West Point, Stanford Both Strong In Their Sections Meet In East-West Game

Cadets Take Warning From Oregon-Aggies, N. Y. U. Result And Get Set For California Invasion

By Davis J. Walsh
International News Service
Sports Editor
NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Having been duly warned by the depressing circumstances surrounding the defeat of N. Y. U. by Oregon Aggies two days ago, this man's town was all a-twitter with mortal dread today as it sent the second prospective champion of the East into action against a non-championship team from the West Coast. The occasion was the great inter-sectional meeting of the year, involving the Army and Stanford, and a turn-away crowd of 40,000 was going out there imbued with the notion that it was about to witness the game of a life time.

The Army, beaten only by Notre Dame in a melodramatic finish, had its Eagles, its Murrells, its Spiveys and its Ferrys keyed up to the idea that only victory in this game would rehabilitate Eastern football, the best thing that could have happened to Army football since the defeat of N. Y. U. by this team that supposedly had come from Oregon just for the ride. If the Army blows this one now, it will do it with its eyes open and its mouth shut.

Stanford, potentially a great team but never actually so this year, was here to make the supreme bid, the effort of its young life to win a football game from one of the East's favorites with most of the East looking on. Eastern teams have been badly beaten by the coast but usually on the coast, thereby giving the lower lots of lingual exercise in a big, broad way about climatic changes and the overland trip.

This time, Stanford is taking the rap in question, just as did the Oregon Aggies earlier in the week and if the Cardinal shakes it off and comes out and wins, there will be nothing for it but to admit that possibly better football may have something to do with it.

Stanford and Glenn Warner! They always have been capable of a great single-game effort any time and it looks like the moment of football fortunes, has illustrated its largest impartially. Stanford knows that it has taken the worst of it in making the 1934-contingent jump. The Army knows that it is taking on one of the best teams of the year. It ought to be a game for your hangnails.

It can't miss, as a matter of fact, featuring as it does Warner's return to the land of his fathers, the first visit of a California team to New York and a chance to see Cagle, make his final bid for the All-American team. The speculators really think they have something this time and will you have a choice seat right behind the goal posts for important money because they know you.

As in all other Army games, the question today is how far Cagle will roam, if at all. Warner always was quite a fellow for figuring a means of stopping any single performer. This time, if he stops you, he will stop eleven. The Army goes no place with great skill any time Cagle is deterring. Only Notre Dame was able to embarrass him and the trick didn't make a thorough job of it, at that.

Rain, which fell throughout yesterday and on into the night, may not have its usual influence on the verdict. Stanford, understood in feature passing play with a sweeping running attack, is in Warner, in the confused "dry" of the gridiron, it figures it must have a fast field for the purposes of its attack and the Yankee management has done its part by loosening the playing enclosure.

That this didn't exactly terrify the Army, either, for Cagle would rather rally with asphalt than children's games. As a team, however, it was thought that its close attack might function in the same manner effectively than to give that Warner is supposed to be.

F. A. PALMER AND BEN LAKE TO GET THEATER TICKETS

Each Selects Eleven Winners And Three Others Do Likewise

Floyd A. Palmer and Ben E. Lake each with 11 correct selections, were the winners of this week's football guessing contest. Three others, Dr. H. W. Rucker, Sam Byrd and M. L. Tillis, also picked 11 each but Mr. Lake and Mr. Palmer will be given two tickets to the Milane because they were first to hand in their lists.

Tickets will not be given out until Monday, it was announced. Seventy-five persons took part in the contest, which was held in connection with games on Thanksgiving Day. The winners were determined on a basis of 13 games instead of 15 as were listed. The Detroit-Georgetown game was not played and the Southern California-Oregon game was thrown out because Oregon played the University of Lower California. Only one game resulted that being between Tennessee and Kentucky.

In making his selections on a possible 13-game list, Mr. Palmer erred only in picking New York University over Oregon Aggies and on the tie game between Tennessee and Kentucky. The game and New York U. were also Mr. Lake's mistakes, and the same was true of the selections of Dr. Rucker, Mr. Byrd and Mr. Tillis.

Only two persons selected Oregon Aggies to win and one thought Washington and Lee would turn the trick against Florida. Two thought the Stanford-Leeburg tilt would be deadlocked while a tie was predicted by another in the Clemson and Furman contest. One fan would have had 11 correct if he had not figured a tie game between Texas and Texas Aggies.

