Many Birds Aren't Dying...They're Just Drunk

By JANE CASEL BERRY
 Herald Staff Writer

Humans are not the only ones with a weakness for the fruit of the vine.
 According to Eddie Williford, who gives lectures on birds for the Florida Audubon Society, birds and other animals sometimes get tipsy from overindulging.
 Fermented berries and sweep sap are the martini of the animal world and birds have been known to become so intoxicated they fall to the ground unable to fly.
 Williford, who works in the Florida Audubon's state headquarters on Lake Sybelia in Maitland, said frantic calls come in from alarmed bird lovers who fear the birds are dying, when often they are just drunk. Many of the calls are from people who have just moved down from the north and are not familiar with this type of bird behavior.

 Unfortunately, sometimes it turns out that the fears are well-founded. Williford said that he was witness to an incident that occurred in Orange County where songbirds ... cardinals, blue jays, flickers and woodpeckers ... were falling out of trees. In that case the birds were not intoxicated but were dying having been poisoned by eating crickets in a school athletic field that had been sprayed.
 "There was nothing I could do. I felt so helpless," said Williford. "I contacted the head of the athletic department and told him I felt there was a better time of the year to do the spraying."
 "When I receive a report, once I can identify the bird and determine that it is a fruit eater I am more relaxed," he said, "but when they describe a standard insect eater, I get concerned and get out to check quickly. We have several people in the Audubon Society who will respond quickly and efficiently when needed. We also have volunteers who care for injured and baby birds. Without them we would be just swamped."

 One of the berries that is the downfall of many a bird said Williford is the wild cherry. "We have large groups of birds migrating through this area," he said, "among these are the cedar waxwing and the robin, both of which have a fondness for fermented berries."
 The International Wildlife magazine published bimonthly by the National Wildlife Federation tells of the case of hundreds of waxwings which fell victim to intoxicating effects of fermented rowanberries in Sweden. While motorists were trying to cope with a stretch of icy roadway one winter day, some of the drunken birds began to weave back and forth along the shoulder, while others dived-bombed right into windshield. Many of the birds, rendered totally helpless, just sat in the middle of the road.

 Ripe pyracantha berries plentiful in this area have also been responsible for many a bird's drunken spree. "Robins in Florida sometimes get so tipsy on ripe pyracantha berries that they bump into each other

County Headstart Troubled;
 But Director Vows Remedy

By DONNA ESTES
 Herald Staff Writer

In spite of what appear to be insurmountable problems for Seminole Community Action's (SCA) Headstart program, the program's director Portia Spenser said today classes for 200 pre-school age children of underprivileged families will be held in September in permanent facilities.
 "I'll go out and stump in the community for volunteers to help us bring the Bookertown, Midway and Altamonte centers into compliance with the fire and electrical codes and to help us find a new center in Oviedo before I'll let the program be in jeopardy," Mrs. Spenser said.
 "I certainly hope our headstart program is not in jeopardy," she said.
 She said that the Bookertown headstart center is operating out of temporary facilities in church basements.
 "These facilities can be used only temporarily. The facilities in the churches are not large enough and we have to pack up the chairs supplies and other items and store them away when church services are to be held," Mrs. Spenser said.
 The latest problem to confront the headstart program is notification from Seminole County electrical inspectors that SCA must hire a master electrician to acquire permits for electrical work at the centers in Bookertown, Midway and Altamonte.
 The Seminole County Commission on May 8 granted a 45-day extension to permit the Bookertown center, operating out of the old Bookertown school, to comply with fire codes and reopen.

 The Seminole County Public Safety Department fire division had earlier ordered the center closed because of fire code violations. The day after the extension was granted, Mrs. Spenser reported to the SCA board of directors Thursday night, electrical inspectors inspected the three facilities and said a master electrician would have to be hired and only a person with those qualifications could apply for electrical permits.
 This week school officials notified SCA it can no longer use facilities at the Jackson Heights Middle School for its Oviedo area center because of expansion plans there for the new school year to begin in September.
 And the portion of the school used by headstart used for book storage by the county, some of the type cuttings at the school will be replaced at that time, she said.
 The Altamonte center at Winwood Park has been closed by order of the Seminole County Public Safety Department fire division for nearly a month because of fire code violations. The Midway center continues to operate under a 45-day extension, to expire in June, to bring that center up to fire code.
 The only one of SCA's five centers without a problem is the newly renovated Sanford headstart center, Mrs. Spenser said.
 The granting of the time extension for the Bookertown center had been expected to permit its reopening. But Mrs. Spenser told SCA directors Thursday night that the day after the extension was granted on May 8 county electrical inspectors inspected the Bookertown, Altamonte and Midway centers.

 "We were told we must get a person with a master electrician's license to apply for permits and there's no way we can afford that," Mrs. Spenser said.
 SCA received a federal grant to renovate the headstart centers to bring them into compliance with fire and safety codes. Extensive work was done on the Sanford center, but only enough money remains for materials for the renovation of Midway, Bookertown and the Altamonte facility, Mrs. Spenser said.
 Commissioners had unanimously granted the extension for the Bookertown center on the condition that the building be immediately be sealed and that the kitchen and hot water heater in the building not be used during the extended time. Most of the other fire code violations had either been corrected or were in process of being corrected when the time extension was granted, J.H. McCuan, chief fire inspector, had reported to commissioners.
 A major need at the Bookertown center — the installation of fire-sprinkler drywall to separate the kitchen from the remaining portion of the building — had not been corrected, but the dry wall was on order, McCuan said at the time.
 Mrs. Spenser said the dry-wall has since been

FRED ELLINOR
 ...at his Daytona Beach houseboat

Ex-Cavalier Owner; Down...But Not Out

By GEOFFREY POUNDS
 Herald Staff Writer

His pocketbook is as empty as the 104 motel rooms at the ghost-like Cavalier Motor Inn he once owned, but Fred Ellinor said he'll get back on his feet and into the business world soon.
 "I put everything I had into that place," Ellinor said of the motel on 17-92 just south of Airport Boulevard. Three years ago Ellinor voluntarily closed the motel when it was found that the modular units used in the construction of the rental rooms contained too much fire-hazardous polyurethane.
 From the time the motel began construction until it was sold to a Canadian firm last week, it has been a nightmare for the 47-year-old Ellinor — a $1 million nightmare.
 "It's been a complete disaster. It took everything I could beg, borrow and steal to get off the ground and when it fell through, I was wiped out," he said.
 Today Ellinor and his wife, Niki, live on a houseboat at the Daytona Marina. The couple is rehabilitating the 50-year-old craft for sale next year.
 Ellinor said his troubles with the Cavalier Inn started almost as soon as the plans were drawn up. He said he was bitten with the "motel bug" in 1970 when the Disney World boom had developers putting up motels right and left in central Florida. At the time, he was operating the Sanford Volkswagen dealership and owned the property across the highway. He thought a commercial motel, with a quality restaurant and comfortable lounge was a sure bet.
 "I went all over the southeast looking for the right design. I thought the modular plan was going to work out just as we hoped," he said.
 However, financing the motel became an immediate problem and it took an extensive search before a bank agreed to underwrite the $1 million mortgage, Ellinor said.
 After the financing was arranged, Ellinor negotiated for 104 modular rental units to be constructed and shipped to Sanford for installation at the motel. The modular concept had been used extensively in the southeast and Ellinor said he felt the modules would save time and costs in the construction.

