

Warning Issued On Danger Of Snakes

By Julian Stenstrom
It's true," said Dr. Frank Leone, director of the county's Health Department, "that only three persons in Florida died last year from snake bite — all from rattlers."

But the doctor warned, "That's three more than enough to cause all of us to exercise extreme caution, particularly at this time of the year."

There have been three deaths, already for 1964 — one by rattler, one by moccasin and another by cobra. The latter was a suicide in Dade County.

Perhaps the reason is that the State Board of Health keeps a constant supply of antivenom serum as do 20 hospital poison control centers in 19 cities throughout Florida. Venom can be obtained within 30 minutes for 90 percent of the state's population.

Also important is the fact that a bite victim can get information very quickly by contacting his county health department or a poison control center.

This county's nearest poison control center, according to Dr. Leone, is Orange Memorial Hospital, Orlando.

But getting back to the coral snake, its bite is the most deadly in Florida although there is the least likelihood of being bitten by one. This is because the snake is slow to arouse and because it licks rather than strikes. To bite it must first get its teeth around an object such as a finger. It cannot get its teeth into a flat surface.

Florida's supply of serum comes directly from a firm in Brazil, the only place in the world where it is manufactured. The state board of health cannot sell the serum, it must be dispensed free.

A person bitten by a coral snake will almost surely die unless the serum can be administered in time.

About that coral snake — it's slender, grows to about 20 inches. It's a beautiful reptile and most attractive to children. Its nose is black and its red and yellow bands touch each other, separated by black bands. It lurks in cool spots, usually under trash, stones or planks.

There's a false coral but it has a red nose and black bands between its red and yellow bands.

Learn to tell the difference. It might save your life. Remember this little rhyme:

"If its red on yellow it will kill a fellow. If its red on black, it's okay Jack."

If you can't remember that one, perhaps this will stick with you: "If his nose is black, stay back."

Talented Youth Does School Wall Mural

By Jane Casselberry

One of Seminole's most promising young artists, 14 year old Danny Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Smith of Longwood, has been commissioned by Principal John Angel of the South Seminole Junior High School at Casselberry to paint a mural on the wall of the school cafeteria.

Danny is a ninth grader at South Seminole and is in his second year as a pupil of artist Beth Gregory of Lake Mary. He is a member of the Sanford-Seminole Art Association and took first prize in the junior division at the organization's annual art exhibit.

The talented youngster has designed and is executing a mural done in shades of brown and tan to blend with the beige wall. It depicts the many facets of learning taught at the junior high level, such as social studies, math, science, English, music, industrial arts and sports.

in a dramatic manner. Danny prefers to work in oils and is partial to landscapes painted from nature. His ambition is to be an art major in college studying for a career in commercial art. Who knows, perhaps we have a future Thomas Hart Benton, Diego Rivera, or even a Michelangelo in our midst and someday we may point with pride and say "I knew him when..."

Record Cold

Record cold in which men have survived was the 90 below zero recorded in Siberia in 1933; 18 Americans at the South Pole came within a degree of that mark on April 2, 1957, when they reported a minus 89.

Ford Cavanaugh, a member of the board of Trustees of Forest Lake Academy, says that school officials are now conferring with authorities in Atlanta on operational plans for the coming year. A portion of the school's plant was destroyed by fire earlier this month. Cavanaugh said that the school's enrollment last year hit the 350 mark. The school has been in operation for 39 years.

When County Attorney Harold Johnson stuck his head into the Seminole County Commission chamber Tuesday morning and notified the board he'd be a few minutes late for the bi-monthly confab, someone on the commission immediately proposed that the lawyer's fee be docked $100. We honestly don't know who made the suggestion (in a humorous vein, of course) but we know for sure it wasn't Lee Gary of Oviedo.

Seminole High School Band will have a parade and a band concert in downtown Sanford Saturday at 10 a. m. to publicize the movie that they are promoting to raise money for next year's band trips. After the free entertainment, band members will sell tickets to "The Patsy" starring Jerry Lewis. Get your tickets from the kids and help the band.

Nothing points up the differences in opinion like a deal lock. This happened several times at City Commission Monday night and also at County Commission Tuesday. In each instance, it was up to the chairman to break the deadlock. That's the privilege of being chairman—you get to make your authority felt.

Monday night when a stenotypist turned up at the Town Council meeting in Casselberry to record a portion of the Council meeting the board of aldermen raised the roof.

When a stenotypist turned up at the County Commission meeting Tuesday morning to record a portion of the commission meeting the commission members paid no attention to it. The Casselberry board immediately voted to adjourn its monthly meeting rather than permit the proceedings to be recorded by a tape machine or a stenotypist. We wonder what'll happen next month if the recording machine and the stenotype puts in another appearance.

Speaking of the County Commission meetings, the newly decorated chamber is completed except for two things we'd like to suggest. A press table in a location where writers can hear as well as see the proceedings when delegations appear to present matters, and a swiveling gate at the north end of the railing for zoning director Robert Brown. When the main gate is blocked and Brown has to dash from the seating area to the commissioners' section he either has to vault over the railing or squeeze under it. One of these days he'll either break an ankle or two or slip a disc.

The future of a 3.6 mile section of the Longwood Markham Road was left hanging in the air by the Board of County Commissioners during Tuesday's meeting. Sometime ago the board OK'd the removal of damaged pavement within a 2 mile section of the road. Later another 1.6 mile section of damaged pavement was removed. Now there's a good four-inch limberock base.

It will cost about $28,000 to repave the road, estimates road superintendent J. C. Lavender. "The figure's too high," says Chairman Jim Avery. Commissioner John Fitzpatrick: "Doubt if the traffic will warrant it." Final decision: Commission will discuss putting it in next year's road and bridge program.

Romania's Red Boss To Ignore 'Little Summit'

LONDON (UPI) — Gheorghiu-Dej, Romania's rebellious Communist party chief, will skip the "little summit" meeting in Warsaw next week as another sign of independence from Moscow, diplomatic sources said today.

Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev will be in Warsaw July 22 for the 20th anniversary of Poland's postwar liberation. He is expected to meet with Communist leaders Wladyslaw Gomulka of Poland, Antonin Novotny of Czechoslovakia and Walter Ulbricht of East Germany.

The Warsaw meeting is expected to deal with the worsening Sino-Soviet ideological dispute and the growing rumbles of discontent among the East-European regimes in the Soviet bloc.

Diplomatic sources said Gheorghiu-Dej, who has shown increasing defiance of the Kremlin's control, has decided to stay away from the Warsaw meeting.

Florida To Ask For Rehearing

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Florida will ask the U. S. Supreme Court today to reconsider its landmark decision that both houses of a state legislature must be chosen on a basis of population.

Atty. Gen. James Kynes said he will put in the mail this afternoon a petition to the high tribunal, asking for a rehearing and a reconsideration "to allow enough leeway to give bicameralism a chance to work" in state legislatures.

Some critics have said if every legislator in both House and Senate must represent substantially the same number of people, there is little need for a two-house or bicameral legislature. Only one state, Nebraska, now has a unicameral or one-house legislature.

Kynes said he will cite as one ground for reconsideration the fact that Florida was not given a hearing or opportunity to argue its reapportionment position on its merits.

Knife Wielding Secretary Freed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Arlene Del Fava, the pretty secretary who stabbed a would-be rapist with a switchblade knife, was cleared by a grand jury today of a charge of possessing an illegal weapon.

Miss Del Fava, 27, was attacked July 5 as she walked home alone in the fashionable Forest Hills section of Queens Borough.

Four Sanford Jaycees On 'Outstanding' List

The Sanford Seminole Junior Chamber of Commerce announced today that four Sanford men have been selected for inclusion in the 1965 edition of Outstanding Young Men of America.

These men were nominated earlier this year by the local chapter and have been selected by a 13 man national board of editors for the publication.

Doug Blankenship, past national president, (1962-63) who is serving as chairman of the board stated that men were selected between the ages of 21 and 36 who "have distinguished themselves in one or more fields of endeavor to the point of being outstanding."

Outstanding Young Men of America is an annual biographical compilation of approximately 10,000 young men of outstanding rank throughout the nation.

Nominees for the book come from many sources, though the majority are made by Jaycee Chapters and College Alumni Associations.

"The Junior Chamber has long been active in the recognition of outstanding achievement among America's young men," said Jim Stafford, national Jaycee public relations director.

Each year since 1938 the Jaycees have selected the Ten Outstanding Young Men of America. Among past winners were such famous persons as John F. Kennedy, Nelson Rockefeller, Dr. Tom Dooley and Henry Ford II.

Publication date of the 1965 edition is January 15th.

Demonstrators Block An Exit

COW PALACE, San Francisco (UPI) — Civil rights demonstrators blocked their bodies before turnstiles at the Cow Palace Tuesday night, blocking an exit for Republican delegates who had just voted overwhelmingly for a Goldwater-oriented civil rights plank.

The demonstrators' leaders promised they would be back in force tonight, when the same delegates are expected to make Sen. Barry Goldwater the Republican nominee for president.

There were no arrests and practically no violence during Tuesday night's sit-in. Republican National Convention delegates did not try to force their way through the turnstiles and over the bodies of the demonstrators. Instead, they made their way through other exits.

After a half hour, the attendants got up and left, too.

