Cost Figures For Old Hospital First Project

County Picks Architects For Office Space Design Work

Seminole County commissioners today approved a contract with a Winter Park architectural firm for design work on new county office space.

The agreement calls for Helman, Hurley, Charvat, Peacock-Architects, Inc., to perform a scope of services on the projects and then submit work orders to the county for approval.

The first project the architect will undertake is a cost analysis of the county commission's move into the old Seminole Memorial Hospital Building.

Acting County Administrator Jim Easton recommended the firm study the project on two levels. The first level is assuming the move of county offices into the old hospital building, expected to begin in March, is temporary and calls for only moderate improvements. The second level is a permanent move, with permanent modifications, into the building.

"We don't want to hand the commissioners the first chapter

'We don't want to hand the commissioners the first chapter of a book on move-in and never see the total cost.' —Jim Easton of a book on move-in and never see the total cost," Easton said. The architect will be responsible for the work but all work orders submitted by the firm will be reviewed by the county's space consultants, Walter H. Sobel & Associates of Chicago.

After Sobel's review, a committee of county officials will look at the plans to see if they meet the everyday needs of the departments affected.

One commissioner, Public Services and Development Director John Percy, Purchasing Director Joann Blackmon, Budget Director Eleanor Anderson and Building Official Don Flippen will serve on the committee, along with the head of the department being affected.

After the committee review, the plans will be submitted to commissioners for approval.

The commission did not set a priority for the plans beyond the hospital move. After commissioners and their staff agencies are moved into the old hospital, the other constitutional officers are scheduled to move as space warrants.

As they are moved out, the courthouse will be given over to the judiciary system.

The renovations needed for that changeover also will be handled by the architect, in addition to plans for the county's new health clinic, plans for an office building adjacent to the courthouse and a master plan for 15 acres the county plans to acquire next to the county's Five Points complex.

State Lawmakers Offer County No Help On Requests For Road Funds

By MICHAEL BEHA

Seminole County commissioners made it clear to the county's legislative delegation Monday that they need money for highway projects.

And the seven members of the delegation made it clear in return — Help yourself.

Commissioners told the legislators the county has $180 million in projects necessary to upgrade county and state highways and asked for additional money from the state to help meet those needs.

But the legislators said if any more money is raised for transportation by the state this year it will be used to match revenue from a federal gasoline tax increase.

They told commissioners to put a 1-cent gasoline tax on the ballot, a move commissioners oppose.

Slate Sen. Toni Jennings, R-Orlando, said license plate fees most assuredly will be raised by the legislature in the upcoming session but she said those funds will have to be spent to attract federal funds.

State Sen. John Vogt, D-Cocoa Beach, said, "I don't see a whole lot of hope for transportation problems in the next two years."

Only one member of the delegation, Rep. Thomas Drage, R-Orlando, voiced his support for an increase in the state gasoline tax to help the counties.

And a poll of commissioners found them just as reluctant to put a 1-cent gasoline tax on the See ROAD, Page 2A

Sanford Helps Marina, Inn To Fund Work

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Requests for help from the owner-operators of the Holiday Inn on the lakefront and Monroe Harbour Marina, both located on the city-owned Isle, were unanimously granted by the Sanford City Commission Monday night.

J. Wallace Schoettelkotte, Fred Salgado and Edward F. Welch had asked for changes in its city lease to permit refinancing some $1.63 million in mortgages for the inn while Charles Volk wanted the city to cosign a $100,000 note to dredge the silt buildup in the basin harbor and to extend the bulkhead north about 300 feet.

Attorney Bill Hutchison, representing the motel operators, said the refinancing will bring a better interest rate and include about $130,000 for interior improvements at the facility, required by Holiday Inns of America for the partnership to retain its franchise.

The dredging is necessary for Volk's operation if larger vessels are to be berthed in the harbor. Volk plans to get financing for $275,000 on his own to increase the number of slips in the harbor to accommodate 80 more boats. The marina now has 120 berths.

