MAP SHOWS ROUTE TAKEN BY CONVICTED FORGER USING MISSING GIRL'S CAR

FBI Search Under Way For Missing Sanford Girl

The seemingly routine circuit court sentencing of a Sanford man Tuesday in a forgery case brought to light a five-month FBI search for a missing girl, an alleged extortion attempt and a bizarre 10,000-mile flight in which the forger criss-crossed the North American continent three times in a month.

Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor sentenced Wayne Medor, 27, of 1109 Cornell Dr., to 18 months in prison plus 42 months probation for his guilty plea to uttering forged check-account tickets for tools and auto parts valued at $125.

Officials said Medor opened a charge account last May at a Sanford auto parts store in the name of Shoemaker Construction Co. of Sanford. The tools and parts were obtained by using the "fictitious signature" of "P.J. Shoemaker."

Medor told the court Tuesday that in mid-August he left Sanford with 18-year-old Carol Roberts in her yellow 1974 Corvette. Somewhere in Arizona they argued, he said, and Miss Roberts told him to take the auto and leave her. Medor said he last saw Miss Roberts standing by her luggage beside a desert highway.

Sansui police say Miss Roberts was last seen here about Aug. 15 and her mother, who has since moved from this area, officially reported her missing on Sept. 2 from an apartment at Masters Cove where she had lived with friends.

Lt. William Lyons said the FBI entered the case on Sept. 7 when Miss Roberts' mother reported a telephone call from an unidentified man saying, "If you want to see Carol alive, you'd better come up with $10,000."

Lyons said investigators have been unable to substantiate the telephone call and there were no further reported contacts made by the mystery caller.

"So far, we still have no word on her (Miss Roberts) whereabouts," Lyons said today.

Medor said he and Miss Roberts had planned to motor to Oregon. Tuesday he related what Judge McGregor termed "a fantastic tale" of driving 10,000 miles over the United States and Canada in the yellow sports car before being arrested for speeding on the Trans-Canada highway by a Medicine Hat, Alberta, Canada, policeman.

Canadian authorities discovered the Corvette was Miss Roberts' object of a nationwide search, and questioned Medor. He was turned over to FBI agents who lodged him in a Montana jail where Lyons picked him up in early October and returned him to face the local forgery charges.

The FBI took some of Medor's stained clothing, his father told Judge McGregor Tuesday, and later agents notified the Medors that laboratory tests on the stains showed they were coffee, not blood.

Medor says Canadian authorities still have some other clothing items. He said he thinks Miss Roberts' mother recovered the yellow Corvette from Canadian officials.

During late August and early September, Medor said he drove the auto from Florida to Texas, Arizona, California, Oregon and Montana and then across the northern U.S. to Maine where he visited with relatives.

He denied using anybody's credit cards and claimed he bought gasoline and food with several hundred dollars he had with him.

He also claims to have made some money during the trip. See MISSING, Page 2-A.

Sanford, County Talk Rate Cut On Landfill

By MARK WEINBERG
Herald Staff Writer

A possible lowering of rates for Sanford's use of the Seminole county landfill will be the subject of a meeting Thursday between city and county officials.

City Manager W.E. Knowles said this morning that County Planner Bill Kercher Tuesday afternoon invited him to discuss the rate situation.

The city has been using county landfill facilities since Dec. 21 and plans its own landfill at the corner of SR-64 and Oregon Avenue.

The city commission voted Monday night to delay consideration of the landfill until its Feb. 14 meeting.

The city's plan has run into considerable opposition from residents near the city's proposed 85-acre site.

Kercher told Knowles by phone that the present $5.75-per-ton county rate might be reduced to $3.50 if the city brought refuse to the landfill, Knowles said. Currently the county requires garbage be dumped at a transfer station and charges the city $31 per ton whether or not the garbage truck is full.

"The city had asked the county for a reconsideration of the rates last November, Knowles said. "I asked myself whether (the question of partial loads) they said yes, they would consider it."

Knowles had also asked in November if the city could reduce its rate by trucking garbage directly to the county's landfill at the former Ocoala Airport.

"We discussed using scales to weigh the garbage and markings on trucks to determine partial loads. It's a question of what will be feasible," the city manager said.

Presently scales exist at the State Farmers Market and at Chase and Company.

Knowles said one way to measure partial garbage loads would be through markings on garbage truck packing runs. "A man at the county landfill could read the markings on the truck and determine how much of a load there is."

In the 1975-76 fiscal year the city-operated landfill near the Sanford Airport cost $492,156 to operate but it would have cost to use the county's landfill, Knowles stated in a Monday report to the city commission.

The cost of the land for the city's proposed landfill is $320,437.50.

"Add to this, engineering and site preparation and it can be seen that the cost differential between county billing and city operating costs can pay for the... start-up costs in less than four years time. The land would be an asset that could be sold at an appreciated value or held. It would be a clear profit," the report said.

The city has operated a landfill since 1953.

"We urged (the county) to start a regional landfill, and we were the first to join the county" when it opened the landfill in 1971, Knowles said.

"We were their mainstay economically. The rates were reasonable. As others began to join, they (the county) raised the rates to where it was economically unfeasible for us to participate," the city manager said this morning.

"This is what forced us into our own operation for the past several years... We still feel the regional concept is the only ultimate answer, but the county's rates have not made it economically feasible," Knowles said.

A citizen group calling itself the "6-A Environmental Action Association," composed of 31 landowners near the city-proposed landfill site, was formed last week.

The group, represented by Orlando attorney Thom Rumberger at Monday's city commission meeting, challenged the city's contention that a city-operated landfill would be cheaper than using the county's facility.

"The group is circulating petitions asking the city 'to hold public hearings and to otherwise carefully consider the economic, public health and environmental safety and health impact' of the proposed landfill."

He didn't get one. Neither did Beckwith who, incidentally, is hoping mad over the entire issue because Beckwith maintains his employees need access to the courthouse after normal working hours and on weekends.

Key Caper: Latest Chapter

By ED PRICKETT
Herald Staff Writer

At first the issue prompted a circuit judge to vow to hold court on the lawn in front of the courthouse.

Then it sparked a flurry of requests for keys to changed locks on courthouse doors.

Finally, Seminole's "Great Key Caper" has prompted a memorandum from a top-ranking courthouse official for a key ring.

Believe it or not that's what Circuit Court Clerk Art Beckwith Jr. requested in a Jan. 24 tongue-in-cheek memorandum to County Commissioner Henry Kwiatkowski.

"Since I am unable to get a key at this time, I just thought that it might be better to get a key ring first.

"First things first, you know," the memo states.

"If you do have a spare key ring," Beckwith writes, "I'd like to have one - this is a good starter."

"Your prompt attention to this request will be sincerely appreciated - just in case a key comes strolling along, I'll at least have a place for it."

Beckwith's memo is in response to statements printed in last Sunday's Ear column.

The Ear quoted Kwiatkowski as saying courthouse officials may request key rings, not keys, from Democrats on the Board of County Commissioners - Kwiatkowski and Bob French.

For the keys to the key rings, however, Kwiatkowski said applicants should address themselves to Republican commissioners - notably John Kimbrough, the appointed courthouse custodian.

