Ten die in New Year's Eve fire

REMER, Minn. — Townspeople, including a mother who had to be prevented with a fire hose from rushing into a flaming house to save her four children, mourned Monday for 10 people killed in the tiny town's worst tragedy in memory.

The fire, possibly started by a heater, swept through the home early New Year's Day, killing all occupants — eight children and two adults who were babysitting while the children's parents were out for the New Year's Eve celebration.

"It's tragic. It's really devastating. That's got to be the worst single incident I can recall," said Cass County Sheriff Jim Dowson, a veteran of 23 years in law enforcement.

"It's just unreal," Gordon Lilyquist, a Remer fire department official, said the victims included four children of Nancy and John Watson of the Remer area, her sister and brother-in-law and their two children, and two children of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Eastel, who were friends of the family.

Vince Dooley wins finale

JACKSONVILLE — Rodney Hampton caught two touchdown passes from Wayne Johnson and ran 32 yards for another score Sunday night, handing retiring Georgia Coach Vince Dooley a 34-27 victory over Michigan State's Spartans in the Gator Bowl.

Dooley, the Bulldogs coach for the last 25 years, announced last month he would retire as coach following the game. He also will relinquish his position as athletic director this spring, possibly for a shot at Georgia politics. He finished with a career coaching record of 201-77-10.

Welcome to 1989, Stevie

By SANDRA BOUCHAHINE
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Stevie Lee Bretz earned the distinction of being the city's New Year's baby in 1989.

Stevie was born at 4:10 a.m. on New Year's Day at Central Florida Regional Hospital according to a hospital spokesperson. He weighed 7 pounds 6 ounces.

The mother, Frances Bretz, 29, of 107 Magnolia Ave. was home today with the infant. She said this morning that she felt "great" knowing Stevie is the New Year's baby.

Frances' mother sounded even more elated. This makes Stevie the first grandson for Lynn and Larry Green of Sanford.

Mrs. Green was assisting her daughter with the baby this morning.

He sleeps all the time, Mrs. Green said. Stevie's little sister, Brenda, 3, will now have a playmate or at least someone to love to see her when he gets old enough.

At Florida Hospital Altamonte, Linda Midge, 31, of Oviedo gave birth to the first Seminole County baby of the New Year. Megan Midge is 7 pounds 1 ounce. Father of the baby is David Midge.

Governor enjoying comeback

United Press International

JALAHASSEE, Fla. — Gov. Bob Martinez, 52, received an astonishing political comeback in his second year in office, and thanks to a strong GOP showing in this year's elections seems poised to assume a new national prominence.

Widely dismissed as a liability to the state and national Republican Party following his disastrous first year in office with the services tax, Martinez has rebounded in the public opinion polls as he nears the halfway mark in his four-year term.

Gov. Gandy, 50, so named for his firm but flexible approach to the services tax at the height of that controversy, won favorable ratings from only 28 percent of Florida voters in September 1987.

By November 1988, his approval rating was 67 percent in a Florida Newspapers Inc. poll. By now, Gandy's approval rating is 67 percent, according to a poll by the same organization.

The poll, conducted by the same organization, also showed that 67 percent of voters would support a 20 percent increase in the state sales tax.

Mrs. Strain, 49, said she and installed her husband in a certain, for public use. He is a member of the general conference. See Governor, Page 5A

Bizarre crimes rocked area in '88

By SUSAN LODEN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Numerous bizarre and senseless criminal acts rocked Seminole County in 1988.

Members of the Geneva Methodist Church were stunned when their minister was gunned down, when he stopped to ask directions at the house of Joseph Garin had Wallace, 60, on Sept. 11.

The Rev. Richard A. Connor Sr., 48, of 2801 E. 50th Ave. died in his car after being fatally wounded by a single gunshot to his abdomen. Wallace is charged with murder. Seminole County Sheriff's deputies said there was no clear reason for Connor's murder, suggesting Wallace was apparently irate because a minister was on his property.

Seminole police have made the stabbing death of 14-year-old Wendy, 12, of Winter Springs, during a robbery at Y-15 Market, 1000 E. 10th St., in Sanford, April 29. Sheriff's Sgt. Steven Harmon has identified Mrs. Steven Harmon as the suspect in the case, but he has coded it as a national manhunt.

Seminole police are also working on the case of a woman who was slashed to death in Sanford, whose slashed body was found July 3, dismembered in Sanford. In that case the killer has not been identified.

The city is also looking for ways to improve the quality of life in the area. This includes improving the city's infrastructure and providing better services to its residents.

Charter county's top story

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The passage of a charter and the election of two new county commissioners, leading to what may become a new consensus on the board, led the stories of Seminole County in 1988.

Some of the most vicious politicking ever seen by some took place in 1988 as factions within the Republican Party fought among themselves to gain power. The infighting didn't hurt the party, because for the first time in the county's history, all of the partisan offices were held by Republicans.

Yankee Lake continued to be issue, as did the occasional skirmish between the cities and the county over such issues as annexation and road impact fees, although steps were made in 1988 to resolve both of those issues.

The county charter was passed by voters on Nov. 8 by a nearly 7-2 margin and was hailed by charter supporters and promoters as an opportunity for Seminole County residents to wrest control away from the state and give it to the people themselves.

Many state laws can't affect a charter county unless voters approve them and any changes to county government now defined by the state must also be approved by voters. As an incentive, charter drafters gave voters the option of creating county laws and ousting commissioners who fall out of favor.

The charter, however, proved controversial. The cities feared it would give the county commission more controls over them, pointing to county lawsuits over municipal annexations and the county's enforcement of county-wide road impact fees.

Bob Webster, a member of the charter drafting committee, contested the charter in court, saying the county failed to follow proper procedures in adopting it.

Webster also contended the charter was unworkable because it can only be implemented when all five county commissioners are elected under the charter — an event that won't occur for at least four years during which all five commission seats come up for reelection.

Seminole County Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Leffer refused Webster's request to prevent the election, saying he would consider the issue if voters approve the charter. Leffer has scheduled a hearing Feb. 27 to consider the county's motion to dismiss the lawsuit.

Two new commissioners, Jennifer Kelley and Pat Warren, were elected to the county commission. Though political observers said they would join commissioner Sandra Giam in a female trioka, all three denied they would automatically align themselves together.

The three female commissioners, however, did join against the two male commissioners, Bob Stamm and the re-elected Fred Streetman, to vote against contesting annexations by Sanford. Courts have held that many of the previously contested

FLORIDA BRIEFS

Kissimmee fire damage tops $1 million

GISSIMMEE — Investigators using a crane and drag lines found cans which may have contained a flammable liquid in the charred rubble left after a suspicious, $1 million fire that destroyed one half block of downtown.

"We found some things that aren't right," said John Fitzgerald, an investigator with the state fire marshal's office. "We found some cans we don't believe should have been in there. The lab will determine if there was any flammable liquid in there," he added.

Authorities also posted signs at the site, offering rewards of up to $1,000 for information about the fire and a series of explosions that rocked the resort town.

Three dozen firefighters battled for three hours early Friday to contain the blaze, which was reported at 2:48 a.m. By the time it was contained, three of the city's oldest buildings and 11 businesses had been reduced to ashes.

"It's a big mess," Fitzgerald said. "We had to bring a crane in and use drag lines to pull the rubble apart."

The fire caused an estimated $1.1 million in damage.

No one was reported hurt. Mike Hall, a home designer who was sleeping in his office in one of the buildings after working late, escaped by climbing out a second story window and shimmying down a palm tree.

Injured manatee brought to Seaquarium

MIAMI — A sea rescue team spent New Year's Day saving and caring for an endangered manatee who had become the victim of a boat propeller.

The 3-year-old, 350-pound male sea cow was found in a section of Florida Bay known as Coot Bay, about seven miles from Flamingo. Authorities first thought the manatee was a female who was nursing a young sea cow, but the smaller manatee apparently was a companion, said spokesman Walt Robshaw.

"The injured manatee has propeller lacerations and some blue paint on the skin, which may have rubbed off the boat bottom," he said. "It also may have fractured ribs and possibly a punctured lung because it is having trouble breathing."

The animal was being transported to Seaquarium by van under the observation of facility veterinarian Gregory Bosart, who will conduct a thorough examination when they reach the Virginia Key tourist attraction.

Teens caught in daring weapons heist

HALEAH — Four teenagers have been arrested and charged with taking part in a daring heist that netted them $80,000 in weapons, including Uzis, AK-47s and samurai swords.

Hialeah police said the juveniles, who are 15 and 16 years of age, were charged with armed burglary and grand theft in connection with the Friday gunshop theft.

All of the weapons stolen from Collazo's Guns and Ammo shop were recovered from four separate locations, police said.

Authorities said a car plowed into the front of Collazo's store early Friday, and four men wearing bandannas smashed display cases and scooped up guns, ammunition, crossbows, two silver samurai swords, Uzis and AK-47s.

They used rifles to smash the glass on display cases in a six-minute sweep through the store shortly before 4 a.m. Friday. "They just drove in," owner Jorge Collazo said. "When I walked in... it looked like an earthquake had hit it."

Police, summoned to the store by a silent alarm, said the car engine was still running. The car shattered the window, dislodged the cement block foundation and opened steel bars that allowed the thieves to enter.

"It's absurd," Collazo said. "They're suicidal and they are walking around the community. I'm more frightened by the people who stole the weapons than the weapons themselves."

Florida man suspected in shooting

CONNECTICUT state police said they believe a man driving a Florida car shot a Cheshire man Sunday during a dispute on Interstate 691.

Anthony Grazioso, 33, was admitted to Meriden-Wallingford Hospital in fair condition after being shot in the chest and shoulder about 11:45 a.m., said state police spokesman Sgt. Scott O'Mara.

Grazioso was traveling on Route 322 in Southington and "exchanged gestures" with another motorist who had car trouble and was impeding traffic, O'Mara said.

Grazioso continued onto I-691 and the other man followed, tailgating and harassing him, O'Mara said.

Grazioso pulled off the highway and became involved in a verbal dispute with the other man, who shot him with a small-caliber handgun, O'Mara said.

The suspect was described as a white man in his late 20s or early 30s who was driving an older, white Ford Pinto that may have had a temporary Florida registration, O'Mara said.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

2 killed, 4 beaten at home

United Press International

DADE CITY — Police continue looking for a suspect in the New Year's Day killing of two elderly people at a convalescent center and beating of four others while their nursing supervisor slept.

"Someone went into the nursing home and bludgeoned a woman and a man, and beat these people to death," said Dade City Police Chief Phil Thompson.

Myrtle Smith, 73, a resident from Massachusetts, and Max Nickbarg, 90, from Zephyrhills, were beaten to death as they slept at Reflections I, a private convalescent home in Dade City, police said.

The residents were asleep in their beds at the time of the attack "as far as we can tell," Thompson said, adding several family members called minutes before midnight to wish them Happy New Year.

Police Sunday night questioned an 88-year-old patient, Henry Thomas from Dade City, about the beatings. "We have a man in for questioning who happens to be one of the patients in the nursing home," Thomas said. "He was the only one in this case who wasn't where he should have been."