City Manager W. E. "Pete" Knowles said the 14,000 cubic yards of dirt removed from the basin will be used to improve the beach area at the isle. The beach has been seriously eroded.

In addition, the city waived up to $10,000 of the fee it receives annually from Volk's operations. That money will go toward repayment of the loan for the maintenance dredging.

As part of the lease arrangements, the city receives a percentage of the motel and marina operations, based on a percentage of the gross business of each.

During the current year, the city has budgeted to receive about $11,000 from the marina and about $20,000 from the motel.

In requesting modifications of the lease agreement, the motel partnership withdrew a request to immediately exercise an option to extend its lease 45 years. The current lease, which has 39½ years to go permits that exercise during the last six months of the period, sometime in the year 2022.

The modifications approved by the commission changes the name of the leasehold from Seminole Resorts, Inc., to Seminole Isle Properties.

Hutchison said the new mortgage will be held by either Greyhound Leasing and Financial Corp. or Great Southern Federal of Savannah, Ga., or by another recognized institutional lender.

Salgado said the partnership will pay an interest rate of 13 percent annually on the consolidated mortgage, rather than the 17 percent to 18 percent interest it is now paying for various mortgages and loans.

He said the interest rate will be renegotiated in five years.

Perhaps by 1984 an expansion of the facilities will be undertaken to build a larger lounge area to seat 140 patrons, compared with the current seating for 125, Salgado said.

The $130,000 in new money plus an $80,000 letter of credit will be used to furnish and refurbish rooms at the motel, Hutchison said.

"None of the money (realized from the refinancing) will go back into the pockets of the investors," the attorney said.

The refinancing will not increase the city's liability for the property, Mayor Lee P. Moore emphasized. Knowles added that if the partnership should default on the mortgage, the city could lose the $1.05 million of tax money used to create the Lake Monroe Isle in the 1960s.

"The taxpayers put the land there," Knowles said.

While the commission voted unanimously to approve the changes in the lease to permit the refinancing, Commissioner David Parr said, "I feel we are doing the best thing for the Holiday Inn and the city. I hope we won't live to regret it."

It was explained that if the partnership defaults on the mortgage, the city will have the option of assuming the mortgage and taking over operation of the motel or of losing the land it occupies.

Volk, speaking for the dredging operation at the marina, said the "sandbar" or silt buildup inside the basin presents a hazardous condition for any boat with a keel. He is planning to construct 80 new slips for boats, gearing those slips toward larger boats than are currently anchored at the basin.

Of the proposal to cosign the note for the dredging, Knowles said the dredging is a maintenance function and the city has a degree of responsibility for maintaining its property.

MX OK'd

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan announced today a bipartisan agreement with Congress that would ensure production funding for the MX missile, but delay any actual outlays until Congress approves a basing system.

Reagan appeared before reporters in the White House press room after meeting with Republican and Democratic senators in an effort to save the MX after House rejection last week of $988 million in production funds.

Girl, Man Killed In Separate Wrecks

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

An 11-year-old Casselberry girl and a 28-year-old DeBary man are dead today as a result of injuries they received in two separate traffic accidents.

Cindy Dominguez of 428 Elm Drive was hit by a car while crossing an Orlando street Saturday at about 9 p.m. The young girl was taken to Orlando Regional Medical Center where she died Monday as a result of injuries received in the crash, officials said.

The driver of the car, a Volkswagen, was John J. Kajkowski, 28, of Orlando, police said. He was not injured in the collision which occurred at South Orange Avenue and Crystal Lake Drive.

"We're still working on the investigation but at this point it appears that the girl was with her grandparents at a restaurant when she asked the grandparents if she and her brother could go across the street to a store," said Orlando police investigator Tom Smith.

"They allowed them to go but told them to meet back at the restaurant at a certain time. Well, evidently the girl was running back to the restaurant from the store when she ran into the street and was hit by the car."

Police added that no charges have been filed in the incident.

Meanwhile, Ken Mayo of 27 Volusia Drive was killed after he lost control of his 1973 Porsche when it ran off the road and ultimately struck a power pole, according to the Florida Highway Patrol.