It was Kimbrough who ordered the locks changed last June. And it's Kimbrough who adamantly refuses to issue any new keys to certain elected officials - other than commissioners.

When locks were changed, Kimbrough said about 200 keys to courthouses doors were in the hands of Seminole County lawmakers - and others. So, he cut that number back - way back.

Kimbrough's initial move prompted Circuit Judge Donald Lattin - half in jest, to remark he would hold court on the lawn in front of the courthouse - if he wasn't issued a dose opener.

He didn't get one. Neither did Beckwith who, incidentally, is hoping mad over the entire issue because Beckwith maintains his employees need access to the courthouse after normal working hours and on weekends.

Altamonte Approves Plans For Public Safety Complex

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

The 90-day deadline to begin construction on the proposed two-story facility.

According to federal regulations, construction of the joint police and fire department structure must be under way by March 31 to qualify for the $1.25 million grant approved by the Economic Development Administration (EDA) as part of the federal public works program.

The architects said construction documents are to be 50 percent completed by Feb. 15 and completed by Feb. 24.

Construction bids are to be received by the city on March 24 with construction to begin on March 28.

The "L-shaped" designed structure is to be built on a tract adjacent to the city hall parking lot with the rear of the building facing SR 436 and the entrance way toward the parking lot and the city hall.

The foundation of the structure is to be designed to permit the addition of more stories in the future.

The city is hopeful the building will be completed for occupancy at Christmas time.

The old city hall - now being used as a police station - and the old fire station, both facing SR 437, are to be razed to provide employee parking space after the public safety building construction is completed.

A section of the new structure will house the administrative functions of the fire department, the city's east side fire station, and the entire police department.

The police department section will include five holding cells - two for men, two for women and one for special purposes.

Architects told commissioners Tuesday night that although the cells were originally designed for holding prisoners only for short periods, the interior of the structure had to be redesigned to relocate them next to the exterior walls to meet state requirements.

The architect said since a grant was not approved for the proposed Seminole County jail complex planned to be constructed at Five Points, the Altamonte Springs cells will meet state requirements for holding prisoners overnight.

In other business, commissioners:

- Adopted an emergency ordinance extending for 90 days, while a permanent ordinance is being prepared and passed, a law requiring site review of plans for all construction in the city excepting single family homes.
- Noted receipt of refusal from EDA of the city's requested $225,000 grant for a sewage pumping station.

Commissioner George Perkins from city duties during an extended hospitalization. According to the city charter, any commissioner absent from four consecutive city meetings, without such a resolution, forfeits his office.

Approved a resolution requesting state-federal funding for joint comprehensive planning by the city and county governments.

Noted receipt of refusal from EDA of the city's requested $225,000 grant for a sewage pumping station.

Adopted a resolution excusing his four-week absence of Commissioner Perkins from city duties during an extended hospitalization. According to the city charter, any commissioner absent from four consecutive city meetings, without such a resolution, forfeits his office.

Freeing Energy Futile Exercise

The energy problem gets worse, rather than better, with our dependence upon the oil cartel ever growing. Nor has Congress, for all its members' pious words of concern about the country's economy, abandoned its ruinous intentions of controlling and thereby crippling our own energy industries.

For instance, despite a 68 per cent increase in oil imports since the 1973 OPEC embargo. Congress continues to impede domestic oil development and the expansion of other methods of producing critically needed energy.

Addressing the problem in Chicago before a gathering of members of the Agricultural and Industrial Manufacturers Association, James M. Patterson, an executive for Standard Oil Co. (Indiana) challenged the nation's highest lawmaking body "to abandon its defiance of economic logic and acknowledge that private enterprise, rather than government regulations and bureaucratic benevolence, has given this nation the world's most successful economy" and highest standard of living ever known.

For, if Congress fails to free the energy industries of crippling restrictions and "continues, as it has with depressing regularity, to take the wrong turn at crucial crossroads of decision on energy matters," Patterson said, "the future of the energy industry, as well as the energy consumer, is in jeopardy."

Added to "the negative impact of arbitrary, confusing and often counterproductive legislation," the Standard executive emphasized, is Congress' evident but irrational pre-occupation with dismantling the highly efficient integrated oil companies, "and preventing them from engaging in more than one energy development activity."

It is vital, Patterson warned, that the nation return to making basic energy decisions in the free market place, rather than in the freedom-destroying and economy stultifying political arena. "Only then can we proceed with the domestic development of oil and gas, coal and nuclear power and thus decrease our dependence on insecure foreign sources."

Citing less regulated American agriculture as "working proof" that the right incentives — private land ownership, reasonable expectation of profit in the competitive market and reduced government interference — can drive away the specter of energy shortages. Patterson pointed out in conclusion that, "Like American agriculture, the U.S. oil and gas industry is highly competitive and flexible. It, too, has the expertise and know-how to meet rising demand — if allowed to do so."

We hope the 95th Congress will abandon the prevailing attitude that "the law of supply and demand no longer works." Long special laws with crippling artificial restraints of the economy should convince even slow-to-learn politicians that it is the only thing that does work.

Taste Is Bitter

Coffee is to the average American what oil is to the average machine, and the current high price of the bean is affecting the consumer in somewhat the same manner as the shortage of oil in 1973 affected industrial machinery.

The heather is affire, as they say when popular sentiment goes deep into the grass roots. In Britain some restaurateurs have posted signs reading "No coffee, drink tea" — even though the price of tea has risen faster than that of coffee.

In the United States, a coalition of consumer groups has organized a campaign to reduce consumption by one third. The coalition, unconvinced that the rise in coffee prices is the result of frost in Brazil, drought in Central America or civil war in Angola, hopes to force the present $3 price of coffee to $2.

And there's a rumbling in Congress over export taxes by foreign nations that might be driving the price of coffee up, and even talk that coffee growers are manipulating prices deliberately.

We predict that the great coffee crisis of 1977 will be over long before Congress can shift into second gear. A few years ago a consumer rebellion drove down the price of beef when it soared beyond reason. More recently the sugar industry backed down when it caught the wrath of the scorned consumers. And today, coffee prices are unstable because of the international outrage over prices.

Hardship Of Cold Has Good Points

It's an ill wind that blows nobody any good, and also a lousy winter that doesn't have some positive results. And this winter is turning out to be one of the worst (or best) in years in most parts of the country.

For one thing, it has blown in good news for a business that has its ups and downs in more ways than one.

The Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau, for example, reports that with the skiing season barely two months old, the Pennsylvania resorts are enjoying a 50 per cent increase over last year's patronage. Not only has sustained cold enabled full use of snowmaking equipment but Mother Nature has helped out with abundant natural snowfall.

Things are similarly booming in ski areas in New England and the Midwest, and at long last in the West, which for a while was virtually snow-starved.

But what about nonskaters? "Crime and disturbed psychiatric behavior go down, and morale goes up, in cold weather," says Dr. John Brantner, professor of health care and psychology at the University of Minnesota.

It's not just that the cold keeps the muggers, or their victims, off the streets. Severe weather is a "shared hardship phenomenon," he says, that seems to have a psychologically bracing effect on people.

