

BRITISH-AMERICAN PACT HAD NO FOUNDATION AND THE BIG FIGHT IS OVER

Succession of Formal Denials Comes From All Sources

NO SECRET PACT

WAS EVER MADE BETWEEN U. S. AND GREAT BRITAIN AT ANY TIME

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, March 22.—The twenty-four hour sensation over suggestions of a secret British-American co-operative "understanding," suddenly flickered out yesterday in the senate.

A succession of formal denials, emanating from sources that ranged from the White House on down, showered in upon opponents of the four power Pacific treaty as they were preparing to ask for a formal investigation and apparently put an end to the whole incident.

At the White House, officials said flatly that no secret agreement of the character suggested existed. Secretary Hughes, in a letter read in the Senate, characterized the suggestion as "absolutely false." Paul D. Cravath, the New York attorney whose statement started the row, sent a telegram saying he had been incorrectly quoted and had no knowledge of any "secret understanding."

Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, who presented the Cravath statement to the senate contented himself with saying that what he read was a stenographic transcript of Mr. Cravath's remarks, and that the explanation now made would not be accepted in any court. No one rose to defend the New York attorney, and the discussion drifted to other issues of the treaty fight.

The purpose of some of the irreconcilables to make the incident the basis for a fight to send the treaty back to committee apparently had been abandoned last night. Some senators, however, indicated that they felt a motion to recommit should be made as a matter of form, and it was generally predicted such a step would be taken before the ratification vote is reached on Friday. Administration leaders say they are certain to defeat the motion overwhelmingly.

Mr. Hughes wasted no words in denying the existence of a "secret notes or understandings" with any foreign power, but he conceded his five sentence letter with a hope "that the American delegates will be saved further aspersions upon their veracity and honor." In the debate which followed there was not a single reference to the letter or to the secretary.

Once the storm started by Senator Borah's utterances of Monday had blown over, general discussion proceeded throughout the day with only a small per centage of the senate membership present and with very little give and take argument mixed with the succession of long addresses. Senator Edge, Republican, New Jersey, and Senator Poindexter, spoke in favor of the treaty, and Senator Watson, Democrat, Georgia, assailed it. Today addresses are to be made by Senators LaFollette, Republican, Wisconsin, and Wash, Democrat, Massachusetts, and probably also by Senators Shortridge, Republican, California, Smith, Democrat, South Carolina, and McCormick, Republican, Illinois.

By the terms of the agreement voting was in order yesterday on pending amendments and reservations, but there was no attempt to press toward a roll call.

MEMBER OF COTTON EXCHANGE SUSPENDED

NEW YORK, March 22.—Edward F. Leland, a member of the New York cotton exchange, was yesterday suspended from that institution for six months for "conduct detrimental to the best interests of the exchange."

E. F. Leland and company made the following statement: "The suspension was due to the unauthorized act of a clerk in the New York office, who gave out cotton quotations in a manner to violate the rules of the exchange. None of the members of the firm had knowledge that a rule was being violated and it is a matter of great surprise and regret to them that anything has arisen in connection with their business that would offend the authorities of the exchange."

EXPECT ARREST IN $30,000 JEWELL THEFT

ST PETERSBURG, March 22.—The police expected to make an arrest yesterday of a man believed to have been connected with the robbery of the Owen-Cotter Jewellery store here on Saturday night of more than $30,000 worth of diamonds and jewelry.

A Pinkerton detective is now working on the case, and it is said that a clue has been discovered that will lead to an arrest. Police refused to reveal the nature of the clue. The robbery was the largest in the history of the police department and police say was perfectly planned, indicating that it was the work of professionals. The store is owned by S. E. Owen of Tampa. Mr. Owen carried no burglary insurance on the stock.

MAY MAKE SETTLEMENT IN COAL MINERS STRIKE BUT SEEMS DIFFICULT

Government Will Move Slowly and Wait for the Strike to Begin

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, March 22.—While the government has "not entirely" abandoned its efforts to get a settlement in advance of the coal strike called for April 1, particularly in the bituminous fields, and while the department of justice is studying possibilities of legal redress in case danger results to public peace and welfare, it was learned yesterday in White House and cabinet circles that no action is contemplated unless the strike develops.

Secretary of Labor Davis, who has represented the government in direct negotiations in the industry, had no comment to make when word of the United Mine Workers' call for suspension of work on April 1, in both the bituminous and anthracite fields reached Washington, but Attorney General Daugherty indicated he was inclined to consider that the legal branch of the government might take some steps, particularly in case transportation derangement was occasioned after the strike was under way.

CUTTING THE ARMY BRINGS ON MORE TALK —VOTE REACHED TODAY

House Stands by Action of Committee, Which Drafted the Bill

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, March 22.—House Naval committee agreed today to report a bill fixing the maximum authorized enlisted strength of the navy at 80,000 plus 6,000 apprentices or ten thousand less than the number Secretary Denby declared was needed to operate treaty fleet.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—After approving a clause in the army appropriation bill which provides that by July 1 the number of regular army officers must be reduced from approximately 13,000 to 11,000, the House adjourned late yesterday as it was about to plunge into a fight over the enlisted strength. A vote on proposals to slash the enlisted personnel which now approximates 133,000, exclusive of 7,000 Philippine scouts, to 115,000 or less, is expected to be reached today.

Standing by the recommendations of the subcommittee which drafted the bill, the House in quick succession rejected three amendments which sought to fix the officer strength at different levels. By a vote of 142 to 68 an amendment by Chairman Kahn of the military affairs committee to provide pay for 13,000 officers during the coming fiscal year was defeated.

THE CELERY MOVEMENT HAS REACHED THE PEAK BRINGING GOOD PRICES

TAMPA URGES WILLIAM BRYAN FOR THE SENATE

HAD MEETING YESTERDAY AND DECIDED TO "CALL" HIM

The first local movement to bring Hon. William Jennings Bryan into the race for the United States Senate through announcement of candidacy in opposition to Senator Park Trammell in the Democratic primary of June 6 next, was made yesterday afternoon, when a small gathering of well-known Tampan, men and women, met at the DeSoto hotel.

