San Martin Says His Resignation Is In Hands Of Backers; To Abide By Wisher

HAVANA, Sept. 20.—(A.P.)—Wide spread outbreaks of malaria were added today to the burden of suffering Cuba. Many towns reported numerous cases of the disease and conditions were especially bad in Cienfuegos. A motly crew of soldiers, students and workmen cracked the rebellious Juan Mas Mestranes in the rugged Camaguey hills while at home scenes was set for another political skirmish. President Grau San Martin said his resignation is in the hands of supporting factions and he would abide by their decision.

The student directory, staunch supporters of the present regime, took into government session to consider the resignation ultimatum that Grau San Martin step out to enable the formation of a "truly national" government.

O'Brien Wins Race For Nomination In Coming Election

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(A.P.)—Mayor O'Brien, number one Tammany Hall candidate, won a walkway nomination for mayor in yesterday's Democratic primary, defeating Congressman Irving M. Black and assemblyman Jerome G. Amaro by approximately three-to-one.

Tammany's defeat was the result of Democrats of the Fourteenth Assembly District of Thomas Farley as district leader. Farley, a former sheriff of New York county, was removed by Franklin D. Roosevelt, then governor, and because of disclosures at the Searby investigation became known to his political foes as a "fisher" Farley.

As a result of the election Tammany will go into the November election backing O'Brien against the Fusion ticket headed by H. Franklin H. Laganard, Republican.

No Naval Building Let-Up Is Intended

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(A.P.)—The President intends to go ahead without restriction on the $238,000,000 program to build a navy up to treaty limits. Reports have been current from abroad that suggestions had been made to Norman H. Davis, architect of the program, that there be some abandonment or curtailment of the building program. It was asserted at the White House that no such suggestion was actually received by the President. The President let it be known that contracts have been let for the program and that under no circumstances was there any intention of calling back these or altering the plans.

DAVIS DESCRIBED AS 'MOOSE' CZAR BY PROSECUTOR

U.S. Senator Charged With Making Money Out Of Charities

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(A.P.)—United States Senator James J. Davis was described yesterday as a fraternal "czar" who made money out of charity by the government prosecutor who opened the second trial against him.

It is charged specifically with shipping lottery tickets interstate in 1931.

Donald F. Stewart, editor of the Moose magazine, was the prosecution's first witness and through him the government sought to show that Davis, Pennsylvania politician and director general of the Loyal Order of Moose, sanctioned articles in the magazine which publicized charity calls of the fraternity.

It is Davis' second trial—the first having ended in a hung jury—and he was portrayed by the government as the "czar" of the Moose. The defense portrayed him as a benevolent fraternalist who allowed his name to be used in connection with lodge activities, but who knew virtually nothing of what was going on in the charity enterprises of the society.

The government said he had directed and profited from alleged lotteries of the order. The defense contended there was no lottery in charity activities of the order and that Davis knew nothing about the Moose's charity lotteries and never "consciously got a cent out of it."

Assistant U. S. Attorney Trevelick opened the government's case. Then Charles H. Tuttle, defense counsel, described Davis' career from his unobscured days to his prominence in the Moose order.

"The evidence will show that Jim Davis gave more than he ever received," said Tuttle.

The government introduced charts to illustrate designation of charity money accumulated by the order in 1930 and 1931 and Judge Hayes admitted the charts as evidence over protests of the defense.

Tampa Orchestra Run Out Of Chicago By Racketeer Head

TAMPA, Sept. 20.—Frank Grasso and his orchestra, sent to the Century of Progress exposition last month by the Tampa chamber of commerce as a good will gesture, were hustled out of Chicago by a man named Patillo, two gang king pin of Chicago musicians, after making a big hit with fair victories.

The story got out last night in a report from Lewis H. Hill, Jr., secretary of the board of public relations, to the board of education. The report was requested last week. Details of the incident were provided by A. L. Cuesta, Jr., chairman of the committee that sent the band to the fair.

"You fellows have a good band, but it ain't much better than we have got right here in Chicago and we won't stand for you coming here and taking work that should come to us," Patillo is reported to have told Grasso. He emphasized his edict by pulling out the drawer of his desk and Grasso saw a good look at two guns he had there.

