Escapée Left Message In Bible, Captured

BLOOMFIELD, Ind. (AP)—A convicted cop killer who had escaped from a federal prison in Illinois scrawled a message of thanks in a Bible given to him by the wife of a county sheriff whose deputies apprehended the fugitive here.

Henry M. Gargano, serving a 199-year sentence for killing two police officers during a Chicago bank robbery, was held in the Greene County Jail for several hours after he was picked up Tuesday, until authorities returned him to the federal prison in Marion, Ill.

"In appreciation to the decent and humane treatment from all the people of the Greene County Jail... my particular regards to Margie Byers, whose interest and compassion will always be in my thoughts.

"If I ever do come to accept Jesus, it will be through Margie's doing. I say this in sincerity," Gargano wrote in the New Testament that Mrs. Byers, wife of Sheriff Orval "Bub" Byers, had given him.

$2 Bill Coming Back

WASHINGTON (AP)—The $2 bill, which disappeared almost a decade ago because of public distaste, is staging a comeback in time for the Bicentennial, a congressman says.

Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., said today that he has learned that the Treasury Department plans to issue 400 million $2 bills annually. At the same time, the department will cut in half the current production of 1.4 billion $1 bills, Rosenthal said, citing a letter from Deputy Treasury Secretary Stephen S. Gardner.

Although the letter to Rosenthal indicated a final decision on reissuing the bill had been made, a Treasury spokesman said the decision was not yet final. The Treasury scheduled a public hearing later today to get views of consumers on whether they thought the bill would be well-received by Americans.

Attorney: 'Patty Leftwing'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Patricia Hearst has become a "leftwing person" but not a "supernatural radical," according to the attorney who filed an affidavit in which she claimed she was brainwashed and tortured by her Symbionese Liberation Army captors.

Terence Hillman, who resigned from the Hearst defense team last week, said in an interview with the weekly Berkeley Barb published Tuesday that Miss Hearst "is now a leftwing person, and she was not" before she was kidnapped by the SLA on Feb. 4, 1974.

The 36-year-old radical leftist views said he was not sure how much of Miss Hearst's leftist views are independent thoughts and how much are something that somebody else told her.

Salt Lake Teachers Settle

By The Associated Press
A tentative settlement was reported early today in a Salt Lake City teachers' strike and there were signs of progress towards ending a strike in Atlanta. The two strikes affected a total of 145,000 pupils.

Meanwhile, in Billings, Mont., where a strike has disrupted classes for 17,000 pupils, school officials extended a deadline for firing teachers who refused to sign new contracts.

And in Providence, R.I., teacher aides were to meet with school officials in a session that was expected to result in a new contract or a strike that would disrupt classes for 20,000 pupils if teachers refused to cross picket lines.

Drug Abuse Issue Flares

WASHINGTON (AP)—A White House report on drug abuse appears to have inflamed rather than quelled a battle inside the government on how the war against drugs ought to be fought and who should do most of the fighting.

Written by a task force of President Ford's Domestic Council, the report recommended a de-emphasis of law enforcement measures aimed against "recreational" marijuana users who privately possess or consume pot.

Efforts to stop the spread of heroin and other dangerous drugs should take priority over efforts to suppress the private consumption of marijuana, the report said.

Oil Yes, Pollution No

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Scientists must find ways to pry oil and natural gas from offshore deposits without covering beaches and marshlands with oil, says Georgia Gov. George Busbee.

Busbee said development of the resources of the offshore underwater area called the Outer Continental Shelf could boost the depressed economies of South Atlantic states.

But, he said, studies indicate that an oil spill along 20 miles of shore would destroy the delicate marshlands that provide feeding and breeding grounds for fish, birds and wildlife.

Car Deliveries Increase

DETROIT (AP)—Strong initial sales of 1976 cars helped the nation's auto makers launch the new-model year in October with their best performance for the first 10 days of the month in nearly two years.

Deliveries of 240,842 cars during Oct. 1-10 were up 13 per cent from 216,110 last year, marking only the second time this year that sales have outpaced those of the same year-earlier period.

The sales figures, released Tuesday, provide the most convincing evidence yet that the industry was pulling out of its longest and deepest slump since the Great Depression.

Cop Killer Releases Hostages

KINGS BEACH, Calif. (AP)—A man who said he had robbed a bank and killed a police officer released the last of four hostages he held for eight hours and surrendered after a former Marine Corps war comrade persuaded him to give up, authorities said.

Placer County sheriff's inspector Mel McDougall said Kenneth James Miller was talked into giving up his gun and turning himself in Tuesday by Larry A. Clendinning, a federal Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Bureau special agent who had served with Miller in Vietnam.

Sanford Man Charged In Robbery

Sanford police have jailed a 19-year-old Sanford man in connection with a weekend armed robbery.

Detective Capt. C.B. Fagan Jr. said Carl W. McClorian, 19, of 1106 Pecan Ave., Sanford, was arrested late Tuesday at a cafe on W. 13th St. on charges of armed robbery and use of a firearm in commission of a felony.

County jail records indicate McClorian was arrested by Detective Walter J. Jones Jr. and was being held today on $20,000 bond.

Capt. Fagan said the arrest was in connection with a weekend armed robbery at Williams and Sons Amoco service station, Lake Mary Boulevard and U.S. 17-42 in which two men armed with a pistol, escaped with $300 to $300 after binding a 16-year-old attendant in a storage room.

Fagan said investigators haven't been able to identify a second suspect in the case.

Sheriff's deputies have arrested William Scott Thornburgh, 67, 21 S. Cortez, Winter Springs, on circuit court warrants charging two counts of level assault on a child.

Thornburgh was held on $100 bond, according to county jail records.

Sheriff's deputy R. J. Harley today reported burglars entered the residence of Edna J. Bentley, Chuluota, and made off with a revolver, three blankets, a canned ham, two bushels of sweet potatoes, and some dishes.

Cynthia Dobar, Foxcroft Apartments, Howell Branch Road, reported a stolen color television was $200 from her residence in a burglary, deputy R.S. Morton reported.

Sheriff's investigators today were continuing a probe into a weekend burglary at the residence of Patrick Duffy Jr., Longwood-Lake Mary Road.

Deputy Jim Hibbard reported scuba diving equipment, power stereo equipment, and a radio, valued at $877, were reportedly taken from the 503 Peach Tree Lane, Altamonte Springs, camera, 150 record albums, adding machine, calculator and a floor-model safe were reported taken from an office in the Duffy residence after burglars entered by breaking a window.

William C. Hay, 506 Orienta Ave., Altamonte Springs, reported two televisions, a stereo tape deck and a man's diamond ring, total value $825, were missing after a burglary at his residence, according to a report filed by deputy C. H. Bracklein.

Deputy Charles Coffee reported a color television, stereo equipment, and a radio, valued at $877, were reportedly taken from the 503 Peach Tree Lane, Altamonte Springs, residence of Janet Williams.

Sanford police today were investigating the theft of $850 in tools and a tape deck from an auto parked at Seminole Community College. Patrolman Carey Herndon said the items were reported taken from the car of Toby Williams, of Maitland, after a vent window was smashed.

Sanford Patrolman Jake Cohen jailed Samuel Lee Newark, 26, of 1014 W. Eighth St., on traffic and drug charges, according to police reports.

Newkirk was held in jail on $5,250 bond on charges of possession of marijuana, resisting arrest with violence, reckless driving and driving under the influence, according to county jail records.

Sheriff's Detective Robert Simmons and Winter Springs detective Bill Moody reported the arrest of a Winter Springs man and four juveniles, ages 15, 16 and 17, in connection with burglaries in the south Seminole area.

Larry E. Meeks, 18, Winter Springs, was booked at county jail on $25,000 bond on two counts each of breaking an entering and grand larceny and one count of attempted breaking and entering, Simmons said.

The juveniles were reported turned over to state authorities at the Sanford Juvenile Detention Center.

Simmons said the charges are in connection with recent burglaries in the Goldenrod area in which stereo equipment valued at $1,212 was reported stolen.

Simmons said the stereo equipment has not been recovered and the investigation is continuing.

Flying Family Noted

The year was 1912.

Ralph Wight of Sanford, decked out in fashionable high collar, tie and coat, was tied with a rope to the fragile frame of an old pusher-type biplane.

A yellow snapshot records his Wight Brothers-era first flight over the nearby sands of Daytona Beach.

Almost a half-century ago, Sanford was able to boast its first Kinner Bird, a popular biplane of the '20s.

Today the flying tradition of the Wight family is being continued by Henry Wight, Ralph's son, president of the fixed-base operation at Sanford-Central Florida Airport, Aero Services, Inc.

Wight and the tradition are featured in the current issue of the Florida Aviation Journal in an article written by Gene Eiselein.

The son of the pioneer won his wings over Oklahoma as an Army Air Corps cadet in World War II and has been flying ever since. Henry's own Cessna 310 is the 'lead plane' in his Aero Services' fleet that is used for pilot training, charters and rentals.

The article notes Wight's philosophy as an airport fixed base operator: "An airport is more than excellent landing facilities, it's services for the people who use it."

This philosophy received a vote of confidence recently when the Sanford Airport Authority granted Wight a lease for the entire airport Terminal Building.

As the Sanford FBO ("Fixed Base Operator")—the official Federal Aviation Authority term for an airport services operator—Wight showed his people-concern when the first sign he erected in the newly-painted Terminal designated a "Pilots' Lounge."

Another people-service mentioned in the article was the Airport Inn, an FDA-approved restaurant, and in-flight catering service.

Man Found Innocent Of Theft

By BOB LLOYD Herald Staff Writer

A circuit court jury deliberated 10 minutes Tuesday before returning a verdict of innocent for a 21-year-old Orlando man who had been accused of stealing a firearm.

The acquittal verdict was returned for Lonnie B. Lowman, 21, Oviedo Road One, on the charge of larceny of a firearm. The state had alleged Lowman took a .22 caliber pistol belonging to Ricky Stonecker of Oviedo from an auto.

Police said they found the weapon in a drain at a coin laundry Aug. 25 at Oviedo.

Robert Charles Miller, 21, 214 Newberryport Ave., Altamonte Springs, pleaded no contest to possession of controlled substance — cocaine.

Circuit Judge J. William Woodson ordered a presentence investigation for Miller. Probation officers then had Miller arrested for violation of probation in an Orange County case and he was led from the courtroom by a sheriff's deputy.

In other cases docketed for trial this week, Judge Woodson:

— Sentenced Sophie Breibart, 69, of 602 Brianni Court, Casselberry, to 18 months in the custody of the state Division of Offender Rehabilitation. The sentence was meted after Mrs. Breibart pleaded guilty as charged to obtaining property on April 3 by a worthless $70 check to Oskan's Sporting Goods, Altamonte Springs.

