

The Taming of Carney Wilde

by BART SPICER

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN

"WHAT'S that about a signal?" the chief asked testily. He spoke to Grodnik. I was there, but only as Grodnik's shadow.

"We ran a tip," Grodnik said cheerily. He sat heavily in a chair and stretched his legs straight out. "Seems she was at a girl in Philadelphia. She disappeared a white neck. According to our informant, the girl was going to meet Stewart here, but not at any specific place. Mr. Wilde had a hunch that they might be planning to use the stunt costume as a meeting signal. I paid off that fellow we found Stewart. He rented his costume on Canal St. and left his address, using the name of Patson. But we had 14 names in all to check, all of them people who rented stunt gowns for Masking Day. That's why this brooch is important. This would be the real signal. Stewart's girl would spot the brooch, then make sure by checking for the car number. When she found that, she found Stewart. Simple. Grodnik spread his hands wide and grinned at the chief.

"Through all New Orleans," the chief said in a shocked voice. "On Masking Day? Why, men, that's foolish! There's going to be a million and eight people on the street Tuesday. How could they—"

"Wait a minute," I said quickly. "Have you got a place called the Stewart here? Or the Mary Stewart? Or the Charles—"

"St. Charles hotel?" the chief suggested.

Grodnik chuckled. "Sure." He bounced the jewel case in his big hand and smiled happily. "This gives us the girl. Pretty neat. But what about the money? Found it yet?"

The chief belated the question to his team. The answer was not yet.

Three hours later the answer was no. No money.

Then it became difficult for me. First we went step by step through the chain of reasoning that had brought Grodnik and me to Stewart's hideout. The chief listened grimly and his boys, spring the nose, made a hard-eyed, doubtful circle around me.

"The Stuart paid," I said for the 10th time. "His name was Stewart, Charles Stewart. So he picked the place as his signal. That's reasonable and simple, isn't it?"

"No reasonable and simple it sounds suspicious," the chief said.

"Take it easy, chief," Grodnik put in. "Wide knows what he's talking about. It's just suspicious enough to be the truth."

"Ninety-seven cops out looking for Stewart," the chief growled, "and you're talking about a brooch being both arms in resignation. Every man we can spare and plenty of county and state cops and the FBI. So a guy with a hunch walks right in on him."

"Happens just the way all the time," Grodnik said dully.

Then the chief switched to the subject of the money. Two minutes later the answer was no. No money.

Farmer In War-Torn Korea Is Optimistic About Future

CHANGDONG, Korea (AP) — Han Chul Hui, a small, hollow-cheeked Korean farmer of 68 is like so many of his neighbors. He has known only to work the soil since he first learned to use his hands as a boy.

The Han clan goes back 17 generations, nearly 500 years. For nearly five centuries this man and his ancestors have worked the land, but always for some one else. Then came independence in 1948 and with it land reform. Out went the landlord-tenant farmer relationship. In came a new opportunity for the farmer to own his rice paddies.

An Associated Press reporter visited Han just before the armistice last year.

He was hopeful then that the coming year would bring peace and a chance to grow a good crop. Besides, there was much to do. The war wrecked frame of his house to rebuild; his fields to be replanted after having been chewed up by the constant march of invading armies.

But he said he still had two hands and his sons to help plant the new rice. Things would be better.

His hope born in some uncertainty, seems to have come true. Han stroked his scraggly goatee, looked out to the fields and watched

Expansion Urged In American Loop

CLEVELAND (AP) — A quick expansion into two more cities will be urged on the American League at its next meeting by Hank Greenberg, general manager of the Cleveland Indians.

Greenberg, who said yesterday he already had notified league president Will Harridge he will submit the plan at the Dec. 4 meeting, said he wanted a 10-year league at the "earliest opportunity." He added that he would ask formation of a committee "to investigate sites for the new franchises."

Although Greenberg refused to name specific cities into which he believed the league should move, San Francisco and Los Angeles have been mentioned.

Frank Lane, Chicago White Sox general manager, predicts those two West Coast cities will be in major league baseball within three years. He pointed out that San Francisco has announced a $10 million dollar bond issue for a stadium and that the Los Angeles Park District has earmarked 10 million for the same purpose.

Cases involving seven men are to be heard in criminal session of the Circuit Court, Nov. 29-Dec. 1, with Judge Vassar Carlton on the bench.

Trooper Injured, Gunman Escapes Following Shooting

LAKE CITY (AP)—A state trooper was hurt early today in an exchange of gunfire between a speeding automobile and two Florida Highway Patrol cars near Monticello, Fla.

Trooper Herschel Owens was treated at Lake Shore hospital here for an eye injury. He was struck by flying glass when four bullets hit his windshield and a fifth entered the hood of his car.

They sought to stop him because they said his driver's permit had been revoked. The man had been arrested several times before for driving without a license.