Thompson said police found Thomas walking in downtown Dade City, a sleepy town of about 2,000 people and the seat of Pasco County. "He's 88 years old, but he still gets around fairly well even though he uses a cane."

Thompson said Thomas was not declared a suspect in the case, although police hoped he could provide details that might help solve the case.

Resident Frank Tear Sr., 73, the father of one of the owners, remained in critical, but stable condition at Tampa General Hospital with several broken bones in his upper body and his face, Thompson said.

At least 20 killed in traffic accidents

By United Press International

An 18-year-old woman and her unborn child died in a traffic accident New Year's Day, becoming Florida's first traffic fatalities of 1989, as officials reported at least 20 people were killed in Florida roads this holiday weekend.

Among the accidents was one in Volusia County.

The Florida Highway Patrol predicted 36 people will lose their lives during the holiday weekend, which ends at midnight tonight.

Chere Chantelle Myers, 18, of Pensacola, and her 8-month-old fetus were killed in a head-on collision in Santa Rosa County at 7:25 a.m. New Year's Day, troopers said. Myers was a passenger in the car and was not wearing her seatbelt.

Troopers in Pahokee said two men died less than an hour before the New Year started in what they believe was an alcohol-related crash. The men, whose identities have not been released, lost control of their car and slammed into a steel utility pole.

Among the other victims were a Michigan man and three motorcycle riders.

Billy Haulcomb, 40, of Berrien Springs, Mich., died New Year's Eve when a tractor-trailer pulled out in front of the car he was riding in Pasco County, troopers said. The driver of the car, Dee Bryan Clemons, 28, of Fort Pierce, died in the accident.

Richard Boert, 33, of Daytona Beach, was killed when his motorcycle was hit by a car on Interstate 95 in Volusia County New Year's Eve. Boert was then struck by a second vehicle, troopers said, adding the accident was alcohol related.

Troopers said they were not sure whether alcohol played a role when the motorcycle driven by Scott Knoebel, 23, of Ponte Vedra Beach, was rear-ended on U.S. A1A in St. Johns County.

Alfred Hall, 43, of Pompano Beach, was killed when his motorcycle lost control on N.W. 19th Street in Broward County, striking a fence and a tree.

The first fatality of the holiday weekend that started at 6 p.m. Friday, was Willie Joe Harris, 51, of Suwannee County. Troopers said Harris, who died in a single-car, alcohol-related accident, was not wearing his seat belt.

English-only, other laws take effect today

TALLAHASSEE — English became the official language of Florida today with several constitutional amendments taking effect, but an aide to Gov. Bob Martinez says the provision will have little real impact.

The amendment is something "the Legislature is going to have to speak to," said Peter Dunbar, general council and chief lobbyist for Martinez. "There is some question whether anything at all is required, or whether it's just a statement of principle."

The Florida English amendment, approved with 83 percent of the vote Nov. 8, declares simply, "English is the official language of the state of Florida." It says the Legislature is empowered to enforce the provision by "appropriate legislation."

No such legislation will come from the governor, who opposed the ballot initiative, Dunbar said. He did not know if any lawmakers were preparing implementation bills of their own.

There is some question about how far the Legislature is prepared to go to enforce the amendment. Hispanic lawmakers have become increasingly influential in the Capitol, and House and Senate leaders say they do not consider the matter a priority.

Supporters of the measure argued it would help integrate the large Hispanic population of south Florida with English-speaking residents. There have been many complaints it is difficult for non-Spanish speakers to find work in Miami.

"We don't think anything is necessary" in terms of legislation, Dunbar said.

"To the extent that we have a language for official business in this state, it already is English. That's the way the records are written. Nothing in the amendment affects people in their homes or businesses."

The Florida Constitution provides that amendments take effect the first Tuesday following the first Monday of the new year following their approval at the ballot box.

A less controversial amendment enshrines a declaration of victims' right: in the Constitution. A 1984 Victims' Bill of Rights, updated in 1988, gives victims the right to be informed of proceedings against criminals, including appeals and parole hearings.

"It makes more final that which already exists," Dunbar said of the amendment.

Paul Freeman, head of a new program in the Attorney General's office to inform victims of appeals, said part of his job will be explaining arcane elements of the legal system.

"We also will be dealing with the reaction to the information we are passing along to them," Freeman said. "Appeals happen months after a crime happens. That brings up memories of the event. There's a counseling aspect to it."

Another amendment authorizes creation of a new Department of Veterans Affairs and a Department of Elderly Affairs.

Capitol getting facelift despite budget austerity

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — While predicting "a very lean budget year" for state government, legislative leaders are spending hundreds of thousands of dollars on renovations, new carpets and other changes in the 10-year-old state Capitol.

The House also spent more than $3.4 million on a new statewide computer network, prompting the Senate to begin buying new personal computers, too. $101,381 worth in December.

Speaker Tom Gustafson, D-Fort Lauderdale, vigorously defends the spending including $310,000 for a study by Arthur Andersen & Co. of Atlanta on improving House operations as a step toward a more open and democratic House.

"You can't accomplish that by doing things the same way. You've got to change your procedures," he said in The Tampa Tribune's Sunday editions.

"This building wasn't designed to do those sort of things. It was designed by people years ago who operated a different way. The press, the public, the members have all asked us to be more open," he said. "I'm trying to accomplish that."

Senate President Bob Crawford, D-Winter Haven, said the changes were less sweeping at his end of the hall, and says the Senate is lagging behind the House on such things as com-puterization.

The two Democrats had set much of the spending in motion before assuming their leadership posts at the legislature's organizational session on Nov. 22. They and Republican Gov. Bob Martinez learned in early December that state revenues are expected to grow by less than 6 percent next year, compared to a 12 percent growth rate in recent years. All three promised a close look at state spending.

It's not unusual for a new speaker or president to reassign office space and knock down a few walls, but critics say the current round of staff shifting and office renovations is unprecedented, the Tribune said.

In interviews and an examination of state records, The newspaper said it found that:

—The House, without taking bids, contracted on Nov. 23 to pay up to $401,000 to Culpepper Construction Inc. of Tallahassee for an expanded Appropriations Committee suite with modular work stations for budget analysts.

Gustafson also has ordered a $100,000-plus renovation of the Rules Committee suite, including construction of a huge table for his expanded committee and plans to spend an undetermined amount reshaping offices for the House clerk and sergeant-at-arms.

"Whenever you try to automate, you're going to make some right choices and some Christopher David Ketter, 24, 607 Fenton Place, was stopped by police in a roadblock on North Lake Boulevard at about 5 p.m. after police noticed his tag appeared to be altered.

A police check revealed the car had been stolen. Ketter reportedly told police he had rented the car, but stopped making payments last June and did not return the car.

He was charged with grand theft auto, driving with a suspended driver's license and driving with a tag not assigned to the car. Bond was set at $1,000.

Thomas David Paladino, 21, 2523 Yalc Ave., was charged with performing a lewd and lascivious act on a child after the girl reported to Sanford police he placed his hand on her sexual organs in the bathroom of the apartment where she lived. Paladino denied the allegation.

Paladino's bond was set at $10,000 at the Seminole County jail.

Mark Alan Papineau, 29, of Orlando, was charged with burglary on an occupied structure, battery and grand theft after he entered a Crane's Roost Villas apartment at about 9 p.m. Saturday. Papineau claimed the door was unlocked and his former girlfriend had given him free entry, but the woman denied the statement.

Papineau reportedly placed his arm around his former girlfriend's neck who was lying on her bed. As he got up from the bed, reportedly struggled with another man in the apartment, who forced him to leave by pointing a shotgun at his chest.

The two men were struggling in the parking lot when police arrived. The girl reported a gold necklace missing, although Papineau said the jewelry was his. Bond was set at $1,000.

Five Floridians select winning LOTTO numbers

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — For the first time in Florida Lotto's short history, five tickets matched the six winning numbers selected New Year's Eve for a share in the week's $27 million grand prize, lottery secretary Rebecca Paul said Sunday.

The winning tickets were sold in Holly Hill, Lake Park, Ocoee and Largo. Two of the winning tickets were drawn at the same retail location in Largo, Paul said.

"Now that's what I call starting the New Year with a bang," she said. "Not just one, but five lucky Lotto players each winning more than $5 million. That's unprecedented in Florida."

The only other multiple winners claimed prizes in the Lotto's second jackpot last June, when three people each won $1.35 million.

So far, none of the New Year's winners have come forward to claim their winnings, Paul said.

Saturday's winning numbers were 20, 30, 40, 42, 44 and 49. Although the five main winners will share the jackpot, more than 328,000 others will share more than $6 million in cash prizes for matching three, four or five of the six winning numbers.

Laborer charged in 3 burglaries

By J. MARK SANFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — A Sanford laborer was arrested Saturday afternoon on charges he burglarized three area businesses and attempted to burglarize a fourth during the New Year's weekend.

Michael Lee Bell, 29, no known current Sanford address, was arrested at about 2 p.m. Saturday by Sanford police who identified his blue van from a witness to an attempted burglary two hours earlier at Engineer Fastern, 5400 Bryant Ave.

Bell, who told police he was a worker for the Labor Force, reportedly made statements to police about the burglaries. Police arrest records bear Bells signature.

Bell reportedly began the burglary spree Dec. 26 at noon at Kemco Industries, Inc., 5481 S. Bryant Ave., where he reportedly pried the thin rear wall of the building and entered. Once inside, police said he took a strongbox containing $400 after ransacking four offices and taking Leer and sandwich meat.

The next incident took place on Dec. 29 at 7 p.m. at the Lake Mary Veterinary Clinic, 289 W. Lake Mary Blvd., where police said Bell broke a rear window and once inside, reportedly took a video tape recorder and $80 in cash.

Bell then reportedly drove across Lake Mary Boulevard to Boulevard Hair Designs, where after police said he broke the rear window of that business, took $150 in cash and over $378 in checks which were in a bank deposit bag.

On Dec. 31, shortly after noon, a witness saw Bell running from Engineer Fastern and driving off in a blue van. Police found the rear aluminum wall had been pried open.

Bell was stopped in the parking lot of The Barn and arrested. Police found the strongbox, later identified by its owner and the bank deposit bag containing the checks in the rear of the van.

Bell was charged with four counts burglary and one charge of grand theft. His bond was set at $4,500 at the Seminole County jail.

Project saves citrus with sewer water

United Press International

ORLANDO — Citrus growers in the Orlando area are using millions of gallons of treated wastewater to irrigate their groves, in one of the nation's largest water re-use projects.

"It's a project where everyone wins — urban areas get rid of treated wastewater, growers get an almost unlimited supply of free water, and the environment is protected," said citrus grower Jerry Chicone, who has more than 500 acres under irrigation.

The project, known as the Water Conserv II-Southwest Orange County Water Reclamation Project, is the first such project in Florida to irrigate crops intended for the table, according to the University of Florida's Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences.

The project eventually will distribute up to 50 million gallons per day of nutrient-rich wastewater to 15,000 acres of citrus.

"The cooperative nature of the project is a good example of how agriculture can be compatible with Florida's rapid urban growth," said John L. Jackson, multi-county citrus agent based in Lake County.

Local officials decided to push ahead with the $180-million re-use project, after the Environmental Protection Agency in 1979 ordered Orlando and Orange County to stop discharging wastewater into Shingle Creek by 1988.