Patillo said the Tampa orchestra had violated union rules, and after Grasso protested they had some overbills they knew to be completely with regulations, the union boss is reported to have replied that it made no difference, they were not going to stand for organizations coming in.

"You may play tonight, and then get out of town tomorrow," said Patillo.

STOCK MART IS CONSIDERING NEW LOCATION

Plans for transferring a considerable part of the exchange's business to a market on the west side of the Hudson River and beyond the reach of the transfer and profits taxes which the city proposes to levy on the brokers assumed definite form with the organization of a committee composed of representatives of 12 leading exchange firms.

The committee, of which Howard F. Swick, chairman, announced through the stock exchange last night that 634 members of the exchange had so far accepted the invitation to join the movement. He said their response had been "immediate and enthusiastic."

Earlier in the day he stated that organization of the New Jersey exchange was progressing and that a meeting of the committee of organization would be held today. He reported that a draft of a constitution and rules for the new exchange were being prepared and would be in form for submission to the committee in the course of the next 48 hours.

The question of location of the new exchange is still in the air, according to the committee. Jersey City, Newark and one or two other nearby Jersey municipalities have been engaging in a hectic bidding contest for the privilege of providing a home for the new exchange, but up to now no decision has been reached by the sponsors of the project.

Some Wall Street quarters continued to doubt that the members of the exchange will forsake their expensive plant in the center of the financial district to set up a new institution in the neighboring state.

It is recognized that the new taxes if adopted will tend to drive stock business to other financial centers, but as against this factor the matter of expense involved in creating a new set of machinery for handling stock trading is regarded by some as an element which might cause the members to proceed slowly in reaching a final decision.

URSHEL TELLS OF EXPERIENCE WITH KIDNAPERS

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 20.—(A.P.)—The government witness in the machine gun capture case traced through three witnesses the machine gun captured beside Harvey Karp, notorious gunman, from a Birmingham hardware dealer to Kathryn Kelly, wife of the fugitive sought as one of the ten actual kidnapers of Charles F. Urschel, oilman. Identification was made by the serial number.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 20.—(A.P.)—Charles F. Urschel, oil millionaire, related in unemotional voice from the witness stand in federal court here yesterday afternoon the story of his nine days in the hands of kidnapers who collected $200,000 ransom and named Albert Bates, one of the 12 defendants in trial, as one of his abductors.

Urschel's two-hour narrative, ended at 4:30 P. M. and defense attorneys began cross-examination of the witness. Court recessed with cross-examination incomplete.

At the outset of his testimony Urschel stepped from the witness chair and walked to within a pace of Bates, pointed his finger and said:

"That's one of the men."

With Robert K. Hyde, United States district attorney, occasionally interposing a question, Urschel then told what he called an account of his every movement from the time he was hurried out of his paternal home here the night of June 22 and his nine-day captivity in the hands of kidnapers.

Urschel had been preceded by his comely wife and Mrs. Albert Bates, who testified in testimony that she was abducted (Continued on Page Four)

Beginning Of Nation-Wide "Buy Now" Movement Is Put Off By Chief Until Oct. 1

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(A.P.)—The beginning of a nation-wide "buy now" movement to support the greater production and sales program under the recovery program, has been set tentatively for Oct. 1 by Hugh S. Johnson.

It was disclosed yesterday the Sept. 20 date, originally fixed for starting the campaign to stimulate buying under the Blue Eagle had been pushed back a few days by the prolonged negotiations for a bituminous coal code.

Dozens of plans have been laid before officials, involving generally suggestions that vigorous battles be asked to assure a certain quota of purchases over a given period. One and all, these have been discarded, it was said, and Johnson will go before the country with a straight-forward appeal to buy under the Blue Eagle.

The administrator has reiterated that increased costs would be inevitable to meet the higher price level and has sought to stimulate buying at present prices by warning of higher ones to come.

The administrator turned to other phases of the NRA program yesterday but there was no indication when he would undertake an analysis of the next big code before him that far retailers and millions of workers.

