Half 'Mork & Mindy' Cast Is Lopped Off

By YERINON SCOTT
 HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — It is a sacred television maxim that you don't tamper with a hit series, but "Mork & Mindy" has undergone a major overhaul during its second hiatus in which half the cast was lopped off. Gone are Conrad Janis and Elizabeth Kerr who played Mindy's father and grandmother, respectively. In what apparently is a bid to attract a larger segment of youthful viewers, the move is unusual in that "Mork and Mindy" was the most highly rated new show of the 1978-79 season, seldom out of the top 10 and not infrequently in the No. 1 spot. The series is produced by Larry Marshall whose "Laverne and Shirley" and "Happy Days" sitcoms have been raging successes. In place of the elderly Janis and Kerr, the ABC show is bringing in Jay Thomas and Gina Hacht to play the brother-sister proprietors of an Italian delicatessen. Also added is Jim Stahl in the person of Mindy's stuffed-shirt cousin. "Mork & Mindy" moreover, will begin its second season with a million dollar hour-long fantasy episode including some spectacular special effects. Robin Williams (Mork) and Pam Dawber, who plays Mindy, had questioned changing the show's focus. But after four new episodes Pam has concluded the series will be as good or better than it was in its premiere season. "Robin and I wondered why they make such drastic changes," said Pam. "You don't tamper with success. I think they're looking for more story potential with younger people. We really miss Elizabeth and Conrad. They were great fun to work with. But I think the network wanted to involve Mindy with friends her own age. They also wanted to get rid of the music store set. It was static and hard to shoot." The essentials of the series will remain the same. Mork from Ore will continue to attempt to adjust to living on earth with his benefactor Mindy. No one seems concerned that Mork and Mindy — both young, both single, both attractive — live together. "I guess I'm the only unmarried girl on the tube living with a man," Pam said, "except for the two girls living with a bachelor on 'The Mary Tyler Moore Show.'"

 "There's just a hint of romance between Mork and Mindy with affectionate exchanges at the end of some of the episodes. We have only a little sexual innuendo going. But it's made pretty clear Mork sleeps upstairs."
 Williams is clearly the star of the show. Viewers tune in to catch his imaginative flights of improvisation. But Pam, a 34-year-old fresh-faced native of Detroit has collected her own fans. She doesn't mind playing the comedy foil to Williams as long as Mindy remains a believable character. "I have to be very observant during rehearsals," she said. "Robin keeps changing things. It's necessary for me to be aware of the rhythm of what he's doing. During story conferences I usually just sit and listen. The show is written by men with a male point of view. They do allow me some input. I speak up when they have Mindy saying or doing something that doesn't suit her character."
 "When we began the show, they didn't have a concept for either character. They hired me and Robin before they had a script, so Mindy is still developing. The producers wrote Mindy's character around me."
 "They let me choose all of Mindy's clothes which are a little more sweet than my own tastes."
 "I want Mindy to be with it, a modern girl. I'm making a mistake if she's for Gidget."
 "It was odd when I first saw the set of Mindy's apartment. It just happened to be in the style of my cabin in upstate New York. And they have Mindy driving a Jeep, which is what I drive at my cabin."
 Pam reminisces the fact that Williams is the star of the show and is almost grateful that she doesn't share his superstar public identity.

Dozen Projects In Works

CBS Gung-Ho On Films

LINDA LAVIN
 BONNIE FRANKLIN

By PEPPER O'BRIEN
 CBS has gone hung-ry on TV movies, with more than a dozen projects in the works. The latest announcements are features starring Steve Guttenberg, Bonnie Franklin and Linda Lavin, and one to be penned by Oscar-winner Budd Schulberg. Guttenberg, last seen in the flop "Billy," will play a blind young law student in "To Place the Wind." Based on Harold Kren's autobiography of the same name, "To Place the Wind" is described as both heart-warming and humorous, as the young man struggles to be treated like a normal person at Harvard Law School, and faces an endless battle with the sighted world.
 Also starring are Betty White, Quaid, Mark Taylor, Lisa Eilander, and Calista Flockhart. It's being shot on location in Cambridge, Mass.
 Bonnie Franklin plays "The Remarkable Mrs. Sanger," and her subsequent trial under the New York State obscenity laws of the time. A couple of seasons back, PBS aired a similar special on Sanger's life and work.
 "Alice" star Linda Lavin will be joined by Richard Jaeckel, Mayf Nutter, Nicholas Pryor, drama based on the novel "Point Blank," by former cop Sunny Grosso and Phil Rosenberg.
 "Point Blank" is a fictionalized version of a headline-making incident, when an honest policeman was accidentally caught in a trap set by a special investigative unit. Author Grosso was partnered with Eddie Egan when the two worked on the famed "French Connection" case.
 Over at ABC, Brenda Vaccaro has been signed to star in "Before and After," a two-hour movie about a woman whose preoccupation with weight loss weakens her marriage as she enters the world of slenderizing mania. Vaccaro and crew are on location in Seattle, Wash.

 NBC has just about wrapped up the casting of "The Last Convertible," a six-hour miniseries based on Anton Myrer's best-selling romantic novel. Perry King will play flamboyant Russ Currier; Bruce Boydlatner is the rock-solid and dependable George Viridan; Edward Albert the ambitious Tom "Dad" Daltreple and John Shea as Terrence Garrigan.
 Deborah Raffin will play Radcliffe student Chris Ferris, with whom the "Five Fingers" are all in love. And Kim Darby will appear as Ann Rowan, who works Garrigan, only to become involved with F. Paul McTreed (to be cast) during her husband's wartime absence.
 The story covers the years 1948-1956 in the lives of five Harvard roommates and deals with the effects WW II has on them.
 Tony Danza, who won both of his professional fights during the hiatus from "Taxi," has taken up another hobby. One shouldn't interrupt him between 11 a.m. and 12 noon each day. He will be practicing his piano lessons.
 Budd Schulberg, who won an Oscar for his screenplay of "On the Waterfront," is making a rare venture into television with a four-hour

HUD's Harris Replaces Him

Califano Resigns As Secretary Of HEW

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter today accepted the resignation of HUD Secretary Joseph Califano, the first top official to fall in Carter's high administration shakedown, sources said.
 Housing and Urban Development Secretary Patricia Harris was named to replace Califano's job as head of the massive Department of Health, Education and Welfare.
 The success-oriented Califano had accepted Califano's resignation, offered with those of Harris and 42 other Cabinet members, on July 10. Califano's advisers this week — and that Califano and Carter would exchange letters later in the day.
 There was an unflattering word on who might replace Harris as head of HUD.

Califano's going had been hotly rumored in Washington circles all week. But House Speaker Thomas O'Neill, D-Mass., today quashed reports that controversial Energy Secretary James Schlesinger may fall quickly.
 O'Neill said Schlesinger's job is safe until at least the end of this year's congressional session, set to end in October.
 Califano, 48, has headed the Department of Health, Education and Welfare — the government's biggest agency — since Jan. 20, 1977.
 Tuesday afternoon, after the House Ways and Means Committee vote in favor of the administration's hospital cost containment legislation, Califano offered the usual praise to the committee members for their "outstanding work" and then added this somewhat puzzling message:

"President Carter has provided strong and consistent national leadership on the need to curb waste and contain costs in the hospital industry. That leadership is now paying off."
 The praise for Carter struck many as oddly out of place in the context of action by a congressional committee.
 Yet the picture one had of Califano was not of a harried bureaucrat desperately attempting to save his job. Califano, if he was nothing else, was his own man — independent, strong-minded, personally wealthy and a top-flight lawyer with ties to one of Washington's most highly-powered firms.
 He closed most recently with the White House staff over the proposed new Department of Education, one of Carter's pet projects. There were reports the White House enlisted Vice President Walter Mondale to rebuke Califano.
 In addition, Califano chiefly was responsible for getting Carter to expand his national health insurance plan — a move which, once again, White House aides because of the change made the plan look more like one proposed by Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass.
 Califano's anti-smoking crusade alienated much of the South's tobacco-growing states — southern Carter's political base.
 The overbearing abrasiveness of the Brooklyn-born Califano also was a problem with the so-called "Georgia Mafia" at the White House — but not nearly as serious as his move to cut off federal assistance to state universities in North Carolina.