Mrs. Breibart was also sentenced to a concurrent year in jail for violation of probation in a prior case.

— Sentenced Robert Lee Jones, 43, Midway, to 30 days in jail plus three years probation on a plea of guilty to carrying a concealed firearm.

— Put Thomas William Jones, 61, 508 Oak St., Altamonte Springs, on five years probation after Jones pleaded guilty to carrying a concealed firearm.

— Allowed James Anthony Buflo, 46, 546 Orange Drive, Altamonte Springs, to remain free on bond pending completion of a court-ordered presentence investigation.

Buflo pleaded no contest to sale of false manufacturer's statements of origin for motor vehicles.

The statements are needed before new autos can be titled in the state.

Buflo was arrested by state and county agents Aug. 15 on the charge.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Contractors Agree To Build Highways At Lower Prices

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—Some contractors, hard hit by the recession, are agreeing to build highways at a reduced price, Transportation Department officials say.

But Jay Brown, director of road operations, said the relief probably will not last long.

Brown said Tuesday that after years of inflation the cost of road-building has gone down steadily for the past year, including an 11-per-cent drop in the second quarter of 1975.

Admissions To Face Probe

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—The chairman of a select Senate committee on law-school admissions says his panel will expand its probe to include allegations about favoritism in admissions to medical school.

Sen. Kenneth Plante, R-Winter Park, said Tuesday the committee had heard lots of allegations that the University of Florida Medical School was promoting "inbreeding" by giving special preference to relatives of persons who had attended the school.

He said he would request that medical school representatives be present at the November meeting of his committee to explain how students are chosen.

PERC To Rule On Teachers

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—The chairman of the Public Employee Relations Commission is not saying whether he believes Broward County teachers who took part in an illegal strike last month should be penalized.

PERC chairman Curtis Mack said Tuesday that the commission will meet in Orlando Oct. 22 to discuss the matter but he refused to indicate to a Senate ways and means subcommittee what the commission might decide.

"I wouldn't want to suggest what the commission's action might be," he said. "All the commissioners should hear the evidence and come up with a decision."

Tucker: Casinos Hurt Tourism

GAINESVILLE (AP)—House Speaker Donald Tucker says he's inclined to oppose casinos in Florida for fear it would drive away family visitors.

Florida visitors come from all over the country because "there is something they like about what we have — quite possibly our family oriented attractions and amusements in addition to our climate," Tucker told the Alachua County Homebuilders Tuesday night.

Tucker said the average Florida tourist brings his wife and family, and spends 18 days in the state, pouring money into the economy.

GAC Ordered To Halt Sales

MIAMI (AP)—One of the nation's largest land developers, GAC Corp. of Miami, has been ordered to stop all its installment land-sales because of financial problems.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development said in Washington Tuesday that GAC hadn't explained its problems well enough for potential buyers to know that development might never be completed.

A GAC spokesman, Richard A. Warner, said in Miami that the company had filed all of the requested audits with HUD last week and it assumed they are being processed now.

Jury To Hand Down Verdict

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—A circuit court jury reconvenes today to recommend a sentence for Billy Glenn Isley, found guilty of first-degree murder in the "die, Satan, die" slaying of a Virginia man.

The 12-member jury received the case Tuesday afternoon and deliberated more than five hours before returning its verdict. Under Florida's death-penalty law, the judge is not bound by the jury's sentencing recommendation.

Isley, 77, of Detroit, was charged in the slaying of Kenneth Houston of Arlington, Va., in Tampa last March.

Terrorist Sentence Postponed

MIAMI (AP)—A Dade County judge says he has postponed sentencing of a member of a Cuban terrorist group after learning that federal marshals feared other members might respond with violence.

Judge Arden Sigendorf said Tuesday that the sentencing of Humberto Lopez Jr. was postponed from today until Nov. 7, partly for security reasons.

"I have asked that adequate security measures be taken, and I have also been asked to hold the sentencing earlier in the morning when there will be less people in the building," the judge said.

Absentee Robber Convicted

JACKSONVILLE (AP)—Jimmy Lee Woolen is going to prison under a 25-year sentence for robbery although everyone admits he was elsewhere at the time it occurred.

Woolen, 21, was sentenced Tuesday after being convicted of the $10 robbery of a laundry last May 13.

Two co-defendants had pleaded guilty earlier and were sentenced to 15 years each. One testified Woolen had nothing to do with the robbery. The other said Woolen planned it although he didn't take part.

Sheriffs To Issue Warnings

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Florida's sheriffs plan to spend $11 million to warn would-be felons that a new law can send them to prison for at least three years if they use guns in committing crimes.

Radio, television and billboards will carry the message that the law fixes terms without possibility of parole, the Florida Sheriffs' Association said in a news release Tuesday.

"The sheriffs believe that in order to have an effective decrease in crime, the criminal himself must be reached," said Union County Sheriff John Whitehead, association president.

Diana Monaghan, president of PR Inc., a Winter Park firm that developed the program, said $11 million in contributions have been received to pay for production of broadcast ads.

New Privacy Law Brings Comfort

Americans have some new assurance that they still live in a free country. The Privacy Act of 1974 which went into effect recently promises to tilt the scale back toward the individual in what has become a running battle to keep the government from prying unnecessarily into his affairs.

There is a touch of irony in the fact that new protections of individual privacy are coming into force as the Central Intelligence Agency is on the griddle for spying illegally on American citizens in their own country. As President Ford pointed out in Palo Alto, Calif., the Privacy Act which he helped draft as vice president was not inspired by any illegal activities by government agencies. It is aimed at controlling the use and abuse of information which government agencies gather quite legally and with good intentions.

No American needs to be reminded of how many forms he has filled out during his lifetime at the behest of some agency of federal, state or local government, or how many questions about his personal affairs he has answered while a government clerk took down the data. In addition to the information we are required to give the government, there are cases where the government gathers information about us behind our backs.

The Privacy Act imposes some clear restraints on what a federal agency can ask and what it can do with the answers. It can henceforth collect no personal information that is not relevant to the job the agency is doing. The exchange of such information between agencies will be curtailed. The government will have to curb its mania to use Social Security numbers as a universal identifier.

The new law is certainly welcome, but it raises the question of how the American people got into the situation where such a law became necessary. Those files and computers now gorged with personal information about us are the by-product of countless programs that made aspects of our private lives the government's business.

A citizen who is now worried about how much the government knows about him must shoulder some of the blame. The Big Brother bureaucracy which has computerized our personal affairs was created after all, by elected representatives promising to solve one problem or another. Whether the problems have been solved or not, government data banks are a price we have paid in the process.

Under the Privacy Act the citizen can slap the wrist of Big Brother when he gets too inquisitive, is loose with his tongue or makes mistakes. That is some measure of comfort, but it would feel better if he were not sending us so many questionnaires in the first place.

Practical Matter

The House Rules Committee has approved for debate the full House a bill to lift partially a U.S. embargo on arms sales to Turkey.

A similar measure, allowing Turkey to take possession of $185 million worth of military equipment purchased prior to imposition of the embargo Feb. 5, has passed the Senate. The House should concur.

With all due respect to the moral indignation of House members over Turkey's use or misuse of military aid in the Cyprus affair, the congressional stand does nothing to further resolution of the still-tense situation on Cyprus.

And it complicates the already diminishing American influence in the Mediterranean by widening the chasm between the United States and its backpedaling NATO ally.

Righteousness and a strict regard for the legalities of our aid program have their place in the embargo debate, certainly, but there must also be some concessions to realism.

Around

The Clock

RAY CROMLEY Congress Passing The Buck

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The story goes that a prominent U.S. senator was asked what Congress would do when the new consumer protection agency he had proposed got out of hand, as it inevitably would.

His answer was quick and simple: "Set up a new agency to watch and regulate it." In Washington, there are dozens of offices and an assortment of agencies, whose job it is to watch for the interests of consumers.

They do an abominable job — at great expense. Some become captives of the industries they are supposed to watch. Some get so involved in petty detail, in the collection of reports and the arguing of legal niceties, that they forget their objective is consumer protection, not paperwork and cases decided on bases so mushy they accomplish nothing.

A strong bloc in Congress is again pushing for a new agency to oversee all government consumer protection agencies and departments — and all other government agencies as well. That new agency would be empowered to seek and mandate court action.

It would, if established, decide what is in the consumer interest. But there is no provision in the proposed law by which the agency would accurately determine consumer interests. Scholars I've talked to believe it inevitable that the agency, like the agencies it would monitor, would be forced to depend on information supplied by pressure groups. There's a strong body of academic opinion that this body would thus become prisoner of one vested interest or another.

Unlike congressmen, forced by elections to keep in touch, however poorly, with constituents, bureaucrats are largely isolated behind the walls of their Washington offices, developing their own concepts of consumer interest, influenced largely by special interests.

Congress has an agency — the General Accounting Office which has the power to check on agencies and departments responsible for protecting the consumer. Congressional committees have staffs and the legal means to require accountings from any agency or department falling down on its job.

The Seminole County United Way campaign is in full swing, with the latest figures showing that the goal is two-thirds met. The campaign continues until Oct. 24, when the final report luncheon is scheduled.

The United Way benefits Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Catholic Social Services, Central Florida Sheltered Workshop, Children's Home Society of Florida, Good Samaritan Home, Mental Health Association, Mid-Florida Center for Alcoholism, Salvation Army, USO Council of Central Florida, YMCA and Red Cross.

Perhaps the best known feature of the United Way is the Fair Share program, which encourages employees to give through payroll deductions. The Fair Share guide is one hour's pay per month.

Private donations are also encouraged. Either way, the United Way is a worthy cause. The idea behind United Way is to have one campaign a year for operating funds for all the agencies mentioned above. This, United Way of-officials say, eliminates unnecessary duplication of fund-raising efforts. And that's the United Way. Thanks to you... it's working.

Voter registrar Camilla Bruce and her assistant were kept busy when they visited Winter Springs Saturday to register residents to vote. There were 1975 persons registered at the three locations in the city. This is the first project in the city Bicentennial Committee's "Get Out the Vote" effort.

Congratulations to those who worked so hard in making the registration so successful. More than 200 bad check cases have been handed by the Sanford Police Department this year. Total losses to bad check artists have been more than $25,000. Not encouraging figures, but merchants can cut down on their losses, police say, by following a few helpful hints. The first step, according to police spokesmen, is to get together and discuss the problem.

That's what the Merchants' Check Seminar is all about. The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce will host the seminar Oct. 23. Representatives of the state attorney's office, local banks, and the Sanford Police Department will explain the new Florida bad check law which went into effect Oct. 1. There will be a question and answer period and discussion of a check alert system for merchants.

