Future Farmers Give Food For Thanksgiving

The Future Farmers of America Chapter at Seminole High School, Sanford, collected approximately 110 packages and cans of food for distribution to needy local families for Thanksgiving by the Salvation Army. It's an annual project for the students.

Local Salvation Army corps commander Capt. Mike Waters said that since this is the only donation of food received so far for Thanksgiving, the distribution would be only to the most extreme cases of need.

Applications for the Christmas aid will be accepted at the Salvation Army Center at 700 W. 24th St. beginning Nov. 28 and continuing through Dec. 13. Those wishing to apply should bring with them their Social Security number and their children's Social Security number or birth certificates.

The Christmas Kettle drive will begin Nov. 25 at some 10 locations around the county to raise funds for food and toy distribution, he said.

City Seeks Freeze On Gas Tax Share

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

The city of Sanford plans to seek a special law freezing the distribution formula on Seminole County cities' share of revenues from the county's 4 cents-per-gallon gasoline tax.

City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles has been instructed by the Sanford City Commission to take the issue to the Seminole County Legislative delegation at its Dec. 1 meeting.

The move brought no adverse reaction from two county commissioners today.

"I don't have strong feelings either way," said County Commissioner Bob Sturm. "We have met with representatives of six of the seven cities so far and all have been cooperative about priority road projects."

Commissioner Barbara Christensen agreed the cities have been so cooperative that her concerns about the use of the gas tax revenues have been put to rest.

Under the state law authorizing the county's levy of the 4 cents-per-gallon gasoline tax, a formula for sharing the revenues between the county and the cities was set. The formula called for distribution annually based on the amount of money the county and each of the cities spent for transportation improvements and maintenance over the past five years.

When the expenditures were computed and percentages allocated, the county found that it would get 65 percent of the revenues while 35 percent of the revenues would be shared by the seven cities.

And although state officials said the percentages arrived at via the formula were intended to be used for revenue distributions over the 10-year period the tax will be levied, County Attorney Nikki Clayton gave the opinion that the law is silent on the method of revenue distribution after the first year.

Sanford City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles said if the method of dividing the proceeds changed from year to year, a city could not float a bond issue to do major road projects.

So the Sanford City Commission agreed earlier this week to seek local legislation freezing the formula to prevent a lawsuit if the county moves to change the formula.

The seven-member legislative delegation has scheduled a meeting in preparation for the 1984 legislative session at 9 a.m. Dec. 1, in the Altamonte Springs City Commission Chambers. 175 Newburyport Ave., Altamonte Springs. Knowles is to present Sanford's proposal at that time.

Sturm said only Casselberry officials have not met with the county commissioners on distribution of the gas tax. He said the purpose of the city-county meetings is to create a priority list of road improvements on which the cities and county can work together. He said there are a number of roads in the county that need work badly and the thought is that each city and the county can do-til certain projects to get the most done for the least amount of money.

Among those county road projects are County Road 427 from State Road 436 through Altamonte Springs on to State Road 434 in Longwood; Red Bug Road in Casselberry to its proposed new intersection with SR 436; Lake Mary Boulevard extension from U.S. 17-92 to State Road 415. Sturm said there are three or four projects that would benefit both unincorporated and city residents.

Mrs. Christensen said the city of Sanford has been most cooperative. "If we have this type of cooperation with the cities, I have no problem with freezing the distribution formula where it is."

1,372 Years Of Teaching

School district spokesman Karen Coleman gives a welcoming hug to Margaret Wight, former Sanford Grammar School teacher, at a reception Tuesday for retired Seminole County educators, while Mina Bisbee, former Sanford High School math teacher, and Walter Meriwether, school district risk manager, look on. About 51 former teachers, with a total of 1,372 years teaching experience, were honored with gold certificates recognizing their years of service to school system during afternoon ceremonies at Seminole High School.

Receiving special recognition during this second annual school board event were Mr. and Mrs. William Hamilton. The Hamiltons have a combined total of 85 years as educators in Seminole County. A new school will be named after the couple.

Police Now Say They Returned Fire

Bank Robbery Suspect's Identity In Doubt

The man suspected of robbing a Sanford bank Wednesday had not been identified today although he has given police three aliases. Tony Johnson and Tommy Johnson of Daytona Beach and Anthony Alexander Andrews, 26, of Palm Beach.

The Sanford police said today they do not believe either of those names is correct and will be sending his fingerprints to Washington, D.C. in an attempt to discover his true identity.

Assistant police chief Herb Shea said today fingerprints on file for Anthony Andrews do not match those of the suspect.

The man calling himself Andrews was charged with armed robbery, aggravated assault, using a weapon in a felony and grand theft. He remains in the Seminole County jail today with no bond.

Police have also confirmed that a Sanford patrolman who chased the suspect near the Florida National Bank shot back at the suspect after the suspect fired at him. Sgt. Bill Bernosky said.

In a preliminary report issued Wednesday, police said the patrolman did not return the suspect's fire.

A bank official said the robber

"waved his revolver around and ordered all tellers to give him large bills from their drawers."

Gordon Hinesley, vice president for Florida National Bank's Orlando office, said the robber entered the bank's branch (formerly Tropic Bank) on 25th Street near South Park Drive at about 11 a.m. Wednesday.

There were about four employees in the bank and the gunman waited for all customers to leave and the last one was on the way out when the man waved his revolver and ordered the tellers to hand over the money. Hinesley said.

He took the money and ordered all tellers "to hit the floor" which they did, Hinesley said.

As soon as he left, the employees jumped up and looked out to see which direction the gunman went. One of the employees called Sanford police.

Officers sped to the scene and saw a man standing outside the bank with a brown paper bag, said Police Sgt. Bill Bernosky.

The man fled and Officer Barry Little chased him on foot for about four blocks. The man fired a shot at Little who shot back. Bernosky said. Officer Aaron Keith took the man into custody. Police confiscated a .38-caliber handgun.

Bernosky said detectives are looking into a possible link between the suspect and two other robberies in this area.

Hinesley said the tellers were nervous and upset when the man pulled a gun. "It's one thing to have someone hand you a note demanding money, but it's another thing to have a gun waved in your face," he said.

He said the amount of money taken was relatively small.

Florida National Bank took over Tropic Bank Nov. 1.

Lake Mary To Get Water Plan

A master plan for a new water treatment plant for the city of Lake Mary will be submitted to the city commission today at an 8 p.m. meeting at city hall.

City consulting engineer Dave Cicardo of the Conklin, Porter & Holmes engineering firm is slated to give a full report on what the city will need to serve both the 1,000 customers on line now and the 4,000 new ones anticipated within five years.

In other business, the Commission will consider:

- Adopting an ordinance to permit construction of private schools and day care centers on property zoned for office commercial development.

- Preliminary approval of an ordinance establishing a code enforcement board.

- Preliminary approval for a revised fee schedule for zoning actions.

- Preliminary approval of an ordinance amending water installation fees. Currently a normal fee for a single family home connected to the water system is $310.

School Board Appoints Administrator

The Seminole County School Board approved appointment of a new assistant superintendent for business and finance at Wednesday's board meeting.

Carey E. Ferrel Jr. will take over the post on Dec. 1. He succeeds Roger Harris who retires Dec. 15.

Carey, who moves into the slot after working for the state Department of Education in Tallahassee, will earn $41,000 a year.

Also appointed to new positions were: Mary Jane Armstrong, to principal Eastbrook Elementary; Ronald Hirst, assistant principal Teague Middle School; and Joan Walker, clerk to the board.

In other business the Board unanimously approved formation of a study group to determine if and how Sanford Grammar School might be converted to a children's museum when the 81-year-old school is closed in 1984.

School board attorney Ned N. Julian Jr. told the board a suit, asking damages in excess of $14,000, was filed against the architect and two subcontractors who designed and built the Lyman School gymnasium roof which collapsed.

The School Board will hold a public work session Monday at 8 a.m. and nine architectural firms will make presentations for a new "Middle School X."

Youth's Testimony Puts Bean At Scene Of Murder

By Charles Cobb
Herald Staff Writer

The youth who said he drove the getaway car after John Thomas Ellis was shot to death said he did not know what his companion intended to do when he entered Ellis' van before the shooting.

Jay McDonald Wills, 18, of Eustis, testified in Seminole County Circuit Court Wednesday that he drove Donald Ray Bean, 18, also of Eustis, to the Post Time Lounge in Longwood during the early hours of Feb. 12.

Bean, who is on trial, is charged with first degree felony murder in the death of Ellis, 43, of 816 Cherokee Circle, Sanford.

In remarks at the opening of the trial Bean's defense lawyer indicated an attempt would be made to prove Bean was not at the murder scene.

Wills testified that on the night of Feb. 11, he and Bean socialized with three girls at the house of one of the girls in the Eustis area and Bean asked him to drive him to visit Bean's girlfriend who lives in Lake Mary.

Wills said he had driven Bean to the girl's house several times before and agreed to do so again. He said he and Bean left the Eustis area between 10 p.m. and 11 p.m. and drove to Seminole County where they drove around for awhile before pulling into the parking lot of the Post Time Lounge at U.S. Highway 17-92 and Dog Track Road in Longwood in the early hours of Feb. 12.