'Extremists' May Elect Barry, Says London Paper

LONDON (UPI) — The London Daily Express said today that Sen. Barry Goldwater may well be elected president. Express columnist Robert Pittman said, "So-called 'liberal' thinkers . . . call Goldwater an extremist. Yet even the London Times, which is leading the present fashionable hysteria against him, admits that the ordinary voter may well elect him president. "By this definition, the average man is the extremist and the man at the extreme is the moderate."

Bear Lake-436 Site Approved For Grocery

Efforts to have two property sites rezoned to C-1 Commercial were successful during Tuesday's meeting of the Board of County Commissioners.

Attorney Mack Cleveland, representing a client who wishes to construct quick stop food stores, convinced the Commission that the best possible use to be made of property at the southwest corner of SR 436 and Bear Lake Road would be commercial.

His client proposed to construct a Handy Andy Food Store on the site. Collections were raised by nearby property owners and Ford Cavanaugh, a member of the board of trustees of Forest Lake Academy, a preparatory school owned and operated by U. S. 1792 on O'Brien Road, adjacent to the Atlantic Coast Line tracks, was also given a C-1 Commercial designation over protests by adjacent property owners.

Members of the Commission expressed the opinion that they did believe that the property immediately adjacent to the tracks would be suitable for a residential site. The parcel rezoned will be the location of yet another Handy Andy Food Store.

Both of the requests for rezoning were referred by the County Zoning Board and appealed.

Bryant Back To Prop Up Exhibit

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gov. Farris Bryant lunched with World's Fair officials here today for a second round of discussions on Florida's financially troubled multi-million dollar fair exhibit.

The governor's decision to fly to New York was apparently made on the spur of the moment, and the chief executive's office said simply that Bryant had gone "on a business trip to the World's Fair."

Bryant went to New York for two days of conferences last week, and when he returned home he announced that a 25 cent admission charge to the Florida exhibit would be dropped.

UPI Gives Barry 809 Ballots

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — With the balloting only hours away, UPI's tabulation today of GOP delegates' voting intentions showed:

First Ballot Nomination Seems Certain

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, on the verge of a first ballot nomination as the GOP presidential candidate, was enjoying the biggest day of his life today calmly and confidently.

He had every reason to feel as he did with his forces in firm control of the Republican National Convention and his nomination by a big margin assured.

Only a few hours remained for courting delegates and the Arizona senator planned to put them to good advantage. He was to attend a women's breakfast and then a rally for victims of "captive" nations behind the Iron Curtain.

Decision day was at hand, however, and Goldwater was ready. He planned to watch the convention's nomination proceedings and its balloting with aides and members of the family in his headquarters suite at the Mark Hopkins Hotel on Nob Hill.

Quietly confident since his arrival here Thursday Goldwater's spirits were clearly soaring as the balloting approached.

He gave newsmen the slip Tuesday for about nine hours, got in a bit of relaxation at a secluded spot still undisclosed, and then met with advisers at length on "activities and plans for the next few days."

Goldwater followed the convention's platform deliberations on television and was aware that his forces were swamping the challenges posed by Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton and Michigan Gov. George Romney.

He issued this short statement which expressed, in a capsule, his views on the convention and the state of his party as well: "The Republican convention is reflecting the conservative majority in the Republican party."

The convention, jumping the gun a bit, already has given a preview of the uproar expected when the senator's name is placed in nomination today. Mention of Goldwater's name Tuesday night in a speech by Sen. Hiram L. Fong, R-Hawaii, touched off a "We want Barry" demonstration.

More of the same — much more — was in prospect today when Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill., an oratorical spellbinder of the old school, nominated Goldwater.

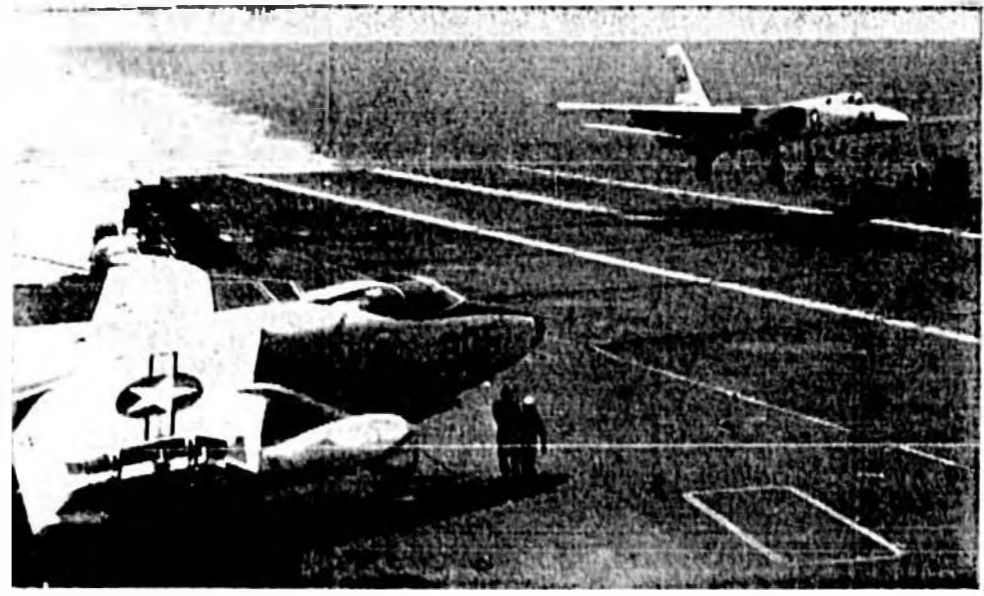

House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck, Ind., former Sen. William F. Knowland, Calif., and former Rep. Clare Boothe Luce were scheduled to make seconding speeches.

As for the balloting, Goldwater aides said their strength was still mounting as the roll call of states approached. They said it had continued to increase since Goldwater assessed his total Monday at a little more than 800 votes. He needs only 655 for nomination.

States Righters Name Ticket

POLSON, Mont. (UPI) — The National States Rights party has named John Kasper, a Nashville, Tenn., automobile dealer, and Jesse B. Stoener, a Mableton, Ga., attorney, as its presidential ticket.

The six delegates attending the party convention here earlier this week picked Kasper as presidential nominee and Stoener for vice president.

THE REAL THING! The high noise level associated with carrier landing practice at the Sanford Naval Air Station will be shifted to the decks of the carrier USS Independence next week where this scene will be repeated over and over again by Sanford-based carrier pilots.

GOPs Demand Equal Noise For Democrats

By Lt. Sam Dow—Wing Pilot Sanford and San Bruno, Calif., separated by three mountain ranges and 2,200 miles, experienced a common plight last night.

Walter Cronkite kept jiggling; so did Huntley-Brinkley and Howard K. Smith. Sometimes you couldn't hear them.

Television reception was poor for some citizens of both cities for the same reason: The jets were flying.

In both cases, the interference and noise was unavoidable, and in Sanford's case, instrumental to the defense posture of the nation. In fact, it probably falls under the Republican platform's "strong cold war stance."

Navy pilots guided their twin-jet A-6 Vigilantes through the paces of simulated carrier landing practice in feverish preparation for next week's carrier qualifications aboard the carrier USS Independence.

The night landing practice, so frustrating to TV viewers but so important to a Navy pilot's training, will continue through Thursday night, officials at NAS Sanford's Heavy Attack Wing announced today. The flights will start in the late afternoon and last until midnight.

When the scene shifts to the 1,100-foot USS Independence next week, Sanford will be left in relative silence. Meanwhile, the same pilots will be faced with the most demanding — and potentially dangerous — task of their flying careers: Placing their 70-foot aircraft on a slab of steel which looks like a postage stamp from the air.

They won't have the lights of the city as friendly sentinels for their night landings. The landscape will change to the ominous Atlantic whirled by wind to frothy whitecaps. Three tiny rows of lights will make their "runway." A small, but all-important, spot of reflected light called "the meathall" plus the voice of an unseen observer will be their sole guidance to the runway.

Meanwhile, the Atlantic will pitch their runway about much like the jumping picture of Mr. Cronkite on last night's TV.

It's all in a night's work for a Navy pilot — if he's had the proper preparation.

In San Bruno, with the Republican headquarters just a few miles away, the TV trouble must have seemed particularly exasperating. There many citizens live beneath the flight pattern of Sanford International Airport, where giant four-engine jetliners climb out over chock-a-block subdivisions at the rate of one-a-minute. Every minute thousands of citizens simultaneously shake their fists skyward.

Perhaps the citizens of both cities occasionally stop to think that at least one person in the world is luckier than they: The pilot of the plane which just flew overhead, whose duties in the darkness of night prevent him from watching the Convention at all.

Milwee To Speak

Mikoyan Takes Over Soviet Presidency

MOSCOW (UPI) — First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan was named today to succeed Leonid Brezhnev as president of the Soviet Union.

Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev himself proposed Mikoyan's appointment at a joint session of the Supreme Soviet and the Russian parliament promptly approved the move unanimously.

Khrushchev, said Brezhnev, 57, resigned his largely ceremonial post to devote his full time to his other post as a Communist party Central Committee secretary—and to being Khrushchev's chief party aide.

Mikoyan, until now a first deputy premier under Khrushchev, accepted the presidency. "I will do everything within my strength to justify the high confidence shown me by the party and the government," Mikoyan said.

