FORBE'S PROBE BRINGS OUT SOME SALIENT FACTS

NEGOTIATIONS IN PROGRESS BETWEEN REPRESENTATIVES OF OCCUPIED TERRITORY

AND STRESEMANN GOVERNMENT CONCERNING FUTURE STATUS OF THE RHINELAND

Continue This Morning and Will Have Bearing On Case

(By The Associated Press) PARIS, Nov. 15.—Advices from French sources in Berlin say that negotiations between representatives of occupied territories and Stresemann government concerning future status of the Ruhr and Rhineland are continuing this morning.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The complete cessation of every kind of reparation payment by Germany was semi-officially announced last night, according to a dispatch to the Central News from Berlin.

This action was taken on the ground that the treaty of Versailles had been violated by France and that therefore it could not be observed by Germany.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Germany has decided to repudiate the treaty of Versailles and not to comply with either the reparations clause or any other of the clauses of the treaty as long as the French and Belgians occupy the Ruhr, says a dispatch to the Daily Mail from Berlin.

BERLIN, Nov. 15.—After November 26 Germany no longer will be able to meet the drain upon her exchequer for the payment of unemployment doles in the Ruhr and the Rhineland and will then set both these regions adrift, permitting them to shift for themselves.

This direct statement was made in official quarters here last night.

Unless Chancellor Stresemann arrives at a different conclusion after pending conferences with leaders in the occupied areas, as the reichstag opposes such a policy, it is now believed that the immediate future of the Rhineland and the Ruhr will be wholly determined by the nature of agreements which the local leaders there are able to enter into with the French and Belgian authorities.

The unemployment doles which the German government is paying out to men and women in the Rhineland and the Ruhr will amount to 200,000,000 gold marks in the next ten days.

An autonomous state in the present stage of occupation and under prevailing economic and social conditions is viewed in Berlin circles as inexpedient and not feasible, and the inclination in government quarters appears to favor a plan to hold the occupying powers responsible for getting the local populace fed and back to work, and otherwise readjusting completely the desolated conditions in all lines.

In the event the latter solution is adopted, the Berlin government will invest the local German authorities with plenipotentiary powers authorizing them to deal with the French, Belgian and British authorities, thus making the occupied zones temporary wholly independent of official intervention by the central or Prussian governments.

Chancellor Stresemann and other champions of the proposed plan to jettison the Ruhr and the Rhineland, so long as they are under military occupation, believe that passing "economic autonomy" is the sole solution to the problem now confronting the government along the Rhine.

Any movement in these areas in the direction of forcing the establishment of an autonomous state would require the initial support of one-third of the qualified voters and a consequent three-fifths vote for ultimate ratification. The federated states also would have to be consulted in accordance with paragraph 18 of the constitution of the republic and this sanction, combined with the complications growing out of a plebiscite, impress the Berlin cabinet with the futility of forcing the issue of an autonomous state at this time.

CHOICE OF OFFICERS IN SENATE AND HOUSE WILL BE MADE WHEN CONGRESS MEETS AGAIN

Conference of Republicans Has Already Been Called

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Electing officers for the plums to be divided in the choice of officers of the senate and in the new houses already has begun.

Rivalry is centered largely among the Republicans, with their majority control of both bodies, but the Democrats also are divided over the ticket they will present for all offices from president of the senate and speaker of the house down.

Present indications are for the sharpest contest in the house. The relation of Suesaker Gillett is said by organization leaders to be certain and it is generally conceded that Representative Finis J. Garrett of Tennessee will be the Democratic candidate; but a spirited fight for leadership honors and committee places is in prospect. The progressive bloc is demanding important committee assignments, and with enough votes to give control, if aligned with the Democrats, the Progressives are in a strategic position of power. This group is said to be more interested in the contest for majority leadership, appearing now to lie between Representatives Longworth of Ohio and Graham of Illinois.

A call already has been issued for a conference of house Republicans on December 1, to arrange a slate of candidates and a call for the organization conference of Republican senators is to be issued next week by Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, Republican leader, probably for November 30 or December 1. The outlook now is said to portend an agreement between the Republican senators without much difficulty, through retention of the seniority rule. Under this the present chairmanships would remain

DENVER WAS HERALDED AS STRONG CONTENDER FOR NEXT MEETING PLACE

BUT HAS BEEN CALLED OFF WITH NO INVITATION TO REPUBLICANS

Getting Busy With All Details For Next Big Convention

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Denver, heretofore regarded as a strong contender for the Republican National convention next year failed to submit an invitation when special sub-committee of the party met here today to receive convention bids.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—The great national political show of 1924 had its formal fall opening yesterday with the assembling of Republican leaders to begin work in selecting the convention city for next year. As the first official act of the presidential campaign a sub-committee of the Republican National Committee today will receive invitations from several cities bidding for their 1924 convalescence, subject to the final choice of the full national committee which will meet here December 11.

