Retrial Set To Begin In Bribery Trial Of Longwood's Ciuzio

By MICHEAL BEHA Herald Staff Writer

Opening arguments were scheduled to begin today in the retrial of Longwood businessman Eugene Ciuzio who was convicted in 1981 of arranging a bribe for former U.S. Rep. Richard Kelly, R-Fla

Ciuzio's conviction was everturned by U.S. District Court Judge William Bryant in May when Bryant reversed Kelly's conviction in the FBI's Abscam scheme.

Ciuzió and co-defendant Stanley Weisz, an accountant from Smithtown, N.Y., are charged with conspiracy to bribe Kelly Ciuzio and Weisz were convicted in the same trial with Kelly. A fourth defendant in the case, William Rosenberg of Lynbrook, N.Y., pleaded guilty in 1980 to a charge of conspiring to bribe Kelly.

Attorneys Carl W. Pilgar and Michael Dennis are representing Ciuzio and Weisz in the retrial. They are expected to attack the credibility of the government's chief Abscam operative, Mel Weinberg, a convicted felon.

Entrapment was mentioned in their defense during the first trial but, as in the first trial, their main contention is expected to be that they never intended for Kelly to be bribed and that he was never supposed to get any money

The defense said Ciuzio and Weisz were trying to get a $50,000 commission from the Abscam "Arabs" for introducing

U.S. Attorney Steven Spibik is the prosecutor in the case Bryant is the same judge who threw out the convictions against Kelly, Ciuzio and Weisz in May. At that time, he said the FBI's actions in the case had stirred a "strong sense of personal revulsion."

Law enforcement exceeds its bounds when it manufactures crime and creates criminals," Bryant said.

Kelly was filmed taking a $25,000 payoff from an FBI undercover agent dressed as an Arab sheik.

Kelly openly admitted taking the money but said he did so as part of his own investigation of "shady characters." He said he was a victim of FBI entrapment.

Bryant agreed saying, "However frail one's integrity might appear, it should not be subjected to repeated assaults." Bryant said the whole objective of the Abscam setup was to "test the virtue of members of Congress"

Ciuzio, 50, who is a financial and business consultant, was charged with being a middleman in the deal between the "Arabs" who wanted to meet Kelly and the Congressman. He allegedly was at the Georgetown house the night Kelly received $25,000.

Kelly said he was drawn into the Abscam scheme after he met Ciuzio at the Tampa airport. He testified that Ciuzio asked if he needed money and said he could help Kelly's financial

Kelly said he had several more meetings with Ciuzio before the meeting in Georgetown when he took the $25,000

An 11-month-old Sanford girl is listed in critical condition today in the Central Florida Regional Hospital's cardiac care unit after she slipped in a bathtub, was knocked unconscious and nearly drowned.

Hospital officials said Tiffany Blackwelder, of 109 Mangoustine Ave., was brought into the emergency room at about 4:09 p.m. Thursday by an unidentified person.

Fire personnel said they received a call concerning the child at about 3:58 p.m. but that when they arrived at the scene, the child already had been taken to the hospital in a private automobile.

Tiffany's parents could not be reached for comment concerning the accident.

Girl Critical From BB

A 2-year-old Sanford girl, listed in serious condition at the Central Florida Regional Hospital, is being treated for a BB gun wound after she accidentally shot herself in the neck Wednesday.

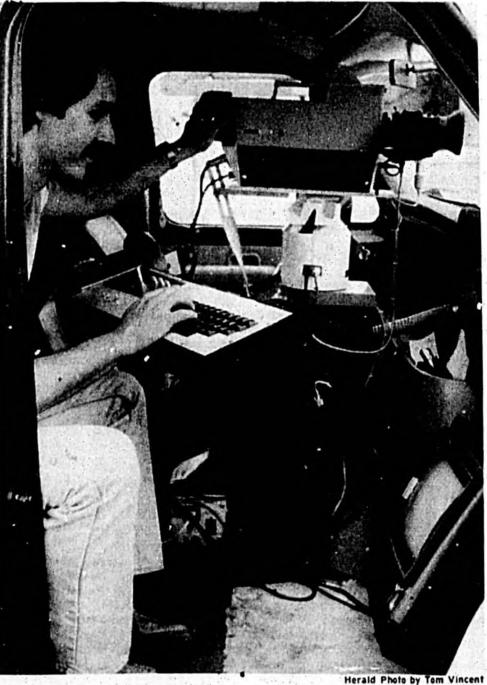

Renee Wright, of 21st Street, accidentally shot herself with the gun at about 10 p.m. Wednesday at her grandparents' home, at 4681 Dubois St., near Sanford, police said.

Officials said the young girl was wounded shortly after she picked up a broken, but loaded BB gun which Michael Williams, 17, who was at the residence, left on the floor when he left the room. Williams told police he heard a clicking noise and that Renee ran to him, showed him a hole the pellet had made in her neck and said, "Help."

Relatives rushed the wounded child to the hopsital where she is receiving care for the injury in the hospital's intensive care unit, officials said.

Watching the road go by may have a new meaning when a new program to put all the county's roads on videotape is completed. Robert E. Hanson, president of Eric Lee & Associates, Inc. demonstrates the equipment used to make the video tapes. Seminole County is the first in Florida to catalog its roads in this manner.

Florida First Seminole Putting Its Roads On Videolog

It may not win an Oscar but Seminole County's version of "The Long and Winding Road" may save time and money for county road crews.

The county is currently making a log of the 600 miles of roads for which it is responsible. The unique part is the log is in living color with full narration.

A Tallahassee firm has had representatives in the county for several weeks videotaping the county's roads in the first step of the program. The second step will entail cataloging the roads in a computer and cross referencing them for quick access.

"The idea is that if someone calls in to tell us about a problem with a particular road, we don't have to send several people out two or three times to look at it," county Administrator Roger Neiswender said.

"We can call up the road, find the spot and get to work," he added.

John Goodson, one of two representatives from Eric Lee and Associates, Inc., of Tallahassee who have spent three weeks in a truck making the videotapes, said, "The project should save a lot of time for county workers."

Goodson said the videologging is the latest trend by county governments to create workable, accurate files on roads and property. "Seminole County is the first in the state to use the system," he said. "But there are a lot of others out there who have been enthusiastic about it and are waiting to see how it works out here."

He said the videotaping is a successor to photograph logging many counties have used for several years. "It's faster, more complete and has narration with it."

Goodson said it often takes months to develop the negatives and print pictures of the roads. With the videotape method, the record

"Also, when you take pictures, if they're underdeveloped or overexposed you have to go back out and shoot them again," Goodson

Goodson said the crews operate from a truck or jeep with a hand-held camera. As they travel the roads, they tape it, adding comments on observations or problems. With measurements of time and speed they can also be used to accurately gauge distances.

He said it should take about three weeks to tape all the roads in Seminole County but rainy afternoons have delayed the project.

"The worst thing about the project is that we've been cooped up in a truck for three weeks," Goodson said. Because the county has 150 miles of unpaved roads, it has also been a bumpy Job, he said.

Goodson and his associate, Bob Hansen, will be leaving Seminole County this week but will return in August to begin the second phase of the project.

That second step is putting all the information into a computer for easy access and recall. "We'll be back to put everything into the computer."

The computer is the key, Goodson said. "If you index roads and cross reference them, you can have a record of how many roads have potholes or bridges that need repair."

And Goodson said the files will not require constant changes to remain up to date. "We figure they'll have to update their tapes every three years. In Seminole County it might be a little more often than that because of the MICHEAL BEHA

Charges Filed In Fatal Auto Crash

By TENI YARBOURGH Herald Staff Writer

A 79-year-old Winter Park man has been charged with careless driving in connection with Monday's accident which resulted in the death of a 7-year-old Seminole County girl.

Florida Highway Patrol officials said today they have filed careless driving charges against David T. Green, 2321 Knoll St., and added that additional charges may be filed in the fatal crash which occured along Lake Howell Road at about 5:10 p.m. Monday.

Troopers said Green's out-of-control AMC Gremlin jumped a curb along Lake Howell Road, struck Dana Dietrick, 5244 Lake Howell Road, and her playmate, Shawn Balencie, 11, of 5226 Lake Howell Road, killing the Dietrick girl. Balencie is listed in satisfactory condition today at the Winter Park Memorial

After striking the two children, who were waiting to cross the street, the vehicle skidded across the roadway, colliding with two other vehicles before stopping, troopers said. Neither Green nor the drivers of the other cars involved in the accident were injured, troopers said.

As a result of Monday's tragic accident, residents along Lake Howell Road say they are preparing a petition to present to Seminole County Commissioners, asking them to pressure Sheriff John Polk to increase deputy patrols of the roadway especially during peak traffic hours. Residents say that the heavily-traveled road which is a posted 25 mph zone, is often used by motorists as a short-cut to avoid traffic along other major thoroughfares. Seminole County Sheritt's spokesman John Spolski said today his department does not plan to "beef up" patrol in the Lake Howell Road area, but that they "will patrol it and all areas as we normally do." He said although the accident was a tragic one, "like one of our lieutenants said, it could have happened anywhere in the county at any time.'

Seminole County traffic engineers say Monday's crash was the first accident reported along Lake Howell Road this year, adding that nine accidents were reported along that roadway

Among those accidents reported last year, one motorist was charged with driving under the influence of alcoholic beverages after being stopped for driving 50 mph in the posted 25 mph zone, others were charged with reckless driving and failure to yield the right-of-way. Officials added that no major injuries were reported in the 1981 accidents.