But perhaps the greatest benefit borne in by this winter's winds would be the realization by Americans that there really is an energy crisis. The natural gas people, especially, have been threatening us with a cold winter ever since the oil embargo, and we've finally got it.

In the wake of record low temperatures, reports have multiplied of school closings, plant shutdowns or working day curtailments in efforts to conserve dwindling supplies of gas.

Natural gas supplies are so tight and the weather so cold even in the South that in an emotion-packed hearing held in Washington the other day by the Federal Power Commission, North Carolina Gov. James B. Hunt Jr., warned that his state's "very economic survival" and "the health and welfare of the people" depended upon emergency gas supplies. Congressmen from South Carolina and Maryland seconded his appeal.

The FPC had scheduled the hearing in response to a petition by the Houston Pipeline Co. for permission to make emergency sales to the East Coast. The permission was granted. Such sales will not be governed by price controls on natural gas, which the energy industry has been complaining for years are unreasonably low and which, like controls on oil, are discouraging it from prospecting for new supplies.

Not everyone buys the industry's arguments, but few of us can avoid buying its products. Thus Old Man Winter may do more to dispel our wishful thinking about energy than any amount of statistics on production and consumption.

Nuclear Plant Being Built On Earth Fault

WASHINGTON — It started in the quiet darkness before dawn. Two small leaks, seemingly insignificant, trickled down the canyon wall near the north end of the great earth-filled Teton Dam.

But three minutes before noon on the fearful Sunday, June 5, 1976, the 30-story dam split open, and a massive wall of water roared over the peaceful Idaho countryside. Miraculously, only 14 people died from the flood's ravages. But over a billion dollars worth of Idaho real estate was washed away. Thousands were left homeless.

Subsequent investigations indicated that the dam should not have been built at all. For the Bureau of Reclamation knew, long before a billion gallons of water backed up behind the dam, that it was a risky project. The geology was tricky, the engineering dubious. But unfortunately, Washington was more sensitive to the lobbying for the dam than to the scientific warnings against it. And so the government built a monster called Teton.

Now a worse disaster may be in the making on the California coast. A nuclear power plant is nearing completion near Diablo Canyon, just three miles from an earthquake line called Houghli Fault.

The Houghli Fault hadn't been discovered when the government issued the construction permit in 1968. But several eminent geologists warned that more care should be taken to locate possible faults in that earthquake-prone area.

Timothy Dooley, the leprechaun who took up residence in Seminole last year, showed up at my house recently and he was "in to be fixed."

"Where in the world have you been?" I asked the 300-year-old refugee from County Killarney.

"In the Bahamas, of course, where I was takin' a wee vacation and indulgin' in a bit of wagers," Tim turned. "But do you know what happened?"

"No, but I have a feeling you're going to tell me," I said.

"It snowed on me, that's what happened! I've never heard of such a thing in all me born days. You can imagine my surprise and consternation at such a development," Tim said.

"You should have been here," I told him. "Seminole County looked like something out of an old Currier & Ives engraving."

"Tsk, tsk. And we Floridians pride ourselves on having sunshine the year 'round," said the strangest Floridian of all.

"But listen, I have an idea who is behind all this despicable cold weather we've been having," Tim continued. "Are ye ready for this?"

"I don't think so, but go ahead."

"It's the Rooneys."

"The Rooneys? In the Bahamas, of course, where I was takin' a wee vacation and indulgin' in a bit of wagers," Tim turned. "But do you know what happened?"

"No, but I have a feeling you're going to tell me," I said.

"It snowed on me, that's what happened! I've never heard of such a thing in all me born days. You can imagine my surprise and consternation at such a development," Tim said.

Ford Budget A Political Document

WASHINGTON — No rhetoric — Mr. Ford was dead serious when he said he intends to be the leader of the Republican Party in the years just ahead.

It is now clear he spent his last two months in office laying the groundwork for a running GOP challenge to President Carter these next four years, as well as an issue to challenge against the Democratic Congress.

The challenges lie barefaced in the 1978 Ford budget, with a vigor I've seen only once before as a Ford watcher — his acceptance speech at the GOP nomination convention in Kansas City.

It is not only that Mr. Ford lists 101 Congressionally voted programs he would cut or eliminate as wasteful, ineffective, redundant, not reaching those they're intended to serve.

Or that Mr. Ford challenges the need for ever bigger government — proposing that a larger share of national income go to individuals. Permanently. As a matter of principle.

Or that he preempts President Carter's proposed reforms in a series of program consolidations and simplifications most of which take power from the federal government and give it to states and localities.

Or that he preempts Carter's anti-waste platform with a shotgun load of programs which would throw more resources into those areas where through fraud or government bungling get a free ride on assistance programs.

In short, this is a political document. More so even than most budgets.

Significantly, Mr. Ford lays down a direct challenge to some of the Democratic Congressional majority's most cherishedcepts.

His attack on unemployment programs passed by this majority will give the flavor of this extraordinary document.

Public service programs to relieve unemployment, says Ford, tend to provide only limited numbers of jobs at very high cost. The average service job, with a six month turnover, costs $8,000 a year. The average subsidized public work job may cost from $10,000 to $25,000 — some in the $40,000-a-year range. By contrast, the average per-man cost of unemployment compensation is $1,700.

Worse yet, states and cities tend to take federal money, and either substitute federal financing for jobs they'd fund themselves, spend the funds on projects of bottom of the barrel priority or on oversized wasteful programs.

Laws aimed at encouraging private industry to take up employment of target groups have fostered on the government's inability to avoid substantial windfall profit without creating massive new federal bureaucracy to police the system.

The one experience to date, says Mr. Ford — the WIN tax credit — suggests that such incentives have little effect when targeted to groups different from those that employers normally hire.

It is true that the warnings reached most Idaho residents in time for them to escape the flood. For this, the dam builders deserve credit: thousands might have been drowned. Stamm assured us that he and his agency are "extremely sensitive" to the Teton Dam disaster. But if former measures had been taken against the responsible bureaucrats, the NRC might be a little less willing to issue an operating permit to a nuclear plant on the rim of an earthquake fault.

KOREAN DRUG RING — Intelligence reports indicate that North Korea is so desperately short of hard currency that it is directing a worldwide drug ring to raise money. North Korean diplomats in the Scandinavian countries have been ousted for their drug and black-market dealings. But the intelligence reports suggest they were merely part of a worldwide operation directed by the North Korean government itself.

The disgraced diplomats were hastily hustled off to Moscow. But intelligence reports say they have now been shipped back to Pyongyang. There were reports, in fact, that the North Koreans were smuggling drugs to their Communist comrades behind the Iron Curtain.

Footnote: Intelligence reports claimed that North Korean agents have turned up mysteriously in Mexico and Africa.

It's Your Responsibility

The word "meditation" usually brings to mind a picture of bearded young men and string-haired women castled sprawled around in an atmosphere of bleak room and total silence.

The mature adult who decides to learn "real" meditation may first get difficulty congealing the appropriate barriers and localizing an opportunity. Still, in almost every town there are rules which may be followed which simplify such a quest.