"We just pulled in there, we were trying to find something to do," he said.

Wills said later a white van parked behind them in the parking lot and a man, later identified as Ellis, got out and went into the tavern. Wills said Bean said he was going to "check out the van."

Wills said Bean then showed him a handgun that he had tucked into the front of his pants. Wills said that was the first knowledge he had that Bean was carrying a gun.

"He didn't tell me what he was going to do before he got out of the car," Wills said.

Wills said Bean entered the van. Wills said he remained in the car listening to the radio and later the man came out of the bar with a woman and the two got into the van.

Later the van started moving, left the parking lot and drove onto Grant Road, a short distance behind the bar then pulled to the side of the road and stopped. Wills said.

Wills said he heard four or five shots and then Bean came running up to the car, got in and said he had "shot into the van." Wills said he did not see Bean jump out of the van.

Wills said he drove away from the lounge and dropped Bean off at his girlfriend's house in Lake Mary and continued driving north on U.S. Highway 17-92 before he was stopped and arrested by a Volusia County deputy sheriff near DeBary.

Senate Turns Down Tuition Tax Credit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate gave President Reagan the test vote he wanted, but turned him down by scuttling tuition tax credits for the year and dealing a severe blow to the future of the legislation.

Wednesday's 59-38 defeat came after opponents charged tuition tax credits would undercut the public education system, swell the deficit and create a two-tier system, one for the rich, one for the poor.

The bill would give taxpayers a credit for 50 percent of tuition expenses with the maximum credit rising from $100 in 1983 to $300 in 1985 and following years.

The maximum credit would be allowed only to taxpayers making $40,000 or less. Those making over $50,000 would not be eligible. The estimated cost is $800 million a year.

SELLERSVILLE, Pa. (UPI) — The only domestic manufacturer of Quaalude has stopped producing the drug, citing "unjustified negative publicity" and new laws banning the powerful sedative in nine states.

The Lemmon Co., the only makers of products with methaqualone, the key ingredient in Quaalude, said it would distribute the product to wholesalers through Jan. 31 to allow doctors time "to safely transfer patients to alternative therapy."

Florida, Georgia, New Jersey, Connecticut, Mississippi, Texas and North Carolina have banned the sale of Quaalude, the company said, and the drug will become illegal in California and Illinois Jan. 1.

Racial Healing In Boston

By United Press International

Two days after winning the Boston mayoral race, City Councilor Raymond Flynn, today promised to heal Boston's deep and longstanding racial wounds.

"We have a united city," Flynn said. "We have proven that the hopes that unite us are stronger than the fears that divide us."

On Tuesday, Flynn rolled to a decisive victory, turning back civil rights activist Milvin King's bid to become the first black mayor in the city's 353-year history.

Foat To Return To Feminist Movement

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Ginny Foat says she will return to her life in California as a feminist leader and women's rights activists hailed her acquittal on an 18-year-old murder charge as "wonderful news" for the feminist movement.

"I think my case is a victory not only for me. I think it symbolizes a victory for women," said Ms. Foat, who claimed she would not have been prosecuted for the crime if she were a "white, middle-class man."

Two hours after the jury found Ms. Foat innocent Wednesday of killing Argentine businessman Moises Chayo in 1965, the feminist leader joined supporters and friends in toasting her acquittal.

Feminists from across the country said they were elated by the verdict and hoped Ms. Foat would return to an active role in the feminist movement.

"Ginny Foat has been through a grueling ordeal, and I'm extremely pleased that she was exonerated," said Judy Goldsmith, national president of the National Organization of Women.

"I hope she can now pursue her feminist activities free of the glare of this publicity."

Ms. Foat said she planned to return home to California to attend law school and to "try to put my life together." She said she might enter politics, a lifelong ambition, and "now that my life has become an open book I won't have so much to fear from opposition."

Constance Jackson, a spokeswoman for the California NOW chapter that Ms.

Foat used to lead, said the feminist's return would be welcomed.

"It's wonderful news for the organization," she said. "We hope the attempted marring of Ginny Foat's life will be a thing of the past so that she can successfully continue to fight for women's rights, because we need her."

During a post-trial news conference, Ms. Foat said she declined a plea bargain offer under which she would have pleaded guilty to being an accessory after the fact to murder and would have received five years probation, she said.

Ms. Foat also said she still was unsure whether ex-husband John Sidote, who claimed the feminist robbed and killed Chayo, slayed the man.

Sidote was granted immunity from Louisiana prosecution in return for his testimony and might soon be freed from a Nevada prison where he is serving time for parole violation. Ms. Foat said she had considered buying a guard dog to prepare for Sidote's release from prison.

"I don't feel free. I won't feel free until there's no more connection to John Sidote," said Ms. Foat, who accused her former husband of physical, sexual and psychological abuse. She also claimed he implicated her in the crime in order to gain revenge for their failed marriage.

Her legal defense has been estimated at more than $200,000, about half of which Ms. Foat said has been raised. A book and made-for-television movie about her and the trial will help cover some of the costs, she said.

Sanford Teen Charged In Assault On Wife, Child

An 18-year-old Sanford man charged with spouse abuse is being held in the Seminole County jail in lieu of $500 bond.

Seminole County sheriff's deputies gave this account of the incident:

Shortly before 3 a.m., Rhonda Yvonne Hodges, Orange Avenue, Sanford, said that her husband beat her, chased her across the yard and ripped her clothes off.

As she ran, she dropped her baby she was carrying. Mrs. Hodges said that her husband later threw the child out the window of their trailer.

Paramedics arrived on the scene and reported that the baby appeared to be unharmed, but Mrs. Hodges was taken to Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford, where she was treated for a broken arm and released.

Deputies arrested Allyn Marcial Hodges and transported him to the jail.

No motive was given for the assault, deputies said.

CHILD ASSAULTED

A Casselberry man charged with false imprisonment, aggravated child abuse and battery has been released from Seminole County jail after posting an $8,000 bond.

The man's live-in girlfriend told Casselberry police that the man became enraged when her 2-year-old son refused to pick up toys in the yard, a report said.

The woman told deputies the man threw the child around the living room of their home at 751, N. Winter Park Drive, Casselberry. And when she tried to protect the boy, the man hit her and threatened to kill her and the child.

Robert Lee Goodwin, 24, has been charged in the case.

AUTO THEFT ARREST

A car that was reported stolen in Orange County Sunday was recovered Monday at a Seminole County service station.

A Seminole County sheriff's deputy said he recognized the 1972 Buick that Mitchell C. Gazil reported missing and questioned the man who was filling it gas at a Handy Way store on State Road 426 in Geneva.

The deputy then arrested Ronald Lee Kingery, 24, of State Road 426, Geneva, Monday at 12:55 a.m., the report said.

The house, owned by Merdith S. Pickelsimer, 63, was entered between Oct. 23 and Nov. 11. A neighbor told Pickelsimer he saw a truck pull up to the front door at 2418 W. State Road 44, sometime last week, deputies said.

Mrs. Pickelsimer said the house has been vacant for about three years.

Darren C. Coker, of 3740 McNeil Road, Apopka, said a 7.5 horsepower outboard motor worth $350 was removed from a boat in his yard late Sunday or early Monday, a Seminole County sheriff's report said.

Man Pleads Guilty To DUI In Biker's Death

A 42-year-old Chiefland man has pleaded guilty to DUI manslaughter in the death of a Sanford motorcyclist who was killed Aug. 20.

Lloyd Edgar Albritton entered the plea Monday before Seminole Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor who will pass sentence Jan. 25. Albritton faces a maximum sentence of 15 years in prison.

Charges stem from the death of Patrick A. Stephen, 24, of 2404 Myrtle Ave., who was killed when his motorcycle was struck by a car.

Albritton was originally charged with second-degree murder for which he could have been sentenced to life in prison. But Assistant State Attorney Emily Peacock said there appeared to be insufficient evidence to support that charge and it was dropped.

To prove second-degree murder, the state would have to show that a defendant had "a depraved mind regardless of human life," Ms. Peacock said. But, she said, "there is overwhelming evidence he was driving drunk" at the time of the accident.

The state alleged that Albritton drove away from the Islander Tavern, 3207 U.S. Highway 17-92, at about 11:15 p.m. Aug. 20 and turned onto 17-92 traveling south in the northbound lane. His car collided with a motorcycle driven by Stephen who was pronounced dead at the scene.

Tests showed Albritton's blood alcohol level at .20, twice the legal limit, Ms. Peacock said.

Stephen's widow, Deena K. Stephen, has filed suit against the tavern and Albritton, asking $6.5 million in damages.

The suit claims Albritton was served beer at the bar before the accident even though he was "visibly intoxicated."

Albritton's sister and ex-brother-in-law were also named in the suit because they allowed him to drive their car on the night of the accident.

Willpower vs Nicotine

Smokers nationwide today tried to pit their willpower against their craving for nicotine in the American Cancer Society's seventh annual Great American Smokeout.

The Smokeout started at midnight Wednesday and the goal is to make it through to midnight tonight without lighting up.

A similar nicotine fast last year drew an estimated 19 million participants. Of those, 4.5 million survived wobbly nerves, cold sweats and other miseries for 24 hours, a Gallup survey showed.