Political gossip bubbled today in hotel lobby conferences of Republican national committeemen and other leaders from several states, there being wide discussion of the prospects largely unchanged, with Senatorator McCumber of North Dakota as head of the finance committee. Selection of the president of the senate is the principal organization question in that branch. It is of unusual interest now since there is Smoot of Utah succeeding former Seno vice-president, and the presidency of the senate carries a salary of $12,000 a year, or $4,500 more than senators receive, plus the use of an automobile and an elaborate suite of offices. Senator Cummins of Iowa has told friends he would like to remain as president, but he also desires to continue as chairman of the Interstate Commerce commission. A number of senators hold, however, that no senator holding an important chairmanship should also be presiding officer. Senator Cummins is said to prefer retention of his chairmanship, even to election as president of the senate. If he declines the presidency, Senator Curtis of Kansas, Republican whip; Senator Lammot of Wisconsin, Senator Moses of New Hampshire, and Senator Jones of Washington will be probably urged for the place. If the Iowa senator should relinquish his chairmanship, on the other hand, Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin, one of the organizers of the progressive bloc, would be next in line to head the commerce commission, under the seniority rule, with Senators McLean of Connecticut and Watson of Indiana following. Senator Robinson of Arkansas is to be the Democratic candidate for president of the senate. At the Democratic organization conference he will be chosen Democratic leader, succeeding Senator Underwood of Alabama, who resigned last winter.

BERLIN DENIES REPORT TODAY OF REPUDIATION

Manufacturers and Distributors of Oil Demanded Inspection for Quality

To Inspect "Gas" Stations In State

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Nov. 15.—Nathan Mayo, the new commissioner of agriculture, stated today that the inspection of gasoline and service stations throughout the state, to which no attention has been given during the past few months, will be demanded on the part of manufacturers and distributors of gasoline and oils.

The department now has, the commissioner stated, four inspectors in the field, one in each congressional district, whose duty it is, among other things, to draw samples of gasoline and submit them to the state chemist for analysis for the purpose of determining whether or not it comes up to the standard fixed by law.

The inspectors, it was stated, will also carefully examine and inspect all measuring pumps at service stations, in their respective territories. They have been directed to condemn and close up all pumps which are found to be inaccurate, and to report all the facts to the commissioner of agriculture in order that prosecution might be instituted against the guilty parties, in case the facts and conditions are such as to warrant such action being taken.

The names and addresses of the inspectors are: Ellis Woodworth, Tampa; L. W. Zim, St. Augustine; J. B. Brinson, Madison; A. M. Lewis, Marianna.

LOST HER SUIT AGAINST LUMBER MAN: FAILURE TO PAY

(By The Associated Press) NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Miss Olga Ralph, music student from Evansville, Indiana, has lost her suit for $4,000 against John H. Kirby, president of the Southern Tariff Association, and head of one of the largest lumber companies in Texas, whom she accused with failure to fulfill alleged agreement to pay her $500 a month.

BANDITS HELD UP CLERKS AND TOOK MONEY

(By The Associated Press) COLLINSVILLE, Ill., Nov. 15.—Three bandits today held up two clerks of Consolidated Coal Company here and escaped with $14,000 payroll money.

Santa has opened his treasure bag at Yowell's store and one of the greatest stocks of toys and Christmas things are on display in the toy department—second floor. See the advertisement today.

Denver had not been determined definitely last night.

Information presented is to be checked up and summarized for the national committee's consideration at its December meeting, when further arguments in behalf of the various contenders are scheduled to be heard. Mr. Mulvano said he did not expect the sub-committee to make any recommendations to the full committee, but merely to present the information in concise form.

Republican leaders here expect the national convention to be held early in June, June 2 or 9 were dates discussed today, with sentiment apparently favoring the latter date. Some committeemen are urging a May convention but any considerable support for such an early meeting, it is said, has not yet developed.

Present Situation In Ruhr Section Cannot Continue

Prime Minister Baldwin Says In Speech Today.

(By The Associated Press) LONDON, Nov. 15.—Prime Minister Baldwin, in answer to labor motion of censure in house of commons, said with reference to the Ruhr and reparations situation, that he had spared no pains to let it be known to Great Britain's allies that the British people could not continue indefinitely to maintain the spirit necessary for co-operation if the present situation was allowed to continue.

WARNS PUBLIC OF POISONOUS LIQUOR

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—An alarming picture of the dangers lurking in poisonous liquor being sold throughout the country was painted today by Dr. J. M. Doran, head of the Industrial Alcohol and Chemical division of the bureau of internal revenue. Samples of liquor seized in the vicinity of Washington, Dr. Doran said, analyzed in the treasury laboratories, show a serious deterioration in quality, even for illicit spirits, less than one per cent proving genuine. A year ago it was estimated 2 per cent of the supply was good.

"Many cases in the hospitals of Washington and elsewhere in the country," Dr. Doran said, "may not seem to be due to wood alcohol poisoning, but in my opinion many of them are very likely due to the small amount of denaturants left in bootleg liquor which has been imperfectly made from denatured alcohol."

