Jobless: Lowest In 3 Years

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's unemployment rate fell to 6.1 percent in February, the lowest level in more than three years, the Labor Department reported today.

The report said a record-high 56 percent of the nation's population was employed last month. Six of every 10 Americans held jobs.

The coal strike and bad weather had only marginal impact on employment, the department said. It estimated more than 100,000 people were hired last month, swelling the nation's job rolls to 85 million workers.

An estimated 6.1 million persons looked for work in February, but were unable to find it.

The jobless rate was 6.3 percent in January and averaged just under 7 percent for all of 1977.

The February rate was the lowest since 5.9 percent in October, 1974 — the month that preceded massive factory layoffs as the nation moved into its worst recession in 40 years.

The department said 3.7 million persons have gained jobs since February a year ago.

The report was good news for President Carter and it followed on the heels of a bid cut from the Labor Department Thursday — wholesale prices rose 1.1 percent in February. It was their biggest jump in more than three years.

Improving job conditions and waning inflation seem to indicate that the national economy has returned to last-year standards after three unprecedented years in which both inflation and unemployment worsened in tandem.

Traditionally, an employment improvement worsens because more dollars are in circulation. As employment worsens, inflation improves.

The jobless rate for blacks and adult women showed the biggest improvement last month, the department said.

Black unemployment dropped a full 1 percent to 11.8 percent while the women's jobless rate fell from 6.1 to 5.7 percent.

Adult men showed less improvement, dropping from 4.7 to 6.3 percent. The jobless rate for teenagers worsened from 18 to 17.4 percent. Help wanted signs lured many youths back into the labor market.

Over the past 12 months, the white unemployment rate has dropped 29 percent while joblessness among blacks has fallen 5 percent.

The average term of unemployment fell by a half week to 12.5 weeks, reflecting a relatively large decline in the number of persons unemployed six months or more.

SWINGIN' IN THE RAIN

The weatherman said 1.1 inches of rain fell on Seminole County Thursday, but if you stuck a ruler in the middle of this mini-swamp, you would probably find more rain than that. Actually it's not a swamp at all. It's the playground at Hopper Elementary School. Play was rained out for the day.

Altamonte Clerk, 17, Home Safely After Kidnapping

By DONNA EITZ

A 17-year-old Altamonte Mall snack bar employee, kidnapped at gunpoint from the shopping center at 9:30 Thursday night, was safe at home in Winter Park today.

The girl, Jennifer Granberry, daughter of Mrs. Wade McHowell of Winter Park and Edwin F. Granberry Jr., W. Palm Road, was picked up by her mother this morning from the Jacksonville police station and arrived home at noon today.

The girl was found by police in the car with her abductors about 1 a.m. today in Jacksonville. The car had been stopped by Florida Highway Patrol after a report the driver had left a gasoline station without paying for gas.

"Jennifer is pretty shook up. We've just got in from Jacksonville and haven't had any sleep," Mrs. McHowell said. "Jennifer was unharmed."

"Jennifer is a very dependable girl" and when her daughter did not arrive home from work at the regular time she became concerned.

Mrs. McHowell said she drove out to the Altamonte Mall and when she could not find her daughter's car, she notified the Altamonte Springs Police. They were passing the Altamonte Mall when they saw Jennifer Granberry coming out of the mall between 9:30 and 9:30 a.m. Thursday.

"The trio decided to get a ride with her. They drove into the mall lot and one of the youths got out of the Volkswagen, walked to the car, Jennifer was getting ready to drive off, pointed a .38 caliber five-shot pistol at her and ordered her to slide over to the passenger side of the driver's seat.

The three were taken into custody at 1 a.m. today, according to Jacksonville Sheriff's Public Information Officer Mike Good, who gave this account of the kidnapping and arrest of the three youths for kidnapping.

"The three youths, driving in the Volkswagen loaded with their clothing, went from Orlando to Altamonte Springs. They were passing the Altamonte Mall when they saw Jennifer Granberry coming out of the mall between 9:30 and 9:30 a.m. Thursday.

Police identified the three suspects as John Christopher Bailey, Steve Frederick Taylor and Kerry Don Holler, all of Orlando.

Rains Wash Out Phones

About nine telephone customers in the north end of Sanford, including the Evening Herald, were without telephone service for several hours Thursday when rain poured into a cable, according to Tom Hunt, Sanford Manager for Southern Bell.

Hunt explained that work crews were repairing an underground cable when heavy rains hit.

"They were splicing the cable and the rain poured into the hole faster than the pumps could carry it out. The rains got into the spliced cable and knocked out service for a couple hours," said Hunt.

"It took about two hours for them to dry the cable before they could get back into finishing splicing it," said Hunt.

73-Year-Old Seminole Woman Bilked By Con Artists

Two smooth-talking women bilked a 73-year-old Seminole woman out of $1,030 in what Seminole County sheriff's deputies described as a confidence game.