A report on the risks of smoking released in Washington today by Surgeon General C. Everett Koop noted a decline in the number of regular smokers in the U.S. population from 42.8 percent in 1966 to 33 percent in 1980, with the decrease most prevalent among older men. But the average smoker went through 21.7 cigarettes a day in 1980, up slightly from 20 in 1970, the report said.

The tricks smokers use to stop are ingenious and many.

The American Cancer Society suggested placing a rubber band on the wrist and snapping it when the urge to smoke strikes. The rubber band tactic sprung up during last year's Smokeout and was found effective, the ACS said.

If a snap on the wrist sounds unpleasant, another kind of help is just a phone call away.

Eight psychiatrists representing the American Psychiatric Association have recorded one-minute inspirational messages for smokers trying to quit. Jittery smokers can tap in by dialing 900-210-K-W-I-T.

The phone company will charge 50 cents a call, the ACS said. The service will be available in Eastern, Central, Mountain, Pacific, Yukon, and Alaska-Hawaii time zones until midnight.

Troops On Alert As U.N. Calls Session On Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — U.N. peace-keeping troops remained on alert and the Turkish and Greek Cypriot leaders flew to the United Nations for a debate today on the legitimacy of the newly declared Turkish state in Cyprus.

Turkish Cypriot leader Rauf Denktaş arrived in New York late Wednesday to seek U.N. and U.S. approval of his newly proclaimed state on the island.

Cypriot President Spyros Kyprianou left for the United Nations, urging world sanctions against Denktaş and mainland Turkey of the type that helped force Rhodesia's white minority to give up power in what is now Zimbabwe.

Marines Being Replaced

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — The 24th U.S. Marine Amphibious Unit, brutally depleted by last month's suicide bomb attack, began leaving Beirut today and its replacements came ashore amid artillery battles in the mountains.

Marine spokesmen said the departing troops were being replaced by the 22nd Marine Amphibious Unit, fresh from the invasion of Grenada, for a six-month tour of duty.

Arafat In Retreat

TRIPOLI, Lebanon (UPI) — Several hundred of PLO chief Yasser Arafat's guerrillas, stranded at the Beddawi refugee camp, attempted to fight their way out of a Syrian-backed siege hours after Arafat called a cease-fire.

Lebanese security sources said at least 345 Palestinian guerrillas and civilians were killed and 805 others were wounded in a two-day rebel assault against the deserted Beddawi camp.

Arafat conceded the loss of his last stronghold in Lebanon to dissident factions of the Palestine Liberation Organization but said his men would fight to the end.

"The camp has militarily fallen to the rebels but we will continue to fight to the end ... We have no other choice," Arafat said.

Arafat's aides said an estimated 600 loyalists were left in Beddawi.

"Our (loyalist) forces launched a counterattack at 12:45 p.m. (5:45 a.m. EST) from inside Beddawi toward the north and northeast where the rebels are," an Arafat aide said.

Hours earlier, Arafat called on his followers to cease fire as the dissidents took up positions in Beddawi, just north of the northern Lebanese port city of Tripoli, and called on the Palestinian leader to give himself up.

Arafat has vowed not to leave Tripoli without promises of safety for the refugees and his army.

Arms Talks Near End?

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — U.S. and Soviet delegations met today in what was expected to be one of their last sessions on nuclear missiles in Europe before Moscow breaks off the talks over NATO's deployment of medium-range missiles.

American negotiators believe a Soviet walkout is imminent because the first of up to 572 Pershing-2 and cruise missiles to be deployed later this year have started arriving in western Europe, signaling NATO's resolve to go ahead with the plan.

While the negotiators met at the Soviet diplomatic mission, separate delegations also held a new session at the U.S. mission on parallel Strategic Arms Reduction Talks, or START, on long-range nuclear weapons.

U.S. Retaliation Unlikely

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Israel denied that its air strike on a pro-Iranian guerrilla base in Lebanon used as a staging camp for terrorist attacks had been coordinated with Washington.

The raid into Lebanon's Bekaa Valley Wednesday followed suicide bombings that killed nearly 300 American and French servicemen Oct. 23 at U.S. and French headquarters in Beirut, and 29 Israelis Nov. 4 at Israeli headquarters in Tyre.

The Washington Post reported today that U.S. officials said Israel's air strike has made unlikely any similar U.S. retaliation for the bombing on Marine headquarters.

"We are acting for what has been done to us," one Israeli official said. "If the Marines or French were attacked from the same bases, so much the better those bases were hit."

Rescue workers said at least four people were killed, 38 were wounded and dozens more were trapped in the rubble of a demolished base 4 miles east of Rayak airfield, about 10 miles southwest of the city of Baalbek.

State-run Beirut radio said destruction of the bases, their tents, trucks and anti-aircraft guns was total.

Drug Profits And Drug Safety

When the patent on Vallum, a widely used tranquilizer, expires next year, any drug manufacturer can legally copy the formula, putting out a generic — and cheaper — version of the drug. But because the law requires those who would mimic drugs that have had patent protection, like Vallum, to redo the enormously costly tests on human subjects, it is highly unlikely that a generic equivalent will be produced. That's been the experience with other comparable drugs. Consequently, consumers will pay more for the drugs they purchase — $920 million more between now and 1995, according to the Food and Drug Administration. And the elderly, who make 25 percent of all prescription drug purchases, will pay most heavily out of pocket.

There's not even the pretense of a safety justification for the re-testing requirement. Indeed, the rule applies only to drugs patented since 1962, when the FDA began insisting that prescription products be effective as well as safe: equally potent drugs patented before 1962 can be duplicated by a manufacturer who merely demonstrates to the FDA that the formula has, indeed, been copied accurately. Yet the pharmaceutical industry has tenaciously resisted a measure, introduced by Congressman Henry Waxman, which would apply this quick FDA review process to drugs patented after 1962.

The drug companies, among the most profitable industries in the nation, claim that they need the prevailing constraints on generic drug manufacture to assure an adequate return on their investment, and so encourage further innovation. If generics flood the market, the industry warns, the flow of miracle drugs will dry up.

Innovation is unquestionably a good thing, but the question remains: What patent protection is needed in order to encourage firms to invest in developing new products? The pharmaceutical companies argue, with considerable justification, that because the patent approval process often consumes years the duration of drug patents should be extended. Instead of the existing 17-year period, which commences with the filing of a patent application, the drug firms are seeking a 15-year monopoly after the drug has been ratified as fit for the market.

Although that approach may be too generous to the pharmaceutical houses, some extension of the patent period is warranted since FDA appraisals do take somewhat longer under the demanding rules adopted in 1962. But these two questions — the duration of drug patents and the easy licensing of generic equivalents once the patent period expires — should be taken up together. One sensible solution entails coupling an extension of the patent period, to occur at the time the FDA actually takes in evaluating a new drug, with relaxing the rules for allowing generics on the market. That arrangement would meet the legitimate concerns of the drug manufacturers, and so should stimulate innovation, while encouraging competition — and hence lower prices.

Don't Eat Spinach

For years children have said, "I hate spinach and I won't eat it." "But it is good for you, dear. It has iron," dotting parents have replied.

Now comes a study, reported in Science magazine, that gives children ammunition in their argument.

According to the study, spinach, celery, alfalfa sprouts, beets, rhubarb and even lettuce may have a potential to cause cancer.

Supposedly these vegetables manufacture their own pesticides to ward off bugs. And the pesticide properties can have carcinogenic effects. Add these to beef, barbecued meat, colas, polluted water and other food and beverages that we're told to avoid, and pretty soon we'll be living on vitamin pills.

It is a dreary prospect, but perhaps someone will come up with blueberry and strawberry flavored vitamins, not to mention steak and ice cream pills.

We hope the flavored vitamins are marketed soon, for we'll certainly miss alfalfa sprouts and spinach.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Well, have you folks from Congress been findin' lots of facts?"

By Jane Casselberry

A Casselberry Senior Center Awareness program is being sponsored by the Board of Directors of the Casselberry Senior Citizen Multipurpose Center on Nov. 21. Scheduled from 11:45 a.m. to 2:15 p.m., the purpose of the event is to acquaint adults of all ages with the many programs and activities at the center at 200 N. Lake Triplet Drive in Secret Lake Park, Casselberry.

U.S. Rep. Bill McCollum will speak at 12:30 p.m. on subjects of current interest. City and county officials have been invited. Pat Castagne, organist, will present background music and refreshments will be served.

The Mercedes-Benz sports calendar for 1984 that has just been published will pay tribute to 170 Olympic gold medal winners from 1896-1980. It is available through the National Multiple Sclerosis Society, with all revenues going to its ongoing research program. The calendar sells for $25 and is tax deductible. It may be ordered from MS at 205 E. 42nd St., New York, N.Y., 10017.

Track and Field accounts for almost half of the material and 71 of the 170 photos, 43 of which are in full color.

If you have a friend or family member who is blind and would like to have your cards and messages transcribed into Braille while you wait this free service will be offered for one day only Dec. 3, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the north section of the Colonial Mall, Orlando. 1984 Braille calendars will be available for $2 each. If you are unable to stop by the mall on Dec. 3 call 365-7373 or write Mrs. R.J. Ostle, 1174 Winged Foot Circle East, Winter Springs, FL 32708 for more information about the service.

