Shuttle repair on track

CAPE CANAVERAL — Engineers installed a new cooling system valve aboard the shuttle Columbia and if tests confirm a successful repair job, the spaceplane will be on track for blastoff around May 30, two weeks behind schedule.

An official launch date will not be set until after a flight readiness review next Thursday at the Kennedy Space Center, but internal planning schedules show May 30 as the agency's current target.

If the schedule holds up, the shuttle's countdown would begin at 1 a.m. EDT May 27 with liftoff set for 12:38 a.m. three days later.

Columbia and its seven-member crew originally were scheduled for launch on the "Astro-1" mission Thursday, but flight processing was put on hold when engineers ran into problems with one of the shuttle's two cooling systems.

The trouble was traced to a valve in "coolant loop No. 1" that was restricting the flow of Freon-like refrigerant to a crew cabin heat exchanger. NASA managers ordered engineers to replace the faulty component, delaying launch to the end of the month.

Man falls from stairs

SANFORD — A man who witnesses said tried to hold onto three beers as he switched hands gripping a stair rail leading to a second story apartment in Sanford, slipped and fell, police report.

Police Chief Steven Harriett today identified the victim as Bill Asley, 49, of 115 W. First St. Apt. 9. Harriett said Asley's head and back took the brunt of the fall and he suffered severe trauma. He was admitted to Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford, following the 10:15 a.m. Thursday fall. Harriett said he was later transferred to an unspecified Orlando hospital. Witness who saw the man approach Avalon Apartments and climb the stairs reportedly told police Asley appeared intoxicated.

Alzheimers victim found

APOPKA — At about 9:30 a.m. today searchers found an 80-year-old Alzheimer's victim who wandered away from the Florida Living Nursing Center on State Road 436 in rural Apopka at about 6:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Seminole County Sheriff's Capt. Roy Hughey said Nubern Stephens was in the woods behind the center. Hughey said, "He's okay."

LONGWOOD — A teenager described as the youngest known U.S. researcher in superconductivity credits his father and a teacher for inspiration that resulted in him receiving an industry award for achieving a scientific first.

Todd Kramer, 14, was the first person to use a superconducting antenna successfully on amateur radio bands, an accomplishment that began as a school science project and earned him a Scientific Achievement Award from ICI Advanced Materials of Wilmington, Del.

Kramer delivered a paper last week detailing his research at an international symposium on superconductivity as part of a meeting of the Institute of Electronics and Electronic Engineers in Dallas.

"It was really an exciting experience," Kramer said after the symposium. "I knew my project was fairly advanced, but I didn't think it would take me to Dallas."

The research began as an entry into the science fair at Rock Lake Middle School, where Kramer is a student.

Two people were singled out by the teenager as

Lake Mary board rejects purchase of CIA building

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald staff writer

LAKE MARY — In a move that amazed many last night, the Lake Mary City Commission, with one member absent, ended up with a 2 to 2 decision that blocked purchase of the Community Improvement Association building, 280 North Country Club Blvd.

"What this means," said Randy Morris, CIA President, "is that it's dead right now, but we can bring it up again at a future meeting and I think we'll get it through next time."

Tuesday night's split vote was not the first surprise. On April 23, even though there appeared to be membership controversy over selling the building to the city, CIA members voted unanimously to sell. Last night, it was believed that only Commissioner George Duryea would question the purchase, as he had previously stated that he believed the original members of the CIA who gave time and money to build the structure, should somehow be compensated for their effort.

But after a lengthy discussion and many comments from Lake Mary Commissioners, citizens and members of the Association, including President Morris, Mayor Dick Fess struck the fatal blow by saying, "As a trustee of the public money, I find a problem with this purchase." Fess said the money, $153,000, that would be paid to a Civic Improvement Association Trust could just as easily go toward construction of a brand new building at either the Liberty Park property or the newly acquired 35 acres of land near Timacuan on which the City plans to build an active sports activity park.

Much of the discussions centered on the proposed trust agreement under which the sale was to be made. The City would place $76,500 in the trust for the initial payment, with a remainder of $84,150, including interest, to be put into the CIA trust one year after the settlement. The CIA would not be able to use the principle for any purpose until after January 1, 2001, after which only 25 percent could be used, on approval of the general membership of the Association. The interest however, would be SANFORD — Thanks to the efforts of a watchful Sanford postman who cared and some city officials who cared enough to listen, a nest of baby birds will keep the happy home in the hollow of a dead oak tree on Magnolia Avenue behind the First United Methodist Church in Sanford.

Letter Carrier Bob Mann walks the downtown streets every morning, but yesterday he saw something that bothered him.

Local legislators skeptical of road financing talks

From staff and wire reports

TALLAHASSEE — Local lawmakers are skeptical of an apparent agreement between Gov. Bob Martinez and House Speaker Tom Gustafson Thursday to resume stalled negotiations toward approval of a statewide transportation financing plan.

"The talk around here is (Gustafson) will let it go to committee, then try to kill it," Rep. Frank Stone, R-Casselberry, said today. "I'm not sure what will happen. We'll have to wait and see."

"Gustafson has said all along he didn't want a transportation bill and I don't think he's changed his mind," said Rep. Art Grindle, R-Altamonte Springs.

Noriega co-defendant sentenced

MIAMI — A minor co-defendant of former Panamanian strongman Manuel Noriega was sentenced Thursday to 30 months in prison for transporting $800,000 in drug profits from Fort Lauderdale to Panama in 1983. Eduardo Pardo, who pleaded guilty in February to the only federal charge against him, is the first Noriega co-defendant to be sentenced. Noriega and 15 others were indicted by a federal grand jury in Miami in February 1988 on drug smuggling and money laundering charges. The former dictator, who was toppled in December by a U.S. invasion of his homeland, and four others are awaiting trial. Pardo, a pilot, had faced a possible prison sentence of five years and a fine of $10,000. U.S. District Judge William Hoewer said Pardo would be given credit for the five months he has spent in federal custody.

Supreme Court reprimands circuit judge

TALLAHASSEE — The Florida Supreme Court issued a formal reprimand Thursday of Circuit Court Judge S. Peter Capua for conduct unbecoming a judicial officer. The reprimand is the result of formal charges brought against Capua, who serves in the Eleventh Judicial Circuit in Dade County, by the Judicial Qualifications Committee. Included in the commission's list of formal charges is an incident last year in which Capua used his office to force the release of his son from the Dade County Jail. The list of charges also noted: ● Between January 1985 and November 1987, Capua commingled funds belonging to clients with lawyers' funds. ● Between January 1985 and September 1988, Capua failed on at least 21 occasions to properly prepare and give to his clients closing statements required by court rules of procedure about monies received for them.

Pig barn fire scorches 12,000 acres

MIAMI — Sparks from an electrical fire in a pig barn started a brush fire that covered more than 12,000 acres near the Big Cypress Reserve by Thursday night. The fire began Wednesday, killing 40 pigs on a farm west of Krome Avenue. The blaze was burning Thursday in a conservation area next to the Big Cypress Preserve, near the Dade-Broward county line. A crew was scheduled to fly over the fire Friday for a damage estimate. "It is still growing," said Ralph Crawford, a supervisor for the state division of forestry. "How much it will grow we don't know. It all depends on the winds and wind speed tonight. We'll have a better picture tomorrow after we take a look at it." The fire started when the electrical wiring at the pig farm burned, said Tom Williams, a forestry division spokesman. "It didn't take long before a spark from that ignited the surrounding area. It's not currently threatening any buildings. It's in the conservation area, away from civilization," he said.

Female lawmakers strike back for Chile
TALLAHASSEE — Five women who rank among the Legislature's top supporters of aortion rights defended Lawton Chiles' position on that topic Thursday against attacks by his opponent for the Democratic nomination for governor. U.S. Rep. Bill Nelson has been airing television commercials suggesting Chiles, a former U.S. Senator, is soft on abortion rights. But those ads are misleading, the lawmakers said during a news conference outside the state Senate chamber. "We're here to say we're not happy with the innuendoes in the commercials that are being run by his opponent, that says he has some sort of inferior position (on abortion)," said Sen. Gwen Margolis, D-North Miami. "We're comfortable that he (Chiles) respects the constitution of the state of Florida. We're comfortable that he understands it is a private decision of women and that he thinks there shouldn't be any legislative interference," Margolis said.