 But before the units could be installed, Ellinor ran into trouble finding workers to complete the conventionally constructed restaurant and lounge.
 "We should have opened in January of 1973, but we got bogged down and it wasn't until mid-74 that we opened," he said.
 The delay boosted the construction costs as well as withholding revenues. When the complex did open, it opened at the wrong time, Ellinor said.
 "The world caved in 1974. The Arab oil embargo just killed the motel industry. The people stopped coming and the market just went to pieces," he said.
 Nevertheless, Ellinor said he was able to maintain an occupancy rate of about 60 percent in the rental rooms by the end of '74 and that the restaurant and lounge were gaining popularity.
 By 1975, Ellinor said his bills were current except for the mortgage — and it looked like he was going to get over the hump. But a report from a Jacksonville engineering firm, contracted by the bank, tore the heart out of any chance for success.
 When the modular units were constructed,

Energy Shortage: Some Hope
 Area Stations-Who's Open?

United Press International
 Southern California motorists, facing another gas shortage weekend today despite the governor's order for some service stations to open Saturday or Sunday, get a glimmer of hope for the Memorial Day holiday.
 To give temporary relief to the upcoming holiday, state energy planners released 7 million gallons of gas that had been "set aside." That fuel — only about half of one day's average consumption in the Los Angeles area — will go to larger stations in Los Angeles and Orange counties.
 The Automobile Club of Southern California conducted a survey indicating 64 percent of metropolitan area stations would close today and 81.1 percent Sunday.
 Many owners said they do not have gas to pump so could not comply with Brown's order requiring larger stations to open on Saturday or Sunday.
 Meanwhile, Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. and energy Secretary James Schlesinger bickered over California's gas allocation.
 Brown, who flew to Washington this week and said President Carter promised to increase California's gas allocation significantly next month, was accused by Schlesinger of misallocating the public.
 Schlesinger said in an NBC-TV interview California would receive only 4 trunks more gasoline. He said administration officials suggested that enforcement of the 65 mph speed limit could save most of the state's energy problems.
 More stations checked in Friday with tales of a worsening gas situation, although reports were mixed. Even in California, some rural stations had normal supplies of gas.
 State officials in Oregon said there appeared to be enough gas for the weekend. Colorado reported no major problems for motorists although shorter hours and Sunday closings were becoming more widespread in the Denver area.
 In New York, most stations were expected to be closed on Saturday and almost all stations on Sunday, but along major thoroughfares a few stations were expected to be open with possible limits on purchases.
 Some panic buying was reported in New Orleans but supplies appeared plentiful in the rest of Louisiana. Lines appeared for the first time Thursday at Florida stations.

Area Stations-Who's Open?

In an effort to serve Herald readers throughout Seminole County, we're publishing the times gasoline stations are open. Most of Seminole County's service stations have gone to staggered hours because of major cutbacks in their fuel allocation. Because station hours may change on any given day, station operators suggest customers call during listed open hours to determine if those hours are still in effect, and whether the station has the grade gasoline customers need. The following list covers part of the Sanford area omitted from Friday's list, Lake Mary and Altamonte Springs.

Thorpe and three other defendants are charged with conspiracy to murder Scott, who claims to have been Thorpe's lover for five years. Thorpe also is charged with incitement to murder.

All four defendants have pleaded not guilty. Thorpe, a member of Parliament for 20 years until he was voted out in the May election, who has vigorously denied there was any homosexual relationship.

Hitler's Silver At Issue

SHREVEPORT, La. (UPI) — The German government, trying to recover silverware that supposedly belonged to Adolf Hitler, has lost its suit against a Louisiana collector who wants to sell the property.

The suit, filed by the West German state of Prussia against John Moore, was dismissed Friday by U.S. District Judge Tom Staggs on grounds the property was valued at less than $10,000 and therefore was not within federal court jurisdiction.

A collection of 37 items of table silver engraved with the initials "A.H." and four other objects said to have belonged to Hitler were obtained by Moore from a Texas seller last year. Officials in West Germany discovered their existence when Moore offered them for sale in a newspaper there. The suit said the property was used by U.S. soldiers when they entered Germany in World War II and should be returned.

The official New China News Agency, in a report from its correspondent in Washington, said the contents of the treaty to be signed in Vienna in mid-June are "so involved and tricky, and its terminology so incomprehensible that it would make one's head turn."

Castro Ends Mexican Visit

COSQUEL, Mexico (UPI) — Fidel Castro ended a two-day visit to Mexico by joining his host, Mexican President Lopez Portillo, in urging an end to the U.S. economic blockade imposed on the people of Cuba.

Panel May Vote On Goldberg's Ouster

By JANE CASSELLBERRY Herald Staff Writer

"It hit me like a lead balloon," said Longwood City Commissioner Larry Goldberg of Seminole County Circuit Judge Richard Muldrew's order to the city commission to vote on whether he (Goldberg) must vacate his commission seat since he no longer lives in the district he was elected to represent.

If the commission obeys the judge's order signed Thursday, Goldberg said, "I don't know if I will vote on it or not, but I don't see why I shouldn't. He added he has asked Longwood City Attorney Ned Julian Jr. to check into the legality of his voting on the issue of his own eligibility.

Julian said the matter had been placed on the agenda for Monday night's meeting and he would explain the city's option. He declined to say whether or not he would recommend that the commission vote on the ouster as ordered by the court.

Asked if the city would be in contempt if they refused to vote on the issue, Judge Muldrew said that would have to be determined in a hearing. "If I will vote on it or not, but I don't see why I shouldn't. He would be up to the attorney for Robert Daves of Longwood, who brought the suit against Goldberg and the city, to file," he added.

Muldrew ruled Tuesday on the suit filed in October, 1978, by Daves, who was a commission candidate in another district at the time. In his suit, Daves asked the court to require Goldberg's seat be vacated saying Goldberg had forfeited his seat when he moved from Sandalwood in District 1 to Tiberton in District 5.

"I'm not surprised at the judge's decision," said City Commissioner J. R. Grant. "I expected that. Ordinance 437 says you must live in the district you represent. Goldberg helped pass it, but he hadn't moved at that time."

The controversy began more than a year ago when the city council attempted in March to realign District 1 to include a section where Goldberg would be moving, taking it from the district represented by Stephen Barton. The plan was vetoed by the then mayor Gerard Connell, who accused the council of "gerrymandering." Attempts to override the veto failed.

Mayor June Lormann reserved comment as to what the commission might do if ordered to vote as she had not had the opportunity to discuss it with Julian. She said she had not been aware the case was coming to court Tuesday.

Mayor June Lormann reserved comment as to what the commission might do if ordered to vote as she had not had the opportunity to discuss it with Julian. She said she had not been aware the case was coming to court Tuesday.

The controversy began more than a year ago when the city council attempted in March to realign District 1 to include a section where Goldberg would be moving, taking it from the district represented by Stephen Barton. The plan was vetoed by the then mayor Gerard Connell, who accused the council of "gerrymandering." Attempts to override the veto failed.

...Birds

or fly into telegraph wires and windows," reports International Wildlife. And in southern Nevada, herds of migrating robins were seen staggering around after lingering too long at the pyracantha bush. A few days later, after they sobered up, they continued on their way south.