Nationally known speaker and author Nancy Devlin Lambert will be speaking at the Nov. 21 meeting of the Central Florida Quilters Guild, a member of the National Quilting Association. It will be held from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce at 400 E. First St., Sanford.

The author of Guide to Machine Quilting, Applique Fun, and Seminole Patchwork, she will conclude a month-long lecture and workshop tour here. She will speak on topics such as medallion piecing, applique and Seminole patchwork as well as answering questions about quilting problems. Samples of A Quilting Christmas Vol. 1 will be on view and books and patterns for sale. Registration is free to guild members and $2 for non-members. For registration information, call Tracey Thanky, 830-0286.

Sanford artist Faye Siler has some of her original art work on display at the new Humane Society Shelter on County Home Road at Highway 17-92. A percentage of receipts from anything sold will go to the society. She has also painted a cypress clock and a mail box, which will be awarded in a drawing on Dec. 15 for the benefit of the shelter.

Spotting Movers, Shakers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The second annual "celebrity doodle auctions" are being held this month to raise money for worthy causes.

Without taking anything away from these charitable endeavors, permit me to point out that hen-scratching is seen in the U.S. Senate much more frequently than once a year.

Only instead of doodles, they are called cloture motions.

Take a look at the celebrity signatures on any cloture petition — a parliamentary device to break up incipient filibusters — and you get a good idea of who the movers and shakers are.

The movers — Sens. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., and Robert Jepsen, R-Iowa, among them — usually sign their names in a manner that requires no translation.

On the other hand, such shakers as Sens. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., and Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., affix signatures that are totally indecipherable.

(Thurmond's signature sometimes gets a little shaky on the MOND, but the STROM and the THUR are so readable anyone can guess the rest.)

On cloture motions sent to the press gallery, fortunately, some helpful soul usually prints the last names of the signers after the signatures. Otherwise, we might never have known that one of the signatures on a Nov. 2 petition to close debate on a motion to proceed to the consideration of the natural gas deregulation bill belonged to Sen. J. Bennett Johnston, D-La.

Johnston's signature consisted almost entirely of squiggles that seemed to loop back on themselves in the manner of a snake swallowing its own tail.

On a similar petition the previous day, by contrast, the name of Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., took out in pristine clarity.

It is possible that Randolph, who first came to the Senate in 1958, has been around so long he no longer feels motivated to write illegibly. But in the executive branch, as opposed to the congressional arm of government, careers have been stymied for less.

I recall talking several years ago to a federal official who had been passed over for promotion because he formed the letters of his name so plainly anyone even half-literate in English could read his signature.

"Once you are important enough to have your own secretary, the executive squiggle becomes imperative," he explained. "It shows you are too busy making vital decisions to waste time writing your name."

Recently, that same bureaucrat was in Capitol Hill testifying before a congressional committee. It being apparent that his star had risen, I asked how he had managed to overcome the legibility handicap that had so crippled his government career in its earlier stages.

"Simple," he replied. "I quit signing my name to inter-office memos and began marking them with an 'X.'"

Time Running Out On Two Lovers

WASHINGTON — Their romance never had a chance. Richard Bouvia and Elizabeth Castner met by mail. He was shut up in prison; she was confined to a wheelchair, her muscles atrophied, unable even to use her hands except to press buttons. It took her four or five hours to peck out painfully a simple letter to him on a typewriter with one finger.

They were born losers. Richard had been raised in poverty and had never been able to break out of it. He finally tried robbery and failed at that, too.

Elizabeth's handicap had been more than her parents could handle. They had entrusted her to institutions after she was 10. For the next eight years, she saw her mother only twice. Her father, by his own admission, was "cold" to her. She felt unloved, unwanted.

Then Richard was transferred to a prison near her home in San Diego. She made regular visits. Under the stern eyes of prison guards, they reached out to one another. After Richard was released, they saw each other every day for four months. Then on Aug. 25, 1982, she became Elizabeth Bouvia.

Election Results Studied

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The political pros are sorting through the results of the '83 elections, looking for any messages that might have a bearing on campaign '84. There appear to be several, but what they say depends on who's doing the reading.

For Republicans, the big news this Election Day was the Washington state victory of former Gov. Dan Evans over Democratic Rep. Mike Lowry in their contest to determine who would serve the remaining five years of the term of the late Sen. Henry Jackson.

In the final weeks, Lowry turned the campaign into something of a referendum on the Reagan presidency. Lowry, a very liberal Democrat, made it clear that he would view his election as a mandate to oppose almost everything the Reagan administration stands for. Meanwhile, Evans emphasized that, if elected, he would be a good Republican, generally supporting Reagan — except probably on environmental issues, where Evans would maintain his long-time preservationist stance.

The turning point was probably the invasion of Grenada. Polls had shown that Lowry was gaining ground fast, but he then went on record as opposing the invasion. According to polls, a vast majority of the state's voters approved of it. Political courage aside, Lowry's stand surely cost him the election.

GOP strategists say that their capture of Scoop Jackson's seat indicates that Reagan remains very popular. They also believe they will probably be able to retain control of the Senate after the '84 elections. To wrest control, the Democrats now will have to win 20 of the 34 seats up for grabs next year.

But Democratic strategists say that the GOP is reading too much into the Washington state results. They point out that Evans, who served three terms as governor, is extremely popular, and that Lowry is much more liberal than the average Democrat in the basically conservative state. They see the contest more as one over personalities than broader issues.

Democrats say the 1983 results show that they are on their way to rebuilding the old Democratic coalition and that if the trend continues, they will be able to defeat Reagan next year.

They point, for instance, to the Louisiana gubernatorial race, in which former Gov. Edwin Edwards defeated incumbent Republican David Treen. During his term, Treen had appointed more blacks to office than any governor in state history. He was generally considered more progressive on racial issues than Edwards, especially if actions during their governorships were compared. Despite this, Treen received only a minuscule percentage of black votes.

The Democratic strategists say that this — plus mayoral victories by Wilson Goode in Philadelphia, Harvey Gantt in Charlotte, N.C., and Richard Hatcher in Gary, Ind. — points to massive black support of Democrats next year.

Democrats note that several signs indicate their party will receive support from women next year. These include the victory of Martha Collins in Kentucky, the re-election of San Francisco Mayor Dianne Feinstein and what some view as the upset re-election of Houston Mayor Kathy Whitmire. In addition, they say that the Mississippi gubernatorial victory of Bill Allain — who won in the face of a vicious campaign of homosexual innuendo — proves that the South's traditional Democratic support remains very strong.

The Democrats are also pleased with what they regard as the message carried by the failure of Ohio's tax-revolt initiative.

DON GRAFF

To Munich, With Lots Of Love

MUNICH (NEA) — This is a love letter to a city, surely one of the world's most appealing.

That is no snap judgment. I once called it home.

That was a quarter of a century ago, but Munich and I first met even earlier, not too many years after the war when the beating it had taken from Allied bombers was still all too evident.

But by the time I settled into a small apartment in the Akademiestrasse, the city had largely been rebuilt. Lovingly for the most part, to restore the best of the past for the present.

Work was still in progress on the Residenz, the city palace of the Wittelsbach family that had provided Bavaria's rulers from the Middle Ages to World War I. Gutted in World War II, it was being refitted with a new interior precisely duplicating the old, including the red, white and gilt court theater, a rococo jewel built for the Wittelsbachs in the 1750s by Francois de Cuvillies, a Belgian dwarf and architectural genius.

Munich has always been a special city, with an appeal reaching far beyond its own residents. It has a long Bohemian tradition, thanks to its ancient university, and historically has been open to strong French and Italian cultural influences. In music and art, it has been within Germany something of what Paris and Vienna have meant to the broader world.

And it is architecturally satisfying, if anything more so than ever today.

Traffic has been banned from the city's medieval heart and the cramped, curving streets have been converted into pedestrian plazas, an exercise in urban restructuring that can turn a living city into a museum.

But not in Munich's case. In no small part thanks to a new subway system, a practical legacy of the 1972 Olympics. It is a masterfully designed system, going everywhere anyone would want to go in the metropolitan region and with all lines converging on the axis of the old central city — from Stachus on the east, down Kauffingerstrasse to Marienplatz with its much photographed sham-Gothic Rathaus.

Back in my time direct long-distance dialing recently had been installed throughout the Federal Republic. A connection was signaled by a recorded voice repeating the city name — "Hamburg, Hamburg, Hamburg" and so on.

This created problems in the case of Munich. The long distance lines could be tied up by homesick Muenchners calling just to hear the recording.

But no more. Times and needs change, even in a city so lovingly at home with its past, and what you hear now is a no-nonsense dial tone.

It could be that few any longer remember or miss that recorded "Muenchen, Muenchen, Muenchen."

But I do.

FLORIDA

IN BRIEF

Judge To Doctors: Allow Boy To Die

MIAMI (UPI) — Saying he hopes his action "will be accepted in the eyes of God," a judge granted a mother's request to deny use of extraordinary measures to prolong the life of her 15-year-old semi-comatose son.