Businessmen aren't the only losers when bad check artists win. In the long run, the consumer loses too, through higher prices. So here's a chance for merchants to do something positive to halt the spread of bad check losses. —Rick Pantridge

What barbarism against those whose only crime has been to blow up, shoot and otherwise dispatch more than 50 policemen and civilians in Spain so far this year. The only people outraged by the murders themselves seem to be the Spaniards.

Francisco Franco, of course, is an old fool who either believes the Almighty has suspended the laws of nature on his behalf, or he is too senile to realize that he is providing history with another example of "after me, the deluge."

Tyrant that he may be, however, for the ordinary Spaniard, life under Franco at his most despotic has been infinitely freer than that of the ordinary Russian under the absolute totalitarianism of the Communist system at its most benevolent.

Yet in their zeal to see Europe rid of its last non-Communist dictatorship, Western leaders are calling for a visitation of chaos upon Spain from which only the Communists will benefit.

As for the United States, it finds itself in somewhat the same awkward position it has been in with regard to Portugal. Leases on U.S. military bases in Spain, which may or may not be vital to Western Europe's defense, have just been renegotiated.

But any expression of support by Washington for the Franco government, whether in the interests of our own global security or purely out of concern at the prospect of another people going down the Communist tube, would immediately bring down the wrath of our home-grown humanitarians.

Fortunately, the Portuguese so far have demonstrated a tenacious determination to win the kind of political freedom they have never really known. Thus one can still hope that when Spain's time of transition comes, and it is coming soon, the Spanish will also know what it means for themselves despite the "help" of their friends in the democracies.

The history of warfare, up until the nuclear era anyway, offers an abundance of examples of how even innovation in offensive weaponry has eventually been countered by a development in defensive weaponry, and vice versa. The same things is true of the war against crime. A case in point is a little nifty item called the "Taser Public Defender" which its maker, Taser System of Los Angeles, calls a nonlethal crime prevention device for stopping attackers. Looking something like a flashlight, the device launches two small darts attached to batteries by 18-foot wires. The darts can penetrate 1.5 inches of clothing and deliver a 50,000-volt jolt that is exceedingly painful and incapacitating but not deadly. Or so the company says in its literature.

Blockade runners were assembled to smuggle the commandos north. The Tallahassee, after its diversionary attacks on Union commerce, was to support the operation.

The plot failed through mischance and miscalculation. Informers alerted the Federals and the first Confederate secret agents were caught trying to rob a bank. The desperate scheme collapsed.

This left the Tallahassee's raid to stand alone as one of the momentous exploits of the war. John Taylor Wood, its captain, had Florida ties. He was the grandson of President Zachary Taylor who made his place in Florida history at the Battle of Okeechobee.

Born to a military family, Wood was trained at the Naval Academy and was an instructor there when the war broke out. He cast his lot with the South despite the fact that his father, an Army surgeon, remained loyal to his post and was assistant surgeon general of the Union forces until Appomattox.

Wood became naval aide to Jefferson Davis, whose first wife was his aunt. But staff work was not for him. Seeking active status, he led audacious raids on shipping in the Chesapeake and even steamed up the Potomac River within sight of Washington. He and his men seized and destroyed the USS Underwriter in a hand-to-hand fight at New Bern, S.C. He was aboard the iron-clad Merrimack in its famous encounter with the Monitor.

"I am all admiration for Wood," wrote a fellow officer. "He is modest personified, conceives boldly and executes with skill and courage."

Nassikas "has reassigned the more competent staff to work on deregulation." Only two full-time people have been assigned to go through 109 crates of documents in the case. They have only one lawyer working with them, but he is also assigned to two other investigations.

The Commission has other natural gas probes under way, but they also suffer from understaffing. One is supposed to determine whether there is more gas available in wells that the industry has shut down, as some critics have alleged.

The FCC has received 50 volumes of technical material on the case from gas producers. The staff working on the investigation, therefore, asked Chairman Nassikas for an expert consultant to help them decipher the data.

Internal FCC memos show that the request was made in July. But two months and a flurry of memos later, Nassikas finally decided that the funds for a consultant were not available.

Nine months of staff work has gurgled down the drain, and the producers' side of the story has yet to be investigated.

Nassikas, apparently, is more interested in getting the gas industry higher prices. And those higher prices will mean higher utility bills for American consumers.

KENNERLY CONTROVERSY: The most controversial figure in the White House is turning out to be David Hume Kennerly, the former Associated Press photographer whom President Ford personally chose to be his official spokesman.

Kennerly, who is close to the Ford family and members of the international jet set, has brought some of the world's most glamorous figures to the White House, creating a few minor scandals in the process. He is also bash and does not hesitate to express his unsolicited views in White House policy councils.

He has thus managed to offend top Ford aides, who feel that a photographer's opinions on profound domestic and world affairs are scarcely worth listening to. Presidential Press Secretary Ron Neesen, says our White House sources, is particularly upset with Kennerly's antics.

Footnote: We made repeated calls to Kennerly for comment, but he never returned them.

Isabel Peron Returns Home BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — President Isabel Peron was due back from vacation today, and official sources said arrangements were being made for her to take over from acting President Italo Luder at a ceremony Thursday night.

Labor organizations scheduled a big rally Friday afternoon at which Mrs. Peron was expected to speak. Rumors of a military coup have been circulating since the government announced last week that Mrs. Peron would return to office. She has been vacationing since Sept. 13 at an air force rest camp 450 miles northwest of the capital.

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the United States again shipping F-4 Phantom jets to Turkey following the easing of the arms embargo, Pentagon officials are hopeful Turkish leaders now will allow the United States to regain control of military bases in Turkey.

Officials said six F-4s — part of the 24 to be delivered this month — left Seymour Johnson Air Force Base, N.C., on Tuesday on the first leg of the long flight. After a stop at Torrejon Airbase in Spain, the planes are due to fly on to Turkey Thursday.

MIAMI (AP) — Five crewmen from a Panamanian freighter that sank near Cuba after the deaths of the ship's four officers may be deported soon, U.S. immigration officials say.

An administrative law judge was to be asked today to order the four Indonesian seaman and a Filipino cook to leave the country. Immigration officials said Tuesday the five had overstayed their entry permits.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Christians, Moslems Pick Up Weapons Again BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — New fighting between Christians and Moslems broke out in Beirut early today. Security officials said at least 19 persons were killed and 23 wounded, but the count was incomplete.

Mortar and machine-gun duels raged in other northern and eastern suburbs of the Lebanese capital. Christian and Moslem militiamen accused each other of violating the cease-fire.

Car Had Green Light In Ford Crash

HAFTFORD, Conn. (AP) — A teenager who drove his car into President Ford's armored limousine said he entered the intersection and accidentally crashed into the presidential motorcade because he had a green light.

Ford was not hurt, but a member of his party was treated for a fractured finger after the incident Tuesday night.

The driver of the other car, 19-year-old James Salanites, was questioned and voluntarily took a sobriety test, Hartford police said. There were five other teenagers in his Buick, but none of them was hurt.

"I don't see where he did anything wrong," police Lt. Thomas Grant said of the Meriden, Conn., teen. Police said no charges would be considered against Salanites until blood test results were available in several days.

It was the third incident to mar one of Ford's recent out-of-town journeys. He was the target of two alleged assassination attempts in California during separate visits in September.

A police spokesman, explaining how it was possible for an auto to get a clear run at Ford's car, said police at Ford's curtail his travels for security reasons after the recent assassination attempts, but he has continued his frequent forays, while taking care to appear before groups which were easily screened.

The GOP fund-raising dinner he was here to address Tuesday night was one such occasion, and there were no incidents. But it was less than a minute after Ford left the Civic Center where the dinner was held that Salanites' car barreled into the limousine.

The motorcade entered the intersection at Talcott and Market streets while the traffic signal was green, but witnesses said the light had changed to red when the limousine entered the cross-road and was hit by the Buick, which was described as moving rapidly.

Pistols drawn, Secret Service agents leaped from one car and surrounded the Buick. Police said Salanites emerged from his car and said the crash was an accident, explaining he saw the green light and simply proceeded through the intersection.

Authorities said it is normal procedure for the motorcade to continue against traffic lights. Frederik Biebel Jr., state GOP Chairman in Connecticut, suffered the fractured finger.

FSU Student Likes To Shock Drivers

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — "I'm not a neo-Fascist or anything like that," says a college student whose practical joke is shocking motorists in Florida's capital city.

Alan Morton, a Florida State University student from Fort Lauderdale, drives a small Italian car with a Florida license plate that says in bold orange letters on a white background, "Hitler."

"I got a mixture of reaction, but mostly I guess you'd call it a bitter attitude," said Morton.

offensive.

"What is obscene or objectionable to you might not be obscene or objectionable to me," he said.

Morton, 21, said the Hitler tag is obviously objectionable to many people. He said he has not dared drive his car in Miami Beach, heavily populated by Jewish people.

Other drivers frequently honk their horns and make obscene gestures, Morton said. His hubcaps have been stolen and his front bumper knocked off, but he said he can't be certain his car was vandalized because of its license plate.

"It's really a headache," Morton said. "The only reason I keep it is because it's unique."

Warren Raker, assistant chief of the bureau of registration services, said "it's more than a logical assumption" that Morton received the Hitler tag because his first two choices were "Toy Car" and "Boogie."

Schools Have $525 Million Unspent Fund

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — At a time when most state officials are trying to meet the budget with declining revenues, all levels of education have $525 million in unspent building funds.

And state education officials who have come under fire for seeking even more building funds with $32.6 million in bond issues say they need the extra money because state law requires all funds to be on hand before contracts are let for buildings.

But Chancellor E.T. York admitted Tuesday to a Senate subcommittee probing education construction funds that it may not be necessary to ask for a $28.5 million bond issue dedicated to financing construction of sports arenas and other facilities on the nine university campuses.

"Based on what we've heard, I seriously question whether we need the bond money," York said after the committee was given statistics showing that there would be a year-end surplus of $20 million in student fees.

The subcommittee also viewed statistics showing the $25 million in unspent funds — the bulk in elementary and secondary education — and questioned why the Department of Education was not taking advantage of the new Education Working Capital Trust Fund.

Sen. Robert Graham, D-Miami and chairman of the subcommittee, said the 1975 law setting up the fund was designed to do away with requirements that had tied up education funds for long periods before the money actually needed to be spent.

However, York said that he had received an attorney general's opinion that the law did not alleviate the old funding requirements and each project still needed its funds earmarked.

Graham asked that state legal experts report whether the law needed revision to meet the legislative intent.

"You've got money coming out of your ears," Sen. Phil Lewis, D-West Palm Beach, told York. "You had a billion-dollar surplus a year ago and the way things are going, you may get it back up to a billion again."

The subcommittee persuaded the Cabinet to halt action on the bond issue for the arenas and another $26.1 million issue for classroom construction until the panel completes its probe of education building.

Graham said the subcommittee also had received assurances that $24 million in funds for community colleges would not be spent for at least 30 days while the panel decided how much of a revision was needed in education priorities.