Crowd Raps, And Praises Principal

By STEPHEN CARLISIO

A group of 100 teachers, parents and staff turned Wednesday either to praise the principal of the Longwood Elementary School as a superior administrator or to denigrate her as an "unfriendly, hostile" administrator on her faculty.
 The Seminole County school board elected to take no action in the case of the school's principal, Longwood Elementary School. However, a local school teacher Paul Nelson did instruct the superintendent to investigate the "serious allegations" and make a report to the board at the next scheduled meeting Aug. 6.

Rep. Kelly's Overspending 'Under Study'

By HUGH THOMSON
 Herald Staff Writer

A spokesman for U.S. Rep. Richard Kelly's office in Washington said today that the decision by the House Administration Committee to hold Kelly personally liable for overspending his budget by some $130,000 was still under study by Kelly's office and several agencies were under consideration to resolve the matter.
 The overspending was discovered in December when a box of correspondence containing over 100 unanswered constituent letters and several large unpaid bills was found at Kelly's Washington office.
 The spokesman, who did not wish to be named, said Congressmen Kelly is not laying the blame on anyone for the situation. However, a former aide was named by the spokesman as largely responsible for the problem.
 A former administrative assistant to Congressman Kelly, Stanley Armstrong, told Kelly the box with the correspondence and the unpaid bills had just been found, the spokesman said.
 The spokesman said it was Stanley Armstrong's duties, as an administrative assistant, to administer the office and to see that accounts were paid on time. What Armstrong told Kelly when the box was found was, according to the spokesman, "Look, these are unpaid bills. I've just found out about."

De-Mucking Work Diverts Traffic In Casselberry

By JANE CASSELBERY
 Herald Staff Writer

Traffic on busy Winter Park Drive in Casselberry is being diverted around a massive de-mucking project now underway.
 Casselberry City Engineer Kenneth Eilers says the amount of muck to be removed from beneath the road will exceed the 2,000 cubic yards previously estimated. The muck will be replaced by 2,500 cubic yards of clean fill.
 Contractor for this project and three other related projects in the city totaling $10,880.91 is Base Paving and Construction Company of Sanford. Crews are working to remove muck from a 340 linear foot portion of Winter Park Drive where it crosses a large bay head (a swampy area).
 This is approximately 25 percent of the entire 1,300 linear feet recapping, and reconstruction project, which will cost $81,786.34, according to Eilers.
 He said that the underlying muck had caused the road to sink three to four feet. "It has been gradual, not enough to be dangerous, but has caused the paving to crack," Eilers said.
 The repaving project runs from Marigold Road north almost to Queen's Mirror Circle. Eilers hopes the project will be completed by the end of August, prior to the opening of nearby South Seminole Middle School and Casselberry Elementary, as the resulting increase of traffic by school buses and other vehicles would compound the problem.
 In comparison with the paving project, Base Paving will construct a 300-foot-wide asphalt, bicycle-and-foot path along the west side of Winter Park Drive, from Marigold north 2500 feet to the entrance of Casselberry Elementary. Cost of that project will be approximately $12,530.
 With additional use of bicycles as a result of the high cost and shortage of gasoline, Eilers hopes to obtain federal assistance for the construction of other bicycle paths along other streets such as Seminola Boulevard, Red Bay Road, Queen's Mirror Circle and Jasmine Road.
 A third project awarded Base Paving is the city's installation of three 36-inch drainage pipes on South Lake Triples Drive between Overlook Drive and Thomas Drive, Eilers said.
 "We had a flooding problem there last year and the road was under water," he said, "and we think this will relieve it." Price tag on that project is $23,845.
 "This is the last set of pipes to be installed as part of the city's Shed Master Drainage Plan," said Eilers. The 500-acre area includes drainage from Grassy Lake into Lake Triplett, as well as Sandpiper Apartments, Overlook Drive, South Road, Oxford Road Extension and Winter Park Drive.
 The plan was implemented with donations from developers and the city.

Sheriff Still Seeks Funds

Seminole County Sheriff John Polk said today he has lost the first skirmish but does not intend to quit the battle for additional funds for his department.
 Polk was dealt a blow Wednesday during budget hearings with the county commissioners when eight of the 12 deputies the sheriff sought to add to his staff were cut from consideration. Polk's request for a computer programmer and a liaison were also denied by the county under a tentative department budget of about $4,200,000. In Polk's budget request, he sought over $4.3 million.
 Both the national and the state averages fall around 1.9 deputies per 1,000 residents, he said.
 As budget hearings on the sheriff's department enter their second day, Polk said the difference between what he is seeking and what the commissioners are willing to fund amounts to about $141,195, almost all of which can be attributed to the salaries of additional personnel being sought.
 During Wednesday's hearings, Polk said he agreed to shave off some $26,000 requested for three new patrol cars and equipment.

Federal Mediator To Aid In School Talks Deadlock

A federal mediator has been called in to iron out the differences between the teachers' union and the school management team and get the ball rolling again at the bargaining table.
 Both teams are scheduled to meet with Margaret Rose, the federal mediator at 1 p.m. on Monday at Lyman High School. The session is designed to reach a compromise between the two teams and is closed to the press.
 A communication breakdown developed on July 10 when the teams met for two hours to discuss salaries. Both teams walked away two hours later with completely different accounts of what had happened.
 Gene Grooms, executive director of the Seminole Education Association (SEA), said both teams reached an agreement of a 15 percent increase in beginning salaries of Seminole County teachers.
 The beginning salary for teachers with a bachelor's degree is $9,100. SEA is saying that salary will be increased to $10,465.
 On the school management side, Ernest Cowley, chief negotiator, accused the teachers' negotiating teams with using "trickery tactics" and he denied the 15 percent had been agreed upon.
 Besides the question of salaries, the teams will have to resolve the items of the school calendar for the 1979-80 school year and health and medical insurance coverage, previously tabled.

Federal Mediator To Aid In School Talks Deadlock

In a letter to the school board dated July 13, teacher Mary Bakk wrote about the cloak and dagger activities by the administration.
 "...the office staff and one third of the teaching staff are involved in watching and reporting other teachers' activities, the eavesdropping on the telephone and intercepting carrier mail," Bakk wrote.
 Beverly A. Myton, bookkeeper at the school for the past year, said she wished to dispel the negative publicity surrounding the locked phones at the school. She said a system was implemented whereby employees had to log all outgoing calls because of the numerous long distance calls and calls to information.
 "In December, 1978, $20 worth of long distance calls to Connecticut had been made at 6:30 p.m.," Mrs. Myton said. "I purchased locks for the telephones to be used when office personnel left for the day."
 Should there be an emergency, the janitors had keys to offices and could utilize the unlocked phones, she said.
 After hearing the pro and con testimony, Mrs. Coberly, a thin woman with silver hair and wire gold rim glasses, voiced her

NATION IN BRIEF

Schlesinger Says Kennedy 'Trying To Redeem Himself'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Historian Arthur M. Schlesinger says the Chappaquiddick incident actually has made Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., more qualified for the presidency.

"Ever since Chappaquiddick, he has been trying to redeem himself for those hours of panic," said Schlesinger, one of a number of notable interviewees for an article in the August issue of McCall's magazine.

"I think this ceaseless effort at self-redemption may be for Teddy Kennedy what polo was to FDR," Schlesinger said. "It will make him a better president" if he decides to run.

The article was released Wednesday on the 10th anniversary of the car accident in which Mary Jo Kopechne was killed near Chappaquiddick, Mass. She was a passenger in a car that Kennedy was driving that ran off the road and into a small body of water known as Foucha Pond.

Chrysler Needs Rescuing?

DETROIT (UPI) — United Auto Workers union President Douglas Fraser has asked the federal government to rescue cash-poor Chrysler Corp. with an "investment to save people."

Fraser, who led a UAW bargaining team to Chrysler Wednesday, also said the company will be exempted from consideration as a strike target in contract talks this fall involving 750,000 U.S. auto workers.

There are no plans at present, he said, to excuse the smallest and poorest of the Big Three car companies from the substantial economic demands the union presented earlier this week to General Motors Corp. and the Ford Motor Co.

