'You've Gone Bonkers'

Goldie Is Goldie, Twiggy Isn't

DEAR DICK: My English girlfriend says Goldie Hawn and Twiggy are one and the same person. Could you help me explain how wrong she is and tell her who's who? MARINA ALLISON, Hollywood, Fla.

To explain it to her in her native tongue, tell her: "Coo, lovey, you're barmy, you've gone bonkers and flipped your bloomin' wig." Goldie is Goldie, Twiggy is really Leslie Hornby.

DEAR DICK: Will you please settle an argument between my sister and me? I say Marion Brando was known as a singer before he became an actor. She says he never sang on radio or TV. EDITH DALTON, Joplin, Mo.

You must be thinking of someone else. Marlon may sing in the shower, but that's about all. He did have a singing role, though, in the 1955 film "Guys and Dolls."

DEAR DICK: Please settle a difference of opinion. I say that Guy Lombardo and his band played at the Roosevelt Hotel in New York for many, many years, and while he was there, his New Year's Eve show came from there, too. I am sure I saw a picture of Lombardo there when I was a guest at that hotel a long time ago. R.W.D. Cream Ridge, N.J.

Right you are. Lombardo opened at the Roosevelt Grill in the Roosevelt Hotel in 1929 and stayed there more than 30 years. Later, he did play at the Waldorf-Astoria, and some of his last New Year's Eve shows came from that hotel.

DEAR DICK: Could you please tell me where the movie "The Blue Lagoon" was filmed. What island? L. STANLEY, Tucson, Ariz.

It was filmed on the gorgeous island of Fiji.

DEAR DICK: I was watching the program "Jason of Star Command" and recognized John Russell, who used to play a western marshal in a series. Could you tell me which one? Also, what was the name of the fort in "F Troop"? PAUL ROSS, Lawton, Mich. Russell played Marshal Dan Troop in a series called

"The Lawman." The wild and crazy fort in "F Troop" was Fort Courage. DEAR DICK: Could you please give me some information on John Hurt, who is starring in "The Elephant Man." I'd like to know what other movies he has appeared in. L. PAHLLIK, Michigan City, Ind. Hurt, who is 40, has long been a mainstay in British films, but first attracted international attention in "Midnight Express." He was also in "Alien" and won numerous awards for his portrayal of a homosexual in the TV drama (aired here on PBS) called "The Naked Civil Servant." He is a remarkable actor. DEAR DICK: Who played Sophia Loren as a teen-ager in "Sophia Loren - Her Own Story"? J.D. Pottstown, Pa.

The teen-age Sophia was played by an interesting young actress named Rita Brown.

DEAR DICK: We had an argument at our local pub. I said years ago there was a TV program called "Black Saddle." Everybody just laughed at me and said there was never a program like that. Who's right? BILL SURSHER, Warsaw, IIL

You are, and I hope you wagered a pint or two on the outcome. "Black Saddle." with Peter Breck playing a character named Clay Culhane, ran on NBC for most of 1959, then moved to ABC.

DEAR DICK: I'm furious that Dave Letterman's show was discontinued. It was the best daytime talk show ever. How many others felt the same? D.L.DS. Goldfield, Nev.

At last count, there were eight. You make nine. You may be happy to learn that Letterman just signed a new contract with NBC.

DEAR DICK: I have a $25 bet with my boyfriend. I say that Herb of "WKRP in Cincinnati" and the man who starred with Martin Mull in "Fernwood 2-Night" are not the same. What do you say? L.A.B., Williamsport, Pa. I say you are a rich woman. Frank Bonner plays Herb. Fred Willard was on "Fernwood."

Power Rate Hike OK'd

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) - Florida Power Corp. customers will be paying still more for their electricity under new rates approved by the Public Service Commission but half of the increase in charges will go to the state and federal governments.

The PSC lopped off more than one-third Friday from the $99 million increase PSC staffers still have to make final requested by the utility and instead refinements to the utility's rate tables unanimously approved a permanent hike but estimated the commission's action totaling $58.4 million.

Each dreams of being the first girl to have a grand champion steer. Even if they never achieve this goal, they have proved themselves champions by overcoming the disappointments and been paying $40 million of the increase on hardships they have encountered this vear

> Six months ago there was a time when it did not look as if Heather MacLeod, 15, or her sister, Christy, 12, would have a steer to enter.

In two previous years Heather had raised and entered bull calves born to cows on the family ranch. Last year there were three bull calves born at the right time so Christy and cousin Brent, entered steers as well.

Their months of hard work and devotion paid off when all three won third place in their class in the steer judging at the fair and sold their steers for a good price at the auction. Christy also won first place for her record book.

Heather and Christy made nearly $1,300 a piece when their steers were auctioned off last year. After paying back their parents, Bob and Patsy MacLeod, for expenses and feed bills, they saved their money to buy their own steers for this year's competition.

They chose two of the finest young steers on the Spencer Harden ranch. Heather paid $551 for her Hereford, which weighed 600 pounds and Christy's 540-pounder cost $540. They were confident these hefty steers would give them their best shot yet at top honors.

These 6-month-old big babies had never been separated from their mothers before and they found the experience together with being penned up and transported from their home on the range to Oviedo terrifying.

Soon after he arrived at the MacLeod ranch. Heather's steer went berserk breaking through the wall of his stall, knocking down the fence and running on to State Road 426. Passersby in vehicles, who tried to chase him down only made the animal more desperate. He ran for 6 miles through Oviedo in the 100 degree tempeature.

MacLeod ran for about a mile on foot trying to get the vehicles to stop their efforts to corral his daughter's steer. The animal finally collapsed on the lawn of the Oviedo Post Office, from heat prostration and stroke.

Local Investigator's Experiences Not TV Fare

By BRITT SMITH Herald Staff Writer

It was a miserably hot day in Sanford, the kind of day when Rock Manning's second floor walk-up office imitates a Turkish sauna. Manning was sitting at his desk cleaning his gun and taking occasional swigs from a bottle of stuff that makes you forget the heat, when in walks this blonde with a set of curves that put the entire U.S. highway system to shame.

"Rock? Rock Manning?" she asked, her voice like a satin-gloved hand that caressed him.

"Yeah, baby," he responded, his eyes wandering over the vision before him. As she nestled in a chair opposite him, Manning furtively checked to see if his heart was still beating.

Manning eased back his jacket and slid the Walther PPK out of its side holster. Leveling the barrel into the darkness, he listened for the soft sound of footsteps. Guerrillas Set Deadline

For Killing U.S. Missionary

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) - Leftist guerrillas holding American missionary Chester Bitterman say they will kill him unless the missionary group he works with agrees to get out of Colombia by midnight Saturday.

In the latest of a series of telephone communiques, the kidnappers told two Bogota radio news stations Friday they would unleash a wave of revolutionary violence "beginning with the death of Chester Bitterman" unless their demand was met "by Feb. 21 at midnight."

The guerrillas, members of a hard-line faction of the April 19 Movement, had granted Bitterman a 15-day reprieve only a day earlier. They said this was to give the U.S.-based Summer Institute of Linguistics time to work out the departure of more than 100 volunteers working with remote Colombian Indian tribes. Bitterman, 28, of Lancaster, Pa., was kidnapped in Bogota Jan. 19 by gunmen who invaded the institute's Colombia head-quarters. The kidnappers' mood changed abruptly Friday when they charged the Colombian Defense and Interior ministries and the U.S. Embassy with meddling in the negotiations.

Labor Peace Will Be Plus

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) - The "social cease-fire" that has developed with the end of Poland's last strikes will allow Communist Party Chief Stanislaw Kania to report progress in solving his country's crisis at the Soviet Party Congress in Moscow next week, Polish' and diplomatic sources said.

Government spokesmen have so far not disclosed who from the Polish party will attend the congress, which starts Monday. But they said communist protocol makes it almost mandatory for the leaders of all East European parties to attend such a major event and Kania will be under particular pressure to go because of the internal strife in his country.