FUMES TOO MUCH Two south Seminole County dry cleaning company workers were treated by county rescue personnel after the two were overcome by furnes from spilled cleaning solvent Thursday. Fire officials said they responded to the Plaza Cleaners, 5401 Lake Howell Road, Thursday morning where they treated owner Bill Reber and employee Mary Jo Davis who had been overcome by furnes from 20 gallons of dry cleaning solvent which spilled on the floor.

Oxygen was administered to the two workers at the scene and neither required hospitalization, officials said. They added, however, that the fumes could have been fatal if the pair had been exposed for a prolonged period.

Even So, Recovery Continues Economic Indicators Stall

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The government's sensitive leading economic indicators held steady in June, showing neither upward nor downward movement, the Commerce Department said today, after a two-month string of positive readings that suggested a recovery was on the way.

The stalled indicators for June followed revised increases of 1.4 percent for April and 0.9 percent for May.

A revision of the figures for March turned the indicators back to their original negative direction, significant because many private economists regard a three-month trend in one direction as a sign the economic tide has turned.

With the June figure and the revisions the length of the average workweek.

the past year has turned in nine minuses followed by two months of increase and finally June's lack of any change at all.

Three of the 10 available indicators hinted the economy was improving. They were the level of initial unemployment claims, the pace of deliveries and raw materials prices.

Six others reflected more deterioration in the economy. Pointed in a negative direction were stock prices, which contributed most of the decline, as well as inflation-adjusted new orders, orders for business equipment, building permits, changes in liquid assets and money

The leading economic indicators are designed to forecast periods when the economy reaches a turning point. While a long way from sending any definitive signal, some private economists say the indicators, by moderating their declines, are showing a modest economic recovery is on the way.

Bache Halsey Stuart Shields analysis of the lack of change in the June indicators that the Wall Street firm predicted, has not changed its view that "the 1981-82 recession has already ended and economic recovery has begun."

John A. Pyatt, a 22-year-old pizza cook who lives at 2100 Howell Branch Road, Winter Park, told Seminole Circuit Court jurors that when his two roommates and their boyfriends held a drug dealer captive in his south Seminole County apartment, he didn't realize they were breaking the law. He testified that the victim, Carl I. Vitner, 20, of Orlando, was not bound and was watching television. Jurors apparently didn't buy his story and Thursday convicted Pyatt of false imprisonment. Vitner testified that he was kidnapped from an Orlando restaurant and held captive at gunpoint at the apartment for 30 hours because a drug deal he was involved in went sour.

Prosecutors had originally charged Pyatt with kidnapping, which carries a penalty of life in prison.

Vitner testified that he and another man were acting as middlemen in a drug deal between Pyatt's roommate, Helen D. Reese, 21, and Billy W. Wheeler, 23, of Hialeah, Fla. Vitner's partner, identified as Bart Bomar, reportedly "ripped off" Ms. Reese and Wheeler in the drug deal and the couple went looking for Vitner, abducted him from Chi Chi's restaurant in Orlando and took him back to Pyatt's apartment where roommate Mary Ann Brown, 19, and her boyfriend, Mark Beck, and Kendall Graham Williams, 18, were waiting, Vitner said. Vitner said Pyatt held a gun on him. However, Ms. Brown and Beck testified Wednesday that Pyatt was not in the apartment during the incident.

Ms. Reese, Wheeler and Williams are expected to be tried in connection with the incident in August. Charges against Ms. Brown were dropped in exchange for her testimony in the case. Beck, who was not charged, was granted immunity from prosecution for his testimony

The Herald also reported that several major developments in North Key Largo have been cited for destroying mangroves, dumping land fill into the ocean and digging unauthorized canals in protected wetlands.

Mike Garretson, director of the department's Divison of Local Resource Management, said Thursday that many of the "biggest projects, the ugliest, the ones with the greatest impact" do not come under Critical Concern regulations because they were approved before the current laws were enacted. He said that in other cases, such as the controversial 2,800unit Port Bougainville development, the state and even local

PORT GIBSON, Miss. (UPI) — NAACP NAACP in a lawsuit filed by a group of white officials, in Mississippi for a "symbolic" Port Gibson victory celebration, say renewed emphasis will be placed on selective buying as a tool to obtain civil rights goals across the nation.

Benjamin L. Hooks, NAACP executive director, said the right to use economic boycotts was affirmed by the Supreme Court in a historic decision earlier this month. "No matter how large the economic pie in America is, we will be moving to get our share," Hooks said. The Supreme Court, in a July 2 decision, Port Gibson merchants. The merchants maintained they were entitled to damages resulting from the loss of business because of a black boycott that started in 1966 and lasted off-and-on about three years.

The judgment in the lower courts threatened at one point to bankrupt the nation's oldest civil rights organization.

Hooks and other high-ranking NAACP officials joined local blacks Thursday in a victory march at Port Gibson, about 70 miles southwest of Jackson. Hooks also spoke at a rally at the Claiborne County courthouse in threw out a $1.25 million judgment against the Port Gibson, drove to Jackson for a news conference, then returned to Port Gibson for a public meeting. The celebration, which kicked off three days of NAACP activities in Mississippi, also was to launch a membership drive and promote voter registration programs. Rallies were planned today in Hattlesburg, Vicksburg, Meridian, Grenada, Natchez and Jackson.

A closing rally is scheduled Saturday at Smith Park in downtown Jackson,

Approximately 110 blacks, including several small children, took part in Thursday's march under a blistering Mississippi sun. The demonstration began at a black church near the business section of town. It ended with a sweltering midday rally on the steps of the white-walled courthouse, across the street from the Confederate War Memorial in the town that Gen. Ulysses Grant once called "too beautiful to burn."

Most stores close on Thursday afternoons in Port Gibson and many already had shut down for the day when the march was held. A few white residents watched quietly as the marchers, led by Hooks, filed past on the sidewalk. Black and white police officers and sheriff's deputies kept watch for trouble and joined in directing traffic. There were no incidents.

"We do not come here in a vindictive or mean or bitter spirit," Hooks said.

Water Which Doomed Deer Benefited Other Wildlife

EVERGLADES NATIONAL PARK (UPI) - Water management officials planning to drain a flooded Everglades conservation area say the high water resulted in death for more than 700 deer, but was beneficial for most wildlife.

Officials of the South Florida Water Management District announced Thursday the high water would be drained, beginning as early as next week, from the conservation area where a "mercy kill," of starving deer was held. State game officials allowed the hunt to thin out the population of a deer herd suffering from a food shortage caused by flooding.

Record High Pot Seizures

MIAMI (UPI) - The Coast Guard is taking in a record harvest of marijuana this year, already seizing in seven months as much as they did all of last year. Since the beginning of the year, the Coast Guard has hauled in 1.612 million pounds, compared to 1,612 million pounds seized during 1981, it was announced Thursday.

"And we're not even into the harvest season when smuggling really picks up," said Petty Officer Mike Kelly, a Coast Guard spokesman. "The four months coming up are the ones we traditionally have the largest seizures. The best months are September and October."

Brazil New Orange King

LAKELAND (UPI) - Florida has surrendered its long-time ranking as the world's top orange producer to Brazil, and an industry spokesman says it may be a while before the state can retake the lead.

Hard freezes during the past two years have caused Florida's orange production to fall from 206.8 million boxes in 1979-80 to only 125.8 million boxes this year.

Total U.S. production, of which Florida traditionally makes up about 75 percent, fell to 179.2 million boxes this year. Meanwhile, Brazil produced 180 million boxes last year and had another slight increase this

South Africa's White Rule Shows Signs Of Weakening

Botha, in what political observers called the most crucial speech of his career, planned to spell out his Cabinet's plans for liberalizing the present whites-only parliamentary system, ending months of uncertainty.

South Africa, the continent's only remaining country that is not black ruled, has come under heavy international pressure and sanctions against its official policy of racial segregation called apartheid. The policy forbids blacks to vote or hold office, and severely restricts their education, marriage, occupations, pay, and where they may live.

PLO Will Leave Beirut

United Press International

The PLO made its first public pledge to evacuate its armed forces from west Beirut, but Palestinian and U.S. officials cautioned much remained to be negotiated before the 55-day Lebanon war can be declared over.

Sources in Beirut said Egypt, Jordan, Syria and Iraq have agreed to accept some of the PLO guerrillas, but the State Department cautioned no agreement existed on "the terms of the departure, the timing and the destinations."

PLO sources stressed the pledge to leave Beirut was only one of six points agreed on in Jedoah, part of an indivisible package to end the Lebanese War that began eight weeks ago this weekend with an Israeli invasion. The other five points included the withdrawal of Israeli forces from Lebanon, guarantees for the safety of Palestinian refugees in Lebanese camps and multi-national participation in a disengagement around Beirut.

Pay Hike Recommended For Probation Workers

Seminole County commissioners are being asked to increase the salary of the probation officers and one supervisor to attract qualified people to the jobs.

The county's personnel review board recommended increasing the annual salary of supervisors from $16,244 to $18,408 and hiking the officers' pay from $10,941 to $13,000. Even with the pay raises, those salaries would be only $20 more annually that the state pays probation officer trainees. County Administrator Roger Neiswender said the county has

Odds Against Casino Gambling In Florida...For Now

Herald Staff Writer

The issue of casino gambling and a state lottery in Florida died a quiet death this week when the organization backing the effort, Citizens For Less Tax and the Committee For Florida Lotteries decided the political climate of an election year was not the time to press the issue in the form of a November

Chuck Rosen, chairman and treasurer for the organization said the move to place the casino-lottery issue before the voters will be placed on the back burner until 1984.

With so many people running for office, many of them would seize the issue and turn it into a political football.' -- Chuck Rosen

"It wasn't a matter of collecting enough signatures on a petition drive," said Rosen. "It's the fact that too many people are running for office that clouds the issue."