Jordan said when the FHP car tried to stop Crockett, he sped away on a chase that reached 90 m.p.h. near the Georgia line.

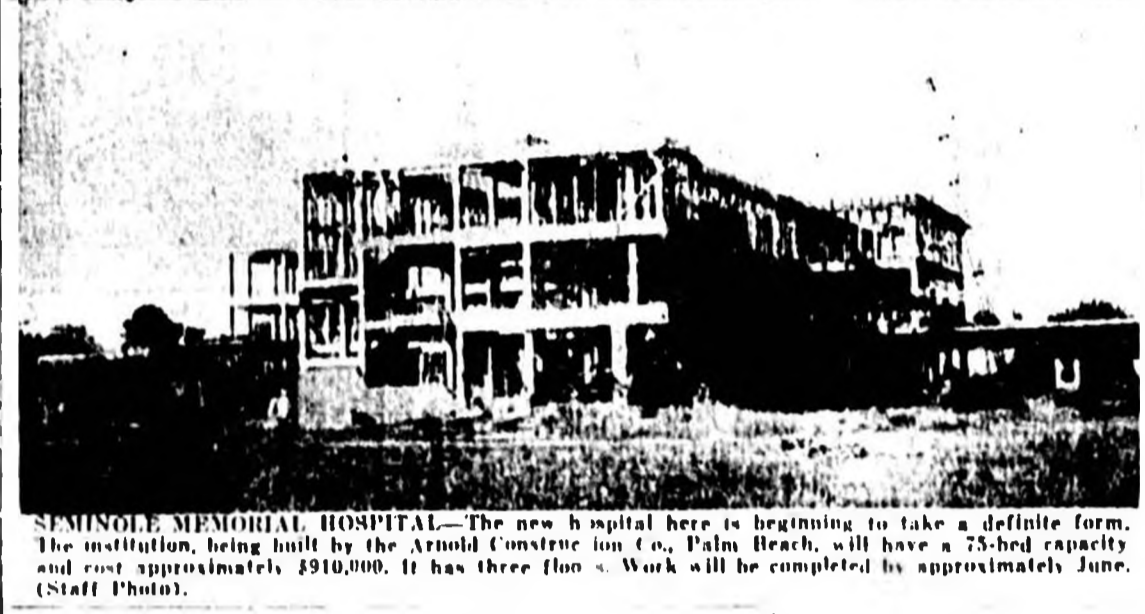

When Owens was hurt, Trooper Hayes stopped. Another patrol car gave chase but officers lost Crockett's fleeing car between Monticello and Fargo, Ga.

Hospital Corner Stone To Be Laid Wednesday

Francis Whitehair Principal Speaker, Stenstrom Master-Of Ceremonies

Cornerstone of the new hospital here is to be laid Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. by Francis P. Whitehair, chairman of the board of trustees of the French Memorial Fund.

Stenstrom, formerly secretary of the Department of the Navy and now serving on the state and county boards, has been interested in seeing the local institution built and who, as one of the chairman of the Citizens Hospital Committee, had much to do to generate the popular demand for it.

Will Be Host
A B. Peterson will serve as host to the cutting department. Participating in the brief ceremony will be other trustees of the French Memorial Fund.

Deadline Nears
The deadline for covering floats in the annual Christmas parade has been set for Saturday, according to Mrs. Raymond Lundquist, Junior Chamber of Commerce secretary.

Teams Start Campaign Today To Secure Members For CofC

Teams got underway today in the annual Chamber of Commerce membership drive, following a "kick off" dinner last night at the Elks Club, according to George Toub, campaign chairman.

Yesterday, the last of a series of four point cards, designed to tell prospective members something about the organization, were mailed.

The post card which went out yesterday contains a clever cartoon depicting a horse race. One horse is on the outside of the track and has little chance of winning. The cartoon points up the theme of the campaign—"You Also So Much... When You're on the Outside!"

Invited To Join
"Your Chamber of Commerce invites you to join in its program of work for the betterment of the community at large. How about coming inside with us? Your membership support is needed."

Definite Role Is Played By CoC In Growth Of Area; Sign Up Today

Competition has ever been one of the fundamentals of the "American Way", and its stimulus has resulted in innumerable benefits to all Uncle Sam's children. Surely, the challenge of others compels us to do our best so that we and not they may be the winner.

This is true in the field of community public relations as well as it is in the economic or industrial fields. For public relations are those things that are designed to create favorable opinions regarding us and stimulate others to do those things we should like to see them do. The agency about which a community's public relations efforts turn is the Chamber of Commerce, and all who are concerned about seeing their own interests promoted through the growth of their city and county will do well to support the trade body in two ways—by substantial membership dues and by enthusiastic effort of the CoC projects.

Those less closely associated with the many activities carried on by our own Chamber of Commerce were astonished at the long list of accomplishments for the past year that was sent out to the membership recently. It was imposing.