Following is the list of those who took part in the contest: W. J. Hopkins 6, Millard Rutherford 8, Richard Smith 9, Elmer Echols 6, Roy Echols 6, Ruth Walker 8, R. C. Phillips 10, T. W. Lawson Jr., S. T. W. Lawson Sr., Luther David 5, George Moye 4, E. W. Prevatt 6, Mrs. H. M. Watson 8, A. C. Mattox 8, Margaret Childs 7, C. B. Knapp 6, Billy Zachry 8, Homer Little 9.

Scores Of Experts Agree On Best Football Eleven To Represent Middle-West

Hovde, Sloan, Brazil And Holmer Constitute Backfield Which Makes Mythical Team Chosen By Hundred

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—Dec. may be the last of a lot of riddled football experts who have been calling "em wrong or nearly so all season but while we have a peep into the annual all-western football team in accordance with an old English custom.

Let us state at the beginning that this team was not picked out of a derby hat. Nor was it selected because some of the seniors represented had risked their necks for old alma mater for the last time. It is an eleven of rather two eleven hand picked with the assistance of coaches, official scouts and writers throughout the Middle West.

Time was when the appearance of a middle western lad on an American team was cause for a huge bonfire at the public square or a testimonial banquet in which all the Kiwanians and Rotarians took part in honoring the local boy who had made good, but not any longer. Every boy who has a good press-agent and happens to play full measure of football has a chance to make the All-American free-for-all.

Same goes for the all-western. Not so long ago the boys stood pretty close to the Big Ten in nominating their choices. Today we find huskies from the Missouri Valley and scores of what one might call independent institutions demanding the same recognition.

Gator Grid Stars Pick Joan Crawford As Their Favorite Actress On Screen

UNIVERSITY OF FLORIDA, Gainesville, Dec. 1.—(Athletic News Bureau) One of the reasons why the 1934 "Gator Grid" of the University of Florida is achieving such brilliant success in football is undoubtedly due to the fact that practically every man on the squad picks football as his "favorite sport."

A questionnaire recently circulated among the Gators revealed that 59 of the 45 players voted in favor of the gridiron sport. Basketball, baseball and swimming divided the six votes cast in favor of other sports as first preference.

The most popular player this year is Ralphy Cavlinson a Tallahassee boy, and Florida's line smasher full back, delbert Campbell Clyde Crabtree, brilliant quarterback, was voted second most popular.

And all of the Florida gridmen are not "typical boys." Fourteen of them actually declared they "enjoyed studying."

Smiling Mike Houser, of Jacksonville, a guard, was adjudged the peepiest of the 1934 Gators. Cavlinson placed second. Joan Crawford, famous screen celebrity, was given an overwhelming vote as the "favorite actress." Dolores Costello was second. Asked to pick the three outstanding players seen in the South this year, either on the Florida team, or other teams played by the Gators, the names of Crabtree, Jimmy Steele, guard, and Dale Vansickel, end, flashed across the list for an overwhelming victory. Unquestionably, these boys are three of the greatest football men in the South this year.

Vansickel, incidentally, was voted the most handsome on the squad, copping every vote but three.

WAR VETERAN PAROLED

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Dec. 1.—(INS)—The board of trustees of the Indiana State Prison, here, have paroled Henry Romina, aged 31, the only Civil War veteran serving a life sentence in any penitentiary in the United States, to the old soldiers home in LaFayette. Romina was sentenced to a life term March, 1918, for killing John and George McQuaid in a drunken brawl in Columbus, Ind.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

John XVII. These things have I spoken unto you, that My joy might remain in you, and that your joy might be full.

OUTBOUND

The black sea parts to let us pass.
The harbor lights are gone:
A thousand nameless stars wheel up
Between the dusk and dawn.
We're outbound for England,
Our furrow flinging wide;
A thrusting wind is at our side,
And the long wave lifts us on.
My feet upon the forward deck
Have worn the very seams.
(And—ah!) I know the Devon coast
When some red morning
All night my watches follow
The bells that break the dark—
(And will the Cornish cliffs stand stark
As they have stood in dreams?)
One star burns on above the mast
While twenty million roam.
A moorland wind will make at last
Across the bitter foam,
An old rack of headland
Come shouldering at the prow.
I know they hear in Surrey now
My heart's blood beating home!
By NANCY BYRD TURNER

Sanford High gridders played good football Thanksgiving, but Leesburg pulled a track meet on Tuesday.