Cameras In Court Limited

MIAMI (UPI) — In the first legal restriction placed on Florida's cameras-in-the-courtroom policy, the Third District Court of Appeal has ruled that cameras and sound equipment may be banned in certain cases.

The decision stems from the case of Adellita Green, whose lawyer said she became so frightened by television cameras, she was unable to aid him in her defense.

The 17-page decision released Wednesday said: "Coverage of a criminal trial carries with it, at times, the risk of rendering a borderline competent defendant incompetent to stand trial. Such a defendant must be handled with special care by the trial court."

Cancer-Causers In Dye

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite some changed formulas in recent months, there still are about 20 chemicals in hair dye that should be considered cancer-causers in hair dyes being used by millions of Americans, Consumers Union said today.

It also said some hair dye reformulators — prompted by National Cancer Institute research in 1977 and 1978 — have resulted in substitute ingredients that may be just as dangerous as the ones they replaced.

The nonprofit product-testing organization made its allegations in a lengthy article in the August issue of its magazine, Consumer Reports.

Pot Grows On Busy Street

RUTLAND, Vt. (UPI) — Vermont is known as the Green Mountain state, but Rutland officials were red-faced this week when they found the wrong type of green growing on a traffic island.

Police said an unknown gardener was growing a dozen marijuana plants alongside the busy street.

Authorities confiscated the illegal plants and destroyed them. They said the planter where the pot was found normally contains flowers.

disput at the allegations: "Wow is very, very to say," she said in a low booming voice. "There are very, very many opinions expressed tonight. You can say only one thing. They are definite and either pro or con and no intermediary."

She disputed allegations she or members of her staff slept on the teachers by eavesdropping on the telephone ("I don't have time") or that she reprimanded teachers in the presence of other.

Thursday morning, Mrs. Coberly described last night's allegations as part of the job of an administrator.

"This is just one of those things you go through in management," Mrs. Coberly said. "I don't have to use Miss Clairo to make my hair white," she said. "At least, I still have my sense of humor."

The number of teachers who are against her are a "minority," Mrs. Coberly said. Twenty-six of the 31 faculty members signed the petition in her support, she said.

School board members agreed they were confused by having heard testimony countering testimony.

"She (Mrs. Coberly) is an individual with a very, very strong personality," Alan Keesh, school board member said. "She is one who is opinionated but more often than not correct in her opinion. She is not afraid to take action on her opinion."

"On occasion, she is not as diplomatic as she might hope and we would hope but I have been convinced that there's nothing more important to her than the children in her school other than her own family."

William Kroll, school board member, said no one had voiced any allegation that Mrs. Coberly is incompetent as an administrator, just pointed out "her personality conflicts."

Wednesday, the school board held a grievance with a teacher who was accused of being tactless, impatient and too abrasive with students, teachers and parents, Kroll said.

"That teacher lost his contract," Kroll said. "But there are separate rules for teachers and principals."

'Inferior Schooling' Gripe 'Unfounded'

By SHARON CARRASCO
Herald Staff Writer

A Longwood woman's complaint that her two sons received an inferior education at Longwood Elementary School was ruled unfounded Wednesday by the Seminole County School Board.

But Norma Tyree of 348 E. Palmetto Ave., Longwood, said after the hearing she feels "relieved" and has "fulfilled my obligation to my community" in making the school board aware of the problem.

"It's public now," Mrs. Tyree said. "I have voiced my concerns. It is now the board's responsibility."

Ned Julian, school board attorney, recommended on June 13 the hearing be held since Mrs. Tyree did not seek any "specific relief" from her complaint.

Mrs. Tyree has sought to have an investigation conducted concerning the administrative practices at the elementary school and her two sons, who now are enrolled in a private school.

Mrs. Tyree faced the school board Wednesday and gave a chronological account of her experience at Longwood Elementary School since the family had moved here in October, 1975.

When she first enrolled Paul in the second grade, Mrs. Tyree informed school officials, her son had a reading problem. But no tests to determine his reading capability were administered to him in 1975, she said.

"During the school year, Paul got As and Bs and a few Cs," Mrs. Tyree said. "He showed progress during the first quarter. But it was obvious he wasn't learning anything or being introduced to new skills."

She claims her son Paul was tested for learning disabilities while a student at Longwood Elementary School without her knowledge. Her son attended that school from October, 1975 to June, 1976, she said.

Mrs. Tyree said Paul was transferred into a special class for learning disabilities and then later to a regular classroom in the same school year.

Shirley Wilson, teacher of her son's class, told her, "If I get them off the ceiling and into the chairs by the end of the year, I will have accomplished something," Mrs. Tyree testified.

Later on in the hearing, Mrs. Wilson vehemently disclaimed that conversation with Mrs. Tyree, saying she "holds her profession too high to say anything like that."

In her other complaints, Mrs. Tyree said her son read the same second grade book two years in a row in his remedial reading class and "no him, this spelled failure."

Mrs. Tyree told the school board her son would try to stay home on the days he had a class with James Byrd.

"He told me Mr. Byrd screamed and yelled and it gave him a headache," Mrs. Tyree said.

In the case of her other son, Douglas began kindergarten and to attend speech therapy class, she said. Later, she found Douglas had missed 13 out of 30 speech sessions without her knowledge, Mrs. Tyree said.

In conclusion of her account, Mrs. Tyree charged Longwood school officials didn't abide by the Florida statutes. Before a child is placed in any exceptional class, he must be given a physical, blood test and urinalysis, but this wasn't done, she said.

Superintendent of Schools William Laver disclaimed Mrs. Tyree's charge that no tests were taken.

"The staff has offered every opportunity for testing," Laver said. "A permit for screening or the physical was signed by Tyree."

The lines of communication between Mrs. Tyree and the Longwood school staff were open at all times, he said.

"If there's been more parent-teacher conferences with Mrs. Tyree than in all of Seminole County put together," Laver said. "If you can find where we are not in compliance with the state law or the administrative practices of this county," Laver said, "then sue us."

