INSIDE

Our Town

Longwood has a rich past and a bright future. As the city grows and changes, many residents work to make those changes quality ones, and strive to preserve the roots that are Longwood's past. Meet some of those people featured in a special section today...Our Town, Longwood.

People

People are busy out there

In the Sanford community, Seminole County Commissioner Daryl McLain and his wife, Barbara, will soon celebrate their silver wedding anniversary while St. John Church has named its Father of the Year. As the season ended, Lake Mary AARP held a gala fund-raiser and a Longwood graduate is on his way to the U.S. Military Academy. Read all this and much more. See Page 1C.

BRIEFS

Dad indicted for murders

SANFORD — A Chicago-area man has been indicted on two counts of first degree murder in the asphyxiation deaths of his two young sons.

Steve McRae, 35, stands accused in the carbon-monoxide poisoning deaths of Ryan, 8, and Kirk, 11, early this month. Distraught over the 1992 suicide of the boys' mother, the trio agreed they would join her. McRae parked behind a closed Allamonte Springs restaurant hooking up a hose from the car's exhaust into the car. The two boys died but McRae did not.

The state attorney has not decided whether to seek the death penalty for McRae.

School given 30 days

SANFORD — The Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services has given Pineview Academy 30 days to meet state standards or lose its contract.

The school for emotionally disturbed children may not accept new students until the contract matter is resolved.

Without an HRS contract, Pineview could not bill Medicaid which pays the charges for the students.

After an investigation last year, the state renewed the academy's contract but required some changes including staff training on state approved methods for physically restraining students. However, more must be done including hiring of staff to have a licensed counselor for every 32 children. The licensed, professional director must be on site at least 20 hours a week. Other changes in record keeping, an agreement to mainstream children leaving the program into public schools and evaluations are also required.

Boat ramp cleanup

SANFORD — A Seminole County Great Water Way Clean Up of boat ramps and waterways is scheduled to take place Saturday, July 8, from 7:30 a.m. until noon, according to the Seminole County Cooperative Extension Service.

Boaters, anglers and any others who may be interested in clean water are being invited to participate in this second annual event. Volunteers are asked to meet in the parking lot of the old Zayre Plaza, at the corner of U.S. Highway 17-92 and W. Airport Boulevard, at 7:30 a.m.

From that location, a site leader and coordinator will give additional information and set up

Talking it over with elected officials Sanford may amend ex-parte communications rule

By NICK PFEIFER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Most elected officials in Florida's cities have found it necessary to struggle with a bill passed in Tallahassee last year tagged the "Ex-parte Communications Law."

The law prevents persons, whether citizens of a city or not, from meeting, phoning or writing to a commissioner, if the person is involved requesting certain considerations by a city.

In Sanford, Lake Mary, and other area cities, commissioners have frequently complained that a constituent approached him or her, and the

To market, to market Turnout pleases outdoor vendors

By SANDRA ELLIOTT

SANFORD — The organizers were pleased. The vendors were happy. The browsers and customers who came early on the opening day of the downtown Farmers' Market found some bargains. Then Mother Nature turned on the tap and rain poured from the gloomy, gray overcast skies, dampening the day.

Although the "liquid sunshine" may have discouraged some from stopping by in the late morning, the vendors said business was good up until the rains came.

"I was really surprised," said John Plank, Winter Garden. "There were people buying at 8:20 this morning, just after we opened up. I figured most people would still be in bed."

Aurelia Myles, Johnny Golden and Emory Green were all members of Seminole High School's class of 1993. Like thousands of young talented Americans they realized their dreams of attending college. Myles traveled to Howard University, Washington, D.C. Golden went to Fairmont State College, Fairmont, Va., and Green to the University of Central Florida. According to Aurelia, Emory is Johnny's best friend. Johnny is a very positive person always causing his companions to smile or laugh.

Golden received a four-year football scholarship to Fairmont State College. Two years passed filled with the excitement of college, plus becoming thoroughly immersed in the quest for knowledge. Without warning on April 25, 1995, Johnny started feeling badly. When he did not appear the next morning, a friend went to check on him and found him gravely ill. Golden was

POLICE BRIEFS

Battery, burglary arrest

Lorenzo Antonio Williams, 21, 105 Ellen Place, Sanford was arrested by Sanford police for burglary of a convenience and battery stemming from a June 18 incident. A woman claimed the defendant struck her with his fist and when she got out of the car, he grabbed her around the neck. Punching to defend herself, the victim sustained cuts on both eyes then ran back to the car. Williams allegedly kicked several dents in the car side. The woman was treated at CFRH and Williams was arrested Wednesday.

Drug arrest

Rodney Davis, 20, 3291 S. Sanford Avenue, was arrested by Sanford police for the sale and delivery of cocaine and possession with intent to distribute. The Special Investigations Unit was conducting an undercover operation near Sanford Avenue and Airport Boulevard Tuesday with the help of an informant. The transaction was arranged by telephone, and when the deal was complete agents moved in but Davis got away when police attempted to stop the car. A bag was tossed out of the car near Sandalwood Apartments. He was arrested by police Wednesday. According to police, Davis was out of jail on bond after being arrested for cocaine possession.

Warrant arrests

Michael Dante Sanders, 27, 1121 Hickory Ave., Sanford, failure to appear/driving while license suspended.
 Robert Lee Reed, 41, 1930 W. 15th St. Sanford, civil writ of attachment.
 Gregory Kyle Garner, 22, 185 Steeple Chase Circle, Sanford, third degree grand theft and uttering a forged instrument, Broward County warrant.
 Nanette Faye Wittman, 37, 1906 Lake Ave., Sanford, violation of probation/purchase of cocaine.
 Samuel Carlson, 32, 1330 Summerlin Ave., Sanford, failure to appear/disorderly conduct serious harm threat.

Incidents reported to sheriff

At the Wekiva Cove Club House, a post, water fountain, pay phone and enclosed bulletin board were sprayed with green paint overnight Tuesday.

A club pro shop in the 1700 block of Art Hagan Place, Longwood was burglarized. Several drawers were searched and a cabinet containing golf balls was opened.

A resident of the 900 block of Framlingham, Lake Mary said her Hidden Village home was burglarized and several calls made to 1-900 numbers. She reported she believes her son-in-law may be responsible because he and the woman's daughter are divorcing. The daughter is living at the woman's home.

A house in the 1000 block of Alexander Avenue was burglarized and a portable phone along with $60 cash taken.

A club in the 1800 block of Southwest Road was broken into and a battery taken.

A license tag was stolen from a car in the parking lot of a restaurant in the 200 block of Hickman Drive.

An air conditioner was stolen from a church in the 2000 block of Southwest Road.

Several items were taken from a house under construction in the 200 block of Orange Avenue including a TV, microwave, fishing gear, stereo, speakers and CD player.

A homeowner in the 100 block of Bridgeview Court, Longwood said $800 worth of golf clubs were stolen from his open garage Wednesday.

Sanford police reports

A 22 caliber rifle and flare gun, with a total value of $115 were reportedly stolen Friday from a residence in the 2800 block of S. French Avenue.

Two bikes were reportedly stolen Thursday from a storage shed in the 2500 block of Park Avenue.

A handgun and ammunition with a total value of $200 were reported stolen Thursday from an apartment in Redding Gardens.

Police said locks were broken on three construction trailers Thursday near the Seminole Towne Center Mall construction site on S. Oregon Avenue. Nothing was immediately determined to have been taken.

Man with knife

Sanford police arrested Rodney Lewis Woods, 39, 113 Castle Brewer Court Thursday. Officers said they were responding to a call regarding loud noise and suspected gambling in the Lincoln Court area. Officers said when they arrived, Woods began to run from the area. They gave chase and subsequently located him apparently hiding in brush in a nearby wooded area. A search reportedly revealed he was in possession of a knife with a six inch blade. He was arrested on charges of resisting an officer without violence, and carrying a concealed weapon.

None of the other persons reportedly in the area at the time was apprehended.

Multiple charges

Sheriff's deputies arrested Walter Royce Collier, 40, 1788 Bell Street, Sanford, early Friday, at 14th Street and Williams Avenue. Officers said a search revealed he was in possession of a cocaine pipe. He was charged with resisting an officer without violence, and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Deputies said he was also found to be wanted on a writ of bodily attachment.

Host families sought for exchange students

By NICK PFEIFFER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The International Culture Exchange Services, (ICES) is looking for temporary homes for four more secondary school students scheduled to visit in Central Florida. The teens are to arrive in late August, prior to the start of the next school year, but only if a host family can be arranged for each of them.

Host families are being sought anywhere in the Seminole, Orange, Lake and surrounding counties. The youngsters range in age from 15 to 18 and will attend high schools in the area in which their host families are located.

According to ICES Regional Administrator Anne T. Ruddell, "We have already arranged for one host family in Sanford. A young man will be staying with them and attending Seminole High School this fall along with the family's son."

ICES is one of 20 not-for-profit agencies chosen by the United States Information Agency to administer a program which provides students with an opportunity to spend time in America. The students handled by ICES are from what is called NIS, Newly Independent States, of the former Soviet Union.

The organization's goals is to provide the youngsters with the opportunity to attend an American school, (high school), and share in U.S. family life by living with a host family. ICES says the program is designed, "to help students learn more about the U.S., increase their sensitivity to cultural differences and similarities, and develop a deepened awareness of shared human values and interests."

While there are eight students expected in Central Florida, host families have only been arranged for half of them.

In addition to the Sanford family with which arrangements have already been made, four other host families are still being sought for three girls, from Russia, Soviet Georgia and Uzbekistan, and one boy from Soviet Georgia.

Host families are asked to provide room and board, and will be eligible for a federal tax deduction for hosting a foreign exchange visitor.

The Freedom Support Act, FSA, which oversees all of the exchange student operations, is funded by the U.S. Government to promote respect for cultural diversity, friendship between the United States and former Soviet Union nations, and provide opportunities for personal development through international host family living.

In Central Florida, information may be obtained or arrangements made to become a host family by contacting ICES regional director Anne T. Ruddell, in Altamonte Springs, at 332-8559 or 1-800-332-8552.

Cleanup includes the kitchen sink

Last September, there was a drive undertaken to clean up Florida's beaches. In just three hours, 16,070 volunteers cleaned up beaches, rivers, lakes and canals.

Among common items recovered were 211,632 cigarette butts, 37,143 glass bottles and 38,136 metal cans. Also found were two kitchen sinks.

Findings revealed that 61 percent of the Florida trash was plastic, a particular hazard to wildlife because it is not biodegradable.

With volunteer help, officials say the state saved about $800,000 in cleanup costs.

Now, an opportunity is presenting itself to do a similar project right here in our own back yards.

The University of Florida, through the Seminole County Cooperative Extension Service, is planning a massive cleanup of boat ramps and waterways on Saturday, July 8 in Seminole County.

Volunteers are needed. The more people who participate, the more results we will have. Likewise, the more trash will be pulled from our waterways and not only the physical beauty but the wildlife and fish will be better preserved.

Volunteers are asked to phone the County Extension Service at 328-3247 to participate. Then, they are asked to show up at the former Zayre Plaza parking lot, corner of U.S. Highway 17-92 and W. Airport Boulevard on July 8, at 7:30 a.m.

A coordinator will be on hand to give specific areas and make assignments. (People who participate will receive a free T-shirt, but that's a minor compared to the good they will be doing.)

Even though Seminole County is not oceanfront, it has its share of lakes, rivers, and even creeks. Most every resident comes in contact with one of these bodies of water, some on a daily basis. As such, they are certainly fully aware of the trash and rubbish in the water and along the edge.

At times, people can be seen picking up trash on their own accord. They are truly the kind of people of which we can be proud. They deserve high praise.

But now, with this massive project scheduled for July 8, everyone will have an opportunity to get involved.

If only a few dozen people turn out, there will be a marked difference. But if 100 or more turn out and get involved, we would see an outstanding difference.

Get involved. Join in this second annual Seminole County Great Water Way Clean-Up project on July 8th. It'll be fun, and it'll be beneficial to everyone.