Bush pressured by Florida lawmakers
WASHINGTON — Florida's congressional delegation urged President Bush to ban oil drilling off the Florida Keys, and although they received no promises, they left expressing hope of getting a favorable decision soon. "We're optimistic," a beaming Sen. Bob Graham, D-Fla., told reporters Thursday outside the White House. Graham said his reaction was based on previous statements by the president and "inferences" by Bush during the Oval Office talk. Sen. Connie Mack, R-Fla., said Bush appeared to question whether there is enough oil off the Keys and the Everglades. "I told the president that I am so optimistic that his decision was going to be viewed positively in the state of Florida, that we invited him to come down to make the announcement in Florida," Mack said.

LOCAL BRIEFS

Suspended county official cleared

SANFORD — Fred Thurman, the senior Seminole County Building Department officials suspended on paid leave May 7 returned to work this week, cleared of allegations he showed favoritism in issuing building permits.

County Building Official David Beltz, in a memo to Thurman dated May 14, wrote Thurman had not following some building permit procedures and had not refunded some fees in a timely manner, but the errors were not done deliberately or to show favoritism.

Thurman is supervisor of the department permit and records office and oversees all construction permits issued by the county. He returned to work Tuesday.

Beltz said the department suffers from a lack of training, a problem he is correcting.

Thurman has been on "special probation" until today, when his next job performance review is scheduled. He was placed on probation Dec. 27 over concerns of his supervisory practices.

Sanford land use plan introduced

SANFORD — City Planner Jay Marder introduced a 453-page draft of the city Comprehensive Plan to the planning and zoning commission last night.

The document basically is the city's guidebook to land development, Marder said.

"Since the deadline for approval of the Comprehensive Plan is not until next spring, we will have plenty of time to look over this so you don't have to feel too intimidated by it," Marder said.

Marder quickly went over the 10 different major sections of the book. The commission agreed that they would discuss the volume section by section at future Planning and Zoning Commission meetings.

Voter registration sites announced

Seminole County Supervisor of Elections, Sandra S. Goard, announces that registration services for Seminole County residents will be provided at the following locations: Monday thru Friday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at The Lawton House, 200 W. ### Officer of the Year

Seminole County Sheriff's Deputy James A. Gibson, center, received the Police Officer of the Year award Thursday night from the Sanford Woman's Club. Sissy Thomas, left, made the presentation, to Gibson, who is assigned as a U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration agent. He played a key role in the 1989 arrests of an accused Columbian cocaine family from Longwood. Gibson also appeared on TV's "America's Wanted" last year to capture a fugitive linked to amphetamine production labs in Florida. He has been a deputy 10 years. ## Speedway escaping growth control law?

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Dayton International Speedway has won special consideration in a bill that would drastically restrict the state's growth management law.

If enacted, the bill would exempt the Speedway from rules requiring it to submit expansion plans to the state for review. It has added 35,000 seats to the Speedway since 1973 without seeking state approval or paying for road improvements near the track.

The Department of Community Affairs recently cited the popular Speedway for its failure to submit plans for those expansion projects. Speedway owners are challenging the citation, saying they were not legally required to get DCA approval before adding additional seats at their facility.

The state's Growth Management Laws, administered by DCA, are designed to ensure that services such as water, sewers and roads are already in place when they are needed to accommodate growth.

Volusia County lawmakers and business leaders oppose the DCA citation, saying any restrictions on the Speedway could harm the local economy. One of those sponsoring the exemption in the bill altering the growth management law is Rep. T.K. Wetherell, D-Daytona Beach.

Midway water controversy meeting canceled by group

By J. MARK MARFIELD
Herald staff writer

MIDWAY — A "clear the air" public hearing for users of the Midway-Canaan Community Water Association, which had been tentatively scheduled for May 29, has been cancelled.

Willie Cummings, president of the association, said he wanted to hold the meeting at Midway Elementary School to answer what he said are misconceptions Midway residents have about the association.

Cummings said the State Attorney's Office is still conducting an investigation of association finances and membership practices and he said he decided to cancel the meeting until the investigation is complete.

"We've been here for 20 years or so, so we must be doing something right," Cummings said. "We're mostly a community service organization. We wanted to tell the people what we're here for, show them where the money goes, but we'll try to clear these allegations first."

The 24-year-old organization buys water from Sanford and resells it to the 600 to 650 households of this community. The residents have been complaining about the association's rates which equal or exceed city and county rates, that also include garbage collection.

Since early April, state attorney's investigators have reviewed association records and interviewed residents and association officials, Cummings said.

The investigators also requested a petition of at least 60 residents to determine if they had been offered an opportunity to join the association. The association's bylaws state every user of the system is eligible to become a member of the association. Members may elect officers who in turn set rates.

Cummings has said the only members of the association are the officers to prevent disruptive people from gaining control of the association.

Officials disagree in eagles-road controversy

United Press International

OVIEDO — The head of the Seminole County Expressway Authority said Thursday the state had waived rules so a highway could be built near a bald eagle nest, but state officials said that was not the case.

"What they wanted us to say was that it was O.K. for them to go ahead and build their expressway. ... It's beyond our authority to do so," said Frank Montalbano, director of the wildlife division of the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission.

State guidelines ban development within 750 feet of a bald eagle nest. The authority sought the commission's advice on the route of an 11-mile stretch of the Orlando Beltway, which was especially plotted to avoid eagle nests, after a nest appeared in January near the very center line of the road.

The road was shifted slightly, but the new route would still put the road within 50 feet of the nest.

A letter sent by Montalbano to the expressway authority said it would be "moot" for the commission to waive the guidelines and that if the expressway disturbed or scared away the birds, the authority would be liable for prosecution.

However, Gerald Brinton, executive director of the expressway authority, said the letter was a green light for construction.

"The letter's very clear that they're ...

waiving the guidelines," he said.

"Well, I don't think the letter says that," said Montalbano. "I can't really say what we would do about it (if they went ahead with construction), but I do not view the letter as approval per se for them to build the road."

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service also must approve the route before the road can be built. Don Palmer, a biologist with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in Jacksonville, said a letter will be mailed next week to the authority.

The 11-mile road is to pass near Lake Jessup. It is hemmed in by the eagle nest on the west and the Black Hammock on the east.

Muck fire may smoulder for weeks

SANFORD — The fire that started one week ago Monday continues to burn and could burn for weeks, fire officials said today.

Sanford Fire Department, Seminole County Fire Department and Division of Forestry personnel continue to wet the muck fire that began in brush and trees on vacant land in the vicinity of Old Lake Mary Road and Airport Boulevard.

The smoke has blanketed a wide area including homes in the Hidden Lake subdivision. But, no homes are in danger, according to firefighters.

The strategy, now, is to wait and watch, said Sanford Battalion Chief Mike Hoening. Since last Thursday, Division of Forestry "rain bird" sprinklers have been wetting the muck.

"We'll probably be working on this one until we get some heavy rain," Hoening said. "And traditionally, we don't get our steady, heavy rains until June."

Multiuse inventions

It isn't unusual for scientists working on one project to make discoveries with broader application. Thus researchers working for NASA invented a form of Dacron that could be formed into veins and implanted in the human body. That particular invention has gone on to far wider use in operating rooms than in space.

One of the most recent examples of such a multiuse invention is from scientists working at Rockwell International and Texas Instruments laboratories in Anaheim, Calif. They are involved in a Strategic Defense Initiative program with the aim of developing a computer to track flying objects.

The computer would have to determine whether the objects were enemy missiles or merely decoys. The job requires a small enough computer to fit inside a satellite and a computer fast enough to evaluate thousands of sets of data simultaneously.

Researchers say they may have succeeded in developing an ultra-high-speed computer the size of a deck of cards. Its uses wouldn't be limited to national defense. A computer that fast and that small could have vast applications in transportation, communications and data processing.