The issue received its strongest support from tourist-hungry hotel owners, organized labor throughout the state and disgruntled taxpayers. As was the case in 1978 when the organization pushed for casino gambling in Florida, the bulk of support came from Miami's Gold Coast, where an overall downtrend in statewide tourism figures has taken a more significant toll than the remainder of the state.

By law the Citizens for Less Tax had to round up 300,000 signatures from Florida taxpayers prior to Aug. 3 to get the issue on the Nov. 2 referendum.

Rosen said the organization was approaching that number this week when the decision was made to halt the effort until

"Realistically, we are looking for more than 400,000 signatures," said Rosen. "We're not quite to that figure yet, but we plan to continue to collect signatures for the 1984 ef-

Rosen said his committee's efforts had received official support from the statewide AFL-CIO and local Teamsters Unions in the Dade County area as well as the backing from various hotel-motel owner associations and bar owners

"To be truthful, it would be difficult for us to launch a successful campaign to bring the message across to the people of the state," said Rosen.

"With so many people running for office, many of them would seize the issue and turn it into a political football. "In 1984 we expect to launch an all out, full scale campaign,"

This year's casino gambling issue differed from the original attempt in 1978. The 1982 effort, if successful, would have permitted casino gambling in all 67 Florida counties depending on local government approval from the respective county com-To sweeten the casino issue, a state lottery, expected to gain wide support on its own, was tied to the vote for casinos. Had the issue made it to a ballot, Florida voters would have decided on both or neither.

Pro-casino forces claimed the new business would have generated some 40,000 to 50,000 new jobs in Florida, and while no claims were made by the group that taxes would be reduced, the organization contended that increases in taxes would at least have been slowed down by additional revenue generated from casino gambling.

Gov. Bob Graham's anti-casino forces immediately moved to challenge the casino issues. By the middle of June, Graham's No Casinos, Inc., group, inherited from former Gov. Ruben Askew, already had raised $170,000 in contributions to fight the casino campaign and had enlisted the opposition of more than 60 county sheriffs, the Flerida Jaycees and the League of Women voters.

The anti-casino forces based their campaign on the same premises as 1978, that casinos would have a dramatic effect on a skyrocketing crime rate.

A state-wide newspaper poll of editors in June showed virtually unanimous opposition to the casino effort. A poll of local law enforcement officials in Seminole County conduced by the Evening Herald also showed strong opposition to the casino

Worst Amendment Since Prohibition

Would you follow the advice of a chronic alcoholic to put everyone on the wagon?

The alcoholic is Congress and its addiction is money, not booze. The people are the American taxpayers. And the wagon Congress wants them to climb aboard is the constitutional amendment for a balanced budget.

We oppose deficit spending. We supported Ronald Reagan's campaign promise of balancing the federal budget by 1984. When that possibility began to fade, as tax cuts failed to stimulate the economy and deficits climbed to a historic high, we conceded economic reality. But we did not abandon the dream of a government paying its way with non-inflationary dollars.

Now President Reagan, confronted with the upcoming congressional elections, has climbed on the bandwagon of the constitutional amendment. This is good politics. The Democrats are trying to blame the $100 billion deficit on the Republicans, when Democrats' big-spending policies must share the blame. And the president wants the amendment to show voters he is against deficit

But there's something fishy about an amendment that a three-fifths majority of Congress can overrule. It's like a red-faced drinker taking the pledge, but insisting on a wee escape clause that says, "If you really want one drink, you can have

We're not the only fiscal conservatives to question the amendment. Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., has called it "impractical." He added: "If we haven't been able to balance the budget any more than we have in the last 40 or 50 years, a constitutional amendment isn't going to help.'

Another Republican, Washington's Sen. Slade Gorton, cautions: "To put an economic theory into the Constitution is too long a jump for my taste."

It could be a jump into a depression. We are now suffering the results of an uncertain economic theory — supply-side economics. Unemployment is at a post-World War II high; 2 million mere people fell below the poverty line last year, and the spread between inflation and interest rates is greater than during the Carter era. To face these realities, Congress needs flexibility. To press Congress against the ledger books and demand it balance the budget not only for one year but theoretically forever is to sacrifice millions of families' security to the false security of an accounting balance.

It is better for Congress to feel the pinch of its profligacy — and suffer the voters' wrath — than to alter the Constitution one iota. If Congress wants to take the austerity pledge, the place to start is with next year's budget, not the Constitution. Like prohibition, a balanced budget amendment would lead to bootleg spending — and almost certain repeal.

Still Cheap Service

In 10 years as a public corporation, the U.S. Postal Service has served commercial mailers better than it has the 200 million private citizens.

According to a recent study by the National Academy of Public Administration, postal patrons are regularly affronted by out-of-order stamp vending machines, branch post office lobbies locked at night, and 20-cent letters that take as long to get there as 8-cent letters did a decade ago.

As a public corporation, the Postal Service has increased its capital assets by $3 billion, handled a larger volume of mail with fewer employees, and reduced its operating deficit substantially. In fact, it has learned to serve bulk mailers so well that residents are being snowed under by junk

Nevertheless, the survey points out that the Postal Service has made these gains at the sacrifice of employee courtesy and customer services. The National Academy recommends the Postal Service begin simplifying its "excessively complex" rate structure with four classes and 38 subclasses of mail, and requiring all employees, rather than just some, to be helpful and courteous to patrons.

State Rep. Dick Batchelor, D-Orlando, is splitting his time pretty much between walking door to door to meet voters and accepting awards and endorsements.

The Democratic candidate for Florida's 5th Congressional District seat this past week received the endorsement of the League of Conservation Voters, whose national headquarters is in Washington, D.C.

The 5th District includes all of Seminole County and a portion of Orange.

He is running against incumbent first-term U. S. Rep. Bill McCollum, R-Altamonte Springs. The League of Conservation Voters, is the oldest and largest political action committee for the environmental movement in the country.

The organization has praised Batchelor's role as chairman of the Florida House Energy Committee, noting specifically his authorship of a strict Hazardous Waste Disposal Act.

While Bachelor is doing his thing in Seminole and Orange counties, Jim Smith, the Republican candidate for Florida Secretary of State, is proposing a state constitutional amendment to abolish the office he is seeking.

Smith says his amendment would consolidate the duties of the secretary of state and its staff under the direction of the lieutenant governor. He notes that presently the lieutenant governor has no constitutional responsibilities or

ANTHONY HARRIGAN Leftist Propaganda Gambits

However one feels about the latest crisis in the Middle East, reactions to it contain important lessons.

It is noteworthy, for example, that the hard Left in the United States has lined up behind the Palestine Liberation Organization. This was evidenced in a recent full-page advertisement in The New York Times inserted by the "Ad Hoc Committee in Defense Of the Palestinian and Lebanese People." The advertisement bitterly condemned the United States for supplying weapons to Israel.

Among the signers of the ad were veteran leftists, including the Berrigan brothers, priests who have fought draft registration; Richard Barnet, head of the notoriously leftist Institute For Policy Studies; Julian Bond, the Georgia legislator-demonstrator; Noam Chomsky, the MIT professor who has compared the U.S. with Nazi Germany; William Kunstler, the radical lawyer who defends communists; and I.F. Stone, long time leftist writer and editor.

It's interesting that many of the people involved in support of the PLO also have been active in the campaign for a nuclear freeze and in opposition to the U.S. effort to preserve El Salvador from a communitst takeover.

In the Middle East protest, as in the El Salvador and nuclear freeze campaigns, the basic aim is to weaken the foreign policy and strategic position of the United States.

The Palestine Liberation Organization is a terrorist gang devoted to the destruction of Israel. The PLO is more skilled at blowing up school buses than in making its case in international forums. Furthermore, the PLO is a Soviet client, beholden to Soviet aims and goals in the Middle East.

The agitation over the attacks on the PLO is a reminder that the hallmark of the liberalleft conscience is selective indignation. The same people who protest the bombing of West Beirut had little or nothing to say about PLO atrocities, or Soviet genocide in Afghanistan.

This type of reaction is nothing new. In the 1950s, the Left condemned France for its presence in Algeria, but saw no evil in the extinguishing of an ancient civilization on the Chinese mainland by Chinese communists.

In the early 1960s, the radical left accused European colonial powers of "imperialism" in Africa and Asia while hailing a new breed of Third World tyrants as liberators.

In the early 1970s, the United States was berated for approving the counter-revolution in Chile against the Marxist regime. At the same time, the Left downplayed the role of Cuba as a Soviet surrogate in Angola, Yemen and elsewhere.

Liberal-Left protests have a long history of careful stage-management. They are artificial and designed to weaken the United States and its allies.

One is reminded of the orchestration of protests against the American bombing of Hanoi and of the privileged sanctuaries used by communist forces in Vletnam. Many U.S. campuses were plunged into chaos by the use of skillfully directed hysteria.

The Left protests are facilitated by the willingness of the electronic media to be manipulated and used as transmission belts for propaganda. That was demonstrated most strongly in the Vietnam War, when television became a prime instrument for promoting defeatism and confusion in the United States.

Television also allowed itself to be used in the recent agitation over El Salvador. CBS, in particular, never missed an opportunity to make the U.S. look bad in connection with El

BUSINESS WORLD

Mergers Can Be Wasteful

NEW YORK (UPI) - Arranging mergers and acquisitions is a lucrative business and it's for just this reason so many of them turn out disappointingly, two prominent management consultants agree.

"All the time and attention is devoted to making the deal, not to making sure it's a wise marriage or to making it work after it's consummated," John D. Arnold of ExecuTrak Systems, a Boston consulting firm, told United Press International.

