is confined to the hospital following a heart attack and during his convalescence, the City Council decided last night.

The starting date of his beginning the post of full-time fire chief originally to have been tomorrow has been set aside for an indefinite period. He will continue to be paid an expense allowance, budgeted for the post, however.

Councilmen William Klosky and Dick Crenshaw, both members of the city's fire commission, informed the board Lonmler's period of recuperation will be as long as three to six months.

At the same time Klosky praised the area fire departments, specifically Casselberry and Altamonte Springs, for their offers of all necessary assistance in whatever role needed while the chief is ill.

Water Contract Let

Contract for some $123,000 in improvements to the city's water system was awarded to low bidder, Lee Construction Company, of Sanford, on recommendation of City Engineer William Palm.

Plaudits were given to the company by Palm, who said the firm is "very competent and capable."

The award is subject to execution of the contract documents and posting of appropriate bonds by the contractor.

Budget Figures Near

Recommendations on amending the city's current budget as well as figures for the fiscal 1972-73 budget to begin Nov. 1 will be forthcoming within two to three weeks from the Council's finance committee.

Councilmen Crenshaw and Agnes Weber held a lengthy conference with city auditor, Harold Hartsock, early this week to discuss both budgets.

It is expected the new budget will be well over the $50,000 mark this year exclusive of the planned sewer system. Crenshaw told the board last week the current budget has to be amended due to the fact the city has taken in some $8,000 more in revenues in the first seven months of the year than was anticipated for the entire year.

Utility Collections

Extensive discussion on the possibility of the city contracting with a banking house for collection of its utility bills much in the same manner as currently being done in the City of Sanford took place last night.

Councilman Crenshaw said this idea should be given major consideration before purchase of an automatic addressing machine is contemplated.

Crenshaw said cost for the collections, billing, etc. probably would run 10 cents per bill, but Mayor Kenneth Brown added the city should have at least 3,000 utility customers before computer billing will be feasible. Current customers number 1,500.

'Get Blooming Thing Built'

With the continued lack of bidders for the expansion of the city hall complex, consideration should be given by the city to contracting the job under supervision from Building Inspector Kenneth Eyon and City Supt. Ralph Fisher.

This suggestion was made Thursday night by Councilman Klosky, who said area builders have suggested the method because the job is considered too small by many contractors, rushed in the present building boom.

"Just get the blooming thing built," Mayor Kenneth Brown reiterated. One of the offices in the expansion to the west of the present building is designated for the mayor.

House Moving Set

The Central Florida Society for Historic Preservation is within $10,000 of raising sufficient funds to move the old "Grant" house to the city. Target date for the move of the 46-foot wide and 41-foot high structure to the city hall park is Sept. 30, Council Chairman Eugene Jaques, the city's representative to the Society, reported last night.