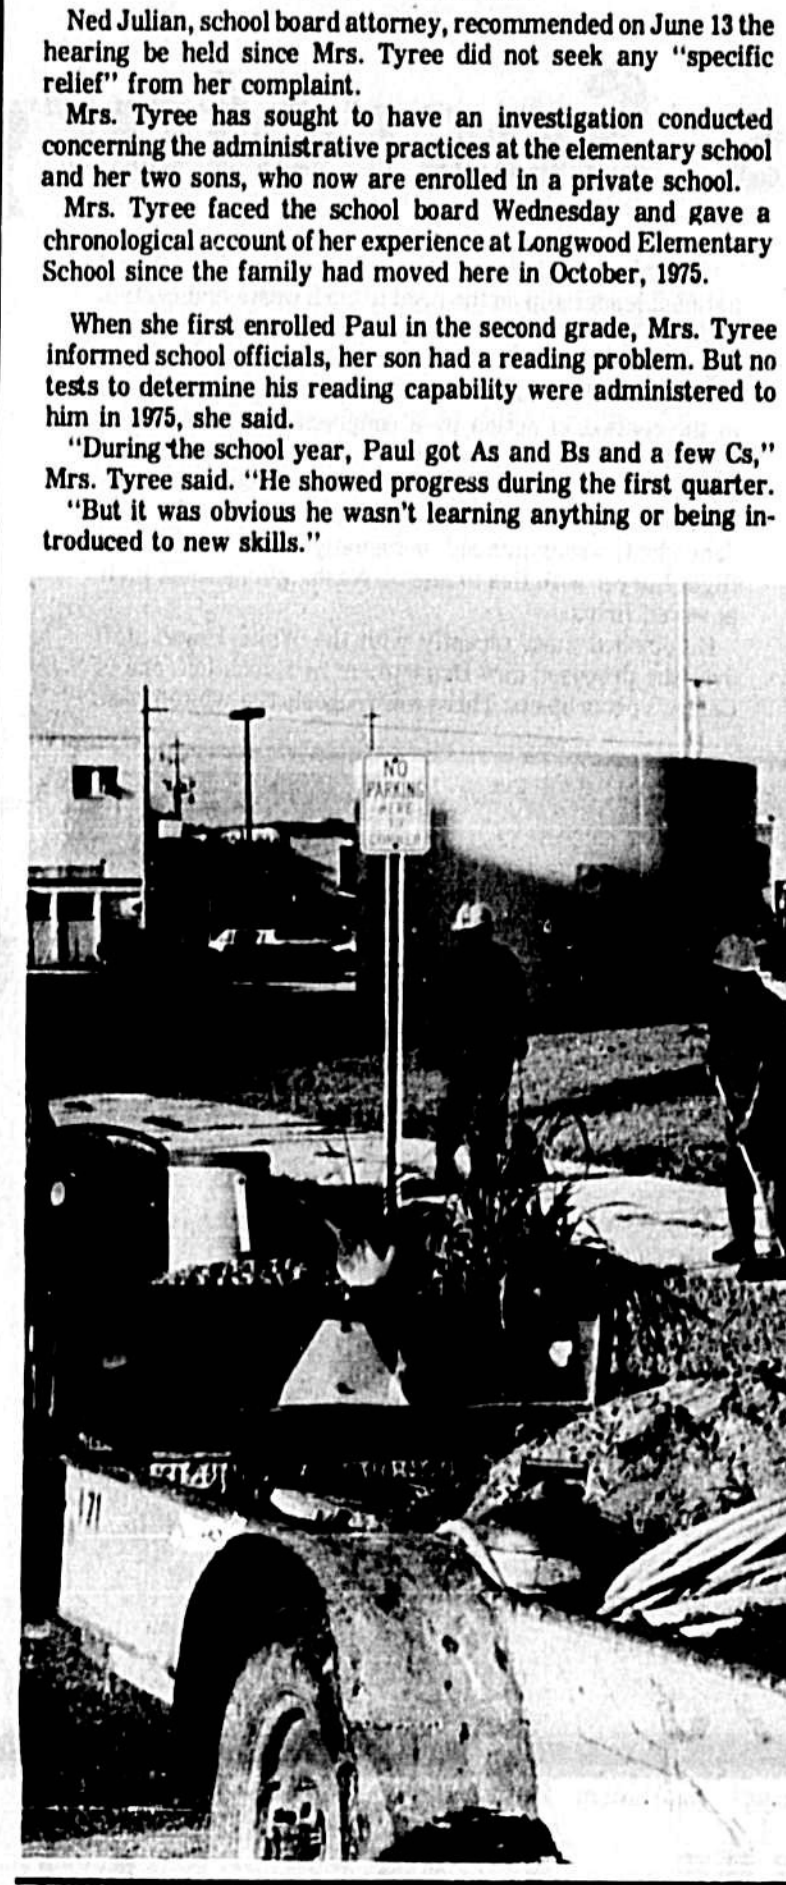

Prior to the board's decision, William Carpenter, Mrs. Tyree's attorney, drew a negative response from the audience when he said Paul had been "relegated to a junk pile bunch of kids."

Arlita Coberly, principal of Longwood Elementary School, defended her teachers following Mrs. Tyree's presentation to the board.

"What they do to me or what they say about me is one thing," Mrs. Coberly said. "But I don't want any disparaging remarks made about my teachers."

She called out by name the teachers who'd been mentioned by Mrs. Tyree and she publicly complimented or thanked them for their service.

To Mrs. Tyree and other parents, teachers in attendance who don't support her, Mrs. Coberly left this message: "To each and everyone of you people, whether you like it or not, the programs at Longwood Elementary have been built around the children."

Nicaraguan Surrender Being Negotiated

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — A Sandinista emissary and the commander of the battered national guard today agreed to negotiate the formal surrender of Nicaragua under the auspices of Costa Rican President Rodrigo Carazo in San Jose.

Gen. Federico Mejia — inheriting control of the government with the hasty departure of Francisco Urcuyo Malianos Wednesday — met with the Sandinista emissary and Catholic Archbishop Miguel Obando y Bravo of Managua until 4 a.m. EDT today at the bunker office of ousted strongman Anastasio Somoza.

Father Bizmark Caballo, the archbishop's secretary, said the talks had bogged down over Sandinista demands for "an unconditional surrender." Mejia first wanted to know what guarantees would be given for the safety of his troops before agreeing to a cease-fire.

Caballo said that both sides agreed to resume negotiations under the auspices of Carazo in San Jose. The Sandinista representative would be his foreign minister, Miguel D'Escoto. Caballo said he did not know who the guard representative would be, but that he would be sent from Managua.

On Wednesday, Mejia flew to Leon, where the Junta of National Reconciliation had set up a temporary capital, and later conferred with the Sandinista emissary, Alberto de Palo Alto, by telephone.

"I told him we are not negotiating anything," Palo Alto said in a radio report to his commanders, monitored by UPI. "I told him we are demanding your surrender to avoid a blood bath because our offensive cannot be stopped now... take it or leave it."

If the guardians surrendered and turned their weapons over to the rebels, the Sandinista high command will guarantee the lives and properties of the national guardmen," the junta said in a dispatch from Costa Rica.

The archbishop of Managua and president of Red Cross (Israel) Reyes and designated members of diplomatic corps may serve as guarantors of this pledge, the dispatch said.

'Demanding surrender to avoid a blood bath...take it or leave it'

Palo Alto said he told the archbishop, "We are not looking for you to be a mediator because there is nothing to mediate. We want you to be a witness. If there is a blood bath after this, you will know who is responsible."

Caballo confirmed the radio report and said the archbishop was acting as a "guarantor" of the peace terms and, "he's trying to bring reconciliation to the two sides."

With guardians surrendering, defecting or fleeing, Urcuyo fled Nicaragua less than 48 hours after Somoza's departure and 36 hours after Urcuyo vowed to serve out Somoza's term until 1981.

He was escorted by guardsmen to Las Mercedes Airport Wednesday evening and boarded a small Cessna plane. Guatemala radio and television reported Urcuyo had landed there, but officials refused to confirm the report.

Washington recalled U.S. Ambassador Lawrence A. Pezzullo to protest Urcuyo's betrayal of the peace plan under which he was to turn power over to the Sandinistas.

Hours before Urcuyo's departure, the State Department said, "It looks like events are back on track."

The Sandinista-backed junta issued a proclamation in San Jose declaring it will pay Nicaragua's $1.3 billion debt once it draws up a refinancing package and that foreign investments will be protected. It also said it would seize Somoza's wide-ranging interests.

Palo Alto arrived at what was Somoza's bunker in a black American-made sedan late Wednesday night. The car flashed its lights several times, then Palo Alto and several aides were admitted to the fenced-in complex.

Sandinista National Liberation Front High command would issue a cease-fire order to its units. The mechanism for implementation of a cease-fire would then be worked out.

All garrisons wishing to adhere to the cease-fire should run up a white flag and begin to hand over their arms.

In radio broadcasts heard throughout Nicaragua, the Sandinistas proclaimed their victory in the war to end the Somoza family's 43-year dynasty — a conflict that has claimed 150,000 lives in the past 18 months and led the country in ruins.

According to monitored Sandinista and national guard radio dispatches, hundreds of demoralized, exhausted guardmen Wednesday surrendered on their own or openly declared their allegiance to the victorious Sandinistas.

Several hundred guardmen commanded by two Red Cross planes and forced them to fly to Belize and Guatemala. A third plane was forced to take on additional guardmen and their families before it was allowed to return to Miami.

12 Die In French Alps In Climbing Accidents

CHAMONIX, France (UPI) — Mountain-climbing accidents claimed at least 12 lives in the French Alps near Chamonix Wednesday, police said today.

In the worst of four accidents, seven climbers died, one was missing and feared dead and four seriously injured when they plunged into a crevasse Wednesday while climbing the 12,224-foot Tour Ronde, a peak of Mont Blanc, Europe's highest mountain.

Police said five of the dead were British and the others involved in the accident were West German and French.

Earlier Wednesday, rescue parties recovered the bodies of three French climbers killed when they fell more than 500 yards from another peak in the area during the pre-dawn hours. Two other mountaineers were also killed in two other accidents in the area during the day.