As for another statewide project, another massive cleanup is scheduled for Sept. 16. More on that later, but again, be prepared to participate.

Jury trials

In regard to the article in Parade magazine on Sunday, May 28, by Marilyn vos Savant, do you think you would be safe with a jury trial?

The base of power in America was to remain in We The People, unfortunately, it was lost to those leaders acting in the name of government.

As a result America began to function like a democracy instead of a republic. A democracy is dangerous because it is a one-vote system as opposed to a republic, which is a three-vote system, three votes to check tyranny, not just one. American citizens have not been informed of their other two votes.

Our first vote is at the polls on Election Day when we choose our representatives. But what can be done if those elected officials don't perform as promised? The second two votes are the most effective means by which the citizens of this nation can control those appointed to serve them in government.

The second vote comes when you serve on a grand jury. Before anyone can be brought to trial for a capital crime the government must obtain permission from people serving on the grand jury.

The third and most powerful vote is when you are acting as a jury member during a courtroom trial. It is in this setting that each juror has more power than the president, all of Congress, and all of the judges combined. No juror can be punished for voting "Not Guilty." Any juror can disregard the instructions of any judge or attorney in rendering his vote. Thus those acting in the name of government must come before the common man to get permission to enforce a law.

The abduction of reproduction

BOSTON — How do you describe the theft of a human egg? The kidnapping of an embryo? The abduction of reproduction?

Start by imagining, if you will, that you are an infertile couple who wanted a biological child badly enough to go through the expense, the indignities, the emotional and hormonal roller coaster of in vitro fertilization. Imagine the month-by-month hopes and disappointments.

Imagine discovering years later that you do have a child. A boy born to another couple from your egg and possibly your sperm. Or twins carrying your DNA but someone else's name. Imagine discovering that the "extra" eggs harvested from your body and maybe fertilized by your sperm were cavalierly given to another pair without your knowledge, without your permission. Your genetic material had been "donated" to them by your doctor.

This is the bizarre tale unfolding in California, where two couples are accusing doctors of theft and fraud. But these alleged burglaries didn't take place at some fly-by-night medical office, or by some unknown quack.

This scandal of staggering proportions is said to have occurred at a renowned fertility center at the University of California, Irvine. The doctor being charged is Ricardo Asch, the very man who devised the GIFT procedure that greatly increased the odds of success of in vitro fertilization, the man who also helped one of the suing couples give birth.

Dr. Asch, along with two partners, is accused of many things, of using unapproved fertility drugs and failing to report thousands of dollars to the university. But the charge that strikes the deepest is that he used eggs and sperm, fresh and frozen embryos, as if they were his to distribute.

Dr. Asch denies all this. He claims to be the victim of extortionists. But along with the mounting evidence accumulating in seven different investigations against him, there is a sense of a story that was waiting to happen.

It's been 18 years since the first act of creation took place in a laboratory. The reproductive possibilities that followed the birth of Baby Louise have made our heads spin.

In these years, reproductive "material" has been separated from what we used to think of as the reproductive process. We've seen an egg and a sperm that got together in a petri dish implanted in a third person's womb. We've seen surrogate wombs, post-menopausal mothers, women giving birth to their own grandchildren.

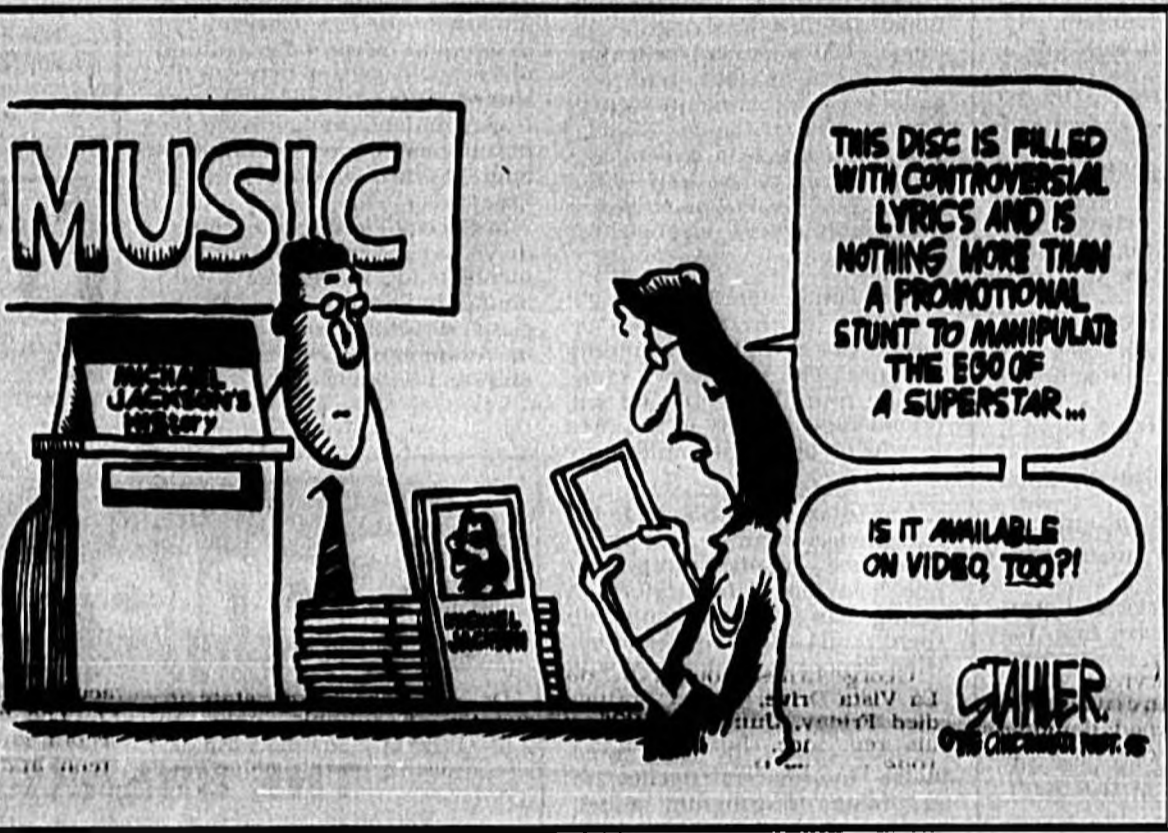

One result has been the joy of 40,000 couples who became parents. Another has been the dashed hopes of many more who didn't beat the long odds against success. But an unsettling byproduct of laboratory creation has been the extra embryos, the spare eggs and sperm, the DNA frozen in suspended animation, ready or not for some later use.

In the past decade, a couple who died in a plane crash left their embryos in a freezer and left their relatives in a quandary. Another couple sued each other for custody of a frozen embryo as the last remains of their dissolving marriage.

And in California there are at least four people left wondering about what one anguished father calls "the missing children."

This is the bizarre tale unfolding in California, where two couples are accusing doctors of theft and fraud.

It's midge-eating season, gulp

Yesterday morning, as I obtained my first gulp of living protein for the summer of '88, the question of what to do about the blind mosquitoes once more came to mind. It would be fairly obvious even to a blind mosquito eater that the town council ignored my suggestion of last summer, so the annoying problem of their annual presence has once more come to the forefront of my mind. However, as akin to the ferocity of their little bodies plummeting my apartment door, the answer to the town council's lack of action hath come to me like a thunderbolt: it's time to write the mayor.

Dear Me'am: (uh, Your Honor. She who is all most high)

I am writing today in order to bring to your attention a problem which beats the consistency of Sanford, and is of sufficient unpleasant overtones so as to reduce not only the tourist population, but also the local evening strollers who normally walk the waterfront. This pest upon our city center, this plague which assaults our hamlet in proportions not unlike those spoken of within the Bible is of course the midge menace, the no see-um nuisance, the blind mosquito marauders.

In the height of the season last year, Your Worship, I proposed in this space a method by which not only would these scurriously little critters be rid from the area, but also a possible method by which the economic development within and without our town's borders might receive a substantial boost. It apparently fell upon deaf ears however. In their high and mighty chambers, the town council, the chamber of commerce, and yes, even the bait and tackle shops apparently felt my plan was frivolous and without merit, and so they ignored it at Sanford's peril. You, however, Oh Shining Beacon of Reason that I know you must be, were probably out of town the day my article was printed, undoubtedly on a much deserved junket to Camelberry, and so undoubtedly missed my earnestly put forward thoughts on the matter. With your leave, I will summarize them now.

The plan has two parts: First we need to rent some artificial snow making equipment from the ski areas up North. As this tends to be their off season, the costs should be minimal, save for those of transportation. These machines (two at least) would be set up upon the waterfront, pointing out over the breeding grounds of the blind mosquitoes, with the one major difference from their usual function being that instead of pumping water through their misting nozzles, we here in Sanford will pump chocolate!

See, if the chocolates will coat their little wings and bodies, the moisture from the water will cause that chocolate to solidify, and they will fall helplessly into Lake Monroe into the waiting jaws of the breeding alligators below. Simplicity, me'am, that is the key. And as for the residual chocolate and the EPA, well the carp and catfish will surely love the way droppings of chocolate so much that they will consume all of it with gusto, grow fat quickly, and consequently make all the local fishermen happy with the increased size of their catch.

SEMINOLE OPINION

Now, please two calls for a slight modification of my plan, in that instead of feeding alligators with the mummified bodies of the little pests, we sling large fine-meshed nets out under the throw area of the chocolates. (This part's sheer brilliance, if I do say so myself; and I do ...). Now, every morning, after the accumulated corpses are collected in the nets, the newly created Greater Sanford Cooperative Chocolate Company will scrape the mosquito droppings (dropped mosquitoes?) off the nets and take the night's work back to the factory. Once there, the protein enriched chocolates will have any unwanted love bugs or cigarette butts removed, packaged up nicely in colorful little boxes, and sold at tourist traps all around the state.

My Lord, in implementing my plan, you would therefore not only rid Sanford of the menace of those undoubtedly disease-ridden flying pests, but would further be able to jump start the local economy, and all in one quick step. And then there's the offshoot industries such as T-shirts bearing some slogan like "Have you eaten your mosquitoes today?," or "My grandmother went to Florida, and all she brought back was a delicious box of Sanford's Finest Encapsulated Mosquitoes." As you can see, the possibilities are endless.

Now, whether or not the mayor acts upon my suggestion would be anybody's guess, but you loyal readers out there at least know I tried once more to be a good member of the community.

Oh, and Mrs. Mayor, so that all may bank in your Solomon-like wisdom, a response here next week would be appreciated. The little buggers are increasing quickly as time goes by.

Letters to the editor are welcome. All letters must be signed, include the address of the writer and a daytime telephone number. Letters should be on a single subject and be as brief as possible. The letters are subject to editing.

JOSEPH SPEAR

Do curmudgeons go to heaven?

What's bugging the body politic? The mailbag knows:

A.S., Dunbar, Pa.: I just read your article about Social Security. The system is in trouble and something should be done to save it. The rich politicians that plan to cut my benefits have never gone hungry, and they will get a pension that makes mine look sick. Please excuse my bad writing, I never got to go to high school, maybe that's why my pension is $62.55 a month.

Joe: Social Security is rooted in the principle that every citizen is entitled to some form of basic subsistence. It has worked for 60 years but the baby boomers could bankrupt it. Some critics want to can it in favor of private investment schemes. That might work -- if everyone is guaranteed a minimal pension, and if private investment plans are closely regulated, and if investment in them is mandatory.

P.P., Scranton, Pa.: I am in despair in realizing you missed the entire point of the republican 12 yrs with Democrat majority calling the shots, showing their greed and so on. If you can't read, then follow, if you can't follow, then you are wasting your time, but I suppose it is too laborous to read a few books. Your problem, Joe, is you are head strong and brain weak.

Joe: Your right, I really should read more. D.M., Florence, S.C.: You were right about Same Old (Stuff). I read your article about SOB and when I asked my close friend if he read your article his reply was that he never read your article because they are always (sic) the Same Old (Stuff).

