BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

ANY MAN OR ANGEL WHO SETS HIS OWN WILL UP AGAINST GODS WILL END IN PRICES SHOULD BE HUNTED: My judgment is righteous because I see not mine own will, but the will of him that sent me.

John 5:30.

The Enduring Music

This shell, this slender spiral in the hand,
Held to the ear, shall still evoke
the sound
Of the sea's sandals running on
the sand,
The sound of foam, whose music
is profound
The drift of water falling against
stone,
Or the sputine-fingered breakers
when they raced
Are heard here still, the sound of sea alone
Falling upon the ear and without haste.

The tides that washed the shores
of Greece are here,
The rush of waters around Zan
abar,
Hold quietly against the waiting
wave,
One hours across some far and
distant bar
The waves of lost Atlantic, dim
and deep,
Whose waters are the crystall
tides of sleep.

The man who buys War Bonds

Doing Something

A subscriber writes to his favorite columnist: "I think we have a new slogan in this country. It's 'I don't know what we can do about it.' MacArthur wants planes, and everybody says: 'I don't know what we can do about it.' China and Russia want planes, housewives want more food, But—I don't know what we can do about it!"

What's familiar about this? Oh, yes? Demosthenes. Fourth century B.C. He saw the growing power of Philip of Macedonia and the complacency of Athens. The Athenians said, "We don't know what we can do about it," and went right on to the theatre.

Demosthenes delivered some famous orations, which have come down to us. Their constant refrain was "We must do something!" "It's our duty to do something!" "Athens, get busy and do something!" Substitute Hitler for Philip in these lines, and see how they apply today: "When, Athenians, will you rouse and do your duty? What new event, what pressing need, do you await? What contingency more urgent for free men than the danger of disonor?" Will you always assemble in the public squares to ask each other, "Well, what is new?" What can be newer than a man from Macedonia making himself victor of Athens and master over all Greece? Is Philip dead? No, he is only ailing. But what matter to you if he be sick or dead; if heaven were to deliver you from him today, tomorrow you would cause another Philip to arise, for his victorious advance is far less a result of his own power than of your inertia."

What happened? Why the appeasement party won, and there was a negotiated peace, and Philip got Athens, and it wasn't funny at all. It began the end of the really great and splendid and democratic Greece. What has Demosthenes to do with today? Everything. Never again let yourself say "I don't know what we can do about it." At least we can always buy another bond.

Up-To-Date Taxation

There can be no question now about the American people preferring a "pay-as-you-go" plan for federal taxes, rather than continuing to pay always in the current year's income. Every poll of public opinion shows it. And Congress finally seems convinced.

The only troublesome question left is whether, in changing from deferred collection to current collection, any liability for taxes technically incurred last year under the old system should be "forgiven" now. And if so, how much?

Well, wouldn't the average taxpayer have to pay at least as much this year, under a simple pay-as-you-earn basis, as he would pay on the taxes nominally incurred last year and normally payable this year under the old system? For he is making at least as much money now as he made last year.

People still owing for taxes incurred before last year, and not paid last year when they should have been, should obviously clean up that obligation and get down to the main job. But beyond that reservation, why not skip last year cleanly, as if it had never existed, and tackle the main job of raking in the money earned this year, quarter by quarter, as a sound foundation for collections hereafter?

Practically, as far as an ordinary citizen can see, there wouldn't be any loss to the treasury in that simple and rapid procedure. Instead, there would presumably be a gain for the government, because all would be paying from current income while they still had the money, and the government would have smaller losses. There would be no "repudiation" but merely a formal change in bookkeeping.

Tail Wagging Dog

European France is completely conquered, but Algeria is free. Could not the necessary rebuilding of the French government start with Algeria, with France subordinate until normal peace times are restored?

This might seem like the tail wagging the dog. But it has already happened to a European country in modern times. In 1807, fearing conquest by Napoleon, King John VI of Portugal and his court took ship for Brazil, then a Portuguese possession. They liked it so well that they did not return till 1822, and then only because of threats that if the king would not live in Portugal, there would be another ruler.

If Portuguese affairs could be managed from Brazil, almost 8,000 miles away, in sailing vessel days, there need be no difficulty. In these days of planes and fast boats, about the 400 miles that separate Algeria and France.