The project, which pipes reclaimed water from two local treatment plants about 21 miles to the Conserv II distribution center, began in December 1986.

Phillip F. Cross, assistant plant manager at Conserv II, said the treated water has about 5 parts per million phospho-rous and 6 parts per million nitrogen.

The system is currently handling about 27 million gallons of water daily, with 20 million going to citrus groves and 7 million into a rapid infiltration basin system that allows the water to percolate through the sandy soil into the Florida aquifer.

Jackson said growers participating in the project have to sign a 20-year agreement to take anywhere from 26 inches to 52 inches of water per year, or an average of one-half an inch to one inch per week.

In addition, 60 acres of citrus groves have been set aside for research.

Larry R. Parsons, associate professor at the Lake Alfred center and coordinator of the research project, said tests have started on 20 acres of newly planted trees.

Discrimination is unconscionable

When the Immigration Reform Act passed in 1986, Hispanics warned it would increase job discrimination against ethnic groups.

Their fears have been confirmed. A confidential study by the General Accounting Office reveals that one in six employers said they used unfair employment practices in processing job applications of people who appear foreign.

"On the basis of the GAO's employer survey, of the 3.3 million who were aware of the law, about 528,000 (or 16 percent), had begun or increased the practice of asking only foreign-looking persons for work-authorization document or hiring only U.S. citizens," the report states. In California, more than 50,000 employers discriminated against foreign-looking applicants, the GAO estimates.

Such discrimination is unconscionable. The employer-sanctions provision of the immigration law categorically states that employers must ask for the documents of all job applicants, not only people who appear foreign.

The GAO study was not totally negative. It revealed that an overwhelming majority of employers have not violated the rights of job applicants in the process of conforming to the immigration law.

That's not good enough. In a nation founded on individual liberty, violation of the rights of thousands of Hispanic workers threatens the rights of all Americans.

The goal of immigration reform was to control illegal immigration by eliminating jobs open to undocumented workers — not by erecting a militarized border. Most immigrants who cross our borders illegally come to America for jobs. Many undocumented workers are exploited by employers because the workers don't have legal status and can be manipulated easily. Employer sanctions punish the employer, not the worker.

Despite the law, illegal immigration continues across our border. However, employer sanctions may have an effect on how long people remain illegally in this country. We're not willing to give up yet. The law makes it illegal to knowingly hire an illegal alien. To show good faith, employers must document evidence of having checked the documents of all applicants.

The Justice Department must investigate cases when applicants have suffered job discrimination because of employer sanctions.

A few tough punishments for employers who are caught discriminating against job applicants would be useful in preventing this practice in the future.

Employer sanctions must not sanction job discrimination.

'Student rights' fly in face of facts

Ask parents to cite a weakness in urban education, and they'll consistently mention a lack of discipline. Too many students — indeed, too many teachers — fear harassment, intimidation or worse.

Incredibly, though, pressure is mounting in some quarters to give troublemakers even freer rein, as advocates for "student rights" denounce current disciplinary patterns as racist overkill.

For an example of this bizarre but increasingly influential thinking, so against the grain of popular opinion consider the Boston-based group called the National Coalition of Advocates for Students. It has released a study indicating blacks are more likely than whites to be suspended from school or physically punished by school officials.

According to the coalition's executive director, the study suggests "the failure of schools to be peopled by adults who are skilled in handling students who are different in any sort of way."

Continued Joan McCarty First: "Teachers often overreact to blacks, especially black males. Interestingly, that's true even with black teachers."

Even the nation's largest teachers' union could not see through such shallow political cant and stand up for the integrity and fairness of most disciplinary procedures. Asked to comment on the coalition's study, President Mary Hatwood Futrell of the National Education Association seconded the idea that the nation's classrooms are largely directed by racist, intolerant bullies.

"We have our own built-in prejudices about the way certain kids can learn, or how they talk, or how they walk or dress," she said.

In other words, blame the teachers, not the troublemakers, for the need to impose discipline.

How could anyone reach such a conclusion? Out of implacable commitment to the utopian belief that members of every ethnic group and subculture will misbehave at precisely the same rate in a given situation. Never mind that black kids are more likely than whites to come from broken families, impoverishment and neighborhoods bristling with the very social pathologies that contribute to difficulty in a classroom — and elsewhere, for that matter.

Even the nation's largest teachers' union could not see through such shallow political cant.

Does anyone really doubt, for example, that young black males commit a disproportionately large share of the nation's violent crime? The arrest and conviction figures are utterly compelling on this point. To mention it, however, is not to imply that young black males are inherently more violent than whites. It's only to acknowledge the rather obvious fact that a depressing number of blacks grow up in an environment that nurtures this lush growth of criminal behavior.

Unfortunately, none of these factors matter to the ideologues who believe bias-free discipline must be proportionately distributed. Only statistics matter to such people, and the statistics report — quite undeniably — that blacks receive more than their "share" of school discipline.

Well, the statistics also report that males of all races are disciplined far more frequently than females: Fully 70 percent of school suspensions, for example, are dished out to boys.

Time for Goodman's Media Culpas

BOSTON — And now once more, in the interest of a clean slate, a fresh start and a genuinely new year, it is time for my annual Media Culpas. This has become a rite of passage for me, a cleansing confession of the errors of my way through the past year.

Mind you, these errors pale compared to mistakes others are pondering during the waning days of 1988. It was not I, after all, who told Mike Dukakis he'd look darling riding in the sweet tank. Nor did I advise Geraldo Rivera that he'd gain credibility if only he'd do a serious show on white supremacy.

It was Robin Givens, not I, who thought that openness, a kind of televised sharing, would be the perfect marital therapy for her and Michael. It was Judge Hortense Gabler who believed that permissive child-raising would breed loyalty in her little Sukhreet. And on the big screen, it was Michael Douglas who thought that Glenn Close was a good-time gal.

Nevertheless, I feel compelled by tradition and conscience to do my own true confessions:

To begin with the simple but embarrassing stuff, there were more than a few words that got abused in this space in the past 12 months. During one convention column, for example, I used the expression "awkward harbingers of the past." Well, awkward was right. You can't harbinge (I know that isn't a real verb) the past. You can only be a harbinger of the future.

Then there was the perennial parameter/perimeter problem. With my own little computer I wrote about a "country that is putting parameters around drinking." Gulp and hold the Perrier. A fellow Radcliffe alumnae, class of 1921, wrote, "The increasing use of parameters for perimeters amazes and even shocks me." That is what's wonderful about Cliffies, our shock threshold remains so low. I stand corrected by Patricia White, the daughter of a man who taught English to Robert Benchley.

How do I explain the word "wifty," which appeared in a column describing Susan Sarandon's character in "Bull Durham"? In the spirit of confession, I must say that it wasn't a mistake. It was a hoax. I know this was a dastardly deed. I perpetrated this crime on the innocent public in hopes that I might create a word where none existed.

Not every paper was taken in. Some assumed it was a typo and printed nifty. Now the truth can be told. Wifty: A cross between fey, spacey and charming. Soon to be available in your local dictionary.

In a more innocent moment, I did a bit of creative fandangoing with Woody Allen. I misquoted him. He did not say, "80 percent of life is showing up." He said, "80 percent of SUCCESS is showing up."

While we are on the subject of success, a Media Culpa is due Liddy Dole. I was among those who publicly feared that she would be "wifed" into oblivion after she quit her job to follow her man down the ole campaign trail. But Ramrod and Rainbow, as the Secret Service calls them, are not in reruns as the Senator and the Secretary. Liddy is going to Labor and Bob is back doing the power-couple jokes: "It looks like TV dinners for me again, but I'll probably still vote for her confirmation."

Still, politics offers a huge number of opportunities for mistakes. I gingerly avoid the pitfall predictions of the demise of Bush and the transformation of a Quayle into an albatross. But I am credited with one blushing comment. If Bush reminded women of their first husband, I wrote, "Dukakis reminds many a woman of her second husband...the one she looked at long and hard, picked carefully with her eyes wide open."

In writing about Maggie Kuhn, the head of the Gray Panthers, I left the impression that her group was against the claims of the so-called notch babies to a bigger piece of the Social Security pie. "The notch babies," I wrote, "are the most glaring example of me-firstism among the elderly." True, but it turns out that the Panthers support their claim. My error in reporting; their error in judgment.

Finally a word about Samantha, my aging and not-so-agile poodle. In a column on my geriatric canine aerobics plan, I calculated that Sam's 15 years made her 105 in human terms. Several dozen readers hastened to reproach me for my math, if not my exercise regimen. Every dog year does not equal seven human years. By a chart too complex to include here, it turns out that Sam is merely 76 going on 80. She thanks you. I thank you.

There were more than a few words that got abused in this space in the last 12 months.

Critics say Defense watchdog too soft

WASHINGTON — Congress created an inspector general at the Defense Department as an independent watchdog to sniff out waste, fraud and abuse. But who's watching the watchdog?

No one stopped Inspector General June Gibbs Brown from taking a month-long junket to the Far East in October and a trip to Europe last spring. Now some of the investigators who work for her tell us she looks more like window dressing than substance. They asked us how Brown can expose boondoggles if her own trips raise eyebrows.

Morale at Brown's shop appeared to be on the rocks this July, according to an official internal survey of inspector general workers. No one mentioned Brown's trips, but many of the issues raised point to poor management.

Brown says her trips were all business and done on the cheap — $3,416.10 for Europe and $4,255.53 for the Far East. That doesn't sound like around-the-world on $5 a day, but maybe Brown has her own definition of cheap.

Investigators who talked to us miss the crusty inspector general who preceded Brown — Joe Sherrick, now retired, used to warn his troops against accepting "a cheese sandwich."

Brown told us that she has accepted "neither a cheese sandwich nor a cup of coffee from any contractor." That's right. As far as we can tell, Brown only takes from the taxpayers.

"What we need is a junkyard dog," one miffed staffer told our associate Stewart Harris. What they have is a poodle.

Those who know Brown say she is dedicated to government work. She has served as the inspector general at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the Interior Department. Some of her employees complain that at staff meetings, she often focuses on soft issues, such as long term planning and policies — hardly the stuff to fire up a staff of hard-nosed investigators.

In her defense, Brown said she concentrates on management issues because they were neglected in the 17 months between Sherrick's departure and her arrival in December 1987.

On Brown's four-week Far East trip, she made two stops in Hawaii in addition to visiting Korea, Japan, Alaska, the Philippines and Okinawa. We admit that just because the itinerary looks like fun doesn't mean Brown wasn't working. A schedule provided by Brown's office shows she met with inspector general officials in those locales on 15 of the 28 days. The rest of the time Brown was with other military officials.

We'll even grant her a few days to take the pulse of military facilities in the Pacific. But a whole month? Brown told us she needed the time to study how she would reorganize the inspector general's offices in the region.

On her European trip, Brown visited military bases in Germany, Italy and England. She also squeezed in some theater on the weekend. No big deal, except one of Brown's workers fetched the tickets.

Meanwhile, back at the ranch, the Defense Department struggled with a mammoth procurement scandal. It isn't Brown's fault that the Defense Department inspector general's staff isn't on top of that scandal. It falls squarely in her jurisdiction, but the FBI is running the operation because it was an FBI source who exposed the alleged fraud. Borderline paranoia prevents the FBI from sharing much data with the inspector.

