Image of slain girl covered

CHULA VISTA, Calif. — A blank billboard that drew thousands of viewers who believed it showed the ghostly image of a slain 9-year-old girl now bears a photograph of the child.

After consulting with Laura Arroyo's family, Martin Outdoor Advertising, which owns the billboard, covered it with a photograph of the pony-tailed girl and the words: "In Memory — Laura Arroyo."

The billboard also asks that anyone with information about her murder call the Chula Vista Police Department.

"The mutual feeling among all parties was that the special message in Laura's memory would be a proper conclusion to the ongoing phenomenon," said Frank Sanchez, the billboard company's general manager.

Laura was abducted from her home in June. About 18 hours later her beaten body was found at a nearby industrial park. Her killer remains at large.

Thousands lined up by the billboard over the past three weeks, saying they could see a murky image resembling the girl every day just after dusk.

Warning! Radioactive frogs

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — Oak Ridge National Laboratory officials have issued a warning that tiny radioactive frogs are on the loose.

The fugitive amphibians are brownish-green, 1½ to 2 inches long with skinny legs and apparently healthy — except that they can set off a Geiger counter with radiation levels well above normal.

The radioactive leopard frogs are safe unless eaten, but they aren't exactly appetizing.

And, said Frank Kornegay, the lab's environmental coordinator, the frogs "aren't particularly cute, so I don't think anyone is going to take them home as pets."

Workers at the Department of Energy installation about 35 miles west of Knoxville reported radioactive tires on their cars and trucks, apparently from running over the creatures.

"That's how we first discovered them" outside the pond, Kornegay said.

He estimated about 100 of the frogs have been caught and tested in the past month.

Deli installs toilet in front window

COLLINSVILLE, Ill. — Owners of a delicatessen were ordered to install a second bathroom to comply with health codes. So they installed one — in their front window.

Ed and Sandy Dawdy, owners of the Corner Deli, said they put a portable toilet in the window of their downtown business to make a point.

"This porta-potty makes about as much sense sitting in this window as having two restrooms in a deli that seats 18 people," reads the sign next to the portable toilet, which is not equipped for service.

The city has been trying to get the Dawdys to bring their business into compliance with state health codes.

Grove bears first fruit Drug treatment center brings community together

By VICKI BOGOMER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Vowing to take the Midway community back from the drug dealers, Eddie Martin announced the opening of the new Therapeutic Community Enrichment Program (TCEP) at 2300 Randall St. in Sanford, on Saturday morning.

With the assistance of County Commissioner Jennifer Kelley and Larry Visser, executive director for TCEP programs at the Grove, the pink and silver ribbons tied across the threshold of the building were snipped to announce the beginning of the community's drug fighting partnership with the Grove.

TCEP, a branch of the Grove Counseling Center of Central Florida, is located in a house in the midst of a neighborhood tarnished by the reputation of drug deals and substance abuse.

"This is your program," Martin, who will direct the Midway program as well as a similar program in East Altamonte Springs, said. "The success of what we are doing here depends on the families and the community."

The center includes four beds for in-patient treatment and five other rooms for community

LAKE MARY — The traditional red and white barber poles have existed for centuries, all over the world. Yet, until recently, they were a violation of the sign code in Lake Mary.

One man's persistent efforts have changed Lake Mary's original sign ordinance. Photographer Dave Cordek started his drive to change it during a city commission meeting in April.

Cordek shares a phone and has a photo shop as part of a dual business called Snip & Snap, 113 W. Crystal Lake Drive in Lake Mary. The other occupant is Millie Murray, who has Millie's Barber Shop. She snips, he snaps.

In an address to the commissioners on April 18, Cordek not only gave his opinion on why the city's ordinance should not include barber poles, he presented each Commissioner with an extensive report on the history of barber poles around the world, taken from the March 1989 edition of "Antiques and Collecting" magazine.

He explained that originally the poles were red, white and blue, to symbolize patriotism. Now, almost all of the poles are just red and white. Years ago, when barbers also handled some medical needs of the citizens, the red and white colors represented the bandages with which the barber wrapped their

School's out earlier on Wednesday

By VICKI BOGOMER

SANFORD — Students in Seminole County will get out of classes an hour earlier every Wednesday during the 1991-92 school year to allow teachers and administrators the opportunity to work on school improvement plans.

"We've been able to do this because Tallahassee has gotten more flexible with us," said Dick Hofmann, director of community relations for the school district.

In an effort to decentralize the Department of Education and give districts more freedom, the state has allowed districts to determine the structure of the school year as long as students attend classes a minimum of 900 hours during the course of the academic year.

According to Hofmann, Seminole County students will meet that requirement with no problems.

With the new freedoms accorded the school district, there comes a certain level of accountability.

"We have to make sure that the students are learning what the state mandates," Supt. Bob Hughes said recently of the accountability program. "They have given us the freedom to give them results."

The reduction in class hours is not designed to save the district

Oh, well, readers, nobody is perfect

This is the 40th article we've done for you "old" and "young" timers about some of Sanford's history and its folks. And would you believe we've made a mistake or two, maybe more. Today, let's make some corrections.

For example, it was not Lucille Boyce, former Eastside primary schoolteacher, who later opened, owned and operated the well-known eatery, Mrs. Appleby's Restaurant, in the old Valdez Hotel building. Mrs. Appleby, we're told, was originally Lucille Proctor.

In our piece about Jenö Paulucci, we referred to his Chinese food firm as "Chun King." It should have been "Chun King." By the way, we got a super note of thanks from Jenö as well as another copy of his book — "How It Was to Make A Hundred Million Dollars In A Hurry." If you've never read Jenö's book you've missed a treat. We're sure the local library has it.

Recently we referred to a black druggist who once worked for Eckerd's and later Winn-Dixie. We said his name was Stapleton. We're told now his name was "Stapler." We've also been told his father also was a pharmacist and operated Everly's drugstore for many years in the 300 block of Sanford Avenue.

Then there was our item about the late L.E. Tew Jr., we mentioned a couple of Sundays ago. We were correct about his having a brother, James, and an older sister, Thelma. But we overlooked that L.E. had a younger sister, Mary Helen. She is a retired schoolteacher living in North Carolina.

We've been told the Charles F. Marshall family lived on West Sixth Street near the old Grammar School. That's true. But they also lived in the 1100 block of Laurel Avenue at one time. We called the Marshall's daughter, Dorothy

Teen sentenced to take victim's place

PENSACOLA — A teen-ager sentenced to 12 years in prison for the gang-related slaying of another teen, who had been a youth-league football coach, will take his victim's place by working with children.

Circuit Judge Nancy Gilliam ordered prison term and 1,000-hour community service sentence Thursday for Christopher Harold Alexander, 19, of Pensacola.

He was convicted of second-degree murder in June for gunning down 18-year-old Gabriel Mahoney, also of Pensacola, at a Thanksgiving Day party last Nov. 22 in the industrial suburb of Cantonment.

"You will take Gabe Mahoney's place," Gilliam told Alexander as she added the community service requirement to his prison term. She also ordered him to pay his victim's medical and funeral expenses.

Sentencing guidelines called for 12 to 17 years in prison. Gilliam said she opted for the low end of the range because of Alexander's youth and his lack of a prior criminal record.

Lowery to hear allegations of brutality

FORT WALTON BEACH — Southern Christian Leadership Council President Joseph Lowery is scheduled today to visit this Florida Panhandle city to hear allegations about police brutality.

Black residents of Sylvania Heights, a community near Fort Walton Beach, contend Okaloosa County sheriff's deputies have burst into their homes on unfounded drug searches and beat them on the streets without cause.

"Florida is the fifth-highest state in crime and for the criminal justice system being biased," said the Rev. R.N. Gooden of Tallahassee, president of the SCLC's Florida chapter. "Dr. Lowery certainly wouldn't be coming in if the evidence was not there to support the fact that the number of brutality cases is high in Fort Walton Beach and Okaloosa County."

Three Sylvania Heights men in June filed a $58 million lawsuit against Okaloosa Sheriff Larry Gilbert and several deputies alleging three instances of brutality dating back to 1976.

Gilbert contends those alleging police brutality are drug dealers who are trying to get authorities off their backs.

Standards issue decided case-by-case

MIAMI — Uncertainty about the dependability of breath analysis machines is not a reason to throw out thousands of test results, a panel of Dade traffic judges decided.

For the first time in Florida, the judges said the standards issue will be decided on a case-by-case basis at trial. Judges in four other Florida counties had thrown out thousands of DUI cases, ruling the state's Breathalyzer test standards failed to uniformly and effectively measure the accuracy of each machine.

More than 4,000 Dade DUI prosecutions were affected by Thursday's ruling.

Earlier this year, some public defenders and defense lawyers discovered attacking Breathalyzer machines, which test a person's blood-alcohol level, was a way to derail DUI prosecutions.

Sugar producer welcomes investigation

CLEWISTON — The president of the country's oldest sugar producer said he welcomes a federal investigation into his company's treatment of foreign sugar cane cutters.

"U.S. Sugar is proud of its relationship with our workers and we have made every effort to ensure we are complying with all labor laws," said J. Nelson Fairbanks, president of U.S. Sugar Corp.

Fairbanks' statement Friday was the company's first formal response to a House committee report on allegations of unfair pay procedures for foreign workers in South Florida.

The House Committee on Education and Labor wants an investigation into $11 million in wage deductions taken each year from the 10,000 sugar cane workers brought to the United States from Jamaica and other Caribbean islands.

In the report released last Monday, the House committee said the Labor Department had failed to act on allegations that foreign cutters are being exploited in South Florida.

Nurse's death puzzles medical experts

PANAMA CITY — The mysterious death of a nurse after she attended a patient in a hyperbaric chamber has puzzled medical experts in the field.

A medical examiner has preliminarily attributed the July 22 death of Joyce Vause, 52, to the bends, or decompression sickness, an illness suffered by divers who come to the surface too fast.

Hyperbaric chambers are used to treat the bends, in which inert gases bubble out of the victim's blood and tissues because of the sudden drop in atmospheric pressure.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Budget woes hit cities, counties

By BILL KACZON
Associated Press Writer

Budget woes have trickled down from the federal and state levels to cities and counties across Florida — raising the likelihood of salary freezes, layoffs and service reductions.

Many local officials writing budgets for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1 are considering such cuts to avoid red ink.

Some are contemplating tax and fee increases while others are bowing to a growing anti-tax sentiment among voters.

"We read their lips," said Escambia County Commission Chairman David Pavlock in Pensacola, borrowing a phrase from President Bush.

The national recession has reduced the flow of money into city and county coffers and increased demands for some services, officials say. Also, cash-strapped federal and state governments are passing responsibilities — but not the bucks to pay for them — to the cities and counties.

"What's basically happening from our perspective is a trickle-down effect," said Tom Riordan, a spokeswoman for the city of Tallahassee.

"The cities and counties are being forced to spend money to correct those problems that used to be handled at the federal level," said Ken Small, research director for the Florida League of Cities.

Meanwhile, federal and state revenue sharing have shrunk. Small pointed out that at one time the federal government paid 75 percent of the cost of building sewage treatment plants. That program no longer exists, but communities still must meet strict federal and state environmental standards.

Riordan said federal support also has been cut over a period of years for affordable housing, social services and cultural projects.

In Florida, state law requires local governments to share in growth management and criminal justice expenses.

Police, prisons, courts and other criminal justice expenses will make up 40 percent of Dade County's budget, up from 38 percent this year, said Assistant Budget Director Steve Spratt.

To help make up the difference, cuts are expected in other services including low-income housing, health care, mass transit, beach maintenance, the Metrozone and cultural programs.

Cities and counties last year won some respite from what had been a growing list of mandatory spending ordered by Tallahassee.

Woman: Eckerd employee displayed her nude photos

Associated Press

TAMPA — A Tampa woman says she was among hundreds whose nude photos were passed around at a party by a former Eckerd Express Photo store employee.