Joe: I was thinking the same thing about your note. E.P., Salisbury, Md.: You are so insanely envious of Rush Limbaugh, you can't even see straight. My! My! Are you so afraid of the truth?!! You are just full of venom!! You are very stupid or a bold-faced (sic) liar. Is that your goal in life?!!

Joe: Fact is, E.P., my life has been a constant struggle to impress people like you, and now I see I have failed. How sad.

D.S., Doylestown, Pa.: These animal rights people have warped priorities. Don't get me wrong, I love animals too -- for dinner, and with some ketchup. Hot dogs for lunch and steak for dinner -- pigs, dogs, cows -- it's all good. So put a sign on your dog's back that says: "I'm dinner tonight at five and can't wait."

Joe: It sounds like you know warped when you see it.

H.C., Marinette, Wis.: You are the only person in the media who has a brain in his head. Since Gnat -- excuse me, I don't spell "good." Now, I mean -- is now speaker of the House, I've toyed with the idea of going to Siberia and pound salt, but I'm a 76-year-old female and thought it's too late. Keep it up, Joe.

Joe: Your letters are a welcome relief, H.C. Bless you.

G.D., Lineville, Pa.: I read your column about Pat Robertson and found it to be sickening. Christians are up in arms about the evil we see about us. Folks like you are not helping when you knock someone because you don't understand the faith.

Joe: I don't knock Parson Pat for his faith. I knock him for preaching politics from the pulpit and instigating his God to a Hotline to Heaven and knows that God votes the same way he does.

G.S., Enid, Okla.: I shall pray for you. Note: You may write to me care of the Newspaper Enterprise Association, 300 Madison Ave., New York, NY 10016.

Sanford residents will have transportation to the mall

By SARAH ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The bus could be teal, pink, green or any other color of the rainbow. It may be covered with larger than life graphics or decorated with the simple Lynx logo.

Whatever the color or graphics on the bus, Sanford residents will have transportation to the Seminole Town Center Mall provided by Lynx with some financing help from Seminole County and the City of Sanford.

Friday, the board of commissioners approved $60,000 to help fund a new Sanford Circulator route in the 1986-88 budget. The total annual service cost of the route is $211,988.

In addition, the commissioners agreed to allocate $6,000 in the current budget year to start the bus route in September. The extra month of bus service will provide transportation for Sanford mall employees preparing stores to open for business in October.

Next year's budget kicks in Oct. 1. Sanford is also providing money for the September service, the commissioners were told.

The new route would complement the current loop with further circulation within and around the Sanford area and provide a new service extension to the mall, according to Lynx officials.

One bus would travel the service route every 60 minutes between 8:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Monday through Sunday. The route would begin at WAL-MART Plaza, (Seminole Centre) on Hwy. 17-92, traveling north on 17-92 to First Street (State Road 48). The service will continue north then east along Hwy. 17-92 to Mangum Avenue south serving the Central Florida Regional Hospital. Service will then continue west along S.R. 48 and terminate at the Seminole Town Center. The service will then provide the same service routing in reverse to the WAL-MART. Stops along this route will be about every two blocks.

Local

Under this title, various happenings during the 1915-16 school year are listed; I'll give you some highlights.

Madame Estelle Gray and Mr. Morris Lhevinne of the Estelle Gray Concert Company gave a delightful recital during one morning's opening exercises.

Mrs. Mary Harris Armor, the greatest woman orator in the South, gave a lecture to the school in the interest of the W.C.T.U. (Woman's Christian Temperance Union).

Dr. J.H. Thackston, state inspector of schools, gave an interesting talk one morning. He also commended the school very highly.

Among the prominent visitors to the school during Visitor's Week was Mr. J.R. Graham of Tsing Kiang Fu, China.

The singing during morning chapel had been much improved that year by the addition of a chorus choir, selected from the grades.

Seminole County participated in the Five County Fair held in Orlando. Their exhibit took first prize.

10 People to try a new procedure that replaced traditional hearing instruments

We're looking for 10 people to try the new procedure that virtually replaces the need for a traditional hearing aid.

This is not a gimmick procedure!

This device is safe and completely painless. A tiny tiny device will be inserted deep within the canal of your ear. The device is so small it hides from sight.

Significant hearing improvement has been achieved by thousands of patients.

HERE ARE SOME COMMENTS WE'VE HEARD:

"This is the closest sounding hearing device I've ever used. It's not noisy, it's more natural, and I'm in a barrel."

"The only person I know has heard from it."

"I can use the telephone without the annoying whistle of traditional hearing aids."

Judge for yourself!

Try this new device as one of the first to respond!

 small blue canopy set up in Magnolia Square. He was the only vendor, under roof so to speak. Encouraged by the rain-dampened turnout, Plank said he plans to return.
 "We had a good crowd before it started raining," civic activist Kay Bartholomew said. "I saw people come to the market who I haven't seen downtown in years." Bartholomew works in a number of areas with an eye toward revitalizing downtown Sanford. She described some customers as "the movers and shakers," prominent members of the community.

 From teacher, Jenny Meadowweet, who has a cottage garden at her Sanford home and loves plants, to professionals like Geneva nurseryman, Allen Prot, and Val Colbert, Welkiva Park Drive, customers could choose from a wide variety of plants, vines, herbs and flowers for their home gardens.

 Lyman High School students Michelle Ruis and Laura Laws, cornered the market on munchies, selling muffins, turnovers and coffee along with packaged baked goods from Michelle's father's Casselberry bakery. The teens braved the raindrops, sheltering the baked goods with two umbrellas.

 "I want to come back," Ruis said, indicating she hopes to sell more goodies from the Los Angeles Bakery and Catering store to the hungry public in the open-air market.

 The weather drove artist Jennifer Houdeshell under a nearby store front canopy, where she continued to sketch the Magnolia Square clock and historic buildings near the square.
 One man offered to buy the work in progress, but Houdeshell declined because the work was commissioned.

"He wanted my card and wants me to do another one for him," she remarked.
 The fledgling market featured four plant vendors, two vegetable stands and the baked goods table but that number is sure to grow along with the crowds if the weather cooperates next week.

 commissioner had to walk away without responding, as it would be a violation of the ex-parte communications restrictions.
 Commissioners have complained that it makes them appear as though they are not interested or concerned with the individual, and gives them the appearance of not being interested in requests by citizens.

The resolution establishes procedures for the disclosure of ex-parte communications with elected public officials.
 Following these new procedures is aimed at removing the presumption of prejudice arising from such communications.
 According to wording she has in the proposed resolution, McIntosh wrote, "Section 5, Article I of the State Constitution gives the people the right to peaceably assemble, to instruct their representatives..." (etc).

Such disclosures must be made before or during a public meeting at which a vote is taken on the matter which may have been discussed. McIntosh said this is so that persons who have opinions contrary to those expressed in the ex-parte communication are given a reasonable opportunity to refute or respond to the communication.
 Although not listed on the regular agenda for Monday night's Sanford City Commission meeting, it has been added as a late item for discussion and/or consideration.

This Monday evening, one of Sanford's city attorneys, Donna McIntosh, is scheduled to present the Sanford City Commission with the draft of a new resolution that would allow the elected public officials of the city to take advantage of a new ex-parte communications disclosure law.

If the resolution is approved, such communications may be conducted between a citizen and commissioner, but the commissioner would have to disclose ex-parte communications.

The Sanford City Commission meeting will begin at 7 p.m. Monday, in the commission chamber, of Sanford City Hall, 500 N. Park Avenue.

Sanford mom in dire need of liver transplant

By SUSAN WISSENER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Tim and Froslee Flavin lived a happy, healthy life until some five weeks ago when Froslee suddenly became very ill. She recently underwent removal of her gall bladder but the worse news was that she also suffered from the last stages of advanced liver disease.

The couple have lived in Sanford for 11 years and been married the same amount of time. They share three children, Tyler, 9, Heaven Lee, 8 and Sara, 2. Most heart-wrenching friends say, in these three precious children and the prospect of life without mom.

Tim spoke of their work and happier times. "We are just farmers," he said. "We grew up in this area. We have orange groves that are family operated. I do aluminum enclosures when the fruit's not coming in. Froslee and I have also had a great marriage. She's such a hard worker. We've always worked side by side."

Doctors speculate Froslee contracted hepatitis C sometime in December 1994 and her condition has continued to deteriorate since. Naomi Judd, country singer, also suffers from hepatitis C. She is presently in a stable condition at this point, unlike Froslee.

As Tim put it, "Froslee is a much loved mother of three small children. She needs a liver transplant. That is her greatest hope of survival. Years ago she would have had no hope. Now she can survive to see her children grow up but not without your help."

He continued by saying, "The cost of a liver transplant is enormous. It costs into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. Please help save her."

The family has a strong faith in God and feel that he has sustained them thus far. The children attend All Souls Catholic School in Sanford. Tim's parents had donated the stained glass window sometime ago to St. Augustine's Catholic Church in Casselberry.

Froslee was released from Central Florida Regional Hospital and the next day made a trip to Shands Hospital in Gainesville. She was examined and put on the donor list. She received a beeper so if a liver does arrive that is her type and suitable, the hospital staff will page the family and immediate arrangements must be made for transportation to Shands.

"You can't order organs out of a catalog," said

Tim. "Over 800,000 people are awaiting transplants. Everyone should be a donor. You never know when you could help someone else." Three biopsies have been taken from Froslee in the last few weeks. Tissue samples have been collected. Time is now the four-letter word that family and friends dread the most. Froslee needs more time but it is running short.

Tim explained the severity of her condition. "They raise the problem on a one to four level. One is the most serious, she is a two right now."

This 34-year-old woman was described by her husband as "a go-getter. She has gone from a vital woman and aged 30 years overnight. I don't know how to let the public know. I've tried fund-raisers and car washes. The scary thing is that this could happen to anyone."

He expressed how much the prayers and hopeful words from friends as well as strangers has encouraged him. "The support and prayers have meant so much to us. God has been there for us too. He has given us the strength to make it."

A fund has been set up at Barnett Banks all over Central Florida for those interested in assisting the family financially. Contributions should be directed to the Froslee Flavin Fund.

In healthier times, Froslee Flavin with her children, Tyler, 9, Sara, 2 and Heaven, 8.

In addition, two tournaments were planned to benefit Froslee. The second is today at Secret Lake Park, 300 Ivey Lane, Casselberry.

Contact Shelia Walker at 831-4231 for more information. To obtain more information about the Froslee Flavin Trust Fund, call Vickie McGill at 323-0182.

Sanford officials discuss cops, fences, outdoor sale

By MIKE PRINCE
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Additional police officers, chain link fence matters and an outdoor merchandise sale request will be among items to be discussed Monday at the Sanford City Commission meeting.

As of this past week, the following items are listed on the agenda for discussion during the work session, beginning at 5 p.m. in the City Manager's Conference Room on the 2nd floor of city hall.

• Discussion — Immediate authorization of five additional police officers.

• Discussion — Regarding a lease extension for Boys and Girls Club.

• Discussion — Alternatives for the city's police on chain link fences in front yards.

• Discussion — Future land use map changes proposed by Seminole County in an area near the Orlando Sanford Airport.

• Discussion — Florida Motor Vehicle Theft Prevention Authority grant to the city.

• Discussion — Regular agenda and additional items.

As of this past week, the following are listed on the agenda for the regular commission meeting, to begin at 7 p.m., in the commission chambers.

• Ordinance 3253 — 2nd reading — Rezone a portion of property between Airport Boulevard and Jerry Avenue, and between McCracken Road and Academy Avenue from RI-1, restricted industrial, to PD, planned development. Tom Ball, owner. This matter was continued on April 30 pending approval of a small scale comprehensive plan amendment, to be published on August 11, 1996. As such a continuation until August 14 is being recommended.

• Ordinance 3259 — 2nd reading — Annex a portion of property between Sanford Avenue and the SCL Railroad right-of-way, and between E. Lake Mary Boulevard and North Way (1775 E. Lake Mary Boulevard). Richard L. Best, petitioner.

• Ordinance 3260 — 2nd reading — Closing, vacating and abandoning a north-south alley between E. Fourth Street and E. Seventh Street, and between Willow Avenue and Bay Avenue. City of Sanford, petitioner/owner.