Mikoyan, 68, is the man who landed on-the-spot such tough Kremlin chores as soothing Cuban Premier Fidel Castro after Khrushchev pulled out Soviet rockets during the 1962 Cuban crisis. He also has acted as the Kremlin's troubleshooter and "traveling salesman" around the globe.

Khrushchev took only 20 minutes to replace the Soviet president and have the Supreme Soviet's 1,413 members unanimously endorse his massive welfare program.

The welfare program will provide wage boosts to 18 million Russians and pensions for collective farmers.

"The people of the Soviet Union today live better than yesterday," Khrushchev told the Supreme Soviet in summing up the three day parliamentary debate on his welfare proposals. "And they will live better still in the future."

There was no opposition to Khrushchev's proposal.

With a complete stock of 20 dozen sheets, 3 dozen dresses and 3 dozen bedspreads and operating from his garage at home Mr. B. E. Purcell began what is now one of Central Florida's most complete department stores. That first week he sold out all of his stock and sent in another larger order, financing the expanding growth only as he could personally. To this day he uses the same method. Since 1924, his house to house business has grown to include clothing for the entire family, furniture and appliances plus the most complete Western and English

Riding Equipment Department in Central Florida. The latter items were an outgrowth of Mr. Purcell's hobby, that of breeding, raising and training Arabian horses. His pride and joy is "Seoula", a stallion raised from an Arabian pair he purchased at the Kellogg Farms in California. Mrs. Purcell, who boasts the longest continuous service record, still speaks of the Sanford store as her "pet". She began her employment in Orlando, but was transferred here in 1940. She is presently buyer for ladies ready - to - wear for both stores and buyer of complete stock for Sanford store. Opened in the early 1930's the Sanford store is now managed by Mrs. C. B. Rudd, sister of Mrs. Purcell. This store handles only clothing, but will gladly service any item ordered from the Orlando store. Shortly after beginning his enterprise, Mr. Purcell furthered another favorite hobby of singing, when he organized the Purcell Quartet. This group is composed of the store owner and members of his personnel and is now heard each Sunday morning from 7:30 to 8:00 over station WKIS

Republicans Give Goldwater Platform Tailored To His Views

Conservatives In The Saddle At Cow Palace

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Conservative Barry M. Goldwater today prevailed over forces which have guided the Republican party since 1940 and locked up a first-ballot nomination for president.

Delegates to the party's 28th national convention gave the Arizona senator a platform which reflects his wishes on every major issue — from civil rights and extremism to control of nuclear weapons.

Thus equipped Goldwater will challenge President Johnson at the polls in November. As the senator himself put it in a statement issued during the tumultuous convention proceedings, "the Republican convention is reflecting the conservative majority of the Republican party." He might have added "at long last" as so such swing toward conservatism had gripped the party since before the nomination of Wendell Willkie 24 years ago.

If there ever was any real doubt as to the choice of this convention it evaporated early today in a display of naked Goldwater power.

With machine-like efficiency and almost impressively, the senator's forces brushed aside a series of platform amendments sought by backers of Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton.

The key test came on a proposal to strengthen the civil rights plank of the platform. It was defeated by a roll call vote of 897 to 409 and with it went any lingering Scranton hopes of victory.

The delegates were scheduled to reconvene at 2:30 p.m., PDT (5:30 p.m., EDT) to listen to speeches putting candidates in nomination and then to watch or join in the roof-shaking demonstrations which will mark Goldwater's nomination.

Other candidates whose names were expected to go before the convention were Scranton, Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, Gov. George Romney of Michigan, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York and Sen. Hiram Fong of Hawaii.

The only real remaining question of the convention was Goldwater's vice presidential running mate. Rep. William E. Miller of New York, the GOP national chairman, was the odds-on favorite.

But former President Dwight D. Eisenhower — and some others — were talking of a Goldwater-Scranton ticket despite the Pennsylvanian's repeated insistence that he was not interested.

Ironically, it was Scranton's own Pennsylvania delegation which sealed his defeat in the civil rights fight.

With the tally standing at 653 to 308 against the amendment, the Keystone State cast 62 votes in favor of the proposal and two against. But the two were enough to give the Goldwater forces 655 votes — the same magic majority needed for the presidential nomination.

Permit Referred Back To Board

A golf driving range, proposed for an area east of Altamonte Elementary School and north of SR 430 ran into possible difficulty Tuesday during the meeting of the Board of County Commissioners.

Proponents of the project were granted a special use permit by the Board of Adjustment, subject to the 30-day appeal period.

Neighbors in the area did not register any appeals to the decision but one adjoining property owner, visiting in California, learned upon returning to Florida that the property was being rezoned.

Although all legal requirements had been met for the special permit on the property to be utilized for the driving range, the Commission — upon verbal agreement from all parties concerned — voted to refer the matter back to the Board of Adjustment for further consideration.

The Commissioners asked the Adjustment group to recommend a decision to the Commission.

Club Plans Trip To Attend WW Council Meet

Plans to attend a Sept. 16 meeting of the Central Florida Welcome Wagon Council at Silver Springs were begun Monday by the South Seminole Welcome Wagon Club at a meeting of the executive board held at the home of Mrs. Maryann Miles in Forest City.

The Winter Haven Club will be in charge of the meeting with plans for the program to be announced at a later date. Local club members will make the trip by chartered bus with details of arrangement also to be announced.

In other business of the board meeting, which was conducted by Mrs. Sandy LaPoma, president, after a salad lunch, a $10 donation was made to the Cancer Fund in memory of Mrs. Belle Selfert of North Orlando who recently died following a long illness with the disease. A sale of paper napkins was planned with proceeds to benefit the club's charity fund.

General meeting of the South Seminole Club will be held Thursday, July 23, at Mid-Florida Country Club beginning at 11:30 a.m. Next board meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Nora Norria, 112 Pine Street, Sanlando Estates.

If farmers today used 1040 equipment and methods in agriculture, it would cost the housewife an extra $5 on her weekly grocery bill. Through progress from agricultural research though, we are saved an estimated $13 billion a year in farming production costs.

DESPITE HIS bitter attacks on Barry Goldwater in his campaign for the Republican nomination for the presidency, Gov. William W. Scranton is being talked in some Republican circles for the vice-presidential spot on the Goldwater ticket.

South A Vital Force In GOP Ranks

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)

The South's Republican leaders declared themselves a significant force today in the 1964 GOP convention but said the tide of Sen. Barry Goldwater victories represented a national display of conservative belief.

Wirt Yerger of Mississippi, chairman of the Southern Association of Republican State Chairmen, said the two-to-one majorities for Goldwater-backed proposals at the convention "represents the mood of the country."

"We're delighted with the way the convention is going," he said. "It's a great day for America, and the South too, to see this heavy majority of votes in our favor."

On five major votes last night in adopting the platform, southern delegates went down the line for the Goldwater proposals, casting 270 out of the total of 270 delegates votes from 11 Dixie states. Negro delegates issued a "statement of principles" during the platform voting, calling the Republicans "ily-white" and declaring themselves for Gov. William W. Scranton.

John Greiner of Birmingham, Ala., southern regional director for the Goldwater movement, said "it should be clear now that the principles enumerated in the platform represent the views of the overwhelming majority members of the Republican party from all sections of the country."

National Committeeman Tom Stagg of Shreveport, La., said the heaviest votes for Goldwater came from the West and Midwest and "this is also a strong indicator of Goldwater's true strength."

Texas Sen. John Tower, a leading southern strategist, said "we are going to make every effort to unify the party after the convention." Of the Negro statement, he said: "We are not a lily-white party. We welcome people of all races and national background."

Theodore L. Johnson Is Dedicated Teacher

By Robert B. Thomas Jr.
Theodore Levette Johnson typifies the young dedicated teacher. He was born in Sanford, May 27, 1929 where he attended the public schools of Seminole County. In June of 1947, he was graduated from Crooms High School, and entered Florida A and M University in September. His education was interrupted by illness. For approximately five years he pondered over his future, wondering what his life would be like.

T. L. JOHNSON

Finally the day arrived when he again pursued his education. "My recovery was enhanced greatly by God, an understanding family, patience and understanding," he said.

Johnson entered Arizona State College in 1953, where he became a member of the Blue Key National Leadership Honorary Society, the Men's Senate, Kappa Phi Kappa Educational Fraternity and a committee of 12 to re-write the school's constitution.

August 18 he will embark on his ninth year on the Crooms High faculty. Being cognizant of the fact that many of us are mentally lazy, Johnson had this to say: "To attain excellence, an individual must combine the following ingredients, determination, study, and the will to achieve."

Most of his students will agree that he is a strict disciplinarian. "The educational process involves the whole child, therefore I teach English, moral and spiritual values, plus many other things which require attention as they occur incidentally in the classroom," he concluded.

His wife is the former Gwendolyn A. Ball of Winter Park. They have two children, Angella Yvette, and Jawando Lavett. Jawando was named after Dr. G. A. Jawando of the Gold Coast in Africa, who is a former classmate and friend of his daddy.

Bernadette and Yvette Dixon departed on Monday for Washington, D. C. where they will spend their vacation.