The con game involved a non-existent lawyer identified only as "attorney Kramer" by the unfortunate con-game victims, Mary E. Butler, of Apt. P-1, St. Johns Village Apartments, 366 Oxford Road.

Here's what she told sheriff's deputies about the incident:

Miss Butler was walking outside the Fern Park Zayre store at 17-45 and State Road 438 Wednesday afternoon when she was approached by two women. Miss Butler never learned their names.

One of the women told Miss Butler she had found a wallet. When the wallet was examined, the film-flam artist appeared almost faint and said there was $45,000 in the wallet.

Miss Butler saw a large amount of money in a white envelope in the wallet along with tickets from a race track.

One of the con artists said she worked for "attorney Kramer" whose offices were at a bank building on U.S. 17-88 in Casselberry and that she would ask his advice about keeping the money.

The three women then took the bank in a yellow compact car driven by one of the con artists. When they arrived at the bank building, one of the con artists went inside and came out a short time later, saying attorney

Kramer had told her the money was "good American money," did not have to be reported to police and that each of the three women could have $10,000.

First, said one of the con artists, Miss Butler would have to withdraw her money from the bank — though the con artist said she didn't know why — and that attorney Kramer would then talk to Miss Butler alone.

The trio drove to Miss Butler's Matland bank, where Miss Butler withdrew $800 from her bank account. She gave the $800 to the two con artists, along with $230 cash she was carrying in her wallet from a Social Security check Miss Butler had cashed.

The three then drove back to the Casselberry bank-building "offices" of attorney Kramer. One of the con artists went inside and came out a few minutes later saying she had her $10,000. The con artist then told Miss Butler to go inside and talk to attorney Kramer.

There was no "attorney Kramer." Miss Butler was told by bank building employees no one by that name had an office in the bank building.

When Miss Butler came out of the bank building the two women were gone with Miss Butler's $1,030. So was the car the pair had used to drive her from the Zayre store to the bank.

Miss Butler says she's sure she can identify the two women who bilked her — if she ever sees them again. Sheriff's deputies are investigating. MARK WERNBERG

Seminole Clerk Sues Commission Over 'Owed Salary'

Seminole County Clerk of the Circuit Court Arthur H. Beckwith Jr., Thursday sued the Seminole County Commission in circuit court here over $5,946.21 the clerk claims he's owed in added salary for the period July 1, 1969, through Dec. 31, 1973.

The money Beckwith claims he's entitled to is part of a $13,382 accrue account Beckwith established for the years 1969 through 1973 "based on calculations we made interpreting state laws prior to 1969 governing the clerk's salary," the clerk said today.

Beckwith stated the accrue account in 1969 with $5,946.21 in revenues to his office from fees and commissions, he said.

If his motion for a declaratory judgment is granted he would receive $5,946.21 and the county would get $1,394.85, Beckwith said today. If the court rules against Beckwith, the county commission would receive $13,479.94 and Beckwith would get nothing. In either case, the remaining $5,782.25 would go to pay clerk's office expenses for the rental of office equipment, Beckwith said.

In filing the suit, Beckwith claimed he's not angry at commission members. "I'm just following the recommendation of state Auditor General Ernest Ellman," the clerk said.

Ellman, in a March 9, 1976, audit of the county's financial accounts for the years 1967 through 1975, said the laws should be "revisited by an appropriate judicial forum."

The substance of the suit hinges on whether the court rules that an 18th Judicial Circuit Court decision in 1973 in a Brevard County case applies to Seminole, according to Beckwith. Brevard and Seminole are both in the 18th Judicial Circuit.

The 1973 ruling, by Circuit Judge Volo A. Williams Jr., set a minimum salary for Brevard County Clerk of the Circuit Court Curtis Barnes, Beckwith said. At the time Barnes filed the suit, the clerk's salary was based on a percentage of fees the clerk's office collected.

The state law governing the clerk's salary has since been changed in a series of amendments starting in 1959, said Beckwith. The salary now is based on the size of the county, and Beckwith's current salary is $20,000, he said.

Beckwith's suit argues the Brevard County case doesn't apply to Seminole and that he's entitled to the $5,946.21. Auditor General Ellman, in his 1976 report, said the Brevard case applies to Seminole since both counties are in the same judicial circuit.

Ellman cited on Aug. 21, 1975, attorney general's ruling which Ellman says supports his

On The Wrong Track

There were 7,000 derailments on U.S. railroads during 1977.

The only consolation in that shocking statistic is that the great majority of them had only minor consequences — a delay of freight or passenger and an expense to the railroad companies.

But in recent days we have seen how tragic and devastating the consequences can be — 20 persons dead and scores injured from an explosion of propane gas in one case and the release of chlorine gas in the other.

Obviously, Congress did not accomplish everything it hoped with the passage in 1976 of the Federal Railroad Safety Act and the hazardous Materials Transportation Act.

Both of these acts were aimed at reducing the danger to railroad employees and the public from transportation accidents.

Only last fall, the Transportation Department issued new rules for tank-car design in the event of a derailment.