• Consideration — Request from Marvin Cohen and Howard Regan for permission to conduct periodic parking lot sales at 212 W. First Street.

• Consideration — Lease extension for Boys and Girls Club.

• Consideration — Request from Paralyzed Veterans of America (PVA) to close a street Sunday, July 2, in conjunction with special (Fireworks) event.

• Consideration — Pebble Junction stormwater utility lien.

• Consideration — FMVTPA Grant (Florida Motor Vehicle Theft Prevention Authority).

• Recommendations from Planning and Zoning Commission meeting of June 15 — Approve conditional use permit for property at 2477 Park Avenue for the purpose of alcoholic beverage sales.

• Board appointments/re-appointments — System Development Fee Advisory Committee, Waterfront Master Plan Steering Committee.

• Consent agenda — Payment of statements.

• Payment of invoices.

• Additional items from mayor, commissioners, city attorney and/or city manager.

One late item has been added to the agenda — New ex-parte communications disclosure law information draft.

The Sanford City Hall is located at 300 N. Park Avenue in Sanford.

$7.92 for residents in unincorporated Seminole County, which includes unincorporated roads and fire service. The figure also excludes voter approved debt to purchase environmentally sensitive and endangered lands.

Two public hearings will be conducted in September before the budget is officially adopted and goes into effect Oct. 1.

Chairman Randy Morris explained any commissioner may ask to readdress budget items during the twice monthly commissioner meetings between now and its official adoption.

In keeping with the goal of attracting business and industry to the county, the commissioners increased the budget for the Economic Development fund from $1.3 million to $1.9 million an increase of $645,769. A portion of that money is already dedicated to a planned relocation of several AT&T offices.

A proposal by outgoing county manager Ron Rabun for an increase in the utility tax was rejected by the commissioners. Rabun proposed a three-cent increase in the utility tax to fund a portion of the sheriff's budget and establish a funding source for stormwater management. Rabun has been chosen as Volusia County manager, although the county council delayed action on the final contract because not all members were present at a meeting earlier this month.

Commissioners Dick Van Der Weide and Win Adams both questioned whether setting up the dedicated funding source for stormwater would hamper the board's flexibility. Adams suggested a priority list is needed while Van Der Weide cautioned the county doesn't want to find itself in the same situation as the school board where some dedicated funds are flush with money while others where funding is needed are empty.

In his presentation of the budget, Rabun noted that stormwater management "has constantly battered our current funding sources..." and suggested a one-cent increase in the utility tax.

Initially, Rabun proposed part of the 4 percent utility tax already in place and used to fund public safety needs be dedicated to a stormwater fund. However, all of the tax currently in place is needed to pay the augmented salaries in the union contract approved earlier this year.

Some department budgets appear to be less than the current level but major capital projects are not factored in. The Public Safety budget drops from its current $20,215,630 to $18,618,097 for next year. However, the $18.6 million budget figure does not include $5,500,000 for the 800 MHz radio system upgrade.

The Supervisor of Elections budget goes from $652,346 to $675,270, an increase of 3.69 per cent, but the latter figure does not include a $1,000,000 expenditure for automated voting equipment to be paid for by a bond issue.

The Public Works budget drops $9.6 million from $50.55 million to $40.95 million but the decreased figure does not include major capital projects.

The county commissioners approved an additional $60,000 for "legislative effort" which may be used to hire a lobbying firm to work in Washington D.C. as well as Tallahassee on behalf of Seminole County.

The $6,000 budgeted this year for lobbying efforts were woefully inadequate, Morris said.

The commissioners can't be jumping on a plane everytime an important matter affecting the county comes before the state legislature or major funding is considered by Congress, Morris noted. Personal lobbying efforts by the commissioners on matters ranging from the Geneva Bubble Bill to keeping funding for the State Road 46A interchange safeguarded millions of dollars for the county this year.

"Our legislative delegation has urged us to hire a lobbying firm," Morris added.

The state-set salaries for the commissioners, based on county population are projected to go from the current $48,815 per commissioner to $50,832, an increase of 4.1 percent.

With information gathered during the work sessions, the Office of Management and Budget will develop the final budget which will be the subject of the public hearings in the hall. At the second hearing, the BCC adopts a resolution stating the millage rates to be levied and adopts the final budget.

IN BRIEF

SCC Sports Camps offered

SANFORD — The Seminole Community College Athletic Department is offering three four-day sports camps for kids ages seven to 14.

Participants will receive quality instruction in basketball, baseball, tennis, golf, softball and volleyball from members of the SCC coaching staff. The sports camps will be on the main campus of Seminole Community College located at 100 Weldon Boulevard in Sanford, just off U.S. Highway 17-92.

Dates and times for the camps are July 10-13; July 24-27; and July 31-Aug. 3 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily. Registration is at 8:30 a.m. the first day of camp in building H.

Cost is $125 per person. Families enrolling more than one child per session will receive a $25 discount.

To find out more about the SCC sports camps or to sign up, call (407) 338-3080.

Baseball All-Star in Miami

MIAMI — Major League Baseball's All-Star Game will be played at Denver's Coors Field in 1996 and at Joe Robbie Stadium in the year 2000, baseball officials confirmed Saturday.

National League spokeswoman Katy Peoney would not discuss reports on the All-Star bids, but said an announcement is due this week.

But a top baseball official who spoke on condition of anonymity confirmed to The Associated Press Saturday news reports that the decisions on 1996 and 2000 have been made.

This year's game will be played July 11 at the Texas Rangers' stadium, The Ballpark at Arlington. The All-Star game will be played in Veterans Stadium in Philadelphia in 1996 and at Jacobs Field in Cleveland in 1997. The 1999 game will be at an American League site.

Marlins set records

CINCINNATI — Charlie Johnson drove in six runs against Cincinnati's shellshocked pitching staff Friday night as the Florida Marlins set a club scoring with a 16-4 victory over the Reds.

Johnson singled, doubled twice and hit two of three home runs matching the club record for hits in a game. Terry Pendleton and Andre Dawson also homered to hand the Reds their most lopsided loss in two seasons.

The Marlins reached 16 runs for the first time in their history with the help of two big innings.

The Marlins took control by sending 10 batters in the second. Pendleton led off with a homer, his fourth, and Johnson pulled a belt-high, first-pitch fastball down the left-field line for a three-run double. Jeff Conine capped the rally with a two-run single.

Dawson hit his fourth homer in the third, and Florida pulled away by sending 12 batters to the plate for seven runs in the sixth off three relievers. Kurt Abbott had a two-run double, and Johnson hit his third homer to make it 14-3.

Daly Nixes Knicks

NEW YORK — Chuck Daly, who appeared to be the front-runner for the vacant New York Knicks coaching job, has withdrawn from consideration.

Knicks general manager Ernie Grunfeld is expected to focus on former Warriors and Bucks coach Don Nelson and ex-Celtics coach Chris Ford.

Rhodes drops out of draft

LEXINGTON, Ky. — Kentucky forward Rhodes has withdrawn his request to be among the underclassmen eligible for Wednesday's NBA draft.

Rhodes, a 6-foot-7 junior, had a change of heart after he turned in a lackluster performance during the league's pre-draft camp in Chicago earlier this month.

There has been speculation that Rhodes would return to Kentucky to play his senior season or redshirt, leave college basketball to play overseas or transfer to another school.

Raiders back to Oakland

OAKLAND, Calif. — After 15 years, the Los Angeles Raiders will be heading back to Oakland, contingent on the approval of NFL owners and Oakland city and county officials.

The board governing the Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum has agreed to an $85 million stadium modernization and a $51.9 million loan to the team to help it complete the relocation in time to play in Oakland this season.

The NFL called a league meeting for the week of July 10 to act on the move, which would leave Los Angeles — the nation's second-largest media market — without a football team. Two months ago, the league allowed the Rams to leave Anaheim for St. Louis.

Winners take different paths to Babe Ruth wins

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Sanford topped Altamonte Springs in a defensive struggle, while Tavares outscored Oviedo-Greater Seminole in a slugfest as the Babe Ruth Baseball (14-15 year olds) District 7 Tournament got underway at Sanford Memorial Stadium Friday afternoon.

Tavares and Greater Seminole were hooked up in a 5-5 tie entering the bottom of the fourth inning, when Tavares exploded for 13 runs. While Tavares only got four hits in the outburst, three were doubles and drove in multiple runs. Andy Hickman and Jesse King both had three-run two-baggers, while Tim West ripped a two-run double.

Greater Seminole came back with seven runs in the top of the fifth inning to keep the game alive, but the damage had already been done as Tavares coasted to the 20-12 triumph.

Sanford also used a big inning to take early control of its game with Altamonte Springs, but it was the pitching of Tug Daniels and his defensive mates that kept Altamonte Springs at bay as Sanford claimed a 6-3 triumph.

Daniels, a left-hander, scattered eight hits, while striking out six and walking five, one intentionally.

But the game was in doubt until the very end as Altamonte Springs had two runners on with two out in the bottom of the seventh inning with Perescu, who had hit a two-run homer earlier, coming to the plate carrying the tying run. Sanford manager Tolle Frank played the percentages and walked Perescu and Daniels got the next batter to Sanford and Tavares were to have met in a winners bracket game at 9 a.m. Saturday, with Greater Seminole and Altamonte Springs facing off in an elimination game at 11:30 a.m. The winner of the 9 a.m. game had a bye into today's (Sunday) noon championship game, while the 9 a.m. loser faced the 11:30 a.m. winner at 3:30 p.m. to decide the other finalist.

The "if necessary" game would be at 3:30 p.m. Sunday if both teams have one loss after the Sunday noon game. The winner of the tournament will advance to the Area tournament at Longwood's Candyland Park the weekend of July 8.

Leading the Sanford offense were Daniels (two doubles, two RBI), Freddie Hawkins (triple, run), Bruce Carter (double, two runs), Joe Mendoza (single, run, RBI), Randy Casey (single, run), Jason Graham and Chad Sheffield (one single each)

LONGWOOD — Jose Rosendo had an inside-the-park grand slam and a quartet of pitchers combined on a no-hitter as Longwood clobbered Sanford 19-2 in the opening game of the Babe Ruth Baseball Prep 13's District 7 Tournament at Candyland Park Friday night.

The Longwood All-Stars, most of which were on the Longwood Major team that came within one pitch of advancing to the Babe Ruth World Series last year, wanted no time in jumping on Sanford, coming up with five runs in the bottom of the first inning and then plating 10 runs in the second inning.