The meeting was unostentatious, and as was stated, the purpose was to discuss whether or not there was sufficient demand for Mr. Bryan for senator to warrant his running against Senator Trammell, who is seeking re-election. It was the opinion of all attending the meeting that there was such demand, and that Mr. Bryan should be urged to get into the race. The Commoner recently, in an announcement through the leading papers of the state, said he would be a candidate against Mr. Trammell only if shown in some way that there is a demand from the people that he enter the primary.

Attorney A. B. McMullen presided over the gathering. The result of the meeting was a decision to call a public meeting of Bryan supporters, to be held next Monday night, in the court house, at which time there will be a program of addresses, discussion of principles and organization of the Bryan Club of Tampa. It was the expressed belief of those at yesterday afternoon's gathering that the meeting next Monday night will be attended by a large number of persons, representing all walks of life—that the desire to see Bryan in the senate, from Florida, is a large and rapidly spreading sentiment.

There was not the slightest hint of bitterness against Senator Trammell expressed by any speaker at yesterday afternoon's informal gathering. The tenor of the utterances was that Mr. Trammell had served to the best of his ability, but that his usefulness in the greatest lawmaking body in the world could not be compared with that of a man like Bryan, who is a commanding figure, not only nationally, but internationally.

"If the people of Florida send William Jennings Bryan to the United States senate," said one speaker, "they will have put Florida on the map for a fact. Our civic bodies appropriate and spend hundreds of thousands of dollars each year to advertise that state to the people of the country. With Mr. Bryan in the senate Florida will get more advertising without cost to it than it has ever received from its big appropriations. For when Bryan arises to speak in the senate the reporters will sit up and listen to what 'Senator Bryan of Florida' has to say, and they will report it throughout the land by means of the great leased wire services and special services of the newspapers."—Tampa Tribune.

History of the Celery Business from the Pen of J. C. Hutchison FOR FLA. MAGAZINE

INTERESTING DATA ABOUT CELERY AND HOW IT IS BEING GROWN AND SHIPPED

The following article in the Florida Magazine by J. C. Hutchison, manager of the Sanford Truck Growers, Inc., is interesting:

Yes, moving with promptness and despatch,—to old customers,—new customers,—to established centers and to new distributing and consuming markets.

Among the thousands of carloads shipped out of the state this season, several have been consigned to California, from Manatee and Seminole Counties, this supply being for the purpose of relieving the dearth of California celery caused by the loss through unusually low temperatures.

To the markets already established the Florida celery gives the satisfaction and returns that inspire increased planting.

Celery is a magic word in the territorial spots of the state known as celery centers, and which, in several sections, hold sway over the agricultural industry. From the days of early seed planting until the time when thousands of cars speed northward to the ready markets, the very atmosphere of the celery fields is animated with intense thrift and keen anticipation of the yield and the remuneration which is soon to follow.

Celery is grown in all sections of the state, but in some areas environment and soil conditions seem more conducive to the production of this golden bleached product, and in these sections intensive specialization has produced phenomenal results. Not that other crops have been neglected, but rather that celery has been emphasized. Manatee County has, for years, been a large producer along this line, while Sanford, the county seat of Seminole county, has been known a long time as the celery city.

The growing of celery in Florida is close to scientific perfection. With yields up to 1,000 crates, and averaging 800 crates per acre, it is easily assumed that the Florida soil is one hundred per cent adaptable, and the methods of culture in vogue are proportionately good.

The Sanford Farmers' Exchange has recently installed a pre-cooling plant of large proportions. To this plant comes the celery grower, and here is left the product of his labor.

The system takes charge of the celery, wags, grades, packs and passes it on to the cooling rooms. Here it is reduced in temperature, taking from it the accumulated heat of sun and handling, and fitting it for its long journey by scientific cooling methods.

It enters the car at just the right temperature. Loss through excessive service, uncertain variation of temperature, re-icing, and the spoilage resulting, is reduced to a minimum.

Through the vigilance of the Florida celery farmer and his association, when a crate of Florida celery reaches the market it is in prime condition, has the crispness that proper handling insures, and the freshness and original flavor has been retained.

The consuming public is keen to take advantage of these improvements and it means a greater consumption of this health-giving vegetable to deliver it right after it has been so splendidly grown.

This year is not recognized as a banner year for yield, but good prices are being realized and producers are happily inclined. From a comparatively small acreage a few years ago the celery industry has leaped forward in rapid strides. Even with a light yield, this season's output promises to exceed thirty-two hundred cars from the Sanford community. Measured in dollars and cents, this means $2,688,000.00 gross from an investment of approximately $850,000.00, or $500.00 per acre.

The celery producer is a busy man, but his work is usually completed with a highly satisfactory ending.

RAILROAD BOARD MAKES NO RULING ON ELECTRIC CARS

(By The Associated Press) Ocala, March 21.—The United States Railroad Board has made no ruling as to the crows to be employed in the operation of gasoline or electric motor cars on railroads, the Marion County Chamber of Commerce has been advised by the Board. The Chamber of Commerce when its representatives appeared before the Florida Railroad Commission in Gainesville several weeks ago at a hearing upon the application of the Atlantic Coast Line railroad to discontinue several of the local passenger trains in Central Florida, urged that motor cars be substituted for steam trains where the trains were being operated at a loss. Members of the Commission stated that full crews were required to man such cars. The railroads representatives raised the objection that no successful gasoline motor car had been perfected but the Chamber of Commerce, after a country wide inquiry has learned that other railroads are operating successfully cars of this type of new design. The difficulty of segregating the races was offered another objection to the operation of such cars but officials of the Chamber of Commerce believe this question easily could be settled by attaching a light trailer for negroes to the motor cars.

CARPET GRASS A GOOD PASTURE GRASS

"One of the most urgent needs of the Florida cattleman is a good perennial grass that may be inexpensively established on cutover lands where the presence of roots and stumps makes the use of the plow too difficult," to quote one of the prominent range cattlemen of this state. Specialists of the College of Agriculture, Gainesville, answer, "Carpet grass meets this need wherever soil and moisture conditions are right. It is not exactly as to type of soil but requires a fairly good supply of soil moisture. It thrives on much of our flatwoods lands and on locations that do not become too dry. Carpet grass will probably be found more satisfactory for the undrained flatwoods soils of Florida than Bermuda." In planting carpet grass, sow at the rate of five or six pounds of seed to the acre where the native grasses have been burned off or closely grazed. Seedings may be made at any time from April until July, providing there is an abundance of moisture. On large pastures where its success is not fully assured, it is well to restrict seedings to small, select areas; and, if these are successful, seed will be produced which will be distributed by stock to other parts of the range.