The Daytona Beach Council of Negro Women hosted the National Council of Negro Women at Bethune Cookman College July 10-12. Mrs. L. W. Bryant, Mrs. L. W. Blair, Mrs. E. O. Young and Mrs. J. B. Merritt, all members of this council, attended the Friday session.

Patricia Rae Merritt, senior at Talladega and a summer student at State University was among those who rendered musical selections at this meeting.

Debutante Cynthia Alma Clarke served as an usher. Other students attending were Faye Oliver, sophomore at Fisk, Gloria Dixon, senior at Tenn. A and I, and Helen Starke, a sophomore at Hampton.

Jack Lawrence of 909 Bay Avenue hooked on to an eight and one-half pound bass the other day. After struggling with the fish for a while, he finally won. Caught with a red worm, the bass is a product of one of Seminole County's many lakes.

Technical Sergeant Sylvester A. Fulton was in town last week to attend the funeral of his mother, Mrs. Felicia McCuller. Mrs. McCuller had been a resident of Tuskegee, Alabama for many years. Sgt. Fulton is a native of Sanford, and a former student of Crooms High School.

Many, many thanks to those 98 persons who donated blood during the month of June. However, it should have been more. I notice that some gentleman is pushing me quite close. That is great April. In August, this writer will have donated his 31st pint. There is no greater project an individual can initiate than becoming a regular blood donor. Go down and open an account at your earliest convenience. You will be doing a really great service.

Business Brief General Cinema Sales Hit Peak

BOSTON—General Cinema Corporation, major national movie theater chain and operators of the Seminole Cinema, Casseberry, and Parkwood Cinema of Orlando, reported to shareholders today that operating results for the six months' period ended April 30 reached an all-time high. Sales were $5,287,191 compared with $5,912,636, and net earnings equaled 15 cents a share compared with nine cents for the previous year. "This upward trend for the winter operating period," Richard A. Smith, president of General Cinema Corporation, said, "is due primarily to the increasing importance of our chain of shopping center theaters. As existing units mature and new units are added, we can expect further increases in earnings during the winter months, when we normally incur a loss from drive-in theater operations." Mr. Smith told shareholders that "barring a major decline in the national economy, we expect that the full fiscal year will show a marked improvement in profit over 1963's record 98 cents a share." During the first six months General Cinema Corporation opened nine new shopping center theaters in Austin and Dallas, Tex.; Fort Lauderdale and Orlando, Fla.; Charlotte, N. C.; Cleveland, Ohio; Sayreville, N. J.; Chicago, Ill., and Framingham, Mass. Of this group, two are twin-auditorium theaters and one is a twin addition to the pioneer shopping center unit at Framingham, Mass. Under construction are 10 additional units which, when completed, will bring the number of shopping center theaters to 30. The company has been notified that its stock will be admitted for trading on the American Stock Exchange on July 9, with the ticker symbol GCN.

The Smart Place To Go... For Good Things To Eat

Orioles Must Stop Yanks Tonight Or Lose AL Lead

Bowling

Strikes and Spares

By John A. Spolaki
Hey! Here's one for you!
The highest league score turned in during last week's play was a 233 single and it was shared by two people! Get this, man! One of the lucky ones happens to be a kagaretta. (That's a gal, mah friend!)

Our thanks to John Kneeland for upholding the honors for the men and our heartfelt congratulations (I had to say it, man. It's in my contract!) to Jane Spolaki for rolling such a nifty. It was bad stuff when my 18-year-old son, Kevin, started whipping me. But now, even my wife. What next?

The City League is where John Kneeland shot his high of 233 and finished with a 500 series for the night, also high for the league.

Jane's high game was in the Wednesday morning Jet Bowlerettes League with the other two being 185 and 174 for a 503 set. I think that's her high for league play.

This is the way the scores were recorded following play in the Bill Hemphill Motorist League. And say, before it slips my mind, word has it that Shirley Maxwell and husband Neal will be back in our midst somewhere around the third or fourth week of July. Isn't that great news? Shirley did a remarkable job as secretary of this same league.

But getting back to those scores again, the top three were June Gassman's 185, Mardell Gosterman 183 and Del Yastay 187. June also clipped series with a 425.

The Friday morning McRoberts Tires/Navy Wives League had some good scores, too.

Rose Patrick could have used just one more pin and then she would have made the "charmed circle" of 200. But as luck would have it, Rose finished at 199. Shirley Martin's 507 was the high three game series total.

On Monday nights in the Singles Classic League, Bobby Borsdorf continues to roll that Big Bomb.

Bobby shot a 218, and wouldn't you know it, but that after giving Bob the Big Blast, I've rechecked some of the other scores and see the other stars were exploding 'em down the lanes, too.

As an example, Phil Roche finished with an 844 four game series—246, 226, 201 and 171. He clipped a couple of the Jp's in the process.

It's so nice to see a comparative newcomer's name pop into the headlines. In the Tuesday Night Businessmen's League, Doug Owens rolled the high single and series, 225/554.

Another item that shows how rapidly the time slips by is the mention of Fall Leagues. Seriously, in another five weeks we'll start familiarization days. Five weeks sounds like a long time away, but believe me, by the time you figure to come out and loosen up for the fall leagues, it'll actually be time to start the circuits. (You know how we always seem to put things off, don't you? Especially during the summer months.)

If you're considering joining a Fall League, by all means get your name on one of the cards here at the lanes. And then one of the many league secretaries will be sure to call you and have you assigned to a team.

Giants, Phils Both Lose In National Loop

By Milton Richman
UPI Sports Writer

Unemotional Mickey Mantle swallowed his bubble gum, which gives you a rough idea how sticky the situation has become for the American League lead.

The race is so tight that the New York Yankees can change it altogether by barging into first place today.

They moved within a half game of the lead with a 4-3 victory over the first place Baltimore Orioles Tuesday night and another win over the Orioles today would put the Yanks on top for the first time since June 22.

Mantle suffered his "accident" while scoring the winning run in the eighth inning Tuesday night. With the score tied 3-3, he singled to right field with one out, moved up on Roger Maris' infield out and came home on Tom Tresh's throw.

A moment before Mantle actually stepped on the plate, he was struck on the left side of his head by right fielder Gino Cimoli's throw.

He promptly put his hand to his mouth, alarming his teammates who thought his teeth might have been knocked out. "Nah," he quickly pacified them. "I only swallowed my gum."

The third place Chicago White Sox climbed within 1 1/2 games of first place with a 4-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox, Washington defeated Minnesota 4-3, Cleveland outlasted Kansas City 9-7, and the Detroit Tigers licked the Los Angeles Angels 5-3.

Over in the National League, Milwaukee downed San Francisco 8-7 but the Giants retained their one-game lead when Pittsburgh edged second place Philadelphia 8-7. St. Louis also beat Los Angeles 8-7. Cincinnati took a doubleheader from Houston 6-5 in 11 innings and 10-3, and the Chicago Cubs defeated the New York Mets 4-2.

ations, this fall should see a definite increase in league activity. What with the additional squadrons coming to the base, we ought to be getting some pretty good bowlers from the West Coast.

Another linking of things to come, Edta Dorfman—secretary of the Wednesday afternoon III Nooners' League—informs me that they are sure of 12 teams for this league and it, too, might expand.

All of the fall leagues will start the first week in September and continue for a minimum 33 week schedule, usually through the month of April.

On Tuesday night in the Navy Intramural League (and this one is going up to 40 teams—39 on Monday and Tuesday nights at 8:15 p.m. for the fall) NAS Ops C team watched teammate Long roll high for the league, a 233. HAWKING One B member Harris rolled high series, 367.

That'll do it for this week. By all means, make certain that you check our tote board showing all of the scheduled fall leagues and the times they're scheduled to bowl. This way you won't be disappointed. Some changes have been made from that of last year's bowling.

THESE explorers have found a treasure trove—two hulks to be investigated.

2-Exploration

By Bill McCormick
Newspaper Enterprise Assoc.

Exploring is an often neglected extra added attraction that can lend much enjoyment to boating. You can find interesting places and things you never knew existed and some places you may have seen hundreds of times from land can take on entirely new, and more intriguing, aspects from the water.

In even the most carefully charted waters you often can locate secluded coves and other anchorages that no body else—has discovered. Exploring such places can be delightful fun and entirely safe and sane if you follow certain basic rules.

If you want to get away from it all in tidal waters it is best to navigate at low tide. If the water is clear you can see dangerous bottom when the tide is out—and if you do run aground all you have to do is sit still and wait for high tide to set you float.

Most large bodies of water have tributaries and offshoots that are seldom, if ever, sailed and offer fine prospects for exploring. Islands are fertile fields for snooping about and there are thousands of them—from the Bahamas to the St. Lawrence River—that have never been explored.

Abandoned waterfront structures and hulks may offer interesting surprises and there is nothing that quite equals the thrill of becoming acquainted with a quaint off-the-beaten-track village you have discovered by water.

Every boatman is a potential Balboa. All you have to do is get out of the main stream and into the out-of-the-way byways.

Longwood, Painters Win In Men's League

In the City Recreation Department sponsored Men's Slo-Pitch Softball League Tuesday night the Longwood Painters and the Longwood nine posted victories.

McRaney defeated Robb's Construction by a score of 14 to 8 with Ray Johnson, Jake Black, Larry Watson, Alex Szabo and Frank Williams each banging out a pair of hits apiece.