Education Commissioner Ralph Turlington told the subcommittee that he would like to see all construction funding except emergency building halted for the 1976-77 fiscal year to force educational units at all levels to complete community-wide inventories of needs.

He said the community-wide reviews were needed because current methods of determining building needs are not adequate.

Graham said the year-long "cooling-off period" has appeal, but questioned whether all construction needs could wait that long.

Navy Bonuses Disputed

JACKSONVILLE (AP) — A $125-million dispute over Navy bonuses for men with special skills probably will go to the U.S. Supreme Court, attorneys say.

A federal court case here is one of 25 throughout the nation brought by Navy men who say they didn't get promised re-enlistment bonuses and also were denied separation from the service.

Rudy Hernandez, Jacksonville attorney, amended the suit here Tuesday to increase the number of plaintiffs to 48 from the original five. He also asked that it apply to Navy men under similar situations throughout the federal 5th judicial circuit, including Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas.

Hernandez said he doesn't know how many are affected in the circuit, but said the national total is estimated at 30,000 individuals with a total of $125 million at stake.

Hernandez said federal judges at Los Angeles and Norfolk, Va., have ruled the Navy must pay the bonuses to 625 sailors in those jurisdictions. The Norfolk case is under appeal.

The sailors claim the Navy promised them bonuses of $4,000 to $6,000 if they agreed in advance to re-enlist for two years after being trained in critical-area areas such as missiles and communications.

When Congress stopped funding the bonuses in May 1974, the suit says, the Navy quit paying the bonus money but refused to discharge the sailors.

Hernandez said a special panel of seven judges is to meet at Orlando later this month to decide if the suits should be consolidated for trial.

Look before you reap.

Do you know the most important thing you should do before picking fruit? Or pruning your tree?

Right. Look up. And check carefully to see if there are any stray branches touching power lines.

This simple precaution could save you from possible injury.

You see, if a branch of a tree should come in contact with a power line, the tree could become charged with electricity.

If either you or your pruning tool should come close to the point of contact — well, that could result in an unhappy accident.

But sometimes you don't even have to come close to the point of contact. Under certain conditions, such as wet weather, the electrical current can flow through the tree like sap. And you could get a shock from just touching the tree trunk.

We're doing all we can to keep your trees free of our power lines. But sometimes nature has a way of creating its own problem. If you see a tree dangerously near a power line, don't take chances. Call us. We'll tell you what to do.

Remember, whether it's pruning time or harvest time, look before you reap.

This safety message has been brought to you by Florida Power & Light as a public service, because serving the public is really what we're here for.

Woman Rescued After Push Off Bridge By Abductor

TAMPA (AP) — A Winter Haven woman spent hours clinging to a barnacle-encrusted piling after being pushed blindfolded off a bridge by a man who had abducted her and her family at gunpoint, police say.

The fishermen rescued Rebecca Stevenson, 27, from under the Tampa bridge Tuesday afternoon. She was treated and released from a local hospital.

Her family, freed earlier, was not harmed, police said.

"It was only by the grace of God that we were in the right place at the right time," Ralph Katzfey said of the rescue. "There weren't many people fishing near the Franklin Bridge. Too rough, I guess."

Mrs. Stevenson, her husband K.O. Stevenson and their two sons, Chuck, 8, and Jimmy, 2, had been abducted from their home Monday night.

but the gunman later left only with the woman, police said. Police would not offer an explanation for the abduction, but Mrs. Stevenson's father, Paul Carpenter, said it was apparently a case of mistaken identity.

Carpenter said a man with a shotgun burst into the home while the family was watching television, ordered them to lie face down and searched the room without finding whatever he was looking for.

"When he found out the family's name was Stevenson, he said he had broken into the wrong home," Carpenter said.

After spending a couple of hours with the family and "volunteering them highballs from their own liquor," Carpenter said, the assailant forced the family out.

The gunman tied Stevenson and locked him in the trunk of a car, ordered the children into the back seat and made Mrs. Stevenson sit beside him while he drove aimlessly around orange groves in the area, Carpenter said.

About an hour later, he drove back to the home, blindfolded Mrs. Stevenson, led her to another car and drove to Tampa, leaving the others behind, Carpenter said.

Katzfey said that when he found Mrs. Stevenson she said her abductor pushed her over the bridge into Tampa Bay because she said she would rather die than accompany him to California.

"She kept saying she had been in the water since 3 a.m., but I don't know how the poor thing could have known that," Katzfey said. "All I know is that she was there a long time. I don't think she could have lasted much longer."

Katzfey said she was cut on her arms, back and feet by the barnacles and apparently had been struck by her abductor, Mrs. Stevenson's mother, Hazel Carpenter, said her daughter can "barely swim."

Economy Move Stalls

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — The Senate Governmental Operations Committee's attempt to save money by eliminating duplication in government has hit a roadblock.

To start, committee staff director Jack Overstreet said Tuesday, the inquiry has not been able to determine how many units there are in Florida's government.

More than 20 per cent of the 15,000 to 20,000 units have never been formally created in writing, he said.

And, he added, only seven of the 26 departments have given complete replies to inquiries about their organizational structure.

"The legislature cannot get a handle on what they are doing" unless a complete list of governmental units can be compiled, said Committee Chairman Kenneth Myers, D-Miami.

A complete study may take two years, but enough information may be gathered by next April for the panel to work with the Ways and Means Committee "to eliminate some entities that have outlived their usefulness," he said.

Myers said reducing state government will be an essential role of the 1976 legislature.

The present recession-pinched revenue picture, coupled with inflation and the probability of employment pay raises, may present the session with a need to cut spending or raise taxes by $180 million, he said.

The committee authorized Myers to write to the superintendent — Gov. Reubin Askew, the Cabinet or the individual Cabinet member — of any agency that fails to supply the needed information on organization.

"We ought not to be jacked around by some bureaucrats" on an important issue that could save tax funds, said Sen. Edgar Dunn, D-Daytona Beach.

Sen. Henry Saylor, R-St. Petersburg, said that because of the size of the project, it should pinpoint removal of some whole departments, starting with the Community Affairs Department.

To illustrate the problems, the committee staff stretched a 50-foot-long organizational chart around two walls of the committee room.

The chart depicted Comptroller Gerald Lewis' department, the first agency to respond to the inquiry. The department has 450 of the state's 90,000 employees.

Only two of the bureaus have been approved in writing and one bureau chief — without a bureau — has been approved, said Ben Girtman of the committee staff.

Lewis said most bureaus existed at the time of governmental reorganization in 1969 and needed no approval.

He said he welcomed the study because "someone needs to look at the uncontrolled growth of bureaucracy."

Trinity's Football Fate Signed, Seals, Delivered

PETE KNOWLES

JOEL KELLEY

A decision was made last spring at Trinity Prep which was going to prevent the school's football team from being eligible for the state playoffs.

However, after close scrutiny of the facts, most kibitzers would probably agree that headmaster Rev. Canon A. Rees Hay and football coach Joel Kelley made the right decision.

"Basically, it was a matter of us being a Class A school with a Class AA classification," said Kelley, explaining that the decision not to schedule all Class AA opponents within district came not so much as a result of the win-loss aspect, but more simply a matter of avoiding inevitable injuries which follow when small schools play big schools week after week.

"I saw a perfect example last weekend in Sarasota," said Kelley. "Cardinal Mooney plays that kind of schedule, and their kids pay for it. Why, that team was held together with tape and band aids."

Under Florida High School Activities Association guidelines, schools are reclassified according to enrollment every other year.

In Class A football, it isn't really a matter of the physical size of a player. The most important factor is depth. And in Trinity's case, the factor is a lack of depth. With four players on the disabled list for practice this week, the Saints are down to 22 players, barely enough to scrimmage.

"I believe we can beat any Class A school in the state and most Class AA teams," said Kelley, expounding upon the virtues of his small team. "Our line has kids playing who weigh about 160 or 179 pounds. They are up against 200 and 210-pound kids. It's tough. But I've got to hand it to them. They are doing the job."

Haynes' Hunches

By JIM HAYNES

Kelley is also proud of his team for progressing emotionally, too. "If this team was made up of punks, I would have known it last week," Kelley said. "Sarasota was playing — well, I hate to use the word dirty — let's just say very rugged. You know, kicking and cussing at our players. We ignored them and kept running the ball right down their throats. That showed some class."

Trinity won the game, 32-6, but it was 13-6 midway in the third quarter. Mooney learned the hard way it couldn't concentrate only on star running back Norbert Seals.

Brent Matthews did wonders when the Saints used Seals as a decoy.

Seals, a 157-pound speedster, just might be the leading runner in the state with 721 yards on 113 carries. He has scored seven touchdowns in five games.

Last year Norbert weighed only 145, and people could tackle him by grabbing his shirt sleeve. Those extra pounds have given him some power, and he is breaking tackles.

Quarterback Pete Knowles and end Tony Stevens have also provided the Saints with momentum.

Trinity's record is only 3-2, but one loss was to the Class AA foe Jacksonville Episcopal and the other a cliffhanger via the penetration system in overtime. The three wins have been in a row and the Saints have the week off.

"We need it to get our people healthy again," added Kelley. "Keith Van Dyke jammed a finger and we have some other bumps and bruises." Trinity is home the following Saturday against St. Edwards and it is Trinity Prep's homecoming game.

Cardinal Mooney broke Trinity's string of games underscored by the ground — it was four. However, one TD rushing in five games is an enviable statistic for any defense.

Cincy Holds 2-1 Edge; It's Norman Vs. Tiant

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Big Red Machine is in the driver's seat of the World Series, thanks to some sudden power and a spark from a home plate collision.

The Cincinnati Reds unlimbered their big guns and turned a controversial play at home to their advantage for a 6-5, 14-inning victory Tuesday night and a 2-1 lead in baseball's Fall Classic.

In tonight's fourth game, the Reds send left-hander Fred Norman against Boston right-hander ace Luis Tiant at 8:30 p.m. EDT.

"We won tonight because we're lucky — because the good Lord takes care of us," said Manager Sparky Anderson.

Anderson could think of no other way to describe the Reds' pulsating, tense affair that had everything, including the most talked-about play of the 1975 World Series so far.

This was the situation: with the game tied at 5-5 and a runner at first in the 10th inning, Anderson ordered pinch hitter Ed Armbrister to lay down a sacrifice bunt. Armbrister did as expected, but something unexpected followed.

The ball hopped a few feet in front of home plate and Boston catcher Carlton Fisk charged to field it. He had difficulty getting to it, however, because Armbrister was in his way.

When Fisk picked up the ball, he threw toward second base in an attempt to get the lead runner. But the throw was wild into the center field and the Reds suddenly had runners on second and third base because of the error.