Frequently the benefits of community public relations are not readily apparent, but then, not often can favorable reactions be traced to any one medium. Business men frankly say that the direct results of advertising are hard to analyze but they know from experience that when they stop advertising, sales slowly slump.

And so it would be with us if our Chamber of Commerce went out of business or, because of lack of funds or interest of business men, it became a weak competitor in a field that is growing constantly more competitive.

Did you read recently that our neighbors in Lake county have enrolled 1,432 members in their Chamber of Commerce? How do we compare with that? Can Seminole county compete for its share of the influx into Florida of over 3,000 new residents a month as well as for the ever increasing industrial interests?

And another neighbor, the Eustis Chamber of Commerce, offering somewhat the same attractions for new residents that we have (though, of course, not nearly so good!) tells us that already they have more than 80 firms that have given $100 or more as their membership dues in their drive for funds. Again, let's ask ourselves, "Are we doing as well? Can we compete with that energy and determination to keep OUR community in the front rank of Central Florida cities?"

Remember, this is a personal matter. Look in the mirror, and of the progressive and aggressive fellow you see there ask, "What are YOU doing to help the Chamber of Commerce? Are you subscribing as much as you can or a little that will 'get by' and still classify you as a member? Are you willing to work on one of the committees to build up a strong Seminole County task force?"

Our success in meeting the competition of community public relations will determine to a large extent the number of potential customers on which you can draw for your business or professional practice. That success depends on money and effort—both of them yours—and yours and yours.

Frontier Of Growth

Although, geographically, this country is fully settled, the United States still has a frontier. While it may not be as romantic as the westward expansion, the new frontier of growth is as dynamic, and in some respects equally exciting. Without doubt, this nation is growing and is being changed by this growth. It is growing in terms of population, productivity and prosperity.

In terms of people alone, this growth will be vast. Ten years from now, it is estimated, there will be 190,000,000 people in this country, compared to 162,000,000 today. On the most elemental level, this means an expanding domestic market—new mouths to feed, new people to clothe, to teach, to amuse, to employ. This will mean more jobs, a higher national income, and more wealth for the United States.

Not only will Americans be wealthier 10 years from now, but they will also have more leisure. Economists agree that vacations will be longer and that the work-week will be shorter. It is possible that by 1965 the workers of this country will be enjoying three-day workweeks.

This future of growth is one to which Americans can look ahead confidently and hopefully. It will produce some problems, such as how the public will use its increased leisure. But certainly this future, which can be marred only by another war, will offer exciting opportunities. Americans need not look back enviously upon their past. They can look forward to the future with confidence.

HAL BOYLE

Wild Boars Will Keep Ears Intact

ST. HUBERT, Belgium (AP)—Well, if you are one of the people to whom I promised to bring back a wild boar's ear as a souvenir of Belgium, you might as well forget it. I can't deliver. I'm coming home without the bacon.

It was a desperate idea anyway. It came to me only after a friend said pityingly:

"Every writer I know worth his salt is an safari in Africa, bagging his rhino, buffalo and elephant—to prove his manhood. What are you proving by going to Belgium?"

"I'm after wild boar, that is an even more important test of manhood," I replied, on the spur of the moment.

"Are they dangerous?" he inquired, doubtfully.

"Why, it's the oldest and most dangerous game in the world," I told him. "Don't you know that right—or was it King of King Arthur's Knight of the Round Table were tusked to death by maddened wild boars? No slayer stuff—like using guns. You spear 'em from horseback."

He didn't believe me until I assured him wild boars' ears were great trophies in Europe, and were used as bookmarks, or when dried and cured, as poker chips. Soon I had convinced him to bring back more than 50 wild boar ears.

"Well, Rover, you've really led me way into trouble this time," my wife told me as I left. "Unless you find a dead pig in the woods with as many ears as a centipede has legs, I can't see how you can get out of this one."

I felt my honor was at stake. I looked up a wild boar expert here and asked if he would take me on a hunt. He agreed. So I tied my passport around my body—for identification in case of accident—and wrote out a one paragraph will leaving all my debts to my wife.

"Now where do I borrow a spear and a horse?" I asked, recalling that the last time I had been on a horse was in 1930.

"Oh, that style of hunting went out long ago, my host who has bagged nearly 100 wild boars, explained. "We use rifles now."

Then he described how it is done. It is all rather hereditary. You either have to inherit the land or have considerable money.

The wild boars are naturally hereditary. So are the dogs and the beaters who rout them out of the deer for recesses. So are many of the hunters who take up fixed positions and wait for the hereditary dogs and hereditary beaters to chase the hereditary wild boars past them.

The direction you fire is also hereditary. You must shoot only fixed points by a great grandfather of a present hunter to insure safety.

"In a single season we may take as many as 400 boars," my host said. "But I can't even recall the last time a hunter was accidentally killed."

"But aren't wild boars terribly dangerous?" I asked.