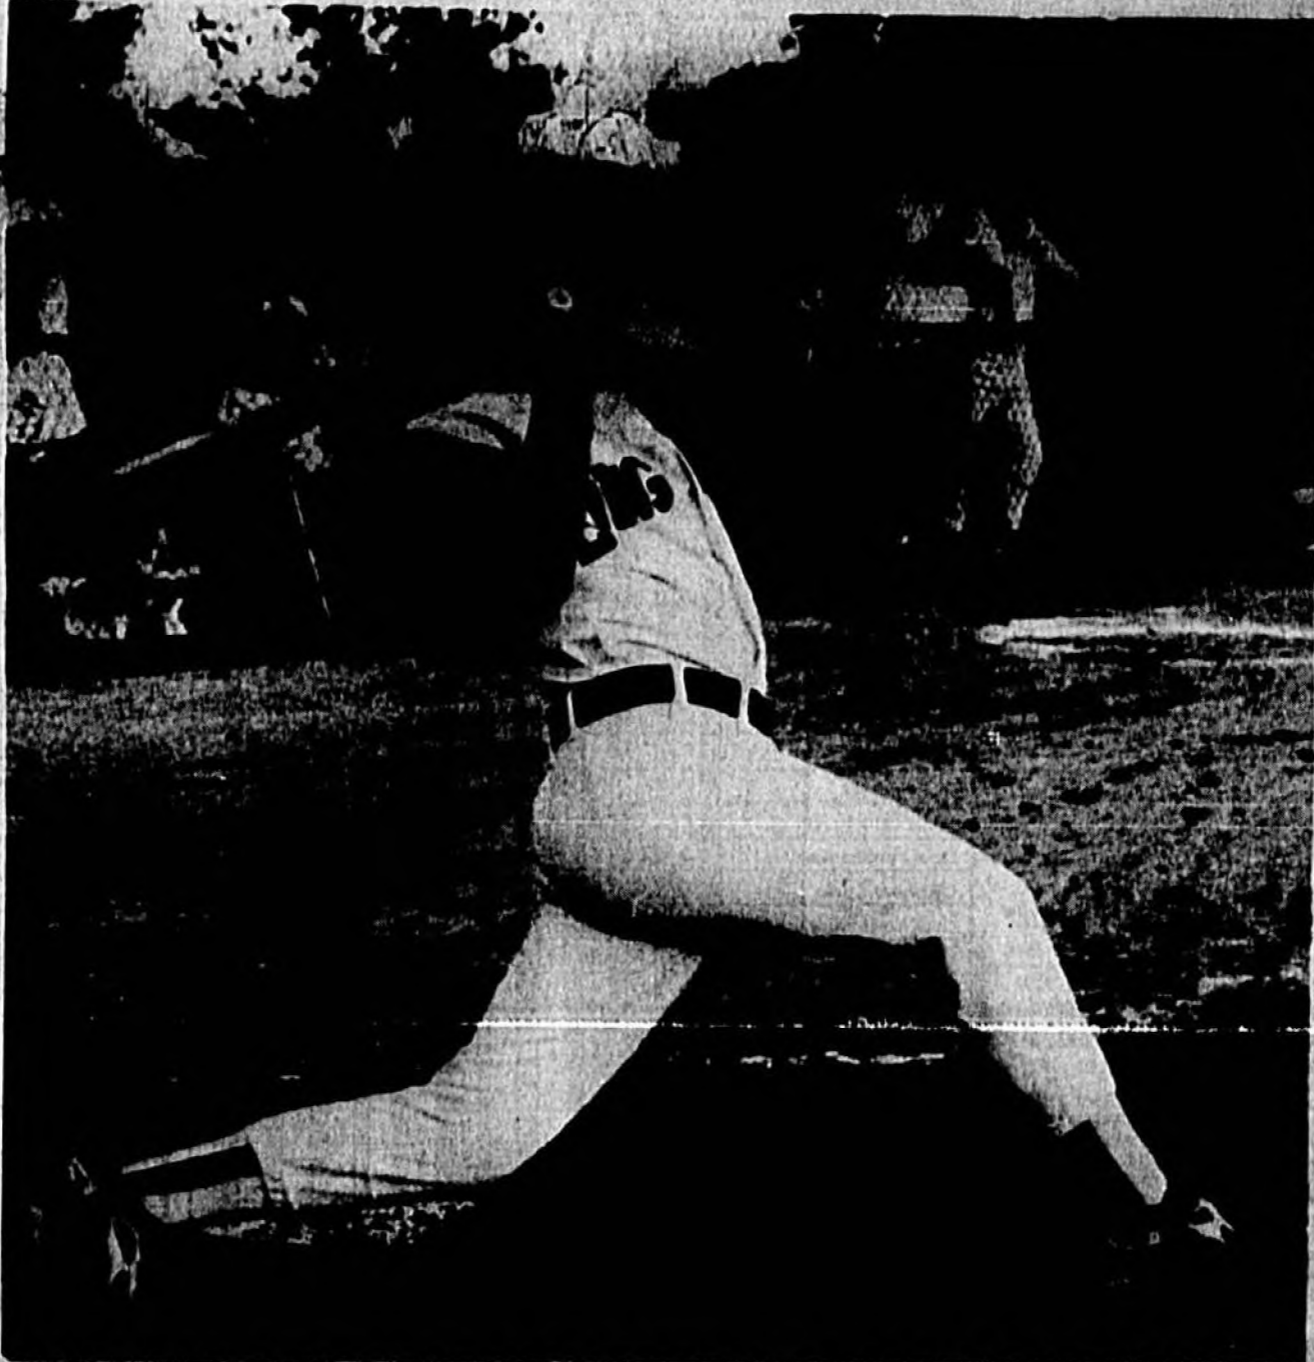

Longwood scored its final four runs in the third inning to go up 19-0, before Sanford came through with a pair of runs in the top of the fifth inning.

Where do funds for athletic programs come from?

By TOMY BOGGERMAN
Herald Sports Editor

SANFORD — There's little debate over the educational value of extracurricular activities for high school students... until the question comes up on how to pay for those extracurricular activities.

Underwriting interscholastic athletics is a particular point of contention: county residents don't want to see their tax dollars being spent on teenagers playing games.

That would be understandable if that were the case.

It's not. "To a large extent, the athletic programs at the high schools are self-supporting," said Dr. Tom Marcy, Executive Director of Secondary Education for the Seminole County School Board. "They have to rely on the community, booster clubs, and parents."

"That's not an atypical pattern across the state. I'd like to treat athletics the same as AP Calculus, but we can't do that."

High school athletic programs are not entirely independent of the school board, which the salaries and supplements that the coaches receive. Schools also receive a stadium fund allocation and get some district assistance with travel. "Other than that, the schools are dependent on the revenue they make off gate receipts and the support of their athletic booster clubs," said Dr. Marcy.

With that in mind, the quality — both in terms of championships and scope — of the programs that the six Seminole County high schools provide is nothing short of remarkable.

Unfortunately, that success lands schools in a frustrating financial spiral. An improvement in the quality of a program often results in success □ See Funding, Page 2B on the field. But when a team wins, especially in the post season, expenses (generally from travel, room, and board) escalate in a hurry.

 In effect, schools willing to invest money in their athletic programs often have to spend more money to enjoy the return on their initial investment.
 During the 1994-95 academic year, many schools had to discontinue their sports programs, but did not complete because it couldn't afford it.
 "If a school gets that far, they'll get out and raise the money," he said.
 Dr. Marcy hopes that finances never play a part in the decision on whether or not a student participates in athletics at a Seminole County high school.
 "We want to insure that the socio-economic condition of a student's family will not determine if that student competes in athletics," said Dr. Marcy.
 "But in order to continue to carry athletic programs of this scope, schools will have to rely on other sources of funding."

IN BRIEF

Chamber sponsors seminars

SANFORD — The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce building will be the site of a special business success series, "How Do I Market my Small Business" scheduled for Tuesday July 18, from 5 p.m. until 7:30 p.m.

Reservation deadline has been set for Friday, July 14. The cost, including refreshments, is $5 per person.

This is the second in a series of seminars designed for every small business owner or manager, prospective business owners or new business owners.

For additional information, contact the chamber office at 323-2212.

Bond honors

CASSELBERRY — For the first time in the United States, Fitch Investors Service, a national bond rating agency, has awarded its highest rating, "AAA" to a bond issue insured by MBIA for the City of Casselberry for its $3.5 million of sales tax revenue bonds. The bonds will pay for the construction of a new police station.

Mayor Bruce Pronovost said he was pleased to be the first in the nation to receive Fitch's highest rating. He attributed it to conservative management of the city's finances, and said that receiving the highest rating helps keep the cost of the bonds to the taxpayers as low as possible.

He also noted that no property taxes would be used to pay for the bond issue.

Jack Schluhschler, city manager, commented that Fitch was impressed by the city's "very low overall debt burden." Schluhschler commented, "Both Fitch and Moody's Investors Service noted the solid financial underpinnings of the city in their ratings analysis. It's nice to be the first in the U.S. in such a positive area."

The bonds, payable from sales taxes, were sold at a competitive sale. They will mature in 20 years. The city will pay an average interest rate of 8.589 percent on the bonds.

Applebee's opens

ORANGE CITY — Applebee's Neighborhood Grill and Bar, 2560 Enterprise Road, Orange City, will officially open its doors at 11 a.m. Monday, June 26. Bill and T.J. Palmer, founders of Applebee's "neighborhood" concept, and owners of the franchise, will attend the grand opening.

Brian Keiser has been named as general manager. Applebee's International, Inc., headquartered in Overland Park, Kansas, has 584 restaurants in 43 states.

Cross Tie Ranch

SORRENTO — Cross Tie Ranch, a 700 acre equestrian-themed residential community in northeast Lake County, now has five custom home builders involved in its new Preferred Builder program.

Cathy Russell, sales manager for Cross Tie Ranch Realty, said the builders include Jim Macon Building Contractors, Inc., Starcraft Homes, Crank Construction Co. Avid Builders, Inc., and Kittinger Construction.

Each of the builders is scheduled to begin construction within the next 30 days on inventory homes which will serve as models for the community.

Homes at Cross Tie Ranch, located on State Road 44 in Sorrento, will have homes priced from the mid-$170s, to over a half million dollars.

Business women

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — The American Business Woman's Association, Seminole Sunrise Chapter, will hold its next dinner meeting July 11, at the Holiday Inn, State Road 436, in Altamonte Springs.

The meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m. Guest speaker will be Maria Paulovich, of Jewels by Park Lane.

Price is $14 per person, with reservations required. For additional information, contact Stephanie Luckey, 351-2378.

Success kit offered

SANFORD — The Small Business Development Center of Seminole Community College is offering a Small Business Success Kit, a Big Opportunities workshop, handbooks and guidelines for success and the Florida Venture Finance Directory.

It's not free, although most of the materials would be if persons sign up for the Big Opportunities 15-hour workshop. The cost, if people sign up by no later than July 1, is $59.95, which SCC says would be a savings of over $140 in all.

With the sign up, the Florida Venture Finance Directory is given free. The Small Business Success Kit is sent free when you apply for a workshop registration. The handbooks and guidelines are also free as part of participation in the actual workshop.

The applications are available at Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, and the Small Business Development Center at SCC, 100 Weldon Blvd., Sanford. Registrations may be charged to VISA, Mastercard or Discover card.

Participation in the program is aimed at helping small business entrepreneurs to... "minimize risks, maintain control, have autonomy, and achieve business and personal goals."

It is also intended to help people, "get more out of your business, do your work better, make more money, and reach more customers."

The success kit includes many benefits including information on making sales projections, sales forecasting, marketing research, financial planning, legal issues, and many other points.

While the advance applications are recommended by July 1, SCC has not indicated when the 15-hour workshops are scheduled.

For additional information, phone SCC's Small Business Development Center.

Handicapped housing? Local company proves it can be done

By MICK SPERANSA
Herald Business Analyst

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Imagine the difficulty a handicapped person with special needs would have in Florida, or most anywhere in the nation, locating a home which would be suitable for purchase.

While it may be assumed most handicapped people would not be in the market to purchase a new home, such is not the case. Most of the time, however, especially in having a home built, the person would run into insurmountable difficulties.

Nevertheless, it is being done, right now, right in Central Florida. Such a home is presently under construction.

What it required was a unified cooperative venture.

One of the companies which is involved in this present endeavor is Tri-Five Properties of Altamonte Springs. It has joined with the builder and home buyer to create the new home at the Palmetto, a golf course community near Clermont in Lake County.

Frank McEnulty, chief operating officer of Tri-Five, the company which owns and manages the Palmetto, said most of the credit for the home's unique design belongs to Joe Whitaker of Scholar Homes, chief builder in the community.

Whitaker worked directly with the owner to design a home that not only accommodates her physical challenges, but enhances her lifestyle.

Every room in the house is wheelchair friendly, McEnulty explained. All interior doorways are at least 36 inches wide and all hallways and passages are a minimum 48 inches (four feet) to provide comfortable wheelchair access.

All elevations throughout the property are built on slopes. "There isn't a step, a stair or even a stoop in the entire house," McEnulty said.

Even the garage merited special attention, with an eight-foot-high garage door to accommodate a typical handicapped van with extended high top and hydraulic lift.

Fixtures and appliances received special design attention as well. In the kitchen, McEnulty said all cabinets and range tops were installed at 30-inch heights, and oven doors are lap-level when they open.

"Perfect for a homemaker sitting in a wheelchair," McEnulty said.

The washer/dryer in the special laundry room is recessed into the floor for easy access. In the master bath, a special large shower was designed with a wide opening glass door through which a wheelchair can roll.