COME OUT, CANDIDATES

The State Democratic Executive Committee has met, the County Executive Committee has met and it is now the 22nd day of March or thereabouts and high time that some good men announced—or good women—for the various offices that are to be filled. This is one of the off years for candidates as very few are to run this time and the excitement is so intense that you cannot notice it. The biggest race will probably be for representative from the county of Seminole and as yet no one has announced for this office. It may be that the office will go begging for want of candidates. The other offices will cause little or no excitement and there seems to be no candidate for congress from the Fourth district as yet although one is mentioned who might come from Orlando to enter the lists with the present incumbent, W. J. Sears. Mr. Sears may not feel like running without any opposition and he has said nothing. It seems that people are too busy to talk politics and the campaign promises to be anything but exciting. The primary is on June 6th, some time off yet but not too far off to have a few candidates around. There may be some tall skirmishing for office of county commissioner but no intimation has been heard yet that the present board will be candidates and only William Kilbeo, of the Fifth District, has been mentioned. Maybe in the next few days some of the saviors of the country will come forward and make their wishes known. And then there are the ladies. They can vote and they can run for office and while there are hardly any offices that they may want this time there may be one or two of our public spirited ladies who would like to go to Tallahassee and show those bold legislators something about framing laws for Florida. With the ladies in the hustings it would be lively at least and lend color to an otherwise very tame affair.

STATE PRESS MEETING

(George E. Hosmer in the Bradentown Journal) We believe the executive committee of the Florida State Press Association has made a mistake in calling the meeting of the association for March 31 and April 1. These are two days that most newspaper men like to be at home. They want to see that all their bills are made out on the last of the month, and as many of them collected as possible on the first of the month. This meeting should be largely attended, for many matters of importance will be taken up at it. The question of the attitude of the state press on a number of important matters will be under discussion, and we believe the association should do, as the South Florida Press Association has already done, take action in favor of the enactment of a state-wide law to prevent stock running at large. Also in favor of conservation of state resources, like timber, game and wild birds. The proper publicity of all expenditures of public funds is another measure that the state association should do something about. Candidates for the legislature should be secured that favor these measures, and the newspapers get behind the matters and put them over. It therefore is important that there be just as large an attendance as possible. We would like to see every newspaper in the state represented at the meeting, but we fear that the dates chosen will mean that there will be a small attendance instead. It would be better to postpone the dates one week, if such a thing is possible. Ed. Note: Dear George, the dates have been changed to April 7 and 8; you are a mind reader and an optimist.—Lakeland Telegram. Ed. Note again: Dear Jarge: The dates have been changed on account of your mind being deranged. You are a gentleman and a scholar and a judge of good liquor.

THE VENICE OF FLORIDA

The nights have been too cool this winter every time we have a band concert on the lake front to really enjoy the lake as it should be enjoyed but in the summer time, in the spring and in the fall the lake front concerts will be enjoyed and the people will really begin to appreciate the lake. You hear much about the Venice of America, meaning Los Angeles, but Sanford could be made and will be made the Venice of Florida and in the future years the Venice of America if all the plans can be carried out for beautifying the lake front. Lake Monroe is one of the beauty spots of this section of the state but Sanford has never given any assistance to nature in her efforts to make the lake beautiful. With the present contemplated improvements of the boat basin, the white way and the paved boulevard a fine start will be made toward bringing out the latent charms and advantages of this fine lake that is worth millions with the improvements and worth nothing without them. If the proper background was given the pavilion and the new dock and the boat basin the visitors to the city would get a better perspective and their first impressions would be lasting ones. At the headwaters of the St. Johns, with the Upper St. Johns hardly discovered and the possibility of the canal into the ocean from the St. Johns, with all the beautiful tributaries in lakes and rivers that abound in this section it would be a small matter to make Sanford the Venice of Florida.

MODERN YOUNG FOLKS AFRAID OF MARRIAGE

Here we have been talking about young folks flying into the face of difficulties without number on getting married now and calling attention to the fact that older folks cannot live on present low wages and the high cost of living and here comes the Jacksonville Metropolis and knocks the whole business into a cocked hat in the following: "It takes nerve to marry these days, an Omaha minister says. "Each generation in the past has had the same idea about their particular time. So will future generations. "As a matter of fact, however, it requires less nerve to shoulder family responsibilities today than ever before. Civilization is a featherbed, now than in the past. We only imagine economic problems are easier to meet again they are harder. "Travel back, in imagination, to your ancestor, the caveman. To begin with, had to win his bride by fighting a rival. The lover with strongest muscles, sharpest teeth or longest-handled war club emerged alive and claimed the bride. After marriage, father had to protect his family against raiding, murderous outlaws and monster beasts that modern man encountered only in nightmares and delirium tremens. Oh, yes, it took less nerve to marry in those days. "Go back even nas short a period as 50 years, to the terrible panic that followed the civil war. It took real nerve to marry in those days with the country disorganized, infested with outlaws, and the average person about $10 from the breadline. "In fiction and in history one can still read of the hardships endured by the pioneers who settled the mountain districts and crossed the plains in prairie schooners. A young couple in those days thought nothing of venturing into the uncharted wilderness with only an axe, a rifle, a bundle of bedding, copper cooking utensils, an iron kettle and maybe a luxury like a clock or horse or cow. They got along all right, too—conquered the barren wilderness and handed it down to their children in the form of fertile fields and wooded clearings. "Compared with past generations, even the poorest modern brides and grooms have easy times. The trouble is young folks today want to start where 'the old folks left off.' They want their new house to be full of furniture and a 1922 model automobile in the garage. "Civilization, the featherbed, has accustomed us to soft ways of living—that's why most of us imagine it takes Spartan nerve to brave the economic problems of married life in modern times."