Rockwell and Texas Instruments officials declined to discuss possible uses for their new development but said it could be on the market in two years. Oddly enough, it may never be used in any SDI defense system — in February, Defense Department officials gave priority to a competing system that wouldn't use the tiny computer.

The development of the tiny computer helps to explain why the Soviet Union did all it could to derail the SDI program. It wasn't just the military potential that the Kremlin leaders feared. They also feared the surge of creativity and spin-off developments that a major research initiative often produces.

Hate can destroy

Democracy can be dangerous, as newly freed Eastern Europeans, struggling with radical change, are discovering every day. They're also discovering some of the bitter of democracy.

Stalinism and other totalitarian regimes in Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union repressed personal freedoms for decades, but the same regimes also repressed ethnic hatreds. While many people rejoice in freely electing leaders for the first time, others revel in reviving nationalistic bigotry. They are now free to hate.

Ethnic clashes have erupted in most of the European nations that threw off repressive regimes in the past year. Similar rivalries tear at the Soviet Union. Ethnic violence, coupled with economic instability, threatens to produce a chaos that not even the most ardent Redbaiter wants to see.

Consider these clashes that have left hundreds dead in the past year: Romanians vs. ethnic Hungarians, Bulgarians vs. ethnic Turks, Lithuanians vs. Russians, Azerbaijanis vs. Armenians, Azerbaijanis vs. Russians, Soviet Georgians vs. Russians, Georgians vs. Meskhetian Turks, Uzbeks vs. Turks, and on and on. When East Germany threw off its repressive regime, neo-Nazi skinheads were soon marching through Marx-Engels Platz.

Anti-Semitism, often the bigotry of choice in Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union, is on the rise, despite the fact that few Jews were left in the Eastern European nations following World War II. In the Soviet Union, from Leningrad to Odessa, Jews recently have suffered violent threats, desecrated cemeteries, vandalized homes and rumors of pogroms. Religious hatred, along with a liberalized immigration policy, has convinced thousands of Soviet Jews to leave in the past year.

What's missing from the various Soviet republics and from the fledgling European democracies is a sense of equality under the law. Granted, ethnic hatred is alive in the United States, and people are free to publicly express their bigotry. But ethnic violence is not tolerated.

Our society functions as a stewpot of peoples; theirs remain a patchwork of feuding ethnic groups. Many have lived on the same land for upward of a thousand years. Their centuries-old hatreds, nurtured assiduously, are virulent enough to prove the undoing of democracy.

Eastern Europe's new governments, struggling with momentous problems on every front, must be as concerned about the exigencies of hate as they are about urgent political and economic reform.

Complex U.S.-Iran deal falls apart

WASHINGTON — Intelligence sources here and in Europe say that the United States had arrived at an "understanding" involving the immediate release of four hostages in Lebanon — three American, one British. However, the deal ran into a hitch for reasons that remain unclear, and all sides are pointing fingers at each other.

The extraordinarily complex arrangement was worked out between the United States, Iran, Syria and the fundamentalist, Iranian-backed Hezbollah organization in Lebanon, which now controls most Western hostages.

Sources say the arrangement called for release of three Americans and one of two Britons being held by the Islamic Jihad For The Liberation of Palestine. The United States thought the Americans would be Robert Polhill, Alann Steen and Jesse Turner, and the Briton would be either John McCarthy or Brian Keenan.

In return for the hostages' release, the United States would be expected to do several things.

Most important to Iran was the release of tens of millions of dollars in Iranian assets that have been frozen since the hostage-taking at the American Embassy in Iran in 1979. While the United States would not publicly announce it was releasing the assets, it would begin to unfreeze them over a period of months as part of a "bettering" of relations with Iran.

Most important to Hezbollah, the United States was to begin pressuring Israel to release Shiite leader Sheikh Abdul Karim Obeid — who was kidnapped last July from southern Lebanon — and some 400 Lebanese Shittes now in Israeli jails.

It was "implied" that more Western hostages would be released when the Israeli-held prisoners were freed.

Reportedly, the key figures in the deal were Hezbollah leader Hussein Musawi, who has close ties to Syrian President Hafez Assad, and Iranian foreign minister Ali Akbar Velayati, who acted as the personal representative of Iran's President Ali Akbar Hashemi Rafsanjani. Sources say the arangement was worked out over several months in Damascus, Cyprus and Geneva. At no time did any U.S. official talk directly with either the Iranians or anyone representing Hezbollah. But on at least two occasions a small group of U.S. "private citizens" — including former Secretary of State Cyrus Vance — met in Switzerland with a delegation from Iran and from Hezbollah.

Then things began to go awry, and no one appears to understand what went wrong. Depending on who you talk to, Musawi, the White House or Acting Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir are responsible for the deal falling through.

Reportedly, Musawi was always distrustful of the United States. It appears he decided to "test" U.S. intentions by demanding that Assistant Secretary of State John Kelly be sent to Damascus to "coordinate" release of the first hostage. The White House refused, not wanting to appear to be giving in to a kidnapper's demand.

Apparently the deal was almost canceled without any hostage release. However, Musawi was eventually convinced to go ahead with freeing Robert Polhill. Then Frank Reed was released (somewhat to the surprise of U.S. officials, since it had not been clear that Musawi controlled the group that held Reed).

At no time did any U.S. official talk directly with either the Iranians or anyone representing Hezbollah.

Pro-family measure questioned

WASHINGTON — President Bush is a good listener, but on some issues, he makes you wonder who has his ear. The Family and Medical Leave Act, which passed the House last week, is a case in point.

The measure requires big companies to offer employees rehiring rights and continued health insurance if they take up to 12 weeks of unpaid leave to care for a child, a parent or a seriously ill family member. It was passed by a 237-187 vote, with most Democrats in favor and most Republicans opposed. However, a large majority of women Republicans in the House supported it as a pro-family measure.

In the 1988 campaign, Bush said that, "We need to assure that women don't have to worry about getting their jobs back after having a child or caring for a child during serious illness." But White House chief of staff John Sununu has publicly promised business lobbyists that the President will veto the bill if it reaches his desk.

Sununu says it is bad legislation because it is another federal mandate, burdening business with costs that will make it less competitive. But the facts belie that claim.

As Rep. Constance Morella (R-Md.) pointed out in debate, almost two-thirds of the mothers in this country now work. More than 75 nations already have such family-leave policies, most with pay. The only advanced nations without such leave policies are the United States and South Africa. Canada provides 15 weeks of leave at 60 percent pay; West Germany, 14 to 19 weeks at full pay; Japan, 12 weeks at 60 percent pay. How 12 weeks of leave without pay could disadvantage American firms is a mystery.

Rep. Olympia Snowe (R-Maine) said that her state, which the President knows well from his vacations in Kennebunkport, has a "substantially similar" law in effect already, except that it reaches down to smaller businesses than the proposed federal statute. She called its impact on business and workers "very positive," adding: "I have not received one complaint concerning that state policy, even though I actively solicited comments in that regard."

One after another, the GOP women argued that the measure was a minimal recognition of the realities of today's workplace and a practical step to strengthen families by alleviating some of the pressures workers feel when torn by conflicting economic and personal demands.

Rep. Barbara Vucanovich (R-Nev.), one of the two opponents, called the bill "a wolf in sheep's clothing," a measure which "would erode the very basis of democracy...by forcing employers to provide certain benefits to their employees...."

But Rep. Marge Roukema (R-N.J.), a principal architect of the bill, explained the steps she and others took to satisfy what they thought might be legitimate business fears: The bill covers only firms with 50 or more employees — 5 percent of all companies. It allows even those firms to deny re-employment rights to the top 10 percent of their employees, the ones whose jobs arguably could not go unfilled for even three months without wrecking the company.

It requires reasonable notice and medical certification of serious illness. "I don't mean a child with sniffles or the flu," said Roukema. "but a child or employee who has cancer and needs time for chemotherapy treatments...an elderly parent who is terminally ill and...needs home hospice care."