The sources said Kania is expected to be called upon to explain to Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev and other East bloc leaders what he has done - and what he intends to do in future - to ease Poland's economic and labor situation.

Pope Meets Refugees

MORONG, Philippines (UPI) - Pope John Paul II met today with Indochinese refugees in blistering heat at the World War II battleground of Bataan, telling them his visit symbolized the Catholic Church's solidarity with refugees around the world.

The pope, nearing an end to his eight-city whirlwind tour of the Philippines, made a swing through three cities Friday, then began another day of island hopping today before returning to Manila.

John Paul told impoverished sugar cane plantation workers in Bacolod, 200 miles south of Manila, they had a right to form labor unions to fight for a "just share" of the nation's sugar profits and adopted the same tome in a stop at Legaspi on main Luzon island.

Homestead Exemption Deadline

The deadline for filing for homestead exemptions is March 2, according to Seminole County Property Appraiser Bill Suber. Suber said persons who have legal title to real property and who live on that property as a permanent home are eligible for the regular $5,000 exemption.

To qualify for the $20,000 exemption, approved by the voters in referendum in October, a property owner must have been a permanent resident of the state for five consecutive years as of Jan. 1, 1981. Initial applications of persons who have moved must be made in person. They must show the deed to their property and auto registration or other proof of residency. Suber said there are other exemptions for certain disabled persons and widows. For more information he advises persons to call the property appraiser's office at the courthouse. Exemption claims for Seminole County residents may be filed at the courthouse or a branch offices at Seminole Plaza or

ROBBERY TRIAL ENDS IN CONVICTION

Twenty-year-old Theodis Jones Jr. was convicted in Circuit Court Friday of robbing an Altamonte Springs grocery store and then trying to cover up the crime.

A six-member jury found Jones guilty of burglary, grand theft, and false report of a crime in connection with the Nov. 5 break-in and robbery at the Disco Food Store at the corner of County Road 427 and Magnolia St. in Altamonte Springs.

Judge Joseph Davis Jr. deferred sentencing pending completion of an investigation into Jones' background. Jones, of 302 Teakwood Lane, Altamonte Springs, could receive up to 11 years in prison.

The key testimony during the two-day trial came from sheriff's department fingerprint expert Marty LaBrusciano who testified that Jones' fingerprints were found on several of the articles - bottles of wine, champagne and beer, cigarette cartons, knives, combs, and bags of potato chips - which were stolen from the Disco store and later found in the trunk of Jones' car.

Assistant State Attorney Norm Levin claims the report was a smokescreen designed to divert attention from Jones and

Jones' defense was that his car had been stolen on the night of the robbery and must have been used in the commission of the throw guilt on some unknown perpetrator.

In other court action, Andrew Williams, 35, of 3011 E. 21st St., Sanford, pleaded guilty to grand theft in connection with the Oct. 3 theft of an automobile from a Sipes Avenue residence in the Midway section east of Sanford.

Sentencing was deferred pending an investigation into Williams' background.

Problem Is Congress, McCollum Says more interested in getting elected than in what appropriation of more money.

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

"The number one issue facing the nation is Congress," U.S. Rep. Bill McCollum R-Altamonte Springs, told a crowd of about 350 Central Floridians at the annual Lincoln Day Dinner Friday night. The event was sponsored by the Seminole County Republican Executive Committee. Pointing out that the Republican Party presently controls the U.S. Senate, McCollum added, "The U.S. House of Representatives is not in Republican hands." "There are still far too many congressmen

Fires don't observe regular business hours as Sanford firefighters found out again early today when smoke was spotted inside the Arthur Treacher's Fish and Chius, 2700 S. Orlando Dr., about 5:15 a.m. today. Patrolman Margo Young said she spotted the smoke while on routine patrol and called the fire department. However, firefighters did not want to wait for the restaurant manager who lives in Orlando to arrive and open the doors. Young said firemen tried unsuccessfully to gain entry by taking the lock off the front door. They then removed the back door and found a smoldering fire in a garbage can. Damage was listed as slight. WOULD-BE ESCAPISTS CHARGED Four prisoners who tried an early Thursday morning breakout of the Seminole County Jail have been charged with attempted burglary, possession of burglary tools, sexual battery, and aggravated assault; Tracy Allen Hansen, 18, theft of a firearm, theft of a license tag, possession of marijuana, and grand theft; Anthony M. Lopez, 20, armed burglary, burglary, possession of burglary tools, and grand theft; and Gary Wayne Hubbard, burglary and criminal mischief. According to sheriff's department spokesman John Spolski the attempted jailbreak occurred about 12:30 a.m. Thursday when the four inmates smashed a glass window with a metal shelf, climbed through and attempted to break a second window leading into a recreation area.

Hearing the racket, prison guards converged on the area and herded the men back to their cells. Spolski said.

Spolski said that even if the would-be escapists had succeeded in breaking through the window, "they would have had ! to scale a 16-foot wall and go over the roof. Then they would have had to climb over the outside perimeter fence" which is 11:30 a.m. robbery in which two hunting knives, a camera, and 12 feet high and topped with barbed wire.

Computer Chip Unveiled

PALO ALTO, Calif. (UPI) - The nation's microelectronics industry may take a significant bound forward with the announcement by Hewlett-Packard Corp. of the development of a new ultrasophisticated computer chip capable of processing the information contained in 1,000 books in a single second. A spokesman for the high technology firm said Friday that scientists have developed a computer chip with a 450,000 transistor capacity - making it by far the most powerful and sophisticated computer chip in the world.

The breakthrough vaults the United States even farther ahead in the global race to make more powerful "microprocessors," the spokesman said. Microprocessors are tiny computers that combine memory and logic on a single silicon chip. They are the "brains" that control computers, space satellites, video games and thousands of other electronic devices. The most sophisticated micro-processors previously developed have contained roughly 200,000 transistors. Most computer chips produced today contain between 40,000 and 70,000 transistors.

Deeper Budget Cuts Sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Senate Budget Committee, unsatisfied with President Reagan's proposals to slash federal spending by $41.4 billion, is considering cutting an additional $8 billion, sources say.

"I think we're going to add a substantial number of items." a committee staff source said Friday, as Reagan representatives sought to sell Congress on Reagan's economic package.

The source said among the possible committee additions to the Reagan hit list are deeper cuts in subsidized housing, a bigger foreign aid reduction and a larger cut in the food-stamp program.

Budget Director David Stockman and Treasury Secretary Donald Regan encountered strong criticism Friday, the second straight day they campaigned on Capitol Hill for Reagan's recovery program.

Although many legislators advocated deeper cuts, others said the president has already gone too far. Democratic leaders have said Reagan would be fortunate to get $25 billion to $30 billion in budget cuts approved.

Woman Wins Green Beret

FORT BRAGG, N.C. (UPI) - Six months after completing the 13-week Special Forces course, Capt. Kathleen Wilder will become the first woman to wear the Army's coveted Green Beret.

The 29-year-old New Orleans native was told Friday the Army had approved her appeal against the director of the Special Forces school at Fort Bragg, who had claimed she did not qualify to become a member of the elite corps. But she argued she received a failing grade because she was the victim of sexual discrimination. Gen. Donn A. Starry, commander of the Army's Training and Doctrine Command, issued the ruling after studying information gathered during a four month investigation by Brig. Gen. F. Cecil Adams at Fort Bragg. Adams had been assigned to probe the charges that instructors and members of the Special Forces school discriminated against Capt. Wilder in the course grading.

"What can I say - I'm very, very happy," she said in a telephone interview from Fort Huachuca, Ariz., where she is taking a six-month advance military intelligence course. "I'm very grateful to Gen. Starry for his courageous decision."

Inmate Guilty Of Murder

STARKE (UPI) - Richard Sherman "Bush Ax" Williams, the first of five Florida State Prison inmates charged with the murders of four other inmates last year, was found guilty of first-degree murder Friday. A Bradford County Circuit Court jury recommended death for Williams. 44, who already was serving a life term for the murder of another FSP inmate in 1973. Circuit Judge R.A. Green ordered a pre-sentence investigation Twice Green had to order guards to remove Williams from the courtroom when he refused to be fingerprinted.

