Mexico's Runaway Well Reduced To Oil Spurts

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Oil gushing from a runaway oil well that has spewed the world's largest spill has been reduced to sporadic "burps" and could be capped within 20 days, officials said.

Spokesmen for Mexico's state oil monopoly, Petroleos Mexicanos, said Friday that 108,000 steel and lead tennissized balls pumped into the Ixtoc I well's mouth to reduce pressure had reduced the flow to spurts.

But the spokesman said the relief could be only temporary and the runaway well in the Bay of Compence could at "any minute" begin again to gush out what has been its normal flow of 10,000 barrels a day. The well, which unleashed the largest oil spill in history, blew out June 3 and has poured out 2.4 million barrels of crudeinto the gulf, staining beaches as far north as Texas and sparking lawsuits amounting to more than $250 million.

Shroud Still A Mystery

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (UPI)-Scientists who tested the Shroud of Turin last year say they probably never will be able to establish positively that the 14-foot cloth was used to cover the body of Jesus after his crucifixion. However, they said they have been able to disprove many theories that the shroud is a hoar. "We've proven that all the ways we can think of to perpetrate a hoax aren't credible." Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory chemist Raymond Rogers said at a news conference Friday conducted by five of the 40 scientists who examined the shroud at Turin, Italy, for six days last

The scientists are preparing results of their studies for publication in scientific journals, probably early next year. They agreed there was no scientific way to say for sure whether it had been used to cover Jesus.

Cambodia Gets Relief Supplies

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — A chartered British Hercules C5A jet aircraft flew the first load of relief supplies into war-ravaged Cambodia today. "We don't know how it will go," a spokesman for UNICEF, the United Nations Children's Fund, said when . On its flight into the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh, the Hercules carried two light transport vehicles and a fork lift to move the food and medical supplies scheduled to be sent in the next week.

A 26-year-old man allegedly struck his grandmother with a wooden club and then locked himself in his trailer for 2½ hours before Casselberry police stormed the building and physically restrained him as he held a hatchet over his head. According to Casselberry police Patrick Andrew Sims, 26, 843 N. Winter Park, Casselberry struck his grandmother on her head at 840 N. Winter Park Drive and then fled to his home.

Sims was admitted to Florida Hospital -Altamonte after the Wednesday incident for observation and charged Friday with aggravated battery, aggravated assault and resisting arrest with violence. He was in Seminole County Jail in lieu of $8,400 bond scheduled for his first court appearance at 9 a.m. Saturday, His grandmother was treated and released. AGGRAVATED BATTERY

A 25-year-old man shoved a drinking glass into an Altamonte Springs man's face in the parking lot of a Casselberry bar early Saturday morning.

According to Casselberry police, Mansour Hajaliakbari, who refused to answer police questions, shoved the glass in the face of Clint Watts, 356 Spanish Drive in the parking lot of the ABC Lounge, U.S. Highway 17-92 and state Route 436, a couple minutes into Saturday morning.

Watts needed medical attention according to the police report, but it did not state how he was treated.

BARTOW, Fla. (UPI) - Charlie Smith, the colorful former slave whose life spanned 13 decades, is to be buried today in a small cemetery in this Central Florida community in the heart of the citrus belt where he once picked fruit.

A telegram from Gov. Bob Graham, who is in Europe, was to be read as part of the eulogy for Smith. "Charlie Smith's death is the end of an era," Graham's cable said. "With his death dies a storehouse of memories of a time that no one living remembers." Smith died Oct. 5 at the age of 137.

Orange Crop A Record

LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI) - Federal officials predict the 1979-80 Florida orange crop will be a record 200 million boxes, but citrus industry officials say no immediate price cut is in the offing for housewives purchasing frozen concentrated orange juice. The U.S. Department of Agriculture predicted Florida would produce 115 million boxes of early and mid-season oranges and 85 million boxes of late season Valencia juice oranges. That would be 22 percent more than last year's crop of 164 million boxes, which included 91 million boxes of early and mid-season fruit and 73 million boxes of Valencias and would be a record production for Florida.