GOLDEN RULE IN BUSINESS

As long as there is "so much human nature about mankind" selfishness will play a star part in every department of life. But while human perfection is unattainable, human progress, is not only possible and practical, but is enjoined as a duty by the very laws of our being as well as by the dictates of religion. Progress is the law of life. To stand still means to deteriorate. We must go forward if we would not go backward. Nature is a strict disciplinarian, but she is as just as she is severe. She as truly rewards the faithful and industrious as she punishes the slothful. With a spirit as utterly catholic as it is impersonal, she inspires humanity by her example; she "plays no favorites." All persons must stand upon their feet—must be the architect of their own fortunes, under Providence, the captains of their own souls. That humanity is reacting to this severe primitive law of life and that this influence is permeating many phases of life is noticeable on every hand. The great war was not without its compensations. It was an object lesson of the necessity of service to others as a corollary to true service to ourselves. Then came the broader view, the inspiration and beauty of service, the recognition of the oneness of humanity and the development of true idealism. While the roots of it may have been grounded in the soil of material necessity, yet its flower and fruit contained many blessings for humanity and the sweet fragrance of it all reaches to the very throne of Love itself.

That war, while it had its apparent demoralizations, continued the deep moral and spiritual lesson, that "no man liveth unto himself"—that big lesson of life, the universal kinship of humanity, the brotherhood of all the races of men, is apparent. This lesson led directly as by wireless, to the consideration and practice of the "golden rule," in everyday life. Where else could it lead? The practical results are seen in many ways, but perhaps in none more significantly than in the organization of the numerous clubs among all sorts of business and professional men. The remarkable thing about these organizations is that while they are ostensibly for business and social purposes, they are in fact the embodiment of a broader and more beneficent purpose—a closer sympathy among all our people and the uplift of humanity everywhere.

Great crisis naturally have the effect of great dangers—for that is what they are. They inspire sympathy through mutual peril—"one touch of nature" that "makes the whole world kin." Such experiences humanize humanity—tend to restore its true perspective, its real relation to life.

Let us not be alarmed or disheartened. The world is growing wiser and better. Despite a discordant note here and there, sometimes inspired by ignorance but more often by selfishness, there is a wider recognition of the beauty as well as the duty involved in the golden rule than ever before since the dawn of civilization.—The Rotarian.

TEACH THEM THRIFT.

The banks are making strong efforts to teach the children thrift, the government is making efforts, the schools and even the churches are assisting in the good work and it is bearing fruit. Savings banks and other means of awakening the children and even the grown people, to the advantages of saving the pennies has aroused spendthrift America as nothing else would have done. "Teach the American children thrift and you will develop a higher standard of citizenship in coming generations," said Mrs. Mary E. La Rocca, delegate to the National Fraternal congress at Chicago. Thrift is a character builder. It makes for better morals and higher ideals. Mrs. La Rocca is supreme guardian of the Supreme Forest Woodman Circle whose 10,000 members, mostly women, have launched an educational campaign that will drive forcibly home to America's children the lessons of thrift, patriotism, obedience to parents and service to fellow-man. Junior circles are being formed of children who will elect their own officers and administer their own affairs under direction of an adult supervisor. "Europe teaches its children thrift from the toddling age. Later they are taught the related responsibilities of life," Mrs. La Rocca continued. "In America where more happy conditions obtain and where opportunities are brighter there is a tendency toward extravagance and waste. This tendency may be found even among kindergarten children with their excessive lollypop allowances, and it is growing more and more conspicuous among so-called "flappers" of high schools with their luxurious frocks and silken hose. "Nor is extravagance the fault of children. It is due largely to examples set by parents. It is due to the lack of proper teaching of thrift." Mrs. Elmira D. Vaeth, New Orleans, La., one of the 13 women comprising the board of directors, and Mrs. Dora Alexander Talley, supreme clerk, Omaha, Nebr., are leaders in the junior circle movement. Both have had long experience in educational and welfare work. At the twenty-seventh annual convention in May plans will be completed for carrying the thrift campaign into every state.

WHY NOT A STRAWBERRY STATE?

Strawberries are easily raised in Florida and always bring good prices. Like other fruits and vegetables people seem to think that they must be raised in certain localities. For many years they were only raised around Starke and Lawley and then they moved the early crop to Plant City and now Plant City is known as the strawberry center of the State although fine berries are raised in every part of south and central Florida every year. We have several successful strawberry growers in the Sanford section who make it their business but everyone here must grow celery or die and the man who could grow strawberries successfully here will not touch them. It is a good crop, a money crop and in the years to come there will be more strawberry growers in the Sanford section. The following from the Lakeland Telegram is interesting: "Florida is in grave danger of becoming known as the "Strawberry State." While it is too early for the citrus industry to worry about its laurels, there is no telling what is likely to happen if the present pace in strawberry production keeps up. For instance, the Plant City district which a few weeks ago hinted it might run its money value total on strawberries up to half a million, has now moved the peg up to three-quarters of a million—$750,000. Looks enormous, does it not? Well, this Plant City output does not take into consideration the score or more of other Florida communities producing and shipping strawberries to the Northern and Western markets. There is Starke, up in Bradford county, Bradentown, Manatee, Sarasota and goodness knows how many more towns all with a huge record for berry output so that Plant City's two million quarts that have brought in so far this season in actual cash $610,000.

07 are not the sum total of the berry industry. It would be idle to guess at this season's total from all parts of Florida but just for the fun of estimating, it might be safe to place the grand total at more than a million dollars for this one delicious kind of fruit."

FLORIDA NEWSPAPERS RANK HIGH

A distinguished newspaper critic not long ago gave it as his opinion that the press of the State ranked as high in ability, in its feeling of responsibility to the public, as the press of any other State of the union, if not beyond the average of other States. We who have observed the Florida press at close range for many years can also say that no other institution within the borders of the State can show any greater conscientious following of duty and honor and service than can the newspapers.

They are always to be found in the very forefront of any and every movement to advance the State, to enhance the welfare of the people. They are and always have been self-sacrificing patriots who have placed service far above self and through their splendid work have done more to create the present-day Florida than any other institution that can be named.

Acrimonious criticism has given place to rational discussion of the vast number of subjects upon which the people are thinking. Personalities, such as were so prominent a feature of the editorial page a quarter of a century ago, have given place to sounder and more lenient judgment of men and measures. Very few editors now use epithets, one toward another. Very few ever allude to other editors by name during the course of their discussions. There is more of culture and good feeling shown than ever before.

Practically all personal journalism has been eliminated in the modern newspapers and there has taken its place a marked recognition of the newspaper's duty to render service. Not the money-paid service, not the politically-rewarded service, but the service that places the welfare of the community and of the country before all else, a service now rendered by newspapers without fee or hope of reward.