The 200 federal inspectors assigned to enforce railroad safety rules may not be enough, and Transportation Secretary Brock Adams is urging that another 100 be added.

That may not be a solution, either. If freight trains loaded with toxic or explosive materials continue to travel over poorly maintained track and roadbeds.

The government should see that track maintenance gets higher priority in the subsidy program currently shoring up the sick railroad industry.

Dangerous materials have to be moved from one place to another, and shipping them by rail is the safest alternative.

But even that alternative leaves the public exposed to disaster if repair, maintenance and safety precautions are neglected in the troubled economies of railroading.

The continuing peril was underscored right here in Florida, with those massive deaths in the peninsula city of Youngstown. What followed was a tragedy that could be the first of many arising from that tragedy.

There is no question, then, that something has to be done from the top down, with the federal government taking whatever remedial and preventive action is necessary to protect all our citizens in every part of this nation from repeat performances.

China And U.S.

The words of Communist Party Chairman Mao Zedong to China's 10th National People's Congress were tough.

The People's Liberation Army, he said, "must make all preparations necessary for the liberation of Taiwan."

The United States, friend of the Nationalist Chinese who fled to Taiwan after the Communist victory in 1949, will be confronted over the reunification of China.

Previous references to the Communist desire to bring the United States under the Peking regime have stopped short of military threats.

But Mao also indicated that China would continue its policy of improving relations with the United States and other Western nations.

The American response must assume that the Matter is being handled to meet or pay more attention to China's needs.

Washington must focus on the positive aspects of the Mao message, which are contingent upon continued efforts to bring China into the mainstream of world politics and world trade.

Jerry Brown Gets His Fair Share

WASHINGTON — When it comes to splitting an opportunity and making some, no politician in the country can hold a candle to California Gov. Jerry Brown.

Although he normally scores such gatherings as a waste of time, Brown showed up last night for the water meeting of the National Governors Association and presented to turn the three-day conference into a training media event featuring — guess who?

In Jimmy Carter's backyard, he invited the president for proposing a cut in federal income taxes which would be extended and published in the form of a booklet for distribution to commission meetings.

The booklet would include programs and activities which would be presented and published in the form of a booklet for distribution to commission meetings.

Both of these acts were aimed at reducing the danger to railroad employees and the public from transportation accidents.

VIEWPOINT

A More Secure Identity

Making it more difficult to acquire a Social Security card, as the government is doing, is a significant step in the effort to curb the influx of illegal aliens into the United States.

Over the years, the Social Security card has emerged as a kind of unofficial identity card. Social Security numbers figure in just about every computerized dealing with the public from federal income tax returns and state drivers license registrations to department store charge accounts.

For alien, a Social Security card also serves as a kind of work permit and, up until now, was obtainable virtually for the asking.

No more. To prevent "the possible misuse of the Social Security card as an indicator of lawful status in the United States," the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has decided to require applicants to submit "documentary" evidence of age, identity and citizenship or alien status.

This alone won't solve the illegal alien problem, unfortunately. There is an efficient forged document industry with branch offices along the U.S.-Mexican border, capable of providing an illegal immigrant with anything he might need.

A half-dozen states seem to have found a reasonably effective way to hold down hospital costs.

The states — New York, New Jersey, Maryland, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Washington — are telling hospitals how much they can raise their rates each year. And apparently they are trying to compete.

In New York, hospital costs leveled off last year despite a 16 percent rise in hospital costs nationally. One reason is that hospitals in New York state had done a better job of containing costs. Similar economies were carried out in the other five states, all of which had hospital cost increases below the national average.

The experience does seem to show that restraints imposed at the state level can work and may be more practical than President Carter's plan to limit hospital cost increases to 9 percent a year by congressional decree.

There are so many variations and special situations among (and within) states that trying to impose a single cost-control standard from Washington may be unwise.

Whatever the fate of the Panama Canal treaties themselves, the opening of debate on the floor of the Senate was in itself an historic event.

It marked the first-ever broadcast of a congressional debate, and while the deliberations carried live to an estimated 4.5 million viewers on the 21-station National Public Radio network, the debate was also being carried on the airwaves of commercial networks, cable systems and such, non-commercial stations.

The knowledge that they were being overheard did wonders to sharpen up the senators and keep them on the business at hand. There was a minimum of grandstanding and a maximum exchange of opposing views.

How To Watch TV?

By PATRICIA MC CORMAK
UPI Education Editor

Johney, that All-American dummy, can't read, write, add, subtract, divide — as you know.

To keep this non-verbal, you also know there's an elusive female dummy on the school scene. Her name is Janie. And she can't do all those things either.

Every schoolroom in America is supposed to have students following the non-performance grades of poor Johney and pitiable Janie.

The last of things Johney and Janie can't do is growing. The latest addition: Watching television in an intelligent manner.

Johney can't, says the National P.T.A. And neither can Janie.