Wendy Ellingson, 26, said she destroyed prints and negatives of three nude photographs taken by a boyfriend and thought she had seen the last of them.

But Ellingson said they surfaced again in October 1990, two years later, when her boyfriend went to a party thrown by an Eckerd Express Photo employee.

The employee passed around an album showing hundreds of nude women, and among the photos of naked women on secluded beaches and lovers in bubble baths were the pictures of Ellingson, she said.

Ellingson filed a civil suit last week in Hillsborough County Circuit Court alleging that three former employees of Jack Eckerd Corp. made copies of her photographs and showed them at parties. She asked undetermined damages exceeding $10,000.

"My client has never been so embarrassed and humiliated in her life," Ellingson's attorney, Matthew Powell, said Friday.

"There is no way of knowing how many times these things made the rounds at countless parties. It's simply inestimable," Powell said.

Ellingson is the only plaintiff. But Powell said he's obtained two albums containing photos of about 295 other women taken between 1987 and 1989, and may refile the case as a class-action suit if other women come forward.

Distributing the photos would involve criminal charges only if the photos themselves were proven obscene, said a prosecutor, Assistant State Attorney Hank Lavandera.

Simply a photo of a woman's nude body probably wouldn't be, Lavandera said. "The crux of it is that it's a civil matter."

Eckerd public affairs director Gene Ormond declined to comment except to say the corporation was conducting its own investigation into allegations that employees copied photos sent to them for processing.

Ellingson said she didn't know ahead of time that her boyfriend, whom she didn't identify, was taking the pictures, which showed her taking off her shirt, lying naked on her stomach reading a book, and bathing.

"I heard the click and looked up and then I knew," she said. She said she agreed to have the film developed, but when the pictures came back, she destroyed them.

Teachers on abuse list win settlement

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Three teachers who said the state hurt their reputations by listing them on a child-abuse registry have won an $85,000 settlement from the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services.

The department didn't admit any wrongdoing in listing the teachers' names, but agreed to purge any reference to them as suspected or confirmed child abusers.

One, Hernando County schoolteacher Marvin Murphy, said he was pleased with the outcome, but it didn't wipe out the damage done when he was cited by HRS in an "indicated" abuse complaint later determined to be unfounded.

"The damage is already done. And you can't get that back," Murphy said.

He was suspended from his job pending an HRS investigation, and later allowed to return to the classroom.

The agreement settled an April 1990 lawsuit the teachers filed in U.S. District Court in Tallahassee, challenging the way HRS processed abuse complaints and compiled the registry.

The Legislature has since made changes to remedy problems raised in the suit, said Tallahassee attorney Ron Meyer, who represented the teachers.

The registry, in a 60-foot long, $7 million computer, receives information on every child-abuse complaint called into the state's toll-free abuse line or reported to district HRS offices.

Complaints formerly were categorized as "confirmed," "indicated," or "unfounded," and didn't have to warrant criminal charges to be recorded.

"The Legislature in 1991 eliminated the offending category of 'indicated.' And in 1990 there

Insurance donation makes safe haven a reality in Midway

By VICKI DeBORNER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — With the help of the Grove Counseling Center the Midway Community Center will finally be able to offer a safe haven and recreational activities for the young people of Midway.

The opening of the center has been delayed for several months because the Midway Citizens Against Drugs (MCAD), the community group which leases the building from the county and has renovated it, did not have the financial resources to pay for liability insurance on the center.

"We wanted to be able to help them get the center open," said Larry Visser, executive director of the Grove Counseling Center's Therapeutic Community Enrichment Programs, after presenting Johnell Jackson, president of the group, with a one-year insurance binder on the facility.

"They need to get that center available for the community with recreation and athletic activities," he noted.

Visser said that the Grove had planned to sublet the building from MCAD so that they could pay the insurance, but found the legal requirements to be too complicated.

Instead they paid the bill for the insurance as a donation to MCAD.

"This is fantastic," Jackson said, kissing the binder.

He said that the center will open very soon now that the insurance policy is paid.

According to Visser, the Seminole County Sheriff's Office has

Grants to help shore cleanup programs

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — A new state waterway cleanup program may help local non-profit groups and government agencies to host "Adopt a Shore" programs.

Grants up to $25,000 will be awarded by Keep Florida Beautiful Inc. to non-profit corporations or agencies interested in starting up regular river, lake or ocean-front shorelines. Grant recipients must agree to stage at least three cleanups per year for two years.

Keep Florida Beautiful was created through the 1988 Solid Waste Act as a non-profit organization dedicated to community volunteer efforts to improve the state's environment. The organization was awarded a $300,000 grant by the state Clean Florida Commission to administer the program.

Keep Florida Beautiful

spokesman Scott McPherson said each grant can be used to pay for the expenses of staging waterfront cleanups, including the salary of a coordinator. McPherson said each grant must be matched by the same amount in money or services. Organizations interested in beginning Adopt a Shore applying must

Under the programs, groups can select sections of waterfronts for the periodic cleanup campaigns. McPherson said signs will be erected where environmentally feasible such as entrances to parks. Keep Florida Beautiful will offer guidance for in setting up programs and preservation of vegetation and wildlife during the cleanups.

McPherson said the program is patterned after "Adopt a Highway" programs where local groups select roadways for litter pickups.

An organizer of a Wekiva River cleanup said such undertakings can be massive efforts.

"We found it is just too big a job to do once a year," said Hans Kairies, development coordinator for the Florida Audubon Society.

The society staged a Wekiva River cleanup in 1989 that attracted hundreds of volunteers and was sponsored by dozens of businesses.

"To do it the way we did it takes a massive amount of time," Kairies said. "It definitely makes better since to do it more often."

Kairies said Audubon has no plans to stage another Wekiva cleanup. Since the 1989 cleanup, the Wekiva Springs State Park has allowed several groups to continue litter pickups of different sections of the river.

So How Do I Pay For It?

What a great idea! It'll brighten up the entire hallway. I love the shape. And it'll be easy to put in. The only real question is, how do I pay for it!

It seems I spend all of my time in the kitchen. So I decided to make it the best room in the house. Now how do I pay for it!

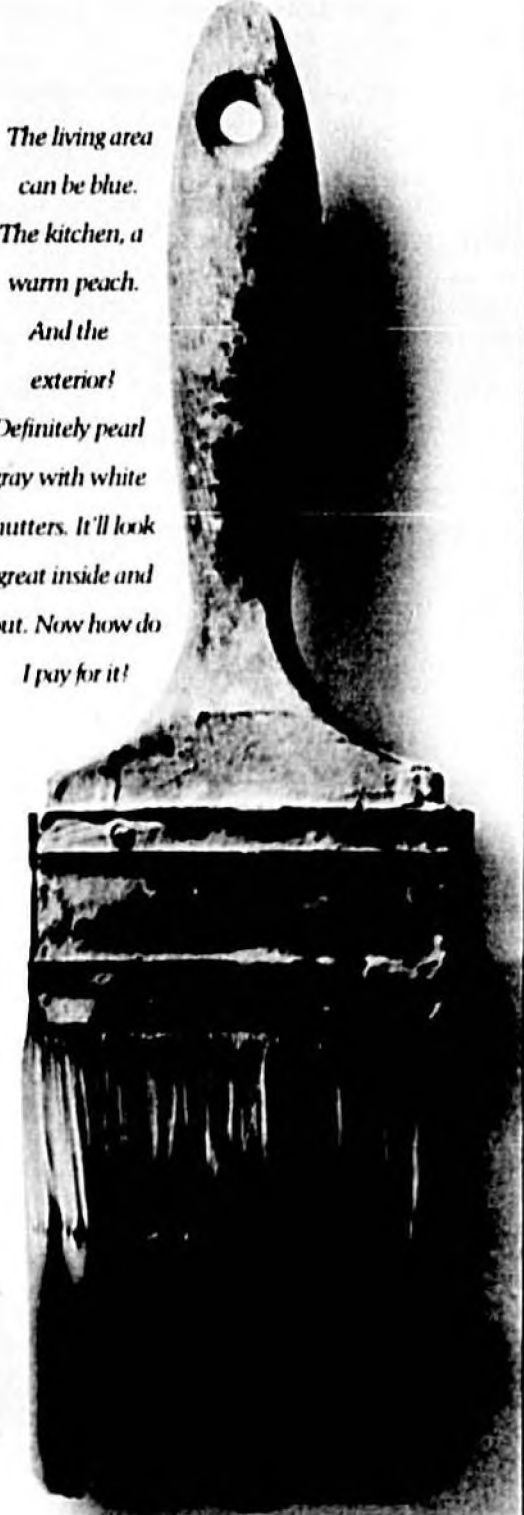

I can picture it now. Hardwood floors. Recessed lighting. Maybe even a stone fireplace! It'll be a great room. Now how do I pay for it!

It's amazing how fast they've grown. Maybe it's time to add another bathroom. The kids will love it. And we could use the privacy. Yeah, that would be nice. Now how do I pay for it!

The living area can be blue. The kitchen, a warm peach. And the exterior! Definitely pearl gray with white shutters. It'll look great inside and out. Now how do I pay for it!

Just Ask.

The chief of the Environmental Protection Agency, William Reilly, has begun to beat a tactical retreat in the ongoing controversy over wetlands preservation. He announced recently that his agency is revising the federal government's definition of wetlands in a way that could remove millions of acres from current statutory protections. It's a good move, and — if that's what Reilly's amendments will do — it won't come a moment too soon.

Although earlier generations of Americans worked hard to drain their bogs and swamps as fast as they could, modern environmental managers have learned a lot about the vital role that these natural and sometimes transitory bodies of water play in supporting wildlife, filtering water supplies and regulating flows into groundwater and surface streams.

Protecting wetlands has been an important objective of federal policy ever since the passage of the Clean Water Act in 1962, and President Bush ran for office in 1988 pledging that there would be no net loss of wetlands during his administration.

All of this was relatively uncontroversial until the EPA in 1980 published a manual that sought to describe with greater clarity just what wetlands are and what the government had to do to protect them. Only after the manual came out did the administration discover to its horror that these new rules had been so broadly drawn that they could have the effect, critics charged, of banning any new construction in three-fourths of Alaska, half of Vermont, 40 percent of Maryland's eastern shore and nearly all of suburban Houston.

That in turn set off such a protest in Congress that the Clean Water Act itself, which is up for renewal this year, may be in jeopardy. Numerous bills that would ban wetlands protections altogether or severely cripple their enforcement have been moving ahead rapidly in both houses with bipartisan support.

Some environmentalists blame scalots in their own ranks and in the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service for this snafu. Others inevitably will attack Reilly and Bush for bowing to the demands of developers. But the original definitions, while perhaps scientifically valid, went far beyond any protections that Congress had in mind in 1962. Taking a few steps backward at this point is movement in the right direction because a little discretion now may prevent something far worse.

Nature, nurture and kids' behavior

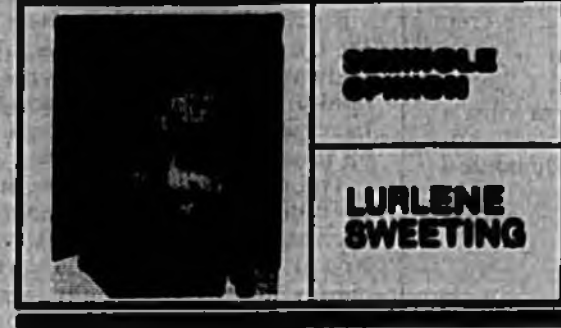

Societal influences upon children have been critically debated by developmental psychologists. This nature-versus-nurture controversy has persisted since the advent of psychology. The salient question has been whether human behavior is more a function of genetic inheritance or environmental influences? The central issue is how nature and nurture interact in determining behavior, rather than one or the other being the chief determinant. Developmental psychologists recognize that the society in which a child lives significantly impacts his behavior.