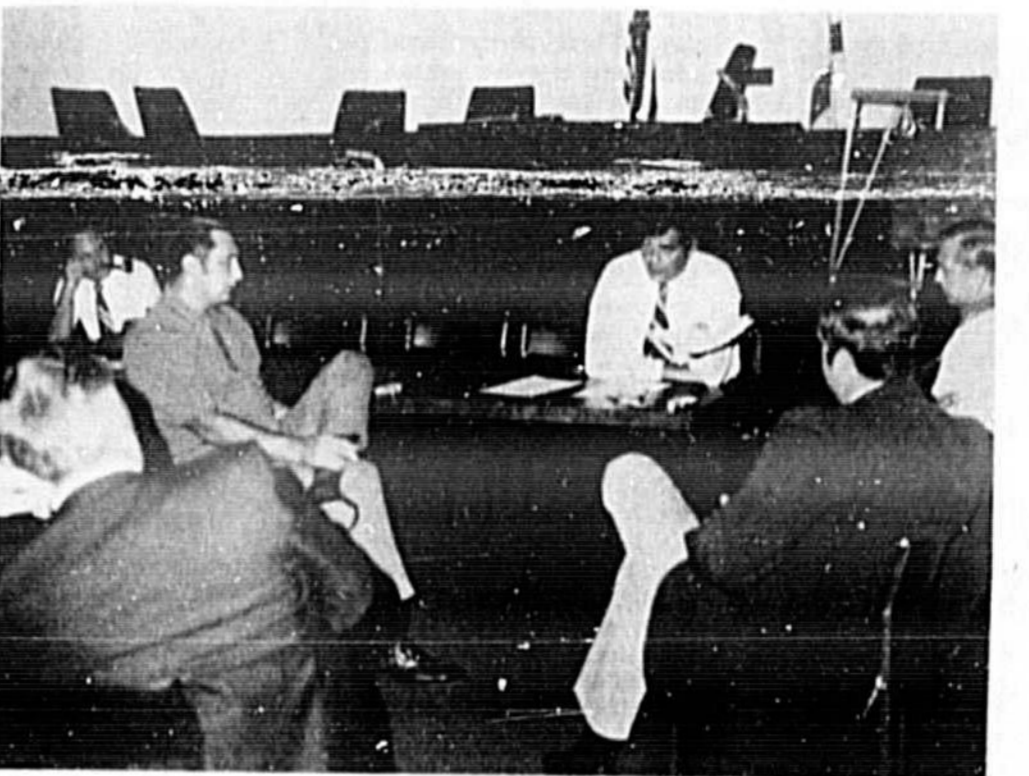

Klosky, however, questioned Dick Bennett, architect and chairman of the committee in charge of the moving, why the name "Grant" is attached to the old Victorian house. Bennett explained the house was built three years after Grant died, but it is believed the Civil War general's wife and son occupied the house at one time.

He also said the Society does not plan to "bring a bunch of junk" into the city and the house once located will be refurbished and landscaped done when funds of some $30,000 are forthcoming from the state and federal government.

Bennett said plans are to turn the first floor of the house into a museum and many antique pieces have been donated to the society for the museum section while the second floor will house Society offices.

School Board 'Furor' Budget Airing Bid

School Board at Thursday afternoon's budget session got "hung up" over job titles and salary indexes for the administrative staff and this resulted in the threat by Leon Bryant not to adopt that portion of the operation budget "until something is done about it."

The issue that caused a mild furor was a statement that the staff is not holding to the index in providing salary for various job classifications, such as coordinators, supervisors, directors and other titles as they relate to the salary index.

Walter Teague, associate superintendent, said, "It makes no difference what you call people just so you pay them."

Mrs. Bryant asked what happened to a study that was made on the problem.

Supt. John Angel said the report would be made later but the vice chairman insisted clarification should be made before it is adopted by the board and included in the total $19,108,126 proposed operating budget for 1972-73 fiscal year.

The remaining three parts of the total school budget were not included in the discussions but will be reviewed in later budget sessions.

The three remaining portions and amounts were not available today as Teague, who is completing his 19th year in the board's central office, was out of town and will not return until after the July 4 holidays.

Frederick Taylor, who has assisted in the budget preparations, said amount for the debt service funds, capital outlay and federal programs, which will be included in the final budget, are not ready to be divulged.

Next board budget session to cover capital outlay or school construction monies received from the state has been set for Wednesday afternoon.

Jury Is Pondering Johnson Verdict

The case of Tommy L. Johnson, 35, M-I-way, charged in the death of Joseph Green, 54, another M-I-way resident, reached the jury this morning.

Johnson was initially charged with first degree murder but Circuit Judge Dominick Salfi rendered a directed verdict against the charge contending there was no premeditation shown. Therefore, the state is seeking conviction upon second degree murder charges.

Assistant State Attorney O. H. (Bill) Eaton told the jury there was no testimony other than that of the defendant, and that when Green continued to advance, the fatal shot was discharged.

The defendant is charged with the degree of the charge, second degree murder, manslaughter or excusable homicide. Eaton also stressed it is not the duty of the jury to consider the consequences.

Johnson, who is the father of nine children, has remained impassive during the trial, scarcely moving in his seat at the defense table.

The defense further maintained the defendant fired several warning shots, and that when Green continued to advance, the fatal shot was discharged.

Covington has been with the postoffice 17 years, the last nine as foreman of the mails.

Court To Settle Road Fund Feud

By KATHY NIBLACK

CASSELBERRY — County commissioners and mayors of three cities clashed this morning in heated discussion about the county withholding portions of the cities' road and bridge funds.

Drummond went on to say that the county is awaiting information from the tax not be "bona fide contiguous" areas.

The annexations in question are located in Casselberry, Altamonte Springs and Longwood, and mayors of each of these cities were present at this morning's meeting.

Drummond went on to say that the county is awaiting information from the tax determine the legality of the annexations. The county feels, according to County Attorney Thom Rumberger, that his is "the most grown-up way to settle the matter."

Mayor Lawrence Swofford, of Altamonte Springs, was most vehement in opposing the county's actions in the matter.

"There's nothing to be gained bringing a suit," Swofford said. "If you are determined to maybe harass the cities from now on, you can be assured that it will go to the United States Supreme Court before it's settled."

Mayor Curtis Blow, of Casselberry, and Mayor Kenneth Brown, of Longwood, also expressed opposition to the county's feelings about the matter, but the general consensus was that the court action may be the only way to solve the matter.

"The whole thing comes down to the question of what is a (legal) community planning," said Commissioner Drummond. "The most alarming annexation practices involve people who are trying to circumvent county zoning." He went on to say, "If there's any chance of us arriving at a common ground, that's why we're having his meeting today."

plained the meeting had been called so that the county could review to the cities the reason for the funds being withheld. The whole situation centers around the fact that the county has some questions about annexations that have been made by the cities.