"Drunk" may not be the correct term for birds in this condition. Ornithologist Stanley Temple of the University of Wisconsin explains that when a bird or mammal gets intoxicated, the cause is usually not alcohol, but some other toxic substance. That poison, Temple speculates may be a particular plant's way of discouraging wildlife from eating it.

Other naturalists point out that wild fruits can indeed ferment, producing in animals the kinds of reactions normally associated with human intoxication. The big difference between inebriated people and animals is that humans may set out deliberately to addle their senses, while animals are usually taken unaware.

Birds have a high metabolism and a rapid heartbeat which is one of the reasons they are affected so quickly after they eat the fermented fruit, Williford said. "At night they go into a trance-like stupor and lock their feet around a branch. Their temperature is lowered and their heartbeat slows. If they didn't they would have to eat 24 hours a day to supply the necessary energy."

Possibly the only animal ever grateful for having one too many is the pink pigeon (not to be confused with the "pink elephant" which lives on the island of Mauritius in the Indian Ocean). This rare bird eats a plant that stupefies him — but which also produces cyanide when exposed to water in the pigeon's system. The same plant contains another chemical which accumulates in the bird's body, making its flesh poisonous to people.

While other, tastier pigeons were consumed to extinction, "the tipsy pink variety was identified as a species to save" because of its unique characteristics. The bird, "the pink pigeon" is known as a drunk may be responsible for its survival as a species."

Williford said there are three varieties of aspen which birds that frequent them are, they are the yellow-bellied sapsucker, the downy woodpecker and the hairy woodpecker.

A lot of the birds residing here are not the fruit eating variety, he said. The red-breasted nuthatch, the chickadee and the mocking bird and jays are carnivorous eating worms and insects.

Williford said raccoons and squirrels also get into berries and are sometimes affected. A Cassin's crow resident reported her horse was addicted to vorrage fruit of the palmetto and would escape from the pasture when they were ripe to eat his fill.

The elephant is a mammal with a long tradition of inebriation. This is due to the elephant's habit of feeding on various fermented fruits and then engaging in noisy drunken brawls. In Kruger National Park in South Africa's Transvaal, they eat the pale yellow, plum-sized fruit of the marula tree. These delicacies have a sweetish acid taste which seem to have a special appeal and are said to ferment in the elephants' stomachs.

Insects are also susceptible, says International Wildlife. This weakness is recognized by butterfly hunters who use a devilish concoction of squashed bananas and sugar to tranquilize their quarry. Some insects are attracted to the sweetness of tree sap. When the sap ferments, wasps and bees are suddenly unable to fly. Bees, too, have been observed weaving wildly after partaking of overripe nectar.

Llama Latest Surprise In Zoo Birth Explosion

The population explosion at the Central Florida Zoo continues with the surprise arrival of a baby male brown and white llama born to the zoo's pair of white and black llamas.

"She (the female llama) didn't even look pregnant when I saw her last week," said a proud Joe O'Neil of the zoo, who along with his wife Stella donated the mother llama back in July, 1978. The female and a male black and white llama dubbed "Liz" and "Dick," were brought to Sanford from a llama farm in Oregon. "Al Romo (zoo director) called me Thursday at 11 o'clock at night to give me the good news," O'Neil said.

The male died last year and was replaced by a three-year-old male obtained from the Catalina Game Farm in New York. "We had noticed the llama breeding and we were always optimistic," said Zoo Curator Ed Prewy, "but she didn't look pregnant. She had acted a little strange the day before, but nothing to make us suspect she was about to deliver." Gestation period for llamas is 11 months. The baby was born at 1:30 p.m., Thursday.

The llama infant, marked much like his father, was up on his long gangly legs by five after birth and feeding well, zoo officials reported.

Making their debut Friday marked the delight of visiting school children were the four Bengal Tiger cubs born April 29 to two females and one male in the zoo's tiger house in 1978 from Tennessee. Other recent arrivals include a spider monkey, born six weeks ago; two lively Red Fox kits born last month; and a baby walrus (known as a joey) weaned out of its mother's mammalian pouch for the first time Friday. The zoo hopes to acquire a male walrus, Prewy said. "It's spring," said Prewy. "Prewy said the zoo has received eight Indigo snake eggs which are now being incubated. As part of a pilot program in cooperation with the Wildlife Commission, the zoo has hatched and released nine Indigo snakes last year and hopes to do the same next year. The Indigos are protected by both state and federal regulations.

most, Ellner said, has been the rumors he has heard surrounding the motel closing. "I've heard people say they thought the place was closed down because of drug gambling and prostitution. It was horrible, but people know me better than that," he said.

What followed the motel closing was a series of legal suits, commencing with one that are still being fought in the Florida courts.

The court action took almost a year of Ellner's time after the motel closing. He said he was being drained, but he had had funds for gaining some reimbursement from the legal action. When the legal trend looked poor, Ellner said he began searching for a job. He found a spot as a used-car salesman in Daytona in 1978. But shortly after starting work, he suffered a back injury and had to leave for health reasons, he said.

He still has a slight limp, but said he is healthy and is ready to begin looking for a new business to get started in. It won't be the motel business, though, he said.

"It's been hard, but I'll and I'm happy and that's a richness you can't buy," he said. Ellner said that although he has completed arrangements for the sale of the motel to the Haines firm, he will be available to help the new owners in any way he can.

NATION IN BRIEF

Committee Negotiators Agree On 1980 Budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After three days of horse-trading, House and Senate negotiators agreed on a 1980 budget praised by the administration as a major weapon in the "offensive against inflation."

The compromise plan accepted by the House and Senate Budget Committees Friday sets spending next year at the level recommended by President Carter, but cuts the federal deficit an extra $5.4 billion.

James McIntyre, chief of Carter's Office of Budget and Management, said approval of the budget next week by the full Congress "will assure the people that their government is sustaining its offensive against inflation."

The compromise budget provides spending next year of $52.2 billion — about $1 billion less than needed to keep current programs level with inflation. It projects revenues of $59 billion and a deficit of $3 billion.

Billy Jokes With Jurors

ATLANTA (UPI) — Billy Carter, after an apparently easy four hours before the federal grand jury investigating the Carter peanut warehouse, Friday said he doesn't expect to have any problems with the panel.

"If I am indicted, it will be the greatest injustice ever done to any poor human being in the history of the world," Carter said following the session, in which he claims to have swapped jokes with jurors and signed a few autographs.

"Those grand jurors are mighty nice folks," he said, adding he spoke extensively to the 23-member panel about a questionable loan made to the peanut warehouse by the National Bank of Georgia.

White Jury Still Out

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The jury in the trial of former city legislator Dan White required another round of deliberation today in trying to determine his fate for the slaying of Mayor George Moscone and Supervisor Harvey Milk.

The panel of seven women and five men late Friday — the third day of deliberations — concentrated on the slaying of Milk. It asked for a reading of the coroner's testimony on his wounds before Superior Court Judge Walter Callagano recessed proceedings for the night.

White, 32, also a former postman and fireman, was accused of shooting Moscone and Milk in their City Hall offices on Nov. 20 after he learned the mayor planned to appoint someone else to the post he quit.

Teamsters Ratify Contract

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rank-and-file Teamsters union members have ratified a new, three-year contract with the trucking industry by a nearly 24-1 margin.