Corn liquor here, Dr. Doran said, had been found to be full of impurities.

FORBES MEMBER OF GANG OF CONSPIRATORS WHO DEFRAUD

Washington, Nov. 15.—Stirred by Charles R. Forbes charges against committee counsel John F. O'Ryan told the Senate veterans committee he expected to prove convincingly the whole truth of E. H. Mortimer's charge that Colonel Forbes was one of a gang of conspirators who were tied together check and jowl to defraud the government. He expected further to show, he said, that this criminal conduct was in consonance with Forbes' previous life record.

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Stirred by Charles R. Forbes charges against committee counsel John F. O'Ryan told the Senate veterans committee he expected to prove convincingly the whole truth of E. H. Mortimer's charge that Colonel Forbes was one of a gang of conspirators who were tied together check and jowl to defraud the government. He expected further to show, he said, that this criminal conduct was in consonance with Forbes' previous life record.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Charles R. Forbes passed the lie direct today to two of his accusers—Brig. Gen. Charles E. Sawyer and Elias H. Mortimer—and then charged counsel for the senate committee investigating the veterans' bureau with suppressing material facts which show his innocence.

Moreover, the former director of the bureau charged that witnesses had been "brow-beaten" into testifying before the committee and asserted that his counsel had the proof.

Turning to Forbes' attorney, Jas. S. Easby-Smith, John F. O'Ryan, general counsel for the committee, inquired if he was prepared to furnish the evidence.

"I am if the committee desires to hear it," replied Mr. Easby-Smith.

"The committee certainly wants to hear it," declared Chairman Reed. Opening the cross-examination of Forbes, General O'Ryan wanted to know who was in the "conspiracy" to destroy him which the former director had charged on yesterday was on foot.

"Mortimer and Williams (J. M. Williams, a Philadelphia dryman who previously has testified) were two of the conspirators and there were others," responded Forbes.

O'Ryan drew from Forbes the admission that Mortimer had found him and Mrs. Mortimer in an apartment but Forbes declared the door was wide open. He and Forbes had some words he admitted and they may have been partially about Mrs. Mortimer. He could not recall exactly. He said he gave the 22-year-old brother of Mrs. Mortimer a position paying $3,000 annually but denied he did so to please Mrs. Mortimer.

DINGEE HERE MADE SPEECH AT KIWANIS

Former Sanford Citizen On Visit To Old Town

After Divine Blessing had been asked by Dr. Brownlee the Kiwanis Club came to order at the Valdez Grill Room today, for their regular meeting.

President Sharon introduced Capt. Chas. H. Dingee of Dunedin, formerly of Sanford. The Captain offered to play the flute, but at the insistence of his Sanford friends made quite a talk and true to old time style pulled a few good jokes. He likened the First National Bank building (new one) to the tall building that he saw while in Rome and expressed his appreciation of Sanford and Sanford folk.

Dr. Gardiner and J. M. Gillon of the entertainment committee had some good entertainment with George Brokhan at the ivories while each member of the Club was given a ticket on the back of which was a subject to which he should address himself. This arrangement brought out many promising important speakers, that would otherwise, never have been discovered. Every one with a real contestant for the prize—even the judges, and it was necessary to divert to the lot system in order to determine the real winner. Bob Dean, the lightning interest calculator of the Seminoles Bank won in the finals.

Sam Rammel won the attendance prize, a fancy belt, but not knowing what it is for and having no earthly use for such a contrivance he will probably donate it to the Jewish Relief The Kimanis Club will have charge of two districts in the coming Red Cross Roll Call, and Jno. D. Jinkins and A. Raffield will look after this work.

Jadore Gwinnburg, Stokes' counsel told the court his client would consent to separation decree, but would contest amount of alimony sought and would fight for custody of the children.

Farmers of South Now Making Money

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 13.—The farmers of the South are successfully weathering the storm of adverse conditions and is entering upon an era of better demand for farm products and better prices, in the opinion of C. W. McClure, well known Atlanta business man and the head of a chain of ten-cent stores. He shows that the curtailing of the European demand for American grain and other farm products, coupled with the decreased home consumption during the period when unemployment was general in this country, have been overcome by improved conditions at home.

"The American public is able to buy more heavily of every needed thing now because the American public is prospering," said Mr. McClure. "Unemployment in industry has given way to a job for every man who seeks it, business has revived and industry is active, therefore the people are able to use more food products and able to pay a fair price for what they buy."

"The lesson that the period of depression taught the farmer has been a valuable one and learning it will enable him to avoid a similar situation hereafter. The evil of depending too much upon one crop has been shown to all of them. The cotton farmer has learned that it pays to have other things produced on the farm, that dairy herds help the farm income, that he can make chickens and eggs a very valuable part of the farm business and that the farm garden not only can supply his own household, but can be made a source of income through selling vegetables to the people in nearby cities."