Many of the continuing education courses sponsored by area colleges and universities offer both daytime and evening courses in the far eastern disciplines. They often present an emphasis on adopting these techniques to fit the less sedate American schedule.

Approach such a course as you would anything else which has captured your interest. Make an appointment with the instructor. When you meet with him leave your mind fixed clearly on what is in you wish to obtain through meditation. A better understanding of yourself, for one thing. A new ability to relate to the world both within and without yourself.

An increased awareness of opportunities in your life on both material and spiritual levels is also a benefit you can expect. As you begin to meditate you can expect an increase in insight that can be very valuable on the job, in your personal relationships and in your ability to understand yourself.

You can also expect a marked increase in what the Navy calls "unflappability" — the ability to cope with situations of all sorts under every kind of condition.

Hopefully you will also gain a new understanding and appreciation of the "world out there," its places, conditions, and most of all its people.

Find them by combing neighborhood book stores. Find out which ones will not only sell you several volumes on meditation but seem able to discuss the subject in detail with you.

Often you will find a bulletin board in some corner of the shop. Tacked to it may be an assessment of announcements on interesting happenings.

The designations given to meditation groups are a reasonably stable clue to the sort of philosophy they will offer. You may note announcements for Transcendental Meditation, Zen or other techniques for seeking enlightenment.

Most are deeply seated in the Orient, offering philosophy as a prerequisite to technique. Since meditation usually requires a change in attitudes and lifestyles you must give serious thought to the philosophy they represent. Changes that may be major and may result in a change in either your goals or your attitude toward the course.

What can you expect to gain from meditation: a better understanding of yourself, for one thing. A new ability to relate to the world both within and without yourself.

An increased awareness of opportunities in your life on both material and spiritual levels is also a benefit you can expect. As you begin to meditate you can expect an increase in insight that can be very valuable on the job, in your personal relationships and in your ability to understand yourself.

You can also expect a marked increase in what the Navy calls "unflappability" — the ability to cope with situations of all sorts under every kind of condition.

Hopefully you will also gain a new understanding and appreciation of the "world out there," its places, conditions, and most of all its people.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Mondale Visits Wall; Berlin Guards Stare

BERLIN (AP) — Vice President Walter F. Mondale paid a symbolic visit to the Berlin wall today and said, "We can only pray that progress will see the day when this kind of wall will disappear."

Mondale mounted the stand at the Brandenburg Gate to look over the wall 50 feet away into the eastern half of the divided city.

Two East German guards stared back through the gray mist at the vice president, his aides and West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher.

Madrid Quiet In Strike

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Thousands of workers struck today in protest against rightist attacks on leftists, but the government said the streets of Madrid were free of demonstrators for the first time in four days.

Faced with Spain's worst crisis since the death of dictator Francisco Franco 14 months ago, Premier Adolfo Suarez canceled a trip to the Middle East because of the tension. The strike was expected to spread as workers held meetings in banks, offices and factories to vote on a general strike call.

Sex Raids Revealed

MONTREAL (AP) — Testimony about a prostitution ring that may have netted its operators as much as $8 million a year was heard Tuesday by the Quebec Police Commission Inquiry into organized crime.

A member of the Montreal police morality squad told the commission about a squad raid last October on 17 massage parlors and photo studios which allegedly serve as fronts for bawdy houses.

Canada Firm Gets State Job

MONTREAL (AP) — The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has awarded a contract to Baymont Engineering Co. to design aircraft corrosion control and run-up facilities for a Florida airbase.

In a statement, the company said the corrosion control facility will be used for cleaning, corrosion control and painting aircraft at MacDill Air Force Base in Tampa.

Funeral Directors Redefine 'Casket'

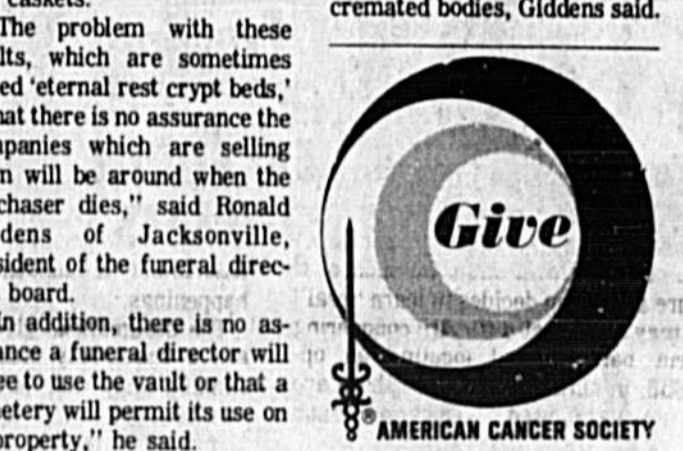

JACKSONVILLE (AP) — In funerals using the vaults, casket-like structures are used in the services and taken to the cemetery but are returned to the company for reuse when the body is buried in the vault.

The new rule defines a casket as "any unit which constitutes the primary receptacle of human remains" and says a casket can be sold only by a state-licensed funeral director.

The rule does permit cemeteries and crematoriums to continue selling urns for cremated bodies, Gliddens said.

"The problem with these vaults, which are sometimes called 'sternal rest caskets' is that there is no assurance the companies which are selling them will be around when the purchaser dies," said Ronald Gliddens of Jacksonville, president of the funeral directors board.

"In addition, there is no assurance a funeral director will agree to use the vault or that a cemetery will permit its use on its property," he said.

CITY OF SANFORD ACTS IN SECRET

CITY TAXPAYERS BEING "TAKEN TO CLEANERS" ON QUESTIONABLE GARBAGE LANDFILL DEAL

FACTS

NO SUNSHINE: City signed contract for land with no public hearings — no notice to adjacent property owners, in or out of city limits — no environmental safety and health impact studies. No official notice has been given anybody YET.

APPRAISALS AFTER CONTRACT: The appraisals required for public hearings were delivered after the contract was signed on Jan. 7th and Jan. 10th.

GARBAGE RATES TO GO UP, UP: Old garbage landfill used obsolete methods no longer acceptable to state and federal environmental agencies. Secret notes in City Manager's files show rates will have to go up at least $1.10 per month for Sanford's 6,450 customers to cover costs of new equipment, land preparation, fencing, etc. even if "revenue sharing" (which is still your tax dollars) will cover land purchase.

SANFORD WATER ENDANGERED: The proposed garbage landfill is directly across the road from the city well fields along the west border of the Mayfair Golf Course.

TRICK ZONING: To avoid publicity on the land fill or anything else it has in mind, City is trying to change R1-AA zoning, the highest and best zoning, to allow any "federal, state, county or city owned or operated buildings and uses."

QUICK AND QUIET: Sanford closed old airport landfill Dec. 13, 1976; selected this new site Dec. 28, signed contract to buy January 6, 1977 — all in three week's time. First public article on Jan. 12 — after the contract was already signed!

OVERPRICED LAND: Acres under contract for $3,750,000. City paid $320,437.50. City admits over half the land is unusable, so the 40 usable acres will cost $7,897.31 acre. 1976 tax assessed valuation was $122,600 at 100 pct. valuation.