I think the margin by which our members have approved the National Master Freight Agreement proves without a doubt that this is the best national freight contract ever negotiated," said

The pact, negotiated after a 10-day strike — lockout last month, stretched President Carter's 7 percent wage guidelines — although the administration insists the provisions technically met the standards.

Can Skylab Be Saved?

BOSTON (UPI) — In the 85-ton Skylab space station is slowly falling from the orbit and soon will be crashing toward the earth. But a group of true believers hope to use the power of psychokinesis — mind over matter — to offset the pull of Earth's gravity.

The Institute of Psychoenergetics in Brookline, Mass., hopes the energy from the minds of at least 1 million Americans can be harnessed next Friday at 1 p.m. EDT for five minutes to keep Skylab from falling and propel it into a higher orbit.

Psychokinesis is the power to move objects by concentrating on them. Psychics such as Uri Geller for years demonstrated their alleged powers by bending spoons, keys and the hands on clocks.

Cuban Offices Bombed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Police are looking for two suspects seen fleeing the scene of an explosion that extensively damaged a Cuban government office late Friday night. No injuries were reported.

A police spokesman said an air conditioner was blown out and all the windows in the building were broken.

Pressure Builds In NHL

NEW YORK (UPI) — Strung across the ceiling high above the ice at Madison Square Garden hang three blue-and-white banners calling everybody's attention to the best years in the history of the New York Rangers.

The first banner represents the 1927-28 season, the second one 1932-33 and the third 1939-40. These were the years the Rangers were Stanley Cup champions.

Playoff Collision Still Discussed

Wagner Ponders Barber's Next Move

VAIL, Colo. (NEA) — Months later, Mike Wagner still can't avoid the subject of violence in pro football, just as he couldn't avoid hurling into Mike Barber on that nasty wet field in Pittsburgh the first week in January.

It was early in the championship game of the American Football Conference, and Barber, a husky young tight end from the Houston Oilers, had slanted over the middle and was stretching for a pass from Dan Pastorini.

Mike Wagner lines up putt in off-season

"My intent wasn't there," he adds, "and that's what gives me the peace of mind."

The off-season National Football League meetings in Hawaii focused on the subject of violence and produced several rule changes designed to reduce the specter of injury.

Well, Since You Asked...

Q. What is your opinion of the firing of Sparky Anderson and the hiring of John McNamara as manager of the Cincinnati Reds? Do the Reds have a legitimate shot at unseating the Dodgers as National League West kings? — Jeff Fields, Knoxville, Tenn.

A. Like most loyal Red followers (that doesn't include me), I think the firing of Anderson, who produced five division titles and three second place finishes (plus two World Series triumphs) in nine years, was precipitous and ungracious — after he'd taken the team to Japan. I find John McNamara, who succeeded him, a solid baseball man but not so inspirational as a leader than Sparky. Yes, the Reds can supplant the Dodgers if Tom Seaver, their best pitcher, has a super year. They will have to beat the Giants, too. But the Reds still have that great batting order.

Q. How old are Jim Rice, Boston, Earl Campbell of Houston and Tony Dorsett of Dallas? Is Rice married and does he have children? — Sandra Flott, Mt. Vernon, Ala.

A. Rice is 25 years old and a bachelor. Campbell is 24, and Dorsett is 25. They, too, are unmarried, though the Cowboys' running back has a child and is supposed to be considering marriage.

Q. How many points and rebounds did Walt Chamberlain collect in his NBA career? Also, how many games did he play professionally without fouling out? — Clyde Dunn, State Lake, Miss.

A. Walt remains for all the all-time top scorers in pro basketball history, with 31,419 points. His average of 26.1 points per game is also top. And he never fouled out in 23,924 rebounds he amassed in his 14-year career. Walt, who played in a total of 1,045 NBA games, never fouled out.

Q. What was the name of the Dodgers before they were called the Brooklyn Dodgers? Also, my brother-in-law says the New York Yankees weren't always known by that name. What was their prior name? — Jo Reel, Deltona, Fla.

A. The early Brooklyn team before the turn of the century were known as the Bridegrooms because married players owned numbered bachelors on their roster. Later they were known as the Superbas, and in 1911 became the Brooklyn Dodgers, a contraction of Brooklyn Dodgers — referring to the tracks near the ballpark. The Yankees when they came into the American League in 1903 were called the Highlanders — the team played on Washington Heights in New York — and writer Mark Tagged them the Yankees in 1933.

Q. What was Stan Musial's lifetime batting average? Doesn't he hold most of the National League hitting records? — B.C., Knoxville, Tenn.

A. Stan the Man's lifetime mark for his 22 seasons in the National League (1941-63) is .331. In Seymour Swift's Book of Baseball Records, the only significant individual batting marks I find still held by Musial are the major league record for getting on base — 5,281 times — and the National League record for total number of hits (13,630) and two-base hits (725). Ty Cobb and Ted Williams, respectively, hold the big league marks for the last two categories.

Q. I would like to know how to get an NFL schedule for 1979. Also, how many I can obtain an NFL rule book, and will Richard Todd go to the Denver Broncos in 1979? — John Marche, Montrose, Colo.

A. For schedules and rules, write to the NFL, 410 Park Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10022. On Todd, that's a new rumor to me. Obviously, the Broncos would love to have him because they no longer can sign Craig Morton as their No. 1 quarterback, and — Norris Wheeler is a dubious quantity to carry a team. The New York Jets, on the upgrade, still look upon Todd as their premier field general, though backup Matt Robinson, a revelation as a pro sophomore, has been called by injuries, could challenge him for a starting role.

Q. I noticed that Carlton Fisk of the Boston Red Sox is not playing catcher or any other position for him. Is he injured or just sitting on the bench, or what? — David Taylor, Langhorne, Pa.

A. Fisk has had a serious shoulder injury all spring, actually a carpal tunnel last season. He was on the disabled list. The injury not only stripped him of his throwing ability but affected his batting swing as well. The Red Sox are trying to push rookie Gary Allen as his replacement, but the young catcher has a slow start, offensively and defensively.

Q. I would like to know what the largest collection of baseball cards is and what their worth is. Also, how long have they been making baseball cards? — Eddie Ricketts, Madison, Ind.

A. The biggest collection, the largest, is the most famous collection of cards belonged to the late Jefferson Burdick, who wrote "The American Card Catalog." After his death in 1960, his collection (which went beyond baseball cards) was given to the Museum of Modern Art in New York. My oracle of card collections, Bill Madden of the New York Daily News, tells me Burdick's collection was worth more than half a million dollars and included those two rare 1910 cards put out by Piedmont Cigarettes of Hones Wagner and Eddie Flanagan. The Wagner card sold for $4,750. The oldest card in existence is supposed to be an 1869 motto of the Cincinnati Red Stockings. It belongs to Barry Halper of Livingston, N.J.

Q. I am a 28-year-old outstanding female basketball player with a very fine high school career. I played intramural basketball in college, as my school did not have a varsity program. I am interested in trying out for one of the women's professional teams in the United Olympic basketball tryouts? — Adelle Christie, Rock Falls, Ill.

A. While the Rangers practiced in Westchester Friday, the (although the league office soon will be moved to Los Angeles or Chicago). This past season, there were teams in eight cities, including Chicago (nearest you), and next winter 14 franchises are projected. On the amateur level, tryouts for the national team that will represent the United States in the Pan American Games were recently conducted in Knoxville, Tenn., and the team is presently competing in an international tournament in South Korea. Tryouts for the women's Olympic team will be held late in March, 1980, but to get into the Olympic Games, that squad will have to qualify in competition at Varna, Bulgaria, in May 1980.