Sununu questioned whether it is the proper role of the government to mandate such policy. Roukema, who nursed her own son when he was dying of leukemia, said that President Bush, "a compassionate, sensitive family man," needs to face facts.

"Each day, hard-working, tax-paying Americans lose their jobs because a family medical emergency requires that they take time off to give temporary care to a seriously ill member of the family. In a day and age when the majority of American families need two paychecks to get by, it is inconceivable that we do not have a minimum guarantee of job security when a medical emergency strikes. The debate over the Family and Medical Leave Act is not about mandates or benefit packages. It is about values and a standard of decency...."

That view was endorsed by ten of the 13 Republican women in the House — to say nothing of such staunchly conservative males as Rep. Henry Hyde (R-Ill.). Hyde said, "I am not appalled that this is a federal mandate. We mandate job security for jury service...for ROTC duty. It seems to me for motherhood, for caring for a sick member of your family, that our economy and our society should be compassionate enough to include them."

More than 75 nations already have such family-leave policies, most with pay.

Nicaragua tries wooing expatriates

WASHINGTON — Silvio Arguello was once the vice president of Nicaragua under Anastasio Somoza. But when Somoza fell in 1979, Arguello reluctantly fled to Miami. For 11 years, he advocated the ouster of the Sandinista government that overthrew Somoza. He was thrilled when that happened with the election of Violeta Chamorro as the new president of Nicaragua. But today, Arguello is not packing his bags for Managua. Life is too good in Miami for the real-estate magnate with a house in a posh neighborhood and plenty of cash to spread around. Arguello is not alone. Hundreds of successful business people who prospered under Somoza and scooted out of town with their millions when the Sandinistas took over now are waffling about going back. When Nicaragua needs their money and skills the most to rebuild its bankrupt economy, these former Nicaraguans have opted to dig in their heels in the United States.

A recent summit between some of them and Chamorro's chief economic adviser suggests why. They can't count on getting the same special privileges that they enjoyed under Somoza and they aren't willing to sacrifice what they have built in Miami. Arguello complained to us that the new government of Nicaragua is only offering him "equal justice for all." Under Somoza, some people were more equal than others. In early March, Chamorro's representative traveled to Miami to try to woo some of the exiled business people back home. Previous guarantees from Managua had hinted that they could bring their cars and other luxury items with them duty free. Tax breaks and some compensation for the property they lost to the Sandinistas were also reportedly part of the offer.

In all, 72 former Nicaraguan business people agreed to consider the deal and went to Managua to test the waters. Apparently they were pleased at the path the new government is taking, but the meeting turned sour when they realized their demands would not be met. Sources told our associate Dean Boyd that the Miami clan hinged its return on a number of conditions — the return of all of their old property, appointments in the new government and direct benefits from forthcoming U.S. aid to rebuild Nicaragua. Francisco Mayorga, Chamorro's economic adviser, was taken aback. He told them the compensation for their losses when Somoza was ousted would be up to the courts. And he warned them to give up their "eye-for-an-eye" attitude, saying that their demands did nothing for Nicaragua's "stability."

Mayorga also told the Miami contingent that prestigious government jobs couldn't be given to people who hadn't even been around for the hard-fought election. Mayorga then begged the wealthy exiles to play by the rules and participate in Nicaragua's reconstruction.

The group returned to Miami angry. "Why should we go back if we can't get our possessions back?" Arguello asked us.

A small Miami newspaper published by members of the exile community blasted the new government's position and characterized Mayorga's remarks as "excessively vulgar."

One exile who does plan to go home told us that the wealthy exiles will only return "if they can make a big profit and have their old ways. This is impossible and unfair to ask of Nicaragua which has just been through 10 years of war." Then he added a condemnation of the elites who got too comfortable in Miami. "They are no longer Nicaraguans."

They can't count on getting the same special privileges that they enjoyed under Somoza.

Bensonhurst triggerman convicted

NEW YORK — The accused triggerman in the Bensonhurst racial slaying was convicted of murder for taking part in an attack by a mob of bat-wielding whites that left a black teenager dead from two bullets to the chest.

Joseph Fama, 19, was convicted Thursday of second-degree murder with "depraved indifference to human life" in the slaying of 16-year-old Yusuf Hawkins. But after 11 days of deliberations, the jury in state Supreme Court in Brooklyn acquitted the white teenager of intentional murder.

Fama, who was convicted on 13 counts and acquitted on three, faces a prison term of 25 years to life on the murder charge alone when he is sentenced on June 11.

Fama's lawyer said the verdict would be appealed on the grounds that Justice Thaddeus Owens' charge to the jury was biased toward the prosecution.

Brando's son 'admits' killing

LOS ANGELES — The son of actor Marlon Brando admitted killing his pregnant sister's boyfriend during an argument that started when Cheyenne Brando told her brother she had been physically abused, police said.

Christian Brando, 32, was booked Thursday on suspicion of murder in the shooting death of Dag Dorillet, 26, of Tahiti, after an argument over the alleged abuse.

Police said Christian was extremely protective of his 20-year-old half-sister, who is six months pregnant. "Christian has indicated that he did in fact shoot the victim," said Lt. Ron Hall.

Renoir painting draws $78.1 million

NEW YORK — "Au Moulin De La Galette," a summer scene of an open-air, lamplit Paris dance hall painted in 1876 by Pierre-Auguste Renoir, sold for $78.1 million at a Sotheby's auction, breaking the record for a painting by the French artist.

The auction of 70 works of Impressionist and modern art Thursday night was a record sale. Stewart said, Nineteen of the works sold were purchased by American buyers, 16 by European and 23 by Japanese collectors.

The Thursday night sale at the New York auction house, which had generated intense advance notice, failed to top the recently set record of $82.5 million for any work of art.

The previous record for a Renoir was $17,681,400 for a work sold at Sotheby's in London last year. Vincent Van Gogh's 1890 "Portrait of Dr. Gachet" was sold Tuesday to a Tokyo dealer bidding for a major Japanese business firm for $62.5 million at Christie's gallery.

Super frogs ready to leap

ANGELS CAMP, Calif. — The 62nd annual Calaveras County Fair and Jumping Frog Jubilee opened with thousands of people flocking to the tiny Gold Rush town to see if a band of giant African superfrogs could outjump their smaller American relatives.

Representatives from the Guinness Book of World Records were ready to watch the green giants try to smash the fair's record set by an ordinary American bullfrog, Rosie the Ribtler, who jumped 21 feet 5 3/4 inches in 1979.

That should be no problem, said Andy Koffman, a Seattle reptile importer who captured the rare Conraua Gollath frogs while trekking through the jungles of Cameroon in West Africa. "I have always felt that it was the destiny of these frogs to win that contest," said Koffman, who is eyeing a $1,500 grand prize awarded to anyone who sets a new record.

Organizers of the frog jump, inspired by Mark Twain's 1865 short story, "The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County," predicted new attendance records at the four-day frog hop.

Iranian gambler wins big at poker

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Iranian-born businessman Mansour Matloubi raked in a record $1.62 million poker pot and cleaned out his lone remaining opponent in poker to win the World Series of Poker championship. He also won $835,000 in first-place prize money.

Matloubi, 37, a self-described London businessman, won the final pot Thursday with a pair of sixes when Hans "Tuna" Lund, 39, of Reno, Nev., shoved in all his remaining chips on the strength of a pair of fours and lost. The flop cards in the final hand of the 10-hour, no-limit Texas Hold'em marathon helped neither gambler.

would be paid a lower benefit for a shorter period of time.

Although the reform lowers benefits to workers, Rep. Art Grindle, R-Altamonte Springs, said more workers will be protected as a result. "I'm excited about it," Grindle said. "It will be a benefit for a lot of businesses who can't afford to carry adequate coverage now."

Rep. Frank Stone, R-Casselberry, said the coverage reductions were primarily in the area that workers have abused. "I don't buy the argument that workers will receive less as a result of this," Stone said.

The bill still must be considered by the Senate, where the Insurance Committee approved a similar measure earlier this week.