The first time the prisoner was led back into the court-room with handcuffs tied to his waist. When he still refused to be fingerprinted and cursed the judge. Gree ordered him "to be rendered submissive" even if drug injections were necessary. He was finally fingerprinted and signed the prints when a guard unbooked the right manacle of his handcuffs. It took a five-man, seven-woman jury two hours and 22 minutes to find him guilty in the spear

Shuttle Launch Set For April

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) - The maiden flight of America's new space shuttle, Columbia, remains targeted for early April despite a machinists' strike, officials said Saturday.

The plan, they said, is to have supervisory personnel fill in for the strikers.

A highly successful test firing of Columbia's main engines was carried out Friday, but a walkout by an estimated 1,000 members of the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers immediatley raised doubt whether the space ship could get off the ground on schedule.

State 'Paperwork Detectives' Treasury's 1st Line Of Defense

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) - On the 11th floor of Florida's skyrise Capitol, Jere Morrow and her fellow paperwork detectives make sure your state tax dollar isn't wasted. Mrs. Morrow is part of a corps of auditors in the Comptroller's office who approve or reject hundreds of daily claims for payment for state bills. "It's the first line of defense of the treasury." says Mike Coniglio, an assistant to Comptroller Gerald Lewis. "It's a lot easier to stop an erroneous or fradulent expenditure before the bill is paid." Coniglio says the paperwork detectives save Florida taxpayers thousands of dollars. "I'd feel comfortable saying millions, but we don't keep score," he said.

A public defender, for example, once leased a sports car that sells for $14,000 for business trips. The comptroller's office refused to approve it, ordering the official to rent a cheaper vehicle.

"The rental would have been almost as much as the purchase price before he got through," Coniglio said. Several years ago, vouchers to support some overseas travel by Department of Commerce personnel were altered. The fraud was discovered and the culprits were fired and head it up. prosecuted. More recently, a voucher for a $5,000 consultant's contract for the University of West Florida was kicked back and had to be paid from foundation funds rather than taxpayer's money. And a public information director for a major agency had to start buying his own newspapers when a voucher for home deliveries was rejected.

Few people are aware of the job Mrs. Morrow and her colleagues perform, but she doesn't mind the anonymity. "I feel like a necessary cog" in the wheels that turn government, she says. "When you catch something you feel real good."

Mrs. Morrow, who returned to work six years ago after raising two daughters, believes in checks and balances for a business as big as state government which spends hundreds of millions dollars every day. She finds mistakes, usually in the state's favor, but she doesn't think they're intentional. Besides verifying the mathematics, Mrs. Morrow also has to detect claims for payment that appear unjustified, such as mileage that doesn't jibe with the distance on the map, and be sure the detail necessary to justify a trip as legitimate state business is attatched. If an agency buys $2,500 worth of furniture or contracts for a $1,000 printing job, bids must be attached to show that the business wasn't just handed to a favorite person.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) - Philip Testa, reputed heir to slain underworld don Angelo Bruno, and nine other alleged mobsters have been indicted in what authorities call the most significant organized-crime crackdown in Philadelphia history.

The indictments, announced Friday, culminated a lengthy investigation and charged the 10 with "a pattern of racketeering and illegal gambling" between 1972 and 1978, U.S. Attorney Peter Vaira said.

Vaira said the arrests would "put a crimp in the style" of the Fhiladelphia mob, which has been vying with the New York mob for control of Atlantic City's gambling casinos The alleged crimes occurred while Bruno headed the mob in Philadelphia and southern New Jersey, authorities said. After Bruno was shot to death in March 1980, Testa, 46, allegedly assumed command.

"This is the first time we've reached people who are this high in management of crime matters in Philadelphia history," said Vaira, "In the past we've arrested a lot of gamblers, but I'm talking about high-echelon people.' The indictments charged the 10 engaged in a loansharking and mail fraud operation between 1972 and 1975, a wire fraud operation in 1978, and four separate illegal gambling businesses between 1976 and 1978.

In addition to Testa, the indictment named Frank Narducci, 48, Testa's reputed lieutenant; Harry Riccobene, 70; Joseph Ciancaglina, 46; Mario Riccobene, 48; Pasquale Spirido, 41; Joseph Bogiovanni, 34, and Frank Pirmenio, 42 — all of Philadelphia. Carl Ippolito, 72, of Trenton, N.J., and Charles

All were freed on bail, ranging from $40,000 to $10,000. They will be arraigned in about 10 days, officials said.

Marines Can Handle Quick-Strike Mission

President Reagan and Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger should give the Marine Corps full responsibility for this nation's rapid development force.

The rapid deployment mission should be assigned to the corps. Command should be given to the corps commander. Support should be furnished by the Navy, the Air Force and, if necessary, the Army. But the commanding general of the Marine Corps should have the authority, along with the responsibility. for seeing to the success of the mission.

All this seems elementary, given the decision made in the days of Harry Truman's presidency to retain the Marine Corps, with its special identity and traditions, as a co-equal branch of the services.

What has always been the primary role of the Marine Corps? What else but rapid deployment? Why then the bitter struggle in the Pentagon over the command of the Rapid Deployment Force? It is simply that the Army saw an opportunity for expanding the Army's mission that was too good to pass up. They insisted on having a piece of the quick-strike mission. And once involved, they sought to take command. The unification of the services in the Defense Department after World War II did not put an end to interservice fighting.

President Carter created the Rapid Deployment Force in response to the Persian Gulf crisis last year, after the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan and the revolution in Iran threatened the region that is the source of most of the oil that is vital to the economics of Japan and the Western nations.

But Jimmy Carter and his defense secretary, Harold Brown, did not insist that the Joint Chiefs of Staff develop a workable command structure for the new force. Instead, the command responsibility was divided between the Army and the Marine Corps. Predictably, it hasn't worked. The dispute has grown so fierce that the Marine commander of the joint task force expressed fear that the Army is tapping his telephone.

The situation is intolerable. It reflects indecisiveness at the top. The commander-in-chief must not allow his subordinates to squabble in this fashion, no matter how professional their arguments and no matter how intense their oldschool service loyalties may be.

We look to "Cap" Weinberger for an early decision. He is not one to temporize. And we hope he gives the Marine Corps the ball of wax. We know, if he does, the nation will not be disappointed by the results.

Bomb Assurances

The controversy over the neutron bomb has been reopened. It was inevitable that the Reagan administration would want to review the decision made by former President Carter.

The Carter administration decided not to build the neutron bomb but to continue research and development work on the components, in case it was decided later to produce it.

Secretary of Defense Caspar W. Weinberger discussed the neutron bomb at his first press conference, and news services leaped on the story. In so doing, they left out some points Weinberger made and conveyed the impression that the Reagan administration had already decided to go ahead with production.

This disturbed some of our European allies, who are concerned parties to the controversy since it is on their territory that the neutron bombs would .JACK ANDERSON be based.

Secretary of State Alexander Haig had to reassure the Europeans by sending them a complete transcript of the Weinberger press conference and by assuring full consultation before making any decision to proceed with production and deployment of the bomb.

Evolutionism and Creationism are being debated around the countryside - mostly in issues pertaining to the classroom. Those who believe in a holy book also believe in creation. Then there are those who believe we walking around specimens of life are products of evolution So which came first, the chicken or the egg?

One might argue that a certain martin had purple wings. A second simpleton might say that a martin had angular tail feathers.

The first debater would vow that his holy book said a martin has purple wings.

"My science book says it has angular feathers." the second simpleton insists. Wonder if it occured to this pair that both could be right - that all animal life was created by God, and maybe by the process of evolution. One scientific theory is that the human brain was created far in advance of man's ability to use it to the fullest.