Williams received credit for his 17th mound victory of the season. Williams, Szabo and Watson also hit for the circuit.

Charlie Ross and Jim Jernigan each collected three hits for Robb's. McRaney finished in third place behind runner-up Longwood in the final standings during the first half and they hope to turn the tables on Longwood in the second half. Right now they are in second place by one game with two contests remaining.

Longwood put together 19 hits and beat Wilson Mair 17 to 4. Roy Lisk, one of the strongest hitters in these parts unleashed four safeties and Sammy Samuels also chipped in with four singles. Lisk had the game's only homer and also added a double to his collection for the night. Mike Farley had three hits for the winners.

Otto Thomas got credit for his 15th victory in 15 mound decisions.

Hornung Back To Green Bay

WEST DE PERE, Wis. (UPI) — Paul Hornung, the golden boy of professional football who was reduced to the role of a spectator last season for betting on games, was expected to make his official return as a player today as the Green Bay Packers opened summer training.

Hornung, who holds the National Football League single season scoring record, was reinstated earlier this year along with Detroit tackle Alex Karraa after a year's suspension for wagering on games.

The absence of Hornung, considered by many as the most versatile back in the league, has been blamed in part for the dethroning of the Packers as champions last season by the Chicago Bears.

The blond Hornung, who ran and kicked his way to a record 16 points in 1960 season, has been in Green Bay since April trying to work back into the form which made him one of the greatest scoring threats in the game.

Physical examinations and a meeting with coaches will occupy most of the time today for at least six veterans and 24 rookies expected to report to camp.

Along with Hornung, full-back Jim Taylor and halfback Tom Moore were expected to attend. Taylor, who was both injured with hepatitis and various injuries last season, and Moore, who took Hornung's place, arrived in Green Bay last week.

NL Prexy Tells Perry To Buy Fox New Bat

CINCINNATI (UPI) — National League President Warren Giles has ordered San Francisco Giants pitcher Gaylord Perry or the club itself to replace a bat for Nellie Fox of the Houston Colts.

Perry broke Fox's bat Sunday after Fox got the hit that gave the Colts a 5-4 win over the Giants.

At the end of the game, as the winning run was scored, Fox's bat was lying near the plate. Perry picked it up and broke it against the dugout.

The Colts filed a protest, resulting in Giles' ruling Tuesday.

Post 19 Meets Orlando's 242 In Tilt Today

Post 53's American Legion Junior baseball nine returns to action at 4:30 this afternoon when Manager Frank Thomas takes his club to Orlando for a tilt with Post 242 at Colonial Field.

Donnie Smith, lanky Lyman High grad, will get the mound assignment tonight as the locals seek to come up with a win and remain ahead of Sixth District loop leaders, Orlando's Post 19.

If the locals can rack up a victory in today's contest the championship will be at stake Friday night here in Sanford when the Thomas coached nine meets Post 19.

Monday night Post 19 edged out a win over Casselberry and last night they blasted the South Seminoles nine again 17 to 0.

Southern Golf Amateur Play Now Under Way

SHREVEPORT, La. (UPI) — The first medal play in the Southern Golf Association amateur championship tournament in history gets under way today.

Previous tournaments have been played under match play rules.

Defending champion Mike Malarkey, an 18-year-old Memphis State University sophomore, faced about 200 challengers.

Low Gehrig of Chattanooga, Tenn., last year's medalist, was expected to be Malarkey's biggest competitor.

David Boyd of Atlanta, last year's runner-up, also was rated among the leaders.

State champions Clayton Cole of Monroe, La., and Marty Fleckman of Texas will be in the field.

M. C. Fitz of Tuscaloosa is the big Alabama hope. Fourteen states will be represented.

Turner Signs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bake Turner, third in the American Football League in passing yards and the New York Jets' most valuable player last year as a rookie, has returned his signed contract for the 1964 season.

Hogan May Be Man To Beat For PGA Crown

By Jim Alexander
United Press International

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Bill Collins, Columbus, Ohio, a possible dark horse contender in the 48th PGA championship at Columbus Country Club today predicted that one of golf's all-time greats might make a comeback and win the tournament.

"After watching several of the favorites play, I will say if his putting game holds up, Ben Hogan is the man to beat."

Collins, who fired practice rounds of 67 and 70, said the course required extreme accuracy and a straight drive to stay out of trouble.

"Hogan has the type of game for this course and he has looked real good out there to me," Collins said.

Hogan is making a comeback bid at the age of 51 after by-passing the PGA for the past 11 years.

"I'm playing now largely on instinct," Hogan said. "I have trouble getting the feel of the course and sometimes lose the real inspiration required to compete."

Many fans found that hard to believe as they watched the two-time PGA champion drive balls of the practice tee.

Charles Lorms, pro-amateur at the 6,861 yard CCG course, predicted a score of 272 to 278 would win the Rodman Wanamaker Trophy, emblematic of PGA golf supremacy.

Lead Hiked

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bob Farrington strengthened his lead toward the national driving championship with a record of 147 wins in 667 starts, and Stanley Dancer retained his hold as the top money winner with $449,201 earned so far this season, the Harness Racing Institute announced Tuesday.

Mrs. Ira Southward Hostess To Tea Honoring Miss Niki Ashby

PRE-MOISTENED COTTON PADS take the spill problems out of nail polish remover. Wrapped individually in aluminum foil, each pink pad removes polish from all 10 fingernails before a new one is needed. They contain lanolin to prevent drying out of fingernails and cuticles.

A profusion of sweetheart roses, shasta daisies and delphinium, tastefully arranged, adorned the reception rooms which were opened en suite of the lovely Southward home on Hibiscus Court for an elaborate bridal reception tea last Saturday afternoon complimenting Miss Niki Ashby, popular bride-elect of Alex McKibbin.

Mrs. Ira Southward was assisted by Mrs. Ernest Southward and Miss Rosemary Southward, who served as co-hostesses.

Greeting the guests at the door were Mrs. George D. Bishop Jr., Mrs. Donald Jones and Mrs. Thomas F. McDaniel. A planter at one side of the door contained magnolia blossoms and centering the foyer table was a cupid statuette holding a magnificent arrangement of American Beauty roses combined with pink carnations and white glads. A huge white wedding bell was suspended from the ceiling with white streamers at the entrance. Centering a round marble top coffee table was a contemporary arrangement of pink carnations, white delphinium and white shasta daisies with the centers tinted a delicate aqua. A side buffet in the serving area was centered with an arrangement of white delphinium and white shasta daisies with pink centers flanked on either side by antique silver candelabra holding pink tapers, interspersed with nosegays of lily of the valley, edged in frilly net with narrow white satin.

The serving table was covered with exquisite white imported all over handmade lace over a pastel pink satin liner. An antique silver epergne held a picturesque bridal bouquet of pink and white sweetheart roses and baby's breath with tall pink tapers from which pink satin streamers cascaded gracefully. The sparkling citrus punch in a crystal bowl floated a spectacular heart-shaped ice mold, centered with an orchid, surrounded by sweetheart roses and lily of the valley. Silver and crystal trays and compotes offered attractive and appetizing assortments of toasted nuts, dainty tea sandwiches and miniature candles of bridal motif.

Niki was radiant, receiving the guests in a stunning melon print two piece ensemble and wearing the white sweetheart rose corsage presented her by the hostesses. Mrs. Ira Southward received in an exquisite pink jeweled sheath with Mrs. Ernest Southward attired in a tangerine print and Rosemary was lovely in an original aqua crepe shift.

Mrs. Bishop Ashby, mother of the bride-elect, received in a chic blue lace sheath, belted in blue velvet, complemented by a white sweetheart rose corsage, presented her by the hostesses.

The bride-elect received gifts of her chosen silver from the hostesses.

Mrs. Frank Donahoe, Mrs. W. M. Phillips, Mrs. Henry Wight, Miss Donna Ruth Ashby, Miss Candy Southward, Miss Judy Ludwig, Miss Barbara Bradley and Miss Marilyn McDaniel assisted in serving.

Mrs. Roy Pippin furnished soft background music during the elaborate bridal reception.

MRS. IRA SOUTHWARD, left, was hostess at her gracious Hibiscus Court home recently to an elaborate bridal tea honoring Miss Niki Ashby, lovely bride-elect of Alex McKibbin. With Mrs.

Southward from the left are Mrs. Bishop Ashby, mother of the honoree; Miss Ashby, bride-elect; Miss Rosemary Southward and her mother, Mrs. Ernest Southward, co-hostesses.

Betrothed Prefer Flashy Pearls To Tiny Diamond

NEW YORK (UPI) — A number of contemporary brides-to-be want cultured pearls rather than diamonds in their engagement rings.

This facet of the ring business came to light in a study made for the diamond industry. Another highlight of the survey: the trend to pearls is being set by young engaged girls, and women betrothed to men who have been married before.

There are some very logical reasons for the trend, reports the Cultured Pearl Association of Japan.

Young girls who get engaged, and more of them do every year, don't deny they'd like to have a big bright diamond on that third finger left hand. But with prices of diamonds up, they know their young men cannot afford an impressive looking real stone.

So they ask for large cultured pearls which make a better showing than a tiny diamond, about the only size many young Romeos can afford.

