LEGGLE SCORES TRADE BODY ON ITS INACTIVITY

Rebukes Chamber Of Commerce Sharply For Not Taking Action On Farm Grief

WASHINGTON, Apr. 30—(AP)— Members of the chamber of commerce of the United States today heard Chairman Legge of the Federal Farm Board sharply rebuke the chamber for failure "to take any concrete action to improve the farm situation after voting overwhelmingly in 1928 in favor of the principle of co-operative marketing."

Legge's address threw into controversy the hitherto secret actions of the eighteenth annual meeting of the chamber. An entirely different view had been prepared by Daniel A. Miller, Denver banker and stockman, for presentation to the delegates. In addition, middle western state leaders attending the meeting had announced an intention of rebuking the farm board by its chairman.

Legge rebuked bankers and business men who did not meet in the stock market but fall with more than a half billion dollars but failed in voluntary way and when the commodities market failed like crisis, add, "If they would be of service to the country than saving the stock market."

Instead, he continued, "There was criticism of the farm board for giving necessary assistance that could not be had from any other source."

Legge declared Congress had definitely committed the country to the principle of co-operative marketing of farm products. The agricultural marketing act, he said, supplies the means necessary to help the farmer help himself out of his major economic difficulties and the farm board is going to give him every assistance permitted by the law."

"I am sure that most of you will agree that you know more about the agricultural situation and laws," (Continued On Page Four)

Night Club Backer Is Killed Today By Two Unknown Men

NEW YORK, Apr. 30—(AP)— Harry Block, 36, reputed portrayer in a number of night club enterprises, was fatally shot by two men this morning as he and his wife were about to ascend in an elevator to their apartment on West 70th Street.

Two of four or five shots fired by the men took effect and Black died before reaching the Fifth Avenue Hospital. Neither Mrs. Block nor the elevator operator was wounded. The man who were believed by police to have followed the Block's into the apartment house disappeared after the shooting. Police were unable to assign a motive for the shooting.

Cash amounting to $1,000 was found in Block's pockets, as well as a notebook containing the names "Brownie Madden" and "Johnny Wilson." Wilson, a former middleweight prize fighter, died in the investigation of the Frank Marlow murder and Madden is known as a backer of night clubs.

Newt Baker Ill With Bronchial Pneumonia

CLEVELAND, Apr. 30—(AP)— Former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker was suffering from bronchial pneumonia today, but physicians said there was no cause for alarm so long as he continues to show the improvement noted last night.

Baker has been confined to his home here since attending a Democratic rally Saturday night. Dr. Lester M. Taylor and Dr. Roy W. Scott, heart specialist, had a consultation and reported their patient better last night.

Their worst fear was that the pneumonia might cause a recurrence of the condition that resulted in Baker's breakdown while he was on a speaking tour during the 1928 presidential campaign. He was found suffering from a heart attack at that time and after six weeks in bed made a trip to Honolulu to regain his health.

Dry Leader Urges Extra Session If Congress Does Not Act On Law Program

HOOVER IS GIVEN COPY OF TREATY AT WHITE HOUSE

Formal Presentation Of London Protocol Was Made Officially

WASHINGTON, Apr. 30—(AP)— The formal presentation of the official copy of the London naval treaty today was of outstanding importance since President Hoover strongly condemned all violations

WASHINGTON, Apr. 30—(AP)— Senator Jones, Washington's dry leader, urged President Hoover today to call a special session of Congress to insist that adhesion to the international executive law enforcement program be insisted upon.

The Senator, after a morning interview at the White House, told the President should insist on action on his law enforcement recommendations which were contained in a special message to Congress two days ago. Jones, author of the "dry" and ten-year strongly punishing all naval violations,

He told the President that Congress failed to act on his bill, the President should call a special session to day after some arrangement is taken.

At the same time Senator Jones expressed hope that Congress would not insist on the five measures before adjournment.