"Quite rarely," he assured me. "They always run from a man except when wounded, and even then seldom attack a hunter. We go to some expense to keep them from attacking if it is a bad winter, we spread arsenic and poison in the forest so they will not suffer for lack of food."

Well, call me a slay, but I just couldn't go through with it. It would be like trying to blast open a hairy piggy bank with a shotgun. So I'm coming home without my wild boar's ears. Anyway like a nice Lae e handkerchief from Bruges?

BOY FALLS IN WELL
 TIMPSON, Tex. (AP)—Michael Lynn Crawford, 5, slipped into an abandoned 15-foot well yesterday on the way to a grocery with a 4-year-old companion.
 His friend ran for help. Firemen found the lad barely able to keep his head above water. A doctor said he suffered no ill effects.

The early settlers on the American continent fled the tyranny of governmental rules, regulations, unjust punishments, special privileges for the rulers, and injustice generally.

The first two institutions established in the colonies were the churches and the schools. They were financed, controlled and operated by the local communities. When the Constitution of the United States was adopted, schools and churches were guaranteed the right of continuance as free institutions without any federal controls or national strings attached.

The church has continued to be a free agent functioning under the various governing rules of their members and denominational bodies.

The school too, until recently a local institution is now being more and more brought under state control. Federal influence and finance is also creeping in.

The government has now established many programs of overlapping benefits in the educational field. Inflation has so depleted individual and local finances that the demand for Federal aid to education is becoming insistent. As many as 875 separate Federal activities are functioning in education. At least twelve Federal agencies participate in administering these programs. More Federal aid is gradually wrapping up education in the national government program.

Next in importance to the school and the church is the work of our freedom and government and economic well being, education should be locally operated and without federal restrictions or influence of any kind. For higher education private sources will have to be further developed to finance the education of our youth rather than increase the dependence of colleges on Federal largesse, leading as it inevitably will to Federal control.

States Senate. Smathers appointment was made at the request of the working committee in the State Department who have been considerably encouraged in their efforts to work out better relations with our "Good Neighbor" by Smathers' persistent work in the Senate. The Democratic leadership nominated Smathers but in making the appointment the President of the Senate (VP Nixon) observed that "no man in the Senate will contribute more toward creating good will between the United States and our friends to the South." The conference opens November 22 and is expected to last two weeks. After the first week, Smathers will leave the conference, complete a study tour of inter-American air ports in South America and the Caribbean.

Representing Acting Governor Charley Johns, who could not be present, Matthews participated in the annual ceremony at Arlington Cemetery as the States official representative.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Alger Hiss, the ex-diplomat whose name has been used as a synonym for treason, must have thought many times as the years slid past his prison cell:

"What's in store for me? Will I be questioned again? Will I be in the headlines again? And perhaps, for something else I say or deny, will I wind up in jail again?"

He may not have to wait long for the answer. Yesterday two congressional groups—the House Un-American Activities Committee and the Senate Internal Security subcommittee—said they're thinking of calling him after he gets out of jail Nov. 27.

Hiss' career crashed to a halt when Whittaker Chambers, confessed onetime courier for a Soviet spy ring, told of secret papers he said Hiss gave him.

For denying Chambers' charges, Hiss was convicted of perjury in 1950 and started serving his five-year sentence March 22, 1951. The verdict is effect branded him a liar and traitor. He is getting out after serving 2 1/2 years. The law provides time off for good behavior.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Alger Hiss, a lawyer, will probably never be permitted to practice again. He's been disbarred in New York and before the Supreme Court. He has lost his citizenship rights. He can't get a passport to leave the country.

His lawyer, Chester Lane, of New York, says Hiss will try to vindicate himself.

The most money could have hoped for was that he might not again have to face congressional committees or federal grand juries unless he could vindicate himself convincingly.

But there has been a fundamental change in the law—which the government may now want to use for further investigation of Hiss—since he went to jail. This year Congress passed the immunity law as a weapon against subversion.

It lets the government—Congress and federal grand juries—grant immunity to a witness to force testimony against others.

At the time Hiss was jailed juries or committees investigating spying before, during or after the war could be blocked right and left by witnesses who refused to testify and escaped punishment by saying:

"I refuse to testify under the Fifth Amendment, which says a man can't be compelled to give testimony which might incriminate him."

Now if committees, or grand juries working with the Justice Department, want to investigate spying, they can single out one individual, perhaps a minor suspect in a spy ring, and tell him:

"We want you to tell us about this spy ring. We'll grant you immunity to punishment for anything you did. We want to use your testimony against the big shots."

A witness who refused to talk after being offered immunity could be cited for contempt and, if convicted, jailed. Before the immunity law, if he refused to answer questions under the Fifth Amendment, he couldn't be jailed for contempt.

Hiss neither refused to answer questions nor pleaded the Fifth Amendment, he couldn't be jailed for contempt.