Anthropologists in describing cultural differences among people have suggested that universally an individual's growth and development is shaped by the society into which he is born.

Psychologist Maslow conceptualized a hierarchy of human needs. He postulated that the need for food and shelter were first level biological needs and a secondary need was for safety. These basic needs had to be fulfilled before a person was free to grow and develop into a healthy personality.

Accepting that there is some validity to the conclusions reached by psychologists and anthropologists concerning societal influences upon child development, Shames' pictorial review should be analyzed in this context.

Some of the statistics Shames presented concerning daily occurrences in the lives of American children are: 27 die from the effects of poverty; 100,000 are homeless; 2,000,000 are left unsupervised; 2,988 parents divorce; 1,840 are abused or neglected and three of them die; 135,000 bring guns to school and three of them die; 2,478 teenagers drop out of school and 34 million families with children have one adult working, but remain poor.

Today, 12,000,000 children have been plummeted into the abyss of poverty through no fault of their own. They are innocent of any crime. "Today it is not law but economics that condemns the children of the poor to the implacable inheritance of a diminished destiny." The children cannot extricate themselves without help from their fellow Americans. Twelve million children will remain outside the American dream unless you and I do something to precipitate change.

Americans are known world-wide for their generosity. However, charity begins at home. Now is the hour for Americans to address the suffering within our own borders. How can we profess to be universally concerned about humanity when we ignore the children in our midst? Our domestic agenda should include as a number one priority meeting the needs of all of our young citizens for medical care, food, shelter, and a safe environment. To ignore the plight of these youngsters is to jeopardize the future of all Americans. We cannot afford for our greatest natural resource, our children, to become twelve million alienated adults. People who do not feel a part of a system are more prone to be destructive to the system than those who have a stake in it.

It is the height of folly to think that we can ever contain all anti-social people. It therefore behooves us to honestly address the issues confronting us relative to the needs of poor children. A civilization is evaluated in accordance with the care afforded its most vulnerable members. We should ask ourselves do we have the right, because of the accident of one's birth, to deny them the promise of this bountiful land? No American child should bear the physical, social, and psychological indignity of being poor without our help.

ELLEN GOODMAN

Private choices, public money

BOSTON — When you make a living telling people what you think, you expect that people will write to tell you what they think of what you think. It's a fair enough exchange except that you're often outnumbered. Writer, 1; Readers, 101, that sort of thing.

So it happened with a recent column in which I dissented from Judge Jackson Kiser's opinion upholding the all-male Virginia Military Institute. He said the state-supported school could legally ban women from its hallowed, stonewall Jackson-haunted grounds.

The judge considered VMI, home of the brave, true and the rat line, an endangered species worth saving from the egalitarian hordes. He said the school marched to the beat of a different drummer. I said the drummer was playing a tune as out-of-sync with the law as Jim Crow.

In any case, if the VMI alumni office want to check on the whereabouts of its alumni, I can be of great service. The rat line breeds loyalty, although not always legitimacy.

My favorite note came on the back of a fund-raising letter to a Brother Rat from the class of 1946. "Euphoria is still high down here as the news has finally sunk in that we have indeed defeated the latest incursion of the forces of evil from up north." He went on to defend VMI, saying "Lockstep Waring Blender society is fine for Americans but we in Virginia are used to something better."

There was indeed a good deal of what I would call Southern chauvinism in my mailbox. Some of it was rather basic as in the note from Atlanta. "I read the attached in the Atlanta Constitution...and promptly threw up."

But others, like the Virginian from Lynchburg, were more understanding. First he attacked me for helping to "produce bloated egos and unisex feminists who attempt to subvert the wisdom of our forebears and mutate a genetic code and disposition...." Then he held out an olive branch. "Possibly your attitude is explained by your perspective. You are not a Virginian or a Southerner....Intellectually not being a Virginian or Southerner can be stultifying."

But not all chauvinism was Southern. A Pittsburgh man expressed a not-entirely-unique opinion: "You and your feminist cohorts are a menace to our society and are a very bad influence on the American public as well as our young women." Nor is that sentiment all-male. A woman from Rochester, N.Y., wanted to know "...just when women will stop their eternal whining and self-pity."

Among the letters were, as always, a number of writers asking serious and subtle questions. They asked, for example, whether there isn't any room for separate in the pursuit of equal.

Some talked about the girl who used to be a Boy Scout. Others talked about Mills College and Chatham College, which have both opted to remain single-sex and female.

As a correspondent from Delhi, N.Y., wrote, "My question is simple: Why must every option be open to everyone? We live in a country full of opportunity...Rather than creating a new option for women...the institution of coeducation at VMI would, in fact, destroy an option for young men."

This is new argument that turns the old argument on its head. It is now often said that a push for one kind of diversity — the inclusion of women, minorities — is actually a push against another kind of diversity — the all-male school, club, etc.

I think there is room, or rooms, for separate experiences. The girl who was bored would have been better off living up the Girl Scouts than suing the Boy Scouts. I'd rather see separate but equally funded college sports than one "co-ed" team that included an occasional extraordinary female and left the other women on the bench.

But in fact we have a kind of compromise built into our system. If Mills and Wellesley and Chatham Colleges want to remain single-sex, it's their own business. Not because they are women's colleges, but because they are private.

So too for VMI. This Institute gets some $8 million a year — roughly one third of its budget — from the great state of Virginia. (Pleeeze — I love the South.) Despite Judge Kiser's tortured reasoning, the law reflects our social decision that our sons and daughters of all races and religions should have an equal opportunity to attend any school supported by the taxpayers. We shouldn't have to pay for a school that categorically bans our daughters.

"What's wrong with being different?" asks a VMI grad, class of '88, from Rome, N.Y.

Dear Grad, if you want VMI to stay all-male, then it should go private. Drop a note to the Commander. I'll even donate my used-stamp collection.

The drummer was playing a tune as out-of-sync with the law as Jim Crow.

Nordic nations lend a hand to Baltics

TALLINN, Estonia — When mice roar, it helps to have some bigger, stronger friends to protect them.

And that is what Nordic countries have become to the three small Baltic republics trying to break away from the Soviet Union. Finland has stretched hands across the water to Estonia. Sweden has paired off with Latvia. And Denmark has adopted Lithuania. Iceland and Norway are also doing their part.

Latvian Vice President Danis Ivans used a cat-and-mouse analogy when we met him on our recent trip through the Baltics: "In one room, a cat and a mouse have been locked up together. And, if nobody comes and helps to unlock the door, it is hopeless for the mouse to try to get out." Ivans says he doesn't like comparing the Baltics to a mouse, unless it is the mouse that roared. The people of the Baltics like to think they have Moscow trembling, and they may be right.

The Baltics are able to roar because five Nordic countries have been buttressing their resolve.

Iceland all but established diplomatic relations with the Baltics in February with a parliamentary resolution confirming Iceland's 1922 recognition of the Baltics as independent nations.

Denmark has signed protocols of cooperation and promised to recognize the Baltics — a move that brought an official protest from the Soviet Union. During a closed-door session of the Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe in June, Danish Foreign Minister Uffe Ellemann-Jensen rebuked the Soviets because the Baltics had not yet received "the freedom and independence which their populations have so clearly said they desire and which they so clearly have a right to." He appealed to Moscow to renounce violence against the Baltics.

For the past two years, the Nordic Council, an interparliamentary body for Nordic cooperation, has invited Baltic representatives to sit as guests during their annual meetings.

Denmark has opened a "Baltic Bureau" — almost an embassy — in Copenhagen. And the Danes have paid particular attention to Lithuania, taking it under their wing. The Danish government has been funding projects in agriculture, education and environmental protection in Lithuania, and has been passing along some political advice. One source told us that Danish military advice was pivotal in the formation of the small Lithuanian military and police services last year.

Sweden surprised its Nordic neighbors last year with its virtual abandonment of neutrality on the issue of the Baltics by advocating independence. Since February, Sweden has contributed a printing press for pro-independence newspapers in Latvia and has conducted conferences in Latvia headed by Swedish experts in agriculture, education and ecology. Swedish businesses are starting up joint ventures with Latvians. Last April, Swedish adoption officials announced plans to open an office in Latvia to arrange for Swedes to adopt nearly 900 Latvian orphans.

Estonia has long been considered the most Western of all Soviet republics because of its ties to Finland. Estonians, even before glasnost, watched Finnish television, had ferry service to Helsinki and established open and clandestine contacts with Finnish officials.

Finnish leaders don't want to openly challenge Mikhail Gorbachev on Baltic independence, but business between Finland and Estonia is booming. And Finland has lifted its rigid immigration policies to allow for an influx of Ingrians, Estonians who are of Finnish origin.

People of the Baltics like to think they have Moscow trembling.

Where am I?

The sign identifying the Lake Mary City Hall also bears the street number. The problem is, the sign gives the appearance that the building is located at 100 City of Lake Mary. (The words City Hall on the sign are usually covered by shrubbery). The sign, erected by the contractor, is at the entrance to the City Hall parking lot, on Country Club Road. The actual address of the City Hall however, is 100 Lake Mary Boulevard. City Planner Matt West said, "We are well aware of the error, and we have plans to have the sign changed and put up on Lake Mary Boulevard, as soon as the boulevard widening project is completed in that area."

Courier, grandmother of the present French Open tennis champion, Jim Courier. She confirmed that the family at one time resided on Laurel and later on West Sixth. Relative to our article about the incredible comparisons of the deaths of Abraham Lincoln and John Kennedy. There were no corrections called to our attention. However, if there are any more American History teachers who want copies simply let us know. We'll be happy to provide them. This is not exactly a correction but back in May we did an article about the Vickery family and especially Lourine Messenger, one of the Vickery daughters. We mentioned that Lourine's son, Walter Beal, resided in Odessa, Texas. We didn't report it at the time but Walter had been stricken with cancer and was not doing too well. Perhaps you read in The Herald several days ago Walter died. He was 64. Our sympathies are with Lourine, a retired long-time employee of The Herald and one-time supervisor of voter registration. Not long ago we wrote that the Young brothers owned and operated Seminole TV at 2800 South Sanford Avenue for 30 years. Two corrections: Seminole TV was owned by Russell Young and Don Reagan, but it was for only 29 years and nine months. We like to be accurate. We got Don Reagan confused with old friend Don Young who for many years was an electrician associated with the Sanford Electric Company, owned by the E.C. Harpers. This is not a correction either but someone sent us a photocopy of a portion of page one of The Herald dated Saturday, May 21, 1927. Celery crop statistics for 1926 were presented. Over 4,000 acres were farmed, 4,832 cars of celery were shipped, each car carried 336 crates of celery, freight to New York was 95 cents a crate, the cost per acre to grow, process and ship was $813. The average price received per crate was $2.25. Total receipts for the season was $5.5 million.

Total costs were $2.98 million, leaving a net of $2.43 million. On that particular Saturday, if you had just unfolded your copy of The Herald we doubt if you would read the celery statistics first. The banner headline would have immediately caught your attention. It read, "LINDBERGH ARRIVES IN PARIS." We'll never forget that day. Dad brought home the family's first radio. If my memory serves me right that evening we gathered around the set and listened to Lowell Thomas and the news about Lindbergh over WLW, Cincinnati. And it wasn't very long after that we joined most Americans every evening listening to another episode of "Amos 'n Andy," starring Freeman Gosden and Charles Correll. As you have guessed, we're through with corrections — at least for the present time. So, permit us a personal word before we close out this article. Week before last we lost a man in our community who had a great deal to do with the operation of the Seminole County Historical Society — Bonner Carter. From time to time he made information available to us and offered suggestions of things for us to write about. In addition to history he loved to discuss politics. In a way it is a shame he did not become, for example, a county commissioner. You may not have always agreed with Bonner but when he took a stand he was always ready to back it up with what he believed was right. We offer our condolences to his wife, Ruth, and other members of his family. It wasn't too long ago that Carter called us to say that he and a couple other members of the Society had located the remains of Central Florida's first dairy, founded and operated by our grandfather, Nels Julius Stenstrom. He also located a Fred Jones who came to Sanford at age six when his mother took a job at Stenstrom's Dairy. That was in 1900. Carter said the Society wanted to erect a marker and wanted us to provide the wording. We'll do it, but it will be too late for our friend, Bonner Carter.