Q. Could you please get me autographs of the whole Dallas Cowboys football team? Also, what happened to former Dallas Cowboy Calvin Hill, and to Duane Thomas? — Charlie Crum, Logan, Utah.

A. I am not the autograph-collecting business so will have to pass that one. Calvin Hill left the Cowboys after 1974 to play in the World Football League, then signed with the Washington Redskins as a free agent in 1976. After minimal success for two seasons, he was picked up last year by the Cleveland Browns from retirement and made so-so contributions of 289 yards rushing and 26 pass receptions. The 29-year-old Yale grad is rumored quitting again. Thomas, also 29, is going to try comeback with Green Bay this fall after being out of the NFL since 1974.

Yankees Bury Red Sox In 10-0 Game

By United Press International
The East Division rivals — the Red Sox and the Yankees — were at it again Friday night. This time it wasn't for the division title, although the memory of Boston's last year's 14-game collapse remains.

"The Red Sox are a changed team," New York third baseman Graig Nettles, the only Yankee to reach base, said, after the Yankees rode Jim Beattie's four-hit performance to a 10-0 whitewash of the Red Sox. "They aren't hitting the way they should."

Beattie, who only 11 months ago was unceremoniously ejected to the minors immediately after absorbing a beating in Fenway Park, was the hero. "It was harder for them to concentrate, because they had to put together a big rally," said Beattie, now 31. "That made it easier for me. After I realized what was going on, with the wind and all, I knew I could really challenge them."

The Yankees scored three times in the fifth on a Thurman Munson sacrifice fly and a two-run double by Reggie Jackson. They added four runs in the eighth and three in the ninth to complete the romp. Munson and Jackson each had two RBI.

Mike Torrez, 42, the former top pick of the Yankees, took the loss. In other games, Detroit beat Cleveland, 5-3; Baltimore nipped Toronto, 7-5, in 11 innings; Minnesota topped Kansas City, 10-6, in 10 innings; Milwaukee blanked Oakland, 8-0; and Seattle routed Texas, 13-5; and California beat the Chicago White Sox, 11-0. In National League, it was Pittsburgh 9, the Chicago Cubs 5; Montreal 5, Philadelphia 3; Atlanta 6, San Francisco 4; Cincinnati 7, Los Angeles 4; and Houston 3, San Diego 2. St. Louis at New York was postponed because of rain.

Tigers 3, Indians 3; Milwaukee doubled home two runs with two out in the ninth for Detroit's victory. Joe Rudi had a pair of RBI nipped and reliever Mark Cleary won the game for the Yankees. Larry Williams had a pair of RBIs for the Yankees. Angels 7, White Sox 3; Joe Rudi had a pair of RBI nipped and reliever Mark Cleary won the game for the Yankees. Kingman, Murphy Hit Three Homers

By United Press International
Baseball fans have always wondered what might happen if the supreme power hitter were placed in the so-called "perfect" stadium.

That perfect one could be on the horizon — Dale Murphy of Atlanta and Dave Kingman of Chicago are in the perfect locations.

Murphy, a muscular, 6-foot-4, 200-pound catcher-first baseman, belted three home runs at Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium Friday night, raising his season total to 13. Only 23, Murphy is just learning the basics of hitting but his awesome power already makes him one of the most feared hitters in the league.

"The ball was carrying really good tonight," said Murphy, who has three hits and the Braves to a 6-4 triumph over the St. Francisco Giants.

Elsewhere in the NL, Cincinnati edged Los Angeles, 7-6, Houston nipped San Diego, 3-2, and Montreal topped Philadelphia, 5-3. St. Louis at New York was rained out.

Murphy, batting 3-6, drove in five runs with his three home runs and raised his league-leading RBI total to 38.

Kingman belted his 13th Friday, even though the Cubs were beaten by the Pittsburgh Pirates, 9-5. He hit a two-run shot in the first inning, but home runs by Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell and Dave Parker gave the Pirates the victory.

'Forecheck' The Key Vs. Canadiens?

By United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI) — Bob Galin thinks it will take something special to stop the Montreal Canadiens — if they continue playing the way they have the past two games.

Galiny, one of the leaders of Montreal's "Forecheck," scored the game-winning goal in Game 2 and was a general part to the New York Canadiens rebounded from an opening-game embarrassment to take a 2-1 lead over the New York Rangers in the Stanley Cup final.

"I would have to say that it would take a very good team to beat us when we're playing at our best like that," Galin said Friday. "I don't know if we've played any better but I do think we've played as well as we can."

The Canadiens, who rallied from a 2-0 deficit for a 6-2 victory in Game 2, held the Rangers to 20 shots in a 4-1 victory in Game 3 Thursday night. Game 4 is set for Madison Square Garden Saturday night with the first-ever final between the two clubs shifting back to Montreal for Game 5 Monday.

"The pressure is off a little because now we're up 2-1 and have the home-ice advantage," said Bob Langway, who has played well on the Montreal defense. "We have to play the same game Saturday and force them into mistakes. Their defensemen are young and we have to take advantage of that."

The Rangers, shooting for their first Cup in 39 years, played tentative, tight hockey in both losses. "Maybe our guys are a little tight," admits Walter Tkaczuk, the only player left from New York's last cup final in 1977. "In the last couple of games we have lost the momentum we had. The whole thing has changed around."

Venezuelan Hopes To Move A's To South America

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Venezuelan businessman already a member of the organized baseball family said Thursday initial talks with Charles Finley made him optimistic the Oakland A's could be bought and eventually transferred to Caracas.

Roberto Well, who heads the Miami team in the Triple A Inter-American League, said he talked with Finley Wednesday and would speak with him again next week. "We are negotiating the possibility of buying the Oakland A's and moving them to Caracas," said Well, who said Caracas would make an excellent site for a major league team.

In And Around Sanford Young Artists Win $$ At Tri-County Exhibit

The sidewalks of Sanford Plaza were alive with color, talent, and fascinated art buffs at the Annual Spring For Art youth art show. Students from ages 6 to 18 displayed their works in a variety exhibit to equal the most professional of shows.

The artsy endeavor was sponsored by the Sanford-Seminole Art Association, with Carol Gentry at the helm, and the Sanford Plaza Merchants. Young artists from Seminole, Volusia and Orange Counties competed for cash, gift certificates and ribbons in the tri-county show.

First place winners received $50, second place, $25, third place, $15, and merit, $10. Winners were as follows: Ages 6 to 10 — Sherri Cobb, first; Travis Bennett, second; and Phillip Deen, third.

Ages 11 to 14 — Robin Walters, first; Debbie Franklin, second; and Shelby Brisson, third.

Ages 15 to 18 — Laura Davis, first; Amy Damm, second; and John Riddie, third.

Merit awards went to Christy Edwards, Wade Wright, Gina Villette, Eric Nyros, Liz Prior, Mike Futrell, Frank Deane, Rod Johnson and Laura Fisher.

Who was it that said, "Dab a little Preparation-H on those wrinkles, double up on the Geritol, hitch up the girdles or supporters and head for Deltona Inn?"

It had to be Dick Alken in reference to the Seminole High School's 40th reunion which will be held at the Inn on Saturday, June 16, beginning at 6 p.m.