And it may be said that there is no institution, outside of the church, that so willingly and effectively renders service and so continuously serves the public and guards its welfare as the newspapers of this country.—Miami Herald.

SOLD ON FLORIDA

One cannot travel extensively in this state without appreciating its beauties and realizing its possibilities. This travel should not be altogether by railroad. The car window tourist sees but little to attract and much to depreciate. I talked with a Massachusetts railroad man recently who was down here on a winter vacation. He told me that after one day on a train he felt that he wanted to turn around and go right back again. His wife persuaded him to stay, since then they have gone around extensively in different sections and are wildly enthusiastic. I took an auto ride this week through five counties and saw much to admire and am inspired more than ever with Florida's future, knowing, as I do, that much that I predicted for her eleven years ago has come to pass, and still being able to see that she is still very, very far from her ultimate destiny as a progressive and prosperous state. I was particularly struck with the wonderful advancement shown by many of the cities, towns and villages along the way. It is an inspiration to see the splendid packing houses through the citrus belt, houses that are second to none in the world, while eleven years ago there was but one modern house in the State of Florida. The splendid type of school building must also impress the visitor, every community worth while having structures that would do credit to any state in the country. I went through prosperous cities that but yesterday were illy-kept railroad stations, or had no existence at all. About ten years ago a prosperous Omaha business man came down to look over some land he had bought, and when he got off at the station near where his land lay he was so disgusted he planned to take the next train back and let the land go. Fortunately he was persuaded to look around; and was later so impressed that he bought still more land and improved it. The place that so disgusted him is now a pretty growing city, with asphalt streets, handsome business buildings, and residents are predicting a population of 25,000 by 1930. Another splendid city on my route led all the cities of the South, except Atlanta, Georgia, in building operation for January and February of this year. It is erecting several steel skyscrapers and its streets are so crowded with automobiles that one threads his way with difficulty through the main thoroughfare. All Florida is coming.—Florida Grower.

ORANGES LOOKING UP

Packed oranges are bringing five to five and a half dollars a box f. o. b. Orlando. The orange market is strong, while the demand for grapefruit is waiting for a later season. Florida groves have many trees which will be ripening from now to June. These will command top prices, and the demand will be such that if the state had a hundred times as many more late oranges they would sell for as fine a price as early ones. Every year finds the demand for Florida citrus fruits greater than the year before. Every year finds more fruit going to meet that demand; and every year we see the growers realizing better prices. It is a healthful sign for the industry. Florida, let it grow and market what else it will, must always be known as the land of oranges. Thousands of homes throughout all the states, seldom see an orange a year, while thousands more perhaps only enjoy a dozen oranges at Christmas. Distribution is getting better, and the publicity of the growers is being made so extensive that if the crop does not hurry along and keep up with the educational campaign, the time will soon come when the scrambling for Florida oranges will be embarrassing to the men who have urged the people to use the Florida citrus fruits.

An unfortunate feature so far of the Florida citrus crop is that it has to be marketed at once. This means glutted winter markets and no fruit for the summer and early fall, with consequent lowered prices for the greater part of the crop. This condition is being fought by the experimenters along lines of both hermetically sealing pores in the skin of the fruit, and by putting it in cold storage. Both plans while showing remarkable promise of benefit are still in the mere experimental stage and doubtful until proved.—Tampa Tribune.

The bonus question the politician has to decide is not "Is it possible?" but "Is it necessary?"

Daily Fashion Hint

LITTLE GUMPE FROCK

Ask any little girl with fashionable pretensions if there is anything that she would like better than a dark blue dotted swiss frock with soft white batiste gumpe, and she will tell you no. Here is one of the reasons in favor of the model. The straight gathered skirt is attached to a wide belt with shoulder straps to match. The gumpe has a round neck, with tab collar and elbow length sleeves. Medium size requires 2 yards 30-inch swiss and 1 1/4 yards 30-inch batiste.

ENTERPRISE

Services were conducted at the Methodist Chapel Sunday morning by Rev. J. R. Cason, agent for the orphanage. The evening service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. W. T. Bencher.

On Friday afternoon the ball team from Lake Helen school, crossed bats with the Enterprise team resulting in a victory for the Enterprise team. Both teams did some good work but the boys on the visiting team were so much smaller than the home team that it wasn't an equal matched team.

Clayton was arrested yesterday morning, with W. C. Phelps and T. N. Lewis, as the second step in the government's drive to wipe out the liquor traffic along the coast of Florida.

The warrants charge that Clayton and the two other defendants and a woman made a written agreement for the delivery of "commodities" to "A. B. Phillips" a prohibition agent, for the sum of $4,050, Clayton to handle the money for the "client" and to turn it over to Phelps and Lewis when the "goods" were delivered.

A photograph of the contract was taken for evidence, and "Phillips" stated that there was a verbal understanding among the parties that the "commodities" were to be liquors.

Clayton last night issued a statement denying that he knew any of the parties concerned before the transaction; that he presumed the money was to be held in escrow by him for a legitimate business deal, such as a real estate sale, declaring that this procedure is a daily occurrence at the bank.

Twenty more warrants for alleged liquor sellers were served yesterday, by members of the flying squadron which is putting on the campaign under the personal direction of Colonel L. G. Nutt, head of the narcotic division of the Internal Revenue Bureau.

Charles E. Young, of this city, has donated a unique gift to the St. Augustine Country Club as one of the trophies to be awarded at the April tournament. The Young trophy is an overgrown golf club called the "Duffer's Delight."

The club has 55 inches in length and attached to it are various appliances which are especially designed to assist the "dub" in improving his game.

The club has a small compass for direction, a level for correct address, a bell for contact signal and a wishbone to be rubbed at every tee. A horseshoe is attached forlmost the wishbone and a bottle of "home brew" dangling from the grip is designed for use in playing the nineteenth hole.

A deck of cards is to be used for slow matches and a slate is provided for scoring. An automobile horn clamped to the grip is to announce the coming of the player and a pipe, tobacco and matches provide the "Ted Ray" atmosphere.

Ernest Turnipseed, cashier of the Citizens' Bank of Dannelon, has disappeared, leaving behind him a note stating that he would not return.