Lawmakers debated for five hours Thursday night and mullied over 104 amendments before the House finally agreed on the bill, sponsored by Rep. Art Simon, D-Tampa.

The bill also would establish procedures for drug tests in the workplace, under a provision for "reasonable suspicion drug testing." That section is aimed at combatting injuries to workers resulting from drinking alcohol or abusing drugs on the job.

Workers in "safety sensitive jobs" could be tested at random, and other employees could be tested if they exhibited "abnormal conduct or erratic behavior." Employers who established drug testing programs would be eligible for reduced premiums.

The bill also would allow employers with three or fewer employees to operate without worker's compensation, increasing the number from the current law's provision of one or two employees.

Simon said bill (CS/HB 3509) improves some of the worker's compensation changes made last year.

Florida's worker's compensation insurance rates are 54 percent higher than the national average, according to the House Commerce Committee, and they are 75 percent higher than the average in the Southeast.

Gustafson had been saying that the transportation package vetoed by the governor earlier in the session was the Legislature's best offer. He has also reportedly been wooing GOP support to override the veto.

But during a meeting Thursday in Martinez' office, Gustafson said he would not try to block an effort by House Republicans to promote their own transportation plan, and envisioned a committee hearing on the GOP plan next Wednesday.

"I've mellowed a bit," Gustafson told the governor.

Martinez said he was not committed to supporting the House Republican plan, but hoped a "happy meeting ground" could still be found, with little more than two weeks remaining in the 80-day regular session.

But Martinez reiterated his opposition to the Democratic bill which provided for a statewide 4-cents-per-gallon increase in the gasoline tax and to the bill's formula for spending the money, which he said would not conform to local growth management plans.

The governor said he is still insisting upon some sort of local debate before the tax could be increased. Gustafson is worried the House GOP plan to permit increases of 4-cents per gallon at the county level would generate a "county-by-county wish list" of projects that ignores statewide needs. But the governor said he would insist any new taxes be earmarked for state projects.

Martinez aide Peter Dunbar said the votes were not there in the Senate to override the governor's veto of the transportation package.

"So what they would do is put themselves through an excruciating override to get nowhere," Dunbar said.

Senate President Bob Crawford said he wanted to wait and see if the votes for an override could be mustered in the House before raising the issue in the Senate.

Jockeying continued between the House and the Senate to reconcile rival versions of the state budget for the fiscal year. But a budget reconciliation was expected to have to wait for an agreement on the tax-and-fee increases of up to $1 billion.

A problem, Crawford said, is that the money would only dampen the blow from planned budget cuts, not buy new programs that lawmakers could take home to justify the increased pressure on taxpayers.

"When you vote for more than $1 billion in new taxes, you think you can make some people happy in this state," Crawford told reporters.

Meanwhile, there was no apparent progress in the disagreement between the governor and the House on the proper mix of new prison beds versus facilities for troubled children.

Martinez wants to spend about $145.6 million to build more than 9,400 new beds, and the Senate has approved a bill that is close to the governor's position. The $26-billion House budget provides for 11,000 beds, but Martinez contends only 4,488 of them would be for dangerous offenders, with too many going for juvenile and diversion programs.

Gustafson insisted during his meeting with the governor that his juvenile programs are a better investment. He wants to spend $81 million to provide group homes for troubled kids, to be overseen by local religious or community leaders.

"I am sure this state can afford to build 3,000 beds for children," Gustafson said.

Martinez insisted Gustafson's plans would raise an uproar in local communities, which would delay or prevent the facilities from ever opening.

"That debate is not going to stop because a Baptist minister shows up, because a rabbi shows up or a priest shows up," Martinez said.

Gustafson said programs similar to what he envisions have proved effective in reducing juvenile delinquency recidivism rates in other states, but Martinez insisted the public wants action now against crime.

"You try telling that to the senior citizen getting mugged on the street. They're interested right now, what's happening to me," Martinez told Gustafson.

Martinez did say, however, that the House's package of about $900 million in new taxes and fee increases is more acceptable to him than the Senate plan, which raises about as much money.

The Senate plan calls for an increase in the cigarette tax of 9 cents per pack. The House package has a 14-cent increase, closer to the governor's proposed 19-cent hike.

The Senate plan also provides for a surtax of 10 cents for every shot of liquor or glass of beer or wine sold in bars and restaurants, Martinez said he was inclined to oppose that tax.

In other action Thursday in the Legislature:

• The Senate voted 37-0 to approve legislation (CS-SB 198) to outlaw the dumping of human waste by railroads on public or private lands or streams. The bill provides for misdemeanor penalties unless more than 500 pounds of waste is dumped, when the offense would become a second-degree felony.

Supporters said the bill was inspired by the recent conviction of Amtrak for dumping waste in the St. Johns River. The measure provides a three-year grace period for railroads to retrofit their equipment to stop spewing waste along roadbeds.

Flotilla warned to stay clear of Cuban waters

MIAMI — Cuban exiles participating in a flotilla that will drift by their homeland's coastline this weekend were warned Thursday by Coast Guard officials that Cuban authorities may seek to stop and board their boats.

Cuban exiles plan to board an estimated 80 to 100 boats in Key West Sunday and travel to within 13 1/2 miles of Cuba, on the day the island nation traditionally celebrates its independence from Spain.

Organizers of the Cuban Brotherhood Flotilla say the demonstration will show Cubans still living on the island that they are not forgotten by those who have fled to freedom in the United States.

But Coast Guard officials noted that Cuban authorities have stopped and boarded U.S. vessels in international waters, more than 20 miles from the Cuban coast.

"Your planned activities may be viewed as a provocation by the government of Cuba," officials said in a notice delivered to flotilla organizers. "Vessels straying into territorial waters of Cuba will be subject to the jurisdiction of Cuban law."

The Coast Guard refused to provide an escort for the flotilla, but promised to have ships and aircraft in the area to monitor the journey through the Florida Straits.

The Coast Guard said Cuba claims a 12-mile territorial sea, but in some cases the boundary extends well beyond 12 miles because of the way the line is drawn.

being responsible for his interest. "My teacher, Mr. Tom Butler, helped me in the radio club and really sparked my interest," said the youth. The other driving force was his father, Dr. Leslie D. Kramer, 633 Riverpark Circle, in Longwood, who is a ham radio operator and has a Ph.D. in Metallurgy. Dr. Kramer is Manager of Research and Development at Martin Marietta.

Young Kramer, a ham radio enthusiast, said he had read that ICI had made a UHF antenna from a superconductor, ceramic.

The student decided to show the antenna could be used to broadcast on an amateur radio frequency, and contacted the company about getting the antenna.

Kramer built a box from plywood, Styrofoam and plastic wrap, and then filled it with liquid nitrogen to cool the antenna to the temperature needed for it to become superconductive.

Kramer used his system Dec. 31 to contact a local ham radio operator, and the two talked for 12 minutes, the boy said. It was the first use of a superconductive antenna to establish two-way radio contact on an amateur band.

A superconductive antenna can produce a much more efficient signal, because the material offers less resistance, said Vic Burris, a spokesman for ICI.

The experiment won "Beat of Fair" at his school, and it was a finalist at the Florida State Science and Engineering Fair in St. Petersburg in April.

Kramer said his goal is to be a scientist or an engineer, but he's unsure whether his specialty will be superconductivity, robotics engineering or computer engineering.

"My mind leans toward the latest technology," Kramer said. "That's what sparked my interest in superconductivity."

prepared to be getting ready to cut down an Oak tree that had become a favorite stop on his route. A small black bird would fly in to the hollow of the tree where Mann was certain she was feeding a large hungry brood.

"You couldn't see them, because they were down in the tree but boy when that momma bird flew in there, you could hear them," Mann said.

As he passed the the workers on his route, Mann stopped to tell them about the nest in the tree.

The postman was pleasantly surprised at the response he received.

"I told them about the nest and the one guy seemed real concerned," Mann said. "He was like 'Wow, we almost cut into that tree,' and he said he would stop and talk to his boss about it."

But Mann decided to call city hall.