Arnold said the acquiring companies rely specialize in merger and antitrust law, professional proxy solicitors and public relations counsel.

"All these people are working for fees except the investment bankers who get a handsome percentage of the final price. But once the corporate marriage is consummated," Arnold said, "they all collect their fees and disappear, leaving the corporate bride and groom to face the disillusioning reality that nobody has really figured out how to make the marriage work."

Unfortunately, Arnold said, a lot of lies are told during, before, and even immediately after, the merger, sometimes deliberately, often not. But when disillusionment sets in, the acquiring company's management realizes it can't keep the promises it has made to the acquired company, promises such as, "You haven't a thing to fear. We're all part of the same team now; there will be no major changes, certainly not without consulting you.'

Suddenly, Arnold continued, there's change. The head of the acquiring company becomes mysteriously unreachable by telephone. The acquired company starts to get calls from middle management of the acquiring company setting unrealistic sales goals; suppliers start complaining about changes in contracts, accountants want to change the whole system and so on.

The trouble, Arnold says, is that both managements have been sold a bill of goods. The specialists who made so much money out of putting together the deal have deluded the acquiring management into thinking they're buying a big bargain and have lulled management of the acquired firm into thinking everything's going to be smooth and

John G. Main, of Main, Jackson & Garfield in New York, who agreed wholeheartedly with Arnold, said the professionals sometimes "work both sides of the street," making fees from both the acquired and acquiring company without shouldering any responsibility for making the marriage work.

Arnold said so-called "white knight" mergers are no better planned than unfriendly mergers. He noted that a surprising number of those who come to the rescue of companies that are fighting off unfriendly takeover bids turn out to be very black knights indeed and soon fire many of the executives they have been called in to rescue.

The reason for this, he said, is that the white knight company's management is swiftly disillusioned. The company it has rescued doesn't really have the technological edge or the market share it was supposed to have. "That's because everybody concentrated on how to make the deal instead of whether it was worth making," Main observed.

Arnold said the economic seriousness of the problem is indicated by more than one recent survey concluding that at least 70 percent of all mergers and acquisitions turn out unsatisfactorily. "And each failure can waste anywhere from $1 million to more than $1 billion," he said.

The cure is to use the services of consultants who will concentrate their energies on deciding whether a merger is wise and how to make it work instead of on making a deal, Arnold and Main agreed.

secret police officers and twice forced to fend off rape attempts. A companion, a 30-year-old Guatemalan doctor, was not as fortunate. His badly beaten, mutilated and partially decomposed body was found recently in a freshly dug grave on a river bank in northern Honduras. The terrifying experience of the young medical volunteers provides the most recent evidence that armed conflict in Central America no longer is confined to El Salvador but is spreading throughout the region and poses an increasing threat to the safety of the U.S. citizens in countries including Honduras. Guatemala and Nicaragua

A New Jersey native who moved to California in 1962, Miss Morin was working as a critical care nurse in a Burbank, Calif., hospital when she volunteered earlier this year to serve as a nutrition specialist at a refugee camp in Honduras.

Her services were welcomed by Concern, a private relief organization based in Ireland with offices in Santa Ana, Calif. On June 8, the refugee camp in which she was serving was visited by Dr. Oscar Giron, a Guatemalan working for Project Global Village, a development agency based in Portland, Ore

The two were driving to a nearby city the following day when their pickup truck was halted by four uniformed Honduran soldiers and two armed men in civilian clothes.

After being ordered into a ravine, the two relief workers were separated. "I could hear Oscar moaning," recalls Miss Morin, "I had a feeling they had killed him." With an estimated 25,000 refugees in

Honduras, most of them fleeing violence in Guatemala and El Salvador, there is a desperate need for relief workers — but those volunteers increasingly are finding themselves the targets of abuse. Only one week before the episode involving

Miss Morin, a female French doctor was rousted from her bed at 3 a.m. and taken to a local police station for interrogation. Last year, two Honduran volunteers working for a Catholic relief agency were taken from their home, tortured in front of their family and then murdered.

Miss Morin, who says that until recently she was neither interested in nor familiar with politics of the region, now believes that "our foreign policy is one of the reasons why thousands of Hondurans are starving."

Indeed, Honduras is the quintessential "banana republic" - a country whose modern history is inextricably tied to U.S. corporations, which view it as a private plantation to be exploited for the production of export crops.

On three separate occasions between 1912 and 1924, this country's military forces intervened in Honduran affairs, ostensibly to provide "stability" to its government. In fact, they were protecting and promoting the commercial interests of the United Fruit Co.

Throughout most of this century, virtually all of Honduras' fertile agricultural lands suitable for growing bananas have been controlled by United Fruit (now renamed United Brands), the Standard Fruit Co. (now a subsidiary of Castle & Cooke) and a handful of other American firms.

Bigwigs Double-Dipping On Pensions

WASHINGTON - The millions of ordinary Americans on Social Security are severely limited in what they can earn without forfeiting part of their pensions. The bigger their earnings, the smaller their Social Security

The privileged people in the federal government are bound by the same Social Security rule. But where other pensions are concerned, anything goes.

The double-dipping starts right at the top. President Reagan draws a $22,444 annual pension from the state of California as well as his presidential salary and expenses of $250,000 a year.

It took a special ruling by Reagan's good friend, Attorney General William French Smith, to get around the U.S. Constitution, which states that a president "shall not receive.. any other emolument from the United States or any of them" while he's in

Emolument is a 50-cent word for payment, salary or other compensation, but the Justice Department ruled that Reagan's state pension isn't actually an emolument. The explanation is that Reagan kicked in for his pension during the eight years he was

This must puzzle Social Security pensioners, most of whom paid into the trust fund for a lot longer than eight years, get a lot less than $22,444 a year in benefits — and stand to lose much of what they do get if they earn more than $6,000 a year, let alone $250,000.

Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger also draws a pension from California - $5,708 a year - in addition to his $60,000 federal salary. Last year, Weinberger also received $93,583 from his old employer, Bechtel Power Corp., as "compensation for past services."

Ambassador-at-large Vernon Walters, a former Army general, is entitled to $60,000 a year in salary, and reported an additional military pension: $44,101 in 1980 and $57,904 in

The real ice-cream parlor for doubledippers is Congress. An official of the National Taxpayers Union told my associate John Dillon that 56 members of the House and Senate receive dual compensation of one sort or another.

One of the champs in this department is Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C. A former governor like Reagan, he draws a state pension of $6,965 a year. As a retired general in the Army reserve, he also gets a $12,668 military pension. These payments help him scrape by on his Senate salary of $60,000 plus expenses.

Other senators who get military retirement pay include Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz. (who says he donates his pension check to charity), Robert Stafford, R-Vt., and Howard Cannon, D-Ney. The military legislators, incidentally, have handily ignored the explicit provision of the Constitution that states: "No person holding any office under the United States shall be a member of either house during his continuance of office."

In money matters, as in so much else, there is one set of rules for the bigshots and a different set for the people whose taxes keep them living in high style.

MR. CONTROVERSY: One of the most controversial members of Congress is freshman Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah. In his first term on Capitol Hill, he has tromped on a few toes, Republican as well as Democratic.

Despite his independent streak and low seniority, he has managed to become a powerful member of the Senate leadership. A skillful tactician who knows when to compromise, Hatch has many adversaries but few enemies. He gets along well, for example, with Sen. Ted Kennedy, D-Mass., though their views on just about everything are poles

Hatch worked his way through school as a construction worker, and still holds a union card - to the intense irritation of organizedlabor chieftains, who are among his favorite targets. When the late George Meany told him organized labor was going to spend $4 million to beat him, Hatch replied cheerily: "Wonderful! If you spend $4 million in Utah, it will double our gross product."

A University of Minnesota team plans to seek federal Food and Drug Administration approval of the pump, already on the market for other uses, this year.

If all goes well, it could be marketed for insulin use in a year or two, said Dr. William M. Rupp, a co-author of a study on the pump in today's New England Journal of

The stainless steel device, which resembles a hockey puck and is refilled by injection every two weeks, delivers a continuous flow of insulin that is more effective than insulin shots, the team reported in its study.

All five patients in the study, victims of adult onset diabetes, told the researchers they were satisfied with the device and had no desire to resume taking daily injections. "A frequent comment was that this pump was 'forgettable' and allowed them a more normal lifestyle," wrote Dr. Henry Buchwald, a professor of surgery and biomechanical engineering who headed the study and whose team developed the pump.

The pump can be installed under the skin of the abdomen in a simple procedure under local anesthesia, Buchwald said. Force from each refill also recharges the pump's energy source. The device is about 314 inches wide and 1 inch thick.

Some 9 million Americans are victims of adult onset diabetes, also known as Type II, in which an adult's pancreas suddenly and inexplicably cuts back production of insulin, the chemical that "burns" sugar.

About 300,000, including the study participants, are so impaired they need to take extra insulin every day.

"For Type II patients, continuous insulin delivery, resting the patients' own insulin cells so they can kick in when necessary, may be optimum therapy," Buchwald

Type I diabetes, or juvenile onset, begins in childhood. Its 1 million or so victims are completely unable to make their own insulin and all must take injections.

The team has tried its pump on five victims of juvenile diabetes with "encouraging" results, Buchwald said. He said the device may be useful if it can be designed to deliver extra insulin when needed.

Diabetes is notorious for its damage to kidneys, eyesight and blood vessels throughout the body. Although the Minnesota researchers hope the device will be able to control some of this damage, they say it is too soon to tell,

They said, however, bloodsugar levels in the study patients were closer to normal more often than they would have been had the patients been taking injections.