Turnipseed disappeared last Saturday and the note was found after banking hours. The time lock on the vault was set for 5 o'clock Monday afternoon. At that hour the door was unlocked. Complete search of the vault was made by officials of the bank; they stated, disclosed no shortage; nor did the missing cashiers' books show anything wrong. They state his disappearance is a complete mystery.

Henry Ford will not get the Muscle Shoals property, in the opinion of his sidekick, Thomas A. Edison, because of too much "polties."

Mr. Edison discussed a broad range of topics between trains here last night as he passed through en route to Fort Myers where he maintains a winter home. Mr. Ford is to join him there tonight.

"Wall Street is fighting Ford and Ford is fighting back," Mr. Edison said. "The fertilizer interests and Wall Street are as one and politics will keep Ford from acquiring the property."

Mr. Edison's inventive genius continued to function during his short stay here. When told that recent liquor seizures in the state disclosed the contraband hidden in shipments of grapefruit, he suggested it was rather crude work. The liquor should be injected into the fruit itself, he said, by means of a hypodermic needle.

MIAMI BANKER IS ARRESTED ON LIQUOR CHARGE

SAID TO BE ACCOMPLICE OF LIQUOR SMUGGLERS IN MIAMI

MIAMI, March 22.—Charged with being a party to the smuggling of liquors into this country, C. M. Clayton, vice president of the Miami National Bank, will be given a hearing at 10 o'clock this morning before U. S. Commissioner Graham here.

Clayton was arrested yesterday morning, with W. C. Phelps and T. N. Lewis, as the second step in the government's drive to wipe out the liquor traffic along the coast of Florida.

FINAL VOTE ON BONUS MAY BE NEXT THURSDAY

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Speaker Gillett consented yesterday to permit the compromise soldiers' bonus bill to be taken up on the House Thursday under a suspension of the rules. It is the plan to have the final vote before adjournment that day after four hours of general debate, divided between opponents and proponents.

A two-thirds majority will be necessary to pass the bill under this procedure, but those in charge of the legislation predicted that they would have votes to spare. By this method the majority will succeed not only in shutting out all amendments, but also in preventing the Democrats from offering a motion to recommit the bill.

The parliamentary plan for handling the measure was determined upon at a five minutes conference yesterday between Mr. Gillett and Chairman Campbell, of the rules committee. On leaving the speakers' office Mr. Campbell announced that his committee would meet today to draft a rule making Thursday suspension day and increasing the time for debate under the suspension from the usual forty minutes to four hours.

After their failure to get the bill up yesterday under suspension of the rules, those in charge of the legislation appeared to be highly gratified that their original plan finally had been approved. They anticipated little or no difficulty in executing their program on the floor and believed that by Thursday night the problem with which they have been wrestling for several months would be off their hands.

LANDIS TO MAKE HEADQUARTERS IN TAMPA NEXT YEAR

TAMPA, Fla., March 22.—Tampa will be Judge Landis' winter headquarters next year while the major league baseball teams are at their Southern training camps, so declared Judge Landis, baseball commissioner, before leaving here at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon for Jacksonville. Judge Landis, upon his arrival here Saturday noon, was struck with the natural advantages of Florida in general and Tampa in particular as a training center for the major league ball clubs, and so expressed himself to his hosts, President Clark Griffith and A. W. Perkins, of the Rocky Point golf club, who entertained the commissioner Saturday evening and Sunday.

WORK ON SOUTHERN TO BEGIN FRIDAY

LAKELAND, Fla., March 22.—Dirt will be broken for the foundation of Southern College on its new site overlooking Lake Hollingsworth Friday afternoon with appropriate ceremonies; it was announced yesterday.

A. M. Kellar, superintendent of construction of Huggan Brothers Company of Montgomery, Ala., which has the project in charge, arrived in the city yesterday. He announced he would employ local labor on the work.

There is some disagreement concerning the shape of the world, but there seems to be general understanding that it's in darned bad shape.

WHEN YOU WAKE UP DRINK GLASS OF HOT WATER

Wash poisons and toxins from system before putting food into stomach.

Wash yourself on the inside before breakfast like you do on the outside. This is vastly more important because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing illness, while the bowel pores do.

For every ounce of food taken into the stomach, nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out of the body. If this waste is not eliminated day by day it quickly ferments and toxins which are absorbed or sucked into the blood stream, through the lymph ducts which should seek only nourishment.

A splendid health measure is - to drink, before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless way to wash these poisons from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels; thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the alimentary canal before eating more food.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs but very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiastic on inside bathing.

DEATHS

DEATH OF EDWARD KNIGHT

Edward Knight died in Denver Colorado on the 15th of March after a lingering illness of several years. He was 27 years of age at the time of his death and was a former resident of this city where he was an employee of the Southern Bell Telephone Co. He enlisted in the army during the war and shortly after his discharge it was found that he had contracted tuberculosis and he was sent to Colorado to a government sanitarium for treatment but he never fully recovered his strength and passed away after three years of struggling against the dread disease.

He leaves a mother and father here, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Knight, who reside on the West Side and a sister, Mrs. Zitrower, to mourn his loss. The funeral occurred at the home of his parents yesterday (Tuesday) afternoon at five o'clock, Rev. Burhans, of the Congregational church officiating and interment being made in Lake View cemetery.

CITY AND COUNTY AUTHORITY CLASH IN GENERAL MIXUP

(By The Associated Press) FORT PIERCE, March 22.—The ruckus here between the law and the individual has apparently blown over with Sheriff Ruffner, exponent of the former, breaking about even.

The affairs between state and subject waxed warm for a time, however, so to speak, and threatened to involve the constitutionality of a local fire-arm ordinance.

It all seems to have started when the sheriff spoke out of his turn. A stranger, one of the principals of the controversy, whose name has not been made public, was idling about the court house. Sheriff Ruffner eyed him officially for a time and then approaching him, inquired: "You seem to be waiting about here for something. I'd like to inquire your business here. What are you doing here?"

"None of your — business. Who are you?" The few words remaining before action centered about whether or not it was the sheriff's business, and the stranger unfavorably impressed at the sheriff's revelation of his identity, proceeded to knock him down, beat him and flee. The sheriff fired into the ground and the stranger halted. He was placed under arrest and the following day fined $15 and costs for assault.