Jail nurse resigns over a relationship with inmate

By VIKKI BOGGS
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Erin Gay Mellon resigned her post as a nurse at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility on Friday after an internal investigation showed that she was having a relationship with an Altamonte Springs prisoner accused of murdering his parents in order to take their car and their money to buy crack cocaine. The investigation did not determine whether the relationship had been a sexual one, as prisoner Joey Olson stated or simply an emotional one as Mellon claimed. "The investigation is finished," said George Proeschel, public information officer for the Seminole County sheriff's office. "They had an emotional relationship and we are not pursuing it beyond that." Olson, 30, who pleaded guilty last year to two counts of first-degree murder, is scheduled to be sentenced by Circuit Judge Vernon Miscou on Aug. 15. According to sheriff's investigators, he has recently found religion and it was that conversation that led him to bring the affair to light. According to Proeschel, Mellon has worked as a medical nurse at the prison on the midnight shift since 1989. Proeschel said that he could only speculate on how the alleged sexual encounters may have taken place.

Proeschel said that Olson, who was shot by Altamonte Springs Police at the time of his arrest, may have either faked the need for or required real medical attention. Mellon could have then removed him from the general population and taken him to either a medical isolation cell or to the medical office where they could have had sex, Proeschel said. According to Proeschel, Olson told investigators that he and Mellon had had sexual encounters more than 50 times in a three-month period. Proeschel said that Mellon was often on duty alone at night so an affair could have gone undetected. He said that Mellon confirmed to department investigators that she had told Olson that she loved him, that she had visited him while he spent time in a Volusia County jail and that she had rented a post office box under an assumed name so that he could send her letters without her husband finding out. She denied having a sexual relationship with Olson. Mellon is now separated from her husband, a Casselberry police officer. According to Proeschel, Mellon was confronted with Olson's allegations at about 3 a.m. on Friday morning and resigned two hours later. According to Proeschel, there will be no charges filed against either party in this case as no laws were violated.

Hotel

Seaton, now frail and wheelchair-bound, is busy packing up four decades of memories from the 54 rooms she rented over the years. "I didn't ever find anything I didn't like about my life here. It was a very, very nice life," Seaton reminisced. Built in 1883, the Montezuma is still replete with Victorian architectural touches: wall sconces to light the high-ceilinged rooms and hardwood floors. A fireplace in the front parlor is head-high. It has been rumored that beneath the dining room floor, one of the first indoor swimming pools installed in a hotel in Florida, lies hidden.

"Well, it was already covered over when we bought the place, but I heard it's there," she said. Sanford boasted three hotels before the birth of the interstate motel. There were no Holiday Inns or Marriotts when Seaton began dispensing brass room keys from an ornate wooden box. In Sanford, travelers stayed at the Valdez, which has since been torn down, the Florida Hotel, still in existence, and the Montezuma. "Oh, we had such interesting visitors year after year. One man, a chemist, used to buy special chemicals in South America. He always said he could make 100 aspirin for a penny," Seaton remembered. She is especially fond of reminiscing about the heyday of baseball. "The McGraws who owned the Glanis visited here. Mrs. McGraw shopped in the gift shop here. And we had the Cardinals Farm Team. I met a lot of bigshot baseball guys," Seaton said. "One of our regular guests even attended the Nuremberg Trials." Over the years, burst plumbing, violent storms and Seaton's falling health after Jimmy's death have taken a toll on the historic old hotel. It is on the market for $175,000, with an estimated total of $500,000 needed to bring the building back to its Victorian splendor.

realtor Barbara Machnik said. "But it's a very workable situation. The goal is a bed and breakfast and it could be wonderful," Machnik said. Seaton may move to Wisconsin to be near her last living relative, a cousin. Like Scarlett O'Hara's dilemma, leaving Tara, Seaton said she prefers to think about it another day. "Well, I really don't know what I'm going to do. But I would never come back. If I leave, I'll settle in somewhere else, and I couldn't come back. She'll have 40 years of memories to sustain her."

money, though it will not cost money either. "It's just an effort to work on school improvement," Hofmann explained. The early dismissal will begin the first week of school, which returns to session on Aug. 26. Because they begin classes at 8:10 a.m. instead of 8:40 a.m., students at Heathrow Elementary School, 5715 Markham Woods Rd. in Lake Mary; Idylwild Elementary School, 430 Vilhen Rd. in Sanford; Pine Crest Elementary School, 405 W. 27th St. in Sanford and Wekiva Elementary School, 1450 E. Wekiva Tr. in Longwood, will be released from classes at 1:30 p.m. each Wednesday, while the other elementary schools in the district will be released at 2 p.m. All middle school students will attend classes from 9:20 a.m. to 2:35 p.m. on Wednesdays and high school students will be in class from 7:10 a.m. until 1:10 p.m. Students at the Crooms School of Choice, 2200 W. 13th St. in Sanford, will be in class from 7 a.m. until 12:25 p.m. "We hope this will give the schools time to make more improvements," Hofmann said.

out-patient services, including recreational therapy and counseling. While the center, in a house leased to the program by Midway pioneer Ernest Blocker, has been undergoing renovations for several months, it will be a few more weeks before all the bureaucratic paperwork is in order and the center can open for business. "We have been working on this center for a long time," noted Brenda Gilliam-Jones, assistant executive director of the Grove. "Some of you have seen us working here. This is the tree. The Grove has borne its first fruit today." More than 60 percent of the staff at the new Midway center lives in the Midway community. According to Visser, it is a unique situation to have a treatment center in the community where those who are being treated live. Vernon McQueen, recreational therapist with the Midway program, said that the idea of the program is to involve the whole community in the healing process. "We will work with all the high risk people in this community," he said, "not just those who are chemically dependent." Martin added that the community has to be involved in the healing process in order to transform the neighborhood. "We have to all tell the drug dealers to hit the road...you're not welcome here any longer," he said. With a pledge to empower the community to do what they have to do to help Midway develop a healthier, drug-free environment, the center opened the door to the TCEP center patient after blood letting. The bandages would then be hung over a pole outside the shop to dry. One legend about the colors of the pole suggests the color blue was eliminated because some people, possibly back in the 13th or 14th centuries, believed it stood for the only people in town who could afford to partake of such services, the "bluebloods." The change in the sign ordinance was approved by a unanimous vote on both the first and second readings during the May Lake Mary City Commission meetings. The amendment that protects Lake Mary's present and future historical barber poles says, "Flashing signs: Signs of a flashing, animated or rotating nature, except time/temperature signs and traditional non-illuminated barber poles not exceeding three feet in length, nor eighteen inches in width, are prohibited if visible from outside the building."

Timacuan announces newest neighborhood

LAKE MARY — Celebrating three years of sales, the developers of Timacuan Golf and Country Club announce the grand opening of its newest luxury custom home neighborhood: Fairway Hills.

Located at the southern-most section of Timacuan, Fairway Hills is the sixth single-family home community planned for this 700-acre setting off Rinehart Road in Lake Mary.

Phase I of Fairway Hills includes 57 homesites among rolling hills. Tree-lined homesites start at $60,000, with the majority of properties under $70,000; Golf view and lake view properties range from $75,000 to $95,000, according to a press release.

Rod Clark, general manager and executive vice president of The Prudential Florida Realty, said in the release that sales for Fairway Hills are expected to be as strong as they have been for the other communities in Timacuan.

Although the final slate of builders for Fairway Hills has not been released, plans for several "spec" homes are now underway, with prices ranging from $230,000 to $450,000. Participating builders include Central Florida's award-winning custom home builders, which has become a Timacuan tradition.

Timacuan is a joint venture of Dr. Hubert Earley and Patricia "Trish" Stenstrom, whose family has owned the land since the 1950s. The name, Timacuan, and the canoe incorporated into the logo, pay tribute to the Indians who inhabited the land some 500 years ago.

Timacuan's 7,000+ yard world-class course was designed by renowned golf course architect, Ron Garl, and the community is anchored by a 23,000-square-foot clubhouse, which includes a full-service restaurant and pro shop.

Siemens move completed

Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — Siemens Stromberg-Carlson has announced completion of its latest Lake Mary project. The move relocated more of the company's production to the facility on Rinehart Road.

During the past six months, the company has shifted the production of its packet switching products and its EWSD central office from its manufacturing facility in Hauppauge, NY, to Central Florida.

To make the manufacturing of two distinct switching products possible, the Lake Mary facility has undergone extensive renovation as part of a multi-million dollar plant upgrade. This includes a change in the design and layout of the plant to develop an integrated, continuous flow of all products.

The Lake Mary site is now responsible for production of Siemens Stromberg-Carlson's central office products as well as packet switching systems. The packet switching systems are exported worldwide.

Ronald Weindruch, senior vice president of operations said, "The new system allows for a rapid, systematic and logical production flow, from raw materials in one door, to finished product out the other." He added, "The participation of our most important asset, dedicated employees, has enabled Siemens Stromberg-Carlson to evolve our Lake Mary facility into a world class telecommunications manufacturing center."

The recently completed renovation includes the automation of stock rooms, advances in assembly and test procedures as well as the addition of a new anti-static floor. Weindruch said, "We are now operating at double the rate of output from Siemens Stromberg-Carlson has doubled its rate of output since completion of its expansion move to the Lake Mary plant.

only six months earlier. And as a result of our investment, we now have the capacity to double output again."

Siemens Stromberg-Carlson designs, develops and manufactures a complete line of digital voice and data products as well as transmission products. Based in Boca Raton, it has manufacturing and other functional groups in Phoenix, Ariz., and Albuquerque, N.M., in addition to Lake Mary. The company employs over 4,000 persons.

Scheingold's new mission

LAKE MARY — Harvey E. Scheingold is the new vice president of quality management at Siemens Stromberg-Carlson.

In this capacity, Scheingold is responsible for strengthening the corporate quality function within Siemens Stromberg-Carlson and he will report to Anton Haselzner, president and CEO, according to a press release.

Prior to his current position, Scheingold was vice president of manufacturing for Siemens Communication Systems in Hauppauge, NY. In this role he was responsible for all EWSD manufacturing.

Scheingold joined the Siemens Corporation in 1980 as director of manufacturing, engineering and facilities for Siemens Information Systems, and in 1986 he became vice president of manufacturing, responsible for production of the company's FAX systems.

Before joining Siemens, Scheingold held a number of positions with manufacturing companies.

Investigator: Dahmer killed because he feared loneliness

By ROBERT HENNE
Associated Press Writer

MILWAUKEE — An intense fear of loneliness that goes back to his parents' divorce led Jeffrey Dahmer to kill homosexual men he lured to his apartment and keep their dismembered remains, a police investigator said Saturday.

That intense fear of being alone apparently surfaced each time one of the men wanted to leave his apartment, causing Dahmer to kill and dismember the victim, the investigator told The Associated Press.

"He didn't want anybody else to leave him," said the source, speaking on condition of anonymity. "His childhood situation contributed a lot."

The source, a key investigator in the case, said he was paraphrasing things Dahmer told him in interviews.

Police allege Dahmer, a 31-year-old Army veteran and former chocolate factory worker, has admitted killing 17 people over 13 years, including one in Ohio and three at his grandmother's apartment in suburban Milwaukee.

Dahmer, who records show told his probation agent he felt guilty about being homosexual, did not hate the gay men he killed, as some people have suggested, the source said.

"They were the easiest to get into his apartment," the officer said.

Police are investigating the possibility Dahmer had killed more than 17 people, the source said. "It is possible he just doesn't remember any more. We are looking at it in that vein. We haven't stopped looking for victims. I will tell you that."