The pumps were in place for 512 to about 10 months with no complications except one brief tube blockage that resulted in a few changes in design and insulin solution, the

Artificial Blood Used In Emergency Transfusions

BOSTON (UPI) - Artificial blood made partly of cornstarch and salts helped save the lives of five patients who refused transfusions, and could do away with timeconsuming blood typing before emergency surgery, a Harvard researcher said today.

The chemical that makes up the artificial blood, known as perfluorochemical, carries dissolved oxygen needed for survival of body tissues, researchers said in the New England Journal of Medicine.

Dr. Kevin K. Tremper, the study's principal author, said "it appears there is a future" for such chemicals, especially for victims of heart attack, carbon-monoxide poisoning, or sickle-cell disease, who may need quick transfusions.

Biochemist Robert P. Geyer said the chemical may be useful for emergency transfusions in which blood types can't be matched and may eventually be the base for blood substitutes for patients unable to manufacture enough of their own blood. Geyer, head of the nutrition department at Harvard's School of Public Health, wrote an editorial accompanying the study findings.

The chemical was used previously in six patients, but not under test conditions, the UCLA researchers said.

In the study, five Jehovah's Witnesses who were dangerously anemic because of heavy bleeding had refused transfusions because their religion prohibits them. They were given solutions of a perflurochemical formula called

The lack of need for blood typing means emergency situations could be met without delay. The report represents the first well-monitored multipatient study involving a perfluorchemical in the United States.

Fluosol-DA before surgery.

When the patients breathed pure oxygen, the chemical carried enough dissolved oxygen so that all were able to undergo surgery, the report said. One death was caused five days after surgery by complications unrelated to the perfluorochemical.

Two additional patients were dropped from the study because they had adverse reactions to the chemical.

The study said the oxygen-carrying properties of the chemical were first demonstrated in 1966 when scientists dropped mice into it and they could still breathe. The first human experiments began in Germany and Japan in 1979.

The substance is breathed out by patients in about three days, Geyer said.

If a longer-lasting version is developed, it may be useful for patients suffering such conditions as aplastic anemia, a rare disease in which the bone marrow stops producing certain blood-cell components.

"The lack of need for blood typing means emergency situations could be met without delay," Geyer said. "The report represents the first well-monitored multipatient study involving a perfluorchemical in the United States."

The formula contains fluorine, a cornstarch-based substance which takes the place of blood proteins, and salts similar to those found in blood.

Tot's Damage Toll Climbs To $2,296.37

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (UPI) - It's not difficult to follow the trail of toddler Robin Hawkins — it's strewn with disasters In the last two months the 2-year-old has chalked up $2,296 37 in damages, including a wrecked car, television, dishwasher and refrigerator.

Robin's trail of terror began with the toilet. Alice the cat got dunked, drowned and flushed.

Her father, Rowlf, neatly tallied the expenses in a yellow tablet: $62.75 for the plumber, $2.50 for Alice.

That was only the beginning.

Robin decided to give teddy bear a bath — atop the heating element in the dishwasher. That cost her father $375 for repairs, $25 for smoke damage and, of course, $8 for the teddy bear.

Then there was the refrigerator. Robin stuck some magnetic letters in the vents just before the family left home for the weekend, causing the motor to burn out. The cost: $310 for the refrigerator, $120 in spoiled food and $3.75 for the magnetic

"That evening, we sat down to watch TV," said Hawkins, an East Grand Rapids police officer. "Robin had twisted the fine tune so far it broke inside." Cost: $115.

The next day Mrs. Hawkins went to pick up her husband from his second job as a parttime officer. Robin was left asleep in her safety seat, the keys were in her mother's purse inside the car.

"We heard the car start up and we ran outside, just in time to watch the car start down the street," Hawkins said.

Robin ran into a tree. Cost: $1,029.52 in repairs. A few days later, Robin tried to play some tapes on the family stereo. Cost: $36 for tapes and $35 for tape-deck repairs Everything was OK, until they heard a loud noise and went outside to find the automatic garage door bouncing off the hood of the car with you know who locked inside' pushing the remote control. Cost: $120.

Monson Caught Off Base In Harry's Bar Case

Harry's Bar of Sanford travels to a.m. Palm Bay this weekend to compete in the Florida Recreation State Softball Association "A" Tournament.

Harry's Bar, undefeated in league play, is made up of former Seminole High standouts including Randy Brown, Levi Raines, Burnett Washington, Billy Griffith, Eddie Jackson and Rod Turner.

That's the way the story should read. but it doesn't read that way. It should have read that way last weekend because that's when the state tournament was - LAST WEEKEND not this weekend.

To make matters worse, the coach and owner of Harry's Bar claim they weren't told of the change until the Friday before the tournament at 11:20

"Jeff Monson (Superintendent of Recreation) didn't call (coach) Jim Smith until a day before the tournament," said Tex Moyer, owner of Harry's Bar, who had planned on attending the tournament this weekend. Monson denies he waited until the day before the tournament to tell Smith. "Jim Smith called me on Monday the week of the tournament to find out when they play," said Monson on Thursday. "I called him the next day and told him tournament Friday." Smith said he had not heard from Monson until the Friday (July 23) before the tournament.

the draw would be Wednesday and the the players to make Saturday morning's game.

Monson knew the tournament date had been changed from July 31 to July 24 a month ago. He was told by the State Recreation Association that Harry's Bar would be sent tournament information.

Monson said he "called someone," he wasn't sure if it was a member of Harry's Bar or "someone else" when the change was made a month ago.

He then ran into a member of the Harry's Bar team the Thursday before the Friday morning call who wasn't aware the tournament was the July 24th weekend.

"I wanted to make sure Jim (Smith) knew," continued Monson.

This is not the first problem Harry's Bar and the Sanford Recreation Department have had.

Two games into the season, Moyer says, "Monson tried to throw us out of the league. He told us we were too good." At the time, Harry's Bar was playing in the Longwood Men's Softball League too. Monson, citing a FRSA rule, told Moyer his team could play in just one league. Monson said he had the backing of the FRSA and the Sanford Men's Softball Association.

Moyer decided on Sanford. "That rule cost me $250," said Mover Thursday. "We wanted to play in Sanford because that's where the guys live and we wanted to be eligible for the tour-

Harry's Bar might not have won the tournament, but at least it should have been informed of the change in time to participate. Monson could have made sure Smith and Moyer knew of the change when it occurred and not relied on a letter from the State Recreation Department.

Moyer maintains Monson intentionally withheld the information. "I know Jeff Monson did this to get back at us," he said.

Monson denies the charge, "That's, obviously, not true," he said. "I have nothing against Tex or Harry's Bar. I was just enforcing a rule that was made by the Florida Recreation Softball Association."

Sanford always has been competitive in the FRSA state tournament. A few years back, it wasn't uncommon for the locals to bring home a state championship during the heydays of

It's a shame to see this tradition go down the drain because of a lack of communication. Monson was lax in his attempts to get ahold of Harry's Bar.

Seaboard Coast Line.

He should have exhausted every effort to keep them informed about the matter and not waited until the last day - as Moyer and Smith maintain — or the last week-as Monson vows- to enlighten them of the situation.

Seminole and Miami II.

In most cases the second making of a movie draws yawns from the spectators who were on the edge of their seats during the first showing.

There are some exceptions, of course. Godfather II went over pretty well, but then again Jaws II had a rather unpleasant bite to it.

A year ago, two Bronco baseball teams put on a show which drew rave reviews for its bunting, hitting, pitching, baserunning and nonstop aggressive play. The competitiveness and camaraderie was such that one of the teams-Miami or Tamiami this yearreturned this past autumn to renew the rivalry at the Seminole Pony Baseball Complex near Winter Springs.

Well, they're at it again fans. And the performance was another showstopper, Tamiami's Ari Delgado drilled an 0-2

"Why is it everytime we play it has to come down to the last pitch?" Tamiami manager Raul Delcampo asked his counterpart Greg Ebbert. "How come it's never easy?"

Jimmy Waring dropped a bunt down the third base line which Berk Vigoa wide of the bag allowing Waring to reach. Mickey Helms followed with a single moving Waring to second.

Carlson Squeeze Upends Mateo By CHRIS FISTER

Herald Sports Writer

WINTER GARDEN - When it comes to managerial strategy, Gene Letterio usually has the upper hand on his counterparts. Thursday night the sage pilot of the Altamonte Junior League All-Stars paced the third base coaching box in anticipation of an opportunity to put his baseball savvy to use against San Mateo.

And in the top of the third inning Letterio got what he was waiting for. Neal Harris, who advanced to third after a single, came barreling down the third base line and Bruce Carlson laid down a bunt in a perfectly executed squeeze play that gave Altamonte a 3-2 victory and the Section 1 Championship.

"When we finished warm ups before the game I told the boys, 'The next time we warm up before a game I want to have the ocean breeze at my back,' " Letterio said.

The title victory gives Altamonte a under way Monday in Rockledge, the bat of Brian Turner.

The contest was tled 2-2 going into the seventh when Port Orange erupted for four runs, three coming after Altamonte had recorded two outs in the frame. The loss eliminates Altamonte from the tournament while Port Orange advances to the State Senior League Tournament. Tony Johnson turned in a fine performance on the mound in six and two thirds innings of work. Johnson gave up all six runs but only two were earned. He struck out seven and walked three in a losing effort. Mark Chasey pitched the final one third of an inning for Altamonte.

Chris Hansen went the distance for Port Orange and had an outstanding fielding team behind him. Port Orange did not commit any errors while Altamonte had two miscues. Hansen hurled a three-hitter, struck out nine and walked nine in picking up the title clinching victory.