Those who know Brown say she is dedicated to government work.

legislative liaison.

"We just continued to work and stayed with the agenda. Mainly, we didn't get distracted from the other duties we had," Martinez said.

"Once that issue (the service tax) was put aside, we were able to speak out about other issues a lot easier. ... It gave us a much better chance to show what we were doing in other fields."

Although he has not yet announced plans to run for re-election, Martinez firmly rejected speculation he would accept a post in the new Republican administration in Washington to avoid embarrassment in 1990.

"I've said it clearly — I am not going to Washington," Martinez said. "I don't want to be asked, I'm not going to accept. I'd like to use my close relationship with the president-elect to help Florida in any way I can, but not to leave Florida."

A key to his relaxed and hectic travel schedule that took him away from Tallahassee — and Tallahassee's political preoccupations — and placed him in direct contact with the public. He also began a monthly call-in radio program.

"A lot of this is just better communications from me to the public, and from the public to me as well," Martinez said.

He also launched initiatives to protect Florida's environment, opening the year with a widely publicized trip down the endangered Wekiva river.

"One of the things we've been able to show in the last two years is that we have a very deep commitment to environmental issues — not only the natural environment, but the urban environment," meaning people, he said.

Not that the horizon is totally clear of ugly storm clouds. Florida remains mired in a prison overcrowding crisis that has resulted in the early release of thousands of inmates.

Among them was Charlie Street, an incorrigible felon accused of killing two Miami police officers within days of his release from prison. Martinez denied it was his fault, but as the state's chief executive can expect to reap bad publicity as well as the good.

Martinez plans to place Floridians' anxieties with crime and drugs — which he calls "the hottest issue in the state" — at the top of his agenda for 1989.

He is also in charge of a task force on drugs for the Southern Governors' Association, and his proposed drug testing for state workers is expected to be enacted by other states.

He was a national co-chairman of George Bush's presidential campaign and led the party's outreach to Hispanic voters nationally. Florida cast 62 percent of its votes for the vice president, sent a Republican to the U.S. Senate and two to the state Cabinet.

"One thing about an election, it clears problems," Martinez said. "The cycle of past governmental activities concludes and you have a clean slate to move into the future."

Martinez' claim to some of his most cherished achievements in 1988 do not go without challenge.

The landmark solid waste legislation he signed into law this year was the brainchild of Sen. George Kirkpatrick of Gainesville and Rep. Mike Friedman of Miami Beach — both Democrats.

ended when Kevin Enright, 18, of 344 Clemons St. rural Altamonte Springs, fatally wounded himself in the head. Enright had hauled up in an office building on Douglas Avenue and shot himself rather than surrendering. At about noon that day, police said, Enright ran from the Ramada Inn where he had raped a woman. He was chased by police and took refuge in the almost vacant Plaza North Office Complex, where the SWAT team had to evacuate a lone secretary before Enright shot himself.

On May 6, Seminole County sheriff's deputies reported finding the body of Kathleen Alveshire, 31, in her house at 501 Green Lake Circle. Alveshire, an apparent suicide victim, was, deputies said, the key suspect in the April 2 murder of her husband Robert Franklin Alveshire, 54, of the same address. Robert Alveshire was stabbed in the heart and an attempt had been made to set his body afire as he lay on a couch in the den of his house. Mrs. Alveshire had speculated her husband was killed by an intruder, but deputies reported identifying her as a key suspect, who was not arrested in the case before she died.

On March 10 two Altamonte Springs policemen confronted an armed man who was threatening suicide. Police shot and killed the suspect after he fired shots at them. Jeffrey Wayne Campbell, 26, was shot on Palm Springs Drive, near the Altamonte Mall after police responded to a call that he had robbed Oshman's Sporting Goods at the mall.

The officers, Jeff Frazier and Ron Clott, underwent a police investigation and were determined to have been justified in shooting Campbell.

In July a Sanford couple was indicted on murder charges for their alleged roles in the shooting death of retired Brig. Gen. Wilbur McNenny, 76, of Longwood, who was wounded in a shootout May 2 with an armed burglar who posed as a pizza delivery man when trying to rob McNenny's house. The armed robber, Clive Mitto, 24, of Deltona, was found dead the following day in a car in Sanford. He had been fatally wounded by McNenny. McNenny died May 13 in an Orlando hospital. Implicated as accomplices of Mitto were Arthur Douglas Mosteller, 27, and Gina Rizzo Mosteller, 33, who were charged in the case in July. Mrs. Mosteller, investigators said, had worked at McNenny's house as a nurse to his ailing wife.

Oviedo's new Police Chief Dennis Peterson in August announced he had just found a sundress in a locker at his department that had been identified as the dress Regina Mae Armstrong, 6, was wearing when she was kidnapped in Orlando in 1985. The dress was found in September 1987 along with a skull in a field in Oviedo, and stashed in the locker, without further investigation. Examiners said the skull conforms with the characteristics that the skull of a 6-year-old girl who had been dead for three years would have. No arrest has been made in the case, but the announcement led to renewed interest in the Orlando police investigation into Regina's case. The apparent oversight of the initial find brought a shakeup in the Oviedo police investigative department, after Peterson found the neglected evidence.

In another Oviedo police case, in October a Seminole County jail inmate was charged in the stabbing and beating death of his grandmother whose house and body were burned after she was killed April 9, 1987.

Roosevelt Walker, the grandson of Evelyn Graham, 63, was charged with murder at the Seminole County jail in connection with Graham's death. Ray Ann Robinson, and a second man who is in Ralston State Prison were also charged in the case, and accused of actually slaying Graham while Walker waited in another room of her house during a robbery.

The Midway and Goldsboro communities on the eastern and western outskirts of Sanford were hotspots of violence one week in September. Violence left one man dead and about five people injured. Lawmen characterized the violence as a feud between some residents of each community. On Sept. 22, Antonio Denmark, 22, of Sanford, was shot and killed outside the Deluxe Bar, Southwest Road. On Oct. 3, Larry Thompson, 21, of Castle Brewer Court was charged with murder in the case. Following the violence about half-a-dozen suspects were jailed on related charges, including attempted murder.

A 32-year-old Sanford man missing since July 13, after he was arrested for allegedly keeping a kilogram of cocaine from an 11 kilogram find of cocaine he surrendered to City County Investigative Bureau agents in February, was found hanging in woods off Sanford Avenue on Oct. 2. Sanford police said Donald Wayne Clark, who had bonded out of jail, apparently committed suicide rather than face the charges against him and another man for allegedly keeping part of the cocaine found in Longwood woods and valued at almost $6 million.

CCIB also harvested a forest of marijuana plants, many 12-foot tall, from behind a house at 3046 Truman Blvd., just west of Sanford on Aug. 26. CCIB Commander Lt. Donald Estlinger said the 68 plants confiscated were valued at about $2,000 each. The operator of the illegal farm has not been found and the resident at that address was not implicated in the case.

For the first time ever Seminole County sheriff's deputies in December abused a mother with child abuse and delivery of cocaine to her unborn child. When Tami Suzett Hudson, 29, of Altamonte Springs, gave birth on Nov. 13 in Altamonte Springs, doctors said her baby, Michael, was born addicted to cocaine. Deputies have accused Hudson, who admits smoking crack cocaine for three years, of delivering the narcotic to her unborn child. Three other local women are suspects in similar cases, with arrest pending, deputies said.

In the spring, Seminole County Sheriff John Polk banned the activities of an group of self-proclaimed "police," who patrolled the county and harassed and detained citizens and interfered with real police for eight years, without Polk's knowledge. Polk warned the dozen or so members of the Casselberry-based Patrol Assistance Citizens Team (PACT), one of whom was a convicted burglar, they would be arrested if they operated as had been reported by illegally monitoring police radios and responding to police calls.

County

annexations were illegal, but hoping for an era of more cooperation with the city, the three voted against legal actions in 3-2 votes.

Largely because of the 3-2 annexation votes, Seminole County's first full-time county attorney, Nikki Clayton, resigned on Dec. 13, citing "philosophical" differences with the board. Clayton said she was no longer effective as an attorney if her client — the county commission — refused to accept her recommendations. Clayton will remain for six months as a consulting attorney.

Kelley stunned fellow commissioners and county officials on Dec. 19 by requests for hundreds of thousands of pages of documents and hundreds of audio tapes and computer data tapes to allow her, she said, to "get a handle on what's going on."

County administrator Ken Hooper said the request would cost the county several hundreds of thousands of dollars and several commissioners said the request would require their approval.

Despite the apparent truce called by county commissioners over annexation lawsuits, no clear resolve ended the road impact fee controversy. After the county passed the countywide road impact fee ordinance in 1987 to help build roads throughout the county, three cities — Sanford, Casselberry and Winter Springs — passed their ordinances "opting out" of the program.

The county challenged the three cities in court and in March, Judge Leffer ruled the county couldn't force the cities to collect the fee from city developers for the county. The county entered into joint meetings with all seven cities and came up with an agreement generally accepted by the cities to form a road impact fee committee to revise how the impact fees would be spent.

Winter Springs didn't participate in the discussions and when the discussions ended in May, the city refused to agree to the plan because they felt the plan to widen a portion of Tuskawilla Road 10 years after another portion was widened was unfair.

Although two cities formally approved the agreement, most did not, so the county appealed Leffer's decision in July to the Fifth District Court of Appeals. No decision has been made, although the same court ruled in December in a similar Volusia County case that county could require cities to collect the fees for the county.

The continuing saga of the county's Yankee Lake wastewater treatment plant reached a plateau in 1988 with the groundbreaking of the nearly $12 million plant on July 21.

Yankee Lake critic Art Davis, by then a county commission candidate, appealed the county's permit to build rapid infiltration basins as a disposal system for the plant, saying they might pollute Yankee Lake and possibly the Wekiva River. He later dropped the appeal, focusing his attention on the county's principal plan to dispose of the treated wastewater in nearby wetlands.

Several years of turmoil at the county's Animal Control Department drew to an apparent close in August when Bob McIntosh, the department's director, resigned amid allegations he mismanaged the department. County investigations and employee were critical of him and though he denied any wrongdoing, he resigned rather than face continued controversy.

The department had previously been quaked by allegations previous director Bob Young allowed mistreatment of animals and mismanaged the department. October saw the passage of a new tax — one few Seminole County residents will have to pay. Voters approved a hotel "bed tax" on short-term accommodations to help raise funds to improve the Central Florida Zoo and area beaches and riverfronts. A quarter of the funds raised will be reserved for the zoo.

U.S. supplying satellite pictures of Libyan weapons plant to allies

United Press International

LONDON — The United States has supplied satellite pictures of an alleged chemical weapons plant in Libya to its allies as part of an effort to prove the factory is making banned chemical arms. The International Herald Tribune reported Monday.

But while the American allegations are being taken seriously in Western Europe, there are doubts in two NATO capitals that the photographs being supplied by U.S. intelligence show "conclusive evidence" of chemical-weapon manufacture at the Libyan site.