Dahmer has admitted eating the body part of one victim and having sex with at least one victim after death because of "gratification, reliving the experience of knowing these people," the investigator said.

Dr. Dave Busby, a Milwaukee psychiatrist, said the investigator's explanation "makes sense" based on cases he's seen of intense fear of loneliness.

"They are very, very insecure and dependent and it just goes all to pieces when they are abandoned," he said.

Dr. John Liccione, a psychologist at the Milwaukee County Mental Health Complex, was somewhat skeptical about the observations of an investigator with no formal psychological or psychiatric training.

Dahmer could be making everything up or saying things in an "eagerness to please," Liccione said.

"Anything is possible, but it sounds more like a third-rate playwright script in Hollywood. It sounds so simplistic and unprofessional," Liccione said. "The strange part of it is, it might be true."

Summoned by a man running down a street with a handcuff on one hand July 22, police went to Dahmer's apartment and found the remains of 10 mutilated men and one boy.

Cousin to Prozac nearing approval for weight loss

INDIANAPOLIS — A cousin to the antidepressant Prozac may receive federal approval before the end of the year for treatment of obesity.

Prozac, now in its fourth year on the market and approaching $1 billion in annual sales worldwide, has been dogged for the past year by claims it causes violent behavior, including suicide.

A Harvard researcher's study describing six patients who developed violently suicidal thoughts while treated with Prozac gave rise to more than 50 lawsuits against the drug's manufacturer, Eli Lilly and Co.

It also helped inspire a media campaign against Prozac by the Church of Scientology, which opposes the practice of psychiatry.

The Food and Drug Administration's rejection Thursday of a Scientology group's bid to have Prozac pulled from pharmacy shelves has been interpreted by drug industry analysts as a sign the agency will soon quell any lingering doubts about Prozac's safety.

As a result, they reason, the door will be open for Lilly to market the drug Lovan to treat obesity.

"I interpret the FDA's recent action as fairly conclusive. I think they'll move rather quickly to approve Lovan, but it's difficult to say what 'rather quickly' is," said Mark Mayer of the Sanford C. Bernstein investment firm.

The last FDA hurdle Lilly may face before Lovan is approved, Mayer said, is a meeting later this year of the agency's Psychopharmacological Drugs Advisory Committee to consider whether Prozac and other antidepressants cause suicidal thinking. If Prozac is cleared finally of that possible side-effect, Lovan approval could come quickly, Mayer said.

"We predict Lovan will be approved for obesity in the latter half of 1991," said Ron Nordmann of PaineWebber.

"The use of the product for the treatment of obesity has not been associated with violent behavior."

Animal rights activists call hunt barbaric

CLEWISTON, Fla. — The Animal Rights Foundation of Florida has asked the governor to cancel this year's state-sanctioned alligator hunt, calling it "barbaric" and "blatantly inhumane."

This is the first time the hunt has drawn complaints in its four-year history. The group plans to stage a demonstration here against the monthlong hunt when it opens on Sept. 1.

"There's no justification for (the hunt)," said Marian Lentz, vice president of the group.

"We are going to try to bring some negative publicity to the hunt," Lentz said. "They really are glamorizing it every year."

The foundation argued in a letter to Gov. Lawton Chiles that allowing hunters to kill a once-endangered species would "foster ... disregard for laws protecting other endangered species."

Chiles defended the hunt in a written response to the group, saying it benefits alligators by attaching a "commercial value" to them.

State wildlife officials give the same justification: Allowing hunters to profit from a hunt by selling alligator meat and hide gives the state more clout to preserve the species and its disappearing wetland homes.

Chiles' letter also said income from fees charged to hunters helps pay for state programs that protect the alligator.

Clergy arrested at anti-abortion rally

WICHITA, Kan. — Scores of clergy helped block an abortion clinic Saturday before being arrested with other anti-abortion protesters.

More than 100 demonstrators, including 81 clergy members, were arrested on charges of trespassing during the protest at Wichita Family Planning Inc., police said.

About 500 people took part in the protest, police said.

Many demonstrators sat in the driveway alongside the clinic and others picketed on the sidewalk and parking lots.

The anti-abortion group Operation Rescue began sponsoring protests at three abortion clinics in Wichita on July 15. Since July 22, there have been more than 1,600 arrests, police said.

Most of the clergy protesting Saturday were from Roman Catholic or evangelical churches, said Jim Bell, executive director of Inter-Faith Ministries, an umbrella group for religious organizations in Wichita.

Bishop Eugene Gerber of the Roman Catholic diocese of Wichita was among the clergy who sang hymns and prayed at the back entrance to Wichita Family Planning Inc. He was not arrested.

"What I'm trying to make clear is that I'm in solidarity with the intent of what they're doing," Gerber said.

About 80 abortion rights supporters held a rally across the street, carrying signs that said "America Stands for Choice."

Randall Terry, founder of Operation Rescue, argued with the abortion rights supporters, who shouted at him, "Go home."

Tom Brown, owner of a bar near the clinic, said he's been losing business because of the demonstrations. Protesters hand out anti-abortion literature to his customers, he said.

"I tell these people, 'My customers are here to eat and drink. They are not here to have abortions. I don't do abortions,'" Brown said.

IN BRIEF

Dolphins, Raiders go inside

TOKYO — After sweating it out for two days in a Tokyo heat wave, the Los Angeles Raiders and Miami Dolphins moved indoors Saturday for one last day of practice before their exhibition game.

The air-conditioned dome, which is home to the Tokyo Giants baseball team, was a welcome respite after muggy midday workouts in 95-degree weather, some of Tokyo's hottest weather this summer.

Both teams lost their preseason openers last week, with Miami suffering its first preseason shutout in 20 years, losing 0-0 to the Chicago Bears. The Raiders were defeated by the San Francisco 49ers 24-17.

Dolphins coach Don Shula, as anxious as he was to get some offense going, said he didn't plan on using quarterback Dan Marino much more than the first quarter.

At 14,912 miles for the round trip, this is the farthest away game the Dolphins have ever played. It will account for more than one-third of all their mileage on the road this year.

Miami investigation continues

MIAMI — Agents have delivered subpoenas seeking records from students and University of Miami officials in steps indicating the federal probe into a financial grant scandal could be headed to a grand jury, a newspaper reported.

A source who requested anonymity told The Miami Herald late Friday that the university would turn over its subpoenaed records next week, after the school determines how many students are involved.

FBI agents are going to start interviewing students, most of them athletes, who are suspected of filing falsified applications for aid money they did not deserve.

Paul Miller, a spokesman for the FBI's Miami office, said agents "have identified individual students who have received grants."

The investigation has focused on Tony Russell, a Lauderhill resident and former financial adviser in the athletic department. Russell has said he doctored Pell Grant application forms without the knowledge of students or university officials. Neither Russell nor any students have been charged.

JUNIOR OLYMPICS

Records keep falling

TALLAHASSEE — Twelve-year-old Ben Maldonado led a parade of record-setters by winning his third track gold medal in Saturday's championships of the AAU Junior Olympics.

Maldonado, of Avenal, Calif., took his third gold medal of the week-long games with a mark of 2:12.16 in the 800-meter run for boys aged 11-12. That broke a record of 2:13.07 set in 1988 by Jermaine Walker of Houston, Texas.

Earlier Saturday, Maldonado won a gold medal in the 3,000-meter run and had previously set a new record in the 1,500-meter run for his age group.

By midafternoon Saturday, 12 national Amateur Athletic Union track and field records had fallen during the entire Junior Olympics. Seven new marks were set in early Saturday competition, among them:

• Nicole Underwood, 16, of Youngstown, Ohio, took the gold with a time of 4:38.32 in the girls aged 15-16 1,500-meter run.

• Stacey Schroder, 17, of Grand Island, N.Y., won a gold medal in the girls aged 17-18 shot put with a throw of 47 feet, 3/4 inches.

• Mike Ford, 18, of Rochester, N.Y., equaled his own national record with a time of 47.03 seconds to win the gold medal in the 400-meter dash for senior boys. Ford set the mark Friday.

• Char Foster, 11, of Clearwater, broke her own record in the 80-meter hurdles for girls aged 11-12 with a time of 12.60 seconds.

AUTO RACING

Marlboro field small but fast

BROOKLYN, Mich. — The smallest field ever for a 500-mile race will take the green flag for Sunday's Marlboro 500, although the 21 cars could easily make up in speed what they lack in numbers.

Starting with record-setting pole-winner Rick Mears at 225.189 mph and running all the way to the slowest qualifier, Canadian John Jones at 200.198, the lineup is one of the fastest in auto racing history.

In the field are 14 drivers who qualified at speeds faster than 220 mph, including Saturday qualifiers Arie Luyendyk 222.910 and A.J. Foyt 222.224.

The 21 starters for the 500-miler breaks the previous record of 22 set in the 1924 Indianapolis 500 and equaled in 1925.

Seminole All-Stars earn berth in Colt World Series

From Staff Reports

CARROLLTON, Texas — On the road again. Or to be more precise, on the road still.

Facing elimination every day since losing their opener of the South Zone tournament, the Seminole PONY League Colt All-Stars completed a sweep back through the losers' bracket by beating Baytown, Texas, 9-2 Friday night.

The victory, Seminole's fifth in four days and second over Baytown, in 24 hours, vaults Seminole into the Colt World Series beginning Tuesday, Aug. 6 in Lafayette, Indiana.

According to manager Rod Ferguson, the team checked out of its motel Saturday afternoon and was making the drive to Lafayette. Made up of seven players from Seminole High School, seven from Lake Mary and one from Lake Howell, the Seminole Colts have been home a total of four days over the last four weeks.

And it'll be at least a week before they're home again.

Ferguson said that the World Series will begin with the eight finalists broken into two four-team pools. Each team will play the other three in its pool once with the two teams with the best records in each pool advancing to the semifinals next Monday. The championship game is set for Tuesday, Aug. 13.

Seminole will play the Host Area team at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, the Asia-Pacific representative at 5:30 p.m. Thursday, 5:30 p.m. and the North Zone team at 5:30 p.m. next Saturday.

On Friday night, Lake Mary High School's Matt Diemer stepped forward for the Seminole Colts, throwing a four-hit complete game, striking out three and walking three. After walking the lead-off batter and surrendering a two-run home run to the second batter, he

Sanford's Ecksteins have another reason to celebrate

By DEAN SMITH

SANFORD — It's been one of those weeks for the Eckstein family.

The week began with Christine and Kenny receiving new kidneys. It ended with David and his Seminole Colt teammates earning a berth in the PONY Baseball Colt League World Series (see related story).

In between, Ricky, the fourth of Sanford City Commissioner Whitey and Pat Eckstein's five children, accepted an academic scholarship to Seminole Community College.

A 1991 graduate of Seminole High School, Rick Eckstein will use his scholarship to pursue a business degree and will playing for Coach Jack Pantelias' baseball team.

"We're glad to have him," said Pantelias. "He's strong, intelligent, a good student and a really nice kid."

Eckstein, who graduated with a 3.1 grade point average, hit .312 and led the team in RBI as a senior for Mike Powers' Fighting Seminole.

"I'm happy about getting a chance to play in front of my family," said Eckstein, who will try out for third base with the Raiders. "It's what I wanted, being close to home and getting a chance to get adjusted to college before going on to a university."

He joins four other Seminole county high school players who are going to SCC this fall, joining Oviedo's Pete Arcomone, David Blanton and B.J. Calapa and Lake Mary's Mike Merthie, as Pantelias and assistant Lefty Renaud attempt to rebuild the Raiders into the state contenders that they used to be.

Pantelias said Eckstein could get a lot of playing time in his freshman year.