Now, if evolution progresses as need demands, as opposed to in advance to need, the theory of volution would not be applicable to the human

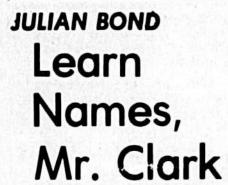

In these days and days ahead, who needs a brain anyhow? From the looks of advanced technology, walking around humans won't have to rely on their memories.

A new form of life is being created today in the laboratory by computer scientists. Silicon has served many purposes including expanding portions of Milady's upper torso in the - uh chest area.

And now, scientists say the "silicon brain" will be ready for delivery by 1995. This is the projection of Robert Jastrow, professor of astronomy and geology at Columbia University and professor of earth science at Dartmouth College. His article on the "Post-Human World" appears in the current issue of Science Digest. In the article Jastrow notes that the human

What would you think of a football coach who didn't know the names of his players? Or a general who didn't know the name of the opposing army?

Or a diplomat who didn't know the names of the world leaders with whom his country nust deal?

Not much, right? Sadly, there is such a diplomat. He is William P. Clark Jr., the former California Supreme Court judge who recently became this country's deputy secretary of state. The deputy secretary is the No. 2 man in the federal department that sets and enforces

U.S. foreign policy. One minimal requirement for that post ought to be knowing the names of the heads of important foreign governments. So, it came as a great shock to hear Clark admit to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that he did not know the names of the prime ministers of South Africa and JEFFREY HART Zimbabwe.

Clark's ignorance apparently does not end at Africa's borders. He frankly admitted to the senators that he knew little or nothing about the rest of the world. Probably he is aware that the Japanese make cars and television sets and that the French make post cards and wine.

Unfortunately, Clark is not alone. Most Americans do not know the names of African heads of state. Most Americans do not know the difference between Cairo and Cape Town, between Milton Obote and Idi Amin, between Senegal and Sierre Leone. Most of us do not have to be experts on Africa. But the deputy secretary of state should at least know the names of that continent's major figures. He should know because one African country, Nigeria, is our second leading supplier of oil. He should know because Africa is an important source of minerals and other raw materials as well as a growing market for U.S. goods. He should know because events in Southern Africa threaten to erupt into a racial war.

During his presidential campaign, Ronald Reagan revealed that he did not know much more about Africa than does Clark. The new president and his advisers seem to view Africans as dispensable pawns in an ideological struggle between the United States and the Soviet Union.

But Africa's problems are not caused by Soviet subversion. They stem, instead, from centuries of exploitation and domination by the faded colonial powers of Europe. Africa's problems can only be solved by international assistance in which the United States can play a leading role. Some of Reagan's advisers have suggested that aid to Africa be sharply cut. Others have said that surplus U.S. food sent to hungry nations-many of them in Africa-should be used as a weapon to starve the unfriendly into America's arms.

These policies are not calculated to win friends and influence people either here or abroad.

Well, you never know. Bell's first official act was to pull the plug on bilingual education. That outraged various Hispanic "spokesmen" and politicians, but it makes sense in terms of the interests of Spanish-speaking schoolchildren.

To have a chance in this country, those children need to know English, and know it well. Perpetuating a linguistic enclave does them no favor. Historically, the public schools have brought successive waves of imprecisely by requiring their children to read, write, and speak English.

From a national perspective, too, bilingualism was a poor idea. The last thing we need is an American version of the Canadian Quebec problem, where a major Frenchspeaking population is at odds with the rest of the country.

Put up a gold star for Secretary Bell. But there's more. In sharp contrast to the outgoing Carter secretary, Shirley Hufstedler, Secretary Bell supports tuition tax credits - which are viewed by the education lobby as pure poison.

Tax credits would ensure that parents are not locked into the public school system, and allow them to seek other options if the local For the Reagan administration, it's so far public school proves unsatisfactory. Tuition so good on education.

But there's still more. At his confirmation hearings, Mr. Bell was mestioned closely by Senator John East of North Carolina about Carter administration moves to "de-segregate" the North Carolina scores. Bell replied to the senator that he would see a "dramatic change" under the Reagan administration. In what must be some sort of record for federal bureaucrats, Mr. Bell cheerfully says that he would like to see himself demoted. The Department of Education should not, he thinks, have Cabinet rank.

"Cabinet rank," she says, "is essential for migrants into the American majority culture those who hope to compete successfully" in the battle of the federal budget. "A decision to exclude education from the Cabinet table," she argues, "will lead inevitably to sharp cuts in federal support for education projects."

education. So three cheers for Mr. Bell.

had a sinking feeling when they saw their 2year-old, Danny Wayne, sitting under a table screaming for no apparent reason. It reminded them of earlier mysterious symptoms among their 13 children.

One son, Michael, had suffered an unexplained three-hour seizure. Two of his brothers had begun holding their hands over their ears and running into walls. A doctor told the parents the boys were mentally retarded.

But the trouble wasn't with the White boys or their genes. It was with their home. In their 17 years in Bloomington, Ill., the Whites have lived in two houses. Both had woodwork lead-based paint was commonly used, of the potential danger to their children.

Internal audits by HUD's inspector general and recent findings by the General Accounting Office show that in the five years the current regulation has been in effect it has been widely ignored. Tenants in many older dwellings are not being notified of the danger signals as the law requires.

Other internal HUD reports found the current regulation being largely ignored in Hayward, Calif., Independence, Mo., Galena, Kan., and Philadelphia, Wilkes-Barre and York, Pa.

Getting The Drop On Foes WASHINGTON (UPI) - It came to light in the afterglow of the election that some of the independent fund-raising committees set up during last year's campaign were basically mail drops.

One committee was said to have listed as its address the office of a firm that provides mail-forwarding services. And $270,000 of the funds it raised were contributed to a group whose address is the same as a firm that rents mail boxes.

Thus it was that a question popped into my mind as I was filling out my 1960 income tax forms. Should I check the box sending a dollar of my taxes into a political fund, or would it be better to contribute the buck directly to a mail Lacking the information to answer that question intelligently, I sought the guidance of Luigi V. Populi, a local political scientist. I said, "With all those campaign funds pouring in, is there a chance that a mail drop might get elected to public office?" Populi conceded that was a theoretical, albeit an unlikely, possibility. "Some of my best friends are mail drops and I can tell you that you rarely find one with political ambitions of its own," he said. "Most of them are content to play a bipartisan backstage role in the campaign.

"The best thing about mail drops is they don't become emotionally involved with the candidates. It's the system they are "The right to make political donations is a very important part of our heritage and must be preserved at all costs. Mail drops work toward that end by faciliating the raising of funds.

"Let's say, for example, you are a lobbyist for a special interest group. You have a big chunk of cash you wish to contribute to a campaign. A mail drop provides a convenient place to send the money to with confident it will wind up in the right hands." I said, "Why not mail the money directly to the fundraising committee's office?" "Two reasons," my mentor explained. "Firstly, the fundraising committee might not have an office. Office space isn't always easy to acquire during a hot political cam-

"Secondly, the candidate of your choice might hear about the contribution and form the erroneous impression that you are trying to curry his favor in case he wins the elec-

I said, "I simply hadn't realized what vital role mail drops play in our political process. Is there any way we ordinary citizens can show our appreciation for the good work they do?"

Populi confided that he and some of his fellow political scientists were petitioning Congress to proclaim a National Mail Drop Day that could be observed with appropriate ceremonies

"Meanwhile," he said, "the next time you are in the neighborhood, stop by and take a mail drop to lunch."

For example, a "Key Operator of the Month Award" has been set up to give a lucky pericilpusher $100 and a plaque for "monitoring" photocopying machines in his or her area. The machines are used by individuals; of course, and serviced by contractors, so what the "key operators" do exactly isn't readily apparent

Another modest NASA giveaway is the "Tech Brief Incentive." This provides the contractors and employees who produce hundreds of full-length reports each year with a little bonus. They get $100 for summarizing their reports in 100 or 200 words - about 10 or 20 typewritten lines.