LOCATION OF PROPOSED GARBAGE LANDFILL: One-half mile from Ivywildside Elementary. No consideration given to rats, wild animals, stray dogs and cats, odor, etc. so near the school. Nearby neighborhoods include:

SANFORD IS THE ONLY MUNICIPALITY IN SEMINOLE COUNTY NOT USING COUNTY LANDFILL: Private garbage collectors use County landfill and make a profit doing it for less than $5 per month. Sanford can use the County dump on pay-as-you-go basis with no capital investment for land, machinery etc.

NEXT PROBLEM ON CITY AGENDA:

Where to get rid of millions of gallons of sewer effluent.

State has already set June, 1977 deadline to stop dumping in Lake Monroe.

QUESTIONS

Are the Sanford taxpayers the victims of the lack of cooperation between City government and the county?

If we can't trust our local government, closest to the people, what can we expect from the Federal and State governments?

Who is in the blind trust that's making this windfall profit at the taxpayer's expense?

Why were all these transactions so cleverly buried to slip by public attention?

Is it accidental that this is being done just after the city elections when the Commission thinks it is safe for two years?

Who is making City policy: the elected City Commission or the salaried City Manager? Has the City Manager sold the City Commission a bill of goods?

Isn't there a moral obligation, if not a legal one, to notify property owners of a drastic change in land use by a government body?

ARE THE PEOPLE GOING TO STAND FOR THIS?

The Man Who Coins (A)ppraise

JOHN HOGSETT (LEFT) WITH HOWARD JOHNSON

By HOBYN KRAW
Herald Correspondent

John Hogsett saw the field buyer's ad in The Evening Herald. He gathered his silver coins and pocket watches and left for Room 108, Holiday Inn, Sanford.

He was greeted by Howard Johnson, who appraised the watches Hogsett's grandfather had owned. And he bought Hogsett's coins.

"I figured I might as well convert them into a fishing rod," explained Hogsett.

Eselle Ashley, owner of a Sanford barber shop, read Johnson's ad and she, too, gathered her coins — plus gold earrings — and headed for the motel with her father, J.M. Green.

Green soon sold a gold ring to Johnson — it was the last of a group of rings he owned, he explained, and the others having been stolen. So he decided to turn the last one into cash.

Johnson told Ashley she needed the money and that he would be back "with whatever else they could find."

"That's all I have, but my wife may have some fillings in her teeth," said K.E. Baldwin of Deltona after selling Johnson a coin collection for more than $400.

Roy Henricks didn't know if his French coins he owned, he explained, and he read the ad and decided to find out. He brought his coins to Johnson. Johnson told Henricks he also was interested in pocket watches and gold rings. Henricks reached for his wedding ring, as his wife finished.

Henricks laughed and didn't remove it, but told Johnson he had some old pocket watches at home.

"I'll be back," he promised.

This was a typical day in the life of Howard Johnson, who criss-crosses the country buying such items.

"What does he do with them? How does he sell them? I know who wants money and that's what we're looking for," he explains.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Consumers Insist FPL Be Denied Rate Hike

MIAMI (AP) — Angry consumers say Florida Power & Light Co. should consider rate reform instead of asking the Public Service Commission to approve a $349-million rate increase.

"I think the PSC should deny the rate increase completely until it gets together with FPL to investigate the possibility of rate reform," Walter Dartland, Dade County consumer advocate, told a hearing Tuesday on FPL's rate hike request.

The commission has been holding hearings throughout the area on the rate hike request.

Drug Trial Witness Called

JACKSONVILLE (AP) — A Gainesville antique buyer has been ordered to be available as a witness in the marijuana conspiracy trial of former Circuit Judge Samuel S. Smith of Lake City and a bulldozer from Indianapolis, and his flight instructor, Dan Verboncourt, 40, of Fort Myers.

Frank Northrup, 66, a bookkeeper at B&W Golf Carts, was also called.

3 Die In Plane Crash

FORT MYERS (AP) — An employe of a golf cart store and two men in a twin-engine plane were killed when the aircraft crashed into a showroom and exploded.

The victims in the Tuesday crash were identified as pilot Buck Shaw, a bulldozer from Indianapolis, and his flight instructor, Dan Verboncourt, 40, of Fort Myers.

Frank Northrup, 66, a bookkeeper at B&W Golf Carts, was also killed.

Coe Appointment Delayed

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Harry L. Coe will have to wait until next week to find out if he'll get the state revenue director's post despite Secretary of State Bruce Smathers' attempts to derail the veteran official.

The cabinet postponed action Tuesday on the appointment because Agriculture Commissioner Doyle Conner was absent.

State Trade Center Urged

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Florida should build its own World Trade Center to help draw foreign business to the state, says Sen. George Firestone.

"Florida can be the showcase for the thousands of products needed by a potential market of 215 million to the north and 200 million people to the south," Firestone said Tuesday.

Tax Appraiser Revolts

JACKSONVILLE (AP) — Duval County Appraiser Robert A. Mallard says he won't comply with a law that bases property appraisal on current sales prices, even if it costs him his job.

Mallard said he would not "continue perpetrating the evils prescribed by law of taxing the homeowner out of his home by raising values on the basis of sales of single family homes that are sold in this highly inflationary period of time."

2 In Murder Plot Released

FORT MYERS (AP) — Hendry County Circuit Judge James R. Adams and a contractor have been released without bond after being arrested on charges of murder conspiracy.

Adams, 53, of Fort Myers, and John Miller, 48, a Lee County contractor, were indicted Tuesday by a Lee County grand jury.

MIAMI (AP) — "Sorry About These," said a sign above the tomatoes in a large Miami Beach supermarket.

"Due to growing conditions, this product is NOT up to usual high standards. However, it is the best available in the market."

The situation was similar all over the nation's winter vegetable capital Tuesday as South Florida sought to overcome last week's killer freeze that devastated 85-100 per cent of the vegetable crop.

In Central Florida where 35-40 per cent of the citrus crop was destroyed, forecasters warned of a second but milder freeze early today.

Estimates of damage to farm crops have escalated to more than $50 million.

Governor Reubin Askew has asked the state to declare the area to be a disaster area to make low-cost loans available to farmers.

U.S. Agriculture Secretary Robert Bergland said he will tour damaged fields and groves Monday.

Askew said he also is considering seeking a presidential declaration to provide migrant workers with special unemployment compensation. Farm workers normally don't qualify for jobs benefits.

Meanwhile, grocery store managers were searching for produce to fill the shelves and most already were hiking prices.

"This week isn't going to be as big a disaster as next week," said Hardy Taylor, chief produce buyer for Winn-Dixie's 1,150 stores across the Southeast and Southwest.

"There was a certain amount of produce that was on the vine... we most likely will have to start taking stuff out of Mexico," Taylor said buyers for major food store chains will take re-maintaining Florida produce before they turn to Mexico, which already has started raising prices. He said the vegetables from Mexico are a week old when they reach Florida.

Another produce manager in Palm Beach said tomatoes and peppers were down to 89 cents a pound last week but Tuesday teared to 99 cents.