The Best Dressed Texas Co-ed Gives Fashion Pointers

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The girl voted best-dressed co-ed at the University of Texas has this advice for other college girls:

"Don't dress like you think 'the typical coed' ought to dress," said Tracy Lewis, a junior from Amarillo, Tex. She suggested choosing clothes that play up an individual look, instead of buying one wrap-around skirt after another.

Tracy said she has "not very many clothes; I just get what I need, and I don't need much."

Competing against 20 other Texas students in the finals, Tracy won the title by wearing a red knit suit with bow-tie for school; a deep turquoise wool princess dress for church or a movie; and a black crepe cocktail suit with sleeveless empire overblouse for other occasions.

Cosmetics Please "Other Women"

DALLAS (UPI)—A skin specialist told several thousand physicians recently that women use cosmetics mainly because they want to look good in the eyes of other women, not men.

Dr. John N. Hasek, of Cleveland, Ohio, also said that women who use greasy cosmetics on their faces are inviting acne.

"Some women think they shouldn't wash their faces and that they must use greasy preparations for good skin health," Dr. Hasek said.

"The fact is, there are more oil glands per square inch on their faces than there are on men's faces."

He added:
"If women know what men think about the greasy faces they have to get close to they wouldn't wear greasy makeup at all," he added.

Pioneer Designer Mourns Demise Of 'High Fashion'

PARIS (UPI) — Madeleine Vionnet, credited with being the first designer to put woman in modern dress, doesn't think much of the current crop of Paris designers.

"High fashion today is dead," said the 88-year-old designer who as early as 1908 was revolutionizing feminine fashion.

Mme. Vionnet, who closed her salon in 1940, still lives in Paris. She can look to the past with pride as the couturier who invented the bias cut that freed women from corsets and launched the modern era of clothes.

But the designer reflected in an interview that "high fashion is a joke!" The white-haired designer said, "There are no more real designers. Balenciaga, Givenchy, they make beautiful dresses for personal clients but mainly they make modes for buyers."

"It costs so much now to make high fashion. You need rich clientele. But there is not much money around now to buy such dresses. The French clientele is not enough; the houses must make models for American buyers."

"I did not make collections for the Americans, who take back one idea but don't buy more. I made a dress when I felt like it. Now designers have to show collections, 150 models each time, twice a year."

Still handsome and alert, Mme. Vionnet is recognized by the Paris fashion world as the lady who really started it all, even before the great Gabrielle Chanel burst onto the scene. As the late Christian Dior said, "No one ever has carried the art of dressmaking farther than Vionnet."

Madeleine Vionnet was an apprentice in a Paris salon at the age of 11 and later designed in the house of Kute Helly on Dover Street in London for five years. She returned to Paris to work in the Callot salon. Then she moved to the house of Doucet and began to make "what I wanted to make."

In those days women wore boned corsets, skirts to the floor, cinched in waists and long hair.

Vionnet started a revolution by cutting dresses on the bias. They fell from the shoulders in an almost Grecian style. The free, easy line fitted in with the mood of women campaigning for equal political and moral rights with men.

"People were astonished but young women loved the dresses," she recalled.

Vionnet opened her own salon in 1912, first on the rue de Rivoli. She closed during World War I but later reopened and by 1923 she had a big salon on the avenue Montaigne with 1,200 employees—and the world's rich women as her clientele. Later Jacques Griffe, now a big Paris couturier, was her tailor.

Many of her dresses look like the grandmother of today's sack dress. She invented the halter neckline and the cowl neckline and claims to have been the first to lower the waistline in the 1920's.

Her creations were timeless and many can be worn today. Recently a New York society matron donned a black suit and told admiring friends that Vionnet made it 30 years ago.

In her Paris town house in a fashionable district, Mme. Vionnet, wearing one of her own floor-length white wool sheaths, led this visitor up three flights to her private sitting room filled with mementoes.

Like the rest of her mansion it is decorated in the style of the 1920's—silvered fireplace edged with mirrors, red lacquered Chinese furniture, a fur rug thrown over a sofa.

In drawers and on shelves are photographs of her late husband, a White Russian army general, and various celebrities wearing Vionnet designs.

"I did not follow 'a mode,'" said Mme. Vionnet. "I created harmony. Look! You could wear these dresses today."

Horoscope Forecast

THURSDAY, JULY 18, 1964
GENERAL TENDENCIES:
 The daytime is one of those times to guard your health as well as to do nothing that can upset or disturb anyone who has any power whatever over your affairs. Make a point now to show that you value the loyalty of others and in the evening make long range plans for greater success.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)— Take the time necessary to placate one at home who may be in trouble. Then you can attend to outside affairs more speedily. Be careful of your health. Evening fine for expansion.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)— Co-workers may be argumentative, but if you keep silent, all is well. Try not to tackle so much work that you become ill, however. Relax in the company of good companions in p. m.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)— You could become extravagant where pleasure is concerned during day, if you permit. Have you done any studying lately? Sharpen your wits thereby. Be wise.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21)— You have to use diplomacy at home today or trouble could really ensue. Be gentle, considerate. Show special care in business affairs, also. Step out for needed fun tonight.

LEO (July 22 to August 21)— Some novel method will get you the information you need in a. m. and yet will not alarm your associates. Get results with ease. Evening ideal for personal happiness in the activities you most enjoy.

VIRGO (August 22 to September 21)— Operating in a more modern way is right, but you had better study methods now and get into action later. Clear the decks. Evening can be most rewarding, satisfying.

LIBRA (September 22 to October 21)— That disturbing situation with a higher-up should be faced squarely and honestly now. Be sure that you maintain good credit. Give time and thought to your health tonight.

SCORPIO (October 22 to November 21)— Be careful to use orthodox methods in your dealings with others now, otherwise you get poor results. Forget those impractical ideas. Tonight would be fine to work on that new hobby.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21)— Being devoted to loyal friends of long-time standing makes the future brighter for you. Study new information at finger-tips. Work can prove very salutary, too.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)— Steer clear of any argument that may ensue between an associate and a higherup. You may be the loser. Be quietly loyal to partner. Kindness makes evening very enjoyable.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 18)— You may get into trouble with a co-worker if you dash out on some wild goose chase. Be steady. Learn to economize, too. Evening can be most pleasant.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20)— Getting together with creative persons is fine, but don't spend too much money. This can be a happy, worthwhile day. Get into activities that are relaxing in p. m.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY, he or she must early be taught to make quick and firm decisions, since the tendency here is to overanalyze, to be too conscientious and to try to please everyone at the same time, which is a human impossibility. Then these fine qualities can be channeled in the right direction and much success follows.

"The Stars Impel, they do no compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Old Business Areas Lose To New Centers

All over the United States, downtown shopping areas are slowly withering and dying as mushrooming fringe area shopping centers spring up.

The shopping centers are slowly but surely siphoning off the life-blood of the downtown shopping areas, their customers.

The City of Sanford, the downtown business district has fallen prey to this blight, just as thousands of other cities have.

BUT . . .

The City of Sanford has one basic advantage over all other municipalities in the Central Florida area.

This advantage is the long curving frontage on Lake Monroe, and the Nile of Florida, the St. John's River.

In connection with the river is the newly-authorized cross state barge canal and the anticipated St. Johns-Indian River Canal.

BEARING THIS IN MIND . . .

It is the feeling of the group of bankers who are proposing the lakefront development plan that a pursuit of lake front development would best serve to develop the downtown commercial area.

"With the interests of our present population at heart and with the mission of attracting others to share the enjoyment of living in Sanford, it is practical to appraise the assets on which we best can capitalize," the proposal reads.

"This presentation submits for serious study a plan that will result in sweeping benefits to the City of Sanford and especially to the long-established economic hub of the municipality and the county," the proposal points out.

'Fishathon' Set By DeBary Club

By Mrs. Frank White
A "Fishathon" for youngsters participating in the DeBary summer recreation program will be sponsored by the DeBary Fishing Club this Thursday, 9-10:30 a.m., from the west shore of Lake Marie. Prizes will be awarded for the largest fish, the smallest fish and the most fish caught.

Plans for the event were completed at last week's meeting of the club held in the Firemen's Recreation Hall with Norman Roach presiding. In other business it was voted that the August meeting would be omitted and that the next regular meeting of the club will be held on Sept. 9.

Announcement was made that members catching more fish than they can use should contact Clyde Wright who will put them down in the deep freeze in preparation for the club's fall fish fry.

Following the meeting refreshments were served by Mrs. Archie Long and Mrs. Wright.

Equalization Session Set

The Board of County Commissioners Tuesday officially set Aug. 3 as the date for sitting as a Board of Equalization to hear any complaints from property owners on tax roll assessments for the 1964-65 tax year.

Tax Assessor Mary Earle Walker told the board recently that tax notices would be mailed during the week of July 20.

The Commission also established Aug. 11 as the date for a public hearing on the proposed county budget for 1964-65 which goes into effect Oct. 1.

Another public hearing on the exchange of property with M. R. Strickland, local oil company distributor, was put on the agenda also for Aug. 11.

Helping Hand To Arts

The alleged erosion of human values by the growth of science is such a belabored topic of editorial writers and social commentators that sometimes a scientist just has to object.

It's not technology vs. the arts or scientists vs. the humanists, says Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission. It's science AND the humanities.