Chambers said Hiss gave him the papers before the war, which was peace-time. Unless a man is

Try and Stop Me
 By BENNETT CERF

THE LATE Lewis Browne, able author, began his career as a rabbi on the West Coast. When an envious competitor heard this, he inquired sarcastically of Browne at a dinner, "A rabbi once, 'Sh? Were you defrocked?'"

"Not at all," answered Lewis calmly. "I was unsuited."

A distinguished speaker was introduced at a banquet by one of those dimly dull, pompous asses who never know when to stop. After he finally relinquished the floor, the distinguished speaker remarked, "I owe our master of ceremonies a deep debt of platitudes."

They say a pinto night clerk at the Chesterfield Motel in mid-Manhattan has taken to asking patrons, "What kind of accommodations are you seeking; regular or King Size?"

AMERICA BY 1975
 (Report No. 15)

America by 1975 will have 850,000 more business firms than it had in 1954, according to estimates made by the Research Department of the National Association of Manufacturers.

The NAM points out that in 1929 there were 3,097,100 business firms, and that by 1952 this total had climbed to 4,650,300.

By 1975 this total should reach approximately 4,900,000.

With America's population expected to reach about 200,000,000 by 1975, it is evident that there will be an increase in business establishments needed to provide the services required by an expanded market.

Lionel Barrymore Was Sentimentalist Despite Gruffness

HOLLYWOOD — The death of young old Lionel Barrymore has robbed Hollywood of one of its most colorful and sentimental characters.

How he would have noted if he had been called sentimental in his lifetime! He likes to growl and grumble like the world's greatest gruff. It became an act with him and he was easily imitated by night club mimics.

But that exterior toughness was only to hide a soft-hearted gentleman who was sincerely interested in people. He would appear to be unconcerned with others, but occasionally he would expose his sympathetic nature. When a young man Los Angeles boxer got in trouble on a dope rap, Lionel arranged to have a heart-to-heart talk with the lad in an attempt to straighten him out.

During his 28 years at MGM Barrymore was greatly interested in the younger talent on the lot and tried to help newcomers along with gruff words of advice.

He always tended off interviewers who questioned him about his own feelings. He tried to picture himself as a dozing robot. But he was sharp as a tack. The last time I saw him was when he was sitting for Joe DiMaggio to appear for a guest spot on his radio show. I mentioned that the ball player's then wife Marilyn Monroe was also tardy.

"Well, she can arrive late with me any time she wants," he replied.

Lionel carried the secret of his real self to his grave. But a member of the family once told me of the tragedy of his life.

"Few people remember it, but Lionel had two daughters," the person said. "Both died when they were three."

The family member recalled Lionel's weeping one time as he recalled what might have happened if his daughters had lived. Such a loss would be hard for any parent, and no one ever filled the void in his life left when his second wife, Irene Fenwick, died 18 years ago.

And so Lionel adopted an outwardly bitter attitude toward life. But perhaps his real feeling was expressed in the final words of his autobiography, "We Barrymores!"

"These are the important things: youth, and health, and someone to love you."

He closed the book with words from Macbeth starting "Tomorrow, and tomorrow, and tomorrow." Sentimentally enough, these were the words he was reciting when stricken.

Seventh Grade Students Present Inspiring Program

Section five of the seventh grade at Sanford Junior High School presented a Veteran's Day program opened with the singing of the National Anthem and Vivian Fetzell played "To The Colors" followed by the flag salute.

Joyce Winman read the scripture after which the entire student body sang "The Prayer Song". The history and meaning of Veterans Day was related by Katherine Carlos with Frederick Richter telling of the entrance of the United States into World War I, and songs from that era were sung by the audience.

The importance of the Liberty Loan was given by Al King followed up with the recitation of "In Flanders Field" by Diana Haynes. "Taps" played on the trumpet by Tommy Waters and the singing of "God Bless America" concluded the impressive program. Announcing was Brenda Henderson.

A student of Junior High reported that the magazine sales are progressing nicely and a section one of the eighth grade are running a close race as the top sellers at the school.

How To Help Your "Man" Buy a Suit

Since nine out of ten women influence the suit-buying decisions of their husbands, here are authoritative tips by the American Society of Designers on the fine points of proper fit every woman should know, to help a man select his suit and insure good appearance and long-wearing value.

This is your objective—a suit that combines correct, modernist-individual measure fit, with comfort, casual elegance and good looking appearance.

Select the type desired from large assortment of modern-measure fabrics.

Make sure fabric is becoming by draping it over one shoulder.

Check fit and ease of neck and sleeve. Check for fullness and ease naturally.

Suggest knee length in trousers for fullness and ease.

Counting Calories Isn't Main Point Of Losing Weight

CHICAGO — The old saying "early to bed and early to rise makes a man healthy" can only be true in the long run if you eat on early enough to eat a good breakfast.