"I called the Mayor's office and they referred me to public works to a Mr. Kelly. He seemed real concerned too and he said that they could leave the tree alone until the birds were big enough to fly away. And I don't know, but the way he acted, I wouldn't be surprised if they had some special procedure concerning this," Mann said.

Director of Public Works Bob Kelly said he remembered talking to Mann.

"If there is no rule on the books, there should be," Kelly said.

"The city is not in the habit of kicking little birds out of their homes. From what I understand, the birds are almost grown, anyhow. So we can leave (the tree) alone for a while — at least until they leave."

Mann said that the city of Sanford lived up to its slogan: The friendly city.

Storms calm in Midwest; South, flood continues

By United Press International

Destructive winds that hammered the Great Lakes began dying down early Thursday as Ohio braced for flooding, while thunderstorms roaming the Plains avoided flood-stricken portions of Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana.

Violent winds that howled across the Great Lakes and struck Buffalo at 61 mph Thursday, downing trees and knocking out electricity, eased to about 20 mph early Friday, the National Weather Service reported.

Winds were higher than normal in Illinois, where power outages were reported in the suburbs west of Chicago and trailers were banned from some major highways. The NWS issued a gale warning for boaters on Lake Michigan, saying gusts reached speeds of 47 mph Thursday.

Storms that swamped Illinois and Wisconsin and spun off deadly tornadoes in Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas also dissipated overnight, the NWS said. Light rain was reported in northern Wisconsin and Upper Michigan.

Southern and northwest Ohio watched for flooding early Friday. In southern Ohio, the Scioto River at Picketon was 6 feet over flood stage, and residents were preparing for a crest of about 25 feet.

Hundreds of Kansas City residents returned to their homes in the flood plain of the Blue River Thursday, a day after the river hit record levels. Across Missouri, people waited for the Mississippi and Meramec rivers to crest.

Heavy thunderstorms moved into the central and southern Plains early Friday, pelting west Texas and eastern New Mexico but staying clear of the flood regions of central and southeast Texas.

IN BRIEF

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Giles, Seattle drub Toronto

If the Toronto Blue Jays continue their losing ways at home, the sexual sideshows given by unsuspecting guests at the SkyDome's hotel complex might soon threaten to become the stadium's main event.

Brian Giles homered twice and drove home seven runs Thursday, leading the Seattle Mariners to an easy 14-6 drubbing of the Blue Jays and a sweep of their three-game series.

Twice already this season, fans with binoculars have witnessed hotel guests engaging in sexual activities in suites facing the diamond. The most recent occurrence took place two nights earlier as the Blue Jays dropped a 4-3 decision.

Elsewhere Thursday in the American League, Milwaukee dropped California 6-3, Minnesota topped New York 4-1, Chicago clubbed Baltimore 7-3 and Detroit clipped Texas 7-5 in 10 innings.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Olson, Braves top Pirates

Pittsburgh outfielders needed a ticket to make the catch when Greg Olson's hits were falling Thursday night.

Olson ripped two homers and drove home five runs, helping the Braves hand Neal Heaton his first loss since last season with a 6-1 victory over the Pirates at Atlanta.

Olson, a rookie who came over from the Minnesota farm system during the winter, blasted a two-run home run in the second inning and added a three-run shot in the eighth.

Elsewhere in the National League Thursday, St. Louis blanked Cincinnati 3-0 and Houston edged Chicago 5-4 in 11 innings.

PREP TRACK

Lake Howell girls honored

CASSELBERRY — The Lake Howell Silver Hawk track team completed a successful season with their awards banquet on Tuesday night.

Receiving the Most Valuable Player was Sheryl Palumbo, who also won the outstanding middle distance award. She competed in the regional high jump and 800-yard run after winning the district high jump with a leap of 4-10. Sally Morris took the Most Dependable award while the outstanding long distance runner award went to Miki Palumbo, who ran in the state two-mile event last weekend and finished eighth. Morris advanced to regionals in the 330 hurdles.

The most outstanding field events athlete of the year was Gretche Arias. Awards were given out by the girls' track coach, Tom Hammontree.

COLLEGE GOLF

Florida Southern holds lead

JUPITER — Dave McMillan and Rodney Butcher each fired 1-over-par 73s Thursday to help Florida Southern College boost its lead to 15 strokes after three rounds of the NCAA Division II Men's Golf Championship.

Florida Southern, who finished the first round up 10 strokes and the second round up 12, shot a 294 to finish at 883. Cal State Northridge (296) and Troy State University (297) were tied for second at 898.

Defending champion Columbus College shot a 295 for a three-round score of 902, which was good for fourth place. Host Florida Atlantic University finished with a 311 Thursday for a three-round total of 932 for 10th place.

COLLEGE TENNIS

Stanford women sweep titles

GAINESVILLE — Stanford University carried out an unprecedented sweep of the NCAA Women's Tennis Championships Thursday, adding the singles and doubles titles to the team crown the Cardinal captured earlier in the NCAA Women's Tennis Championships.

Sophomore Debbie Graham, of Fountain Valley, Calif., cruised by Florida's Nicole Arendt, 6-3, 6-3 for the singles title.

Top-seeded Cardinals Meredith McGrath and Teri Whittinger then ousted Graham and 1989 NCAA Singles Champion Sandra Birch, 4-6, 7-5, 6-2, in the all-Stanford doubles final.

No school had ever won the NCAA singles, doubles and team event in the same year.

SANFORD — Corey Williams, Alexis Acosta and Kevin Butler all homered and Donnie Hinson hit a bases loaded double as the Disabled American Veterans Royals defeated the First Union A's 21-15 to clinch the American Division championship of the Sanford Recreation Department Little Major Baseball League at Roy Roller Field Thursday night.

In the other game, the Seminole Ford Red Sox scored a run in the bottom of the sixth inning to break a 9-9 tie and give the Red Sox a 10-9 decision over the SunBank Orioles.

With the regular season coming to an end this Saturday the Royals stand alone with a 12-3 record, followed by the A's (9-6), the Red Sox (7-8) and the Orioles (1-14).

This Saturday's schedule has been changed to allow the top two teams in each division to play the last two games of the day. At 8 a.m. it will be the Orioles playing the First Federal of Seminole Cardinals, followed at 10 a.m. by the Red Sox against the Sunland Pirates. At noon the Royals will challenge the Railroaders Cubs and at 2 p.m. the A's and the Rinker Dodgers will close out the regular season.

The Royals opponent in next week's City Championships is still very much up in the air. The Dodgers are currently one game ahead of the Cubs in the National Division. Should the Dodgers win or the Cubs lose Saturday the Dodgers would be the champions.

But if the Cubs beat the Royals and the A's beat the Dodgers there would be a tie and a playoff game between the Cubs and Dodgers would take place next Tuesday.

The Royals got the scoring started in the first inning when Marcus Beasley went all the way to second on an error and went to third on an Acosta single. After Butler walked Hinson reached on an infield single to score Beasley. Acosta later scored on a wild pitch to make the score 2-0.

The A's got a run back in the bottom of the first on an Eric Smith double and a pair of wild pitches.

Two walks, two singles and a Butler double scored four runs for the Royals in the second, but the A's responded with three in the bottom of the inning without a hit.

The Royals used the long ball to score five runs in the third as Williams hit a three-run shot for his

The tournament will open today at Lake Brantley. All teams will be in action Saturday with games at both Lake Brantley and Oviedo.

Charles Elberry of Lake Mary and 39 other Seminole County Athletes will travel to Lake Worth today and tomorrow to determine who is the best athlete in Florida in the high school State Decathlon/heptathlon track meet.

SAC to try decathlon/heptathlon

By ROBBIE STOCK
 Herald Correspondent

LAKE WORTH — Judging from the reaction of the Seminole Athletic Conference coaches, this weekend's state heptathlon/decathlon at John I. Leonard High School could bear a striking resemblance to the state track meet last weekend at Showalter Field.

"Although Palm Beach Lakes won the state track title, John I. Leonard won the heptathlon last year and Lakes came in second," said Lake Mary coach Mike Gibson. "Glades Central could challenge, they finished second to Jacksonville Ramen in the 3A meet. Sanford Seminole is also a threat."