He cites a number of instances to illustrate his point:

The long-lost Greek city of Sybaris (from which we get our adjective denoting luxurious living) was recently discovered by using a device that detects the infinitely small disturbances in the earth's magnetic field caused by buried walls or other structures.

Before this, historians could only speculate on the exact location of this once-important city.

Other examples of science's contribution to archaeology and history involve radioactive dating.

We now know that the famous monuments in Stonehenge in England were erected about 3,500 years ago. Geologists have found where the rocks for them were quarried.

We know when Hammurabi, king of Babylon, promulgated his famous laws (about 1750 B.C.) which influenced succeeding ages.

We know approximately when the first city, Jericho, was built—8000 to 6000 B.C., when northern Europe was still in the Ice Age.

As for man himself, a paleontologist found the bones of the oldest manlike creature, but two physicists revealed its age—1.7 million years. In other fields:

Neutron bombardment of paintings is revealing new information on the techniques used by the old masters and may also be used to detect forgeries.

Computer technology is being employed in Italy to prepare a concordance of the three million words in the great "Summa Theologica" of St. Thomas Aquinas.

The impact of science and technology on the arts through such taken-for-granted things as books, newspapers, films, radio and television and recordings is well-nigh immeasurable.

Science has fantastically increased the opportunities of the average person to cultivate the humanities and the arts. More than that.

"By multiplying the choices available to mankind," says Seaborg, "and by creating choices where none existed before, science has opened up new realms for the assumption of responsibility."

And it is the assumption of responsibility that marks not only the mature individual but the mature civilization.

Thought For Today

If any one says, I love God, and hates his brother, he is a liar; for he who does not love his brother whom he has seen, cannot love God whom he has not seen.—1 John 4:20.

We do not want the men of another color for our brothers-in-law, but we do want them for our brothers.—Booker T. Washington.

AIR LIFT

Sixty Minutes In Space

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Half a dozen senators, in 60 minutes, disposed of the debate on our authorization to spend $5.2 billion this year on space. Then, the bells sounded, the floor filled up, and the vote went 78-3 for the high figure. Hardly ever was so awesome a subject so summarily handled, by so few debaters in so brief a time.

Weariness from the Civil Rights hassle, boredom and ignorance in these matters of celestial nature, petty politics and personal spite far outdistanced erudition and responsibility in this discussion—as important a one as we shall have this year. To put the essence of it into a thimble, these senators set the contrasting arguments:

Symington: The nation that controls space, controls the world. Therefore, let us keep the program rolling toward a moon landing by 1970.

Fulbright: The most important "space" in the universe is the one between human ears. Ergo let us slow down the space race, using the money for education and peace on earth.

Both arguments are elevated and cogent, but it's doubtful if Symington won, and Fulbright lost on a matter of merit. Symington's thesis of world domination was bold and valid. The USA has no desire to straddle the earth, but if we don't, the Russians, the Chinese or the French will do so, and this must not happen. Unfortunately, however, the space program was launched by President Eisenhower as an exercise in peaceful pursuits. He was out to "catch up" with Russia, and Mr. Kennedy was out to "get ahead" of the Russians. The national prestige of scoring Space spectaculars, culminating with a manned landing on the moon, had become the central motivation.

But will it give us space supremacy? The direct military benefits in this bill amount to only $1.4 billion. The most warlike item in the whole program is the M10 (manned orbital laboratory) from which, conceivably, a nuclear weapon might be launched. It is a trifling investment if we honestly trying to become a military power in space. Any of the rival nations, by scheming in secret, could obtain a superior weapon in space while we are toying around with harmless gimmicks.

In short, Symington's dominant argument is sound, but the administration's domination policy is non-existent. Fulbright did not make this point — he's against military "domination," he said — but he did correctly finger the real reason why these huge space expenditures will always get congressional majorities. There are "goodies for everybody." Fulbright noted, the more than hinted that he might be supporting the big spending if more of it went to Arkansas.

Morse of Oregon represented the petty politics and personal spite which made up some of the opposition. He was in one of his customary rages. "My state is at the bottom of the totem pole," was his unabashed reason for voting to keep space funds away from other states. He was angered because on the previous day the Senate had denied him $5 million for an Indian reservation. His dogmatic yelping was several octaves below the general discussion which, in itself, was not what the important subject matter deserved.

It deserved a full dress debate on whether space programs should not be frankly militarized. We can afford to spend the extra $5 billion a year if it makes us stronger—but not if it merely buys spectaculars and spreads "goodies" among the states.

Phil Newsom Says . . .

Week Of Sweet Reason

UPI Foreign News Analyst Fidel Castro, like Nikita Khrushchev, his mentor in the Kremlin, blows hot and cold in his utterances about the United States.

This was his week for sweet reason.

Using a newspaper interview as his medium, he proposed that if the United States would cease its support of groups attempting to stir up revolt in Cuba, he in turn would call a halt to his own attempts to export revolution to Latin American states.

The chilly response of U.S. officials was that Castro might get further with his proposal if he first would present some evidence of good faith, such as breaking his ties with Moscow.

Castro's suggestion came against a background of two other events unrelated to each other.

One was the dramatic flight of his sister, Juanita, from Cuba and her subsequent assertion that "my brothers Fidel and Raul have made it an enormous prison surrounded by water."

"The people are nailed to a cross of torment imposed by international communism." Coming from a member of his own family, it was as bitter an indictment as could be delivered.

The other event was one still in the making. It is the meeting of the Organization of American States OAS in Washington on July 21 to take up charges of Cuban aggression against Venezuela.

The charge stems from the discovery last November of a three-ton cache of arms on a lonely Venezuelan beach which an OAS investigating committee found had been sent by Cuba to aid Communist subversives attempting to overthrow the Venezuelan government.

The committee findings left no doubt that Cuba would be found guilty of aggression.

But what has been the subject of negotiation for many months is the action which may be taken with the greatest degree of agreement among the member states. Castro may have had this in mind.

Brazil, formerly a holdout, now is agreed to hemispheric sanctions against the Castro regime.

Mexico is in doubt. So is Chile.

Neither Venezuela nor the United States wants a simple two-thirds majority in the OAS final decision since it only would serve to emphasize hemispheric differences. This is the plan which months of conferences have indicated has the best chance of unanimous endorsement among the 19 nations who will vote.

—Suspension of all economic relations with Cuba and all traffic to the island.

—A recommendation that all nations break diplomatic relations with Cuba optional.

—A statement of principle which would set the ground rules for determining possible future aggression.

There is no thought of military sanctions.

Dr. Crane's

Worry Clinic

CASE T-421: Harriet R., aged 29, has been married for 8 years.

"But, Dr. Crane," she moaned, "we have never been able to have any children."

"Yet my husband and I checked by several doctors. They say there is nothing organically wrong. But still I never become pregnant."

"My family doctor says he thinks I am just too tense and apprehensive, so he suggests that we adopt a baby and then maybe I'll relax enough to get pregnant."

This family physician's observation has been duplicated many times among doctors. For some childless wives develop such a mania to have a baby that they tense-up and seem constantly in an apprehensive, worried state.

The endocrine glands are very delicate chemical factories within our bodies, so the mind apparently can influence them.

You readers have seen many evidences of that fact in your own experience, for tense people tend to develop ulcers from the excessive acid generated in their stomachs.

Similar tenseness predisposes to angina pectoris, as well as spastic colitis and other chronic ailments.

And tension inhibits secretion of milk by nursing mothers.

If there is some organic reason to prevent a wife's conceiving a baby, then adoption is the next best course of action.

But many couples just accidentally miss the conception date in the wife's menstrual calendar.

It wasn't till the early 1930s that we doctors were even sure at what time a wife would conceive.

Now we realize that the most likely day for a wife to become pregnant is probably the 15th before the onset of her next monthly menstrual period.

"But, Dr. Crane," Harriet protested, "my cycles vary from 24 days to 33, so how can I know exactly when the next period will start?"

Well, she can't! But if Harriet keeps an exact record for a year or more, she will find the variation and then be able to make a shrewd estimate.

The Catholic "rhythm theory" is based on this same idea, for the "pregnancy week" is found by picking that 15 days before the next period begins and then setting off 3 extra days on each side of it. Thus, within that 7-day period the usual wife will be likely to conceive, if no organic obstacle prevents it.

And by "organic obstacle," we mean, closed fallopian tubes, or lack of vigorous sperm cells in her husband.

Harriet says she and her husband have been checked and found to be normal.

So there is one other remedy that is harmless yet often tips the scales in favor of pregnancy.

That is an alkaline douche, composed of one teaspoonful of baking soda in a quart of warm water.

For many wives seem to have excessive acidity of the vagina and acid checks the movement of sperm cells!

So send for my booklet "Facts About Pregnancy and Foster Children," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20c. Harriet was pregnant within three months by following these data.

Both arguments are elevated and cogent, but it's doubtful if Symington won, and Fulbright lost on a matter of merit. Symington's thesis of world domination was bold and valid. The USA has no desire to straddle the earth, but if we don't, the Russians, the Chinese or the French will do so, and this must not happen. Unfortunately, however, the space program was launched by President Eisenhower as an exercise in peaceful pursuits. He was out to "catch up" with Russia, and Mr. Kennedy was out to "get ahead" of the Russians. The national prestige of scoring Space spectaculars, culminating with a manned landing on the moon, had become the central motivation.