The President's five recommendations which he urged Congress to act upon in his recent message and which were before the Senate, included transfer of jurisdiction, enforcement of the treasury department to the department of justice, to provide relief for the existing coast guard, the sum the navy apparently had not entirely abandoned the "dry" idea, and the transfer of jurisdiction to the secretary of war.

With nearly 1,000 national guardsmen led by Commander Robert H. Haskins, detail, possibly the largest ever, the cruiser walls the Atlantic ocean, and the prison guards forced into the prison yards, and the men on the deck of the battleship "White City" the day in question.

An atmosphere of tension still surrounds the ship, although the resulting trials, the sum the navy apparently had not entirely abandoned the "dry" idea, and the transfer of jurisdiction to the secretary of war.

IRON HAND OF MILITIA RULES OHIO'S PRISON

Nearly 1000 Guardsmen Are On Duty To Curb Further Riots; Mutiny Is Quelled

COLUMBUS, O., Apr. 30—(AP)— The iron hand of the military rule of Ohio Penitentiary took effect more than a week ago yesterday when 1,000 guardsmen entered the prison to follow the rioting that followed the death of 230 convicts in the fire at Marion.

With nearly 1,000 guardsmen surrounding the building, the Ohio Penitentiary became a prison again.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

TO A BRAIN DOB

Only yesterday, the bright sun shone
On thy dainty form, in thy wood land home.
Only last night, the moonbeams
crept
Where thy little fawn, beside they slept.
Today, I find thee, cold and stark,
With a hunter's bullet, third the heart.
No more thy form shall grace the dell
Of the woodland green, thou lie to rest.

In vain thy little fawn will call Soon he, to the reaper, too, must fall.

Gaunt death, now stalks his every track.
Like the gray ghost-wolves of a hungry pack.

Poor little mother, some call this sport.

But I hope, that in the last great court
The All Wise Judge a sentence will read
And punish him, who did this deed.

Why This Lynching?

Technicities of the law are again in the limelight as a result of the recent lynching of John Hodas in Hillsborough county. It seems that if anyone should be lynched, no one might well be placed in this category. He was an outcast of society, having no friends at all and very few acquaintances. He made his living robbing defenseless homes and at the time of his death possessed some thirty thousand dollars in cash and bonds. In a fit of anger he had resorted to dynamite to blow up an old man's home, little caring for the consequences, how many or how few might be killed, seriously injuring the old man's wife, in order to get even. (11)

A man who uses dynamite, it seems to us, is worse than a murderer, even though no one may be killed. The evil consequences of such an act are unlimited. A charge may be placed under a house for the sole purpose of getting one man, yet dozens of innocent persons may be killed in the blast. For these lives, thus endangered, but saved often by luck, the dynamiter should be held accountable. But it must be admitted that the courts and the penalties which the law provides should be the proper place and punishment for such accountability. It avails little to attempt to correct a law violation.

Yet, had the law functioned properly, Hodas would be in Raiford today, would have been a week ago when the spirit moved him to dynamite his enemy's home, would have been prevented by the walls of the penitentiary which confined him from carrying out the criminal act which resulted in his death. He had been convicted of house robbery and the warrant with which he had been arrested proved defective. It had nothing to do with his guilt or innocence. It proved only that the officers making the arrest did not know their business and should have been removed from office instead. Hodas was allowed to go free.

Free, he got into further trouble. He resorted to dynamite. One can hardly blame the friends of Mrs. Waller, who was seriously, perhaps fatally injured. In the blast, from being resentful. Perhaps they recalled the defective warrant in the former case. Perhaps they argued that there might be a defective warrant this time. Perhaps they figured that there should be none. When a man is hanging at the end of a rope from a limb of a tree, a defective warrant cannot be called upon to protect him. The men who lynched him must have taken these facts into consideration.

There is a blot on the record of Hillsborough county, and all Florida for that matter, as a result of this lynching, but it is a blot on the records of the courts, more than on the people of the state. When the courts function properly, we venture to say the people will let them.