Two Killed In Train Crash

HARVEY, Ill. (UPI) - An Amtrak "Superliner." loaded with college students heading for a weekend in Chicago, smashed into the front end of a parked freight train Friday night, killing two people and injuring 43

The dead were two crew members of the Illinois Central Gulf freight train that apparently had been switched to the wrong track. Most of the 43 injuries occurred among the 200 passengers of the five-car Amtrak train. Thirteen were admitted to area hospitals.

Early today, one man - believed to be the engineer of the Amtrak train - was in critical condition at Ingalls Memorial Hospital in Harvey.

Suit Filed To Stop Dam

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — The Cherokee Indians, angered by plans to flood the graves of their forefathers, moved Friday to stop the Tennessee Valley Authority's controversial Tellico Dam on grounds the project violates their basic religious freedom.

The tribe filed a federal court lawsuit against the dam, which they said will "completely destroy our sacred lands, including numerable graves and cemeteries."

District Judge Robert Taylor will meet with attorneys in the case at 9 a.m. Wednesday in Greenville, Tenn., to set a hearing date on the restraining order request. The suit was filed early Friday by a host of lawyers and representatives of the Eastern Cherokee of North

Early Southern Primary Set

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI) — South Carolina Republicans decide today whether to thrust themselves into the middle of the national political scene in 1980 by staging the South's first GOP presidential primary March 8. While the proposal has drawn fire from several prominent Republicans in the state, most concede the proposed primary will be approved at the 1979 state GOP convention at the Township Auditorium today.

"We're going to have a primary," said George Dean Johnson of Spartanburg, a former State Development Board chairman who is against the idea. "It's a foregone

Theater Spoof Is Stopped

ATLANTA (UPI) - A federal judge has told a theater it cannot produce a comic spoof of the famed Civil War novel "Gone With The Wind" because it violates copyright

U.S. District Judge Orinda D. Evans Friday temporarily enjoined the Showcase Cabaret from producing the play "pending a trial on the merits" of the case. Legal sources said they expected the issue, which pitted the small theater against lawyers representing the estate of "Gone With The Wind" author Margaret Mitchell, to go

United States Arms And China

The Carter administration is in its customary disarray over foreign policy, this time on the question of possible arms sales to the People's Republic of China.

It is apparent that Defense Secretary Harold Brown, the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and some of Mr. Carter's White House advisers - presumably including National Security Affairs Assistant Zbigniew Brezezinski — favor consultations with the Chinese on the mutual threat posed by the Soviet Union.

President Carter seems to agree. Otherwise, he would not have authorized Mr. Brown's planned trif to Peking later this year or early in 1980. In confirming news reports of the trip, White House aides specifically noted that Secretary Brown would meet with China's defense minister. Xu

White House confirmation of Secretary Brown's travel plans coincided neatly with what surely was the planned leak of a Defense Department study recommending that the United States bolster China's conventional military capabilities. The study did not formally propose weapons sales or technology transfer to China but both possibilities

That's us. October is the month when the world turns - and some earthlings may wish it would stop so they could debark. Smell the air. There's a nip in it. But don't expect the frost to be on the pumpkin in time for witches' night when costumed kids come calling, "Trick or Treat!" on Halloween. My worst competition in marriage always shows up in full force in October - television football.

Oh, I don't mean to cut baseball short. October means the World Series when baseball pools are cropping up all over the nation. "Wanna get in a pool? a voice asked. "Sure, count me in," I cried. "How much?"

"A dollar." he said. Once again, inflation raised its ugly head. We all know the gold is up and the dollar is down - which really doesn't make too much cents. "A dollar," I blurted. "My Lord, Man, here it is

And the gamblers paid up. Among the unpaid bills on my desk at home was for automobile insurance, due this month — on two vehicles. I thought about calling the company to reduce our coverage - but turned chicken. I thought, "Well, I had much rather pay the stiff premium than to reap any benefits connected with an auto accident. It is truly more blessed to give

Those Hateful Buses

VASHINGTON (NEA) — That clear majority of white Americans who oppose busing to integrate public schools - and the apparently growing number of blacks who'd rather not subject their children to the trauma of daily travel to a hostile atmosphere - now have a chance to do something substantive about it. The answer isn't found in putting new faces on the Supreme Court, or in the White House, but by making it possible for black Americans to live wherever their income and ambition will permit. A 1978 study conducted by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development discovered the obvious - that black Americans are still relegated to narrow, and segregated, housing choices.