"A lot depends on how things fall," said Pantelias. "We have 2 1/2 positions open in the infield and he will be competing with Arcomone and Calapa, so there is a good

Oviedo Juniors, Seniors come up just short

From Staff Reports

Not this year. Both the Oviedo Little League Junior (13-year-olds) and Senior (14-15) All-Star teams feel just short of claiming state championships this year, both teams falling in their title games on Thursday.

At Port St. Lucie Thursday afternoon, the Oviedo Juniors lost to Homestead for the second time in less than 24 hours, falling 12-2. On Wednesday night, Homestead came out of the losers' bracket and beat Oviedo 14-0 to force Thursday's "if necessary" game.

On Thursday night in Lake Wales, the Oviedo Seniors tried to do the same to North Brandon. Already saddled with a loss, Oviedo forced the "if necessary" game by defeating North Brandon 5-1. But North Brandon came back and claimed the state title with an 8-2 decision over Oviedo.

In Thursday's first game, Todd Bellhorn lifted the Oviedo Seniors with a sterling pitching performance, throwing a three-hit complete game, striking out seven and walking two.

Trailing 1-0, Oviedo tied the score in the fourth inning when Mike Rugenius walked, stole second and scored on a two-out double by Rich DiTore.

Oviedo broke the tie with a four-run seventh inning. After DiTore and Jay Busse opened the inning with singles, Brian Hendrix hit a single that scored DiTore and sent Busse to third. Andrew Taylor, pinch running for Hendrix, stole second before a wild pitch scored Busse and advanced Taylor to third. Mark Metcalf then walked and stole second before another wild pitch allowed Taylor to score and Metcalf to go to third. Metcalf came in when Ted Brown's ground ball was misplayed by the North Brandon third baseman.

There was only a 45-minute break between the two games as the first game ended at 7:30 p.m. and the second started at 8:15 p.m. But somewhere in that period, Oviedo lost its momentum as North Brandon took advantage of five Oviedo errors and four walks issued by starting pitcher Brian King to win the finale.

Of the eight runs North Brandon scored in the nightcap, four were earned. In the process, Oviedo actually out-hit North Brandon 8-5.

Oviedo got an idea of how things were going to go when North Brandon's first batter struck out but still managed to reach first on a pass ball. While King walked the next two batters to load the bases, it looked like he might work his way out of the jam when the next hitter grounded into a 1-2-3 double play.

But with runners on second and third, the next batter blooped a single over third base to score two unearned runs.

After spotting North Brandon a 5-0 lead, Oviedo had a chance to get back into the game in the fourth inning when Bellhorn walked, Andy Hynes singled and DiTore was hit by a pitch to load the bases with one out.

Mike Duncan then lined a shot off the left center field fence that scored Bellhorn and Hynes. But DiTore was thrown out at the plate on a close play and, when he slammed his helmet in disgust, was ejected from the game.

Oviedo never challenged after that. Tim Slavik led Oviedo's eight-hit attack in the night cap with a double and four singles in four at bats. Hynes was 2-for-3 with a run scored while Duncan was 1-for-1 with his double and two RBI. Hendrix was 1-for-4 and Bellhorn, who had a single in the first game, scored a run.

For the All-Star season, the Oviedo Seniors (13-3) had a team earned run average of 2.18 and outscored their opponents 170-44.

There was no report on the Oviedo Juniors' game with Homestead.

Mike Duncan drove in two runs with a bases-loaded double Thursday night for the Oviedo Little League Senior (14 and 15) All-Stars in their state championship game with North Brandon. Oviedo lost, 8-2.

Marina at 7:30 p.m. Monroe Harbour Marina will then play State Market Restaurant at 8:30 p.m.

Weather permitting, the league will wrap up with three games at Chase Park next Thursday. This time, State Market Restaurant will have to play a doubleheader. After the Regulators and Beer:30 play at 6:30 p.m., State Market Restaurant will face Kinco at 7:30 p.m. before finishing with the Kokomo Recyclers at 8:30 p.m.

On Friday night, Brad Krugel launched a grand slam to highlight a 10-run third inning that carried the Regulators past Kinco in a game that was stopped by the 13-run mercy rule in the bottom of the fifth inning.

John Keiger contributed a triple, two singles and a run scored. Brian Curtis added two doubles and two runs scored while Randy Middleton doubled, singled and scored two runs. Dan Whiffet singled twice and scored twice.

Others chipping in were Cary Keefel and Jeff Futrell (each with two singles and a run scored), Bob Rowe (double, two runs scored), David Goldstick (single, two runs scored) and Frank Randolph and Bob Keefel (each with a run scored).

Providing the offense for Kinco were Troy Turner and Emmitt Davis (each with a double and a single), Keith Denton and Randy Bryant (a single and one run scored apiece), Joe Delucia (single) and Chris Wargo and Craig Tossel (one run scored each).

In the nightcap, the Kokomo Recyclers spotted Monroe Harbour Marina a 2-0 lead in the top of the first inning before striking for five runs in the home half of the inning. After adding a single run in the third, the Recyclers lacked on two runs in both the fifth and sixth innings.

Greg Henaley led the 14-hit attack for the Recyclers, collecting a double, two singles and two runs scored. Aaron Johns and James Bell both singled twice and scored twice while Erik Luce and Milton Smith each hit two singles and scored a run. Keith Acree hit one single and scored two runs. Bert Herring and Jerry Herman each added a single.

For Monroe Harbour Marina, Ron Fava singled twice and scored a run while John Cranius hit one single and scored a run. George Denton and R. Lilly each had a single.

It's been a memorable week for the Eckstein siblings. Not only did Christine and Kenny receive new kidneys, Rick (foreground) accepted an academic scholarship to attend Seminole Community College while David (background) and his Seminole Colt All-Star teammates earned a berth in the PONY Baseball Colt World Series.

dominated Baytown the rest of the way.

He also helped dominate Baytown offensively, playing a key roll in Seminole's four-run rally in the top of the first inning.

David Eckstein (Seminole) led off the game with a walk and Scott Ferguson (Seminole) singled. After they both moved on a pass ball, Diemer singled them both in. He then stole second, went to third on a pass ball and scored on a ground ball by Matt Freeman (Seminole).

Seminole added another run that inning when a fly ball hit Robert Bologna (Lake Howell) was misplayed by the Baytown centerfielder for a two-base error, Bologna when a ball hit by Robby Morgan (Seminole) was kicked by the Baytown shortstop.

After Baytown cut the lead in half with its two runs in the bottom of the first, Seminole got a run back in the top of the second as Eckstein walked, stole second and came in on a single by Freeman.

The lead grew back to four when Seminole scored a run in the fourth. Brian Milner (Lake Mary) led off with a walk but was thrown out trying to go to third on a single by Eckstein. An out later, Diemer doubled home Eckstein.

Diemer gave himself some more breathing room when he singled home Morgan and Eckstein in the sixth inning. Seminole's final run scored in the seventh inning when Jeremy Chonat (Seminole) walked and came around on a triple by Mike Werner (Lake Mary).

Gator's Dockside leads the league with a 10-2 record. It is followed in the standings by Seminole Mobile Radio (8-3), Lee's Cabinets (8-6), First Baptist Church (7-6), The Olive Garden Restaurant (5-10) and AAA Tree Service (1-12).

The league will play two more make-up nights this week.

Monday night at Chase Park, Gator's Dockside, Seminole Mobile Radio and First Baptist Church will each play a doubleheader. At 6:30 p.m. Gator's Dockside will play Seminole Mobile Radio, at 7:30 p.m. First Baptist Church will challenge Gator's Dockside and at 8:30 p.m. First Baptist Church will face Seminole Mobile Radio.

Thursday night at Pinehurst Park, AAA Tree Service will take on Gator's Dockside at 6:30 p.m. before Seminole Mobile Radio plays another doubleheader, at 7:30 p.m. against Lee's Cabinets and at 8:30 p.m. against AAA Tree Service.

Lee's Cabinets led First Baptist Church, in a game originally scheduled for June 27, 4-2 going into the bottom of the seventh inning but Billy and Tom Gracey had back-to-back, two out RBI singles to send the game to extra innings.

The Split brothers, Shannon and Craig, came back to drive in runs in the top of the eighth inning as Lee's Cabinets went back ahead 7-4. Baptist didn't quit, however, and answered with the four runs, capped by Henley's two-out hit.

Contributing to a 14-hit First Baptist Church were Henley (three singles, run, three RBI), Robert Jones (three singles, two runs, RBI), Bobby Barbour (three singles, run), Jordan Beckner (two singles, two runs, RBI), Billy Gracey (two singles, RBI), Tom Gracey (single, RBI) and Steve Laurence and Andy Blake (one run each).

Doing the damage for Lee's Cabinets were Tony Davis (three singles, three runs), Craig Appel (triple, single), Duane Lee (double, single, RBI), Ricky Kidd (double, run, RBI), Mark Schneider and Shannon Split (one single, one run and one RBI each), Craig Split and Greg Henaley (one single and one RBI each), Bubba Split (single, run) and Russell Holloman (single).

The Lee's Cabinets win over The Olive Garden Restaurant was a game that was started on June 20, but was suspended after four innings by rain. Lee's claimed the automatic win when The Olive Garden did not show.

Pacing the Lee's Cabinets offense were Bubba Split (home run, single, two runs, three RBI), Schneider (two singles, RBI), Davis (triple, run), Appel (double, two runs), Duane Lee (double, run), Craig Split (single, two RBI), Danny Lee (RBI) and Shannon Split and Kidd (one run each).

Providing the offense for The Olive Garden Restaurant were John Love (two singles, RBI), Brian Spoon (two singles, run), Scott Edwards (two singles), Rick Thomas (single, two RBI), Mark Butler (single, RBI), Larry Edwards and Blake Myton (one single and one run each), Steve Wall and Chris Wicks (one single each) and Joe Figler (run).

Students take competition

By VICKI BOGGS
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Three Seminole Community College students attended a competition in Anaheim, Calif., recently in which their business talents were tested against top people in their fields.

"These three placed in the top three in the Florida contest," explained Sherry Jenkins, the sponsor of the Phi Beta Lambda group of which these students are members. "They are among the best."

Gerald McElreath, Judy Johnson and Craig Lynd traveled to the national contest with money provided by chapter fundraisers and with the help of generous contributions by Mamie Ragdale, the chairman of SCC's information processing department, and Ken Sylvester, an accounting instructor at the school.

"PBL is designed to help students sharpen their leadership skills while learning about the American enterprise system," said Jenkins.

McElreath placed seventh in the national business principles contest.

Jenkins said that Johnson and Lynd competed strongly, but failed to place among the top 10 nationwide.

Johnson was declared the number one typist at the state level contest held in June. McElreath placed second in the state in his category. Lynd placed fourth in the state economics contest.

McElreath had competed last year at the national level and placed sixth in the economics contest in Washington, D.C.

The Phi Beta Lambda chapter at Seminole Community College has been inactive for several years, according to Jenkins, but they hope to continue building membership and to continue to enter contests at the state and national level.

Phi Beta Lambda is a post-secondary branch of the Future Business Leaders Association which operates at the high school level.

Help for foreign students

SANFORD — The Seminole County school district maintains a foreign students/ESOL (English for Speakers of Other Languages) office through which all foreign students must pass.

All foreign students, whether or not they speak English, must register with that office, which is located at Altamonte Elementary School, 525 Pineview St. in Altamonte Springs.

Appointments should be made before going to the office by calling 260-3906.

English-speaking Puerto Ricans do not have to go through the ESOL office.

When parents and students arrive at the office, they should have the following things with them:

- birth certificate
- immigration papers, passport or resident alien card
- health exam record
- Florida certificate of immunization
- copy of school transcripts
- proof of Seminole County residency

Students involved in the ESOL program will be assessed by the staff and assigned to the appropriate classes.

The services provided by the ESOL program include instruction, resource materials, volunteer training and special training for school personnel.

Last year, 43 schools were served by ESOL programs.

Students enrolled in the ESOL programs in Seminole County represent 93 countries and speak 47 different languages.