Port Orange picked up an unearned run in the fourth to take a 1-0 lead. Tom Schaffer drew a walk and scored on an error, one of two costly Altamonte the sixth, Altamonte had a golden opportunity to take the lead and it appeared they would do just that when Rod Metz ripped a liner toward left center field. But the Port Orange shortstop snared the line shot to take away a hit from Metz and the go-ahead run from Altamonte.

Altamonte's second error of the night opened the door for Port Orange in the seventh. The big blows in the decisive inning were back-to-back, two-out doubles by Chris Hammond and Pete Beler. Hammond's double knocked in two runs and Beler's plated the fourth run of the inning and aixth of the game for Port Orange.

Livernois had two of the three Altamonte hits while no hitters for Port Orange had more than one base hit. ORANGE PARK AB R H BI

but his glove went plop. "I don't know if they like me or not," Aikens said Thursday night after being booed despite a sharp offensive performance in the Kansas City Royals' 7-2 victory over the Baltimore Orioles. "I can say the fans are unfair to me ... but just about any player who has ever been booed will say that.' Aikens knocked in three runs with a homer and a single to help the Royals stop Baltimore's seven-game winning streak, but looked bad on three ground balls, drawing the negative reviews.

Aikens got away with bad plays in the eighth and ninth but he drew boos in the sixth when he failed to handle a grounder by Joe Nolan and threw wildly over the head of pitcher Mike Armstrong covering the bag, allowing John Lowenstein to score all the way from second base.

Rookie Derek Botelho scattered five hits, walked two and struck out four over five innings. Mike Armstrong and Dan of his star players. Dave Parker, for the Quisenberry gave up three hits the rest of the way to preserve the victory.

"We hit the ball all over the park but they got all the runs," Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver said.

In other games, Boston hammered Chicago, 7-3, Cleveland slammed Milwaukee, 5-1, in 12 innings, Oakland blanked Minnesota, 5-0, and California beat Seattle, 3-1.

In the National League, it was Montreal 4, St. Louis 3 in 10 innings; Pittsburgh 4, New York 1; Philadelphia 3, Chicago 2; Atlanta 6, San Diego 2; and Houston 4, Cincinnati 3. Red Sox 7, White Sox 3 single highlighted a three-run fifth inning that handed the White Sox their fourth straight loss.

Indians 5, Brewers 1

At Milwaukee, Andre Thornton cracked a grand slam in the 12th to lift the Indians.

A's 5, Twins 0

At Oakland, Calif., Jeff Burroughs hit his eighth home run of the season and Jim Sexton drilled a two-run double to support the four-hit pitching of Rick Langford, 8-11.

Angels 3, Mariners 1

At Anaheim, Calif., Doug DeCinces rebounded from a bout with the flu to slam a three-run homer and Steve Renko won his ninth game in lifting the Angels.

Chuck Tanner is the eternal optimist. The Pittsburgh Pirates' manager learned Thursday he may have lost one remainder of the season because of an injured hand, but the bad news was not about to dampen Tanner's spirit — no sir. "If he's out, we have to go from there," Tanner said Thursday night after Parker's replacement in right field, Dick Davis, hit a two-run homer to help the Pirates defeat the New York Mets, 4-1.

"One guy is not the determining factor." Parker, who ruptured a ligament in his left thumb Wednesday night sliding into second base in the Pirates' loss to Philadelphia, will be out for the season if he follows medical advice to have immediate surgery.

Pirates' orthopedist, Dr. Jack Failla, At Chicago, Dwight Evans went 4-for-4 said Parker has the option of waiting to eighth inning gave the Astros their Parker was placed on the 15-day disabled list Thursday and the Pirates signed free-agent John Milner to replace him on the roster.

Although Parker's batting average was only .269, he was batting over .300 the past couple weeks, and Tanner and his teammates have said repeatedly his statistics were not a proper indication of his value to the team.

Elsewhere in the National League, Atlanta topped San Diego, 6-2, Montreal edged St. Louis, 4-3, in 10 innings, Philadelphia beat Chicago, 3-2, and Houston nipped Cincinnati, 4-3.

In American League games, Boston beat Chicago, 7-3, Kansas City downed Baltimore, 7-2, Cleveland defeated Milwaukee, 5-1, in 12 innings, California took Seattle, 3-1, and Oakland blanked Minnesota, 5-0.

Braves 6, Padres 2

At Atlanta, Dale Murphy hit a pair of homers to boost his major league-leading total to 28 and extend the Braves' lead to nine games over the second place Padres in the National League West. Expos 4, Cardinals 3

At Montreal, Andre Dawson doubled to lead off the 10th inning and scored on a sacrifice fly by Tim Wallach to give the Expos a come-from-behind victory before a crowd of 48,923.

Payne Makes Maher Official, Smith Opts For Norfolk St.

Seminole Community College basketball coach Bill Payne received some good news and some bad news during his first week as Raider mentor.

Jim Maher, a highly-sought shooter from Bellevue, Ky., made his arrival for the 1982-83 season official Wednesday when he committed to SCC after hounding from Lake City, Chipola and Pensacola junior colleges. Maher, who averaged 16 points and 12 rebounds for class A Bellevue High, was first contacted by former SCC assistant Tony Mandeville. Payne followed up on Mandeville's choice and inked the 6-5 forward.

Maher was a first team All-Northern Kentucky selection.

Payne's bad news came from Virginia where 6-8 Mike Smith has decided to attend Norfolk State, Smith had been attending summer school in Virginia and Norfolk was so impressed with the backup center it offered him a scholarship.

Payne is in Gainesville this weekend to keep an eye on 6-7 All-Stater Rod Kittles who is still hounded by some major colleges. If Kittles goes the major-college route, he would have to sit out a year.

Spruce Creek High School's John Hosey is still undecided and will probably make a decision between

SCC and Daytona Beach CC next week. Joe Sterling, Raider athletic director, is looking for apartments for some of his incoming talent. Call Sterling (323-1450) if you can help.

Williams Heads North Stars

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) - A North squad led by Palatka's sensational tailback John L. Williams is the solid favorite to beat the South Saturday evening in the annual Florida High School All-Star football game.

Kickoff at Florida Field is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Williams, who will be playing for Charley Pell at Florida this fall, racked up 2,818 yards in three years at Palatka High School and wound up his high school career with a total offense of 4,148 yards.

In practice with the North squad this week, the 5foot-11, 210-pound Williams, who is compared by some to Georgia's Herschel Walker, has drawn raves. "John L. Williams has lived up to his reputation at tailback," said North coach J.D. Jones of Wakulla. "He looks great. He runs awfully hard and he finds the holes. He's the type of guy you love to coach."

Looking ahead to his college debut, Williams said, "Right now, I'm excited about playing in front of 60,000 people. What'd you get in high school games? Maybe three or four thousand. I can't wait, but I guess the closer we get to the season, the more nervous I'm going

Dolphins' Squad Totals 74

MIAMI (UPI) — The Miami Dolphins roster totals 74 players today, after coach Don Shula cut 16 rookies and free agents to make room in training camp for 28 veteran players.

At the end of the day Thursday, the roster still included kicker Uwe von Schamann. The kicker is expected to be released soon from a hospital where he is being treated for colitis.

In making cuts, Shula waived 12 players and waived four others as injured. Other clubs the four waived as injured may apply to will now know that they have

Tumin Rolls 561 Series

Sanford bowlers have been racking up high scores in league competition recently and leading the way is the accomplishments of 13-year-old Ken Tumin.

Tumin rolled games of 180, 184 and 197 en route to a 561 series last Wednesday night in the Night-Junior Senior Summer League at Sanford's Bowl America Lanes. Tumin holds an impressive 156 average and is the league leader. Tumin is the son of Al Tumin Sr. of Sanford.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 18-4, Walking To Health, for more information. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB - If a person sleeps in a comfortable rocking chair would his heart get as much rest as if he were lying in bed?

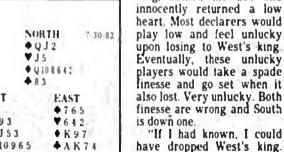

Because of arthritis in my neck and inner ear trouble I have had difficulty sleeping on my side. It also seems to aggravate my angina heart pain, so I've been sleeping in a very comfortable rocker. My heart would get more rest if I could lie comfortably in bed, wouldn't it?

DEAR READER - The heart probably functions better if you are sitting up rather than lying down. The amount of work it has to do is about the same, perhaps a little less sitting up. The only reason to lie flat is to maintain circulation to the brain if a person has shock or near shock. We often have heart patients who have trouble breathing sit up, which improves matters a great deal.

This means that one reason your angina may be worse lying down is that you may be accumulating a little fluid in your lungs then and sitting upright may prevent this. I would strongly recommend seeing your doctor right away to evaluate this point. He may also be able to help you with

WIN AT BRIDGE

"If I had known, I could have dropped West's king. But the finesse is clearly a much better percentage play," South announced to his partner at the hand's conclusion.

If South had remembered the auction and West's opening lead, the layout of his opponents high cards becomes clear. The evidence: East's original pass in first chair denied 13 high-card points. Would West lead a club holding the ace-king of diamonds? East, therefore, held one high diamond honor. Based on this logic East could not have either major suit king. Declarer should win the ace of hearts at trick three and cash the ace of spades. None of this detective work would have been possible unless South had listened to and remembered East's original pass. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Nitrogen, Temperature Control Quality Of Tomatoes

Failure of tomatoes to set fruit is one of the most widespread problems encountered by Florida vegetable gardeners each year,

In most cases the vines are large, healthy and growing vigorously with an abundance of flowers.

The flowers, however, either drop off or wither up and turn brown instead of setting fruit. While all of the reasons for poor fruit set are not completely understood, some of the most common causes are: excessive nitrogen, too low or too high nighttime temperatures, excessive shade, drought, excessive water and insects.