"But with farming as a whole, the one fact stands out prominently—there must be diversification of crops if there is to be any permanent or general prosperity among the men who produce the crops. All wheat is bad for the western farmer, just as all cotton is bad for the cotton farmer in the south. Other things produced in connection with the wheat and cotton must be produced."

THE VALUE OF THE CURB MARKET

Miami has a public market established on lines very similar to those that used to be sporadically discussed in St. Petersburg, before our entire business population directly or indirectly went into the town lot business, and the following editorial from the Miami Herald may even now be of interest as showing what that newspaper thinks of the value of that market to Miami. The Herald says:

"Under the new licensing ordinance one of our most valuable Miami institutions was badly hit. That institution is the curb market, originally developed in war times as a means of bringing the small producing farmers in direct contact with their customers, the consumers, and continued in this present peace because its value was easily demonstrated. The curb market of Miami has a real place in the civic life, which we should recognize, and not seek to destroy."

"It has been true of all cities, since the first city was made, that the larger they grew and the farther removed from contacts with the country surrounding them, the more artificial grew their culture, the more artificial their life. And in the same way the country on which they depended for support, by being pushed away, being made remote and unrelated suffered equally. The city without a close relation to the country which surrounds it degenerates into sterility. It is well known of New York that its most active citizens are those recruited from country districts. The country, without a city immediately to civilize it, in the true meaning of the word, grows barbaric. It is only when a close and fine relation is maintained between the two that the life of each flowers to its best."

"Here in Miami one of the finest means of maintaining that close relationship between country and city has been the curb market. Tucked away under the arches of the City Hall annex, it has provided for several years a most stimulating atmosphere of genuineness, of color, of the life of the soil on which we are dependent, which is not only refreshing, but tremendously stimulating. In no other place in Miami can the visitors to Miami come into actual contact with the splendid people who are making the back country a wonderland of development. In no other place in Miami will people put so much genuine friendship and feeling into the selling of a mango or of a bunch of marigolds or of some strange new vegetable which they are developing themselves. We have heard much of a South Florida fair, and of the necessity for it. But right here in Miami, three days in the week, if not more, and especially on Saturday morning from the first minute of dawn, there is being carried on a South Florida fair which is a genuine fair, not an especially created and momentary gesture."

"When such visitors to Miami as Ed Howe have found in the curb market material for a Saturday Evening Post article, when the fine friendliness and splendid sense of background provide for the citizens of Miami a means of contact with those backgrounds, then surely we should recognize the value to city and country of this curb market."

"If those who impose taxes realized that to tax is to begin to destroy, and to tax heavily is to seem to desire to destroy, would they have imposed such taxes as they have upon this valuable South Florida institution? It is a matter for some wonder. At least, the people of Miami can do what they can to make the tax not so heavy by patronizing the market, and what is even better, understanding what it is doing for Miami. Taken in its larger aspect it is more than a convenience. It is a necessity in connection with the wheat in the whole scheme of our development."—St. Petersburg Times.

Louisiana Lady Says She Has "Nervous or Fossil Anything Better Than Cardui for a Run-Down Condition"

Morgan City, La.—"It would be hard for me to tell how much benefit I have derived from the use of Cardui," said Mrs. I. G. Bowman, of 1319 Front Street, this city.
"I was so run-down in health I could hardly go. I was thin, I had no appetite. Could not rest or sleep well. I was so weak, and so very nervous, I was so pleasure to myself.
"I suffered some pain, but the worst of my trouble was from being so weak and easy to get tired and out of heart.
"This nervous condition was worse than pain.
"Some one told me of Cardui and I decided to use it.
"After using a few bottles, I regained my strength. I wasn't so nervous, and began to eat and sleep, and grew stronger and was soon well.
"I have never found anything better for a run-down condition.
"If you suffer as this Louisiana lady did, you, too, should find Cardui helpful for your troubles.

President Now Preparing Talk - 68th Congress

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—President Coolidge started today the preparation of the most momentous document of his political career—his message to the incoming 68th congress.

For the next weeks the president will deny himself to purely social callers, and, cutting his engagement list to the bone, will give the major portion of his time to the drafting of an annual message.

No communication has aroused more interest and "watchful waiting" than the coming Coolidge message. Its delivery will signalize the opening of the 1924 campaign.

From its contents will be determined the Coolidge policies to be carried to the people in support of his candidacy for election.

The president, according to advance information, plans to touch upon approximately a dozen major subjects. These will include agricultural relief, transportation, merchant marine, taxation and immigration.

Farm aid, in the president's mind, is perhaps the most important subject to be taken up, both from the economic and political aspects. The presidential views already have been well forecasted by the Meyer-Mondell report suggesting creation of a huge co-operative marketing system as the best solution.

Transportation will be one of the big questions marks up to the moment of the message's delivery.