Officials of the NRA had expected the tentative draft of this code to be made public yesterday, but revisions still went ahead as Johnson attended a meeting of the recovery council at the White House that for retailers affecting thousands and millions of workers.

Other officials of the NRA, including Donald R. Rieberg, the council, Kenneth M. Simpson, a deputy administrator, and Dr. Alexander Sachs, the economist, were arranged to inspect the work of the steel industry under the code.

Minorable differences between employers and workers came up again at public hearings on the long time and routine code.

At the latter representatives of the American Federation of Labor were charged with not working to join the union. The statement came from a spokesman of the same officers and carriers of Monroe county. Industry also charged that conductors in the Bedford district in Indiana had forced employees to join company unions dominated by employers.

COTTON, SILVER PEOPLE PRESS FOR INFLATION

Requests Presented President For Help Through Means Of Currency Expansion

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(A.P.)—Cotton and silver advocates pressed demands upon President Roosevelt yesterday for help through currency expansion.

As the same time the farm credit administration was endeavoring to hasten the movement of credit to the agricultural regions.

The cotton men, representatives of nine states, went with Senator Smith of South Carolina, chairman of the agriculture committee, to the White House to present a petition they had adopted Monday. It called for inflation and for pegging the cotton price at 20 cents a pound and the cotton seed price at $30 a ton.

Meanwhile, an assertion came from the quarterly sessions of the federal reserve advisory council that the banks were being "unfairly and widely criticized on (Continued on Page Four)

Dapper Youth Is Being Sought In Louisiana Killing

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 20.—(A.P.)—A dapper youth of about 25 was sought in a score of southern cities today in connection with the slaying and robbery of Sheffield Clark, 31-year-old Nashville, Tenn., business executive, whose battered body was found in a room of one of the city's largest hotels Monday night.

Clark had been beaten over the head and choked to death, apparently by a visitor who remained in the room for some time before the attack. The coroner and Clark were slain probably Sunday night although the body, carefully placed under sheets on the bed, was not discovered until 21 hours later.

His effects had been rifled and a considerable sum of money he was known to have carried in his pockets was missing.

Late Sunday night a snappily dressed young man, dark complexioned and of medium height appeared at the hotel parking lot, posed as Clark's son, presented an auto, call card and took possession of Clark's car. Neither the youth nor the car has been seen since.

Clark, head of Sheffield Clark and Company of Nashville, manufacturer's representative for several hardware concerns, was well known among local hardware men who said they had dealt with him for a quarter century. Near his body in the hotel room was found the rough hand-drawn draft of a letter to National Recovery administrator Johnson, dealing with the hardware code. Another letter, from his wife in Nashville, referred to the death of an infant daughter 25 years ago.

In addition to his widow, he is survived by a son and daughter.

MILK PRODUCERS IN GEORGIA SET FOR AGREEMENT

Pact Is Designed To Bring Farmers 30 Million More In '34

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 20.—(A.P.)—Georgia milk producers and distributors yesterday virtually completed action on a milk marketing agreement which state department of agriculture officials say will bring more than $30,000,000 to farmers next year, and a delegation planned to leave for Washington last night to present the document to Secretary Wallace for final approval.

Directors of the Georgia Milk Producers confederation the only organization in the state yet to sign, after a five-hour session approved the agreement, but with reservations governing the "price of class two milk, milk separated and sold as fluid cream, and as to the sale of surplus milk."

Fred Bridges, assistant secretary of agriculture and one of the leaders in obtaining a trade agreement for Georgia, said he believed necessary adjustments could be made in Washington, however, and that the agreement would receive the signature of Secretary Wallace and would be delayed in effect within a few days.

The resolution of agreement with reservations as adopted yesterday read in part as follows:

"Resolved that we do and hereby authorize the President of the confederation to affix his signature to the Georgia milk marketing agreement, as approved by the secretary of agriculture of the United States, Washington, D. C., provided that the price of class 2 milk to contracting producers for the Atlanta area be raised from $1.50 per cwt. to $1.75 per cwt. and further provided that a specific clause placed in the agreement to allow any contracting producer the privilege of withholding from delivery to any contracting distributor any or all of the amount of class three (surplus) milk, either as individuals, or collectively as an association of producers."

