

Professional Dinner Arranger Special Product Of Our Times

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Today we take you for a behind-the-scenes peek at a great American industry.

It is the business of getting people to attend a public dinner. And right now it is one of the most active industries in the United States.

Public dinners fall into two broad classes:

1. The testimonial dinner.
2. The "worthy cause" dinner.

Getting people to fork out the cash for a ticket to a testimonial dinner is no problem at all. Generally the guest being honored is so powerful that at least 1,000 people are afraid not to buy a ticket. This assures a full, attentive house.

But roping folks into going to a dinner for "a worthy cause" is quite another matter. Approached with a proposition of this sort, the average man will run for the nearest excuse. His mother-in-law has just come down with the measles or his wife has broken her arm playing canasta, and he has to take her to the hospital.

This reluctance has created a new specialist — the professional public dinner arranger.

Let us take a typical case. Suppose you are president of the society for relieving impoverishment among Eskimo architects. You want the society's annual dinner to be a success, so you go to a professional arranger.

"To begin with my fee will be $750," murmurs this dear old lady. "What?" you bark. "Why? There are only 100 members in our society, and we were going to throw our clambake in Joe's joint. We only charge $2.00, and Joe lets us have his blue plate special for $1.50, so we only expect to clear four bits a head."

So the wise old lady says don't be foolish, nobody goes to a two buck affair anymore. She schedules the dinner at the Waldorf Plaza Hotel and ups the entrance fee to $15 a ducat.

"Who's going to make the main speech?" she asks.

"Why, I was," you say lamely.

Mrs. P. R. Bremer is undergoing treatment at the Florida Sanitarium in Orlando.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Frisbey who spent two months with her uncle, L. A. Cline, left Monday for their home in Farwell, Mich.

After spending several months in one of the hill cottages, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Hyden returned Monday to their home in Atlanta.

Visiting Mrs. M. Flanagan in Winter Park Sunday afternoon were Mrs. J. L. Bullard and her daughters, Mrs. Frank Mitchell and Mrs. W. P. Butler.

Mr. H. A. Gainer and wife, James A. Gainer had as their guests Sunday his son-in-law, and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Moore of New Smyrna.

Mrs. Roy L. Howell, Jr. and Milton have returned to their Lake Mary home. Mr. Howell is employed by the A.C. railroad in Jacksonville and for the present will spend his week-ends with his family.

The Howard Hotel Wholesale Candy Co. of Sanford recently employed W. Weiderhold.

The Rhythm Band of the Lake Mary school took part in the parade Monday afternoon which marked the opening of the new Sanford Skating Rink.

The Lake Mary boys' basketball team lost to Sanford Junior High Friday afternoon with a score of 25 to 8. The girls beat the Junior High, 22 to 6.

Raymond Mitchell is now employed by the Erickson Funeral Home.

Mrs. W. B. Riser and infant son, Kenneth Bryan came home Friday from the Orange Memorial Hospital, Orlando.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Evans of Tampa, brother and sister-in-law of Frank Evans, returned to their home for Pioneer Night Friday.

The Lake Mary School PTA raised around $12.00 at their cooked food sale Saturday morning.

Miss Doris Sjoblom was a guest of the Carvers in Alhambra Thursday.

Mrs. Harry Darrow was sufficiently recovered from her serious illness to be brought home on Saturday.

The A. F. Kemp and his mother, Mrs. Redmon of Lakeland, returned Friday from a brief business trip to Dallas, Texas.

Calling on his father and brothers, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Gaiser and son, Ray of Orlando, spent Friday at the Gaiser home.

Recently, Mr. Nathan Green of Bridgeport, Conn., called on the J. C. Pickering. The two, long time friends, had not met in 10 years.

The Chamber of Commerce met in regular monthly session Wednesday night, with the president, C. F. Bralington presiding. The minutes of previous meetings, the minutes of the previous year, reports from the various departments and standing committees were heard.

Due to the plea of Wm. J. Leary, City Commissioner, the Chamber will suspend its regular meetings for a week.

and she remarks, "Don't be pitiful. We gotta get some big names talkers."

"But who cares about helping the poor down-trodden Eskimo architects?" you inquire. And she says leave that to her.

Well, it turns out that a senator from Washington would be more than glad to discuss "The Eskimos Are Our First Line of Defense." And a bigwig from the United Nations is just aching to give a half-hour report on "Peace in The Far Snow—It's Wonderful!"

And for entertainment? It turns out that a brilliant young composer has just finished a new piece called "North Pole Serenade" and would love to try it out on the public at a charity banquet. That way he's sure of newspaper mention.

By now the dinner really sounds like something, but how are you going to sell all those $15 tickets?

"That's my job," says the professional arranger. "I'll just send out invitations to my selected list of tested dinner-goers, and we'll pack the ballroom."

What is a "tested dinner-goer?" Well, believe it or not, in Manhattan there are thousands of people who make a career out of going to public dinners. Some want to run for office, others want to "keep my face before the public," and the rest just don't know what else to do after dark.

So the dinner is a huge success. You clear $5,000. Then you discover there are only five really poverty-stricken Eskimo architects in the world.