One of the Three Musketeers has returned, but Miller and Household had to run down to Atlantic City "on business."

Instead of, as Texas Guinan would say, "Give these little girls a hand," it is tomorrow, "Give these little boys a vote!"

Washingtonians announce the organization of the first "Al Smith for president in 1932" club. Well, we hope the Republicans nominate him.

Head dealers in New York turned a deaf ear to the proposals of our honorable board of City Commissioners, but then we suppose they enjoyed the trip anyway.

Call money in New York went up to ten percent again Friday. And we dare say that what it was called depended largely upon which side of the deal the caller was.

Be sure to vote tomorrow for Gray, Newman, and Speer, not that they have any opposition, but just to show that you and all Sanford are for them, one hundred per cent.

Rotary International, founded in 1905, now has three thousand clubs in forty-four nations with a combined membership of 150,000. There must be something in an organization which grows like that.

The dog track at Miami opened for business Thanksgiving night, and of course, without gambling. All you do is to buy a picture of your favorite dog and if he wins the club redeems the picture at five or three times the original cost. And certainly nobody can call that gambling.

Correct posture beaheads fatigue, gives a healthy support. Remember the next time you've had a particularly heavy day at the office, your aching wife wants you to lie her in a downy until two o'clock in the morning, all you'll want to do is get rid of that tired feeling by standing properly.

The Arkansas city Treasurer recently advised that a Payroll fund has been set up for the city of Little Rock, Ark. This fund is a Payroll fund on general terms, and is intended to be used for the purpose of paying the salaries of the city employees.

It is unnecessary. The necessity no more exists than it does for the populace to take an annual or semi-annual bath. The house is maintained in good order at all times, and the suggestion of a spring or fall clean up is an aversion that the proper stage of cleanliness has not been maintained between times.

Cities cannot be regulated as households, for there still are some houses that will hold the annual scrubbing and dressing; and in a city there will be numerous negligent ones who fail to give attention to the condition of yards and gut buildings and general surroundings. There always will be plenty of persons who will not keep their premises clean. Then there are the vacant lots—the home of each person who has his wife and kids beside them. And there was the hurricane of September, a valid excuse for any city to indulge in a period of cleaning up.

The right good citizen, of course, has his own premises clean. If not, he is not so good a citizen

It is a mistake, though, to believe that themselves while visitors will mark about it. It is one of the easiest methods of beautification

It has been said, more than once that it would be impossible to establish industries in Miami because and on account of the excessive cost of power.

Whether that statement has proved in other prospective locations from coming to Miami is not known, of course. But taking human nature as it is, we may well understand that such a statement unchallenged would have an ill effect on Miami's program of industrial expansion.

Mr. George Estill stated in a public meeting some days ago that

A Chance To Help

It is a most difficult matter to get people to vote in even the hottest elections where the gravest issues are involved. In our own city we have seen matters settled by the voice of scarcely a third of the voters, and settled contrary to what we were fully confident was the will of the majority. Just last month in a school district in Escambia county an election was held to determine the amount of the school tax millage. Only one citizen voted and he alone determined the amount of the taxes to be paid by all the taxpayers in the district.

But if it is difficult to get people to vote where differences of opinion have resulted in a warm contest, it is even more of a problem to get them to cast their ballot in an election where a vote of confidence is the maximum result to be obtained. Where one has already qualified as a citizen, it costs nothing to vote, and it requires very little time. There are approximately two thousand persons in this city who should go to the polls every time an election is held. Yet how many of them do?

Tomorrow—and this may come as a tremendous surprise to many—another election will be held. Such an election, an election to fill three places on the City Commission, might ordinarily be expected to stir up some excitement. It has been our experience that local elections are frequently more fraught with friction and furor than national elections. Especially might this one be expected to command attention since it marks the end of the old regime and the beginning of a new era for Sanford.

That this election has not been preceded by an intense campaign was due entirely, of course, to the fact that there was no opposition. Sanford has become so completely satiated with the old order that when three men, who everyone knew represented the people's interest, announced their candidacies, no one wanted to run against them, or could be induced to do so. Further, everyone felt that these men were offering themselves upon the sacrificial altar of good citizenship since the affairs of the City had been allowed to get in such condition that only the most untiring and unselfish effort on the part of new commissioners could be expected to restore the City to a strong financial basis.