A tile bench and hand-held shower fixture, mounted within easy reach of the bench are special features.

In the kitchen and baths all sinks are designed so a wheelchair can roll easily beneath them.

Construction of the home began April 6. The cost is $250,000.

The owner expects to move in possibly by early July. "As you might imagine," McEnulty added, "she is almost as excited as we are."

McEnulty and Tri-Five Properties are thus proving that a need which has long been ignored, can be filled.

Tri-Five Property Management Corporation is located at 225 S. Westmonte Drive in Altamonte Springs.

Quincy's Invests in new facelift

By MICK SPERANSA
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Quincy's Family Steakhouse, on South Orlando Drive in Sanford, and Live Oaks Boulevard in Casselberry, are among 19 Central Florida Quincy restaurants to undergo a major facelift. The renovation project is part of a $3.5 million investment which started in May of this year.

"Our new Quincy's was designed with the customer in mind to create a warm and pleasant dining atmosphere," said Gregory M. Buckley, president of Quincy's. "In tests, customer response to our updated look and new menu items has been tremendous."

According to the latest figures, the completion of the two Seminole County Quincy's restoration projects brings the overall number up to 81, or 39 percent of the overall Quincy chain.

Quincy's Family Steakhouse, owned by Flagstar Companies,

Quincy's Family Steakhouse, at 2635 South Orlando Drive in Sanford, is one of many Quincy's restaurants involved in a $3.5 million renovation project.

Inc., of Spartanburg, S.C., has 206 restaurants in 10 states, 41 of which are in Florida. The 1994 revenues were listed at $284 million.

One of the major changes to the interior of the restaurants is the addition of scatter-bars, replacing the former Country Sideboard food bars. A separate bakery bar has also been added. Buckley said other changes include a brighter exterior and interior color scheme with hunter green, teal blue and white, new carpeting and furniture, and contemporary decor.

The Quincy's logo on signs has also been redesigned to feature a flaming grill.

10 screen theatre at the mall

Special to the Herald

SANFORD — Simon Property Group, developers of Seminole Towne Center under construction along I-4 at State Road 46 interchange, Sanford, have officially announced that United Artists Theatres will operate a 10-screen theatre complex on a peripheral parcel of land at the south end of the mall.

United Artists had released information regarding the theatre several months ago, but the matter had not been confirmed by Simon Properties until this month.

The Simon organization said construction is scheduled to begin this summer with completion in the spring of 1990.

The United Artists complex will contain seating for over 2,700. Cup holder armrests will be provided for the comfort of the patron in conjunction with wide spacing between each row of seats. The presentation of the first run films will include wall-to-wall screens and stereo sound in all auditoriums, and several theatres will have digital stereo capability. The theatre will be completely ADA accessible and include Assistive Listening Devices for all auditoriums.

United Artist Theatres is the largest operator of movie theatres in the world. It currently has over 2,500 screens in the United States, Hong Kong, and Singapore. The Seminole Towne Center Theatre is one of several new complexes planned for the Orlando area. United Artists theatres presently operate four theatres with 31 screens in the greater Orlando area.

Construction continues on Seminole Towne Center, scheduled to celebrate its grand opening September 21 with anchor department stores Dillard's, Burdine's, Parisian, JC Penney and Sears and approximately 130 specialty tenants.

McLains mark 25th anniversary SODA gives awards; bride-elect honored

Miriam Dekker (left) and Valerie Weld (right) present the present and best recipients of the School of Dance Arts Mark Hoffman Scholarship Awards: April Michels, Carolyn Mantuano, Lindey von Vetter and Caitlin Valentini.

Congratulations are in order to Barbara and Daryl G. McLain who will celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary on June 27. The couple were married by the Rev. Billy Griffith in Orlando on that date in 1970.

And as Barbara so aptly put it, "We've been happily married ever after." A native Sanford son, Daryl attended local schools and is a member of the charter graduating class of the then Florida Technological University, now the University of Central Florida.

Upon returning to Sanford, Daryl ventured into construction before joining the Atlantic Bank and then his own business, co-owner of McLain Pierce and Associates Insurance. Daryl was elected a Seminole County Commissioner in 1982.

own business, Land Title Research Inc. in Sanford, Barbara was employed by Chelsea Title Co., Chicago Title and Mid-Florida Title.

In celebration of their anniversary, the McLains plan a family trip to the Florida west coast. They are the parents of two children, Charlie, 15, and Amanda, 12.

Would Barbara marry Daryl all over again?

"Absolutely," she extolled, "in a heartbeat!"

AARP season closes with dessert sale, fashion show

The Lake Mary Chapter of the AARP held its first fund-raiser and the last meeting of the summer Tuesday. It was a two-part fund-raiser. The tastiest part was the dessert sale which was brought in by members. Spotlights were some wonderful homemade goodies, including some unbelievably low fat cakes brought in for sale.

The second part of the fund-raiser was the fashion show. The fashion show was coordinated by Jane Schiraldi who calls Weebenders. Using volunteer models from the audience, Jane showed many different looks that could be accomplished with one outfit. She also offered quite a few fashion hints. If you want to look taller, wear all one color. If you are wearing a light top and a dark bottom, you will look longer waisted if you wear a light colored belt, shorter waisted if you wear a dark belt. Jane also offered tips on accessorizing outfits and new ways to use T-shirt slides.

A portion of the profits from the sales will be donated to the AARP. The Lake Mary AARP has started fund-raising as an extension of its new goal to "get out of their selves and help others." The AARP will be using funds from the fund-raising to work with a community service-oriented agency in Lake Mary.

The Lake Mary Chapter of the AARP will resume its monthly meetings on the third Tuesday in September. The topic will be health related.

Little league meets big league

Thursday, June 15, as members of the Orlando Cubs took their positions on the baseball diamond at Tinker Field, they were not alone. The Cubs team members were joined by team members from the Orioles and the Marlins, i.e. the Lake Mary Little League Orioles and Marlins.

It was a phenomenal end of the year party for the T-Ball 1 Orioles and the T-Ball 2 Marlins. The teams arrived early for a picnic near the field. Of course, since it was a baseball game, the picnic was hot dogs. As a souvenir, team members were given miniature Cubs' baseball bats. Coaches Rich Feldstein and Chris Gagliano took this opportunity to give out team trophies and Little League pins.

Carson pursues a dream at U.S. Military Academy

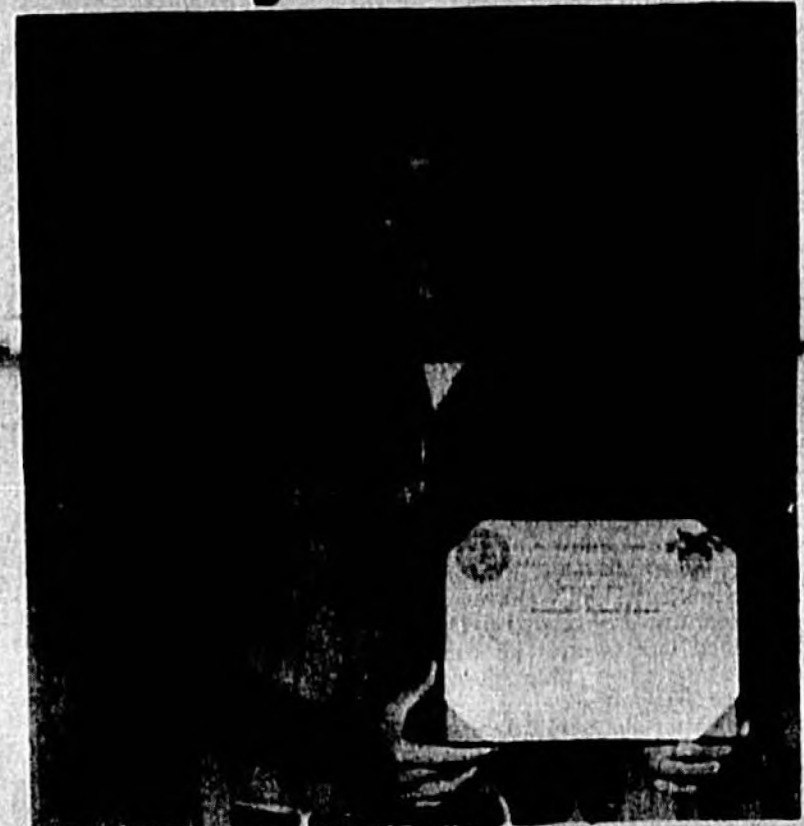

On April 22, 1990, the Sanford Herald featured Christopher Ramon Carson as the 1990 recipient of the Pop Warner National Scholar-Athlete of the year, one of 174 other young men across the nation. Today, the Herald announces Christopher Ramon Carson's acceptance to attend the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, one of 14,000 applicants, and one of 1,300 who are accepted to attend the U.S. Military Academy.

As a graduate of Lake Mary High School, he looks back on his years growing up and sees the power of his family, his church, his teachers, his coaches, all those who dedicated their lives to extracurricular activities so that he might have the experiences in life to teach him strong values and respect, and an appreciation for the knowledge that "hard work pays off."

Some of Christopher's extracurricular activities included varsity football, Young Life, Fellowship of Christian Athletes, year book sports reporter, Student Government, and an assistant coach to his little brother's basketball team.

Academically, Christopher attended Florida Boys State in 1994, was a nominee for Boys' Nation, and a member of Who's Who Among American High School students. He challenged himself by taking honors classes and dual enrollment classes at Lake Mary High School, and encourages all students to do whatever they can to improve their SAT score. "It is important to get involved in high school and community activities in your freshman year, and at least by your sophomore year, because once you get involved, you stay involved; it's a wonderful way to say you believe in yourself."

for a short visit to Washington D.C. and then on to the military academy. To prepare himself for the years ahead, Christopher has been training by lifting weights, running three to five miles per day, boxing, "anything that might strengthen myself for the months ahead." In addition, Chris has been reading the newspaper, listening and watching the news channels on television, in order to prepare himself for the "Boat Barracks" that he has been told will be a part of his future training. In addition to the educational opportunity that the academy provides, it will also discipline Carson for the rest of his life, provide a lifetime of friendships, and a career that he has dreamed about since he was a small child, that of law enforcement in the criminal justice system. Carson is looking forward to the many clubs and activities offered at the academy, such as the sky diving team, rugby, horseback riding, fishing, hunting, and all sports that pertain to outdoor living. Although Carson is looking forward to the best of what the academy has to offer, he also knows that "this will be the hardest thing that I have ever done, but so many people are supporting me and praying for me, and friends and their parents will be writing me and

St. John Church honors Cherry as 'Father of the Year'

Deacon Herbert Cherry

St. John Missionary Baptist Church honored the fathers of the church on their special day, Sunday, June 18, at the 11 a.m. worship service. First father honored was Deacon Raymond Gaines, chairman of the trustee board, principal of Lake Mary High School, ardent member of the Mighty Men Chorus, and St. John's Senior Choir.

Deacon Herbert Cherry was honored and named "Father of the Year" at St. John's. Deacon Cherry has been a member of the church since his childhood days. He is chairman of the deacon's board, has served as Sunday school teacher and superintendent, and was instrumental in getting the improvements done to the edifice. Deacon Cherry has been a resident of Sanford all of his life. He is the owner of Cherry's Real Estate Company and he is a retired barber who has served many of the citizens of Sanford. We salute Deacon Cherry for his dedication to his country, having served in the U.S. Army. He is a community activist and goes about helping those he can.

Deacon Cherry is the father of four, a boy, Dr. Errol Cherry, dentist; Mellowise Cherry Scott from New Jersey, a media specialist; Sonja Cherry Thomas, elementary teacher; Pamela Cherry Knight, counselor. He is a granddad to six lovely grandchildren. We salute you, Deacon Herbert Cherry, a special person in many of our lives.