In these ghettos, however gilded, sit the segregated schools that produce the school buses BUSINESS WORLD The HUD survey, of 3,000 brokers and rental agents in 40 metropolitan areas, found that a black person stands a 48 percent chance of discrimination when seeking to buy a home and an 85 percent chance when seeking to rent one.

On The Matter Of Cuba

RONALD REAGAN

In recent weeks, our attention has been fixed on the subject of Russian troops in Cuba. The discovery has been widely considered as just another indication of the Soviet desire to expand their presence in the Western Hemisphere. In exchange for Soviet military support and some $9 million a day in economic subsidies, Cuban dictator Fidel Castro serves as a cheerleader for Russian interests throughout the The most notable recent example of this came at the recent Third World "summit" conference in Havana. In contradiction to the supposed ideal of the organization to assume a position of onalignment between the superpowers, Castro made a mockery of the proceedings with his podium-pounding exhortations to the Third American journalism.

It was a simple question of space. How much space in the paper should be used for advertising and how much for news? While the issue seemed clear enough, out of the argument would emerge, as it always had, a better understanding of what a newspaper really is. "Don't forget," said the advertising manager, "that advertising pays the bills for this newpaper. Most of the income we earn comes from the sale of space for advertising." "And don't you forget," the news editor responded, "that this paper is what its name says it is - a NEWSpaper. Most people wouldn't buy this paper and end up reading the ads if it weren't for the news and other editorial and feature material in it." Who was right? They both were. And while this struggle for space in the newspaper would continue, people in the advertising and the news departments would come to realize a little more clearly every time that a newspaper is, as this year's Newspaper Week theme says, "Something for Everyone."

The advertising director was right when he said that a vertising brings in most of the newspaper's gross income. About two-thirds of the typical daily newspaper's earnings comes from advertising revenue.

And he would have been right to further explain that readers do buy the paper because of what is in it, and that includes the advertising content. National studies as well as surveys in many states consistently show that readers turn to their newspapers for shopping information. They read the "news" in the advertisements; news about sales, shopping specials and new products and services These studies also show that readers consult their newspaper efore doing the family shopping as well as before making major consumer decisions. Many readers consider their local newspaper to be the single best source of advertising information, and buy it with that in mind.

The argument wasn't new. The issue had been debated time and again before in most newspapers since the early days of explained that the newspaper is just that — a NEWSpaper. And that makes it unique when compared to other publications which contain mostly or only advertisements.

National and state studies also show that people buy newspapers primarily for the news and other editorial content it brings to them, including such things as feature stories, pictures, editorials, news analyses and syndicated columns. Whether it's the front page, the sports section, cartoons or it obituaries, readership of local newspapers is high.

In recent years, newspaper people have tried to listen more,

Armstrong Going With Payton, Earl Combination For Bears

CHICAGO (UPI) - Chicago Bears Coach Neill Armstrong said Friday he hopes to run the ball 40 times in 65 plays Sunday against the New England Patriots, with Walter Payton leading the charge. "That's the ideal," Armstrong said.

"We'd also like to throw to Walter some, too. Payton has an average of 190 yards per game in the four games Robin Earl has started as his fellow running back, Armstrong said. "And the Bears have won all four. Now that Earl is playing, his concentration and intensity have

Earl Weaver, the manager of the Baltimore Orioles, merely wrote the names of Kiko Garcia and Benny Ayala on a lineup

"It was one of the lineups that helped us get here," Weaver said Friday night after Garcia and Ayala, new faces in a juggled lineup, led the Baltimore Orioles to an 8-4 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates and a 2-1 advantage in the World Series. Right-hander Jim Bibby will try to even the Series for Pittsburgh today when he faces Baltimore starter Dennis Martinez.

Garcia, inserted in place of Mark Belanger at shortstop, was particularly effective, going 4-for-4 to tie a Series record for most hits in a game. He also reached base five straight times, tying another mark.