WHO'S RIGHT?: Jimmy and Rosalinn Carter apparently disagree on the damage done to his re-election campaign by the forces of the so-called New Right. Shortly before he left office, Carter told a visitor he got more votes than Ronald Reagan did from people who consider themselves conservatives. I

Carter said his polls found that while the New Right agreed with Reagan's politics more than Carter's, many of its religious members felt more comfortable with the Carter lifestyle and voted accordingly. However, Carter added, his wife dian" believe those polls, and still blames rightwing zealots for a large role in Carter's

Is This Nuclear Fuel Plant An Atomic Love Canal? and seepage problems are already present.

ERWIN, Tenn. (UPI) - Scarcely noticed, workers wearing special security badges have passed for years through the prison-like gates of the Nuclear Fuel Services, Inc., plant to go about hush-hush business of making uranium into fuel for the nation's atomic submarines.

Sunday, Feb. 22, 1981

Nestled near this sleepy community in the East Tennessee mountains, the plant opened quietly in 1957. For the most part, it operated with little fanfare, churning out fuel and spewing small amounts of radioactive dust into the atmosphere. Of greatest interest to the city's 3,700 residents was that it provided steady jobs and paychecks to some 450 workers. Today, some people say the plant - a cluster of red brick buildings surrounded by a 10-foot high fence - has become a nuclear waste cemetery and is a ticking health time bomb. Erwin is a typical Tennessee mountain town. To passersby, there are no clues that it lies within a few miles of one of the nation's vital defense establishments. Nuclear Fuel Services, a subsidiary of the giant Getty Oil conglomerate, is the only plant in the nation that fabricates uranium for use in the Navy's submarines. The military says it must stay open.

But the plant is, and has been, a production center for atomic materials. It also has become an atomic garbage dump. For example, in addition to the uranium fabricating facility, there is a plutonium factory, ponds where radioactive uranium has collected and more than 200 spots where low-level atomic waste has been buried. Environmentalists claim the plant has lived its nearly 30-year life and should be closed and cleaned up. They claim the operators have a "total disrespect" for the environment and the health of the people around the facility. Federal officials said it is unlikely the plant will, or is, having any adverse impact on humans or animals. But officials admit radioactive uranium is being released into the air and the area's water supply.

Nuclear Regulatory Commission officials say there is no rule on how long a fuel fabrication facility can function and there are no current plans to dismantle the facility in the near future

"A plant like this does not have a life expectancy," said NRC spokesman Ken Clark. "The license is for five-year periods, but there is no automatic cutoff. There could be a time when the plant could no longer meet regulatory requirements, then I guess it would have to be closed."

The plant has been a center of controversy in recent years. Since 1968 the plant has not been able to account for 245 pounds of the highly enriched uranium, enough to make several atomic bombs.

The Nuclear Fuel Services complex was shut down in 1979 because officials could not figure out what happened to 42 pounds of the high-enriched uranium. The plant reopened last March after all but 11 pounds of the material was accounted for and on the urging of Navy officials. A large part of the missing uranium was found caked in the floor and clogged in the equipment at the plant. One source said plant officials took jackhammers and tore up the concrete floor to retrieve some of the lost uranium.

The plant has been the site of several accidental releases of radioactive uranium into the atmosphere. In 1979, almost 3,000 grams of radioactive uranium were vented into the atmosphere. NRC officials stress no evidence of harm was reported from the release or other accidental discharges.

NRC officials say there has been no evidence to indicate any significant increase in cancer among the population. Bob Lilly, an antique dealer from Jonesboro, has been active in a group protesting the plant. "Here we have a dangerous plutonium facility, we have settling ponds that have overflowed on occasion, we have materials buried in the ground - what we have is a dumping ground like the Barnwell (S.C.) dump," Lilly said. "We know the radioactive uranium is being put into the atmosphere and it is seeping into and being flushed into the Nolichucky River.

"I don't know how people can say it is not doing any harm. What it boils down to is the defense needs outweigh the people of this area." Lilly said.

The plutonium facility, located away from the uranium processing center at the plant site, began processing plutonium for experimental and commercial reactors in the 1960s, but halted the operation in 1972. The plant operators hope to dismantle the plutonium facility next year, but plans are uncertain because the authority has not been given to dispose of any plutonium-contaminated materials from commercial operations. "The facility simply is not needed any more," Clark said.

atomic reactor fuel and is one of the most toxic substances

Clark said the equipment and possibly the building where the plutonium operation was centered will have to be disassembled if disposal is allowed.

"At the present time I know of no specific agreement for the disposal of any plutonium," Clark said. "There is some contamination on the inside of the plant but we believe it could return to unrestrictive use."

Clark said low-level waste was buried legally on the site of the 57-acre compound, but he said no trash is currently being buried. He said the burials stopped in the "last couple of vears.'

Since the plant opened in 1957, more than 200 different sites were used to bury the waste. Clark said the buried materials contained radioactive uranium and thorium. Clark said the plant operators do not have to report to the NRC when waste is buried. "As long as the material is buried 4 feet deep and 6 feet apart they can legally do it," Clark said.

"We do not have complete records on how much is buried because for part of the time, the plant was under the supervision of the Atomic Energy Commission (now defunct)," he The plant uses water in its system of fabricating the uranium and the liquid is sometimes discharged into two "settling" ponds. Here the uranium is allowed to settle to the bottom of the ponds and the cleaned water is then pumped into Banner Creek that runs into the Nolichucky River.

Clark said when the plant is closed the ponds will be drained

"It is hard to get people to listen up here. The nuclear plant is the largest employer and pays good bucks," said Lilly. "I'm afraid of what the plant might be doing to peoples' health and the environment."

"We do not believe we are having a seepage problem, but we can't say we have never had a problem," Clark said. "Some uranium is routinely discharged into the Nolichucky River, but they (plant operators) are allowed to do this," Clark said. "We have found that the river above the plant is more highly radioactive from background radiation than the river below the plant."

Clark said when the plant is closed, a decision will have to be made on what to do with the buried waste. "It might be better to leave it where it is," Clark said,

Clark said the Erwin plant could be closed and cleaned up. He said a similar operation, the privately owned U.S. Nuclear Fuel facility in Oak Ridge, Tenn., was cleaned up and no restrictions are now in place on use of the land. Clark said Nuclear Fuel Services is presently upgrading its equipment and there are no immediate plans to close the Erwin facility. NRC leaders, however, have specified that plant officials place $516,000 yearly in an escrow account to pay for the cost of closing and cleaning the plant. Clark said NRC officials would not anticipate any problems in getting the plant closed and cleaned up. "We don't believe we would have any problems here. If we

There will be an organizational meeting for all coaches in the Sanford Little American League, Sanford Little National League and Sanford Junior League at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 25, at the Sanford Recreation Department office in the Youth wing at the Sanford Civic Center.

Try-outs for the little major leagues will be held at 4 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday, March 3-4, at Fort Mellon Park, and try-outs for the junior league will be held at 4 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday, March 10-11, at Chase Park.

Youngsters interested in trying out for any of the leagues may register at any office of the Sanford Recreation Department or at the field on the day of tryouts. The little major leagues are for youngsters 10 to 12 and the junior league is for 13 and 14-year-olds.

Try-outs, for the pee wee league (8 and 9-year-olds) will be held in April, but interested youngsters may register now at any office of the Sanford Recreation

Player participation fees for the 1981 season will be $5 for the pee wee league and $8 for the little major and junior leagues.

There are several openings for umpires and scorekeepers for all leagues. Anyone interested should contact Harry Smith at the Sanford Recreation Department, 322-3161.

Alexander, 66, Rolls 704

Gene Alexander, 66 years young, didn't have your ordinary senior citizen's three game total in Monday's "Washday Dropouts" league at Bowl America. Alexander, normally a 147 bowler, rolled games of 190, 247 and 267 for an incredible scratch series of 704. The big day earned Alexander a patch from the American Bowling Congress and a personalized bowling shirt from the Seminole County Bowling Association. The patch is for bowling 100 pins over his average.