This distribution of surplus milk up to the present has proven a stumbling block in agreement negotiations, Frank Buchanan, manager of the confederation, says. Monday night he announced that two of the largest distributors in Atlanta had refused to buy milk from his organization when it declined to deliver its surplus milk to them.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

THE BLESSED NATION:
Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord, and the people whom he hath chosen for his own inheritance.—Psalm 33:12.

There is said to be a big increase in the production of chisel knives during the past six weeks.

Clair Windsor will appeal the $10,000 judgment against her to the superior court. But the jury is said to have been so impressed by her testimony that she is expected to win.

Most NRA complaints held to be "misunderstandings," headline. The fellow arrested for speeding because his speedometer didn't work.

The success of Miami's dollar day evidently persuaded Jacksonville merchants to try it. Now is a good time to have a dollar day because if prices keep going up you won't be able to buy anything for a dollar even at a sale before long.

They say that the Senate Banking Committee is going to commence its investigation again early in October and when it does some new preferred lists are going to be made public which will be so sensational as to take the front page away from the NRA.

A Republican senator from Minnesota says it is only a matter of a few months until a strict censorship will be slapped against the news and editorial columns of all newspapers. We hope to live to see the day when someone tells William Randolph Hearst not to publish anything. We'll bet he'd mix sulphur with the ink he'd print it with.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, who recently arrived in New York to make preparations for a flight of the Graf Zeppelin from Berlin to Chicago, says that if the depression had not intervened regular trans-Atlantic dirigible service would be commonplace by this time. The trip across could be made in fifty hours, he says, and the schedules would have been changed in 1929 had it not been for the lack of a crash.

American paper money is worth less today in foreign countries than at any time within the memory of the present generation. This does not bother us much as long as we live where a dollar will buy like a dollar to any amount with goods to sell, but the American soldiers, sailors, and airmen forced to live abroad, it is a bitter pill. According to the latest statistics, which show that they live in worth less of goods in goods with foreign money.

Local reports are to the effect that the "Gulf" has formed a new company to be located in Florida. It is said that the new company will be a subsidiary of the Gulf Refining Co. and will be engaged in the production of aviation gasoline. The new company is expected to be organized in the near future.

Drink More Milk

The importance of milk in any well balanced diet is emphasized by United States Bureau of Home Economics which says that from one-fifth to one-third of the family budget for food should go to the purchase of milk and its many by-products. Further, the Bureau declares, the less money there is for food generally, the more of it should be spent for milk.

The amount of milk which a person should consume daily, of course, varies with the age and physical condition of the person. But in general it is said that every child should have at least one quart of milk daily and every adult should consume at least one pint. In many special cases, such as pregnancy or general deficiency, two quarts a day for adults is advisable.

"While most people recognize the value of milk to supply building material for the growing child," a bulletin from the Bureau of Home Economics says, "many lose sight of the fact that the adult needs protein to maintain the muscular tissues and calcium to safe-guard bone and tooth structure. Milk is an excellent source of protein and is one of the most important of all our common foods as a source of calcium."

When it is impossible to secure an adequate milk supply, the consumption of calcium and protein foods should be maintained by supplementary dietary products. "Every growing child needs at the very least a pint of milk a day, and an adult at least one-half pint," the bulletin says. "These very limited allowances do not fully meet the need for calcium and the remainder of the diet should be selected with this fact in mind."

It is important further to remember that milk is in itself a well balanced diet containing most of the principal vitamins and food products essential to physical well being. Man has been known to live for years on nothing but milk. It is a fact that no other single food has the capacity for sustaining life to so great an extent as milk.

On The Way Out

There should be something pathetic about Babe Ruth and all the talk about his being "through." We wonder how many people feel a tug at the heart strings when the Bambino strikes out and trots to the dugout on legs that are showing the encroachment of time. For years he has been the mighty man of baseball, the sultan of awat; and what have you, and while he was on the rising tide of his greatness the public acclaim was stupendous.