Iranian Leader Is Fired

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini has fired the military police commander who put together an elite "black-clad guard" to protect the Iranian leader since the February revolution that ousted the Shah.

Brig. Gen. Amir Rahimi, 55, told UPI in a telephone call that the report of his firing published in the Bamdad newspaper was correct.

The paper said Khomeini called Rahimi to the Ayatollah's headquarters in the holy city of Qom and dismissed him.

The Cabinet, meeting in special session today, reported they accepted Rahimi's dismissal.

Beware 'Hollow Rhetoric'

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — U. N. refugee officials urged nations attending the world body's conference on Indo-Chinese refugees to keep the conference from becoming a hollow debating session.

The two-day gathering, opening Friday and bringing together about 50 nations the Palais des Nations, will discuss resettlement of 400,000 Indo-Chinese refugees, including Vietnam's "boat people."

But with the Soviet Union, Vietnam, China and the United States attending, U.S. officials warned that a political slugging match would turn the conference into hollow rhetoric.

Fuel Drained From Buses

Church's Gasoline Target Of Thieves

The Northside Baptist Church at 9435 Forest City Road in South Seminole County has had to park its two buses close together with the gas caps facing each other in order to foil the repeated attempts of gasoline thieves, Seminole County deputies report.

Deputies said the church was broken into Wednesday by thieves who apparently were looking for the keys to move the buses apart to get to the gas.

On Saturday, church spokesmen said, the buses were drained of their gas by thieves who struck during the night.

MAN ATTACKED
A 23-year-old Orlando man escaped injury during a scuffle with a knife-wielding assailant outside the Circus-Circus Bar on U.S. Highway 17-92 in Fern Park early Wednesday morning, Seminole County Sheriff's deputies said.

Deputies said Robert Smith was in the parking lot of the bar at about 1 a.m. when an unidentified man came at him with a knife for no apparent reason. Smith was able to avoid the attacker, deputies said.

The attacker, said to be in his early 20's, fled the scene before deputies arrived.

CIVIL SUIT
The following civil suit has been filed with the office of Seminole County civil court clerk Arthur Beckwith seeking damages in excess of $2,500:

Hazel S. Hines is suing G. W. Harrell Equipment, Inc. for damages.

Ms. Hines claims G. W. Harrell Equipment, Inc. indirectly was responsible for injuries she suffered as a result of a fall on Sept. 3, 1978.

According to the suit, the equipment firm was hired to repair a pie case at Rod's Country Kettle Restaurant in Casselberry but did so in such a "negligent" manner as to create a leak. As a result, a puddle of water formulated on the floor, the suit indicates.

Ms. Hines was injured on and about her body and extremities when she slipped in the water and fell, the suit claims. She is seeking damages in excess of $2,500 exclusive of interest and costs.

Daryl M. Mitchell Jr., a minor, and his parents are suing Keith O'Brien and the Allstate Insurance Co. for injuries he suffered in a pedestrian accident.

According to the suit, Mitchell was crossing Celery Avenue at the intersection of Celery and Locust avenues when he was struck by O'Brien's car. The accident occurred on April 18, 1978.

Mitchell charges O'Brien with negligently operating his car, causing him to collide with the minor. As a result, Mitchell claims, he suffered bodily injuries and physical and mental pain.

Besides compensation for injuries, the Mitchells seek reimbursement for medical expenses they have incurred and will incur in the future treatment of their son.

Abortion: Attitudes Virtually Unchanged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The squeaking wheel is supposed to get the grease, but now it appears there has been very little connection between all the noise and the motion of the wagon.

The subject is abortion, about which there has been a heated public debate in recent years. Ever since the Supreme Court ruled in 1973 that abortion is legal in certain circumstances, the battle between the "pro life" opponents and "pro choice" defenders has been mounting in volume and intensity.

An immense amount of money and effort has been expended in the last six years on the abortion issue. There have been demonstrations, rallies, parades and debates. There has been violence and property damage at abortion clinics. Multi-billion dollar federal appropriations have been doled out for months over abortion.

Political campaigns, including the last presidential contest, have become heavily involved in the abortion issue. At least one Senate and several House races reportedly have been decided on the question. At a recent Republican gathering in the Midwest, several politicians volunteered the opinion that abortion has become the most controversial single issue candidates must deal with.

But now comes the Gallup organization with a report on the abortion issue. Its conclusion: "Despite the bitter clashes in recent years between pro and anti-abortion forces, the U.S. public's basic attitudes remain virtually unchanged."

Here is what Gallup found: —In 1975, 21 percent of the public believed abortion should be legal under any circumstances. 54 percent said abortion should be legal "only under certain circumstances" and 22 percent thought it should be "illegal in all circumstances."

—In 1979, 22 percent said all abortions should be legal, 54 percent approved only of abortions in specified cases and 19 percent were for outlawing abortions.

The responses of some of the subgroups in the Gallup sample also were interesting. —For example, Catholics — despite the unwavering opposition of their church to all abortion — do not deviate much from the average national opinion on the subject. Catholic replies showed 17 percent favoring blanket legalization of abortion, 32 percent agreeing some abortions should be legal and 25 percent opposing all abortion.

One category in which there was marked difference of opinion was race. While 23 percent of whites approved of all abortions and 18 percent opposed all, only 13 percent of nonwhites favored it under all circumstances and 32 percent flatly opposed abortion.

Education appears to have a strong influence on opinion about abortion. The greatest approval rating — 32 percent favoring abortion in all circumstances and 56 percent in certain cases — was among college-educated people. The largest disapproval of abortion — 39 percent — was among people with a grade school education.

There is one other statistic that catches the eye: In 1975 only 3 percent of the people Gallup questioned had "no opinion." In 1979, that figure had risen to 5 percent. The pollster doesn't offer an explanation, but that figure certainly doesn't say much for the educational value of the abortion argument on either side.

VIEWPOINT Oil That Binds

By DON GRAFF If politics spawn strange partnerships, consider for a moment the possibilities in economics. It is not easy coming up with more inherently disparate societies than the United States and Saudi Arabia. One is a secular democracy, populous, urban and industrialized, the world's greatest economic and military power. The other is an absolutist theocracy, thinly populated by a people with a lifestyle for the most part more of the 19th than 20th century whose position in the modern world is dependent upon a single natural resource. The tie that binds is, of course, that resource — oil.

Synthetic Fuel Hunt Rests With Oil Firms

WASHINGTON — Panicked by the gasoline shortage and its impact on enraged voters in next year's elections, Jimmy Carter and Congress have suddenly if belatedly decided that the answer to America's oil needs lies in rapid development of synthetic fuels. Unfortunately, the politicians seem determined to fly in the face of history and entrust the major synthetic fuel program to the very people whose greed and shortsightedness have brought us to our present sorry pass.

Fortunately for the free world, and alternative existed: synthetic rubber made from grain-based alcohol. Then as now, alcohol made from farm products had been ignored by the government, thanks partly to intense lobbying by the oil industry. The Rubber Reserve Corp. quickly threw its weight behind alcohol production, and in two years the United States was producing close to 600 million gallons of alcohol, nearly four times the 1942 output.

Aluminum Recycling

Teaching Kids Value Of A Dollar

Lou Dritz (left) gives directions to assistant Willie Patterson, 62, of Sanford at Dritz's aluminum recycling station in Sanford.

By JERRY FRAZIER
Herald Correspondent

Fifty to sixty percent of Lou Dritz's scrap metal business consists of buying and selling recycled aluminum. Customers come from all over central Florida to his place of business, Kessler's Junk Yard, 110 N. Holly Ave., Sanford, he says. "I enjoy seeing mothers bring their children to the 'yard' carrying three or four bags of aluminum cans," he adds. "It teaches the kids the value of a dollar."

Dritz began processing the aluminum about seven years ago. Now, using 20,500 compressor-balers, he said, he processes 80 to 110 tons of aluminum per month. The bales of aluminum, measuring 4-feet by 5-feet by 2-feet and weighing 600 to 1,200 pounds, are trucked three times monthly to scrap-metal brokers. The bales of recycled aluminum then are sold to large aluminum companies.