OVIEDO SWEEP

Oviedo's Ronnie Murphy (above) and Fayetta Robinson made a clean sweep of the Burger King Awards last week by turning in outstanding performances for the Lions. Murphy, a sophomore, averaged 23.5 points a game, had 12 assists, a six steals and 23 rebounds as Oviedo captured the Orange Belt Conference. Robinson averaged 17.5 points, grabbed 30 rebounds and set school record for blocked shots. Fayetta is only a freshman.

Renowned Soloists Appearing

With 46th Bach Festival

The Bach Festival Society of Winter Park will feature internationally known guest soloists and the music of Beethoven, Johann Sebastian Bach and Johann Christian Bach in the 46th Annual Bach Festival Feb. 26, 27 and 28 in Knowles Chapel on the Rollins College campus.

Baritone John Reardon, tenor Gene Tucker, mezzosoprano Elaine Bonazzi and soprano Janice Harsanyi will perform with members of the Florida Symphony Orchestra and the 140-voice Bach Festival Choir directed by Dr. Ward Woodbury. Dr. Marie Ann Vos, the musicologist who discovered the

'Gloria'' manuscript in a Swiss monastery,' will give a lecture recital Friday morning of the festival. John Reardon's appearance in the festival will be his second one in recent years.

Joining Reardon in return appearances in the Bach Festival will be Janice Harsanyi and Elaine Bonazzi. Gene Tucker will be performing in the festival for the first time. For information, contact the Bach Festival Society, Rollins College, Box 2731, Winter Park, 32789 (646-2233 or

Play Bingo For Symphony

The Florida Symphony League is sponsoring a $10,000 Bingo give-away for the Florida Symphony on Feb. 28, at Expo Center, across from Bob Carr Auditorium in downtown Orlando, according to Chairperson Brenda Fisher. Approximately $1,000 in cash prizes, merchandise and drawings will be given away through the sessions, which include a Matinee at 1 p.m., Early Bird at 7 p.m., Regular Bingo at 7:30 p.m., and a Late Bird. A free drawing for $500 in Cash will be held, in addition to two $100 Jackpots in the evening sessions. It will be the biggest Bingo event in the area, according to Mrs. Fisher.

Performers Wanted To Tour

Secretary of State George Firestone has issued a call to professional Florida music, theater, and dance groups to apply for participation in the 1982-83 State Touring Program.

The program, started by Firestone in 1979, features the state's top performing arts groups, who bring live, professional productions to rural and less-populous areas of Florida.

Professional performing arts groups interested in participating in the 1982-83 program should request an application form immediately from Sherron Long, Arts Coordinator for the Division of Cultural Affairs, Florida Department of State, The Capitol, Tallahassee, 32301. Completed applications should be returned to Long by April 1, 1981. 1 17 11 1

Giving Boo Her Due

By DORIS DIETRICH

OURSELVES Editor Picture this - about 40 members of Ixora Garden Club putting their attractive heads together - to do - for Boo. "We'll give Boo her due," Sally Rosemond, the president, might have said. "Yes, Boo is due," another clubber might have added, "long overdue." According to Mary McIntosh, Friday the 13th was certainly not an unlucky day for Dorothy (Boo) Ganas when she was honored with a Life Membership in the Florida Federation of Garden Clubs.

Mrs. McIntosh said, "The membership of Ixora Garden Club met to recognize her (Boo's) contributions to numerous endeavors throughout the State of Florida as well as Sanford."

Continuing Mrs. McIntosh added, "Mrs. Ganas is well known in Central Florida for iter flair with flowers. Her designing and planting efforts have been a major conribution to Sanford's beautification programs." I willion In presenting Mrs. Ganas with life-membership in the Florida Federation of Garden Clubs, Ixora Garden Club members enacted a court scene. It was Connie Williams who set the wheels in motion with "Hear ye, hear ye, the Garden Court of Ixora Garden Club is now in session." President Sally Rosemond responded:

"Today I'm to judge and a sentence to

To a member who sits as a friend; The charges stated are not to be debated.

So I order this trial to begin. I'll ask Madame Bailiff to lend a hand,

And escort the accused, Dorothy Ganas, to the stand. Our first witness for the defendant shall speak loud and clear

As she gives her testimony for all to hear." More witnesses took the stand and submitted evidence that Boo should be proudly sentenced to life - life membership. Laura Parker testified for the defen-

"Through the years, Boo's been the one, Ne'er too busy to help out in a pinch; When panic time comes - no solutions at hand. Solving problems for her is a cinch."

Dividends Observe VIP Day By JOE DeSANTIS

Herald Staff Writer There's an old saying that once you leave the old home town, you can't go back again. For many high school and college graduates, the same easily applies to returning to the classroom. Recently I had a chance to walk those hallowed halls of education once again. Not as a student, but as a teacher. The occasion came as part of the Seminole County Dividend's V.I.P. Day last week. A day where local govern-

Even Henry said he's never seen such a And my snake encounter nearly cost me a toe! Judy Wimbish defended Mr. Ganas with

"Not only our club, but the town shows her mark, Her landscapings a thing to behold; Parks, churches, zoo and the chamber are hers. Tho' she will not claim one marigold.' Connie Williams spoke of the accused:

"Long time ago she developed the theme That won national award and acclaim. As chairman of the State Flower Show. "This Is Our Life,"

She brought Ixora and Sanford due fame." So Boo was due

Boo Ganas has lived in Sanford since 1947. She married Fred Ganas while he was in the U.S. Navy stationed at Ft Pierce, her home. They have been living at their present home on Silver Lake for about 31 years and have three sons, Gary, Gregory and Fred Jr.

"It used to be the country," she said. "But it's so built up now. The peacocks are still running all over the place."

Mrs. Ganas, an accredited flower show judge, is a former member of accredited Landscape Design Critics Council and a former president of the Garden Club of Sanford.

Her landscaping techniques have enhanced many Sanford grounds. "I have done a lot of things downtown (Sanford), but I am proudest of the Flagship Bank job. They have taken such good care of it."

Although plant life is a big love of Mrs. Ganas, she is a woman of many talents. "I jump from one thing to another," she aughed. "I just enjoy everything." A short time ago, Mrs. Ganas turned her talents toward making decoupage handbags which she marketed as "Boo Bags." These items were sold at the boutiques in the Comtemporary Hotel and Polynesian Hotel at Walt Disney World. "I couldn't keep up with the demand," she said. Mrs. Ganas also marketed shell belts and dried material and driftwood wall plaques. In the interest of the community, Mrs. Ganas has been a member of county and city beautification and planning boards.

She has been active in designing and implementing numerous local and area landscape projects, has served on awards committees and has taught classes in flower arranging both locally and nationwide.

When Mrs. Ganas' "life" sentence was announced, she was excited. "I have never been so flabber gasted in my life...the tears just kept coming...it was such a complete surprise...I'm so happy.'

In speaking of her assocation with the Ixora Garden Club, Mrs. Ganas said, "We are limited to 40 members. We meet in private homes and we have a waiting list. I've acted as Grandmother advisor. Fred says I'm the grandmother."

Sally Rosemond judged Boo Ganas: "A look at your life has been presented,

Like the petals of a flower unfold; You've brought inspiration to each member here Through your dedication and service untold." And the tears kept coming.

Reporter Returns To Class...To Teach

ment officials, civic leaders and members of the media were invited into the classrooms of schools throughout the county to teach for half-a-day.

My tutorial assignment was at Casselberry Elementary School where I had the pleasure of working with Mrs. Susan Saunder's kindergarten class.

Things have changed slightly from 1960 when I spent my kindergarten days building monsters with play dough and making a mess in Finger Painting 101.

Kindergarten is more like first and second grade. Play dough and recess still remain among favorite student activities, but there's also a strong emphasis on reading and writing these days, perhaps a reflection of our media-oriented society.