According to the planning committee, members are asked to bring anything in the line of memorabilia to the reunion. A spokesman said all of the class members have been contacted except Ethel Dale. Anyone knowing her whereabouts is asked to call Anne Alken or Nancy Terwilliger.

Luis Perez Jr., son of Drs. Maria and Luis Perez will be featured on a national television dance documentary program Monday night. For time and station, check the local TV listing.

According to Gail Stewart, a meeting has been called to discuss the planning and funding of "Vita-Course," Tuesday at 8 p.m., at Seminole Memorial Hospital auditorium.

The proposed jogging course will be built on the lakefront, Gail said. The "Heart Park" course in a Civic Improvement Project (CIP) of the Junior Woman's Club of Sanford.

Interested persons are invited to attend the meeting.

being hospitalized.

Sanford No. 10108 Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) completed the year's work with a trip to the Veterans Administration (VA) Hospital at Tampa.

The women delivered lap robes, ditty bags, slippers, books and a color TV set (a joint effort with the local post). The auxiliary received a citation of merit from the hospital for outstanding volunteer service.

Incidentally, Eloise Phillips of the auxiliary, asks all home seamstresses to save scraps of fabric to continue this service to veterans. For information call Eloise at 322-8799, or deliver the scraps to Millady's Fabrics, First and Magnolia.

Pila Hughes, Herald correspondent for the Lake Mary area, will be at her summer home in Sarasota through August. According to note, she is spending her time at the pool and health spa. It must be nice!

Chapel Fulfills Promise

ROUGH AND READY, Calif. (NEA)—The history of this once-rowdy mining town is laced with colorful events. In 1860, for instance, it seceded from the Union.

It is the wedding chapel built in 1869 by Lisetta Scheaves to fulfill a life-long dream. "I was 23 when I started the chapel," she explains. "That's the time when most women are thinking of retiring."

But retirement was the farthest thing from Mrs. Scheaves' mind. More than 50 years ago, she dedicated her life's work to God. He would reunite her with her husband after they became separated in a shipwreck.

It was late in the summer of 1921, Mrs. Scheaves was traveling with her husband, Harold, and their 9-month-old daughter by steamship from Portland, Ore., to San Francisco. Harold was to attend the University of California at Berkeley.

By Methodists

By DAVID E. ANDERSON UPI Religion Writer Over the past decade the United Methodist Church, the nation's second largest Protestant denomination, has lost more than a million members.

That stark number, coupled with a sense that the denomination had somehow lost its way in the turbulent 1960s, caused delegates at the 1976 General Conference, to make evangelism, along with world hunger and ethnic minority local churches, one of its three major "missional priorities."

"Every type of church we have is already growing in some places; every target population is responding in some way," Hunter said. "If you have demonstrated that some type of church can grow and every target population can respond, you have demonstrated the results, and perhaps more importantly, the forecast for the future, are somewhat

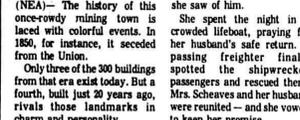

Worry Can Affect Health

QUESTION: I am only 23 years old, but I am a constant worrier. I get extremely nervous and my doctor has me on medication for my nerves. Sometimes I'm so bad I have to stay home from work. It bothers me to be so nervous and I have to be like other people my age. I would like to be able to trust in God. I need help.

ANSWER: As you have unfortunately discovered so early in life, worry can affect you physically. Even the word itself indicates physical harm and brings a positive note to my day. It helps me believe that something good is going to happen to me!

I've found that God's Word is the best "calmer downer" when I start to worry. Worry gets me down to worry. Worry gets me down to worry. Worry gets me down to worry.

After that fateful trip, they continued their journey to San Francisco. Subsequent years took the family — which eventually numbered five — back to Portland, then on to Colorado, where Scheaves worked as an assayer for a mining company.

Scheaves retired in 1945 and bought an assayer's office in nearby Nevada City. The couple settled in Rough and Ready in 1953.

Completed in 1869, the small chapel can seat 18 worshippers on white-painted benches beneath a towering cathedral ceiling.

One of the most attractive furnishings inside the chapel is a 150-year-old ornate wooden altar trimmed in gold. It was donated to the chapel by a handicapped woman visiting from San Francisco.

Chapel Fulfills Promise

After that fateful trip, they continued their journey to San Francisco. Subsequent years took the family — which eventually numbered five — back to Portland, then on to Colorado, where Scheaves worked as an assayer for a mining company.

Scheaves retired in 1945 and bought an assayer's office in nearby Nevada City. The couple settled in Rough and Ready in 1953.

Completed in 1869, the small chapel can seat 18 worshippers on white-painted benches beneath a towering cathedral ceiling.

One of the most attractive furnishings inside the chapel is a 150-year-old ornate wooden altar trimmed in gold. It was donated to the chapel by a handicapped woman visiting from San Francisco.

Evangelism Effort Eyed

By DAVID E. ANDERSON UPI Religion Writer Over the past decade the United Methodist Church, the nation's second largest Protestant denomination, has lost more than a million members.

That stark number, coupled with a sense that the denomination had somehow lost its way in the turbulent 1960s, caused delegates at the 1976 General Conference, to make evangelism, along with world hunger and ethnic minority local churches, one of its three major "missional priorities."

"Every type of church we have is already growing in some places; every target population is responding in some way," Hunter said. "If you have demonstrated that some type of church can grow and every target population can respond, you have demonstrated the results, and perhaps more importantly, the forecast for the future, are somewhat

QUESTION: I am only 23 years old, but I am a constant worrier. I get extremely nervous and my doctor has me on medication for my nerves. Sometimes I'm so bad I have to stay home from work. It bothers me to be so nervous and I have to be like other people my age. I would like to be able to trust in God. I need help.

ANSWER: As you have unfortunately discovered so early in life, worry can affect you physically. Even the word itself indicates physical harm and brings a positive note to my day. It helps me believe that something good is going to happen to me!

I've found that God's Word is the best "calmer downer" when I start to worry. Worry gets me down to worry. Worry gets me down to worry. Worry gets me down to worry.

WIN AT BRIDGE

With five spades to the jack, a duck will hold the defense to four tricks. If he started with four to the jack, the hand is hopeless. If West had led from king-jack the play of the queen will let South make 11 tricks. The play of a low spade will lead to loss of game and rubber. Percentage favors rising with the queen, but let's go back to the story about the horse. South thinks like East. If East had not been dealt the king of spades, he would surely have led back a spade when he got in with the king of diamonds. His play of the club just had to be an effort to get his partner on lead. So think South ducks the spade and makes his contract. Opening lead: ♠5

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Sunday, May 20, 1979

YOUR BIRTHDAY May 20, 1979 This coming year, much could come your way with very little effort on your part. Put it to good use and don't make the mistake of thinking that the source is unlimited. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) For some reason, you could feel indebted to someone to whom you really owe nothing. Others may try to print this out, but I doubt if you'll listen. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It's important that you have a good and honest opinion of yourself so that you won't be hurt by someone else's action, nor try to strike back. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Move cautiously if underlining any hobbies or projects today. Even though you feel creative, things may not turn out as well as you envisioned. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Unfortunately, you may show little respect for something nice that came to you quite easily. Consequently, you'll be so wasteful you'll lose it all. CANCER (June 21-July 22) You need outside interests for a change of pace today, but make certain you can afford that which you choose to do, and with whom you choose to do it. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Motives that are too self-seeking will backfire today. To make matters worse, you may later blame everybody else for your failure. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Using flattery to achieve your ends won't work out at all for you today. In fact, it could even benefit to both of you can be realized. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This is another excellent day for you. You'll have an opportunity to commune with one you love. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Matters of the heart could occupy the most important spot in your life today. You'll have an opportunity to commune with one you love. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Someone with whom you have no business being allied; and attractive to you today. All indications point to trouble. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Wishful thinking could prevail over common sense today, prompting you to make some pretty foolish moves. Don't dream. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Instead of trying to force your desires into action today, flow with the tide of events. Things will run a lot smoother. ARIES (March 21-April 19) Better keep your extravagant whims under lock and key today. You're liable to go so far overboard that your budget won't be able to recover.