In addition to aluminum, Dritz buys and sells brass, copper lead, and batteries. He doesn't buy wrecked cars or large appliances. "It takes a half-million dollar investment (for the processing equipment) and I won't live long enough to pay for it."

Dritz, 71, moved to Sanford from Mount Vernon, N. Y. in 1956. He bought out the yard two years later.

Three generations of Dritz have made their living in the scrap metal business, he said. Lou Dritz is the third. "Most people are born into it," he said. "It's a family affair." He then explained that he learned the business from his father and grandfather.

Dritz's wife, Ruth, 69, does the bookkeeping and helps weigh the scrap metal. They've been married 46 years.

Two employees operate the compressor-balers and do most of the heavy work around the scrap yard, he explained.

Dritz spent three weeks in the hospital in January recovering from gunshot wounds suffered during an attempted holdup. He was shot once in the left wrist and lower right chest. A wad of money in his shirt pocket saved his life, stopping the bullet headed for his heart. Dritz suffers from heart palpitations as a result of the shooting.

Attack dogs (he was unwilling to divulge the number) and a six-foot barbed wire security fence encircling the scrap yard now serve to discourage unwanted visitors.

During June there were 316 complaints, with 303 of them cleared. Leading the list of complaints were traffic control, with 47, followed by suspicious person-vehicle at 38.

There were six auto accidents, two complaints of breaking and entering, five of criminal mischief, 28 disturbances, two drunk driver complaints, three lights, 17 cases of larceny, two missing person complaints, and three narcotics investigations.

Other complaints included four reckless driver complaints, three for sexual battery, four for obstructing traffic, six juvenile complaints, and 14 disabled vehicles. Chief Benson said four adults and six juveniles were arrested during the month.

The traffic division of the police department reported that motorists lost a total of $3,310 in property as a result of accidents. There were no fatalities during the month and only one injury-type accident. The traffic division issued 194 warning citations and 64 regular citations.

The police Youth Action Center is continuing its skiing program on a twice weekly basis, the chief noted, adding that contribution was received from the Lake Mary Rotary Club to aid the police department in its diversion program, which channels youths into positive activities instead of potentially dangerous ones.

Carpenter-Roth Rites Solemnized

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride chose for her vows an off-white voile gown fashioned along the Empire silhouette with a sweetheart neckline, long puffed sleeves trimmed with off-white French illusion lace and a matching hemline ruffle.

The bride's headpiece was an off-white picture hat. She carried a bouquet of red roses and baby's breath.

Barbara Gray of Jewett

Trendy Talk Makes Waves For A Fashionable Fall

By ELLIE GROSSMAN
Special to the Herald

NEW YORK (NEA) — Fall "Statements":

1) "Rose, I'm dining at the Alibi's tonight. Tell Hudson to bring the car around at seven and lay out my new black suit, the one with the peplum jacket and the tight skirt. I'll wear it with one of my bowed blouses. No, I'll wear it simply with pearls. Take out several strands. I'll accentuate the length and grace of my neck with a column of pearls. No, forget the pearls. I'll simply wear the gold metallic wide belt that came with the suit and my sterling silver leather stick pin in the lapel. No, no that won't do. Rose... Rose?"

2) "How did you like Marcia's get-up at the engagement party? Was that a laugh and a half? You know, turquoise is a very iffy color to begin with and just because brights are in, I mean... with a snakeskin jacket, no less, and did you believe the sweater with the sequins? They were very nice pieces, but not all together and with stiletto ankle boots that cut off her legs..."
3) "I don't want to discuss it on the phone. Michael, I'll meet you after five. No, not at Il Pinguino."
4) "See, the problem is I have this very neat, elegant slun reder coat with one button and a terrific hat out of the '40s, but I don't have anything to go under it, and I can't wear a skirt slit up to here until I lose 10 pounds, and pleated skirts make me look like a horse, and I don't like dresses with cowls and drapes and I hate things tight around the waist, so what do I do, sit in the coat all night? A chemise dress? Well..."
5) "I'll do it. I don't care if it takes me a year to pay it off, how often do you get invited to an embassy reception? Besides, Arnold will take one look at me in my taffeta and give me long gloves and my mother's earrings and it'll be goodbye Customer Complaints, hello three rooms, gas and electric not included."

Vacations, Cycles, Savings

At 23¢ A Pound, You Get...

To supplement Social Security checks. That was how Robert Wilson, retired, of (twice), planned to use money he received from the Rembols Aluminum Recycling Company.

Robert Armentrout, of Sanford, said he brought his bags of aluminum cans to sell as a favor for his grandmother, Anna Weh, also of Sanford. Armentrout said his grandmother averages $10 per week selling the cans and uses the money to finance her vacation each year. Mrs. Weh currently is on vacation in California.

Robert Fonseca, 18, of Sanford, takes his earnings from the aluminum cans and adds it to his savings account. Robert is saving for a motorcycle.

Those people, along with several others, braved 95-degree temperatures recently in the parking lot of the Sanford Plaza, 1080 W. State St. to receive 23 cents per pound for the aluminum cans they had collected in plastic garbage can liners, cardboard boxes and paper bags.

Don Stewart, a representative for the Reynolds company, was on hand to weigh the cans and pay the customers. "About 30 people show up each week (to sell their aluminum cans). They average $15," Stewart said.

The energy savings afforded by recycling aluminum has increased the value of the metal. Ninety-five percent of the energy required to make the aluminum from ore is saved using the recycling process, Stewart explained.

Local residents can recycle their aluminum every Wednesday from 2 to 3:30 p.m. in the parking lot of the plaza or from 1:30 to 3 p.m. behind the office of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, 400 E. 1st St. — JERRY FRAZIER

Bad Breath Caused By Many Factors

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB—I'm a 21-year-old college student and I really have a problem with bad breath. I had my usual dental checkup before returning to school in the fall and had a cavity or two filled. I thought this would take care of the problem. However, it hasn't. It is constantly bad. It doesn't come and go and I was wondering if you would have any suggestions as to what else might cause it or what I might do to alleviate it before I lose all my friends.

DEAR READER—Your idea that a dental checkup would solve your problem simply emphasizes how effective advertising has been that bad breath is limited to the mouth. That's not really true. Bad breath is a symptom and it can be caused by many factors. Anyone who has a constant problem such as you describe should certainly see his dentist. During such a visit it's important to ask about bacteria or infections around the roots of the teeth that you can't simply brush away.

There are other things in the mouth besides your teeth that can cause bad breath. One of the most common causes for bad breath that is often ignored is the tongue. It needs to be cleaned and brushed just as your teeth are. Because food and secretions are deposited on the tongue, bacteria can grow on this food just the same as they can with food particles around your teeth. Everyone should brush their tongue regularly.

Because bad breath is a symptom and has many causes and you need to understand it, I am sending you The Health Letter number 94, Halitosis:

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL
For Friday, July 20, 1979

YOUR BIRTHDAY
July 19, 1979
Many new changes in your base of operation will be occurring this coming year, keeping you extremely busy. Take care, however, you don't take as a partner just anyone for the sake of expediency.

CANCER (June 21-July 23)
Concentrate your energies and efforts toward projects and ideas concerning your home and family. Keep strangers out of your affairs. Discover with whom you best get along romantically by sending for your new Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10101. Be sure to specify birth time.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Someone you could go to for help today may not be worthy of your loyalty and involvement. Take care as to whom you go out on the limb for.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
In trying to be a good boy, you could let an untrained person take over the reins and run things. Chances are, a lot of complications will result.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Don't let an ill-equipped person meddle things up for you today. Continue to work things out the way you envision them. Don't get sidetracked.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
When it comes to a financial situation that you share, be strong and follow what you know to be right. The other person is daydreaming.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
You'll be sorry if you give in to another for the sake of avoiding a disagreement. Negotiate if necessary and you'll satisfy everyone concerned.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
You may not be able to bring your aims and ambitions in line with those of your co-workers. If so, it will have a diluting effect upon your efforts.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
Be realistic in your involvements today. You could treat a serious situation too lightly because you won't face up to the truth.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Things may look good on the surface, but unless you build a sturdy foundation they'll fall apart at the seams with the first wind.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
You'll have a ton of ideas today and they'll all be pretty good ones. Unfortunately, you may only talk about them instead of putting them into practice.