The play triggered a protest from the Boston bench, particularly Fisk and Manager Darrell Johnson. They felt the batter had interfered with Fisk's play and therefore should have been called out by home plate umpire Larry Barmett.

The play became all the more crucial, because the Reds loaded the bases and went on to win the contest on Joe Morgan's single.

A seething Fisk had nothing pleasant to say about Barmett after the bitter defeat at Riverfront Stadium.

"He blew it two ways," the Boston catcher said of Barmett. "The first time was when he didn't call interference on the play. The second time was when he didn't call the man out because I probably tagged him after I got the ball."

Johnson was equally incensed.

"I don't need to read the rule out of the rule book," he said. "We all know the rule and Armbrister did interfere with Fisk. The man is entitled to run to first base, but the runner can't come into contact with the fielder before he has the opportunity to field it."

"I went up to the plate umpire and when I didn't get any satisfaction, I went to the first base umpire. I didn't get any satisfaction from him, either. He just shrugged and didn't say anything. Their interpretation of the rule is obviously different from mine."

Barmett, of course, had his own interpretation of the rules, as did the Cincinnati camp.

"I ruled that it was simply a collision," Barmett said. "It is interference only when the batter intentionally gets in the way of the fielder. I signalled that the ball was fair and in play."

Dick Stello, the first base umpire who backed up Barmett during the heated Boston protests on the field, said: "It was not interference. In such a situation, the batter has as much right to go to first base as the fielder has to go for the ball. To make it interference, the batter would have had to intentionally try to impede the fielder from going for the ball. He did not do this."

As was expected, Armbrister swore up and down that he did nothing intentional to block Fisk's way.

"I hit the ball in front of the plate and it bounced high," said the player in the middle of the dramatic controversy. "I

Bench: Maybe This Will Wake Us Up

CINCINNATI (AP) — Johnny Bench still is waiting for the real Cincinnati Reds to stand up.

"I did not like the way things worked out. Maybe this will wake us up," said the Reds catcher Tuesday night after Cincinnati's 10th-inning, 6-5 victory over Boston propelled the National League champions into a 2-1 World Series lead.

"Somebody was looking over our shoulders," said Bench, after the Reds' catcher batted home plate umpire Larry Barmett's favorable call on a controversial play.

Rhubarb Has Boston Fuming

CINCINNATI (AP) — Was it interference or was it just an innocent, unavoidable collision?

"Interference," argued Manager Darrell Johnson, catcher Carlton Fisk and other members of the angry Boston Red Sox, beaten 6-5 on a controversial play situation that sent Cincinnati ahead in the World Series, two games to one.

First umpire Larry Barmett of the American League contended it was a collision — and no violation of baseball law — when pinch-hitter Ed Armbrister of the Reds backed into the catcher after laying down a bunt.

Johnson and his Boston players were furious. They intimated they were robbed.

Manager Sparky Anderson of the victorious Reds told catcher Johnny Bench: "I don't think it was interference."

Barnett stuck to his guns and received support from the first base umpire, National League Dick Stello.

This was the situation: With Cincinnati batting in the bottom of the 10th after the Red Sox had rallied from a 5-1 deficit to knot the score in the home run-studded game, Cesar Geronimo was on first with an opening single and Armbrister pinch-hitting for pitcher Rawly Eastwold.

Armbrister bunted in front of the plate. Fisk rushed to field the ball. As he did so, Armbrister and Fisk came together. Armbrister took two steps toward first, backed up and then started again.

Fisk made the damaging wild throw, allowing Geronimo to race to third.

There was a definite collision. Whether it constituted interference became a question that may be debated for generations to come.

Here are the rules, involving interference:

Rule 2.00 Interference, a Offensive Interference, is an act by the team at bat which impedes, hinders or obstructs a fielder attempting to make a play. If the umpire declares the batter out for interference, all other runners shall return to the last base that was, in the judgment of the umpire, legally touched at the time of the in-

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Randy Wallace of Tennessee and Don Gaffney of Florida pace the passers. Wallace averages six completions to Gaffney's 5.4, but Gaffney has 461 total yards, five more than Wallace. And he has six touchdowns passes to three for Wallace.

Tennessee's Larry Seivers, who was tied for No. 1 in the nation last week, caught only two passes for 81 yards against Louisiana State Saturday, but he maintained his lead in pass receiving in the SEC.

The statistics were compiled by the SEC commissioner's office in Birmingham.

JACKSONVILLE (AP) — If you think you woke up early today, chances are Jacksonville University's 13 basketball players were awake first.

This is the opening day of practice permitted by the National Collegiate Athletic Association. So Coach Don Beasley called his seven veterans and six newcomers onto the court at 12:01 a.m. for a one-hour opening workout.

"We wouldn't let anybody beat us to the punch," the new head coach said. "It's a psychological thing."

Wilt Free Agent With Strings

NEW YORK (AP)—Aging superstar Wilt Chamberlain, who along with Bill Russell ruled basketball's backboards in the 1960s, finally is a free agent today, but there appear to be some strings attached.

National Basketball Association Commissioner Larry O'Brien announced Tuesday that he had given the 7-foot former Philadelphia 76er and Los Angeles Lakers the okay to deal with any NBA club he wants. Chamberlain's attorney, Seymour Goldberg, was not happy with the commissioner's action, calling it "a fraud, an absolute fraud."

Chamberlain, 39 years old, last played with the Lakers and, until Tuesday, had a valid contract with the team at a reported $450,000 a year. The contract continued through the coming season, although whether the Lakers would honor it almost assuredly would have wound up in the courts.

Since the Lakers already had acquired two centers, including Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Chamberlain became an unnecessary commodity. The former All-Star didn't want to report to camp because he said the Lakers as much as told him that he wouldn't make the team anyway.

In a statement read by the Associated Press at O'Brien's office, the commissioner stated flatly that he had taken the action to get the Lakers out of an "untenable position."

He said: "Previously I stated and reiterated that Wilt Chamberlain must report to the Los Angeles Lakers and if the Lakers elected to utilize his services, I would personally intervene in any resulting controversy in order to determine the respective rights of the parties including the rights, if any, the Lakers retain in Chamberlain's services."

"However, weeks elapsed and Chamberlain has not fulfilled this requirement. His attorney has written letters and issued innumerable press statements, but in no way has there been a good faith effort to resolve this controversy."

"With our season a scant nine days away, these tactics have created an increasingly untenable situation for the Lakers in terms of their roster and for the NBA."

However, Seymour said in his conversation Tuesday afternoon with Mike Burke, president of the New York Knicks, who has expressed interest in obtaining Chamberlain, he learned that O'Brien's office had not told all of Goldberg, contacted in Escondido, Calif., said: "There is something missing in O'Brien's statement. Each owner got an additional line that wasn't in the statement which was released to the press."

"The additional line says, in effect, that in the event that Wilt Chamberlain signs with any other NBA franchise, the commissioner shall expect, according to league rules, for that team to adequately compensate the Lakers."

"I promised Jack Kent Cooke (Lakers' owner) that he would not get anything. He's not entitled to anything. It depends now on what Mike Burke wants to do."

Chamberlain jumped from the Lakers to the San Diego American Basketball Association team in 1974 to become a player-coach. A judge ruled, however, that he couldn't jump for any team except the NBA Lakers, who held Chamberlain's NBA rights.

another because of the superiority of their stronger teams. Favorable results are the product of the degree to which each league can stabilize itself through its own competitive balance and league-wide club income potential," Rozelle said.

Pisarkiewicz -- Hard To Spell, Hard To Defend

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Steve Pisarkiewicz, a hollerer on a football field but Tuesday he had difficulty finding words.

Finally, he said: "Gee...that's nice. Thanks... Thanks a lot."

The 22-year-old Missouri quarterback, only a junior, had been told that he was the Associated Press national college back of the week for his school record-setting performance in the Tigers' 41-14 victory Saturday over Oklahoma State.

Zark, a nickname that developed because people struggled to pronounce his full name, came awfully close never to seeing a day like Saturday when he completed 20 of 27 passes for 371 yards, a Missouri record, and two touchdowns.

Zark's heart was set on baseball. He was a shortstop. He had played baseball since he was 7 years old and dreamed of a major league career.

One day as a freshman at McClure High School in St. Louis, he got this idea that he'd try football "to see if I liked it. I wanted to try it out."

Until then, he had scarcely touched a football.

Rozelle: Kill Rule Will Only Hinder

WASHINGTON (AP)—Elimination of professional sports' reserve system, especially the National Football League's Rozelle Rule, would not benefit players or the public, NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle said Tuesday.

He told the House Judiciary subcommittee on monopolies and commercial law "the bottomline premise of all antitrust law is that some ultimate public benefit can be expected to flow from the open competitive process imposed on American business generally—either in reduced costs of goods or improved consumer service."

But, he said, legislation proposed by Rep. John O. Seiberling, D-Ohio, to outlaw the reserve system "would have exactly the opposite effect."

"Public disadvantage and even player disadvantage can be routinely expected in terms of franchises lost to various NFL cities, reduced operations nationally, smaller team squads, lost municipal stadium tenants, declining TV and fan interest, lost job opportunities and higher ticket prices — at least to the decline set in," he said.

"In short, I do not view the present bill as designed to serve the public interest, but as one to disadvantage it."

Grambling Still Tops Small Poll

By The Associated Press

Grambling survived a scare against Tennessee State Saturday and for the fourth straight week remained firmly atop The Associated Press small college poll, released today.

The Tigers collected 27 first-place votes and 366 points after trimming Tennessee State 28-23.

Western Kentucky's undefeated Hilltoppers, idle last weekend, retained their No. 2 position, attracting six first-place votes and 339 points. Likewise, Texas A&M, which stayed in third place with three first-place votes and 305 points after slugging East Texas 36-7 last Saturday, and newcomer Kentucky State with 22 points.

Western Illinois failed to make the top 15.

Stetson, FSU Victorious In College Soccer Tilts

Stetson pulled the soccer rug out from under Rollins Tuesday afternoon as the Hatters chalked up a 2-1 victory.

And FTU pulled a similar feat against Eckerd, posting a 1-0 shutout.

Bill Feltie scored the winning goal for Stetson with 13:42 remaining in the first half. The Hatters scored the game's first goal as Salvador Sanchez tallied thanks to an assist from Mike Deluca.

Rollins got its score with 4:36 showing in the opening half on a goal by Tom Meyer.

Rollins is 5-3. The Tars were ranked No. 3 in the South for Division II. Stetson's 2-4-1. Rollins plays again Friday and hosting West Virginia, 7:30 p.m. at Sandspur Field.

Winston DuBoise picked up his third shutout of the season for FTU. The 1974 All-American goalie from Winter Park had 10 saves for the Knights.

Mario Isaac scored the Knight goal midway through the second half, assisted by Gus Tomero.

FTU is 3-2-1 and plays again Saturday at 2 against South Carolina.