But the two dumb ones needn't feel so degraded over this latest shortcoming. The P.T.A. says most students are deficient when it comes to being able to watch television in an intelligent manner.

The reason: There is no course in viewing skills — a problem the National P.T.A. proposes to remedy over the next several years.

Mrs. Grace M. Robinson, president of the National P.T.A., told all about it the other day in New York. She told it to the International Radio and Television Society, a group that is composed of broadcast executives.

Mrs. Robinson, from Washington, D.C., said the P.T.A.'s new television project is to prepare comprehensive curriculum materials — four different curricula — as intelligent viewing.

There will be one for kindergarten through grade 2, another for grades 3 through 5, another for grades 6 through 8, and a fourth, for high-schoolers.

Witnesses came from the ranks of law, medicine, religion, psychology, education and included parents and students.

In city after city, speakers cited the reality of television in the lives of children, and the need for parents and teachers to accept that reality.

Speakers also called for a comprehensive curriculum in viewing skills. The call came from broadcasters as well as professional educators and parents.

"We were told over and over that educators and parents and students need to learn to deal with television constructively because it is a medium that is here today," Mrs. Robinson said.

"We were told to equip the children with the ability to 'read' television on the intellectual, the affective and the subliminal level."

The curriculum the P.T.A. has on the drawing board will do just that — it is hoped.

Harris-Hunter A Capitol Hill Sizzler

WASHINGTON — There is nothing that produces as much controversy as a protected, better, only political variable. Such a lead is now rearing its head in the backrooms of Washington between the nation's top two housing authorities, Patricia Harris and Clifton Whitten.

The stakes are high: control over the $6 billion, government-subsidized mortgage market.

The battle Harris has set a stinging, early move in the White House, setting back the bid of her opponent, Whitten, who wants his share on the Federal National Mortgage Association, popularly known as Fannie Mae.

Whitten's bid to take over Fannie Mae has been rejected by the Federal Reserve Board, which has been urged by Harris to do so.

Harris' bid has been rejected by the Federal Reserve Board, which has been urged by Harris to do so.

Oldest Flying Creature Found

LONDON (UPI) — The remains of the oldest known flying creature — a dragonfly with an 8-inch wingspan that buzzed over Britain 300 million years ago — has been found in a lump of coal, officials disclosed Thursday.

Erastripterion bolsoverii" was discovered in a mine shaft 3,000 feet below the surface in the Bolsover region by a worker who noticed a piece of coal shaped like an insect's wing.

The Coal Board sent the specimen to London's Natural History Museum, which eventually identified it as a species of dragonfly that filled over the countryside in an era before birds had evolved.

Then she added, "I guess I'm more of a household word than John, but John is the candidate and I'm the candidate's wife."

State Republican House Leader Dennis Cawthorne wasn't exactly buying the disclaimer. Eyeing the candidate's wife, he quipped. "Who's Warner?"

Somalia Withdraws Troops From Ogaden

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — Somalia has announced it will withdraw its troops from the Ogaden desert in response to suggestions by the "big powers" that Cuba and the Soviet Union also remove their forces from the seven-month war.

The surprise announcement came three days after Somalia's loss of the strategic Ogaden town of Jijiga to Cuban-led Ethiopian forces and a tank battle which sent Somali forces fleeing in full retreat.

"Today when the big powers have suggested that the problem of the Horn of Africa be solved peacefully and that all foreign troops withdraw," the Central Committee of the Somali Revolutionary Socialist Party has decided to withdraw the Somali units," a cabinet official said in a statement read Thursday on Radio Mogadishu.

Somali Justice Minister Abd Al-Salam Sheikh Hasan, who also is acting information minister, said that Somalia had been "advised by big powers to solve the problem in a peaceful manner."

The broadcast coincided with President Carter's news conference in Washington in which he said Somali President Siad Barre told him by telephone he would withdraw all Somali troops.

Carter said once Somali forces had withdrawn from the Ogaden, "the withdrawal of Soviet and Cuban forces should also begin."

"The United States looks forward to the withdrawal of all foreign forces from that region at an early date," Carter said.

An estimated 11,000 Cuban troops, 1,000 Soviet advisers and an estimated $1 billion in Russian arms were thrown into the Ethiopian counteroffensive to drive Somali forces from the Ogaden, an area the size of Great Britain that Somalia invaded in July.

Somalia's readiness to pull out of the Ogaden — home for 1 million ethnic Somalis — "The United States looks forward to the withdrawal of all foreign forces from that region at an early date."

Leftists Lead As French Vote Nears

PARIS (UPI) — The French Communist Party is setting divisions within the leftist coalition in a last ditch effort to head off defeat in parliamentary elections beginning Sunday that could put Communists in the cabinet for the first time in 35 years.

The opposition is leading by a wide margin in popularity polls but is torn by a dispute over nationalizing businesses, with the Communists accusing their Communist partners of strong-arm tactics.

Premier Raymond Barre in turn attacked Socialist leader Francois Mitterand Thursday as a "has-been" and warned a leftist victory would create "social and political tensions."