Then someone placed a charge of discharging a firearm in the city limits against the sheriff, and a local attorney announced he would voluntarily prosecute the case, and summoned an array of witnesses.

The attorney did not appear at the hearing before the mayor, however, and the sheriff's counsel, setting forth that the affidavit against the sheriff did not specify the kind of firearms used; that the sheriff was acting in his official capacity; that the firearm ordinance is unconstitutional, and therefore void; that the affidavit did not state in what manner the said firearms were discharged, and finally the absence of a prosecutor—with all this in favor of the defendant the charge should be dismissed.

The mayor saw the point and quashed the charge, returning to the sheriff $25 he had furnished as bond.

PRESCRIBED WHISKEY FOR POLICEMAN WITH BAD RESULTS

(By The Associated Press) JACKSONVILLE, March 22.—A medical treatment that removed the wrong ailment is the basis for an attempt by one of Jacksonville's policemen to recover financial balm from the city council.

The copper, with the corroboration of several councilmen, claims he was stricken ill in line of duty. The city physician prescribed whiskey with such potent qualities that he became delirious and created a disturbance in his neighborhood. Then along came a fellow officer who arrested him, the result of which was the loss of his uniform for drunkenness.

The councilmen although lending a sympathetic ear to the policeman's story, disclaimed jurisdiction and suggested that it be brought before the city commission.

PERSONAL POLICIES AND PERSONAL WISHES ARE NOT CONSIDERED

(By The Associated Press) ORLANDO, March 22.—"Commercial policies" and "personal wishes" are not to be considered in the application of the law, according to County Judge Frank A. Smith, who informed the Orlando Chamber of Commerce that he could not remit a fine imposed upon a winter visitor of Columbus, Ga., for failure to have a 1922 motor vehicle license.

The civic body had protested against the action of Sheriff Karel and his deputies in docketing visitors whose states allow them to use the old license later in the new year than does this state. The Columbus visitor's case was called particularly to Judge Smith's attention following a complaint by the Columbus Chamber of Commerce, the local chamber asserting, in effect, that Orlando would suffer commercially if the visiting motorist were thus dealt with.

Judge Smith's reply to the local chamber of commerce said in conclusion:

"Briefly, I would reply to you that it is my duty to decide cases according to the laws which I consider applicable, regardless of personal wishes or consideration of local commercial policies."

ASBESTOS SLOW IN DEVELOPMENT

Ancients knew of Qualities but Technic; Difficulties Delayed Its Use.

REDUCES HONORS OF FIRE

Used by Romans for Funeral Dress of Bodies Which Were to Be Cremated—Asbestos Curtains Common in Theaters.

New York.—It is not so very long ago that a fire on the stage of a theater was an ever present menace to the audience. Today most playhouses possess an asbestos curtain which can be dropped at a moment's notice and which will absolutely confine any fire to that part of the theater. Asbestos is a mineral, found in the earth just like coal and iron, and mined. A few years ago it was merely a curiosity to be found only in the laboratory of the chemist. Today it is used in many ways and forms an important factor in the industrial market of the world.

This mineral is not a modern discovery. Asbestos was known to the ancients. The Romans used the substance, deriving their supplies from the Italian Alps and the Ural mountains. One of the uses to which asbestos cloth was put in those days was to wrap bodies which were to be cremated. In fact, it was called the "funeral dress of kings," as so much difficulty was found in making the cloth that only a king or the extremely wealthy could afford it. The shrewness of the modern development of the asbestos industry has been caused by the technical difficulties of weaving the short silky fibers into cloth or combining them in other ways to produce articles of commercial utility.

Comes From Canada.

The asbestos used in the United States comes almost entirely from Canada. There are deposits of the mineral in Arizona, California, Georgia and other states, but this is not of the high quality of the Canadian asbestos. There are various types of asbestos, and the sort that can be carded, spun and woven in a manner similar to wool, flax or silk is found mainly in the Thedford mines of Quebec. It is this property of the mineral that fooled the Roman historian, Pliny, in thinking it to be of vegetable origin and that has given rise to its designation as the "mineral vegetable" and the "physical paradox."

Nonburning Qualities Known.

The raw asbestos is subjected to a dressing process which consists of separating the asbestos from the rock in which it is imbedded. In the low-grade product machines are used for this, while in the high-grade material hand dressing is resorted to.

The fact that asbestos will not burn was known ages ago, and while that is responsible for a very important and valuable application of the substance today, it does not constitute the sole use of this product. The theater curtains are spun from asbestos fiber of the best quality. About 1,000 of these curtains are made each year. The largest asbestos curtain in the world is found in the Hippodrome. In some theaters asbestos cloth is also used as a lining for walls and ceilings and there is also a tendency to make all the scenery on the stage and the draperies from this material.

Has Many Uses.

Asbestos cloth coated with rubber is used in making gaskets and packings for high pressure steam pipes. The cloth is also used in laundries, hotels, the automobile, the linings of brakes and for a host of other purposes. Perhaps the most interesting use of asbestos cloth is in the manufacture of garments. The firemen clad in asbestos boots, trousers, coat, gloves and headgear would be fireproof to a high degree, and could fight fires with much more comfort and effectiveness. Most of us are familiar with asbestos table covers and pads, flatiron holders, baking sheets, stove mats and other articles common in the household.

The asbestos fiber can also be woven into a rope useful in fire fighting. These fireproof ropes are not heavy, do not become slippery and are not injured by water. Asbestos twine is made for use in the laboratory, sewing thread and incandescent lamp thread.

Asbestos, being also heat insulating, is used in covering steam pipes, boilers and all sorts of heating surfaces to prevent the loss of heat by radiation. Not only will an asbestos coating keep the heat within the pipe but it will also keep heat from entering pipes, and it is used in covering refrigerating pipes and apparatus.

Asleep, That Was All.

Lafayette, Ind.—Raymond Straub, eleven years of age, a newshy, was found unconscious in the hallway of a hotel here one night and was taken to a local hospital in the belief that he had been injured or perhaps poisoned. The lad could not be aroused, and physicians worked several hours trying to determine what was the matter. When the boy awoke he was surprised to find himself in the hospital. He told the doctors that he was tired and exhausted when he entered the hotel, and it was determined that the boy was only sound asleep when he failed to respond to restoratives.