Condemned Murderer's Mother: 'I'll Pray For Governor Graham'

By United Press International

The distraught mother of condemned murderer John Spenklink says she is praying for the governor, his Cabinet and prison officials who paved the way for her son's execution.

"Others around the state hailed Gov. Bob Graham for keeping his campaign promises and signing death warrants Friday for Spenklink, 30, and Willie Darden, 65. Pending signs of execution, the convicted killers will die in the electric chair at Florida State Prison Wednesday at 7 a.m.

"Anybody in society who is guilty of the death penalty, they are just as guilty as the man who pulls the switch," said Lois Spenklink, who burst into tears upon hearing the execution was set. She has been staying with friends at Starke to be near her son.

"I was stunned because I figured Gov. Graham would feel differently and that he would consider clemency," she said. "I am not only going to pray for my son, I am going to pray for Gov. Graham and his Cabinet and these officials who are standing at the precipice in the streets" when the first executions in Florida since 1964 are finished. He said he hopes the bill that would end the death row on Death Row is executed before the end of the year.

"I predict that once this process begins and is escalated, the pre-meditated murders, armed robberies, rapes and other heinous crimes will show a dramatic reduction for the first time in 15 years," he said.

Rep. Bob Crawford, D-Winter Haven, chairman of the House Criminal Justice Committee, called the death penalty a "hassle" but "necessary" to have an opportunity to use the death penalty.

A 65-year-old widow who used to date Darden agreed that some criminals deserve to die.

"I tried to be nice to him and I tried to help him," Madea Wright said. "But he wasn't working one bit. I'm out working myself, but he's not given up. They are finally sending him to court, seeking to delay the executions for one more legal try.

Spenklink's attorneys have appealed still in the State Supreme Court, but it is expected to be routinely denied. He has been before every tier of court in the land since his conviction for the 1973 Tallahassee motel room murder of a parole violator placed on hitchhiking in a snowdrift in Nebraska.

The 30-year-old California prison escapee said he killed while in a rage when he killed a woman and a child. He is more likely to get the death penalty than those who kill innocents. That, too, failed.

Three years ago, the U.S. Supreme Court turned him down. His latest appeal, filed earlier this year, simply asks that the sentence be vacated. That appeal is expected to be the basis for an appeal to the state Supreme Court for a stay of execution Monday.

Darden, 65, who claims he did not kill a Lakeland furniture store owner in 1974, despite being identified by two eyewitnesses, lost his appeal to the Florida and U.S. Supreme Courts.

Prison officials said both condemned men took the news calmly. After the death warrants were read to them, they were transferred to cells in the bottom floor of the death row wing, closer to the small room holding the electric chair and seats for 25 witnesses.

From now until they are executed — or their sentences changed — they will never be out of sight of a guard. They can have visitors.

Prison officials set up behind daylight Friday to sign the warrants in order to accommodate Secretary of State George Brown. He was required to arrive from the state capital at 7 a.m. but had to catch a plane at 7 a.m.

"I can't do anything but commend the governor for his courage to sign it," said C. J. Williams, who expects the public is entitled to know the sentence carried out.

Sharlette Citizens, a member of Florida Citizens Against the Death Penalty, said she believes the governor would never have ordered the executions but for the political reality that most Floridians demand the death penalty.

"Those close to him said he did not want to stand the hooded in the end, he bowed to the political expediency course," she said. "We're shocked and dismayed that the governor has moved from helping poor people to killing them."

The husband of Glenda Sue Northington, whom Darden was charged with shooting in the thigh and on the face at a restaurant, said she was relieved.

"She said it's the best thing she ever heard," Leon Northington said.

More than a few legislators had the same reaction. Rep. David Lehman, D-Hollywood, said he was "pleased to be in the streets" when the first executions in Florida since 1964 are finished. He said he hopes the bill that would end the death row on Death Row is executed before the end of the year.

Death Delays Sought

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — The death warrants have been signed and the executions set for 7 p.m. Wednesday — first John Spenklink, 30, and Willie Darden, 65, who used to date Darden, both convicted murderers.

But lawyers for the two men selected by Gov. Bob Graham as the first to die in the Florida electric chair in 15 years have pleaded with the state Supreme Court to delay the executions for one more legal try.

Spenklink's attorneys have appealed still in the State Supreme Court, but it is expected to be routinely denied. He has been before every tier of court in the land since his conviction for the 1973 Tallahassee motel room murder of a parole violator placed on hitchhiking in a snowdrift in Nebraska.

THE BORN LOSER

DEAR HELOISE:
When my sister and I were little my mother made us save our last Christmas dolls that Santa bought us and keep them in good condition. They were both bride dolls, and we loved them. When we married and moved away Mother kept the dolls in the attic for us. This year she gave them back to us dressed in the material that our bridesmaids wore at each of our weddings. What a nice surprise and keepsake!
Of course, it was easy for Mom to do this as she made the dresses for each of our weddings, but I thought this was an excellent idea since so many mothers nowadays do make their daughters' wedding attire.
Mom's Dolls
This is the cutest hint we have received for a long time. Betcha other new brides would be delighted to receive such a darlin' keepsake!

IT'S SO EASY!

DEAR HELOISE:
Whenever I go shopping for sewing patterns and look through those pattern books, I take a rubber fingertip (the kind office workers use) with me and I can flip through the pages with ease.

IT SMELLS GOOD!
DEAR HELOISE:
My husband has never been a big fan of after shave lotion — at least on his body. So, when he gets some for a gift, he turns it over to me and I use it as a fragrance in the bathroom.
The gift is put to good use.
Mrs. Curtis Hobbs

COOKIE CAPERS
DEAR HELOISE:
I came up with a simple way to make cut-out cookies without all the bother of mixing my own dough. I used the rolls of cookie dough that can be bought in the dairy case at the supermarket. Instead of just slicing them to make round cookies I let the dough warm at room temperature and roll it out so I could use my cookie cutters. My kids had a great time decorating them. It was so easy and the cookies were delicious.

A SOCKO IDEA
DEAR HELOISE:
Ever go searching through your sock drawer knowing that there is a loose sock somewhere but just can't find it? I have — lots of times. But now I have a solution. Simply gather up all the stray "foot-warmers" and put a large rubber band around them.
Then when you get another single sock just take out the bundle of socks and look through it to see if it matches any of them.
If not, simply stick that sock in with the others. Really helps keep your drawers neater.