Troopers said the single-car accident occurred along Doyle Road in Deltona at about 7:45 p.m. Monday. Mayo was rushed to Central Florida Regional Hospital following the crash but he was reported dead on arrival, troopers said.

TAX REVOLT

Mrs. Reba Kennedy of Longwood (left) hands in tax revolt petitions with the signatures of 5,864 Seminole County residents to Cami Bruce, Seminole County supervisor of elections. Mrs. Kennedy and Al Burbank of Lake Mary Monday afternoon handed in the petitions and $586.40 to cover the cost of county officials checking the petitions to verify that each signer is a Seminole County resident. The petitions are part of the statewide Floridians For Tax Revolt movement which seeks a referendum next November that, if successful, would require state lawmakers to hold a referendum each time they wanted to increase a tax.

Shop At Second Image For Christmas Savings

You'll have more "jingle" in your pocket if you do your Christmas shopping at Second Image located in the Pine Crest Shopping Center on Highway 17-92 at 27th Street in Sanford. In addition to an expanded inventory of fashionable women's merchandise you will find a lot of brand new gift jewelry sets including Jordache necklaces.

If you are planning a wedding, there is no need to spend a small fortune for a beautiful bridal gown. At Second Image you will find the wedding gown of your dreams for a price you can afford. They have a large selection of traditional gowns for sale and rent.

You will find plenty of convenient parking space and for the convenience of their customers Second Image will remain open from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. through Dec. 23. They will be open on Christmas Eve until 5 p.m.

There are styles including detachable trains in new and almost new gowns from size 3 to 18. Second Image also has bridal veils for sale and a selection of gowns for bridesmaids and the mother of the bride.

Co-owners of the quality consignment shop, Margie and Aubrey Combs, relocated their store from South Sanford Avenue earlier this year to the new location next to Medco Drug Store and Jewel T to better serve their customers at the same affordable prices.

If you are looking for an outfit to wear to a "Fifties" party or a costume party, Second Image is the place to go. They can put together an outfit from their vintage collection. Last year they helped several customers put together costumes that won prizes.

You will find a large selection of clothing including a sales rack marked down for clearance. Second Image specializes in new and almost new women's clothing including the popular western look.

Consignment items are reduced up to 25 percent after 30 days and up to 50 percent after 60 days. Margie is always looking for new consignments in current styles and new and "like new" condition from local individuals and retailers. The price is agreed upon by the consignee and Second Image, which receives 60 percent of the sale price after the sale. Any items not sold may be picked up at the end of 90 days by the consignee.

They have women's clothing from size 3-56. Fashions range from long and short formal to sportswear, including famous name brand dresses and designer jeans.

Visa and Master Charge cards are accepted and Second Image offers a convenient lay-away plan. The store is open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Friday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. For further information call 323-9421.

Frustrated And Desperate, Stranded Man Commits Suicide

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (UPI) — Photographer Carl McCunn, stranded in the Alaskan wilderness, ate rabbit heads and tree bark to stay alive. Finally he could bear the cold and hunger no longer, asked God's forgiveness and shot himself, his diary shows.

diary to establish a search and rescue team for people in similar situations.

"I chickened out once already, but I don't wanna go through the chills again. They say it doesn't hurt," McCunn wrote in the 100-page diary, excerpts of which were published today in the San Antonio Light.

"Certainly someone in town should have figured something must be wrong — me not being back by now," he wrote.

McCunn left his Fairbanks, Alaska, home in March 1981 to travel north of the Arctic Circle to take wildlife photographs and camp in the solitude of the wilderness. He never made definite arrangements to be picked up and returned to Fairbanks.

"What in the hell do those people think (I) gave them maps (of my camp location) for? Decoration?"

Seven months later he died there at the age of 38, waiting for a rescue plane that never came.

At one point, McCunn almost was saved.

Through his ordeal of frostbite and starvation, McCunn kept taking pictures and made notes in a loose-leaf diary — a journal found next to his body after he shot himself.