A recent two-year governmental survey of men working in industrial plants revealed that many are not getting their daily three square meals. Other research has shown this is also true of teen age girls, working women, and women worried about their weight.

The meal most often neglected is breakfast.

"Start the day out right, means eat a nutritionally balanced breakfast, one that will fuel your body for the activities ahead," according to Milton Hall, President of the National Dairy Council.

The survey of 600 industrial workers was conducted by the New Jersey Experiment Station. Figures from the study issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture indicated:

- 1. A fourth of the men were low in calcium.
- 2. A fourth of the men were low in vitamin C.
- 3. Diet records and medical exams revealed shortages of the important B vitamins (thiamin and riboflavin).
- 4. 70 per cent of the men were overweight.

Conclusions included:

- 1. The men with shortages drank too little milk and ate too few citrus fruits, tomatoes, and green leafy vegetables.
- 2. Diet records showed the overweight men were skipping breakfast and then eating mid-morning lunches with high calorie snacks sold at the plant.
- 3. The report said that this latter kind of eating was leading to overeating and causing a lack of appetite for food rich in minerals and vitamins.

"Part of the trouble with American eating habits," Hall says, "is to many people think all you have to do is count calories. They think if you count too many, too little or a specified amount of calories each day, you'll be accordingly fat, thin, or just right."

The really important thing, the dairy organization president says, is to get about one-third of the nutrient you need at each meal: breakfast, lunch, and dinner, with nutrients geared to your energy needs.

The easy way of doing this, he says, is to choose the proper type food: fruits, meats, grains, fish, eggs, bread, vegetables, cereals, and bread. These foods give a high proportion of nutrients to the number of calories they contain.

According to Hall, "those are the foods which give you health while they give you energy."

The National Dairy Council founded in 1916, is a non-profit organization devoted to nutrition research and education.

Sanford Ladies Attend Seminar

The Chain of Missionary Associations, District Seminar, is being held today in Daytona Beach at the First Presbyterian Church with Sanford, Deland, and the hostess city participating.

The theme for the women is "A Firm Faith in a Troubling World," with Miss Louise Wood of St. Petersburg, as director speaking on "The World of Tomorrow and You." She attended the World Council of Churches at Evanston, Ind. this past summer.

A thumbnail description of an hour's session for the women of the missions was given by Mrs. Woodford who stated that the ambassadors come from different parts of the world and have interesting and informative things to tell that will be highly valuable.

Questions and reports were received and plans were made for the chains coming to Sanford on Friday and Monday, Feb. 6 and 7 with the First Baptist Church acting as hostess this year. Services will be conducted on these two days on services are also scheduled for Sunday morning and evening at the First Methodist Church. All Monday activities will be at the hostess church.

Various valuable books, some written by the ambassador, will be on display Sunday and will be offered for sale all day Monday.

Those from Sanford attending the Seminar were Mrs. Robert Chase, secretary of the board; Mrs. George E. Wall, club chairman; Mrs. C. E. Park, club vice chairman; Mrs. E. J. Brown, Shiloh club secretary; and Mrs. A. J. Peterson, treasurer, all members of the City Board.

Demos Shaping Up Legislative Program Almost Certain Not To Agree With Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democratic leaders are shaping up a legislative program almost certain to create friction with President Eisenhower in the new Congress. As outlined yesterday by Ben Rayburn (D-Tex.), it includes, in the controversial area, new farm legislation, pay raises for federal employees and tax revision. Rayburn, who is in line to become speaker of the House when Democrats take over Congress Jan. 5, and Rep. McCormack (D-Mass) discussed the program after informal huddles with other Democratic leaders here for yesterday's White House foreign policy meeting. McCormack is slated to be House majority leader.

The program currently does not involve foreign policy. In that field, Rayburn told newsmen, Democrats hope for a bipartisan approach and for cooperation. What they want, he said, is "a strong foreign policy and a strong national defense."

One of the first things the new Congress will consider, Rayburn said, is a general pay raise for all federal workers, including postal employees.

Just before adjournment last summer, Congress sent the President a bill to raise these salaries, but the President declined to approve on the ground Congress did not provide money to help foot the bill.

Rayburn said he is opposed to increasing first-class letter rates to 4 cents, as the administration asked to help offset any pay boosts. He did not rule out proposed hikes in other rates.

While some Senate Democrats have said they favor a trial period of at least a year for the new farm price support system, Rayburn asserted he is for "90 per cent parity." Parity is a legal standard for farm prices said to be fair to farmers in relation to their costs.

At the President's insistence, the recent Congress replaced the old rigid 90 per cent supports on basic crops with a new law providing for flexible scale ranging between 82½ and 90 per cent of parity.

Congress will have to decide early in the year what to do about scheduled reductions in corporation and excise or sales taxes, but no other major tax legislation is likely during the first session of the new Congress. But a new tax law, aimed at removing what Rayburn called "inequities," is almost certain to be considered during a presidential and congressional election year.