Prices were highest on tomatoes, peppers, squash, green beans and celery, grocers said.

They said prices on citrus were holding steady, and plenty of oranges and grapefruit were available for shoppers.

Industry spokesmen in California said national consumers won't have to worry about high retail price increases on citrus because of western bumper crops.

But the California vegetable season doesn't arrive until late spring. The prices of Florida vegetables usually are higher out of the state.

In Florida, migrant workers were urged to move from vegetable farming areas to the citrus groves. Some vegetable farmers say a few hundred migrants will find work replanting some crops.

Debate over the number of out-of-work migrants continued with state officials saying 35,000 were out of jobs because of the freeze, not the 120,000 claimed by migrant spokesmen.

'76 Food Costs Set Record But Increase Slowed

GOV. ASKEW ... seeking federal aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — If less than 90 per cent of what you're the shopper for a typical American family, you paid $1,886 for food in 1976, says the Agriculture Department. That's more than you've ever paid before, but last year's increase is the smallest in nearly a decade.

The retail cost of a food marketbasket produced by American farmers averaged only 2.9 per cent higher than in 1975. The department says that's about 1 per cent lower than in 1975, and higher than in 1974, when food prices increased 3.4 per cent. In 1977, the Department says, prices are expected to rise 2.9 per cent.

The 1976 marketbasket figures include farmers' share of beef, pork, poultry and milk. They do not include seafood or imported items like coffee. So yearly changes in marketbasket costs do not coincide with over-all food costs, which include restaurant meals.

Last year, for example, the department says food prices rose 3.4 per cent because of a 3 per cent increase in 1975, plus a 3.4 per cent increase in 1976, plus a 2.6 per cent increase in 1977, the Department says.

Huge grain crops and higher beef, pork, poultry and milk production helped slow retail food price increases in the last couple of years.

The 1976 marketbasket figures indicate farmers have absorbed the cost of lower prices by taking less for what they produce, including sharply lower prices for cattle.

Buttons Leads Wine Dumping

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Actor Red Buttons and about 1,000 other members of the Synagogue for the Performing Arts dumped 500 bottles of French wine into a sewer to protest France's release of Palestinian terrorists.

Daoud Daoud, reputed mastermind of the 1972 assault on the Munich Olympic village in which numerous Israelis were killed, was released despite pleas that he be tried on criminal charges. Buttons, film director Arthur Hiller and others dumped the wine Tuesday into a gutter in front of the French tourist office. The entertainers said they were kicking off a planned international boycott of French products.

Henry T. Badger of the department's Economic Research Service said the figures are "very preliminary" and subject to revision.

Lakers Turn Real Killers

By The Associated Press

Remember the joke about Kareem Abdul-Jabbar using his teammates on the Los Angeles Lakers for non-support?

Well, things have changed under Coach Jerry West, who has gotten the most out of both Abdul-Jabbar and his mates—enough to take the Lakers to the top of the National Basketball Association's Pacific Division.

The Lakers moved one-half game ahead of the Portland Trail Blazers Tuesday night by beating the Seattle SuperSonics 120-109. That raised Los Angeles' record to 30-15, second-best in the 22-team NBA.

The Lakers scored the first 11 points of the game, took a 23-5 lead and never looked back on their way to their 17th consecutive victory at home, the longest home winning streak this year.

"We played real well during the 21-2 spurt, but other than that our offense stank," said West. "But our defense, especially by Dan Ford and Don Chaney, was especially good. Chaney closing out Fred Brown was really the key for us."

Seminole's high-scoring guard, Seattle's high-scoring guard, West held to just two points.

Raiders Fourth, Eye Lake City

Seminole Community College's basketball team is ranked fourth in the weekly state poll of coaches, trailing first place Miami-Dade South, Pensacola and Lake City.

And, guess who Seminole is home against Saturday night?

Lake City!

The game promises to be the highlight of the home season, with not only state rankings and prestige on the line, but the Division I lead.

Seminole is 4-0 in divisional play and Lake City has one loss to its discredit.

Inches—that's how far the Seminole High basketball team has been from glory a number of times this season.

However, in the won loss column—where it reads 61-2—it might as well be miles rather inches.

"But we keep trying," says Seminole coach Joe Mills, whose team took on an aggressive schedule and is paying for it. The lesson Tuesday night was a 70-66 decision, which went in Lakeland's favor.

Ruben Cotton started in defeat scoring 32 points while David Wiggins added 11. Seminole is at Mainland Friday night.

Other Seminole County action Tuesday night found Lake Howell knocking off Oviedo in a battle of next-door neighbors, 61-47. Stan Adams and James Meadows scored 19 and 18 points, respectively to lead the winning Hawks. Gary Hird scored 18 points to pace Oviedo's effort.

Also, Trinity Prep's Saints outclassed Orlando Luther, 65-28, with Jim Gierach scoring 20 points, followed by Mike Demetrius' 14 and another 14 by Nerfert Seaks.

No World Golf Tour Yet

Major tours, offering growing purses and prestige, now exist in Europe, Asia and Australia, in addition to the United States.

Purses in the $250,000 range are not unusual. There's a lesser tour in South Africa.

And there are a number of proponents, none in an official capacity, of a world tour. They envision a gathering together of the major events of the foreign circuits along with selected events in the United States.

But it isn't likely to happen. There are two major factors that work against it:

First, there is no support from the American PGA Tour—an absolute necessity for the success of any venture.

Second, everyone who wants to play a world tour does so now.

Bulkus A No-Show, And Lights Go Out

Bulkus skipped the program when he learned a meal was not being served.

The lightest moment of the night, however, was when, after delivering the invocation, Father Severly confided to Rose that he had another meeting and was trying to find a means of politely excusing himself.

About that time the lights went out.

Shortly after his departure, power was restored to the area and the program went on.

Braden, Clark Post Most Impressive Wins

Clark lands right to Masias' breadbasket

ORLANDO — At 11:53 Tuesday night, Sanford's Kip Braden was carried out of the ring at the Orlando Sports Stadium, on the shoulders of his admirers, ringing down the curtain on the greatest night of boxing ever seen in Central Florida.

The joy among Braden's well-wishers was caused by the way he was able to pound out an eight-round decision over Taco Perez in "The Battle of Sanford."

But Braden's victory was only part of the story. Cassellberry's Scott "Golden Boy" Clark also emerged victorious in his eight-round co-feature, when he knocked Sammy Masias from the ranks of the unbeaten in one of the most savage brawls ever fought in the welterweight division.

Despite the fact that Clark with Perez a 7-5 underdog, because there was some doubt about his ability to go eight rounds with a tartar like Taco Perez, the first four rounds were fought at a furious pace, with the taller and heavier (161-156) Braden controlling the action at long range. But when the fighters would close, Perez's strength would give him the advantage.

It was in the fifth round that the tide of battle swung in Braden's favor. Instead of being the lanky southpaw greaser stronger, while Perez surprisingly grew weaker.

Braden appeared to sweep the final half of the fight, but without a struggle. Perez never tried trying and on several occasions appeared to wobble his crooked rival. But Taco couldn't follow up his advantages, thus allowing Braden to win his seventh fight in his last eight starts.