"Unfortunately it was on wheels and couldn't land, so I stopped waving after its first pass. I then got busy packing things up and getting ready to break camp," he wrote.

"If anything comes of his death, it will be to caution other people not to get in the same circumstances," Carl's father, Donovan McCunn of San Antonio, told the Light in an interview.

"As sunset approached, I began to doubt if the pilot took me seriously."

"If only we can keep one person from going through what that kid went through..." he said.

The plane did not return and McCunn looked at the distress signals printed on the back of his hunting license and realized what had happened.

"I recall raising my right hand, shoulder high and shaking my fist on the plane's second pass. It was a little cheer — like when your team scored a touchdown or something."

"Turns out that's the signal for ALL OK — DO NOT WAIT!"

As his food supply dwindled, McCunn caught and ate ducks, fish, muskrats and squirrels and set up numerous snares to catch rabbits. Often, a fox or wolf beat him to the traps, leaving him with only the rabbits' feet and heads.

"Perhaps God will soon have some mercy on my situation," he wrote.

"Fell to my knees today on the lake and begged God's help and mercy. I'm sure he heard me but don't know if he should have any reason to want to help. Tonight in my prayer I made a commitment to God. If He helps me out of this jam, I pray for His help for the strength to keep it."

When his remaining food and fuel were depleted, he wrote his epitaph.

"When the ashes cool, I'll be cooling along with them ..."

"Dear God in Heaven, please forgive me my weakness and my sins. Please look over my family."

He then signed a note to his father, attached his driver's license to it and killed himself.

In February 1982, Alaska state troopers found his tent. He had been dead since November or early December 1981.

Beside his body was his diary. In it, McCunn had identified Rory Cruikshank as the pilot he expected to retrieve him at the end of summer.

A coroner's inquest absolved Cruikshank of any responsibility after several witnesses testified there were no specific arrangements made for a pickup. The coroner ruled McCunn's death a suicide.

Helitruck Is Hybrid Cross Of Dirigible And Helicopter

NEW YORK (UPI) — An effort is being made to revive the gas-bag-supported airship — this time as a hybrid between the dirigible and the helicopter — for a wide variety of transport, construction and scientific uses. A half-scale model of one version of the airship, called the Helitruck, will be built by a subsidiary of Westinghouse Electric Corp. at Elizabeth City, N.C., in the coming year. It will be financed by the West German government and a subsidiary of Unsworth Transport International, Inc., of New York, a 35-year-old shipping and consulting firm operating in North America, Asia, Europe and Australia. The Unsworth subsidiary, Helitrans, Inc., is headed by Jurgen Bothe, a former vice president of the German Zeppelin Co., which built so many dirigibles in the past. The Helitruck was conceived by Bothe while he was working for Zeppelin, although the German company, which now makes many kinds of machinery, hasn't built an airship since the 1930s. Bothe told United Press International he understood Goodyear's aerospace division was working on a similar hybrid dirigible and helicopter aircraft but that it was a classified defense venture. Colin E. Unsworth, Jr., president of Unsworth, said the global cargo market demands a new form of transportation in between the truck and the cargo airplane.

Need Iron? Cook In An Old Skillet

DEAR DR. LAMB — My mother insists that people did not need iron supplements in years past because they received enough iron in their food from the old-fashioned iron skillets. With the present day use of aluminum and non-stick utensils people miss these traces of iron. Is this true?

I use iron skillets and I also take an iron fortified vitamin tablet daily. I also eat three well-balanced meals per day. Do I need these vitamins? Can you send me some information on other minerals such as zinc and magnesium?

DEAR READER — Your mother is absolutely right. This is particularly true of acidic foods. Studies show that if apple butter is cooked two hours in a glass dish it will contain 0.47 mg of iron in 100 gms of apple butter. But if cooked in an iron skillet it will contain 52.5 mg of iron.

Since you are a man it is unlikely that you will need the increased amount of iron that women in childbearing years and growing children might need. If you are using iron cookware and eating a balanced diet, you do not need the iron in an iron-fortified vitamin tablet.