The boys compete in 10 events in the decathlon: high jump, long jump, shotput, discus, pole vault, 120-yard high hurdles, 100-yard dash, 220 dash, 440, and the mile run. The girls only compete in seven events, dropping the pole vault, 100 and 440 while substituting the 880 for the mile.

For the boys, the best individual chances ride on the backs of Seminole's Robert Moore and Lake Brantley's Jason Hobbs.

Moore is hindered somewhat because his best event, the triple jump, will not be featured. But Moore's overall speed, strength, and size give him a chance at cracking the top 10.

"I think Robert's capable of placing in the top 10,"

San Antonio and Portland go to game seven in West

United Press International

SAN ANTONIO — The Spurs have proven that San Antonio is Mr. Robinson's neighborhood.

Now they want to show they can play in the Trail Blazers' yard.

"We are not going to let anyone come and push us around anymore," David Robinson said, after scoring 24 points and pulling down 13 rebounds Thursday night to lead the Spurs to a 112-97 victory over the Blazers.

"We just need to translate the way we play here to the way we play in Portland," he said. "We are a young team, but we will rise to the occasion."

Home courts have been the key to the Western Conference semifinal series, which is deadlocked 3-3. Neither team has lost on its own floor.

The final game will be played Saturday afternoon in Portland.

"Now it all comes down to one game in our place," Portland Coach Rick Adelman said. "I think it has been a very physical series with two competitive teams."

San Antonio Coach Larry Brown used a different word.

"It got ugly tonight. We've played each other so many times now that the tempers are becoming short and the fouls are becoming hard," Brown said.

"As for Game 7, we have to start off strong and aggressive," he said.

Although Portland had 30 fouls and San Antonio had 23, no player on either team fouled out — a factor that reduced the big player ranks on both sides during Portland's grueling 138-132 double-overtime win Tuesday night.

Portland was led by Jerome Kersey's 22 points, followed by Cliff Robinson with 20, Terry Porter with 14 and Buck Williams with 12.

San Antonio's Willie Anderson, whose 30 points was a playoff high for the 6-foot-8 guard, was followed in double digits by Robinson with 24, Terry Cummings with 18, Sean Elliott with 14 and David Wingate with 11.

San Antonio narrowly beat the Blazers on the boards 48-44, with Robinson's 13 the high for the Spurs. Portland's Williams pulled down 10.

Already down two centers — starter Kevin Duckworth (broken hand) and backup Wayne Cooper (back spasms) — the Trail Blazers lost guard Clyde Drexler late in the third period, when he was ejected after throwing an elbow at Anderson.

Drexler was still shaking his head about it.

"We were hand-checking, and I was just knocking the hands off. The next thing I know, I am in the locker room," Drexler said.

"We've played each other six times now, and everyone knows what each other is going to do. We get tired of seeing each other," Drexler said.

The lead changed five times in a back and forth first quarter in which the score was tied three times.

Anderson poured in 10 first-quarter points and Portland's Robinson put in 8, but no team led by more than 3 in the period.

Two points by Portland's Drazen Petrovic gave the Trail Blazers a 27-26 edge at the end of the quarter — their last lead in the game.

San Antonio reeled off nine unanswered points midway through the second period to pull ahead 43-32 with 5:34 to go.

The closest Portland got after that was 7 points, at 48-41 with 1:05 remaining in the half.

Portland lost Drexler with 3:01 remaining in the third period, when the referee ejected him for elbowing Anderson in the chin while the two were fighting for position away from the ball.

Drexler, who had averaged 24.4 points during the series and scored a career-high 35 Tuesday, was held to 4 points before he was thrown out.

It's a Flea World after all

What a place to be; it's fun and it's free

By JOAN KING
Herald correspondent

SANFORD — Flea World in Sanford is a maze of free fun, fantasy and foolishness.

The parking is a free and there is no charge for admission.

The whole area is a giant maze of aisles and sub aisles with twists and turns that can confuse a cartographer. There are well-placed maps that tell, YOU ARE HERE! The aisles are clearly marked. However, if you don't know where you're going and you don't know where you've been, you probably won't know where you are! That's part of the fun of getting lost in Flea World. Eventually, you will end up outside, somewhere, but not necessarily where you left your car.

There are all kinds of fantasy items for sale. Jewelry is a big item. Buy a big rock for your finger and pretend you're rich. Buy some fake money, wrap a real bill around it and it looks like Rockefeller's wad.

The vendors sell plastic alligators, ash trays, socks, t-shirts, baseball cards, more t-shirts, plants, and more t-shirts.

Actu, y, there is quite a variety of items sold including furniture and handcrafted pieces.

New addition to the Flea World complex

One of the nicest displays is Tiger Rags, on aisle X, owned by Carolyn McWorter. She designs and makes the white tropical clothing that she displays. Carolyn and her husband Dominic Tesoriere have spent every weekend for the last two years selling at Flea World. They recently moved to Sanford from Daytona Beach where they operated a Florida cottage craft for 22 years.

Carolyn says: "We love Sanford's Historic District and the local restaurants."

Another pleasant and hardworking couple located at row F between C and D are Tom and Marilyn Rose from DeLand.

They support their three children from their Flea World earnings. The business is called Name Game. For the past 6 years they have been making the product and selling it on the spot. Tom cuts names out of wood, Marilyn stains, paints and sells them.

There are so many nice people at Flea World. The handful of vendors who are rude can be ignored as there is so much to see.

Some silliness abounds with signs such as the one that says EYE GLASSES CLEANED.

Flea World opens soon. After you tire of shopping you can enjoy miniature golf, bumper boats, go-karts, bumper cars, batting cages, kiddie rides and a game room.

There is always plenty to eat at Flea World. Try a juicy sausage and onion sandwich on a fresh, soft hoagie roll.

The carnival atmosphere fades into a sea of blue tarps as vendors close after the weekend and customers disappear until the next time. It must be fun if three million people a year trod through aisle after aisle looking for a deal or just the right gadget to take home. What a place to be. It's fun and it's free.

Lawyer requests counsel on man's case for marriage

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 36-year-old, self-supporting female lawyer. Married once, now divorced. (Divorced is better.) No children. I like my life the way it is, and I'm no bowwow.

I recently met a man who is drop-dead gorgeous. He's 42, has had two failed marriages — no children — and he's also a lawyer. We met in court. This man is a real challenge, and I'm totally fascinated by him.

On our first date, he took me to dinner. And both our dinners got cold because we did nothing but talk. He took me home and we talked all night.

On our second date, he said, "You are the woman I want to marry, but there are three conditions. No kids, no dogs and no in-laws!" Abby, I can live without kids, and I suppose I could get rid of my two dogs, but what am I supposed to do with my parents?

This man has never met them and says he doesn't care if he never does, because the only people he's ever had trouble with were his in-laws.

I could bend your ear for hours about this man, but maybe this is enough to go on. He says I am the first woman he's ever proposed marriage to. (The two he married asked him.) How do you size him up, Abby?

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Not too long ago, a young boy celebrated his 14th birthday. I'm sure he had a birthday cake. He actually had two because I also baked him one and put 14 candles on it.

This boy was born to me out of wedlock. I was 17 years old and decided I would be best for Stevie if I gave him up for adoption. Stevie is not his name now, but that's the name I gave him for the short time he was mine. I have no regrets because I know that my son has a wonderful home with parents who love him. To them I want to say, thank you for opening up your hearts and home to my son. I send my dearest love to you, and him.

Dreams of Today... Realities of Tomorrow

The crowded school auditorium is hushed as the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" fill the air with excitement and anticipation as each graduating student marches proudly down the aisle in the traditional cap and gown.
Some of these young people are our future doctors, scientists, poets and presidents. Others will operate our factories or farm our land. Whatever the endeavor, each will leave his or her mark upon our world. Through them, the dreams of today shall become the realities of tomorrow.
As we honor our new graduates, let us praise God as He continues to guide them along their chosen paths and strengthens them with His loving touch.

FROM THE PULPIT

Making a joyful noise

By REV. MARK SCHULZ S.T.D.