A West German intelligence source, who spoke to the newspaper on the condition of anonymity, said Bonn has received over the past three weeks CIA "satellite photos" of the Libyan facility in question.

"But the difficulty on our side is that there is no conclusive evidence in the photographs to support the Americans' opinion that chemical weapons are being made there," the West German official said.

A British intelligence source told the newspaper that the photographic materials provided by the U.S. show a facility that resembles chemical weapons factories in Iraq. The sources said the conclusion being drawn by U.S. is based on such comparisons.

The British official said the comparison was not entirely convincing, noting that there was no clear photographic data on the kinds of material being supplied to the Libyan facility.

A U.S. diplomatic source in London last week described the photographic data on the site as "pretty good." Some of the materials are understood to have been taken by SR-71s, U.S. spy planes based in Britain.

The Bonn-based official told the International Herald Tribune that the photographs of the Libyan plant show a large facility that appears to be a chemical factory and which is "heavily fortified."

While the fortification would "seem inconsistent" with Libyan claims that the plant is solely for the production of pharmaceuticals, the West German source said. "The problem remains that you can only see the shape of a plant, nothing else — there are no hard facts."

"We're not saying that the American position is completely foolish. We're taking Washington's opinion very seriously," he said. "But we've been trying to obtain more information from our own resources."

NATIONAL BRIEFS

Dam breaks, several homes evacuated

ST. GEORGE, Utah — An earthen dike broke and sent a wall of water rushing down the Virgin River early Sunday, washing out bridges and forcing evacuation of more than a hundred homes but apparently causing no injuries, officials said.

The dike on a lake adjacent to the Quail Creek Reservoir, some 350 miles southwest of Salt Lake City, gave way about midnight MST, said Tony Hafen, Washington County emergency services director.

"We've lost quite a bit of farm land, quite a bit of livestock, quite a bit of farm equipment, barns, horse trailers, campers," Hafen said. "They're all on their way to Lake Mead."

"There were reports of (recreational vehicle) trailers being washed down the river and hitting the bridge and also of cows being washed down the river," said Kathy Nielson, a Utah Highway Patrol dispatcher.

Manhunt begins for men who shot deputy

WINSLOW, Ariz. — Law officers searched without success Sunday for two heavily armed men, including one wanted in a California kidnap-robbery, who are suspected of wounding a sheriff's deputy and tying up a couple in their home, authorities said.

Navajo County Sheriff's Deputy Bob Varner, 51, was critically wounded in the head when he stopped a car in Winslow for a traffic violation Saturday night.

The suspects also stole a car from a couple after tying them up in their home and fired shots at two other deputies before fleeing on foot, authorities said.

One suspect was identified as Douglas Savory, 45, also known as Douglas Todd Wolf, who is wanted by authorities in San Bernardino County, Calif., as a suspect in a gun store kidnap-robbery last September, said Sgt. Allan Schmidt of the state Department of Public Safety.

Two killed in plane crash

RANCHO CUCAMONGA, Calif. — Two people were killed and another was critically injured in the crash of their small plane into the snow-covered San Gabriel Mountains, authorities said Sunday.

Rescuers early Sunday plucked two survivors from the wreckage of a light plane that slammed into the rugged mountains in San Bernardino County near the Los Angeles County line the previous day, but one of the survivors died Sunday afternoon, authorities said.

Two women were taken by a Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department helicopter Sunday morning to Huntington Memorial Hospital in Pasadena, where they arrived in critical condition with multiple head and torso injuries, Deputy Bob Nimitz said.

PLO chief offers to send 'hit squad' after terrorists

United Press International

LONDON — PLO chief Yasser Arafat has offered to dispatch a hit squad to hunt down those responsible for bombing Pan Am Flight 103, British newspapers reported, and U.S. officials said they would welcome any information the Palestinian leader can provide.

But a White House spokesman said Sunday there had been no communication with Arafat on the Dec. 21 bombing of the Pan Am Boeing 747 over Lockerbie, Scotland.

The London Sunday Telegraph quoted an unidentified U.S. official as saying Arafat would conduct his own investigation into Palestinian splinter groups suspected of planting the bomb that killed 270 people.

The Telegraph said Arafat also agreed to closely cooperate with the FBI and other intelligence agencies.

Another London newspaper, The Sunday Express, reported that the PLO sent a message to President Reagan from its base in Tunis, Tunisia, pledging "a traitor's death" if they find the bomber of Flight 103.

The Express said Arafat vowed to dispatch a hit squad to hunt down the leader of a Palestinian faction who may have ordered the attack. It did not identify the suspect or the faction.

In Palm Springs, Calif., deputy White House spokesman Roman Popadiuk said Sunday there had been no communication with Arafat on the subject of the Pan Am crash, but he noted that since Arafat has renounced terrorism the United States assumes the PLO chairman will provide any information he obtains.

In Washington, FBI Director William Sessions said Sunday he welcomed Arafat's reported offer, adding that he was optimistic about solving the mystery.

Boat capsizes, 45 killed

United Press International

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil — An apparently overloaded excursion ship carrying an estimated 130 people on a New Year's Eve cruise on Rio de Janeiro's Guanabara Bay capsized late Saturday killing at least 45 people, police said.

A journalist aboard the vessel said in a telecast interview Sunday that the boat had initially been ordered back to its dock by the coast guard for a count of passengers but was later allowed to leave because the count proved to be nearly impossible.

Military police spokesman Jose Santos told United Press International the accident occurred three minutes before midnight Saturday.

"More than 45 bodies were pulled from the sea and taken to the morgue but apparently there are more people still missing," Santos said.

The two-story excursion boat, the Bateau Mouche, is also a floating restaurant that normally carries tourists between the Botafogo neighborhood of Rio de Janeiro and small islands in Guanabara Bay. It was not initially known whether there were many foreigners aboard the Bateau Mouche.

"Apparently the ship capsized because it was overloaded," Santos said. "The rescue is being hampered because of choppy waters and many bodies may have been carried out to sea."

Eliane Maciel, a Brazilian journalist who was rescued from the capsized ship, said in an interview telecast Sunday that a coast guard boat had ordered the skipper of the Bateau Mouche to return to shore because it apparently was overloaded.

She said that port officials, however, were unable to board the jammed vessel because it was so densely packed with passengers that they abandoned the count and allowed the Bateau Mouche to leave port again.

Maciel said she fell into the bay when the vessel capsized and was struck on the head by a metal object that fell from the ship, but she was able to save herself and a 12-year-old girl "who was screaming desperately."

"Five fishermen who were in a small boat nearby saved at least 50 people," Maciel said.

Police round up L.A. gun slingers

United Press International

Police successfully guarded against rioting in Hollywood, New Year's Eve, but elsewhere in Los Angeles the sound of gunfire filled the air, potshots were taken at police cars and at least six people were arrested for engaging in the annual rite of firing guns into the air, officials said Sunday.

Although police officials publicized a new law that makes firing into the air a felony, the practice began as early as 2:15 p.m. when Compton police reported hearing random gunfire.

By 10 p.m., the rat-a-tat sound of bullets being fired in the air was heard throughout South Los Angeles.

In the Nickerson Gardens housing project, a police sergeant's car was hit by three rounds fired from unknown gunmen, Sgt. Kevin McCarthy said. The officers in the car were unhurt.

Two men were arrested for firing guns into the air in Southeast Los Angeles, while four men were in custody in the Harbor City area, officials said.

Elsewhere in the region, police officers confiscated dozens of weapons from revelers who dropped shotguns and rifles as they were chased by officers, Sgt. Stan Ludwig said.

Falling bullets fired randomly by celebrants last New Year's killed two people, including a 17-year-old Inglewood boy riding his bicycle.

In San Francisco, New Year's Eve celebrants had a dizzying array of events to attend, ranging from the Moscow Circus to the Peking Ballet to Freddie Hubbard to rock n' roll at Fillmore Auditorium.

In downtown San Jose, a semi-official New Year's Eve blowout featured 10,000 glasses of champagne, 32,000 balloons, 685 skyrockets and 10 searchlights. The city kicked in $20,000 to help pay for the $35-a-head party.

In Oakland, thousands of "Dead Head" fans came from every corner of the country to attend the annual Grateful Dead concert held at the Oakland Coliseum. The show had been sold out for weeks.

Diet Pills Sweeping U.S.

Doctors Invent 'Lazy Way' to Lose Weight

U.S. Gov't. Approves Patent Claims for New Diet Pill

BEVERLY HILLS, CA (Special)—An amazing new weight loss pill called "fat-magnet" has recently been developed and perfected by two prominent doctors at a world famous hospital in Los Angeles that reportedly "guarantees" you steady fat loss and calorie reduction by simply taking their tested and proven new pill.

The U.S. government has just approved the doctors' claims for a hard-to-get patent that confirms "there has never been anything like their fat-bonding pill process before." It is a totally new major scientific breakthrough and is revolutionizing the weight loss industry.

You Can "Eat Normally"

Best of all, "you can continue to eat your favorite foods and you don't have to change your normal eating habits. You can start losing fat and reduce calories from the very first day, until you achieve the ideal weight you desire without exercising."

Flushes Fat Out of Body

The new pill is appropriately called the "fat-magnet" pill because it breaks into thousands of particles, each acting like a tiny magnet, "attracting" and trapping many times its size in undigested fat particles. Then, all the trapped fat and calories are naturally "flushed" right out of your body because they cannot be absorbed.

Within 2 days you should notice a change in the color of your stool, caused by the fat particles being eliminated.

"Automatically" Lose Fat

According to one of the inventors, Dr. William Shell, heart specialist and associate professor of medicine at UCLA medical school, "the new fat-bonding process is a 'lazy way' to lose weight because the pills alone "automatically" reduce calories by eliminating dietary fat. It is 100% safe and not a drug."

The fat-magnet pills are already sweeping the country with glowing reports of weight loss from formerly overweight people in all walks of life who are now slimmer, trimmer and more attractive again.

Now Available to the Public

If you are trying to lose 20, 50, 100 pounds or more, you can order your supply of these "no-risk" highly successful fat-magnet pills directly from the doctors' exclusive manufacturer only (includes optional calorie-reduction plan for even better results). Send $20 for a 90 pill supply (+$3 handling), or $35 for a 180 pill supply (+$3 handling).
101 Fat-Magnet, 9010 Wilshire Blvd., Dept. W246, Beverly Hills, CA 90211. (Unconditional money-back guarantee if not 100% satisfied.) Visa, MasterCard and American Express OK. (Send card number, expire date, and signature.) For fastest service for credit card orders ONLY call anytime 24 hours, toll free 1(800) 527-9700, ext. W246.

IN BRIEF

HOCKEY

Canadiens sweep road trip

The Montreal Canadiens, with their sweep of a four game Campbell Conference road trip, easily showed why they have the best record in the NHL.

Goaltender Patrick Roy turned aside 39 Vancouver shots Sunday night, posting his third shutout of the season as Montreal posted a 4-0 victory over the Vancouver Canucks. It was Montreal's seventh straight victory.

It's good to get the eight points, that's for sure, said Montreal defenseman Larry Robinson, who scored the game's final goal at 6:41 of the final period on a low 35-foot slap shot.

Montreal's sweep came against some of the Smythe Division's elite. The Canadiens started with a victory at Los Angeles, then swept Calgary and defending champion Edmonton on successive nights.