For the first time in the history of our country, a coalition which has prearranged governing France is incapable of saying what it wants to do or how its government will be made up," Barre said.

Opinion polls gave the left a 53-45 percent lead over Barre's center-right government and a 45-seat majority in the 461-seat Chamber of Deputies.

But before that can happen, the Socialists and the small Radical Left Movement must patch up their quarrel with the Communists in time for the crucial second-round vote March 19.

The feud centers not only on Communist demands for sweeping nationalizations but also on their refusal to enter into a second round voting pact unless the distribution of cabinet seats is discussed and a government platform adopted.

"The left has no captain," Socialist Party General Secretary Jean Hierstan told an election meeting. "Communist leader Georges Marchais is playing a muscular game, knocking his opponents and his team-mates and keeping the ball to himself."

The two leftist parties jockey for the nationalization of nine major companies, an immediate 80-percent increase in the minimum wage to $400 a month, a price freeze and the creation of 500,000 new jobs.

FTU in Division 2 Quarters, FSU Has Big Date Vs. Cats

It's high time for basketball in the college ranks, and take your pick—there's a little of everything from a Division 2 quarterfinal contest in Oviedo Saturday night to a full complement of regional tournaments in the NCAA tournament plus the National Invitational in New York.

Florida Technological University is home in the Saturday game against University of San Diego at the FTU gym in Oviedo. FTU is on a 25-game winning streak and hasn't lost since Dec. 12.

Of particular interest in Saturday's NCAA regional is the Kentucky-Florida State matchup in Knoxville, Tenn. Western Kentucky faces Syracuse in the second game of the regionally televised doubleheader.

Kentucky and Marquette are predicted to be on a collision course in the Midwest final at Dayton, Ohio on March 18.

The Western Regionals, meanwhile, open at two sites Saturday with UCLA facing Kansas; Arkansas playing Weber State at Eugene, Ore.; North Carolina facing San Francisco, and New Mexico opposing Fallerton State, at Tempe, Ariz.

Eastern and Midwest regional finals Sunday. Duke plays Rhode Island and Indiana meets Furman at Charlotte, N.C., in an segment of second action. Penn State is on court with St. Bonaventure and Villanova takes on Lafayette at Philadelphia.

In the opening Midwest round at Wichita, Kan., Utah is out to subdue Missouri. DePaul plays Creighton.

The other Midwest regional at Tulsa, Okla., finds Motre Dame playing Houston and Louisville facing St. John's (N.Y.).

Optimism at the start of the spring baseball training season can be described as the reaction to watching Frank Ryan throw a 91 mph fastball and Nolan Ryan throw a 94 mph fastball in the Angel's 4-1 exhibition game victory over the Oakland A's.

Tanana struck out three batters in the Angel's triumph suggesting that he and Ryan, the major league's perennial strikeout king, can form the nucleus of a pitching staff that will lead the Angels to their first American League Western Division title.

Non Jackson and Caray Lauerford each honored in the sixth inning led the Angel's attack. Oakland scored its run in the sixth when Jerry Tabb doubled in Roy Court, who had singled with one out.

Elsewhere around the Citrus and Cactus circuits:

George Scott drove in two runs with a sacrifice and a single in the eighth and then defeated the Detroit Tigers in three innings with three strikeouts and two shutouts.

Luis Tiant gave up two Detroit hits in three innings with two strikeouts and one walk.

Cleveland adding two shutouts in the series.

Rain washed out exhibition games in Sarasota, and Ft. Lauderdale and Ft. Myers. Orioles' scheduled intrasquad game in Miami.

Consolidator Bowie Kuhn said there is a "50-50 chance" the Oakland A's will still receive a favorable recommendation to move to another city from the Oakland-Alameda Board of Supervisors. He said a proposal would have the Giants play 40 or 41 games in Oakland and the rest in San Francisco and there is also a chance Baltimore Orioles' scheduled intrasquad game in Miami.

Manatee Griff Whips Super Slew in Seventh Race

Partin Wraps Up All-Distance Medley

Rudy Partin's Kennel wrapped up the prestigious All-Distance Medley championship at the Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club Thursday night.

Partin clinched the competition in the seventh race when his ace distance greyhound, Super Slew, finished second in the grueling 7-1/4 mile let of the medley. Manatee Griff won the race—but all Partin needed to win was a second.

Partin spent last year's medley winner and kennel champ, Paul Scheele, who trained Partin by eight points going into the final leg.

As it was Scheele's entry in the 7-1/4, Cee Cee, ran second to Manolo. Danny Williams ran third and Cameron Cummings finished fourth.

The All-Distance Medley is run over four distances. Each kennel may nominate from one to four greyhounds to run the 3-1/4, 5-1/4, 7-1/4 and 7-1/2 courses at the Longwood Greyhound plant.