"Kindergarten used to be just a social experience," explained the "real teacher" Mrs. Saunders. "Kids absorb a lot of things, they want to know why, and they're interested about anything new," explained the six-year veteran of the Seminole County school system.

The Dividends program runs throughout the school year and the "part time" teachers bring with them as many varied backgrounds and educational levels into the classroom as there are colors of play dough.

Some Dividend workers are retired teachers who still have a strong penchant for the classroom. Some are high school students, others just have a strong interest in a particular subject that they share through the classroom environment. "The program is really valuable to me," explained Mrs. Saunders. "And I think that anybody that takes their time to come in as a Dividend, leaves with a real sense of self satisfaction."

"With another teacher in the classroom it gives me more time to work with the students on an individual basis," she added

Last week's Dividend V.I.P. day was a new experience for many of those who took part. I left the classroom with the impression that the real "very important people" are the teachers who spend each school day helping to mold tomorrow's doctors, lawyers, truck drivers, and yes, even teachers.

The Dividends program is always looking for additional people to come in on a part time basis and work with students. If you've got a few spare hours per week and would like to get involved it's easy.

Just give Dede Schaffner a call at the Seminole County School Volunteers Program at 834-8311. It's a real educational experience.

214 Laurel Ave., celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Tuesday with a reception for about 45 at The Shore in Sanford.

Arranging the reception were the couple's son, Norval Angle, and his wife Mary of Sanford.

The couple's other four children assisting with the festivities were Alice Ware, Lewisburg, W. Va., Clarence Angel, Sanford; Fred Angle, Sanford, and Everett Angle, Newark, Ohio.

Bertha and Britley were married on Feb. 17, at the Baptist Church in Gauley Bridge, W. Va. Rev. G. C. Musich performed the ceremony.

The couple have made their home in Sanford since August 1969. He retired from Rockwell International, Newark, Ohio, on July 16, 1968.

In their golden years, Mrs. Angle says she likes to sew and her husband likes fishing and working in the yard in addition to enjoying their 15 grandchildren and 10 great grandchildren. How does a couple endure a 50-year marriage and five children? "You love your children, love your States for 13 years. He has painted since

DAR Presents Awards During History Month

The Sallie Harrison Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) held its February meeting at the Florida Power & Light Sunshine Room with the Regent, Mrs. William S. Brumley presiding. Mrs. Brumley announced the Florida State conference to be held at the Sheraton Twin Towers, March 1-4, and the 90th DAR Continental Congress in Washington, D.C. April 30 through May 4.

Aside from the Regent, those elected to represent the chapter at the State Conference were Mary Elizabeth Nance, delegate, and Mrs. Talmadge K. Wiley, alternate. As February is American History Month for the DAR, a certificate was presented to Hayley Fensch, of Jackson Heights Middle School, Oviedo, for her essay on Marquis de LaFayette for the subject "Military Leaders of the Battle of Yorktown." This certificate was presented by American History Essay Contest Chairman, Mrs. Mills Boyd. Good Citizen Awards were then presented by Committee Chairman Mrs. Paul Mikler to winners Rose Marie Reynolds Lake Brantley High; Lisa Gergick, Lake Howell; Charles Lorenz, Lyman; Keith Eubanks, Oviedo, and Kim Harvey, Seminole High. Lisa's essay was selected for state-wide competition.

These five students were selected at their individual schools on the merits of their high school activities, grade transcripts. the DAR requirements of honor, service, courage, leadership and patriotism, and the writing of an essay entitled "Our American Heritage and My Responsibility To It." Refreshments were served to 19 members and 15 guests attending.

'Year Of Disabled' Underway

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD The U.S. Council for the International Year of Disabled Persons (IYDP) officially kicked off its year-long program on

Feb. 6. Tens of thousands of individuals nationwide are undertaking community and corporate programs expected to have farreaching consequences for 35 million Americans with physical and mental disabilities. "The program planned for 1981 is in sharp contrast to those organized for other International Years," said Alan A. Reich, president of the U.S. Council for the IYDP. The Council's program will involve thousands of communities across the country. "It is only the beginning of the Year, and already 1,500 towns and cities from Worcester, Massachusetts to Tacoma, Washington, are actively involved in our IYDP program," said the Council president.

Reich said the Council sponsors two key "Partnership" programs, Community and Corporate, through which inlividuals can help develop and participate in programs that meet the local needs of their disabled citizens. "Lasting, positive change in the lives of nearly 80 million persons - 35 nillion disabled Americans and their immediate families only can take place by tackling problems at the local level," Reich reported.

involve creating job banks for disabled employees; building new residences for mentally impaired adults; and promoting greater accessibility for disabled persons in shops, theatres, hurches, libraries, schools and other community buildings,' Mr. Reich explained.

Reich said these efforts "may well herald a new type of human services - major initiatives in the 1980s by corporations and communities to solve the community-based problems that the federal government, with all of its money,

Speaking about the Corporate Partnership Program, U.S. Council Chairman adn Xerox Corporation President David T. Kearns said that more than 100 major corporations already have pledged active involvement in the IYDP.

When Longfellow mentioned "the spreading chestnut tree" everyone pictured it. Likewise it wasn't hard to envision "the trail of the lonesome pine." But little has been written about a single white birch. It's always a stand of birches.

Perhaps because birches are like people. They're the same in many ways, yet each is different. And their true magnificence cannot be realized seeing one alone. It's when they stand together that their diversity blends into a oneness which can be spectacular.

In the worship and activities of the church we gain the true perspective of our individuality - and our community. The church cares about you as a person. Yet it helps you learn to care about the society of which you are a part. It inspires each to serve all. To achieve oneness of faith and spirit despite our diversity.

In South Florida Religious Voodoo Flourishing

MIAMI (NEA) — Rafael Gonzales thinks somebody is trying to do him in. He says a decapitated rooster was left on his doorstep recently. And just before Christmas he received a package containing a small doll whose heart was pierced with a knitting needle and whose neck was in a noose.

Roosters and dolls? What is this? "It's my former wife," Gonzales says melodramatically,

"she believes in Santeria. She thinks I dumped her and she's trying to get even with magic. I don't think she can. I don't think these things work. But I admit the chicken at the door was terrifying, and I suppose I'm a little shaken."

Truth to tell, Gonzales, a clerk, is also a little nervous. The practice of Santeria, a form of religious voodoo, has begun to flourish in South Florida. The faith is traditionally kept by rural Cubans, and the latest waves of refugees has rekindled interest in and fears of the pagan activity.

"It's spreading like fire," Gonzales says. "At night you can hear the drums beating in some neighborhoods. And people are digging up the graveyards to find old bones to use. Everybody worries about it, at least a little bit. You never know what an old adversary or ex-wife is trying to do to you."

In his case Gonzales thinks the former Mrs. Gonzales is trying to send him to his reward. The doll with the knitting needle was mostly a symbol, he thinks, but the dead rooster meant business. "It's the idea, mostly, all that blood and everything. You start to worry that it might happen to you." Officially, of course, Gonzales is worrying for naught. Dead chickens are dead chickens and nothing more. Besides, Santeria officials say their practice has nothing to do with the black arts. The officials insist the religion is a positive form of voodoo and is devoted to good rather than evil.

In fact, the devotees say Santeria is as Christian as Roman Catholicism, if not as old. The popular theory is that the religion was formed a few centuries ago, in the Caribbean, when slaves began to incorporate African rituals with their belief in Christ. The result was a new faith in white magic. That faith, early on, was rooted in cures and optimism. Priests used herbs to tend the sick, and if that didn't work

Organizations and persons

No two experiences are ever the same, but then we are not seeking sameness. God's spirit is able to reproduce uniqueness. Our need is not always for salvation. Sometimes the need is for the Holy Spirit to teach and revitalize something already within us. This takes that patient waiting which we are admonished to have by the scriptures. When I speak of the necessity of concern on the part of people - I think I do so with understanding. Isaiah says, "Lo, this is our God: we have waited for him, and he will save us: this is the Lord; we have waited for him. we will be glad and rejoice in his salvation." Isaiah 25:9. You should not be discouraged at your faults; rather bear with yourself in correcting them as you would with your neighbor. Lay aside the attitude of mind which exhausts the body and leads only to the committing of other errors. You should seek to accustom yourself gradually to carry prayer into all of your daily responsibilities. Speak, move, work, in peace as if you were in prayer as indeed you ought to be. Do everything without undue excitement by the spirit of grace.

animals were sacrificed to appease the gods. The priests also concocted a variety of oils and amulets, this to help the true believers attract wives, husbands and or prosperity.