ASTICKY PROBLEM
DEAR HELOISE:
I read your column all the time and I finally have something to share.
At home we do our own wallpapering. If you do, here is a hint for you.
When you paper, use a paint roller to apply the paste. It's a lot easier to apply the paste.
I hope this will help some of you people who like to do things yourself instead of paying someone to do what you can do for only a little money.

Smart! Thanks, Christie, for coming into our column with your idea.

Seventy-three-year-old Reese Perry of 3708 Washington St., Sanford, is happy to be at home rather than in the hospital where he would likely have to spend much of the time if it weren't for the services of a home health care nurse.

Reese, like some 40 other Sanford area elderly citizens, receives periodic visits from nurses associated with one of the three home health services operating in the area.

The visits are made possible through the federal Medicare program. Simply stated, home health care is designed to give the homebound person the option of remaining in his home as opposed to hospitalization or nursing home care.

If the person meets the four criteria necessary for qualification, he or she may then receive services prescribed by a doctor from a state certified home health agency.

To qualify for the service, a patient must be homebound, under Medicare, in need of skilled care and have doctor's orders for the health services rendered.

Governor Bob Graham has proclaimed the week of May 28-31 as "Home Health Care Week" in order to help acquaint Florida citizens with the advantages to the patients of participation in home health care programs.

Bay Area Home Health Services will provide free blood pressure checks on May 23 at Zoya's Department Store in Sanford in conjunction with Home Health Care Week. In addition, Bay Area registered nurses will be at the T&Y Store on May 23 to answer questions about home care services. — GEOFFREY POUNDS.

Sanford Commissioners Set Meeting On SMH Move

By GEOFFREY POUNDS
Herald Staff Writer

The Sanford City Commission is expected to follow the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce's example and go on record Tuesday as opposing any relocation of Seminole Memorial Hospital outside the city.

Commissioners have called a special meeting Tuesday at 9 a.m. to pass a resolution on the matter. On Thursday, the chamber's board of directors voted to "strongly oppose" any plan that would call for the building of the new hospital outside Sanford.

Mayor Lee P. Moore said today the meeting is being called so that a position statement can be delivered to the SMH Board of Trustees at its regular meeting later that morning.

"I'm personally against any move of the hospital," said Moore. The mayor thus joins commissioners Eddie Keith, David Farr, and Julian Stenstrom as those who have declared their position.

Today chamber executive director Jack Horner said he and "probably other directors" will be on hand at the hospital board meeting Tuesday.

"I'll be there strictly as an observer, but will participate in the discussion if called upon," Horner said.

"the preferred option" to relocate the hospital outside the city rather than to make extensive renovations at the existing facility on First Street.

At the chamber meeting Thursday were Farr, Stenstrom and Keith, who made their opposition to a hospital move public at that time.

A discussion of the consultants' report was held at a special work session of the hospital board's finance committee May 14. Allan Keen, committee chairman, is scheduled to make a formal presentation of his committee's findings at the Tuesday meeting.

The meeting is scheduled for 11:45 a.m. at the hospital library. Keen said he "would invite anyone interested" to attend the meeting.

At the May 14 meeting, Keen said he would favor the setting of a date for a public hearing on the question of whether to relocate or renovate the hospital. The trustees are expected to set the date for that meeting tomorrow.

"It is my understanding that the trustees meet briefly and then take a lunch break and resume the meeting," Moore said.

"We would like to let them know our position before they get into the discussion on whether or not to move," he said.

Sanford Youth Finds Money Bag With $6,000...Gives It To Police

For just a brief time, 17-year-old Terry Salisbury had more money than he said he had ever seen in one place — close to $6,000 in cash and checks.

But without batting an eye, he turned it over to Sanford police and today a businessman is still in business because of young Salisbury's wisdom.

"He said, 'Look, there's a money bag in the road,'" said

Yvonne Salisbury, Terry's mother.

Mrs. Salisbury said she was driving Terry from their home at 461 Villen Road to Sunday School at the Central Baptist Church Sunday morning when her son spotted the bank bag in the middle of the road at 20th Street and Bay Drive. When they stopped and picked it up, they discovered it contained $5,000 in cash and checks.

"He never hesitated, he just said we should take it to the police," Mrs. Salisbury said. Fifteen minutes after he reported it missing, a frantic Sanford businessman, was returned the money. He said he also was on his way to church Sunday when the money was lost. He said he was going to drop his wife at church and take the money to a safe place on the way.

"I set the bag on the hood and went around to unlock the door on my wife's side, he said. "And then I drove off, forgetting the money was on the hood. The businessman said when he remembered the cash bag, he raced back to the scene and found it was missing.

"I was using a stop sign, he said. "I was stopped beating, then," he said.

He said the money, had it not been recovered, might have caused a serious problem in his business operations for two to three months.

Police said the money was returned to the man within a half-hour of its disappearance. The grateful businessman immediately sought out Salisbury, a junior at Seminole High School, and presented him with a $100 reward. — GEOFFREY POUNDS

Same Man In Two Incidents?

3 Youths Thwart Girl's Abduction In Casselberry

Casselberry police today said they believe the man who tried to abduct an 11-year-old Casselberry girl at midnight Saturday morning is the same man who kidnapped and molested a 10-year-old girl in January.

"Based on the statements made to both girls, we are assuming it is the same man," said officer Jim Bingham, who is heading the investigation.

Bingham said the girl came to the parking lot after she had been told earlier by the would-be-abductor that she would be given $5 if she swept the walk outside the store.

attempting to force her into his beige Volkswagen. The incident occurred in the parking lot outside the Cumberland Farms Store at the corner of Semoran Boulevard and Wilshire Drive.

The man had a knife and stabbed the girl's hand before fleeing, Bingham said. The girl is reported in good condition at home today.

Bingham said the girl came to the parking lot after she had been told earlier by the would-be-abductor that she would be given $5 if she swept the walk outside the store.

He said in January the same story was used to lure a 10-year-old Casselberry girl to the parking lot.

In January, however, the girl did not escape. She was grabbed before entering the store and thrown into the front seat of a car, abducted and molested, police said.

Bingham said the man seen Saturday by the three boys who foiled the attack was described as bearded and being in his late 30s. The description is close to that of the man committing the January attack, Bingham said.

He said parents in the area are advised to be on the lookout for anyone offering children money for temporary work at the store, or any adult hanging around the store in a suspicious manner.

"Anything at all unusual should be reported," he said, "we'd rather run out on a thousand false alarms, than miss the chance of catching this guy."

Store officials today said they were disturbed by the Saturday incident, but at this point plan no additional security measures at the parking lot. — GEOFFREY POUNDS

Spenkelnik Seeks Stay From Judge

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Convicted killer John Spenkelnik today asked the federal judge who blocked his execution two years ago to intervene again and keep him from dying in the electric chair.

Wednesday, Attorney for Spenkelnik refused to wait on a decision by the Florida Supreme Court on whether to grant a stay and went to U.S. District Judge William Stafford.

Attorney General Jim Smith urged Stafford to deny the motion for a stay and asked the Supreme Court to reject a similar motion filed by Spenkelnik Saturday.

Willie Jasper Darden has asked a Bartow circuit judge to block his execution, also scheduled for Wednesday at Florida State Prison.

Spenkelnik was ordered executed in September 1977 by then-Gov. Reubin Askew. Stafford stayed the execution three days before it was to take place to consider a challenge by Spenkelnik to the state's capital punishment law. He upheld the law later. The case was appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court, which refused to hear it earlier this year.