Elks Daughters to mark 70th year

Evergreen Temple No. 391 Daughters of Elks of the World will observe 70 years of being organized here in Sanford. The history of the temple goes back to daughters who were great leaders of Elksdom. The celebration will be this afternoon at 3 p.m. at Trinity United Methodist Church. An enjoyable worship service is planned with the Rev. Arthur Graham delivering the anniversary message. The Rev. Graham is well known for his dynamic and spiritual messages; the community is invited.

Guild sets benefit for Johnny Golden

The Sanford/Central Florida Musicians' Guild will present a benefit musical program on behalf of Johnny Golden, the former Seminole High School football star who was away attending Fairmont State College, Fairmont, Va. # Hobby: A family affair

Woodworking turns fun into funds

By SUSAN WENNER
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — What started as an outlet for relaxation, J.P. Copeland's hobby occasionally turns hard work into dollar signs. He has been known to slave day in and day out for another unique woodworking creation that will top all the rest.

Copeland and his wife, Audrey, have been married since 1966. They have three children, Martin, Andrew and Leslie and two grandchildren.

He is a four-year member of the Sanford American Legion, a life Disabled American Veterans member, and is involved in the Retired Enlisted Association out of Washington, D.C.

At times his woodworking has become a family affair. "Between my daughter's art work and projector, my wife may find a pattern in a craft book and I cut the wood," he said. "Sometimes I design my own but not very often."

Fine Crest Elementary School displays in its lunchroom a full-size Alaskan dog sled, and husky dog to go with it, according to Copeland. "They are life-size," he said. "I've also made the cubbyholes where they sort the mail at the school and a cornice to go over the windows."

A favorite time of year for a large production of woodworking has been at Christmas. "Every Christmas I make reindeer and Santas," he said. "My wife dresses and paints them. I make various sizes. I make some stick Santas and lots of other Christmas stuff."

Most unique in Copeland's work are the reindeer he mentioned. "Nine years ago I made little reindeer with ears that drooped. We called them 'Waynedeer.' I have modified the antlers. I started making them sitting, then I graduated them to standing. I also now make them with thicker lumber. I do make four different poses, sitting, standing, kneeling and laying down. A popular item has been turkeys with lollipop tails. Copeland has become a master woodworker of geese, ducks and angels.

The smallest of his creations was named as a perpetual calendar. "I started making them in the shape of an apple," he said. "You slide the applesed along and the dial points to the number of days."

Copeland said the geese and gander he has made were his favorites. "The geese and gander stand by the door. They are about 16 to 18 inches high. I used two-inch lumber."

A jig saw, hand saw and router are among the tools Copeland uses in his hobby. Paint and miscellaneous fabric have been supplemented to add pieces to the rough wood.

One year his hobby brought Copeland $600 for Christmas spending money. Although he hopes to do as he has over the years and pick up a little at a time and expand, he has taken a breather from sales.

He concluded by saying, "It helps me unwind and get rid of stress from my job. I am looking forward to retirement in a year and a half. I hope to do more crafts in the future."

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Alvarado

Renaë Seachrist, Alex Alvarado exchange vows

SANFORD — Renaë Elizabeth Seachrist and Alex Alvarado were married May 6, 1988, at 7 p.m., at Palmetto Baptist Church, Sanford. Pastor Ronald D. Williams performed the traditional service in English and Spanish.

The bride is the daughter of Ms. Cathy Rentsch of Deltona and the late Mr. Ray H. Seachrist. The groom is the son of Norma Guivas of Deltona and Leavitt Alvarado, Bayamon, Puerto Rico.

Given in marriage by her brother, Jason Ray Seachrist, the bride chose for her vows a white, full-length, satin gown with sweetheart neckline and cathedral length train. The skirt and hemline were embellished with lace applique, pearls and sequins. The long fitted sleeves were edged with lace applique and puffed at the shoulders. The high stiff collar was decorated with seed pearls and sequins. From the back of the collar, streamers of pearls descended to mid waist. A large satin bow accented the back of the gown. An open crown of white silk flowers with cascades of pearls held her illusion veil. She carried a cascading bouquet of old-fashioned lace, white silk rosebuds, and greenery interspersed with pearl streamers.

Janell Harris of Sanford served as maid of honor. She wore a royal blue satin dress with round neck and large puffed sleeves. The dress featured a dropped waistline, and pearl streamers descended from the collar in back of the dress. She carried a red single rose with greenery.

Melissa Magner of Deltona served as bridesmaid. Her dress and flower bouquet were similar to the honor attendant's.

Brian Rivera of Deltona served as best man.

Hector and Tyrone Davila of Deltona, brothers of the groom, served as ushers.

Groomsmen were Mel Rivera of Deltona.

Randi Krater of Sanford served as flower girl. She wore a white lace dress with large white satin sash. Highlighting the dress was a mixed corsage of pink, blue and white silk flowers. She carried a basket of red and white rose petals.

D.J. Krater served as ring bearer. He wore a black tux similar to the groom's.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Sanora Clubhouse, Sanford.

After a wedding trip to Key West, the newlyweds are making their home in Sanford.

The bride is a driver and messenger for Armored Car Service of Florida, Orlando. The groom is a mechanic at Mr. G's Auto Service, Sanford.

Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Robert Grimshaw

Schanel-Grimshaw nuptials spoken in church rites

SANFORD — Ardeth Ashley Schanel and Gregory Robert Grimshaw are announcing their marriage today. They were married Nov. 19, 1984, at 10 a.m., at Holy Cross Episcopal Church, Sanford. The Rev. C. Alfred Cole Jr. performed the traditional, double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Brian A. and Myra M. Schanel of Sanford. The groom is the son of Gary R. and Judy Grimshaw of Palm Harbor. He is the son of the late Mrs. Betty H. Grimshaw.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a formal white silk shantung gown with semi-cathedral-length train. The fitted bodice, embellished with pearls, seed pearls and sequins, accented the scalloped bateau neckline. The sleeves were gently puffed in the tulip design. A large silk shantung bow highlighted the v-shaped back and dropped waist creating a bustle effect to the unadorned full skirt. of Miriam and Valerie's School of Dance Arts last weekend was a rousing success, according to Valerie Weld. Audiences in the thousands including alumni from the last three decades turned out for the four performances.

One of the highlights of the Saturday matinee was the presentation of the Mark Hoffman Scholarship Award. Last year's recipient, Lindsey Von Wellen, helped directors Miriam Doktor and Valerie Weld with the presentation. Sharing the winners' spotlight this year were Caitlin Palmistino, Carolyn Mantuano and April Michels. Recognized for excellence in dance, these three students were honored just prior to the opening number. Twelve stunning dancers dressed in white "tulle" kept perfect precision in a Fred Astaire-type tap number singing and dancing to "Top Hat, White Tie and Tails." It was a fitting "opener" leading to numerous song and dance routines and ballet and jazz productions with a party theme.

Saturday evening's performance began with the eighth annual presentation of the Betty Williams Memorial Scholarship Award which also includes the "Star Bright" award. Representing the family and presenting the two awards were Mike Caolo and daughter, Caroline. Also arriving from Dallas especially for the presentation was Jackie Caolo, mother of Mike, and daughter of the late Betty Williams. Receiving the "Star Bright" award for exceptional showmanship was Matthew Twilleager. The BWF Award went to Kimmie Louwama for outstanding, overall excellence in dance.

The tables were turned on Miss Valerie and Miss Miriam during their well-planned grand finale featuring all dancers from Sunday's closing performance. Instead of dancers neatly lined up backstage, they came pouring out from all entrances in the auditorium singing "Happy Birthday." A "singing" telegram started it all delivered by Western Union imposter "Telli Tell-All," alias Fonda Nobles. Everyone from the tiniest ballerina to the "Dancing Dads" were in on the surprise. Miriam and Valerie were speechless for once, making it the ultimate grand finale.

The 109th recital "showcase" performance came to a fitting close with applause, a standing ovation, and tears and laughter.

Here's to the School of Dance Arts and the next 30 years of dancing!

Kristi honored at bridal shower

Kristi Meriwether was the guest of honor at a bridal shower given at the Sleepy Hollow Gifts and Tea Room in Orlando. The tea room is a former southern mansion decorated in exquisite antiques that can be purchased. Myra Schanel of Sanford, and her daughter, Ashley Grimshaw of Orlando, were the shower hostesses in the Victorian Garden Tea Room. Ashley is the bride's lifelong friend and matron of honor.

The bride-elect wore a royal blue and white print tea-length dress, fashioned along the empire silhouette, with a platter collar. Enhancing the attractive outfit was a pink-tipped white rose corsage accented with baby's breath, greenery and gold ribbon.

Guests were served a choice of soups, spinach quiche, chicken salad with fruit, chef's salad, raspberry cinnamon tea, vanilla hazelnut coffee and three-layered strawberry mousse cake. The shower theme was "Around the Clock." Each guest was given a different time of day and asked to bring a gift associated with that time of day. The bride received many unique and appropriate gifts covering the hours, from 6 p.m. to midnight.

The bow arrangements for use at the wedding rehearsal were made by Elizabeth Long and Kelly Irwin, both of Clearwater. Maureen Quinn kept count of how many ribbons were broken during unwrapping the gifts.

Others attending were: Vicki Meriwether, mother of the bride; Jenni and Cindi Meriwether, sisters and bridesmaids; Helen Meriwether, grandmother of the bride; Joan and Maureen Quinn, Valerie and Allison Brickman, Pat Clark, Maryed Meeks, Sarah and Michelle Lyon and Judy and Jill Shoemaker, all of Sanford, and Jill Mortenson, Zephyrhills.

Betty's art goes to Georgia exhibit

From the wonderful world of art, Bettye Reagan is all excited over one of her pieces being accepted for exhibit by the prestigious Southeastern Pastel Society in Macon, Ga.

Bettye and her husband, Don, a wood turner, are so wrapped up in their art work that they take their vacation each summer by attending art school in Gatlinburg, Tenn. for two weeks. Although it's hard work, Bettye

Wilson to preach

Brother Thomas Wilson III will preach his trial sermon, Sunday, July 3, at 8 p.m. at the St. John Metropolitan Baptist Church, Cypress Avenue and 10th Street. Brother Thomas (Tommy) Wilson is a former resident of Sanford and he presently resides in Arizona. He is the son of the late Thomas Wilson Jr. and graduated from Crookes High School class of 1963. The community of Sanford is invited to witness and hear the message of the evening. The Rev. Robert Doctor is pastor.

Musicfest set

Presented by the Sanford/Central Florida Musicians' Guild, the month of July will bring great happenings to the city of Sanford. The community of gospel lovers are invited to the "Musicfest '88" Saturday, July 23, 9 a.m.-4 p.m., downtown Sanford at the lakefront park. The music fest will feature many gospel choirs, rappers, youth groups, gospel jazz, games for the children, vendors, food, giveaways, and prizes. A musical scholarship will be given to some deserving person. Bring your lawn chairs, blankets and enjoy the day with your family and friends at the music fest for a beautiful day of gospel music and praise. ## Class of 1995 had top-notch scholars

By VICKI BOGGS
 Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County's six high schools graduated over 2,700 students earlier this month. The students left our schools with an impressive record of successes. The class of 1995 had 54 National Merit Scholars. These graduates scored in the top half of one percent nationally on the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test (PSAT). This represents 1.8 percent of the graduating class which is almost three times the national average. There were three National Achievement Scholars and one National Hispanic Scholar among the 1995 graduates. Four hundred and eighty-five members of the graduating class qualified as Florida Academic Scholars which entitles them to four-year scholarships within the state of Florida. Seventy-four seniors graduated with a grade point average of 4.0 or higher. Over $15 million worth of academic and athletic scholarships have been awarded to date with additional scholarships being offered daily. Almost 85 percent of the graduating seniors will be attending a two- or a four-year college. Six percent of the graduates will be attending a vocational/trade school. Almost eight percent of the graduates will enter the military. The remaining three percent will enter the work force without any post-secondary training. The graduating seniors will enter such prestigious colleges such as MIT, Harvard, Princeton, the University of Chicago, the University of North Carolina, Duke, Notre Dame, Johns Hopkins University, the Air Force Academy, West Point, Cornell, Emory, Dartmouth, Georgetown, Purdue, Columbia, Yale, Wake Forest, Vanderbilt, William and Mary and most Florida colleges and universities. The 1995 class has students and teams which won state and national honors in debate, in art, in weightlifting, in golf, in baseball, in basketball, in band, in yearbook, in physics, in drama, in singing, in newspaper, in volleyball, and in track. And, the class of 1995 included a 1995 Presidential Scholar and a National Tandy Award winner.