BASKETBALL

Heat's Gray on injured list

MIAMI — The Miami Heat Friday placed Sylvester Gray on the injured list because of a thumb injury sustained during a game Thursday against Seattle.

The Heat also said it signed forward Todd Mitchell to a 10-day contract.

Gray suffered a torn ligament in his left thumb and the team physician operated Friday in Miami, the Heat said.

Gray is expected to be sidelined for two to three months.

The 6-foot-7-inch Mitchell, a graduate of Purdue University, was a second round draft choice of the Denver Nuggets. He had played for the Rapid City Thrillers in the Continental Basketball Association.

Mitchell will suit up for the Heat's game against Portland Tuesday.

Nebraska players suspended

MIAMI — Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne said he has suspended approximately 10 reserve players for violating team rules prior to the Orange Bowl.

Osborne said Sunday two players were sent back to Nebraska for missing bed checks twice and another eight or nine were suspended for missing bed checks one time.

None of them were any higher than fourth on the depth chart at their position and most of them wouldn't have suited up anyway, said Osborne, who did not reveal the names of the players. These things get blown out of proportion, but there was no alcohol involved, he noted.

I don't want to say who they were because it would be embarrassing for them. I was disappointed in the commitment of these players because they indicated they were more interested in having a good time instead of preparing for the game.

Sixth-ranked Nebraska (11-1) plays second-ranked Miami (10-1) in the Orange Bowl Monday night.

Irish, W. Virginia battle for No. 1

The battle for No. 1 will finally switch from the debating field to the playing field.

Seven bowl games are scheduled Monday and New Year's revelers should be recovered enough to enjoy this bonanza of college football. The Fiesta Bowl will attract the most interest, with No. 1 Notre Dame playing No. 3 West Virginia at 4:30 p.m. EST and the national title on the line.

Each team is 11-0, only the 13th time in bowl history schools with unblemished records have squared off. However, it marks the third time in three years, and the second time in that span the stage has been the Fiesta Bowl in Tempe, Ariz.

Notre Dame, gunning for its first national title since 1977, is a 5 1/2-point favorite. The forecast calls for clear skies and temperatures in the mid-50s.

Debate exists whether the Mountaineers should even be in the game. West Virginia, with the first unbeaten, untied season in its 90-year history, played opponents who won barely 40 percent of the time. Only Syracuse advanced to a bowl among its 1988 foes.

Notre Dame on the other hand, has dispatched Michigan, Miami (Fla.) and Southern Cal en route to its first undefeated season since 1973.

The final vote by members of United Press International's Board of Coaches will be released Tuesday; and the No. 1 school will receive a $32,000 non-athletic scholarship from the Gerrits Foundation and UPI.

No. 2 Miami, the defending national champion, plays sixth-ranked Nebraska after the Fiesta Bowl is over. The Hurricanes, 10-1, have lost only to top-ranked Notre Dame, and that by a 31-30 score when Miami failed on a two-point conversion attempt with 45 seconds remaining.

Miami's argument is that if third-ranked West Virginia upsets the Irish, the Hurricanes should move into the top spot based on strength of schedule and because they are ranked ahead of the Mountaineers.

"I think if Notre Dame were to lose, the winner of the Orange Bowl should decide the national championship," said Nebraska quarterback Steve Taylor. "I just don't think West Virginia is as good as Nebraska and Miami."

Added Miami Coach Jimmy Johnson: "I would think the winner of the Miami-Nebraska game would be No. 1. That's what usually happens when No. 1 loses - No. 2 moves up."

Nebraska, 11-1, lost 41-28 to UCLA after falling behind 28-0 in a disastrous first quarter.

In other games Monday, it will be Syracuse, 9-2, vs. Louisiana State, 8-3, in the Hall of Fame Bowl at Tampa, Fla.; Clemson, 9-2, vs. Oklahoma, 9-2, in the Citrus Bowl at Orlando, Fla.; Arkansas, 10-1, vs. UCLA, 9-2, in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas; Michigan, 8-2-1, vs. Southern Cal, 10-1, in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif.; and Auburn, 10-1, vs. Florida State, 10-1, in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans.

Bengals, Bills set for rematch

United Press International

CINCINNATI—Next Sunday's AFC title game represents a rematch of a Cincinnati Bengals-Buffalo Bills game played six weeks ago in Cincinnati.

In that Nov. 27 regular-season matchup, the Bengals' NFL No. 1 offense outplayed Buffalo's AFC No. 1 defense and Cincinnati enjoyed a 35-21 victory.

The rematch comes about because Cincinnati beat Seattle 21-13 in Saturday's AFC divisional playoff game. Buffalo defeated Houston 17-10 in Sunday's divisional playoff game.

Even back on Nov. 27, the Cincinnati-Buffalo game looked like a possible preview of the AFC championship. The Bills had just clinched the AFC East title and brought an 11-1 record into the game. Cincinnati's victory gave the Bengals a 10-3 mark at the time.

After the game, Bengals quarterback Boomer Esiason and Bills quarterback Jim Kelly chatted and told each other they expected to meet again in the playoffs.

"I think Buffalo is a better team now than when we played them a few weeks ago," Esiason said after watching Sunday's Bills-Oilers game on television.

In that Nov. 27 game, Cincinnati's high-powered offense rolled up 455 yards on the Bills.

"That's the best offense we played against all season," Buffalo defensive end Art Still said after the game. "We had a lot of problems trying to stop them."

"You couldn't ask for a better pair of running backs (Jockey Woods and James Brooks). And when you add in a great quarterback (Esiason) and an offensive line that's big, aggressive and explodes off the ball, you've got a total offense."

Seattle found that out in the first half of Saturday's playoff game. The Bengals raced to a 21-0 halftime lead that the Seahawks could never overcome.

"They did a good job the first half, we didn't and that's where we lost the game," said Seattle quarterback Dave Krieg.

In the first half, Cincinnati rolled up 165 rushing yards while Seattle, which usually bases most of its offense on a 1-2 running punch of John L. Williams and Curt Warner, had none. At halftime, the Bengals had 18 first downs, the Seahawks had three.

"They did a good job of reading our offense," said Krieg.

BEARS' QB UNDECIDED

LAKE FOREST, Ill.—Chicago Bears Coach Mike Ditka said Sunday he will not make a decision until at least midweek on who he will start at quarterback against the San Francisco 49ers in the NFC championship game.

Mike Tomczak started Saturday's 20-12 divisional playoff victory over the Philadelphia Eagles, but left the game in the second half with a bruised left shoulder, the same one he separated Nov. 27 against Green Bay.

Jim McMahon played the remainder of the game and completed 2 of 3 passes for 13 yards in his first action since Oct. 30, when he sprained a knee against New England.

"I'm going to start the healthiest guy," Ditka said after watching the 49ers defeat Minnesota in the other NFC divisional playoff. "Let's be honest. This is the playoffs. This is a sudden-death situation."

"I made the statement for a lot of weeks that we had more than one starter, and I think that's still our situation. So if Jim becomes the starter, he becomes the starter. If Mike stays the starter, Mike stays the starter. Both of them probably will play in the game. It depends on what happens."

Pizza Hut: Prep soccer at its best

From staff reports

Eight ranked teams, including three No. 1 teams, converged on the most prestigious tournament in the state this past week and the result was one tremendous week of soccer.

The 10th annual Pizza Hut Invitational was perhaps the best tourney to date and coming out with the championship trophy for the first time was Lake Mary's Rams. Lake Mary, which will be ranked No. 1 in this week's Class 4A poll, moved to 11-0-1 for the season with victories over Tampa Leto (2-1), Daytona Beach Seabreeze (4-2), Miami Killian (2-1) and Clearwater Central Catholic (2-1).

There were many heroes for the Rams in their week of triumph. Jonn Mora scored five goals in three games while Jon Brooks pumped in four goals and Manny Roldan and Eric Ravndal each had three assists and Darren Forde added two. Jim Spicher scored only his second goal of his career, but it was a big one, tying CCC in the second half of a game that was decided in penalty kicks.

Defender James Nobile continued to take on the task of marking the top players in the state and shut out all four men he guarded including Tampa Leto's Marcus Agedom and CCC's Garrett Cronon who scored five goals in one Pizza Hut game. Goalkeeper Steve Sharp came up with the two biggest saves of his career in penalty kicks to preserve the victory over CCC.

The final loss was a heart-breaking one for Clearwater Catholic as the Marauders looked at the Pizza Hut as their state tournament. CCC, 11-1, is ranked No. 1 in Class 2A and is an overwhelming favorite to win it all. The state just split into three classes, adding 2A, this season. CCC will get a chance to avenge its loss as it plays at Lake Mary later this month.

Tallahassee Leon will not get a chance to avenge its only loss in the last 38 matches. The No. 1 ranked team in Class 3A, now 10-1, had won 37 in a row before dropping a 3-2 decision to Clearwater Catholic in the tournament semifinals.

Miami Killian discovered that the rest of the state plays pretty strong soccer. The Cougars went in ranked No. 1 in 4A, having handled pretty easily its competition in South Florida. Killian pulled out tough decisions over Jacksonville Fletcher (1-0) and Winter Park (2-1) before falling to Lake Mary in the semifinals. Killian gets another big test when it returns to action Tuesday against No. 2 (Class 4A) Miami Sunset.

Tampa Leto found out that it is still on the same level as the best in the state as it claimed the third place trophy, winning three in a row after a first-round loss to Lake Mary. Leto now has a 14-2 record in Pizza Hut play, with both losses to Lake Mary.

Three Seminole County teams also had some good experiences in the tournament as Oviedo, Lyman and Lake Brantley all had moments where they saw they could play to the level of the best teams in the state.

Oviedo finished in fourth place in the tourney with victories over Orange Park and Lyman and losses to Tallahassee Leon and Tampa Leto. The Lions' best performance came against Lyman, a 3-0 victory in the consolation bracket semifinals. Oviedo had lost to Lyman by the same 3-0 score earlier in the year.

Lyman opened with a tough 2-0 loss to Jeault in which it pretty much outplayed the Tampa team but could not find the net. The Greyhounds then played a solid match in a win over Class 3A power Bishop Moore but did not play nearly as well in the loss to Oviedo.

Lake Brantley played right with eighth-ranked (4A) Winter Park in the opening round game and was locked in a 1-1 tie with the Wildcats in the second half when a questionable call gave Winter Park a penalty kick and killed Brantley's momentum. Still, it was a good indicator for Brantley which is struggling with a 1-7-1 record.

The only major upset of the tournament was in the first round where Orlando Evans knocked off last year's Class 4A state runnerup Orange Park, 3-1. Evans came back to earth in the second round in which it was routed by CCC, 6-0.

Tallahassee Leon's Tucker Riordan celebrates after the Lions' had just tied the score against Clearwater Catholic in the semifinals of the Pizza Hut Invitational. Clearwater Catholic would score a goal in the last minute of play for the victory, which snapped a 37-game Leon winning streak.

Faith takes spotlight

By JIM RICKENBACKER

ORLANDO — Sports fans are more likely to encounter the name Zenon Andrusyshyn in the game Trivial Pursuit rather than office chitchat. Z, as Andrusyshyn is sometimes called, has the longest punt in football history, 108 yards. And he also is credited with a 57-yard field goal in a professional career that included stops in the NFL, USFL and CFL.