Rayburn predicted that the House Ways and Means Committee will review the entire tax structure.

IT DID NOT TAKE LONG for Rin Tin Tin and chimpanzee Neely to become friends after a busy introduction on a TV movie set in Hollywood, Calif. The animal partners show their mutual affection in a rather primitive, but approved manner. (International)

Senators Are Getting Much Advice On How To Vote In Censure Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — By letter, telegram and postcard, senators are being advised how to vote on the bitterly contested issue of whether to censure Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

A check with a number of senators on both sides of the controversy, as well as with others who have not announced a stand, brought reports that their mail has been running heavily against censure. There were some exceptions, however.

Some senators reported an unusually heavy volume of mail, but others said they have been getting far less than they expected.

In the absence of McCarthy, who went to a hospital yesterday with an injured elbow, his secretary said she was not authorized to report on his mail.

An aide of Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), chairman of the special bipartisan committee that recommended McCarthy be censured, said Watkins has been receiving as many as 750 to 1,000 letters and telegrams a day.

In the first week of debate, he said, this mail was about 81 for McCarthy, but that at the start of this week the pro-McCarthy ratio had dropped to 41 or 51.

Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.), vice chairman of the special censure committee, said his mail is running "heavily" in favor of McCarthy "but I don't attach significance to that."

"The people who are critical of McCarthy feel that they have already won their fight, that he has been censured by the committee," Johnson said.

Sen. Ervin (D-S.C.), another committee member, said he had been receiving "unusually heavy mail" for McCarthy. He said it came from Massachusetts to California and that most of the mail he received was against McCarthy.

Sen. Montromery (D-Okl.) a McCarthy critic, said he is receiving only about a dozen letters a day on the censure issue, and that they are running about 31 in support of McCarthy.

Other reports on mail:

Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.), pro-McCarthy, said he is receiving about 60 for McCarthy now.

Sen. Byrd (D-Va.), about even.

Sen. Scheppler (R-Kan.), "overwhelmingly in favor of McCarthy."

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.), about even.

Sen. Thyne (R-Minn.), "very decidedly pro-McCarthy."

Sen. S. H. H. (R-Mass.), "great bulk" for McCarthy.

Sen. Pastore (D-R.I.), preponderantly pro-McCarthy.

Sen. Walker (R-Ill.), "heavily pro-McCarthy."

Movie Star's Son To Have Trial On Robbery Count

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Unable to agree in the robbery trial of Edward G. Robinson Jr., a jury has been discharged. The son of the movie actor will appear Feb. 11 for retrial.

The 21-year-old defendant was accused of robbing two taxi drivers $28. They identified him as the man who took their money in separate hold-ups, but Robinson claimed it was a case of mistaken identity.

Jury foreman John Bresnick, reporting to Superior Judge Allen T. Lynch that "we are hopelessly deadlocked," said the balloting remained at 11-1. Judge Lynch warned him against disclosing whether the preponderance was for or against Robinson. The jury deliberated six hours and was discharged last night. Robinson remains at liberty on $10,000 bond.

Prosecutor Simon Rose, summarizing the testimony, told the jury: "Perhaps the boy should have been allowed to go out and earn his own living as thousands of other young Americans have had to do."

Jerry Heister, noted criminal lawyer who defended Robinson, argued that the taxi drivers could have been mistaken in their identification and pointed out that they did not forget a scar on the defendant's face nor a large ring which was a gift from his father.

Young Robinson maintained he was with his wife when one taxi driver was robbed and with friends on the other occasion. He produced witnesses to substantiate his claims.

Cab driver Harry Chernack pointed out young Robinson in court Tuesday as the man who pointed a gun at his head and took $11 from him last July 1. Driver Michael Plaxek identified him as the passenger who robbed him of $27 June 25.

Death Of Girl, 11 Is Being Probed

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—An investigation has begun to determine the exact cause of the death yesterday of Joan C. Miller, 11, Donald Miller, the girl's father, said she had been suffering from shock and hysteria since learning of her grandfather's death.

Joan's grandfather Barney A. Miller, 60, of Jessup, Md., was killed last Monday by a tractor-trailer. The girl was extremely devoted to him, her parents said.

SPARADIC SAVING PAYS FOR AUTO

EAST PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)—Four years ago, Louis S. Farías, his wife and five children began dropping dimes into a box. Some nickels and dollar bills were also added.

Yesterday the hoard had reached $1,400.20. They took it to an automobile dealer and ordered a new car.

With the old family car, it was enough for a 1955 model. The old car, by the way, was purchased the same way.

Farías is a longshoreman and part-time bartender.