But regardless of how much labor the incoming Commissioners may devote to the local government's tangled affairs, they can accomplish little toward the final resuscitation of the City without the undivided support of the people of Sanford. That there was no opposition is weighty evidence that they have the good will of a large majority. If they are given the votes tomorrow of a high percentage of the voting population of this city, it will be conclusive proof that they go into office with the solid backing of the citizens.

It should be a pleasure to vote for such men as Gray, Newman, and Speer and we sincerely hope that there will not be many who will neglect to avail themselves of the opportunity.

The Bolshevik Newspaper

Among certain people any newspaper which presumes to criticize the powers that be, no matter how good or evil they are, is called Bolshevik. The impression, which it is hoped the word will connote, is that the newspaper would do away with all government, when as a matter of fact frequently all that is wanted is a clean government. Among Bolshevik newspapers of this class is "Excelsior," published in Mexico City. Many American newspapers which have recently been praising its vigorous policy, include the conservative New York Herald Tribune, not a Hearst publication. The Herald Tribune says:

"For years readers of 'Excelsior,' the principal daily newspaper of Mexico, have admired and wondered at its candor, hoping that a policy so courageous could be maintained. 'Excelsior' was the one influential journalistic voice still lifted, from time to time, in criticism of powerful officials, in independent, frank comment upon the activities of government. 'Did you notice what 'Excelsior' said this morning? Wow! 'Nobody knows how they get away with it, but certainly it's very encouraging.' The paper's hardy outspokenness was considered proof that the press in the Mexican capital, if intelligent and bold enough, could be free."

"When the non-sectarian publications of the world accepted assurances that Toral was not tortured under the regime of the dreaded and subsequently dismissed Chief of Police Inspector, Roberto Cruz, 'Excelsior' still said what it thought. It did not regard the prisoner's failure to move toward the relatives who first came to see him as due to 'lack of ordinary human emotion' nor his statements that he had not been tortured as made without the pressure of fear of worse to come. Readers wondered at 'Excelsior' during the early phases of the Toral case. Its freedom of utterance seemed more encouraging than ever, at a moment of such political stress."

"That freedom at length is gone. The paper's offices have for weeks been haunted by both the police and the military. It has been struck hard financially. Its editors probably are aware that they can follow the prudent course of 'El Universal' after former proprietor Palavicini's release from threatening confinement had been secured by vigorous effort. But 'El Universal's' prudence in the last six years has not been 'encouraging' to those who wish Mexico well. It was 'Excelsior's' astonishing candor that seemed encouraging."

CLEANING UP THE CITY PALM BEACH TIMES

A regular old-fashioned scrubbing is going on in the city of West Palm Beach. If the streets and the yards and vacant lots do not emerge from it thoroughly clean, they at least will come out cleaner. The shoes may not be highly polished but the hair will be combed and the countenance cleansed of a good bit of filth, and that is something.

Once upon a time it was quite the thing to do to clean house a couple of times annually. In the warm days of spring everything in the house went out for a good sunning on the grass. Floors and walls and ceilings were freshened. Paint was touched here and there, and places spicily and down forbidden to be mentioned, because carpets or draperies or heavy furniture were bathed in cleanliness. Then before the winter's liberation set in there was a less formal arrangement of cleaning.

House cleaning is an annual or semi-annual work, however, is fading out of existence. The people are learning to live so that

"Not in vain the distance beckons. Forward, forward let us range."

The University of Florida's football team is not the only token of this state's returning ascendancy. During October of this year new building and engineering work contracted for in Florida amounted to $8,660,000 in value. This was three times as large as the September total and 10 per cent above the total for October, 1927.

Also, the first vessel to dock at Ft. Lauderdale's new Port Everglades harbor from a foreign port arrived last Monday from Cuba with 1,110 tons of rock. When fully completed this harbor will have a depth of thirty-five feet.

Labor and agriculture have lately become so insistent upon tariff protection that the Wall Street Journal, raised in the philosophy that the chief purpose of a tariff is to serve manufacturers alone is beginning to warn against isolation and retaliation from abroad as earnestly as a down-right free trader might.

The same paper thinks that Congress, in its ten year talk of legislation to relieve the farmer fits the definition of a doctor as "the gentleman who amuses the patient while nature is making a cure." We wonder if it would go so far as to describe in the same way the Congress which has tinkered with tariffs for a hundred years.