Michael Ismer, 15, has been semi-comatose in a Homestead hospital, fed through tubes, since he was struck by lightning during a family sailboat outing three months ago.

Doctors have said that Michael has less than a 3 percent chance of recovery from extensive brain damage suffered from lack of oxygen after he was hit by lightning and before his heartbeat was restored.

On Wednesday, Dade County Circuit Judge Edmund Newbold granted the request of the boy's parents that they be given authority to deny additional treatment as long as doctors agree that the decision is "medically proper."

Killer Seeks Stay

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Lawyers for death row inmate Stephen Todd Booker went before the Florida Supreme Court today in their last-ditch effort to prevent him from being executed Friday.

The justices are considering a defense petition for a stay on the grounds that Booker received inadequate counsel during his 1978 trial for the rape and murder a year earlier of a 94-year-old Gainesville woman.

His new defense team, led by volunteers from a large Washington law firm, also are awaiting the outcome of another appeal filed with U.S. District Court in Tallahassee.

Booker, 30, was initially scheduled for electrocution at Florida State Prison near Starke at 7 a.m. today but the state Supreme Court issued a limited stay through noon. Because of the stay, prison Superintendent Richard L. Dugger late Wednesday rescheduled the electrocution to 7 a.m. Friday, five hours before Booker's death warrant expires.

Plane Lands Safely

MIAMI (UPI) — For the second time in a week, emergency crews were scrambled to the airport because a plane was trying to land with hydraulic problems, but this time the landing gear functioned properly. No one was injured.

The pilot of a New York-to-Miami Air DC-8 with 194 people aboard reported hydraulic problems Wednesday night but brought the plane in for a normal landing as rescue units stood by.

Deer Hunts To Be Opposed

LOXAHATCHEE NATIONAL WILDLIFE REFUGE (UPI) — Even though the weekend deer hunt in the Loxahatchee refuge was a costly flop, environmentalists and hunters are already squaring off for a court battle over next year's hunt.

A 50,000-acre portion of the Loxahatchee National Wildlife Refuge in western Palm Beach County was opened to big-game hunters for the first time Saturday and Sunday.

Because the refuge was made available to hunters this year, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service need only publish the dates and rules in the Federal Register if another hunt is to be held next year. Local hunters and the Florida Wildlife Federation, which lobbied for nine years to open the Loxahatchee to deer hunting, have promised to lobby for airboats next year. With the air-powered boats, they could get through the thick vegetation and muck that kept them from getting near the deer this year, they argued.

The noisy boats were banned from this year's hunt by former Interior Secretary James Watt, who said the vehicles would harm the environment.

The Humane Society of the United States, which succeeded in cancelling two weeks of this year's hunt, has promised another court battle if air boats are allowed in future hunts in the Loxahatchee.

The group's first lawsuit charged the hunt would siphon money from other wildlife programs, threaten endangered animals who live in the refuge, and cause physical damage to the preserve, all in violation of federal law.

After all the hoopla ended, just 31 of the 200 permit-holders showed up for the hunt, and only two deer were killed.

Anti-Flu Drug Now Available

DALLAS (UPI) — Flu victims no longer have to resign themselves to riding out the fever, chills and sniffles that often come with the onset of winter — there is a new drug that doctors say can cut the suffering in half.

Though the influenza virus was isolated 50 years ago, public attitudes toward the flu have lagged behind medical achievements, according to Dr. Arnold S. Monto, professor of epidemiology at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

"People tend to look at influenza as not a serious disease, as a disease which does not lead to death," he said.

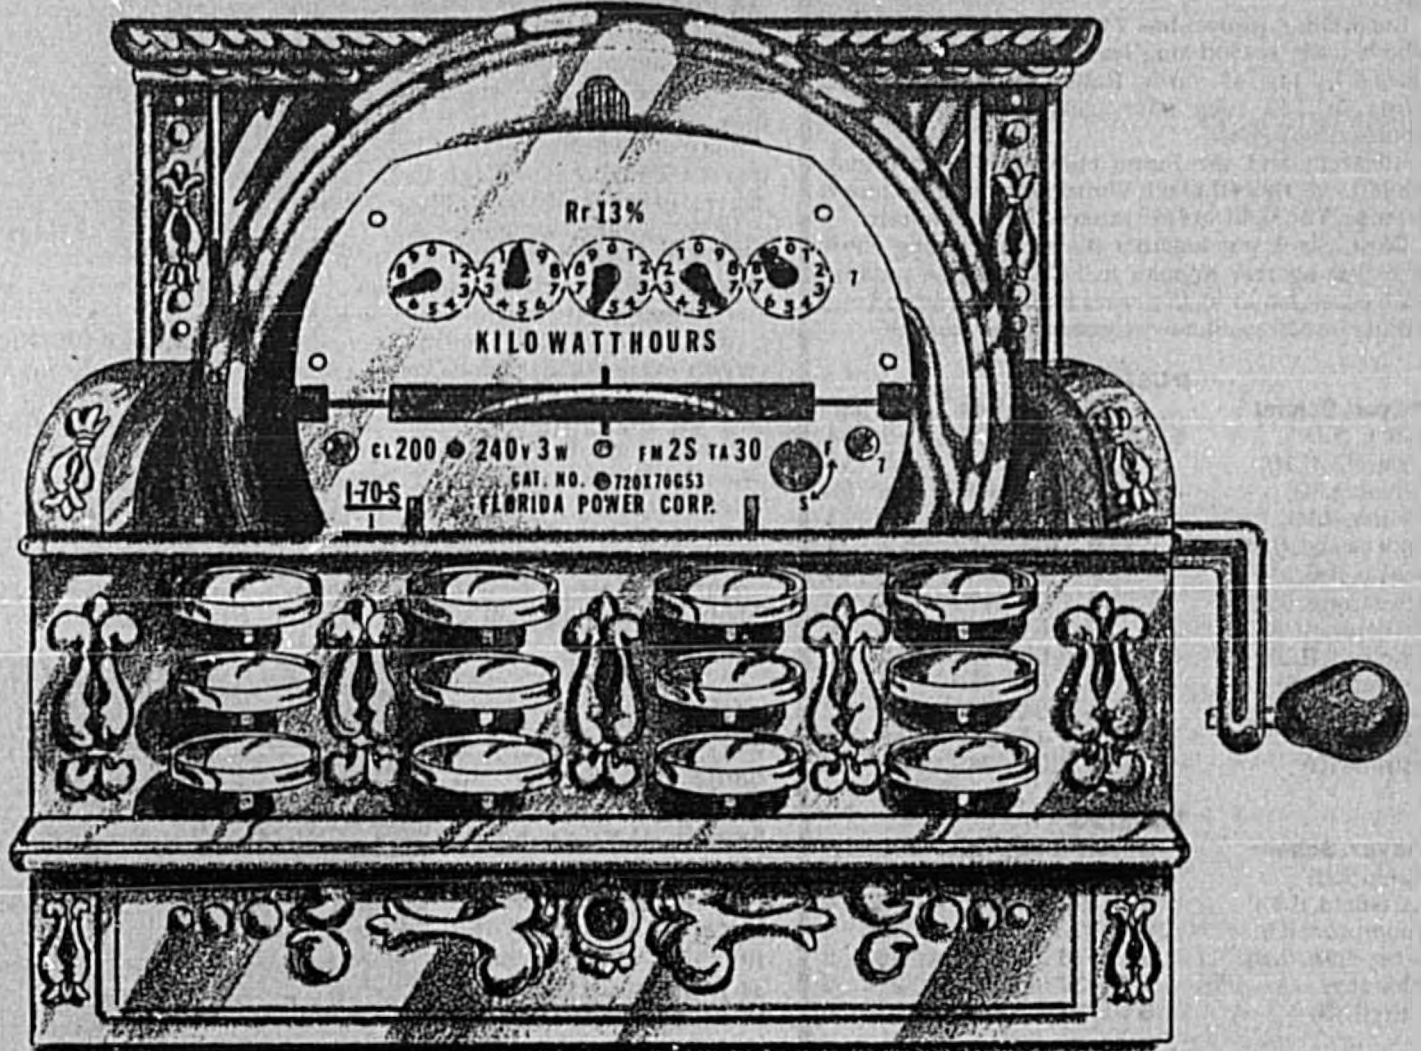

"That is not true, particularly among the high risk groups, those with respiratory diseases or those over age 65. High risk in this context means those people have a high risk of dying if they catch the flu."

For those who catch the flu, Monto said relief can be delivered by the drug "amantadine," marketed by D U P o n t Pharmaceuticals under the brand name "Symmetrel." Monto said amantadine was developed in 1966 but not approved for use against all Type A virus until 1979.

"Amantadine is the only anti-viral medication," Monto said. "People think of antibiotics, but they do not work against a virus."

Monto said amantadine "cuts down on the multiplication of the virus" within the body of the victim, thereby shortening the term of the symptoms roughly by half.

THE SILENT CASH REGISTER

It's ringing up your kilowatthours.

Maybe you've never thought about it this way, but every time you turn on a light or take a hot shower or do the laundry, you're shopping with Florida Power. Buying electricity. And while you may not give these purchases a second thought, the meter outside your house is ringing up those kilowatthours like a silent cash register.