WFL Decides To Stay Open

NEW YORK (AP)—There had been indications that the World Football League, suffering woeful financial losses, would fold. After a two-day meeting, however, it has become apparent they won't face liquidation — for the time being, anyway.

"All 10 teams are returning to their cities with new and innovative marketing plans which, in effect, should increase fan attendance and thereby continue to firm up the stability of the league," said WFL President Chris Hemminger Tuesday, when the decisive meeting broke.

"We are not going to indulge in any more speculation about the viability of the league because its viability, to us, has never been questionable."

"That left others to ask what future looms for the league when its Philadelphia Bell averages 3,705 per game.

FTU Benefit Golf Tourney Set Nov. 21

Golfers will swing for sports at Orlando's Cypress Creek Golf Club Nov. 21, the date of the first FTU Golf Classic. The tournament is being inaugurated to generate much-needed financial support for the university's athletic programs.

The field will consist of 70 two-man teams, including four area pros, according to Classic co-chairman Morris McClelland. At $100 a head, officials hope to net a sizeable entry for the FTU athletic department ledger.

KC Backcourt Crowded As Kings Ink Winfield

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Kansas guard Lee Winfield has been signed by the Kansas City Kings, making them rather crowded in the National Basketball Association team's backcourt.

The 6-foot-3 Winfield joined the Kings Tuesday night after being placed on waivers by the Buffalo Braves, boosting to six the number of guards with Kansas City.

A six-year NBA veteran out of North Texas State and Sumner High School in St. Louis, Winfield was signed by Buffalo as a free agent two years ago after being released by Seattle.

He averaged 5.5 points in 68 games for the Braves last season.

Please Pick Up $125,109

TULUANA, Mexico (AP)—Somebody won $125,109 at Caliente racetrack last Saturday but hasn't picked the money up, as of Tuesday.

It was the second biggest payoff since the track reopened last year after a fire leveled it.

The winning ticket hit on two longshots in the seventh and eighth races. Its holder has 90 days to claim the money, the track said.

Lyman, Herron Nab L. Brantley Postal; Saints Finish Second

Lyman High School's cross country team, getting a major lift from winner Tom Herron and teammates Bruce Caldwell and Mickey Kremer, won the Post Meet Tuesday at Lake Brantley.

Trinity Prep was second in team competition with Brantley third, Oviedo fourth, Seminole fifth and Oviedo sixth.

Herron ran the three-mile course in 9:14.9 to edge Trinity's Thad McQuilly who was clocked in 9:23. Caldwell was third and Brantley's Rick Horta fourth.

Seminole's Willie Calloway ran fifth.

Tuesday's results:

Lyman 51.11, Trinity Prep 52:32, Lake Brantley 53:57, Oviedo 54:52, Seminole 54:45, Lake Howell 59:22, Thad McQuilly (TP) 9:14.9, Bruce Caldwell (LH) 9:38, Rick Horta (LH) 9:51, Willie Calloway (S) 9:58, Bill Schmidt (TP) 10:13.7, Doug Woodman (TP) 10:26, Jim Brown (O) 10:26, Mickey Kremer (LH) 10:33, Chuck Apple (Ov) 10:33.

Red Machine Rolling

started to break for first and Pisk just came from behind and bumped me. The play was behind me, and if he hit from behind, I would say he interfered with me."

If it wasn't for what Sparky Anderson called his "stupid" mistake, the whole business wouldn't have happened.

The Reds had 4-3 lead going into the ninth inning with reliever Will McEneaney seemingly in control of things. The Reds' left-handed bullpen ace struck out Fred Lynn for the first out and the crowd of 55,392 at Riverfront settled back for what looked like a comfortable Cincinnati victory.

Then McEneaney gave up a single to Rico Petrocelli and Anderson brought in Rawly Eastwick to face Dwight Evans. He didn't face him too long, for the Boston outfielder promptly pranked one of his pitches into the left field seats to tie the game and send it toward its unpredictable climax.

"I made a dumb mistake. It's as simple as that," Anderson said. "I should have had Eastwick in there a batter earlier pitching to Petrocelli. I waited one batter too long to bring in a right-hander against Petrocelli."

Cesar Geronimo got things started in the 10th with a single and moved to third on the controversial hit play. The Red Sox issued an intentional walk to Pete Rose to load the bases. Pinch hitter Merv Rettenmund struck out through Morgan came through.

Earlier, Johnny Bench hit a two-run homer for the Reds in the fourth. And Dave Concepcion and Geronimo blasted homers in the fifth, when Cincinnati scored three lines. Before Evans game-tying walk, the Red Sox got solo homers from Pisk in the second and Bernie Carbo in the seventh. The total of six shots tied the series record for most homers by two teams in a game.

Rhubarb Bench Hopes

"I had a feeling it was going to be a play where I (Red Sox catcher Carlton Fisk) use as a hit man," said pinch-hitter Ed Armbrister, whose butt triggered the storm of controversy that the two collided after the ball was tapped.

"I don't feel I interfered. I didn't step back to get in his way," he said.

Barnett said it the same way despite a heated dispute from Red Sox Manager Darrell Johnson.

How did Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson see it?

"I can only say that whenever you hit a ball, you have the opportunity to run to first base," he said. "It was strictly a judgment call, and we can't argue with the umpires' judgment."

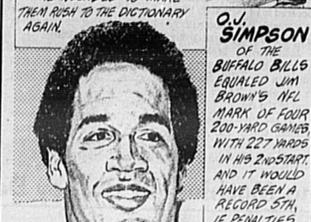

Morgan added dismay over the Cincinnati meltdown. "Sometimes we have the tendency to think as I lead is enough," he said. "Boston proved to us they can come from behind. We had them 5-1 and let up."

It was the second time in three Series games that the Cincinnati bullpen had its problems, and Anderson acknowledged concern.

"I am disappointed with our losing the lead in the ninth because all season long we have been consistent in holding leads we took into the ninth inning," he said. Rawly Eastwick came up with his second series victory, despite a two-run homer in the ninth by Dwight Evans that tied it at 5-5.

Major Hoople's Football Forecast

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE, The Herald Services

Jov, friends, your generosity overwhelms me! Nearly two weeks have passed and still your laudatory messages roll in commending my correctly forecasting the colossal Michigan State 10-3 upset of the favored Notre Dame Irish and — to other prognosticators — Grambling's even more amazing 19-12 upending of the Pac 8 Oregon State Beavers.

Pshaw, was nothing really! Loyal followers of the Hoople Forecast can testify we have pegged the big upsets year after year — har-rumph! And your fearless Forecaster has some more astonishing predictions for you this week.

Conference races dominate the schedule with the powerful Big 8 having a full slate on tap. Handicapping these contests, and not necessarily in their order of importance, the Hoople System sees Colorado's Buffaloes getting past the Missouri Tigers, 28-21, and Oklahoma State's hard-driving Cowboys shocking the Nebraska Cornhuskers, 25-13.

Oklahoma's Sooners will journey to Manhattan, Kans., to meet the Kansas State Wildcats and our book shows a Sooner triumph, 30-12. Meanwhile, the Kansas Jayhawks will take the measure of host Iowa State, 21-16.

There are some interesting engagements in both the Southeastern and Southwestern Leagues. In the Southeastern, Alabama figures to whip Tennessee 34-21; Georgia should have little trouble with Vanderbilt, winning 32-14, and Kentucky will take a cliff-hanger from LSU 15-13.

The big one for the Southwestern Conference matches Texas and Arkansas in Little Rock, Texas, which has dominated this series, will ORLANDO (AP)—England's Glynis Coles, who knocked Terry Holdaway out of a $50,000 women's tennis tournament.

The unseeded Miss Coles won a 6-1, 6-2 upset Tuesday in second-round play dominated by the easy victories of Chris Evert and her touring doubles partner, Martina Navratilova of Czechoslovakia.

Miss Evert breezed past Janet Newberry 6-1, 6-2 in sharp contrast to the recent Mission Viejo, Calif., classic in which Miss Evert had to fight off six set points on a hard surface to win.

Miss Navratilova, seeded No. 2, moved into tonight's match with Laurie Tenney by dispatching of Argentina's Elvira Weisenberger 6-4, 6-4.

Jeanne Evert faces Lindy Boshoff of South Africa and Wendy Overton plays fellow Miami Kathy Kuykendall.

Locks, Dam Causing Controversy

Rivermen, Railroads Resume 100-Year-Old Battle

EDITOR'S NOTE—A century ago the fight was over a bridge; today a dam. But they are the same old antagonists, rivermen and railroads, and it's the same river, the Mississippi. It's a classic battle and the issues are still economic, but this time there's a third party: the environmentalists.

By ED SCHAFER
ST. LOUIS (AP)—Rivermen and the railroads have renewed a battle that began here more than 100 years ago when Capt. James Buchanan Eads proposed to build a railroad bridge over the Mississippi River. The bone of contention today is a dam.

In the earlier fight, which was eventually resolved in Eads' favor by a direct order from President Ulysses S. Grant, it was the rivermen who objected. Riverboat operators feared increased competition from the railroads, and terrified porters correctly viewed the bridge as the doom of their industry.

In the newest squabble, however, it is the railroads which are seeking to block construction of a new set of locks and a dam to replace the old facility at Alton, Ill., about 18 miles upstream from St. Louis.

The 21-member Association of Western Railroads has filed suit against the Army Corps of Engineers, claiming that construction of the $400 million structure was not authorized by Congress and complaining that the environmental impact statement filed by the Corps did not effectively cover the dam's effect on the upper Mississippi and Illinois rivers.

Although the railroads have based their case on those technicalities, they admit that their real objections are purely economic: Large increases in barge traffic permitted by a new dam would take a big bite out of Midwest rail shipping.

"In addition," said a spokesman, "railroad rates are controlled by the Interstate Commerce Commission. Railroad rights of way are maintained out of the road's operating expenses. The waterway, the right of way for barges, is maintained at public expense and barge rates are not generally subject to the same controls as railroads. We feel these factors give the barge industry an unfair advantage in achieving lower rates."

The railroads, which were joined by the Isaac Walton League and the Sierra Club in the court battle, have succeeded in obtaining a temporary injunction banning further planning and development on the dam.

"We feel the delay is unfortunate," said Ken Long, a spokesman for the Corps, "because inflation is driving construction costs up quickly. Every day we are delayed is going to add another $100,000 to the ultimate cost of the project."

The Corps has prepared a revised environmental impact statement, a document of thousands of pages in seven volumes weighing a total of 22½ pounds.

Corps officials counter the railroads' contention that congressional approval is needed for the project by saying that since the structure is only a replacement for locks and dam No. 26, no such approval is necessary.