But will it give us space supremacy? The direct military benefits in this bill amount to only $1.4 billion. The most warlike item in the whole program is the M10 (manned orbital laboratory) from which, conceivably, a nuclear weapon might be launched. It is a trifling investment if we honestly trying to become a military power in space. Any of the rival nations, by scheming in secret, could obtain a superior weapon in space while we are toying around with harmless gimmicks.

In short, Symington's dominant argument is sound, but the administration's domination policy is non-existent. Fulbright did not make this point — he's against military "domination," he said — but he did correctly finger the real reason why these huge space expenditures will always get congressional majorities. There are "goodies for everybody." Fulbright noted, the more than hinted that he might be supporting the big spending if more of it went to Arkansas.

Morse of Oregon represented the petty politics and personal spite which made up some of the opposition. He was in one of his customary rages. "My state is at the bottom of the totem pole," was his unabashed reason for voting to keep space funds away from other states. He was angered because on the previous day the Senate had denied him $5 million for an Indian reservation. His dogmatic yelping was several octaves below the general discussion which, in itself, was not what the important subject matter deserved.

It deserved a full dress debate on whether space programs should not be frankly militarized. We can afford to spend the extra $5 billion a year if it makes us stronger—but not if it merely buys spectaculars and spreads "goodies" among the states.

—Suspension of all economic relations with Cuba and all traffic to the island.

—A recommendation that all nations break diplomatic relations with Cuba optional.

—A statement of principle which would set the ground rules for determining possible future aggression.

There is no thought of military sanctions.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband got a post card from the post office asking him if he wanted to KEEP his post office box. I never knew he HAD a post office box, so I asked him a few questions, such as, why he needed a post office box. His answers didn't make much sense so I knew he was hiding something. I finally got it out of him that he had met a young woman while he was away on a business trip last year. He said there was nothing serious between them, they just wanted to correspond with each other. He said she was a "nice" girl who was married, but not happily. He promised he would never write to her again. He has really tried awfully hard to make it up to me ever since, Abby. Divorce is not in my vocabulary, and I really love the guy. How much longer should I make him sleep on the couch?

DEAR DISILLUSIONED: Invite him in tonight. You have both suffered long enough.

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law has the habit of saying, "Our son's this and our son's that." The house is Robert's, the children are Robert's, and everything is Robert's. I heard her telling a neighbor about Robert's wedding, so I stepped in and said, "Excuse me, Mother dear, but MY father paid for it." Then she laughed and said, "Yes, but Robert has been paying ever since." I am so sick of hearing references to Robert alone, as though he had no wife, that I was just about ready to give him back to her. What can I do about a situation like this?

READY TO BURST
DEAR READY: Make up your mind that you will not permit anything she says to get you down, or the ulcer you develop will be your own.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 33-year-old man with a better-than-average education. All my friends are married and I have been looking for a wife. I have gone with any number of fine young women who have had all the qualities I desire in a wife, but the moment they show any interest in me I lose all interest in them. Is there something wrong with me? There is an old saying, "The fruit at the top of the tree—beyond one's reach—is always the sweetest." Why is this so, and what does one do about it?

DEAR JOHN: You'd be wise to cultivate a taste for the fruit within your reach. It's as sweet as the fruit at the top of the tree, but apparently you don't really want it—you just enjoy reaching.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ALAN: It isn't necessary to blow out the other fellow's candle in order to make your own shine brightly.

Problems? Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send one dollar to Abby, Box 67900, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069, for Abby's booklet, "HOW TO WRITE LETTERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS."

Bear Lake WSCS Plans Supper

The Bear Lake Methodist WSCS will meet at 6:30 p. m. Thursday at the church cottage on Bear Lake Road for a potluck supper.

Members whose last names begin with A-L in the alphabet should bring a meat or vegetable dish while those in the M-Z group have been asked to bring a salad or dessert. All attending should bring table service.

Special guests for this meeting, the first since organization of the group last month, will be Mrs. R. E. Lassiter of Orlando, district president and Mrs. Chris Jacobson, district treasurer.

For years I've been pointing out the need of a home office for every homemaker—but the home builders have ignored the need. Oh, occasionally one of today's kitchen has a small built-in desk where a housewife can put a telephone and tuck away a few important papers.

But that's really not good enough for today's housewife who probably pays the family's bills, keeps track of receipts, cancelled checks, insurance policies, health records for the whole family, social engagements, birth certificates, Social Security information, education records, guarantees on household equipment, lists of repairmen, address lists—and so on.

Any secretary who has to keep track of as much information as today's housewife would do a sorry job of it if she didn't have any better way of "keeping books" than most housewives have.

filling they are called on to do, most housewives don't do a very good job, either.

They misplace important papers, overlook deadlines, clutter their minds with facts and details that should be filed away, and spend a lot of time searching for this or that in boxes on closet shelves, in dresser drawers, in kitchen cupboards—and so on. If they would just insist on office space in new homes—they would get office space. And certainly a small, private office for the housewife is just as important as a workshop for the husband, or a playroom for the kids.

Jacoby On Bridge By Oswald Jacoby

The East-West cards aren't shown because it is up to you—as South—to plan your whole campaign at three no-trump before you play from dummy.

You count eight easy tricks and at least four more if you can finesse successfully for the king of diamonds. Therefore you have a fair play for a slam, but your contract is three-no-trump and you want to find the safest play for that contract.

What can you do if you lose the diamond finesse? You have to keep the opponents from cashing more than three club tricks.

best of five or six you are in danger. What can you do about this danger?

It turns out to be that you can't do anything if that seven spot lead was fourth best of a five-card suit headed by the ace, but you can protect yourself against a six-card suit headed by the ace by the simple expedient of playing low from both your hand and dummy. Assuming that another low club is played at trick two, you have to win the trick and take that diamond finesse.

In this case, if the finesse loses, East won't be able to return a club and you will make the rest of the tricks.

Pontiacs In Tie For Top Place

The Pontiacs won three points from the Invictas last week in the Bill Hemphill Motorettes League at Jet Lanes to gain a partial claim to the top rung on the league ladder.

Marilyn Warmick rolled a 157-871 and Met Holley shot a 380 series to pace the Pontiacs.

The Le Sabres took a three point win from the Bonneville as Betty Richey and Liz Graham paved the way with 260-422 and 150-422 respectively. For the Bonneville it was June Gassman taking high game honors for the day with a 195-475 and Mandell Gonterman chiming in with a 170-486.

In the final match the Tempesta grabbed a three point decision over the Ramblettes as Betty Hussard rolled 162-431 and Harriet Gazil bowled a 160 game. Carole Mace rolled 158-399 to lead the Ramblettes.

June Gassman really found the range as she strung four strikes in a row and also came through in the split department by picking up the 3-10. Mandell Gonterman converted the 5-7 and Betty Richey made the 5-10 split and Liz Graham the 4-5-7.

Board Votes Closing Of County Home

The Board of County Commissioners today officially closed the County Home and announced that Commissioners John Alexander and Lee Gary had been appointed to make a study and propose uses to which the home could be put.

It was understood that the two commissioners would decide if the space available could be utilized for expansion of offices for various county departments. They are also to decide what disposition is to be made of the furnishings at the home.

The board authorized transfer of all foodstuffs from the home to the county jail. In addition, it was decided that present employees would complete their services as of the end of the current week and that their services would be terminated at that time. Two weeks' severance pay was okayed by the Commission for these employees.

Patients which were being cared for at the home have now been transferred to private institutions. At the time the board decided to close the home it was reported that only six patients were being served in the facility.

Resignation Of Tamm Accepted

After listening to proposals for waterfront developments for two hours, Monday, discussions were called to a halt by Mayor A. L. Wilson and the commission got on to other items on the agenda.

The resignation of Finance Director Henry Tamm was accepted "with sincere regret," and commissioners unanimously voted him a resolution of appreciation.

Dr. Vincent Roberts was re-appointed to the Civil Service board;

A beer and wine license was approved for Kenneth and Ruby Quarris at 713 W. Ninth St.;

Commissioners heard first reading of an ordinance to rezone from R-2 to R-5 an area of Seminole Park and the Town of Sanford;

In other action commissioners deadlocked several times over voting on proposals and issues, with Mayor Wilson having to make the deciding vote.

They tabled authorization of payment of Reynolds, Smith and Hill for port study contract; granted low bid to Linder Industrial Machinery of Lakeland for a pneumatic roller; tabled a request for purchase of city property west of the storm sewer; turned down an offer of property across from the city shop; voted to sell three parcels of land on the Lake Mary Road, and approved consideration of consulting services for specialized work on the water improvement program.

Sketch Classes Set Thursdays

Sketch classes for adult and junior members of the Sanford Seminole Art Association will be held at the Cultural Art Center, (the former library), every Thursday, the Association announced today.

Several business houses in Sanford are displaying the work of local artists, including First Federal, Southern Bell, Benkarik's and the Florida State Bank and Rose and Will's Restaurant.

Artist exhibitors include Mrs. Mary Knox, Rosamond Chapman, E. B. Biows, Gretchen Lewis Crowell and Helen DeWit.

Danny Smith, 14 year old Junior member is painting a 16 foot mural on the lunch room wall in the South Seminole Junior High School.