Taxation likewise is a question upon which the president yet has made no public statement, although he is known to favor the Mellon plan of reducing income taxes. Congressional leaders believe a general revision of the existing schedule with an appreciable scaling down could be accomplished at the coming session, but with the administration enjoying such a slim majority in both houses, the wisdom of such a move is questioned.

On immigration, President Coolidge will urge congress to extend the act, expiring June 30 next, which restricts immigration to three percent of the alien population.

ANCIENT SPLENDOR OF HOLY LAND ON SCREEN AT MILANE TODAY

Particular interest attaches to the stupendous Fox production "Salome," in view of the recent history of Palestine. The Holy Land is now under British control as a result of the recent World War and Turkey's part in it.

Many of the places viewed by Gen. Allenby's victorious troops play a part in the story of "Salome," the magnificent screen version of which will be shown at the Milane theater today. Several of the places were reproduced on the screen with marvelous faithfulness to history. Especially in point in this connection is the famous Gate of Jaffa, through which the British made their brilliant entry into Jerusalem.

The conquest of the Holy Land was accelerated in large measure by the aid of the Jewish Legion, a force recruited among Jewish nationalists under the British flag. The United States sent a large delegation of Legionnaires. One group returned recently to New York, and the members of the Legion tell thrilling tales of battle with the Turks and views of the Orient. Their route to the scene of war was circuitous, via England, Greece, Egypt and Palestine.

Returns

Otto Wiedfeld, German ambassador to the United States, again is in this country, having arrived at New York recently. He will take up his duties in Washington. He has been invited to submit for consideration.

WEATHER AND CROP CONDITION

The weather was ideal during most of the week for the harvesting of all crops. The temperature was much below the seasonal average, being from 5 degrees to 12 degrees, daily below the normal with light frost on several days southward to central counties, and about freezing on several mornings over the interior of northern and western counties. The days were bright and mostly cloudless, stimulating the activities of man in his daily tasks.

The greatest rainfall reported from any station was .05 of an inch—in Putnam county. The dry weather was favorable for the harvesting of sweet potatoes, syrup making, the fertilizing of strawberry plants, and plowing for spring crops. Rain is needed generally over the Section—rather urgent on uplands for truck and strawberries, although both continue in fair to good condition, where soil moisture is present. The absence of rain in Okeechobee district was very beneficial, resulting in the drying out of lands which are now being prepared for spring truck crops. Central Division. The weather during the week was rainless, sunshiny, and cool, with light, local frost in exposed places; no damage resulted therefrom. Temperatures were too cool for tender truck, although celery and lettuce were benefited thereby. The digging of sweet potatoes and the harvesting and shipping of citrus fruits continued unabated. Oats made fair progress, but uplands need rain. The shipping of beans, tomatoes, peppers, and other truck continued in a moderate way. Strawberry plants and celery are doing well; small quantities of berries are available in some localities. Plowing for spring crops made progress; range grasses are getting short, owing to the dry, cool weather. Southern Division. As was the case in other divisions the cool, dry weather was favorable for the maturing of citrus fruits, but the weather was too cool and dry for truck, especially on uplands, although the planting of tomatoes, continued.

The dry weather in the Everglades district was favorable, and truck in considerable quantities is being marketed from that district. Moderate rains would be beneficial on uplands. The recent high water in the Okeechobee district has disappeared to a large extent, and it is now mostly within the canals. FLORIDA VISITOR IS FOUND DEAD IN BED MACON, Ga., Nov. 15.—Myron C. Martin, 74, of Lakewood, Ohio, who was en route to Florida alone in an automobile was found dead in a local hotel this morning. The clerk at the hotel told a coroner's jury that when Martin registered he put down his street address, saying "I don't know what might happen." The jury held that death was due to heart failure. RED CROSS HUMANITY'S DEFENSE.

Our State can yield no worthier tribute to the spirit of Armistice Week than a heart-ringing answer to the annual Roll Call of the Red Cross. Services and sacrifice, freedom and progress, peace and healing, all that ennobles and all that endears the memory to which November the eleventh is sacred, find a continuing an immortal life in Red Cross ideal and endeavors. The ranks of this unending mission are humanity's defense against ever-enslaving foes—against disease, poverty, disaster and ill innumerable, from those that overwhelm a mighty nation to voiceless tragedies of the humblest hearth-sides. This same shining evangel of the crimson cross that went spending thousands of leagues to crushed Japan, will haste with equal devotion to a cabin bedside of suffering here at home, and find in the distress of one lonely ex-service man as flaming a challenge to duty as if a battlefield called.

Service like this is beyond individual power, and almost beyond individual inspiring. It is a miracle which only the mustering of millions of hearts, with their treasures of good will and dreams of a better day for humankind, can bring to pass. It is a greatness, it is a nobleness which invites us everyone and from which no man or community can happily stand apart. If it is America's Red Cross and the world's, it is this state's too—intimately and divinely. For every town and countryside within her borders it holds a special meaning and a special mission, if we will but open the way in the annual Roll Call. Let us all respond as befits a high-minded, human-hearted people.