Two boat operators claim the two 1,200-foot locks planned for the new dam are vital to shipping interests because they are existing 300- and 600-foot locks cause a serious clog in traffic. "We lose money when the locks don't move," said a spokesman for a large barge operator. "Delays at Alton cost shippers about $4.5 million every year, a cost that has to be passed on to the consumer. Last year almost 40 hours waited more than 100 hours to get through the locks."

A recent presentation for Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, chairman of a Senate subcommittee on water resources, noted that while the locks at Alton are overloaded, there are more compelling reasons for a new dam. "Unfortunately, the existing facility is obsolete by most objective yardsticks and potentially unsafe by many subjective evaluations," the report said.

An economic report prepared by the Corps said increasing barge shipping would not have an adverse effect on other modes of transportation and, in some cases, would help by increasing traffic to and from ports.

Environmentalists opposing the new dam charge that the proposed 18-foot sill depth in the new locks is part of a larger plan to increase the depth of the river channel from 9 to 12 feet throughout its navigable reaches.

"Their (the Corps) plan calls for increasing the system's rated cargo capacity from 46 million to 170 million tons annually," said John Cunningham of the Sierra Club's Ozark chapter. "The new dam will be the beginning of a $3 billion program of lock replacement, channel narrowing and channel deepening."

Cunningham claims the Corps' expansion plan would mean the death of species of plants and animals.

The Corps denies that it has any such plans and says the proposed dam, to be built two miles downstream from the old dam, would cause virtually no changes in the upper Mississippi.

Hearings on the proposed dam and objections to it are planned for coming weeks, but a final decision is not expected for months or even years.

Military Record Was One Of Survival

George Washington Was Not A Dashing Soldier

EDITOR'S NOTE — It was a quiet Sunday and there was no pomp and ceremony when George rode into the rebel camp near Boston on July 3, 1775 and became the nation's first Army commander-in-chief. He met his officers and the next day he got down to the business of winning a revolution.

By DON McLEOD
The Continental Congress trusted a man who could be trusted with the first American Army, a man who was competent but most of all politically acceptable. It chose George Washington.

The future father of his country was not a dashing figure as he rode into camp 200 years ago to take command of the makeshift army besieging the British regulars in Boston.

Washington's military record was more one of survival than victory. He was not bold, being given to doubt and self-deprecation. He took reverses hard. He knew melancholy and gloom.

George Washington was a peculiar blend of all that made Americans of 1775 cherish their independence, fight to secure it and win.

He was truly an American creature. He grew up in a country that was still new and raw. He was trained on its frontier, on its rich earth and in its business exchanges.

Washington was born in tide-water Virginia in 1732 when it had passed the frontier stage but was not yet as civilized as the urban North. He knew wealth and he knew hard times. He had advantages and influential friends, but he was largely self-made.

His father died when George was 11, leaving him in the care of a mother who was protective, possessive, restrictive, jealous and selfish. Her apron strings were smothering.

Washington planted less tobacco, turned to simple manufacture, developed a fishery on the Potomac River, planted wheat and operated a mill.

Washington began his military career in 1753 with an expedition to a British post on the Allegheny River, which had been seized by the French. He did little more than bring back the message that the French would not give up.

Washington's time on the frontier as surveyor and soldier also gave him that typical American love of the land, particularly the virgin forests of the west, which in those days extended only to the Appalachians.

British interference with the activity of speculators and settlers on the western frontier, often cited as a leading cause of the Revolution, touched Washington personally.

For the rest of the French and Indian War, Washington served as commander of the Virginia militia, seeing little fighting but learning a lot about military management.

A colonial force on home defense was a tough school for young Col. Washington. It taught him all he would need to know about handling oratory, independent, roughneck colonial troops. Time and again during the Revolution his personal hand put down rebellion, rioting and mutiny.

When Gen. Edward Braddock led a British army against the French, Washington went along as aide-de-camp. Braddock and most of his men were slaughtered, but Washington distinguished himself in saving what could be saved of the expedition.

The massacre was a horror which Washington never forgot, but he drew instruction from it. Washington had great admiration for the British officers, but little for the British enlisted soldiers who broke and ran while the colonials tried to

Feminist Chilled By Her Beau's Chivalry

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: Please help me settle an argument. A few nights ago, I was out with the same gal I always date. We're pretty close. She's very independent about a lot of things, such as opening doors for herself and things like that. Well, I learned to live with that until the following incident occurred:

We stopped at a garage to have something fixed on my car, and because she's a pretty good-looking girl, the mechanic began flirting with her. To start with, this annoyed both of us. When his talk became offensive, I spoke up and straightened him out.

Afterwards, my girl became upset with me, saying it was her place to straighten the mechanic out if she thought he was out of line.

Granted, if she were alone, it would have been her place. But since she was with me, I thought it was MY place.

What do you think?

CHIVALRY LIVES
DEAR CHIV: Most women would be angry with a date who failed to straighten out a presumptuous stranger, but maybe your gal enjoyed it.

In any case, now that you know she prefers to fight her own battles, either give her that privilege or find a less militantly independent girl.

DEAR ABBY: Even though I'm only 13, I have made up my mind to do something I think is very important. Before reading your column I never even gave it a serious thought, but now I would like to donate my kidneys and eyes to someone else after I die.

Juveniles need kidneys, too, and cannot use adult ones, so in case I die before I become an adult, I'd like to leave whatever organs are still usable to some child who needs them.

Abby, I am not glazing an ordinary soon, so please don't feel sorry for me.

Nan Freeman—Cook Of The Week

Husband Taught Her Culinary Arts

By ELDA NICHOLS
Herald Correspondent

Nan Freeman, Longwood, didn't always consider herself a good cook. Laughing, she said, "I couldn't cook at all when I was first married."

"My husband, Bud, is a really good cook, and he taught me! In fact, when we were first married, my father lived with us, and if he expected company, he'd subtly suggest, 'Why don't you let Bud do the cooking?'"

Today, Nan is no novice when it comes to cooking and even collects cookbooks as a hobby. She credits her grandmother with helping to gather old family recipes and getting her on the right track.

Betty Crocker Does Exist

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)— Relax America, one of your favorite homemakers, Betty Crocker, is alive and well, and baking cakes and other goodies in her David City, Neb., home.

Several months ago the legend of Betty Crocker, a General Mills trademark for more than a half century, was shattered. The company acknowledged that Betty wasn't real, but a made-up person.

According to John Wickland of Minneapolis, a spokesman for General Mills, Betty Crocker was created in 1921.

Wickland said Crocker was the last name of a popular member of the board of General Mills' predecessor company, and Betty was a "good American" so the company put them together, using the name to sign company responses to questions from homemakers.

The same year, 1921, Betty Jane Grogan was born in Chicago, and 28 years ago she married Donald A. Crocker, thus becoming "Betty Crocker."

"I just claim the name, but not the fame, but my cakes are as good as hers," said the true-life, flesh and blood Betty Crocker.

However, Mrs. Crocker has been having problems because of her name, especially since the General Mills announcement.

"Today was just a little bit too much to take," said Mrs. Crocker after getting nine telephone calls from pranksters. The calls have become so numerous that Mrs. Crocker has resorted to leaving the phone off the hook. She rejects the idea of getting an unlisted number, but she has entertained thoughts of a name change.

The calls don't just come from persons in Nebraska, but from other states as well. Mrs. Crocker can't figure out how the callers are getting her number, but she wishes they would stop calling at all hours of the day and night.

So far, the callers have been nice. About the worst one was when one caller asked Mrs. Crocker how her crumbs were.

Betty says she likes to talk with the unknown callers, but that it gets very tiring after a while.

"It does get irritating. I don't want to be a complainer, but I do get tired of it once in a while," she said.

Despite her famous name and a good hand in the kitchen, Mrs. Crocker has never won a cooking contest, in fact she's never entered one—because of her name.

But Mrs. Crocker has made the most of her name, and gets a kick out of some of the odd looks she gets.

Two of her prized possessions are buttons given to her by friends. One reads, "Betty Crocker Week," the other says "Betty Crocker for Sheriff!"

Tax Rate Is Blamed On State

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — City councilmen Wednesday night laid the blame for its three mill property tax levy on a law concerning state revenue sharing funds. But two city residents called this year's levy "entirely too high."

Councilman Harry Terry, acting mayor at Wednesday's city council meeting, said the law requires cities to levy a three-mill tax ($1 per $100 assessed value) or its equivalent in other taxes in order to participate in the state revenue sharing program.

Terry indicated reducing the tax to the 1.95 mill certified by Seminole Property Appraiser Terry Goebel would cost the city some $100,000 in state revenue sharing funds this year.

Noting Lake Mary is probably the only Seminole city which levies no taxes upon its property owners and residents except a property tax, Terry said the $30,000 additional tax monies to be received from the property tax this year is not the major consideration.

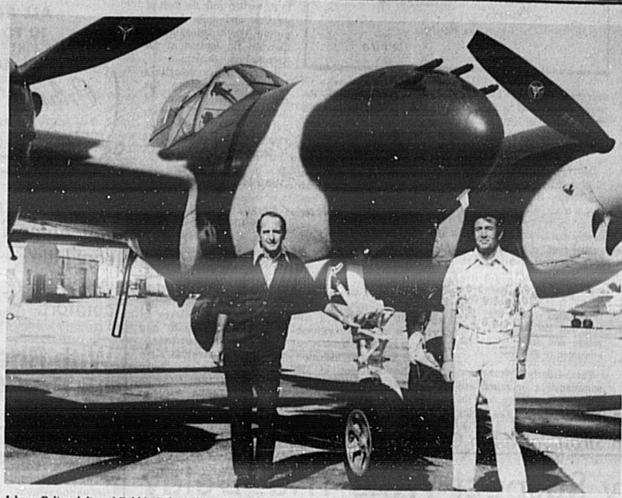

Mrs. Virginia Mathews, from the audience, insisted the people of the community were told when Lake Mary was incorporated 26 months ago that taxes would be held down, adding the taxes when county and school taxes are also considered are "too large a burden for people to carry."

Bob Martin, another resident, criticized an ordinance under consideration and subsequently adopted which set the property tax level permanently at three mills.

Councilman Bert Perinich said the "real horror story" with taxes this year has been caused by reassessment of all properties in the county, insisting the blame goes back to the legislative mandate for reassessment.

He said statements by Goebel's office that the same revenues would be received by the city at 1.95 under the new values as received last year from three mills were not realistic, adding that reducing the taxes would lose the city 50 percent of its income.

Courtesy Busing Depends On Legislature: Layer

By JOE ASKERN
Herald Staff Writer

State legislators must be convinced of safety hazards faced by children walking to school before "courtesy busing" can be provided, Superintendent W. P. "Bud" Layer said Wednesday.

According to Layer, a local bill would have to be passed by the legislature to fund busing for any students who live nearer than two miles from their schools. Layer was speaking at a meeting of the countywide school advisory committee Wednesday night.