"I was surprised myself when I was stopped in the final rounds," the quiet, unassuming Braden commented after the fight. "Taco was good and he was tough, but he can't understand why one judge gave him the fight."

At Alrich scored the bout for Perez 77-78, much to the dismay of the vocal crowd. But he was outvoted by Bob Burns and Frank Skilleder, who both saw the fight quite handily for Braden.

"I had trouble with his southpaw style," Perez confessed after the fight. "But don't get me wrong. He did a great job and really earned the decision. I was able to fight him again. I think he is really tough to reach, because of his height and the fact he is left-handed."

The outcome throws Perez's anticipated match with Gene Wells for the Southern middleweight title out the window.

But it does move Braden in line for some lucrative matches.

"I'm a fighter," Braden commented after showing "I don't care who I fight. Whoever they want to put me in with, that's the good enough for me. I

Don't Wash With Yogurt

DEAR DR. LAMB—Lately I have been on a diet, consisting of yogurt, diet cola and one meal at dinner time. I have lost some weight and my complexion is improving. Do you think that this unsupervised diet is wise?

Also, I recently read that washing one's face with plain yogurt can enhance the beauty of the skin and clear up blemishes, even more so than taking it internally. Do you recommend this sort of cleansing? Please tell me its value.

DEAR READER—I am sure people who sell yogurt are delighted with the treatment and it might help them to a great deal. It will do nothing for you. You might get some moisturizing effect that you could get from any oil or cream if you should be using such a substance at all.

Most complexion problems in young people are related to acne. Acne is a disease of your skin from these problems you need to keep your skin clean and keep it free of any oily cream or lotions. Acne can be treated in most cases and it may require taking medicine. To give you a better understanding of acne problems and to keep you from making it worse instead of better I am sending you The Health Letter 82, Acne Can Be Treated. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Write to me in care of the Evening Herald, P.O. Box 151, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10101.

Whether or not your diet plan is safe and sane depends entirely what is in that one meal a day you eat. There is a good chance that your diet is inadequate. The way to eliminate excess weight and keep it off is to learn enough.

Would you please comment? Incidentally I haven't smoked for over 20 years.

DEAR READER—When the pumping action of the heart is not strong enough, fluid accumulates in the tissues. This can cause swelling of the feet and ankles or even the abdomen. When the left side of the heart is affected—and it is usually affected first in many forms of heart disease—the fluid accumulates in the lungs. The swelling of the lung tissues results in coughing to clear the lungs of fluid that has accumulated in the tiny sacs.

I dare say your cough was not as bad 20 years ago as it is now or you would have done more about it sooner. Your doctors probably think that even though you have had a cough for 20 years that it is now worse because of your heart condition.

Today you may be shopping today not to spend your hard-earned cash on something that's more novel than necessary.

Dr. Fisher proceeded to analyze the possibilities of the hand thoroughly and finally cashed his ace of clubs. Then he led the queen of diamonds.

Apricots Enhance First Prize Dish

Rice Runs Wild; Brings Variety

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Rice in its many variations makes a one-dish meal stuffing or a perfect accompaniment to a favorite meat or poultry dish.

The blend of long grain and wild rice, for example, sets the tone for a casserole that includes Chinese vegetables and lean pork chops. Serve this with Chinese noodles and soy sauce. Another dish is to stuff tomatoes with a rice mixture; or blend rice with cranberries and cashews to serve with Roast Cornish hens. The possibilities are limitless and certainly help stretch any budget with taste.

- WILD CHINESE RICE
- 1 package (6 ounces) long grain & wild rice
 - 1 can (1 1/2 ounces) condensed cream of mushroom soup
 - 1/4 cup water
 - 1 can (14 ounces) Chinese vegetables, drained
 - 6 lean pork chops
 - Black pepper
- Mix contents of rice package, soup and water in 2-quart casserole. Add Chinese vegetables. Arrange pork chops on top. Sprinkle with black pepper. Bake 1 hour 30 minutes in 350-degree oven. Serve with Chinese noodles and soy sauce. Makes 6 servings.
- WILD RICE STUFFED TOMATO CUPS
- 1 can (1 1/2 ounces) condensed beef broth
 - 1 cup water
 - 1 package (6 ounces) long grain & wild rice
 - 1 ripe tomato, about 3 inches in diameter
 - 1/4 cup sliced mushrooms
 - 2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Every year apricot growers and devotees gather in Paterson, Calif., for an annual Apricot Festival. An important part of the festival is a recipe contest; winning recipes are chosen for their appearance, taste and originality. Most recipes submitted in this apricot haven near Modesto are old family favorites handed down from generation to generation. Here is a Bavarian Apricot Torte, a winner from a recent festival. This is a recipe that is simple to make but tastes as though you've spent all day making it.

- BAVARIAN APRICOT TORTE
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine
 - 3 tablespoons sugar
 - 1 cup flour
 - 1 egg
 - 1 can (30 ounces) apricot halves, drained
 - 1/4 cup sliced almonds
 - 2 tablespoons sugar
 - 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon

quiche pan with removable bottom. Bake in 45-degree oven 10 minutes.

- FLORENTINES
- 1 cup sliced almonds
 - 1/2 cup candied orange peel
 - 1/2 cup heavy or whipping cream
 - 1/2 cup sugar
 - Pinch salt
 - 1/4 teaspoon almond extract
 - 1/2 (3 squares) semi-sweet chocolate
 - Chop almonds coarsely. Mix orange peel with 1 tablespoon flour so it isn't sticky; chop fine. Mix all ingredients except chocolate. Drop by teaspoonful about 4 inches apart on well-greased cookie sheets. Flatten slightly with wet knife blade. Bake at 350 degrees 8 or 10 minutes. Allow to cool on pan one and one-half to 2 minutes, then loosen with spatula and invert onto wire racks to cool. (Keep spatula clean to prevent tearing the cookies.) Melt chocolate in saucepan over simmering water and spread onto flat side of cookie.

Legal Intern Faces Penalty For Contempt

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

Circuit Court Judge Robert B. McGregor has ruled a 24-year-old graduate intern with the Seminole-Brevard Public Defender's Sanford office in contempt of court for signing blank pleadings forms that were filed in a court case in which he wasn't involved.

McGregor said he will consider a sentence for Thomas Clinton Green and announce it at a later date.

Green, a December graduate of the University of Florida law school and scheduled to take the Florida Bar examination in February, has been suspended without pay by Public Defender David Porter pending outcome of the circuit court proceedings.

According to testimony in the Wednesday evening hearing before McGregor, Green signed a stack of blank defense discovery motions and fee determination motion forms in December after an unidentified assistant Public Defender handed them to him.

Porter, who was elected Public Defender in the 18th Judicial Circuit earlier this month, said Wednesday he had no knowledge of the alleged longtime procedure of attorneys in the Public Defender's Sanford office of signing blank pleadings forms in advance to increase efficiency in handling cases of indigent clients.

Porter said such signings is not now a procedure in his office. He said he'll take no action on possibly re-instating Green or action against two attorneys also allegedly involved, until the court renders a judgment in the Green contempt proceeding.