Incidentally Petain's fame might have been higher if, instead of surrendering to the Nazis, he had imitated the Portuguese king and continued the fight from across the seas.

school work because some ladies responded to a request to help a young ladies can be found, because their faces are turned in the right direction.

I know of, or rather I hear of,
people who spend hour after hour,
day after day, week after week,
patiently working with a dog trying to train it for some specific purpose.

You would be surprised how many men and women in Santa Fe, Longwood, Lake Monroe, Forest City and other parts of the County have volunteered to help with their time and money to this juvenile problem, and I would be further surprised to believe that many more men and women have given their services today. And of course, we would be glad to have more persons work with them. I have recently had the Principals of two of our schools tell me that certain of these delinquents there were not being helped in their efforts to get along without ever once earning a dollar. I would be glad to have anyone who is interested in this work to come to my office and see what we are doing. We have an amount of office equipment, books, etc., available for those who have been made available to help the boys and girls.

I suspect it does seem strange run a boy or girl to the Juvenile

The following are a few of the charter members, and at the same time, other names that have been added to the roster over this period. The old timers here tonight will undoubtedly recall some of them who live now only in memory. Many of these people have moved to widely separate places, and some, sales, the newspaper.

Americans Find Funny Names In New Guinea

AP FEATURES

A ADVANCED BASE IN NEW GUINEA—Citizens of Peculiar Name whose names and their whimsy may fit some corner in the maps of New Guinea and New Britain. They are rich meat for seekers of place-names that make people pause and wonder—but they are no comfort to the American and Australian soldiers who have to eat them.

New Guinea—Wanakikolana, Sedamunumuno and Kibetogatubu must rate right along with Dnepretrovsk in anybody's jaw-breaking contest. But then there are such easy ones as Ta, Ba, Bla, Bau, Haia, No, Mo, One, Not, Owo, Wuwu, and Egrad.

The names themselves are similarities and repetition. For instance, there are three villages named Gal, all in the same vicinity.

On field telephones, through which even the best voices take on a raspy gravis quality, imagination can happen. Auras and Trawa, Asimba and Axangs, Irua, and Irua, Mes and Met, Pupondita and two Pupondittas, Guna, Gunia, Gunia, and Gunia, Buna and Funa, two Buna, two Buses and three Busus. Three rivers in the Buna area are the Amboga, Sambo, and Embon. Parts of them are plain double-talk, such as these villages: Bell, Bena-Bena, Biddi Biddi, two Warga Wagga, Bibi and Yu Yu. Then there are Bena-Bena, Adroma, Kwablikwabli, point, Papa-Papa point, Bada Bada bay and the Sews-Sews district.

Relatives Should Be Frozen Like Labor

By SPOON RIVER RAM

AP FEATURES
Freezing jobs and workers don't go far enough, since it doesn't take in relatives. Relatives are a non-perishable commodity that should be rationed in the future.

Now that spring is in the air, the big movement of families wanting to live off the fat of their kin has set in.

Travel bands ain't strong enough to hold 'em. Let a crow's eye to view who's got these relatives running out in all directions like streams of ants, some likin' some by ox cart—all hunting the land of plenty, with their ration books locked in the bank back home.

Aunt Busie, who never liked coffee, can't stop plenty of coffee beans. Uncle Lulu, who bragged about his store of rationed goods, will think the 17 year locusts are back.

I figure that freezing looks will set in about the second day after company arrives. Any host that don't turn bouncier after that faces starvation.

Yes sir, I think Mr. McNutt ought to freeze relatives in their tracks, before they eat their kin folks out of the house and home.

Rev. R.H. Spears of Homestead will be revivalist speaker at Lake Mary.

Soldiers are getting a real taste of "nature in the raw" on the insect-ridden battlefront. But thanks to FLIT and our insecticides, the insects are getting their share.

The army has found that these famous line of killers blast many "heat" insects. Just as they knock off many of those insects at home.

FLIT is the highest rating established for household insecticides by the National Bureau of Standards...the A.R.A. Rating. Why don't you try it?

"It may sound funny to hear a girl like me say that you can help build a bomber—but it's true! And the sooner you do, the sooner we'll have more planes to fight the war."