It's like any other credit purchase. If you wait until the bill comes at the end of the month to tell you how much you've spent, the total can come as quite a shock to your budget. That's why it makes sense to keep track as you go along.

Meter reading puts you right on the money.
When you record your meter readings at the same time every week, you can budget for your monthly electric bill the same way you budget for other expenses. It will also help you determine how your energy conservation efforts are working and which ones are really paying off for you.

It's quick and easy.

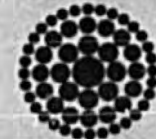

The dials on your electric meter are like little clocks. They alternately run clockwise and counterclockwise. Reading from right to left, write down the last number the needle has passed. The difference between the new reading and your last one totals your weekly consumption. It's really that simple.

Pick up your free meter reading guides.

To help you keep your records straight, Florida Power will give you a supply of specially designed meter reading guides absolutely free. So pick up yours today and catch up on your reading.

After all, since you probably buy electricity more often than anything else, it pays to keep checking out the cash register.

Lakeview Dolphin Midget quarterback Jerod Jones fires a 35-yard pass to Jeff McNair as Kenny Batton (right) watches the throw.

Lakeview Midgets, Junior Midgets Keep Unbeaten Strings Intact

Lakeview's Midgets and Junior Midgets continued to roll in Seminole Youth Sports Association football action at Sylvan Lake Park as each team posted an impressive victory to remain unbeaten for the year.

Coach Wes Childers' Dolphin Midgets used three touchdown runs by John Curry and two by Jerod Jones to polish off the Tuskawilla Warriors, 34-2, and run their record to 7-0 for the year.

Curry, who ran for 100 yards in seven carries, opened the scoring in the first period with a three-yard run. Tray Turner booted the PAT for an 8-0 lead.

In the second quarter, Jones, who gained 149 yards in 10 tries, broke loose for an 81-yard scoring run as Lakeview enhanced its lead to 14-0.

Jones added his second TD after halftime when he scooped up a fumble and raced 15 yards for the score. Curry completed the scoring by going three yards on one power burst and 75 yards on another. Turner kicked the PAT after the first TD.

Quarterback Jones also completed 3 of 5 passes for 95 yards. Jeff McNair snared one for 35 and Fred Thomas caught one for 35.

Jones completed an all-around fine game with two fumble recoveries while Kenny Batton had one. Batton had 10 tackles while Curry and Darcy Williams had nine each.

Coach Tommy Thompson's Lakeview Midgets, meanwhile, rebounded from a 13-12 halftime deficit to take care of Milwee, 33-13.

SYSA Football

Kyle Reynolds was the offensive hero from Lakeview as he scored three touchdowns including two in the fourth quarter to wrap up the Dolphins' seventh win in as many games.

Reynolds, who ran for 57 yards in 10 carries, opened the scoring in the first quarter with an eight-yard run. Quarterback Jeff Blake widened the advantage later in the quarter with a 16-yard scoring toss to Carlos Hartsfield.

Milwee, though, put two TDs and an extra point on the scoreboard in the second period to take a 13-12 halftime advantage.

Lakeview took back 'he lead immediately in the third quarter as Sam Jones sacked the Milwee quarterback in the end zone for a safety and a 14-13 edge.

The gap widened when Arthur Bradford tallied on a two-yard run and Reynolds added his final touchdown on runs for 11 and five yards. Bradford had 64 yards in nine tries.

Blake completed 10 of 18 passes for 181 yards and one TD. He threw one interception. Hartsfield caught five passes for 76 yards and Terrance Eaddy grabbed four for 57.

Defensively, Maushawn West against led the way with five solo tackles, seven assists and one interception. Hartsfield added five solos and one interception.

Teague Junior Pee Wees 14, Lakeview 0
Lakeview's Junior Pee Wees didn't fair as well as their older Dolphins as they dropped a tough 14-0 decision to Teague.

The Tigers broke open a scoreless tie in the fourth quarter when Chris Stark scored with six minutes to play and John Feola ran in the PAT. The Tigers added an insurance score when Sudat Smith tallied and Stark ran over the point after.

Quarterback Brian Meredith fueled the fourth-quarter onslaught by hitting 2 of 2 passes for 25 yards and fullback, Robbie Hughes provided the key block. Smith caught a pass for five yards while Stark grabbed another one for 20.

Smith had 75 yards rushing on eight tries while Stark added 45 on six.

South Seminole Junior Pee Wees 6, Tuskawilla Blue 6
Braniff Bonaventure and Jerry Tucker ignited a 65-yard scoring drive in the final quarter to salvage a deadlock with Tuskawilla Blue. South Seminole and Tuskawilla Gold are tied for the division lead with 6-1 records.

Chris Reynell hauled in the tying TD.

Jackson Heights Junior Midgets 20, South Seminole 12
Rodney Thompson ran for two touchdowns and B.J. Mason added another score as the Bobcats built an early lead and then held off the Hurricanes.

Clinton Dunston led all ball carriers with 166 yards on just four carries while Thompson added 90 on five. John Pettit completed 4 of 8 passes for 20 yards. Mason caught four passes for 66 yards and his TD. Dunston snared three.

Rock Lake Junior Midgets 22, Teague 0
Derrick Sims ran for 64 yards in four carries and added a 43-yard kickoff return for a score as Rock Lake buried Teague.

Steve King added 51 yards on four carries and one TD while Clark Nash completed 1 of 4 passes for 32 yards. Todd Christensen caught two aerials for 52 yards and one score.

Tuskawilla Junior Pee Wees 0, Milwee 0
Tuskawilla Gold defensive back Robby Wilson ran down a Milwee runner at the 19-yard line to save the day as Tuskawilla extended its scoreless quarter string to 30 and remained deadlocked for first place with South Seminole by tying Milwee.

Jon Machules ran for 68 yards in 14 tries and Chris Keezer added 42 in seven.

Craig Dolye and Wilson each had five tackles while Antmny Miken added four.

Scott Yurchison had 111 yards in 24 carries while Todd Cleveland added 48 yards in 13 attempts. Bim Majors had seven tackles and a fumble recovery for Milwee.

Eaton Outshines Stars, Utah Ends Celtic Streak

With Adrian Dantley, Larry Bird, Robert Parish and Darrell Griffith in the game, it came down to a battle of stars. And the key player in the contest? Mark Eaton.

Eaton, a journeyman 7-foot-3 center, dominated the inside against Parish Wednesday night in Salt Lake City with 17 points, 12 rebounds and six blocked shots as the Utah Jazz ended the Boston Celtics' nine-game winning streak with a 122-109 victory.

"Mark Eaton can do anything," stated Utah coach Frank Layden. "If he gets his minutes (38), he then shows production."

"Eaton was the difference tonight," said Celtics coach K.C. Jones. "He was the whole story. He would not let us shoot inside and Larry was not hitting from the outside."

Jazz rookie Thurl Bailey added 16 points while hold-up Bird to just eight on 4-for-15 shooting.

Eaton, 26, was overshadowed in his last two years at UCLA by such players as Kiki Vandeweghe, Rod Foster, and Darren Daye. But he was the one who cast a shadow on the Celtics in the fourth quarter with 10 points and two blocks.

John Drew scored a game-high 29 points and Dantley added 26 for the Jazz, who used 14-for-15 foul shooting in the waning minutes to seal the triumph. Griffith — whose Louisville team lost to UCLA in the 1980 NCAA final — also had 18 points.

Parish led Boston with 25 points and a game-high 17 rebounds. Kevin McHale had 24 points and 11 rebounds and Gerald Henderson added 19 points before he fouled out in the final minute.

Utah, 5-5, shot 61 percent from the floor to outscore the Celtics 37-27 in the second quarter and take the lead for good. Boston battled back to within 75-74 in the third quarter and 99-98 in the fourth. But the Celtics, 9-2, never regained the lead.

In other games, Detroit edged Seattle 122-120, Philadelphia downed New York 102-97, and Phoenix topped Cleveland 115-104.

Nothing is colder inside the Igloo this season than the home team.

The Pittsburgh Penguins, continuing to test the patience of their Civic Arena fans, remained winless at home this season by dropping a 3-2 decision to Toronto Wednesday night. Greg Terrion's goal at 3:11 of the third period gave the Maple Leafs some needed insurance as the Penguins fell to 0-9-1 at the Igloo and incurred the wrath of their perplexed coach.

"I don't know what to say," was Lou Angotti's response after the Penguins dropped to 5-12-2 overall. "There was no intensity, no drive to the net. I can use all kinds of excuses, but now I need to be realistic: we're just not getting execution from some of our players."

Toronto took a 2-1 lead into the final period behind second-period goals by Dale McCourt and Bill Derlago before Terrion scored on a breakthrough.

Elsewhere, the New York Rangers beat Washington 4-1, Chicago edged St. Louis 4-3, Buffalo topped Winnipeg 6-5 in overtime and Los Angeles defeated Vancouver 6-2.

8 Could Have Damaged Reactors

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A draft study by the Oak Ridge National Laboratory reports there were eight nuclear power plant incidents in 1980 and 1981 that had significant potential to cause severe damage to reactor cores.

The findings were released by the Union of Concerned Scientists, an anti-nuclear group based in Cambridge, Mass. that obtained the government study.