EARLY SATURDAY CLOSING.

For many years the Sanford Herald has been advocating the early Saturday closing. It would be just as easy for the people to finish their trading at ten o'clock or at nine o'clock Saturday night as to keep the stores open to midnight and after on Saturday nights. Just why all the stores close at six on other nights and never close on Saturday nights has always been a mystery. The Daytona Journal says:

"The women of Lakeland have cast a pebble in the pool of civic and commercial life, resulting waves that will wash many shores. The Star-Telegram of that city tells about it in the following paragraph:

"A number of the ladies of the city are starting sentiment in favor of civilized closing on Saturday nights. As it is now some of the stores of Lakeland remain open until almost midnight and everyone, the clerks especially are the real sufferers. Stores can just as well close earlier, and if the movement is properly launched and every merchant appealed to in the proper manner a 9:30 or 10 o'clock closing hour will be just as easy as the present haphazard way it is being observed. Business men and women are not anxious to keep their doors open so late as is being done now, but when the 'other fellow' breaks over, there is no limit sometimes. For humanity's sake, how about serious thought over the long open hours on Saturday night that are now being kept?"

"It often happens that when a crusade like the above sets a community by the ears we begin to wonder why it wasn't started before; and why should it not be waged to the ultimate, until all working people the world over have their eight-hour shift of work and no more?"

The half-holiday custom, now universal, or rapidly becoming so, has proven that the shopping public can adapt itself to short hours when comelled to do so. People have learned that it is just as easy and convenient to buy 'over Thursday,' as they have been buying 'over Sunday' for generations, and to do all necessary shopping in an eight-hour day would be as little difficult as doing anything else in a designated space of time.

"The movement started by the Lakeland women will bear fruit elsewhere than in their own community, and the day is not distant when clerks in mercantile establishments will be required to render no more than eight hours' service any day in the week."

PUBLISHING A NEWSPAPER.

Every man thinks his business or profession is better with the most trying and discouraging experiences. The world expects too much of him and his line. People judge so harshly on so little evidence.

Few are the active people in the busy fields of life who do not at some time or other feel that their efforts go unappreciated. The man who sits down at a table in the dining room of a public caterer is displeased with much that comes before him. So few things are prepared according to his exact taste. He forgets that that caterer has to cater to a hundred or more different tastes and has to strike an average line.

The publisher of a newspaper is in about the same situation as the man who caters to the public appetite. One caters to the mind, the other to the body. Both cater to the multitude and have to strike an average.

One reader of the newspaper wants the whole paper summed up in front page headlines so that he may read quickly and get away. Another wants the detail of every story. One wants political editorials and the other wants literary or scientific discussions.

Some of the readers are only interested in the social page, or the sport page. Others do not look at these pages. Some study the market page more closely than others. A great many enjoy the discussion of moral and religious questions. Some few devour the sensational and the salacious. All read the advertisements and find fault if the type setter left a letter cut or got one too many in.

To such a critical public goes the publisher of a newspaper daily. Did you ever try the job of pleasing several thousand different minds daily? If not, try it just one week and then pity the poor publisher of the newspaper. His is a trying task, though he does try so hard to please all.

The newspaper publisher worthy his calling does try to strike an average line so that the shall each day offer all of his readers something to feed on and enjoy. He can only average it up, though he would be false to his calling and to his patrons did he not stress the higher and the better things of life and soft pedal the questionable and immoral.—Reporter-Star.

Advertisement for baking powder featuring the slogan 'high at any price' and text: 'Substitutes are generally more expensive in the end than genuine articles. Housewives have learned—they KNOW this is true where bakings are concerned. Self rising flours are classed as substitutes for plain flour and good baking powder. The use of these special mixtures is very liable to result in false economy, failures and waste on bake day. Remember there is a big difference, in many ways, between biscuits and other bakings made from these so-called self-rising flours and those made from good plain flour and a dependable leavener. Try the experiment—make a baking from each—convince yourself. You will find the baking made from flour and baking powder far more attractive in appearance. It will raise higher—retain its full food value and taste better. For best results, do not fail to use Calumet, the Economy Baking Powder, and a reliable brand of plain flour. Just think of it—the sale of Calumet is 2 1/2 times as much as that of any other brand. It contains only such ingredients as have been officially approved by the United States Food Authorities. SENTIMENT--Old and New. Things Worth While Picked Up Along the Way; Some From Pens Long Ago Laid Down; Some From Pens of Later Days. THE CHURCH OF MY CHILDHOOD. There's a sacred spot in a quaint old town Where I spent my childhood days— A spot where memory, sweet and dear, Will cling to my heart always; Nor strife, nor trials nor earthly joys, Nor billows that change and roll, Can ever efface or dim or mar. The love that is flooding my soul; This spot so sacred and holy to me Is the little frame church by the road Where Jesus the Christ came into my life And lifted my sinful load; 'Twas there I heard the Gospel of Truth, And songs of heaven's renown— 'Twas there the bell in the old church tower Rang out in the quaint old town. There's a sacred spot in a quaint old town Where the altar of God was built— Where kith and kin and friends I knew; Confessed their weakness and guilt; 'Twas there my father and mother knelt In prayer, for many a year; 'Twas there we children found peace and hope When our hearts were choked with a tear; And years rolled by and souls passed on To the realms beyond the grave, But the old frame church is standing there More souls of sinners to save; And now when silver is streaking my hair And the twilight is settling down, My thoughts go back to the days of yore— To the church in the quaint old town. There's a sacred spot in a quaint old town Beside the road, for me, And again I hear that sweet old song— "Jesus, Saviour, pilot me," And the echoes die on the distant hills And I dream of the heavenly goal— But, hark! soft strains come back to me— "Jesus lover of my soul" And again I hear the preacher pray— "Dear God on the heavenly throne, Bless and guide these children dear, And leave them not alone." And tonight I'd lift the veil of Time With never a pang or frown And wend my way to the old frame church, In the quaint old country town. —A. U. Mayfield, Denver.