Today the fans seem to be getting a fiendish pleasure out of saying "he's through." It appears to be a peculiar and regrettable twist of the so-called sporting public to hail the fall of a once supreme hero. Shouts and expressions of derision greet the great Ruth whose only fault is that he is getting old.

And yet, let us look at the season's record of the man who is receiving the proverbial "raspberry." Although past the age limit, he has knocked around thirty home runs and has driven in ninety runs. Many players this year, who have done much less, have been cheered and feted and given the "keys to the city." Despite his age he is still better than most of the others.

We suppose that the psychology which results in one's getting pleasure over seeing the "great" dethroned is based on jealousy and a great contempt for the man on top. The public sympathy is always with the one who is up and coming. But the thing which should be realized by those who are nearing the pinnacle of success is well described by a famed epitaph on a tombstone: "The paths of glory lead but to the grave."

INFLATION ILLUSIONS

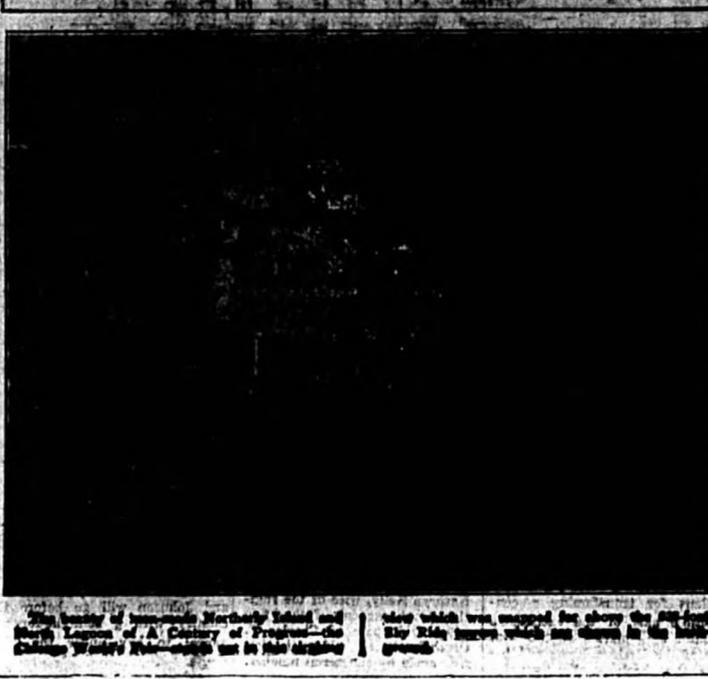

Senator Pat Harrison in asking for a little "rational" inflation is using words that are mutually contradictory. There cannot, of course, be "rational" inflation of the currency, because currency inflation is itself inherently irrational.

But in this remark Senator Harrison does something more. He gives voice to one of the oldest misconceptions in the history of monetary experience. That is the misguided belief that every previous inflation was disastrous because it was mismanaged, but that the one contemplated at the moment is somehow going to be "different." One hears it frequently remarked that the United States is "not like Germany." The United States would be inflating, if it is pointed out, not because it had to, but because it wanted to. It would be "leading from strength," rather than from weakness.

We should like to recommend as compulsory reading for such persons as entertain this notion that little classic of the late Andrew D. White entitled "Paper Money Inflation in France"—the story of the French assignats. For the assignat in April, 1790, on the proposal to issue the original 400,000,000 francs of assignats, M. Malesherbes, one of its proponents, called upon the country to "rise above the prejudices created by the failure of John Law's ill-fated experiment. Paper money under a despotism," as it had been issued by Law was dangerous, yes, but that was simply because "ignominious favored corruption." He viewed "as a nation constitutionally governed which itself takes care of the mission of the nation." The assignat, "that danger no longer exists." Says the author, commenting on this plea: "Like every supporter of irredeemable paper money, before or since, he thought that circumstances were not the same at the time and place of the issue, but proposed, as with previous disastrous issues."

Comparison of the Thomas distribution of the assignats with the French issue of assignats is a half century ago, and a half century ago, the assignat was a failure. It was a failure because it was issued in a way that was not in accordance with the principles of sound money. It was a failure because it was issued in a way that was not in accordance with the principles of sound money.