You forward the money to them, they put stores in their igloos, and the central heating gives them pneumonia — and in three weeks there are no more Eskimo architects.

You then disband your society. But that doesn't worry the professional dinner arranger. She is already busy on the annual banquet of the society for extending television to the Zulus.

McCarthy balked, saying he would do so when he gets to that particular case.

Tidings said that if there is anyone in the State Department who is shielding persons who are bad security risks, the committee ought to get on that at once and "get him out of there."

"If these men are guilty of these charges, the committee will want to find out," Tidings said. "If they are not true, we will want to tell the public."

Tidings plunged into questioning about the official without giving McCarthy a chance to make an opening statement. That brought a protest from Senator Lodge (R-Mass.) that it was the most unusual procedure he had seen since he came to the Senate.

New Hampshire Medical Society Considers Action In Sander Case

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
MANCHESTER, N. H., Mar. 8. — (AP) — The New Hampshire State Medical Society is set to meet possibly by the end of this week to act on medical punishment of Dr. Hermann N. Sander, if he is acquitted in his mercy murder trial.

Sander's fellow doctors, under more severe than his jury. They cannot do more than recommend the laws of medical ethics, can be cancelled out of his license, but that might mean ruin for his professional career, anywhere in this country.

The plans were made last month. The notices calling the meeting are ready to be sent out. They will not be sent if he is convicted, or the jury disagrees, or there is an appeal, and a conviction is final.

The medical men have agreed to let Dr. Sander have an unprejudiced day in court.

The meeting will be of the House of Delegates of the New Hampshire State Medical Society, numbering between 80 and 85 doctors. These men are the ruling body of medical practice in this state.

The question to come before them is whether Dr. Sander has violated medical law, more properly called medical ethics. This medical law is fully as strict as legal laws, and frequently more strictly enforced.

The House of Delegates will meet in closed session, discuss Dr. Sander and issue a statement on their decision. There is no appeal. They will consider whether Dr. Sander has made himself unfit in the eyes of his fellows by giving an air injection, something that in all the evidence to date cannot be any other effect than harm to a patient, and death if enough is injected.

It is possible that the state medical society's action may be forestalled by the State Board of Registration, the legal body that licenses doctors to practice. The state board was ready to consider Dr. Sander's case before the trial, but deferred action. There has been no announcement of the board's post-trial plans.

If this were not an extraordinary case in the entire history of medicine, the initial action would come from the Hillsboro County Medical Society, of which Dr. Sander is a member.

But the world-wide sensation caused by the first reports of Dr. Sander's alleged killing of his cancer patient, Mrs. Abbie Borwick, has caused the board to postpone all over the United States to take an immediate position on the charges.

New Hampshire doctors agreed that action on the matter what it might be, should be taken on a state rather than county level.

No statements of responsibility have been made. Eight influential doctors have insisted that they believed there must be discipline in order to make "less the principles of the medical profession."

The trial brought in surprise by nearly all doctors in New Hampshire. It is evident that the patient was already dead when the air was injected.

But that still leaves Sander's colleagues asking: "Why did he do it? It doesn't make sense."

And "It doesn't make sense" were Dr. Sander's own words when he testified that he had injected air.

 Leaders of colored colonial people's organizations began drafting protests. Their spokesman, Leslie Constantine, a West Indian cricket player, said:
 "We shall oppose this treachery and if necessary we shall appeal directly to the King for the whole future relationship between the colored and white peoples of the empire is now gravely threatened."
 Dr. J. Darlington-Kolbe, who said he is director of a New York organization called Afro-American Cultural Researchers, handed Serretse a telegram from the group promising to appeal on his behalf in the United Nations on the grounds that the British action is a violation of the human rights charter.

 The liberal London News Chronicle said in an editorial that it was hard to escape the conclusion that the government had been led "to sacrifice Seretse in order that we may not inflame against us the white opinion of the South Africans."
 Seretse had charged that the action was meant to appease the color-conscious South African government of Prime Minister Daniel F. Malan, who favors segregation of the races. Gordon-Walker denied this.
 The London Times said if the Bamangwato tribe was willing to take a white queen, "it would not seem to be for the imperial government, pledged before all the nations to respect the equal rights of all races, to override them."
 Gordon-Walker said the government had withheld recognition of Seretse's chieftainship until the disappearance of what he called tendencies to disruption "which threaten the unity and well-being of the African protectorate." He denied that the decision had been taken because of Seretse's marriage to a white woman.

 Seretse's tribe of about 150,000 Bamangwatos is the largest in the Bechuanaland protectorate, which lies on the border of the union of South Africa and southern Rhodesia. Britain has decided to take over direct control of the area during Seretse's exile. The government also has exiled Seretse's old uncle Tsekezi Khama, who as regent of the tribe protested against Seretse's marriage and against his acceptance of the chieftainship.

 This went on for 30 minutes. Whereupon the photographers said they had enough pictures. Miss W. said she hadn't learned any French, which earned photographers under the conditions, and reporter said:

 "Fanny, I'd rather spend my nights thinking about Miss Washington than about a French noun."