MISSING MIAMI GIRL ON HER WAY HOME

(By The Associated Press) WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 22.—Theo. Flowers, thought to have been kidnapped by two men in Miami, was on her way home last night, passing through here on the train. The two men, Grover Mills and Claude Smith, according to the girl, are being held in Fort Pierce. The girl said she wanted to get back to Atlanta where she had formerly lived, and that this was all there was to her disappearance.

PLAN TO FIGHT BOOZE FROM AIR, LAND AND WATER

WASHINGTON, March 22.—A twentieth century booze blockade—composed of airplanes, subchasers, and speed automobiles, linked together by wireless—is being set up by the prohibition bureau. Plans are maturing, officials declared here yesterday for a 10,000 wall about the United States to stop the flow of allan rum.

With this blockade 100 percent effective, prohibition chiefs are confident the only source of supply of "good" liquor will be completely cut off and that drinking will pass because of inability to obtain pure booze.

In working out this plan Commissioner Roy A. Haynes already has obtained the use of airplanes on the Florida and Texas border.

Secured a fleet of nine subchasers to work in south Atlantic waters. Concentrated highly equipped forces on the New York, New Jersey and New England coast lines practically chasing the majority of smugglers from that section.

Set up a system of wireless communication along the Canadian border in Michigan to enable law officers to chase smugglers more readily.

Haynes intends to send experts to the territories where smugglers now are concentrating to build up the blockade gradually. It is understood Texas will be center of operations after the full force is organized in the South Atlantic. The Canadians border then will be taken up, it is believed.

This will necessitate the expenditure of more than a million dollars from the appropriation granted by congress. The situation in the interior, however, where complete co-operation of state and civic officials will effect a big saving this year makes a larger amount available to build a blockade.

HENRY FORD HERE IN PRIVATE CAR

JACKSONVILLE, March 22.—Henry Ford left here this morning in a private car this morning for Fort Myers. Thomas A. Edison is due to arrive in Fort Myers today. Both are on vacations.

THE CELERY MOVEMENT HAS REACHED THE PEAK, BRINGING GOOD PRICES

(Continued from Page One) He plans early. Beginning in August, and sometimes in July, the celery producer plants his seed. From that moment his mind is constantly anticipating the ripening fields and splendid harvest. During September and October he is busy transplanting the tender plants to the open field. These he places in rows thirty inches apart, netting the plants about three to four inches from each other. In this way he sets about 29,000 celery slips to the acre.

Prior to the transplanting period he has carefully prepared the soil for the inception of the plants. The smooth, sandy loam has been nicely plowed during the summer months. Fertilizer is carefully placed over the plowed land, and then, by means of a harrow is thoroughly mixed with the soil. Commercial fertilizer composed largely of potash, phosphate acid and ammonia is used, and approximately four tons are spread to the acre. The harrowing process produces a field which is smooth and glossy and completely pulverized.

Seventeen hundred acres surrounding Sanford are this year under cultivation, while large areas in Manatee county have been similarly prepared. When these vast tracts, tightly knit together, acre on acre, begin to burst forth in pale green, with the thousands upon thousands of long rows showing symmetrically in the golden sunlight, there is a scene that attracts and is possibly responsible for alluring many farmers to Florida. He who has never beheld such a mid-winter scene, nor breathed the odor of growing celery, is practically incapable of producing an imaginative picture of the beauty and charm of it all.

The bleaching process begins about ten days prior to harvest. Long strips of bleaching paper are run down the sides of each row, and during this boxing period the celery becomes well prepared for the commercial market.

The harvest season is at its height in February. It is during this period that the entire country seems to be alive with teeming workers. Everywhere activity of the most aggressive nature is shown. Crates and box cars and transportation vehicles mix and mingle with the song of the harvesting machines and the hurry and bustle of the laborers.

The harvesting machine, now in general use, looks somewhat similar to a plow. Its two wheels straddle each row of celery and, as the machine is propelled from one end to the other, the knives, which are attached to the wheels, neatly and quickly cut the bunches of celery close to the ground.

Ten inch crates are used for packing, and about 336 crates are loaded to each refrigerating car.

The celery fields of Florida are practically immune from any effects of cold weather. A temperature as low as 16 or 17 degrees above zero, if sustained for several days, would prove disastrous, but such a phenomenon is almost removed from the realm of the probable.

The co-operative market plan is largely used in celery sections. The growers combine their shipments and load solid cars, which in turn are sold by the co-operative organizations, which, in reality, is the growers' organization. By this co-operative marketing plan the grower secures the highest price the market affords at all times at a small item of cost, necessary to the operation and maintenance of the association.

It must not be imagined that the Florida celery grower, even after a phenomenal dividend producing year, is contented to sit idly by until the following season.

Nature, his closest ally, has made it possible, literally speaking, that every month shall be a growing month, and no sooner has his celery been harvested when he turns his thrifty hand to further diversification.

It is this diversification that has made it possible for hundreds of Florida truck growers to erect large state-ly homes on their farms that contain every element of the comfort, convenience and elegance of many mansions that grace the boulevards of our large cities.

While Seminole county has always been a pioneer in the Florida celery situation, but even so, it has not been so many years ago that the growing of this product upon a real commercial scale was practically extinct.

But what a contrast today. Thousands of acres now glisten in the warm Florida sunshine where but a few years ago stood wooded dells, filled with bird life and wild game. It might be in order to say a few words relative to a question that has been asked many, many times. "Do you think I could grow celery?" Assuredly yes.

We have in our midst cotton growers from the Carolinas, apple growers from New York, corn growers from Iowa, and wheat growers from far western Canada. They have all made a success at celery growing.

With the helpful suggestion and close co-operation from the Growers' Association, with the personal assistance of our splendid county agent, and the invaluable advice and bulletins so gladly furnished by the department of agriculture, at Gainesville, celery growing has been raised to a standard of scientific perfection available to all who are willing to apply themselves.

Many stories could be told of the phenomenal success of some, but lack of space prevents.

To those that read this article and feel at some future date a desire to join this army of truck and celery growers, let me say that this narrative was by no means written to allure, but merely to assure.

While in Florida you have the advantage of nature's greatest gifts—soil, water and climate—nevertheless it is those who display good judgment, practice thrift, and work hard who receive the benefit of that which has made the Celery City famous, and justifiably called "The City Substantial."