Horticulturist 323-2500 Ext. 181

Tomato production is usually best when only enough nitrogen is available during the first couple of months after planting to permit development of a large sturdy vine, but not enough to cause a soft type of growth. Once the plant has a heavy fruit load and the tomatoes begin to repen, the nitrogen requirements would be high.

Fruit sets best at nighttime temperature of around 62 degrees F. If there are extended periods where the nighttime temperature fails to rise above 55-58 degrees F. or to drop below 70 degrees F., fruit set may be affected. Excessive shade would tend to cause plants to be of poor quality and not set fruit.

Under low soil moisture conditions, when water-stress in the tomato plant is most likely to occur, flowers often fail to produce a mature fruit. Excessively wet conditions cause the plants to grow too rapidly and you do not get a good fruit extremely high and severe damage has

Various insects, both sucking and chewing, can and do feed on the ovules, flowers, and partially developed seeds and fruits. Blossom or young fruit may drop as a result. In this situation, control of such insects as thrips, grasshoppers, sphids, and spider mites should be helpful.

SPIDER MITES

Infestations of spider mites are a common occurrence in ornamentals. Frequently homeowners fail to recognize the problem until the mite population is occurred.

One of the greatest aids in effective mite control is to cemmence treatment before the mite population develops very heavy. Learn to recognize the mites and their injury. Mites are much easier to see with a magnifying glass. Plants should be examined frequently and treated promptly when an infestation appears. They are most often on the underside of and crotons. The presence of mites is indicated by fine webs around the plant and a scorched appearance. Mites are most prevalent during hot, dry weather.

There are several different miticides on the market. Sometimes continued use of one miticide over a period of time will result in a poor kill. This is because mites will build up a resistance to a particular chemical. A couple of the recommended miticides include Kelthane and Tedion.

Girl Caught Shoplifting Fears Information Leak

DEAR ABBY: My 19-year-old daughter has been acting very moody and strange these last weeks. Finally she told me what was bothering her. It seems she was caught shoplifting in one of the large department stores in the mall. She said her purse was searched and a lipstick was found (under $2) she hadn't paid for. She was asked to sign a waiver using her Social Security number, saying she wouldn't sue the store for detainment. The people at the store wrote down a physical description of her (height, weight, hair color, eyes, etc.), and she was told they would keep that information in the store. She is not allowed to enter that store for three years!

This is making her sick with worry. What will they do with that information, Abby? Will it be used against her if she applies for employment anywhere in town? She said they didn't call the police, but a security man from the store read her her "rights" and they questioned her in the manager's office. She's a good girl and has never been in any kind of trouble before. She is petrified to go job hunting for fear the store will circulate the paperwork on her. How serious is this? Does she have a criminal record now? Please rush your answer.

CONCERNED MOTHER DEAR MOTHER: Unless the policy of this store differs from those with which I am familiar, your daughter need not fear that this information will be circulated anywhere. She was only apprehended, detained and warned not to come into the store for three years.

Go to the store, talk to the manager and ask him the questions you've asked me. It will give both you and your daughter much peace of mind.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for three years, but we lived together for two years before that.

When people ask me how long I've been married, should I stick to the facts and say, "Three years," or should I explain that we lived together for two years first? Or doesn't the time we lived together count?

DEAR TRUTHFUL: The time you lived together counts, but not as a "marriage." When asked how long you've been married, say, "Three years." Period.

DEAR ABBY: Twenty-five years ago I married a great kicser - his best feature. For 23 years I put up with his tobacco clipping, chewing and smelly breath.

Two years ago I refused to kiss him unless he stopped chewing cigar clippings. He wouldn't stop, and I haven't kissed

Who should give in? Sex without a kiss is a bummer.

DEAR MISSING: You gave him a choice: tobacco chewing or your kisses. He chose the tobacco. Now the choice is yours: sex without a kiss, or sex with tobacco-flavored kisses. Choose whichever you hate the least.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. Write to Abby, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed

DEAR ABBY: Our son informed us that he has herpes. After he bragged to us that he had won the bed-hopping contest at college, we were not surprised. ("Bed-hopping" is a game the college boys play. The fellow who has hopped into the most beds in one week is the champion.) We are far from proud and feel sorry for the girls. Too bad they don't know how they are being used these days.

My reason for writing is to ask how contagious herpes is. Should we keep our son's towels separate? And how about his dishes and silverware? Also, is there any danger in kissing him? We are concerned for the rest of the family.

UPSET PARENTS DEAR UPSET: According to Dr. William Wickett, author of the excellent new book, "Herpes: Cause and Control" (Pinnacle Press), if lesions (sores) are apparent on your son's lips, do not kiss him. His towels should be washed separately, and if possible sundried. His dishes and silverware should be scalded. (The dishwasher turned to high heat will sterilize them.)

Longwood Man Charged In Burglaries

Ex-Newspaperman May Face Old Charge

A former Orlando Sentinel Star newpaper supervisor, arrested last Friday on burglary charges and suspected of committing 150 other burglaries in Seminole County, may have to face prosecution on an unrelated six-month-old grand theft

Bruce Robert Pedrick, 33, of 341 Pickering Court, Longwood, who was employed as the Sentinel newspaper's Altamonte Springs substation supervisor, was arrested Friday on charges of burglarizing that substation. But officials say a previous charge of grand theft against him may also go to court.

Prior to his arrest in December, 1981, Pedrick has no criminal record and had been referred to a pretrial intervention program. But program administrators say Pedrick will be taken off the program because of the latest arrest. Officials said Pedrick could have avoided criminal prosecution on the theft charge if he had successfully completed the oneyear program. Pedrick's arrest changed that.

Deputies arrested Pedrick after an 18-month investigation into burglaries of county residents' homes. Deputies said a man using a key broke into the newpaper substation on several occasions and gained access to a computer printout of subscribers temporarily cancelling their newspapers and going on vacation. The man would then burglarize the homes while the families were away on vacation.

Pedrick was arrested last Friday and charged with burglary of the substation. Deputies said further charges are pending against him in connection with about 150 other burglaries. Meanwhile, Pedrick was charged Dec. 9, 1981, with grand theft following his arrest near the Longwood Village Jewelers on State Road 434, Longwood. Deputies said a man entered the store, asked to look at cocktail rings then fled with a $3,500 diamond ring. The man was apprehended by the store owner and other passersby in front of a nearby store. Deputies arrived at the scene and arrested Pedrick

Investigators are still sorting through about three carloads of suspected stolen property, valued at about $26,000. discovered in Pedrick's home after his arrest and will notify property owners when to claim their items. Pedrick is currently free from the county jail on $5,000 bond, awaiting

Motorcycles: Fun, Safe, Economical

By DAVID FALSTAD Special To The Herald

Motorcyles, some folks say, are a lot like Howard Cosell. You either love 'em, or you hate 'em.

A lot of people are crazy about them, and others say you'd have to be crazy to get on one.

"We get it every day" says Chuck Morgan, a salesman at a Casselberry motorcycle shop.

"A man comes in wanting to buy a motorcycle and his wife won't let him because she thinks he's going to get killed on it,"Morgan says. "we try to stress that you can ride safely. You can survive on a motorcycle, otherwise there wouldn't be so many people buying them."

Well, suppose you're considering buying your first motorcycle. What next?

"It depends on what kind of riding you'll be doing—back and forth to work, taking trips from here to Miami, and so on," Morgan says. "We try to find a bike that specifically fits the needs of the rider. Don't buy more bike than you need, don't buy less. "If you're just going from Altamonte Springs to Orlando, you don't need a 1000cc motorcycle," Morgan says. "A 400 will do it a lot more economically."

Michael Drolet of an Altamonte Springs bike shop suggests a model "small in size, no bigger than a 400 or 450, without a lot of accessories. There's nothing more dangerous than a novice on a big bike, loaded with accessories, riding down the road with a passenger."

A bike too small to hold its own on the highway is also dangerous. "These people riding down U.S. Highway 17-92 on a moped are crazy," Drolet says.

Then there's the question of cost. Most motorcycle shops usually carry a selection of used bikes for the cost-conscious buyer.

"A good used bike for a beginner will run you $800-$1,000," estimates Wes Falley of another Seminole bike shop.

One factor that distinguishes a motorcycle from a car is the fact that bike owners typically do more to-it-yourself maintenance on their machines than a car owner does on his vehicle. "It's not that they require so much more, it's just that most people that buy bikes prefer to do a lot of their own maintenance because it's so simple to do," Falley says.

"The most important thing you need to remember for any internal combustion engine is to change the oil and filter regularly," Morgan adds. "It's cheap maintenance. It'll cost a few dollars and you'll save a whole lot."

Falley mentions as priorities "making sure everything's tight, the cables aren't frayed, the tire pressure, keeping the chain adjusted. Most of these can be done in a few-minutes."

While there is a certain degree of danger involved in two-wheeling, it isn't necessarily the fault of the rider or his bike. The most dangerous element of the motorcyclist's environment is often the cars with which he

"Very few accidents are the fault of the motorcyclist, it's usually the car," explains Lt. Jim Bishop of the Sanford Police Department.

Video rentals

A tape for your home video cassette player will run you in the neighborhood of $85. But there's a growing trend toward renting the expensive tapes, usually for $5 a day. Page 2.

Herald correspondent David Falstad gets set to take a test spin on a motorcycle, one of the

"A lot of them don't really respect the right of the motorcyclist to his space on the road. Some (motorcyclists) will ride too far to the right, and cars will pass in the same lane. It's illegal and improper passing."