Drummond said the County Commission had begun last December to question the annexation of property they didn't feel was contiguous, and had made the decision to freeze allocation of the road and bridge funds in areas that might correct delineation of the properties in question. He said these delineations are not yet available but that the county had decided to release 75 per cent of the road and bridge funds to the cities since it is "highly improbable" that more than 25 per cent of the annexations are illegal.

Drummond announced to the mayors that the county is turning this matter over to the courts for a "declaratory decree" action against those annexations whose legality is questioned. The court then will

Orlandoan Held In Knife Assaults

By BILL SCOTT

Daniel Barry Hart, 25, of Orlando, has been lodged in the Seminole County jail in lieu of $5,000 bond on charges of assault with a deadly weapon.

A hold has been placed on him by Orange County authorities on attempted murder charges after a Thursday incident in which Hart and Mrs. Lister had occurred and Dickson was called by Mrs. Lister to come to her home to settle the dispute.

In other county actions, vice squad detectives Thursday arrested four persons on drug charges to bring to approximately 170 the number of narcotic cases made by authorities during June.

Robert W. Utterback, 19, of 1955 Summerlin Avenue, and Michael Larry Cobb, 21, of 915 Oak Avenue, were charged with possession and sale of prohibited drugs.

Bryon Charles Ireland, 18, of 883 Highland Avenue, Longwood, and Charles Barrett Arnold, 17, Deland also were booked on possession and sale of prohibited drug charges.

Bonds for all four men were accused at $2,500, jail records disclosed.

$2.3 Million Bid On 436 Project
TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The Department of Transportation today reported that it has opened bids on a record $294 million worth of road and bridge construction projects this fiscal year.
The agency closed its activities for the fiscal year Thursday opening bids on 29 projects totaling $20 million.
Among the projects was a $2.3 million apparatus now being submitted by Ewell Engineering and Construction Co. of Lakeland on four mile four-laning of State Road 436 in Seminole County.
The road will be widened from the Orange County line to Interstate 4 at Altamonte.

Fun with Toothpicks

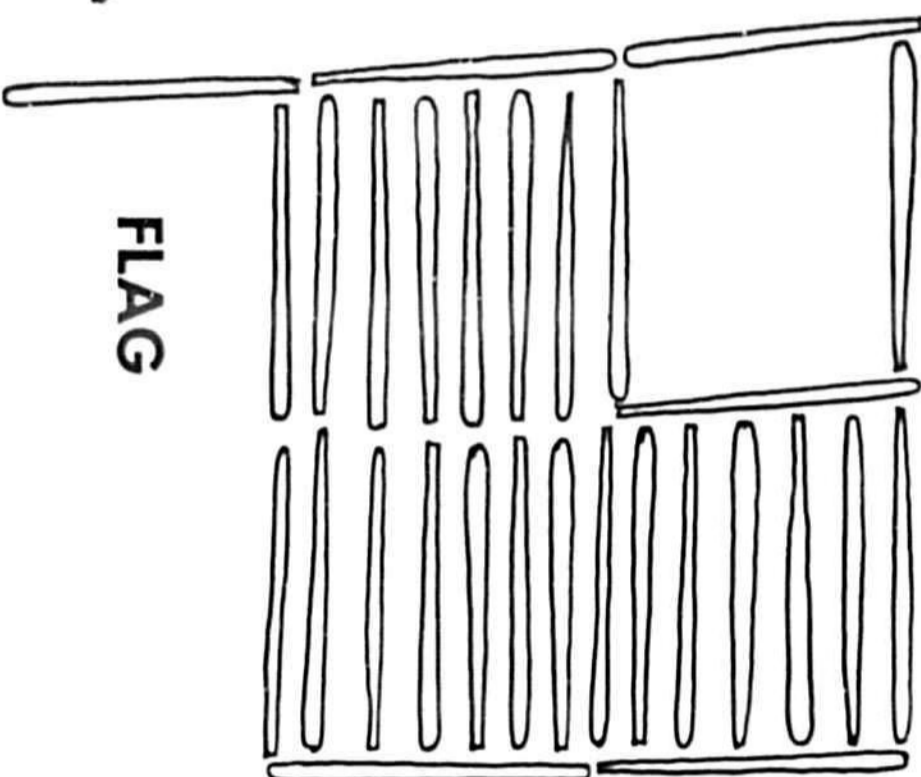

See how easy it is to make pictures with ordinary toothpicks. Start with these simple ones, then make up your own. If you want to save your pictures, glue the toothpicks to cardboard as you arrange them.

CHAIR

As you get better, break the toothpicks to get shorter pieces. Then you can make complete pictures.