No doubt the 501 people who gathered for Saturday's Fellowship of Christian Athletes Citrus Bowl Breakfast at First Presbyterian Church found Z's feats intriguing. Yet, the main course had more to do with the effect that Jesus Christ has had on Z and the lives of Oklahoma kicker R.D. Lashar and Clemson lineman Ty Granger.

"What this breakfast is all about," Z said, "is that coaches and athletes have an influence on young people. Young people admire athletes, but some athletes are sharing death. I'm so proud that this kicker (Lashar) and this lineman (Granger) can share their faith in the living Christ.

"The solutions the world offers aren't going to solve the problems of young people. Most young people don't believe that.... They think they're never going to die."

Z, formerly with the Tampa Bay Bandits, has seen his share of teenage suicide since joining FCA's Tampa staff two years ago. Death is not something too far removed from his experiences, though.

Twenty years ago, Andrusyshyn was a glamor boy at UCLA playing in the Bruins' annual showdown with crosstown rival Southern Cal. That UCLA lost that day wasn't due to O.J. Simpson's 67-yard sprint so much as his two missed field goals. Returning to campus already dejected, he discovered some students burning off effigy of him in memory of those errant attempts.

Insulation saves energy, money

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald correspondent

On Christmas Day 1984 the temperature was 85 degrees in the shade. The closest thing any of us had to a "White Christmas" around here was a day at the beach.

That is one of the main things that draws people to our state.

That, and the fact that we can save money by not having to insulate our houses.

Think again!

"You'd be surprised how many people believe that myth," said Charlie Cambria, a member of the building materials staff at The Home Depot in Altamonte Springs.

The amount of energy required to regulate the temperature in an uninsulated house is almost twice what it is to heat or cool an insulated structure.

Unless your home was built within the last dozen years or so, special attention was probably not paid to energy conservation. Prior to that, the cost of heating or cooling a home was not nearly as prohibitive as it is today.

"Insulating your home is one of the few home improvement jobs that begins paying for itself immediately. Do it yourself," advised Cambria, "and you will save even more."

Those who subscribe to the theory that Florida homes do not need to be insulated because of the mild winters, forget that insulation also contains the cool air in the summer.

The do-it-yourselfer can insulate an attic in a few hours. Experts advise beginning early in the day before the temperatures get too high.

Determine the amount of material you'll need by pushing a ruler between the joists (which is usually 15 inches) to determine the width needed.

Next measure the space between the joists (which is usually 15 inches) to determine the width needed. Then measure the length and width of the whole attic and multiply them together to find the square footage.

As an example of the cost, Cambria used a 1,400 square foot attic.

"I recommend using insulation with a 'R value' of 23. For a 1,400 square foot attic, you'll need 30 rolls of insulation at $15 each. That's $450," he said. "We can almost guarantee that you'll see a substantial decrease in your energy bill the very first month, so it will begin paying for itself right away."

Cambria points out that his figures are only estimates because the price of insulating materials varies.

If you're using roll insulation, put it between the joists, starting at the eaves and unroll until you reach the center of the attic. Repeat the process from the other direction. If you're using the pre-cut foam squares, place them one after another between the joists, working toward the

Where to put your home insulation

1. Ceiling with cold or hot spaces above.
2. Rafters and "knee" walls of a finished attic and cathedral ceilings.
3. Exterior walls and walls between heated and unheated spaces.
4. Floors over unheated or outside space or crawl space walls.
5. Perimeter of a concrete floor slab close to grade level or under whole slab.
6. Walls of finished or heated basement.
7. Top of foundation or basement walls.

WHAT IS "R VALUE"?

"R Value" refers to the resistance to conductive heat flow through a material. The higher the value, the lower the gain or loss.

center from each side.

Be sure to leave cave vents uncovered.

If you are adding another layer of insulation, Cambria recommended that layers be laid across the joists.

Be sure to cut the insulation to fit tightly around pipes and beams as well as leaving a three inch space around electric motors and lighting fixtures.

Insulation materials, especially fiber glass, may irritate your skin, nose and throat with the tiny glass fibers from which the product is made. Studies have pointed to improper use as a possible carcinogen.

Manufacturers encourage precautions be taken when working with fiber glass. You should avoid breathing the dust and refrain from contact with skin and eyes.

"I would recommend extra care be taken by the homeowner doing his or her own insulation," said Janet Smythe, a representative with the Health, Safety and Environmental Department of the Manville FiberGlass Insulation Company.

"They should wear loose-fitting clothing, including a long-sleeved shirt and long pants, a cap, cotton gloves and goggles with side shields. They should use a respirator. Any exposed area should be washed with soap and warm water. Work clothes should be washed separately from other clothing. Be sure to rinse the washer thoroughly after cleaning the work clothes."

Smythe emphasized that, handled properly, fiber glass is safe for the do-it-yourselfer.

Certainly, Floridians have an easier time of it in the winter months than those in other parts of the country, but the summer months bring exorbitant cooling bills that could be reduced with an investment in insulation.

Proper care adds longer life to holiday plants

A bright, colorful azalea, Christmas begonia, chrysanthemums or a gaily decorated poinsettia, cyclamen or Christmas pepper added to the other decorations in the home give the holiday seasons a festive air.

These Christmas plants can be enjoyed not only during the holidays, but will remain attractive far into January and even February if cared for properly. Care of Christmas plants, whether a colorful cyclamen, a long-lasting kalanchoe, or a cheerful Christmas begonia, is easy. Faithful attention will add days and even weeks of life to any of these popular Christmas plants.

Temperature has an important influence on the length of time a flowering house plant will remain attractive. The poinsettia is especially sensitive to chilling, and a prolonged chill will cause it to lose its leaves. The plant should be placed in the coolest part of the room, but not in a cold draft. This means away from radiators and other sources of heat. A temperature of 65 degrees at night is satisfactory, but 60 degrees is still better for most of the flowering potted plants. In fact, cyclamen like a 50 degree night temperature.

GARDENING

CELESTE WHITE

The method of watering many times determines the life of the plant. Many drown their plants by watering at regular intervals, not considering whether the plant needs it. Plant roots need air as well as water, and excessive amounts of water do not allow a place for air in the soil. Overwatering literally smothers the plant roots. Proper watering calls for a little thoughtfulness and often exercise of restraint. Water should be applied in sufficient quantities to thoroughly soak the soil in the pot and no more given until the soil approaches dryness again. Plants should be checked for dryness daily but not watered if the soil is still moist.

Remember that most holiday plants have been out of a greenhouse a short period. The difference between a greenhouse and a home is significant. See GARDENING, Page 6B

'Ethereal' has no real substance

"Dorsal" describes something on or toward the back of an animal. Even if you don't need it now, you may eventually come back to dorsal.

Use "ethereal" for things delicate or light and airy. It ends with real, but there's no real substance to the ethereal.

Q Should I say that I've raised my kids or I've reared them?

A. The strict rule is that you raise animals but you rear children. This rule is being relaxed, however, and you may well hear people say they reared children. If that usage bothers you, feel free to bring up the rear.

For an unusual person or thing, try "rara avis." That's Latin for "rare bird," which may be the least you're called for using rara avis.

"Nap" raises a fuzzy surface on cloth, as from brushing. If I brush cloth for too long, in fact, I'll need a nap.

Q My writing teacher says I use too many run-on sentences. Does that mean my sentences are too long?

to a Midwestern university advertising graduate studies in English. The poster being distributed tells prospective students where to write "For further information." Perhaps one of those graduate courses in English will address the need for a further r in "further."

A person who keeps yearly records is an "annalist." If you're frightened by words like annalist, you may need to see an analyst.

"Potent" proves powerful or effective. When you need an adjective with power, you'll discover a most potent one in potent.

Q I've heard the slang use of the number 86, but what does it mean?

A. In restaurant or bar slang, 86 is the code to cut off service, as in the case of a drunken customer. The number now means generally "end" or "eliminate." For instance, in order to start 1989 we had to 86 '88.

Use "tuft" for a small cluster or bunch. Some people had trouble pronouncing it at first, but they finally "tuft" it out.

OUR LANGUAGE AD-VICE: This week's Ad-Vice Award goes to humiliation. Spell the last syllable like grin, but chagrin is nothing to smile about.

In television ratings, "share" refers to the percentage of the audience watching a particular show. Share means little, however, to the person hogging the remote control.

Q I keep hearing ask pronounced like ax. Is that now accepted?

A. It may be accepted by some listeners, but it's still incorrect. Transposing the s and k of ask produces "aks," which is found in dictionaries as the pronunciation guide to ax. When someone tries to "aks" you a question, just answer, "Don't aks."

Use "quay" for a wharf or pier usually made of stone or concrete. Here's a pronunciation key: Quay sounds like key.

"Aggrieved" feels wronged or injured. It's related to grief, which you may feel if you forget to double the g in aggrieved.

Q I have a friend who uses humongous all the time. Is this a word? I hate the sound of it.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Oale
YOUR BIRTHDAY
January 3, 1989

Be appreciative of things that may come rather easily to you in the year ahead. If you take your opportunities for granted, you are not likely to develop their true worth.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You could be a trifle susceptible today in believing all you hear. Before you pass any gossip on to friends, it might be wise to double check the information with other sources. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Problems you may have to contend with today could be of your own making. They might be traceable to a lack of personal initiative or a failure to use feasible methods.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Try to avoid an acquaintance today whose politics or philosophy always clashes with yours. This individual might attempt to draw you into another unresolvable debate.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your compassion for the underdog is an admirable quality, but be careful it doesn't draw you into a situation today where another's errors become your liabilities.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Judgments you make today could be influenced by wishful thinking instead of reality. If you take this position your perspective could be severely distorted.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) In an attempt to expedite a difficult career matter today, you might make promises you'll know you can't keep. Unfortunately, others will believe what you say.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Overindulgence could be something of which you should be mindful today. Good things will be doubly appreciated if you partake of them in smaller quantities.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A firm hand on the tiller will be required today if you hope to impress those over whom you have authority. Wishy-washy behavior will not inspire subordinates.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Usually you're a person who tends to underestimate your role in everyday accomplishments. Today, however, you might be just a shade too boastful about what you've done.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Where your financial interests are concerned today, it's best not to delegate authority, particularly to anyone you do not know too well. Indifference could lead to regrets.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If your mate is willing to make compromises or concessions where a sticky issue is concerned, try to be open-minded yourself. If you're inflexible, it will only make things worse.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You are likely to have a very clear choice today between rolling up your sleeves and getting the job done or merely resting on your laurels. If you choose the latter the day could end up a big zero.

Korea memorial support unbelievable

DEAR ABBY: I am Kathleen Cronon Wyosnick, and I wrote to you seeking support for the Korean War Veterans Memorial. You printed my letter, and the day it appeared, my phone started ringing at 7 a.m. and continued to ring non-stop throughout the weekend.

I heard from other wives who had lost their husbands in Korea, mothers who had lost sons, and men and women whose brother, uncle and cousins were killed, wounded or missing in action in the Korean "conflict." (Although 54,246 died, 103,284 were wounded and 8,177 were missing in action, our government never called that three-year battle in Korea a "war.")