The Airman Looks at the World's Fair

The man in the photograph is Mr. R. F. Whitner, Jr., who is the subject of the article below. He is shown in a suit and tie, standing in front of a large structure, possibly an airplane or a fair exhibit.

SANFORD, TWENTY YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Whitner, Jr. and family are now comfortably settled in their handsome and commodious new home, recently erected on the corner of Oak Avenue and Seventh Street. The location is a particularly attractive one, being surrounded by large oaks and many flowering shrubs. This is easily one of the prettiest homes in Sanford and with its formal entrance which is rarely seen in Florida, makes a pleasing variety among the many new homes that have been built during the past year.

Felix Frank has returned from a three weeks' trip to New York. He was accompanied home by his sister, Miss Florence, who has been absent in the East for the past year. Her many old friends are delighted to have her back home again.

Mrs. Sidney O. Chase, who has been receiving treatment in a sanitarium in Orlando for some time, returned home today. She is much improved, to the delight of her many friends.

Mrs. Roosevelt Is Anxious For NRA To Affect Servants

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt appealed to American women today for the application of the NRA principles to domestic servants in all American homes.

Fairer working hours, fairer pay, and fairer living conditions for household help are the points on which she laid emphasis. And she charged that in many homes advantage has been taken of the depression to use "sweatshop methods" on the domestic servants.

The text of Mrs. Roosevelt's appeal, published today in her monthly page in the Woman's Home Companion, is as follows: "This is a responsibility which comes very near every woman who employs anyone to help her in her home. While women are looking to the way business on a large scale is being managed, they should look with particular interest also at the business of running their own homes. To those who employ anyone, whether it be for a few hours, or a few days, or all the year round, I should like to say that as I have grown older one thing strikes me more and more forcibly, namely, a good mistress makes a good servant. One has no more right to expect sweat-shop hours and wages in one's own home than in a factory."

"I know a young woman with very little money and two children, but there is never any trouble in her household. Her nurse and maid seem very happy and contented and I have decided that the reason is that as much thought is given to the planning of their work and of their pleasure and of their lives in general as is given to any of the other activities of that home. I have known other homes with many servants where nothing seemed to be right. There everyone was complaining, overworked, unhappy."

"There was a time when servants did not expect to have any lives of their own, but nowadays they work for us, and we must concern ourselves with the hours of work, with the hours of leisure, with the life of those who are working for us in our homes. There is no reason why we cannot systematize it and run it exactly as we would our business."

"Most households where there is any help at all have one general houseworker, and at the present time, advantage has been taken of the depression to use sweatshop methods in the home. For instance I know of a girl who gets her room and board and works twelve hours a day and often more. These general houseworkers are often foreign born, with little education, and therefore easily exploited. It is as bad for us to allow ourselves to do this as it is for the workers who are thus deprived of any life of their own. There should be a regular schedule for the general houseworker and the work should be planned as carefully as we would plan a business. Any woman who has one maid must think about that maid and do some of the work herself."

"There may be emergencies and in a well-run household everyone is willing to change his schedule to meet an emergency just as we should do in a business, but it should always be to render more service at a certain time, we should not be so completely absorbed by our own or our children's lives and interests of some other thing."

"I am going to bring the gospel to Broadway," she said. "I am not on a vaudeville tour. I am going to preach at the Capitol Theater."

For the last few days announcements flashed on the screen of the theater of her coming, have been hooded and hissed by some of the audience.

The evangelist said she was in "marvelous health." Her fingernails were painted red, carefully manicured.

She said she would not ask for converts at the theater appearances.

"I will wear my little white uniform. My text will be: 'Go quickly out into the lanes and broad ways and compel them to come in that My house—write the My with a capital M—will be filled.'"

Ainee Arrives In New York To Begin Stage Engagement

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Sister Ainee Bumpkin McPherson Hutton came to town yesterday to wrestle with stray souls from behind the glaring footlights of a Broadway theater.