Last year, 1,000 students were registered in the Seminole County ESOL programs. Of those, 812 were enrolled in classes in the public schools.

HOUSE CALL

By JAMES E. QUINN, M.D.

Stay fit for a long, happy life

Many patients ask how they can increase their chances of staying healthy and living longer. In an earlier column the benefits of quitting smoking was discussed. Avoidance of illicit drugs and excessive alcohol is also strongly advised, a positive approach to good health is a regular aerobic exercise program. I hate the word exercise because to many people it connotes a boring painful activity that is best avoided. By physical activity I mean any sustained aerobic activity on a regular basis.

Men and women for centuries have been physically active toiling in agriculture, labor and hunting activities. Only very recently have people and sedentary jobs that require so little physical exertion. In other words we were built for physical activity and that is when our body is healthiest.

What are the benefits of exercise? People who exercise regularly have been shown to live longer and healthier lives than their sedentary counterparts. According to Dr. Kenneth Cooper 12-15 miles of jogging or an equivalent activity a week raises the HDL (good cholesterol), a significant amount. This in turn translates into lower risk of heart disease, the number one killer in America. Other studies indicate that people that exercise regularly have a greater sense of well being, less anxiety or depression and a higher energy level. People who exercise are also able to eat more and still maintain a satisfactory weight. Exercise is a far healthier way to control a persons weight than dieting.

"We were built for physical activity and that is when our body is healthiest."

What exercises are good? Any aerobic activity that a patient can maintain on a regular basis four to five times a week is good. Some examples are swimming, walking, bicycling, dancing, aerobics, rowing, singles tennis, and racquetball. Patients do not seem to get the same benefit out of anaerobic activities. The key is to find one or more activities you enjoy and do them regularly. Also activities should not hurt. Aerobic activities done right are fun!

What about people that exercise heavily? The studies are mixed as to the benefit of extreme exercise such as long distance running, marathoning, or bicycling. There may be an increase in longevity in this group over the moderate exercisers but there is also a definite increase in injuries in the high level exercisers. If a person likes the challenge of marathoning or other extreme forms of endurance activities there probably is no long term harm and may actually be an increase in health benefits.

How can a person safely start an exercise program? If you are not sure if you are healthy enough to exercise you should see your physician. If on the other hand you are under 40, have no family history of heart disease and no other risk factors for heart disease you probably could start the mild form of aerobic exercise previously mentioned. Several key suggestions to starting successfully are:

- 1. Start slow. Do not exercise to breathlessness. Your goal is to be healthy so do not overdo your early workouts. There should be no pain.
- 2. Get a friend or family member to start with you. The company will be great and someone else working out makes it harder to skip those day you just don't feel like exercising.
- 3. Pick a fun activity you will enjoy.
- 4. Vary your activity level and duration. Alternate "hard" days with "easy" or rest days.
- 5. Give yourself goals to work toward that will reward you. Make them realistic, however, to avoid disappointment.

What if you have a health problem? Most patients even with significant health problems benefit from some physical activity. Talk to your physician about what might be appropriate for you.

Because of the benefits of aerobic exercise, men and women in their 50s, 60s, 70s and beyond are doing physical feats previously thought impossible. Why not begin a program yourself and see how much better you can feel?

James E. Quinn, M.D., is a family practitioner with an office at 2209 French Ave., Sanford.

Wildlife babies find mom

Sanctuary is a haven for exotic creatures

By LACY DOMEN
Herald People Editor

SANFORD — A songbird perches on her shoulder and warbles in her ear. She understands the song of thanks it sings. She saved its life.

Lisa Tanner has transformed a piece of land on which large trees lace boughs to provide heavy shade and through which a gurgling creek slices, into an animal sanctuary.

"I've been saving animals since I was 8 and have raised 429 of them. I've never lost one," she proudly says.

The Sanford woman, who lives on the property with husband, John, and three children, John John, 3, Stephanie, 7, and Tricia, 8, decided to mother abandoned animals since her children are now a little older.

"I love being a mom, and the animals really think of you as theirs," she says.

Her husband, who suffers with a degenerative injury that keeps him bedridden or in a wheelchair much of the time, has helped Tanner by constructing a gaily colored sign for the animal clubhouse.

"He's happy because I want to do this. And the kids are eager to help. They have been raised with kindness toward animals," Tanner says.

"I help with the birds. I like it. I just don't like it when the bird stands on my head," John John adds.

Tanner says domesticated wild animals that are abandoned, rarely live.

"When people get tired of a domesticated bird, raccoon, squirrel or other pet, or if they're moving and have nowhere else to take it, they often let them go. The sad part is they can't survive like wild animals. They're chased and killed or they starve. That's why the clubhouse is here; to take them in and let them live happy and healthy," Tanner says.

Tanner operates under a rehabilitator's permit. She currently cares for 15 birds and often mothers other exotic wildlife, including skunks and lizards. She says her goal is to secure a much larger piece of land on which she can care for larger animals such as bears and deer.

John John Tanner carefully balances an orphaned parrot on a perch.

"That's the goal for the future. I also plan to place some of the birds as pets with elderly people and visit nursing homes with them. Animals are so capable of bringing joy to

Teen to rollerblade for burn victims

Tommy Duffy is determined not to let any obstacles get in the way of his 378 mile rollerblade expedition.

WINTER SPRINGS — All over the United States, people are raising money to help eliminate the financial burdens of AIDS, multiple sclerosis, and cancer treatments. But, when was the last time you heard of a fund-raiser for burn victims?

When 16-year-old Tommy Duffy, a junior at Oviedo High School, asked himself that question, he could not come up with an answer. That's when he decided to do something about it. In an effort to raise money for the transportation of burn victims, Duffy will rollerblade from Daytona Beach to Miami — 378 miles in seven days!

Duffy knows that it is quite a task but he's determined and confident.

"They can't go out and do this for themselves," he said. "If I have to get on my hands and knees and crawl, I'll finish."

He has never been a burn victim and does not know of anyone personally who has been one. Nevertheless, he is taking this very, very personally.

"I came home from football practice one day, and the idea just popped in my head. I don't know where it came from," Duffy said.

Jayne Harlow, Duffy's mother, is supportive of her son's endeavor but most of all she is thankful.

"When I think of all the other things he could be doing like drugs, I just say 'God, thank you very much.'"

Harlow is the coordinator of the fund-raiser which is to begin August 12. She has never had this type of responsibility but she refuses to back down.

"How can I think of myself when Tommy is doing this?" she said.

Florida Hospital was chosen by both Harlow and Duffy as the recipient of the money raised. They have a goal of $10,000.

"We're real excited about it," said Debbie Harland, public relations coordinator for Florida Hospital. "We don't treat severe burns here and

Tips for teachers who care

DEAR MARY: Now that August is here, I'm thinking about going back to school (I'm an elementary school teacher). Since I've been at the same school for 12 years, I've had the joy of watching many of "my kids" grow up. I've noticed that it's the same kids, year after year, who seem to have most of the problems. They often come from disrupted homes, they usually have academic as well as behavior problems, and they don't seem to know how to have or keep friends. Their lives seem to be one stressful event after another, and they often end up in special programs, or dropping out and getting arrested for using drugs. But when I've been able to get to know these "problem children" better, I can tell they aren't really bad kids. I wish I could reach out to more of them individually, but time just doesn't permit it. Can you give me some ideas that I can use with the whole group that might help?

A TEACHER WHO CARES

DEAR CARING TEACHER: Wow, ANY kid who is placed in your class, regardless of their academic or social performance, is truly blessed! As you have noticed, many of today's children are exposed to numerous stressful life events simultaneously. When under stress, children gain security in a structured, safe, predictable environment, and your classroom may be the only stability they will experience each day. Research has indicated that children living under stress progress faster both academically and socially in a classroom with explicitly defined rules and consistent discipline and expectations for mature behavior.

You can also provide opportunities for your students to acceptably express their thoughts and feelings about their stressful life experiences by participating in telling stories, creating art or drawing pictures, puppet shows, and role-playing activities.

Some teachers encourage children to read books focusing on the events that are causing them pain and discomfort. This technique, called bibliotherapy, helps children feel less isolated and different.

Providing a nurturing environment, as I am sure you do, allows students showing symptoms of stress to feel more safe and stable, thus helping them to feel better about themselves and school.

I know that you and your students will have a good year.

Bentley honored for contributions to black community

The City of Orlando has been bursting at the seams with thousands of Kappas from all over the United States and the Bahamas.

The 70th Grand Chapter meeting of Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity, Inc. met recently at the Marriott Orlando World Center.

The Monday evening awards program was an evening of grand achievement through education. Attorney Mark Scott, polemarch of South Central province, was master of ceremonies. Special music selections and presentations were introduced by Patricia Hutchman, founder and director of Tajiri Arts International. A dance rendition was presented, excerpted from the book "Georgetown," written by Altamease Smith Bentley, about the history of the black community and neighborhoods in Sanford, Aurelia Myles and Demetria Petty, local Tajiri Arts dancers, performed the dance from the music written for the play, "Georgetown Jubilee."

Highlighting the awards program was the Distinguished Citizen awards that were presented to outstanding citizens of Florida and their local communities. For his work in the state of Florida — the Hon. Leander Shaw, Chief Justice, Florida Supreme Court.

The awards were presented by the Hon. Emerson Thompson, Circuit Judge, 9th Judicial Circuit; Edward Davis, businessman and civil rights advocate. An award was presented to his widow, Mrs. Edward Davis, by Edward L. Blacksheare, local general chairman of the convention.

Altamease Smith Bentley, retired educator and historian, was honored for her contribution to education, community service, church work, and as a noted historian of the first South Florida Missionary Baptist Association and the Georgetown community of Sanford. Her award was presented by Bruce Scott, vice polemarch, Orlando Alumni Chapter.

Annie Mitchell Felder, local educator of Orlando and Florida, was honored. Her award was presented by Calvin Lang, board of directors, Orlando Alumni Chapter.

These Distinguished Citizens awards were presented to the recipients by Dr. Ulysses McBride, Grand Polemarch of Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity, Inc.

Our local honoree, Mrs. Bentley, said she was most surprised at being selected for this award. She said she has always been appreciative of the local chapter of Kappas for their work done in this community.

She said the program, although very simple, was indeed an evening of elegance. Many fellow Kappas of Sanford were in attendance at this national conference. Seen were Sanford city commissioner Robert Thomas as well as Charles Robert, and many others.

Future lawyer says goodbye

Three years or so, on down the road, those in need of legal counsel may want to consider Gentry Byrnes, Attorney at Law. At that time, Gentry will have completed the School of Law at Stetson University, St. Petersburg. And she is likely to set up shop in the Sanford community.

Gentry and her husband Chris moved from their Sanford home this week to St. Petersburg where she was accepted at Stetson. She is excited and feels "privileged" over her plight but will miss all the "kids."

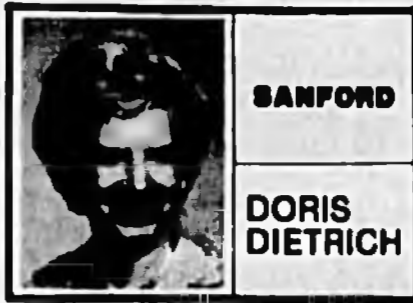

Leaving behind a lot of teary-eyed youth, Gentry has mixed emotions over letting go of the young folks. For over two years now, she has been director of Youth Ministries at the First United Methodist Church. The youth are her family. "It is really hard leaving," she said. "I am going to miss them (youth) so much."

And Gentry is not alone in the missing department. The kids have mixed feelings. Angela Bass, 13, said about Gentry's leaving, "I'm not very happy about it. I was close to Gentry. Everybody adored Gentry."

Angela went on to say that "the other kids are not very happy either." After a moment of serious philosophizing, Angela added, "I'm happy for her, but I'm not happy she's leaving."

Pretty and personable, Gentry has endeared herself to all who know her. She will leave her mark in the community she served so diligently.