Seminole County young people are achieving great things around the county and across the nation. We just want to take this opportunity to congratulate them and show them off.

A scholarship for the not-so-great students

FORT LAUDERDALE — Students who make C's have a lot of potential and should get help with scholarships, millionaire Edward Seese believed. A $4.5 million bequest he left to Broward Community College will fund that. The gift, largest in the school's history, caught SCC administrators by surprise. "I felt like I won the lottery," said Ann McGee, SCC vice president of development. "It's an incredible first gift." The bequest, announced Monday, represents 30 percent of Seese's estate and will benefit at least 250 Broward County high school students a year. With matching state money, school administrators expect the gift to swell to about $9.5 million. "He said the B's and A's could get scholarships, but the C's would be left out in the cold," said Seese's lawyer, Bill Leonard. Seese, a real estate investor, died March 21 at age 86.

Other charities named in Seese's will were the Florida Philharmonic, Brevard College in Brevard, N.C., where he owned a house; Holy Cross Hospital in Fort Lauderdale, the Duke Cancer Center, and Randolph Macon College in Ashland, Va. In his will, Seese singled out "C" students because they "are often capable of greater accomplishments when relieved from the problems of outside employment while attending school." He stipulated that the scholarships should go to "industrious persons who show promise ... preferably from Broward high schools." Seese added that if there weren't enough "C" students to take advantage of the scholarships, the money could be awarded to students who get higher grades. Scholarship recipients will be chosen by the school's student financial services department. Tuition is about $2,000 a year.

Many new drugs being studied for cancer

By Dr. JOHN P. BARRY in Special to the Herald

U.S. research-based pharmaceutical companies are intensifying their efforts to combat cancer — the second leading killer of Americans.

The number of medicines in development for 20 types of cancer has increased from 124 in 1980 to 318 today.

The number of companies developing these pharmaceuticals has doubled — from 48 to 98.

Medicines in development include 48 for breast cancer, 37 for lung cancer, 31 for skin cancer, 30 for colon cancer, 28 for leukemia, 28 for lymphoma, 28 for prostate cancer, 24 for solid tumors, 23 for ovarian cancer, 14 for brain cancer and 10 for pancreatic cancer.

A new PHARMA (the Pharmaceutical Research and Manufacturers of America) publication, "New Medicines in Development for Cancer," lists all of the 318 cancer medicines and identifies the companies developing them.

It also shows if drugs are still being tested, or if they are undergoing final Food and Drug Administration approval reviews.

This free survey is a valuable resource for physicians and patients they treat. "New Medicines in Development for Cancer" shows that researchers are developing new ways to deliver medicine directly to tumors, enabling them to use stronger doses without harming healthy tissue.

Some new anti-cancer drugs are wrapped in envelopes of fatty material so that healthy body cells are not exposed to the medicine as it is delivered to tumors.

In other instances, proteins in the body that seek out and destroy harmful substances are used to deliver medicine.

Researchers, using sophisticated new biotechnology methods, are even working on ways to convert cancer cells into normal body tissue.

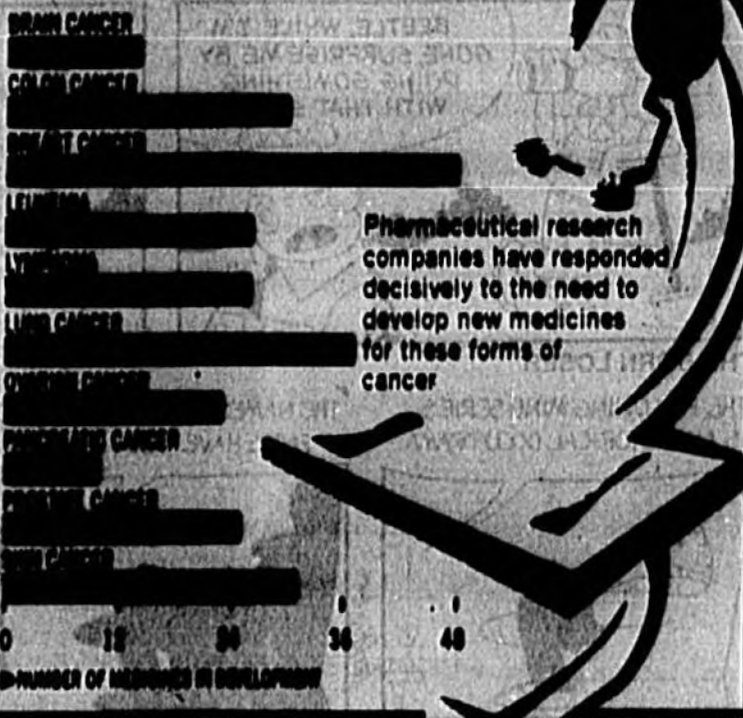

The battle of cancer, of course, is far from over.

The American Cancer Society estimates that in 1986, more than 1.5 million cases of cancer will be diagnosed and 547,000 Americans will die. The disease costs our society $104 billion every year.

But cancer, in many cases, no longer means automatic death. Pharmaceutical advances are helping to improve the survival rate.

A quarter of older Americans may suffer malnutrition

By CASSANDRA SURELL Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Despite America's reputation for plenty, 25 percent of people age 65 or older may suffer from some form of malnutrition, experts say.

One half of elderly hospital patients are malnourished, as are two in five nursing home residents. Sixteen percent of all older people consume fewer than 1,000 calories per day.

Poverty is an obvious and common cause, but the condition is pervasive even among those who are not poor, according to experts.

"Too often people just focus on economics. They think poor people don't have the money to get the right foods," said Deborah Clark, staff director of the Nutrition Screening Initiative, a research group lobbying doctors to routinely screen their patients for nutrition.

"That's a risk factor, but we're seeing it regardless of income because of things like medications, oral health, mental health and functional status," she said.

Few doctors are trained to recognize malnutrition despite knowing that well-nourished elderly people become ill less often, recover from illnesses and injuries quicker and are less expensive to treat, said Julie Staus, a member of the American Dietetic Association's government affairs team.

"When we say malnutrition we don't mean our typical definition of malnutrition, like a starving child in a Third World country," Staus said. "You could look at someone and not know that they're malnourished. But since they are malnourished, that puts them at higher risk for additional disease and complications."

So it's not surprising that many older people are not getting enough to eat or not eating the right foods, said Connie Benton Wolfe, executive director of both the national Meals on Wheels Foundation and the National Association of Nutrition and Aging Services Programs.

"It seems like a huge number until you start looking at what the causes might be," she said. "There are so many different causes that all of a sudden then the statistic begins to not seem so out of line."

Advocates for the elderly said those causes include:

— Depression or lack of social contact. A senior citizen who eats alone may believe cooking a complete meal for one is a waste of time and effort, Wolfe said. And depression can take away a person's appetite.

That's especially true for widows and widowers, Clark said.

"Older people, because they are more likely to have lost spouses, are often depressed and not eating," Clark said.

— Mobility. An older person may have enough money to buy food, but have no way of getting to a grocery store and bringing food home, experts said. Elderly people who need help caring for themselves often can't cook.

— Unbalanced diet. The wrong combination of foods can lead to malnutrition, even among the overweight, Staus said.

Malnutrition "doesn't mean just lack of calories. You could be overweight and eating lots of calories and maybe eating the wrong things. You could be eating but not having enough calcium or other nutrients you need to stay healthy," she said.

— Problems with chewing or swallowing. Dental or throat problems could make eating enough food difficult. It could also discourage the elderly from eating a wide variety of foods, experts said.

— Chronic illness. The elderly population shows a higher incidence of chronic illnesses, and many of those conditions — diabetes, hypertension, cardiovascular disease, osteoporosis and anemia — are related to nutrition, Staus said. They also can be caused or aggravated by an improper diet.

— Medication. Some medications or certain combinations of several different drugs can dampen appetite, Clark said.

"They may experience a change in taste," she said. "They may get constipation or get drugged. These are all side effects that cause people from time to time to not eat properly."

— Poverty. Many older people on fixed income simply can't afford to maintain a high nutritional status, experts said. According to Census Bureau figures, about 13 percent of all elderly are poor.

"When they're making choices between food and heat or food and prescriptions," Wolfe said.

Advocates for the elderly want doctors and other health care providers to check their patients' nutritional status as routinely as they check their blood pressure. An American Dietetic Association study showed that for every dollar spent on nutrition screening and intervention, at least $3.25 in medical costs are saved.

Health care workers can gauge nutritional levels accurately by using one of several different questionnaires that ask about a person's eating habits, illnesses, medications, weight, alcohol consumption and social habits.

Answers to each question are weighted through a point system, and the total indicates whether a patient is at risk for malnutrition, according to the Nutrition Screening Initiative, formed five years ago by the American Academy of Family Physicians, the American Dietetic Association and the National Council on Aging. The group's initial focus was on the elderly.

"With so many of the elderly having health problems, we need to be able to make sure that at least their nutrition is optimum so that they can fight off disease and remain healthier and have a better quality of life," Staus said.

Cardiac risk screening

SANFORD — Find out if you are in the high risk group for heart disease at Central Florida Regional Hospital's Cardiac Risk Profile Screening.

The test includes readings of cholesterol, triglycerides and HDL and LDL levels.

The screenings are held on the first Friday of every month. Participants are asked to register in advance at the main lobby of the hospital and bring the name and address of their physician.

Fasting is required for 12 hours prior to the screening. The next event will take place on Friday, July 7 from 8 to 10 a.m.

The event will take place at Central Florida Regional Hospital, 1401 W. Seminole Boulevard, Sanford.

For more information, call 321-4500, ext. 5784.

A New Breakthrough In Hernia Repair

Hernia repair is no longer major surgery. Recent advances like the mesh technique have made it as simple as a one-day "walk-in, walk-out" procedure.

A new laparoscopic technique now available at The Hernia Center of Central Florida has simplified things even further. Because this procedure requires only small incisions, it lessens pain and further shortens recovery time.

The Hernia Center is operated by Surgical Associates, an established team of skilled surgeons who have practiced in Central Florida since 1973 and have performed literally thousands of hernia operations.

If you're suffering from a new or recurrent hernia, we can help. For an appointment, call:

By Bernice Bode Cool YOUR BIRTHDAY June 25, 1995

Allies who have helped you in the past might do even more in the year ahead. Acknowledge your staunch supporters and try to reciprocate as soon as possible.

CANCER (June 21-July 23) If you're not careful today, your short memory might penalize you. Do not, I repeat, do not repeat old mistakes. Use your imagination in positive ways. Major changes are ahead for Cancer in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $2 and BASE to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 23) Select your companions carefully today. You will enjoy being around persons who are as generous as yourself, but stingy types could spoil your day.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Do not rush to judgment today or make any hasty decisions. Take time to think things through and then have the courage of your convictions.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The efficacy of those working for you will reflect how well you instruct them. If your commands are imperfect, their work product probably will be, too.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 23) This might not be a good day to mix business and pleasure. If you socialize with friends, don't bring along persons from work.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Social graces will be extremely significant today, so take pains to treat everyone politely. A bad impression will prove difficult to erase.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Compliment persons who warrant it today, but do not attempt to manipulate anyone with flattery. This ploy could fall flat.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Try to live within your means today. If you don't have adequate cash, subdue the urge to run up a charge. One thing you don't need right now is more debt.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you want others to be supportive today, you must first set the proper example. Behavior, not baloney, is what counts.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Use common sense in your conversations with friends today. If there are topics that you shouldn't discuss, don't bring them up.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If your companions are fun-loving today, let yourself go and get in the swing of things. Avoid setting serious perimeters on light-hearted involvements.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You might need to tread on a few toes today to strengthen your position. Unfortunately, the way you'll do things may leave your victims desiring to get even.