Franklin Kelley, former public defender now in charge of Porter's Seminole office, told reporters the procedure was being used when he took office several years ago. He said he had signed blank forms himself.

"It's a pretty common practice in the profession," Kelley said. "It's something that Green inadvertently got caught up in."

"This may, perhaps also, affect his (Green's) admission to the bar," Judge McGregor noted after ruling the prospective lawyer in contempt. "That judgment will be made by others in due course."

McGregor said on one form in the circuit court criminal case Green's signature appeared on a line identifying him as "an assistant Public Defender."

"It's hard for the court to view this as an unintentional act," McGregor said.

Certified interns, under Florida Supreme Court rules, can represent clients in court who have signed consent forms as long as the interns are under supervision of attorneys, officials said. The interns may try court cases and participate in proceedings with the consent of the judge presiding at the trial or proceeding.

Green testified that he can't remember who handed him the stack of blank forms that he thought would be signed and then kept for filing in county court cases in which signed consent forms had been filed. Green said two attorneys were in the room when the signings took place.

He said Kelley, who according to testimony is listed with the supreme court as Green's supervisor, wasn't in the room, and didn't countersign any of the documents.

The court noted that the pleading bearing Green's signature in the circuit court criminal case was dated Jan. 7 and said it is apparent to the court that Kelley didn't sign any pleadings in the case.

Green said the pleadings bearing his signature were filed in circuit court without his knowledge or consent.

Green's attorney, Jack T. Bridges of Sanford, displayed a one-inch stack of blank forms with Green's signature and said he'll destroy them.

Landfill Foes' Sign Of Discontent

Opponents of the Sanford city commissioners' plan for a sanitary landfill on SR-46A across from the Mayfair Golf Course have found a new way to publicize their feelings — with a sign pointing to the site.

The sign appeared on land owned by A.J. Thomas Jr., adjoining the site. "Site of proposed Sanford City garbage dump; 85 acres," it reads.

The 96-A Environmental Protection Association executive committee, of which Thomas is a member, voted to put the sign up "for publicity purposes. We felt it would help our cause. . . . When you put a sign up there it helps people to know where the garbage dump is going to be," said Horace Paul, the group's treasurer.

Paul didn't know who put the sign on Thomas' land. Neither did executive committee members Don Cahill (who was out of town when the sign appeared), Velma Adair or Thomas.

Ernest and Pat Southard are the other members of the committee. Mrs. Southard, asked if her husband had put up the sign, answered, "Not that I know of. He may have."

Thomas, a Longwood resident, said this morning that the sign was placed "with my approval to show people where the dump is going to be and to let them know it's right across from the golf course. There will be more traffic on that road if the dump goes in, and the road is narrow. It will be dangerous."

Thomas has planned "for three years" to build 120 townhouses on his property, along with a swimming pool and clubhouse. He has spent $24,000 on plans and tests for the project.

But recent economic conditions have "caused the market for townhouses to drop out. Some townhouses in the immediate area are still not completed because of this."

Thomas said he wanted to begin construction by the end of the year "if the economy improves," but not if the landfill proposal becomes reality.

"I don't believe we'd be able to sell (townhouses) next to a garbage dump," he said.

The citizen group apparently did not obtain a sign permit for its publicity project, but the city plans no action, according to City Manager W.E. Knowles.

"I wouldn't stoop that low," he said this morning. "I can't get excited about it. It (the sign) seems kind of childish to me."

As warmer weather brings better fishing, these anglers are intent on catching the big ones. The Sanford Shad Derby, sponsored by the Evening Herald and the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, runs for six more weeks. There is no entry fee, and shad may be weighed in at county fish camps.

Meat, Potatoes Lebanese Style

Meat and potatoes are popular combinations in most parts of the world. However, the "meat" generally is not the all-American favorite beef.

An adaptation of a Lebanese stew, for example, includes economical shoulder lamb chops, lamb being a mainstay of the Lebanese diet.

Unlike beef, which is not readily available and pork, which is forbidden by the Moslem faith, lamb is plentiful in the Midwest and rich in flavor. Midwestern cooking is simple to handle in the American kitchen.

Ingredients such as the lamb chops, eggplant and tomatoes, well-seasoned with garlic and thyme are cooked in a large jelly-roll or baking pan while the potatoes are baking.

The combination of juices makes a delicious sauce to spoon over the potatoes and meat. Serve together in a bowl or garnish a platter with orange slices and parsley to serve.

County: Shifting Power From Elected To Appointed

By ED PRICKETT
Herald Staff Writer

The underlying philosophy of a governmental operation is as important to that operation as who does or does not wear the magic wand of decision-making.

And decision making, any way you translate it, equals power — the potion which drives most men to seek public office.

In Seminole, a portion of the power wand's magic is being transferred from elected county commissioners to appointed department chiefs.

The first indication of that change is switching Roger Neiswander's title from executive assistant to county administrator.

"We're shifting more administrative authority to Roger," County Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski explains.

But also inherent in what Kwiatkowski calls the "team-management concept" is a shift in authority from the board to all appointive departmental chiefs.

More changes are on the way. For example: — The Department of Environmental Services will be placed under the Public Works Department.

— The Agriculture-Cooperative Extension is being placed under county development.

— Misunderstood names like Arthropod in the future will be called refuse disposal, which is what it really is.

— Staff support functions will be called offices. For example, there will be a legal office and a Board of County Commissioners office.

Kwiatkowski said changing Neiswander's title is the key to it all. "The board has indicated it (the county manager) is a good form of government," he added.

Early last year, commissioners voted in the executive assistant. Prior to that, they couldn't even agree on a title.

At first commissioners labeled the position as the "Rose" because of the controversy over what the title should be. Later, Neiswander was promoted from director of county development to the $23,000-a-year position he occupies.

Some commissioners — notably John Kimbrough — feared an administrator would garner too much power.

The reasoning behind that is the administrator, unless he's fired, stays year after year. County commissioners, on the other hand, are in and out every four years at election time.

Neiswander insists all that's changing under the ordinance is the title. All along, he maintains, he performed the same job with the same authority as a county manager, or administrator, as it's also called.

"I thought it (the new title) should have been that from the outset," says Pat Gilson, a department chief. "They (commissioners) were reluctant to give a title that inferred things weren't willing to accept."

But to be effective, Gilson says Neiswander "has to have authority." And, Gilson believes "administrator" carries a lot more weight than executive assistant.

"Semantics has a bigger role than people think," Gilson adds.

Neiswander believes the future changes do well for department chiefs. Within parameters established by the board, the chief will be assigned a task and will be expected to carry it out without checking back with the board each time a minor decision must be made.

"You should allow them to do it," Neiswander says, "and demand that they perform."

Overall, the commission is delegating more authority to department chiefs. The all powerful decision-making powers, however, will be retained by those persons elected by the populace — the commissioners.

In Neiswander's case, the title change will impress outsiders and increase his administrative powers within the governmental structure.

Finally, county government in Seminole will have done something it set out to do two years ago — create a county manager form of government.