Ayala, playing left field in place of John Lowenstein, singled and hit a two-run homer in his first two appearances. Their contributions were particularly timely since the Orioles were floundering at the plate with just two runs in 16 innings after they scored five to open the Series. Friday night Baltimore bounced back with 13 hits, no errors and a hefty eight runs. Ayala, a castoff from the New York Met and St. Louis

Herald Staff Writer "I can do most anything I want."

"I am a worthwhile person." "I can cope." "Everything's better." "Yes, things are better."

These are some of the comments that came out of conversations with women who had at one time been very depressed. They had faced severe financial or marital problems and had very negative self-images. These women were a few of the 60 who met recently at Seminole Community College's Student Center for the nings graduates. After attending the 30-hour seminars, these women underwent remarkable changes in their outlook on life

Women who had devoted their lives to their families and were then divorced, widowed or suddenly found themselves breadwinners without the skills needed to find and hold a job.

The second year the class was expanded to help women going through any type of stressful situations, said Mrs. Landry. "They could be moving into the area and having trouble getting to know people," she said.
"Any type of family problem: — The children are almost raised and she wanted more than to just stay at acquaint them with one another and they shared their experiences. "The group support is what makes the thing work," said Mrs. Landry. "There's no two ways about it." Barbara Helms of Longwood was new to central Florida and was going through a personal and family crisis. She found herself thrown into the jobmarket. She saw an ad for the course in the paper; attended the seminar and was helped through her problems. "I don't think I could have done it without them," she said. "They gave me the support I needed. Ginger Witte had never had problems finding employment. She and her husband were well established in their previous former community. Friends were always offering her employment and her husband had many professional contacts.

After moving to Longwood, Mrs. Witte decided to go back to work but had no employment contacts. "I am, what you might say, goal oriented, a high achiever," she said, but after numerous attempts at finding suitable employment and being turned down numerous times, she began to have self-doubts.

Learning about the New Beginnings, New Directions project, Mrs. Witte gave Mrs. Simpson a call. "I told her I was at the end of my rope and I needed a knot." They reviewed the job market in Florida, worked on resumes and worked on reenforcing a positive self image, convincing Mrs. Witte she still had something important

Not only that but our small son always wanted to "help" which added to the problem.

One day in the midst of a small mishap of birdseed spilled all over my kitchen counters and floor, I had had it. So looked in my cupboard for something to put the birdseed in. My eyes fell upon a one-pound margarine tub.

Taking that and a scoop from the powdered drink cans, I poured the birdseed into the tub.

Now when the children feed the bird, all they have to do is

Female Softball Player Asks Court For Turn At Bat

Softball player Patty Negata may get one more turn at bat in her efforts to become a playing member of the MOB softball team, a men's team playing in the Seminole County Parks and Recreation Department Softball

Ms. Negata and her teammates, individuals from the Orange-Osceola State Attorney's Office have been insisting that Negata be allowed to play on their team for the past five weeks and filed an unsuccessful protest with the league Tuesday.

Negata's attorney Willie May is attempting to get a 10-day restraining order from Federal District Court either this afternoon or tomorrow in hopes of allowing Negata to play in the MOB's Tuesday night game.

A teammate of Negata's, Todd Persons of the State Attorney's office explained today that, "Mr. May will try to get an injunction before Tuesday night's game to allow Patty to play.

"A judge can issue a 10-day restraining order without a hearing," Persons said. "If we don't get the restraining order to let Patty play the next legal step would be to file a temporary injunction in the Federal District Court.'

Person's explained that, "Patty has been a member of our team for a couple of years before we entered this league. She was one of the main organizers behind the team and everyone feels she should be allowed to play." On Wednesday, County Parks and Recreation Director Butch Alexander presented the MOB's letter of protest to the Seminole County Attorney's Office.

After a Thrusday meeting between county attorney Nikki Clayton and Ms. Negata's lawyers Willie May and Fred O'Neal. Negata was still on the bench.

County attorney Ms. Clayton stated that the league, which offers men's, women's and coed divisions of play was operating within all legal guidelines and would continue to operate the way it is presently formed.

"Each year the league offers a coed division as well as men's and women's division," explained Clayton. "There never has been much interest in the coed division."

"Ms. Negata has refused the opportunity to select the type of league she wants to play in," Clayton said. -JOE DeSANTIS