TALIBUS (April 20-May 10)
When it comes to your financial affairs, you may have a tendency today to satisfy whims of the moment without consideration of the consequences.

GEMINI (May 21-June 30)
You will be able to awaken enthusiasm from just about everyone today except the one person you'd like to. No sense fighting a brick wall.

Even Stars Don't Know

Pilot Or One-Shot?

By ANNE THAYER

Many of the new movies made for television are one-shots. Others are the so-called pilots for possible future series. How can you tell the difference?

You, the viewer, can't always spot whether a yarn is destined to spin on weekly. And neither, as the esteemed Bernard Hughes recounts it, can the star, who may be held in option in a limbo where he's forbidden to sign up for another vehicle until the network has said whether the pilot is "go" or "no go" for the series.

For more than a year now, Hughes has starred on Broadway in "Da" as an irascible, charming Irish working man. Without padding or makeup he appears to gain 40 pounds and age 30 years in the course of an evening. It is the plum stage role of his life and the star, who may be held in option in a limbo where he's forbidden to sign up for another vehicle until the network has said whether the pilot is "go" or "no go" for the series.

Hughes, who used to play a priest in "All in the Family" and starred in "Doc," says he was also ready and waiting for a good TV series and he thought fate had given him the nod with "Father Brown, Detective."

"It's a funny thing, I came across it first during a discussion with Ed Asner about choices. I said I supposed he had a lot after 'The Mary Tyler Moore Show' ended," Asner replied that other than the "Lou Grant" offer there was "just 'Father Brown.'"

Was the role still open? Hughes considered. He loved the concept enough to approach the Marble Arch Company, which planned to produce it. But nothing happened for whole year.

Legion Head Recalls POWs On Their Day

Yesterday was POW-MIA Day in Sanford and nationwide, as proclaimed by President Carter this week.

According to American Legion Post 33 Commander George Clinton, there are several former POWs and a number of servicemen classified as Missing in Action (MIA).

"One of them who is a member of the Legion post here is Alex Rivera. He was first declared MIA much later as a POW."

Rivera, who is now living in Puerto Rico, returns to the Sanford area four or five times annually. He and his brother Ramon, own a hardware business in Puerto Rico. Prior to going into his own business, Alex was employed for 10 years by the Chase Manhattan bank in San Juan.

Clinton said that Rivera was captured by the Chinese while he was serving with the 68th Army in Korea during the Korean conflict. Rivera was the sole survivor of an air raid.

During his two year imprisonment by the Chinese, Clinton said that Rivera was treated on his right hand. Before his captors had shaved his legs, they used a bamboo stick under his fingernails. They also used a torch on his hands and even today he suffers from pain in the fingers and hand.

"His right hand, especially, is severely disfigured," Clinton said.

When Rivera was finally returned to this country, he spent four years in a Veterans' Administration hospital in San Antonio in San Juan. He had also contracted tuberculosis, but it took a long time to arrest it."

Rivera and his wife have three sons.

Clinton said another member of the post who was classified as both MIA and POW is Max Maldonado. Maldonado has since returned to Puerto Rico and is the post commander of the American Legion in Puerto Rico.

State Court OKs Death Law

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — The Florida Supreme Court has upheld one death sentence, overturning another and ordering the return of the movie "Death Throat" to a University of West Florida professor.

The court decided these cases Wednesday in an effort to get as many decisions as possible out of the way on Justice John Hatchett's last day. Hatchett is moving on to the U.S. 8th Circuit Court of Appeal.

In a unanimous ruling, the high court rejected contentions by "killing" author B. Ford that Florida's death penalty law is unconstitutional, and that Broward Judge Call Lee improperly failed to acquiesce to the killing and refused to let the defense recall a witness.

Ford was convicted of shooting Walter Llyanoff, a Fort Lauderdale police officer, during a robbery on July 21, 1974.

The high court, calling the crime especially heinous, noted Ford jumped three shots into Llyanoff's chest.

"In the other death case, the justices ordered a new trial for George Kilpatrick who was convicted and sentenced to die in 1978 for his part in a murder-for-hire scheme in Wakulla County.

The court ruled Circuit Judge Charles Miller erred in letting the prosecution call a 16-year-old witness to testify against Kilpatrick after the illiterate defendant pleaded the killing.

Lesa Mae Coxwell on her husband, Chester Coxwell.

The young witness was not on the list of those testifying for the state provided to the defense.

The ruling follows a 1977 decision in which the justices overturned Coxwell's conviction and death sentence because of a similar judicial error.

Last week in Leon County, the 6-year-old Coxwell was found guilty and sentenced to life in prison for first-degree murder. He will be eligible for parole in 30 years.

In the "Death Throat" case, the court ruled that Escambia Judge Frank L. Bell erred in granting a motion calling for the confiscation and destruction of a copy of the movie owned by Dr. Churchill Roberts.

State Court OKs Death Law

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — The Florida Supreme Court has upheld one death sentence, overturning another and ordering the return of the movie "Death Throat" to a University of West Florida professor.

The court decided these cases Wednesday in an effort to get as many decisions as possible out of the way on Justice John Hatchett's last day. Hatchett is moving on to the U.S. 8th Circuit Court of Appeal.

In a unanimous ruling, the high court rejected contentions by "killing" author B. Ford that Florida's death penalty law is unconstitutional, and that Broward Judge Call Lee improperly failed to acquiesce to the killing and refused to let the defense recall a witness.

Ford was convicted of shooting Walter Llyanoff, a Fort Lauderdale police officer, during a robbery on July 21, 1974.

The high court, calling the crime especially heinous, noted Ford jumped three shots into Llyanoff's chest.

"In the other death case, the justices ordered a new trial for George Kilpatrick who was convicted and sentenced to die in 1978 for his part in a murder-for-hire scheme in Wakulla County.

The court ruled Circuit Judge Charles Miller erred in letting the prosecution call a 16-year-old witness to testify against Kilpatrick after the illiterate defendant pleaded the killing.

Lesa Mae Coxwell on her husband, Chester Coxwell.

The young witness was not on the list of those testifying for the state provided to the defense.

The ruling follows a 1977 decision in which the justices overturned Coxwell's conviction and death sentence because of a similar judicial error.

Last week in Leon County, the 6-year-old Coxwell was found guilty and sentenced to life in prison for first-degree murder. He will be eligible for parole in 30 years.

In the "Death Throat" case, the court ruled that Escambia Judge Frank L. Bell erred in granting a motion calling for the confiscation and destruction of a copy of the movie owned by Dr. Churchill Roberts.

Owners Protest

OCCOA, Fla. (UPI) — Some 30 owners of Broward County day camps gathered Wednesday night to discuss their opposition to Gov. Bob Graham's plan giving extra gasoline to selected stations.

They intend to mail a protest letter to the governor and to ask legislators to lobby against the plan, intended to boost tourism by giving extra gas to locations they agree to remain open seven days a week.

John E. Palm, Sheriff of Broward County, Florida, said the plan is "a desperate measure" to help tourism.

Brock Adams Fired Schlesinger Ousted In Shakeup

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter has accepted the resignation of embattled Energy Secretary James Schlesinger in the second round of his massive Cabinet reshuffle, sources said today.

Schlesinger will leave in early October, the sources said, and be replaced by Deputy Defense Secretary Charles Duncan, an Atlanta businessman. Duncan will move into the Energy Department in mid-August to learn the ropes.

Carter also was expected to accept the resignation of Transportation Secretary Brock Adams today. Adams has defied new chief of staff Hamilton Jordan in demanding direct access to Carter, and White House aides were furious.

The ouster of Schlesinger and Adams would bring to five the victims of Carter's Cabinet exorcism.

On Thursday Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal's resignation was accepted. He will be replaced by Federal Reserve Board Chairman G. William Miller.

Assistant Secretary Griffin Bell got his long-standing request to return to private practice, with his deputy, Benjamin Civiletti, his successor.

HEW Secretary Joseph Califano was fired, to be replaced by HUD Secretary Patricia Roberts Harris.

job for several weeks "to make sure there is an orderly transition."

Last week, UPI reported that Schlesinger would be leaving because he had become a "political liability" to Carter.