The Oak Ridge study found 56 events at nuclear plants in 1980 and 1981 had some potential to cause major core damage. Of the 56, Oak Ridge scientists said eight were identified as significant.

The study also found, however, that the overall chance of a severe core damage accident at U.S. nuclear power plants decreased by a factor of 10 from a landmark study released last year that was done by the national laboratory for the years 1969 through 1979.

"Despite the extensive safety changes ordered as a result of Three Mile Island, the chance of a serious accident at operating nuclear plants remains unacceptably high," argued Robert Pollard, senior nuclear safety engineer for the Union of Concerned Scientists.

A spokesman for the Atomic Industrial Forum, the main nuclear industry trade group, noted the Oak Ridge study is still being circulated by the laboratory for critique by outside scientists. A final version is expected in February.

In an interview with United Press International, two top NRC risk assessment officials acknowledged eight reactor incidents were found to be significant, but said it is difficult to draw solid conclusions from the study because it involves interpretation of highly complex numerical data.

"None of the eight occurrences posed an immediate threat to public health and safety," said Mal Ernst, NRC deputy director of risk analysis.

Gary Burdick, chief of the NRC Reactor Risk Branch, described the Oak Ridge work as "a rather involved technical process and evaluation, and noted the method of analysis that led scientists to describe eight incidents as "significant" is still being assessed.

"We're trying to find out what the limitations are," said Burdick.

A severe core damage accident, such as the 1979 event at Three Mile Island in Pennsylvania, occurs when reactor systems designed to shut down a plant and remove heat from its core do not function properly. If uncorrected, such a situation can lead to a partial or complete core meltdown.

The incident described as most serious by Oak Ridge scientists occurred April 19, 1980, at the Brunswick Unit 1 reactor, South Port, N.C. "The residual heat removal system was lost during shutdown due to fouling of heat exchangers by shells from clams and mussels," the scientists said in their report.

The other incidents, ranked in order of significance by Oak Ridge, were:

1. Millstone 2, Waterford, Conn., Jan. 2, 1981.
2. Davis-Besse, Oak Harbor, Ohio, April 19, 1980.
3. Crystal River 3, Red Level, Fla., Feb. 26, 1980.
4. St. Lucie 1, St. Lucie County, Fla., June 11, 1980.
5. Sequoyah 1, Dalsey, Tenn., Feb. 11, 1981.
6. Davis-Besse, Oak Harbor, Ohio, June 24, 1981.
7. Arkansas Nuclear 1, Russellville, Ark., May 10, 1980.

With an interest in television reporting, Miss Bessner plans to major in journalism.

Grateful Mom Has High Praise For Noble Pooch

DEAR ABBY: Please tell "Dog Tired," who hates animals, that while on vacation it was one of those "stinking animals" that brought my 4-year-old son back after he had been lost for three long hours in the woods. When I saw our beautiful German shepherd tugging our son by the sleeve of his sweat shirt, I could have kissed that dog's feet!

I thank God every day for creating such a noble animal!

Dear Abby

DOG LOVER IN ELMIRA, N.Y.

DEAR DOG LOVER: My mail has been running 100-to-1 in favor of dogs. But here's one that has me stumped:

DEAR ABBY: Tell the woman who hated barking dogs to go to Holland. The dogs there do not bark. I visited my daughter and her husband in Holland two years ago, and their golden retriever didn't bark at all.

They moved to Germany, where all the dogs bark, and now their dog is barking, too. Did you know that dogs learn to bark from barking dogs? And if a dog has never heard another dog bark, it won't bark either?

MRS. M. IN HUNTSVILLE, ALA.

DEAR MRS. M.: My dog expert says that dogs bark instinctively, whether they have heard another dog bark or not.

But that's only the "art" of it — the exception is a barkless African breed, the Besenji.

DER ABBY: When "J." answered my ad for a non-smoking roommate, she admitted that she smoked but was "trying to quit." I told her that I would encourage her efforts to quit smoking and I accepted her. It's been six months and J. is still smoking! She keeps promising to quit but she's still smoking.

I really dislike it because (1) I am a nurse and I know what smoke does to the lungs; (2) she smells bad; (3) even though she smokes only in her room, the rest of the apartment smells of smoke.

Since I advertised for a non-smoker, do I have the right to tell her she will have to move?

CLEAN LUNGS

DEAR CLEAN: You accepted J. as a roommate knowing that she smoked but was trying to quit. She thought she could, and you thought you could help her. You were both mistaken. Talk turkey. Tell J. if she isn't "clean" by Thanksgiving, she will have to find another roommate.

DEAR ABBY: After 20 years of dieting, "Fat, Female and Feeling Fantastic" found a support group of fat people who decided to quit dieting and accept themselves the way they were. Then figuring that she had accomplished something that merited national applause, "F.F. and F.F." bragged about it to you. You told her, "There's nothing wrong with being heavy — as long as you're healthy."

Abby, it's not possible to be hefty and healthy. Excess weight impairs both the immune system and liver function. It breeds diabetes, gallstones, arthritis, puts a strain on the heart and contributes to bad backs and high blood pressure.

"F.F. and F.F." may try to justify her gluttony, but before the American Medical Association says obesity is OK, Yuri Andropov will be a born-again Christian!

BOB STADE IN WOODSIDE

If you put off writing letters because you don't know what to say, send for Abby's complete booklet on letter-writing. Send $2 and a long, stamped (37 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

JACARANDA CIRCLE

Mrs. Muriel Wallace was hostess to the November meeting of the Garden Club of Sanford at the club's Garden Center.

Mrs. Thomas Bleisoe and her assistants conducted a workshop on making corn shuck Christmas wreaths. Each member created a wreath of her own design, according to Mrs. Teola McSwain.

The business meeting was conducted by the president, Allene Perkins, and refreshments were served to 11 members and one visitor by the hostess.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY NOVEMBER 18, 1983
Your best chances for success this coming year will come from enterprises where you are free to call the shots. Partnership arrangements might not work out as well.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) All issues have two sides and problems have alternatives. Be careful today that you don't dwell too heavily upon the negatives. Order now: The New Matchmaker wheel and booklet, which reveals romantic compatibilities for all signs. Send $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Taking on more than you can comfortably manage will prove self-defeating today. Be sensible about the tasks you want to perform.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Think carefully before accepting social invitations today. Instead of relaxing and enjoying yourself, you might feel guilty about neglected duties.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Guard against tendencies today toward being unreasonably demanding of family members. Being overbearing will create discord.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Debates can be avoided today if you keep your opinions to yourself on issues about which you feel strongly. Your emotions may distort your logic.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be very businesslike in all of your commercial and financial dealings today, especially if you've involved with unfamiliar persons. Insist upon receipts.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Avoid associations today with individuals who have caused you problems in the past. Don't put yourself in positions where you require their support.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You might be faced with limitations regarding your freedom of action today, owing to responsibilities you've neglected.

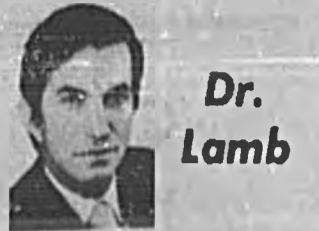

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In social situations today, if you are dissatisfied with the way things are going, try not to react in a manner that could spoil the fun for everyone.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) In order to satisfy your ambitions and achieve your objectives today, it may require more fortitude than usual. Be prepared to bear down.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Keep the mood of your listener in mind today so that you don't expound upon topics about which you feel strongly, but about which they couldn't care less.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Make a conscientious effort to clear up any obligations that are due today. If you try to sweep them under the rug, it will only cause them to get worse.

Drug For Migraines Possibly Dangerous

DEAR DR. LAMB - I have been told by a friend that the drug Sansert was prescribed for the migraine headaches she had for years. After taking Sansert only once, she never again had another migraine. But she did say this drug is dangerous and changes your blood system. I would like to know your opinion. I have tried so many drugs with no relief.

DEAR READER - About Sansert. It is a good medicine and is used to prevent migraine headaches in cases that cannot be controlled by other methods. I do not know what you mean by saying your friend used Sansert only once. If you mean she took medicine only once I would doubt the story. If you mean she took treatment for several months and stopped having migraine headaches, that would be more plausible.

Like most other migraine medications, Sansert seldom cures or totally prevents migraines. That is why it, as well as other medications, needs to be taken for long periods of time.

That is where the trouble begins with Sansert. It may stimulate thickening of the fibrous tissues in the body cavities leading to serious complications. To prevent this most doctors who use it prescribe it only for a few months and then stop it to give the body a chance to avoid such changes or reverse those that have occurred.

Several other medications are used on a continuous basis to prevent migraine headaches. Some are stopped by changes in lifestyle, including avoiding certain foods that contain tyramine, such as aged cheese.

Fortunately for most women who have migraine headaches they usually stop after menopause is over. In a few women, however, they start then. But few things are constant in medicine. One person's blessing is another person's curse.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm in my late 20s and have been exercising because I'm obese. My problem is that upon losing weight from my waist and hips I have noticed that my right hip goes up more on one side than the left. It is also scary as one buttock is much higher on that side, too. I'll do anything to try to correct this problem. I'm not vain. Dr. Lamb, but clothes look and fit terribly. In bathing suits I really look deformed.