Partin used his top early speed greyhound, Shilin Bloomer, to win the 3-1/4 sprint. Then he came back with

Wife Gets On Her Nerves

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I am the secretary for a businessman whose wife is getting on my nerves. When she phones him at the office, and I tell her that her husband is talking on the phone, she always says, "How long is he taking to get to the office?"

Abby, how do I have her long he will be? He could say goodbye to those seconds, or he could tell her he'll be home right in half an hour.

Please print this for a lot of other women who are in the same boat.

Chorale Singers To Raffle Afghan For Concert Tour

Central Florida Chorale members are singing a happy tune these days since they deposited a little over $700 into their travel fund.

The deposit resulted from their recent rummage sale. The funds raised will almost send a singer to Austria on a concert tour.

Fund raising continues as Chorale members offer an opportunity to someone in the community to win a beautiful home-crocheted Afghan created by singer Jenny Benz.

Donations (IRS approved) are $1.00 each or six for $5.00, with all proceeds into the travel fund.

The winning ticket will be drawn at a concert planned for April 23, at the Civic Center. The Afghan is on display at Flagship Bank of Sanford (downtown).

On April 1, at the Central Florida Zoo chorale members will sing and serve chicken barbecue at the pavilion hoping to again add to the coffers of their travel fund. Time and other details will be announced later.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OOL

For Saturday, March 11, 1978

YOUR BIRTHDAY
 March 11, 1978

Several large opportunities may pop up this coming year that will mean much to you and your family. It is especially promising; happy days are ahead.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
 Luck tends to favor you materially today, but it won't be taking gambles. It will happen through a chain of events set in motion by another. Find out to whom you're romantically suited by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 688, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10101. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
 Focus your attention on priority issues today. Lesser matters will prove to be time wasters that'll have you spinning your wheels.

TALIBUS (April 20-May 20)
 Use soft soil in a situation where you have something to gain today. You'll be working against your own best interests if you get too pushy.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
 Friends are prepared to do favors for you today, but for what they render there will be a price. Regardless of the cost, you'll still be able to get it.

CANCER (June 21-July 20)
 In competitive situations you have the upper hand today but may not realize it. Why credit opponents with attributes they don't possess?

LEO (July 21-Aug. 23)
 Don't jump to conclusions today, because you might hastily write something off that is potentially promising. Listening, not leaping is the answer.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)
 Someone you thought to be out of your league may propose an interesting joint venture with you today. It could be a step up to the big time.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)
 You have the gift to make fortunate agreements today, provided you're prepared to give a little to get a lot. Prune the pump if necessary.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21)
 Activities that are not profit yielding should not be permitted to take into the time of those that are. Devote your energies to the money-makers.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
 Luck has its limitations today. As long as you are aware of this, you will fare rather well. Prune your luck too far and it will wither.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
 Rather than depend upon cooperation regarding something you want to finish today, you'll be better off sealing the lid by your lonesome.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
 All work and no play is a sure formula for taking the sting out of life. Set your tasks aside today. Do something that's fun.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Oswald Jacoby

Here is a part-score hand from the charity game. North will almost surely collect eight tricks in hearts for plus 110 and those North players who played in hearts get very good scores.

The best East-West scores came when East bid two clubs after North responded with one heart. South doubled. Two clubs and then someone doubled two diamonds. Two diamonds can only be beaten if South leads ace and another diamond before giving East a chance to get on lead. Five hearts players found this defense and almost all diamond defenders thought of the one trump, taking the spade finesse and losing one spade, four diamonds, two clubs and 50 points.

There is a way to make one trump. If you can find it. Not many Souths did. Here's the play. South wins the second diamond and decides that East will be holding all the remaining high cards.

Then he cashes the king and queen of hearts and throws East in with a diamond. East takes his diamonds but must give declarer his seventh trick in a black suit.

ANSWER: 3NT

A Florida reader wants to know what the "Unusual" notrump convention is and who invented it.

We will answer the second part today. It was invented by Alvin Roth of New York, one of the greatest bridge theorists and players. Second part answered tomorrow.

GIVING AN AID TO OUR EATING HABITS

DEAR DR. LAMB - In looking through magazines my attention is often attracted to the "weight watch" advertisements. The writer-lens or the need-to-weight ads don't tempt me because I maintain my weight.

The exercises and some diets do appeal to me because I am 10 or so pounds overweight and hate it. I have this extra weight because I eat too many sweets and ice cream. I love ice cream.

What is your opinion of a semi fast? If the fast fits around one's usual work the thighs and rest of the body stay plump while the waist narrows?

I have tried to lose weight many times. The only time I was successful was when I was engaged to be married and I lost several pounds in a few months merely by eating less. Obviously the best plan for you would be to eliminate all sweets, cut down on breads and increase your exercise. I am sending you The Health Letter Diet to give you a basic plan you can follow. Others who want this plan can send 50 cents with an address and I will send you a copy of The Health Letter Diet.

An 800 number do not expect to lose weight from any device that you put around your waist or thighs or elsewhere. The only diet that would work is one that you can live on.