Being aware of the hazards of the road equips the rider to defend himself against them. "You have to be twice as alert as you would be in a car," Bishop says. Falley adds, "It's relaxing to ride a bike because it takes your mind off everything buy what you're doing. You can't ride around most popular and economical forms of contemporary transportation.

in a daze on a motorcycle and get away with it. I think bikers make better automobile drivers because they become more aware, and it carries over when they get in the car."

Clothing and safety equipment also make a difference. "Dress properly," Drolett stresses. "Wear a helmet and a jacket. It helps. I was in a bad accident, at 70 miles per hour, and I got off with a bruise."

To the uninitiated, it closely resembles a game show. But in fact, it's real folks with real legal problems airing their dirty linen on television in People's Court? Page 5.

In the money

Bob Clark was typed as a director of semi-successful horror films until 'Porky's' came along, a film he wrote and directed and which will go down as one of this year's most profitable films. Page 8.

Was Hugh Beaumont In 'Mississippi Gambler'?

DEAR DICK: Here's another bet for you to settle. We were watching Tyrone Power in "Mississippi Gambler" and I thought I recognized Hugh Beaumont in a very small role as an architect. I could use the $10, so I hope you can find out. The very next day after we made the bet we read that Mr. Beaumont had died. PAUL FARMER, Albuquerque, N.M.

You win. Beaumont was in "Mississippi Gambler," which was released in 1953. The film also featured Piper Laurie, John McIntire and Dennis Weaver.

DEAR DICK: Who played Pvt. Benjamin when the series started? I say it was Goldie Hawn. My father says it wasn't. Who was it? MARK BOGDOL, Trenton, N.J.

DEAR DICK: Please settle a disagreement. Is the actor now playing in "The Greatest American Hero" the same actor who first started in the series last year? I believe William Katt is now playing Ralph, but didn't Bruce Davison play it first? BECKY GLENN, Nixa, Mo.

Lorna Patterson has always been the TV "Pvt. Benjamin" and William Katt (who does bear a resemblance to Bruce Davison) has always been "The Greatest American Hero." Goldie Hawn was Pvt. Benjamin in the feature film of the same name.

DEAR DICK: Brooke Shields is my idol and I keep writing to her over and over again, but I get no reply. I always think of a way of getting her attention but it never works. I really want to get in touch with her and get her to read my letters. I send her may pictures, cards, etc., but I have a felling they are all being thrown away. Please help. C. LE SEUR, Bloomington, Ind.

Save your money and your time. Do you have any idea how many people write to stars like Brooke? Thousands. She (like all the other stars) probably never sees 99 percent of her mail - it is answered either by a fan-mail service or a battery of secretaries. Forget trying to get the attention of a star. Pick out somebody more attainable, like Miss Bloomington or the belle of your high-school

DEAR DICK: Could you please tell me if Tom Drake and Don Taylor, from movies of many years ago, are the same person, or maybe twins? N. LITCHFIELD,

Two different men, totally unrelated and un-twinned. DEAR DICK: When I was in my teens, I always watched Loretta Young's program. Could you please tell me if she is still around and what years this program ran? CAROLYN INSLEY, Saginaw, Mich.

DEAR DICK: Please settle a bet I have regarding Art Carney. We want to know if he is still living and what he is doing now, E.F. GILLES, Saginaw, Mich.

DEAR DICK: Is Charles Farrell of "My Little Margie" still living? How old? JIM LASHUA, Jensen Beach, Fla. All three of the above are still above ground. Loretta Young's show ran from '53 to '61 on NBC. Farrell is a spry

DEAR DICK: I would like to know the name of the TV series that Rex Allen played in as a doctor driving a horse and buggy. My husband says it wasn't Allen, it was Joseph Cotten. But Cotten doesn't sing and Allen sang in that show. Could you give me an answer? Annabelle Ketcherside, DeSoto, Mo.

The only show I can find that Allen did was a '61 country music variety show on NBC called "Five Star Jubilee," with Tex Ritter (John's father) and Snooky Lanson and some others. Cotten never played a doctor as a regular series character, either, although he was in many anthology series (even hosted a couple himself) and it's possible he played a doctor in one of those.

... Motorcycles Are A Gas; They Don't Use Much

"We see quite a few people riding without shoes," Bishop says, and others ride "without any kind of eye protection. Wear a helmet. Period. Anyone concerned with their own welfare will wear one."

Some safety equipment is built into the motorcycle.

"The whole motorcycle itself has undergone a big change," Bishop says. "Most bikes today have disc brakes on them which are better than drum brakes. They're more responsive, they work better in the rain. Most of the major brands have gone to an anti-dive system on the front end where if you grab hold of the front brake, the bike will remain relatively level. Engines are more dependable, they've gone to all-electronic ignition on most models. The new headlights make it like daylight on a dark road. Tail lights are bigger, more visible... selfcancelling turn signals..."

The dealers themselves are a part of motorcycle safety. 'most of the shops in this area are pretty reputable,' Morgan says, "especially with a new person. Dealers will not alter machines unless the parts fit Department of Transportation standards.

"Someone comes to me, they've never ridden, before I sell them a motorcycle I'll be more than happy to give them a few tips on riding safety," he says.

"If I'm going to teach someone how to ride, I like to get them in a big parking lot. That way they can feel confident... (I can) teach them a few things like not to ride down the center of the road where the oil is, not to take anything for granted, keep your eyes open."

"It's a free feeling, cheap thrill, whatever you want to call it," Drolet says. "It's relaxing. I like the freedom that you have," Morgan adds. "I've always like riding in convertibles, and to me, a motorcycle is like the ultimate

"Riding to work, you can look at the people in the cars, you wonder what they're thinking. They've got a frown on their face, most of the time you look at a guy on a motorcycle, he's just grinning. It's almost a sensual thing, ... it's a oneness with the bike."

Falley also enjoys "the maneuverability, not being confined, it's easier to get around in traffic."

But don't get cocky. "The main thing is to have common sense," Falley says. "Exercise common judgment, and

Judgment Day In 'People's Court'

BY DAVID HANDLER

This is Minn Rammer. advises host Don Llewelyn, as a heavyset woman with had teeth and a KiMart dress shoves her way through the double doors, unrilly kid in tow "She claims her landlord owes her $750 in back rent as well as two chickens "

Yes, it's "The Case of the Missing Chickens," And if you're one of the ununitiated, we've just stepped inside that pecular American institution known as The People's Court "

It's hard to come up with a label for this syndicated halfhour television outing I'm tempted to call it a game show, seeing as how the one show it most reminds me of is Family Fend " But it seems wrong to call the U.S. judicial process a "game," even though this show comes awfully close to turning it

One thing I will call it is a hoot - the campiest deadpan fun around since.

Dragnet" went off the air What The People's Court' does is take real life plaintiffs and defendants and retired real-life judge. Joseph Wapner, who makes my personal things there a 'ruling' based on the general principles ben California law

"The participants, plains our courtside host Llevelyn, uncrophone in hand, "are real people who have agreed to drop their charges and have their case heard in this forum '

Does the loser fall through a trapdoor into a shark-filled tank" Not quite. We're infermed that the awarded judgment is deducted from a pecial fund for the contestants all don't know what else to call them. The winner get the judgment sum. Then both winner and loser equally divide whatever's left over

Sure sounds like a game show, doesn't it'

But let's get back to Minn. Rammer She's accusing her landlord of cheating her out of a month's rent, her cleaning deposit and her, isear-old son's two pet chickens She was in the process of moving out, she .says, and the landlord sort of rushed the process

He took the home back.

plaintiff, while I still high my son, no chickens Responds the landlord. defendant a Mr. Lopez - 1 didn't take no hickens, your

Judge Wapner, ever intent on getting to the bottom or matters, asks for the 4-yearold's version of the story

They stole 'em," the tyke testifies. You know," observes Judge Wapner, 11 used to raise chickens myself when I was a little Judge Vanuer frequently offers much pertinent personat servations

When he beard enough we break for a commercial while he goes to his chambers to make a verdict. When we come back, bost Flewelyn. shares with us his sense of which litigant the packed courtroom favors in this case, it doesn't look too good. for Mr. Lopez

Then the judge returns A compremise. She doesn't get the rent or deposit back, but she does get $115

And I rule for "The People's Court," Good, sick

4:30 (4) NBC NEWS OVERNIGHT More Broadway Fare:

Broadway has become the source for many productions you see now on the premium pay-cable services. But the insistence on taping plays as they are performed on stage before an audience doesn'talways work. A play's "bigness" must be honed down for the intimacy of TV Some productions capture the intended feeling of being in the theater - but give you the impression you're watching from the back row of the hall.

Not so with the Entertainment Channel's version of "Piaf" which premiers Aug I and plays throughout the month Jane Lapotaire, who won a 1981 Tony for her Broadway portrayal of the title role, exudes so much energy that the small screen can barely contain her; but director Gary Halvorsen keeps so tight a frame on her that every nuance is apparent, and we aren't left wishing we could've seen "Piaf" live.

Written by Pam Geins, the play is a series of fast-paced vignettes based on the tragic life of French singer Edith Piaf, who began her career in the gutter and ended in a drug addict, an alcoholic and a victim of cancer "Piaf" is vulgar every other sentence Ms. Lapotaire speaks seems to contain a fourletter word - but one cannot help but sympathize with the pathetic, terminally lonely herome, who was best known for moving audiences totears when she sang.

Ms. Lapotaire wears a drab black dress throughout the entire play - indeed, since she's on stage practically every minute, there's no time for her to change. Symbolically, it seems she is in a constant state of mourning - mourning, perhaps, the loss of her lover, or of her own identity, since she is always being

Sedaka's Bio