DEAR READER - You may have two problems. Often our two halves of the body are unequal. One breast may be larger than the other. Even the sides of the face are often different.

So many people have one leg that is shorter than the other. That will tilt your pelvis and make one hip higher than the other. In that case, if you find out which leg is shorter you can have a lift in your shoe and help to straighten the foundation, so to speak. That decreases the pelvic tilt.

The other (or additional) possibility is that one half of your pelvis may be smaller than the other. It is important to determine if your difference is great because it can cause your entire spinal column to be askew in balancing your body. Why not go see either a specialist in physical medicine or an orthopedic specialist.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

trick two.

Maybe he shouldn't have taken it that early, but he did. East returned his jack of hearts and relaxed completely. He had hearts under control and it was up to his partner to handle spades and diamonds.

Now South ran off his whole club suit. East's first discard was a small spade, his second a heart. The third discard was unimportant because West, who had chucked two spades, a diamond and a heart as his first four discards, let go another diamond and South's nine of diamonds became the slam winner.

"Didn't you know I had another spade?" asked East. "I followed with the deuce way back at trick one."

"No, you idiot," replied West. "You had a cinch way to show that other spade: discarding it when you jettisoned the eight of hearts. When you hid the spade, I just assumed that you had made a mistake at trick one, not at trick eight, when you should have been alert."

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby
There was nothing wrong with South's six no-trump contract. He had 11 top tricks and a heart finesse right in sight. Maybe you don't approve of the bidding, but it got South there quickly - and most unhappily when he lost the heart finesse at

Success

In Showbiz, The Key Is Exceeding The Expected

By Vernon Scott
UPI Hollywood Reporter

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Americans, more than any people on earth, are entertained to death. Television and cable run 24 hours a day. Many theaters are open around the clock. Restaurants, elevators and automobile radios blare canned music ceaselessly. Factories and businesses pipe in music. Walkman and other tape recorders, not to mention portable radios, are part of the American street scene. It's as if the populace had grown earphones and antennas. Even joggers wear them. Airports have small, quarter-operated TV sets for travelers who cannot sit still for half an hour awaiting their flights. In flight there are, of course, earphones and movies. Professional football's sidelines are marked by half-naked women kicking their heels in the event fans get bored watching Dallas kick the kapok out of Houston. Silence has become a sin in the United States. Diversion is all. When everyday distractions of visual and audio assault are not enough, there are theme parks in every major city, marine shows and animal parks to distract the citizen from normal thought processes. The torrent of entertainment, or what passes for entertainment, is such that producers of special programs designed to delight the ear and eye are hard-pressed to come up with original material. One such is Robert F. Jani, producer-director of the Radio City Music Hall Entertainment Center, creative consultant for Walt Disney Productions, president of his own production company and until recently director of ceremonies for the 1984 Olympics. Jani is responsible for the astonishing half-time participation of 100,000 fans in the kaleidoscopic card stunts at the last Super Bowl. Often billed as the P.T. Barnum of modern show business, Jani is a soft-spoken, unprepossessing man who lives and works quietly near the Pacific Ocean in Southern California. Like many another impresario, Jani finds himself in the position of trying to top himself with entertainment specials, most recent of which is the second annual "Magnificent Christmas Spectacular" at Los Angeles Shrine Auditorium — a West Coast edition of the Radio City Music Hall supercolossal starring the Rockettes. The raw materials of most modern spectacles are dancing girls, fireworks, banners, lights, fountains, balloons, spangles and blasting music. Jani thinks in different terms. "The essential element of a spectacular is surprise," he said. "The audience must see and hear more than it anticipated. There must be enough magic to exceed expectations."

Vera Finally Lands A Man

By Vernon Scott
UPI Hollywood Reporter

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Vera Louise Gorman, the air-haired waitress of the Alice TV series, gets married this weekend as her fellow waitresses and terrible tempered Mel stand by tearfully. If Vera, who gave every promise of leading a saintly, virtuous life to the grave, can land a man, there is hope for every old maid and involuntary spinster in the world. It would seem that marriage to Vera, she of faint heart and incessant quibbling, would be akin to being nibbled to death by ducks. Nor does Bob Derek lie awake nights fearful of losing her husband to the likes of the fluttery waitress. Uncharitable as these assessments of Vera's character and physical charms may appear, doubtless she possesses virtues other than virginity to recommend her as wife material. Beth Howland, the pixie-like actress who portrays Vera to a fault, is quick to come to her defense, especially a couple of days before the great and wondrous occasion of her nuptial day. For eight years Beth has striven to invest hapless Vera with attributes that might attract a husband. She did, in fact, have a serious suitor some years back, but to no avail. The cad took off for greener pastures. While Vera became a wallflower, Alice had several serious romances, and dear departed Flo jumped in the hay with some of the big butter and egg men, and an occasional flashy yahoo, who stopped by Mel's Diner looking for action. Still, Beth resents the insinuation that Vera has been a world class loser in the garden of love. "Vera is a sweet, caring and loving person," Beth said. "She is a woman of principle and she is absolutely without guile. Of course, Vera is a bit fluttery, but that's part of her charm." Beth flashed a smile in the direction of actor Charles Levin who will play Elliot Novak, a cop who falls in love with Vera and marries her all in an hour's time in the first 60-minute episode of Alice Sunday. "We're talking fast," said Levin. A quiet but dynamic actor who distinguished himself as the pathetic gay squealer in five episodes of Hill Street Blues, he was also a standout in Manhattan and Annie Hall with Woody Allen. "They brought me into the show for the sole purpose of marrying Vera. He catches Vera when she arrests her for jay-walking. And it's love at first sight for both of them. Beth smiled in agreement. There is no way their TV romance slopes over into reality. Off-camera, Beth is a divorcee and keeps her love life to herself. Levin is happily married. "They tested me with more than 80 actors," Beth said. "And Chuck was the best. He seemed just right for Vera. He struck me as the kind of man who would understand her. He could fulfill her needs." Beth undoubtedly thought she was praising Elliot's meticulous standards and taste in women. Many another observer might consider Elliot a victim of a vengeful cupid. "Elliot is a nice guy who gets easily side-tracked," Levin said. "He's not as hare-brained as Vera. After all, he's a good cop. He's also a good hugger and kisser." "I agree with that!" Beth put in enthusiastically. "These are my first love scenes in the show, although I once did a romantic scene in a Love Boat episode." "They had to rewrite the first episode after I was cast," Levin said. "At first they had Elliot as flighty as Vera. There was no contrast between them. Now he's less wacky." Beth is ecstatic with the upsweep in Vera's fortunes. "The addition of a husband for Vera opens the door to new situations. And it gives another dimension to Vera's personal life."

Vera (Beth Howland) and Elliot (Charles Levin) become bride and groom on Alice Sunday at 8 p.m. on CBS.

OK Likely For Tax Increases, Spending Cuts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate rejected a move to slash the federal deficit by $88 billion over the next three years, but a Senate leader said $28 billion worth of spending cuts and tax increases would be approved today.

The deficit-reduction plan calls for $13.4 billion in tax increases and $14.6 billion in spending cuts over the next three years.

"I think we'll pass it some time tomorrow," Senate Budget Committee Chairman Pete Domenici, R-N.M., said late Wednesday night.

With only one day left before adjournment, Congress was trying to show some willingness to reduce $200 billion annual deficits that threaten the fragile economy.

Domenici conceded "the probabilities are that there will not be" a substantial deficit-reduction plan approved by Congress before the 1984 elections.

The House has approved $10.3 billion in spending cuts, but no tax increases.

The $28 billion Senate package would achieve its spending cuts mainly by delaying cost-of-living increases for federal pensions, delaying and limiting pay raises for federal employees to 4 percent, and increasing the deductible for Medicare recipients.

Its tax revenue would be achieved mostly through the closing of corporate income tax loopholes.

Domenici and Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., the senior Democrat on the budget committee, had proposed a substitute package of spending cuts and tax increases that would cut the deficit by $88 billion over the next three years.

But the Senate refused 65-33 late Wednesday night to vote the budget rules so the $88 billion deficit-reduction plan could be voted on as a substitute.

Much of the problem dealt with its proposed $57 billion in tax increases, and President Reagan's opposition to them.

The 1984 budget Congress adopted in June called for $74 billion in tax increases and $12 billion in spending cuts. The $28 billion package falls far short of implementing that budget guideline.

Child Support Duties Will Follow Parents

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House is unanimously behind legislation that would make it impossible for an absent parent to avoid child support payments by moving across state lines.

With the unanimous vote, the House sent to the Senate late Wednesday a bill that would require states to enact laws requiring employers to withhold money from the paychecks of residents who fall behind in their child support payments.

The bill would trigger mandatory withholding when an absent parent is one month behind in payments. It was not known when the Senate might consider the legislation.

The current lack of interstate coordination on the issue makes it difficult to collect child support even if the absent parent is found. Under present law, children in such circumstances usually can get financial aid only if the family goes on welfare.

As a result, an estimated four million children go without proper support each year, the sources said.

The bill would require states to establish programs that provide for the collection of child support payments through employee withholding by Oct. 1, 1985.