Christians are people of faith, hope and optimism. One of the marks of Christian worship is singing.

We sing our thanks and praise to God. "Safely through another week God has brought us on our way," "How Great Thou art." We sing even when hurt or sorrow is our portion. "Lead kindly light amid the encircling gloom" or Rock of Ages...let me hide myself in Thee". Even the lisp-ing child sings. "Jesus loves me, this I know".

We have good reason for our faith, our joy. Genesis 1:24 tells us God made us in His image. More than this, Jesus Christ, Son of God, assures us of God's love; a love so complete, that God gave His only Son, to us humans, to all of us, to help us to know how to live.

The writer of 2. Peter 1:4 tells us we can become "partakers of divine nature". St. Paul urged Christians to realize "...you are God's temple and God's Spirit dwells in you". Cor. 3:16.

With these truths resident in our consciousness, why not sing! In daily life problems are solved, temptations are neutralized, discouragements are surmounted, flagging energies are revived; and so often the so-called impossible becomes possible: because we experience the Holy Spirit within us.

We have good reason for our faith, our joy.

-Rt. Rev. Mark Schulz

There is the story of a coach who trained a team of Christian athletes. Often, when energies lagged, he would call — "Practice the presence of God." The team would pause to achieve the experience, then burst into renewed energy.

Who can forget the story of Ignatius Loyola's recovery from a knee shattered by cannon shot. For days in pain and fever he was heard to cry out, "I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me." Philipians 4:13. His organization, The Jesuits, have freely given their lives to this day.

The Christian faith enables us to face the issues of life. It was H. Emerson Fosdick who insisted "A Christian should not have an inferiority complex. People of the Christian faith build strong community ties. A Christian community is a good place to live and to rear a family." Why not, when people feel the love and presence of the spirit of God!

This dynamic of the Christian faith produces a social consciousness of Christian love — agape — creative goodwill; call it what you will. From all Christian groups, of whatever creed or race, people give millions of dollars each year to ameliorate disaster suffering, or build hospitals, health clinics, schools, agriculture aids; all in creative goodwill, Christian love. More than this, thousands of men and women give their lives in Christian faith and service, to express the Christian dynamic of creative goodwill, in the "inner cities", here and abroad, often pioneering in new areas where the Good News has not been heard, to tell of the love of God where it has not yet been heard.

With all this faith, hope, creative goodwill, why not sing loud Hosannas? When the symphony orchestra and the great choir sings Beethoven's "Joyful, Joyful, we adore Thee. God of glory, Lord of love", it seems that all nature joins with the multitude in the prayer and praise of song.

Rt. Rev. Mark Schulz S.T.D. is a Bishop at the St. John Chrysostom Cathedral at 2743 Country Club Rd., Sanford.

"There is a fascination with Vietnam," says Robert Seiple, "but nobody wants to really talk about."

Seiple, however, does.

He is the president of World Vision, the huge evangelical relief and development arm. And he knows Vietnam, first as a combat pilot with 300 missions during the war, and now as head of the Protestant aid group confronting the massive needs of a people who were both friend and enemy.

Seiple wants the American people to begin talking about it, taking steps to end the nation's continued grudge against the Vietnamese, to restore diplomatic relations and to lift the embargo on trade with Vietnam.

Throughout the period since the end of the war, the U.S. government has allowed some humanitarian aid by groups such as World Vision. The Quakers, through the American Friends Service Committee, World Relief, the aid arm of the National Association of Evangelicals, and the Church World Service, relief and development arm of the National Council of Churches.

Phony vitamins are cause for concern

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please comment on substances claimed by health-food advocates to be "vitamins."

DEAR READER: Real vitamins are trace elements essential to human metabolism. In the past, non-vitamins or phony vitamins have been touted to cure various ailments. Such substances include:

Vitamin BT is not a vitamin and is abundant in animal tissue. More familiarly known as carnitine, it was discovered in 1948 and was originally believed to be a vitamin; subsequent scientific studies have proved that it is not a dietary essential.

Vitamin P is not a vitamin. The designation "vitamin" was withdrawn when the compound, now recognized as a mixture called bioflavonoids, was discovered not to be essential for humans. Bioflavonoids were discovered in 1936 and, at that time, were believed to cure scurvy and help prevent colds and flu. These claims have not been substantiated by scientific testing.

Vitamin Q is a substance that purportedly aids blood coagulation. It is not now recognized as a vitamin or an essential nutrient.

Vitamin U, known by the chemical name metanolic acid, has no known metabolic function. It is not now recognized as a vitamin, although it was, upon its discovery, thought to cure ulcers.

Vitamin B-15, known by the chemical name pangamic acid, is neither a vitamin nor a nutrient. It was discovered in 1949, and its investigators claimed that it played a role in reproduction and was useful in treating a wide variety of conditions including heart disease, glaucoma and liver inflammation. Reputable scientific studies have proved that it has no known role in treating illness or maintaining health.

Vitamin B-17 (laetrile) a substance extracted from apricot pits, enjoyed short-lived popularity a few years ago as a cure for cancer. No reputable scientific study has shown any benefit from it. In fact, because laetrile contains cyanide, it has caused cyanide poisoning in patients.

It's all too easy for unscrupulous promoters to pin the label "vitamin" on any quack cure. The alert consumer should shy away from unsupported health claims, reserving real vitamins for their proven benefits — and only in the

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
Many players use the two-over-one game force, in which the responder to an opening bid commits his side to a game contract when he bids a new suit at the two-level. So in today's deal North's response of two hearts alerted South that they were on their way to game. North's raise to three spades set the trump suit. Four clubs and four diamonds were cue-bids, and the redouble of four diamonds showed second-round control in that suit. That made it easy for North to ask for aces. Since they were playing key-card Blackwood, South's response of five spades showed two of the five key cards, plus the queen of spades. The play was easy. Declarer won dummy's ace of diamonds and played two rounds of trumps and then the K-Q of clubs. He ruffed a diamond, discarded a diamond on dummy on the ace of clubs, and then led a heart to dummy's 10. East had to win the queen and either lead a heart away from his king or give declarer a sluff and a ruff for his contract. East had no way of knowing, but he would have been better served if he had not doubled diamonds. If West could be persuaded to try a heart for his opening lead, the slam would fall. And in the absence of any other bidding action by East, the double of a final slam contract would ask partner to lead the first suit bid by dummy. But if South held J-6 of hearts and two little diamonds, the diamond lead would be needed to defeat the slam.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
May 19, 1990
There is a strong likelihood you may take a trip of considerable distance in the year ahead. It will be to a destination you have been longing to visit.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Because you'll be able to deal with the realities of life effectively today, you might be called upon to help a friend solve a dilemma that's a bit too much for him/her. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This is one of those unusual days when you are likely to function better under a bit of pressure than you will if everything is going smoothly. Don't be afraid of challenges.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) An old friend who presently resides at a considerable distance from you might try to get in touch with you today. He/she has something to tell you that's of mutual interest.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Success in your endeavor is likely today, but in order to achieve it may require a second or even a third effort. Be persistent and consistent.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Others may be talking behind your back today, but don't let this upset you. If you could tune in on their conversations, you'd be flattered by what's being said.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your most ambitious objectives have excellent chances of being fulfilled today. Dedicate your efforts to these primary targets, because tomorrow you might not be as lucky.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you have a business matter to discuss with another today, don't do it in businesslike surroundings. It'll work out better if you conduct your affairs in a social setting.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Make an attempt today to finalize matters that are meaningful to you financially. If you let things dangle until a later date, it could affect the profit picture.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) This could be one of your better problem solving days and this will quickly become obvious to persons with whom you'll be involved, that's why your suggestions will carry a lot of weight.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A venture in which you're presently involved that appears to be working rather well can still be improved upon to produce additional benefits.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You could be extremely lucky today through an arrangement you have with a friend. Although it will accomplish a material purpose, it will be achieved in a round about manner.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't discount your hunches today, especially in matters that could enhance your reputation or status. Your intuition might be able to provide you with a better game plan than you practically can.