Young Southern Belle Named March Of Dimes Poster Girl

NEW YORK—Mary Kosloski, a tiny Southern belle from Collierville, Tenn., has been named 1955 March of Dimes Poster Girl. It was announced yesterday by Betsy O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Five-year-old Mary represents the many thousands of polio victims in all parts of the country aided by the March of Dimes in 1954.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter P. Kosloski, Mary was stricken with polio at the age of five months. It was thought then that she probably would never walk, but medical care and excellent home treatment have changed this. She now walks well with the aid of a corset with steel slings, leg braces and crutches.

Mary's picture will be displayed on posters, contribution cards and coin collectors throughout the entire nation. Accompanied by her mother, she will make personal appearances in a number of cities during the March of Dimes drive, which begins Jan. 3 and continues for the entire month.

This vivacious little Tennessee girl is the ninth in a parade of children, all polio victims, who have symbolized the March of Dimes during the fund-raising drives each January. She is 44 inches tall, weighs 33 pounds.

Her treatment and care have cost more than $2,000 in March of Dimes funds—she has never taken a step without the aid of her medical equipment supplied by the March of Dimes. Mary has made 17 trips to Georgia Warm Springs Foundation for treatment, and about a year ago underwent surgery for condition in the left hip that was causing curvature of the spine. She will need more operations some time in the future. Every possible effort has been made by the Kosloski family to carry a share of the total cost of Mary's illness.

Mary is a member of a young and happy family group. There are three other children: Sally, 10; Kit, eight; and Paul, three—all of whom enjoy doing things together. They go to church, plan parties, visit the zoo and watch TV as a group. Mary's parents, both of whom are college graduates and community leaders, encourage her to take part in the healthy give-and-take informality of a young, busy household.

Blue-eyed and fair-skinned Mary is already clothes conscious. Her favorite color is blue and she likes ruffled petticoats and starched pinafores.

The March of Dimes has influenced Mary's life in other ways:

John Agar Is Fined $200 On Two Count

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Actor John Agar was fined $200 yesterday on a charge of intoxication and driving a car without a license in his possession.

The 31-year-old former husband of actress Shirley Temple was arrested last January. He pleaded guilty to the intoxication charge but denied drunk driving and driving without his license was suspended. The case was continued periodically until yesterday, when he pleaded guilty to driving while he did not have a license in his possession. He was granted two years probation.

The charges of drunk driving and driving while his license was suspended were dismissed.

Search Continues For Little Girls

BECKLEY, W. Va. (AP)—Raleigh County Sheriff John C. Ward called for volunteers today to resume a search for Irene Ages, 8, and her sister Mary, 6, who have been missing since shortly after school Nov. 1.

Since that time the section around the mountain community of Egoria has been searched almost daily.

Ward said he and state police officers would lead any volunteers from Twin Bridges, six miles away, toward Egoria in the remotest hope that the girls may have strayed even beyond the territory already examined.

VINCENT J. FERRASI, past Queens County, N. Y., commander of the Catholic War Veterans, is shown in Washington as he presented Rep. Joseph R. McCarthy with bound volumes containing 250,000 signatures protesting the Senate committee censure action. The Wisconsin Senator was asked to give the protests to Sen. William Knowland, Republican Majority Leader, after the special Senate session bearing the censure charges had begun. (International)

THE 1955 BUICK

New thriller in Style - Power - Performance

NIGHT NEW FRESHNESS greets your eyes and tells you it's done it again.

You see it in the bold distinction of that gleaming Wide-Screen Grille. You see it in the rakish sweep of the rear-end contours. You see it in the whole fore-and-aft newness of fleet-lined grace that marks Buick the beauty thrill of 1955.

New horsepower — up to 236

You learn more when you get the power story. Up to new peaks go the horsepower of every Buick V8 engine — wallowing 180 hp in the low-line SPECIAL — a mighty 236 hp in the CENTURY, SUPER and ROADMASTER.

And it's new more responsive, far-able power you can literally feel as you go.

But even higher Buickness for 1955 is something more than style and power. It's what the "variable pitch propeller" now has done for Dynaflow Drive.

Up goes performance — and gas mileage too

When you find it necessary to push the pedal to the floor board, you do more than call on the greatest high-compression V8 power in Buick history.

You do what a pilot does when he heads his plane down a runway. You do in oil what he does in air — you cut down take-off time by using "variable pitch propellers."

In this case, the propeller blades are inside the Dynaflow unit. But they're engineered to swivel or change their "pitch" just like plane propellers — and with the same result: one pitch for getaway, another pitch for gas-saving fuel efficiency.

And what you get in the way of instantaneous safety — surge with absolute smoothness, you can only believe when you feel it.

This you have to try

Of course, we want you to come and see the brand-new Buick — look into the betterments in gasoline mileage that add new thrill to these spectacular cars.

But this year, "seeing" is only the beginning. So — while you join the crowds viewing the new Buicks this week end, make a date to get behind the wheel as soon as you possibly can. We promise you the thrill of the year.

*Standard on Roadmaster, optional on other Buicks.