Many people ask if you can get too much iron and the answer is yes. Fortunately iron in the body is controlled to some extent by its absorption from the digestive system. In healthy people, iron intakes of 25 to 75 mg a day are unlikely to have any deleterious effects. But the Bantus who make a home-brewed beer that contains about 82 mg of iron per liter are prone to have iron deposits in the liver causing liver disease.

Your sense of temperature, though, is related to the flow of blood through your skin, which may not be an indication of how good your total circulation is. A decrease in blood flow to the skin triggers nerve sensors that tell you that you are cold. The opposite is a hot flash, when the skin may be red and the person may sweat. The red skin is an indication of an increased blood flow to the skin.

am sending you. Others can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can the hypothalamus malfunction? I understand this gland regulates sleep, appetite and body temperature. I have extremely bad insomnia. My appetite varies from very hungry to not wanting anything. As for temperature, the colder it is the better, I feel. When I went swimming yesterday the instructor was shaking from the cold because the pool heater had been off for a couple of days. The water felt fine to me.

DEAR READER — The hypothalamus is not a gland but part of your brain. It is sometimes called the floor of the brain because it is the bottom area. If you pushed a probe up through the roof of the back of your mouth you would touch the hypothalamus. It is the switchboard for signals from your involuntary nervous system and the seat of your emotions. It also contains the center for heat regulation.

Yes, the hypothalamus can be damaged or diseased. An injury can be the cause. A damaged area can induce obesity and this has been shown experimentally.

There are some people who have special problems with excess iron, particularly those with liver disease and certain anemias associated with destruction of red blood cells. Zinc, iron, magnesium and other minerals are discussed in more detail in The Health Letter 17-4, Nutritional Aspects of Minerals, which I

For Wednesday, December 15, 1982

YOUR BIRTHDAY
December 15, 1982
The times ahead are likely to make you quite restless this coming year. However, you will find ways to successfully channel your ambitions and hopes.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're basically warm and outgoing, one who has the ability to make friends easily. This marvelous quality will be even more enhanced beginning today. New predictions for the year following your birthday are now ready. Send $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date. Send an additional $2 for the NEW Astro-Graph Matchmaker wheel and booklet. Reveals romantic combinations and compatibilities for all signs.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you are involved in something which you think has the potential to advance your status try to accomplish it in a manner that includes only those who are directly concerned.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You could be extremely lucky today in furthering a new project or venture in which you've just become interested. Give it your time and effort.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're now entering a good achievement cycle, so don't be hesitant about going after difficult objectives. Any obstacles can be overcome.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You could form a new, beneficial association at this time with someone whose interests and ideas merge with yours. Welcome new alliances.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Instead of merely thinking about making certain advantageous changes, take active measures today to get the ball rolling.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Take pains to develop any new social contacts today. These acquaintances could prove of value to you in other areas of your life at a later date.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Set higher sights for yourself and renew your efforts to do a better job — work or careerwise. Large strides can now be made.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You could do very well today in situations requiring your particular touch in management or reorganization. Put your talents to good uses.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Although you will have to search for it, there is a strong chance that you could now open up a new channel to add to your income or earnings.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) New ideas you get at this time which you feel could advance your self-interests should be taken seriously and promptly put into action.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your insights and hunches regarding commercial matters could be of considerable help today. If you feel you can better your lot in life, give it a try.

is that you should avoid the use of Blackwood when you hold a worthless doubleton in an unbid suit or in a suit bid by your opponents.

It is also inadvisable to use this convention when you are void of a suit. Remember there is nothing in the laws of bridge or the United States Constitution that requires the use of Blackwood.

In today's hand South is certainly interested in a slam after North's immediate spade raise. If he uses Blackwood, North will respond to show one ace and South will be afraid of two heart losers.

Now let's look at the elegant way of getting to six without Blackwood. South starts slam proceedings by bidding three clubs. North jumps to four spades to show that he has what he thinks is a good hand with good spades.

Now South bids five spades to deliver the clear message that he, South, has two heart losers and to tell North to bid six if he can take care of that second heart loser.

North can do that and bids the laydown slam.