Ever beautiful, consistently wise, Mrs. Ivy Clough Johnson of the Leesburg Morning Commercial offers a thought whose beauty and wisdom will particularly appeal to the hard-pressed business offices of newspapers. If Christmas customers are really to be persuaded to shop early, she thinks Christmas merchants must advertise early.

This from Herbert Hoover to the Costa Ricans comes as near to a nutshell for the case in favor of individualism, competition, and liberalism against standardization and centralization as even a Woodrow Wilson or a Thomas Jefferson might have contrived. "You are an example," the president-elect told Costa Rica, "of the advantage of having separate units of twenty nations on our western continent in which each can be laboring working out our separate successes in government and culture and in art under varying conditions and from which all the others can profit."

Mr. Hoover also commended Costa Rica on the fact that it has more than four times as many school teachers as it has soldiers. A proportion of that sort, we believe, if left standing a while in all countries would make it possible eventually to do without any soldiers at all.

The most recent development in aviation seems to be of planes with horizontal propellers for lifting which make it possible to take off or land almost vertically. A European plane thus equipped has recently flown across the English Channel. The horizontal propellers on this plane are attached to and above the body of the plane and give it an awkward windmill appearance. Now comes a Florida entry with the horizontal propellers attached to the wings and neatly set beneath them. These propellers are so adjusted that they can be folded and made vertical ones if needed.

The Florida plane is far more graceful and should apparently be more effective than the European one. Aviation will have become a perfect thing indeed when planes are able to hover and settle and to move at slow speeds as well as at swift ones.

Put a little sugar in a gallon of grape juice, let it clone, and it is bound to violate something or other.—Florida Times-Union.

Once having found a way out of the corral in Florida, Virginia, North Carolina and Texas will they all go in again?—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

As he should be. And, where nobody else will do it, he will go out and turn his hand toward cleaning the landscape in all directions. It is a mistake, though, to believe that themselves while visitors will mark about it. It is one of the easiest methods of beautification

WALKING AROUND IN CIRCLES

WEST FLORIDA SPEAKS

When Doyle Carlton is inaugurated as governor of Florida he will have behind him the solid backing and friendship of north and west Florida. The Journal hopes that friendship and support will endure and grow throughout Mr. Carlton's administration.

The Journal sees one way in which this territory's loyalty and support could be recognized by Governor Carlton. That is in the appointment of a west Florida man to the post of chairman of the state road department.

West Florida voted for Carlton because it believed him the best man for governor. It was not in hope of reward or patronage; the suggestion is not made just in the hope that west Florida will get a slice of the patronage.

Staunch supporters and friends of Carlton stood pat against the propaganda launched against Carlton in the closing days of the campaign. This propaganda showed its effect in South Florida but didn't make a dent in this section.

While Carlton's home county went for Howe, we the people of west and north Florida stood solidly behind the democratic choice and rolled up half of his total state majority in the 15 counties of west Florida. The Journal is proud to have contributed its support and loyalty in the campaign days.

Ex-Governor Catts who was a formidable contender for the governorship has admitted since the primary election that Carlton's west Florida organization and support was responsible for Catts' defeat. And when Catts makes such an admission, it's no small matter.

Aside from all this we believe west Florida has just claims for the major post in the highway department. This section has never had one of its own citizens as road chairman. West Florida needs more permanent roads and many of the counties are now spending their own hard money to help complete the Gulf Coastal highway which will do much to help send the traffic flow into south Florida.

The Journal urges that Carlton supporters in west Florida unite behind one man and press their claims for the post. There are a number of west Florida men well fitted for the job of helping develop and expand the state's highway system. Let Carlton's friends unite behind this man. The identity of the man is not so important as it is that he has the united backing of the section and that he be alive to the state's needs and resources.

The governor-elect is coming to west Florida soon on a hunting trip, seeking rest and relaxation after the campaign and before he assumes the heavy burden of administering the state's affairs.

When he does come every one should do their utmost to show this section's friendship for him. Let's tell him that west Florida wants to cement her enduring friendship by having one of her citizens associated with him in developing the state's highways.

The Journal believes there is opportunity to get this post and that it should not be overlooked.—Pensacola Journal.

Editor's note.—The "home county" of Mr. Carlton to which the Journal alludes as having gone for Howe is Hardee, in the territory of which he was born. Hillsborough, his real home county, gave him several thousand majority.

THE CART BEFORE THE HORSE

DAYTONA BEACH NEWS-JOURNAL

Isn't it about time people stopped blaming things to the Florida boom and started to blame the "things" for creating the boom?