Press Secretary Jody Powell said the Cabinet upheaval would end today, but there were no indications who Carter will slash from his own staff. Those changes are expected next week.

No modern president had kept his original — Carter once called it "superb" — Cabinet intact as long as Carter. But when he made changes, he made them massively, rapidly, and for reasons having nothing to do with policy disagreement.

Califano, describing Carter's words to him, said: "There were two problems. One related to friction with certain members of the White House staff, and the other point he mentioned was that he had to get the Cabinet and the administration ready for the 1980 election."

Carter has not yet formally announced his candidacy for re-election.

At the White House, with rumors inundating Washington, the "bulletin" bells ringing on newsmen tickers and TV personnel and reporters trying to be everywhere at once, Carter and his wife Rosalynn were seen jogging on the South Lawn in the late afternoon sun.

Bell, a fellow South Georgian and Carter's nearest thing to a Cabinet cronie, has long wanted to return to his prestigious Atlanta law firm, and Powell said Carter would follow Bell's suggestion and nominate Deputy Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti to succeed him.

Bell later joked about the announcement being made on the same day as other Cabinet officers were fired. "I had a very uncomfortable day," he said.

Republican Senator Says Carter Having Breakdown

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Assistant Senate Republican leader Ted Stevens said today President Carter "might be having some sort of a mental problem" and suggested that the chief executive "take a rest."

Stevens, one of several Republicans to visit Camp David during Carter's recent soul-searching, told reporters he had come away "worried" about the president.

Democratic Leader Robert Byrd of West Virginia criticized Stevens' statements on the Senate floor.

"I take friendly umbrage at this caustic comment... I don't think the president needs a vacation," Byrd said.

Stevens made his statements in an interview and then amplified on the Senate floor.

Continued Stevens: "I don't think anyone's saying he's crazy. But the pressures on him are so great we are wondering if he's having some sort of a breakdown. Some of us were worried after Camp David. Maybe he ought to take a rest."

He tried to reconstruct his image in one day (with Sunday's speech) and destroy it the next."

Later, when the Senate met for business, Stevens said on the floor: "I told reporters that some of us are seriously worried about the president. We feel he's approaching a period of some sort of mental problem because of the tremendous pressures he has taken upon himself. My suggestion is that he as well as Congress take a vacation."

Asked if Carter ought to be impeached, Stevens said, "No. It's not an impeachable offense to be stupid."

Seminole Tax Rate Steady But Countians To Pay More

By GEOFFREY POUNDS
Herald Staff Writer

New construction and reappraisals of property within Seminole County will enlarge the tax base enough to prevent the average resident from experiencing any tax hike, Jeff Etchberger, director of the office of management, analysis and evaluation said today.

However, residents who live in the unincorporated areas of the county will pay an extra 22 cents per $1,000 assessed valuation (from $1.90 to $2.72 as a result of an increase in the fire department budget. County administrator Roger Neiswender said the increase is caused by the county having to assume the salaries of 19 firefighters who previously were funded through CETA monies. A change in CETA guidelines forced the county to pick up the salaries, he said.

Etchberger said the tax rate for county residents for 1979-80 will be $6.50 per $1,000 assessed valuation. The figure remains the same as the current tax rate, even though the proposed 1980 general government budget of $19 million is about five percent above this year's budget.

The $6.50 figure is based on general operation, transportation, bond obligation and hospital taxes. It does not include the special fire district.

Etchberger said the county's total assessed valuation for next year is $1,853,720,822. It represents an increase in the tax base (property value that can be taxed) of about $152 million, he said. That increase offsets the need to increase individual homeowner's taxes, he said.

Two factors are given for the increased tax base, Etchberger said. There was new construction, chiefly in the commercial area of the county, which raised the tax base about $87 million, and reappraisals of homes within the county raised

You May Be In Zoo's Who By Naming 'Lovely Llama'

The keepers at the Central Florida Zoo got a pleasant surprise May 17 when a pair of llamas at the zoo became proud parents of a bouncing baby boy.

Now the youngster needs a name, so the zoo is holding a llama contest. Winner of the "Llama-rama" will not only have recognition on a plaque to be placed on the llama enclosure, but will be $100 richer as well.

Entries are coming in from as far away as New York, Pennsylvania and Virginia, according to Zoo Director Al Rozon. Applications are issued only with a purchased ticket at the zoo admissions window.

There have been 109 names submitted so far, Rozon said

Thursday. Will it be one of these suggestions received— "Dala-Llama," Fernando Llama, Pajama Llama or Lola Fa-La-Lama? Or maybe Lucky, Leaky, Frisky, Spanky, Pogo, Rudolph or Thunderbolt.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Oritt of 223 Forest Drive, Sanford, donors of poppa and mama llama, will have the task of choosing the winning name from all those submitted.

Entries must be in by Tuesday, July 31. Applications should be sent to the "Label the Llama Contest," Central Florida Zoo, P.O. Drawer 2078, Sanford, FL 32771. — JANE CASSELLBERY

Residents Help Quash Boating Idea In Lake Mary

By HUGH THOMSON
Herald Staff Writer

A packed hall of opponents helped quash Lake Mary resident Bill Stead's proposal to place environmental restrictions, particularly on boat horsepower, on Lake Mary, Thursday night.

At the regular meeting of the Lake Mary City Council, Stead, airport manager at Sanford Airport and a 19-year Lake Mary resident, proposed environmental restrictions on boat horsepower and skiing. He based his proposal on what he said was his 10-year study of the lake's environment, and on conclusions reached from a $97,000 two-year project on pollution of central Florida lakes made by Florida

Technological University scientists.

The university study blamed big horsepower for helping to destroy lakes by disturbing the ecological balance of water, plants and lake life.

Stead said Lake Mary had no springs, had an outlet, but no overflow and a mucky bottom. He said dredging and dredging operations in the past had disturbed lake sediments and were a cause of pollution. But the greatest destroyer of the lake, he noted, was boat horsepower.

Said Stead, "Large horsepower boats, particularly with 100 horsepower engines, have two effects on the lake. First, all of their exhausts go into the water, and the mixing of exhausts from gasoline and oil removes oxygen. Fish food supplies are also destroyed. When the oxygen is destroyed, fish are killed. Plants also begin to grow from the shoreline and with time, a dead lake is created."

"In three years," Stead said, "there has been a 55-foot growth of sawgrass. On my lake property, I'm now back three feet from what the original shoreline was three years ago."

"If the lake is destroyed, property values will go down," Stead said.

Stead said if future generations had the use of the lake for fishing, boating and swimming it would be necessary for council to place a 10-horsepower limit on boat horsepower.

Mrs. DeLores Lash, Stead's most vocal opponent, said her lake property originally was purchased for skiing, fishing and swimming.

"We have a 105-horsepower motor on our boat and we've always used it for skiing. Our children have always skied on the lake. Besides, what about the police department's program of water-skiing that keeps the kids off the streets and out of trouble. How are you going to police the lake if any such ordinance is passed?"

Mrs. Lash, to prove another point, brought another Lake Mary resident, Tony Mann, to the meeting. Mann showed the audience a 7-pound bass he had caught in Lake Mary, mounted, and said he had recently caught a 16-pounder. Saying he had caught as many as 20 big bass at one session, Mann said there was nothing wrong with the fishing.

Mrs. Lash also stated that "the bacteria count in Lake Mary was the lowest in the county."

Bill Durrenberger, another Lake Mary resident, said the Mercury Outboard company had been conducting studies on a lake in Osceola County and said the water quality of that lake had actually "improved," only dredging "years ago" had been detrimental on Lake Mary, "outboard motors were great weed cutters," and high gas prices had slowed down lake traffic considerably.

Lake Mary resident John Norden briefly remarked that "when many boats were on the lake, it looked like a tanker oil spill."

City Manager Phil Kulesch said he had received a number of phone calls opposing any restrictions on the lake.

Bill Durrenberger opposed tabling Stead's proposal, wanted a meeting of all property owners held to determine the issue.

"How do we know you just might pass this thing at some future time?" Durrenberger asked.

Mayor Walter Sorenson said council had no such plan to pass such an item, and that he was against a public hearing notice for it.