Even today, the cures and the optimism continue. Dozens of herb shops, called botanicas, are located in the Cuban communities here, and they offer hope for the hopeless. The stores sell colognes labled "Success" and "Come to Me"; likewise, there is one aerosol room deodorant called "Fast Money." And yet Santeria is not altogether utilitarian. As it has grown it has undergone changes, one of which is an association with more devious superstitions. Despite its pious beginnings, the priests admit that many followers in South Florida may be using the faith for ulterior purposes. Gonzales's ex-wife, for instance. And that is just one illustration. Police throughout this area report increases of Santeria threats and animal sacrifices. The animal killings have become so common that the Humane Society of the United States has been alerted; and keeps anon-going in-

Judges trying Cubans have had rituals performed in their courts. Physicians thought to be less than competent have received mutilated effigies. Even Anita Bryant was once hexed, when gay Cuban activists called up the wrath of the Santeria god "Inle" whom they suppose protects male Inle is only one of the Santeria gods. There are hundreds of others who protect weaklings from bullies, and workers from employers. Believers say each diety has a favorite animal, such as a goat or pigeon, and Santerians perform sacrifices so that the grateful gods will carry out their wishes.

Thus far, apparently, no one has been directly harmed by the wishes, though Miss Bryant has suffered a divorce and has moved away. But Gonzales the clerk says he is not feeling so well anymore. "My mind plays tricks. I know it's silly, but I can't help it. I don't sleep we'l, for one thing."

Here then is the real worry of Santeria. Julio Garcia, a priest of the faith, says that like any religion it can generate psychological effects. "If you think that our magic will help

........... An a trastate 47245 Zenitti an idalar Doll used by devotees of Voodoo you, it will help you. On the other hand, if you think something will hurt you, then maybe it will."

And so Rafael Gonzales, who knows it's all nonsense, has gone on the defensive. He has began to frequent a botanica in Little Havanna, where he buys the roots and perfumes. One of the perfumes is called "Jinx Remover," he says, laughing uncomfortably. "By God, I'm never going to get married

Mediums who comprise what Keene calls the "psychic mafia" keep files on "seance freaks" and swap their confidential items with other mediums.

Other fraudulent mediums have other ways.

There was the medium and his confederate who traveled from one small town to another, staying just a couple of days in each place. The confederate, posing as a traveling salesman, would arrive in town a month or two ahead of the medium. A sociable, likeable sort, he would be able to collect all the latest gossip and the family history of everyone. Before long he knew everything about the townspeople that was worth knowing. After leaving the town, the salesman would gather all his material together and forward it to his cohort, the medium. The rest was easy.

There other tricks Keene resorted to. Take ectoplasm - the mysterious substance in which the spirits of the dead clothe themselves at seances in order to be seen.

"It's really chiffon," says Keene. "The average person has no conception of how compressible chiffon is. Enormous quantities of it can be wadded into a ball small enough for a man to hide in his underwear."

In the darkened scance room, Keene would unroll the ball of chiffon and wind it around himself until it enveloped him. What the sitter thought he was seeing was a spirit materializing. Are people so gullible they don't know they are being oaxec

As we learn from the bereaved characters in Gian-Carlo Menotti's opera "The Medium," to those who want to believe, no amount of explanation or denials will convince them they are being duped.

It is this overbelief leading to gullibility that helps make it possible for the "psychic mafia" to rake in the millions.

Stromberg-Carlson Installs Digital Exchange In Korea

TAMPA, FLORIDA, - Stromberg-Carlson, a subsidiary of General Dynamics and a worldwide leader in digital telecommunications systems, recently delivered a SYSTEM CENTURY Digital Mobile Office (DMO) to the Republic of Korea. The DMO is a fully featured digital exchange office and will be the first such switching system to be installed in Korea. The equipment was provided as part of a contract agreement with the Office of Supply and the Ministry of Communications of Korea. The System can be connected to the Stromberg-Carlson Assistance Team (SCAT) service center, located in Sanford, if required, to provide immediate assistance with service needs. Stromberg-Carlson Corporation has its corporate headquarters in Tampa, manufacturing facilities in Lake Mary and a research and development center in Longwood.

ABC Aids Tourism Institute

ABC Leisure Attractions, Inc., a subsidiary of the American Broadcasting Company, has contributed $3,000 to the Dick Pope Sr. Institute for Tourism Studies at the University of Central Florida.

John Cambell, president of ABC Educational Contribution Program. "The objective of the grant," Campbell stated, "is to encourage the development of professional training programs for Florida's visitor industry."

UCF's Dick Pope Sr. Institute was formally established last September. Initial funding for the Institute was provided through a grant from the Orlando Area Chapter of the Florida Public Relations Association

Symphony Receives Grant

Robert Klingler, chief executive officer of ComBank, has announced that ComBanks Corporation is giving a grant of $10,000 to the Florida Symphony Orchestra. ComBank will sponsor three outdoor performances by the Symphony appropriately called, "ComBank Concerts in the Park."

The first ComBank Concert in the Park will be the orchestra's performance at the Winter Park Art Festival on Sunday afternoon, March 22 at 2:00. This concert, as all of the ComBank Concerts, will be open to the public at no charge.

The second concert will be an evening performance at Lake Eola as part of Orlando's Fourth of July celebration. The third concert will take place next fall at a park to be announced.

PASS Available To Business

JACKSONVILLE, FL ... The U.S. Small Business Administration is currently searching for small businesses that would like to be contacted to bid on Federal procurements. Under a new program called PASS (Procurement Automated Source System) small businesses will have nearly unlimited potential to participate in Government contracts, which last year totalled $80 billion, of which $19 billion went to small businesses, according to Douglas E. McAllister, Jacksonville District Director for the SBA.

McAllister said, "PASS will allow small businesses with one simple registration to have access to more than 300 major procurement centers of the Federal Government and 60 prime contractors located throughout the United States. It's a simple to complete one-page form."

To obtain a PASS registration form, write to PASS, U.S. Small Business Administration, Box 35067, 400 W. Bay Street, Jacksonville, Florida 32202 or call (904) 791-3787.

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) - Police officers say they'll keep looking today for an 8-year-old schoolgirl who disappeared Friday -- perhaps in the green and white car of a stranger who said he would take her to a birthday party.

Dozens of deputies combed the woods behind Rock Lake Elementary School Sunday, but came up empty-handed in their search for Tshwanda Rene Leacock who was to celebrate her eighth birthday the afternoon she disappeared.

"All we really know is she normally rides a bus home from school, she missed the bus and she was last seen at the school," said Terry Tressler, spokesman for the Orange County Sheriff's Department.

Ms. Tressler said schoolmates interviewed by detectives tell conflicting stories about what happened to the girl. Some say Tshwanda ran back to the schoolyard to get her books and missed the bus, others say she hopped into a greenand-white car with a man who told her he was going to take her to a birthday party.

The latter explanation has led to inevitable comparisons between the disappearance of 20 black children in Atlanta, but Ms. Tressler said it is far to early to draw conclusions.

The grass roots movement has spread in and around auto plants from Flint to Detroit. Most protesters are employed by General Motors Corp. and many are white-collar workers.

Leonard Nawrocki, IRS manager of criminal investigations in Flint, Sunday estimated at least 3,500 workers are falsifying their tax forms or not filing at all. The number of protesters, he said, is growing.