Local Farmer: This Is Sanford's Last Celery Crop

By DENNIS FOLA
 Herald Staff Writer

The sign says Celery Avenue . . . the crops tell a different tale.

The sign is a reminder of days long since gone. When Sanford was "Celery Capital of the World." When its high school baseball team was known as the "Celery Feds."

When its small street railroad was commonly called the "Celery Belt Line."

The crops are the reality of changing times and economies. Where once the world's largest supply of celery grew, there is cabbage, cucumbers, lettuce and some pepper.

The dominance of the celery crop in Sanford began to decline in the 1950s with the development of the tractor and large-scale farming.

Large chunks of land suitable for farming opened up in the Everglades and celery farmers began the migration south.

In 1923 the importance of the celery crop to Sanford was virtually nil with the decision by Chase and Co., the city's longtime leaders in agriculture, to discontinue planting the crop.

The following year the motto of Sanford was officially "Things change. You have to expect change."

changed from "Celery City" to "The Friendly City."

Bill, some small individual farms continued to grow celery . . . at least until this week.

W. W. "Bill" Tyre is in the process of harvesting his celery crop. When the work is done, on land in the tradition of Sanford.

Tyre and his son, who own the 100-acre farm on Celery Avenue, have decided that this year's crop is the last celery they will grow.

"When I first came here (in 1955) every field on the avenue was celery, every acre," the 60-year-old Tyre said. "But we have to start growing the plants in July or August and that's really the only time we can get away from the heat."

He said he had a good crop of celery last year, but the heat was so bad that he had to spray the plants with insecticide. "I don't know how many more years we can do this," he said.

The sign says Celery Avenue . . . the crops tell a different tale.

ONCE, EVERY FIELD HAD CELERY
 . . . this year, only those 20 acres.

Pfeil Murder Probe: The Third Man

By MARIE WEINBERG
 Herald Staff Writer

A third suspect has been arrested and charged in the slaying last Dec. 28 of George Pfeil, 46, Seminole County deputy sheriff, during an attempted robbery of Longwood Village Pharmacy, State Road 64 near I-4.

James Anson Halsell, 25, was booked into Seminole County jail 10:18 p.m. Friday and will face a Tuesday afternoon preliminary hearing in county court.

According to Seminole County Sheriff John Polk, Halsell is suspected as being the driver of the getaway car used in the incident. Polk said, was brought here Friday night from Duval County jail in Jacksonville, by sheriff's deputies who served a county warrant on him issued by Judge Alan Dickey.

Halsell appeared in county court Saturday morning. Seminole Sheriff Sgt. Ralph Salerno said a tip from the Seminole County area led to Halsell's arrest.

One man, Curtis Thomas Baldree, was jailed here on Feb. 23 on first-degree murder charges in connection with the shooting and another man, Terry Melvin Sims, is still being hunted, according to Polk.

Halsell was charged by detectives with murder because, Polk explained, "anybody involved in a crime where murder is committed, is guilty of the murder."

Asked this morning if more than three were involved in the drugstore robbery Polk answered, "I'd rather not comment on that."

The sheriff gave the same answer when asked if there would be more arrests.

"We expect the state attorney's office to file formal charges against Mr. Halsell next week," the sheriff said. Authorities believe Sims fatally shot Pfeil, a 25-year veteran of the New York City Police Department.

Pfeil, in uniform and about to go on patrol, went to the pharmacy to fill a prescription, authorities believe. As he stepped into the pharmacy, he discovered the robbery in progress and fired two shots at Sims before Pfeil was killed by two shots fired by Sims, according to authorities.

Baldree and Sims left the drugstore, stole a car and drove to the rear of the parking lot of nearby Springwood Village Apartments where the pair fled on foot, according to authorities.

The two then got into a waiting getaway car provided by Halsell and drove to safety, investigators believe.

More than 20 lawmen from police agencies all over Central Florida combed northwestern Seminole County, using bloodhounds, helicopters and riders on horseback, but the pair could not be found.

Evidence to the robbery and slaying of Pfeil said Baldree had a deformed right thumb, but after Halsell's Feb. 23 arrest for first-degree murder, Sheriff Polk revealed the "deformed" right thumb had been only a disguise.

County Data Challenges JDC Closing

By MAX BRESLIAN

HHS officials have proposed closing the local center and the Volusia Juvenile Detention Center in Daytona Beach, a move both counties. The center would be located near Deland and would cost $12.5 million.

Both the local center, located at the county's Five-Point, and the Daytona center are operating above their intended inmate capacity, according to Tynd.

Luzel HHS officials have proposed expanding the local center from 13 to 20 beds at a cost of $34,712, according to Tynd. He said their population projections for the center were "too high."

Rep. Vince Fuchsler Jr., R-Lombard, told state officials examining the HHS consolidation proposal last week opposition of the center to a 25-bed facility would probably cost $200,000 to $250,000.

Fuchsler, who chairs the local legislative delegation, met with Department of Administration officials at the center to oppose the HHS recommendation.