Courtesy busing is transportation for pupils living within a two mile radius of their school, for which the district receives no state funds as with regular busing.

School Board Chairman Robert "Bud" Feather said he has standards have yet been established to determine when courtesy busing is warranted. He suggested a study is needed to define "safety hazards" to help the board solve this problem.

Parents of children attending the new Sterling Park Elementary School demanded last week the board either provide courtesy busing or force the subdivision developer to provide better access to the school.

The board agreed to investigate the problem, determine responsibility for providing a bike path and curbing and estimate costs by the next meeting, 7:30 p.m. Oct. 22 at the Altamonte Springs City Hall.

The board last month agreed to provide courtesy busing for more than 60 pupils from the Skyline subdivision who were faced with a "dangerous long walk" to their Longwood Elementary School, less than two miles away.

Mrs. Karen Ehler, an advisor committee member, said countywide survey is being planned on courtesy busing guidelines. Carl Farley, another advisor said some alternatives to courtesy busing may be paid or no busing, or elementary school only.

Layer said the busing or the new state approved films for the general disease program "in themselves are not controversial."

"It is the implementation of the criteria or program by the board which catches the flak," said Layer.

Board member Davie Sims said he believes the purpose of the new countywide school advisory committee shouldn't be to take a stand on such controversial issues.

Feather said the primary purpose of the new committee mandated by the 1973 Florida Legislature, is to provide for better "communication" with the board and also to "add" principals in compiling the annual school progress report.

Board member E. C. Harter said he believes the thoughts and input from the 15 member committee are "valuable" to the board.

Several committee advisors reported that some principals haven't been receptive to the concept of the formation of local school advisory committees.

William MacLaughlin, committee chairman, agreed with Advisor Carl Farley who said one of functions of the new countywide advisory committee is to act as a "sounding board" between the local communities and the School Board.

Layer said it is not necessary to make a "blanket indictment" of school principals. He explained that many "some principals need further counseling" to correct any problems in selecting committee members.

"We should encourage more participation by every principal," said Feather.

"The countywide committee will meet with members of the local school advisory committees at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 18 at Lyman High School, Feather reported.

Mrs. Dede Schaffner, vice chairman of the county committee, said the committee will prepare the agenda.

William MacLaughlin, committee chairman, agreed with Advisor Carl Farley who said one of functions of the new countywide advisory committee is to act as a "sounding board" between the local communities and the School Board.

Roberts Lands Safely Bolton's Plane Lost In Texas

By ED PRICKETT
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford airport officials, a Maitland housewife, and friends of Johnny B. Bolton anxiously awaited news today of the Central Florida automobile dealer, missing since Wednesday when his P51 World War II fighter plane ran into rough weather enroute to Sanford.

Sanford Airport Supt. Ed Turner said four planes flew out of Sanford Oct. 6 and were expected back on Wednesday.

Bolton's plane is still missing. A second P51 piloted by Donald J. Plumb of Orlando plummeted to earth, killing Plumb, who recently moved to Orlando from Windsor, Ontario, Canada.

A third plane piloted by Jim Lerner of Ocala landed in San Angelo, Texas and the fourth, piloted by Robbie Roberts of Maitland landed at Brady, a small town near San Angelo.

Mrs. Barbara Roberts said she was out shopping Wednesday and returned home to learn Bolton was missing and that her husband was en route to San Angelo to join in the search for Bolton.

Bolton was last seen at 2:30 p.m. flying 40 miles west of Sanford. He had 2 1/2 hours of fuel left when his plane broke formation because of inclement weather.

"I didn't know they ran into bad weather. He (Roberts) flew all the time. I don't really think about it," she said. Roberts is sales manager of Johnny Bolton Aircrafts in Sanford.

"Johnny really likes those World War II planes, and so does my husband," Mrs. Roberts said.

"We were pretty shocked, but were relieved when we found out Robbie was alright. I hope everything turns out okay for Johnny," she added.

Civil Air Patrol planes got off the ground in cloudy weather today in a search for Bolton's plane, one of two P51s that did not reach their intermediate destination—the West Texas town of San Angelo.

Maj. Dave Gilman of the Civil Air Patrol said the search will cover an area between the towns of Abilene, San Angelo and Big Spring. Officials say the search is being coordinated by Lonjette Flying Service in San Angelo.

Linda Goble of Lonjette said six planes got off the ground at 10:30 a.m. She said four of the planes were from the Civil Air Patrol, missing since Wednesday when his P51 World War II fighter plane ran into rough weather enroute to Sanford.

Sanford Airport Manager Pat Aiken said planes were coming from "Quite a distance" to join in on the search for Bolton.

Bolton owned and flew a number of vintage aircraft and has been flying in the Florida Wing of the Confederate Air Force for a number of years.

In 1973, Roberts was quoted as saying Bolton "is a pilot, and a good one."

That was right after Bolton brought a prized airplane—the P-38—to the Sanford Airport for restoration.

The P-38, a rare and valuable plane, was purchased by Bolton in California.

Roberts said only six P-38s were left. He said the plane was as "rough as they come."

Bolton is well known in Central Florida auto industry circles.

And his many friends admirably comment from time to time on his love for the vintage fighter planes.

"Ironically, it was from one of those planes that Bolton was last heard from.

Sanford architectural firm that designed the courthouse, doesn't see it quite that way.

John Dragash says he hopes the commission will contact his firm before the study is completed.

"We would like to be a party to that committee," Dragash said. "I hope the commission contacts us, we'd like to give them the benefit of our input."

The vice-president of Guzman-Drasg Associates, the

Featuring Fresh Mushrooms

Meatless Chow Mein A Hardy Treat

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Now that many of us are using foods other than meat or fish for a supper main course, you might like to try a Meatless Chow Mein.

This dish has celery and fresh mushrooms as its mainstay, said at their peak supply from fall through spring. The celery, one of our thirteenth fresh vegetables, contributes substance and the mushrooms their delectable flavor. The almonds sprinkled over the chow mein add "meatiness" plus crunchy charm. An economical way to have the nuts on hand is to buy whole unblanched almonds, then skin and roast them yourself.

By the way, if you are "unfortunate" possessor of one of the fabulous new French food processors, this dish is an absolute breeze to prepare. You can slice the celery and mushrooms and chop the onion and green pepper needed for it in practically seconds—so swift is the processor.

MEATLESS CHOW MEIN
1 teaspoon instant chicken bouillon
1/2 cup hot water
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 tablespoons cold water

1 tablespoon Japanese-type soy sauce
3 tablespoons peanut oil
1 quart thinly sliced celery
1/2 pound thinly sliced mushrooms, about 3 cups
2 small onions, finely chopped (about 1 cup)
1/4 of a green pepper, finely chopped (1-3/4 to 1/2 cup)
1/2 cup white blanched roasted almonds
Hot cooked rice

Supper For Three
Sole Anclair GreenPeas Salad
French Bread Cheese Coffee

1 pound boneless and skinless sole fillets, thawed if frozen
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon crushed dried thyme
Several large sprigs parsley, minced
1 small onion, finely chopped
2 large (generous 1/2 pound) tomatoes (skinned, seeded and diced)
1-3/4 cup dry white wine
Heavy cream
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/2 tablespoons flour

Another way of serving turnips—in a creamy salad

Turnips Add To Family Dinner

FAMILY DINNER
Pork Chops, Turnip Puff, Green Beans, Sliced Tomatoes, Chocolate Cake Beverage

TURNIP PUFF
Really delicious way to serve the rutabaga. 2 yellow turnips (each about 2 pounds), pared and cut in 1-inch cubes and add the salt; boil, covered, until tender—about 20 minutes. Drain well and mash. With a spoon beat in the butter, the egg, sugar, and pepper. Turn into a buttered 8-quart round casserole about 8 1/2 by 2 1/2 inches. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 30 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

United Way Aids Salvation Army

The Sanford, Florida Corps-Community Center of the Salvation Army is a beneficiary of the United Way Campaign. Mrs. Sandra Snelson, whose husband, Capt. James Snelson runs the Sanford center, said most of those who have received help have been waiting for welfare applications to go through. She said the local Salvation Army also has helped people who have been found unqualified to receive regular welfare aid. The local group helps those in need with food, clothing and furniture. Mrs. Snelson said.

Those who need lodging are referred to centers in Daytona Beach or Orlando. In 1974 the Salvation Army gave family assistance including clothing, shoes, furnishings, food, prescriptions, rent and utilities—74 times. On 56 occasions the Salvation Army provided lodging, meals, transportation, clothing, shoes and employment to transients. The Salvation Army also provided Christmas services, including food certificates, toys and parties, 2,313 times and answered spiritual and recreational needs 19,994 times.

The Sanford Center recently moved into a spacious new building on West 24th Street. The new building provides offices, classrooms and a gymnasium.

Board member Davie Sims said he believes the purpose of the new countywide school advisory committee shouldn't be to take a stand on such

Fountains To Get Low Priority

Quoting Shakespeare as readily as any Englishman, County Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski now says his highly touted study on fountains at the courthouse is "Much Ado About Nothing."

In fact, the first term commissioner has washed his hands of the project that would turn the spouting water fountains in front of the courthouse into flower beds.

Assigning it "super low priority status," Kwiatkowski turned the study over to the Office of Management Analysis and Evaluation (OMAE) for study of economic considerations.

Kwiatkowski advised OMAE to work on it "when you have nothing else to do."

What OMAE says may ultimately determine if fountains will be water spraying from the fountains, or evergreens sprouting from a garden.

To make the transition, OMAE will have to determine the economic feasibility. In other words, what would it cost to turn the fountains into flowers. And, what would it be the cost of upkeep for flower gardens?

"If it's a small amount of difference—we'll have fountain forever," says Kwiatkowski.

County Courthouse fountains: Will they be turned into flower beds?

The commission—half in jest—initially assigned the project to Kwiatkowski because of the $17,000 worth of chemicals the officials say are needed to maintain the pools. And commissioners feel the fountains aren't doing what architects designed them to do.

"Some commissioners say moisture generated from the fountains was supposed to float up and keep the windows clean. Also, they say the fountains were designed to cool the courthouse.

Dragash says the fountains "probably add moisture" to the windows, thus windows would be somewhat cleaner.

But the main purpose of the fountains, according to Dragash, is simply to keep the air cool that flows through the vertical chimneys at the courthouse. "Water cools the air as it goes up," he said.

That would keep the building cooler, Dragash said, cutting down on the cost of air conditioning.

Another major factor is aesthetics, or, simply, what is more pleasing to people who visits the courthouse.

Certainly Dragash had aesthetics in mind when he designed fountains.

And on any given day, people can be seen admiring the spraying fountains and listening to the soothing hiss of the water as it sprays upward.

"To me, the fountains are the prettiest part of the courthouse," one courthouse employee remarked.