Standing Back of Your Mousetraps. A shoe manufacturer whose though he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door." "If a man can write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mousetrap than his neighbor, store in New York City is in a rather out-of-the-way locality recently called the attention of the reading public to these familiar lines For many years people have beaten a path to this shoe manufacturer's door. He has proved the truth of this famous aphorism. And where did he publish this quotation which he applies with such pride to his business? Why, in an advertisement, to be sure—for this manufacturer is a consistent and regular advertiser, and when he has anything to say, he says it through his advertising. It may fairly be assumed that he would not look for a thriving business in the best of mousetraps, or shoes, if people were not told about them as people expect to be told—through advertising. Of course, people do find out which are the best mousetraps, the best shoes, the best tires; best breakfast foods, and buy them in preference to others. And people today are pretty well aware that when a manufacturer puts Advertising back of the things he makes, he is telling the world that the path to his door is a broad highway. A STORY HARD TO BELIEVE

It is not easy to believe the report that comes from Brussels that the former Kaiser has received permission to re-enter Germany and is preparing to do so.

If he desires to do so, we do not know any legal way of preventing it. It is only because of the temper of Europe that his decision seems strange to him.

But if the people of Germany desire a monarchy and desire their former emperor or his son as the head of the government this is their affair.

The entente is breaking to pieces as all things pass but the return of the Kaiser to Germany would probably draw it together again.

The return of the Kaiser would look like a challenge and Germany seems to be in position to issue a challenge.

M'GRAW GOES ABROAD; SAYS GIANTS HAVE NO NEW DEALS AT PRESENT

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Before departing yesterday on the steamship George Washington for a trip to Europe, John McGraw, veteran manager of the New York Giants, declared he had no other deals immediately in view for the National League champions.

In baseball circles, however, the transaction completed last night by which the Giants obtained Southworth and Oeschger from Boston in exchange for Stengel, Cunningham and Bancroft, who is to manage the Braves, was regarded as the first step in McGraw's reconstruction program.

"I have no other trades in view right now," said McGraw, "but I am open to any proposition that will benefit the club."

Asked about reports, persistently recurrent, that the Giants were to be sold, McGraw declared:

"There is no truth in that story. The club hasn't been sold and we've no idea of selling. We're going to make the Giants another pennant winning team."

This statement was endorsed by Charles A. Stoneham, president of the club. A large gathering of baseball fans and officials saw McGraw leave for abroad in company with Hughie Jennings, Giant coach, and their wives.

COUGHS, COLDS, WHOPPING COUGH

Mrs. Will Hall, R. No. 3 Baxley, Ga., states: "I am writing to all who suffer from coughs, colds, croup or whopping cough. I cannot recommend Foley's Honey and Tar too much, and I can't keep house without it. Have been using it since 1919 and have found it the best medicine there is for grown-ups and children."

Best and largest cough and cold remedy in the world. Refuse substitutes. Sold everywhere.

PALATKA, Nov. 15.—Putnam county will have a location ten feet deep and thirty feet long at Madison Square Garden, New York, for exhibition of its products along with other Florida counties next February.

D. A. Armstrong, county agent, says he has succeeded in collecting a good display of the county's agricultural products that will form the base of the exhibit at Tampa and New York.

Citrus fruits will be larger this year than before, and Mr. Armstrong believes the exhibit will be a credit to the county.

Event of Florida Southern Game To A Gala Day

Great Preparations Under Way To Give Mighty Gators Cordial Welcome.

With the Southern College-University of Florida football game billed as the week-end attraction in the sport world for Lakeland and Polk county great preparations are under way in the Southern College town to make this game a real football classic for this section.

The Southern management is making preparations to entertain one of the largest crowds to ever witness a football game in this section. Auto parking spaces have been provided to take care of one hundred and twenty-six cars and additional seating capacity to accommodate a thousand spectators.