Study The Candidates

It is not expected that the campaign this Spring will wax very warm, but there will probably be three or four political bees at which all the candidates for the various offices will be present and will speak their verbiage regarding their respective qualifications for the offices they seek. And it is to be hoped that there will be also a large gathering of voters present to see just what they have to say. A the Lakeland Ledger puts it:

"Polk county voters, having gone through a strain, are more concerned with efficient government today than with personalities. They must realize by this time that if they are ever to see economies realized they must insist on men who approach county questions from a county angle, not from a district. We are no longer concerned with a candidate's ability to log-roll for his community, but we are impressed with the necessity for considering county problems from a broad standpoint."

"We don't want men going to the legislature who are interested in tearing down structures already built; but we want men who will help to build other structures. In other words, we want our representatives in all public places to be men of such character and integrity that we can depend on them absolutely."

"The candidates will declare themselves in the campaign to begin Monday night and the public will put the microscope on, as it were, over them and look through them."

MORE THAN TWO billion dollars is expected to be diverted from warship construction as a result of the London naval conference, which was worth while. The conference did not go as far as many had hoped, but it surely advanced a few lengths further than the Geneva conference and the next parity probably will take another advanced step. Disarmament must be approached on tiptoe until the nations of the world are educated to the fullity of spending for destructive purposes money that could be used to promote industry and the common welfare. Most of the world's progress has been made in those years when the nations were at peace. If the peoples of the world could proceed about their affairs without the fear of war, no man could visualize the progress that would be made in a century. —Lakeland Ledger.

Changes of Government, as recently occurred in France, are costly to the taxpayers. For not only does every one of the thirty-four Ministers and Under Secretaries of the Chamberlain Government, which was in office only three days, receive a full monthly pay, but all of them are entitled to pensions, according to law. The Chamberlain Government was overthrown on Feb. 17, the Chamberlain government came in ten days later, then Tardieu came back again. So instead of paying one set of Ministers during that month, the Treasury has to pay three sets, a full monthly pay, to the second Tardieu crew differed considerably from the first. To this another expense is added for some of them. Any man who has been Minister of Public Instruction for twenty-four hours including receiving a free admission card to all the State-subsidized theaters, of which there are five in Paris, the Opera, the Opéra Comique, the Comédie-Française, the Odéon and the Théâtre National du Châtelet. In the same way any man who has been Minister of Public Works gets a free pass for life on all the tollways. The gentleman, M. Dalaïder, has held both offices. He was Minister of Public Instruction under M. Herriot in 1921 and Minister of Public Works M. Chautemps in February for three days. Between the two above named presidents he is entitled to pension and they keep the title "Minister".

Gen. Hellebauts of the Belgian General Staff advised, concerning the fortifications of Liège, by a fifteen-mile ring of concrete dugouts and other "invisible" fortifications. Gen. Maginot, at Vincennes, agrees with him. They are in favor of reorganizing the entire defense system of the country. If their plans are accepted, and they will be, Belgium will have to follow the example of France and dig deep anti-aircraft and anti-gas units inside a really up-to-date defense system. The defenses system will operate immediately upon declaration of war," said Gen. Gide. "Within a few days it will be strengthened by an "X" allied division." How much the "X" might be for the cost of the French and Belgian General Staffs. In the mean time preparations are going forward. While a tremendous buzz was created in the world with the publication of secret French and Belgian plans by a Dutch newspaper last year, the very plans which that newspaper announced and which were ingeniously denied by Brussels, are now being carried out. In the rest of Europe it is again to be the battlefield of the nations and the triumph of France. A German attack on France as the Belgian General Staffs' plan could probably just be stopped at the Belgian frontier. So Belgium will be invaded while the French get ready. It is a safe bet to play Belgian the "Savior of France" a second time. But the Flemish soldiers, who make up 80 per cent of the army in 1914, have nothing to expect from another such battle. Their chief task is to defend the frontier, which is being systematically being shelled and demoralized by the British fleet, which is in Brussels. Their interests do not count. The result is a backward, inflexible people like the ones which is not known in Western Europe. Yet this people produced Bothwoven and Remond and the Flemish Renaissance.