I had calls from many Korean War vets. "Bob" phoned from Montana, and in a booming voice said, "Kathleen, I just want to say, 'Lady, I love you!'" Before I could ask him his last name, he'd hung up.

A few just wanted to share some war stories that had been locked away for 35 years. Some choked up — unable to talk — and asked me to thank Abby for devoting her entire column to the Korean War vets on Veterans Day.

Abby, the mail was unbelievable! Sacks of mail were held at the post office until we could get enough hands to open it. An SOS went out to all the Kiwanis Clubs in the area. They recruited volunteers, who did an incredible job of opening it.

Some of the letters accompanying the contributions were heartwarming: John Lopez, a Sunnyvale, Calif., Marine vet who had been a POW, was one of the first to respond. A teen-age girl from Denver sent $2, saying she'd never heard of the Korean conflict. From San Antonio came a check from Jeane Westerman, a 76-year-old retired Army nurse (WW II), with a note: "Wish I could send more but my retirement isn't all that great." Al Johnson, a Korean War vet from Vancouver, Wash., sent a check saying he was going through a painful divorce, feeling alone and depressed, and this effort would give him something to do. A week later he wrote again to say he'd collected $5,000! Another vet said he was broke, but enclosed $5 in food stamps.

A check came from Gene Baenen of Lake Forest, Ill., in honor of his kid brother — one of the first Marines to be killed in Korea. (He went over in August, was killed in September, and would have been 21 on Christmas of that year.)

Abby, how can I thank you for all you've done for the veterans of the Forgotten War? I want to shower you with roses, hugs and kisses. May God bless you in a very special way.

KATHLEEN C. WYOSNICK
DEAR KATHLEEN: Please don't thank me; that's what I'm here for.

Readers: We now have slightly more than $2 million of the $6 million needed to reach our goal. We have miles to go before we sleep, so please send your tax-deductible checks and money orders to: Korean War Memorial Fund, P.O. Box 2372, Washington, D.C. 20013-2372.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I received an invitation to a wedding reception. The bride is a longtime family friend of my husband's. We have socialized with her for more than 15 years.

The invitation was addressed to "Mr. and Mrs.," so we certainly did not bring our children, who are 6 and 13 years old.

When we got to the reception, we saw children of all ages there! Several people asked me where our children were. I simply said they were at home with a sitter.

Now I am wondering why there were other children at the reception if mine were not included. Are there functions where some people's children are invited, but not others?

I told my husband I thought this was very strange and it bothered me. He said if it bothered me, I should call the bride and ask her to clarify this. I did not want to call her, but I just can't let this go. Abby, please help, but do not use our real names.

MYSTIFIED

DEAR MYSTIFIED: People with good manners do not bring their children unless they have been specifically invited. Unfortunately, some parents do it anyway. There are some functions to which some people's children (usually family members) are invited, but others are not.

You used excellent judgment in not calling the hostess and demanding a clarification. Let it go.

DEAR ABBY: As a new mother, may I blow off a little steam about a few things that bother me? First, whenever I take my son out in public, some grandmotherly type will stop to admire him and say, "My, what a darling baby!"—then she will touch his little hands or face. This is very annoying because one never knows where a stranger's hands have been, and I am terrified that my baby will be contaminated.

Also, when my son whimpers or cries in public, I wish strangers would not offer advice, such as, "Maybe he's hungry—don't you think you should feed him?" Or, "Maybe he's wet; maybe you should change him." And I hate it when a stranger says, "Don't you think your baby is overdressed for (underdressed) for this weather?"

Abby, I've been reading you for years, and I realize that I probably have been guilty of doing the above myself, so if you print this, perhaps other well-meaning strangers who can't resist "coo-ee-ee-ee" and touching babies will think twice, and keep their hands and advice to themselves.

NEW MOM IN ORANGE COUNTY

DEAR MOM: While unsolicited advice can be annoying, it's relatively harmless. But touching a baby's hands—which will inevitably go into the baby's mouth—is not. So, thanks for a worthwhile reminder.

environment and a typical indoor room is usually considerable. In the home provide as much natural light as possible. A dark bedroom, hall, entrance foyer or living room does not have optimum growing conditions. Place your plants where they receive the morning sun. Pool light will cause leaf drop.

Although the humidity in a house is not easily altered, plants will do best in an area of the house where the humidity is the greatest. This is usually in the cooking area. It often helps if plants are set on pebble-filled saucers with water maintained at a level just below the base of the pot so that it doesn't touch the water.

Watch for the common symptoms of foliage plant troubles which are as follows: Brown tips or burned margin of leaves — caused by too much fertilizer, plants dried out temporarily, or windburn if plants are outside the house. Yellowing and dropping of leaves can be caused by chilling, over-watering, or poor drainage and poor aeration. Weak growth or light green or yellow leaves indicate too intense light, lack of fertilizer or a poor root system. Wilting is caused by too much heat, lack of water, or root injury. Spindly growth and small leaves are contributed to too little or too high temperatures.

By giving your Christmas pot plants the environmental conditions of proper temperature, adequate water, and good light, they will furnish an attractive display for a longer time.

Loose mouth wire causes infection

DEAR DR. GOTT: My husband has a partial plate. The wire on the remaining teeth is cutting into the gums. Please tell him what can happen if he doesn't see a dentist.

DEAR READER: A loose wire in the mouth can cut into unprotected tissue and cause infection. Since this problem can easily be treated by a dentist, I think that your husband should see one.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I was a widower for five years and am about to remarry. However, I'm concerned that after five years of no sex, I won't be able to achieve an erection. During my previous marriage I had occasional bouts of impotence. What can you suggest?

DEAR READER: I suggest that you relax and let nature take its course. The fact that you have not had sex in five years will not necessarily interfere with normal functioning. It's been said that older people can — it just takes longer. Don't become unduly frustrated. Avoid a negative mind-set and trust in your new partner's affection and patience.

Most men experience impotence at some times in their lives. This can be due to fatigue, stress, alcohol and mental attitude, as well as to physical factors, such as poor circulation and the side effect of many medicines. If you find that you are unable to achieve an erection — even during the night or with self-stimulation — check with a urologist. Many types of impotence are curable and almost all are treatable.

MEDICINE

Let me know what happens. For more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Impotence." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My husband had a drinking binge of eight days two years ago. I took him to the doctor and his blood sugar was 600. Since then he's been taking Lasix, Micro-K, Theodor and Diabeta. We've been monitoring his glucose at home. A year ago, he stopped the Diabeta on his own. His weight went from 158 to 260 (he's 5 foot 3 inches), his glucose readings from 144 to 277. He still binges occasionally. Are we dealing with a diabetes problem or alcoholism?

DEAR READER: Both. Your husband certainly has diabetes, an excess of blood sugar. The basic treatment for this disease is diet. Your husband's 100-pound weight gain indicates that his intake of calories exceeds his needs. He should trim down by avoiding sugar, sweets — and, of course, alcohol, which provides "empty," unnecessary calories and is dangerous for diabetics. He may or may not need Diabeta, an oral medicine for diabetes. This decision is best left up to his physician.

Also, I note that he is taking Lasix (a diuretic used for fluid retention), Micro-K (a mineral supplement to counteract potassium loss caused by Lasix) and Theodor (a drug for asthma). Evidently, your husband has several medical problems. Alcoholism may be one of them.

Experts now recognize that an alcoholic is not simply a down-in-the-mouth Skid Row daily drinker. Many alcoholics avoid alcohol for months or years, only to have their sobriety end in the cyclic bouts of binge drinking. Alcoholism is a tricky disease with many variations. The "classic" alcoholic may be in the minority. Many of today's alcoholics are healthy, gainfully employed — and younger than previously supposed.

For more information, I am sending you copies of my Health Reports "Diabetes Mellitus" and "Help II — Mental/Substance Abuse."

Language

A. The slang adjective humongous means "enormous" or "very big." Webster's New World Dictionary, which has just appeared in a third edition, suggests that huge and monstrous were combined to produce humongous. You may have a humongous distaste for it, but this word has been around for 20 years and is bigger than ever.

If a problem can be corrected or set right, it's "correctible." Remembering this word may be a problem, but don't worry. It's not incorrigible.

The Russian "nyet" means "no." In refusing any request in Russian, consider this word your safety net.

Q What's your resolution about Our Language in 1989?

A. My resolution for 1989 involves computer jargon. This year I intend to become user-friendly with computerese, so that byte no longer sounds painful or downtime depressing. While I struggle with "tech-talk," I'd like to know about your language goals for the next 12 months. Send a note to Our Language Resolutions, and watch this space.

Do you have a question or comment about our language? Please write to Jeffrey McQuain, in care of this paper.

Q What exactly is the difference between the words "adapt" and "adopt"?

A. "Adapt" changes or adjusts to make fit; "adopt" chooses or takes as one's own. For example, when you consider adopting, you should spend time adapting to the possibility.

Use "tumult" for a noisy disturbance or uproar. You'll have to shout this word, though, if you want to be heard over a tumult.

Something "feasible" appears possible or likely. A feasible clue for pronunciation might be to rhyme the first part with "ease."

OUR LANGUAGE ADVICE: Today's Ad-Vice Award goes to a line of greeting cards advertised as "A tiny little division of" a larger company. That self-description contains a tiny little redundancy that, left uncorrected, might turn the entire company into a house of cards.

"Wring" squeezes or twists. It's spelled with a "w," but its pronunciation is enough to make the homophone ring.

A slow, mournful song is a "dirge." I urge you to pronounce it correctly; in fact, "dirge" rhymes with "urge."

Q Sometimes you hear people say they can't find somebody anywhere. Is that a word?

A. The adverb "anywheres" is a dialect word. It's been around for at least two centuries as a variant of "anywhere," but it's still considered to be nonstandard English. Stick with "anywhere," a word that is accepted everywhere.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

"Faint heart ne'er won fair lady" is an overused quotation that is often applied to timid action at the bridge table. Pin that quote on East if you like, because he passed over four spades. Of course he was vulnerable, and on a bad day he would lose three club tricks and a diamond for a minus 500 in five hearts doubled. This being a good day, the ace of clubs and the king of diamonds were both right, so East would have made 11 tricks in hearts, doubled or not. Against South's four-spade contract, West led the heart jack. Declarer ruffed the lead in dummy and took a club finesse. West took the king and switched to the queen of diamonds. That gave the defenders four tricks and put South down one. Declarer overlooked an absolutely safe play for 10 tricks when the heart was led. All he had to do was discard a club from dummy on the opening lead. East would win the king of hearts but would have nothing better to do than return a club. Declarer would take the ace and continue with the club queen. If West failed to cover, declarer would discard a diamond from dummy. Even if East should hold the club king, the king of diamonds would still be safe from attack. And the J-10 of clubs would be winners for diamond discards. On the actual hand, since West holds the club king, the ruffing finesse works, so declarer would simply return to his hand with a trump to get rid of two diamonds from dummy on the good clubs. James Jacoby's books "Jacoby on Bridge" and "Jacoby on Card Games" (written with his father, the late Oswald Jacoby) are now available at bookstores. Both are published by Pharos Books.