The Gators so far this season have made an enviable record and thousands of fans in this section will welcome the opportunity of seeing this mighty machine in action. This will be the last appearance of the Gators in the southern part of the state, also, the final appearance of the Southerners on their native soil, as they are booked to finish their season in Charleston, South Carolina on the twenty-third.

BODY FOUND BURNED IN CHURCH IDENTIFIED

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Nov. 15.—Identification of the body found in a burned negro church building near here two weeks ago was established as that of Irene Conley, of Rossiter, Ala., and Alf Winchester, insurance man and farmer, arrested in connection with the case, was held without bond on a charge of murder at his preliminary hearing today.

Truckers Take Their First Blood From Casey's Last Night

Quite the contrary to the expectations of many, the Sanford Truckers succeeded in winning their first game of the season last night from the Knights of Columbus, though by only 14 pins.

The "Caseys" got off to a good start, winning the first game by 153 pins. Britt in this game garnering in a total of 210 pins which is high mark of the season so far. But the "Caseys" evidently were not in as fine a shape as they should have been because they have some of the best bowlers in the city and it was generally expected that they would neatly trim the Truckers.

The Merchants will play the Men's Club tonight. Games start at 7:30 in the Bowling Alleys back of the Rectory. Every one is cordially invited to these games, no admission being charged.

Seller of Fake Tick Eradicator Caught In Orlando

A man by the name of Webb is wanted by the police of Orlando. Representing himself to be a dairy inspector and the brother of a federal dairy inspector, he has been busy playing the calling of a fake anti-tick specialist.

He was apparently doing a good business selling what is believed to be a mixture of gasoline and some other ingredient at $12.50 per five gallons. When he met with a timid farmer, who has to look at his cents before his dollars, he would boldly state that unless he bought the tick cure he would report the condition of his cattle and have them confiscated.

That always fetched the $12.50. A farmer by the name of Macey, however, was not so easily gulled. He did not like the looks of the guy and asked for his credentials.

Hamilton at once communicated with the police. In the meantime, Macey's discovery had reached some of Webb's victims, and getting after him yesterday they waylaid him, took him to a side street outside the city and landed a few well-directed blows on his jaw, which they think he will carry the evidence of for many weeks to come.

Move To Shorten Length of Walton Impeachment Trial

(By The Associated Press) OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 15.—The impeachment trial of Governor J. C. Walton moved forward today through a maze of figures with indications that a definite move to shorten the length of the hearing was in prospect. Virtually the entire day was devoted to a review of campaign fund solicitations by Dr. E. T. Bynum, former advisor to the governor, and an investigation of the executive's bank account and building and loan stock investments.

He said a "wild guess" of the sum would be "about $7,000 or $8,000," and denied he had collected $76,000 as defense counsel implied.

The witness explained that collections were continued after the election for the benefit of Governor Walton's "organization." This "organization," he testified, was the name given by the governor to a group of his supporters. Cross examination precipitated the noisiest demonstration of the trial when Dr. Bynum was asked if he had been removed from the faculty of two universities, if he had ever been forced to kiss the American flag, and finally if he had not been knocked down in a local hotel for making pro-German remarks and he answered in the negative to each of the questions. The court protested against what they asserted was "unfair questioning." When the question regarding the alleged pro-German statement was put, a member of the court demanded to know what the questions were designed to show, and Warren K. Snyder, who was conducting the cross examination, replied, with a bitter personal attack against the witness.

His words were drowned in a roar of objections and his remarks expunged from the record.

Brewer, vice-president of an Oklahoma City Building and Loan Association, testified that since March, 1920, Governor Walton had invested $64,000 in stock of the association. The witness said most of the stock was purchased with currency, and old the court he recalled an occasion when the governor came into his office with $2,000 in gold in a cigar box, and invested the amount.

Who Will Build National Highways?

Nine states in the East and North-eastern part of the Union, although they have but 5 per cent of the area of the United States, possess one-half the national wealth.

Some taxpayers in these states, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut, sometimes argue against the idea of national highways to be built and forever maintained by the National Government, on the ground that they will have to pay half the cost of such roads.

Probably they will. But they have to pay half the cost of all the expensive hauling now done over all the bad roads of the nation. These nine states, paying half the taxes of the nation, half to pay half of all national works. They have to suffer half the ills of all national reverses. They have to pay half the cost of all the money lost by all the other states through having bad roads.

It is as impossible to live outside the working of the laws of economics as it is to work outside the laws of nature. The apple falls, be it in Maine or California, and the tax paid, is half collected from half the wealth. The expense of poor roads is half paid by half the national wealth, which suffers half the loss. And while half the cost of the whole country-wide system of national highways will eventually be paid by the nine states in which half of the wealth of the nation is located, they will also reap half the benefits though they possess but a small part of the half the mileage of the proposed system.