It is now more than two years since the recent over-inflation gave its last convulsive gasp and let out the last bubble of rose-water and air. The people who caused it are all back on their uppers or in the same comfortable circumstances they were in before the heavenly hopes hit them. But still a great many of them utter painful "ooches" whenever they reflect upon what might have been had they been wiser business like, or more honest, or more of anything that they lacked to cause their failure.

The most recent case to be observed in this connection is the Adair, Georgia bank failures, which it is conceded, were in a certain large part responsible for the adroit bubble-blowing that helped to make Florida over-expanded for a year, and whose over-production of bubbles caused their own downfall, and helped to prick Florida's expansion. It came out in the trial that the defense will blame Florida's "boom collapse" for the failure of over-ripe promises on the part of the bankers, which the United States charges amounted to fraud.

Be yourself, mister attorney for the defense, the over promises and failure of your companies helped to cause the cause that you claim caused your crime.

It has been said, more than once that it would be impossible to establish industries in Miami because and on account of the excessive cost of power.

Whether that statement has proved in other prospective locations from coming to Miami is not known, of course. But taking human nature as it is, we may well understand that such a statement unchallenged would have an ill effect on Miami's program of industrial expansion.

Mr. George Estill stated in a public meeting some days ago that

It has available from its central generating station connected transmission lines to serve adequately any demand that may be placed upon it by an industrial plant or by a city. The territory served by

CHULUOTA ITEMS

One of the most enjoyable affairs given here in some time was the game dinner given on Thanksgiving Day by Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Jacobs and Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel Long. The dinner was served on the banks of the Econlockhatchee at "Sportsman's Paradise." Four large wild turkeys and an abundance of duck and quail were furnished by a party of hunters which included S. F. Long, Tony Pitchford of Sanford, Gabriel Long, N. C. Jacobs of Chuluota and W. O. Townsend of Cocoa.

Following the dinner games were played by the children under the supervision of Sammy Long while contests were enjoyed by the adult members of the party. The target practice resulted in a tie between James Wilson, A. Vigna and Dr. A. W. Epps of Sanford.

Those present for the affair were Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Jacobs, Woodrow Jacobs, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Chaffee, May Chaffee, Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel Long, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Townsend, Ivan, Olive, Doris, Roland and Mary Townsend, Mr. and Mrs. James Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Long, Alberta and Herman Long, Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Williams, Iris Williams, Needham Jacobs, Dr. and Mrs. J. N. Tolar and son Ralph, Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Epps and son, Mrs. Williams and Buddy Bishop, I. Self, A. Vigna and Mrs. and Mrs. J. E. Snyder.

Another enjoyable Thanksgiving event was the community picnic in a grove on the Chuluota-Oviedo road near the Econlockhatchee bridge. Many availed themselves on the elaborate turkey dinner. Among those present were, Mr. and Mrs. J. Tilden Jacobs of Sanford, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Kibbee of Geneva, Mr. and Mrs. Gaston Jacobs, Mrs. Prevatt, Mrs. Hodges, Miss Vialle Prevatt, Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Jacobs, Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Ulrich, Audrey and George Ulrich, Mrs. Peon and daughter of Tampa, Mr. and Mrs. Norwood of North Carolina, Dr. and Mrs. E. Lee Smith of Orlando and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Simmons.

The following poem on Thanksgiving was written by Mrs. Estelle B. Tribble of Chuluota and was published last week in the Jacksonville Times-Union:

The Thanksgiving Twins
"I think" and "I thank" are Thanksgiving twins,
Heavy-born of the Father of Light;
"I think" seeks ever Truth's up-
gins—
"I thank" glows with Love's insight.

"I think" and "I thank" are Thanksgiving twins,
Of omnipotence each a part;
"I think" magnifies the power of mind—
"I thank" exalts beauty of heart.

"I think" and "I thank" are Thanksgiving twins,
Reflecting their father's face
"I think" discerns lines of Intellect—
"I thank" turns to You-ness of Grace.

"I think" and "I thank" are Thanksgiving twins,
Together—according to plan;
When the twins found themselves in America,
Thanksgiving Day began.

Last Saturday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Ulrich of Chuluota and Mr. and Mrs. Lietzen of Orlando met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Strickland where they organized a Sunday School to be held every Saturday morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lietzen. Prof. and Mrs. Ludwig of the Forest City Academy and Dr. Westcott and mother were also present.