She would talk only of how she is going to fight "atheism" on the great white way. Affably she ignored questions about estranged husband David Hutton, who is singing torch songs in a Brooklyn theater.

"I am going to bring the gospel to Broadway," she said. "I am not on a vaudeville tour. I am going to preach at the Capitol Theater."

Four Unidentified Bodies Recovered Following Storm

NEW BERN, N. C., Sept. 20.—(AP)—Discovery of four unidentified bodies on the shore of Pamlico Sound was reported yesterday as relief work was pressed along the hurricane-stricken North Carolina coast.

The Coast Guard, which found the bodies, expressed belief that they were members of a fishing party. Whether they were in addition to the 14 bodies previously reported bringing the storm's known toll to 21, or were possibly the crew of the Schooner Dale, sunk during the storm, was not known here.

A negro woman, Missiea Carter, was drowned at Hatteras. It was learned yesterday, when her name was published, that four of her sons were injured.

Relief workers reported hundreds throughout the section swept by the terrific storm of last week were dependent upon emergency supplies and faced starvation without them.

"Conditions are extremely poor. We are doing all we can but the job is a big one," said Mrs. Malcolm Lewis, director of Red Cross relief for Carteret County.

Indications were that relief work would have to be carried on for a long period along the outer banks whose population is "scattered largely upon fishing for its livelihood."

Approximately 60 American soldiers who deserted the police there after firing only one shot. The students were said to have joined the Blas Hernandez forces.

Two thousand employees of the Bethlehem mine at Danbury, N.Y., were on strike and no one was permitted to enter, to leave the property. A number of Americans were reported, various prisoners. Food supplies were running short.

Citrus Damage In Texas Estimated At Ninety Percent

ORLANDO, Sept. 20.—Estimate of citrus damage in Texas according to the figures compiled by the Frisco lines will run close to 90 percent said Samuel S. Butler, of St. Louis, traffic manager of the system who was in Orlando Monday.

"We had anticipated there would be about 12,000 and 15,000 cars of fruit to move out of Texas," he said, "and now since the storm we have had to revise our figures to contemplate a possible haulage of 1,000 to 1,500 cars. Damage to Texas fruit was terrific. Not only is this year's crop affected but many of the trees were badly damaged as well. Great numbers of trees were completely torn out by the roots and others were so badly whipped to pieces that they will have to be cut back in a manner that will retard their production for years."

"Ordinarily the citrus consumed in Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and states in that section has come from Texas. With the great damage that has been done to Texas we expect that these states will draw a considerable volume of their fruit from Florida. Shippers in California are of course expecting to sell their fruit in the area but we are of the opinion that most of the movement will come from Florida."

"We are going to make a big effort for citrus tonnage out of Florida to these sections through our lines. We will inaugurate a boat line from Tampa to Panama and ship over the Frisco lines from Panama. We do not know just how much fruit will be needed in the states that our lines cover but we feel that it will be sufficient to warrant our inaugurating the boat line. We are making a tour of Florida, looking at fruit, feeling out shippers and getting a better working knowledge of just what this shipping season portends for the state."

Mr. Butler was accompanied on his trip to Orlando by J. O. Midyette, general agent of the Frisco lines in Jacksonville.

New Anti-Knock Gas Announced By Gulf

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Unusual interest was shown today in the announcement by the Gulf Refining Company that it had perfected a new gasoline with a higher anti-knock rating. Coming at this time, the introduction of a gasoline with an octane rating higher by from three to eight points commands the attention not only of the entire oil industry but millions of American motorists as well.

opposition factions providing that Grau San Martin and his cabinet abdicate in favor of a so-called "junta de sectores." This junta, or committee of opposition representatives, would comprise members of the student directorate, national university faculty members, representatives of the ABC and OGER revolutionary societies and the nationalists, Mambisas and Marianistas.

A new decree ordering an eight-hour day in all Cuban commercial and industrial establishments was read aloud from the palace balcony on behalf of the President.

Five thousand demonstrators including students, railwaymen, artists and writers, shouted their approval and the president's cause out with several student leaders to acknowledge their cheers.