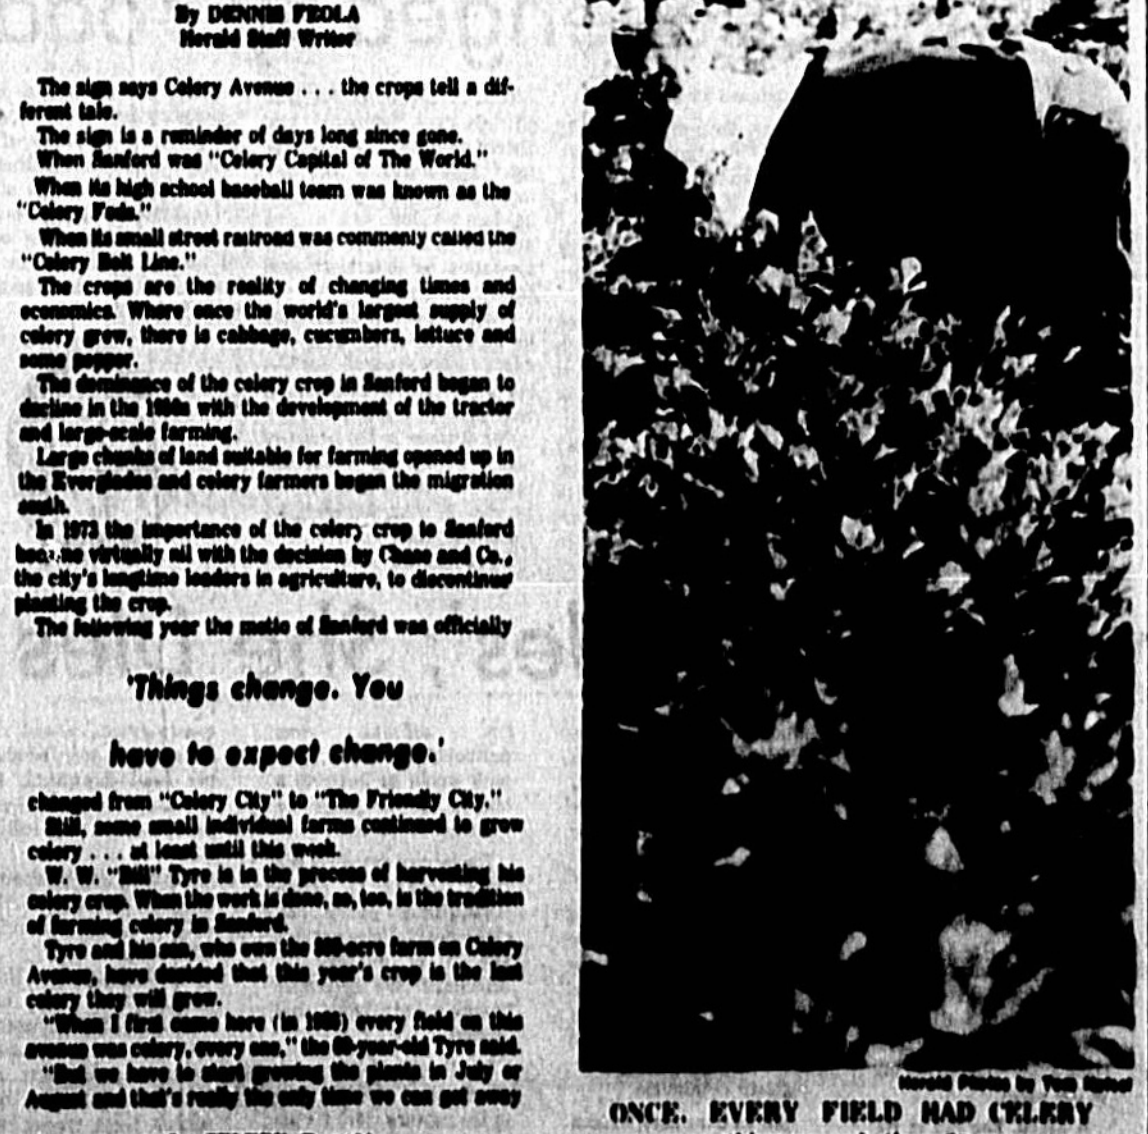

HHS has estimated the in-state population from Seminole County will be 60 by the year 2000. "If both proposed detentions are correct, a consolidated 70 bed facility would be inadequate by 1981," Tynd noted.

Tynd also took issue with HHS figures on staff needs.

HRS Probe Delayed

The Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services (HRS) is delaying the probe into the alleged slaying of five boys at the Volusia County Juvenile Detention Center pending action by the state's attorney's office.

The last word we had on it was that the state's attorney's office had not completed the investigation and we can't comment on investigations until they are done," said HRS spokesman John Ross.

Originally, the probe was to have been completed last week. However, "the state's attorney" has postponed the investigation, according to Ross.

A 600-page report on the slaying of five boys at the center is in preparation with HRS figures on staff needs.