Why would she want to become a lawyer?
"My father is a prosecutor," she said. "Ever since I was in junior high school, I have been fascinated by the legal system."

SANFORD

Last Sunday night, Gentry was honored at a reception in the church Fellowship Hall. According to Nellie Coleman, "Everything went off very smoothly. It was real nice."

Not only did the youth prepare homemade ice cream, but they presented Gentry with a large photo taken in front of the church and an album of random prints shot during the past two years.

"Everything was wonderful," Gentry said. "I cried a little bit."

But Gentry, an undergraduate of Stetson, promises she will come back periodically. "Unless I'm locked in a library," she laughed.

Historians, take note

The Sanford Historic Trust, an organization of about 80 members, opens its membership to anyone interested in preserving local history. And according to Sue Olinger, "You don't have to live in the historic district."

Sue, chairman of the Andres Duany Project Committee, is excited that Duany is coming to Sanford to "give us a plan for future growth and development and to keep the historic district intact."

Fraternal family honors member

LONGWOOD — Longwood resident Herbert A. Wilson has been active in the Independent Order of Foresters for as long as the Court Gator Chapter has been active in the Orlando area, over 20 years. Recently he was honored by #463 in a presentation by Chief Larry G. Dries, who said the award was in appreciation for Herb's outstanding achievements.

Larry said Herb has served Court Gator in many capacities. He has been editor of the newsletter for over 20 years. He organized the Holiday Coffee Breaks. And the MS Bike Tour for the past three years found Herb and Mary at the first rest stop. They awakened and traveled to the spot especially early to set up for the bikers' break.

"As senior and junior promoter he provided the court with several years of activities planned and carried out for our fun and pleasure. Without her and his wife Mary things would not have run as smoothly as they did," Larry said.

"Herb and Mary have been available to help with anything requested or needed for the court. Court Gator #463 needs members like Herb and Mary Wilson to carry out the many fraternal activities the court provides and performs for the other members and the community," Larry said.

LONGWOOD

Presently, Herb is representing the court as a sessional officer on the High Standing Committee.

After a brief rest from court activities, Herb and Mary are gearing up to once again enjoy events with their fraternal family.

"I think it's a great thing. I think I'm the only one who's been awarded an award like that," Herb said.

Servicemen excel

Some Longwood servicemen are climbing up the ranks in the Army and Air Force. Larry Payton Jr., son of Lori Drake, Penelope Avenue, Longwood, has been promoted to airman in the Air Force.

The new airman is an apprentice fire protection specialist at Andres Duany of Miami, is a popular architect and city planner, as is his wife, Elizabeth Platew-Zyberk.

Sanford will roll out the red carpet to Duany on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 11 and 12. Following a tour of the Sanford area and a luncheon Friday, there will be a town-hall type meeting from 2 to 5 p.m. that afternoon when citizens can sound off. Another meeting will be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday.

Sue said the input from the citizenry is very important. She added that Duany will present a master plan to the Sanford Historic Trust about two weeks after his visit and evaluation. More on this later.

Pilots meet in Atlanta

Several members of the Sanford Pilot Club attended the Pilot International Convention this week in Atlanta. Attending the annual event were Shirley Patterson, who will be installed president later this month, Mertle Tenick, Ruth Gaines, Doris Stein and Marian Rethwill, along with her co-pilot, Lester.

One of the Pilot Club's annual projects is the Easter Egg sale when members decorate colorful eggs for display. The profits help with scholarships and community services.

The club also sponsors monthly birthday parties at Good Samaritan Home when they provide birthday cakes, other refreshments and gifts.

Marie Roche, membership chairman, plans a membership drive to attract new members to the club. Those interested may call any Pilot Club member.

Membership Coffee set

Mary Tillis has been busy this summer addressing and stuffing envelopes. As second vice president of the Woman's Club of Sanford Inc., Mary is hostess to the annual Woman's Club Membership Coffee which will be held in September at the clubhouse on Oak Avenue.

Members are asked to contact Mary if they would like to invite a prospective member to join the club.

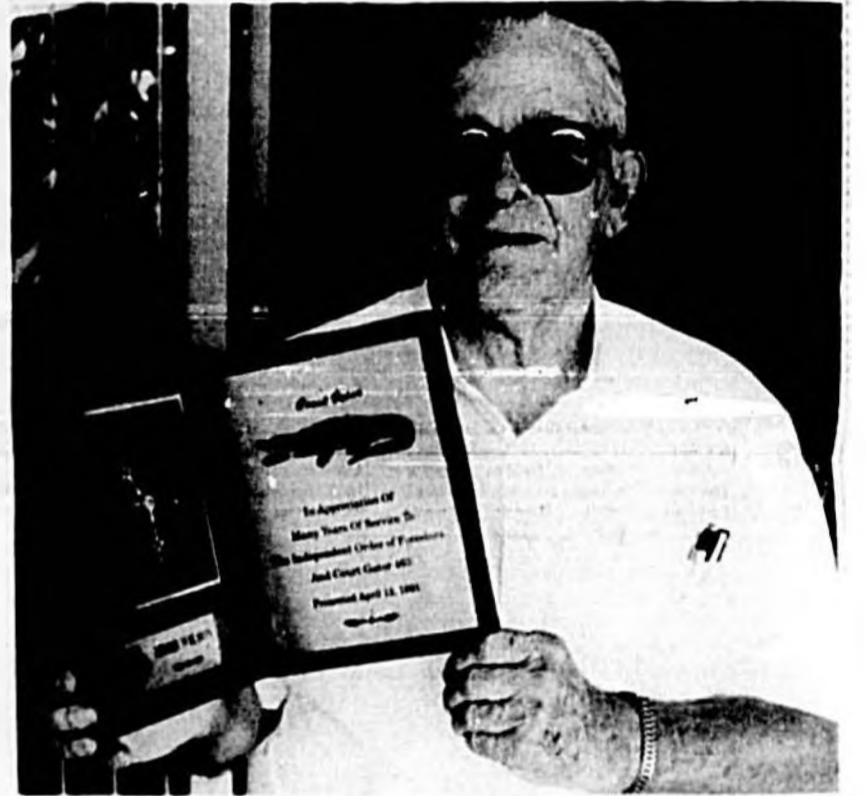

According to Marty Colegrove, who is serving as president for the second term, big things are in the planning for the club year.

Jean Metts, second vice president in charge of fund-raising, has just returned from Columbia, S.C. where she attended a nurses' reunion and is raring to go. Jean plans a Taste of Sanford event as well as a Holiday Ball. Hmmm. Sounds good.

Ruth Gaines, Community Improvement Project chairman, is working on the annual May Day Brunch with all proceeds from this event geared toward the community.

DeLores Lash, chairman of the Education Committee, and her co-chairmen are already at work on the Fashions for Education show next spring. Proceeds from the event will go toward a scholarship for a deserving woman to return to the school of her choice.

Assisting DeLores are Mary Anne Cleveland, Jean Clontz and Fran Hammerli.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
 Aug. 4, 1991

A situation you had trouble bringing into focus last year could fall neatly into place in the year ahead. Do not give up on this endeavor; it could turn out to be significant.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 23) You may have to deal with an individual today who failed to honor a promise. Let bygones be bygones and set a good example by fulfilling your commitment.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Even though others may consider this a day that should be devoted to leisurely pursuits, you're not likely to feel gratified unless you're doing something productive and positive.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're a good student today, and what you learn you will retain to constructively use at a later date. Circumstances and a wise companion will be your teachers.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Continuously keep in mind the end results for which you're aiming today. This will help you overcome any obstacles that may temporarily impede your progress.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you restate your case today, someone whose cooperation you've been seeking but haven't been able to acquire can be persuaded to support you.

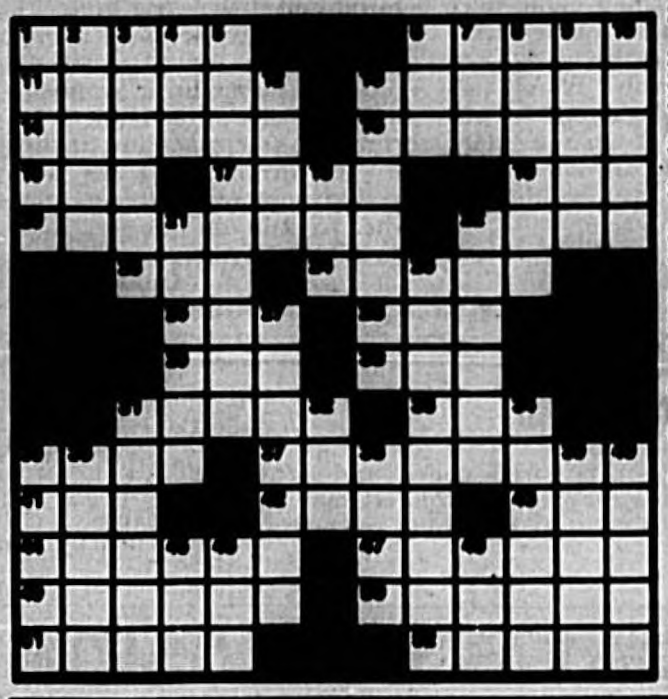

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your earning potential looks good in this cycle, but you must be prepared to work for what you hope to receive. Your compensation will be proportionate to the quality of your performance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You have good leadership qualities today, but they are likely to remain dormant — unless you are challenged. If this occurs, your peers will automatically look to you for direction.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) An opportunity that may appear to be of a limited nature might come your way today through the good auspices of a friend. Don't treat it indifferently; it

YOUR BIRTHDAY
 Aug. 5, 1991

Material opportunities could develop for you in the year ahead from several unrelated sources. Each will have good possibilities and be worthy of individual attention.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Fulfillment of your expectations is a strong probability today, but your success might cost you a trifle more than you had anticipated. If you can't pay the bill, don't try to climb the hill.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Associates might be marching to the tune of a different drummer today, so don't rely too heavily on their assistance. For best results, function independently of others.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your logical assessment of situations will be quite accurate today, yet you may employ tactics that are contrary to your findings. Think and act in harmony.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Things should go rather smoothly for you today if you have to negotiate a tough deal. If any complications develop, they are likely to occur after the event.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You may find yourself in a position today where you are caught between two opposing forces. Try to stay neutral, because whichever side you choose will inevitably be the wrong one.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you have to contend with some unexpected pressures today, keep a cool head. Even though things might not be all that rosy, they should still turn out far better than they first appeared.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) There are occasions when the best way to treat a problem is to walk away from it and turn your attention elsewhere. Once your outlook is refreshed, you can resolve it later.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

Control and Kaos had stopped spying, turning instead to bridge.

"Hi, Max!"

"Oh, hi, 99!" Max's wife and fellow agent had just entered the room.

"How's the match going, Max?"

"Well, both sides are vulnerable, but the Chief just went down in a three no-trump he should have made, 99."

"And you went down in a three no-trump you should have made, Max."

The cards were dealt for the next hand of the match between the spy organizations Control and Kaos.

Cover the East-West cards and decide how you would play the four-spade contract, Siegfried (West) leading out his two top hearts.

The Chief, North, had an awkward rebid over three diamonds. He didn't want to bid three no-trump without a heart stopper, so he tried three spades, hoping for the best. Here it worked well.

Max could see 10 tricks in four spades and six clubs, but there was the problem of keeping trump control if the spades were 4-2.

"I think I see the answer, 99," said Max. After ruffing the heart ace, he led the spade five from his hand.

Shtarker, East, won with the 10, but he had no winning defense. If he led another heart, Max would ruff in the dummy, return to hand with a club to the ace, draw trumps and run the clubs. Instead Shtarker tried to cash two diamond tricks, leading the ace and another. The result was the same: Max made his contract.

"Brilliant, Max!" exclaimed 99. "You have won the first rubber."

"It was nothing, 99."

"Oh, Max."