Reuben de Leon, one of the students, addressed the crowd and said: "This is the first tri-ly Cuban government we have had. Cuba is no longer a slave of foreign capital," declared Froy Socarras, another student leader. The president asserted "the entire country proclaims that this government was born of the people."

Bars Are Running Full Till Despite Atlanta's Dryness

ATLANTA, Sept. 23—(AP)—Cokebars have been swept away and brass rail polished bars stayed away since Georgia went prohibition in 1907, are running full tilt today in "dry" Atlanta.

Nothing has been done to mar the antiquity of the fixtures. The old mirrors only partially return your features and the lighting effects are still dim.

The swinging doors have not returned because the 1932 idea is an open place with tables for the ladies. In addition, the lighting effects are still dim.

At one place free lunch has returned—in a modest way. A small paper tray with a slice of hot pie, a slice of cheese, one pretzel and a pair of salty crackers goes with each beer. Bowls of quartered tomatoes and bits of rye bread are for the taking.

Prices for 2.2 beer were high at first but now one gets a nickel beer, one a 44 larger for a dime and a "doubleheader" for 15 cents. Bottle staff is 15 cents and 20 cents, mostly 15.

With the return of the bars of '07 also have come the old time bartenders. They talk freely of the old days and some of them smilingly predict the limit in alcoholic content has not yet been reached, even in Georgia.

One of the old timers, who claims he hasn't tasted water for 30 years, runs a corner bar. He's doing right well, he says, but when the lid is lifted completely, he'll be in clover.

Culpepper Continues Evangelistic Services

The Rev. Burke Culpepper, who has been conducting services before large audiences every morning and evening this week at the First Methodist Church in this city, is a widely known evangelist and has preached in every state in the union except three.

Last night he talked on the subject, "The Biggest Fool in the Bible," and this morning he preached on "Why Beautiful Women Marry Ugly Men." He has selected as his subject for the sermon tonight, Sept. 27, "Is Life Worth Living?"

Those attending the services state that the Rev. Culpepper is an interesting speaker and makes his talks unusual by dramatizing them. The public is cordially invited to attend the meetings.

Friends of John Edward Higgins will be glad to learn that he has recovered from injuries received in a recent automobile accident and is able to go out again.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Kelley and son, Owen, returned the first part of the week from New York City where Mrs. Kelley and Owen spent about two months.

Ickes Will Review Adverse Decisions Upon Public Works

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23—(AP)—Secretary Ickes, public works administrator said yesterday advocates of local non-federal projects could appeal to him on any adverse decisions on projects proposed by state public works advisory boards.

The secretary made the statement in connection with reports that the advocates of a number of projects in Alabama were hesitant about seeking federal funds because of the stipulation that they must have a definite "social and economic worth."

Any projects which are rejected by state advisory boards, the secretary said, may be brought before the public works board here for review.

The public works board here approved a long list of non-federal projects, but full details of the allotments were withheld until later.

One allotment yesterday was $971,550 for construction work by the federal geological survey.

More than 213,000 man-days of direct work will be provided by the allotment, of which $752,500 will go for improvements and developments of animal experiment stations and bird game refuges in many states.

"No more of the old kind for me ... after owning a Plymouth"

NINETY-FIVE news-stands wait eagerly every time for Joe Frisher to come rushing around every time a new edition hits the street. He's got to make time... keep a split-second schedule... clam on brakes 600 times a day.

Working his brakes so hard on his former car cost him plenty for adjustments and re-lining. But with Plymouth's hydraulic brakes, it's a far different story. They're always equalized. And brake linings last longer!

Brakes are not the only thing that must stand up on Joe Frisher's car. For he puts 50,000 miles a year on the speedometer.

His car is still "tight as a drum" at 11,000 miles. Floating Power engine mountings helped do that. It stands to reason, too, you'd avoid rattles with a welded safety-steel body that has no joints to loosen.

Look at the things that make a car stand up when you look at "all three" low-priced cars—and we think you'll pick a Plymouth.

STANDARD Plymouth priced from $445 to $545. Del. use. Model, 1934 to 1935. Prices are subject to change without notice. All prices F. O. B. Factory, Detroit, Mich.
